Bombing drop-off benefit:

Westmount's real estate picture has taken a turn for the better and Westmount, along with Montreal, can look forward to a rose future.

That's the opinion of the executives of Westmount Realities Company, 1367 Greene avenue, who report that the residential sector of the company last February enjoyed its most successful month in the history of the company, which was founded in 1910.

President D.B. Baily, who was appointed to the presidency on Feb. 9 after 21 years with the firm, says the industrial sector of the company which was quiet in 1970 is picking up this year.

BY TONY MacGREGOR

One of the prime reasons for the change, he believes, is the dropping off of bombing and other radical political activities in the past months.

Buyers cautious

"People are extremely cautious when investing in real estate," he said. "They don't invest when the political situation is unstable because you just can't pick up the land and move if you've made a mistake."

Eugene A. Zinay, residential sales manager of Westmount Realities, says that even at the height of the bombings in Westmount there was never a surplus of high-priced homes in the city.

"The kind of person who can afford that type of home is not usually the kind of person who would panic," he said.

He said people were concerned but not highly frightened and that there was only an odd case of families moving out because of fear.

"But there is every indication that our problems are over and we are now in fact searching for homes valued at over $100,000," he said.

The backlog of demand has

Boy loses coat at knifepoint to two youths

A 17-year-old boy was robbed at knife point of his $45 coat by two youths during the day Sunday at the P1 parking level of Alexis Nihon Plaza after refusing to give the youths a dime.

The victim, a Verdun resident, was asked by the two youths for ten cents. When he replied that he didn't have the money, the two boys walked away. They later returned with knives and told him to hand over his coat.

He did as he was ordered and later complained to Westmount Police who arrested a 15-year-old at the Plaza.

Police expect the arrest of another youth is imminent. The 15-year-old is a Montreal resident.

Council meets Tuesday

Tuesday night's city council meeting, which commences at 8 pm, will deal with a notice of motion of a by-law to enable a preschool to operate in Westmount Park Church and with the opening of tenders for ready-mixed concrete.

Also on the agenda is the list of accounts for February and probably a report on the Montreal Urban Community by Mayor Paul Ouimet.

This will be the statutory April meeting, postponed from the night before which is Easter Monday. No mid-month meeting was held in March, as is normal. The last meeting was held March 6.

Pupils fewer: St. Leon closing in book

Declining enrolment at St. Leon de Westmount elementary school has called the future of the French-speaking, Roman Catholic school into question.

Paul Robidoux, director of the Montreal Catholic School Commission's region one in which the school is located, reported that enrolment has been dropping 10 to 15 percent every year and that next September only 237 French-speaking elementary pupils were expected to enrol. In 1973, the commission expects only 200 pupils to enrol.

He said that before June or early next year school board officials would meet with parents of children at the school to discuss the matter with them.

Not before 1933

At any rate, it is not planned to close the school before 1973.

Of the 237 pupils expected next September, it is believed that about 50 live east of Atwater avenue and outside Westmount's boundaries.

Twenty-five to 30 percent of the pupils now enrolled in the school, which is run entirely in French, speak English as their mother tongue.

Boy, 9, hit, badly hurt

A nine-year-old Westmount boy is in poor condition at the Montreal Children's Hospital with two broken legs and undetermined head injuries after being dragged almost 40 feet under a car about 7:10 pm Tuesday at Grosvenor avenue and The Boulevard.

David Glickman, 641 Victoria avenue, was taken to the hospital by Westmount Police patrol car after being struck at the northwest corner of the intersection and being dragged by a 1965 Dodge heading north up Grosvenor.

Driver of the Dodge was Mrs. Esther Gerstenfeld, 59, 4885 Queen Mary road, Montreal.

The Dodge had been heading east on The Boulevard when it stopped at a red light at Grosvenor avenue. When the light changed the car made a left-hand turn to head north on Grosvenor and struck the boy, who was in the crosswalk, proceeding from the east to the west side of Grosvenor.

The driver of the car evidently did not see the boy and was not aware her car had struck him. The car continued 40 feet up Grosvenor avenue and stopped. The child dropped from beneath the car shortly before it halted. No charges have been laid.

16 frauds are solved; two arrests

Sixteen cases of apparent fraud committed in Alexis Nihon Plaza stores over the past three weeks have been cleared up through the efforts of Sgt. - Det. Norman Myles of the Westmount Police.

About $400 worth of goods purchased, apparently fraudulently on Chargex cards by two women, residents of Montreal, have been recovered.

The two women have been summoned but not yet charged.

Stores which lodged the complaints include Miracle Mart, Greenberg's, Reitman's Inc. Accent Stores, and Alex Sherman Music Centre.

Skating ends

Skating for the general public ends for the season at the Westmount artificial ice rink on Saturday.

Sunday a figure skating show, starting at 2 pm, will be open to anyone interested. It is a first revue under the direction of Miss Beverly Adams.

Meanwhile, plans are being made for the spring sports program of the city's recreation department. Boys residing in Westmount may register at the rink, starting Monday, April 10, for softball and soccer for 9-to-13-year-olds and baseball for boys 14 and 15 years of age.

Mayerovitch exhibition to open at the Library

Mayor Paul A. Ouimet next Wednesday evening is to open a 2½-week exhibition of "Westmount: paintings from a park bench" in the Westmount Public Library, works of Harry Mayerovitch, local architect, town planner, teacher and artist.

The showing is billed as "a reverent tribute to the serenity and charm of the parks of Westmount." The announcement adds: "But it is also a plea—gentle in form, yet stern in implication—that we cherish our 'green pastures,' those soothing antidotes to the increasing tensions of urban life."

Mr. Mayerovitch is a member of the Westmount Architectural and Planning Commission and a member of the architectural firm of Mayerovitch, Bernstein, Mincoff.

The preview Wednesday evening will be from 8 to 10 pm with the watercolors, acrylics and drawings on view thereafter Mondays to Saturdays from 10 am to 9 pm except for Wednesdays which will be 10 am to 6 pm.

Mr. Mayerovitch is a Fellow of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada and was its honorary secretary. He is a member of the teaching faculty of McGill University and a former visiting professor of architecture at Laval in Quebec City.

He is a member of the Jerusalem Committee, an international body to advise on the replanning of that city. He has exhibited in various places on this continent and abroad and his artistic activities extend to portraiture, sculpture, copper enamelling, puppetry and stage design.

finally surfaced, he said, and added that some people he knew of who left the city during the bombing crisis have decided to come back.

Prices, he said, are still below the all-time high of 1955-56 but the trend, he added, has dramatically changed and the situation is changing from a buyers' to a sellers' market.

He added that there was a growing demand for all categories of housing and said he believed there were still enough people making enough money to want the mansion-type houses located in the upper regions of the mountain.

"The city has a quality of life and a cosmopolitan atmosphere which cannot be found anywhere else on the continent," he said.

That is one factor which attracts people to Montreal, he said.

Vice-President and Director of Marketing James Bottomley claims Westmount Realities has been active in promoting "professionalism" in the real estate business and has helped start courses in the real estate business at McGill University.

Don't "Play politics"

To the accusation that real estate companies encourage high-density development in cities — the higher the land value, the higher the commission — and therefore are a threat to urban house dwellers, he replied that it wasn't a policy of Westmount Realities to "play politics."

"We exist to service the public," he said, "and we attempt to do so within the framework of by-laws which are governed by the wishes of the inhabitants."

He said that Westmount Realities was not a company which dealt in land speculation because it wanted to avoid a possible conflict of interest between servicing clients and speculating.

"We are in fact," he said, "experienced negotiators and our basic purpose is to negotiate the most satisfactory transaction for both parties."

But the business isn't quite as simple as that. Westmount Realities has at least eight departments including commercial, industrial, residential, property management, appraisal, investment, commercial sales and leasing, industrial sales and leasing, and country properties.

Specialized knowledge

Each department requires specialized knowledge and in some cases huge, inch-thick feasibility studies are produced for just one account, describing the possible avenues a corporation could take in its investment in property.

Mr. Bottomley described Westmount Realities' home trade in plan which takes the worry out of a householder selling one house and buying another while guaranteeing sale of the old house at 95 percent of current market value.

Westmount Realities was started in 1910 by a man of rags-to-riches fame, Harold Mills, who began life as an office boy at $15 a month and retired last year on his 80th birthday.

But he was no stick-in-the-mud capitalist, believing that flexibility in the economic system was needed in order that all of people's needs be met.

The newly appointed president of the company, B.D. Baily is also an advocate of flexibility to maintain the quality of life which Montrealers enjoy.

"We have to be ready to readjust to maintain our quality of life," he said.

He added that in the past it was always believed that bigger was better—bigger buildings, bigger cities etc.

Has to stop

"But you just can't go on getting bigger," he said. "It has to stop somewhere."

He said he was frightened to death when he flew to New York. "Nobody smiles. Nobody looks happy. Is this what we want here?" he asked.

He added that he didn't know the answer to the problem.

"How do you stop this? I just don't know."

High-rise living, he said, did something to the way people thought and looked at life.

"People enjoy living in the city, but they enjoy the country, too. Our big problem is to satisfy people's need for both."

High School shuts:

Tuesday strike effect minimal here

Like most government-operated institutions, Westmount's schools and hospitals during the 24-hour general strike Tuesday operated without too much difficulty.

The school which suffered most was Westmount High which closed down about the middle of the morning because, in the words of Principal Noel Hamilton, "we couldn't offer a worthwhile education to the children."

He reported there was no violence between the picketing maintenance men outside the school and the teachers who crossed the picket lines.

"We just found it difficult to operate so we closed for the rest of the day," said Mr. Hamilton. The central office of the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal reported 34 of the school's 56 teachers turned up. Usually four or five would be absent through sickness or other reasons.

Primary schools ok

The two Protestant elementary schools carried on as usual with no trouble between the teachers who crossed the picket lines. Principal of Roslyn School, W.M. Hay, said there was no trouble between the picketers and the teachers as did Ron Haines, staff assistant at Westmount Park School.

Mr. Haines reported that six or seven of the school's maintenance staff picketed the school but there was no attempt at violence and some of the teachers conversed with the picketers before entering the school.

He added that maintenance problems developed during the day.

St. Leon de Westmount School also experienced no difficulties and all but a small minority of students turned up at school. The principal reported that a few picketers turned up just before 9 am but decided it was too cold and went home.

At The Reddy

Medical Director of the Reddy

hospital had to restrict admissions to the more urgent cases and emergencies that there was no lowering of the standards of care to the patients admitted. "Thanks largely to the excellence of the volunteer help, no drastic emergencies emerged," he said.

He added that it was only the men-medical hospital personnel who were involved in the strike and that the doctors and nurses were not involved.

Student-eye view:

How things were inside the school

By CASEY CAMPBELL

Many students found themselves faced with the pleasant prospect of an extra day for Easter Vacation when they arrived Tuesday, only to find a picket line strung across the main entrance of Westmount High.

Hundreds of students simply turned back the way they had come following the example of some 20 teachers who refused to cross the street, never mind the picket line.

Inside Westmount High, teachers along with the regular office staff were left to cope with 500 students who were told to remain in their home rooms for first period.

A few minutes after 9 am, matters were further complicated by some enterprising individual ringing in a false fire alarm. This act was repeated four times to the great satisfaction, I imagine, of some warped child, with the result that prefects and students willing to help out were posted under each fire alarm bell.

In the meantime, owing to the shortage of teachers, mass subject classes were set up where all students taking the same subject attended one particular class.

We Say

The minority report on constitution is right

IT IS a pity that in the good, hard work of the joint committee of the Senate and House of Commons on the constitution the important observations of Messrs. Pierre De Bane, MP for Matane, and Martial Asselin, MP for Charlevoix, were largely ignored or passed over.

For here are two avowed federalists with special insights into the constitutional needs and aspirations of Quebec. And without downgrading the importance of updating the relationships between Ottawa and all the provinces, we say the committee is deceiving itself and the Canadian people by not meeting head-on the situation of Quebec.

Messrs. De Bane and Asselin, to their great credit, have produced a minority report which should receive priority consideration over the main submission of the special committee itself which, in the words of the two Quebec MPs, "remains seriously incomplete" and silent on the real issue posed by this province.

The seriousness of these omissions is underscored by the fact that the rules of Parliament do not permit the De Bane-Asselin dissent to be officially tabled before their fellow legislators. Such treatment of this skilled exposition of the Quebec case in itself could be a source of rancor to Quebecers already dissatisfied with the seeming contempt of other Canadians for the French-Canadian viewpoint.

LET US say, right off from Anglophile Westmount but nonetheless as Quebecers, that we subscribe to the case presented by the members from Matane and Charlevoix. That case does not, as English-speaking Senators and MPs from other parts of Canada may have surmised, favor Quebec independence. Rather, it is pragmatic recognition that Quebec is different and that there is a strong separatist sentiment in the province.

Thus, the two members feel that both Canada and Quebec cannot withstand much more constant conflict, which has been of long standing, that the country must face up to the possibility of the Parti-Quebecois gaining power—and what then?

If, as we must, update our hundred-year-old constitution and because "politics is concerned solely with reality," it is folly in their view not to allow in the new document some clear provision for the exercise of orderly self-determination. This is held imperative in that neither the Parti-Quebecois nor the staunchest federalist envisions the use of force in the pursuit of either policy. Logically, then, there should be lawful means for pursuing independence; why ignore the matter, in the vain hope that the problem will go away or never arise?

The authors of the minority report draw the parallel to marriage, which is no more endangered by the presence of divorce laws.

"And it could very well happen," they wisely observe, "that if Quebec did have the right to self-determination, it might not make use of it for the very reason that it knew this option existed."

They acknowledge this is a psychological rather than political thought, "but we should not forget that the dissatisfaction in Quebec... is due in part to certain psychological causes such as the frustration experienced by many Quebecers who feel humiliated at living in a society which is not recognized or accepted for what it is by other Canadians."

+ + +

IF THE rest of Canada cannot accept the idea of French-speaking Canada as a distinct "nation" in the sociological sense, there is at least enough in Canada's history and in the phenomena of the more recent "quiet revolution" to demonstrate Quebec's distinct difference, which can be ignored only at peril to an united country.

Recognizing our differences is the beginning of wisdom. Even exploiting the best in our differences can be Canada's strength.

Federalism is not the imposition of uniformity and conformity on the components.

Real federalism is the co-operative joining, at those points where common interests can be served, of different parts—parts which still remain free to maintain and enjoy their difference.

ONCE again we are more than a little peeved with the legal profession. And we refer to the profession rather than an individual lawyer because of their possession of a closed corporate identity which assumes powers to regulate their own way of doing things. Our beef: one recent afternoon, about 4:15 o'clock, we were served out of the blue with a subpoena to appear next morning with payroll records concerning a former employee who was involved in some litigation. We say that the power of the law should not sanctify lawyers' disregard for ordinary courtesy to third parties whose testimony they see, namely, decent notice. The law and lawyers are brought into disrepute by practitioners who can't or won't plan their cases properly and in advance. We argued the matter with this particular BCL's partner by telephone and finally were told we weren't really needed in court after all, and were "excused." The question we put to Bar people: why should busy persons be exposed to the whims of your sloppy and careless colleagues?...

FROM the large pile of releases we receive each week from the Quebec government, this little item caught our eye. We'd thought for some time, in our old-fashioned way, that a good deal of what passes for art these days is, in truth, garbage. Now six Montreal area men seem to have an idea which may capitalize on this situation, perhaps on an artistic ecology or recycling kick. They have been granted letters patent for something called "Art Dump Workshop."...

NOW let there be no hint of political bias, one way or another, about this item. However, when we repaired to our apartment for lunch Tuesday we found in our letterbox a piece of pre-election literature put out in behalf of Michael Arthur Meighen which, quite literally, stinks. The printer of this well-designed piece used a foul-smelling dryer in his ink, quite put us off our mid-day meal. Nonetheless, we could appreciate the slick, three-color, bilingual job asking Westmount constituents to join his campaign, by means of an incorporated reply card. Clever features include the address, P.O. Box 1972 (at Westmount's Montreal 215) and the dialing of M-E-I-G-H-E-N (634-4436) for further information....

Urban development

The problems of whether or not to develop privately owned open land and historical buildings is likely to become one of the most contentious issues over which urban planners and real estate developers are going to lock horns in the course of the next decade and probably beyond.

The Island of Montreal is a natural setting for this conflict: it is extraordinarily rich in buildings and properties bearing real historical significance, and is also one of the fastest growing cities in all of North America. It is predicted that its population could be over six million by the year 2,000 if trends persist. It is also estimated that an additional 400 to 650 square miles will be needed to make way for this rise in population.

This means that the pressure to maximize the existing resources in the central core of the city are going to grow tremendously. It looks then as though, on the one hand, the developers will be seeking means of satisfying our so-called material needs — housing, roads, sewars, schools — all of which require construction. And, on the other hand, the urban planners will be trying to develop solutions to meet the growing problems related to urban living — pollution of the air and water, lack of open spaces, alienation and impersonal relationships.

Growing conflict

This may be rather oversimplified, but it does not distort the nature of the growing conflict.

Personally, I do not envisage a decisive victory by either side. I rather suspect that compromises will have to be made by both, namely by those who measure urban evolution on the one hand by the number, density and size of buildings, and by those who measure it on the other hand by the number of facilities which preserve and enhance the "quality of life."

It happens that several of these historical properties occupying valuable space in the heart of the city's core are owned and occupied by religious orders. One of the largest of these is the property owned by the Gentlemen of St. Sulpice. It has two parts: the lower part being bounded by Sherbrooke street, Atwater avenue and Cote des Neiges road, and the upper by St. Sulpice road, Ramezay road, and Cedar avenue.

Directly below this property is l'Ecole Normale on the southeast corner of Atwater and Sherbrooke. Right opposite is La Maison Mere on the southwest corner. Both belong to the Congregation de Notre-Dame. Nearby is the block surrounded by Dorchester boulevard, St. Matthew street, St. Catherine street and Guy street known as the "Grey Nuns". Off to the north-west and outside the central core of the city is the "Benny Farm", an immense plot of land which is also owned by the Congregation de Notre-Dame; Westmount residents will be familiar with Le College Marguerite Bourgeois on Notre Dame of Grace avenue and with the Villa Maria on Decarie boulevard, both of which lie on the perimeter of the property.

Very similar lines are drawn on the issue of old buildings which are to be replaced by newer, larger and more efficient structures. Here the main thrust of the conservation is toward the preservation of historical land-

Free movies for tiny tots

Youngsters 5 to 10 years of age accompanied by an adult (or vice versa) are invited to an hour of free movie cartoons for the next three Saturday mornings at the Odean Cinema Atwater I in Alexis Nihon Plaza.

marks as a means of enhancing our cultural awareness. A case in point which is well known to all Montrealers is Windsor Station whose demolition is being planned by the Canadian Pacific Railway to make way for a block wide building-complex.

Course for citizens

At the moment, it is clearly unrealistic to expect a group of inspired citizens to obstruct plans such as these through any means other than by arousing public opinion. The federal government recognizes that this will not always serve as an efficient tool in the face of powerful corporate interests.

To improve a community stability to exert greater control over their environment my colleague, Hon. Jean Chretien, shortly will be introducing legislation before Parliament to create an organization known as "Heritage Canada".

This corporation, which will operate with the same degree of independence as the Canada Council, will have as its objective the preservation of our historical, architectural and natural heritage. It will acquire property by way of purchases, donations, and bequests. Although it will be launched with the aid of a generous federal grant, its success will depend on the major role which is being left to the private sector.

I hope this unique opportunity will be used wisely.

After less than two years' work, the proposed new electoral map for the province was submitted to the National Assembly a couple of weeks ago.

The committee responsible has done an extraordinary job. Having decided that 30,000 electors per constituency was the aim, with a 25 percent margin on either side allowed, they have managed to make every riding but one fit into this scheme. The exception, the Madeleine Islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, was permitted to remain with only about 7,000 electors because of its geographic position.

All this means, of course, that we city dwellers are going to get a fairer deal in the next election, as there will no longer be country ridings of a few thousand voters, while in Montreal some had up to 80,000. In addition, six new constituencies have been created on the Island of Montreal alone.

The suggested changes will not affect residents of the City of Westmount, who will remain in the Westmount riding. However, because it was necessary to reduce the size of the constituency, people in both the eastern and western sectors will find themselves in other ridings. If the proposed boundaries are accepted there will be approximately 38,000 voters in Westmount next time, down 10,000 from two years ago.

Blizzard session

In spite of the blizzard conditions in Quebec last week, the Assembly managed to conduct an emergency session to pass legislation which will hopefully produce some order in the construction business in this province.

While this type of drastic action is not necessarily the most desirable method of achieving results, it does have the advantage of being swift. With the government's drive to attract investment, plus the encouraging signs of a pick-up in the economy, we could ill afford to have the various construction sites around the province turned into battlefields.

The new operating rules laid down by the legislation should provide a more settled atmosphere, so the work can be done, while the various unions compete in a positive rather than negative way for membership. A happy Easter weekend to you all!

Passover at the Temple

The Festival of Passover, marking the exodus of the ancient Israelites from Egyptian bondage to freedom under the leadership of Moses, was ushered in at Temple Emanu-El last evening at 6:45 o'clock. Following the Passover worship, the annual congregation Seder feast took place at 7:15 o'clock.

Services this morning were held at 10:30 o'clock. Rabbi Dr. Harry J. Stern spoke on "Let Freedom Ring." Rabbi Bernard Bloomstone and Dr. Stern conducted the service. The traditional Passover music was chanted by Cantor Herman K. Gottlieb and the Temple Emanu-El choir under the direction of Frederick L. McLearn.

The final day of Passover will be observed next Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock, when the annual Memorial Service will take place.

The Festival of Passover is known as the season of Jewish liberty. It is also known as the feast of unleavened bread, in memory of the Israelites' hasty exit from Egypt when all they could carry with them was dough still unleavened. Passover is also the springtime festival which marks the transformation that takes place in nature at this time of the year. The festival symbolizes to the world the message of freedom.

The Sabbath Service tomorrow at 8:15 pm will be held in the Temple Sanctuary when Rabbi Bloomstone will speak on "Counting the Days."

Regular religious school classes following the Passover recess will resume Saturday, April 15, at 9:30 am. The Hebrew school resumes sessions on Monday, April 10 at 4 pm.

The Van Cliburn concert is on Wednesday, April 19, at 8:15 pm. in the Temple Sanctuary. Chairman of this event is Sydney Lithwick, first vice-president of the congregation. A reception in honor of Mr. Van Cliburn will be held following the concert in the Grover Auditorium to which all patrons and sponsors are invited.

The Sisterhood Donor Luncheon is on Tuesday, April 11, at noon. General convenor is Mrs. Bernard L. Isaacs; chairman of arrangements, Mrs. Thomas Shustack. The luncheon will take place in the Grover auditorium.

Szilasi banner is hung

"I believe in life after birth" is the title of the Easter sermon to be given by Rev. E.A. Kirker at St. Andrew's United Church at 11 am this Sunday.

The Church School children will attend the first part of the church service. Special music will be sung by the choir. The chancel will be decorated with Easter lilies. The public is invited to share in this celebration of Easter.

An Easter banner designed by Doreen Szilasi, well-known local artist, hangs in the chancel of St. Andrew's for this season. A symbolic representation, by means of color and texture, the banner begins in a dark, tangled confusion of macrame sinnets, roots and a wool fringe denoting man's conflicts and inner turmoils.

Developing upward, the banner becomes lighter in tone and finer in texture until Holy Week is denoted by five bands of brilliant color. These give way to a golden yellow shimmer, and finally to the purity of white which symbolizes the joy and light of Easter.

The St. Andrew's congregation joins with Westmount Park and Dominion-Douglas United churches in a joint service tomorrow marking Good Friday.

Dominion schedules 2 services

There will be two services observing Easter Sunday in Dominion-Douglas United Church.

At 9:30 am, Easter Communion will provide an opportunity for those who wish to partake on Easter Sunday.

At 11 am, the Joyous Easter theme will be expressed in special music by the choir under the direction of Ted McLearn.

Dr. Douglas Smith's sermon will be: "The Grand Dimensions of Life."

Can't Take It with You is tremendous success

About the most prominent piece of news in Westmount High these days is the tremendous success of "You Can't Take It With You," presented by the WHS Theatre Club.

This three-act comedy by Moss Hart and George C. Kaufman was performed beautifully and through the combined efforts of cast, stage crew, wardrobe and make-up, did not encounter one major problem.

Indeed, following Thursday's performance, the audience demonstrated their appreciation, and the cast received a standing ovation to the tremendous satisfaction and subtle bewilderment of all those connected with the production.

Needless to say, this act succeeded in greatly boosting spirits and confidence, which combined

Jennifer Kazam or Heather Solomon, Room 311.

As a means of familiarizing potential inhabitants of Westmount High with the unending source of inspiring activities and opportunities offered here, a group of Grade 11 students were selected to act as a liaison committee. These students, so far, have visited the elementary schools of Roslyn, Westmount Park and, as of this week, Royal Vale.

The idea behind these visits is quite good. The group tells the younger students a little bit about WHS, delivers club reports and answers questions concerning the school. In this way, the elementary students learn just what they are getting into and Today Unity will be hosting its Gala Easter Party. The day will be filled with "Easter" tournaments and special events following the Easter theme.

The Wanderers, Mustangs and Bruins are champions. Over the weekend they won, respectively, the Senior, Midget and Bantam league contests of the Westmount Recreation Department's 1971-72 hockey program in play at the Westmount artificial ice rink. A week previous, the Mules came out on top of the Mosquito league and the Guards topped their Termite rivals. The Wanderers completed an undefeated season to win the Mayor J. C. Cushing Trophy. They won their 12 scheduled games and defeated the Sabres in three straight games in the play-offs to compile their impressive record. The Mustangs defeated the Hornets by scores of 6-3 and 4-3 to win the 1971-72 Midget championship.

Only one-point ahead

Mustangs, coached by Bobby Hamilton, finished their regular schedule with 21 points, while the Hornets, coached by Ed. Brown, finished one point back with 20. The following players make up the championship roster: Ken Laurie, David Barrie, Alexander Darragh, Derek Reaper, Calvin Hugman, Parker Blake, Andrew Graham, Tom Rothwell, David Brault, Geoff Wickham and Laurence Glickman.

Bruins edged Rangers by scores of 6-3 and 1-0 to win this year's Bantam championship. In the first game, it took three overtime periods and a goal by Brian Ludwick to overcome the Rangers. Leslie Landsberger had scored twice in the first period for the winners, while Antony Kovic and Gregory Skelton had given the Rangers a 2-0 first period lead. Bruce Schreiber had two assists.

In the second game, a goal by Eric Stevenson in the second period was the Bruins marginal victory.

The following players make up the championship roster: Philippe Tisseyre, Leslie Landsberger, Eric Stevenson, John Chipman, Douglas Selby, Duncan Macaulay, Norman Gold, Gregory Baizer, Andrew Malcolm, Brian Ludwick, Peter Robson and Douglas Catterill.

The Bruins were coached by Michael Hogle and James Shapiro.

With the Pee Wees

Huskies took a one-game lead in the best of three playoff games over the Bulls by a 3-2 score.

For the Huskies, Billy Brown scored twice and Ted Stosik once, while James Gow picked up two assists.

Michael Wade scored on a penalty shot and Mark Paskulin scored unassisted for the Bulls.

Greg Lloyd draws trip

Greg Lloyd, who won a gold medallion for earning top money at a Skate-A-Thon in the Westmount artificial ice rink in January for the Inter-Service Clubs Council of Montreal, has since been awarded a trip to Disney World in a special drawing by Jean Beliveau.

Greg's name topped a list of nine gold, silver and bronze medalists from all over the Montreal area.

WIN Westmount Pees win against Rimouski by 4-2

RELAXING AFTER GAME: Following the annual Westmount-Rimouski hockey game, a reception was held at the Caledonia Curling Club for the two teams and officials of the twinned cities last Saturday evening. Left to right: Pro-Mayor Jean-Louis Ruest of Rimouski; Andrew Ferrier, Westmount captain; Marc Bellavance, Rimouski captain, and Mayor Paul A. Ouimet.

The Westmount Pee Wees defeated their twin-city counterparts in the fourth annual game for the Mayor Tucker Trophy here last Saturday by a 4 - 2 score.

Among the many spectators were Westmount Mayor and Mrs. Paul Ouimet and Rimouski Mayor and Mrs. Jean Louis Ruest.

Rimouski opened the scoring early in the first period on a goal by Gerald Dube, assisted by Alain Hudon, and held that one goal lead until the seven-second mark of the second period when Marc Just, aided by Marc Paskulin and Nicholas Kasirer, got Westmount on the scoreboard.

At the 4:01 mark, Paskulin put Westmount ahead, assisted by Jaime Heward. Westmount took a 3 - 1 lead at 2:32 of the third period on an unassisted effort by Andrew Ferrier. Tadek Stosik, who was voted the game's outstanding player, scored for Westmount at the 5:44 mark of the third period, with Heward and Ferrier assisting.

Richard Timmons scored Rimouski's second goal with 5 minutes remaining in the third period.

Banquet, NHL game

Both teams were entertained at a banquet at the Caledonia Curling Club and were then taken to the Forum for the Canadians-Rangers game.

The visitors were overnight guests at the Westmount players' homes.

Representing Westmount were Andrew Ferrier, Tim Bracken, Billy Brown, Marc Just, Brian Fitzgerald, Michel Panet-

Raymond, Marc Paskulin, Phil Seagram, Martin Kossman, Nicholas Kasirer, Frank Stosik, Stephen Chipman and John James Heward, Tadek Stosik, Garland, Coach.

37 turn out for curling

The open night for curlers of Westmount held on Tuesday evening of last week generated much interest.

Thirty-seven people were given introductory instruction and all signified that they would be interested in curling in a Westmount Recreation Department league in the 1972-73 season. Each also felt that he or she could probably arouse interest in two or three neighbors.

As a result of the keen interest shown, the Caledonia Curling Club has once again offered its facilities to the Recreation Department next Tuesday, April 4, from 2 to 10 pm. All curlers, along with their local friends, are welcome to come out in the afternoon or evening or both.

Individual co-operation in turning out will help ensure the curling program for Westmount residents next season.

Instructors, all Caledonia Club members, will be on hand to guide visitors. Good overshoes, slacks, and heavy sweaters will be needed while on the ice surface.

For further information, call the Recreation Department, 932-4293.

ANYONE FOR CURLING?

An invitation to an Open Night from the Recreation Department of The City of Westmount

Curling is fun and good fellowship. It's great exercise. It's exciting and the hospitality is renowned.

To assess the interest of adult residents who might wish to curl, but do not belong to a curling club, the Recreation Department is sponsoring an open night for men and ladies at the Caledonia Curling Club, 11 Hillside Avenue, on Tuesday, April 4, starting at 2 pm to 10 pm.

You are invited to come and try your skill on the ice at Caledonia. You don't need any equipment ... curling stones and brooms are supplied.

Experienced curlers will help to arrange friendly games and will conduct brief instruction periods. You will be initiated into the mysteries of the hack and hog line, the in-turn and the out-turn, and draw and the take-out.

Come out on Tuesday afternoon and evening. Join the friendly group at Caledonia for a rare evening of fun.

FEDERATED APPEAL OPENS HERE: Westmount was chosen as the site for the official opening Monday of the 1972 Federated Appeal for the Montreal area. It took place in Alexis Nihon Plaza. The official launching was done by Mrs. Robert Bourassa, wife of Quebec's premier, seen here lighting the symbolic torch in the centre mall at noon. Miss P. Fleger, a CP Air hostess who is Miss Federated Appeal, stands at left while Jean Richer, former Westmount alderman CNR vice-president and general chairman of this year's campaign, is at right.

Weredale Carnival is success

By DAVID PETERS

The Annual Weredale House Spring Carnival went off very well.

It opened last Wednesday at the Westmount Arena, and the staff once again proved its superiority by skating to a 10-1 victory over the Senior Hockey Team. This was followed by races, prizes and refreshments.

Thursday was an open house, and Weredale welcomed parents, friends and teachers to view the arts and crafts, to watch a game in the gymnasium and to listen to a good beat in the auditorium.

The big night had to be Saturday night, though. This was the dance with music by 'Jahila', composed of Weredale boys Henry Perez, Jim Kerr, Bob Atwell and Paul Davidson, a new group that looked and sounded good. Included in their program were a couple of their own songs. The auditorium was packed, and everyone enjoyed it. Wayne Ragot supplied the vocal renditions of folk, which the audience loved. The evening ended, as did each Carnival night, with refreshments—this one being smoked meat.

The Senior Floor Hockey Team kept up the carnival spirit by downing Tyndale House 26-13. The team looked very strong, with Albert Boucher scoring seven goals for his second consecutive time, Bob Arial scoring six and Richard Deneault, the team captain, scoring four.

Unfortunately, the basketball team dropped their game to Cote des Neiges 54-45.

The NEW Weight Watchers program...if it comes from Weight Watchers you know its right!

Who else but the one and only Weight Watchers' organization would develop an exciting NEW weight-control program?

COST ANALYSTS:WANT TO HAVE TOP MANAGEMENT'S EAR?

That's one of the advantages of working for Schering: we're small enough so that as a key member of our financial staff you can get directly to Top Management with your findings, analyses, and ideas. But we are also big enough and growing fast enough so that there is always room for growth and development.

Because we are growing so rapidly, we have decided to create a new position — Cost Analyst — responsible for all plant accounting functions. Our new Cost Analyst will supervise a small clerical staff in the preparation and analysis of statements projections, cost standards, capital expenditures, and so on.

The man we are looking for will have had three to five years experience in cost accounting and will have an RIA or B.Comm. degree or be close to completion of one of these degrees. Analytical ability is particularly important: this is not just a numbers-posting operation, but one which calls for analytical ability and a talent for writing clear and informative reports for Top Management. The man we are looking for will also be interested in moving ahead over time: at the rate we are growing, we need people with a broad financial background and outlook who are willing and able to grow with the company.

If you would like to talk about this opportunity, please forward complete resume to:

Local firemen learn how to teach

Westmount's firemen who are continually being trained and retrained in their trade may find learning a whole lot easier in the next few years.

Six of the brigade's officers have just returned from an intensive, two-week course at the CEGEP of Vieux Montreal in teaching techniques.

All of the Westmount officers passed with flying colors and were presented with certificates Friday.

Part of the course involved each member of the class giving a lecture and then having his methods "torn apart" by the rest of the class.

Long bounce

Westmount Police are investigating complaints that two $500 cheques were passed early in the year at the Royal Bank at Westmount Square. Westmount Police received the complaint on Monday.

At Westmount Rotary: Meighen makes appeal to keep 'green spaces'

An appeal to preserve open, green spaces in the city was made before the Rotary Club of Westmount yesterday by Michael Meighen at the local service club's weekly luncheon meeting in Victoria Hall.

Among the eight visiting Rotarians listening intently to the young prospective Progressive

Michael Meighen
At Rotary, yesterday

Conservative candidate for Westmount in the next Federal general election was Quebec's Liberal Minister of Municipal Affairs, Hon. Maurice Tessier of Rimouski—Westmount's twin city.

There were also four guests of Rotarians present. Mr. Meighen's address was with special regard to the Sulpician property just east of Westmount, to the north of Sherbrooke street. He reviewed the campaign to preserve that site from commercial construction development and emphasized that "Green Spaces," the informal group of concerned citizens with which he was identified, was not to fight the Sulpician Order in their legitimate rights as property owners.

They had, however, won from the City of Montreal a stay and more study of the problem and the effort was continuing. He said the preservation of green space was a public necessity from the standpoint of public heritage, preserving something which has made Montreal unique against something—say, apartments—which may be of doubtful advantage to the city economically or socially, psychic benefits, and on ecological grounds.

He appealed to businessmen, Rotarians to join in the cause. At the conclusion he quoted statistics, newly gathered by Green Spaces, which indicated that contrary to common belief Montreal is not so well endowed as other cities with regard to space. Montreal, it was said, had approximately two acres per 1,000 persons. Toronto has seven acres and, surprisingly, New York City, 5.7.

President Russell King thanked Mr. Meighen, who was introduced by Frank Carlin. Next Wednesday's meeting will be a family day, for wives and children of members.

Cyril Dendy to head Rotary

Cyril Dendy, former chief of Boy Scouts in Quebec province, yesterday was named to be the next president of The Rotary Club of Westmount.

The club opened its annual general meeting during the course of luncheon, elected five new directors by acclamation for two-year terms, then adjourned the formal meeting to the end of June, when the Rotary year ends.

Elected directors were Hunter Wilson, Philip Page, Maurice Robinson, John Perry and Gordon Cormie.

Later the directors met and unanimously elected, to take office in July, the new president, Robert Love as vice-president, Tom Potts as secretary and Gerald Stephens (re-appointed) as treasurer.

Car fells man at Sherbrooke and Claremont

A 77-year-old Montreal resident was knocked down but not seriously injured Friday about 12:30 pm as he walked across Claremont avenue at Sherbrooke street.

Israel Lief, 77, of Montreal, was taken to the Queen Elizabeth Hospital by Westmount Police patrol car suffering a bump on the head and injuries to his left hand. He was released after treatment.

Mr. Lief was struck by a 1968 Plymouth driven by Edward Lyness, 51, of Chomey. The car was attempting a left-hand turn from the northbound lane of Claremont avenue to head west on Sherbrooke street when the accident occurred.

The car was turning on a green light and the driver did not see Mr. Lief until it was too late.
