To form new cabinet Tshombe is fired as premier of The Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters) — President Joseph Kasavubu today dismissed Premier Moïse Tshombe's transitional Congolese government and named Evariste Kimba to form a new cabinet.

Leopoldville radio said Kimba, 39, had accepted the call to form a new administration.

He is the leader of the regional Balubakat party, which is a member of the newly-formed anti-Tshombe Front Democratique Congolais.

Kimba served for three years as foreign minister under Tshombe during the latter's secession of Katanga province from the Congo.

Kasavubu announced Tshombe's dismissal in a speech before a joint session of the Congo Parliament.

The president said he had forced the resignation of the Tshombe government over its objections.

Tshombe staged one of the big surprises of African politics last year when he returned from self-imposed exile in Spain to become premier.

His mandate was to head a transitional government to handle economic development and the restoration of peace in areas held by insurgents and to prepare the Congo for elections.

Tshombe's party won about two-thirds of the 166 seats in National Assembly elections.

But the convening of parliament was delayed after a court ruled there were irregularities in the voting in some provinces and ordered new elections.

Kasavubu's action followed national elections in the Congo in April and the later establishments of the Front Democratique Congolais party headed by Interior Minister Victor Nendaka.

The FDC backs Kasavubu's concept of a national union government and is strongly opposed to Tshombe and his Convention Nationale Congolais (C.N.C.) party.

QUEBEC (CP)—The trial of Moïse Darabaneer of fraud charges involving $115,000 was postponed yesterday to Oct. 25.

The postponement was granted by Judge Achille Pettigrew of Sessions Court who said an accused has a right to a full defence. Darabaneer's lawyers, newly arrived on the case, had requested the postponement.

AN KHE, South Viet Nam (AP)—One battalion of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division remained in contact with the Viet Cong in the Suai Ca valley of the Central Highlands today, but the rest of the big American force was pulling out.

Maj. Gen. Harry Kinnard, commander of the U.S. Army's newest and most mobile division, said the Communists apparently were defending their wounded and would fight until they could carry them away.

Queen gets Rhodesia report

Rhodesian cabinet meets

SALISBURY (Reuters) — Prime Minister Ian Smith met with his cabinet for three hours today but declined to say later whether they had reached any decision on the explosive issue of Rhodesian independence.

The prime minister reported to his cabinet on the abortive talks in London last week.

The cabinet meeting followed an unexpected appeal Tuesday night by British Prime Minister Wilson for Smith to accept a new initiative to break the deadlock by receiving a mission of Commonwealth leaders.

Informed observers here believe the self-governing African colony ruled by a white minority government will declare independence unilaterally now that Britain has refused to grant it, but that no date will be set. Britain refuses to grant independence until the majority Negro population is given a greater say in government.

Smith returned from London Tuesday to a hero's welcome and said it was "an even bet" that Rhodesia would be independent by Christmas.

The cabinet was likely to consider the surprise proposal by Britain for Smith to agree to an attempt by Commonwealth prime ministers to break the independence deadlock.

Tuesday night, several key commercial and industrial organizations issued statements reaffirming their opposition to a unilateral declaration of independence, which they said would have disastrous economic consequences for Rhodesia.

Britain has refused Rhodesia independence until it provides for eventual rule by the country's Negro majority. It also has said it would be rebellion if Smith declares the country's independence unilaterally.

DYCE, Scotland (CP) — Prime Minister Wilson today reported to Queen Elizabeth on his week-long talks with Rhodesian ministers on the colony's independence crisis.

But after seeing the monarch at nearby Balmoral Castle, he announced there would be no recall of Parliament unless there was a serious development in Rhodesia.

Speaking to reporters before flying back to London, Wilson said the purpose of his visit to the Queen had nothing to do with dissolving Parliament for a general election. There was earlier speculation that this was one of the reasons for the visit.

The premier added that he would hold a meeting of his cabinet later this week.

All the signs at present are that Wilson intends to hold on to power until spring or autumn next year, when he hopes to benefit from improved economic conditions in seeking a fresh mandate for a full five-year term.

At the moment, indications are that his main preoccupation is with Rhodesia.

Wilson in a televised speech carried by radio to the 21 Commonwealth members, including Rhodesia, warned Tuesday night that the threat by the self-governing colony's white minority rulers to break away from Britain "may be dangerous not only for Rhodesia but for a far greater area of Africa."

The peril "May extend even wider and involve the whole world," he said.

JUST PROTOCOL? Following the broadcast, it would be normal constitutional courtesy for the prime minister to inform the Queen, as head of the Commonwealth, of the proposal he outlined calling for mediation by Commonwealth leaders.

Wilson said he made the proposal in a message to Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith, who returned to Salisbury Tuesday after the collapse of week-long talks with British leaders in London.

Wilson said he urged Smith, if he continued to reject independence on Britain's terms, to agree to a new Commonwealth initiative by a mission of senior Commonwealth premiers, representing all the prime ministers, presidents and peoples of the Commonwealth, to see if agreement could be reached.

The British premier warned that a unilateral declaration of independence could start a chain reaction in Africa of which no one could see the end.

He is believed to have made his decision following a caucus of some 200 supporters Monday night but Tuesday he said that certain details had to be ironed out before he could make the plunge officially.

And the Liberals are holding their nominating convention at the St. Francis School, Bowen Street South, Thursday evening, at which time they hope to restore some semblance of order to an extremely confused situation.

In the meantime two of the three candidates already entered in the race — Independent Gerard Chapdelaine and Creditiste Philippe Lord — are going ahead with preparations to open their campaigns.

The Creditistes plan a bang-up affair tonight in Christ Roi church hall in the South Ward at which the principal speaker will be none other than Raoul Caouette, the fiery leader of the Quebec group who represented the northern riding of Ville-neuve in the last Parliament.

He will be accompanied by several candidates from the district, including Henri Latulippe, former MP for Compton-Frontenac; Lionel Besudoin, candidate in Richmond-Wolfe; and Andre Fortin, candidate in Drummond-Arthabaska.

Mr. Caouette had been scheduled to speak in Coaticook tonight but the meeting was transferred to Sherbrooke. Mr. Chapdelaine, who was elected in 1962 and 1963 as a Social Credit candidate and is running as an Independent in the present election, has announced plans to open his campaign Sunday. Exact plans for the campaign opening will be announced tomorrow.

Speaking in Thetford Mines last night, Raoul Caouette explained Social Credit monetary theories for the first time in the current campaign.

He suggested that the Bank of Canada should distribute a total of $15,000,000,000 in dividends to Canadians.

The gross national product will reach some $50,000,000,000 this year, he said, while personal income will total $35,000,000,000. The $15,000,000,000 difference, distributed as dividends to individuals, would allow Canadian to buy the production represented by the gross national product.

Canada does not need plans to increase production, he said. What it needs is to increase purchasing power. Automation has created a problem the old parties cannot solve.

"Only Social Credit with its national dividend, its monetary reform, can find the solution," he declared.

NOBODY KNOWS? Nobody, but nobody, knows what may transpire when the Liberals meet tomorrow night to select their candidate. Officially nobody knows how many candidates there will be, if any.

Jacques Lagasse, NP, announced last week that he was the official Liberal candidate in Sherbrooke, an announcement that was challenged by many party supporters who claimed the selection of a candidate must be made by a convention.

Lately there have been reports that Mr. Lagasse might withdraw from the campaign for personal reasons but up to this morning he could not be reached for comment.

Some other probable entries have been mentioned including Roger Gingaes, president of the Sherbrooke County Association of the Liberal Federation of Canada (Quebec), and Ald. Paul Gervais.

But all prospects explain politely that they are not campaigning for the nomination. Rather they are reluctant to undertake the responsibilities connected with the nomination. Their definite decisions will be made known only Thursday night.

UK Tories meet BRIGHTON, England (Reuters)—The annual four-day conference of the opposition Conservative party opened here today with the party leader, Edward Heath, set for a major campaign to consolidate his position.

The campaign was underpinned by Heath's confidence that the biggest threat to his authority—a right-wing revolt over the controversial Rhodesian independence issue — has been averted.

Anti-Red move KUALA LUMPUR (Reuters) The Indonesian government itself has made its first move against the country's Communist party, some of whose members were believed to have been involved in the Oct. 1 attempted anti-government coup, Radio Malaysia said today.

The radio said government transmitters in Jakarta broadcast an order banning one Communist youth group and suspending another, along with 14 institutions of higher learning.

Bedford welfare court judge named

Judge Roger Bouchard, of Sherbrooke, has been chosen as presiding judge at the new District of Bedford Social Welfare Court on a possible temporary basis.

Judge Bouchard of the Sherbrooke Social Welfare Court will continue his duties here and travel when required to the new court which is to be located in the Granby city hall, Sherbrooke Social Welfare court officials said.

Inaugural ceremonies for the new Court are to take place next Friday at the City hall in Waterloo, it was announced today.

A meeting was to take place in Granby this afternoon to choose court officials, such as Crown Prosecutor and court clerk for this court. Also to be determined is how often court should convene in the district of Bedford.

Quebec body hunters move to north today

QUEBEC (CP)—The search for persons believed murdered by members of a Quebec arson ring will spread this week to the Lake St. John region north of Quebec City, a provincial police officer said Tuesday.

Police will seek to recover the body of Maurice Garneau who disappeared in 1957 and is thought to have been the first of seven persons known killed in an underworld purge, said the officer, who asked not to be named.

Up to now, the QPP search for gangland victims has been restricted to the Montreal, Quebec City and Eastern Townships regions. Lake St. John is some 120 miles north of Quebec City.

Police, who have already uncovered four bodies, are conducting their search accompanied by a handcuffed man.

Tuesday, police sought the body of Paul Nadeau in the St. Nicolas region, near Quebec City, and that of Maurice Gingras near St. Ferdinand in the Eastern Townships.

The bodies of Redempteur Faucher, 47, and Paul Brie, 44, both of Quebec City, and that of Alberic Bilodeau, 52, of Ste. Marie de Beauce, have been uncovered at St. Gilles de Lotbiniere, some 30 miles from Quebec City.

Another body was discovered last Thursday by police who were accompanied by the same handcuffed man. The corpse, that of Paul Chandonnet, 28, was found in woods near the village of Ham Sud, Que., north of Sherbrooke.

All parties hop on bandwagon promising form of medicare

Prime Minister Pearson made his first campaign appearance in Quebec and Conservative Leader Diefenbaker commented on the medical care issue for the first time Tuesday.

Nominations closed in 21 remote ridings with 73 candidates in the running. New allegations came to light in the affair of the "Social Credit six." All in all, the election battle was warming up.

Mr. Diefenbaker told 1,000 persons in Medicine Hat the government proposal to pay $14 per capita to the provinces to help finance universal medical insurance plans was "brought in without consideration and dumped on the doorstep of the provinces."

The proposal had been hastily put together like the original Canada Pension Plan. He said a Conservative government would implement medical care, but "without representation or bureaucracy."

Addressing a crowd of 1,200 in Calgary, New Democratic Leader Douglas called for immediate introduction of a public compulsory medical care plan. He challenged the government to deny that it has dropped its earlier insistence on compulsory government-run features.

Social Credit Leader Thompson told a press conference in Toronto his party will support a voluntary health care plan,

Fog may lift from the confusion in Sherbrooke riding tomorrow

Maybe things will clear up by tomorrow night in the Sherbrooke County election hassle.

Maurice Allard has called a press conference for this afternoon when he is scheduled to make a definite announcement as to whether he will contest the Nov. 8 federal election, possibly as an Independent Conservative candidate.

He is believed to have made his decision following a caucus of some 200 supporters Monday night but Tuesday he said that certain details had to be ironed out before he could make the plunge officially.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Andy Williams slipped off his stool in mid-show.

NBC's weekly Andy Williams Show shown Monday night is taped, usually several weeks before we see it on our screens. It would have been fairly easy to have re-taped the sequence with guest Bob Hope in which Andy lost his balance and dropped momentarily out of sight. They did not choose to re-tape, however.

We've been watching singers and guest stars climb up on high stools at least once in each variety show ever since Dave Carroway started the whole thing in Chicago.

A pair of high stools, set in stage centre, has come to mean that it is time for the star and his guest to engage in some informal, carefully-written and well-rehearsed persiflage leading up to a song.

The Williams show, incidentally remains one of the most handsome color programs, but after a couple of seasons that predictable format could do with a little revision.

The first national ratings of the new television season, released Monday by the A. C. Nielsen company put CBS' Lucy Show in sixth place. Thus it appears that the popularity of the comedy series has not diminished with the departure of Lucille Ball's long-time co-star, Vivian Vance.

Monday night's episode, despite a neat scene in a supermarket, was not the happiest romp in which Lucy has been involved. By now the new premise of the show has been thoroughly established. Lucy has moved to an apartment in California and the children have been sent away to school. But Lucy seemed pretty much alone in a half hour in which she was trying to persuade a bachelor neighbor to take her to a party.

It was all broad comedy—Lucy with her heel caught,

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The ashes of Gareth Hughes have been sent to Nevada for burial near the land that he loved.

That had been his final wish. For 15 years he had worked among the Piute Indians as a lay missionary called Brother David. Few were aware that he had once been a movie star.

Gareth Hughes was a Welshman, and like many of his countrymen, he had a flair for the dramatic. He went on stage, joined the Welsh players and came to the United States with the company. The tour was a flop, and Hughes stayed on to try his luck in the American theatre.

One of his first jobs was on a tour with James O'Neill in Joseph and His Brethren. The elder O'Neill was a miserly man who domineered his wife and two sons, Hughes recalled.

The young actor came to Hollywood in 1919 to appear opposite Clara Kimball Young in The Eyes of Youth. He enjoyed a decade of success in films, appearing in long-forgotten features with such titles as Sentimental Tommy, Enemies of Women, Whirlwind of Youth and The Sky Rider.

Hughes didn't survive the transition to sound. He returned to the stage, acting in the Federal Theatre project and playing Shylock at the Hollywood Playhouse and the University of Michigan.

"I finally hung up my acting robes," he said. "I had had enough."

His starring days had netted him little—"I was never the king of actor who could smell money." Always deeply religious, he answered the call in 1942 for a lay missionary to serve among the Puites in northern Nevada. His quarters were an abandoned fort; its most recent occupants were rats and rattlesnakes.

The extent of Hughes' parish was 200 miles of desert land. He travelled by jeep through bone-numbing cold in the winter and 120-degree heat in the summer, christening babies, burying the old, and bringing the comfort of God's message to the sick. The selfless service of Brother David became a legend among the Puites.

Hughes' frail form finally broke under the privations of the desert. In 1958 he was forced to leave the reservation and retire to the Motion Picture Country House in nearby Woodland Hills.

I visited him there one day as he paused between his visits to the sick veterans of the film industry. Gareth lived in a comfortable room surrounded by quartos and folios of Shakespeare—"I collected them in my salad days," he grinned. He also displayed photos of himself as a handsome leading man, a contrast to the wispy white-haired man he had become.

Gareth Hughes continued doing his good works among the sick and retired until a year ago, when his chronic lung ailment required him to enter the motion picture country hospital. He died last week at the age of 71.

ROBERT ROY

Seeking East Angus mayoralty

EAST ANGUS — (Staff) — Robert Roy who will be a candidate in the next municipal elections here will most likely oppose Mayor Herve Maltais.

A delegation headed by John Dunn has asked Mr. Roy to run as candidate.

Mr. Roy is 33-years-old, well established financially and is the promoter of the Roy housing development consisting of 25 new houses. Mr. Dunn says he was president of the industrial commission of East Angus and is manager of administration placement of Sherbrooke Inc. and director of John Dunn Assoc. Inc.

Addressing the delegation, Mr. Roy said it is necessary to have a dynamic town council to develop East Angus industrially and prevent youth from leaving the town to seek jobs in Ontario and United States.

"I will set up my program in three sections and I will make them known to you little by little. I am meeting with associations to discuss and cooperate with them to solve their problems," Mr. Roy said. "If I become mayor, another manufacturer will be soon established at East Angus," he said.

Extinguish fire

A short but furious fire caused $500 damage to a small garage at 832 Ontario Street last night. The fire raged for only five minutes, from 8:35 to 8:40, but the firemen were on the scene for nearly an hour. The garage belonged to Laurent Lambert. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

Subject promotion will be new system

By IAN MACLEAY
 (Director of Studies, ET Regional School Board)

In the last article we began to outline a system of organization of the high school curriculum called subject promotion. It had been noted that a student under this system is promoted not by grade, but by subject. On the surface this would seem like a rather simple innovation but the implications are important and far-reaching.

Let us examine some of the features of this system which, incidentally, while relatively new in Quebec, has been used for many years in British Columbia and Alberta and is more or less universal in the United States.

The main features of this system are as follows. The student is promoted on the basis of success in an articular subject—not on success in a grade as a whole. Various subjects called "compulsory subjects" are taken during each of the five years. (Which subjects will be compulsory has not yet been determined but they would certainly include English and French.)

Other subjects are taught in one year (e.g. chemistry, biology and algebra) and are referred to as "elective subjects". If a pupil fails a compulsory subject he must repeat it; if he fails an elective subject he may repeat it.

Strike at U of S averted

A meeting arranged for yesterday afternoon by administrators of the University of Sherbrooke between Empire Maintenance and its union officials obtained desired results and a strike planned by maintenance men was averted. The 15 maintenance men contracted out to the university were to have gone on strike at 4 p.m. yesterday.

Salary increases of $3 weekly per man were promised along with a new three year contract. The contract is expected to be signed today. Men employed by Empire Maintenance who worked for the firm less than a year are now receiving $63 per week. Those with over one year service are presently receiving $65 per week, said Raymond Legendre, an official of L'Union des Employés de service d'édifice (PTQ-CTC).

Beginning June 1, 1966 these salaries are to be augmented by $3, to be further raised to $69 and $71 on June 1, 1967, said Raymond Legendre, union negotiator.

The maintenance employees at the University of Sherbrooke are also to receive two weeks paid vacation, according to the new agreement reached.

Negotiator Raymond Legendre said this morning that he was in discussion with university administrators last night at 5 p.m. when the maintenance men were to have come to work but because details had not completely been ironed out, he asked that they return to their homes and report for work at 7:30 p.m. This they did, he said, and there was no strike.

At the Walter M. Lowney's plant men are still picketing today according to Mr. Legendre. No negotiations have as yet materialized.

The strike by 25 maintenance men at the Walter M. Lowney plant began Monday night at 7 p.m. They are seeking higher wages. The men are employees of Empire Maintenance (Sherbrooke) Ltd. and are contracted out to Lowney's.

Re-elected to the RC school board

Francois Thibault was re-elected in the East Ward last night as commissioner to the Roman Catholic School Commission of Sherbrooke by a 296 majority over Gerard Pelletier. In the Centre South Ward Leonard Desautels won by a 40 vote majority over Wilfred Giroux.

Of a possible 1600 voters in the Centre and South Wards only 40.7 per cent of the eligible voters voted in the election yesterday.

In the East Ward only 38.5 per cent out of a possible 8,895 voters cast their ballots, votes while his opponent gained 1,517 votes.

The new members will be sworn in at the next meeting of the Catholic School Commission scheduled for October 19.

REGIONAL SCHOOL DETAILS EXPLAINED — Three officials of the Eastern Townships Regional School Board endeavoured to explain the ramifications of the regional school system to teachers of the Sherbrooke County Teachers' Association last night. From left to right: Dick Turpin, director of Guidance; Ronald Holden, president of

Curriculum and guidance at regional school discussed

Ian MacLeay, director of Studies for the Eastern Townships Protestant Regional School Board, and Dick Turpin, director of Guidance, discussed and answered questions of system as it related to their specific jobs at a meeting of the Sherbrooke County Teachers' Association last night at the Sherbrooke High School.

Mr. MacLeay pointed out what an exciting phase education in Quebec is undergoing. He said that the new regionalization plan was not merely a revision of the old system, but would leave them equipped to support themselves and to be retrained. He added that it was not the aim of the schools to train a young man for a particular job in a particular industry. Mr. MacLeay said that the regional school was to provide each individual student with as much education as he could absorb, especially in the fields in which he was proficient.

It would be easy, he said, to use the curriculum designed for the Montreal schools, but not practical, and not in keeping with the plan.

Mr. MacLeay went on to say that the curriculum in the regional school would always be flexible, always changing to adapt to the changing times. "We cannot do this," he said, "without the co-operation and suggestions of the teachers."

There would be no dead end courses or segregation of youth, Mr. MacLeay said. "We are not planning a trade school," he said. "It is the aim of the new schools to provide students with an education that would leave them equipped to support themselves and to be retrained. He added that it was not the aim of the schools to train a young man for a particular job in a particular industry. Mr. MacLeay said that the regional school was to provide each individual student with as much education as he could absorb, especially in the fields in which he was proficient.

Tailoring the education system to fit the needs and abilities of the individual student is

Mr. Turpin's job. In his address to the teachers, Mr. Turpin elaborated on his duties as director of Guidance. The new regional school would have to have a good number of trained guidance counselors to assure that each student is gaining full benefit, he said. "These people would have to come from the teaching staff."

"Guidance is not advice," he said, "it is a means of showing a student the way." The most important means by which this can be achieved, he said, was through individual counselling.

The counsellor, after having consulted the teacher and after studying the results of tests, would have a number of personal conferences with the student and the student's parents. At least 50 per cent of the counsellor's time, he said, should be taken up with this kind of work.

He stressed the important relationship between teacher and counsellor. The teacher is the only one who can accurately

Rotary a search for challenges

Rotary is in a never-ending search for new projects and challenges. Rotarians and farmers were told by guest speaker E. Kenneth Switzer last night at the Sherbrooke Rotary Club annual rural-urban meeting held at Waterville's United Church Hall.

Farmers of the area were guests at the meeting.

Mr. Switzer was visiting from the United States where he is head of service to district governors and clubs, United States and Canada zone, Rotary International.

Juvenile delinquency, the rising crime rate, what to do with more leisure time and men who must retire at a certain age but are still active are some of the problems which Rotary might well be concerned with, Mr. Switzer noted.

What does Rotary mean? Mr. Switzer asked.

It is the goal of becoming a community, national and international levels, Mr. Switzer pointed out.

Beginning as an opportunity for acquaintance, Rotary grew to demonstrate its worth to the community and make it attractive for new members to join.

Members must be of good character and good business or professional reputation to join the club. They must also be at the top of their business or professional organization.

Rotary clubs throughout the world number 12,173, Mr. Switzer said. There are 580,000 members in the 129 countries. During the past year 65 new clubs have been formed in 29 countries.

Two men enter guilty pleas for Bromptonville holdup last week

Two Bromptonville men pleaded guilty yesterday before Sherbrooke Court of Sessions Judge, Redmond Hayes, on an armed hold up charge.

The two men, Robert Couture, 21, and Andre Lapointe wearing masks held up Richard Roy of Bromptonville and stole $475 on October 8.

The two men are set to appear for sentencing in court on October 25.

Albert Chataigne, of Granby, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving yesterday before Court of Sessions Judge Redmond Hayes.

Judge Hayes fined Chataigne $200 and court costs. The accused also had his driver's licence suspended for six months.

Joseph Charland, who was charged with dangerous driving pleaded guilty before Judge Hayes, was sentenced to $100 fine and costs. The accused driver's licence was suspended for six months.

George Stevens, who was charged with impaired driving on October 10, pleaded not guilty before Judge Redmond Hayes in Court of Sessions yesterday.

When Stevens was arraigned bail was set at $300. Yesterday, bail was raised to $500 cash or $850 property.

The trial is tentatively set for October 14.

A 15-year-old boy and a 17-year-old charged with stealing two cars and a hit-and-run accident appeared before Social Welfare Court Judge Roger Bouchard yesterday.

According to a Social Welfare Court clerk the two boys allegedly stole a taxi in Asbestos and drove until it was out of gas in Danville. In Danville they stole a pick-up truck and drove it into a ditch. A farmer helped the two boys get the car out of the ditch. They went on to

Wants house torn down

Instructions were given by Ald. Everett Nicol at Sherbrooke city council last night to have a house located at 300 Belvedere Street torn down by its owners by Monday or the city would tear the house down, and charge the owners for the cost.

Mr. Nicol said that the house is a fire hazard and should be taken down immediately.

Last night the building inspector, Aime Gagnon, asked authorization to demolish the building or at least barricade the place.

Mr. Nicol in urging the council to give this authorization said that young children play in the building and the house is dangerous to the children.

CANCEL LATE PLANS

LONDON (CP)—Plans to extend BBC radio broadcasting round the clock have been dropped because there are too few night listeners to justify the expense. At present the last of the BBC's three networks goes off the air at 2 a.m.

Drummondville where they collided with another car.

The boys were willing to "settle without the police" clerk said. But when the other driver did decide to call on police the two boys left and were later picked up by police.

The younger of the two is being detained until the end of the month when court officials will decide in which protection home the boy will be placed.

The older of the two is in jail as he has a record it was learned. His sentence is being postponed until October 15.

Two girls 15 and 17 who ran away from their Sherbrooke home two weeks ago, were arrested in Pierrefonds, a suburb of Montreal, Monday evening a Social Welfare Court official said today. An agent from the Sherbrooke Juvenile Court was sent to Pierrefonds to pick up the girls.

A thirteen-year-old Sherbrooke boy is being detained in Sudbury, Ontario. The boy went to Montreal and from there hitch-hiked to Toronto where he had relatives. He then hitch-hiked to Sudbury where he was arrested. Sherbrooke Juvenile Court Clerk Gerard Besette said that an officer of the court was on his way today to bring the youth back.

The city's business

To rent a garage for city's trucks

Sherbrooke City Council decided last night to rent for one year a garage from Quebec Central Transportation Company, for the use of the city trucks. The monthly rent would be $370.

The firm of Deziel and Dubois was awarded the contract for electrical works on the Sherbrooke Library, last night. The contract is for $3,611.

Tenders were called for the work on the library, and two bids were received, Beaudry Electric for $3,725 and Deziel and Dubois for $3,611. When tenders were opened it was discovered that Deziel and Dubois did not include their cheque, 10 per cent of the price they were willing to accept the job at.

When the firm Deziel and Dubois was notified by Aime Gagnon, the building inspector, a certified cheque was presented to Mr. Gagnon. Mr. Gagnon stated in a letter, that the submission of the Deziel and Dubois firm met the qualifications.

The Red Cross Society, which is holding its blood donor clinic from November 8 till 11, received permission last night to have the parking meters closed off near the Belvedere Street Armory so that donors can park.

L'Union Theatrale de Sherbrooke (The Sherbrooke Theatrical Union) asked city council last night if they could make use of the "pocket theater". It was decided accommodation would be found for them, possibly one night a week.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Sherbrooke Y's Men's Club received permission from the City Council last night to hold their "gas days" on October 15 and 16.

It was decided last night that Sherbrooke Three Minute Car Wash will wash the police cars for the next year. It was found that the Sherbrooke Three Minute Car Wash gave better service even though its bid to wash the cars was $59 more than the offer made by Belvedere Car Wash which submitted a bid for $2,916. The Three Minute Car Wash submitted a bid of $2,975.

Permission was granted last night for Joseph Vaillancourt to transfer his taxi permit to Lionel Croteau. Ald. Everett Nicol said that the requirements were met and therefore there was no objection.

Permission was asked and granted last night for the five fire captains to attend a course for fire officers from November 29 until December 4 in Sherbrooke.

E. Morin and Fils Inc. accepted $810 from the City of Sherbrooke for a right of way to the firm's property south of the CPR tracks. The right of way will be used to install a 72-inch sewer pipe.

Gerald Aube accepted $200 from the City of Sherbrooke for the right of way on his property on Four Pines Street for installation of a similar pipe. It was also noted that it would be necessary to replace the garage, the fence, and anything else that needs replacing.

Ald. Marcel Savard suggested to city council last night that lights be installed that would light up the complete city hall facade. The lights would have to be installed at or near the ground and point upwards. No decision was taken.

room for both industry and nature reserves in the large sprawling parks. But, by law, nothing under 5,000 acres can ever be developed for industry.

"About 2,000 of our 2,700 parks are under that area," says Mr. Turner.

Another section of the Parks Act provides that for each acre of land turned over to industry, an acre from crown reserves must be turned into park.

"We are making a reserve about every third working day," the deputy minister says. "And we have barely touched the north."

While Mr. Turner and his chief, Conservative Minister Kenneth Kiernan, exude confidence in the parks plan, criticism has been heavy.

Meanwhile, industry is starting to move. Western Mines Ltd. has begun a major copper development in Vancouver Island's Strathcona Park.

A large commercial resort development is planned in a park on Vancouver's north shore.

In years to come, similar projects may be developed in provincial parks from the Al-

FEARS CHANGES

Among the chief critics is Roderick Haig-Brown, a distinguished conservationist and outdoors author.

"It is not a safe act," he says. "You can vary the holdings of parks as the cabinet wishes."

Mr. Haig-Brown says there is no real safeguard against a government turning every applicable park into a class B area.

"We haven't the slightest idea of how the present and succeeding ministers will decide. We need a good strong declaration of policy."

aska Highway to the Gulf of Georgia.

"But our grand total of parks is going to keep increasing," says Mr. Turner. "I don't think our children will ever have to worry about parks."

Mr. Haig-Brown is less positive.

"We may have very good parks," he says. "Or no parks at all."

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Millar, Portland, Ore., who were recent guests of Mrs. Jean Lodge, have left for Norfolk, Va., to visit their son, before returning to the West Coast. While here in Danville, they made visits to relatives in South Durham and Melbourne. Other guests at the same home were Miss Audrey Millar and Mrs. Henry Smith of Melbourne, Mrs. Lizzie Millar of the Wales Home, and Mr. and Mrs. Burton Millar of Ste. Anne de Bellevue, and their son, James, of Bishop's University.

Mrs. B. Atkin, the welfare and health convener. Mrs. W. A. Ladd reported $197.55 was collected by W. I. Members for the Red Cross Drive.

Pennies for Friendship and Share the Loaf were handed in. After the business meeting, Mrs. Burns MacDonald, Education Convener, directed the social program and a period spent in playing Pass Word, was much enjoyed.

Refreshments were served in the dining room, followed by a social period.

BC park policy expects wounds but with concealment of scars

VICTORIA (CP) — With outdoorsmen fretting in the lobby, British Columbia has wheeled its parks policy into the operating room.

The government plan calls for wounds to the wilderness but concealment of the scars.

However, some conservationists maintain the parks patient stands a good chance of dying.

How does the government plan to put industry into parks without putting telltale marks on the wilderness?

Under a new B.C. Parks Act passed six months ago, a certain amount of surgery is allowed.

Surgery, to the recreation and conservation department, means spotting out mineral claims and timber holdings in parks, then waving ahead development.

"You can't throw a man out of his home and you can't toss a miner off his claim," says David Turner, deputy minister of conservation. "It's his livelihood. But you can't have steamrollers flattening hikers either. To protect areas of special beauty permanently, the department puts them in quarantine.

"Nothing can go in there except little footpaths," says Mr. Turner.

Wilderness beaches and lookouts will be kept screened carefully from industrial developments.

Meanwhile construction of industrial roads and plants is supervised by government inspectors.

"We try to keep roads well back from beaches and such," says Mr. Turner.

One of the first parks to go under the knife was 64,000-acre Kokanee Glacier Park in southeastern B.C.

"Kokanee was simply pockmarked with mining claims," says Mr. Turner. "It looked as if it had the measles. So a little surgical work seemed the best thing to do."

INDUSTRY LET IN

Kokanee — an A-class park and therefore untouchable — was opened to industry by a cabinet order demoting it to B class.

Eight of B.C.'s 2,700 parks now are in the B class. But they are the eight largest, covering about 4,000,000 of the 6,329,000 acres of park in the province.

A-class parks comprise 2,300,000 acres and C-class — small community recreational parks — about 29,000 acres.

Africans seeking independence from commerce-ruling Arabians

A Canadian press reporter travelling through East Africa found considerable resentment against Asians who play a major part in the retail trade of the area. Here he explains why.

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN

KAMPALA, Uganda (CP)—The young African zealot gestured angrily toward a cluster of shops—Indian doukas.

"We won't be content until our cities look more like Africa and less like Bombay," he declared emphatically.

His sentiment in one form or another is expressed throughout Uganda, Kenya and Tanzania over and over again as East Africans wage new war of independence—this time against the commerce-ruling Asian traders.

Population of Asians, a term that mainly includes Indians and Pakistanis, in the three former British territories is estimated at nearly 400,000 and they hold a powerful grip on the retail trade in the area of 25,000,000 people.

The number compares with a total European or white population of only about 80,000—and the whites do not generally compete with the African in small stores and artisan trades.

In Uganda, an African boycott against Asian traders five years ago blew up into violence

The result is that, with yesterday's political conflict over white rule put aside, racial friction today is far more sharp than between white and African.

POSES PROBLEM

"The problem of the Asian community is a very serious one—in recent times the most serious one in East Africa," said Amir Habib Jamal, 44.

"The Africans would like to see the backs of them."

Yet it is admitted by many that the Asians played some part in the independence struggle and now perform an important — perhaps indispensable — role in the economy of the country and in professional life.

Observers feel, for instance, that Nigeria in West Africa, with no Asian influence, presents a picture of comparative chaos under independence. On the other hand it is argued that in Nigeria, the Africans will develop more quickly on their own.

The problem in East Africa presents an odd sidelight on Afro-Asian relations, so prominent in the international field. The Indian government has consistently defended the rights of Indians in white-ruled South Africa, but has taken a different attitude to its people in black Africa.

"Africa for the Africans," has been the Indian government's policy in this respect. The late prime minister Nehru said in 1950: "We have declared often enough that we do not want any Indians in Africa to claim privileges at the cost of Africans. . . . They must always put the interests of the indigenous population first."

The Calcutta-educated Jamal, who obviously feels affection for his African compatriots, said Tanzania could more easily cope with the racial problem but for difficulties in the sister countries, Uganda and Kenya.

Tanzania emphasized the importance of performance, merit, experience and skill as opposed to the concept of a strictly "black" Africa or "Africanization."

"It's a matter of attitudes, not rules or laws," said Jamal.

The Asians are by no means Johnny-come-lately in East Africa. They were here long before the Europeans arrived. Not only had Arabs traded down the coastlines from early times but Indians had crossed the Indian

These are the other new Oldsmobiles for 1966...they're luxurious, elegant, exciting, powerful, appealing. And all those things.

They're new. You don't know them yet. But they bring you the best possible references. They're all Oldsmobiles. Which is to say that they're extra-special. Extra-powerful, extra-luxurious, extra-smooth Improved Rocket engines, teamed with smooth Turbo Hydra-Matic transmissions, are available on all full-sized Oldsmobiles. They offer you new interiors, new style seats and carpeting. And you can get familiar Olds luxuries like air conditioning or totally new features like Automatic Level Control that lets you load 550 pounds of load into the trunk and still ride the way you did empty.

Including, and this is a real revolution, if we do say so ourselves, including today's only full-size front-wheel-drive car. The Toronado. There's never, ever, been one like the Toronado. A 425-cubic-inch Toronado engine pours the power through a re-designed Turbo Hydra-Matic Drive, right to the front wheels. Toronado performs and steers and holds the road like nothing you ever tried before. It's an Oldsmobile. You'll pick out the family likeness right away. We hope you'll take the time to come in and see the new Oldsmobiles, soon.

They're very nice cars and very, very new.

Ocean before Vasco da Gama. In fact, it was a Muslim pilot who guided the Portuguese explorer to India in the 15th century.

The building of a railway from the coast to Uganda in the 1890s attracted a large number of Indian laborers to the interior. By the time of the Second World War, they dominated much of the trade and commerce in the three British territories, both in the towns and in the bush.

As British author John Hatch says in his The History of Post War Africa: "In some ways they resembled the Jews of medieval Europe, indispensable a money lenders and traders, but hated for the power this gave them over those who made use of their services."

By 1938 the colonial government, alarmed, restricted Asian traders to towns, but this simply placed African storekeepers in the bush at the mercy of Asian wholesalers.

CREDIT PLAN FLOPPED

"Whatever the government did to help the Africans, it wound up by helping the Asians," an official said ruefully.

Subsequently, a credit scheme was organized for African traders but this ran into trouble because some of the traders used the money to buy new wives and booze.

Now the whole setup has been reorganized on a more efficient basis, trade expertise has been recruited from the neighboring business-wise Sudan, and Africans are making progress.

The visitor, however, is struck by the Oriental look of towns throughout East Africa.

Although much of the Asian energies are concentrated on commerce and the lower-echelon professional areas, a notable exception is the Madhvari industrial group of Uganda which—with huge interests in the Jinja area and elsewhere—contributes in taxes, duty and excise more than 10 per cent of the country's total revenue.

Whatever the alleviating factors, it is generally recognized that the Asians present a distinct problem in East Africa. They are criticized not only for their business acumen and ruthlessness, but for their aloofness from Africans—there is little intermarriage—and for their competition in the professional class.

It has been noted that the only political assassination in Kenya has been that of an Asian member of Parliament, Pio da Gama Pinto, shot last February.

FIRST BIG SLAM IN BIG LEAGUE

Jim starts today by saying: "I had the pleasure of playing with your old partner, Dave Bruce, in California this spring. He was still a great player and his sudden death last month represented the first death among your old team, the Four Aces, which won every major tournament including the first World's Championship and dominated bridge from 1933 until you broke up the team by entering military service the day after Pearl Harbor."

Oswald: "Dave was the first great bidder. He possessed a flair for analyzing what his partner was up to and coming up with the best final decision. Dave was given No. 1 ranking when the Life Master category was established in 1936. I was No. 2. We were partners on the Four Horsemen, the great bridge team that preceded the Four Aces. Hal Sims, who captained the Four Horsemen, had a rule against bidding grand slams, but Dave and I decided not to follow the rule any time we were certain of seven. Today's hand is perhaps the first grand slam ever bid in an important team match. Dave was South and it was before the days of Blackwood. West's interference bid crowded us, but Dave was able to reason from bidding that I had to have the right cards for a cinch grand slam in clubs."

Jim: "It doesn't look as if it were hard to play. I assume Dave ruffed a spade high at trick two, led a trump to his hand, ruffed another spade high, drew trumps and claimed his contract."

No justification for Royal Inquiry

Revelation of a murder-for-hire ring operating in this province allegedly as an adjunct to a wholesale arson-phoney bankruptcy conspiracy has shocked the complacency of most Canadians.

There may be reasons for concern and unrest, but it is not time to engage in a public witch-hunt, the logical result of the creation at this time of a Royal Commission as demanded by NDP Leader T. C. Douglas and some other politicians.

Federal Justice Minister Lucien Carlin stood on firm ground when he rejected the request for such a commission on the grounds it would interfere with the work now being done by his Quebec conferees, Claude Wagner, and his associates.

Only justification for such a Royal Commission inquiry would be the refusal of the law enforcement authorities to act promptly and efficiently in the event that the criminal activities had been revealed by the press or had become public knowledge.

But such a condition does not exist in the present instance.

The whole sorry affair was uncovered by the Quebec provincial authorities acting in conjunction with private investigation agencies representing insurance companies and similar institutions.

Such information as the public did receive was that given out by Justice Minister Wagner following the detention of certain persons and the discovery of the bodies of others. There has been no indication that the law enforcement agencies — either in Quebec, in other parts of Canada or even in the United States — have any intention of relaxing their investigations or that they are seeking any whitewash job.

When and if such a condition arises, there might be reason to appoint a Royal Commission. But in the meantime it is only reasonable that the authorities be allowed to continue their work, unhampered by any outside investigation that would only serve to becloud the situation.

Man can expect 125-year life span

Everybody loves a fat man, the old saying goes. But the thin, wiry people may receive some consolation from surveys which reveal that most persons who live to be 100 are underweight.

So if you wish to live to a ripe old age doctors suggest a four-point program. First, do not overeat. Remember that automation and new techniques require less and less energy for most jobs.

Second, eat well-balanced, reasonably adequate meals, including fresh fruit, vegetables and dairy products. Do not worry about blood cholesterol unless it is abnormally high. Baylor University scientists discovered that 78 per cent of 1,700 people tested had cholesterol counts within the normal range.

Third, eat at regular times. Chew food thoroughly and slowly. Avoid agitation and aggravation, particular at mealtime. Eating should be a period of pleasant relaxation.

Fourth, when tired, irritated or nervous eat sparingly. Stress shortens life, brings on ulcers and heart attacks.

In declaring men could live to be 100, the researchers point out that most animals live five or six times the length of time it takes them to reach full maturity. Man matures in about 25 years, so he should live to be 125 or even 150 if he is subject to the rules that nature applies to other animals.

Like the other animals, man should supplement his reasonable diet with reasonable exercise. It makes the body function better.

New UN member delays flag raising

Visitors to the United Nations headquarters in New York City are informed that the august body comprises 117 members and that the flags of each nation fly above the Secretariat Building.

Most of them take this information at its face value, supposing that their guide knows whereof he speaks. But the more cynical may decide to count the flags, in which case they will discover that there are only 116 on the flagpoles.

This is not, as some may suppose, because Canada's Red Maple Leaf has become washed out by the elements. The Maple Leaf is there in all its faded glory.

The trouble rests with Maldives Islands, a nation of 90,000 located near Ceylon in the Indian Ocean. This country was admitted to the United Nations a few weeks ago but so far has not sent a representative to the United Nations

Assembly. Perhaps the cost is too high for their limited budget. Or maybe they have no complaints, probably the reason because at last reports they had not got around to acknowledging the letter from the Secretary General telling them they had been elected to membership.

And under United Nations custom, a national flag is never raised until an official representative is on hand to supervise the unveiling of his country's emblem.

Reportedly the situation has prompted one British official, looking to the day when Britain may have to sponsor the Pitcairn Island for membership, to speculate on the trouble it might cause.

Pitcairn has a population of 736 and he's afraid if it sends a strong delegation to the unfurling ceremonies, there won't be enough people at home to mind the store.

The destruction of the two-centuries-old order of Knights Templars began 658 years ago tonight—in 1307—when the members in Paris, including the grand master, were arrested. Under torture, many of the members confessed to horrible blasphemies and crimes, which in the eyes of the public served merely to justify the use of torture to find and purify such wickedness. The leaders of the order were burned at the stake in 1314.

How Long Can the Hocus-Pocus Last?

The readers say:

Americans give money, lives in Viet Nam

Dear Sir:
In reply to the letter appearing in your paper of Sept. 30th, 1965 by Mr. Ted Wright, Stanbridge East.

We are amazed we have in our midst a man who knows all the answers to situations such as Viet Nam. He appears to know that a murder by people defending themselves is much more cruel than one carried out by the invading Viet Cong.

It would be more useful for people to remember how much wealth and young lives have been given by Americans in order that men like Mr. Wright may be free to openly criticize them.

All responsible people and Governments are concerned about Viet Nam and other troubled areas. However irresponsible criticism will not cure anything.

Greater sympathy should go to atheists such as Mr. Wright who chooses to live without hope, who are forced to constantly tell themselves and the World that there is no God, yet who must live in constant doubt and fear lest there be one.

FRED C. GREEN, Lennoxville.

How to vote when none is worthy?

Dear Sir:
During the past week I have listened to many "Tongue in Cheek" Politicians on the radio while driving from B. C. to Quebec.

They promise one the Sun, Moon & Stars. How gullible can one be?

One well known politician had the audacity to promise to reforestation millions of square miles of the Prairies at a trifling cost of 2 Billion Dollars—Where does the Conservative party hope to get that kind of money? Can it be that they are thinking of diverting the course of some of our rivers to make them flow into the United States.

The Diefenbaker Regime lives on broken promises so why should we bring them back to office?

What are the Liberals trying to do with Education? Give every Tom Dick & Harry a higher education when 50% of the average brain power will not absorb it.

How many unhappy students are committing suicide, driven to it by the severity of their parents or the ridicule of their teachers and classmates?

It is assumed that automation will mean a loss of 1/3 of the available jobs—Who says so? The Teachers. How do they know?

When we have experienced nothing like it in the year's gone by—History does not advise us what to expect. How can we compare the results of the Industrial Age with the age of Automation? Indeed it might be the reverse—Why should the Liberal Party absorb our hard earned dollars financing too many educational schemes that may not be required.

I am not against education. There is a limit to everything and we have passed that limit. That is why I will not vote Liberal.

The Socialist N.P.D. has no attraction for me although I do believe in the sincerity of Tommy Douglas and feel that he should be heading a different party.

During the past year Real Couette has come out with some bright remarks but I cannot forget some that he made a few years ago.

Now that I am back in Abercorn I will listen to a few speeches from the local aspirants and maybe one of them will change my mind? He will have to be good and not speak with "Tongue in Cheek."

Yours faithfully,
N. E. Atkinson,
Abercorn.

PUBLICAN STILL SELLS LONDON (CP)—The post office's recent ruling that taverns may sell stamps has not affected Leslie Gilbert, owner of the Mayflower pub in London's dockland. Successive landlords since 1880 have sold stamps to sailors who didn't have time to get to a post office. Gilbert also sells U.S. stamps as an extra service for his customers.

SIGN SPEAKS TRUE

ROCHESTER, England (CP) — A traffic sign at the end of a road in this Kent river town reads: "One Way Only." The road leads to the casualty department of St. Bartholomew's Hospital.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — Word among the Grits is that Pauline Jewett's "in trouble".

Now, the nuances of our English language are such that this intelligence could make tongues clack excitedly over the rural phone lines in Northumberland. Especially when the man in the case is dashing, debonair George Hees.

But leave that phone crank be, Matilda! Pauline's in trouble, all right, but not that kind!

The kind of trouble she has, we don't expect to have Pauline Jewett, MP, back in Parliament next January. Because for a candidate to be "in trouble" at election time means that the prospects of winning are not good.

Northumberland is a farm riding on Lake Ontario where the old parties are in close balance and the splinter parties practically don't exist. It has gone Tory eight times since 1917, and Grit six times. Judging by past elections, a mere few hundred votes will tip this election.

Miss Jewett may have some slight advantage as the sitting member, but against that is arrayed the prestige of George Hees, and a general strengthening of the Conservative position and image since the riding went Liberal by only 505 votes in 1963.

Mr. Hees has a family connection with the riding, where he owns a hobby farm with swimming pool and tennis court, Miss Jewett, a native of St. Catharines and an economics and political science professor on leave from Ottawa's Carleton University, is even more an outsider than Mr. Hees.

Some voters in Northumberland may think it somewhat less than gentlemanly of George Hees to try to unseat a lady, but Mr. Hees is playing for keeps, and Northumberland looked to be a likely riding for the start of his political comeback.

How much for keeps is illustrated by a report, which I believe is true, that Mr. Hees offered Mel Jack a three year contract at $50,000 a year to return to his political service. Mr. Jack was Mr. Hees' executive assistant and alter ego when Mr. Hees was a minister in the Diefenbaker government. For what Hees achieved, Mel Jack was in large measure responsible, so that an Ottawa jest of the period was to refer to "The Hees that Jack built."

When the offer was made last month, Mr. Jack was the $35,000 a year executive vice president of the Brewers' Association of Canada. Two weeks later Mr. Jack was made president of the association at $50,000 a year, leaving Mr. Hees' political future in Mr. Hees' not incapable hands.

Mr. Hees, who is a millionaire several times over, was not proposing to pay Mel Jack $150,000 just to win the election in Northumberland. The $150,000 was to be Mr. Hees' down payment on the leadership of the Conservative Party and the prime ministership of Canada.

The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room.

Serve the Lord with gladness: come before his presence with singing. (Psalm 100: 2).

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we praise Thee that Thou dost fill our hearts with joy. We thank Thee for the help Thou dost give us even in little things. Grant that we may be joyous witnesses of Thy love to everyone we meet today. In the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

Sweetsburg Court

Three Sutton citizens face forging charges

SWEETSBURG WARD — Three quick preliminary hearings for two men and one woman charged with forging money orders were held yesterday at the Sweetsburg Court Sessions.

Presiding Judge Patrick Delaney decided in all three cases there was enough evidence for trials which he ordered for the next session of the Criminal Assizes, scheduled to open Oct. 1966.

John Davis, Stanley Davis and Mrs. Stanley Davis all of Sutton are charged with forging eight dollar money orders.

John Davis is charged with forging an eight dollar Canadian Pacific money order which he is accused of buying on July 26 at Sutton. He is charged with adding a zero to make the money order $80.

The accused is also charged with cashing the false document. The prosecution brought to the stand Henry Laporte, a Sutton merchant, and his assistant, Arthur Brouillett, who testified that the money order was cashed in the store.

Mrs. Stanley Davis is similarly charged with forging an eight dollar money order which she is accused of buying on Aug. 4th in Sherbrooke.

Conrad Groulx of Warden testified that the next day the accused bought $10 worth of meat and the rest he gave the accused in cash.

Mrs. Stanley Davis said that her husband received the CPR money order as he worked with that company. The prosecution then brought a CPR official from Farnham to the stand.

Stanley Davis is charged with forging an eight dollar money order to $80 and receiving cash for it. He is accused of buying a money order for eight dollars at Foster on July 23, making it payable to John Davis. He is then charged with cashing the money order at a Warden store where he is accused of buying a $15 watch. The rest he is charged with receiving in cash.

The preliminary hearings were conducted in French but since the accused are English speaking, the lawyer acting for the prosecution translated most of the witnesses' testimonies in all three hearings.

By DAN KARON

All three defendants had nothing to say at their voluntary hearings held immediately after the preliminary hearings. But Stanley Davis, who faces another charge, appeared a few minutes later and told the court that next Monday he will plead guilty to all charges against him.

Meanwhile both Stanley and John Davis are free on $950 bail in property while Mrs. Stanley Davis is free on a personal bail.

An 18-year-old youth who stole $444 to buy a car was sentenced to 15 days yesterday at the Sweetsburg Court of Sessions before Judge Patrick Delaney.

Francois Ferland, of Dorchester, pleaded guilty with explanation to a charge of stealing money at Granby.

Ferland told the judge that he was only trying to save some money for a car and asked the judge for a suspended sentence.

The money was stolen during the night of Sept. 29-30, the crown prosecutor told the court. This constituted a robbery of a serious nature, he added.

A Tracey man with a record of three criminal offences was sentenced to eight months in prison yesterday when he pleaded guilty to stealing merchandise valued at $85.

Robert Demers was charged with robbing a Granby restaurant on Aug. 26th. Presently Demers is awaiting sentence on another charge, the crown prosecutor said. He has a record of three other previous criminal offences.

A Granby man who pleaded guilty to stealing a telephone with his brother was sentenced yesterday to 15 days in jail.

Alderic Fournel had pleaded guilty to stealing the telephone from a Bolton Centre booth on June 16th. The telephone is valued at about $80, a Bell Telephone Company official had told the court at the preliminary hearing.

The brother of the accused also received a similar sentence, the court was told.

A Bedford man chose preliminary hearing yesterday on two charges against him, one of threatening a man's life and the second of conspiring to commit robbery.

Presiding Judge Patrick Delaney tentatively set the hearing dates as Nov. 8th and set bail at $2,000 cash.

Kary Kyling is charged with illegally threatening Claude Matey on July 13 to abstain from telling the police of a wrong doing, and to conspiring on July 7th with two other men, named as Marcel Falcon and Claude Matey, to committing a theft in Bedford of a truck valued at over $100.

Two Montrealers, both with long criminal records, pleaded guilty yesterday to committing a robbery which they explained they had to make in order to get a car to drive back to Montreal.

Judge Patrick Delaney will sentence the two men next Monday and meanwhile they are being held without bail at Sweetsburg Jail.

Jean Gaudet and Andre Caron both pleaded guilty with explanation to breaking and entering a Granby private home Oct. 3.

Caron told the judge quite unashamedly they were out of money and hence had to break into the private home in order to get to Montreal.

Gaudet told the judge he had a hard time contacting a lawyer to defend him. He said he was refused personal bail to do so and when he finally contacted a lawyer, the lawyer did not show up.

The lawyer acting for the Crown explained that both men could not be liberated on personal bail as both had long criminal records.

Gaudet had a record of five previous offences and Caron of four infractions. Gaudet was twice given suspended sentences in Montreal for small robberies, was sentenced to one month in prison for a Westmount robbery and served a one year and two year sentence for robberies in Montreal.

Caron also had a long list of offences and prison terms served in Montreal.

A Granby man pleaded not guilty to singing a false cheque Aug. 2nd in Granby and a preliminary hearing into the charge is scheduled for Oct. 25th.

Germain Gauthier pleaded not guilty to the charge when he appeared before Judge Delaney and is now free until the hearing on a $100 bail.

The accused is charged with trying to cash the false cheque at 177 Main Street in Granby.

Karl Boomhower of Stanbridge East who had his preliminary hearing last week appeared yesterday for the customary voluntary hearing.

But Mr. Boomhower had nothing to say and presiding Judge Delaney tentatively set his trial date for next week.

Knowlton notes

Brownie meeting planned at church

KNOWLTON — (Special) — On Oct. 16, Saturday, the first Brownie meeting will be held in the Knowlton United Church at 10 a.m.

Anyone interested in becoming Ranger Leaders for the girls here are to contact Mrs. Wm. Russell at 243-6280. At present, there is no Ranger troop. However, as age changes have been made, there is a great need for one. No special training is needed. If there is previous experience, it will be helpful. New ages are 7 to 10 years, Brownies, 10 — 14 Girl Guides, and 14 or over for the Rangers.

DIVES TO FAME

YORK, England (CP) — George Holland's fishing story will probably become the family secret. His bait-can dropped into the river and, bending over a low bridge to pick it up, George dropped his car keys into it. A little farther down the stream, George fell in too and sank the can and keys. He had to call a mechanic to open the car and disconnect its anti-theft alarm.

Hamilton outlines plan for farmers

KNOWLTON — (Staff) — Plans whereby eastern Canada farmers could raise their net incomes and the establishment of an eastern feed grain board were outlined Saturday morning by former agriculture minister, Alvin Hamilton.

Speaking to regional farmers gathered here at the Knowlton High School, Mr. Hamilton said, "As long as 83 per cent of Quebec and 87 per cent of Maritime farmers have a net income of less than $2,000, there is room for the Conservatives" and he outlined a remedy:

- An eastern feed board, similar to the Canadian wheat board would be established to ensure best prices for the eastern farmers' mixed grain and corn.

- A pasture program to encourage scientific use of fertilizers for better beef and milk production.
- Forage banks to store hay for emergencies or time of need.

- A water program whereby better use would be made of surface water thereby eliminating waste of water and storing water resources in case of drought.

- The reorientation of the Agriculture Rehabilitation Act, and make it work. (Mr. Hamilton introduced ARDA in 1962).

- A dairy program which would establish a national dairy commission with a milk board in every province supervising all milk products. These boards would guarantee a $4 minimum per 100 pounds of milk and would reduce the annual federal subsidy from $70 million to $25 million dollars.

- Amend Farm Credit Corporation Act to give better and easier loans and to amend the Crop Insurance Act in order to assure crops to meet livestock demands.

This outline is no cure all by itself, Mr. Hamilton said, but these points will help raise the income of Northern Ontario, Quebec and Maritime farmers.

Mr. Hamilton spoke at a campaign meeting of Heward Graftley, Conservative candidate of Brome Missisquoi. Also present was Clements Vincent, Conservative candidate of Nicolet-Yamaska.

Municipal aid given Bromont

Bromont has been awarded a $121,200 provincial government grant to finance construction of a sewer system, aqueduct, reservoirs, pumping stations and well supplies.

Bromont is one of six Quebec municipalities receiving aid for municipal development, totaling $1,838,979.98. The announcement was made Oct. 8 by Minister of Municipal Affairs Pierre Laporte.

17 groups attend Presbyterian U.C.W. rally

WATERVILLE — Mrs. H. S. Ball, regional vice-president, Quebec - Sherbrooke Presbyterian U.C.W. chaired the two-session Rally held in Waterville United Church on Sept. 29. The theme, Making the Church Relevant Today, was illustrated in the worship services by Mrs. E. Kimmis, Sherbrooke, and Mrs. K. Stafford, Waterville, and in the reports.

Miss M. Swanson, local president, welcomed the 72 women from 17 U.C.W. groups. Mrs. C. Judge, Windsor, conducted Bible study and showed how it can be done effectively on the new adult study book, Jesus Christ and The Christian Life, by Dr. A. B. B. Moore.

Mrs. James Williams, Lennoxville gave an account of the U.C.W. leadership school held at Macdonald college. The spiritual conference for women of the United Church, held at Queen's University in June, was reported by Mrs. S. R. Falconer, Sherbrooke.

An excellent literature display kept Mrs. M. Sicard, Warden, busy selling books.

After Mrs. E. Parkinson and her committee served a buffet luncheon, Mrs. R. A. Cameron, Presbyterian president, gave a commentary with slides on her recent trip to Northern Quebec. These informative pictures showed the church at work in Gagnon, Labrador City, Schefferville and Sept-Îles.

Mrs. C. R. Sutherland, Sawyerville, and her committee reported for the Youth and Adult Fall program. Mrs. W. F. Smith, Melbourne, discussed Stewardship and suggested the groups use the new leaflet, Over and Above Gifts.

The relation of the U.C.W. Purpose to programming was given by Mrs. James Brooks, Waterville. She said the Purpose should be kept before members at all meetings. During the tea period, Mrs. A. B. Lovelace, Lennoxville, gave an illustrated talk on her recent trip to the Holy Land.

Show biz dulled for actress

By CARL MOLLINS
LONDON (CP)—Some of the sheen has come off show business for Sylvia Tysick since the Canadian singer-dancer-actress returned to the West End stage after a short-lived retirement.

Playing the lead female dancer in a sprightly new musical called Passion Flower Hotel has provoked a succession of headaches for the elfin redhead who learned to dance in her native Ottawa and began her theatrical career in Montreal a decade ago.

That her return to the stage has produced problems ironic because, as she says, "I don't really need the work now that I'm married."

Before her marriage here two years ago—to Count Peter van der Stegen de Scherrieck, a Belgian architect working in London—Sylvia needed the work and got it without much trouble.

"Friends used to tell me I had it easy, working for efficient, mainly American, managements," she says. "Since joining Passion Flower I know what they mean. It's been one crisis after another and I've had to struggle for everything."

For a start, the music for the second act of Passion Flower was being written by composer John Barry the week before the show opened a pre-London run in Manchester.

PLAYS SCHOOLGIRL

As a result, Sylvia, choreographer Peter Gordeno and Barry were working out the musical's two big dance numbers on the eve of opening and they had to rehearse up to curtain time.

The show is an adaptation by writer Wolf Mankowitz of a Rosalind Erskine novel about a comically inept attempt by English private-school girls to set up a brothel under the gym for a neighboring boy's school. With that subject, the show was a sellout in Manchester and did well at the box office after opening in London's Prince of Wales Theatre Aug. 21.

Sylvia, a compact 28-year-old just a whisper under five feet tall, plays a pigtailed, bespectacled field-hockey girl of 14 who looks as if she has stepped out of a Ronald Searle St. Trinian's cartoon.

Her partner in one dance number is half her age and in another it's Gordeno, Burmese-born dancer of 22 having his first fling at choreography. Most of the rest of the cast are teen-agers who have enthusiasm but little experience. The result is that much of the responsibility for knocking off rough edges in choreography has fallen on the petite Canadian.

"I've never had to work so hard after a show has opened," Sylvia said after rehearsing one of the dances all afternoon three days after opening. "I was exhausted in the opening because we rehearsed all that day."

GOT JOB BY PHONE

The fatigue didn't show, however. She led the company through a boisterous field hockey dance, stole the scene with a song-and-dance number called Beastly and won critical praise in next morning's newspapers.

Sylvia, who was raised in Ottawa by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Sullivan, and studied ballet there under Nesta Toumae, landed her first professional job by telephone at 18.

"Brian Macdonald, who's now choreographer for the Stockholm ballet, phoned me from Montreal and asked me if I would dance on a television show."

"I asked him if he knew how tall I was and what I looked like. I was the ugliest child-terrible bucked teeth, orange hair and freckles all over my face. He said he didn't know, but it didn't matter."

"As it turned out, it didn't. We all wore masks in that show."

A year later, Sylvia quit her job as an Ottawa secretary, went to Montreal and talked Macdonald into signing her up for his Montreal Theatre Ballet. She won critical acclaim and after two years received a Quebec government grant to study drama in New York under Uta Hagen at the Herbert Berghoff Studio.

She studied four days a week in 1958, commuting to Montreal for a weekly television show called Porte Ouverte on the CBC French network.

WON RAVE REVIEWS

That summer she tried to audition for West Side Story but was turned away as "the wrong type." But when she later auditioned for Jerome Robbins' Ballets U.S.A., the choreographer decided that she was exactly the right type for the role of Anybody's in West Side, which Robbins choreographed.

In the fall, she moved with the show to London and stayed with it here for almost two years. It was then that she met her future husband.

She left to make a half-hour dance film called Hi, Sylvie with actor Stephen Boyd and "some awful puppets," returned to Montreal briefly in 1960, then came back to London to win rave notices as Kim By Bye Birdie.

"Welcome a brilliant new star to the West End," one critic wrote.

After Birdie, Sylvia crossed the Atlantic again to help produce on Broadway Antony Newley's Stop the World I Want to Get Off.

Then her Belgian count persuaded her to return to London and marry him.

"I tried to retire, but not very successfully," she says. She did some television work and played opposite Eli Wallach in Arthur Schisgal's two two-character plays, The Tiger and The Typists, when Wallach's wife Anne Jackson, whom Sylvia resembles, had to leave the stage for several weeks because of illness.

Now back in a fulltime role, Sylvia is disappointed that Passion Flower failed to bloom as it might have. The critics were lukewarm, but most predicted the show would do well at the box office.

Tentative plans have already been made to take the show to New York.

MORE WILL WORK

The world's labor resources, estimated at 1,100,000,000 men in 1960, are expected to reach 1,500,000,000 in 1975.

VALE PERKINS

Mrs. Edward Jones and Randy left Montreal by train for Winnipeg. She was accompanied west by Mrs. J. Wright and little daughter, Beverly, of Edmonton, Alta. who were returning home after a three-week visit to Mrs. Wright's family in Stanstead. Mrs. Jones planned to spend the weekend in Winnipeg with her brothers, Neil and Ben Griesbrecht and their families, before going on to Altona, Man. to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Griesbrecht.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wildi, accompanied by their niece, Miss Trudy Wildi, of Switzerland, motored to Quebec where they spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wildi and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gardner, Haydenville, Mass., accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Homer Gardner to the Vale. Mr. and Mrs. Homer Gardner had been guests of their son Robert and Mrs. Gardner for three weeks.

Messrs. Kenneth Jersey, Larry and Ronald Ethier are attending Trades School in Sherbrooke.

WATERVILLE

Mrs. T. Lawrence, Bury spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. L. Jandron.

The United Church Women of Waterville will hold their fall rummage sale on October 28 and 29.

LOOKS BACK IN ANGER—Henri Fentener Van Vlissingen, the naturalized American who was expelled from Switzerland after he built his house 10 inches too tall, looks across Lake Geneva towards his home. Swiss police escorted him to the French resort of Evian-Les-Bains, across the lake from his villa at St. Sulpice, Monday. Van Vlissingen, who left his wife and four children at the villa, is reported to be planning to re-enter the country illegally to draw more attention to his plight.

Friends honor Ulverton couple at 25th wedding anniversary party

ULVERTON — The Church Hall, presenting a very festive appearance, decorated by white steamers, red asters, gladioli and other fall flowers, and by a large silver twenty-five numeral was the scene of a happy gathering on Oct. 1, when 150 guests surprised Mr. and Mrs. Stokoe on their silver wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Stokoe had been taken out to dinner by their son John. As they entered the hall Mrs. Robert Pariseau, at the piano, played Here Comes the Bride and several appropriate selections.

They were received by Mrs. Arthur Mace, president of Ulverton U.C.W., who pinned a corsage of red roses on Mrs. Stokoe, Mrs. Galen Coote, president of South Durham U.C.W., who presented a white carnation to Mr. Stokoe, and Mrs. Leonard Driver, of Melbourne Ridge, and escorted by them to stand in front of the table.

Winston Doyle, as chairman, extended greetings to the couple of the silver years, and asked that a line be formed headed by John Stokoe, Jr., to offer Mr. and Mrs. Stokoe congratulations. Later a short sing song was enjoyed with Mrs. Cripps and Mrs. Robert Pariseau at the piano, after which dancing was enjoyed. Music was supplied by Mrs. Robert Pariseau, Lloyd Norris, Fred Clarke, with Art Fowler, as caller. The Grand March was led by Mr. and Mrs. Stokoe, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pratte, Montreal, Rev. W. E. Walker and Mrs. Walker, Richmond, Rev. R. A. Cameron, Mrs. Armstrong of Richmond, Rev. Macfarlane and Mrs. Macfarlane, of Inverness Canon Church and Mrs. Church of Drummondville.

At eleven o'clock the guests of honor took their places in front of the long table, centered by the three-tier wedding cake, decorated in white and silver and topped by a circle of white and silver flowers, encircling a large silver 25. White and silver candles in silver holders and red carnations completed the table decorations.

Mr. Doyle asked John Stokoe to present a gift on behalf of himself and his sister in Halifax, who was unable to be present. Mrs. Cecil Johnston, Melbourne Ridge, expressed appreciation and best wishes on behalf of the pastoral charge, Ernest Wilkins, presented a gift from Melbourne Ridge, South Durham's gift was presented by Evan Coote.

Gifts from Rev. Macfarlane, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pratte and Canon Church were also presented. After which a silver colored box, containing money, gifts from friends in Ulverton, Wales Home, Inverness and others was presented by Orville Cinnamon, and a gift from Toronto by Mrs. Francis Doyle.

Mr. Stokoe expressed appreciation and spoke feelingly of how much the thoughtfulness and kindness meant to them.

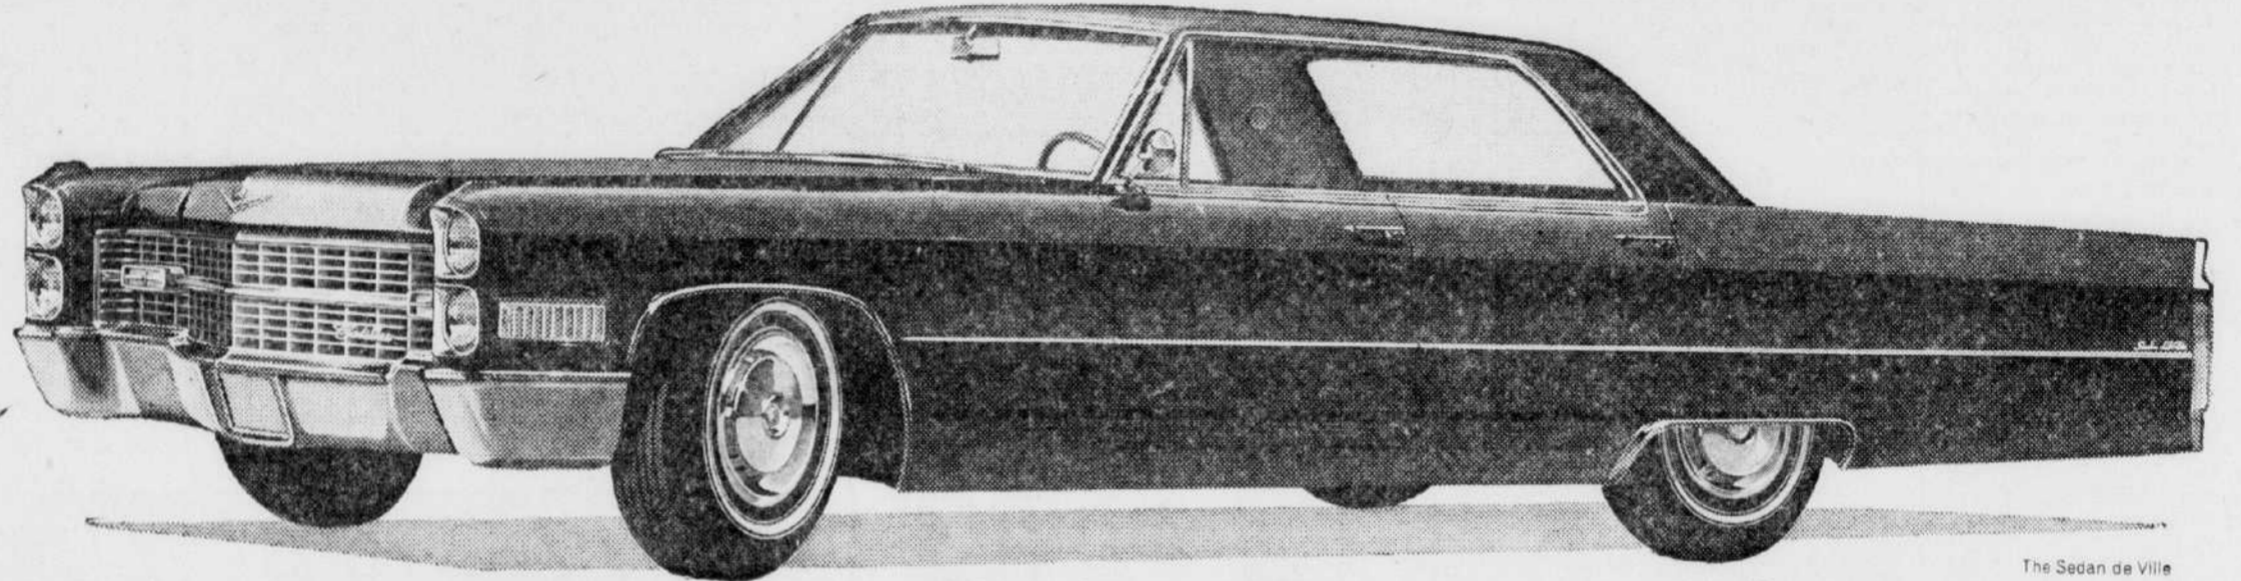

Refreshments were served. Among those seated at the head-table were Mr. and Mrs. Stokoe, John Stokoe, Mrs. Frank Pratte, Montreal, Rev. and Mrs. Walker, Richmond and Rev. and Mrs. Macfarlane of Inverness. Of special interest was the arrival of 14 guests from Inverness, and Mr. and Mrs. Leith of Ayer's Cliff, all former members of Mr. Stokoe's church in Inverness.

At the conclusion of the evening, for they are jolly good fellows was sung.

Miss Hazel Johnston and Miss Vera Lowen were in charge of the guest book.

ASBESTOS

Miss Martha Jean Lodge, Mrs. L. Lamont, and Miss Beatrice Lamont, Montreal, spent the weekend as guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Lodge, Poirier Street. Mrs. K. R. Hall, and Mrs. J. S. Lodge, received word of the sudden death of their cousin, Mrs. R. Thompson, Campbellton, N.B. at the soldier's Memorial Hospital there.

NEW PLANT — This 1,000,000-square-foot, $60,000,000 General Motors of Canada Ltd. assembly plant 20 miles north of Montreal was opened Tuesday by Quebec Premier Jean Lesage. A total of 800 persons are now employed at the plant and this will increase to 1,100 by mid-November.

THE QUEBEC SCENE

GM auto plant opened officially by Lesage

ST. THERESE DE BLAINVILLE, Que. (CP) — Quebec's first automobile assembly plant, involving an investment of $60,000,000 by General Motors of Canada Ltd., was officially opened Tuesday by Premier Jean Lesage.

Mr. Lesage said one of the most important aspects of the 1,000,000-square-foot plant, which will manufacture both Pontiac and Chevrolet four-door sedans, is that it will draw manufacturers of auto parts and equipment to Quebec.

"For example, during the first six months of 1965 at least 10 manufacturers have announced their intention to establish in Quebec," he said during a speech at the plant here, 20 miles north of Montreal.

One of the major industries to be attracted by the GM plant and a smaller $3,500,000 assembly plant for French-made Renault and Peugeot cars at St.

Bruno, Que., which will open soon, is a $14,000,000 factory for Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. of Canada at Joliette, Que.

New CN train

MONTREAL — Canadian National Railways will introduce the "Rapido" the fastest passenger train in North America on its Montreal-Toronto run starting October 31.

The new train will zip non-stop over the 335 miles between the two cities in four hours and fifty-nine minutes slicing one hour and sixteen minutes from existing schedules. The "Rapido" will leave Toronto Union Station and Central Station, Montreal, daily except Saturday at 4:45 p.m. to reach its destination at 9:44 p.m.

Mongrain to run

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — J.-A. Mongrain, a former mayor of Trois-Rivieres, announced Tuesday he will run as an independent for Trois-Rivieres in the Nov. 8 federal election.

During the last few weeks, he said, he has been asked to run as a Liberal in Trois-Rivieres and as a Conservative or independent in nearby Champlain. These offers he refused.

"But, more persistent pressure for an independent candidate in Trois-Rivieres ended up by convincing me that the candidates inscribed are not of proper stature and that I could not refuse without seriously defaulting in my duty to the citizens."

Farm future bad

MONTREAL (CP) — Marginal farmers in Quebec face a future as troubled as their present, Eric Kierans, Quebec revenue minister, said Tuesday night.

Speaking at a meeting of the Canadian Chemical Producers Association, he said recent demonstrations by Lake St. John farmers seeking compensation for crop losses were "evidence of tremendous changes going on underneath the surface in Quebec."

The Quebec government is giving assistance, including long-term low-interest loans, to farmers in the marginal category who merge in groups of five or more, he said. But "if they don't merge, we don't give them aid."

"Educational reforms... are touching the rural people at the very roots of their existence. They are stirring up people, cutting them away from their traditions and the close liaison with the clergy who were in charge of education."

Mr. Kierans said a major problem in the province is lack of mobility of the labor force because of language problems and local roots dating back 200 to 300 years.

CHOICE OF

ive subject he may repeat it or choose to select another but in making these important decisions the student's interests are protected by close co-operation between the students, their parents, and the guidance counselor.

An important feature of this system is that each student has his own individual timetable that is designed to meet his needs and wishes. No longer will the student be required to take a course simply because he is in a certain grade or class. The result of this is far greater flexibility.

PUPILS GROUPED

In conjunction with the individual timetable goes the grouping of pupils according to their abilities and past performance records. This benefits the students in that the level of instruction can be more easily geared to the level of each student in the class. Under the present system, which groups together students of varying abilities, providing meaningful instruction to all students is very difficult.

When a more homogeneous grouping is created the tendency to gear instruction to the low average in the hope of reaching all the class will be lessened. While it is true that generalized instruction must be directed at some level, the more students in the class at this level the greater are the chances for successful instruction.

Ordinarily ability grouping or streaming is only used in the compulsory subjects as the elective subjects tend to stream themselves, i.e., intermediate algebra may be taken by good mathematical students. This type of instruction and promotional organization will we hope achieve two main aims. The first is that the number of failures will be reduced, secondly, that the number of "dropouts" will be drastically reduced.

Any inquiries or comments regarding the above may be addressed to the writer, Eastern Townships Regional School Board, P. O. Box 560, Lennoxville.

inform the counsellor of the student's performance in class, he said; the counsellor, in his turn can help the teacher to better understand the student.

During the question period after the talks, Edward Perry, Director General of the Regional School Board, was asked about his "house" system.

Mr. Perry said that the school would be divided into houses or groups, each group representing a cross section of the school population. In this way he said, the student would not feel lost in such a huge school. The student's social life and extracurricular activities would revolve around his house. The house, being a smaller group than the school, it would be easier for the student to feel he belonged to it. Mr. Perry said he felt it would lessen the impersonality a student feels in such a huge institution as a school of 2,000 or 3,000 students.

World news flashes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Robert F. Kennedy proposed today that Communist China be invited to join the Geneva disarmament talks aimed at an agreement to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

Kennedy, a New York Democrat, called in a prepared Senate speech for accelerated U.S. efforts to "enlist the help of the United Nations, and all other nations — including Communist China — in the effort to prevent nuclear catastrophe."

TORONTO (CP) — Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson says Canada's needs probably could best be served by a minority government.

Speaking at a press conference here Tuesday, Mr. Thompson said both the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties are in trouble. They should join with the New Democrats to form a left-wing party on one side of the House with Social Credit as a right-wing party on the other.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Attorney-General Thomas B. Finan said Tuesday a substantial number of persons charged with crimes by Maryland grand juries will have to be re-indicted as the result of a recent court of appeals ruling.

The appellate court ruled Monday that it is unconstitutional for Maryland to require jurors to swear to a belief in God.

Members of the Prince Georges County grand jury were dismissed Monday after judges of the 7th judicial circuit conferred with Finan. The jurors were dismissed, a spokesman for the jurists said, because they had been required to swear a belief in God.

In Memoriam

BOCKUS, Christine, Elizabeth — In loving memory of our beloved daughter, who departed accidentally on October 13th, 1963. May you always walk in sunshine, And God's love around you flow, And all the happiness you gave us, No one will ever know. It broke our hearts to lose you, But you did not go alone. For part of us went with you, The day God called you home. Sadly missed and always remembered by MOM AND DAD.

BOCKUS, Christine, Elizabeth — In loving memory of our dear sister, Christine, who departed accidentally on October 13th, 1963. Loved, remembered and longed for. She'll be with each beat of our hearts. Till in heaven we're once more together. For eternity never to part. Because in her life she was saintly. Because in her heart she was pure, Her reward we are sure must be heaven. And our grief we must try to endure. Always loved and sadly missed by LINDA (sister), CHARLES (brother).

MATTHEWS, Sarah — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, who passed away October 12, 1961. Like falling leaves the years pass by, But love and memories never die. Always remembered by THE FAMILY.

ROSS — In loving memory of a dear friend, Dora Ross, who died October 13, 1963. A wonderful friend gone to rest, And for all of us she did her best, Her heart was true, her heart was kind. A better friend no one could find. Always remembered by GRETIA MARSHALL.

PIERCY — Danny and Sandra (nee Mosher) are happy to announce the birth of their daughter, Tammy Patricia, 7 lbs. 5 oz. at La Providence Hospital, Magog, October 4, 1965.

EDGECOMBE — Ken and Jo Anne (nee Thorneloe) are happy to announce the arrival of their daughter, Kimberley Anne, weight 6 lbs. 12 1/2 oz. at the Sherbrooke Hospital, October 13, 1965. Mother and daughter well.

Card of Thanks — We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbours and relatives who sent flowers, and messages of sympathy during the illness and death of our father, Joseph Edouard Begin. Your kindness will always be remembered. MR. & MRS. ROLAND BOUCHARD (Antoinette), MR. & MRS. FLORENCE LADOUER (Simone), MR. & MRS. ROSARIO PARE, (Laurence).

STONE — We wish to thank all our friends, neighbours and relatives for making our Golden Wedding day so wonderful, for cards, gifts and flowers, to Colfax Rebeck Lodge for the party put on in the hall Oct. 2. A day we will always remember. WIFE & LOUISE STONE, Knowlton, Que.

Nurses needed

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Alphonse Couturier, Quebec health minister, officially opened the new headquarters of the Quebec Association of Nurses Tuesday and said Quebec needs more nurses as soon as possible. "Quebec is, after Newfoundland, the province with the fewest nurses per capita," he said. "We have one nurse for 300 inhabitants while Ontario has one nurse for every 162 people."

GREEN THUMBS DOWN

AUGHTON, England (CP) — Retired gardener George Fazzackerly, 70, sent back the £2 prize he won for having the third-best garden in this Lancashire town and told the town councillors who did the judging to buy themselves a gardening encyclopedia with the money.

Over 150 attend annual meeting of Rebekah Lodges in District No. 2

COWANSVILLE — Over 150 members of Rebekah Lodges gathered on Oct. 1 in Trinity Anglican Church to attend the 52nd annual meeting of District No. 2.

Proceeding the meeting a ham and salad supper was served about 125 brothers and sisters.

Prosperity Lodge conducted the opening ceremonies, with the Noble Grand, Sister Margaret Cleveland, officiating. Then Sister Hilda Lee, District Deputy President, was escorted to the Noble Grand's chair to conduct the meeting.

The Grand Lodge members were introduced by Sister Irene Williams, P.D.D.P., and Sister Winnifred Holiday, P.N.G., and the honors were extended.

The address of welcome was given by Sister Isabella Beattie, P.D.D.P., of Prosperity No. 32 and responded to by Sister Hilda Arnett, P.D.D.P., of Golden Rule No. 20.

The president's hymn, Faith of our Fathers was rendered by Sisters Irene Williams and Gwen Stowe.

Minutes of the last District meeting, held in Granby, were read by Sister Stevenson.

The silver collection for the president's project amounted to $28.54.

Following reading of reports of the lodges, Sister Mary Downer sang a solo, entitled My Task, accompanied by Sister Beattie at the piano.

Sister Jennie Helm, President of the Rebekah Assembly by Quebec, thanked the secretaries for their fine reports and commended each lodge on the year's projects for the year and comment.

The following are the officers for Derby Line: President, Mrs. Gertrude Cross; vice-presidents, Mrs. Margaret Hunt and Mrs. Doris Kilborn; secretary, Mrs. Aileen Berry; treasurer, Mrs. Harriet Downing; chaplain, Mrs. Effie Gray; Sgt.-at-arms, Mrs. Gertrude Stevens and historian, Mrs. Janice Palin.

After the ceremony, Mrs. Parker gave an address in connection with Auxiliary work and aims. She asked each Unit to plan a child in Peru, Sister Helm closed her talk with the president's prayer.

A drill was presented by Golden Rule No. 20 of Sutton with 16 members. A reading was given by Victoria No. 19 and a precision drill by Yamaska No. 10.

With 16 sisters taking part, Colfax No. 29 of Knowlton presented the Exemplification of colors with 15 sisters. Following this a bouquet of pink carnations was presented to Sister Hilda Lee.

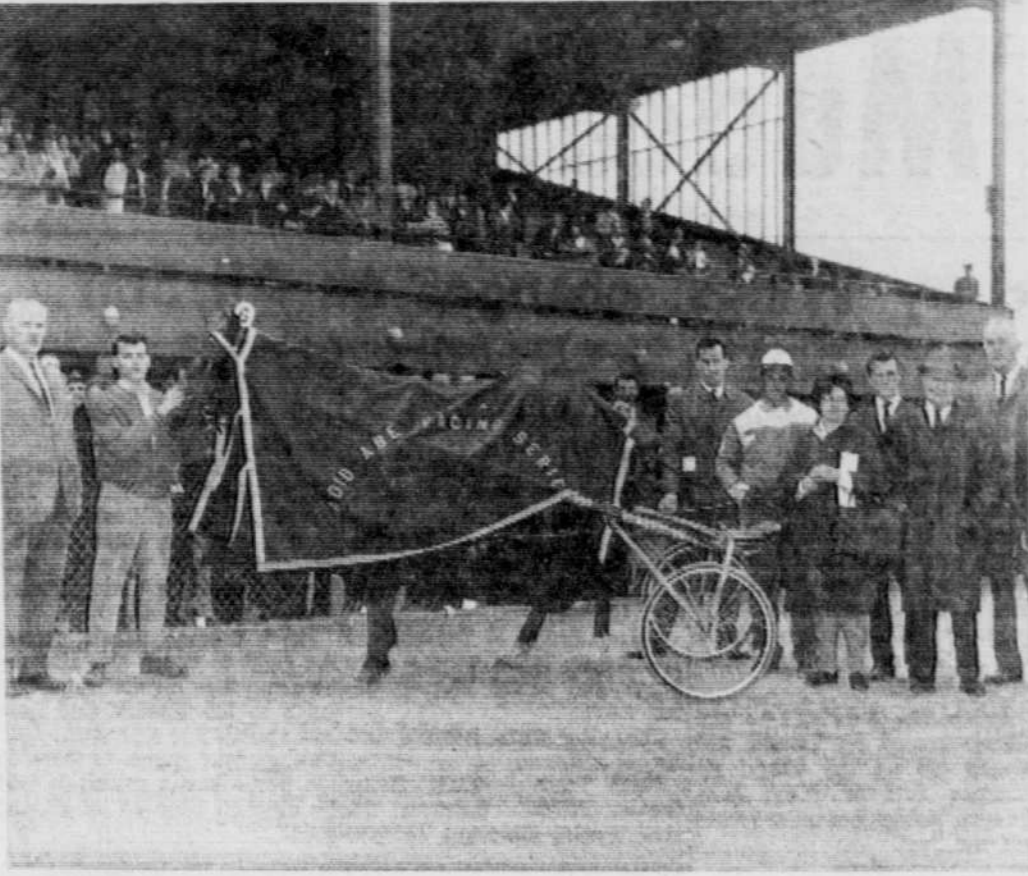

To conclude the enjoyable evening all gathered for refreshments served by the Newport Unit.

A short business meeting of Foster Cosby Unit was held. It was voted to pay both the above amounts now. The next meeting will be on Oct. 18 at the home of Mrs. Mele Grow at 8:00 p.m. As in the past it will feature the annual auction of articles suitable for gifts.

To conclude the enjoyable evening all gathered for refreshments served by the Newport Unit.

Larry Drouin signs again with Beavers

Sherbrooke Beavers added one more player to their list for the coming season last evening when they signed Larry Drouin to a contract.

Drouin is no newcomer to the ranks of the Allan Cup champs since he was a member of the team last season and played a big part in their march to top senior hockey honors in Canada.

Drouin hails from Thetford Mines and patrols left wing in fine fashion. He packs plenty of speed and is considered as one of the fastest skaters in the league.

Last season he played on several combinations and although he didn't walk off with the scoring honors he always managed to register the odd goal when the team needed one. Coach Roy has great confidence in him and maybe following last year's performance Larry may find himself on a regular unit.

He possesses a bullet-like slap-shot and time after time when he lets it go from inside the blueline the opposing goalies have to move fast in order to make the save. He is good in covering anyone since he can skate and his opposition has trouble in trying to get away from him.

Remember when...

Ezzard Charles earned American recognition of his claim to the heavyweight boxing championship of the world 16 years ago tonight—in 1949—when he knocked out Pat Valentine in the eighth round at San Francisco. The title had been in dispute since Joe Louis' retirement eight months before, when Charles defeated Jersey Joe Walcott and claimed the crown.

Roland Dewar re-elected president of Board of Basketball Officials, all officers acclaimed to positions

Roland Dewar, physical education instructor at Lennoxville High School, was re-elected as president of the Eastern Townships Board of Basketball Referees Monday at a meeting held at Lennoxville High School.

President Dewar will resume his duties that he has held since a temporary election of the first executive of last year, when the Association was founded.

With the return of President Dewar is the appointment by acclamation of Richard Staples as vice-president, formerly holding the position of secretary-treasurer. John McDonough will remain with the Board as interpreter of rules and regulations, with Dale Munkittrick being acclaimed as secretary-treasurer.

The Eastern Townships Board of Basketball Referees is an Association formed by a group of individuals that came into existence last year. The purpose of this association is to supply all basketball leagues with qualified referees in order to conduct a basketball game in proper manner.

It is hoped that, with the basketball season just around the gym corner, all young men

Peterborough posts second win in loop

Peterborough Petes moved into the lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Tuesday night by winning their second game in as many outings.

The victory, a 6-2 decision over London Nationals, left the newest entry in the series all alone on the bottom with two setbacks and no wins.

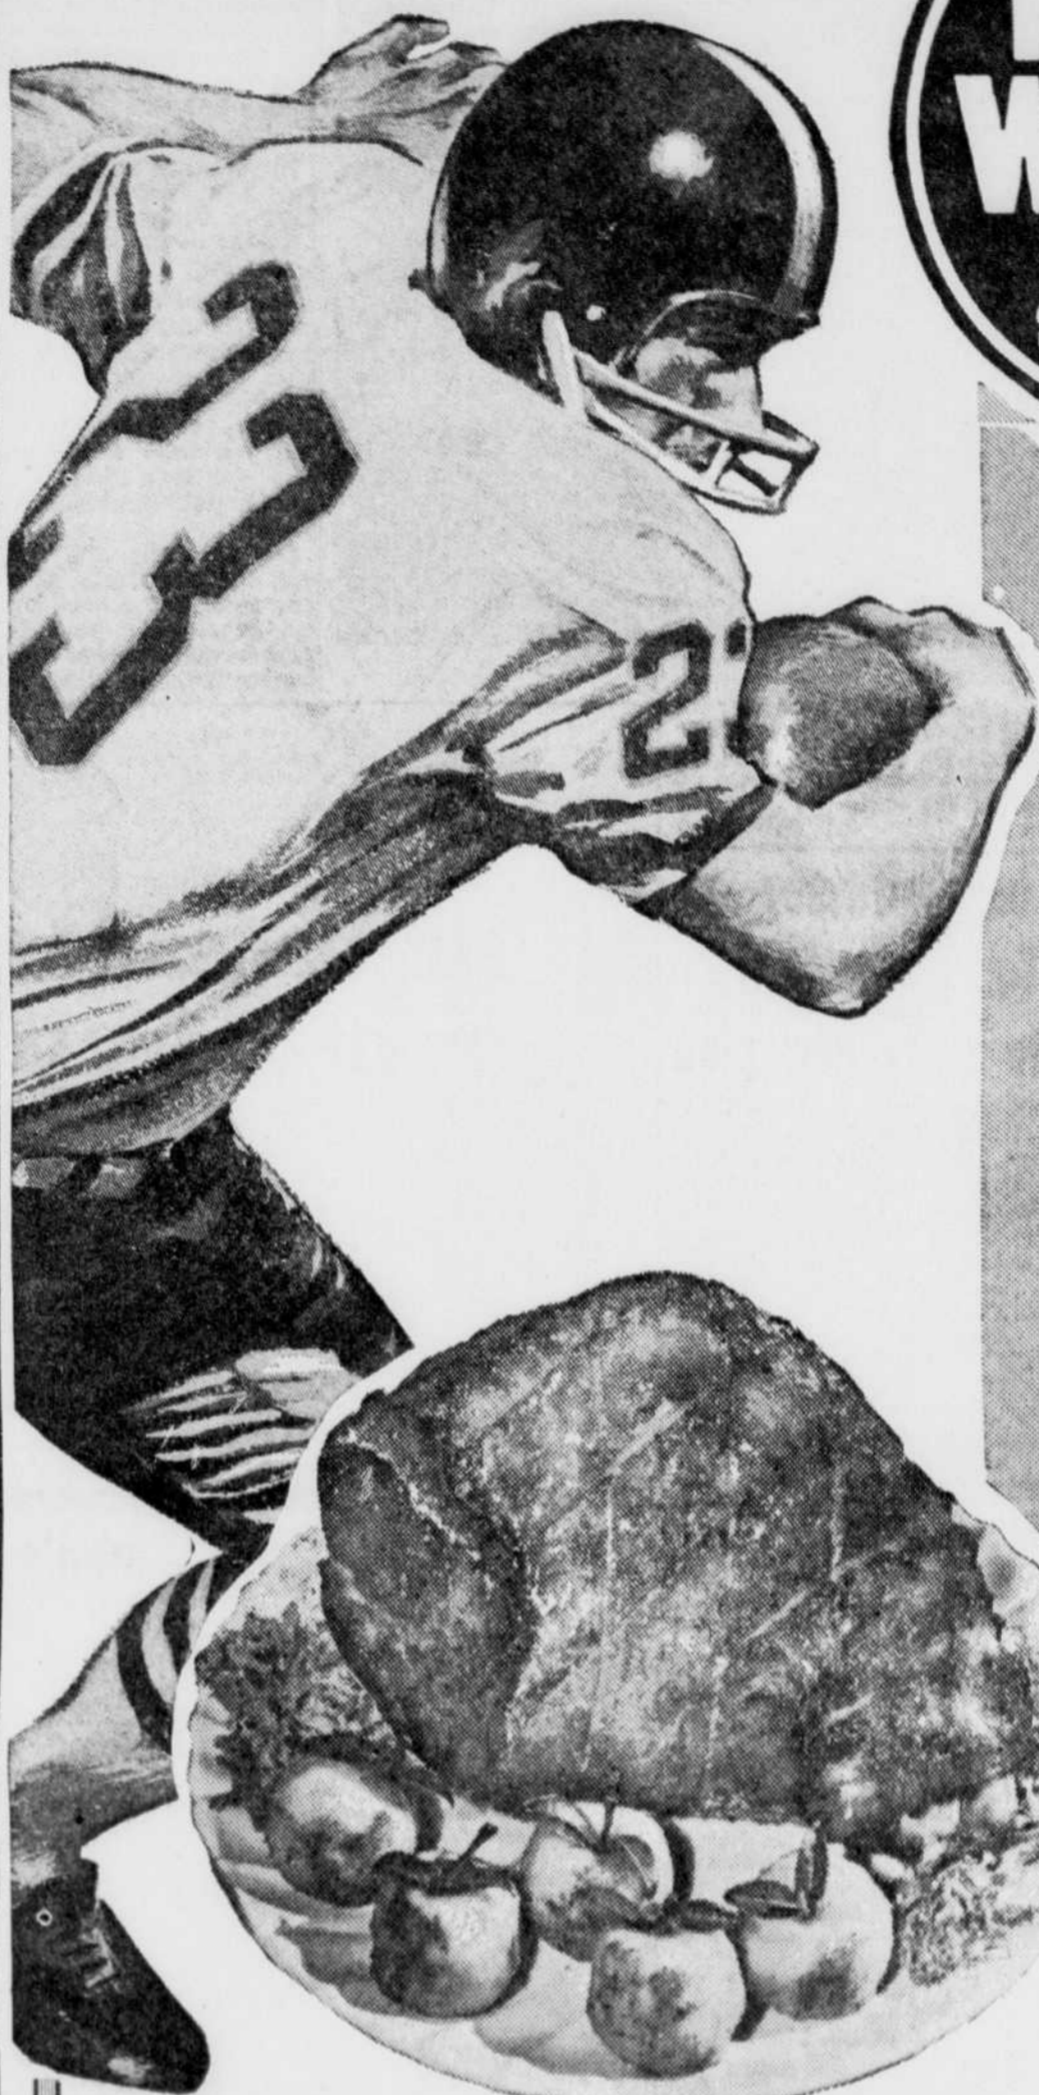

Toronto Marlboros, meanwhile, got on the right track by whipping St. Catharines Black Hawks 8-3 to even their record following an opening-game loss to Peterborough last week.

Penalties paved the way for the Petes as they counted twice on the power play. They added two more goals while they were shorthanded themselves.

Guy Dufour scored two goals and added an assist for the Petes while Gary Monahan, Dave McLeish, Gord Tucker and Andre Lacroix were the other marksmen. Len Bazay and Dave Del Papa scored the London goals.

The Marlies handed the Hawks their second loss in three games. Defenceman Jim McKenney led the way with three goals. Terry Caffery and Frank Hamill each added two markers and Brent Imlach, son of Toronto Maple Leaf manager-coach Punch Imlach, scored his first Junior A goal.

Twins pinning hopes on Jim 'Mudcat' Grant

To face Claude Osteen, Twins' nemesis, in sixth game, Dodgers lead 3-2, Mele holds meeting

By JOE REICHLER

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota Twins' hopes of extending the World Series into a seventh game with Los Angeles Dodgers rested today with a tired pitcher who has a headache, a nagging cold and protesting knees.

"My head feels like a balloon, my cold's no better and my knees are bothering me," said Jim Grant, manager Sam Mele's desperation starter, who lasted five innings in a losing effort against the Dodgers just three days ago.

"Otherwise, I'm all right," added the strong-armed right-hander, set to make his third series start in eight days. He defeated the Dodgers 2-1 in the opener last Wednesday.

Claude Osteen, Grant's mound-rival for the sixth game, hasn't pitched since Saturday when he shut out the Twins 5-0. That got the Dodgers off to a three-game sweep at Chavez Ravine which boosted the National League champions to a 3-2 edge in the series.

Should the Twins bounce back and defeat their left-handed nemesis, southpaw Jim Kaat will pitch the seventh and final game for Minnesota Thursday. Dodger manager Walter Alston probably will start Don Drysdale, his right-handed ace, who has split two series decisions with the Twins.

Osteen, who defeated the Twins five times without a loss as an American League before he came to the Dodgers, said he planned no change in his pitching strategy despite the difference in parks.

'KEEP BALL LOW'

"I'll just try to keep the ball low," he said. "That's the way I got them out in Los Angeles."

Grant said he didn't think pitching with just two full days rest would tire him. He recalled that once during the season he pitched with two days' rest and won.

The 29-year-old hurler has been bothered by a lingering cold but what worries him most are his knees, which have been giving him some trouble for the last month.

"It's tendonitis," Grant said. "I intend to have a thorough examination of the knees once the series is over. It happens every year, late in the season. The knees get awfully tired. I usually get a rest when this happens but I couldn't afford one this year."

Grant, who has beaten and been beaten by the Dodgers, said he doesn't think they are as tough to pitch to as some clubs in the American League.

"But they're tough once they hit the ball on the ground," he admitted. "You can't afford to make any mistakes or take time out to relax."

Mele said he picked Grant over rookie Jim Merritt because: "He's been my best pitcher all year."

"I told him to throw as hard as he could and go as far as he could and that I had plenty of relief pitchers available if and when he needed help," the manager added.

HAD MEETING

"I had a meeting with the players Tuesday and I told them I knew we were a better club than we looked in Los Angeles. We played poorly over there and they know it. That bothers them because they have a great deal of pride. They're keyed up. They don't like being embarrassed."

Mele said he would employ the same lineups he has been using against left-handed pitching throughout the series. That meant Joe Nosske would be in centre field and Bob Allison in left.

Alston has gone with the same lineup throughout, with one exception. He has been playing Dick Tracewski at second since Jim Lefebvre's injury.

Alston said Lefebvre was still favoring his right heel, badly bruised in the third game, and probably would see no action the remainder of the series.

"I think we can win if we continue the same style of play as we showed in Los Angeles," he said.

"In the first two games here we tended to overswing because the fences looked so inviting. Our strength is the running game, but we tried for the long ball."

"I don't think the boys will make that mistake again."

Major league baseball may go outside sport for their next commissioner, to study new plan

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—There are increasing indications that major league baseball will go outside the sport for its next commissioner and, if a revolutionary plan suggested by Los Angeles Dodger owner Walter O'Malley is adopted, the new man will have a three-man committee to help him.

O'Malley will present his plan to the club owners when they meet in Chicago next Thursday hoping to whittle down the list of candidates to replace the retiring Ford Frick.

The plan calls for three deputy commissioners — the two league presidents and Judge Robert Cannon, representing the players—to serve with the new commissioner. Judge Cannon is currently legal counsel for the players.

The three deputies would give a commissioner, drafted from outside the game, a solid foundation of baseball men to advise him.

Coach Clair denies report of ill feeling between himself and Smyth, accuses Kinsella of personal grudge

OTTAWA (CP)—A published report of ill feeling between head coach Frank Clair and assistant coach Bill Smyth drew angry denials Tuesday from Clair and Eddie Emerson, president of the Ottawa Rough Riders.

Smyth was not immediately available for comment. Red O'Quinn, general manager of the Eastern Football Conference club, confined to bed with a heavy cold, said he wouldn't like to say anything until he's seen the report.

Jack Kinsella of the Ottawa Citizen said in his Tuesday sport column that is an open secret in Canadian pro football that the two Ottawa coaches haven't been getting along since midway through last season.

"Rather than improve with time, the strained relations have deteriorated to a point where they have become detrimental to the club," wrote Kinsella.

Clair hadn't been able to put together a winning combination despite "an obviously superior complement of players." Now

Habs dumped by Wings, changes on All Star

Montreal Canadiens fattened up on minor league opponents for eight victories in a row, but Tuesday night they finally got around to playing a National Hockey League team in a pre-season exhibition game and lost.

NEVER TEAM-MATES
 It wasn't a case of former mates falling out since Duff and Bathgate never played together with the Leafs. They traded colors in a wholesale trade between Toronto and New York Rangers two years ago.

There were 26 penalties in the game, including a 10-minute misconduct to Alex Delvecchio of the Wings.

McKenney, Bathgate and Harris scored for Detroit and trimmed Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League 4-0 in Quebec City.

Boston Bruins, playing the only team they've been able to beat so far, won 4-2 over Oklahoma City Blazers of the Central Professional League in St. Thomas, Ont. The Bruins have won just twice in exhibition play and both victories are against their Oklahoma farmhands.

Don McKenney, Andy Bathgate and Billy Harris, all former Leafs, had a hand in the four Detroit goals. And just for good measure Bathgate took on another ex-Toronto player, Dick Duff, in a fight that resulted in five-minute majors to both.

Chicago Black Hawks—Goal-tender Glenn Hall and right-winger Eric Nesterenko; Detroit Red Wings—Centre Alex Delvecchio;

Toronto Maple Leafs—Defenceman Bob Baun and right-winger Ron Ellis;

The all-stars selected last spring are:

Second team—Goal: Charlie Hodge, Montreal; defence: Bill Gadsby, Detroit; Carl Brewer, Toronto; centre: Stan Mikita, Chicago; right wing: Gord Howe, Detroit; left wing: Frank Mahovlich, Toronto.

Reay, Chicago coach, earned the right to coach the all-stars because the Hawks gained a berth in the Stanley Cup final last spring. The Canadiens beat Chicago four games to three in the best-of-seven series. It will be his first time as an all-star coach.

Ambassador '66 as of today you can afford a luxury car

What kind of luxury are we talking about? Top of the line luxury with the touches only meticulous craftsmanship can bring you! The minute you slide behind the wheel—you know you're in a luxury car. Everything is extravagant—from the rich upholstery and cut-pile carpeting to the coil-spring reclining seats and walnut trimmed dashboard!

It's the kind of extravagance you can spend an evening talking about. What a story it makes. Of course, the payoff is the price. It's not extravagant! In fact, it's dead-level with the top-of-the-line models of the low-priced three. Now that's a luxury you can't afford to pass up.

You'll like Ambassador performance, too. Two V-8 options to choose from, including a mighty 327 cu. in., 270 horsepower. As well as that there's the 232 cu. in., 155 h.p. Torque Command Six — the smooth new 7-main-bearing 6 that acts like an 8!

And above all, you have the built-in quality only American Motors offers. Features like Deep-Dip Rustproofing, Double-Safety Brakes, Ceramic-Armoured Exhaust System and rattle-free Single Unit Construction. These are the features that let your luxury last longer. As of today, you can afford a luxury car ... thanks to American Motors.

Does Sin Yembotiss d'Asbestouce hurt?

Wierd liberties are taken with addresses on the mail

By DOUGLAS WHATLEY
(Record staff reporter)

Where in this city is Woyinton Street?
Or Berding Street?
Or Ham Erst Street?
Or Couing Boulevard?

This has puzzled local mailmen as much as it may puzzle you, for these street names appeared in the addresses on envelopes of letters mailed to Sherbrooke. But Woyinton, Berding and Ham Erst Streets do not exist here. Neither does Couing Boulevard.

The Sherbrooke central post office, in fact, has two men who spend a considerable part of their time examining such incorrectly-addressed mail. They say they handle an average of more than 1,000 pieces a day.

One, Reg Fortier, manages the mis-addressed second, third and fourth class mail, which is generally merely returned to the sender. But this colleague, Jean-Paul Bilodeau, sees 300 or more first class mailings with wrong addresses cross his desk each day, and these he is expected to try to re-address correctly whenever he can.

WELL-EQUIPPED

Even though he is equipped with a specially-compiled complete and up-to-date directory, exhaustive lists of street and town names, and experience amounting to more than 20 years in the postal service in general and three years in his present department in particular, his job is not always easy.

What, for instance, is he to do when optimistic spirits assume that mailmen can deliver postcards addressed to a name in a city only, and neglect both street and number?

Mr. Bilodeau waved just such a postcard the other day: "What can we do here," he asked, "since this one is addressed to Mr. Cote, Sherbrooke. How many hundreds of Cote's are there here?"

This particular Mr. Cote, whoever he may be, may well never know that his friend is having a wonderful time and wishes he were there.

"LA GANG"

Again, where were the hapless postmen to send a missive they received several years ago, addressed to "La gang a l'hotel de ville?" To the city council, as it developed.

A similar epistle was sent to the city's mayor, but after being addressed to "La mere de Cherbrook." It might be worthwhile to wish the writer of that letter much luck in his dealings with our "mere."

For that matter, let us wish the mayor good luck in dealing with this writer—he is either a friend with something less than literacy, or a foe with an eye for a pun.

LIBERTIES

All manner of liberties are taken with the spelling of many street-names on city mail (Boyenue, Beawinne and even Beau Wind, for Bowen Street; Gerrespy, Galatespy and even Gilles Pie, for Gillespie Street; and at least half a dozen observed variations on Wolfe Street, ranging from Woulphe to Woolefe, for instance).

Similar carelessness comes to Mr. Bilodeau's attention in some writers' versions of nearby towns: people of East Angus live in Yeast Ingust or Estain-Gus, according to testimony on envelopes, and those in Ascot Corner live in Asket, Askorner or Assquet Corneure.

St. Adele has been spelled as Santa d'Elle, Ste. Edwidge as St. Edyoche, and—believe it or not—St. Jean Baptiste d'Asbestos as Sin-Yembotiss d'Asbestouce.

Even Sherbrooke suffers injustices ranging from Shurbroke to Chereburque, laughs Mr. Bilodeau.

In many cases he is able to correct the addresses by pronouncing the symbols on the envelope aloud until he recognizes the sound as being similar to that of the name of an existing town or street.

But even this method does not always work. There is, for example, one street in Sherbrooke named Desjardins, another named Jardins Fleuris. To which is he to send a letter addressed to "Desjardinsfleuris" Street?

The number of wrongly addressed envelopes at the local post office is high. At an average of 300 daily, Mr. Bilodeau has examined well over a quarter million pieces of inadequately labeled first class mail since he assumed this assignment three years ago. And the number of pieces in other classes handled by his co-worker Mr. Fortier in that period is estimated at more than twice that.

"But you should come here during the Christmas season," they chorused, "then it's several times worse."

Errors in the names of streets and towns like those mentioned before are not the most common problem, which is rather mistakes with the numbers of buildings, says Mr. Bilodeau. Problems arising from poor handwriting, surprisingly, are much less common; it seems that most letter-writers inscribe very legible addresses, even when such nicely-penned addresses are grossly inadequate or wildly inaccurate.

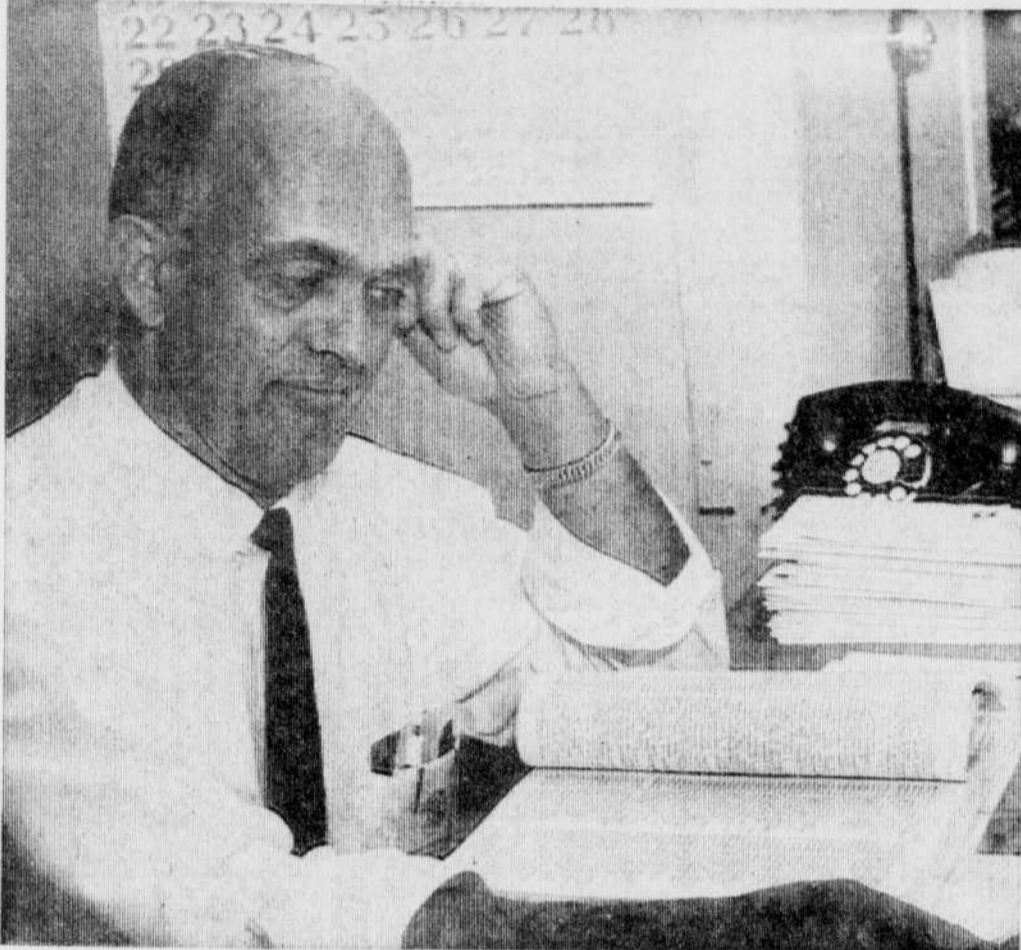

WHEN ALL FAILS

When no amount of deciphering of the hieroglyphics standing for either the address or the return address is successful, the mailings are sent to the province's dead-letter office in Montreal. "I send perhaps 25 first-class letters a day there, and Mr. Fortier three or four hundred mailings in other classes," says Mr. Bilodeau, adding that these figures are greatly increased when people dash off their stacks of Yuletide cards.

So, if you don't receive an expected item in the mail, and you have eliminated rain and snow and dark of night as possible causes, consider that it might be because you have the misfortune to live at 510 Alexandre Street, Sherbrooke, rather than at 105 Alex Cendres Avenue, Cherbrouke!

Bishop confirms candidates at Foster church

FOSTER — A confirmation service was held in St. James Anglican Church on Sept. 26 at 11 a.m. when Bishop Maguire of the Montreal Diocese received eleven candidates. These included Jerry Winford, Danny Winford, Albert Knowlton, Stanley Whitehead, Loren Allen, Gary Johnson, Vicky Gilmour, Constance Johnson, Ruth de Solla and Wendy Marsh.

Flowers, placed on the altar were in memory of Mrs. James Code and her brother William Young. Plaques were dedicated in their memory and a desk Prayer Book, dedicated by the Bishop in memory of Mrs. Code, was given by the Ladies' Guild and Women's Auxiliary.

Lunch was served to over 100 in the parish hall following the service.

Happy Gang club meets at Border

ROCK ISLAND — Mrs. Herbert Chamberlain was hostess for the Sept. 29 party of the Happy Gang held at her home where a pleasant evening was spent celebrating the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Melissa Chamberlain of Stanstead.

Prize winners for the games were Mrs. G. Probyn, Mrs. Archie Mosher, Mrs. Mabel Crawford, Mrs. Tom Lees, Mrs. Gladys Hunter, Mrs. Herbert Chamberlain. A door prize was won by Mrs. Bernard Chamberlain. Mrs. Chamberlain, the celebrant, was presented with the gift of money. Refreshments, served by the hostess, included a prettily decorated birthday cake as Mrs. Chamberlain cut the cake, all sang Happy Birthday to her.

The next party will be on Oct. 27 at the home of Mrs. Probyn.

L'AVENIR

Mrs. Ruth Young, Calgary, Alta., has returned home, after spending several days with Mrs. R. Graham and family. Mr. F. Graham, Montreal, also spent the weekend with his mother and brother, Kenneth.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mansseau, accompanied by the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Mansseau, spent the weekend in Port Joli visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jean Mansseau. Mr. Alphonse Mansseau remained for a longer visit with his son and daughter-in-law.

Friends here are sorry to hear of the illness of Miss Beatrice Cross of Lisgar and Mrs. Violet Johnston of South Durham.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bogie of Pincourt, Isle Perrot, spent the weekend with relatives here. Friends are sorry to hear that Mr. Onil Defosses of Drummondville, a former resident of this place, is ill in a Montreal Hospital.

Mrs. Theresa Legar, Sherbrooke, spent several days with her sister, Miss Unis Keely, at the old homestead here. Miss Linda Bogie spent the weekend in South Durham, visiting Miss Daphne Gunter.

Friends will be sorry to learn that Mrs. Herminigilde Cote, wife of Mayor Cote, is confined to the St. Croix Hospital in Drummondville.

Immediate African unity is lonely leader's dream

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

ACCRA (CP)—African unity is a dream that swells greatest in the breast of Ghana's lonely Kwame Nkrumah.

Other African leaders talk about "realism" and "first things first" when asked about Nkrumah's demands for immediate steps toward a continental government.

But Nkrumah's words on unity are unequivocal: "Our objective is African unity now. There is no time to waste. We must unite or we perish."

The 56-year-old Ghanaian has staked much on the forthcoming annual meeting of the 36-nation Organization of African Unity. In a furious burst of energy, big buildings were added to the Accra skyline to accommodate the prime ministers, presidents and kings.

But the whole project—even the timing of the conference—has been beset by difficulties. Neighboring French-speaking countries have often accused the Nkrumah regime of subversion and even of inspiring assassination attempts. Upper Volta's President Yameogo said in June he had no intention of attending a meeting in "that slaughterhouse" — Accra.

In accordance with an agreement reached at a preparatory conference of foreign ministers, Ghana removed certain foreign political refugees from Accra. Otherwise some heads of government would have refused to come.

CAUSES RESENTMENT
There is also considerable resentment in some African capitals that Ghana, with a population of 7,000,000 and what is frequently called a dictatorial Marxist regime, should aspire to lead the unity movement.

But Ghanaian planners say Nkrumah has always stressed that the leader of his proposed union would be for the people to choose.

Nkrumah has claimed no more than that the meeting scheduled for Oct. 21 will "bring us nearer to the goal of a unified Africa." But his long-term hopes are mirrored in the preparations the host country is undertaking. "We have almost completed on the grounds of the State House a magnificent complex of buildings and other facilities required for the OAU conference," Nkrumah reported proudly.

The residential part of this complex consists of a 12-story building of 60 self-contained suites carefully arranged to give maximum comfort. There are also an up-to-date conference hall which can contain 1,000 people and a banquet hall capable of seating nearly 2,000 guests near this residence, both of which are linked by a series of covered ways to the residential edifices.

This complex of buildings is centrally air-conditioned. On the same grounds provision has been made for a garage which will accommodate up to 40 cars for the heads of state, and a parking area for over 750 cars. "Two large fountains operated by 72 jets with multi-colored interplay of lights, and rising to a height of 60 feet when fully turned on, have been installed."

POSTPONED MEETING
The meeting was first scheduled for Sept. 1, but Ghana pleaded for an Oct. 21 opening instead because construction was incomplete. This caused a clash with the organizers of a long-proposed Afro-Asian conference in Algiers, already postponed to Nov. 5 because of the overthrow of Algerian president Ahmed Ben Bella.

BOYS LOVE BEANS

How about some beans for dinner? Whether you buy them in cans or cook dry ones yourself, they always seem to please the growing boys in the family—husky food for ravenous appetites. The cost should please the family food budget as well. Friends in Michigan, the bean state, sent us these tested recipes. We think you'll enjoy them.

NAVY BEAN AND HAM CASSEROLE
(Serves 6)

1 pound dry navy beans
1 quart water
1 onion, diced
½ cup ketchup
½ teaspoon Tabasco sauce
½ teaspoon ginger
½ cup brown sugar
3 cups cubed ham
Salt and pepper to taste

Cover beans with water and soak overnight. Add more water to cover if necessary. Cook in covered saucepan till beans are tender, about 1½ hours. Stir in all other ingredients and turn into 2-quart casserole. Bake covered at 300 degrees, about 2 hours. Uncover beans to brown during the last ½ hour of baking.

BEEF, BEANS AND RICE
(Makes 4 to 6 servings)

1 pound chopped beef
1 large onion, chopped fine
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup quick-cooking rice
1 can tomatoes
1 can kidney beans
1 can beef consomme
2 teaspoons chili powder
¼ teaspoon oregano
1 teaspoon garlic salt

Brown meat and onions in butter or margarine. Place layer of meat and onion in casserole, cover with layer of uncooked rice. Next a few tomatoes, then some kidney beans. Repeat in this order till casserole is full. Mix the consomme with remaining ingredients and pour into casserole. Bake in 350 degree oven about 1-hour. A little water may be added occasionally if casserole seems too dry. (NEA)

Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Ouimet.

Ticehurst, De Keyser marriage

MALARTIC — A pretty wedding took place in the Malartic Baptist Church recently when Antoinette, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis De Keyser, of Malartic, became the bride of Alden Winston Ticehurst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ticehurst, of Magog. Rev. J. E. Tetreault, of Granby, officiated at the ceremony. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Charles Patterson, of Coaticook. Baskets of gladioli and mixed summer flowers decorated the church and white satin bows marked the guest pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of lace. Her shoulder length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a tiara of pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations.

Miss Elaine De Keyser, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, wore a floor length gown of light blue peau de soie with matching headpiece. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white and blue mums.

Miss Suzanne De Keyser, sister of the bride, bridesmaid, was in a floor length gown of pale yellow peau de soie with matching headpiece, and carried a Colonial bouquet of white and yellow mums.

Little Susan De Keyser, niece of the bride, the flower girl, wore a floor length dress of white peau de soie with yellow cummerbund and bow. She carried a basket of assorted flowers.

Mr. Rupert Ticehurst acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Roderick McLeod and Mr. Pierre De Keyser.

Mrs. Louis De Keyser, mother of the bride, chose a suit of blue lace over taffeta, with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mrs. Ticehurst, the groom's mother wore a dress of navy blue silk crepe and a corsage of pink roses.

During the signing of the register, a solo was rendered by Mrs. John Hamelin, of Noranda.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the United Church Hall. The bride's table was arranged with mixed seasonal flowers and a three-tier wedding cake, made by Mrs. Louis De Keyser and decorated by Mr. and Mrs. R. Rye, of Farnborough.

Later, the couple left on a honeymoon through Gaspé, New Brunswick, and Maine, the bride travelling in a pink linen suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Out of town guests were from Magog, Granby, Dorval, Town of Mt. Royal, Val d'Or, Noranda and Oil Springs, Ont.

A reception was held following the couple's return from their wedding trip, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ticehurst. Guests were from Cherry River, Lennoxville and Stanbridge East.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained at showers by the following: Granby High School Staff; Granby Pentecostal Young People; friends at Macdonald College Summer School; and Mrs. J. E. Tetreault, of Granby.

DUKE OF WELLINGTON I.O.D.E.

The first meeting of the fall season of the Duke of Wellington Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held on Thursday, Oct. 7, at the rooms, Moore Street.

The meeting opened with the prayer of the Order by the Regent, Mrs. P. A. Dauncey, who also asked for a moment's silence in memory of a member of the Chapter, Mrs. Gladys McRae, who had died during the summer.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Tetlow.

The treasurer's report, read by Mrs. R. L. Bishop, mentioned the Garden Party and Tea, held in June at Mrs. Munster's home, which had proved a great success, especially the white elephant stall, looked after by Mrs. Pick and Mrs. Clarke, which had been very profitable.

Mrs. R. Hough, educational secretary, had presented prizes of money at Sherbrooke High School during the commencement exercises to the following students: F. Slater, R. Zeller, L. Farthing and E. Jamieson.

It was agreed by all the students, that money was preferable to books. Mrs. Hough had also presented Shirley Kimmis with the I.O.D.E. Bursary.

It was brought to the attention of the members that Mrs. Hough had I.O.D.E. calendars for sale at 50 cents each.

Mention was made by Mrs. Dauncey of a semi-annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter, to be held at Three Rivers, on Oct. 13 and 14, which is to be attended by members of the Duke of Wellington Chapter.

A concert to be given jointly by the Singing Girls of Sherbrooke and pupils of Miss Rita Hough's ballet school is to be held in the near future, as yet a definite date has not been set, but further announcements will be made in the press.

A pair of Korean socks had been knitted by Mrs. Pick. A drawing for the money apron was held, and won by Mrs. Dauncey.

The meeting was adjourned by Miss F. McDonald, who took the chair while the regent played the piano for the singing of the National Anthem.

The hostesses for the November meeting will be Miss F. McDonald and Mrs. V. Tetlow.

LENNOXVILLE U.C.W. UNIT ONE

Unit One of the Lennoxville United Church Women recently held the October meeting in the Ladies Parlor, Douglas Hall, Queen Street, Mrs. William J. Lane, leader presided. The members paid silent tribute in memory of Mrs. Orange Worthen, whose recent death was deeply felt. Miss Marjorie Waldron was in charge of devotions the theme being Thanksgiving, and the Scripture reading, The roll call was answered by 23 members who had made 28 visits.

Mrs. A. Norman Flint reported on the Regional meeting held in Waterville, when 11 ladies from this church attended. The list of vacancies for the Presbyterian officers was given and a program packet for the use of this unit was ordered.

The Christmas Bazaar bulletin was re-read and members told of the assistance needed. Thank offering envelopes were distributed and members reminded of talent money now due. An invitation from Trinity Church, Sherbrooke, to attend a meeting when Miss Isabelle Miller, missionary on furlough, would be the guest speaker, was accepted.

Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Lovelace were in charge of the program and presented slides which had been taken during their visit to the Holy Land in the summer. The trip was pictured from their departure at Dorval Airport to their first stop at Copenhagen, where they showed the famous sculpture of the mermaid on a rock, many scenes of the near East, the birthplace of Christ, ancient tombs, old roads in Israel as well as street scenes in Jordan. Also farm scenes there of a farm that had been discovered 15 years ago. The water is used for irrigation due to so little rain; 2,000 acres are now under cultivation and growth is rampant. Pictures of Rome showed historical ruins and the modern architecture. The final picture was of their arrival home at their summer cottage at Fitch Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Lovelace were thanked by Mrs. Lane.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Albert R. Parsons, Mrs. Thomas B. Majury and Mrs. Harold B. Stevens. Mrs. A. Norman Flint poured at the lace covered tea table, which was centered with an African violet.

PINEAPPLE FLUFF — Is a delicious combination of lemon-flavoured jelly powder, velvitized evaporated milk and juicy pineapple.

Tasty finish to any meal

PINEAPPLE FLUFF
(Makes 8 servings)

1 can (20 ounces) pineapple chunks, undrained
Water
1 package (3 ounces) lemon-flavoured jelly powder
1 cup undiluted velvitized evaporated milk
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts

Drain pineapple syrup into cup measure. Add enough water to make 1 cup. Heat syrup to boiling; pour over jelly powder in large bowl and stir until dissolved. Chill until consistency of unbeaten egg white. Chill evaporated milk in refrigerator tray until soft ice crystals form around edges of tray (15 to 20 minutes). Whip until stiff (about 1 minute). Add lemon juice. Whip very stiff (2 minutes longer). Fold walnuts and whipped evaporated milk into jelly powder mixture. Alternate layers of whipped mixture and pineapple chunks in serving dish. Chill until firm. Sprinkle additional walnut on top, if desired.

Guests attend UCW meeting at Kinnear's Mills

KINNEAR'S MILLS—A meeting of the United Church Women was held in the Community Hall on Sept. 30. The Inverness UCW had been invited and several attended. The president, Mrs. J. M. Allan welcomed the guests.

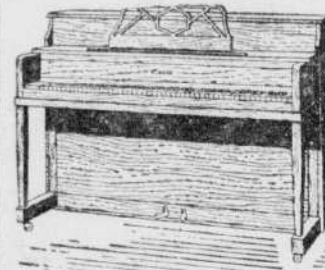

The devotional was taken by Mrs. Murray Nugent. The theme was Thanksgiving and Mrs. E. Reid read Psalm 65. A Bible quiz was conducted by Mrs. Oliver Carmichael.

Plans were made to serve lunch at the Gillander wedding anniversary celebration.

Mrs. Carmichael invited the UCW to meet at the manse in Theford Mines for their next meeting.

Mrs. Bernard Robinson president of Inverness, U. C. W. expressed thanks for the invitation to attend the meeting. Thanks were also expressed by Mr. Gerald McFarlane of Inverness. Rev. O. Carmichael closed the meeting with prayer.

At the close of the afternoon, a ham and salad supper was served with the Canadian Women's Army Corps during the Second World War.

No longer rich elite in higher education

TORONTO (CP)—There is no longer a wealthy elite in higher education, said Neville Dickson, registrar of Scarborough College, University of Toronto. He told the University Women's Club in Toronto that students from rich families "are so submerged in the huge mass of students, you just wouldn't know they exist."

He said that in the early 1930s most university students were from wealthy families.

The loss of this financial elite must be thought of as good by psychologists and social workers, he said, but "perhaps you are losing some of the true leaders by submerging persons with heredity and background."

Any student with ability and need, he said, can obtain financial aid in the form of bursaries and loans.

Ouimet—Maes van Ginderdeuren

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM — The marriage of Myriam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Maes van Ginderdeuren, of Brussels, Belgium, to Mr. J. Robert Ouimet, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Rene Ouimet, of Montreal, took place recently in the church of Notre Dame de Tielt, in Belgium. Rev. Father Froiture officiating. The church choir sang a program of Gregorian Chants during the service, closing with a moving hymn to Notre Dame du Canada. The altar was decorated with arrangements of white roses, lilies and pink carnations with pink markers of the same flowers carrying the graceful floral theme to the church entrance.

His Holiness, Pope Paul VI graciously consented to have the papal blessing bestowed on the young couple.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a Christian Dior gown, fashioned in simple Princess style of radzimir silk, with a graceful full skirt falling to a long train. Her veil of superb heirloom Brussels lace was held by a diadem of pearls.

Witness for the bride was Mr. Yves Maes van Ginderdeuren and for the groom, Mr. Pierre Maes van Ginderdeuren, brothers of the bride.

Leaving the church, Mr. and Mrs. Ouimet were preceded by page Master Didier Fobe Vleurinck, in a white blouse with lace frills and long white trousers held by a ceinture of blue satin. The page was accompanied by four charming little maids of honor, Caroline van Zeeland, Pascale van der Elst, Catherine Trempont and Brigitte van de Moortele, in matching white Princess style dresses with satin bows. Each carried a small basket of white flowers.

After the ceremony a reception and dinner were held for the family and guests from throughout Europe and Canada at the home of the bride's parzimir silk, followed by a garden party at the van Ginderdeuren ancestral domaine, the Chateau Ronceval.

A grand ball terminated the wedding ceremonies, from which Mr. and Mrs. Ouimet left for an extended honeymoon in France, Egypt, the Holy Land and Greece.

Later, the couple left on a honeymoon through Gaspé, New Brunswick, and Maine, the bride travelling in a pink linen suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Out of town guests were from Magog, Granby, Dorval, Town of Mt. Royal, Val d'Or, Noranda and Oil Springs, Ont.

A reception was held following the couple's return from their wedding trip, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ticehurst. Guests were from Cherry River, Lennoxville and Stanbridge East.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained at showers by the following: Granby High School Staff; Granby Pentecostal Young People; friends at Macdonald College Summer School; and Mrs. J. E. Tetreault, of Granby.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. Candlish Scott Bogie, of L'Avenir, announce the engagement of their second daughter, Janet Adele, to Mr. James Aubrey Smith, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. George Alford Smith, of Hunt's Point, N.S. The wedding has been arranged to take place quietly in the Ulverton United Church, in mid November.

All Gerber Foods are "custom-cooked" for your baby's sake. Each food requires its own special cooking time and temperature to help preserve its precious food values—its colour and flavour as well. For your baby's eating pleasure, Gerber Strained Foods are nice and smooth in texture.

Apart from the warmth, comfort and security you give your baby when you hold him, there are rather nice benefits for you. Feeding time gives you on-the-go body a chance to relax, your feet a fine rest. Above all, you achieve a special "oneness" with your baby, reward enough for any mother.

Warming thought. If baby's a dawdler, one of those knitted jackets will help keep the bottle warm longer.

Solid comfort. When your baby is ready for solid food, a world of flavour and nutrition await him (or her) in over sixty wonderful Gerber Strained Foods.

Succulent meats and meat dinners. Garden-good vegetables. Tempting fruits and cereal-fruit combinations. Delightful dinners. Delectable desserts. How's that for baby-pleasing variety? Each Gerber Strained Food is packed in sparkling glass—for your convenience in refrigerating unused portions.

Why vitamin C? Doctors specify this vitamin early in the infant diet because breast milk or cows' milk may not provide enough vitamin C (ascorbic acid), a factor in sound gums and other body tissues.

Gerber Orange-Apple Drink has added vitamin C, bringing the vitamin level up to that of Gerber Orange Juice, a good natural source. Refreshing in flavour, Gerber Orange-Apple Drink brings smiles at breakfast, lunch or snack-time. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Why should a man think a woman is foolish for falling for a good looking man who has little but his good looks to recommend him and yet not even wonder why he prefers to date a beautiful but dumb girl to a homely but intelligent one?

Why should a man resent working for a woman, who has proved her brains and ability by getting to the top, simply because she is a woman?

Why should a man who expects his wife to hold down an outside job regard cooking and dishwashing as "woman's work"?

Why should a woman listen with so much more respect of the ideas of an intelligent man than to the ideas of an equally intelligent woman?

Why is it that when a man low rates an exceptionally handsome man he is merely being objective about him but if a woman is the least bit critical of an exceptionally beautiful woman she is just plain jealous?

Why is it that even the least informed man is convinced that he knows more than any woman about politics, business, and what's wrong with the country?

Tri-service magazine integrates armed services reading material

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's for everyone. It will range from clarifying policy pronouncements to picturing some of the service's prettiest female members.

Starting in October, the three individual service publications, which have been operating since the 1940s, will disappear in favor of a new tri-service magazine.

Sailors, who have been reading The Crownsnet monthly since 1948, will get their service news from the 10-times-a-year Canadian Forces Sentinel.

So will airmen, who also have had The Roundel since 1948, and the army, whose quarterly Canadian Army Journal began publishing in 1947.

Defence Minister Hellyer, in a statement in the final issue of each service publication, promised that the new Sentinel will "combine what has been the best in these publications."

"It will offer a wider view of the objectives, functions and activities of the Canadian forces than has previously been possible. In short, it will be a reflection of Canada's fresh, new approach to defence matters and the vital place of the military in the life of the country."

AIMED AT ALL RANKS

The job of working out that reflection has been handed to Col. L. C. Bourgeois, director of armed forces information services, and a small editorial staff headed by Jack DeProse, a veteran newspaper man who edited the Army Journal from its inception 18 years ago.

The result of their efforts, says Col. Bourgeois, will be a 48-page layout with something Prose, a 57-year-old former Edmonton newspaper man, agree that in some respects The Sentinel will have its own pattern separate from any of its predecessors.

It will not, for example, be as officer-oriented as the Army Journal whose lengthy dissertations on subjects from screw-thread standardization to troop discipline held little interest for non-commissioned personnel.

Neither, however, will it be quite as folksy as The Crownsnet which concentrated on the life of an every-day seaman, seasoned with below-decks humor and highly-readable features.

And it will cut down considerably on the heavy accent on history and tradition which dominated The Roundel.

"We'll have some of all of this," said Col. Bourgeois. "But The Sentinel, above all, will have its own concept of real practical value to its readers."

EAGER FOR COMPLAINTS

Col. Bourgeois said The Sentinel, to be published like its predecessors "on the authority of the chief of the defence staff," will encourage "beefs about normal daily life in the services" but steer clear of major policy issues.

"There will be no real problem of editorial freedom because we simply are not in the business of editorializing. It's not our job to print articles tearing away at defence policy and we just wouldn't print them."

"But letters complaining about rules and regulations are something else. We'll not only print them; we'll encourage them."

Which, says his staff, is just how Defence Minister Hellyer wants it.

Social notes in Brome

Mr. and Mrs. John Osterdahl, Ont., visiting their daughter, and family and Mr. and Mrs. Winnie Vail and Mr. Ron-Mrs. Kenneth Maither and Mr. Wm. Dow of Sutton were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Osterdahl in St. Albans, Vt. They attended the christening of their grandson.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Darbe Brent, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Meyers Lyla Owens and Norma Spear, died April 28, 1963.

Left to mourn her loss, in addition to her daughter, Ruth, Mrs. Paige, are two grandchildren and a brother, Edson Spear, of Hamilton, Ont., who attended the funeral.

The funeral service was held at the T. C. French Funeral Parlor, Sawyerville, on Sept. 15, Rev. J. A. Filshie, of Cookshire, officiating. A favorite hymn, The Old Rugged Cross, was sung by Stuart Merrill, with Mrs. Filshie at the organ.

The bearers, all friends of the deceased, were K. Hodge, A. Bennett, of Eaton, C. Ross, R. Drake, E. Parker, F. Johnston, of Bulwer. Interment was in Eaton Cemetery.

Present were friends and relatives from Island Pond, Vt., North Hatley, Cookshire, Cookshire, Bury, Franklin Centre, Bulwer, Lennoxville, Eaton, Sawyerville and Hemmingford.

OBITUARIES

LESLIE HENDERSON, OF INVERNESS

INVERNESS — The death of Leslie Henderson, a highly respected and valued member of this community, occurred in the Sherbrooke Hospital on Sept. 1, 1965. He had suffered a heart attack on Aug. 22.

Mr. Henderson was born on Feb. 3, 1899, a son of the late George Henderson and his wife, the former Isabelle Watson. He lived with his parents on the family homestead until he married Dara Myrtle Marshall, daughter of the late Herbert and Mrs. Marshall, also of this locality.

The young couple settled originally in Theford Mines, but, preferring farm life, they moved back into the Belcher Range. Later they sold this property and purchased the James Robinson farm on the Seventh Range of Inverness, where they had since resided.

The deceased was a staunch Anglican and was a warden of Christ Church, Lower Ireland. He had also served as councillor for several terms and was chairman of the local Protestant School Commission at the time of his demise. He was a devoted member of the Orange Order, being associated with L. O. L., No. 659.

Mr. Henderson leaves to mourn his loss, his wife; six children, William, of Colborne, Ont., Evelyn, Mrs. Bill Planche, Sherbrooke; Eileen, Mrs. Kenneth Nugent, Lennoxville; Lois, Mrs. John Evans, Sherbrooke; Delbert, who remained with his parents on the farm, and Helen, Mrs. Vic Lowry, Lennoxville.

Eleven grandchildren also survive him, as do two sisters, Violet, Mrs. Lewis Guy, Lyndonville, Vt., and Sarah, Mrs. Dale Meeker, of Minnesota; six brothers, Bruce, (Teddy), of Proctorsville, Vt., Leonard, Ayer's Cliff, Willis, of Lacombe, Alta.; David, Danville, Vt., Stanley, St. Johnsbury, Vt., and John, of Alberta.

The funeral service, held in Christ Church, Lower Ireland, and conducted by Rev. Canon S. Meade, of Theford Mines, Captain Joslin, of the Missions of Inverness and Leeds, assisted by Mr. MacFarlane, present incumbent of St. Andrew's, Inverness, was largely attended by relatives and friends.

The Lord Is My Shepherd and Just as I am, favorites of the deceased, were sung. Mrs. Murray Nugent, of Lemesurier, was organist.

The pall bearers were Willie Learmonth, Georges Cote, Russell Marshall, Earl Robinson, Fred George and Clarke McVetty, all of whom were friends and neighbors of long standing.

Interment was in the family plot in Christ Church cemetery.

MRS. HERBERT V. WESTON, OF GRENVILLE

GRENVILLE — The death of Mrs. Herbert V. Weston, the former Orpha Spear, of this place, occurred at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Paige, on Sept. 12, 1965.

Mrs. Weston was born at Smiths Falls, now Tomifobia, on July 7, 1887, daughter of late Elmer Spear and his wife, Jennie Brainard. Later she moved to Ayer's Cliff with her family.

She was married to the late Herbert V. Weston on Feb. 16, 1921. In the fall of 1928 they moved to Bulwer. Her husband died on March 29, 1949, and her brother, Wright Birchton, died on March 29, 1949.

Other members of the christening party were the Misses Herbert V. Weston on Feb. 16, Wanda and Gayle Neal, and 1921. In the fall of 1928 they moved to Bulwer. Her husband died on March 29, 1949, and her brother, Wright Birchton, died on March 29, 1949.

Christening is held at Birchton

BIRCHTON — At the 9:30 a.m. Communion service in the Birchton United Church, with the Rev. J. A. Filshie officiating, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lackie received the rites of baptism and was given the names Bruce Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Neal, Bromptonville, were sponsors.

Other members of the christening party were the Misses Herbert V. Weston on Feb. 16, Wanda and Gayle Neal, and 1921. In the fall of 1928 they moved to Bulwer. Her husband died on March 29, 1949, and her brother, Wright Birchton, died on March 29, 1949.

Artist plus camera equals acclaim

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—Coming from anyone else, the words might sound pretentious. But when Roloff Beny says he and his camera "react visually" to people, places and things, you don't smile.

Having earned international acclaim with his work, the Canadian-born artist and photographer obviously does more than merely snap the shutter. And there is evidence that he does react visually—and provocatively.

It came out during an interview at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. F. Beny, where he related a few of the impressions of his travels in Canada in the last three years.

For example, Canada's new flag: "Bold and inelegant. . . Whenever I see the flag it looks dirty. The red is a weak pinto color."

The architecture of the Montreal and Edmonton airports: "Acres of corridors, purple and black leatherette chairs, functional chrome ash trays, bone-white walls and overhead lighting without excitement in design. They make the traveller feel like a number in a prefabricated no-place."

The work of Canadian artists: "There is too much indifferent expression being turned out. I feel so many of these movements, such as pop and op art, are superimposed on the individual. . . I'm still rather old-fashioned and like those who can draw."

SOME IS GOOD

There were also some favorable impressions.

Place Ville Marie in Montreal "has a dynamic tension which very much suits the spirit of French Canada," he said.

Toronto's new city hall "is an exciting contribution to the moulding of the space of the city. . . a shock at first and a delight to the eye."

The 41-year-old native of Medicine Hat, Alta., is producing There Is a Season, a book of photographs of the Canadian centennial in 1967 by Thames and Hudson of London.

Dogteam, horse back, bush plane and Cadillac have been some of his means of getting around the country since he undertook the assignment. But he hasn't neglected the rest of the world.

Out of a three-month stay in Japan last spring will come Dust Before the Wind, a book of color photos.

A personality file of photographs of "people who do things," a project that Beny began as a hobby, will be ready in book form shortly.

He is working on three books of photographs that examine the great ages of man—classical Greece, imperial Rome and the Renaissance—for the Time-Life book division.

EXHIBIT AT EXPO
In November Beny goes to London for an exhibition of textiles and photographs. He will also have a large contribution in the photographic exhibition at Expo 67 in Montreal.

At a cocktail party in London last December, he met Helen Jackson, a charming and attractive former stage manager. She became his secretary and accompanied him on his latest round of travels in Canada.

Beny's dark, curly hair makes him look younger than his 41 years but his accomplishments, in terms of sheer volume, suggest someone much older.

From years spent in the Mediterranean area he has produced: An Aegean Notebook, 20 lithographs published in Lethbridge in 1950; The Thrones of Heaven and Earth, dazzling photographs of the ruins of ancient Mediterranean civilizations published in 1958 by Thames and Hudson; A Time of Gods, a companion volume to Thrones published in 1962 by the same publisher, and Pleasure of Ruins, in which he interpreted in photographs the texts of Dame Rose Macaulay.

Primarily a painter before he lost his equipment in Spain and was forced to depend on his camera for sketches, he had 25 one-man shows of his paintings in Europe and North America by 1962.

He has provided articles and photographs for such magazines as Harper's Bazaar, the Sunday Times of London, Chatelaine and Queen.

His friends, some of whom have provided texts for his photographic works, include Thames and Hudson publisher Dr. Walter Nevath, Jean Cocteau, Noel Coward, Herbert Read, Stephen Spender, Freya Stark, Julian and Lady Huxley, J. B. Priestley, Sir Laurence Olivier and Peggy Guggenheim.

A voracious reader (Thomas

Mann, Chekhov, Gogol) as a youth, he took art lessons from a woman in Medicine Hat, later winning a scholarship for two summers of instruction at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

He found he could not work with others and preferred to be alone, also that he was not interested in talk about cars in which his father, an auto dealer, used to engage with Roloff's older brother Charles.

Feeling hemmed in, he wanted to get away. He studied English, philosophy, art history and architecture at the University of Toronto.

In Ontario he gave many exhibitions of his paintings, the theme of which usually was the Prairies during the Depression—"the dereliction of farms, churches, space and natural phenomena."

Strangely, the Prairie life he had sought to escape remained in his work, giving it depth and perspective.

He studied graphic art techniques at the University of Iowa in 1945 on a fellowship, and studied art history and archeology on scholarships at Columbia and New York universities.

Beny was living in a cold water flat on New York's East Side when he got his break in 1947. His color engravings, Ecclesiastes, had won him a prize at the Brooklyn International Museum and this brought him to the attention of the Knoedler Gallery, agents for the Boston and Harvard museums, which purchased the complete set for $1,000.

The next day he moved to a penthouse on Madison Avenue.

He went to Greece the same year as a guest student at the American School of Classical Studies in Athens.

In Paris in 1952 he won a $3,000 Guggenheim fellowship in art and returned to New York to produce Aegean Notebook.

Today he has studios in New York and London but his headquarters is a 12-room penthouse apartment in Rome.

He hasn't had a real vacation in 10 years and still isn't ready to slow down.

"Photography," he says, "still has such an explosive message to give esthetically."

Introducing the tuned car. 1966 Buick.

What makes a car a car is styling, performance, braking and ride and handling. Only when they're all tuned together is the car a Buick.

We tuned the 1966 Buick. Not just the engine, but the whole car. We tuned all the elements. Like you would the instruments in an orchestra. And just as the tuned orchestra gives the effect of one-ness, the tuned car says blended perfection from bumper to bumper and road-line to roof-line.

Tuned Performance. We tuned Buick performance. Not just by increasing the efficiency of the six Buick engines, but by tuning everything that translates this power into activity. The transmission, the full coil suspension, the balanced drive-shaft, the brakes. All working together. All tuned.

Tuned Ride. We tuned the traditional Buick ride. And came up with something unique. Boulevard comfort with enough road-feel to let you know you're in charge. We added extra jolt-cushioning rubber to places that get a lot of pounding. And to make you more comfortable, we added more sound-deadening insulation. The result is a very special kind of ride. A tuned ride.

Tuned Styling. We even tuned the way Buick looks. Possible? Look at any one of the Buicks. Every sweeping line and gentle curve suggests motion. Inside and out, the car has been designed to move. And to say so. Quietly. But emphatically. That's tuned styling.

Drive the 1966 Buick. Riviera, Electra 225, Wildcat, LeSabre, Skylark or Special Deluxe. They're all Buicks. All tuned cars. All tuned to you. Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Young Canadian volunteers in foreign countries hard-headed

Young Canadian volunteers working in developing countries—318 now are on assignments on three continents—are a hard-headed lot without missionary zeal.

The young people, most of them recent university graduates with a salting of working professionals, are under the sponsorship of the Canadian University Service Overseas (CUSO) which receives financial support from the federal government and private sources. Provincial governments also make a small contribution.

CUSO went into operation during 1961 and by the summer of 1965 it had 150 Canadians working in developing countries on two-year assignments. Interest in the project increased so that by this September 168 more volunteers had gone abroad to Asia, Africa and South America. The total would have been 208 but 40 others who were scheduled to go to India had to be left behind at the last minute due to the outbreak of fighting between India and Pakistan.

The most striking thing about the volunteers — one-fifth of whom are French-speaking Canadians — is the lack of the classical missionary enthusiasm usually associated with those who participate in such projects.

This attitude is encouraged by organizers of the project who are determined that the "preachy, condescending" approach must be avoided.

SEEKS ADVENTURE

And if comments from volunteers interviewed in Montreal mean anything, they have no delusions about "saving" anyone or anything.

Among the working professionals is Linda Kachmar, 20, of Montreal, who has worked as a secretary since graduating from high school and has taken courses related to her work at McGill and Sir George Williams universities in that city. Miss Kachmar, who speaks English, French and now Fanti-Twi—the dialect of the region to which she has been assigned—will work to establish a commerce department at Holy Names girls' secondary school in Cape Coast, Ghana, on the west coast of Africa.

"I'm not going because of a missionary state of mind," Miss Kachmar said. "It's more for adventure and a reaching for a sense of usefulness than anything else."

"I've always wanted to travel and so I applied as a volunteer when I learned that CUSO needed people with business experience. When I was asked if I would accept the business department assignment I saw it as an opportunity to prove my usefulness to myself and, of course, to others."

FORMS CHARACTER TEST

Self-interest, as distinct from selfishness, was also expressed by a young married couple from the University of Western Ontario, Dr. Ross Laing and his wife Pauline, who are 25 and 24 years old respectively.

Mrs. Laing, who has been teaching English at a secondary school in London, Ont., and expects to do the same with CUSO, said she considered her new undertaking "a valuable experience for us."

"Our generation has no real challenges compared to the generations that went through the depression and the Second World War—we need something to test our resources and adaptability and it is fortunate we can find this test in less dramatic and tragic circumstances than faced by those who came before us."

Dr. Laing, a psychiatrist who has been posted as a district medical officer in Tanzania, said he expects the experience should help him to obtain a better perspective of Canada's role in world affairs.

"In order to function well in any society we have to be able to take an objective look at it and living and working under conditions so remote from our own will, I'm sure, help us to understand better our own country, its role and our role in it."

James Geros, a science graduate of the University of British Columbia, and his wife Marion, a graduate of St. Boniface School of nursing, Winnipeg, will spend the next two years working in Uganda.

Mr. Geros, whose home is Vancouver, said the venture will provide him with an invaluable opportunity to continue his studies in bacteriology.

During the familiarization courses which CUSO volunteers take the lecturers, most of whom are university professors, emphasize that they are going to work at secondary positions under local conditions of employment.

To qualify, a volunteer must:

- Be adaptable and flexible.
- Be able to communicate accurately.
- Have the capacity to inspire confidence.
- Have patience and humility.
- Have kindness without sentimentality.
- Have sensitivity—"the ability to perceive subtle differences which warns him to stop what he is doing altogether or merely pursue another course."

—Have empathy — "which means the ability and willingness to see things from the other person's point of view. This involves a readiness to find out and understand features of the cultural, social and religious life of the colleagues among whom he works."

—Have the ability to respect that which the volunteer does not understand.

MEMORIES REVIVED — Memories flood back to Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker as he visits the old Saskatchewan homestead he built with his father and brother Elmer in 1905, two years after they moved from Toronto to Rosthern, Sask. Mr. Diefenbaker took a day off Sunday from the campaign trail to see the now-abandoned house for the first time in 15 years.

Scotstown social activities

Mrs. Gilbert Doherty spent a week in Farnham, guest of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. H. MacIver, Kenneth Smith and Mrs. Brian Beers and son, Brian Jr.

Mrs. Herbert Jolliff and Mrs. Lloyd Hutchenson of Sherbrooke were recent guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dannie MacLean. Other guests at the same home were Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Rudd, Bury.

Mrs. Andrew Hendehson is spending a holiday in Marshboro, guest of her sister, Mrs. Duncan Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell of Detroit, Mich., visited the latter's sister, Mrs. John M. MacIver and Mr. Campbell's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dannie Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Freddie M. MacKenzie of Smith Falls, Ont., are visiting their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John E. MacDonald, Mrs. Murdo Graham and other relatives and friends.

Relatives and friends of Miss Inez Nicholson, who with her brother Mr. Laurence Nicholson, Sarasota, Fla., have been visiting Miss Mary and Mrs. Leslie Macleod in Milan, will regret to hear Miss Nicholson suffered a fall on Sept. 30 and is a patient in Sherbrooke Hospital, suffering from four fractures, shoulder, forearm, hip and leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ozzie Thomas and family, Michael and Myrna, of Dixville were recent guests of Mrs. Thomas' mother, Mrs. John Simpson.

BROOKBURY

Friends of Mrs. George Lebourveau will be glad to know she has so far recovered after her recent stay in the Sherbrooke Hospital, where she underwent surgery, as to be able to return home.

Canadian commercial fishermen caught 12,000,000 pounds of swordfish in 1964, three times the catch of 1960.

Brome

Mrs. George Lawrence, St. Catharines, Ont., and Mrs. R. Dewing, Sherbrooke, were visiting their aunt, Mrs. Myrtle Rhicard.

The Ladies Guild of St. John's Church, met in the Parish hall on Sept. 29 with Mrs. J. C. Soles as hostess. Mrs. Soles won the mystery parcel.

It was decided that members would give money instead of having a food sale. The next meeting will be in the hall on Oct. 20 with Mrs. Winnie Vail as hostess. It will be the last afternoon meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rhicard were called to Belcherston, Mass., by the death of their sister-in-law, Mrs. M. Rhicard. Others from here who attended the funeral of their aunt were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rhicard, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Richard and two children, and Mr. Winston Rhicard.

SOUTH BOLTON

Mr. and Mrs. Stairs and Anne were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Cameron.

Capt. and Mrs. Sabinsky, and their two sons, St. Lambert, spent the weekend at their cottage here.

Student-built machine teaches math to pupils

FALCONBRIDGE, Ont. (CP)—A 15-stage electronic computer built entirely by students 11 to 13 years old is the means of introducing modern mathematics to the school at the RCAF station a few miles east of Sudbury.

Constructing the computer was the project assigned to Grade 7 and 8 students—five boys and 12 girls—a year ago by principal Henry Brown, a great believer in the idea of learning by doing.

During coming months the new Grade 7s and 8s will follow up by building a memory bank for the computer. The job of building the computer was more than merely an exercise in mathematics—the students had to do research covering the fields of history, geography and applied sciences as well.

They began by doing research on the history of numbers and then made the transition to electronics, becoming aware that the electric switch and the binary system of counting are the basis of the simple computer.

It took the students 4½ months of concentrated work, most of it outside school hours, to complete the first two stages of the project. And it took them another 750 man-hours to build the computer, a huge pegboard of small electric lights operated by a maze of wires and switches.

RAISED $400 But before construction could begin there was the problem of money for parts and equipment that had to be bought. Through bottle drives and candy sales, the students raised $400. From friends and parents on the station they got broken radio sets from which they salvaged parts.

The next step was to learn the basics of electronics—how to read a wiring diagram, how to solder, the functions of transistors, condensers and resistors, and most important of all, how to put 110 volts across a diode bridge to give a 6.3-volt output with which to operate the computer.

Only on occasion did the computer-makers turn to an expert for advice and then it was found the trouble was usually nothing but a faulty transistor. A major problem was how to feed information into the machine. The answer, if not immediately obvious, was simple—use a telephone dial with its 10 impulses.

Then came the big moment—the demonstration night for parents. It was a full-scale lecture on how and why a computer works—the children acting as teachers and the parents as pupils.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Guilbault were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Cote, Howick.

Mr. and Mrs. John Proce were guests of Mrs. Thomas Cochrane in Masog.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Lee were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lee at Mount Orford. Guests at the Lee home were Mr. and Mrs. Cedric McKelvey, the Misses Sharon and Heather McKelvey, all of Magog.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. Fred Kellar, Ingston, Ont., and Mr. Raymond Brown, Port Arthur, were called here by the illness of their mother, Mrs. E. Eldridge, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Garth Eldridge; and John Harvison son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Harvison. Each boy was presented with a cross and a lighted candle in token of his ministry.

At the Eucharist in St. Paul's Church, on Oct. 3 Rev. R. G. Albiston commissioned as servers, Robert, Peter and William

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young and family, North Troy, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Young and family.

The Doctor Says

LITTLE MEDICAL KNOWLEDGE IS A VERY DANGEROUS THING

By Wayne G. Brandstadt M.D.

Although self-medication has become one of America's favorite indoor sports it is far from being one of the safest. The idea that, if a little of something is good, a lot is better has led to dangerous overdoses of many otherwise useful drugs.

Sleeping pills and tranquilizers are often taken for indefinite periods. This can only do harm because you become dependent on them, and when you stop taking them you are often worse off than before you started. For any chronic condition it is better to consult your doctor and work out a long-range program that will either remove the cause of your trouble or enable you to live in relative comfort.

Pep pills, too, are dangerous because they encourage you to keep going when you should be resting. They are thus the underlying cause of countless traffic accidents and industrial injuries. When you treat yourself you are using a drug all of whose effects you do not know for a condition whose cause has not been determined. At the same time you are making symptoms that will help to lead your doctor to the proper diagnosis. Since symptoms are warnings that something is wrong, it is best to find out what is causing them before, not after, relieving them.

Furthermore, while you are fiddling around trying out one or more widely advertised remedies you may be fiddling while Rome burns by delaying treatment for a disease in the proper handling of which every hour counts. Another self-deluding practice is to take the rest of a prescription used by another person for similar symptoms but most likely for another disease. You must remember too, that everyone does not react in the same way to a given drug. The drug that helps 99 persons in 100 may set up an acute allergic reaction in you.

One of the most abused organs of the body is the skin. Many a chronic eczema has been caused by improper treatment of a simple dermatitis with an irritating preparation purchased over the counter. These are often cleared up by substituting a soothing lotion or simply by stopping all medication.

Here is an example of ill-advised self-medication. A reader writes that he drinks a lot of beer every weekend and takes water pills on Monday "to relieve the excess fluid". He wonders whether this will harm his kidneys.

There are several kinds of water pills with various undesirable side effects but none of them harm the kidneys. On the other hand no one whose heart and kidneys are normal needs to take water pills no matter how much fluid he drinks.

Couple Feted at Richmond on silver wedding

RICHMOND — A 25th wedding anniversary party was held Oct. 2 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Pope, Craig Road, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fuller of Sherbrooke, formerly of Richmond.

The bride of 25 years was presented with a corsage of pink carnations and the groom with a white carnation boutonniere, after which congratulations were extended and the evening was spent socially.

A buffet dinner was served the table being decorated with silver bowls of autumn flowers. White lighted tapers in silver holders completed the decor.

Mr. Charles Armstrong presented the honored couple with a money tree. Mr. and Mrs. Fuller were the recipients of many cards and gifts.

Mr. Fuller expressed appreciation on behalf of his wife and himself.

Included among guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Armstrong, the Misses Jean, Edith, Esther and Myrtle Pepler, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fuller, Mrs. William Fuller and their son George Fuller of Montreal. Their other son, John Fuller of Sherbrooke, was unable to be present.

Mrs. Fuller was the former Marion Pepler, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Pepler of Richmond. Mr. Fuller was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Fuller.
