WILL BE NO SECRET AGREEMENT AT LOCARNO

No New Moves As Yet In Sherbrooke Political Arena

All Enthusiastic Over Peace Pact Except Germans

Feeling of Majority of Delegates Was Voiced by Foreign Secretary Chamberlain of Great Britain, Who Declared He Was Convinced Delegates Would Leave Locarno With Real Progress Achieved Toward Assurance of Peace in Europe—Failure in This Respect, He Added, Would Mean Disaster—Asserted that No Secret Engagement Would Be Negotiated at Locarno.

(Associated Press Despatch)

LOCARNO, October 9.—Optimism over the outcome of the security pact negotiations here is shared by all the delegates except the Germans.

The feeling of the majority was notably voiced today by Foreign Secretary Chamberlain of Great Britain, who declared he was convinced the delegates would leave Locarno with real progress achieved toward assurance of peace in Europe. Failure in this respect, he added, would mean disaster.

Mr. Chamberlain asserted that no secret engagement would be negotiated here.

"We have talked in secret in the interest of obtaining results," he said. "We cook the meal in the kitchen, but when it is ready it will be served openly in the world parlaments."

Mr. Chamberlain argued that the phrase "open diplomacy" was used too loosely and that secret negotiations like those now under way were justified. If the public, through the press, was allowed to be present, reciprocally made concessions might be heralded as purely one-sided, thereby jeopardizing the success of the conference.

Asserting that he had never heard of a conference where the discussions were on such a high level of friendliness as at Locarno, the British statesman added: "Sensible people all over the world will never doubt that we are seeking the interests of peace."

ALLIES PROMISE GERMAN DELEGATES THAT AID WILL BE GIVEN THEIR COUNTRY IN OVERCOMING OBSTACLES

There will be no meeting today of the delegates to the conference, prior to a re-gathering of the statesmen on Saturday, and the German delegates will be able thoroughly to absorb the arguments made to them yesterday by Mr. Chamberlain and M. Briand, France's Foreign Minister.

The desirability of Germany, in her own interest and that of the peace of the world in joining the League of Nations, was impressed upon Dr. Luther, the German Chancellor, and Gustav Stresemann, Foreign Minister. A promise was held out to the Germans that aid would be given their country in overcoming the obstacles to which it objects in connection with article XVI of the covenant of the League regarding the application of penalties against an aggressor. It is admitted that Germany's request for recognition of her military and geographical position as pre-requisite to her attaining membership in the League creates an extremely delicate problem for the Allies, because of the fact that the Allies cannot give acquiescence on behalf of the other members of the League not immediately connected with the question of security now under discussion.

Count Skrzynsky, the Polish Foreign Minister, and representatives of many of the smaller states in Europe have arrived in Locarno to follow the developments of the conference, realizing that the success of the Rhine pact and annex treaties means other regional pacts and the eventual convoking of a disarmament conference.

"We have confidence in the League covenant," said Count Skrzynsky, "for it will never help anybody who is bent on waging war."

Alleged to Have Been Fomented by Ex-War Minister Linder, Who Is Now a Fugitive in Jugo-Slavia.

(Associated Press Despatch)

BUDAPEST, Oct. 9.—The Budapest newspapers say that the police have uncovered a revolutionary plot against the Hungarian Government alleged to have been fomented by Linder, who was War Minister in the cabinet of Count Michael Karolyi. Linder is now a fugitive in Jugo-Slavia.

The police recently searched his home in Budapest, but found nothing but archives of the Hungarian revolution. A number of arrests are said to be impending.

AMERICA BUYS MORE JEWELS THAN ALL OTHER NATIONS

BY GENE COHN
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—More than $450,000,000 have been spent in a single year for baubles for the fingers, wrists and throats of American women.

This country is spending upon jewels 50 per cent more than all the rest of the world.

The centre of gemdom, shifting through the centuries as luxury accompanied the decaying civilizations of Babylon, Athens and Constantinople, has passed in modern times to Augsburg, London, Paris and now New York.

Such are interesting statistics supplied by gem authorities now that the spectacular theft of the $650,000 Woolworth pearls has attracted attention to the vast fortunes in jewels upon which international crooks apparently keep their eyes.

The Woolworth pearls, two gorgeous necklaces of pink hue, were stolen from the hotel suite occupied by Mrs. James P. Donahue, Woolworth heiress, during a ten-minute interval in which she took a bath.

It is related that Mrs. Donahue wore her gems during most of her waking hours, whether at the seashore or in the ballroom.

The value of the Woolworth pearls appears fabulous, even when contrasted with famous pearls of history. George Frederick Kunz, probably the world's leading gem authority, expert for the American Museum of Natural History and author of "The Book of the Pearl" and other works of jewelry, points out that the historic Cleopatra pearls, two in number, were valued at 60,000,000 sesterter—whatever that may be in American money.

The pearls given by Julius Caesar to the mother of Brutus were valued at a similar amount. Other historic pearls have included the Peretz pearl of a Persian king; the ill-omened Mary Stuart pearls; most beautiful in all Europe, and yet with an estimated value of something like $40,000 in American money, a mere fraction of the Woolworth pearl cost. Then, too, was the famous Gresham pearl which was valued at about $60,000.

"Jewels have been worn in America only since the Civil War," points out Kunz, indicating the rapid growth of the world's new gem capital. "Prior to that time simple garb was desired. With the gain in fortune at the end of that war and the South African diamond rush many young men began to keep an eye on a diamond for his lady—or for himself."

Pearls, Kunz continues, have been associated throughout time with the splendor of the Orient. In China and Persia, back through the centuries, pearls were lavishly used in adornment. In European court life they became associated with purity and cleanliness. Pearls are probably the earliest known stones. They were known even to prehistoric man, due to the fact that they were made to order in the shell of a diseased oyster.

Nor is there anything particularly new, Kunz adds, about men "viewing with alarm" the displays of luxury. Rome, fattened by victories, rolled in splendor. Pliny protested in vain: "It is not sufficient that they wear pearls, but they must trample and walk over them."

And Seneca orated: "The fool seems to think their husbands insufficiently tortured that they carry the value of an inheritance in either ear."

But the ladies of Rome went right on wearing them, as have the women ever since—including, of course, the Woolworth heiress, though fear of their loss is given as one reason why they were seldom out of her possession and sight.

Two of the most valuable stones in the string had been added but a few days before the robbery and, since they had been secured in Paris, police have deduced that international crooks had been watching and tracing the gems.

The stolen gems include: one necklace of 54 graduated pink pearls, $150,000; necklace of 52 pearls, $200,000; ten-carat diamond ring; buckle; diamond pin; two plain rings, coral pin and vanity case. Total value, $683,000—probably one of the greatest gem thefts in police history.

Many well-known American cars were exhibited and satisfactory sales reported by agents. Just now British manufacturers are making a strong appeal to the public to buy British-made cars, and with good effect. Of 217 models on view, 96 are British. Four-wheel brakes have been almost universally adopted, even for the cheapest cars selling at $750.

In fact a special appeal is made to the man of limited purse, although the wealthy can indulge their tastes as never before, some models selling as high as $15,000. It is estimated 100,000 cars will be sold in the next twelve months, thus increasing by more than one-sixth the existing British total of 570,000 cars, or one for every 78 population. Last year 80,000 cars were sold—the highest total recorded.

A New Record Is Established In British Motor Car Industry—$100,000,000 Worth Of Contracts Signed Within A Half Hour

Cars Displayed at London's Motor Show Valued at Two and a Half Million—British Industry Today in Position to Execute Huge Orders—Whole Show Looked Like a Movement for "Brighter Motor Cars," for Colors Are Gay Than Ever Before.

(Associated Press Despatch)

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The biggest automobile show ever held in London opened yesterday for buyers, and within half an hour between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000 worth of contracts were signed—a record in the British motor world. One British firm secured an order for 10,000 cars from a single buyer; another company one for 7,000, and a third agent a contract for 5,000 within five minutes of opening the doors. Cars displayed are worth $2,500,000.

The day vividly recalled the unprecedented boom of 1919, when the new-rich of Britain swamped the show and purchased cars at fabulous prices. Huge orders were taken, but the British companies were unable to fill them because of limitations on production. This year, however, the British motor industry profiting from the lesson, is in a position to manufacture in any quantities to meet the demand.

The whole show looked like a movement for "brighter motor cars," for the colors are gay than ever before. The new vogue for brightly colored hoods instead of drab browns and blacks certainly will make English roads more cheerful. Women may indulge their taste for color harmony by buying hoods to match their gowns.

Many well-known American cars were exhibited and satisfactory sales reported by agents. Just now British manufacturers are making a strong appeal to the public to buy British-made cars, and with good effect. Of 217 models on view, 96 are British. SHERBROOKE LIBERALS REQUESTED C. B. HOWARD TO DELAY ANSWER; LOCAL SITUATION IS UNCHANGED

Caucuses Held and Matters Discussed—Conservatives Keeping Their Powder Dry and Watching Events—May Be No Convention Call for Some Time—Mr. McCrea Absent in Montreal for Some Time.

M R. Charles B. Howard returned, last evening, from Montreal and when seen by the Record, this morning, stated that he had no definite announcement to make.

He had not been able to change his position as stated at the Liberal convention, but his friends did not want to take "no" for an answer and had requested that he would not give his final answer for a few days.

Liberal Caucuses Held, The Record learns from other sources that the Liberal leaders have been in caucus and have discussed the situation from every angle. The conclusion arrived at has been to defer for a few days the further meeting of the convention.

It would appear that the question of a candidate in the event of Mr. Howard's final negative answer, has been considered at some length, but that at the present time no name is being prominently canvassed in this connection.

It is not expected that there will be any development in the Liberal camp before next week.

Mr. McCrea Still in Montreal, Mr. F. N. McCrea is still in Montreal where he is undergoing medical treatment. It is said he may be absent for a week or more.

Conservatives Play Waiting Game

In the Conservative camp, the sentries are on the watch and the powder is being kept dry.

The Record has been told that no immediate call is likely for the convention.

Under certain contingencies that may arise, it is said that Dr. W. W. Lynch might come forward as Conservative candidate. The situation, however, will have to change considerably before this occurs.

Parliamentary Honors go a Begging

The situation, in Sherbrooke, old politicians say, is without a parallel in this constituency. Generally there are several favorite sons in each party striving for the nomination.

Today they appear to be principally interested in urging that the other fellow is the chap that should have it.

It would not be surprising if the present situation would continue almost to nomination day.

HON. MR. NICOL REFERS TO THE HEREFORD RAILWAY

SAWYERVILLE, QUE., Oct. 9.—In his address which he delivered at the Liberal rally held at Sawyerville on Wednesday evening last, the Hon. Mr. Nicol, provincial treasurer, referred to the Hereford Railway, saying that the Government would do all possible in order to render service to that section of the Hereford railway which the Maine Central Railway did not wish to operate.

As soon as this had been done, Hon. Mr. Nicol said, the Quebec Government would take up the question of developing this section, either by the Canadian Pacific or the Quebec Central Railways. He further added that if necessary application would be made to the Railway Commission in order that this section of the Western Townships might not be deprived of the service which is largely needed for its prosperity, and the continuance of which means either life or death for the section.

PREMIER ENDS HIS CAMPAIGN IN SASKATCHEWAN

Questions of Labor Occupied a Considerable Portion of His Speech Last Night at Melville.

(Associated Press Despatch)

MELVILLE, Sask., Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press, staff correspondent)—Closing his campaign in Saskatchewan, Premier King last night spoke in the Canadian National Railway centre of Melville, the constituency in which Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, in the Liberal candidate. Questions of labor occupied a considerable portion of his speech. He emphasized that the present government had succeeded in getting restoration of pension rights lost by Grand Trunk strikers of over a decade ago. When the previous government had failed, his government, he said, had: 1. Given representation to labor on the Canadian National Railway Board, 2. Given fair trial to government ownership and fair play to the C.P.R.

He thought the Canadian National board might well be enlarged with representation given to railway workers on the Hudson Bay Railway. He declared that expenditure necessary for completion would be worth while if only to let the west realize that the east was not indifferent to western needs.

The crowd laughed when Mr. King declared that the Government had been ordained by Providence to reform the Senate.

"Under the constitution," he exclaimed, "we cannot reform the Senate, but we can call on Divine aid."

He was in favor of putting an age limit on Senators, mentioning 70 or 75, but adding that this was a matter to be worked out subsequently.

Prior to the meeting, the Premier spoke briefly at a gathering of Melville women.

Hon. W. A. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, intimated last night that a conference of provincial governments and of the municipalities was to be called to devise a more active programme for the eradication of tuberculosis. The conference would be in furtherance of the plan by the Department of Agriculture, in the establishment of tuberculosis free areas for cattle.

THE HAT'S THE THING! ONLY IT MUST BE SMALL AND IT MUST FIT THE HEAD EXACTLY

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer.

PARIS is making a heroic effort to awaken women to the importance of the hat, according to Henri Berdel, New York designer and importer.

"If it is humanly possible, the small felt hat in which women have shown such great interest and for which they have demonstrated a loyalty and allegiance no one believed was possible, will be reserved for morning and for sport wear, where it naturally belongs, and for the elaborate afternoon costume millinery will manifest at least a sympathetic regard," he promises.

It's all wrong, he maintains, and in this he is substantiated by the leading French modistes, to standardize hats, because the hat is the most individual accessory of the costume.

"Well dressed women seek distinction," he says, "and they will this season demand something different in hats than those seen on every other woman you meet. They took to the untrimmed hat when it was different, but they must naturally discard it when it has become common, as it has, and look for something that has not been overdone."

Photographed today are three hats designed for Sara Sothern, who is to have the ingenious role in "Arabesque," designed to prove all is not felt that flatters.

They are small, suitable to be worn with the silk frock, or later with the fur coat, and they have beauty as well as chic.

The grosgrain ribbon and black velvet model is a copy of a Rehoux turban with a clever arrangement of folds to form a perfectly fitting crown. A fold of the ribbon is brought, heliwise, over the front, destroying the severe line and tempering the shorn head to atone for the ringlets and wavy tendrils that fashion denies.

That fur can be used effectively as a trimming without lending a topheavy effect is demonstrated by the black velvet shape with the ermine bands. Its soft folds are gathered into a point of vantage at the top where they combine their forces to achieve perkiness.

Delightfully oriental without suggesting too flagrantly the exotic is the Egyptian turban of silver brocade whose knowing folds serve with them and one son Mr. Nelson lives with whom they reside. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ives are in excellent health and enjoyed meeting their neighbors and friends, who came in to congratulate them.

PARIS is making a heroic effort to awaken women to the importance of the hat, according to Henri Berdel, New York designer and importer.

"If it is humanly possible, the small felt hat in which women have shown such great interest and for which they have demonstrated a loyalty and allegiance no one believed was possible, will be reserved for morning and for sport wear, where it naturally belongs, and for the elaborate afternoon costume millinery will manifest at least a sympathetic regard," he promises.

It's all wrong, he maintains, and in this he is substantiated by the leading French modistes, to standardize hats, because the hat is the most individual accessory of the costume.

"Well dressed women seek distinction," he says, "and they will this season demand something different in hats than those seen on every other woman you meet. They took to the untrimmed hat when it was different, but they must naturally discard it when it has become common, as it has, and look for something that has not been overdone."

Photographed today are three hats designed for Sara Sothern, who is to have the ingenious role in "Arabesque," designed to prove all is not felt that flatters.

They are small, suitable to be worn with the silk frock, or later with the fur coat, and they have beauty as well as chic.

The grosgrain ribbon and black velvet model is a copy of a Rehoux turban with a clever arrangement of folds to form a perfectly fitting crown. A fold of the ribbon is brought, heliwise, over the front, destroying the severe line and tempering the shorn head to atone for the ringlets and wavy tendrils that fashion denies.

That fur can be used effectively as a trimming without lending a topheavy effect is demonstrated by the black velvet shape with the ermine bands. Its soft folds are gathered into a point of vantage at the top where they combine their forces to achieve perkiness.

Delightfully oriental without suggesting too flagrantly the exotic is the Egyptian turban of silver brocade whose knowing folds serve to bring out the perfect contour of the head.

"These hats are the type Paris is using as bait to lure women back to the beautiful in millinery," he went on. "Some designers are using flowing feathers and ostrich effects, but the change from no trimming to such picturesque models is too abrupt a one for most women."

"Jewelled pins and buckles continue to be popular as trimming and are more ornate than ever before—they are particularly lovely on black velvet."

"Few flowers are used on the new hats, but large bows are very smart. Paris has always appreciated the youthfulness of the ribbon bow and is using it with impartiality on the large and the small shapes."

"Hats are colorful, particularly in velours and velvet, but the classic models are of black velvet. Fur hats and fur trimmed ones are in store for winter. Marvelous brocades and tinsel fabrics are used for the turbans that gain daily in favor."

"The important feature of the small hat, first, last and all the time, is the perfect fit," he said in conclusion. "It must show harmony with the line of the head and hair. The hair must be practically covered and the effect of a small head must be achieved."

What a polish! What a cleaner! Not surface cleaning alone, but that "down deep" cleaning that gets the last atom of dirt, while all the time it polishes—brilliantly.

Forget every idea you have about wax polish. Wax polish history starts with 2 in 1 FLOOR WAX.

It is winning a Nation-wide preference simply because its work is AMAZING—the results it yields—UNEQUALLED.

DANVILLE CHURCH PRESENTED WITH INDIVIDUAL SERVICE

Mrs. Hugh MacKay and family, of Danville, have just recently presented to the Danville St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church a silver individual communion service, including a silver filter, suitably engraved.

This makes the third gift that the church has received from this family. In 1872, when the church was first opened, the late Mr. John Greenfield gave a silver communion service goblet. His son, Mr. J. N. Greenfield, K.C., of Montreal, presented the church with silver collection plates in 1890.

BISHOP'S STUDENTS HAVE RIGHT TO VOTE

Considerable interest in the coming federal general elections is being evinced by students at Bishop's University these days, where students coming from the Maritimes, the Eastern Townships and other parts of Quebec and Ontario meet together and bring views of the various sections of the Dominion on the political questions of the day.

When registration of citizens to obtain the right to vote commenced at Lennoxville a few days ago, the question arose of whether students resident at the college, but coming from outside constituencies, had the right to vote in this country or not.

CAMPAIGN FUND HAS NOW PASSED $30,000 MARK

Dr. W. W. Lynch Was Chief Speaker at Luncheon Held Yesterday—Reports Handed in.

The Sherbrooke Hospital campaign fund passed the thirty thousand dollar mark at yesterday's report meeting. The collections in the day's report were $6,616.05, making a grand total to date of $30,874.50.

The day's report included subscriptions from the student nurses in training at the Hospital and also from the Hospital staff, emphasizing the loyalty of the working organization to the hospital in the present undertaking.

The hospital workers were given a real treat in the musical programme at yesterday's luncheon, which included several piano solo numbers and instrumental duets, selections in which Mr. Gaston Jutras played the violin with Mme. Coe, and Mrs. J. Schwartz, one of the members of the women's campaign organization, rendered a vocal solo accompanied by Mrs. Rosenbloom on the piano.

Dr. W. W. Lynch was the chief speaker and during the course of his remarks said: "All of you probably are getting some complaints about the hospital, but if you will trace these things down, you will find that many of them come from individuals who have nothing at home, and have no idea of the care that they are getting in a hospital. We have traced many incidents of this kind, large stories, which when traced down are not worth mentioning. Someone says 'Mr. So-and-So had great difficulty in getting his bell answered, and did not get good attention.' When the truth is found out, we find that just because Mr. So-and-So could not sleep he put his finger on the bell and kept it ringing just to hear it make a noise."

"Some say the medical staff is not interested in this campaign. We are interested and are doing in our way all we possibly can. If in any way we can help we are ready to do so to the best of our ability."

"We have a very efficient staff at the Hospital: in doctors, and in the superintendent, assistant superintendent, and night and operating room superintendents."

"In my annual report I asked for a portable X-Ray, it came to us out of the blue. Now I want a better maternity wing."

"This will probably come out of the blue, with your help. The Medical Board thanks you one and all, individually and collectively."

For the benefit of those who were not present the previous day, Mrs. David Wilson, chairman of the women's division, urged all the ladies who had finished their first lot of cards to return to headquarters for others, as there are still some cards which had not been taken out. She also thanked all the ladies who responded so promptly to her previous appeal.

Among the subscriptions so far reported and not previously published are the following:

$100.00—Hospital staff, Chas. F. Wadsworth, Hugh Paton, W. S. Decker, Lady Holt, W. Park, Angus Park Anonymous, J. Moir, Mrs. David Wilson, Elwood Hosmer, G. H. Smithers, Brig. F. S. McKeighan, D. Forbes Angus, R. P. Doucet, F. R. Cromwell, Dr. H. R. Cleveland, Sir Joseph Flaville, Ethel B. Forrest, R. W. Reford, Wm. McManamy, Jean B. LeBaron, W. E. LeBaron, Geo. W. Murphy, H. H. Beckwith, Miss Jessie M. Colby, J. N. Greenfield, K. C., Fred Osgood, J. H. Lane, N. D. Cascadden, A. J. Brown, K. C.
$50—Col. C. E. Nelson, D. W. Davis, B. F. Butterfield, George W. Murphy, George S. Cantlie, A. W. Robinson, J. F. Hartz Co., Ltd., J. C. McConnell, James Thompson, F. R. Mott, N. Pritchard, Mrs. B. C. Howard, Gertrude Robinson.
$30—J. G. Armitage, Mrs. A. Sangster.

$25—W. A. Stubbs, H. M. Atkinson, King George Hotel, Chequer Picard, Stenson's Grocery, James F. Kerr, S. Mosel, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Ekhop, Harry Sampson, S. Edgell, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. C. Moffatt, A. Shaw, S. R. Edney, W. W. Page, Compton, Ingram Bell, Ltd., Sir Edward Kemp, James Riddle, W. H. Leonard.

It was found that at McGill, students who had the necessary qualifications of citizenship and age had received permission to register, in view of the fact that they were unable to be in their own ridings on polling day, and the president of the Students' Association at Bishop's, C. T. Teakle, immediately endeavored to secure the same right for Bishop's men. Electoral officials at Ottawa left the matter in the hands of the local electoral authorities and the latter granted the request in the case of senior students with the necessary qualifications. First year men do not have the privilege owing to the fact that, not having resided in this constituency last year, they have not been here for the necessary two months prior to the issuance of the election writ.

TWO STOLEN CARS WERE RECOVERED

Through Efforts of Local Police Chief, Cars Stolen from Messrs. Verronault and Bonner Were Recovered—Young Man Arrested in Connection With Theft

Chief H. O. Camirand has been responsible for the recovery of two autos which were stolen in this city on Wednesday last, as well as for the arrest of a person who is thought to be responsible for one of the thefts.

On Wednesday last a Ford touring car, the property of Mr. Ernest Verronault, of this city, was stolen from in front of George Moore's grocery store on King street west. No one saw the culprit take the car, and it was not known in what direction the machine was taken. About ten o'clock the same evening the car was found on the Montreal Highway, a short distance from the city, by Chief Camirand, and brought back to its owner. The car was not damaged in any way, and it is still unknown why it was abandoned.

About five o'clock on the evening of the same day, another Ford touring car belonging to Mr. Arthur Bonner, of Bonner and Povey, was stolen. As soon as the theft was discovered it was reported to the police, and a search resulted in the recovery of the car, and also an arrest was made.

The car was found at Derby Line yesterday, and brought back to the city. Shortly after the recovery of the car one Noah Jacobs, a young man about twenty-five years of age, and giving his address as Boston, was arrested charged with the theft of the Bonner car, and brought to Sherbrooke.

Series of Car Thefts
Speaking to the Record this morning Chief Camirand stated that all auto owners should take special care of their cars, as it would appear that auto thieves are hard at work in the city and vicinity. A few days ago a McLaughlin car bearing license number 44130 Quebec, and belonging to Mr. J. W. French, of Cookshire, was stolen at Cookshire, while a day or so ago, it is understood, the car belonging to Mr. P. Fawn, employed by the Bell Telephone Company in the city, was stolen from in front of the Court House, where it had been left by its owner. These cars have not as yet been recovered.

A PUBLIC LECTURE

Under the Auspices of the International Bible Students Assn.
Will Be Given on the Subject

"THE TRIUMPH OF RIGHTEOUSNESS"

"Millions Now Living Will Never Die."

"Judgment also will I lay to the line, and righteousness to the plummet: and the hail shall sweep away the refuge of lies."—Isaiah 28:17.

Righteousness embodies all the elements of justice and equilibrium. That which is righteous is just right and cannot be made wrong.

Conditions prevailing in human society can by no stretch of the imagination be considered as right or just. That they will not always be inequitable and unjust, the Lord assures us, and in His Word He outlines clearly the steps necessary to bring about conditions of righteousness.

These necessary steps will be dealt with in the above lecture by

NO COMPLAINTS RECEIVED RE VOTERS' LIST

Revision of List Began Yesterday and Will End on October 14—Still Chance to Have Name Placed on List.

The revision of the voter's lists began yesterday in the city, and throughout Canada generally, in all cities and towns of over 5000 population, yesterday, and will continue until October 14th.

Mr. Charles E. Bachand, acting revising officer for Sherbrooke city, and representing the Hon. Mr. Justice C. D. White, informed the Record this morning that so far no complaints have been received regarding the names of voters on the lists.

Should any citizen have just proof that another person whose name is on the list is not qualified for any reason to vote, he is permitted to see the revising officer, or his deputy, and after giving sufficient proof, have the name taken from the list. So far no complaints have been received by the local revising officer, who has his headquarters in the protonotary's office in the Court House.

May Have Names Placed On The List.

Any qualified voter who overlooked having his name placed on the electoral list, is still able to do so during the time allotted for the revising of the list. This, however, will positively be the last chance.

It is sincerely hoped that all persons who have not given this important matter their attention will do so immediately. The lady voters, whose names are not on the lists, are especially asked to see to this matter immediately, in order that all gratified persons might have a vote in the all-important matter of appointing a Government to protect the interests of the country.

MARRIAGES

SMEATON—BUZZELL.

ABBOTSFORD, Oct. 8.—The marriage took place Saturday afternoon at St. Paul's Church, Abbotsford, of Miriam Ellen Laura, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Buzzell, to Mr. James Norman Smeaton, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Smeaton, of Abbotsford.

The Rev. F. R. Farrell officiated and the wedding music was played by Mr. Murray Fisk, of Cranby. The church was beautifully decorated with asparagus ferns, autumn leaves and asters.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of biscuit crepe satin with long sleeves and girdle of French embroidered lace net, with hat of maline and satin, studded in gold. She carried a shower bouquet of opelia roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Alice Buzzell, sister of the bride, and her only attendant, was gown in a princess frock of rose georgette trimmed with flat velvet.

PROVINCIAL I.O.D.E. MEETING BROUGHT TO END

Meeting Was Decided Success in Every Way—Several Important Business Matters Discussed and Settled—Open Session on Wednesday Evening Proved of Interest.

A luncheon, tendered to the visiting members of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire by the local organization at the Magog House yesterday noon, brought to a close a most successful general meeting of the Quebec Provincial Chapter, which convened in this city Wednesday afternoon and evening, and yesterday morning.

The meeting was a decided success, both as regards the amount of business disposed of and the number of delegates that attended the sessions. Fourteen members motored from Montreal, while several more came by train from Quebec City.

The meeting was opened by the president of the Provincial Chapter, Mrs. William C. Hodgson, with the prayer of the Order, after which she proceeded to thank the Sherbrooke Chapter for inviting the convention to be held here, followed by the business on the agenda.

Reports from the different secretaries were read and approved, after which two resignations were tendered, one by Mrs. Peacock, representative on the National sub-committee for the Navy League, who is to be in England during the coming winter, and the other from Miss Marjory Hume, representative of Girl Guides, both of which were accepted. Miss Hume's untiring interest and enthusiasm will be greatly missed, and it was the hope of the meeting that someone else could be found in Sherbrooke to take her place.

Mrs. Hodgson, representing the War Memorial Committee, announced that the winner of the I.O.D.E. bursary for Canadian universities this year was Mr. N. Duval, who intends entering McGill University to take up a medical course.

The importance of Canadians registering with the Victoria League in London, with which League the I.O.D.E. is affiliated, was strongly urged by the president, Mrs. Bovey, of Montreal, who was in England this summer, speaking in this connection said: "There is a lack of Canadian names registered as compared with the other Dominions who take advantage of this opportunity. The aim is for a greater unity of the commonwealth of the Empire."

The next matter discussed was that concerning "O Canada." The Order throughout the Dominion has for some time felt the necessity of a uniform version. After considerable discussion regarding this subject, it was decided to inquire, through the Chapter, which version in this province is the most used.

The war memorial fund, not yet having reached its objective, is still open, and it was urged that all Chapters who feel that they have not fulfilled their obligations, and Chapters newly organized, do their share towards this worthy cause.

The open session Wednesday evening proved a very interesting and helpful one. Mrs. McLemont, of Quebec City, gave a very instructive talk on the ideals of the Order.

Among many suggestions presented at the meeting was that of a lending library for boys and girls, a Navy League Cadets' Club and rest room and the care and maintenance of some of the Sea Scouts.

The conference closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the Municipal Chapter of Sherbrooke for their hospitality, and also a vote of appreciation to Mr. H. H. Ingram and Miss Florence Ingram for their kindness and consideration in the use of the Magog House.

roses of a deeper shade. She wore a small black panne velvet hat and carried an arm bouquet of sweetheart roses and maiden-hair fern.

Mr. Vincent Linnell, of Montreal, acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Leslie Buzzell and Mr. Victor Smeaton.

Mrs. Buzzell, the bride's mother, wore a navy blue georgette, with hat to match, and a corsage of crusader roses. The mother of the groom wore black satin, with small black velvet hat and corsage of sunburst roses.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at "Orchardcroft," the home of the bride's parents, where the decorations were roses, asters and autumn foliage.

The bride and groom left later for Quebec, St. John, Halifax and other points.

Going away the bride wore a French model of flat crepe, with hat to match, and a wrap of tete-negre needlepoint trimmed with beaver. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Smeaton will reside in Toronto.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fisk, of Chicago; Dr. and Mrs. Walter Fisk, Miss Ellen Fisk, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Buzzell, Mrs. Neil Cameron, Miss Bessie Smeaton and the Misses Gladys and Helen Buzzell, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Smeaton, of Toronto; Mr. Nelson Buzzell and Mr. and Mrs. Clara Buzzell, of Cowansville; Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Buzzell, Miss Lucia A. Knowlton, Mrs. Linnell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Coleman MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Tait, Miss Edith Reynolds, Mr. Murray Chipman and Mr. Chas. Thomson, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Chalmers, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Kirby, of Cookshire, and Miss Florence Bradford, of Granby.

CITY BRIEFLETS

NO FIRES REPORTED YESTERDAY

"Fire Prevention Week" has been quite successful in Sherbrooke this year, although the week began with a serious fire, which was followed the next day by a slight chimney fire. Since Tuesday, however, the fire department have received no calls, and the fire record has been very satisfactory.

Y'S MEN'S CLUB

Last night members of the Y's Men's Club heard an address by Y's Man E. M. Armitage, who taking advantage of "Fire Prevention Week," gave a talk on "Lightning Rods and Their Place in Fire Prevention." At the outset he referred to the misconceptions that existed regarding the production of lightning, and also the place of the lightning rod.

The address was both interesting and enlightening and the thanks of the club were very well expressed by Y's Man Lorne Cassin. Later club business was taken up and it was unanimously agreed that the club put on a minstrel show some time in November rehearsals to begin immediately, the first being called for on Thursday, October 15th, immediately after the Y's Men's supper.

ELKS' BENEFIT NIGHT DECIDED SUCCESS

The fourth Elks' benefit night, which was held at the Premier Theatre last evening, was a decided success in every way. The house was packed to the doors, and standing room was at a premium, over eight hundred people being present.

The Elks' Orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. W. A. Brien, furnished snappy and up-to-date selections, which went far towards the enjoyment of the evening.

The programme was most interesting and entertaining, and was of a nature which provided amusement for both young and old. Mr. Laliberte, as a lady impersonator, was a "scream," as someone termed it, and acted his part as only a professional could. Mr. Galt Parke pleased his hearers with a piano solo, and the Harris family, of Lennoxville, put on a twenty-minute musical act which was very well received. A clown act proved a feature on the programme, after which the regular motion picture was shown. The performance commenced at eight o'clock, and came to a close after eleven, everyone seeming to be well satisfied with the evening's entertainment.

The radio set, which was donated by R. Olivier & Frere, was won by Mrs. Hammett, who had programme number nineteen, while the oil painting, donated by Bert Williams Signs, was won by Mr. Mignault.

Exalted Ruler W. W. Foote, in speaking to the Record this morning, stated that he wished, on behalf of Lodge No. 67, B.P.O.E., to thank all those who attended last evening and assisted in making it such a success. Mr. Foote added that all the proceeds derived from the show are to be used for charity purposes only.

DISTRICT FALL PARADE POSTPONED

Owing to the fact that St. Peter's Church is in the process of having new seats installed, the annual fall church parade announced for this coming Sunday has been postponed until the following Sunday, October 17th. A detailed description of the plans for this big event will be published shortly.

2ND SHERBROOKE TROOP

On account of the very unfavorable weather last Saturday afternoon, the "hot dog" hike was postponed. The hike will be definitely announced on Friday night.

Steady progress is being made by the Lynx Patrol with their log cabin, and the finishing touches are all that is required to fully complete this fine little building. Plans are under contemplation for the opening ceremony on Halloween, October 31st, when all interested persons are cordially invited to be present. The programme for this event will be forthcoming in the near future.

At the Court of Honor meeting last week, a considerable amount of business pertaining to the operation of the troop and future activities was accomplished. A committee was appointed to draw up the programme for the troop Halloween party and make all necessary arrangements.

Troop Wolf Cubs was held on Tuesday evening, and special preparations were carried out for the district parade. An investiture ceremony was the feature of the evening's programme when Cubs Tomlinson, E. Maddis and Smith were welcomed into the pack and made official members of the world-wide brotherhood. Following this very impressive function, a short talk pertaining to a Cub's obligations was delivered by the district Scoutmaster.

The usual weekly parade will be held on Friday, October 9th. Special points will be given for uniform.

The Wolf Cubs connected with this troop will hold a very urgent and important meeting at headquarters next Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. All cubs not present at this meeting will be crossed off from the roll, and therefore every boy should do his best to attend.

WHAT DOES AN ELECTION COST THE COUNTRY?

Figures have been published indicating the cost of a Dominion election. These, however, refer only to the official cost, the legitimate expenses recognized by law.

There is in the aggregate another large sum, much of it quite proper expenditure, which is involved in the conducting of an election campaign, both in the country as a whole and in each individual constituency.

There is another feature of the cost of an election which, if the figures were available, might swell the total very greatly and bulk large among the items. This item is associated with the pre-election promises which the party leaders feel bound to make as they go up and down the country in their desire to win votes.

Down by the sea, both chiefs and are asked to define their attitude towards special demands of the Maritime Provinces.

Out in the West, the completion of the Hudson Bay line, involving millions, is a question put up to them and both have promised to see it through if returned to power.

And so it goes, from Vancouver to Halifax, each section of Canada demanding as the price of its support assurances upon certain matters of special sectional interest.

The party that wins is immediately confronted with a demand for the redemption of its election pledges.

What does an election cost the country?

WHAT THE MARITIMES WANT.

The newspapers of the Maritime Provinces, which are reaching the editor's desk are filled with the question of Maritime Rights and Maritime Needs.

The Halifax Herald seeks to summarize these in six items. "This is the platform," the paper says, "that contains the essentials of Maritime Rights, and which, if given effect, would bring progress and prosperity to this neglected garden of Canada."

Here are the six items:

- 1.—The restoration of the integrity of the Intercolonial Railway, with the Western terminus of the system re-established at Montreal.
- 2.—Canadian trade through Canadian ports, and a complete recognition of the statutes and commitments of the Parliament of Canada guaranteeing this Canadian policy.
- 3.—Such freight rates as will give the products of the Maritime that easy and profitable access to the markets of the rest of Canada, which was agreed upon as one of the fundamental principles of Confederation.
- 4.—A transportation policy that will ensure to the people of the Atlantic Provinces a fair share of the benefits of the great import and export trade of the Dominion, and such adequate markets as will serve to stimulate and develop our great natural resources, commerce, industry and general business.
- 5.—A thorough survey and investigation of the industrial life and possibilities of Nova Scotia and the Maritime Provinces, to determine, among other things, what fiscal changes may be necessary to induce and ensure the maximum of prosperity to these provinces and our people. Where increased tariff protection may be found to be necessary, increased protection to be afforded. Where the measure of protection may be lowered without injury to existing or projected industry, the reduction to be made. The policy for the Maritimes should be the one calculated to serve this portion of Canada; and to that end the people of Nova Scotia and the Maritime Provinces must strive.
- 6.—The Halifax Herald believes that the people of Maritime Canada desire to live as contented and prosperous partners in the Canadian Federation. We believe that such a condition can be brought about if the people of the rest of Canada are prepared to extend justice to the Maritimes. The problem of composing the differences that exist in this country of great distances is vast and complex; a problem that calls for the highest qualities of statesmanship. It should be the aim of the Maritimes to assist in the solution of this great problem; while constantly standing for their rights and demanding justice, to seek by every means in their power to develop their own rich and unrivalled resources, and to ensure the contentment and prosperity of their own people, in conformity with the true all-Canadian policy that must be inaugurated if the Confederation is to endure.

PRESS COMMENT

AWAITING MILLENIUM.

(Moncton Transcript)
Will we have to wait for the millennium for the coming of the time when schoolboys will hail the beginning of the school term with the joy they now reserve for its conclusions?

OLD FRIEND UNRECOGNIZED.

(Brandon Sun)
The trouble with us is that we refuse to recognize what is normal in business. We base our calculations of what are good times on boom times. We make our own days of depression by spreading gloom when actually trade is normal and the outlook is really stable—before business is as we would wish it, it is now time for increasing confidence. The beginning of a new period of prosperity is spiritual and psychological. To a large extent prosperity will begin when Canadians get ready for it.

IF THAT WAS ONLY ALL.

It would be possible to look forward to winter resignedly and even with moderate enthusiasm were it not for the anguishing fear that styles will again demand flapping goloshes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE BOARDS OF TRADE

To the Editor Sherbrooke Record
Sir:—As present chairman of our E. T. Immigration Society, and a member for many years of our Associated Boards of Trade, I had occasion to spend last Monday in our immigration office in Sherbrooke, looking over the work during the past year of both societies.

It came to my notice that a number of our local Boards of Trade had not paid their dues to the Associated Boards for the year 1925. Now this must be a case of forgetfulness on the part of the secretary. We all realize that it costs quite a little money to carry on our Associated Boards of Trade work. We also realize that our Associated Boards depend on our local Boards. That our local Boards look to the Associated Boards when questions come up with our Governments, railroads or a big corporation, to widen the scope for our local Boards to handle. In my long experience with our Associated Boards of Trade, I have never known a practical question brought to its attention, that was not carried to a successful issue. The prosperity of our Eastern Townships is of vital interest to us business men, and it is only through our local and Associated Boards of Trade that questions of importance can be thoroughly thrashed out and brought to a successful end.

Will all members who read this letter, ascertain at their next meeting whether or not their Board is in arrears on dues? If so, have your secretary forward a check to the treasurer of our Associated Boards, Mr. W. M. Hillhouse, Sherbrooke, Que.

I thank you, Mr. Editor, for allowing me this valued space.

Disputed Mosul Built On Ancient Nineveh

Ruins Of Ancient Palaces And Oil Dividing Interest Of Nations In Mesopotamia

Nineveh Was Splendid City To Which Jonah Went Preaching Repentance, And Mosul, Built Over One Of Its Suburbs, Is Bone Of Contention Between Irak And Turkey

LOST CITIES LIE BELOW SURFACE OF LAND

"One with Nineveh and Tyre"

In five words Kipling gives a picture of desolation, forgotten grandeur, and melancholy waste. The only scrap of the once great Nineveh which is alive to-day is Mosul, and once again after a lapse of centuries the storied land around the ancient Nineveh looms largely in the world's eye.

Nineveh's history started five thousand years ago or more. We know that its kings were for more than four thousand years and we have recovered some remnants of its marvellous art work, its sculpture, and its libraries on tablets of baked clay.

Famous in Jonah's Day

In the time of Jonah it was "an exceeding great city" and an exceedingly wicked city. Its rulers and its people were surrounded with luxury and beauty. Its magnificent buildings were faced with carved stone, and painted pictures adorned the rooms in which its people feasted and danced. Past Nineveh flowed the river Tigris bringing tribute from the subject people, and to-day there are still remains of the Quay Gate where the rich cargoes were carried up from the river into the city, sorry remnants, just opposite the old bridge that leads into Mosul. But so dissipated had the people become because of their wealth that Jonah was told to go to Nineveh and preach repentance to the people. It was an appalling task for Jonah, who had heard such tales of its splendor and the arrogance of its people. We all know the adventure that happened to Jonah when he tried to run away from his task and how he was swallowed by the whale. Finally he surrendered and agreed to go to the wicked city.

"Wretched Nineveh!"

But magnificent Nineveh was at length despoiled, and conquerors set up their rude huts over the ruins of its beautiful palaces and the prophets mourned over her. "The gates of the cities have opened and the palaces have fallen into ruins, and the foundations have been exposed—Wretched Nineveh! who shall lament for her? whence shall I seek comfort for her?"

And to-day on the banks of the Tigris, a scrap of the old city, formerly a suburb, Mosul has survived as the largest city in Mesopotamia with a population of about seventy thousand. It was once famous for the fine fabrics it made, for cotton was first grown in Mesopotamia where it was said that the "wool that grows on a plant" was cut off and woven into cloth. The word muslin comes to us from Mosul where it was first made.

Since the war three of these Mesopotamian provinces, Mosul on the north, Bagdad, in the middle, and Basra on the south have been made into a Kingdom under King Feisal who rules a motley realm of Arabs, Armenians, Kurds, Chaldeans, Jews, Persians, Russians, Punjabis and Turks. It is a land which is naturally very fertile and the King dreams of a time when his kingdom will be restored to some of its old productiveness and richness, a granary which will reduce great crops of wheat, fruit and vegetables. King Feisal who has the difficult task of making himself popular with such a mixed and discontented population claims that Turkey has no claim to Mosul as the people are entirely non-Turkish by every test, race, language and custom. In the war, in spite of the fact of Turkey's long administration, the people showed no loyalty to their Turkish masters. In fact most of the Turks in Mosul were there officially engaged in the administration of the government. When Turkey disputed the right of the Kingdom of Irak to retain the province of Mosul the matter was referred to the League of Nations which eventually decided that Irak was to retain possession of the disputed province provided that Great Britain would accept a mandate over the territory for twenty-five years; otherwise the province would revert to Turkey. Great Britain had promised to abide by the decision of the League. Turkey declined to accept its decision unless it was in her favor. This is what is responsible for the threatening situation to-day.

Rivalry for Oil

Before the war both German and American interests attempted to get control of the Mosul oil fields and both failed, and since the war there was the famous deal of the Chester Concessions, named for the United States Admiral Chester, proposing to build four thousand miles of railway for Turkey in return for the privileges of developing any natural resources for twenty miles on each side of the railway lines, mines, oil wells, forests and water power. Turkey had no money for the work and was willing to make sacrifices in order to secure the funds which the development would bring, by way of increased markets and communication with both the Mediterranean Sea and the Persian Gulf.

The British mandate interferes with Turkey's ambition, but Irak is a luxury that Great Britain can ill-afford and there is strenuous opposition in the home land to the mandate which she has accepted, and the responsibilities it entails.

Buried Treasure

Mosul is the meeting place of the historic roads from Aleppo, Diarbaker, Bitlis, North and West Persia and Bagdad, and is on the route from Constantinople to the Persian Gulf. About a century or more ago British archaeologists discovered the rich mine of relics which existed under the drifted soil of the old Assyrian empire and began digging here and there to retrieve remnants of the ancient splendor. Most of them worked from Mosul as headquarters, using native workmen to dig away the sand and earth which for centuries had been piling up in the ruined halls of Assyria's greatest palaces and courts. It was Sir A. H. Layard who, between 1841 and 1851, definitely located the city of Nineveh, across the River Tigris from the ruined walls and decrepit buildings of the modern Mosul. Thereafter French, English and Turks competed for the honors of uncovering the ancient city and the other cities of the plain, England and France for the sake of science, Turkey, for the sake of treasure which might be found. Turkey, which in the last six hundred years of her history has contributed not one constructive idea to humanity nor added one iota to the pleasure or comfort of human life, displayed her old mental attitude in this uncovering of Assyria. The other explorers worked so carefully lest any piece of carved stone or graven tablet be lost, breathlessly deciphering each line in the hope of learning more of the history of the race which had gone before. Turkey worked recklessly for no treasure but gold.

The Story of the Flood

It was Hormuzd Rassam, conducting researches for the British Museum who discovered the famous palace of Assur-bani-pal and his library, written on baked clay, which contained the Chaldean story of the flood and of the creation of man, in 1853.

It is rather interesting to learn that it was in 1926 B.C. that Dhamel Adia I, who called himself King of the Universe, began his work on the building of the city of Ashur using a kind of rock asphalt which was made with petroleum from the Mosul district.

Above is a view of the city of Mosul, from the River Tigris on which it is built. It is the meeting place of all the important roads in Mesopotamia and the capital of the province of the same name which contains the famous oil wells. Below is a typical group on the streets of Mosul, Kurds, Arabs and Armenians. At the left is map showing the position of the three provinces, Mosul, Bagdad and Basra, which make up the kingdom of Irak.

The Vital Flame

A Stirring Serial of Primitive Passions by May Christie

He, too, looked down. "The phosphorescence, do you mean?"

She nodded. But it was no illusion. That light's given off by millions of microscopic creatures in the water, on whom fishes feed. Fireflies playing around the hedge ashore are just the same.

"Will-o'-the-wisps?" inquired Marcella. "When I was a tiny tot I used to spend hours chasing them, trying in vain to capture them." She laughed.

"The little girl that used to be can sympathize with me, then," came the odd reply, voiced very low, and his listener's heart beat fast. What did he mean?

"Do you want the unattainable?" That was a risky question, but she couldn't keep it back.

As though he hadn't heard it, he went on:

"The firefly gives off light, but not a scrap of warmth, so even if one caught it the long case would only end in disappointment. Isn't that so—Marcella?"

"Why do you ask me?" she said in a half whisper, with a pulse throbbing in her throat. "Why should I know?"

"Because the firefly has its parallel among the humans. For the last week the radiance of one has dazzled me so that everything else seems dull and commonplace, and even my work, that used to seem so all-important, is in a sort of haze."

She turned her face up to him in the moonlight, and her beauty shone with the soft sheen of pearls. "But tomorrow, when you go ashore, the firefly will have gone, and you will see everything in the right perspective."

He caught her hands in his and looked deep into her eyes.

"Like the little girl you used to be, Marcella, I shall only want to follow that intoxicating light, even though it takes me months and years to capture it. Perhaps—who knows?—a miracle might happen, and I shall find fire kindled there."

"You think the person—half butterfly, half firefly—is worth it?" came her whisper, very low. An electric current flowed from his strong hands into hers, and her whole heart melted toward him with a rush that almost frightened her.

"Worth everything in the world, Marcella—darling! Don't you know that the sea and the moon and the stars were only made as a setting for—for love? Listen to the whispering of the waters. They're telling you what I'm afraid to tell you—that love is the only thing that real-

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Marcella Field, well bred and beautiful, inclined to be worldly, crossing the Atlantic from America to England, is strongly attracted by

Miles Holden, a handsome young sculptor, who falls in love with her and confesses it. He suggests that something is worrying her in her decision and his guess is right, for until she had met him Marcella had about made up her mind to accept the wealth and prestige offered her by marriage to Warwick Treman, a power in the financial world. Treman had for four years pursued her. She had met him in Switzerland and had joined him, without the knowledge of her chaperone, in a late ski-ing party. Treman uses this indiscretion to force her to announce their engagement, but has never been able to bring her to the marrying point.

Deirdre, catpaw of a band of crooks, occupies the stateroom next to Marcella's and when she is overheard sobbing refuses to tell Marcella why.

In Marcella's stateroom, she apparently recognizes Treman's photograph. Deirdre warns her of the crooks.

That night Marcella's screams and struggles frighten away an intruder. Holden next day offers to give her his pistol, but finds it is gone.

Marcella is rapidly falling in love with Miles as the ship nears England.

ly counts—the only thing that can endure, Marcella."

He caught her in his arms and held her close. The girl closed her eyes, and in the intoxication of the moment it seemed as though their spirits winged across the seas to an Elysium for two where no one else could enter.

"Love is beauty and beauty is just love, although I never fully realized it up to now," went on the sculptor, to whom beauty was a god. "Sweetheart—Marcella, the loveliest name I've ever known—his voice lingered on the syllables—'tell me there is some hope. I—I love you so!'"

She raised her face to his, and though she did not speak, the love-light shone in her dark eyes, and he could see it there.

"I'll do everything in the world to make you happy, sweetness, if you'll let me have the right. I never knew—I never dreamt—that I could feel like this. It's past belief."

CHAPTER VI.

Their lips met in a long lingering kiss, and the moonlight cast a halo on them, like a benediction. Marcella touched a pinnacle of happiness that made her dumb. Miles Holden, sculptor, the handsome, fascinating sculptor, whose good looks and charm and genius had brought New York to his feet, and to whom every one must feel attracted, he had fallen in love with her, humdrum Marcella Field, whose counterpart could be met with by the thousand anywhere! Which goes to show that love had made Marcella humble.

How long they stood there in the moonlight, in each other's arms, Marcella didn't know, but the spell at last was broken by the sound of approaching feet, and the lovers drew apart as Mr. Sparks, the wireless operator, hove in view.

"Marconigram for you, Miss Field." He handed her a paper. "I brought it up myself because I'm not quite certain of the sender's—Treman or Tremend?"

She was scanning it, and in a strained voice answered:

"Treman, thanks. No, there's no answer."

Mr. Sparks moved off. Those two were evidently in love. It was a shame to interrupt them. But wasn't it going to be infernally awkward for the girl when this Warwick Treman chap, who seemed so sure of her that he would even put words of love into a wireless message, should turn up at the dock tomorrow morning and carry her away?

Two young men passed him on their way to claim Marcella for a dance. She was the prettiest girl aboard, and transatlantic love affairs were usually short lived. But the look on the faces of young Holden and herself had been so ecstatic that he wished them luck, and maybe some wise fate might stop the Treman chap from butting in and spoiling sport.

It was raining when the boat docked in Southampton on the following morning. "But my car's waiting, and we'll be up in town in no time," announced Warwick Treman in possessive tones, claiming Marcella instantly as she stepped off the first-class gangway, with Miles Holden close at hand. "This is a friend of yours, my dear?" He flung a condescending glance in Miles' direction, which clearly seemed to say: "Hands off! This is my property, and don't you dare forget it!"

DEATHS REPORTED

ROBERT SHORTEN, SAWYER-VILLE.

SAWYERVILLE, Que., Oct. 9.—Mr. Robert Shorten was born at St. Sylvester, Que., on November 12, 1848, a son of Richard Shorten and his wife, Jane Evans, both of whom came in their early years from Ireland. When his parents, on account of growing age, found it necessary to retire in a measure from the active work on the farm where they settled and pioneered, Robert took over the farm, and they made their home with him until the time of their death in Eaton some years later.

On July 1, 1879, Mr. Shorten married Jane, daughter of Thomas and Martha Lowry, of Inverness, Que. In the fall of 1884, having sold the farm in St. Sylvester, he moved with his family to the farm in the Township of Eaton, where he lived until the time of his death.

Although not strong or in the best of health for the two or three years past, he was active and kept about his work until the latter part of his life, when he fell in the barn, the shock of which, together with a weak heart, terminated in his death.

He held no offices of public trust during his lifetime, but always took an intelligent and active interest in everything that was for the best welfare of his community and country. From the early years of his life he was a member of the Methodist Church, first on the old Leeds circuit, and after moving to Eaton on the Sawyerville circuit. A member of the official board and trustees boards, he took an active part until a partial failure of hearing made it difficult for him to take part in the plans and work of the church he loved. His life was quiet, but consistently faithful in the service of his Lord and Master.

The funeral service was held in the home on Wednesday, September 23, with a large company of relatives, friends and neighbors gathered to pay their respects.

AN IMPORTANT
STEP IS TAKEN
BY MUSSOLINI

To Revive and Modernize Mediaeval Form of Government for Small Municipalities.

(Associated Press Despatch)
ROME, Oct. 9.—Mussolini's cabinet took another important step yesterday in the Fascist section of Italy by deciding to revive and modernize a mediaeval form of government for small municipalities of five hundred inhabitants by the appointment by the central government of a podestà, thus eliminating the present system of government of mayors elected locally. In the mediaeval Italian republics the podestà acted as a sort of governor and had extensive power. The chief professed aim in promulgating this radical change is the desire to remove from local government the personal bickerings of politics and establish an efficient administration for the benefit of all classes, and incidentally for the benefit of the nation.

The troops operating north of Kifane have reached the limit of the French zone as defined by the treaty of 1917 and it is presumed they will proceed no further, unless concerted action is decided on by the French and Spanish staffs.

The rains having made roads impassable at many points, maintaining communication, has become difficult. All is quiet on the central and western sections of the front.

DOUBTFUL IF TEAMS WILL BE ABLE TO PLAY TODAY; ALDRIDGE PITCHED HIMSELF OUT OF SEVERAL HOLES

If Weather Man Permits Players to Stage Third Game Today, Alex Ferguson and Remy Kremer Will Be Sent to Mound—Senators Received a Severe Setback When Ossie Bluege Was Hit on Back of Head by Pitched Ball Senators Had Their Big Opportunities to Break Through With Rally, But Failed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The next act in the World's Series drama will be staged in Washington, home of Bucky Harris and his champion Senators.

Here, on the scene of their spectacular triumph last fall over the New York Giants in the United States capital's first world's series thriller, the Senators will renew their battle for the 1925 baseball crown with the Pittsburgh Pirates after breaking even in the first two games of the series played in the smoky city.

Whether the great battle will be renewed today was doubtful this morning, however. There was a fine drizzling rain falling when the fans awoke, and it seemed doubtful whether conditions this afternoon would make a game possible though many fans were hopeful that a sudden clearing of the weather might prevent a postponement and hundreds of them were out at the park in the waiting line, soaked but hopeful.

Fighting hard for every advantage they have gained in an ebbing and flowing battle of pitching genius, defensive skill and battling punch, the two great teams have every incentive before them in the third game, which is slated to see Alex Ferguson, right hand veteran, take the mound for Washington against Remy Kremer.

For the Senators it is a home coming before the notables and the every day fans who have watched and cheered their sensational climb to baseball glory. For Pittsburgh it is a crisis in their fight to come back to heights they have not scaled in sixteen years.

Bluege Hit on Head by Pitched Ball

Chief among those stars the Senators followers will welcome back is Walter Johnson, whose great right arm subdued the Pirates in the first game, gaining a triumph that keeps the champions on even terms with their rivals in spite of Vic Aldridge's victory over Stanley Coveleskie yesterday in the second game, a setback that contained added disaster in the injury to Ossie Bluege, third baseman, who went out of the game after being hit on the back of the head by a pitched ball. Bluege came back with the team, but doubt remained this morning as to whether he would be in condition to go back in the line-up in the event of a game being played this afternoon. In this respect the Weather Man appeared early today to be backing the Senators. With Bluege's brilliant fielding and batting missing, the Harris outfit undoubtedly is under a very severe handicap, especially since another unusual reliable infield cog, Roger Peckinpaugh, has experienced an unexpected slump and has rolled up three errors in two games. Delay would be all to the good for Washington, therefore, as reports were this morning that while Bluege would hardly be fit for a strenuous contest this afternoon there is every expectation that another twenty-four hours' rest would put him back into shape.

Brilliant Pinch Pitching
Buddy Myer, a recruit from New Orleans, filled Bluege's post for the last part of yesterday's game and handled himself well, but his presence adds an uncertain quantity because of his inexperience.

Two home runs off Coveleskie and some superb pinch pitching by Aldridge spelled the downfall of the Senators yesterday in as close a world's series battle that has ever been watched. Glee Wright tied the score for Pittsburgh with a homer after Joe Judge had put the

TODAY'S GAME HAS BEEN CALLED OFF

(Associated Press Despatch)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Today's scheduled World's Series game between Washington and Pittsburgh was postponed on account of rain.

The outfield was found to be very muddy, and the canvas covering on the infield was spotted with pools of water.

Under the rules agreed upon the teams will play here tomorrow, Sunday and Monday, today's postponement merely setting back the schedule for one day.

champions in the lead with a circuit blow, and Cuyler came through with the thrust that clinched the game, a drive that hopped into the right field bleachers and scored ahead of him, Edie Moore, who was on base through an error by Peck.

Senators Had Opportunities

Twice Aldridge, for his part, choked off Washington after the bases had been filled with none out. In the fifth he retired the heavy artillery—Rice, Stan. Harris and Goslin—without a run being scored. In the ninth, facing the same situation, he escaped with only one tally going across, that on a sacrifice fly by Bob Veach, pinch hitter.

Thus Washington has its big opportunities to break through but failed where the club usually has measured up to its emergencies.

Rice in a similar situation the day before, for instance, had driven in the deciding runs, but yesterday he was the last man out in the ninth inning rally with two runners on base.

DETAILS OF THE PLAY

The details of the play in yesterday's game are as follows:

FIRST INNING

SENATORS.—Aldridge took a brief warm up after he got to the box and later Granham conferred with Aldridge's a few minutes. Aldridge's first pitch was wild, and Taylor rushed over to talk to him. Wright threw out Rice at first. The Pirates infield kept talking to Vic. Harris went out on strikes, swinging in a foot over Aldridge's drop ball. Goslin hit a long fly to Carey and the home crowd cheered for a full minute. Aldridge worked nothing but a curve all through the inning. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

PIRATES.—Peck threw out Moore, coming in fast to get his slow roller. Carey struck out. It was three spitters. Covey kept the ball around Carey's knee, and Stan. Harris threw out Cuyler at first. It was Harris' first chance for an assist in the series. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

SECOND INNING

SENATORS.—Judge got a homer

into right field stand. He caught a fast curve on the end of his bat and the ball sailed high and far. Harris shot a fast grounder past Wright for a base, but was thrown out stealing. Smith to Moore. Barnhart took Bluege's high fly and Traynor threw out Peck and Granham made a glovehand stop off Traynor's wide throw. It saved Traynor an error. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

PIRATES.—Rice captured Barnhart's fly. Bluege smothered Traynor's hot smash and threw him out. Wright crashed a single to right and went to second on a passed ball. Harris made easy work of Granham, throwing him out at first. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

THIRD INNING

SENATORS.—Ruel fanned, being fooled by Aldridge's drop ball. Coveleskie also whiffed. Rice came through with a single to centre, and on a balk by Aldridge went to second. Wright threw out Harris at first and the inning was over. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

PIRATES.—The sky was now becoming overcast with a pall of smoke. Smith singled into left and this started the Pittsburgh crowd howling. Aldridge hit to Coveleskie. The Senators had a double play in sight but Harris dropped the ball and got Smith at second. Carey singled into right, Aldridge stopping at second, but Cuyler forced Carey, Peck to Harris. NO RUNS, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

FOURTH INNING

SENATORS.—Wright made a beautiful stop of Goslin's seeming hit and then got him by a quick throw. Goslin claimed that Wright's throw drove Granham off the bag. Barnhart robbed Judge of a two base hit with a running catch. Aldridge is bearing down with every pitch. Harris singled off Traynor's glove. It was a line smash and Traynor went into the air after it. Cuyler took Bluege's long fly which looked as if it was going into the stands for a homer. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

PIRATES.—Barnhart sent up a high fly to Rice and Peck threw out Traynor at first. Wright got a homer into the left field stands. The crowd howled at the score being tied. He hit a fast ball. Granham fouled out to Ruel, who picked the ball off the hat of a spectator in left field. ONE RUN, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

FIFTH INNING

SENATORS.—Peck singled over Wright's head, and Ruel singled into centre, Peck stopping at second. Smith went out to the box to talk to Aldridge. Aldridge took Covey's bunt and threw to third to get Peck. It was a sacrificed hit and a fielder's choice. The bases were filled and none out. The Pittsburgh infield came in on the grass. Aldridge took Rice's grounder and Peck was out at the plate. Harris forced Ruel at the plate. Goslin went out to Granham unassisted. The Pirates had crawled out of a bad hole and the fans cheered for several minutes. It was a fine exhibition of pitching by Aldridge. NO RUNS, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

PIRATES.—Smith fanned. Aldridge got a great hand. Peck took his easy roller and threw him out. Peck also took Moore's hopper and tossed him out. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

SIXTH INNING

SENATORS.—Carey stood still and took Judge's hoist. Harris sent up a high fly which Carey took behind second. A fast ball hit Bluege in the back of the head. He fell prostrate to the ground holding his hands to his head while the players rushed to his assistance. A doctor was called. The blow could be heard all over the field. After a few minutes Bluege got up holding his head in his hands. It seemed doubtful whether he would be able to play as he apparently was very unsteady as he rose to his feet. He still held his head in his hands. Stan. Harris talked with Bluege to ascertain if he felt he could continue in the game. Bluege was in no condition to continue and he was helped from the field. Myer ran for Bluege. Myer went out stealing. Smith to Wright. The crippling of Bluege was a blow to Washington. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

PIRATES.—Myer went to third for Washington. Bluege's fielding had been a feature of the Senators' defense. Carey beat out a bunt. He caught Myer flat footed back of third. Coveleskie was trying to hold Carey close to the bag. Cuyler sacrificed. Coveleskie to Harris, and Carey going to third. Ruel rescued Coveleskie from a wild pitch, and Traynor walked. The crowd was feverish with excitement when Wright forced Traynor, Peck to Harris. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

SEVENTH INNING

SENATORS.—The doctors report that Bluege is not badly hurt but is suffering from temporary dizziness. He was struck two inches above the ear. Wright took Peck's hard smash and threw him out. Marberry went down to the bull pen to warm up for Washington. Ruel sent out a line drive to Barnhart. Traynor threw out Coveleskie, taking his weak splash. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

PIRATES.—Harris made easy work of Granham's roller and threw him out. Judge took Smith's grounder and beat him to the bag, and Aldridge popped to Peck. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

EIGHTH INNING

SENATORS.—Rice singled over the middle. It was his second hit of the game. Harris sacrificed. Granham to Moore. Rice reaching second, Goslin lashed a vicious foul to right and broke his bat. Aldridge threw out Goslin. Rice going to third. Judge sent up a high fly to Moore. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

PIRATES.—Peck juggled Moore's hopper and the batter was safe. On the hit and run Moore went to second when Harris threw out Carey at first. Moore scored ahead of Cuyler's home run into the right field stands. The crowd went wild. The ball hit the ground and bounced into the stand. Barnhart singled past Peck. Peck jagged Traynor's grounder and both runners were safe. Wright fouled out to Myer and Ruel made a won-

BOTTOM FALLS OUT OF HOCKEY PLAYER MARKET

New York Club Has Eighteen Players Under Contract — Competition for Places on Team Will Be Keen.

(Associated Press Despatch)

OTTAWA, Oct. 9.—The bottom has fallen out of the hockey player market, according to Tommy Gorman, manager of the New York Hockey Club. Recent raids by the professional clubs on the ranks of the amateurs have been so successful, he says, that competition for places on the various teams in the east and the west will be very keen.

"We have eighteen players on the roster of the New York Club," said Mr. Gorman, "and six or seven of these will be disposed of before the season gets under way. We secured seven from the Hamilton Tigers, three from Edmonton and four from other clubs in the National Hockey League. We have two men for every position and we intend to carry only ten or eleven. The same situation obtains at Montreal. The Montreal Hockey Club has no fewer than seventeen players under contract. They signed four first class amateurs in Stewart, Kitchen, Seibert and Horne, and have all of last year's material. Besides, the St. Patrick Hockey Club has landed four brilliant amateurs, all of whom were sensations in O.H.A. company. Charlie Querrie's team will be the one to beat for the National League championship. Leo Dandurand has signed three or four very promising prospects at Montreal, and Lionel Connacher has sixteen amateurs at Pittsburgh, all ready for the coming season. Art Ross has captured two or three marvellous youngsters from the western states and Boston will also be strong. Percy Thompson will have no difficulty in getting a first class team for Hamilton if he decides to remain in the National Hockey League.

derful catch off Granham's foul, TWO RUNS, TWO HITS, TWO ERRORS.

NINTH INNING

SENATORS.—Joe Harris walked, and McNelly ran for him. Myer singled into left. McNelly halting at second. Peck walked, filling the bases with none out. Veach batted for Ruel and McNelly scored on his sacrifice fly to Carey. Myer held second. Ruelther batted for Coveleskie and fanned. Rice went out, Moore to Granham. ONE RUN, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

INDEPENDENTS PLAY BISHOP'S RETURN GAME

First Game Ever Played in Sherbrooke by Either Team Will Be Staged on Parade Ground Tomorrow—Bishop's Suffer Casualties.

(Associated Press Despatch)

Bishop's University and the Sherbrooke Independents stage their second rugby battle tomorrow, when they face each other on the parade ground. Last Saturday these two teams played up in Lennoxville, the college winning on their home field by 11 to 5. The game was a close one and the Independents are confident of showing up better on their own ground and after the additional week's practice. Rice, one of their valuable men, was unable to play last week but will be out tomorrow.

Bishop's have suffered greatly by casualties, but nevertheless expect to put up another good account of themselves. Like they did a week ago, Johnston is unable to play as a result of a leg injury received in a practice over a week ago. Weegar, who played on the line, is another casualty, with a bad leg. Several minor injuries have been sustained in this week's practices, but the sufferers are expected to be all right for tomorrow.

The game, which is Sherbrooke Independents' first home game and also the first game the university has ever played in this city, will no doubt attract a large crowd of people. It will be played on the parade ground and will commence immediately after the game between Sherbrooke High School and Stnstead Wesleyan College, which starts at two o'clock and will probably last an hour and a quarter.

BOXING

BOB FOX CAPTURES TITLE FROM REDDICK

(Associated Press Despatch)

STETTLER, Alta., Oct. 9.—The Canadian light heavyweight championship changed hands here last night, going to Bob Fox, of Stettler. He defeated Jack Reddick, of Moose Jaw, when the latter was disqualified at the end of the sixth round for hitting low. Reddick had been warned a couple of times about hitting low before the referee called a foul and awarded the bout to Fox.

Fox went to his corner apparently in agony at the end of the round and the referee left the ring after announcing that Reddick had fouled the Stettler boy.

Dr. Connolly, the club physician, examined Fox in his dressing room and announced that there was an injury to the groin.

REFEREE'S DECISION DID NOT PLEASE FANS

(Associated Press Despatch)

LONDON, England, Oct. 9.—Johnny Brown, the Scottish welterweight, defeated Harry Mason, the British lightweight champion, on points in a twenty round bout at Albert Hall last night.

The opening rounds of the bout were rather tamely contested. Brown doing most of the leading and Mason proving very elusive. At the tenth round the Scotsman had a slight lead, but afterwards the lightweight champion had the better of the exchanges frequently landing right jolts to the head as Brown bored in. In the nineteenth round Mason staggered the Scotsman with a terrific right hook to the eye, but Brown quickly recovered. The last round was the most exciting of the contest and saw the combatants standing toe to toe in a fierce slug fest, so furious that they continued fighting after the sounding of the gong ending the bout and had to be parted by their seconds.

The decision of the referee awarding the bout to Brown was received with a storm of booing which lasted for several minutes.
