SYNOPSIS

A large low near Gaspe this morning is maintaining cloud rain winds and cool temperatures in all our regions. This system will persist today and therefore conditions in our province will not change very much. Thursday however the system will weaken and a ridge of high pressure will reign over western Quebec. It will bring back the sun and warmer temperatures and eastern Quebec will clear.

Food price hikes hit the roof

OTTAWA (CP) — The highest food price increases in six years helped push the cost of living up by 1.4 per cent last month, Statistics Canada reported today.

The federal agency said food prices soared in May by 3.3 per cent, led by beef and imported fresh vegetables such as tomatoes and lettuce.

The 12-month inflation rate in May was nine per cent, the highest rate since last December, and a departure from the one-month moderation in April which resulted from the reduction of provincial retail sales taxes provided in the federal government's April budget.

Prices of beef, which is the largest meat item for most consumers, rose by 10.5 per cent in the month and were 52.5 per cent higher than a year earlier. In recent years, however, beef prices have been largely depressed because of over-supply, producers say.

Fresh vegetable prices were up 22.2 per cent in May from April and were 39.3 per cent higher than in May, 1977.

The jump in food prices accounted for about seven-tenths of the over-all increase in the cost of living.

The 1.4-per-cent rise in the over-all cost of living was the highest since July, 1975, before mandatory wage-and-price controls were brought in by the government in October of that year. Food prices are largell uncontrolled by the program, which the government began dismantling in April.

Besides food, higher housing charges and costs of tobacco and alcohol increased the index. Non-food prices rose by sixtenths of one per cent in May, 6.2 per cent in the 12-month period.

The consumer price index, which is the most widely-used measure of inflation, stood at 173.6 in May, compared with 171.2 in April and 159.2 in May, 1977.

That means a standard selection of consumer goods and services costing $173.60 in May, would have been valued at $171.20 in April and $159.20 a year earlier in May.

Chretien defends tax moves

Quebec 'doesn't give a damn'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Quebec government is interested only in protecting its own economy and "does not give a damn" about the rest of the Canadian market, Finance Minister Jean Chretien said Tuesday.

Chretien told the Commons that the strategy of the Parti Quebecois government is to make Ottawa look bad. Therefore, people should not be surprised when there is disagreement between the two levels of government.

The finance minister made the comments as he defended the Liberal government's decision to proceed with a system of income tax rebates to the majority of Quebec taxpayers as a means of solving the nineweek-old sales tax dispute with the province.

The finance minister also was the target of a bitter opposition party attack for moving to shut off debate on the subject for the second time in a week.

The government forced an end to clause-by-clause study of the measures contained in the April 10 budget.

The bill puts the budget proposals into law. It also allows the federal government to send out cheques of up to $85 to Quebec taxpayers in lieu of across-the-board sales tax cuts.

Opposition Leader Joe Clark said Chretien has shown his contempt for Parliament by twice limiting debate on the government proposals.

LA TRIBUNE SUSPENDS PUBLICATION

SHERBROOKE (AF) — La Tribune has ceased publication indefinitely, following a directive issued by its president and editor, Yvon Dube last evening.

Some 30 La Tribune employees were ordered to leave the building after having spent Monday night and Tuesday in the cafeteria, protesting a management decision to withhold the day's salary of anyone who participates in a slowdown.

At 6 p.m. yesterday, employees were asked to leave the cafeteria and were informed that publication of the daily for June 13 and 14 was 'irreparably compromised' due to the frequency of work stoppages and the progressively later publication time.

The paper has been the target of a series of work slowdowns by various departments which began on June 7 and which culminated Monday evening with the total work stoppage, at which time all employees gathered in the cafeteria.

Tribune management says it has no choice but to acknowledge the existence of a strike conducted by its local 145 of the Union of Typographique Jacques-Cartier.

The employees of the paper have been without a contract since the end of the month of March last year and began using pressure tactics in order to force the company to the negotiating table.

Grits answer patronage charge

OTTAWA (CP) — The government defended itself against one accusation of patronage Tuesday and faced a renewal of two more accusations of improper links with the corporate world.

In the Commons, Conservative Elmer MacKay (Central Nova) linked federal and Quebec Liberals in the awarding of contracts for construction in the capital area.

And New Democrat Leader Ed Broadbent touched on that matter and once again brought up the possibility of conflict of interest involving former finance minister Donald Macdonald, now working in private industry.

Outside the Commons, Public Works Minister Judd Buchanan denied that there was any patronage involved in construction of a multi-million-dollar building in neighboring Hull, Que. He was answering statements made last week.

MacKay said Tuesday he has reason to believe two former Liberal cabinet ministers, Jean Marchand in the federal cabinet and Oswald Parent, who served as minister of inter-governmental affairs in the Bourassa Liberal government of Quebec, collaborated to make sure certain firms were in a favored position to get contracts in the capital region.

He said he has evidence the two drew up short lists of eligible companies before officials of the National Capital Commission (NCC), the agency in charge of development of federal lands in the Ottawa-Hull region, had a chance to put major contracts up for bids.

Broadbent continued efforts to get the government to admit that Macdonald acted improperly in accepting a directorship with a large aircraft company, nine months after leaving the federal cabinet.

"The minister should have exercised more discretion in terms of time in moving to a corporation which was involved in serious negotiations involving millions of dollars with the federal government," Broadbent said.

The company in question, McDonnell-Douglas Corp., now is bidding for a $2.3-billion contract to supply fighter planes to the defence department.

Buchanan rejected in a newspaper interview charges made last week by Douglas Fullerton, former NCC chairman.

PM lashes Opposition over Treu challenge

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition MPs were accused by a shouting Prime Minister Trudeau Tuesday of attempting to interfere with justice when they demanded he personally intervene in the case of Alexander Peter Treu, convicted in a secret trial of Official Secrets Act violations.

In a display of emotion, Trudeau took a tough line against Conservative Leader Joe Clark, who demanded a new trial in the name of civil rights, and former prime minister John Diefenbaker, who termed Treu's trial "a disgraceful travesty of justice."

"Every notion of the Bill of Rights with which I am acquainted says that justice must follow its course and there should be no interference from politicians, such as we see on the other side of the House, into the judicial process," Trudeau said.

Gerald Baldwin (PC—Peace River) later turned Trudeau's accusations upside down saying what the Opposition is after "is interfering with injustice."

Baldwin, the MP who has spearheaded a weeks-long campaign against the Treu trial and the secrets act, has been appointed Treu's co-counsel and plans to meet with him today.

Treu, a 56-year-old defence communications system designer for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), was sentenced last month to two years in prison. He was convicted of twice violating the secrets act for unauthorized handling of classified documents.

ARGUE LOUDLY

Trudeau had a loud exchange of words with Diefenbaker, MP for Prince Albert and lawyer since 1919. The MP called Treu's case a scandalous, grave injustice.

BULLROAR OR MORE?

OTTAWA (CP) — A remark by Prime Minister Trudeau Tuesday that some spectators understood as vulgarity was written in the official Commons record as the words: "Absolute bunk."

Arguing with former prime minister John Diefenbaker, Trudeau said what sounded to some listeners to be the words "absolute bull . . ."

After listening to tape recordings some listeners were divided on whether Trudeau said bull . . ., bullroar or bullrush, or bunk. A draft copy of Hansard, the official Commons record decided he said bunk.

The prime minister was not asked to repeat the remark outside the Commons.

Some years ago reporters did ask what Trudeau had said when Opposition MPs accused him of vulgarity.

Trudeau replied he had said fuddle duddle. The word now has become part of the Canadian political lexicon.

DRIVERS FACE 5-YEAR TESTS

Quebec drivers will have to take tests every five or 10 years, starting next year.

Ghislain Laflamme, director of the Quebec Motor Vehicle Bureau, said the tests will definitely include a written exam and the standard medical tests of reflexes and eyesight.

But the bureau has not yet decided whether road tests will also be given, or whether the tests should be give or 10 years apart.

"It will depend on what facilities we will have to have, and on what testing system our studies show would reduce the number of bad drivers the most," he said.

When drivers' licences are issued now, motorists are not required to take another test until the age of 70, unless they exceed the point limits under the demerit system for driving offences.

Laflamme said the driver re-call system would help weed out bad drivers and ensure that motorists are following driving regulations.

Details of the system, he said, will be decided between now and next spring.

The bureau is now awaiting a study on whether it would be worthwhile to include practical tests in the exam.

The bureau now has 200 examiners on staff, and would need about 800 if road tests were given at 10-year intervals, Laflamme said.

Of the 3 million licensed drivers in Quebec, he said, more than 2 million have had their driving permits for 10 years or more.

"But we are already processing an average of 500,000 tests a year, so if we want to have a test each 10-year period one study shows, we'll have to multiply our staff by four," he said.

At the moment, the bureau favors testing at 10-year intervals.

Laflamme said the medical tests could pinpoint such things as changes in a driver's eyesight over a 10-year period.

He said the recall program is the bureau's next step in a safety program that includes seat belt legislation and reduced speed limits.

UNION CHIEF RAPS LOCAL P.O.

SHERBROOKE (AF) — Workers at the Sherbrooke Post Office are being intimidated and provoked amid deteriorating working relations, the head of the Sherbrooke local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers has charged.

Luc Lemay, president of the 500-member local, laid the blame directly on Postmaster Lucien Laporte, whom he says has goaded the union and its members since he took over the post.

"Since Mr. Laporte's nomination to the position of Sherbrooke's postmaster general, supervisors have not ceased in intimidating and provoking union representatives and militants," Lemay charged in a statement released yesterday.

"The balance sheet of the attacks on union representatives and militants has provided the following results: The dismissal of the union president following the July 1977 conflict, eight to 10 suspensions with expulsion orders from the post office, about 10 suspensions from one to 10 days, one of 20 days and, most recently -- within the past week -- the suspension of two workroom staff."

Lemay said the union feels Laporte "is looking to provoke another work conflict which at this precise moment would not do otherwise than to serve his own interests."

Members of the Sherbrooke local met Sunday "and adopted a resolution aimed at not letting themselves be bludgeoned by their employer and to undertake action if postmaster general Lucien Laporte and his supervisors don't change their attitude."

"It's too bad if the public pays the price of the provocation politics and intimidation established by postmaster Laporte," Lemay added.

He said the public must understand that the post office workers don't have any other choice than to defend themselves from such an outlook.

Canoe tragedy victims lived 12 hours

VILLE MARIE, Que. (CP) — Eighteen survivors of a canoeing accident on Lake Timiskaming during a wilderness training expedition were reunited Tuesday with anguished friends and parents in a local civic centre.

Many survivors wept, happy to be alive, but saddened by the drownings on Sunday of 12 school friends and an instructor at St. John's school during a violent storm on the northwestern Quebec lake.

Parents and friends had boarded a chartered bus after names of the victims were read Monday night at the private boys' school in Claremont, Ont., about 35 kilometres northeast of Toronto.

Meanwhile, Coroner Dr. Leonard Julien of Rouyn, Que., said some of the 13 victims spent as long as 12 hours in the water, which was about 6 degrees Celsius, before they drowned.

Dr. Julien said all the victims were wearing "good life jackets . . . attached to the neck and stomach."

The coroner said the victims might have been suffering from exposure before they drowned but the effects of the cold would not be known until the autopsies were completed.

RETURNED TODAY

Police said the bodies of the teacher, 21, and the dead students, all between 12 and 14 years, will be flown today to Toronto.

The 18 survivors, including three teachers and 15 boys, returned home early today.

A memorial service will be held Friday in an Anglican church in west-end Toronto. An inquest will be held within four weeks.

The tragedy occurred after a group from the school, which teaches self-reliance and survival, began canoeing up the lake, about 370 kilometres northwest of Ottawa.

The group, 27 boys between 10 and 15 and four instructors in four canoes, apparently was unaware of a severe storm advisory that ha been issued for the area only hours earlier.

Richard Bird, a professor from Queen's University in Kingston, Ont., and a counsellor who accompanied the 31-member group, wept as he told a news conference how he rescued three boys from the lake, only to have them die later.

WERE TO MEET

He said the expedition set out from Temiscaming, Que., about 8:15 a.m. EDT Sunday in only light winds bound for Moosonee, Ont., on James Bay, about 350 kilometres north of here, to meet an older group of 20 students and teachers from St. John's.

The other group, who had set out on Saturday from Wawa, Ont., were told of the accident Tuesday at their campsite, about 130 kilometres north of Sault Ste. Marie.

They were returning home today.

Bird, the navigator on the trip, said three of the canoes each carried nine boys and an instructor and one carried six boys and instructor Peter Cain, 37.

Manpower sponsors Student Week

SHERBROOKE (PT) — People might hire a student if they were made aware that students were enthusiastic and would do a good job, and in efforts to drive this point across, the Canadian Manpower Office is sponsoring a Student Week from June 27 to 30.

Co-sponsored by the City of Sherbrooke, the week is planned to make people aware of the employment situation, encouraging them to hire a student to do something.

Gilles Roy, who is responsible for publicity for the local branch, stresses that many householders have work they want done and that students would do the work well.

The week opens with a press conference at which Sherbrooke Mayor Jacques O'Bready will address invited students, employees and members of the press. On Wednesday, June 28, a student march will leave the St. Michel School at the corner of King and Wellington at 3:30 p.m. All students are invited to participate. Information pamphlets will be handed out along the yet-undecided route.

During Thursday and Friday a booth will be set up at Carrefour de l'Estrie to distribute information to the public.

Roy is sure that once potential employers in both the private and public sector are aware, more students will be able to obtain jobs.

Corn sales increase projected

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — There is potential for increasing Ontario corn sales to the Atlantic provinces by at least 50 per cent, John McAnulty of the Prince Edward Island grain marketing commission said Tuesday.

He told members of the Ontario Grain Dealers' Association that Ontario corn is becoming an increasingly important factor in the Atlantic provinces.

"In 1973, corn accounted for 7.5 per cent of total feed imports or about 29,000 tons. In 1976, shipments had risen to 115,000 tons of Ontario corn, accounting for 35.8 per cent of total imports."

McAnulty said there also is potential for increased sales of Ontario barley and oats.

Businesses use tax rulings

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons finance commitee was told Tuesday that business "is taking more and more advantage of advance tax rulings— they are coming to us in flocks now."

D.L.H. Davidson, assistant deputy minister for taxation, responding to Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton-West), said there have been hardly any complaints about the minimum $150 fee for the rulings.

Advance tax rulings, which are binding, apply primarily to businesses. They seek advice about how much tax they will have to pay on potential businesses takeovers or mergers.

Davidson said other questions—about allowable deductions and personal income tax returns are answered free by the department.

Lambert said the tax department "must work for the development of Canadian business."

Business operations should have the option of arranging their affairs so they will have to pay the minimum tax.

Taxation policy should be used as an instrument for encouraging development of businesses, but instead policies have "hamstrung Canadian business activity," Lambert said.

Wholesale index climbs

OTTAWA (CP) — The general wholesale index rose 1.8 per cent to 599.3 in April from 588.5 in March, Statistics Canada reported Monday.

The report showed the index, based on 1935-1939 equalling 100, was 6.9 per cent higher than in April, 1977, with the greatest effect coming from wood, iron, vegetables and non-ferrous metals.

The wood products index rose 3.7 per cent in the month, reflecting a 7.4 per cent price increase for newsprint and wrapping paper, while the iron index went up 2.1 per cent, due partly to a 2.4 per cent price increase on rolling mill products.

Vegetable products showed a 1.6-per-cent increase, grains going up 5.7 per cent, rubber up 5.8 per cent but fresh fruit declining 22 per cent.

A 4.4-per-cent price increase for copper contributed significantly to the 2.2-per-cent increase in the non-ferrous metals index, the report said.

Public servants receive pay hike

OTTAWA (CP) — The 2,000 highest-ranking federal public servants will immediately get $2,400 across-the-board salary increases, Treasury Board President Robert Andras announced Monday.

Andras said the increase is a first step towards restoring parity with salaries of senior executives in the private sectors.

The sixth report of the advisory group on executive compensation in the public service recommended the increase Monday, saying that wage and price controls had caused public service executives to fall behind their counterparts in private enterprise.

The $2,400 increase is the maximum allowed under wage and price controls. It amounts to an increase of 8.3 per cent for those at the lowest executive salaries, and 3.4 per cent for the highest-paid deputy ministers.

With the increase, salaries for about 330 deputy ministers and heads of government boards, commissions, tribunals and agencies will range from $45,400 to $73,200.

Salaries for 1,700 senior officials will range from $31,400 to $61,200.

The advisory group, composed of prominent private sector executives headed by Allen T. Lambert, former chairman of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, was set up in 1967 to make recommendations to the government on pay and conditions of employment of executive personnel in the public service.

Economy — unity link probed

MONTREAL (CP) — Distribution of economic power and control of development are certainly more fundamental stakes in the Canadian unity crisis than strictly linguistic or cultural problems.

That is why heads of business seem involved more and more in the political discussion and struggles over Quebec sovereignty or Canadian unity.

While the Conseil des Hommes d'Affaires Quebecois (Quebec Council of Businessmen) supports the Levesque government, most of the management associations, notably through the voice of the Conseil du Patronat du Quebec, seldom miss an opportunity to criticize the government or oppose it. Other important businessmen such as Mr. (Pierre) Desmarais and Mr. (Maurice) Sauve have in some way entered or returned to active politics by presiding over or taking part in groups devoted to the cause of Canadian unity.

But heads of business have other problems to deal with.

In many ways, industrialists find themselves at the centre of events. Oddly enough, we know very little about these people, who generally avoid public life even though they exercise considerable power.

PORTRAIT DRAWN

That is why, using some of the results of a 1974 research project involving 300 industrial heads of companies in Quebec, we have drawn up a summary portrait of this group.

Characteristic sociological traits that may be singled out vary greatly according to the type of company examined. Thus, in companies with 50 to 500 salaried workers, it's the owner who, in 90 per cent of the cases, deals with day-to-day management. On the other hand, in 97 per cent of the large companies, the main shareholders only surface at the level of the board of directors, delegating their power to professional managers.

The industrialist is well-off financially. Even though not always the principal shareholder, he is rarely (12.7 per cent of cases) not an investor in his firm (78 per cent of cases) or in another firm. In 1973, his annual income from his company was an average of $64,000, to which could be added revenue from other investments.

The manager of a company with more than 1,000 workers had almost double that income—$123,000 a year. The highest salary recorded in our results was more than $350,000.

The "average" president (but some will say can a president be average?) is a man about 50 years old. He reached his position at 40. Before arriving at the company, he worked for two or three employers and before rising to his current position, he was promoted through three or four other jobs by his company.

These steps may have been skipped if he founded his own business (21 per cent of cases) or if our average president bought an existing firm (14 per cent). Among his colleagues, there are an appreciable number of executives (15.9 per cent) who inherited the firm, or a share of one.

Founders certainly had to roll up their sleeves to start up a company, but most often they did not start empty-handed. Their fathers often owned (56 per cent) an industrial or commercial company which means in 59 per cent of the cases they had the advantage of personal means or funds from parents or friends for initial financing. Banks only helped out in 27.7 per cent of the cases.

It is therefore relatively difficult to start a company without having a personal fortune. Despite this, close to 14 per cent of the founders were originally workers (three per cent of the whole sample).

Generally speaking, company heads come from a well-to-do social milieu. In 63.4 per cent of the cases, their fathers were owners or senior executives in a company (10.8 per cent of the population of Quebec in 1941).

The sons of workers made up 15.6 per cent, a figure relatively low compared to the proportion of workers among the population (51.8 per cent for this generation). Among these, 56 per cent are of French-Canadian origin.

Compared with other men of their generation, company chiefs are frequently university trained. While only two per cent of the general population had attained this level of education, 54 per cent of the presidents had studied at university. Among their colleagues, however, 10 per cent quit school at the primary level, while 34 per cent had a high school education.

Of those who went to university, 39.7 per cent took science or engineering, 23.3 per cent commerce and 20.6 per cent administration.

It may seem surprising that the majority, 55.4 per cent, of our industrial chiefs studied in universities outside Quebec, 40.8 per cent of these in a foreign country. Quebec universities supplied 44.6 per cent. McGill University is the highest, attended by 18.4 per cent of the presidents. The University of Montreal had 13.3 per cent, of whom 7.3 per cent studied at its Ecole des Hautes Etudes Commerciales. The University of Western Ontario trained 5.5 per cent of the graduate industrialists. Finally, 3.4 per cent came from Harvard.

In the Quebec situation, probably what is most striking is the national and ethnic composition of this group, particularly because French-Canadians are feebly represented in the ownership and management of companies.

BANKING INDUSTRY OUTLOOK "PROMISING"

Investors interested in acquiring shares of Canadian banks should "make their decisions in the near future," advises Wood Gundy Ltd. in its current Guide to Investment.

The Toronto-based investment firm says both the recently introduced Bank Act proposals and the report of the Royal Commission on Corporate Concentration have focused attention on the "very promising outlook" for the banking industry.

"Taken together, the bank bill and the commission's report can only be regarded as creating a positive environment for investors, and this was been reflected particularly in the recent market action of bank shares," says the monthly publication.

In addition, second-quarter reports from the banks "have not disappointed our bullish expectations of 25-per-cent earnings growth for the system this year."

"Despite this combination of favorable factors, the Canadian banks continue to sell at unusually low multiples, all the major banks selling at not much above five times estimated earnings."

"We therefore believe the Canadian banks have interesting potential," Wood Gundy says.

"We think that their share prices, between now and Christmas, will be enhanced, primarily by very strong 1978 earnings and perhaps also by some earnings-multiple improvement.

EXPECT GROWTH

"For the fiscal year beginning Nov. 1, 1978, we expect that earnings will grow at 10 to 12 per cent but that bank shares will enjoy significant multiple improvements."

However, the investment firm warns that investors may have little time to make favorable acquisitions.

"A danger facing prospective investors in Canadian bank shares, we believe, is that they could suddenly find themselves deprived of an outstanding opportunity by the 'panic buying' prevalent in North American stock markets in recent weeks.

"We therefore urge investors who are considering buying bank shares to make their decisions in the near future."

The investment guide, which describes Canadian chartered banks as top-quality investments of world rank, recommends the purchase of Bank of Montreal and Royal Bank of Canada shares, "although all five major banks are attractive on a 12-month basis."

The other three are the Bank of Nova Scotia, Toronto Dominion Bank and the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

But, it concludes, "smaller banks also present some interesting opportunities, although these must be looked at on an individual basis."

Diamonds touch off market

SYDNEY (AP) — The prospect of a rich diamond discovery in western Australia has touched off a stock market rally and prompted an international consortium to invest millions of dollars this year on testing and exploration.

The search for diamonds is centred in the isolated Kimberley region of western Australia, which bears the same name as the huge South African diamond fields.

So far, Conzinc Rio Tinto of Australia, which last year earned $77.9 million from its interests in copper, zinc, aluminium, coal and iron ore, and its consortium partners have reported finds in kimberlite material. Kimberlite is a clay-like substance forming the core of ancient volcanoes in which diamonds are usually found.

"The finds are promising enough for us to invest $6 million this year in a testing plant and further exploration," said Conzinc's John Falk, the company's diamond expert. "You can draw your own conclusions from that."

THREE-YEAR PLAN

Conzinc executives emphasize no commercial field has been discovered, and that testing of the sites, which starts in August, could take up to three years.

"Commercial diamonds have never been found in Australia," Falk said. "But there have been the odd diamonds picked up. We think what we have found in the Kimberleys is worth chasing."

Diamond fever has made diamond-exploration shares the hottest property on the Australian market.

The Ashton consortium, of which Conzinc owns 52.7 per cent, includes Northern Mining, whose shares have moved from a low for the year of 26 cents to a high of $1.88.

Stock of other small companies in the diamond search also have increased. Alkane has gone to 26 from four cents, Western Queen to 19 from 10 cents and Otter Exploration to 40 from 15 cents.

CCA supports import quotas

The Canadian Cattlemen's Association is seeking an urgent meeting with members of the federal cabinet to discuss the matter of Canadian import quotas on offshore beef following relaxation of U.S. quotas.

Stewart Brown, president of the association, who will head the delegation to Ottawa, points out that only four months ago Ministers Horner and Whelan committed the government to a long term beef import policy for Canada. Though cattlemen would have preferred a legislated beef import act, they accepted government assurances that quota levels would be fair and that they would take into account the very serious losses incurred by cattlemen over the last four years.

While cattle prices have risen quite sharply over the last few months, says Brown, the government must recognize that the large majority of cattle producers have not enjoyed these prices as most of their cattle are sold in the fall of the year.

Big Brothers jog

SHERBROOKE (DV) — Since yesterday morning, athletes participating in the cross-Canada Big Brother benefit run are jogging on Quebec soil. The relay run was an hour ahead of schedule yesterday when one runner crossed from Edmunston, New Brunswick into Quebec under sunny skies.

A series of runners, starting from St. John, Newfoundland have been passing through the Maritimes since May 27. At the same time, another group, beginning in Victoria, B.C., has been making its way east.

The groups will meet on Parliament Hill in Ottawa next Sunday June 18, Father's day.

There are 400,000 orphaned children in Canada that the Big Brother organization seeks to aid. A big brother is an adult who will take a young orphan out hiking, camping, playing sports and other activities.

On Thursday, the runners will pass through Sherbrooke and Victoriaville. They're jogging 24 hours a day to be able to keep to their schedule.

Blanchet hearings underway

SHERBROOKE — Preliminary hearings in the cases of Gaston Blanchet, 36, of Rock Forest, president of Distribution Blanchet and Antonio Beaudoin, a 33-year-old Sherbrooke salesman, were continued to June 20 at the request of the Crown here yesterday.

The men, who renounced reading of the acts of indictment at their arraignment last month, are charged with conspiracy to defraud the Provincial Bank of Canada and having defrauded the bank of a sum of approximately $200,000. between September 1, 1976 and September 10, 1977.

Laurin visits Sherbrooke

SHERBROOKE (DV) — Quebec cultural affairs minister Camille Laurin will be in Sherbrooke Thursday to present his white paper on culture on Quebec cultural development and politics.

Laurin will meet Townships journalists between 3 and 5 p.m., followed by a civic reception at Howard's Park.

The general public is invited to hear Laurin speak at 8:30 in the U de S's business administration auditorium. Representatives from book and magazine publishing, record and film industries will also be present.

Operatic Society raises funds

The highlight of the annual general meeting of the Montreal West Operatic Society was the presentation of a cheque to the Montreal Children's Hospital, Cardiovascular Surgery Department.

Since 1956, the Society has raised, from their Gilbert & Sullivan productions each spring, over $30,000 to help further the development of research in the acardiovascular surgery field. Next spring, Montreal West Operatic Society, in honour of its 40th annual production, will be presenting "H.M.S. Pinafore". Exact dates of auditions and performances will be announced by the Society before September.

Quebec-Israel friendship night

SHERBROOKE (DV) — In commemoration of Israel's 30th anniversary, the Quebec-Israel friendship committee is holding a civic reception at the Grand Salon du Conseil, Howardene Park, 1300 Portland on June 18 at 6:30 p.m.

Mayor Jacques O'Bready has invited leaders from Sherbrooke's Jewish community, as well as other prominent citizens.

Beginning at 8 a soiree Isralienne program will be staged at the U de S Cultural Centre. The program features Israeli song and music, tourist films, humorous sketches and a sampling of Israeli wines.

In addition, there will be a drawing for a plane ticket. The winner will fly El-Al Israel airlines to Israel.

Library use up again

SHERBROOKE (PT) — The Sherbrooke Municipal Library announces that over 1,000 new books have been placed in circulation during the month of May. Of these books, 1,231 are French and 53 English.

The library was used more during May 1978 than in May 1977, statistics indicate. The number of visits and volumes signed out have both increased 16 per cent in the year. In addition, the number of people the library has served through telephone service, lectures, and reference material increased 43 per cent between May 1977 and May 1978.

Although the books signed out cover all areas, the majority are novels.

PQ meets in Granby

The conseil national of the Parti Quebecois, composed of regional and county presidents and representatives as well as provincial executives and deputies, will hold a conference in Granby this weekend.

Among the topics that will be discussed are the budget proposal and future plans of action. Two committees will be formed, one to study ethnic groups and one to look into proposals from the counties.

Reports from all the existing committees will also be received. A press conference will follow the meeting.

Film premiere tonight

SHERBROOKE (AF) — Residents of the Eastern Townships will be able to view the premier of a French documentary film this evening at 7:30 at Cinema Festival, directed by internationally-acclaimed filmmaker Chris Marker.

Entitled "Le Fond de l'air est rouge" ("The Air is Lined in Red") and subtitled "Scenes de la troisieme guerre mondaile" - 1966-1977 ("Scenes of World War III - 1966-1977"), the film focuses on the third world, Eastern Europe, China, Cuba and other places.

About 15 years of history is projected onto the screen over a period of four hours: guerrilla warfare, napalm bombings, dialogue between politicians, street fighting, interviews - all interspersed with sequences from Eisenstein's classic, The Battleship Potemkin.

A cinematographic political dialectic which is not a work of propaganda, the film is divided into parts called "The Fragile Hands" and "The Hands Which Have Been Cut Off".

This is the 57-year-old Marker's twenty-second film. He has made films with other noteworthy filmmakers such as fellow countryman Alain Resnais ("Hiroshima mon amour" and "L'annee derniere a Marienbad") and well-known Polish filmmaker, Walerian Borowczyk.

Richmond hosts Farm Day

RICHMOND — For the third year in a row, the Richmond Branch of the Quebec Farmers' Association is going to be holding a Farm Day. This year the event will be held on the farm of Robert Laberge, some three miles out of Danville on R.R. No. 1.

"A Farm Day," explained Mr. Laberge, "is a little bit like an open house. It's set up in such a way that people who aren't familiar with farms and farm life can look around and get an idea of the many facets of agriculture in the area." In addition to the sheeps, goats and beef animals which Robert Laberge raises on his farm, a variety of farm livestock will be on display. There will be the major breeds of dairy animals: Holstein, Ayrshire and Jersey; there will be pigs and fowl and even bees. As in previous years Macdonald College will have an information van on the premises to field questions.

"As we did last year," continued the Danville farmer, "we will have an exhibit of antique tools and farm machinery to give people an idea of how much farming has changed from the days of horses and primitive steel-wheeled tractors. Josee Fontaine will be there to show how wool was worked (washed first and then spun) in bygone days and someone will be making butter and cheese as they were made by our grandparents. We'll have hay rides to show people animals out in the fields and to look at different crops."

Between now and next Sunday, June 17 the Quebec Farmers' Association is going to be busy. Booths have to be set up, animals and machinery moved and Robert Laberge has to mow a field to provide parking space. Last year's Farm Day saw some 2,000 people descend on Dennis Keenan's farm in Richmond and this year's crowd is expected to be even bigger.

It should be a great day to pack a picnic and the kids into the car and drive out to the farm and find out all about farm life. The route is well marked and the Q.F.A. is supplying all the milk you can drink for free. Things start getting underway at 11 a.m. and run through until 5 p.m. All in all, a good way to spend a pleasant Sunday.

The Richmond QFA Farm Day is open to the public and provides an opportunity for those who are not familiar with farming to see some aspects of farm life.

Asbestos miners seek mediator

Representatives of 450 striking asbestos miners at Carey Canadian Ltd. of East Broughton, Que., urged Labor Minister Pierre Marc Johnson today to name a mediator in the dispute, now in its third month.

About 20 miners from the town, 80 kilometres south of here, met briefly with Johnson outside the national assembly in the presence of local assembly members Fabien Roy (Ind-Beauce Sud), Gilles Gregoire (PQ-Frontenac) and Adrien Ouellette (PQ-Beauce Nord).

Johnson told the assembly earlier that the conciliator in the dispute had been withdrawn.

Nazaire Paquet, president of the Confederation of National Trade Union local at Carey Canadian, said Johnson has told them the government would decide on the nomination of a mediator by Friday.

Negotiators cannot agree on non-monetary clauses including grievance procedures, protection of asbestosis victims and lay-off policy, as well as union rights.

Salary clauses pose no problems, one union representative said.

Carey Canadian, owned by the Jim Walter Corp. of Tampa, Fla., is the last asbestos firm in the area involved in contract talks.

DRUG RAIDS HIT AREA

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — Ray Coulombe, of South Stukely, was allowed his conditional freedom here Monday on $5,000 cash bail provided by a third party pending his preliminary hearing in Granby June 15 on a charge of having conspired with one or more persons to illegally import drugs.

His brother Reid and Ghislain Tremblay of Chicoutimi were remanded in custody pending bail and preliminary hearings June 15 on charges of conspiring to illegally import and illegal importation of restricted drugs.

James Picken of Waterloo who was granted his freedom on parole in Granby court last week following a plea of no guilt to a charge of possession of drugs with intent to traffick will be allowed his conditional freedom pending preliminary hearing June 15 on a charge of conspiracy to illegally import drugs on the condition he provide the court with $2,000 cash bail provided by a third party, inform the court of all changes of address and that he report to the Granby detachment of the QPF weekly.

Another Coulombe brother, Michel was remanded in custody pending bail and preliminary hearings June 15 on four counts of breaking and entering dwellings in Shefford County and theft of goods valued in excess of $10,000. during 1976 and 1977 as well as one charge of possession of stolen goods during 1978.

The Record has learned that two or more United States citizens who are connected with the illegal importation of cocaine and other restricted drugs have been remanded in custody pending their trials. The arraignments were the result of a combined operation by forty QPF and RCMP officers which were conducted during the early hours of June 9.

Made up of QPF officers from the Cowansville, Granby, and Sherbrooke detachments and Bedford and Granby-based RCMP, the raiding party -- armed with search and treasurer's warrants -- searched 15 homes in Waterloo, South Stukely, St. Joachim, South Roxton, and Roxton Falls.

A police spokesman said two suspects are still at large, he added, however, they would be picked up in the not-too-distant future at the convenience of the police.

Illegal importation carries a minimum seven year penitentiary term upon conviction.

This will be the first time in the history of the District of Bedford, which dates to 1859, that testimony obtained through legal wiretaps will be produced in evidence.

"Going under the hose" a relief

From Little House by Katharine Snow

Hot weather means many different things to many different people, but, when we were young, it meant only one supreme thing — "going under the hose!"

I have never since heard that particular phraseology used. Perhaps, it was an expression peculiar to the Montreal Street kids. There, it was a daily plea: "Can we go under the hose?"

In those days, of course, summer swimming belonged to the fortunate few whose families owned cottages. A swimming pool in your own back yard was a dream away, but the hose was a kid's best friend. We could put our faith in the cooling powers of streams of icy water.

Everyone on the street owned a hose — not for the entertainment of their children but for the well-being of lawns and gardens. They were left outside on a back lawn or in a garage, wound carefully on a sort of wooden pulley mounted on a stand that could be wheeled from place to place.

"Going under the hose" was never a morning thing, nor was it an evening game. It belonged strictly to the mid-afternoon. We never indulged in this sport before three o'clock. We knew that we would succumb immediately to fearful, perhaps lethal, cramps if we were bodily exposed to cold water after our noon meal. After all, we were the sophisticated generation!

By no means was going under the hose a daily pleasure. It was quite a special treat and involved much careful planning.

First was the strategy of selecting the Mother most amenable, on that day, to our pleading. This decided, we would approach the back door of the chosen house and proceed with our scheme. We did our best to present a picture of abject misery. We mopped our non perspiring faces, we moaned piteously and at length we cried out:

"Gee, it's hot!"

"It's never been this hot before!"

"Wouldn't the hose feel good?"

At this point, a mother, exasperated to a point of refusal, or amused to one of compliance, would appear and seal our fate for that day.

I must admit that we were usually allowed to pursue this glorious pastime.

Permission granted, we would fly in all directions to our various homes to prepare for the frolic. Five minutes later we would reassemble in the selected back yard — in wool bathing suits, caps pulled down to eye level and rubber bathing shoes with bright pom-poms on the toes.

At this point, there came another momentous decision. We had no rotating spray — only the straight hose that must be held by someone. Who would be the first? Never the hostess, of course: One of us would grudgingly volunteer for the first few minutes, after which we each took a turn.

How we would squeal as that stream of cold water hit us! How wildly and relentlessly the holder of the hose would chase us! Even Old Sweetie, aging spaniel that he was, would suffer a complete drenching just to be able to bark, and take a part in the fun.

Such days will surely never come again. The bathing beauties are all well-matured now, but I know that when the hot weather rolls around, each one of us must remember how we were — four funny little girls, screaming, gasping, giggling hilariously, dripping with water, racing around a back lawn on a golden afternoon, many, many summers ago!

School board participation up

MONTREAL (PT) — The Federation of Quebec Catholic School Commissioners is happy with the number of electors in the province who voted in recent school board elections.

The average voter turnout in the province in the past years has been 30 per cent but this year, some regions, notably the Gaspe and Quebec, managed to attain a much higher level of participation.

The Gaspesie region had an overall average of 60 per cent, with some sectors reaching a level of 90 per cent. The Quebec region had 40 per cent participation, as did the townships.

Of the school commissioners elected, 106 were new and 61 were women. The federation announces that the number of women represents 27 per cent of the total, a number which increases every year.

More to come

We are publishing below last week's editorial from the Stanstead Journal. We are looking forward to reading Lloyd's kicks for many years to come.

GEORGE MacLAREN

The Canadian Press article that appeared in Monday's issue of the Sherbrooke Record, and probably in a good many other newspapers across the country, contains some inaccuracies which we believe should be corrected.

Chief of these is the circulation figure of Quebec's oldest weekly newspaper. Instead of the 1,600 quoted by the writer, the Journal's average circulation for January, February and March was 2,638. Since that time the press run has gone up to 2,700. As near as we have been able to determine this is the highest circulation in the Journal's 133 years of existence.

It has been our experience in the past that reporters from outside coming to the "tiny" community seldom grasp the importance of this border area, nor the size of the international community that numbers considerably more than 5,000 persons.

As for the Journal editor and his wife retiring, that is still somewhere in the future. There are still a few kicks left in the old boy — and girl — and one of these is that reporters fail to grasp the significance of this international community and get circulation figures wrong.

Nobody wins

La Tribune has suspended publication, and for that we're sorry. Contrary to what people may think, it generally doesn't serve the competition much when a newspaper closes its doors, since the benefits are offset by more problems.

The problems at La Tribune are similar to those at scores of North American newspapers. The journalistic trade is becoming increasingly computerized and programmed due to a combination of distribution problems, personnel expenses and labor costs.

Workers are understandably upset at seeing a million bucks of equipment installed which could wipe out half the jobs at the paper in a matter of months, and we can't blame them for wanting protection written into their contracts.

We don't agree that computers have speeded things up, so we can't take management to task for trying to cut costs. It has been our experience in newspapers going to computer operations that there is very seldom any cut in production time — a set of labor-intensive operations has simply been replaced with a number of less-skilled operations. One set of hassles is replaced with another.

In the final analysis, the only institution which suffers is the acquired habit of reaching for La Tribune in the mornings. People will change those habits. Some will come back to the paper when it resumes publication. Some won't.

JAMES DUFF

Second thoughts

We received a letter yesterday from someone who didn't bother to sign his name, saying we'd sold out to the pequistes because we had praise for Camille Laurin's white paper on cultural development.

At least we read it before commenting on it. And who says the current government can't have a good idea every once in a while? They didn't get elected because they were stupid.

We've had some pretty deep discussions about the white paper since then, and we have had second thoughts. There's a ring of truth what Roland Gauvreau, general vice-president and Canadian president of the 5,500-member Tobacco Workers' International Union said yesterday about the paper's stated aim of making Quebec a nation of non-smokers within a decade.

The Parti Quebecois, he said, is acting more like a dictatorship than a democratic government when it substitutes what it claims to be its better judgement for the free choice of individuals in deciding what constitutes the 'quality of life'.

One byproduct of protecting the citizen against himself is the potential loss of more than $100 million in tobacco tax revenues, not to mention the alienation of some of the highest-paid workers in the province, Mr. Gauvreau added.

As has been pointed out to us, the best form of government is the least form of government, and at the rate we're going now, Canada is going to remain one of the world's most overgoverned nations.

We still see the white paper as one of the most thoroughgoing analyses ever made of the options open to a modern society to improve its own quality of life, but we'd have to agree it can't be at the expense of individual rights.

JAMES DUFF

Letters Long live Canada: Thoughts on biculturalism

Editor:

The accompanying letter must be read to appreciate why two Canadians, a Francophone and an Anglophone, as politically non-affiliated citizens with extensive overseas experience, would spend their time and money to contribute their "bit" in the struggle for Canadian unity and renaissance.

You can appreciate the effort required to write and rewrite our letter in English and French with corresponding mailings when one co-author is in Spain and the other in the Dominican Republic.

We believe that there are a significant number of wistful people who have good intentions, but require some catalyst to initiate their constructive participation instead of sitting by passively leaving the initiative for others.

We grew up and were educated in our respective cultural backgrounds. It was not until middle age that we met in Guatemala in 1961 and realized how much we appreciated the sharing of our relatively fortunate common Canadian heritage. We learned that absence does make the heart grow fonder.

We have corresponded and compared thoughts ever since. The following letter was conceived several month ago during a visit with Mr. Lemieux in Madrid, while Mr. Rodman was returning on home leave from Argentina, after having visited the trouble spots in South Africa, Rhodesia, Ethiopia and Egypt:

Your two correspondents are each representative of our French and English founding cultures. They have spent some 25 years in as many foreign countries with those excruciating problems arising from politics, poverty and social adjustments which only too often result in revolution.

When presenting our observations on our distant and beloved country, we know that we reflect the feelings of thousands of our compatriots who, like us, are engaged in diverse professional activities abroad.

We are also fully conscious of the many regional, economic and cultural problems which tend to divide our nation, but we firmly believe that in reality Canada is not by any means a dying country. To the contrary, we are convinced that Canada is on the way to its own Renaissance. As distance does not allow us to participate directly in this awakening, we have wanted to make our contribution by sending this letter to the 950 English and French language newspapers in Canada.

We simply refuse to believe that Canadians are less intelligent than other people. Surely Canadians realize that a united Canada is a strong Canada and that a divided Canada can only be a weak country which projects among its foreign friends and customers a feeling of skepticism, uncertainty and confusion. The disunity of a country, of any country, only invites lack of respect abroad for that country. A divided Canada clearly risks being absorbed and disappearing completely in the big American melting pot. It is axiomatic that the unity of a country is intimately linked to its identity and image abroad.

The common experience of your two correspondents demonstrates clearly and abundantly that acts of goodwill and joint efforts by the conflicting parties can only lead to a better mutual understanding and respect, even to friendship, with all the advantages this implies. How else could one explain the durable and numerous friendships that we ourselves have developed in so many countries speaking such different languages?

It seems to us that the starting point towards unity is a real and drastic change of attitude towards languages and a simple appreciation and recognition of the advantages which the knowledge of languages carries in Canada or anywhere else. A second language is a recognized necessity for an educated and cultured person, most particularly when such languages are as universally used as are English and French. If the Chinese, the Russians, the Germans, the Americans to be sure, and many other nations had that same "linguistic" opportunity as have Canadians, you would see how quickly and efficiently they would exploit it to their very best advantage.

It is a matter of meeting the challenge. Here are a few of the small and simple means within the reach of all of us:

1. Post notices at appropriate places reading: "On parle francais" or "English spoken".
2. Write individually or collectively to your editor, member of parliament, school board (or all three) requesting that both English and French be effectively taught and used in the first grades of schools. Our famous Dr. Penfield has demonstrated that the ability to learn languages is greatest in young pupils.
3. Organize and-or support interprovincial visits.
4. Promote the interchange of language teachers.
5. Increase communication by organizing pen-pal clubs through newspapers or schools.

We who live overseas have made a first gesture by writing this letter. It is up to you to ensure its success through your individual or collective efforts. When the stake is the survival of the country, nobody can refuse to answer the call or to make an effort. Long live Canada!

Hiking, summer storms and a word to the wise

By JAMES DUFF
Record Editor

JAY, Vt. — Thoughts of winter storms were far behind us as my wife Genny, our 2½-year-old son Kayll and I set out Friday on our first overnight hike of the season.

The weather couldn't have been better and the Long Trail off Route 242 was as dry as we've ever seen it. True, we'd left late in the day -- it was past 2 p.m. -- but the forecast was for good weather. A probability of thundershowers, they said.

The trail from Jay Camp to the cablecar station at the summit is well under two miles, and our destination was the Laura Woodward shelter, a lean-to with a corrugated tin roof a mile the other side of Jay summit. An easy hike.

But we miscalculated. Our son was loving the business of hopping from rock to rock, eating handfuls of chocolate chips, raisins and granola and pointing at birds, but he wasn't making much time up the mountain.

I carried him over the rough spots, but adding his 35 pounds to the 45 in my pack meant we weren't going much faster.

By 5 p.m., we reached the summit. The wind was a healthy 30 mph, and hanging on the horizon over Lake Champlain, barely in sight, was a low grey wall of cloud. Thunderstorms.

We debated about heading back. Genny said yes. I said no. We debated about crossing the summit and heading down to Laura Woodward. I said yes. Genny said no.

Finally we couldn't delay any longer. The far-off grey wall of cloud was a boiling cauldron of thunderheads, heading for us faster than we'd ever seen a storm move. We headed for the western side of Jay, hoping to pitch the tent on one of the sheltered meadows near water.

I was literally pounding the last stakes into the ground when that storm hit. There was little warning; one second we could see the peaks around us, the next there was nothing. Our tent was a trusty nylon three-man job which had seen us through the White Mountains and the Rockies, but it was like having no shelter at all. A pole buckled like spaghetti. The fly sheet tore loose and the tent was filled with spray as rainwater blasted right through the nylon.

We've hiked Mount Washington in a hurricane, the only experience which could compare with Friday afternoon on Jay. Outside, the trees lay over as the winds topped 60 mph. The air was white, like fog, but filled with that fine spray which cut through everything.

The temperature dropped 30 degrees in 10 minutes, and in 20 we'd had enough as the stitching on the tent started to let go. We shouldered our packs and our by-now screaming son and hoofed it down the mountain to the car in 35 minutes flat.

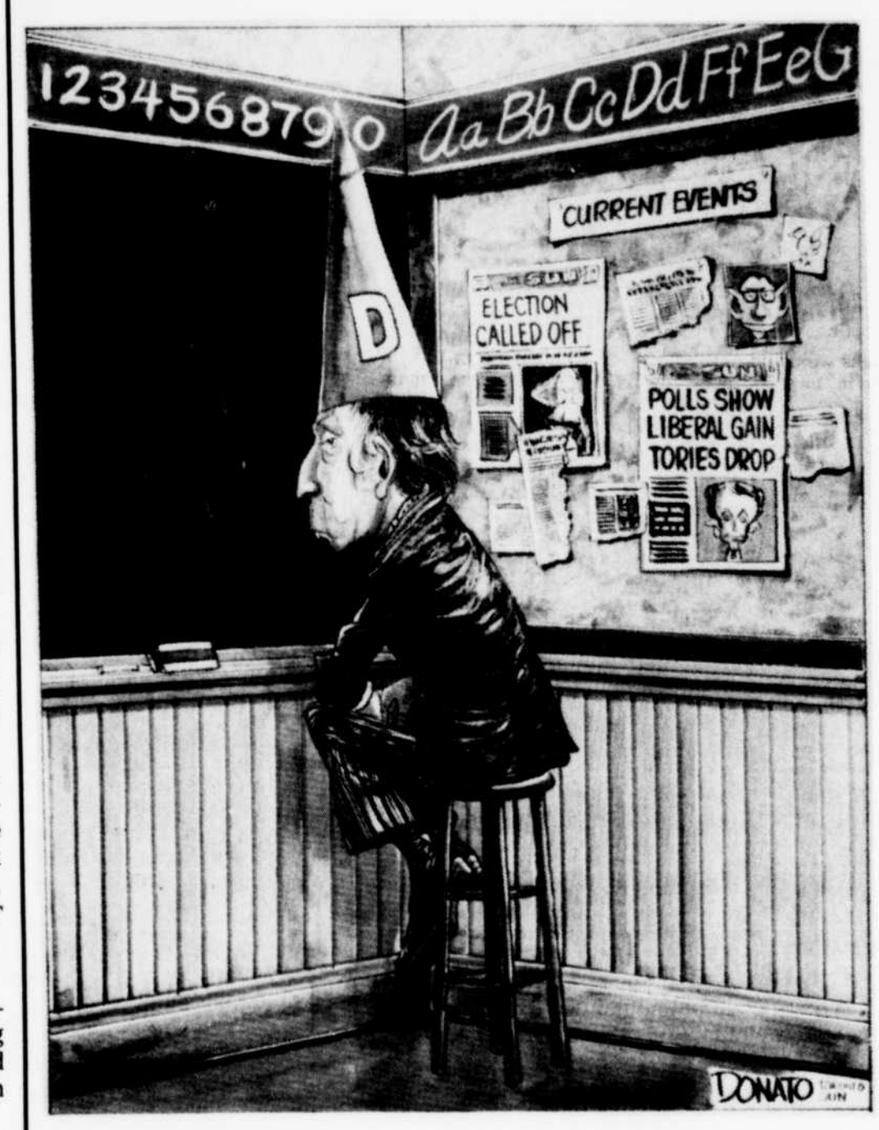

It wasn't that close a call. We had plenty of food and clothing and I suppose we could have broken into the cable station as a last resort. We were both experienced hikers. We certainly weren't lost.

But it was incredible how a couple of bad decisions earlier in the day set the stage for what could have been another one of those hiking tragedies one reads about.

First, we left too late. With an infant, we should have given ourselves six hours to make our destination, even if it was less than four miles. Second, we should have turned back the instant we saw that wall of cloud. By the time you can see a storm from a mountain peak, it's generally less than an hour away. Finally, we shouldn't have camped anywhere near the peak of Jay. It's an exposed pinnacle, unsheltered by mountains around it, and its weather is every bit as bad as that atop the White Mountains further to the south.

... so when we see families of hikers, often wearing nothing more than running shoes and windbreakers, heading up the trails, we wonder how long it will be before we read about them some Monday morning.

It's a nice, comfy safe world down here. Up there is another story.

Washington Merry-Go-Round — by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

Fears, laws and progress: The DNA research argument

WASHINGTON — Through the ages, man has conjured visions of creating new forms of life. Folklore is peopled with hybrid beings such as mermaids and unicorns combining the features of widely diverse species. Greek myth told a horrifying tale of Cadmus sowing dragon teeth which sprang up as armed warriors who slaughtered themselves. Robert Louis Stevenson wrote of an elixir which transformed a decent Dr. Jekyll into a bestial Mr. Hyde.

Today, fantasy is becoming reality in science laboratories throughout the world as biologists are transferring the genetic material of life, known as DNA, from one living species to another. The recipient organism then reproduces exactly the inherent traits of the DNA implant.

Nonetheless, the pioneer geneticists in this dawning age of DNA research find themselves restricted by government controls of their own devising. They have discovered how to isolate DNA and transmute its genetic characteristics from one living species into another. This has aroused apprehensions that they may unloose from their test tubes strains of new killer viruses impossible to combat.

To bring this vital field of research into proper focus, we asked our associate Howie Kurtz to seek out the facts and place them in perspective. After a series of intensive interviews with authorities at the top, this is what he found:

Five years ago, Stanford biologist Stanley Cohen separated a minute segment of DNA material and implanted it into living bacteria. He found that the bacteria then reproduced the microscopic DNA offspring over and over as part of their normal reproductive process.

To Cohen and his scientific colleagues, this opened up limitless possibilities of genetic laboratory engineering. It meant that nature's entire genetic computer bank could be tapped to create new types of organisms - plant, animal and even human.

Scientists could discover through the process how a cancerous cell differs from a healthy one, how to treat such inherited diseases as diabetes or mental retardation, how to produce antibody vaccines to treat viruses.

Biologist Cohen told Kurtz: "We can now turn bacteria into more efficient factories for a variety of products. There's no reason to accept the diseases and other bad cards that evolution has dealt us. All we have to do is find the bug that has the particular gene combination we need."

Yet upon Cohen's discovery, some observers raised the prospect that the DNA experiments might some day engender a new, dangerous strain of bacteria for which there would be no known antidote. Conceivably, a terrorist group might develop and let loose on the world a bubonic plague nurtured in a secret laboratory. Lax security measures in a laboratory could allow the leakage of resistant deadly illnesses.

To counter these fears, Cohen and his colleagues gathered at Asilomar, Calif., in 1975 and urged federal guidelines over DNA research. The following year, officials at the National Institutes of Health announced that all federally supported DNA research must have their approval. Every scientist in the field now must file a memorandum describing his experiment and subsequently get permission for any deviations. Industry researchers, however, are not covered by these rules.

From hindsight, most reputable research scientists feel they overreacted to the possible hazards of the problem. They now deplore that the strict safeguards are hampering U.S. research.

"Our initial concerns were both overblown and foolish," Cohen says ruefully. He notes that in the five years since his first gene transplant, "there hasn't even been a hint that this could present any hazard at all."

Nobel laureate James Watson, the discoverer of DNA, is equally dismayed over the federal rules. "We're being clocked from studying the viruses which cause leukemia or breast cancer," he complains. "Two of our people had to go to London to isolate DNA from a common human virus."

Gripes William Rutter of the University of California: "We could clone a human insulin gene in a very short time if we were allowed to do so. But people in Congress are regulation-oriented and figure some law is better than no law."

The geneticists are now worried about moves to impose even more stifling restrictions on their laboratory work. Harvard scientists, for example, persuaded Rep. Harley Staggers, D.-W. Va., to bottle up a bill which would have given local governments authority to impose more stringent standards.

Noted biologist Robert Sinsheimer argues there are real grounds for concern that deadly bacteria could be created in the laboratories. "One could produce some pretty fearful organisms," he comments, noting, for example, that bacteria which manufacture their own botulinus toxin "would be a very deadly thing. The technology is too easy... It's really within the capabilities of a small country, or terrorist group, or a warped graduate student."

Counters Cohen: "Genetic recombination is nothing new. What we are doing in test tubes is just an application of what nature does in living cells all the time. By worrying about these speculative hazards, we're delaying the ability of American medicine and agriculture to cope with real problems like pollution and disease."

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Al Bradley, Huntingville, Que., are pleased to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Marilyn Elaine, to Mr. Robert Harold Henry Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry Sr. of Sherbrooke and Bishopton. The wedding is to take place August 26, in St. Barnabas Church, Milby, Que.

Bridal shower

STANSTEAD (CT) — A bridal shower was held recently in honor of Helen Ledoux's forthcoming marriage to Rene Lussier of Rock Island.

Helen was lured to Our Lady of Mercy Church in Stanstead by her fiance, with the idea that they had an appointment with the priest.

What a surprise for Helen when she walked in on 35 waiting ladies. She was greeted at the door by her sister Susan, who pinned a corsage of kitchen gadgets on her.

The ladies all joined for some games, with prizes awarded to the winners. The door prize was claimed by Mrs. Richard Boisvert.

Gifts were then brought forward for Helen to open. Her mother Mrs. Yvan Ledoux made a hat with the bows and it was placed on Helen's head while pictures were taken.

The table was beautifully decorated with yellow and green streamers, also an umbrella hung over a shower cake with the inscription, Showers of Happiness. The cake was a gift from Helen's sister Louise. Helen cut the cake and served it to all the guests, then thanked everyone in French and English for the lovely gifts and the pleasant evening.

Hostesses were Mrs. Louise Bergeron of Sherbrooke and Mrs. Susan Martin of Montreal, (Helen's sisters) and Mrs. Lecours.

Campbell-Moore wed

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Moore.

The marriage of Dawn Elaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Campbell of Sherbrooke, to Peter Allyn Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Moore, also of Sherbrooke, took place May 20, 1978 at Plymouth Trinity Church with Reverend F. Tees officiating.

Mrs. Micheline McCone played the wedding music and the groom's brother, Mr. David Moore played the bagpipes as the couple left the church.

The bride, given away by her father, was in a train length gown of white peau de soie with lace sleeves and trimming. Her chapel veil of tulle illusion was held by a floral headpiece. She carried a bouquet of white and pink miniature carnations enhanced with blue babies breath.

Miss Karen Goulet, as maid of honour, wore a pink eyelet dress with a white hat and carried a bouquet of pink miniature carnations with babies breath.

Miss Nancy Bryant, of Victoria, B.C., and Miss Barbara Paravano, as bridesmaids, wore matching blue print eyelet dresses with matching white hats. They carried bouquets of white miniature carnations with blue babies breath.

Mr. Brian Peck was best man for Mr. Moore and the ushers were Mr. Robin Moore, brother of the groom and Mr. Douglas Campbell, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Campbell, mother of the bride, chose a long aqua colored tricot gown and wore a corsage of daisies.

Mrs. Moore, mother of the groom, wore a pink floral taffeta gown and a corsage of daisies.

After the cremony a supper-reception was held at the Mont-Joye Hotel in North Hatley. Music was provided by Mr. David Moore and Mr. Robin Moore towards the end of the evening with a few selections from the bagpipes.

At the end of the evening the newly married couple left for their honeymoon trip to Maine, U.S.A. Upon their return the couple will be residing in Scarborough, Ontario.

Cyclists pedal from Rome to Thailand

REGINA (CP) — Rick Vigrass, a third-year University of Saskatchewan engineering student, had intended to spend a few months in Europe. He wound up spending 15 months cycling from Rome to Thailand.

Rick's plans changed when he met Charlie Meyer in France. Meyer, a 32-year-old stockbroker and weekend cyclist from Cleveland, Ohio, had set out to cycle around the world after an early 1977 meeting with Bill Markwart.

At the time Markwart, 60, was following the route Tom Stevens, the first around-the-world cyclist, took in 1884. Markwart was finally injured in a New York traffic accident a week after his meeting with Meyer, who then decided to complete Markwart's journey.

Meyer asked Vigrass to join him. So he sold his airplane ticket home to Meyer's sister Joyce, who had decided she wasn't up to the world tour and was going back to the United States.

Vigrass and Meyer cycled from Rome to Frankfurt, through Austria, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Greece, Turkey, Iran, Afghanistan, Pakistan, India and Burma to Thailand.

TRAVELLED LIGHT

The trip cost Vigrass $5,000, including the cost of the bicycle and two cameras—his first was stolen.

The two carried only the barest essentials. Anything that wasn't used daily was sent home or discarded. They had no change of clothes and washed their attire every night, often finding it still damp the next morning.

Vigrass even cut off half the handle of his toothbrush to reduce weight.

The pair encountered few problems—the biggest on the Czechoslovakian-Austrian border.

They were following a small road, shown on their map as jogging into Czechoslovakia. If border officials didn't let them cross, they planned to pedal back into Austria.

The road died out as they approached the border and they walked through a cluster of trees into a flat valley, where they crossed a stream in search of a road.

ARRESTED BY CZECHS

They saw power lines atop the valley and thought there would be a road there. Then they spotted a checkpoint tower above three walls, two of barbed wire. Border officials stopped them nearby.

Three policemen with machine-guns drove up in a jeep, handcuffed the travellers and took their passports and bicycles. They were taken to separate rooms in a police station about 20 miles from the border and interrogated.

"They wanted to know what we did; why we were there; how we got there; what our fathers did; what religion we were; whether we knew anyone in Czechoslovakia; whether we knew any Czechoslovakians in North America. Once they were satisfied, we were fined about $30 each for entering the country with no visa and turned over to the Austrian officials."

Vigrass said Austrian officials then wanted to know how many dogs the Czechs had; if Vigrass or Meyer were blindfolded or hurt; how far it was to the police station and if any shots were fired. The Austrians fined them another $5 for crossing the border without a visa.

STONED BY CHILDREN

In Moslem countries the pair had to wear long pants and shirts rather than cut-offs.

"The little kids kept throwing stones at our legs. Their custom is that flesh must be covered. Even the old men in the villages would point to our legs and shake their fingers at us."

They spent 50 days in Turkey, where many people took them into their homes. One man insisted they sleep in his bed while he slept outside.

The same hospitality was shown them in Pakistan.

"The Islamic religion has as one of its principles that hospitality must be given to travellers. They are supposed to make at least one pilgrimage to Mecca in their lifetime and, as a result, they look after other travellers."

As they travelled along the roads, particularly in Greece, people offered them food—fresh grapes or melons—or stopped them to talk.

SPARE PARTS SCARCE

There are few 10-speed bicycles in most parts of Asia and that presented another problem, finding replacement parts.

Meyer's derailleur broke after a young Indian took the bike for a ride and fell.

"We went to Bombay, a city of 20 million people, and there wasn't any place to buy parts or any place that did repairs. Finally we met an English couple who were carrying a spare derailleur. We convinced them they would do better with less weight, so Charlie bought the part from them."

Rick returned to Canada but Meyer remained in Thailand, intent on heading for Japan before going back to the U.S.

The two hope to write a book about their travels, incorporating the journals kept by Markwart on the first part of the journey from San Francisco to New York.

Vigrass said he doesn't think he will do it again for a while.

"It's too depressing going through India. There are too many people.

"It was so nice to come back to Regina and be able to look down the street and not see anybody."

Ann Landers says

Compromise with in-laws

Dear Ann Landers: My mother and father are still living. My husband has only his mother. On Mother's Day we must spend the entire day with her because, according to him, "Your mother still has your father."

On Father's Day we have to go to the cemetery to visit his father's grave because "your dad is still living."

Do you think it is fair that I have to wait until my mother-in-law dies before I can spend a Mother's Day with my own mother? And is it fair to have to visit my father-in-law's grave instead of going to see my live father?

If I open up my mouth I am called "selfish."

Do you see a solution to this? — Fighting A Lot

Dear Fighting: Go with your husband to see his mother on Mother's Day, but spend only an hour or so, then visit your own mother. Do the same on Father's Day.

It would be ideal if your husband would agree to divide the time so you could be together, but I'm sure he won't — so I'm suggesting this compromise. (P.S. Get it settled NOW because after your parents pass away, you'll be fighting about whose grave to visit.)

Dear Ann: I sent you a letter several weeks ago and signed it "Struck Out." I guess I must have struck out with you because you didn't print it, so I'm trying again. My problem is the "Polaroid Syndrome."

I asked my wife if she would pose in some sexy nighties and lingerie that I bought for her. She agreed. I swear to you, Ann, the pictures have never left our house and they never will. I took them to add zest to our love life and they did.

Last week I asked my wife to pose again for a new batch of pictures. She said, "Now, I've decided it's kinky sex." Then she called me a pervert.

I told her I would write for your opinion so that's what I'm doing -- for the second time. Please answer. Our marriage could be at stake. — Two Strikes

Dear Two: Whatever two people do in the bedroom is not perversion, so long as there is mutual agreement and no pain is inflicted. If taking pictures turns you on and the pictures are strictly for you and your wife, I can't see that this is a perversion. A little far-out maybe, but not harmful -- and a darned sight better than buying girlie garbage at the newsstands.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — and Simone who has trouble with mice — We had the same problem and were told that the mice came up the pipes that enter our mobile home. I think the solution given us would work as well in a house as a mobile home. Put steel wool all around every pipe so any opening is filled and in a short time you should find you have no more mice. Steel wool can be bought in bulk at most hardware stores. — PENNIE

DEAR POLLY — Because of illness we could not make our usual weekend trips to our home in the mountains and the mice really moved in. We first used a commercial poison and the number decreased considerably — we found dead mice in many unexpected places, even in my bed. I am one of those people who cannot stand mice and felt we had to eliminate every single one of them so we followed a neighbor's advice and put moth balls every place we saw a trace of them. They evidently do not like the odor of moth balls as we have not seen a sign of a mouse for quite a time. — RUBY

Surgery for gallstones

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband was suffering recurrent attacks of pain from gallstones. He refused to consult a doctor until he collapsed and was taken to the hospital where tests were made and the diagnosis of gallstones established. The doctor says he has to have surgery but my husband refuses this and has put himself on a low-fat diet. He believes this will eliminate the attacks. Is this true? It is my thought that the stones can be eliminated only by surgery. Can they be dissolved?

DEAR READER — There is a national study program being conducted mostly by university hospital centers to study different ways that gallstones may be dissolved. Beyond this about the only way that you can eliminate gallstones is by surgery.

You didn't tell me anything about your husband's age or the rest of his medical status but if he is in reasonably good health otherwise, probably the quickest and easiest approach to his problem would be surgery. For him to have had severe enough pain to cause him to collapse implies that he has small stones passing into the bile duct that caused the severe pain.

The gallbladder itself can become infected and cause a severe acute illness very much like you can get from acute appendicitis except the location of the pain is higher. It can even rupture and cause a medical emergency.

I believe that your husband would be very well advised to follow his doctor's advice. If he doesn't trust his doctor he can get a second opinion.

To give you a better idea about gallstones, what problems they can cause and what can be done about them I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-9, Gall Stones and Gall Bladder Disease. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The low-fat diet is often used for people who have gallbladder colic or gallstones but it will not dissolve the stones and the basic problem will still be there.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What causes stys on the eyes? I have them removed and then they come back again and again. I would like to know how I can prevent myself from getting them. I have one right now and I can't make it disappear without surgery.

DEAR READER — A sty is a small boil. It's caused by bacteria (usually staphylococci). The bacteria sets up an inflammation around the follicle of the eyelash (its root) and it behaves like a small boil. Eventually it is localized and it points and is either opened to drain or drains on its own.

The reason they occur in crops is because it is a bacterial infection and the bacteria manage to progressively affect different eyelashes. Local treatment with hot compresses is usually prescribed. A person who has repeated stys sometimes benefits from antibiotic therapy.

A person with such a problem should avoid using eye makeup and any other cosmetic procedures that lead to contamination of the area. Anytime a wash cloth is used or anything else around the eye it should not be used again but should go immediately to the laundry until the infectious process has been completely controlled.

Mrs. John Corso:
When I shop I look for Dominiprix specials. I think the Dominiprix is excellent. I find there's definitely a saving. I comparison shop quite a bit, and I find that I do save at Dominion. On just four items that I checked out, I saved 70 cents.

Mrs. Ginette Petrocco:
At Dominion, I can see how much I'm saving. With Dominiprix the difference is easy to see. When you can see 30-37 cents difference and 40 cents on an article, that says a lot. I really notice how it all adds up when I see how much I save at the checkout counter.

Espionage deal anticipated

MOSCOW (AP) — Western observers in the Soviet capital expect the Russians to try to trade a U.S. businessman under arrest for the two Russian UN employees on trial as spies in New Jersey.

"The Soviets have a tradition when their hand is caught in the cookie jar of trying to possibly get something in return," said one diplomat who declined to be identified.

The businessman is Francis Crawford, 38, of Mobile, Ala., a representative of International Harvester in Moscow for two years. He was arrested Monday night on smuggling charges.

It was believed the Soviet government would try to swap him for Valdik Enger and Rudolf Chernayev, who went on trial in Newark last week on charges of conspiring to pass U.S. Navy secrets to Moscow. Both pleaded not guilty.

One Western diplomat said he believes Crawford might be "an innocent victim" of deteriorating U.S.-Soviet relations, strained over the Kremlin's involvement in Africa, U.S. charges of human-rights violations in the Soviet Union and espionage charges from both sides.

Moscow policemen pulled Crawford from his car at a stoplight Monday night as he and his fiancee, a 22-year-old secretary at the U.S. embassy, were on their way to a diplomatic party.

PROTEST FILED

The fiancee, Virginia Olbrish, got away by claiming diplomatic immunity and informed the embassy. The embassy protested the behavior of the arresting officers to the foreign ministry, and the U.S. state department took the matter with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin in Washington.

Consular officers met late Tuesday with Crawford but refused to tell reporters where he was being held, what condition he was in and what they had learned about the charges against him.

Other informed sources said he was held at Lefortovo prison.

Legal experts at the embassy said earlier they believed Crawford would be charged with smuggling currency, punishable by three to 10 years in prison. An International Harvester spokesman in Chicago said his good record indicated he was unlikely to have violated currency regulations.

Crawford was arrested a few hours after the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia reported that Martha Peterson, a CIA agent formerly attached to the U.S. embassy, was expelled last July for spying and furnishing poison to an accomplice who used it to kill "an innocent person who stood in his way."

So far, the United States has not commented on the Peterson case, which Izvestia publicized after 11 months of secrecy because of the Newark trial and the U.S. charges on June 1 that the Soviets bugged the U.S. embassy in Moscow.

UN TROOPS IN LEBANON

BEIRUT (AP) — UN peacekeeping troops and Christian militiamen shared control of the border strip in southern Lebanon today following Israel's withdrawal, while Syrian troops enforced a ceasefire between feuding Christian factions in northern Lebanon.

The UN soldiers took over 14 key positions along the frontier belt, 10 kilometres wide and 100 kilometres long, as the last Israeli forces pulled back across the frontier Tuesday.

The Christian militia commander in the area, Maj. Saad Haddad, said he agreed to the UN checkpoints and observation posts after the UN commander, Maj.-Gen. Emmanuel Erksine of Ghana, pledged his men would prevent infiltration by the Palestinian guerrillas the Israeli invasion drove from the area.

Haddad warned that the Israelis might return if the peacekeepers are unable to protect the Christians from guerrilla reprisals.

Erskine said the Lebanese government in Beirut told him Haddad "represents the legitimate authority in the south; we have no objections."

OBJECT TO CONTROL

There was no immediate reaction from the Palestinians and their Lebanese Moslem allies, who continued to battle the Christians in the south after a ceasefire in November 1976 ended the Christian-Moslem civil war elsewhere in the country. They had said they would not tolerate Haddad's taking control of evacuated areas.

As the Israelis went home, Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan said that as many as 300 armed Palestinians already have returned to southern Lebanon. He cabled UN SecretaryGeneral Kurt Waldheim that this violated a UN commitment to keep the guerrillas out of areas relinquished by Israel.

Israel invaded Lebanon March 15, four days after a Palestinian raid in which 36 Israelis were killed on the Tel Aviv-Haifa highway. The Israelis occupied 1,300 square kilometres of southern Lebanon to create a guerrilla-free security belt along the border. They began withdrawing in response to a Security Council demand and creation of the UN peacekeeping force and completed the pullout after 91 days of occupation. They also gave Haddad's Christian militiamen more arms before leaving.

Sun hearings continue

TORONTO (CP) — Periods of detente tend to be accompanied by increased espionage activities, an RCMP official testified Tuesday at a preliminary hearing into charges against The Sun.

Michael J. Spooner, chief superintendent in charge of RCMP security services in Ontario, was testifying in provincial court at the hearing into charges laid under the Official Secrets Act against Toronto Sun Publishing Ltd., the newspaper's editor-in-chief, Peter Worthington, and its publisher, Douglas Creighton.

News Briefs

Argentine ex-minister dies

BUENOS AIRES (Reuter) — Former Argentine foreign minister Alberto Juan Vignes died Tuesday, his family announced. He was 82. Vignes was foreign minister between June, 1973, and August, 1975, during the Peronist administration.

Yellowstone hiker mauled by bear

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — A portion of Yellowstone National Park was closed to visitors after a bear severely mauled a young woman hiker Tuesday. Mary Anna Young, 21, was in critical but stable condition, suffering from scalp, chest and abdominal injuries, a park official said. A grizzly was shot earlier this spring near Old Faithful Geyser after it harassed park visitors.

Bombs explode near Rome

ROME (Reuter) — Police say a cluster of bombs believed to have been planted by extremists set off a huge fire at a power station south of the city early today, cutting electricity lines and forcing the evacuation of families living nearby. Firemen fought a blaze that caused $600,000 damage for nearly six hours before dousing flames that shot about 100 kilometres into the air.

Legion committed to unity cause

EDMONTON (CP) — Delegates to the Royal Canadian Legion's national convention made a bold commitment Tuesday to work for the preservation of Canada but were more cautious on the issue of preserving their own organization.

Responding to a call by a legion official who said the unity issue has produced a crisis "every bit as severe as the one faced . . . in 1914 and 1939," delegates adopted a resolution to muster all the legion's resources in a fight for unity.

But faced with three resolutions to extend legion privileges to younger members and to rejuvenate the aging organization, the delegates chose the most cautious approach after an emotional debate.

U.S. waives fish duties

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. treasury department announced Tuesday it will waive countervailing duties on about $200 million worth of Canadian fish imported annually.

The department said it is issuing the waiver, which expires Jan. 4, 1979, as a result of Canadian promises to reduce or eliminate a variety of subsidy programs for fishermen and fish processors by Oct. 1 this year.

It also said in a statement the department believes that imposing the duties might seriously jeopardize the achievement of international agreements to reduce trade barriers.

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc and two of his most vociferous opposition critics Tuesday welcomed the U.S. decision to waive countervailing duties on about $200 million worth of Canadian fish imports annually.

"All I can say is thank God," said James McGrath (PC—St. John's East). "I can only breathe an enormous sigh of relief."

"This certainly is good news," agreed John Crosbie (PC—St. John's West) who recently has been attacking the government on this issue in the Commons.

Police dismiss abuse allegations

OTTAWA (CP) — Police spokesmen dismissed as ridiculous Tuesday suggestions that officers would abuse proposed new laws giving them the right to open and read private mail.

"We can see no way in which the police in Canada today would, or could be able to, or would want to open any mail without reasonable and probable grounds and proper authority," Chief Harold Adamson of Toronto told the Commons justice committee.

Adamson made the comment during committee study of a bill that would legalize police mailopening practices.

Adamson argued the legislation is needed to cope with crimes ranging from terrorism and drug-selling to fraud.

Senate decor plans dropped

OTTAWA (CP) — The government appears to have dropped plans for fancy stained-glass windows and a few paintings or tapestries in the Senate.

A special Senate committee wrestled with the issue for about 2½ years saying the idea would "raise the perspectives and broaden the horizons" of the senators.

But the government now says it is more interested in putting a ceiling on spending than new decorations on Senate walls.

"We filed the report and that was the end of it," Senator Josie Quart, a committee member, said Tuesday. "We never heard anything more."

A public works department official said there is no indication of when the plans will be taken out of limbo.

Rents remain stable

TORONTO (CP) — There will be no immediate increase in rents on more than 150,000 senior citizen and low-income public housing units across the country, a federal-provincial meeting of housing ministers decided Tuesday.

In a joint announcement following the two-day meeting, the ministers said the controversial issue will be studied further by officials and a decision made at another meeting in November.

But the provincial ministers made it clear that Urban Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet was putting financial pressure on them to raise rents by changing the way in which the federal subsidy to the provinces for low-income housing is calculated.

Most provinces now charge public housing tenants rents ranging from 16.7 to 25 per cent of income. The higher the income, the higher the rent charged.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., for which Ouellet is responsible, announced more than a month ago that a new housing program worked out in consultation with the provincial governments would raise rent scales on all projects to 25 per ent of gross income.

Quebec to assist French minorities

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government will soon begin a program of assistance to French-speaking minorities in other provinces, Claude Morin, inter-governmental affairs minister, said Tuesday.

About $500,000 has been set aside in his department's budget to help finance projects submitted by French-speaking minority groups in various provinces.

Morin told a legislature committee studying his department's spending estimates for 1978-79 that he will put the finishing touches today to a $261, 000 package to be submitted to the treasury board for approval.

The package encompasses several projects running between $10,000 and $40,000, Morin said.

Other provincial governments were not consulted before Quebec embarked on this venture, Morin acknowledged.

Hatfield: "I want blood"

WHITEFIELD, N.H. (CP) — Premier Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick feels that separatism has run its course—and he is disappointed.

Talking to a group of Canadian reporters early Tuesday, following a state dinner for the six New England governors and five Eastern premiers meeting here, Hatfield said he had been looking forward to a longer fight.

"I want to destroy them," he said. "I want blood."

Asked whether ambitions to enter federal politics were spurring him to take an aggressive attitude towards the Levesque government, he first denied this was his motivation, then smiled.

"He sticks his head up, that's all," Hatfield explained. "And I'm going to shoot him down."

The New Brunswick premier seemed put off by the amount of media attention his Quebec counterpart received at the conference of premiers and governors.

"Levesque is an oddity," he said. "You (reporters) like queers—I mean that in the broad sense."

Hatfield was also irritated that Levesque had made a presentation on Quebec's no-fault car insurance plan covering bodily injuries at the meeting.

Newfoundland unemployment soars

OTTAWA (CP) — The rate of unemployment is so high in Newfoundland that "the lives of all the province's people are touched in one way or another," says a report by a group called the People's Commission on Unemployment.

Statistics Canada reported Tuesday that Newfoundland had the highest provincial unemployment rate in Canada in May—up to 17.9 per cent of the workforce from 16.3 per cent in April. The national unemployment rate, adjusted for seasonal variations, was 8.6 per cent.

The people's commission says the federal statistics agency grossly underestimates the real rate of unemployment. For instance, the commission estimates the real rate in March was 34.9 per cent of the workforce while Statistics Canada put the figure at 16.5 per cent.

Economic management blasted

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition MPs blistered the government's economic management policies again Tuesday following the release of statistics showing unemployment in May continued at a post-1930s high.

But Finance Minister Jean Chretien repeated the government is doing all it can and added: "We can't take in everyone who is looking for jobs at the present time."

Official statistics showed 8.6 per cent of the nation's workforce on the jobless lines in May, the same percentage as in the previous two months.

The actual number of unemployed was down last month to 933,000 from 999,000 in April.

But students started coming into the labor force in May, and few were finding work. Statistics Canada said nearly 15 per cent of the 656,000 who wanted temporary work in May could not find it. More will join the workforce in June.

Raynauld roasts Quebec tax setup

Andre Raynauld, MNA for Outremont has announced that the present budget proposal places a financial burden on Quebec taxpayers and reduces the importance of public spending.

In a speech to the National Assembly yesterday, the former president of the Economic Council of Canada criticized four areas of the proposed budget-taxation of dividends, taxation on succession rights, revenue taxation and public spending.

The difference in revenue taxation between Ontario and Quebec will be over $16,800., he said. It is not a question of indexation of personal exemptions, but rather one of increases in spending Raynauld continued. Tax adjustments should cover inflation.

Dividend taxation, he noted, is between 15 and 18 percentage points higher in Quebec than it is in Ontario, a significant difference. Succession taxes are also higher than in Ontario.

In Ontario, he said, public spending increases seven per cent yearly while economic growth is at a rate of 11.4 per cent. Growth in Quebec is 50 per cent higher. With a population 33 per cent higher and production 66 per cent higher than in Quebec, Ontario has 4,000 more civil servants than Quebec, only seven per cent more than in Quebec.

These factors, Raynauld believes, cast doubts on the validity of the present budget proposal.

RCMP instills fear...

OTTAWA (CP) — A Montreal man the RCMP tried to recruit as an informer in 1971 was so unnerved by the experience that he went underground for a year.

Andre Laforest, 36, testified at the McDonald royal commission Tuesday his car was boxed in about 1:30 p.m. Oct. 4, 1971, by three unmarked cars carrying Mounties in plainclothes.

He was told at gunpoint to get into one of their cars and drive to a motel off Montreal Island whare two RCMP talked to him until after dawn the next day.

Laforest, about five feet seven inches, described his experience in testimony before the royal commission into RCMP wrongdoing as a kidnapping in which threats were made.

"Accidents can happen," he said he was told. "If you want, we can make you disappear."

Laforest said that Insp. Laurent Hugo took out his pistol in the motel room and told him: "You know, accidents happen very quickly."

Conference urges fisheries solution

WHITEFIELD, N.H. (CP) — A conference of eastern Canadian premiers and New England governors urged Ottawa and Washington on Tuesday to resolve quickly and amicably the current fisheries boundary dispute between the two countries.

Earlier this month, Canada barred United States commercial fishermen from its East and West Coast waters and the U.S. immediately reciprocated.

The dispute came up during the conference's concluding session Tuesday but the premiers and governors appeared reluctant to discuss it in any detail.

There were indications some felt that any hard positions taken at the conference could hamper negotiations and mar the co-operative spirit in which the annual conferences are held.

Premier Gerald Regan of Nova Scotia, where the fishing industry depends heavily on the catch off Georges Bank in the Gulf of Maine, raised the matter.

He also commanded Belgian troops in Zaire during the bloody events surrounding independence of the former Belgian colony in 1960.

(AP) — Bernard Cornfeld, whose Swiss-based financial empire collapsed eight years ago in a tangle of lawsuits, has begun serving a 90-day sentence for defrauding Pacific Telephone Co., a prison official said Tuesday. The 48-year-old financier entered the federal prison camp May 29, a prison official said.

Unity Fifty Plus Club

AYER'S CLIFF — Over forty members and friends of the Unity Fifty Plus Club of this place enjoyed a two-day bus trip to Ottawa on May 30 and 31.

All met at the Canadian Legion Hall at 7:30 a.m. and were on the road at 7:45. It was a beautiful morning and everyone was in a happy frame of mind. One stop was made for coffee and a snack and we arrived in Ottawa before lunch time.

Among the places visited were the Parliament Buildings, Experimental Farm, War Museum, boat trip up the Rideau Canal, visit to the "Bay" shopping center and rides about the city.

The bus driver, Ken Edgecombe and the coordinator Mrs. Roy did everything they could to make it both a comfortable and interesting trip for all.

Much credit was due to Mr. L.R. Thompson, Club President, who, because of unexpected things happening, some who had planned to take the trip, were unable to go. But after many phone calls, he filled all the vacancies but two. Shirley Piercy, vice-pres., expressed thanks to him for his work and to Mr. Edgecombe and Mrs. Roy for arranging such a pleasant time for all.

We arrived back in Ayer's Cliff about 8:45 p.m. on Wednesday evening.

The Reverend W. Davidson, Rural Dean presided and Officiants were the Reverend David Stanway, rector of St. Paul's Church and Mr. Robert Price of the Parish of Waterloo. Readers were Mr. Malcolm Doak, Parish of Sutton and Mr. Ken Miller, Parish of Brome.

The Reverend Howard Hawes, rector of Valcartier was preacher. Father Hawes has worked for four years in Uganda as a missionary, a teacher and in a hospital. He was ordained in Quebec City on behalf of an Ugandian Bishop. He is married, with three children.

The hymns were "Praise my soul", "Abide with me", "Jesus shall reign", "O Brothers life your voices" (offertory hymn) and "Saviour Again (closing hymn). The choral anthem "Jesu, joy of man's desiring" was most beautifully rendered and the entire service was impressive and meaningful.

Among prayers was the special Mission Prayer.

Following the service, refreshments were served in the church hall.

Cincinnati shuts out Cubs 1-0

It didn't take Fred Norman long to settle a score with Chicago Cubs.

The last time the Cincinnati left-hander faced the Cubs, he was blasted off the mound by a fierce Chicago attack that resulted in a 10-1 National League baseball loss.

That was a week ago. But Tuesday night, Norman threw it back in the Cubs' teeth, combining with reliever Doug Bair to fashion a four-hit, 1-0 triumph for the Reds.

"Everything was there, the good command and good location," Norman said. "And I knew exactly what I wanted to come back with."

It was one of Norman's best performances in a Cincinnati uniform. He didn't allow a hit until Steve Ontiveros singled in the fifth and only three Cubs reached second base until the ninth.

Then, with runners on first and third, Bair came on to strike out the last two batters and preserve the win.

In other games, Los Angeles Dodgers beat Philadelphia Phillies 5-3, San Francisco Giants stopped Montreal Expos 9-5, New York Mets edged San Diego Padres 3-2, Houston Astros nipped Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 and Atlanta Braves routed St. Louis Cardinals 12-1.

Catcher Don Werner, subbing for injured Johnny Bench, not only gave Norman help behind the plate but at bat as well. His sacrifice fly in the fourth inning provided the Reds with their winning run. The young catcher was starting his 17th straight game since a back injury sidelined Bench.

Dodgers 5 Phillies 3

Lee Lacy hit a three-run homer in the first inning and Steve Yeager had a solo shot in the second to lead Los Angeles over Philadelphia.

Don Sutton scattered eight hits, three of them bases-empty home runs by Mike Schmidt, Richie Hebner and Greg Luzinski. The win was Sutton's fifth in 11 decisions and first since May 22.

Giants 9 Expos 5

Jack Clark drove in four runs with a double and a three-run homer to spark San Francisco over Montreal. Left-hander Bob Knepper, 8-3, survived a shaky three-run first inning and then retired 16 batters in a row to post the Giants' fourth straight victory.

The Expos took a 3-0 lead in the first on Tony Perez's basesloaded double. But the Giants rallied with two runs in the bottom of the inning off loser Rudy May, 6-6, and then went ahead to stay with three more runs in the fifth, with Clark contributing a key RBI double.

Pearson Cup awarded

OTTAWA — The Pearson Cup, established by the chairman and the directors of the Montreal baseball Club in honor of the late Rt. Hon. Lester B. Pearson was presented yesterday to Mrs. Lester B. Pearson at a reception in the confederation room of the parliament buildings. Mr. Pearson was honorary president of the Montreal Baseball Club (the Expos) from the club's inception in 1968 until his death in 1972. The Pearson Cup will be competed for annually, starting in 1978, by major league baseball clubs based in Canada.

Gretzky contract common

QUEBEC (CP) — Paul Dumont, executive director of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League, said Tuesday the signing of Wayne Gretzky to a personal service contract by Nelson Skalbania of the World Hockey Association Indianapolis Racers is not an isolated incident.

Gretzky, 17, a scoring star last season with Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds of the Ontario Major Junior Hockey League, signed for a seven-year term Monday, reportedly worth $1.75 million.

Dumont said he has heard that at least 17 junior players under 20 years-of-age have signed similar agreements with WHA teams.

U.S. Open returns to Cherry Hills

DENVER (Reuter) — The U.S. Open golf championship returns this week to Cherry Hills, where 18 years ago Arnold Palmer launched the golf boom of the 60s almost single-handedly with an electrifying victory over young amateur Jack Nicklaus.

Both men will be in the field of 153 that tees off Thursday in the 78th U.S. Open, but this time the betting is that Nicklaus will emerge the winner.

Since he faltered over the last few holes in the 1960 tournament, Nicklaus become one of the world's greatest golfers. The Golden Bear has won more than $3,000,000 and 14 major championships.

But the sentimental choice still is Palmer, now 48 and without a tour victory since 1973.

Italy...raising its sights?

DON TORCUATO, Argentina (Reuter) — Italy now being tipped as potential World Cup finalists, were only aiming to get through the first round when they arrived here, and anything else they achieve will be a bonus, manager Enzo Bearzot said Tuesday.

Both Bearzot and the players have insisted they are still not aiming for the final, despite their performance as the most impressive team in the competition. They won all their first round matches, which included a win over Argentina, the favorites to win the Cup.

But Bearzot said that when the squad arrived in Argentina "I think we had a very precise programme, to obtain qualification for the second round and to get support from the crowds at matches. . . .

"This is already a result which satisfies us completely. Whatever comes now will all be extra."

But he added that Italy was bound gradually to be raising its sights.

Bearzot said a victory against West Germany today was important for psychological reasons, because it was the first second round match. The winning team would be given a decided lift.

Bearzot announced Tuesday he would play his normal first team, which had done so unexpectedly well, for the Germany match but that there were still doubts about injured stopper Mauro Bellugi. He has an injured groin muscle.

In other matches Austria goes against the Netherlands and Brazil takes on Peru.

COS promotes rule changes

HALIFAX (CP) — Prevention rather than treatment must be stressed to reduce injuries sustained through participation in sports, Dr. Tom Pashby of Toronto said Tuesday.

"Looking back on my career, we've always stressed treatment," he said in an interview. "It's a lot better to say 'How are we going to prevent these things from happening?' We've got to. It's a question of economics."

Pashby is head of the Athletic Eye Injury Committee of the Canadian Ophthalmological Society (COS) which is holding its annual meeting here.

He has been instrumental in promoting changes in recreational or amateur hockey in Canada including rules in the game and mandatory use of protective equipment.

Murray saves Orioles

Baltimore manager Earl Weaver said it was a longshot, but pitcher Mike Flanagan had a better name for it—Eddie Murray.

The Orioles, saved by Murray's two-out 10th-inning homer, won in the 11th on Larry Harlow's RBI single and stretched their American League baseball winning streak to 12 with a 3-2 victory over Seattle Mariners Tuesday night.

Weaver didn't bother to hide his suprise.

"That's what you hope for, but deep down you don't expect it," Weaver said of Murray's homer that wiped out a 2-1 Seattle lead. "That's the kind of stuff pennants are made of."

"I wasn't leaving the dugout until after Eddie hit," Flanagan said after pitching a five-hitter, chalking up his ninth victory in 13 decisions and winning his fourth consecutive game.

"He (Murray) won two games for me last year with homers and this year he beat Boston with a two-run homer in the ninth."

In other American League action, Minnesota Twins swept a twi-night doubleheader from Toronto Blue Jays 2-0 and 7-2, Boston Red Sox beat California Angels 5-0, Milwaukee Brewers beat Detroit Tigers 7-2, New York Yankees defeated Oakland A's 5-3, Chicago White Sox defeated Cleveland Indians 10-9 and Kansas City Royals beat Texas Rangers 5-0.

Pat Kelly, who knocked in Baltimore's first run, opened the 11th with a walk, stole second and took third on a bunt single by Billy Smith. Rick Dempsey walked to load the bases and one out later Harlow lined a single off the glove of first baseman Dan Meyer to score Smith, giving the Orioles their 20th victory in the last 25 games and the Mariners their sixth straight loss.

Twins 2-7 Blue Jays 0-2

Dan Ford drove in three runs with a homer and a single to lead Minnesota in the second game of the doubleheader.

In the first game, Willie Norwood had two hits and scored both runs as the Twins snapped a six-game losing streak.

The only bright spot of the night for the Blue Jays was the work of pitcher Dave Lemanczyk, the club's best starter last year who was 1-9 this season until sent to the bullpen. He came on in relief in the second game Tuesday night to allow only one run in five innings.

Boxing commission to rule on brawls

HALIFAX (CP) — The Nova Scotia Boxing Commission is to decide today whether fines will be levied in the wake of a brawl Tuesday night following a Canadian welterweight championship bout here between Clyde Gray of Toronto and Guerro Chavez of Montreal.

Moments after Gray knocked out Chavez in the fifth round a fan rushed into the ring and attacked Gray's manager, Irv Ungerman. He was finally restrained by Gray and city police and led away in handcuffs.

Also at issue at today's hearing will be an attack on Ungerman by Chavez and a brief flurry of punches exchanged by Ungerman and Roger Larivee. That exchange left both managers bloodied.

City police had no immediate comment on whether charges would be laid against the unidentified assailant. They would say only that their decision would hinge on whether Ungerman would co-operate.

"We'll be looking at all aspects of it and, possibly, fines could be levied," Bernie Levy, secretary-treasurer of the Nova Scotia Boxing Commission, said in an interview after the fight.

"We'll leave it at that."

The card that culminated in the fracus within the ring area was highlighted by Gray's successful bid to regain the Canadian title he lost to Chavez in Montreal last March. Gray also holds the Commonwealth welterweight title.

He had gone into the fight knowing he had to stay away from Chavez because of problems with head-butting in the past, Gray said.

TRAINS HARD

However, under the guidance of trainer Max Kedin, Gray had trained hard on his skills as an inside fighter, something he has used successfully in building a 65-5-1 record as a professional.

"I've trained a lot of fighters and he's one of the few in the world who will be told how to do something and then he'll go out and do it," Kedin said.

At the centre of Kedin's job when he took over from long-time Gray trainer Ted McWhorter was to train Gray to jab directly at the body and not hook at his opponent's sides, Kedin said.

The technique was successful Tuesday night as Chavez consistently left his head open by carrying his left hand too low. Gray hit him repeatedly with jabs to the head followed by right hooks when Chavez tried to cover up.

It was that combination that sent Chavez into the ropes and on to the mat late in the fifth round. However, he appeared at first to have beaten the 10-count of referee Percy Paris as he jumped to his feet, apparently eager to continue the fight.

As Paris declared the fight over and Gray the new Canadian welterweight champion, a huge cheer erupted from the more than 6,000 fans, most of whom had come to the fight to support Gray, a Three Mile Plains, N.S., native.

On the supporting card, Ralph Hollet of Halifax knocked out Kerry Patterson of New Glasgow, N.S., in the fourth round of a scheduled six-round middleweight bout and Kevin Downey of Halifax was declared the winner of a scheduled 10-round light heavyweight match when Bob Smith of St. Louis was disqualified in the 10th round.

On the supporting card, that match was clearly the crowd favorite.

In addition, Lawrence Hafey of Stellarton, N.S., scored a knockout over Don Johnson of Liverpool, N.S. in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round welterweight match.

Finally, Alan Clark of Halifax won a unanimous decision in a listless four-round welterweight curtain raiser against Jim Henry of Montreal.

Many of the more than 6,000 fans laughed throughout the bout.

Habs named to all-star team

MONTREAL (CP) — Three members of New York Islanders and two players from Montreal Canadiens were named today as first-team all-stars in the National Hockey League for the 1977-78 season.

Boston Bruins had the other player on the first team while the Canadiens had two on the second team along with one each from Buffalo Sabres and the Islanders and two from Toronto Maple Leafs.

The four selections from the Islanders equals their previous total in their first five seasons in the NHL. Defenceman Denis Potvin, centre Bryan Trottier and left winger Clarke Gillies were selected to the first team while rookie right winger Mike Bossy was chosen to the second sqaud.

Completing the first team were goaltender Ken Dryden of Montreal, Boston defenceman Brad Park and right winger Guy Lafleur of the Canadiens.

Joining Bossy on the second team were defencemen Larry Robinson of Montreal and Borje Salming of Toronto, Buffalo goaltender Don Edwards, Toronto centre Darryl Sittler and left winger Steve Shutt of the Canadiens.

Dryden received 210 points in the goaltending voting as he made the first all-star team for the fourth time. Edwards, classified as a first-year netminder, had 126 points.

PICKED AGAIN

Potvin, who now has been on four all-star teams, had 226 points while Park had 201. Robinson was one point back of Park and Salming had 166 points.

Trottier, Gillies and Bossy are all making their first appearance on the all-star selections while Potvin is making his initial first-team appearance.

Trottier had 218 points compared with 176 for Sittler, the Leafs' team captain, only the second Toronto forward to be named an all-star since 1970-71.

Lanny McDonald was a second-team right winger in 1976-77.

Lafleur, who had 266 points in the voting at right wing compared with 78 for Bossy, has been voted to the first all-star team for four consecutive years. Only Maurice Richard of Montreal, from 1944-45 through 1949-50, and Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings, from 1950-51 through 1953-54, had at least as many consecutive first-team selections at right wing.

Gillies edged Shutt by six points in the voting at left wing with 192 points.

All first team members receive $2,000 and Lafleur now has won $25,000 in award money for the league. Lafleur won $1,-500 for grabbing the Hart Trophy as the league's most valuable player, $1,500 as the scoring champion, $5,000 as his share in helping the Canadiens win the Norris Division and the Prince of Wales Conference titles and $15,000 as his share for the Stanley Cup championship.

NHL: CLEVELAND-MINNESOTA MERGER ON TAP

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League board of governors discussed a possible merger Tuesday of the troubled Cleveland Barons franchise with Minnesota North Stars.

But NHL president John Ziegler offered no comment on the plan after emerging from a day-long governors' meeting.

"I have no comment to make on the Cleveland situation now," Ziegler said. "Right now, our schedule makers have instructions to make a schedule for 18 teams. There is no change in those instructions."

Gordon Ritz, president of the North Stars, said earlier in the day that a committee was studying the proposal and Walter Bush, chairman of Minnesota's board, said that such a proposal might be in the best interests of hockey.

If the merger of the two clubs is not approved, Bush said it would have no effect on the North Stars.

"There will be hockey in Minnesota next season," he said.

Ziegler said New York Islanders have been given until July 18 to come back to the board with a plan of reorganization.

MUST CATCH UP

"Part of that plan must include bringing current the amount they owe on expansion notes," Ziegler said.

"They may not make any player transactions without my approval. At the moment, though, they have been given permission to continue business as usual. If a third party interferes with their operation, I have been given the power to call a special meeting of the board."

If the Islanders do not live up to the NHL requests, Ziegler said there were several courses of action open to the league under the constitution.

Zieler said the Islanders were up to date with their payments to the league, but were behind in their expansion notes and it was learned that they failed to meet a $320,000 payment to New York Rangers for territorial indemnification on May 31.

"It was the first payment they missed," said Bill Jennings, president of the Rangers. Islanders' president Roy Boe has been reported to owe $12 million to his NHL partners, part from the admission fee for the 1972-73 expansion and part in an indemnity for the territorial rights.

Boe, who also owns New Jersey Nets of the National Basketball Association, is reported to have debts totalling $19.5 million.

Ziegler said the board of governors voted against instituting a five-minute sudden-death overtime period for regular-season play and had approved a resolution making helmets mandatory, provided the National Hockey League Players' Association approves the idea.

"Alan Eagleson (NHLPA's executive-director) and I have discussed it," Ziegler said. "I think it will take just a simple majority from the players' association to pass the idea."

The NHL president added that stiffer fines will be instituted for criticism of game officials. Not only will the individual delivering the criticism be fined, but his team as well.

Ziegler, who avoided comment on a few other matters, said the board also decided to reintroduce the rule ordering noncombatants to move away from the area of a fight in progress.

TRIAL FAILED

The rule was tried in training camp last season with little success, but Ziegler said it will be examined in September at the league's semi-annual meeting in Toronto.

He said he, personally, was not in favor of the signing of under-age players when asked for his opinion of the seven-year deal Wayne Gretzky got Monday from Indianapolis Racers of the World Hockey Association.

Ziegler also indicated there was some kind of proposal for reopening of merger talks with the WHA, but the NHL was not interested in pursuing the matter.

CFL SEASON OPENS WITH A WHIMPER

The Canadian Football League pre-season schedule opened with a whimper and a couple of ouches Tuesday with Calgary Stampeders beating Edmonton Eskimos 25-19 and British Columbia Lions defeating Montreal Alouettes 15-9 in a pair of games that featured only four offensive touchdowns.

The Stampeders' win before a crowd of 22,155 at Calgary featured the most action, including the removal by ambulance of Edmonton rookie running back Barnabas White.

White was taken to hospital with undetermined injuries suffered in the fourth quarter. Earlier, the Eskimos lost defensive back Larry Highbaugh with an ankle injury.

Tom Forzani, on a 58-yard pass from Matthew Reid, and Bob Viccars, on a 15-yard pass from rookie quarterback Craig Juntunen, helped the Stampeders build a 22-9 lead going into the fourth quarter and they survived a late Edmonton rally which included Edmonton's only touchdown on a three-yard pass by Tom Wilkinson to Jim Germany.

Calgary kicker Cyril McFall booted three field goals, two singles and two converts to lead the Stampeders' scoring. Dave Cutler kicked three field goals, three singles and one convert for the Eskimos.

At Vancouver, Jerry Tagge limped off the bench in the second half to direct British Columbia Lions to the game's only touchdown drive.

Tagge, who injured his ankle in training camp, completed two key passes to Jim Young and another to Leon Bright—all on second down—to set up a three-yard touchdown run by rookie Calvin Culliver at 5:50 of the fourth quarter.

LARGEST IN YEARS

The crowd of 21,608, the largest at Empire Stadium for an exhibition game in years, saw little in offensive power for most of the game. Lui Passaglia completed the B.C. scoring with field goals of 29 and 25 yards, two singles and a convert.

Montreal's touchdown came when rookie linebacker John Olenchalk recovered a fumble by Ken Hinton of the Lions in the B.C. end zone on an aborted punt return.

Ty Morris had his convert attempt blocked by Hinton, but later kicked a 12-yard field goal.

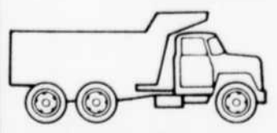

The Grey Cup champion Alouettes used four quarterbacks and got the sharpest performance from Canadian Gerry Dattilio in the final quarter. Dattilio tried to pull the game out for Montreal in the last minute with a spectacular 33-yard run to the B.C. 42, but two plays later fumbled and the Lions recovered.

Imports Sonny Wade, Joe Barnes and Larry Lawrence were ineffective for the Als, although Lawrence scrambled for a few first downs in the third quarter.

The Lions led 6-0 after the first quarter with Gary Keithley at quarterback and were still in front 7-6 at the half.

Mrs Lucille Loubier

WHAT IS NUTRITION?

We eat a thousand meals a year, spend a thousand hours eating, spend a thousand dollars on food, but we rarely think about what it is we eat.
The big problem with our diet is that we are eating too much food: too many calories, too much fat, too much sugar, too much salt. We have to eat more vegetables, more whole grain cereals, more beans, more low-fat milk, and more lean meats, fish and poultry.
This is what Nutrition is about.
Eating a nutritious meal means being slim, having less tooth decay, a lower risk of heart disease, strokes and diabetes, and a smaller risk of certain cancers.
Good nutrition means feeling livelier and healthier.
Now, do you want to meet the "good nutrition challenge"?
So, do your body a favour, spend a few minutes reading this column every week. These few minutes could change your life.
For consumers who care..., just ask Lucile.

RECYCLING AGE

Photos by Bruce Porter

Fiddler Robert Calder joins local musicians, Charlie Cover, Alex Powie and Charles Kobelt at the Massawippi River picnic held last weekend. Approximately 100 people participated in the activity, planned to make the town aware of the recreational possibilities of the river.

These clowns were two of many who delighted the children at Sunday's picnic on the shores of the Massawippi.

Hundreds of people, of all ages and sizes, attended the Cookshire Bread Festival on Saturday and Sunday and sampled homemade bread and rolls.

WI MEETINGS AROUND THE EASTERN TOWNSHIPS

BURY (NR) — A large gathering of W.I. and St. Paul's Guild members and other guests took place at the home of Mrs. Alice Mayhew, on Thursday evening, June 1st, for the monthly meeting of the Bury W.I. and as a going-away party for a long-time member of both organizations, and friend, Mrs. Kenneth Tarrant, who is leaving shortly to take up residence near their eldest son, Rev. Edward Tarrant, (Bud), in Nackawic, N.B.

On her arrival, the guest of honor was presented with a blue and gold corsage. There were thirty-four ladies present, seventeen W.I. members and seventeen guests.

The president, Susan Renaud, presided, thanking Mrs. Mayhew for offering her house for the gathering and opened the meeting in the traditional manner. The regular business; minutes, correspondence, bills and financial report was taken care of in the usual way.

Mrs. Alma Pehlemann mentioned that the social afternoon as guests of the Brookbury branch had been postponed, due to other commitments for that day.

Muriel Fitzsimmons gave her report of the Annual county convention.

Cash donations were voted to the Sherbrooke Hopsital, Pope Memorial School Library for magazine subscriptions and the Bury Brownies, to help defray the costs of their weekend camping trip.

Convenors' reports were given by: Lillian Coates, Health and Welfare, on the possibility of too much sun causing skin cancer: Serena Wintle, Education, told about Level 6's Student Exchange trip to Trois Pistoles, Que., she also mentioned that the annual County Track Meet is scheduled to take place in Bury on June 15. Winnie Buchanan for Home Economics, handed out booklets, "100 Ways to save energy and money in the home." Handi-bags were brought in by several members, and the Citizenship convenors, Lillian and Bessie Olson reported purchasing enough articles to fill 12, which will be done in the near future.

The Roll call was answered by telling why we like living in the province of Quebec. Many of the answers were because we were born here and this is where our roots are, because of our beautiful uncommercialized countryside and clean air, our two cultures and our good health insurance.

Serena Wintle, a former Bury Junior W.I. member, then took the chair for the presentation of a Life Membership Pin and Certificate to Violet Tarrant, on behalf of the members of the Institute, for her many years as a member of the Senior Branch and as Guidance Counsellor during the time of the local Junior W.I., recalling many happy times spent at their home and at camp, extending much love and regrets of her leaving us.

Mrs. Tarrant graciously responded, expressing her thanks and appreciation for the honor of being presented with a W.I. Life Membership.

Mrs. Helen Groom, our County President, who had just returned from the W.I. Provincial Convention at Macdonald College, arrived and presented Mrs. Tarrant Mrs. Marjorie Dougherty and Mrs. Lillian Olson each with a beautiful plaid Abbie Pritchard Throw, much to their surprise and delight, expressing the desire that they may enjoy them for many years to come.

Mrs. Violet Ross, president of St. Paul's Guild and A.C.W. presented Mrs. Tarrant with a lovely gold cross and chain on behalf of the members of that organization, expressing their sincere good wishes for her in her new home.

Lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Alice Mayhew, Fern Pehleman and Nina Rowell, assisted by Lillian Coates, Winnie Buchanan and other Guild members. This was highlighted by a lovely decorated cake, inscribed with "To Violet with Love", the work of Alice Mayhew, who also cut and served it.

A pleasant social time followed.

BROOKBURY — The June meeting of the Brookbury W.I. was held at the hall on Monday afternoon, June 5, at 2 p.m. The date was changed from the first Thursday of the month due to two members attending convention at Macdonald.

The members were welcomed by the President Mrs. Lionel Allison, who opened the meeting with the Ode, Collect for Club Women and the Salute to the Flag.

The motto for this meeting was "There's no pillow so soft as a clear conscience," and the Roll Call - Bring something handed down from your ancestors was answered by eleven members.

Mrs. S. Batley, Secretary, read the minutes of the May meeting and these were approved and signed.

Reports were given of the Card Parties, Public Speaking at Pope Memorial School at Bury and the Musical Evening at Sawyerville.

A very satisfactory report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. O. Lowe, of the two cards parties held in the hall recently and the sale of tickets on the quilt.

Bills were presented and paid and Mrs. Flora McIntyre handed in her bill as delegate to Macdonald College.

Several letters of thanks were read from those who had been remembered with cards, prizes and in other ways during the last month.

Mrs. Flora McIntyre gave a very interesting report of the Convention at Macdonald which she had attended as the delegate from our Institute. She was thanked by the President for the splendid report and both she and Mrs. S. Batley expressed their appreciation for having been given the opportunity to attend.

A discussion took place concerning rental charges for our hall and decisions were made as to prices for the different social activities for which it is rented. These are to be reviewed each year at the annual meeting to see how satisfactorily they are working out.

Plans were made to invite Bury and Canterbury Branches to our Hall for a Social afternoon on June 14.

Mrs. O. Downes offered to contact someone to rectify the water situation at the Hall and Mrs. L. Allison said she would make inquiries about extra wiring so we could use an electric stove in the kitchen.

The July meeting will be at the Downe West Cottage on July 6 and a cook-out lunch served at noon.

Mrs. C. Lowe and Mrs. O. Lowe served a delicious salad supper at the close of the meeting.

SPOONER POND — The June meeting of Spooner Pond Branch of the Q.W.I. was held on the 1st of the month at the home of Mrs. M. Fraser, at the Wales Home. Her assisting hostesses were Mrs. W. Fraser, Mrs. Ruby Noel and Mrs. J. Walker.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Mrs. R. Fleck informed her fellow members that the box of very nicely knitted articles which she had brought in last month for CanSave had been done by her sister-in-law in Ontario. A note of thanks and appreciation will be sent to her for her kindness.

A report of the catering for the wedding reception of Charlene and Keith Coote was given by Mrs. W. Lancaster. This had been very successful and those who had worked for this were thanked by the President. Charlene is the daughter of a member and when a tiny girl, had often attended meetings with her mother.

The quilt has now been finished and will either be sold outright or a drawing will be held on it later.

Treasurer's report was given by Mrs. W. Parkes and Conveners' reports read.

Agriculture convener, Mrs. G. Fortier, later helped with the sale of plants.

Citizenship, Mrs. V. Morrow, asked for assistance in her work.

Education, Mrs. Walker, had brought several books and magazines, most of which were sold. She had been given several new books, which she is donating to the Richmond Regional School library.

Home Ec., Mrs. D. Biggs, read an amusing poem, "What is a Grandmother?", according to a six year old girl!

Publicity, Mrs. D. Oakley, also read a poem.

Welfare & Health, Mrs. G. Crack and Mrs. L. Davidson, were absent.

A card was signed by all, to be sent to a member who is not well.

Mrs. Parkes informed the members that the House Log which is being prepared by Mrs. Ignatieff, is to be ready to be judged at County level, in October, and then sent to be judged at Provincial level by the end of December of this year. The regular drawing was won by Mrs. M. Fraser.

After the meeting had been adjourned, the sale of plants was held, with Mrs. Parkes as auctioneer, assisted by Mrs. Fortier, and with Mrs. Biggs as cashier. A very satisfactory sum was realized from this.

The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Biggs on the regular date. This will be the usual afternoon meeting.

Annual fairs highlighted winter

By FOSTER WIGHTMAN
for The Record

In the early 1800's there was a yearly winter fair in the top floor of Mr. Levi Kemp's Hotel in Frelighsburg, now the home of Wilfred Menard. Here people came to show off their accomplishments -- the women, their cooking, weaving, preserving, quilts, knitting and sewing, and the men their seed grain, salt pork, cheese, and other farm produce as well as their hand-made furniture, axe helves, small tools, and their wood carvings that they had passed their time whittling on during the long winter nights.

These fairs lasted for a week, during which time the menfolk would brag about who had the best team of oxen, or the heaviest, the best herd of sheep, or the best brood sows, the best laying hens or the best milk cows.

Finally it was decided that an association would be formed, wherein each member could bring his best to a designated place on a certain day to have them judged by an "outside" expert in each category so the winners could go home with a prize to prove their boasts.

So the Missisquoi County Agricultural Society was formed and held in Phillipsburg, in 1824, a one-day cattle show only. In 1825, the cattle show was held in conjunction with the riding club at Hunters Mills, St-Armand East. In 1826 the cattle show was held on Dunham Flats where the village now stands. In 1827 it was held in Stanbridge East at Ephriam Knight's race track, the farm now owned by Oscar Lavoie. In 1828 it was held for the first time in Bedford in a field behind the hotel in lower Bedford where it was held every year until the year 1873, when the society bought a piece of land of their own from Mr. Joseph Cyr on the west side of the recently-laid-out Pine Street. Then in 1877, the Lake Champlain and St. Lawrence Junction R.R. cut their grounds in half.

They had to buy another piece of land, also from Mr. Cyr as well as a right of way from the Main Street 25 feet wide; the row of big willow trees was planted at this time to give shade for the sheep pens. Thus since their arrival in Bedford the race track has been moved west three times, and the society was lately bought and, or expropriated other land from Mr. Joseph Cyr's great-grandson Mr. George Alce Rocheleau.

I myself have a personal recollection of all the fairs since 1912, not having missed one during this time. As a little boy I used to get a great thrill when I would stand beside the road in front of my house west of town and watch the teams of oxen and horses driven by, from Phillipsburg, Clarenceville, and Pike River, followed by herds of cattle on foot as well as the wagonlaods of hogs and sheep going to the fair, for which I could hardly wait.

My parents usually had a restaurant on the grounds and I used to have to turn the crank on the ice cream freezer to earn a ride on the merry-go-round, which was bought from an old man from Sheldon Vt. by Messrs. Willie Corey and Alonzo Sheltus of Bedford. It was bought by my father in 1926 and moved to Venise, where it was destroyed by a wind-storm in 1927.

I recall how the town used to boom at fairtime; many people used to open up their homes to accommodate the show people during the fair as well as renting their stables for horses. Many would erect booths along the sidewalks in front of their homes until the town Council passed a resolution prohibiting this practise. Bands of gypsies used the camp on the outskirts of the town with their horse traders-and-fortune tellers. The townsfolks used to wake up in the morning and find their clotheslines cleaned, their gardens raided and their cows milked.

The old wooden ferris wheel was designed and built by my grandfather Thomas Wightman in 1909 and 1910 for his son-in-law George Martin of Bedford, and operated by him and his son Edwin Martin. After the death of my grandfather in 1925 it was never assembled again.

Up until 1925 the directors used to send a delegation in to Belmont Park to recruit side shows to participate in the fair but since that time, the different shows have included Bedford in their annual circuit.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Hands such as this, with points equally distributed and each player having a strong suit, frequently escalate into heated and exciting bidding battles. Just as frequently, the player with the strong spade suit ends up outbidding everybody.

"Don't ever trump your partner's ace" is one of the first truisms a novice is taught, yet like most truisms there are exceptions. This time it was necessary.

The opening lead of the queen of hearts won the first trick. West had an excellent idea of his partner's distribution. East had rebid his hearts and introduced diamonds at the three level. This indicated six hearts and four diamonds. South, West reasoned, must have a good seven-card spade suit.

At trick two West cashed the king of diamonds. This was a must. Otherwise, South would take a marked club finesse and dispose of his losing diamond. Now West switched to a trump. He wanted to stop South from ruffing his losing hearts in dummy. Declarer won in his hand and took the club finesse. He then led the 10 of hearts from dummy upon which East played the ace.

West trumped his partner's ace. He knew East also had the king because his own queen had taken the opening trick. He knew from the bidding that his partner had no more spades and if he did not take his last opportunity to get on play to lead a trump, there would be no way to defeat the contract.

Even the most sacrosanct rule must be broken when the occasion demands it.

UCW meetings

EAST FARNHAM — The May meeting of U.C.W. was held with Mrs. Lela Shufelt, 26 members and friends attending.

Devotions were taken by Harriet Shufelt - theme being "Praise".

The President Miss Marion Collins chaired the meeting.

Donations were voted for the late Andrew McEwing and Clarence Powers.

Elizabeth Collins introduced Mrs. Rita Forcier who gave an interesting talk on her homeland, "Finland" showing many articles and crafts, even some Finnish food, a Braided Loaf, which was shared by everyone.

June meeting will be with Mrs. Connie Hulburd, date to be announced. Lunch was served.

BIRCHTON — In spite of the showers on Wednesday evening, June 7, the Birchton UCW held their June meeting at the Turchyn home, when the hosting President called the group to order with the repeating of the Purpose, after which she called on Mrs. J.A. Murray to proceed with the Devotions, the theme of which was Mother. The May meeting did not fit into this theme as a joint and different programme was used. But the thoughts of mother are for all days and all seasons. All who were present participated in the dialogue on Mother's teachings and example. The period closed with the Lord's Prayer and silent prayer for the Marcel Beaudoin family in their troubles.

After the usual routine of minutes, etc., the report of the success of the Salad-Meat supper, a reminder to keep "our talent coffers growing", Mrs. MacKinnon and Mrs. Prescott reported they had chosen four Live-Love projects. The group voted to select Brazil Ecumenical, The Parish Work in Newfoundland, and the evangelical of Lesotho, with fifty dollars toward each of the two which will be selected by the Committee in charge of same.

Mrs. W.O. Todd volunteered to replace Mrs. Howard Picard as Secretary-Treasurer of the Birchton Church In Memoriam Fund. Thanks were expressed to Mrs. Picard for her nineteen years in charge of the Fund.

It was decided to have the spring Cleanup of the Church and Hall on Saturday, June 17 and any assistance will be welcome.

A motion of appreciation went to Mrs. W.O. Todd for her generosity in the installation of the arborite counter-covering in the Hall kitchen .

Mrs. Prescott has been successful with the cards work, especially at the May supper, and will soon be sending another order, catalogues are available for perusal.

Mrs. Todd, for Community Friendship and Visiting had had a very busy May, after a quiet April, having sent, or taken, sympathy notes, birthday (seniors) notes, to hospital or home folks. She reported she and the President and others would present 80th birthday greetings and flowers to Mrs. Oscar Desruisseaux on June 10.

Mrs. Latewood reported that all articles for Welfare should be in by the end of the month, early as possible, as she plans to be away for a time later.

More bandages were handed in.

The Secretary, Mrs. Stanley Logan was asked, after again discussing some of Mr. Johnston's suggestions, as to how the Dixville Home residents could be made happier, to ask him to send a list of twelve (12) residents, Then each person will take a name of an adoptee, with whom to keep in touch with gifts, letters, and whatever suits the resident.

This concern is for those who, quote, "family never come to see them or to keep in touch other ways, who never get to anyone's home, who need to feel the concern of someone, etc." unquote.

The Fair at the Dixville Home is June 24. Attend if you can!

The Treasurer's report showed 'all is well', so $250.00 was voted to the Stewards' Fund.

Members were reminded to 'keep the Happenings' in circulation, i.e. a sharing with others; copies of Mission Magazine were distributed, correspondence from Richmond, B.C. regarding mission in India was read, high points from the Festival Lennoxville were reviewed, and that the Summer Event at Bishop's is August 18, 19, 20.

Plans were made to see what educational books were available for less fortunate areas, books that might be 'put into the garbage'.

The Scotstown Area Vice-President, Mrs. Prescott, in a very touching commentary presented Mrs. Howard Picard with a Life Membership Pin, commenting on Mrs. Picard's faithfulness during the years, and wishing her good years, until she and Howard 'come back home again', to the U.C.W. and all other Community activities.

Mrs. Todd then presented Reta with her favourite roses, yellow. Mrs. Picard was deeply moved by the tributes paid her.

In a lighter vein, at one point in the agenda, a fund was established to assist one member to avail herself of "further educational opportunities."

The President closed the business with a "poem for thought", entitled "God Knows Best".

Under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Rogers, assisted by Mrs. Logan, the impressive tape of "What in the world can a Christian do?" was shown, leaving each with the resolution "to do better, since we have so much"... in talents, money, etc...

As refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Turchyn and Mrs. Prescott, relaxed chatting was a good ending to a worthwhile evening.

LENNOXVILLE — The regular meeting of the United Church Women was held in the board room of Scott Hall with the president, Mrs. Douglas Hadlock presiding. The devotional period, taken by Mrs. Nancy Foerstel included the reading of Psalm 62, a poem, "Vestigia" by Bliss Carman and the Lord's Prayer. The U.C.W. Purpose was then repeated in unison.

In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. C.P. Mallalieu, the minutes were read by Mrs. Janet Carman. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Douglas Baldwin. The annual Presbyterial U.C.W. meeting held in Centenary United Church, Stanstead, was enjoyed by several members.

Mrs. Nancy Foerstel of the Christian Education Committee reported two delegates sent to Cornwall, Ont., four delegates to the Youth Conference in Spencerville, Ont., thirteen Bibles were purchased for the confirmation class; six camperships were given, namely, two canoe trips, one cycle trip, and three for Cedar Lodge.

The Junior Choir of Lennoxville United Church along with Plymouth-Trinity Junior choir preented, "The Singing Bishop" to members of the Montreal-Ottawa Conference at Bishop's University on Tuesday, May 30.

The Sunday School Promotion Programme held after morning worship on the church lawn was well attended. Lunch was served and games were played.

Mrs. Harold Worster, convener of Supply & Social Welfare reported a carton of used Christmas cards sent to the Kiwanis Boys' and Girls' Club in Toronto and one carton of used stamps to the Leprosy Mission in Toronto. Nearly one thousand rolled bandages were sent to Phebe Hospital, Liberia, as well as some knitted ones. Two cones of twine have been bought for knitting bandages. Mrs. Worster also read a letter of appreciation from the Cerrard Boys' and Girls' Club for the used Christmas cards and one from Phebe Hospital for the shipment of supplies received.

Correspondence read by Mrs. W.S. Aird, included a letter of appreciation from Rev. Douglas Warren for improvements made at the manse.

Two letters were read from Mrs. William Fuller. One thanked the members for the concern expressed and many acts of kindness done when her mother, the late Mrs. Austin Scott was in hospital; the other expressed appreciation for the In Memoriam made in her memory.

Unit reports showed that the spring months had been busy ones with suppers, a coffee party and an Arts and Craft Show, as well as other events.

The new shelves in the board room made by Mr. Donald MacRae were admired by all present.

The 38th annual Summer Event which will be held at Bishop's University on August 18, 19 and 20 is open to women, men and youth. The closing date for registration is July 15. Registration forms are available on request. For further information call Mrs. Douglas Baldwin - tel.: 567-7249.

Unit 3 will hold their annual ice cream social on the church lawn on Tuesday, June 20.

The next U.C.W. meeting will be held on Monday evening, Sept. 25.

Boy Scout news

BURY (NR) — The Bury Boy Scouts enjoyed a weekend campout in the valley down behind Bud Coates'. Under the supervision of their leaders, Guy Renaud and Keith Bennett they arrived at their camp site on Friday evening, setting up their tents in between showers.

They all enjoyed an abundance of good food cooked out of doors, fishing, swimming and other outdoor activities, with only one minor mishap, one boy got a fish-hook stuck in his finger and had to be taken to the doctor to have it removed.

At the camp-out, Keith Bennett was presented with a pocket knife in appreciation of over 10 years of faithful service as assistant to both the Cub and Scout leaders, with the hope that he will continue for many more years to come.

Both leaders are to be commended for taking the time to give the boys this delightful outing, especially Guy, who spent the whole weekend with the boys planning and supervising the cooking of the meals and other activities.

Oddfellows & Rebekahs hold annual session

Le Motel Castel d'Estrie at Granby, Que. was the scene on May 26 and 27 for the best attendance in many years when the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of the Jurisdiction of Quebec met in Annual Session.

Distinguished visitors from several Provinces and States of the Union included Hugh J. Bradley, Deputy Sovereign Grand Master from Hendersonville, Tennessee who was the guest speaker at the banquet on Friday. Music for the dance which followed was provided by the Country Kids who thrilled the crowd of over 325 present.

Among others attending the two day meeting were - Mrs. Mavis Paull, President of the International Association of Rebekah Assemblies of the World, from Portland, Oregon - Rev. Maurice Amnott, G.M. of Maine - John Broadfoot, G.M. of Ontario and Mrs. Broadfoot - Donald E. Rich, G.M. of New Hampshire and Mrs. Rich - Dallas Taylor G.M. of Mass. - Charles Rivers, G.M. of Vt. and Mrs. Rivers - Mrs. Doris Taylor, Pres. Rebekah Assembly of Mass. - Mrs. Jean Bolton, Pres. Rebekah Assembly of Ontario - Mrs. Elaine Walters, Pres. Rebekah Assembly of R.I. - Mrs. Erleen Maxford, Pres. Rebekah Assembly of N.H. - Mrs. Marion Hood, Pres. Heads of the Order from Quebec included Ralph Bernard, Granby, Grand Master. Mrs. Jean Horner, Shawville, President of the Rebekah Assembly and Alvin Smith, Ayer's Cliff, Grand Patriarch of the Grand Encampment of Quebec.

This world-wide fraternal organization which operates under a Sovereign Grand Master, supported by officers from various parts of Canada and the United States is dedicated to the relief of suffering, not only to its own members but to all, regardless of creed or ethnic origin. The membership also maintain and support many homes for senior citizens in Canada and the United States and are very much involved in education.

Heading the Order in Quebec for the coming year is something unique and probably a first, at least in Canada. The Grand Master, Bruce Adams of St. Bruno and Mrs. Lillian Adams of La Tuque make up a son and mother team.

Stewart Bullock of Stanstead was elected Grand Patriarch of Grand Encampment.

BIRCHTON

On Sunday, June 4, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Jackson were invited to a pre-49th Wedding Anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Roland Lowry, Roland Lowry, and grandchildren Christine, Kent and Garth, when a turkey dinner with all the trimmings was served.

The Community was shocked by the tragic accident which occurred near the Jordan Hill-Bulwer corner, taking the life of Mrs. Marcel Beaudoin, leaving Marcel dangerously ill in hospital as of Monday, and leaving one child with both legs broken, and a second youngster with a broken leg and a broken arm. The sympathy of the community goes to all those concerned and affected by the tragedy.

WI meetings

INVERNESS — The regular meeting of the Inverness Women's Institute was held on June 2nd at the home of Mrs. C. Mimnaugh.

The president, Mrs. A. Muir, opened the meeting by asking for two minutes of silence in memory of Mrs. Lorne Kelso whose untimely passing leaves sad memories for all the members.

The roll call was: Tell an incident that happened to your father when you were young. Fathers, indeed, had a hard time then as most of the stories were about runaway or kicking horses.

Mrs. Little, Health and Welfare convenor, sent out five Sympathy cards, six Get-well, one Thinking of You and one Birthday card during the month.

Mrs. Muir volunteered to take over the Education convenorship for the remainder of the year.

Mrs. Robinson read an article - Grab a vinegar jug if it's time to clean. One of the hints was: Clean your steam iron by using three tablespoons of vinegar, along with the required amount of water. Turn the iron on high and steam it out, tipping it at times to promote the action. Empty.

Mrs. Graham reported that ten entries for the Competitions had been sent to the Provincial Convention at Macdonald College. Seven prizes were won. The list of winners included:

Macrame wall hanging, 3rd prize (tie), Mrs. Muir; Knitted hat, 1st prize, Mrs. W. Graham; Tray cloth, 3rd prize, Mrs. Muir; Cross-stitch aprons, 2nd prize, Mrs. Graham; Crossstitch aprons, 3rd prize, Mrs. K. Cox; Crossstitch aprons, 5th prize (tie), Mrs. A. Little; Crossstitch aprons, 5th prize (tie), Mrs. A. Muir;

Mrs. Little read an article stating that the Diabetic Association provides recipes for those who need them.

The draw parcel was won by Mrs. B. Robinson.

A donation for prizes is to be sent to the St. Pat's School in Thetford Mines.

Mrs. K. Cox, delegate to the 64th Annual Convention at Macdonald College, gave an excellent report of the meetings. Our Service Fund will now be $1.50 per member instead of $1.00.

Two hand-made articles from each branch are to be sent in to help defray the cost of the conference in Alberta in 1979.

The president adjourned the meeting and the hostess (a non member!) served delicious refreshments. She was assisted by Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Muir.

AYER'S CLIFF — The June meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the United Church Hall on Friday, June 2, with Mrs. A. Lord and Mrs. K. Little as joint hostesses.

The meeting was conducted by the President Mrs. N. Pierce who welcomed everyone and invited all to join in repeating the Mary Stewart Collect. The roll call was answered by only ten members but each told of some good work done by the W.I. in the community.

After the approval of the May minutes, Mrs. Wm. Robinson gave a very full report of the County meeting held in May and also gave the treasurer's report which showed a good balance.

Convenors' reports -

Agriculture - Mrs. G. Dezan reported that fifty-one children in our school have School Fair seeds. She read an article on eggs and distributed some leaflets on freezing, canning and the home vegetable garden.

Education - Mrs. J. Walker was absent but had sent a report telling of various trips being taken by our local school children in June.

Sunshine - Mrs. J. Cass reported having sent two cards and took flowers to a shut-in member.

Several items of new business were handled. Our July outing was discussed and it was agreed to go out for supper on July 7 and visit the Mystery Spot. Mrs. McFaul and Mrs. Ride were both absent but will be contacted to arrange the outing.

Some discussion followed regarding the old cemetery project undertaken several years ago. It was decided to make a few inquiries and to approach the municipal council about the placing of a plaque on the existing monument.

The secretary was asked to write a letter of appreciation to the Municipal Council for beautifying the parking area adjacent to the town building with grass and trees and a cedar hedge.

It was agreed to make a cash donation to a local student who has been chosen to go on a student exchange to Port au Basques, Newfoundland this summer and to send an Anniversary congratulations message to Stanstead North Branch which would be 50 years old on June 7. Mrs. A. Lord gave a good report of the recent Provincial W.I. Convention held at Macdonald College.

Mrs. Flora Astbury agreed to act as delegate to the August quarterly meeting in Beebe. She also had charge of the program for the afternoon. She was disappointed in her speaker so a short quiz of scrambled words from the hand book was conducted by the President. Mrs. Bill Roddick was the winner of a small prize for unscrambling the most words.

At the close of the business delicious raisin bread, cinnamon buns and cheese were served by the hostesses to the members and three children and a pleasant chat ensued.

MELBOURNE — On Monday evening, June 5, the regular meeting of the Richmond Young Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. R. Pariseau.

The president, Mrs. D. Banfill called the meeting to order by repeating the Mary Stewart Collect. The roll call was answered by 18 members naming a bird starting with the initial of their given name.

The treasurer gave her report and the correspondence was read. There was a thank-you card from Mrs. O. Wilkins for the sunshine basket she received. Mrs. L. Knowles also thanked the members for one she had received. A letter was received from the Sherbrooke Hospital requesting a donation for the Hospital Campaign.

Mrs. O. Wilkins gave a donation as she was unable to assist with the two weddings catered to in May.

Mrs. I. Kerr sent a donation to this W.I. which was greatly appreciated by the members.

A donation of $100.00 is being sent to the Sherbrooke Hospital.

As the chairman of the cheer committee was not always aware of a member being sick it was decided that the hostess for the month would notify her of anyone that was to be remembered and to help deliver a gift.

Mrs. D. Banfill gave her report on the Convention at Macdonald College and thanked the members for sending her as their delegate.

As there was no further business the meeting was adjourned and a delicious lunch served by the hostess, Mrs. R. Pariseau, assisted by her daughters, Melodie and Wanda.

CANTERBURY — The June meeting of the W.I. met on Monday at the home of Mrs. Grace MacLeod with sixteen members present. The President, Mrs. Mabel Thompson opened the meeting with the Ode, Creed, and Salute to the Flag. All members answered the roll call which was: Guess the weight of your right hand neighbour or pay 10 cents fine, which caused a lot of laughs and fun.

Mrs. Chapman, Sect, read the minutes of the last meeting and with corrections were approved by Mrs. Goodwin and Mrs. Grace MacLeod.

A Committee was appointed to work on the new Bursary, namely Mrs. Marjorie Bennett.

Mrs. Grace MacLeod read a letter of thanks from Mr. R. Fitzsimmons of Pope Elementary School, Bury, for help given the Public Speaking, and for prizes and gifts. Also a letter of thanks from Mrs. Jean Rowland for all kindnesses shown her by her friends and W.I. members during her illness in hospital and at home. Sincere healthy wishes to you Jean, we miss you!

The Federated news sheets have arrived and were given to members to read and share.

Reports of Standing Committees were:

Education: Mrs. Marge Bennett gave a Review on the Contents of the Green Paper.

Home Economics: Mrs. Sylvia Aulis read an article on re-cycling Garbage.

Publicity: Mrs. Lyla MacLeod reported news items to the Sherbrooke Record.

Welfare & Health: Mrs. Murdena Coleman gave out Salad Books to each member and Mrs. Helen Groom reported the ten Ditty Bags had been packed and would be mailed shortly.

The report of our Food Sale and Tea on Saturday in Scotstown proved very satisfactory financially and socially. The President thanked Mrs. Lyla MacLeod and all the members for their help and co-operation on this project. The members of our W.I. also wish to thank all the ladies who attended this event for it was really your help that made our day.

It was moved by Mrs. Grace MacLeod and Mrs. Floria Belanger that we give a donation for the Exchange of Students to Newfoundland.

An invitation to attend a Social Afternoon with the Brookbury ladies on June 14 will be accepted with pleasure, with about ten members going.

Since no delegate from our branch attended the Macdonald W.I. Convention, our County President Mrs. Helen Groom attended and reported some highlights of her visit there. Her talk was very interesting and informative. On opening day, there were 141 ladies present.

Mrs. Marion Goodwin won the lucky draw for the evening.

The meeting adjourned and the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Goodwin, served delicious refreshments.

Next meeting on July 3rd at Jessie's house.

Guild tea and sale

MARBLETON — St. Paul's Ladies Guild held their annual tea and sale in the church hall on Sat., June 4. The afternoon, being pleasantly cool after an extremely hot period, made for a good attendance. Everyone visiting the food and fancy sales tables and enjoying afternoon tea and lunch, helped to make the event a success.

The head table was centred with an arrangement of lilies-of-the-valley flanked by pink candles in silver holders. Each tea table was centered with the same flower decoration while the hall was arranged with lilacs, iris, buttercups and tulips.

The sale of home baked food, supervised by the Mrs. Joe Mackay and Lillian Gilbert, quickly disappeared, as well as the articles on the gift table with Mrs. Roy Audit in attendance.

Marc Audit and Christopher Thorneloe sold raffle tickets for a knitted dinosaur won by Steven Audit, and a knitted Mexican doll, won by Alice Staples of Montreal. These articles were made and given by Miss Mary Martin of Montreal.

Lisa Audit and Josee Thibodeau were in charge of the children's sale table, while the kitchen work and waiting on tables was done by Sharon Thorneloe, Iris Bishop and Marian Guillette.

Thanks are extended to everyone, workers and visitors alike, who helped in any way to make the afternoon so successful. Donations of baked food and articles for the gift table were much appreciated. Special thanks to Lillian Gilbert, Doreen Mulcahy, Alice Staples, Lisa Audit and Josee Thibodeau for their assistance, even though they are not Guild members.

Sweetsburg Ward

by John McCaghey

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — John Piette, of Cowansville, who had opted for jury trial on a charge of having evaded legal custody from the Waterloo Rehabilitation Centre, Apr. 25, re-opted, chose trial before a magistrate alone and pleaded guilty. Defence lawyer Donald Bissonnette told the court his client only managed to get from Waterloo to Knowlton before he was arrested. He suggested a minimum term would amply serve the interests of justice.

Crown attorney Yves Lagace said the accused was working outside the prison when he fled, added there had been no violence attached to the escape and left sentencing to the discretion of the court. Judge Bernard Legare sentenced Piette to one month, consecutive, to all terms he is presently serving.

\+ + +

Vincent 'Tarzan' Scott, of Cowansville, was cited to the fall term of the local assizes following a preliminary hearing on a count of arson which destroyed two buildings and their contents at the Cowansville sanitary dump, May 28, 1977. Crown attorney Yves Lagace had produced 10 of 19 witnesses when Judge Legare ruled there was sufficient evidence to send him to trial.

Scott, who was represented by Claude Hamann, Legal Aid Office, stood mute at voluntary statement.

\+ + +

Yvon Primeau, of Cowansville, renounced his rights to a preliminary hearing on a charge of breaking and entering the Massey-Vanier Regional High School, Jan. 16, and was cited to the next term of the assizes by virtue of article 476 of the criminal code.

\+ + +

Mario Forest, of Farnham, had the dubious distinction of being the first person in the District of Bedford who was fined for failure to comply with the Highway Code regulation stipulating the mandatory use of pleasure vehicles. He was fined $10 and costs, in default three days.

\+ + +

Michel Ledoux pleaded guilty to a charge of having operated a motor vehicle in Cowansville, May 7, when he had consumed .180 mgs of alcohol. He was fined $180 and costs, in default 30 days.

Micheline Roy pleaded guilty to a similar count in Farnham, April 24, when she had consumed .150 mgs. of alcohol. She was fined $150 and costs, in default 30 days.

Gerald Steven Johnson pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving in Mansonville, May 5, when he had consumed .110 mgs. of alcohol. He was fined $100 and costs, in default one month.

\+ + +

Serge Boutin, of Farnham who pleaded guilty to counts of possession of a firearm dangerous to the public peace, and simple theft of a rifle, six weeks ago, was fined $100 and costs, in default 30 days, on the first count, $50 and costs, in default 30 days, consecutive, on the second, and was bound over to keep the public peace for two years.

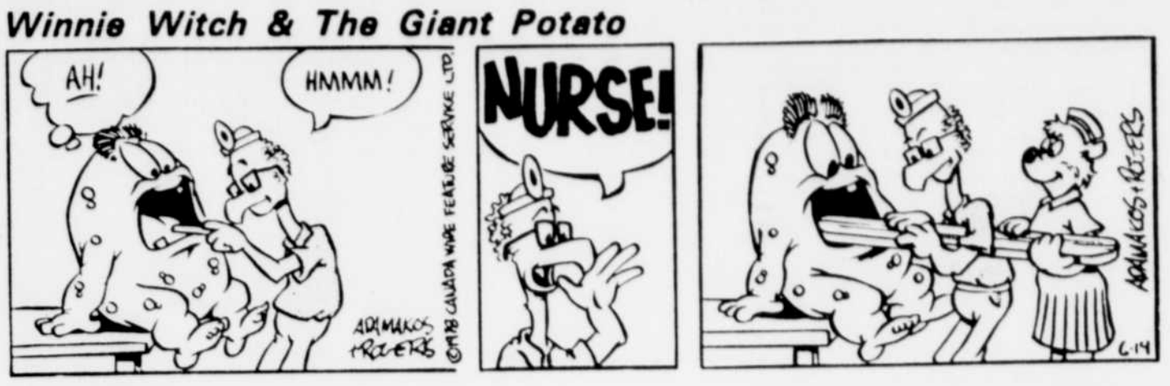

Defence lawyer Jean Paul Couture told the court his client worked as a cleaner in a hotel. "He had worked all night and was tired and had ingested some alcohol and medications when Marcel Algier came into the hotel brandishing the gun, looking for his girlfriend. Boutin took the gun, didn't use it and called the police. He isn't a bad boy, although he has a problem with alcohol, which I feel was handed down to him by his parents. I feel the best interests of justice would be a fine and a probation period."

Crown attorney Lagace told the court he wished Boutin would cut down on his intake of alcohol.

Judge Normandin, as part of the probation order, forbade the accused from entering any establishments where alcohol is sold for local consumption - save for work purposes. He then allowed him a month to acquit the fines and costs.

Plans are proceeding satisfactorily for the annual Orange picnic, which will be held (D.V.) on the same picnic grounds since 1906.

During that time the property has been owned by the late Mr. John Ross, the late Bros. Arthur and Herbert Lowry, the late Mrs. Gertrude Scott, the present proprietor being Mr. Eric MacRae of Leeds Village.

Thus, one can see that the Orange Order, which we believe came into being here in 1832, has reached the 146th year of its existence in this county, and still remains a strong vibrant entity, sponsoring as it does, the largest Protestant picnic in the Eastern Townships, - a picnic which is increasing in popularity every year with visitors from almost every province in the Dominion, and from many of the Eastern sections of the United States, as well.
