EAST PRUSSIA TROOPS FACE DESTRUCTION

The War Today

Germans State Soviet Troops Reach Border

Russian Armies, in Double-Pronged Blow, Reach Baltic Sea Near Danzig to Trap 200,000 German Troops in East Prussia.

London, Jan. 27.—(AP)—A force of about 200,000 Nazis trapped in East Prussia today faced destruction, while the Russian army fought for invasion routes through Brandenburg to Berlin on the sixteenth day of the Russian offensive that has cost the Germans 381,300 killed and captured.

The Russians were reported throwing fresh troops into the gigantic drive through Central Poland, and Moscow dispatches said the Nazis were carrying out a gigantic shift of troops from the Western to the Eastern front to check the growing Red menace.

Military security hid the exact location of the advancing units of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army but a Stockholm dispatch put them ninety-eight miles from Berlin. The German radio said they were at the Brandenburg frontier.

Another Berlin broadcast claimed the situation was "beginning to consolidate," but other Nazi commentators conceded further Russian gains. A triumphant Moscow radio broadcast said the Eastern Wall "has broken down and under its rubble lie the Wehrmacht's best divisions."

All along the Silesian frontier the Germans conceded that Russian troops had crossed the Oder in great force.

Marshall K. K. Rokossovsky's 3rd White Russian army split East Prussia, perennial stronghold of German militarism, from Germany proper yesterday when advance columns drove to the Danzig Bay area.

Simultaneously, the 1st White Russian Army driving through Central Poland was outflanking Poznan with twin columns racing at a speed which may well have taken them close to the frontiers of Brandenburg Province. The Brandenburg border at its closest point is 91 miles from Berlin.

A Stockholm dispatch early today quoted a German news agency as saying Red forces were already threatening the towns of Bentschen, Driesen and Schneidemuehl, all in Brandenburg.

Moscow placed the nearest approach to Berlin at 136 miles with the capture of Poznan, ten miles south of Poznan, north of Poznan, the Russians took Rogozno, 20 miles from the frontier.

Still other Soviet forces striking up through northern Silesia beyond besieged Breslau were only 143 miles from Berlin.

Farther south, other 1st Ukraine Army units yesterday toppled Hindenburg in Upper Silesia, a mining and industrial centre of 126,000 and the largest German city yet taken by the Russians in their offensive.

The Russian communiqué disclosed that 960 more localities were captured yesterday as Soviet forces drove within eight miles of Königsberg, East Prussian capital, from the East, and within two miles of Torun, big Polish communications centre on the Vistula river at the Southern entrance of the Polish Corridor, below Danzig.

Rokossovsky's break-through to the Danzig border and the Baltic coast was the highpoint of another day of rousing Soviet successes. One Russian column captured the key rail town of Marienburg, on the Nogat river border of Danzig territory 24 miles southeast of the city and port of Danzig. Another occupied Tolkmint, on the coast 28 miles northeast of Marienburg and 43 miles southwest of Königsberg.

Meanwhile, the German home radio announced the evacuation of civilians from Danzig and the Polish Corridor.

T.C.A. PLANNING TO OPERATE NEW ROUTES TO U.S.

Details of Proposed New Lines Will Not Be Made Public Until There Is an Exchange of Notes Ratifying Draft Agreements.

By C. R. BLACKBURN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Trans-Canada Airlines will operate new, additional routes to the United States when draft agreements adopted at a two-country conference here are ratified by an exchange of notes.

This was revealed at a press conference following two days of conversations for revisions of existing agreements covering commercial aviation between the two countries. The joint announcement said:

1—Canada had adhered to the "two freedoms" agreement adopted at the civil aviation conference in Chicago last December granting the freedom to fly over and to make non-stop or technical stops.

2—Existing agreements covering commercial routes between the two countries (eight flown by American operators and one by Trans-Canada Air Lines) are continued.

3—Additional routes are allocated with the object of assuring equitable distribution of routes between carriers of the two countries.

4—Provision is made for the establishment of further routes "as the public convenience and necessity of the two countries may require."

Reconstruction Minister Howe, head of the Canadian delegation, also announced that Montreal had been selected as seat of the Provincial International Civil Aviation organization set up at the Chicago conference.

"This conference means a good deal for the future of Canadian aviation," Mr. Howe told the press conference. "And the United States, too, will be pleased."

Canada, he said, would have better than its present one to eight ratio of routes.

As an indication of the harmony existing between the two groups Mr. Howe recalled that they had come to New York expecting to meet at least three days but had concluded their work in little more than a day and a half.

Details of the proposed new routes to be operated by T.C.A. and by American carriers will not be made public until there is an exchange of notes.

A number of American companies have filed 35 applications with the Civil Aeronautics Board of Rights to fly into Canada.

The policy of the Canadian Government is to have all international commercial aviation handled by the Government-owned T.C.A.

Workers Urge Intervention Of Prime Minister King In Montreal Tramway Dispute

Montreal, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Employees of Montreal Tramways Company, at a mass meeting last night, passed a resolution to be forwarded to Prime Minister Mackenzie King asking his intervention in a dispute with the company, which has been hanging fire for close to two years.

Mayor Camille Houde attended the meeting and promised his support to the workers, provided they remain within the limits of the law.

The dispute, which precipitated a twelve-day strike last August, involves a union shop clause which the workers seek in a contract between the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.B.R.E.) and the Company.

The clause was refused following a strike in February 1944 and a subsequent hearing by a conciliation board, and the August strike resulted. This was ended when the government appointed E. L. Cousins and J. E. St. Laurent as controllers of the Company and ordered the men back to work.

The resolution to Mr. King objected to the delay on the part of the Government and the Company in taking "effective measures" to reach a "fair and reasonable" solution of the dispute.

An earlier strike, in March 1943, won union recognition for the C.B.R.E. and, in February 1944, the workers won a wage increase.

DEATH PENALTY DEMANDED FOR FRENCH EDITOR

Verdict Expected Today, Following Speeches by Counsel for Defence, in Trial of Charles Maurras on Charge of Treason.

Lyon, France, Jan. 27.—(Reuters)—The public prosecutor has demanded sentence of death against Charles Maurras, 77-year-old Royalist leader whose trenchant pen for many years resulted in his paper, Action Française, being read throughout France.

It was left to the court to decide on a fitting sentence for Maurice Pujo, Maurras' newspaper assistant, described by the public prosecutor as the editor's "pale shadow."

The public prosecutor said he did not reproach the two accused men for their monarchist theories, but for the crime of intelligence with the Germans, for demoralizing the nation in time of war, and for denouncing patriots.

The verdict is expected today, after the speeches by counsel for defence.

Proceedings yesterday were largely taken up by witnesses for the defence, many of whom showed that Maurras was still "the great man" to his disciples.

One such witness declared that the "Camelots de Roi" (the organization of young Royalists who for many years played by the able pranks in Paris, such as ringing the bells of Notre Dame when the son of the Comte de Paris, Pretender to the Throne, was born) opposed Joseph Darnand's militia.

A Lyon barrister named Chaput asserted that Royalists fought with the Maquis group which put up a stand against the Germans at Glières.

François Bidault, brother of Georges Bidault, present French Foreign Minister, figured among witnesses for the prosecution. He said he would confine himself to asking that "the denunciations to which my brother has been subjected, be silenced."

Provost Lieutenant Bouvard said that a family named Fournier, living at Bourg, accused by the militia of hiding bombs for the resistance movement, was denounced in an article by Maurras after Bouvard had taken no action and the affair had been dropped.

"Two of the sons were reported to Germany and the fiancée of one of the daughters was shot," Bouvard said.

Maurras' reply to that was: "This policeman said he took no action. You can see that the police did not do their duty."

There was a stir in court when

New Gains For Yanks In Belgium

Gains Up to Three Miles by Americans Wipe Out Last Vestiges of Bulge Created in Counter-Offensive.

By JAMES M. LONG

Associated Press Staff Writer

Paris, Jan. 27.—(AP)—United States 3rd Army troops striking on a 20-mile front in Luxembourg and Belgium gained up to three miles today and reached the Our River barrier to Germany.

The 3rd's roll-up to the Our River frontier, wiping out last vestiges of the Ardennes bulge, came as the British 2nd and United States 9th armies in the north consolidated their hold along the west bank of the Roer River inside Germany within twenty-five miles of Düsseldorf.

Allied troops held the initiative all along the winding Western Front, and the Germans' offensive in Alsace had dwindled.

The British 2nd and United States 9th armies held the Roer River bank from Roermond to Mönchengladbach, nineteen miles southeast of Aachen, and had widened the only breach in the Siegfried Line to thirty-five miles.

American patrols reached the Our River at a point four and a half miles northeast of Cleverly in Northern Luxembourg, a front dispatch said. They met no resistance. Troops of the 17th Airborne Division punched forward three miles at a point seven miles south of St. Vith.

They and three other divisions were striding across the "sky-line" drive highway running north to St. Vith on a 1,500-foot ridge overlooking the Our and the Germans' Siegfried Line guarding the Reich. One division drove ahead 2 1/2 miles north of Wiltz, and two others advanced from half to one mile. The 3rd Army bagged 591 prisoners yesterday.

No new activity was reported in the 1st Canadian Army front at the extreme north, although yesterday's Allied communiqué announced liquidation of an enemy party which crossed the Maas River north of Boxmeer, 14 miles south of Nijmegen. The action had been described previously in front dispatches.

The British 2nd Army yesterday swept up the Wurm River, a tributary of the Roer, capturing at least six German villages. Scottish patrols mopped up the remainder of the sector all the way to Roermond.

The once-menacing salient north of Sittard, which is on the Maas about 20 miles southwest of Roermond, was ironed flat along with its 11 miles or so of trenches, mine-

By DEWITT MACKENZIE, Associated Press War Analyst

All Allied peoples have taken to measuring progress against the Germans in terms of the distance our armies are from Berlin—an understandable calculation although not very sound militarily, because it isn't the mileage that counts but the obstacles between you and your goal.

Anyway, that's the way we figure it, and we now are near enough to Wilhelmstrasse so that thoughts of enemy capitulation naturally are in our minds—though here again we have a somewhat faulty premise, since the capture of Berlin wouldn't necessarily end the war. However, brushing aside technicalities, what may we expect to find inside Germany when the enemy finally says he's had enough?

A glance behind the curtain is rather appalling, for the bloody coup de grace which the Allies now are in progress of administering is merely a gate-crasher into an administrative problem which has no parallel in history.

We start with the circumstance that the Reich, which has been one of the world's great powers, will have no government to which the United Nations can assign the task of administering (under Allied military control) the highly complicated affairs of some 80,000,000 people.

The Allied military authorities will have to look after millions of civilians whose homes have been destroyed, who lack the necessities of life and who have no immediate prospect of employment. The countless thousands of surrendering German soldiers, many of whom are brutalized Nazi fanatics, may have to be put in internment camps for fear that if they are turned loose they will start ravaging the country.

The housing problems will be titanic, especially in view of the lack of building materials and labor. The food situation will be acute, as will that of all other supplies. The Allied countries must come first for general rehabilitation. The Germans will have to be fed and clothed and housed, but they'll have to wait until the last for everything beyond bare necessities.

The sum total is that the Allied military government will have a mountain to move, and that will take not only faith but might, hard and expert work. So far as one can see now, there will have to be Allied military government in every sizable town of Germany, and they'll have to be responsible for everything, pending the establishment of a brand new German regime.

Defence Minister Prepared To Sound Off All Opposition

Owen Sound, Ont., Jan. 27.—(AP)—With the cry, "We'll stand up and have our election," Defence Minister McNaughton, Government candidate in Grey North Federal by-election February 5, last night said he did not fear the Opposition and asked no consideration for Opposition candidates if they felt they should oppose him.

Speaking at Kilsyth, ten miles from here, Gen. McNaughton wound up a three-day speaking tour before returning to Ottawa today to attend to Government business. Liberal Association officials said he would be back in the riding on Monday.

Meanwhile it was learned that Progressive Conservative Candidate W. Garfield Case had filed his nomination papers on Thursday, four days before the 2 p.m. deadline of Monday, January 29. C.C.F. headquarters said nomination papers for Air Vice-Marshal Godfrey would be filed today and a Liberal spokesman said Gen. McNaughton's papers were ready and would be filed today or Monday by W. P. Telford, Liberal Member of Parliament who resigned to give the Defence Minister a riding in which to run.

At Chatsworth, Mr. Case again charged collusion between Prime Minister King and M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the C.C.F., and labelled them "two big bedfellows indeed."

Mr. Case said he believed in total mobilization of resources, but not in the conscription of manpower and wealth as suggested by the C.C.F. The C.C.F. believed that the people should be subject to the state and the Progressive Conservatives believed that the state should carry out the will of the people.

J. Coldwell, speaking in support of Air Vice-Marshal Godfrey at Meaford, said that Government treatment of the farmer and labor invited overwhelming defeat of General McNaughton. The Conservatives' contempt for democratic procedures and their general irresponsible behaviour deserved nothing but contempt.

While he denounced those who raised racial and religious issues, Thursday night, he said Mr. Case was attacking "an outstanding young Canadian, David Lewis, as a Russian Jewish refugee." Mr. Case charged that Mr. Lewis, C.C.F. National Secretary, was working through the C.C.F. to set up Russian Communism in Canada.

"The Tory party, if it has any vestige of decency, should repudiate this disgraceful attempt to use religious prejudice against a brilliant young Canadian."

Gen. McNaughton said he hoped to gain a seat in the Commons to explain Defence Department measures properly if another session of Parliament is held. The session would of necessity be brief but important as the Government would have to bring down its war measures for the coming year and the budget.

In recent weeks some newspapers had claimed the necessary reinforcements were not reaching Overseas, he said. This was "unfounded propaganda" but he could do nothing about it at the time because a large draft of reinforcements was on the high seas.

"The North Star" Feature Film Beginning Sunday At New Premier

Ann Baxter and Farley Granger in "The North Star," at the New Premier Theatre.

One of the finest films of recent months in "The North Star," which begins tomorrow at the New Premier Theatre.

Three stories in one are deftly woven together to make up this realistic offering: a charming romance between two youngsters of a Russian village near the Bessarabian border, the story of that village and its inhabitants as the Nazi blitz attack changes it from a happy and peaceful community to a smoking ruin, and the stirring efforts of an elderly farmer and four young people to bring weapons through the German lines and arm the able-bodied men hiding in the woods awaiting the moment to avenge the town's destruction.

Told with deep sympathy and feeling, and skillfully building up to the powerful climax with a series of colorful and revealing scenes of Russian peasant life, "The North Star" is indeed a great picture and one that every filmgoer should see. A new romantic twosome of Anne Baxter and newcomer Farley Granger does brilliantly in carrying the film's love interest and much of its breathless suspense in the arms-smuggling sequences. Dana Andrews is splendid as a young bombardier, and outstanding performances are given by Walter Huston as the village doctor, Ann Harding as a peasant mother, Walter Brennan as a farmer, Jane Withers as a fidgety schoolgirl, Dean Jagger as the Soviet leader and Erich von Stroheim as a German army doctor.

The added attraction will be "Death Valley Manhunt," starring Wild Bill Elliott, in this story Elliott is Wild Bill at his very best, and "Gaby" Hayes is excellent as usual. Anne Jeffreys gives a great performance and others worthy of mention are Weldon Heyburn, Herbert Heves and Charles Murray, Jr. Eddie White was associate producer, with Jack English directing.

"The Princess And The Pirate" Opening At Granada On Sunday

Bob Hope and Virginia Mayo, co-starred in programme at Granada.

Joining the ranks of the Goldwyn Girls is one of the surest methods of becoming a film star.

Nobody yet has compiled reliable statistics to show what percentage of the feminine aspirants to screen fame have made the grade by the various routes — winning beauty contests, appearing in Little Theatre shows, working up through the extra ranks and what not—but it appears that the Goldwyn Girl method has been pretty successful for quite a few of today's picture favorites.

Paulette Goddard got her start that way, and so did Lucille Ball, Virginia Bruce, Betty Grable and Jinx Falkenberg. And since Mr. Goldwyn rounds up his Girls about only once every five years, and rarely has more than twenty or thirty of the mat a time, his percentage of hit graduates seems to be fairly high.

Newest screen lovely to emerge from the G. G. ranks is Virginia Mayo. Miss Mayo was one of the honeys who were seen in Goldwyn's Danny Kaye picture, "Up in Arms," as Army Nurses aboard the transport on which they all went to the South Pacific. From that she zoomed right into her current role as the heroine of Goldwyn's new Bob Hope comedy for RKO Radio release, "The Princess and the Pirate."

Needless to say, Miss Mayo portrays the Princess—a runaway damsel who has quarrelled with her royal papa and finds herself headed for Jamaica aboard an 18th Century packet. The effervescent Mr. Hope is also a passenger — a ranting, boastful actor who tries to impress the lady with his valor, until the vessel is attacked by a pirate brig commanded by that fearsome buccaner, The Hook, when the thespian's courage evaporates rapidly, with hilarious results.

If the ash-blond Virginia keeps up her present rise, the Goldwyn Girls can chalk up another winner for their system — and it seems highly probable she will.

O.C. Pays Glowing Tribute To Sherbrooke Fusiliers

Lt.-Col. Gordon Writes Sherbrooke Lads Have Spirit Which Makes Them Win Objective As Matter Of Course

The Sherbrooke Fusiliers Regiment in general and Major Fred Baldwin in particular have been paid a glowing tribute by Lt. Col. B. K. Gordon, Officer Commanding. In a letter written to Col. A. A. Munster, Honorary Colonel of the Sherbrooke Regiment, Lt. Col. Gordon had this to say of the Regiment:

"You would be very proud of all the boys if you could see them, either in or out of action, just as proud of them as I am. There are no better fighters anywhere than those same boys and they are a credit to and a wonderful advertisement for the City of Sherbrooke. They have the spirit which makes them push on and get to their objective as a matter of course. They would be a very disappointed lot if the time ever came when they did not reach their objective. They are a great lot."

Referring to Major Baldwin, who prior to enlisting was an employee of the Canadian Silk Products, of which Col. Munster is President and Managing Director, Lt. Col. Gordon said:

"I cannot say too much about him. He has been absolutely wonderful and alone in the trenches. He is my idea of a perfect administrator and I would trust him with my life. He is known well in the army for his ability to organize things and I am glad that he at long last has the chance to go where that ability can best be utilized by the Army. The boys miss him terribly, of course, and so do I. He was the backbone of his Squadron and of the Officers' Mess."

Such tributes from a man holding a position such as Lt. Col. Gordon holds are indeed encouraging and inspiring to the citizens of Sherbrooke, and to the families and friends of the Sherbrooke men who have voluntarily offered their services.

Sherbrooke is proud of its men on Active Service, but it is pleasant to hear nice things about them for it is known that such tributes have been well earned.

At present Major Fred Baldwin, who recently returned from overseas, is taking a special course at Kingston, Ont.

$199 SUIT LOST IN LOCAL COURT

An action, instituted by Georges Thibault, of Stratford parish, in which $199 was sought from Louis Gagnon, of the same place, on grounds that the defendant had been responsible for spreading of rumors to the effect that the plaintiff had caused work to be suspended on reconstruction of the Stratford Roman Catholic Church, was dismissed with costs in a Superior Court judgment handed down by Mr. Justice J. Dalma Landry.

In the plaintiff's testimony, he alleged that he had spent much time and money in connection with the reconstruction of the church, destroyed by fire in December, 1942, and that he had nothing to do with suspension of building work in the summer of 1943.

He further stated that the defendant had caused spread of the rumor that he had been at the head of a faction in the community which had caused postponement of the work.

Mr. Justice Landry, in summing up the case, pointed out that two witnesses acting for the plaintiff, presented contradictory evidence in court, and therefore he dismissed the action with costs.

LOCAL MEETING OF HOME, SCHOOL GROUP MONDAY

A Home and School Association meeting will be held in the Mitchell School auditorium Monday evening at 8 o'clock when the guest speaker will be Miss Catherine McKenzie, former Principal of the High School for Girls in Montreal. The President of the local Association, E. G. Bascom, will be in the chair.

It is recognized that learning is a continuous process, lasting through life, and that the acquisition of knowledge is not confined to the classroom alone, but is acquired through home relations as well as community activities. It is these facts which have made apparent the need for securing the closest co-operation at home, school and community, as each plays an important role in the education of boys and girls. The best means of securing this needed, close co-operation is the Home and School Association, the purpose of which is to combine mutual interests in order to secure the best possible growth in health, learning, and social adjustment of boys and girls.

Though they have not made much progress in Quebec, Home and School Associations have been in existence in Canada over twenty-five years. The movement began in Toronto and spread very rapidly throughout Canada, as any movement having the welfare of children for its bases is bound to do. Home and School Associations have proved themselves a distinct asset to their communities, and have tendered widespread service.

The all-inclusive objective of the association is: "To secure those conditions of environment and adult guidance that will best promote the child's most wholesome development and learning." This entails a definite desire on the part of teachers, parents and communities to work together, both constructively and co-operatively. Certainly there is a need for many improvements in education, and these often can be secured by the combined work of parents and teachers. The most important contribution the Home and School Association offers is a meeting ground for parents, teachers, and School Board members. Here these three groups can approach common problems intelligently, and often solve them.

In spite of the great love that parents have towards their children, there is a curious anxiety on their part concerning the children's welfare. Too often they are prone to feel that when they have given them a home, food, clothing, and the wherewithal to attend school, their responsibility has ended, and the teacher must carry on from there. A Home and School Association will quicken the parental interest on the children's behalf, and the parents will find that they have gained definite benefits therefrom.

At the meetings parents can get together and discuss their mutual parental problems. Certain deficiencies in the various educational or recreational facilities of the school may be discovered. Some of these can perhaps be remedied by parental co-operation, such as increasing the number of library books available, securing facilities to show educational films, or aiding to secure a skating rink or playing field when one is not available. Schools need much, but often have insufficient funds to provide for these needs. Parents can do much to supplement the school's effort and help in the educational progress of their children.

BUGBEE BUSINESS COLLEGE NOTES

The Literary Society got off to a good start on Friday last when an excellent programme of short addresses by the newly-elected officers was carried out.

The first item was the reading of the "One Lung" by the Editor, Leila Watt. Jewel Trott then gave an interesting talk on Public Speaking. This was followed by Lois Chaddock who shed an interesting light on the experiences of the younger boys and girls who have to travel to and from school in a "Van"—some of them rising at 5 a.m. and not getting back home till almost 7 o'clock in the evening. Leola Childs spoke on her favorite hobby, "Horses." Leola is an expert rider and a fine judge of horses. She has taken many prizes at fairs and has an enviable reputation in her line. The last speaker was Barbara Thomas, the President. Her subject was the "Ouija Board" and her treatment of this mysterious object was most entertaining and caused a good deal of merriment. The meeting closed with singing the National Anthem.

On February 3rd the society is to be favored with an address by a distinguished aviator who has had many thrilling flights over the continent of Europe.

School Bus Not Obligated To Pick Up Pupils At Their Homes But Only At Designated Place, Local Court Says

Article 177 of the school regulations of the Protestant Committee of the Council of Education stipulates that unless it is so provided by a contract, the drive of a school bus is not required to call at the home of pupils living on cross roads or at a distance from the highway but the proper provision must be made in order that they may meet the vehicle at some appointed time and place each morning. Mr. Justice J. Dalma Landry pointed out in Superior Court today when he dismissed with costs the action instituted by John Patrick of Melbourne against the Protestant School Commissioners of Melbourne Township.

Justice Landry pointed out that Article 92 of the school code states that no district shall exceed five miles in length or breadth unless the school commissioners and trustees have provided means for conveying the children to the school. Patrick asked that the defendants be ordered to provide transportation for his children to and from his home as the school district was over five miles in radius and because of the distance involved his children had been unable to attend school to date this school year.

"This article 92," stated His Lordship, "is imperative and implies that when a district exceeds five miles the commissioners are bound by law to arrange for the conveyance of children to the school, but the only question at issue in this case is to decide if such an obligation means that the commissioners have to arrange to go and get the children at their own houses or if they have a discretion on laying out the routes in asking the children to report at such a point where they will be picked up by the school bus. The idea of the legislator in promulgating article 92 seems to this court to have been not to impose on the children a hardship which they would not have been subjected to had the school district remained within the limit of five miles, but it must be inferred from the regulations that the school commissioners are not bound to call at the home of pupils living on cross-roads or at a distance from the highway but may just make provisions so that the pupil may meet the vehicle at some appointed time and place each morning."

The contrary, His Lordship added, would impose on the school commissioners an undue hardship "and it must be remembered that the primary obligation of the education of children rests on their parents who must co-operate with the school commissioners."

Glider Training To Be Included Soon In Syllabus For Air Cadets

"The 6th Sherbrooke Air Cadet Squadron is the first squadron to hold an Air Cadet Week this year," Flying Officer J. N. P. Quellet, No. 1 Training Command, Trenton, representing Flight Lieutenant G. Dixon, Command Cadet Officer, remarked at the squadron inspection which opened the Air Cadet Week at the William Street Armory last evening.

In congratulating the lads on their fine showing, FO. Quellet told them that "they had put on a show that would make their big brothers in the Air Force jealous, and that they were greatly indebted to their officers for instilling in them such excellent discipline and for the precision of their drill movements."

"Due to the great success of the B.C.A.T.P., the present need for air-cadet training is past," the speaker informed the Cadets, and this seems "to have broken your wings." However, he revealed that post-war plans for cadet training were on the way, and that they would be able to take their place in the peacetime air force or in civilian aviation. Glider training would soon be a part of their syllabus, FO. Quellet said, and already cadets in England have made over 104,000 flights.

Commissioner's reports were presented to the following Air Cadet officers: Pilot Officer Howard Symons, Arthur McKindsey, Cliff Bryant and Roy Clarke.

B. N. Holtham, K.C., chairman of the Air Cadet Committee, gave a brief address to the future flyers and complimented them on their splendid turnout.

Following the raising of the ensign and the general salute, the squadron was opened for inspection by the reviewing party. Those in the inspection party were: FO. Quellet, FL. Lee Audet, Officer Commanding, FO. J. A. Archambault, FO. E. S. "Bud" Cook, WO-1 P. Grey, RS. D. Onions, (Acting Adjutant), WO-2 J. Walde, (Acting O.C.), B. N. Holtham, K.C., and Col. A. A. Munster.

Following the inspection, addresses and presentation of commission scripts, the ensign was lowered and the parade dismissed. The Officer Commanding, FL. Lee A. Audet, emphasized the need for new recruits, and pointed out that the prime function of the Air Cadets was the moulding of youngsters into good citizens, and the teaching to them of the fundamentals of the elementary steps in learning how to fly.

The band, under the command of PO. Symons, deserves special praise for they put forth an excellent exhibition. The N.C.O.'s are also to be commended on the fine way in which they handled the parade.

The parade was under the direction of FO. J. A. Archambault and WO-1 P. Grey and Flt-Sgt. J. R. Lemieux, Command Cadet Drill Disciplinarian.

BOOK CAMPAIGN BY I.O.D.E. TO END WEDNESDAY

The I.O.D.E. Service Libraries Campaign which opened on Monday of this week, with a quota of $4,000 for Sherbrooke, Lennoxville and the Eastern Townships is in full operation, and will close on Wednesday, January 31.

With a minimum objective of $300,000 for the Dominion, the campaign has been progressing favorably to date, and if all prospective contributors send in their donations over the weekend, the end should be well reached.

The worthiness of the Campaign cannot be overestimated. Providing books for the Navy, Army and Air Force is an important work carried on only through the funds and voluntary effort of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, aided by donations from friends of the men and women in the Services. To them, books are a pass to hours of escape; a pass to happy moments of wholesome pleasure; books are friends from home.

Disraeli said that a book may be as important to morale as winning a battle, so the least that we can do then is to see that Canadian servicemen and women get these books. They only know how dreary and discouraging the lonely, longing months away from home can be; they only know the comfort, the friendship and escape that a good book affords.

Life without books would be as drab as a December without Christmas, for books open enchanting doors, inviting hours of distraction from the strain of war. Without books, dreariness drifts into hopelessness, and loneliness into despondency.

Already the I.O.D.E. has supplied the Armed Forces in Canada and Overseas with over a million books. The life of these books, however, is relatively short. Some never return from their travels. Some find a final

COURT REJECTS $2,500 ACTION BASED ON FIGHT

Evidence having shown that injuries for which $2,500 was being claimed had been caused through the plaintiff's fault, an action filed by Eusebe St. Onge against Gabriel Gauthier, of St. Armand, Ham. Donat Larivee, of Sainte-Martre, William Larivee and Henri Larivee, of Garthby, was dismissed in Superior Court by Mr. Justice J. Dalma Landry.

The action was filed after a fight which occurred at the home of Henri Larivee, of Garthby, on September 11th, 1942.

The plaintiff alleged that on that date he was assaulted by the defendants and that as a result of the assault, he had suffered a fractured right collar bone, as well as contusions to the right eye and skull. He claimed his wife was also assaulted.

As a result of the injuries, the plaintiff claimed, he was unable to work for two months, for which he asked the sum of $300, plus another $1,000 for ten per cent permanent incapacity. He also asked $50 for medical care as well as $500 for pain suffered, and $175 for insult and injury.

St. Onge also claimed for injuries to his wife the sum of $500 for sufferings endured as well as an additional $175 for insult and injury.

In denying the allegations of the plaintiff, the defendants stated that at the time of the fracas, a wedding party, which had started in the morning was going on and that the plaintiff had partaken of considerable alcoholic beverages during the day.

Mr. Justice Landry, in summing up the case, pointed out that the proof showed that St. Onge had been quite drunk and had wanted to go home. When his wife objected, telling him he was too drunk, he became enraged and began to push her and strike his fists against the wall.

The evidence further showed that the plaintiff had arisen the first time and had gone downstairs and upon arriving outside, had thrown his brother-in-law, Henri Larivee, upon the ground and had fallen on top of him.

Taking into consideration that the wife herself had declared that the plaintiff was too intoxicated to stand by himself and that there was reason to believe that he suffered the injuries when he fell himself, and that the plaintiff could not prove the substance of his allegations, Mr. Justice Landry dismissed the action without costs.

Magog Man Awarded $1,070 Damages For Injuries Suffered By Wife In Fall On Icy Sidewalk In March '43

Declaring that the City of Magog had shown negligence in the maintenance of the city streets and sidewalks, Mr. Justice J. Dalma Landry yesterday ordered the municipality to pay to Nazaire Davignon, of Magog, the sum of $1,070.70 for injuries suffered by his wife in a fall upon a slippery sidewalk on March 19, 1943.

The order to pay the amount was delivered in a judgment handed down in Superior Court by Mr. Justice Landry.

In the plaintiff's allegations, it was declared that his wife had slipped and fell upon the sidewalk, which was covered with a sheet of ice, and had suffered a fractured right foot as well as severe injuries to the leg and ribs, which confined her to her bed for several months. It was also claimed that she suffered from total incapacity for a period of five months and will continue to suffer from partial permanent incapacity.

Claiming damages, the plaintiff requested $80 for doctor's bills; $10 for medicines; and incidentals which brought the total to $95.70. In addition, the plaintiff claimed, he was forced to have his 18-year-old daughter quit work in the factory and take care of the house and the invalid wife, thereby losing the revenue which the daughter brought into the house. He claimed $900 for this and an additional $300 for sufferings endured by the wife, as well as an additional $3,500 as compensation for the partial permanent incapacity of his wife, this bringing the overall total to $4,795.70.

In response to the action, the defendant claimed that city employees had sanded the sidewalk on St. Luc Street where the accident occurred and that if the plaintiff's wife had slipped there on a surface made slippery through uncontrollable climatic conditions, it was due to her own negligence.

Mr. Justice Landry, however, pointed out that the evidence showed that the defendant had slipped on an icy portion of the sidewalk and had suffered the injuries stated in the plaintiff's allegations, and that the icy portion constituted a real menace, several other persons having come near falling at the same location.

On the other hand, he pointed out, testimony had been given to the effect that sand had been spread upon the sidewalk by the city employees, but that only one shovelful of sand had been used for the entire length of St. Luc Street, which is not up to the requirements of the law, and that the city employees had been guilty of negligence.

Mr. Justice Landry also pointed out that it is a municipality's duty, if sand is insufficient to eliminate a danger spot, to spread other substances also which will make safe walking possible.

Allotting the full sum expended for treatment, Mr. Justice Landry ordered the city to pay $375 for the money which the daughter would have earned; $100 for suffering endured; and $500 for permanent partial incapacity, the whole amounting to the sum of $1,070.70.

The Golden Text is from 11 Corinthians 13:8, "We can do nothing against the truth, but for the truth." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "He that speaketh truth sheweth forth righteousness; but a false witness deceit. Lying lips are abomination to the Lord; but they that deal truly are his delight."—(Proverbs 12:17, 22). The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, "Evolution of Truth cripples integrity, and casts thee down from the pinnacle. A dishonest position is far from Christianly scientific. It is Christian Science to do right, and nothing short of right-doing has any claim to the name." (Page 448).

Ilsey Explains Maximum Benefits of Housing Act Cannot Be Realized Until War-Created Shortages Disappear.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—(C)—Announcing immediate availability of finance for construction of moderate and low cost houses and apartment houses under the new National Housing Act, Finance Minister Ilsey today told of temporary loan limits to conserve scarce labor and materials.

He warned that labor and materials were still scarce and that "the maximum benefits of the act cannot be realized until war-created shortages have disappeared."

The Government was making available limited provisions so that home builders would be able to take advantage of lower interest rates and higher percentage loans made in the new act. Under the old act housing loan interest amounted to five per cent while under the new legislation the rate is 4 1-2 per cent.

Prospective home builders now may borrow up to 95 per cent of the first $2,000 of lending value of a single dwelling, 85 per cent of the next $2,000 and 70 per cent of lending value in excess of $4,000.

To build a single dwelling with a lending value of $4,000 a borrower may obtain a maximum loan of $3,800. The monthly payments of interest and principal on the loan for this amount, payable over 20 years, would be $22.68, plus one-twelfth of municipal taxes.

Mr. Ilsey said that veterans might use their re-establishment credits to provide two-thirds of the cash equity required under the act.

He added: To conserve scarce labor and materials and use them to best advantage in the provision of additional housing, a temporary maximum limit has been placed on the lending value of a home which may be financed under the act.

"For a single dwelling with one of two bedrooms the upper limit is $6,000, increasing to $7,000 for a house with three bedrooms and to $8,000 for a house with four or more bedrooms. A similar type of limitation has been placed on the lending value of apartment houses financed under the act. The intention is to raise these maximum limits when and as materials and labor become more abundant."

All of the Housing Act except that part dealing with home improvement and home extension loans came into effect on Jan. 18, and Mr. Ilsey is signing agreements with lending institutions—mainly insurance, mortgage, trust and loan companies—which make the loans for the construction of houses and apartment blocks. Seventy-five per cent of each loan is furnished by the lending company and 25 per cent by the Dominion Government. The company and the Government taking a joint mortgage as security.

Applications from home builders which must be accompanied by plans and specifications of the project are received by the lending companies and are then submitted for approval to the Housing Administration of the Department of Finance.

Mr. Ilsey explained that loans under the Act are for a percentage of lending value, which is defined as the cost of construction or the appraised value, whichever is lower. Until acute shortages disappear and conditions in the building industry return more nearly to normal, houses and apartment blocks are likely to be appraised for lending purposes at somewhat less than cost of construction under current conditions.

"Therefore borrowers should be prepared to provide some additional cash from their own resources," he said.

2. The Bristol Freighter—a slow aircraft aimed at operating at a flat rate of 25 cents a ton mile, with a 9,000-pound payload over a range of 300 miles.

3. The Handley Page Hermes—a four-engined plane of 70,000-pound all-up weight and capacity for 50 passengers which now is in its final construction stage. A pressure cabin will permit sub-stratosphere flights over ranges up to 2,000 miles.

POLAND LIKELY SOLE CIVILIAN TOPIC AT MEET

Expected the Next Meeting of Big Three Will Deal Primarily with Urgent Military Matters Facing United Nations.

London, Jan. 27.—(Reuters)—The Big Three conference will be primarily a military discussion, it is believed. This decision has been dictated by the course of the war in Europe.

The conference will have more urgent matters on the agenda than the settlements of the previous conferences in Moscow and Tehran. Only two exceptions to this rule—Poland and Austria—are anticipated.

On the military side the foremost problem will be the fixing of the final offensive. In this connection, Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt may take the opportunity to clear up certain misapprehensions which exist in Moscow about the present position on the western front.

While it is believed that Marshal Stalin and his military advisers are fully conversant with the actual relation of forces and the problems of the west, the official Moscow press appears generally to be under the impression that there is no German power in the west worth talking about, that Field Marshal von Rundstedt's offensive was a failure and achieved nothing—not even a postponement of planned Allied offensives—and that von Rundstedt is incapable of giving any more trouble.

More thorny will be three "hot spots" which affect inter-Allied relations. These are Poland, Austria and Iran.

No solution of the Polish problem appears in sight. It is not expected that the Soviet Government will accept proposals for an inter-Allied commission to supervise elections in Poland, Yugoslavia and the Balkan countries.

A different problem has arisen over Austria. At Moscow when the declaration about restoring an independent Austria was made, it was also decided that the civilian and military administration should be left in the hands of British and American authorities.

A considerable Anglo-American organization has been prepared to take over, once the country is liberated, but the prospect now is that the Red Army will get there first and that it will then require some kind of civil administration, which they establish one of their own and scrap the Anglo-American organization.

Outside Europe it is expected that Marshal Stalin will seek some clarification of policy in Iran, particularly on the exploitation of its oil resources. On the subject of Russia's participation in the war against

SHOWDOWN DUE NEXT WEEK ON VOTING ISSUE

One of Three Events Scheduled for Coming Week Sure to Have Direct Bearing on Possible Election Date.

By FRANK FLAHERTY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—(C)—Something is bound to happen on one or more of three vital days which will affect the life of the present Parliament and the trend of events in national politics.

The three days, now underlined on many a politician's calendar, are January 29, nomination day for the Grey North bye-election; January 31, the day for the prorogation of Parliament, and February 5, polling day in the bye-election.

Some of the things which may happen were undoubtedly discussed at yesterday's meeting of the Cabinet. In particular, the Ministers may have discussed what is to be said in the Speech from the Throne at the prorogation of Parliament and whether it is to contain a statement that Parliament will be dissolved and that the Grey North bye-election will not be held.

Nomination day in Grey North assumes importance because of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's recent message to the electors in that constituency where Defence Minister McNaughton seeks a seat in the House of Commons and is opposed by Progressive Conservative and C. C. F. candidates.

Mr. King said it would not be known until nomination day whether the Opposition parties were determined to persist in their present attitudes which, he said, were creating conditions which make a general election necessary.

There is little expectation in Liberal or any other quarters that the Opposition candidates will withdraw and give Gen. McNaughton an acclamation. Opinion is divided in political circles as to whether Mr. King will dissolve Parliament before the bye-election, but if he does it is believed the announcement will come when Parliament is prorogued on January 31.

If he does not dissolve and the bye-election proceeds, voting day, February 5, becomes the vital day. The belief is that if Gen. McNaughton is elected there will be a short session of Parliament starting about March 1 and ending when Parliament reaches the end of its five-year term, April 17.

If the Minister is defeated it is believed there will be no session, but an immediate dissolution of Parliament and a general election which can take place in two months.

In the event of there being no session of Parliament the probable date of the general election thus becomes early in April. In the event of a session the date, on the basis of precedents, may not come until the end of June.

In anticipation of a session the Government is ready with the necessary money appropriation bills which would probably be all Parliament would be asked to pass. These include the ordinary supply bills covering non-war estimates, the war appropriation bill and a mutual aid bill to authorize continued supply of war materials to other United Nations without repayment.

As no important revisions in the existing tax structure are contemplated immediately, it is not likely Parliament would be asked to pass a budget at a short session.

All the schools in Middlebrough, Yorkshire, closed Wednesday and 25,000 children were sent home because the class-rooms could not be kept warm.

And, as football fans in Canada may have guessed, it was snow that caused postponement Saturday of many preliminary cup matches in Scotland and northern England.

Mr. Ross Boast, of Montreal, was a week-end guest of friends in town.

Japan it is not expected that Marshal Stalin will commit himself until the course of the war—and the peace settlement—in Europe is more definitely charted.

One of the knottiest problems of all will be the subject of territorial compensation to Poland, Czechoslovakia and France. It is believed in London that there will be no final decision taken, but an intermediate solution will be taken.

U.S. Senate Rebuffs Wallace Selection

Washington, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The Senate Commerce Committee rebuffed Henry A. Wallace yesterday, voting 14 to 5 against his nomination as Secretary of Commerce and Federal Loan Administrator.

The adverse report went to the Senate, where the nomination may be acted on early next week.

Critics of Mr. Wallace, contending the former Vice-President is without the experience necessary to handle the big lending agencies, are claiming 48 to 50 votes in the Senate—enough to beat him.

The committee's decision amounts to this: It sends President Roosevelt's nomination to the Senate with a black mark against it. Similar actions in the past, however, have had varied receptions by the full body which sometimes backs up its committees and sometimes overrules them.

Chemistry Subject Of Talk Before Richmond Board Of Trade Members

Richmond, Jan. 27.—Pleasure was combined with business for the members of the Richmond and Melbourn Board of Trade, when their wives attended the monthly dinner meeting at the Brunswick Hotel. Seated at the head table were the new President, Fred J. Newell, and Mrs. Newell, the new Secretary, W. Roy Whitehead, and Mrs. Whitehead, Mayor Alfred Geoffroy and Mrs. Geoffroy, Rev. George Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Desmarais, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Desmarais and Mr. Douglas Walkington.

During the dinner hour, Messrs. Menard and Lapre played instrumental duets, and short speeches by Mayor Geoffroy, Rev. George Harrington and Gaston Desmarais combined wit and wisdom that helped the chairman put everyone at ease.

Gerard Desmarais, Vice-President, introduced the guest speaker, Douglas Walkington, of the Canadian Industries Ltd. His subject was "The Romance of Chemistry."

His talk proved to be a comprehensive account of how modern chemical research has worked out ways of making many common useful goods, much more useful than they ever were before, and how it has developed complicated processes for turning out entirely new products having valuable qualities unlike the qualities of anything that man has hitherto put to use.

In language chosen for popular address, and with a chain of demonstrations with samples of the products he talked about, Mr. Walkington handled a scientific subject in a way that made the history of modern research seem truly a romance, and he carried the meeting through one of the most interesting after-dinner hours that have been enjoyed under these auspices.

The speaker began with a short description of the new properties that can be put into soaps so that they will form copious lather with the hardest of water or even with sea water. Passing on to the various chemicals for purifying water and preserving food, he illustrated the versatility of some of these modern chemicals by describing the extensive use made of sodium propionate.

fumes might be called the exception. Insecticides were being constantly improved, but research enthusiasts often discovered most unexpected indirect results from their use. If an insecticide proved highly efficient in eradicating some noxious insect, after the death of the insect and all his family, it might be learned that the insect had good habits as well as bad habits. Perhaps he devoured large number of other insects that were even more noxious than himself.

The point the speaker brought out could perhaps be summed up by saying that after a too-optimistic chemist had put the insecticide to work, hitherto unnoticed insects might thrive better than ever.

A sample of lucite was exhibited in the form of a long, glass-like rod bent in various elbows and curves. Placing a light at one end of the rod, the speaker demonstrated that this substance bends light rays, for the illumination from the light shone forth from the other end of the rod apparently with unimpaired glow.

The possibilities of conveying light without heat into intricate corners in the manufacture of explosives, in human surgery, and in many other diversified human activities were most interesting.

Mr. Walkington summed up by asking the audience to survey in their minds the whole situation and then to realize what an important role chemical research played in our modern domestic national economy as well as in the struggle of the war.

At the close of the talk, H. P. Stone and Dr. Jean Smith expressed to Mr. Walkington for the Board of Trade the deep appreciation of everyone for the most interesting address.

Following a recess, the members of the Board of Trade and the ladies despatched for a business meeting.

At the request of the chairman, Mr. Newell, the various committees submitted routine reports. The chairman of the Citizens Committee, Gaston Desmarais, referred to the very low percentage of loss by fire in the city, and the value of property in this community. The personal vigilance and efficiency of Chief of Police Heurieux played a very important part in maintaining this enviable record, and he was congratulated for his efficiency in handling the duties of fire chief.

Correspondence was read and the subject of the most discussed was a communication from the Income Tax Payers' Association which has been formed to urge that all co-operatives and all of what are known as privately-owned firms be placed on an equal footing in regard to certain taxes.

K. G. Nourse, retired bank manager, supplied a concise survey of the actual situation, and he was appointed to form a committee and lead it in preparing a brief to be forwarded to the executive of this Association, setting forth the expressed attitude of the Board of Trade that steps be taken to bring about equalization of taxation.

George Ewing submitted a report on the progress of the Building Committee and he was authorized to make at the expense of the Board certain purchases necessary to the efficient discharge of his duties.

Speaking for the ladies, Mrs. A. A. Macartney thanked the men for a delicious dinner and a pleasant evening.

It was passed to have the Secretary convey in writing to both Mr. Walkington and the Canadian Industries Ltd., the hearty thanks of the Board of Trade for the very interesting talk as well as the most friendly co-operation of both the guest speaker and the company.

After the business meeting, everyone present joined in a social hour.

Sherbrooke Canadiens Hosts To East Angus On Sunday In Intermediate "A" Loop Match

The Sherbrooke Canadiens, coached by Alva Blouin, are seeking their first win of the Sherbrooke and District Intermediate "A" Hockey League season here tomorrow when they play hosts to the East Angus crew in a regular league fixture to be run off at the Sherbrooke Arena.

The Canadiens, without a win yet this season, are facing the league cellar but attempt to gain their initial triumph tomorrow.

However, it is very doubtful whether they will be able to topple the East Angus crew for the men from the Paper Town are currently tied for first place in the league standings, having played three games without a loss as yet.

The Angus crew have been further strengthened by the return of Paul Therien, who ranked as a top star around this district not so long ago. The stocky forward apparently still has plenty on the ball for in his first game with Angus last week, he notched one goal and drew four assists.

However, Coach Alva Blouin has been putting his charges through their paces regularly and is confident of being able to knock the Angus men over in tomorrow's tilt.

A win for the Angus crew Sunday would give them undisputed possession of first place. At present they are tied for the top position with Richmond who, however, have played

TWO CAGE TILTS SCHEDULED FOR GIRLS' CIRCUIT

Two games are scheduled for today in the E.T. Basketball League with one game to be played at the University of Bishop's College at Lennoxville while the other is scheduled to be run off tonight at Richmond.

The first game will see the Sherbrooke High School, last in the league standings, tackle the Bishop's squad, as yet unseen in action this season. The Bishop's girls, though not having been able to devote much time to practice, are given a good chance of beating the S.H.S., which has much to offer in the way of basketball.

The other game will see the Rand making a stab for sole possession of first place in the league when they tackle Richmond at Richmond tonight.

The Rand crew has two wins to its credit so far and are tied with Y.W.C.A. for top position. A win tonight for them will give them first place while a win for the Richmond crew would put them into a three-way tie for the leadership.

Gain Sole Possession Of 1st Place Through Easy 49-28 Win Over University Cage Quintet

Deadly accuracy around the basket, far superior experience and a sound defensive system helped the powerful Y's men cage squad send the Bishop's University quintet down to a resounding 49-28 defeat in the Bishop's opener at U.B.C. last night.

The high-scoring Y's men displayed too much all-round power for the home team, keeping the offensive for all but the last ten minutes of the game. Top dogs in the six-team basketball league, the Sherbrooke Y's shows no signs of slackening pace in their bid for the championship. With three wins and no losses to their credit the Y's men are well on the way to being the "team to beat" in league play this year.

Last night they were clicking along in fine style with Lorne Murphy and Moon Mullins playing their tight defensive games, ably assisted by Creighton outboard. Old-time basketballers Hally Evans, Bill Hammond and Bill Cohoon showed what know-how can do as they plunked them through the hoop thick and fast. The two youngest players on the squad, Ross Hunting and Pres Carr, both found the scoring parade with Cohoon, Hunting's driving game earned him eleven points, Cohoon chalked up ten and Carr nine. Evans and Hammond, both came through with eight points for the Y's men.

The Bishop's lads, playing their first league game of the year, were caught off balance right from the start. They were a little too confident to begin with and didn't use their speed effectively till the last minutes of the match. Coach Clark has the material and his boys could have set a pace fast enough to wear the older player down, but by the time they started rolling the Y's men had the game sewed up. Despite the high score, Bishop's is still a threat in the league. Their next few games should prove this.

With players like Charlie Budning, Cooling and Pharo pushing them through the hoop and newcomers like Sutherland, Quillet and Scott feeding the point-getters, Ozie Clarke should be able to put out a couple of good forward lines. Guards McCredie and Farquharson did yeoman work for the seniors, playing the full game. Budning was the hardest working forward on the floor and Cooling played well, once he got started in the game. Gale, Pharo, high scorer for Bishop's with eight points, still hasn't hit the target.
