Scurry for city's byelection dies down

By CUTHBERT JONES
(Record Staff Writer)

Decision by Prime Minister Pearson to fix Monday, June 17, as the date of the by-election to fill the Sherbrooke County seat left vacant by the resignation of Independent Maurice Allard has created little unusual activity in local party circles.

Immediately after the announcement of the election date came from Ottawa Friday afternoon, there was the expected scurry and call for action on the part of those for whom elections are the spice of life.

But by Tuesday afternoon the enthusiasm had abated somewhat with the realization that the by-election was still 11 weeks away, a rather long period in which to maintain interest in an essentially urban county.

The Liberals, seeking to regain the traditional hold on the county they possessed until 1958 had a logical reason to defer any definite action — the national party convention being held in Ottawa this weekend at which a new party leader, and Prime Minister, will be selected.

Understandably the man selected as party leader and the policies he pronounced in his acceptance speech could have an important bearing on the choice of a candidate for the by-election.

Certain potential candidates may, for a variety of reasons, dislike the convention choice to the point they could not consider entering a local fight.

With these factors in mind, the Liberals have deferred any move toward calling a convention until next week, with the nominating meeting being called either next Wednesday or a week later.

The Easter holiday coming April 12 to 15 makes the later date more suitable.

Similarly the Conservatives have indicated they will defer their choice of a candidate until after the Easter holidays.

Sharp withdraws

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp today withdrew from the Liberal leadership race, throwing his personal support to Justice Minister Trudeau.

Mr. Sharp told his workers of his decision at a closed-door meeting at his midtown campaign headquarters shortly before 10 a.m. EST. He was to announce it publicly later at a press conference.

Informants said Mr. Sharp withdrew because his latest delegate tallies showed a lack of substantial support at the leadership convention beginning Thursday. Moreover, he feared a stop-Trudeau movement might develop and this was one way of heading it off.

Revenue Minister Chretien, a Sharp supporter, planned to throw his support to Mr. Trudeau in the light of the withdrawal.

Against a backdrop of deal rumors among candidates, the big warmup began today for the Liberal leadership convention as delegates flooded into the capital for the Thursday start.

Candidates began making earnest pitches for delegate support in an explosion of hoopla, demonstrations, arm-twisting and gentle persuasion in hotel hospitality suites. It was to be the kickoff for the big show.

Meanwhile, backroom talk flourished on the eve of the convention about possible swings by some candidates behind others with better chances of winning. But nothing concrete emerged.

(However, Toronto radio station CFRB said today that Finance Minister Sharp has given up hope of winning and has decided to throw his support to Justice Minister Trudeau. Montreal Le Devoir also said in an Ottawa dispatch that Mr. Sharp is likely to announce today his withdrawal in favor of Mr. Trudeau.)

One popular story suggested an arrangement between External Affairs Minister Martin and Transport Minister Hellyer. It involved one throwing support to the other during the balloting if events warranted. But both camps firmly denied there is a deal.

At the same time, there was no public evidence of a stop-Trudeau movement, which some observers suggested as a possibility because of the justice minister's first-ballot lead in the polls. The balloting comes Saturday, following two days of speeches and policy discussions.

But organizers for various candidates made it clear that there is an open line between the camps. And the dialogue includes sounding-out approaches about support switches after the first ballot. At least three support-seeking approaches have been made to Health Minister MacEachen, rated near the bottom of the big-name slate of nine.

By the rules of the game, the approaches are made by the organizers of one candidate to those of another. The candidates themselves are said generally to stand apart from the process.

Eric Kierans, former president of the Quebec Liberal Federation, said in a television interview broadcast Sunday that three approaches have been made to him.

His organizers maintained Tuesday, however, that he won't come to a conclusion until just before the balloting on whether to swing and when. Mr. Kierans, put close to the bottom in most polls, expects to have a firm idea of the level of his support by that time.

As the 2,500 delegates began jamming convention hotels, workmen sweated to finish the job of refurbishing the Civic Centre for the three-day selection process.

Party planners say the arena, which will house the main events including the balloting, is too small to permit the public in after all the delegates, other party members, press, and invited guests have been crowded in.

WATCH ON TV

But the public can watch it in comfort at home on television.

Each of the main candidates has a special room of his own next door to the rink.

A televised closed-circuit report of the convention, courtesy of Mr. MacEachen, who has bought the use of the system, is available to candidates. His coverage, which will also be piped into convention hotel rooms, begins tonight with a televised press conference.

Bulk of the Saskatchewan delegates have been lodged in a suburban motel, where the Hellyer hospitality suite is operated by a Saskatchewan senator, A. H. Macdonald.

Senator Macdonald is a close associate of Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan, himself publicly neutral.

Candidates marshal convention hoopla

OTTAWA (CP) — Paint, signs, buttons, uniforms and paper, probably tons of it, are being marshalled into the hoopla of the convention that will choose a successor to Prime Minister Pearson as national Liberal leader.

Campaign headquarters are operating in high gear as workers toil to make their man a winner at the three-day convention, which officially starts Thursday at Ottawa's Civic Centre.

Although the aims are the same, candidates' headquarters vary in size and sometimes in activity.

Both Transport Minister Hellyer and John Turner, the consumer affairs minister, moved their headquarters Tuesday afternoon to hotels where they can be nearer delegates. Others were moving their information centres to Lansdowne Park, where the Civic Centre is located.

Campaign offices for both Finance Minister Sharp and External Affairs Minister Martin were humming with activity Tuesday.

Agriculture Minister Green's quarters were decked with campaign signs and paint, mostly green, was everywhere.

WORK HARD

Robert Winters' offices were filled with workers preparing material for convention delegates. It was the same at Health Minister MacEachen's centre-town quarters.

Headquarters for Justice Minister Trudeau resembled a wargames operational centre. Aides seemed to be in constant motion. A uniformed security guard scrutinized persons entering the upstairs areas of the headquarters.

Mr. Martin appeared to be the only candidate who would not be serving drinks. One reason was the "terrific backlash" over drinking at last September's Conservative leadership convention, a Martin aide said.

News in brief

Bomb targets

SAIGON (Reuters) — Carrier-based U.S. jets today bombed targets within a mile of the centres of two North Vietnamese cities as the military command again boosted the number of missions flown in the wake of President Johnson's announcement of a partial bombing halt.

A U.S. military spokesman said cargo transfer points one mile south of the centres of both Thanh Hoa and Vinh were blasted by jets streaking in from the Gulf of Tonkin.

Rejection

MILWAUKEE (AP) — An anti-war resolution calling for an immediate withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam was rejected by Madison voters Tuesday.

Residents of the Wisconsin capital city voted 58 per cent to 42 per cent against the proposal. With all 41 precincts reported, the referendum read: "It is the policy of the people of the city of Madison that there be an immediate ceasefire and the withdrawal of United States troops from Vietnam, so that the Vietnamese people can determine their own destiny."

Like crocuses

OTTAWA (CP) — Like the crocuses on Parliament Hill, volunteer workers in the Liberal leadership campaigns are making a splash of color with their bright costumes.

Mostly university students, they are out to greet the delegates with open arms and fists full of campaign literature and lapel buttons. They wait at the airport, the railway station and at hospitality suites throughout downtown hotels.

Lesage claims tax waste

QUEBEC (CP) — Opposition Leader Jean Lesage Tuesday provoked an hour-long uproar in the legislative assembly by portraying the Union Nationale government as luxury-loving globetrotters who plan to waste more than $100,000,000 in taxpayers' money this fiscal year.

Mr. Lesage, in trim fighting form during the budget debate, lashed Premier Daniel Johnson's cabinet with charges of waste, including plans to spend more than $17,000,000 on travelling expenses in the fiscal year that began April 1.

Mr. Lesage read what he described as "a partial list" of trips to Paris and elsewhere of Union Nationale cabinet ministers.

Tourism Minister Gabriel Loubier bounced up to his feet several times to accuse Mr. Lesage of making "malevolent insinuations." He said one of his trips was a private voyage and another didn't cost Quebecers any money because it was paid by the French government.

Justice Minister Jean-Jacques Bertrand said he was on a private trip and didn't need to seek anyone's permission to travel.

Despite government objections, Mr. Lesage went on reading his list and made, among others, these charges:

—The government plans to spend $10,496,300 on information and publicity "most often partisan to the Union Nationale," an increase of more than $6,000,000 over the last two years.

—The cost of government receptions has risen from $400,000 last year to $500,000 this year. Since Expo was finished, "This is absolutely unacceptable."

—The size of the civil service has increased by 8,144 to more than 60,000 members since the Union Nationale came to power in June, 1966.

—The government has spent more than $300,000 refurnishing cabinet offices, more than $200,000 on a face-lifting for the legislature restaurant and more than $50,000 on a new press conference room.

Mr. Lesage cited statistics showing that the staff of Quebec House in Paris will be increased to 53 this year from 26 last year.

"Is this quite necessary?" asked Mr. Lesage. "Is this a priority?"

The Opposition leader said Premier Johnson arrived at the last federal-provincial conference like "a Negro king" with "limousines, dispatch riders and all the tra-la-la."

Amused Liberal MLAs groaned aloud as Mr. Lesage ticked off fresh figures and laughed as one minister after another popped up to defend himself.

BULLETIN

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — — Hanoi radio said tonight North Vietnam is ready to meet American representatives to consider an end to fighting.

The broadcast monitored here said North Vietnam held that the American side was not sincere since it was still sending troops and bombing between the 17th and 20th parallels, but was still willing to attend talks with the Americans.

"Then we will see if they are ready to stop definite bombing," the Vietnamese-language broadcast said.

"Otherwise we will fight to the end under the leadership of President Ho Chi Minh," it added.

The broadcast did not say where or when peace talks could take place.

He's set for tougher fights ahead

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Democrat Eugene J. McCarthy, triumphant with 57 per cent of the vote in Wisconsin's presidential primary, turned toward the arenas which pose the real test of his claim that he can win the White House in November.

And Richard M. Nixon added another trophy in his march toward the Republican presidential nomination.

"We have demonstrated here in Wisconsin the ability to win in November," McCarthy told his youthful volunteer workers after he trounced retiring President Johnson Tuesday in the season's second presidential primary.

Johnson got 35 per cent of the vote, but he isn't running anyhow.

ONLY PRELIMINARY

"As you know, this is only a preliminary victory," the Minnesota senator said. "We have to go on to primaries in other states—some of them perhaps more difficult than this one." For in those other states, McCarthy will be matched against New York Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

Nixon built a towering 80 per cent of the Republican vote to match his showing in New Hampshire's opening primary three weeks ago. He had no real opposition in either race.

The former vice-president said his showing proved that Wisconsin will be in the Republican column when the votes are counted next Nov. 5.

At stake in the primary were 60 Democratic and 30 Republican national convention votes, bound by law to the winner when the nominating conventions roll around in August.

McCarthy won 52 delegate votes and Johnson eight. Nixon took all 30 in the Republican column. McCarthy won eight of 10 Congressional districts, each with four delegate votes, and took the 20-at-large delegate votes as the statewide winner. Johnson won two districts.

BLANKET COVERAGE

Nixon took all 10 districts each with two delegate votes and the statewide 10 delegates-at-large.

McCarthy 402,340 votes for 57 per cent of the party turnout; Johnson 247,290 or 35 per cent.

Senator Robert F. Kennedy, the rival McCarthy will have to overcome if he is to be nominated, drew six per cent of the votes. But those were write-in votes, for his name was not on the ballot. And Kennedy had urged that people who favor him vote for McCarthy in Wisconsin.

Nixon's Republican landslide read this way:

Nixon 383,213, or 80 per cent; California Gov. Ronald Reagan 51,329, for 11 per cent, habitual candidate Harold E. Stassen 28,322, or six per cent.

With that victory, Nixon captured 30 Wisconsin votes at the Republican national convention.

Johnson's eight votes came in two Milwaukee districts, both bulwarks of organized labor strength. His slice of victory was in districts including the predominantly Negro sections of the state's biggest city.

McCarthy won a third district including some Milwaukee suburbs and carried the other 71 counties in the state.

$1,000,000 EXERCISE

Johnson's Sunday decision to stand aside and retire from the White House turned the Wisconsin campaign into a $1,000,000 exercise with no real contests.

Presumably, Johnson could later ask the delegates he won to support an active candidate, possibly Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey, who is considered a possible successor to administration candidacy.

"Even though there may be a few more late entries," McCarthy said, "I don't think it will make a difference. We now know what the contest is."

McCarthy's late entry remark was aimed not only at Humphrey, but at Kennedy, who stepped into the presidential campaign after the Minnesotan had proved the breadth of opposition to Johnson by taking 42 per cent of the vote in New Hampshire.

Says scheme not lottery

MONTREAL (CP) — "What lottery? It's not a lottery."

Montreal's resourceful Mayor Jean Drapeau was still refusing to be pinned down Tuesday night after announcing his startling new lucky-chance scheme for raising municipal revenues without hoisting taxes.

Whatever you call it, the aim of the game for the city is a budget-balancing $28,000,000 and for players a chance at a cool $100,000 first prize on a $2 "donation."

Montreal's budget for 1968-69 amounts to a record $283,473,992, much of it to go into renewal of blighted urban areas, water purification plants and extension of the subway.

It represents a rise of $32,875,390 over last year's total expenditure and, said the mayor, despite some minor revenue increases would have meant a 20-per-cent hike in municipal taxes without the lottery-like scheme.

FIRST FOR A CITY?

His "exercise of chance" is the first of its kind in Canada and perhaps a first in North America for a municipality. The states of New York and New Hampshire operate lotteries based on horse racing to help pay for education.

Montreal's game is intended to stay within Canadian law by requiring the 151 winners each month to answer a "skill-testing question,"—an "easy one," Mr. Drapeau explained with a twinkle.

In addition to the top $100,000 prize for the holder of the lucky receipt for his donation, there will be 30 prizes of $1,000 each, 20 prizes of $500 and 100 prizes of $100, for a total $150,000 giveaway each month.

Peace bid could aid Hanoi

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's new Vietnam peace offensive is badly entangled in a row over credibility that some officials predict may provide a propaganda bonanza for North Vietnam.

Administration officials conceded Hanoi could make propaganda profit out of the disclosure that the portion of North Vietnam left open to air attack under Johnson's partial bombing ban is actually much bigger than it appeared to be in the president's Sunday night announcement.

Still open to bombing is the area in the southern portion of North Vietnam extending from the demilitarized zone to the 20th parallel. As the crow flies, the distance from the centre of the DMZ to the centre of the 20th parallel is approximately 232 miles. Thus U.S. planes still are allowed to attack 25 per cent of the North's land mass where 10 per cent of the population lives.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate foreign relations committee charged that he was "misled as to the significance" of Johnson's announcement and added:

Pioneer home gutted in Brown's Hill fire

ROCK ISLAND — (Special)— The Rock Island Fire Department was called out an hour before midnight on March 29 when flames destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Fontaine at Brown's Hill.

The property is owned by the estate of the late John Holland.

The fire destroyed another of Stanstead County's early family properties. In 1805 Captain John Brown came from Epsom, N.H., to Stanstead County and settled on 1,000 acres of land on Number 17, ninth range, which at the time he believed would be the center of the County.

The property remained in the Brown family until 1945 when it was sold by Byron W. Brown, now of Stanstead. However, Mr. Brown retained a portion of the property which through the years had been divided on the property now owned by Mr. Brown is what is known as The Brown cemetery. Mr. Brown had had brush cut and many of the old stones repaired. Many of the stones bear the name of Brown, Ticehurst and other pioneer families of the area.

When the Rock Island Fire Department arrived at the fire scene the building was a mass of flames. With water from their booster tank and a well the fire was controlled.

Lawyers will rule on property deal

Following months of consultation, the Sherbrooke City council decided Monday night, to leave the dispute between Epiciers Co-operatifs and Laurier Street property owners to be decided by their respective lawyers.

Mayor Nadeau said there was nothing the city could do to solve the problem and if it did step in to act as a referee and judge, it could be accused of choosing sides.

The dispute revolves around one of the co-op's buildings which was constructed partly on the land of two Laurier Street residents. The proprietors are claiming foul play.

A letter from Lucien Hebert, president of the local co - op on Wellington Street South to the two proprietors stated the building stood on a space of only one foot by two feet on one property on Laurier Street.

He offered to pay $400 for this property. This property owner apparently has refused all Co-op offers and is asking for $11,000 for the sale of the entire property.

The Co-op does not want to purchase the whole amount of land for the use of the small space involved. A delegate from the Co-op who visited the council about a month ago stated the company could not afford to pay $11,000 since it was struggling to get back onto its feet following its heavy loss in a fire two years ago.

Alderman Tony Pinard declared he thought the Co - op officials have done everything possible to bring the matter to a settlement.

He stated he felt the property owners were simply grasping the chance to make a quick sale of the property.

The proprietor of the land on which the building stands is Leo-Paul Royer of 1115 Woodward Street.

The other proprietor, whose land is "spoiled" by the Co-op building on a space of eight inches by 13 feet is Eugene Couture, of 378 Laurier Street.

The Co-op has offered Mr. Couture $100 for this small space but, apparently, he too has refused to sell unless the Epiciers Co - opratifs purchases the entire property.

Alderman Everett Nicol agreed with the mayor it was not the city's business.

Fashion show sponsored by Granby group

GRANBY — The Sew and So group of the St. George's Anglican Church sponsored a spring fashion show at the Parish Hall on March 26 at 8 p.m. The hall was attractive in Easter colors, and as the event was in the form of a dessert tea, the individual tables were centered with yellow daffodils and purple lilacs, with the same color scheme being carried out through the room.

The president, Mrs. M. Entwistle, welcomed the visitors, when Mrs. Shirley Basek, commentator, took over the microphone and ably described each garment as the models appeared on the runway, each wearing a fashionable springtime mode.

Models were: Mrs. G. Whittier, Mrs. D. Heelis, Mrs. N. Kilpatrick, Mrs. D. Frost, Mrs. H. Parker, Misses Betty Shanks, Sally Clifford, Dianne Kilpatrick and Sally Flack. All were wearing fashions from the Boutique Lilli.

The Sew and So group wishes to thank all who helped make the event so successful. At intervals several door prizes were awarded.

May straighten crossing

A decision to consult an engineering firm on the advisability of straightening the Depot Street railway level crossing following an order by the Canadian Transport Commission to erect warning signs at the site was taken by the monthly Lennoxville Town Council meeting Monday night.

Mayor Cecil Dougherty, in explaining to council what steps must be taken to make the crossing safe for motorists and pedestrians, said the present tracks are at an 80-degree angle to the street and behind a number of buildings and structures preventing motorists from seeing if a train is approaching.

He said previously the crossing was considered private.

Both CNR and CPR trains, he said, use the tracks.

When the Transport Commission ordered the erection of flashing lights and a bell, he said, the crossing became a public one.

He said he felt a second crossing could be advantageous to the Town and that it is time to present council's case.

He said he thought the railroads would bitterly oppose the plan but, because of one death and several accidents at the crossing, it was time action was taken.

French look will be emphasized this year

MAGOG — (Special) — Quebec will be spending more money this year to attract tourist, and residents and visitors alike can look forward to a more emphasized French look, as authorities go on encouraging "Visage Francais," Deputy Minister of Tourism Fish and Game, Robert Prevost, said at the Cabana Lodge here last night.

Mr. Prevost was guest of the Magog Lions Club, when representatives from the local tourist commission, civic invitation committee, civic leaders, heads of prominent groups and mayors of the townships of Magog and Orford were in attendance.

Following a reception at Magog City Hall, Mr. Prevost visited the Magog Tourist Bureau, and head officials of this office emphasized the need for more provincial aid to the local tourist industry.

Speaking at great lengths, Mr. Prevost said at at the banquet he didn't wish to involve himself politically, but emphasized that Quebec's tourist promotion expenditures this summer would be directed at mass markets, particularly the United States. He said that a large percentage of the tourism budget, used in 1967 to promote Expo '67 would go into the planned advertising. However, Quebec will still lay emphasis on Man and His World at Montreal.

One of the most controversial subjects in Magog these past months has been the community's bid to obtain consideration from the French-based Club Mediterranean Holiday Resort organization. Literally accused of obstructing moves to gain the organization's consideration of the Magog area, Mr. Prevost refused to become involved, and said Quebec does not play favorites.

A discussion followed, in which Quebec's roll in aiding communities such as Magog developed. Germain Rivard, a Magog surveyor and a chief official in ARDA directed several embarrassing questions at Mr. Prevost, all dealing with Quebec's failure to comply with requests for aid and studies. Avoiding these and other inquiries, directed at him in a quest for verification, Mr. Prevost made it clear he did not want to enter into controversy which had political overtones.

Lasting for almost two hours, the minister's address and the question and answer period that followed aroused headed discussion, with a flare in tempers. While little was said about the province's tardy actions in giving a clearly defined directive to the Compagnie Gestion de Mt. Orford, operators of the ski centre, several of the guests attending the banquet approached Mr. Prevost about the subject following the dinner, to be told the subject was under study.

Pierre Paul Landreville, president of the Magog Lions Club chaired Tuesday's gathering, and with him and Mr. Prevost, he had Jacques Boisvert, president of the Magog-Orford Tourist Commission; Jean-Charles Messara, manager of the Orford Ski Centre; Yves Forest, MP for Stanstead; Armand Pouliot, Magog alderman representing the city; and Robert Fisette, head of the civic reception committee as head table guests.

Says city needs home for the blind

A Montreal CNIB representative last night made a plea to members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club for the establishment of a home and centre for the city and district blind.

Lloyd McClintock, superintendent of the Canadian Institute for the Blind said that many of Sherbrooke area's 383 blind people are "living in deplorable conditions — conditions that should not exist with the wealth that Canada has."

He said some are subsisting on a mere $75 a month.

Mr. McClintock, a McGill University law graduate, who is also blind, said Sherbrooke needs a home where about 40 blind persons can be housed and a centre where the blind living in the city can attend to receive counselling and training.

He said all CNIB needed to establish such a home and centre would be the land and 10 per cent of the estimated building costs.

"We can obtain the rest through CMHA and the provincial government would pay a par-diem rate for persons living in the home."

The speaker told the club that this was an opportunity, if it was interested in work for the blind.

Mr. McClintock said it was a struggle for the CNIB to establish its program in Quebec. The provincial grant is much lower, per capita, than in any other province and for the last few years, the CNIB has been burdened with high deficits.

"I don't know whether it's because of the mixed culture," said the speaker.

"We need the sympathetic support of business and the general public."

Commenting on Mr. McClintock's speech, Rotary president D. F. Watson assured the speaker that his talk had "not fallen on deaf ears."

Mr. McClintock outlined the history of the CNIB which was founded in Toronto, March 30, 1918.

Prior to that time, the only facilities for the blind included the sheltered workshop arrangement where the blind were trained in lesser crafts such as broom, brush and mop making and basket weaving, but were not really able to compete in productive industry.

It was not until after the war years as an outgrowth of training for blind veterans in England and as a result of further work by the Canadian government's rehabilitation Committee for the Blind, the public became aware that blind persons could adapt themselves and were able to compete in industry.

From its beginnings in Toronto, the CNIB spread across Ontario and into the Prairies, then jumped Quebec and went on into the Maritimes and Newfoundland, said Mr. McClintock.

It was during the 1930's that the CNIB came to Quebec but it existed mainly in Montreal. Later a district office was opened in Quebec City and in Sherbrooke.

CNIB, said the speaker, has a complete service program which includes counselling through trained social workers, for the blind and their families, teaching and rehabil.tation training.

Will vote on salary for Council

ST. EDWIDGE — (Staff) — Taxpayers here will decide April 18 whether the mayor and six aldermen should be paid representation fees.

The vote will be held at the "old school" here between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. on April 18 and taxpayers will be called upon for an open vote.

They will vote for or against by giving their names to the man in charge of the vote, Roland Favreau, St. Edwidge's municipal secretary - treasurer, and then openly declaring their vote.

The referendum evolved from a council meeting at which a bylaw was passed stating the mayor was to receive $15 per month and the council members would receive $10 per month if they attended at least one meeting during the month.

On March 25, at another meeting, 15 taxpayers approached council with a signed petition for a referendum on the subject.

It only takes 10 signatures to warrant a referendum.

The municipal council in St. Edwidge is composed of Mayor Marcien Fontaine, and Aldermen Real Raymond, Eugene Desnoyers, Gerard Raymond, Adrien Cournoyer, Noel Fontaine and Sylvio Desorcy.

Runners-up prizes were won as follows: Second prize, Claire Audent and Juiellette Desaindes; third prize, G. Audet and A. Desaindes; fourth prize Guy Tremblay and Carmen Viens.

Mrs. John Ringham won the raffle.

Sandwiches and coffee were served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion to the playing teams.

Students raising cancer funds

RICHMOND — The students of Notre Dame High School are sponsoring a daffodil sale for the benefit of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Daffodil day is on Friday

The Sherbrooke Branch of the Canadian Cancer Society will hold its fifth annual Daffodil Day on Friday.

The money collected from the door-to-door and street sales is used for cancer research, said Mrs. Claire Cloutier, the administrative secretary of the society in Sherbrooke.

The campaign lasts only one day but the Sherbrooke Branch is prepared with 2,450 dozen daffodils to sell.

The campaign began on Monday, and will continue until Friday. Tags will be sold April 1 to 3.

The daffodils, which will be sold Thursday and Friday, will be flown directly from Vancouver, B.C. The cost of these beautiful flowers is only $1 a dozen.

Members on the committee sponsoring the campaign are the following: John Doyle, President; Susan Alexander, Finance Manager; Pat Dalton, Publicity Manager.

Other representatives from each class are: Greg Stevens, Grade 10; Danny Stevens, Grade 9; Joanne Dionne, Grade 8; Kathleen Keenan, Grade 7A; Bruce Garrou, Grade 7B; Larry Martin, Grade 6; Debby Stevens, Grade 5.

The money collected from this campaign will be given to the Canadian Cancer Society.

His talk on youth wins award

"Youth today is a new generation, a progeny of dazzling diversity, a product of varied philosophies, a new cult of highly independent thinkers and articulate speakers."

With a speech on the golden opportunity of youth today, Michael Dalyl, a 15-year-old, grade ten, St. Patrick High School student, won the 1968 Lennoxville Optimists Regional oratorical contest last night.

Youth today, said Mike, is on the shores of untold adventures, the men of tomorrow who will land on the moon, cultivate the seas and possibly put an end to poverty and destitution in the world.

"Optimism peers into the realms of possibility," he said, "and youth must take the opportunity when it knocks, not pessimistically, but objectively and optimistically to assure its realization."

He concluded by saying much is given but much is asked and that he was confident the youth of today will meet the demands of tomorrow.

As a result of his win, Mike will represent the Lennoxville Optimists Club in Montreal next Saturday at the zone finals.

The winner of the Montreal zone finals will be sent, all expenses paid, to the international finals in Louisville, Kentucky.

Capturing second place for the second straight night in a row, Michael Smith, 14, a Grade 8 student at St. Patrick, was nudged out of first place by only a few points by his running mate, Mike Daly.

Smith, in a repeat performance of his speech which won second place at the Sherbrooke Optimists contest the night before, spoke on the confusion of teenagers today in relation to their golden opportunities.

He cited the opportunities in education, stressing the point that youth today want fact not supposition.

Michael, unlike his counterparts, spoke with exuberance, raising the audience when he placed emphasis on certain points.

Third place was awarded to Nigel Retchless, 15, a Grade 10 student of Princess Elizabeth High School in Magog.

In his speech, Nigel pointed out the problems of juvenile delinquency.

He said children with no opportunities are not the beneficiaries of advancement.

Car theft and robberies, he said, are a result of the lack of opportunities accorded some youths and can be attributed to a longing on the part of mislead youths to have things other people have.

He said the old expression "You can't put old heads on young shoulders" is no longer true because of the golden opportunities in the field of education today.

City building permit value up during March

The value of building permits issued in March has inched slightly above the level for the same period last year, while a similar increase is noted for permits issued from January — March, 1968, over those of 1967.

A release from the city building inspector's office notes there is a $460,880 increase in the value of permits issued last year compared to March, 1967.

Eighty-two permits were issued at a value of $1,907,250, while 80 permits with a value of $1,446,370 were handed out during March, 1967.

There has been a substantial increase in the number and value of residential permits issued during the two March periods.

The value of March, 1968 permits has more than tripled that of 1967, and the number has almost doubled. Twenty-nine residential permits valued at $867,000 were issued from city hall last month.

In March, 1967 the corresponding number of permits issued was 16 with a value of $262,000.

When the three - month cumulative periods are examined for 1967 and 1968, it is evident that the value of residential permits issued this year has soared over the three months in 1967.

Fifty-nine residential permits with a total value of $1,543,200 were issued in the three-month span — January to March this year, while the comparable period last year shows an issuance of 40 residential permits valued at $640,000.

On a ward by ward breakdown, the highest-valued residential permits, $576,000, were issued in the North Ward. This figure is the total figure from 13 permits last month.

Make survey to check tenants for home

MAGOG—(Staff)—The Board of Directors of a proposed home for senior citizens here are conducting a survey to determine the number of potential tenants interested in living in the home.

The board, which was appointed in January, has sent letters to approximately 100 eligible senior citizens.

The letter was signed by Allan A. Jones, of Magog, the chairman of the Board of Directors.

The letter states the plans for the home are gradually developing and there is a long way to go and much work ahead before the project is realized.

The home will contain some small apartment units in the home which have self-contained kitchens.

The Provincial Government demands a survey be made to determine the need of such a project so the letter was sent around.

At the bottom of each letter is a form which the senior citizen fills out, stating his or her interest or lack of interest in becoming a resident of the new home.

The number of those showing interest will mean very much as to whether the home will be constructed or not.

Garth Fields, of Magog, a member of the Board of Directors and secretary of the Board, said in an interview yesterday afternoon the committee hopes to have 50 residents at the home.

He said the government would loan the project committee the necessary finances through the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation if the project is accepted.

Mr. Fields explained the government stipulates a new home must be constructed and an old building which would be renovated will not qualify for the project if the committee wants government aid.

He predicted the home should be completed in two years, if all goes well, and he stated this is the opinion of government officials.

Work on the project began last year in May.

Liberal convention is no political hoop-la

When the 2,500 delegates to the national Liberal Party convention meet in Ottawa Thursday they will be faced with the awesome duty of selecting the next Prime Minister of Canada, not merely a party leader, a responsibility which should invest the gathering with something more than the characteristics of a three-ring circus.

On only one previous occasion has a leadership convention been involved with the direct election of a Prime Minister — the time when Louis St. Laurent was named to take over the high office from William Lyon Mackenzie King.

And the circumstances between the two conventions are decidedly different.

When Mackenzie King announced his decisios to step down as Prime Minister he had carefully prepared the way for his successor and the selection of Mr. St. Laurent was basically a matter of form — giving approval to the choice already made by the party establishment.

In effect the delegates were voting for the continuation of already determined lines of policy.

But this week the delegates must choose between serious men of widely-differing personalities and views, men who could materially change the policies of the nation should they take office.

This is a point that must weigh seriously with the delegates when they cast their ballots Saturday.

The favorite son and good fellow thinking which so often dominates political conventions must give way to serious consideration of the abilities of the individual to take over the reins of government within a matter of days.

Any generation capable of ooh-ing and aah-ing over statues with heads and arms missing has little justification for criticizing contemporary art.

Progress self-starter

Preseason publicity is ballyhooing the latest advance in lawnmowers — key-operated self-starters, no less.

Here, as with automobiles and so many other things, the credit can probably be given to the women's influence.

Anyway, it is one more small example of how competition in a free enterprise system spurs progress.

Some may complain that manufacturers' interest in introducing annual and sometimes meaningless model changes is simply to make us discontented with last year's product, and that last year's product is deliberately engineered to wear out at a precise rate that will ensure a continuing turnover in the market — which seems no small technological feat in itself.

And it may well be true that automobiles, washing machines, vacuum cleaners or whatever could be made to last, say, 30 years.

But if they had been built that way 30 years ago, nobody could have afforded them, and even if they could, it would merely have meant the freezing of technology at the 1938 level.

Until some centrally-planned economy shows us how to do things better, we'll stick with the present system with all its faults — including the fact that it makes us unhappy with our old-fashioned, 1967-model grass clipper.

We know why our non-favorite restaurant calls the help "waiters." That's what they do until the food is too cold to be enjoyable — then they serve it.

Quebec grants method protested

English-language universities see government discrimination

The following is the text of one of the statements released in Montreal Friday by the heads of the three English-language universities in Quebec, McGill, Sir George Williams, and Bishop's:

Progress in working out more rational and equitable approaches to the problems of university financing has been seriously set back by the Government's rejection of the Gauthier Committee report. This has resulted in discrimination against the English - language universities. The facts and figures speak for themselves.

During the past three years a special committee has studied university operating budgets and each year recommended to the Government the amounts of money to be allocated to the various university institutions. This Committee (the Gauthier Committee), was established by the Ministers of Education and Finance and consists of 12 members, only 3 of whom are English - speaking (nominated by the English - language universities). On January 24, 1968, after 10 weeks of intensive work, the Gauthier Committee submitted a report for the 1968 - 69 academic year accepted by all its members. The Committee was fully aware of the difficult financial situation faced by the Province, and its recommendations reflected this awareness. It proposed an appropriation of $88.4 million in grants to support university operating expenditures of $126.4 million, distributed as follows:

TABLE A. (Gauthier Committee)

	No. of Students	Operating Expend.	Expend. per student	Grants	Grants per Student
		$ million	$	$ million	$
French	30,078	78.9	2,624	59.4	1,973
English	22,112	47.5	2,149	29.0	1,314
Total	52,190	126.4		88.4
Second instalment to cover 1966-67 deficits				1.6
				90.0

It should be noted that the Gauthier Committee recommendation still allowed for a significant disparity in expenditures per student in favor of the French - language universities. (The even greater disparity in grants reflects the fact that all its revenues, including those from general endowments and donations, are taken into account when setting the grants for a particular institution.)

There is no quarrel with the total amount of the grants allocated by the Government to the universities in 1968 - 69. There can be strong objections, however, to the way in which it distributed these funds among the universities. The Government has nullified the work of the Gauthier Committee; it has so changed the distribution of the grants recommended by that Committee that the French - language universities will receive an increase of $1.5 million, while the English - language universities will suffer a cut of $2.9 million. The French-language universities' allocation now includes a special fund of $1.2 million to encourage research. Not counting this fund, the advantage to the French - language universities in operating expenditures per student for 1968 - 69 rises from $475 to $591 per student.

TABLE B. (Government Decision)

		$ million	$	$ million	$
French
Operating budget	30,078	78.5	2,610	59.7	1,985
Special research		1.2		1.2
English	22,112	44.6	2,019	26.2	1,184
Total	52,190	124.3		87.1
Second instalment to cover 1966-67 deficits				1.6
				88.7

The Government approach implies that, in general a student entering a French-language university next year warrants an expenditures of $2,610 for the year, while a student entering an English-language university warrants only $2,019. To make a specific comparison, there is a difference in allowable basic expenditures per student of more than $800 to the advantage of the Universite de Montreal over McGill. In fact, the Government grant (less special research fund) to Montreal of $2,175 per student exceeds the basic expenditure of $2,053 per student allowed to McGill. It is difficult to reconcile such discrimination with the many statements about fair and equal treatment made by government spokesmen.

COMMON STANDARDS

The function of the Gauthier Committee has not merely been to arrive at a justifiable total operating grant for all universities. More important has been the equitable distribution of the money among the universities. The Committee's reports for the past three years show that it has focussed its attention on the major items in the operating budgets of each university; and it has made headway in forcing greater economies in the universities, while allowing upward adjustments where these seemed justified. During this period changes in the relative amounts for each university resulted from the considered judgements of the Committee based on intensive study and deliberation. The present unilateral action of the Government, overriding its own Committee, brings into question the effectiveness of any future advisory committee of this sort.

The operating budgets that the universities themselves proposed for 1968-69 totalled $153.4 million. After several weeks of study, the Gauthier Committee approved basic operating expenditures amounting to $129.3 million, which would have called for basic grants of $91.3 million. Under the guidance of its chairman, the Committee then decided that the present economic situation required a further reduction of about $3 million in the grants — to $88.4 million (not including instalment for 1966-67 deficits). The Committee also agreed that the proper way to make this cut, without returning to an item-by-item study of the budgets, was to apply generally an across-the-board cut of 3 per cent to basic operating expenditures.

The Committee gave general support to a proposal for supplementary grants to the French-language universities to promote the expansion of research, but it did not make any specific recommendation in this regard.

A BACKWARD STEP

The Gauthier Committee is, in fact, a subcommittee of the Ad Hoc Committee on University Financing made up of the Ministers of Finance and Education and the Rectors and Principals of the six Quebec universities.

The Gauthier Committee report was submitted to this parent committee. The Ad Hoc Committee, however, was given no opportunity to discuss the report. Instead, the Minister of Finance presented to it an entirely different set of figures and declared the Government's intention to use these. With some adjustments, these figures constitute the estimates tabled on March 27.

The result of the Government's action has been, on the one hand, to reduce the grants to the English-language universities by $2.9 million from the amount recommended by the Gauthier Committee and, on the other hand, to increase the grants to the French-language universities by $1.5 million.

The Government appears to have adopted the following approach. Allowing an increase of $20.5 million in grants over 1967-68, in effect it allocated this sum according to the growth in student enrolment forecast by the universities themselves for 1968-69. It then added a special allocation of $1.2 million to stimulate research in the French-language universities.

A system that sets the grant for each university on the basis of its own forecast increase in students may be quite acceptable if the existing relationships among the universities concerned are themselves acceptable. In Quebec, however, gross disparities in per student expenditures are maintained for 1968-69.

The Government's approach perpetuates inequalities. It is neither just nor equitable; it is certainly not good financial administration. Indeed, it is a backward step.

A COMPARISON

The costs of operating a university are directly related to the number of students as well as to the nature and level of their particular studies. This principle is well recognized where objective standards are used to determine the financing of university expenditures.

In the period 1962-63 to 1967-68 the French-language universities had total operating expenditures of $235.4 million — an average of $2,249 per student, based on a total of 104,659 students. For the English-language universities the figures were $164.3 million or $1,724 per student for 95,287 students. Applying the English rate per student to the French student total, demonstrates that in the 6-year period the French universities enjoyed an expenditure advantage of $54.9 million. For 1968-69 itself (Table 3) the per student expenditure for the French - language universities comes to $2,610 as against $2,019 for the English - language universities, a difference of $591.

There is clearly a double standard in the financing of higher education in Quebec. The English - language universities are unable to serve their students adequately because they are being denied their fair share of the available funds.

In the six years — 1962-63 to 1967-68 the total grants to English - language universities amounted to $64.1 million, an average of $672 per student, while the French - language universities received $153.4 million, or $1,466 per student, a difference of $794. For 1968-69, the differential becomes $801, with the French - language universities receiving $1,985 per student against $1,184 for the English - language universities.

"CATCHING UP"

It became evident some years ago that the universities of this Province were developing much too slowly, and that substantial funds would be required to raise the quality and increase the capacity of the French-language universities in particular. The impetus to achieve this quality system of university education was translated into a policy of "rattrapage", implying that extra public funds for university development should be allocated to the French - language sector.

The record since 1962 shows that the French - language universities have benefitted substantially from this policy. We are not questioning the need for the capital grants that built the impressive new campuses of the universities of Laval and Sherbrooke, or the current transformation of the campus of the University of Montreal. The extent of the "catching up" can be strikingly demonstrated in the regular operating budgets.

The point to be emphasized is that if the average expenditure per student in the French - language universities had been on the same level as in the English - language institutions their total operating expenditures would have been $54.9 million less than they actually were for the period 1962-63 to 1967-68.

Some facts about Florida not easily discernible from a distance, and some little-known facts about life of the late sports great Jim Norris were told the Y's Men's Club by Forest Keene, well-known local sportsman and president of the YMCA.

Mr. Keene said that steaks in Florida cost 25 cents less per pound than up here "in our beef raising country" and that this mecca for tourists was also noted for raising cane (literally), oranges, lemons, grapefruit and other crops.

The speaker was introduced by Ed Bryant and thanked by J.m Strickland.

Projects chairman said the following children were the best taggers at last week's Club tag days: Myron Echenberg, Bruce Johnson, Jimmy Blake, Jack Perkins, and Gordon Griffin.

With President Jeff Wilson at the head table were: Angus MacLean, Norman Pye, Mr. Bryant and Mr. Keene.

World press reaction of mixed opinion

By Reuters

Although most newspapers in the free world praised President Johnson for his decision not to seek re-election his bid for peace in Viestnam, press reaction today was mixed on its likely effectiveness.

Most newspapers said the decision now placed the onus for negotiations on North Vietnam. But opinion was divided on whether Hanoi would react positively or whether it would wait until the presidential election in November on the theory that Johnson now is politically weak and has limited his opportunities for action.

In Britain, there was widespread sympathy for Johnson's action.

The Times says Johnson "has opened a door and it is up to Hanoi to keep it open even if talks do not actually begin until a new president has come to Washington."

The Daily Express warns: "Russia may think that, by having driven the U.S. so far, she and her friend may, by continuing the war, push America to complete capitulation. This would be a foolhardy assumption."

The Guardian says: "The burden is now plainly on Hanoi to show that all its talk of peace is not just cynical propaganda."

HAS DOUBTS

In France, the official Gaullist La Nation says much could happen before the Democratic party's August convention and no one could say before then whether Johnson "has really opened the door to peace or simply shown his political skill in the face of a difficult electoral game."

Le Figaro says his decision to "continue bombing the demilitarized zone was purely tactical and could not be seriously considered as evidence he was acting with ulterior motives."

In West Germany, Die Welt says the bombing restriction was unlikely to bring peace talks because Johnson's renunciation of 8a re-election bid "must strengthen the Communists' conviction that America is near to moral collapse."

In Formosa, the influential English-language China News doubts Johnson's peace offer would be fruitful. "The North Vietnamese are likely to conclude that if Johnson has gone this far, he subsequently may be prepared to go even further," the paper says.

RELIEVED PRESSURE

In the Philippines, The Evening News says Hanoi's refusal to negotiate would relieve the U.S. of any moral responsibility to achieve peace through military means. The Manila Chronicle said one reason for his decision was the realization that American public opinion could not be dismissed for long.

In Thailand, the English-language Bangkok Post says it hopes Johnson is right in his decision. "If he is not, the consequences of his action may cause any amount of damage not only to his party and the country but also for the entire free world," the paper says.

In Japan, The Asahi Shimbun, long a critic of the bombing, welcomed the decision but says, "It came too late and the halt to the bombings should have been total, unconditional and permanent."

In Australia, the Sydney Sun says while Australians feel admiration for Johnson, his speech was an admission of failure. The Age of Melbourne says the bombing decision was a risk, but one well worth taking.

In India, The Statesmen said the de-escalation fell short of what Hanoi wanted.

50-year-old marrieds feted

WATERLOO — (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Daigle were feted recently on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. The party was organized by their four sons, Raymond and Gordon, of Toronto; Frank, Waterloo; and Patrick, Montreal.

The event took place at the Warden Hotel, where members of the family, including 12 grandchildren and many of their friends gathered. The guests of honor received many gifts, flowers and cards.

Telegrams of congratulations were received from Prime Minister Pearson, Premier Daniel Johnson and Hon. Armand Russell.

Mrs. Daigle was presented with a corsage and Mr. Daigle was presented with a boutonniere. A cake shaped like an open book was a centerpiece.

The next day Mr. and Mrs. Daigle left on a two week trip to Florida, a gift from their sons.

Conscription riot starts innocently

OTTAWA (CP) — It started innocently enough.

A young Quebec City man named Mercier accidentally left his draft-exemption certificate in another coat when he and a friend went over to the local pool hall and bowling alley.

The moment of forgetfulness 50 years ago set off a chain reaction that came to a climax four nights later as Ontario troops shot down Quebec rioters in the streets.

The official reports said four persons were killed and "a great many" wounded in the conscription riot that shocked Canada on Easter Monday, April 1, 1918.

It was not many compared with the slaughter in Europe.

COULDN'T BE CONTAINED

The incident that touched it off made sense only against the background of Quebec's antagonism to the Military Services Act proclaimed the summer before.

As the story was fitted together later, it appeared that Mercier and his friend had gone into the Salle Frontenac bowling alley in St. Roch and had been challenged by two of the hated federal police who enforced conscription.

Mercier explained that his papers were at home. He was taken to the police station; the papers were brought and he was released.

But the pin was out of the grenade and there was no holding on to it.

A crowd assembled at the bowling alley and, said the government report, about 15 of the Dominion police were mobbed.

They took refuge in a police station; reinforcements were called in and the mayor came and made a soothing speech.

NEWSPAPERS MOBBED

But the crowd "proceeded to demolish the building . . . seized about 12 of the Dominion constables and started to wreak their vengeance on them, seven or eight of whom were wounded. . . ."

The following night, Good Friday, unrest spread as a mob smashed the offices of two newspapers, The Chronicle and L'Evenement, and set fire to the registry office at the Auditorium where draft records were kept.

A federal official complained that local police set to guard the registry office were not only inadequate but "quiescent" in the face of the attack.

The outbreaks continued through the weekend, with stores looted for arms and some shots fired, despite appeals for calm from press and clergy.

An extra 1,000 troops were brought in from Ontario to reinforce 800 in the city. Virtual martial law was imposed and citizens were told to stay in their homes.

The peak was still to come.

DEFENDS TROOPS

Conflicting versions emerged later of the Monday night events. Prime Minister Borden, in a report to the Commons two days later, told it this way:

"At nightfall . . . in spite of the notices which had been published, a large crowd assembled; and from housetops, side streets, snow banks and other places of concealment, the rioters opened fire point-blank on the troops who as on the previous nights displayed great steadiness and forbearance under extreme provocation.

"But at length, after several soldiers had received bullet wounds, it became absolutely necessary for the troops to return the fire—in self-defence, for the protection of the public and to prevent the situation passing entirely beyond control."

Liberal C. G. (Chubby) Power, then a freshman MP just back from being wounded at the front, had been in his Quebec City constituency during the weekend and he gave a slightly different account.

He said the citizens had been promised, "rightly or wrongly," that at 8 p.m. in Jacques Cartier Square the government would give an answer to demands for withdrawal of "obnoxious" detectives and the ending of troop patrols on the streets.

POLICE CRITICIZED

"At 8 o'clock that evening there were 25 machine-guns and 1,000 troops on Jacques Cartier Square," he said.

"Nothing happened till about 11 o'clock in the evening, except that pedestrians walking along the streets were ordered to move on, and the order was reinforced sometimes by a feigned and sometimes by a real prod of the bayonet, which was beastly uncomfortable to the citizens of Quebec, to such an extent that hostilities occurred at 11 o'clock."

A coroner's jury later reported that the four killed were "innocent of participation in the said riot."

Speaks on new school

WATERLOO — (Special) — Tom Blacklock, in charge of technical and vocational education for the regional high school, spoke to members of St. Paul's UCW and many guests recently, about the new Cowansville School.

The school will cater to individual needs rather than set programs. There will not be 10 or 15 subjects to choose from at the school, but more than 80. The physical planning of the structure was done only after the educational program was established, said Mr. Blacklock.

The school, which will accommodate about 1,800 English and 2,000 French speaking students, will operate on a competitive house system. The interior design identifies each house, which will eventually have its own crest, as well as its own color in the decorating scheme.

Although there will be separate areas for French and English teaching, there will be several common areas including the cafeteria, library and auditorium. There will be six large gymnasia and three smaller ones.

Other aspects of the buildings include a system of nonverbal signs for classrooms, teachers' areas, and washrooms. There are many informal areas and a student lounge.

Sub-tenders for the new complex opened on March 22 and general contracting tenders opened March 28. If the school can be built within the budget of 7.6 million dollars, it should be open by Sept. 1, 1969, the speaker said.

Mr. Blacklock, who had been introduced by WHS principal Sam Waye, was thanked for his talk and showing of slides by Mrs. A. Haley.

Sets dates for projects

WATERLOO — (Special) — Dates for several fund-raising projects were tentatively set by St. Paul's UCW at the last general meeting.

It is hoped to have a sugaring party on April 7, with Mrs. Myrtle Wilkinson in charge of the arrangements. A card party will be held on April 23, and the June Tea on June 6.

Reports were heard from several committees including those of Mrs. Marilyn Durrell, for the work table and Mrs. Eleanor MacAskill, who gave a report on work to be done in the manse.

The devotional was led by Mrs. Donna Kirchgessner, assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Maynes.

Mrs. Winters considers rush of politics 'great fun'

By DAVE BAZAY

QUEBEC (CP) — In the Robert Winters household, everybody campaigns, including the trade and commerce minister's trim wife Eleanor.

Mrs. Winters whipped through 82 coffee parties in 1965 to help her husband gain election to the Commons in the Toronto riding of York West.

She's now doing her best to help Mr. Winters, son of a Lunenburg, N.S., fisherman, become Liberal party leader and prime minister of Canada.

Mrs. Winters, interviewed amid the federal Liberal leadership campaign here, says she considers the hectic rush, rush of politics "great fun."

"I like meeting all the people," she adds. "I'm not interested in politics per se. But political life is very interesting."

She was born Eleanor Dixon July 22, 1911, at Smiths Falls, Ont., an eastern Ontario railway town where her father was a CPR engineer.

Her family moved to Montreal when she was 13. She went to Macdonald College, won a teacher's diploma and was teaching elementary school by the time she was 17.

HER FRENCH HELPS

The French she learned during her seven-year experience as a Montreal teacher makes her a natural asset on the Quebec campaign trail.

She made speeches before Quebec delegates who are to attend the April leadership convention, demonstrating greater prowess in conversational French than her husband.

Although ranked as "a great campaigner" by Mr. Winters, Mrs. Winters views herself as "just a housewife."

She hasn't thought about playing the role of a prime minister's wife. She considers the question "presumptuous," adding:

"I like very much to be free and I like my privacy, but if I had to sacrifice those things, as I might have to, I'd be prepared to do it."

Married in 1936 and a mother of two, Mrs. Winters was asked if she is a crusader, if there are any burning issues which inflame her.

"I don't think so," she said, adding with a smile: "I'm not a crusader for the rights of women. I'm perhaps too old-fashioned for that."

FAMILY PITCHED IN

Henry, the Winters' 25-year-old son who works as a mechanical engineer at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., will be a voting delegate at the convention.

Marny, their 21-year-old daughter, is a graduate of Toronto's York University. She plans a teaching career.

A third child, Richard, died in 1956 when he was 13. He had a heart defect.

The entire family hit the York West hustings in 1965 in a door-to-door campaign which successfully returned Mr. Winters to the Commons.

Home shifted with the career of Mr. Winters. The family lived in the south-shore Nova Scotia fishing community of Lunenburg during the war years.

"I love the place," says Mrs. Winters. "Bob's family has been there since 1752." The Winters still maintain a cottage on Herman's Island near Lunenburg.

They moved to Ottawa when Mr. Winters was a minister in former prime minister St. Laurent's cabinet and then to Toronto when he went into big business.

"I love travelling," says Mrs. Winters. "It's killing but it's great fun."

Tape Names on Outfits

It's none too early for plan-ahead mothers to order name tapes for young campers' outfits. To bypass sewing, select personalized iron-on labels which are easy to apply and will stick tight to fabrics through countless rugged launderings.

In small space, good kitchen planning can provide an attractive, practical arrangement — here, electric range with upper oven, undersink dishwasher, combination washer-dryer, refrigerator-freezer. Unique farm offers future to retarded

LADNER, B.C. (CP) — A unique farm opened its doors during the winter in this Fraser Valley community to offer shelter—and a future—to retarded teen-agers.

There were no brass bands on hand for the opening of the first permanent quarters of the Variety Farm Training Centre for the mentally handicapped—just a group of parents and the first four resident students.

The $65,000 residence is the latest step in a $500,000 five-year plan by the Variety Club of Western Canada to provide a farm training centre on the 100-acre tract.

In the past the farm has concentrated on teaching its part-time students something about growing field crops such as sugar beet and potatoes.

Now, with full-time residents, farm instructors will branch into breeding of pedigreed livestock including milk cows, sheep and swine.

Executive-director Selwyn Simons said his students—normal physically but with mental ages of six- or seven-year-olds—are taught farm work by demonstration.

Some have been taught to drive tractors, he said. Others show an aptitude for greenhouse or field crop work.

"It's just a matter of finding a youngster's aptitude for working with greenhouse or field crops," said Mr. Simons.

Farm officials hope that after intensive training and care the teen-agers will be employable on regular farms.

Stamps or money? supermarkets question

LOS ANGELES (AP)-Would housewives rather have stamps or money?

For years, the ladies have said they want lower food prices. Some even went on strike to prove it. But for years, many supermarkets have been giving them stamps and games along with groceries.

Now, several southern California supermarkets, saying that stamps and games up the food budget, are trying a new tack.

The name of the game is discount prices.

There are no bonuses. But the can of peas or box of cereal in a shopper's basket is priced a cent or two lower.

"We feel it's been coming," says Claude W. Edwards, board chairman of Alpha Beta Stores. "With the cost of living going up, the average housewife wants the most reasonable price she can get."

CUT SHOPPING HOURS

Alpha Beta has the discount policy in its 148 stores. But Edwards says it was done "the only way you can do it—by curtailing hours and doing away with every type of premium cost."

Instead of staying open until midnight, the stores now are open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Friday and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Food Giant has done much the same in its 58 stores. The cut in Sunday hours saves double-time pay to employees, and the saving is passed on to customers.

Walter Warmbrand, vice-president and director of merchandising for Food Gaint, says trading stamps cost a shopper 1.3 per cent of the food bill and games one per cent, adding up to a potential saving of 2.3 per cent on the shopping bill.

The tough job is getting the housewife to recognize the savings, Warmbrand says. She can spot a saving of 20 to 30 cents on a product, but when it's a cent or two, she often does not realize it will add up to a considerable amount.

"We're trying to get her to realize that there are savings seven days a week; that she doesn't have to wait for the weekends," says Warmbrand.

Britain's modern suffragettes protest lack of progress in 50 years

LONDON (CP) — The golden jubilee of votes for women has made Britain's modern suffragettes more sharply aware of battles still to be won.

In a week that saw a giant celebration rally of veteran chains-and-railings militants, with suitable homage paid by Britain's three male party chiefs, women have been sounding off shrilly about the lack of progress in 50 years in fields outside the ballot box.

A formidable body of professional women and a committee of female Communists alike were calling for action on the problem of equal status.

Prime Minister Wilson was hissed by a section of Wednesday's rally when he assured the assembled women the government wants to implement equal pay "when economic circumstances make this possible."

'WE WANT IT NOW'

Elderly suffragettes and young femininists holding "equal pay" placards yelled: "We want it now."

Dame Joan Vickers, Conservative member of Parliament who organized the jubilee rally, told the meeting: "Anti-feminism, I believe, is just as serious as racialism or any other fanatical prejudice."

Dame Joan, who heads a status-of-women committee, wants to form a women's party that would put up its own candidates for national election.

"There has been considerable achievement in the last 50 years, but not what one had hoped for. There are 26 women in Parliament and 604 men. A lot of legislation might have got through if we had more women in Parliament."

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs threw its considerable weight into the fray this week with a report urging the government to set up a national status-of-women committee and suggesting a sweeping range of reforms to eliminate sex discrimination.

EQUALIZE WORK

Among the recommendations:

—Retiring age for men and women to be the same, perhaps 55.

—Legislation to be introduced "at the earliest opportunity" for equal pay for the same work.

—Scrapping of laws which now prohibit women in industry from doing night work and limit their working hours generally.

Polly's Pointers®

Gripes About Poor Marks On Household Appliances

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Since your column is so widely read I think it is an ideal place to get a gripe across to manufacturers. Why are markings and numbers so poorly shown on appliances we use every day? Even with glasses one has difficulty reading some of the dials, for example, on the electric blanket. Washing machine and dryer dial markings wear off very quickly and there is not enough contrast in the colors used. This is also true with many other items, such as radios, stoves and television sets.—JULIE

DEAR JULIE—From previous correspondence I know that many manufacturers do read the column. If they sell a product that can be bought to take the place of one of the clever Pointers that uses a commonly owned household product I hear from them. Hope they take this letter to heart.—POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—My white nylon uniform has turned yellow under the arms from perspiration. I have tried various remedies with no success so will appreciate any ideas from readers who have had a similar problem.—FLORENCE

DEAR POLLY—Tell Theresa, who is converting a bus into a mobile home, that she can use a child's metal folding ironing board. I have a portable board that I put on my dining table in our trailer and it works fine. I advise her to use all the wash-and-wear clothes possible. I have certainly learned a lot of good Pointers from the column.—MRS. P. H. M.

DEAR POLLY—and Theresa—My husband fixed my ironing board on the closet door. It can be let down for use and does not have to be put out in the way. Fold it up, when not in use, and fasten on a hook on the inside of the door so it is secure. It could be fastened on any wall or on a small space in the kitchen area. I made a cover to go over mine.—NORA

DEAR POLLY—If Theresa has the wall space she could attach, with hinges, a board that has only one leg in front. This leg should also have a hinge in order to fold it flat against the board when not in use.—MRS. R. M.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Safety Precaution: Check That Garage Door

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

A safety hazard that has received very little publicity has recently been reported by the National Safety Council. It is the garage door that closes by swinging downward, especially the kind equipped with a built-in lift assist operated by large springs. Such a door can come crashing down with crippling force if its suspension system fails. Its cable may wear out and snap when least expected.

Anyone who has a garage door that swings upward should inspect it for signs of rusting and wear at the cable connections, loose bolts or cotter pins and bent or loose tracks. All moving parts should be well-lubricated and, if the door doesn't work freely, you should give it a thorough check. Never let children operate the door and don't let them play under it when it is open.

Q—What causes bursitis? Is there anything one can do to prevent it?

A—The cause of this inflammation of the lubricating sac attached to a joint is prolonged, strenuous use. It is aggravated by injury, infection, gout and diabetes. If it becomes chronic it is very hard to get rid of. An injection of hydrocortisone into the joint often gives complete relief. Recurrence is prevented by avoiding or treating the causative factors.

Q—What would cause my feet to burn and get red?

A—In many persons who complain of burning of the soles of the feet the cause is hardening of the arteries, excessive use of alcohol or tobacco, Raynaud's disease, frostbite, tight shoes or a deficiency of vitamin B. Recent studies have shown that allergy to one or more of the products used in making shoes is a frequent cause.

When, as in your case, there is also redness of the skin, sometimes affecting only one foot, the probability is that the trouble is erythromelalgia. Although the cause of this disease is not known it is often associated with polycythemia (an abnormally high red blood cell count), high blood pressure, diabetes, lupus erythematosus or rheumatoid arthritis.

There is no simple cure for this complaint but, when it is possible to identify the cause, an effective treatment can usually be found.

Universalist Church has inaugural supper in newly renovated hall

DERBY LINE — Several families of the congregation of the Universalist Church gathered in the newly-renovated church hall on Mar. 30 for the inaugural supper and program.

The kitchen is a far cry from the old one, it is more spacious, with new cupboards around the walls, and broad work shelves. There is a shining double aluminum sink and a new electric stove, a refrigerator is coming, and only has to be installed. Another feature is large tables on wheels, which were put into use on Saturday evening by Rev. William Hutchinson to bring dishes from the table to the kitchen where they were washed.

The kitchen and the dining hall are painted in pastel tones of yellow and green. In the dining hall the new tables have melamine tops, these and the new metal chairs can be stacked. There are also small-size tables and chairs for Sunday School use. The shelves and the serving window from the kitchen to the hall are covered in arborite.

Edwin Earle, chairman of the board of trustees, welcomed the gathering, after which refreshments, brought by the people and served buffet style were enjoyed. Mr. Earle said he hopes this first gathering in the renovated recreation rooms will be only the first of many such events. He stated that the renovations have been made possible through the efforts of a great many people.. Mr. Earle paid tribute to the women of the church for their work and to James Stevens, Jr. and Harvey Gardyne for their labors. He noted that this is the beginning of several projects in mind, many of which can be done by volunteers.

Fred Holland, in his brief remarks, said that cost of the renovations ran to almost $4,000 and in a few days a drive will take place for a capital fund, not to be confused with the annual pledge drive. He noted that to date there have been donations of new cups and saucers and some cash and hopes that the people of the church and their friends will give the campaign serious consideration.

Mrs. Lillian Patton showed slides and spoke of her trip to Europe, where she was one of 20 to go for the Unitarian-Universalist Service Committee. Mrs. Patton spoke of leaving New York by plane, landing at Iceland, then on to Germany, where they had orientation classes. Mrs. Patton said language was an important factor, however she had little difficulty having spent some time prior to her trip, learning German. Mrs. Patton said their work was to relieve teachers and others working there. She went to Derstlag, where she taught in a school for mentally retarded children.

Her slides showed the school and some of the children, also of a trip to points of Europe in her travels before coming home. Many of the pictures showed pianos and organs, of great masters of music, as well as their homes, and music halls of fame. Mrs. Patton was thanked by Mr. Earle and by the people attending.

All in all it was a happy and satisfactory evening of sociability and knowing a great deal has been accomplished in the church for themselves and the communtiy.

Says budget favors the rich

QUEBEC (CP) — Opposition Leader Jean Lesage Tuesday attacked the Union Nationale government's 1968-69 budget by accusing Premier Daniel Johnson of "taxing the champagne of the poor without touching the champagne of the rich."

Mr. Lesage started his critique of the Union Nationale budget by saying that the premier was trying to dodge responsibilities for new taxes on such things as beer, tobacco, gasoline and liquor, excluding wines.

The Liberal leader asked in the legislative assembly whether Mr. Johnson had made a deal with President Charles de Gaulle of France not to increase taxes on wines in the budget which imposed $158,800,000 in several new taxes.

Mr. Johnson said the Opposition leader was being "small" by involving the French chief of state in his budget attack. Mr. Lesage retorted that the government increased taxes on beer, but not on wines imported from France and elsewhere.

The Opposition leader said the great weakness of the government's second budget since its election in June 1966 is "the morbid fear" against having the state play the role of the initiator, catalyzer and guide of over-all economic activity."

He contended that cuts in capital spending, accompanied by a two-per-cent increase in the sales tax to eight per cent in the 1967-68 budget, contributed to increasing both the cost of living and unemployment in Quebec.

And the new consumer taxes of the 1968-69 budget, accompanied by a relative decline in capital spending, would only serve to accelerate Quebec's economy difficulties, inciuding unemployment, already higher in Quebec than elsewhere in Canada.

Mr. Lesage said the government should have cut ordinary operating expenses, which were increased 11 per cent over the last budget, and increased capital spending to stimulate investment and employment over both the short and long term.

The Opposition leader said it seems too demanding to ask the Union Nationale to establish "a well-thought-out economic and fiscal policy" because it is conservative and "doesn't believe in the role of the state."

He feared that this budget will "only provoke a new reduction, more or less relative, in investment." He blamed the 1967-68 budget on the reduction of 5.8 per cent in investment in the last fiscal year.

QUEBEC SCENE:

Proposes development fund scheme

MONTREAL (CP) — Transport Minister Hellyer Tuesday proposed the establishment of five regional development funds by the federal government to "make available sufficiently large sums to spark a huge expansion in the development of our resources."

Mr. Hellyer, a candidate for the leadership of the federal Liberal party, made the proposal to convention delegates from the Montreal region and members of the Liberal party's Reform Club.

Establishment of the funds could "bring about a lessening of regional disparities and make easier the solution of our constitutional difficulties," Mr. Hellyer said.

One fund would serve the province of Quebec, and would be "similar to the one already existing in the private sector, but on a far larger scale."

Says it's true

JONQUIERE, Que. — (CP) — Gilles Gregoire, head of the separatist Ralliement national, says it is true that internal divisions in the Quebec separatist movement have hampered efforts to raise money for the cause in France.

The independent federal MP for Lapointe was commenting in a telephone interview on a report from Paris that such dissension has made it difficult for the French Action Committee for Quebec Independence to raise $100,000 for the RN.

The committee was established last fall after a visit to France by Mr. Gregoire. The funds raised were to be used for separatist radio and TV propaganda in Quebec.

Pierrefonds police were summoned to a private home along the banks of the same river by an anonymous caller who said there were two bodies in the basement of the house.

jor parties has a potential candidate lined up although there are several men on both sides who would be ready to test their abilities as vote-getters.

One reason for the interest shown by some of the aspirants is the belief that a general election will come within a year and that the best way of getting the inside track for the main event will be by making a good show in the preliminaries.

The June 17 by-election will be based on the old constituency line-ups with Nestor Boucher, the returning officer for the past several elections being in charge of the organization.

Mr. Boucher indicated he would open his office about April 15, which would be well in advance of the time required by the Election Act.

In the next federal election, which will be held on the basis of the 1965 redistribution, the Returning Officer will be Denis Proteau.

QUEBEC

This figure of $54.9 million is a close approximation of the amount of money invested in rattrapage in the French-language institutions. When one adds the differential projected for 1968-69, the rattrapage figures rise to an impressive $72.7 million. This amount does not include the special fund of $1.2 million for research.

Granting the necessity for rattrapage in the earlier years, we now have to ask — What is the justification for perpetuating so large a differential in operating expenditures between the English and French - language universities? The record shows that in the English - language universities the ratio of professors to students is significantly worse; that the salaries paid the professors are generally lower; that the administration costs are relatively smaller; and that their equipment budgets are substantially lower. One recognizes the need for additional universities to serve the French-language community; but it is hard to accept as a continuing situation the preferential treatment that has been accorded the established French - language universities during the past 6 years, especially when English - language universities are forced to operate under conditions of comparative austerity.

CONCLUSION

The English - language universities in Quebec are being treated most unjustly. The work of the Gauthier Committee, representing the whole Quebec university community and the Government, was beginning to show encouraging results in terms of finding more rational and equitable norms for university financing. This effort has been virtually nullified by the recent unilateral decision of the Government.

We therefore must express a growing uneasiness about the future treatment and status of the English-speaking population of Quebec. Re-assurance is needed; it will take action rather than words or promises to provide it.

Danville Scout group pays $450 to campaign, discusses program

DANVILLE—A special meeting of the Group Committee for the Boy Scouts was held in the ADS High School on Mar. 25, with the president, Rev. J. A. Johnson, in the chair. Several items were on the agenda, and the first was payment of the Campaign Funds, which reached the total of $450, to the District. The main purpose, however, was to discuss the 1968 Scouting program, which has changed drastically in the past few years.

Rev. L. G. Westman, president of the District Council was introduced and spoke on the new program being decidedly, Boy Centred. There is a great need for the public, especially the parents of Cubs and Scouts, to avail themselves of the literature that they may become better informed about the new program and the necessity of having them work more closely with the Group Committee and with the Leaders.

Donald Chamberlain, district Scout Commissioner, was then introduced. He stressed the value of the new program for both the leaders and the Scouts. More work is to be done at the Patrol level for a greater interest.

Public Relations and the effect that they have upon the people was the topic of Arnold Healy, communications and public relations commissioner for the district, who was the third guest speaker at the meeting.

His first point was the Climate of Acceptance of the new program, largely through the medium of the press and members of the Group Committees. The second phase of his speech dealt with guiding principles of the changes in the set-up of Scouting throughout the whole of Canada. Lastly was the effect that these changes would have on the Group Committees themselves, and the need of the involvement of more members in the group committee movement itself.

The recruiting of leaders was also discussed and the possibility of having Scout troops sponsored in some cases.

Plans were finalized for the next meeting on Apr. 22.

Other members of the Group Committee present were: George Goodenough, Wendell Cook, Wendell Livingstone, Rev. D. J. Hawkins and Mrs. E. G. Stevens, to represent her husband, who was away at the time.

Renovations at our store are now completed . . .

come in and see the lovely changes, and our store's impressive new look, with all changes aimed at serving you better!

In announcing the completion of my store renovations, I wish to express a few words of gratitude to the people of Magog and district, as well as the many from outside of this city, such as my valued customers from Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, the Boundary and other centres who have shopped at this store. Your faithful and continued patronage encouraged me to undertake the many improvements mentioned in this announcement, and it was only through the confidence I have in you and your appreciation of good quality fine service and fair prices, that I would consider such extensive changes. For the encouragement you have given me, I must add a sincere thank you!

Gaston Huot, Proprietor.

LET'S TOUR THE STORE:

While we haven't changed our store's exterior appearance, the interior is so different, and so refreshing in atmosphere. We have arranged displays so customers can see our lines easily, yet haven't allowed the one time monotony created by racks of shoe boxes so common among shoe stores. Most of our stock is readily available for fast service, yet cleverly concealed to allow a modern interior countenance. With a thick inviting wall to wall carpet topped by unique floor display arrangements, comfortable settee and movable furnishings used in fitting, smart decorator pieces and elegant color schemes have taken away the barren look of the traditional shoe store. Then there is our lower floor, where we have the overshoes, rubbers, boots and miscellaneous lines, equally cleverly arranged so they'll be appealing, and easy to choose from. It would take chapters to do justice to all the changes we have made; you've simply got to come in and see what we have achieved!

About television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The political turmoil resulting from President Johnson's announced withdrawal as a candidate for renomination was thoroughly reflected on network television Monday.

Senator Robert F. Kennedy held a morning press conference that was covered by the three networks. He read a statement and answered questions.

Senator Eugene J. McCarthy took over The Monkees' half hour on NBC in early evening for a paid political broadcast. He spoke principally about his qualifications as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

In the network news shows, candidates and potential candidates, critics and supporters of the administration, were interviewed about the president's actions.

OPINIONS VARY

CBS, in a special late evening special, pre-empted Carol Burnett's variety show and worked over what host Walter Cronkite called "extraordinary political developments." Highlights included his interview with Richard M. Nixon, Republican contender, but most interesting was a freewheeling discussion among Bill D. Moyers, vice-president and publisher of Newsday, who served as Johnson's special assistant, author Theodore White and columnist Emmet John Hughes.

The three, all veteran president-watchers, agreed that Johnson meant exactly what he said about getting out of the presidential race, but they differed vastly in their opinions about the effect of that decision.

White said he believes the candidacy of Nixon was strengthened. Hughes felt that it enhanced the position of Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and diminished that of Nixon. They felt that the position of Hubert H. Humphrey had to be fixed before really evaluating the Democratic contenders. Moyers said that the leading contenders, McCarthy, Kennedy and Nixon, were in "strange positions, like marionettes without strings."

ABC's Wedding Party, a daytime trifle, had its premiere show Monday afternoon. The program specializes in interviewing engaged couples with emphasis on comedy—how they met, wedding plans and such.

The host, a Canadian TV personality named Al Hamel of Toronto herded the remarks toward the double entendre. It was an artificial, often vulgar little show.

Mrs. E. Sheldon returned home from Ontario, after spending a few days visiting relatives. She was accompanied to Ontario by her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Dustin.

Co-workers fete bride-elect at linen shower

COWANSVILLE — On Mar. 28 a bridal shower was given in honor of Miss Suzanne Arsenault by Mrs. M. Chapman and Mrs. H. Johnson, at the home of Mrs. Johnson.

Miss Arsenault was received by the co-hostesses and presented with a corsage of yellow mums. She was then led to the living room where a large box decorated in blue and pink was overflowing with beautifully wrapped packages of linens and twenty-five of her co-workers at the Brome-Missisquoi Perkins Hospital awaited her.

The refreshment table, also decorated in blue and pink was centered by a bride's cake, made by Mrs. B. Bailey of Sutton.

Mrs. O. Mullins, Knowlton, poured coffee and Mrs. D. Baggott, also of Knowlton led the ladies in proposing a toast to the bride-elect. Miss Arsenault expressed her appreciation.

WI card party held at Border is successful

ROCK ISLAND — On March 29 a successful card party, sponsored by Stanstead North Women's Institute, was held in the recreation room of Sunnyside School with several tables playing 500, bridge and Canasta.

The party was convened by Mrs. Edward Simpson, Sr., and Mrs. Doris Belanger, assisted by members of the Branch, as a benefit for the Border Community Center.

Prizes for 500 were won by Charles Bliss and Mrs. Stanley Emslie, high; Edward Simpson, Sr. and Mrs. John Beamish, low. In canasta, Mrs. A. W. Bronson and Mrs. E. Goff Probyn and for bridge, winners were Mrs. Ivar Lemon, high, and Mr. Lemon, low.

Door prizes were claimed by Gordon Johnston and Mrs. Charles Lawton.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria at two long tables by the WI assisted by Douglas Cooper, Douglas Johnston, Ralph Ashman and by Miss Heather Johnston and Miss Diane Belanger, the two latter also sold admission tickets.

Alouettes officially open Knot Hole Gang for season

The "Knot Hole" Committee of the Sherbrooke Alouettes Baseball Club has fixed an objective of 500 members for the coming season, announced Rene Boisvert, president of the committee, yesterday at a press conference held at the Union Hotel.

Jean and Jacques Ellyson, sons of President Yvon Ellyson of the Provincial Baseball League, were the first purchasers of the buttons. Robert Blais, vice-president of the committee, was also on hand to officially open the season sale.

President Boisvert announced that all youngsters 12 years old and under are eligible to join the "Knot Hole Gang" and can obtain their buttons at the Central Pharmacy, King Street West, from Jean-Paul Thibault, vice-president of the Alouettes.

The committee is working to find other locations to sell the buttons and Chairman Boisvert hopes to be able to announce the places as soon as possible. The buttons sell for $3 which entitles the holder to take in 30 local games.

There is a possibility that several service clubs in Sherbrooke will help with the sale of the buttons and may buy them as part of their welfare work.

"It is very important for a club to be able to count on the youngsters as supporters of the club. It isn't the price of $3, as the club makes no money, but the idea is to have the youngsters in the stands to give their vocal support," stated President Boisvert.

The "Knot Hole Gang" will have a special corner of the grandstand reserved for them. They will also have their own entrance to the grounds and a director of the club will be on hand to supervise.

During the next several weeks, prior to the opening of the season, President Boisvert, with members of his committee will visit the shopping centres to sell the buttons. These dates and places will be announced later. This is being done in order to help the youngsters to secure them without travelling way downtown.

Quebec Minor Hockey not connected with Minor Hockey Congress called next month, says President Lacasse

Bertrand Lacasse, president of the Quebec Minor Hockey Association, announced today that his organization has had nothing to do with the planning of the Minor Hockey Congress slated for Trois Rivieres on April 20th next.

All communications concerning this Congress have borne the title of the Quebec Minor Hockey Association without any members of this group having been consulted.

In January it was decided to hold a meeting for Minor Hockey during the month of April. A committee was named to handle arrangements for this meeting. The Committee was composed of Messrs. Lacasse, Depatie, Bougie, Hogue and Lessard. This Committee was never consulted on any plans for the Congress.

Early in March at a meeting of the Executive of the QMHA, Aime Constantin of Montreal, and Jean Emond, acting in behalf of Art Lessard of Ville Laval, presented a completed program for the Trois Rivieres meeting. Invitations had already been issued without ever having been accepted by the QMHA. Furthermore, a proposed constitution was brought forward under the name of the "Quebec Minor Hockey Association Inc.,". Mr. Lacasse stated that neither he nor the Secretary of the Association had ever been approached to sign an application for incorporation. Under the new incorporation the Head Office of the Association would be situated in Ville Laval.

Mr. Lacasse states that his organization is not at all in favor of the arrangements which have been made. The original idea of holding such a meeting was to unite all groups presently registered with the QMHA in an effort to plan a program which would give full autonomy in minor hockey matters to the QMHA. The program set up for the Trois Rivieres Congress excludes almost totally the Executive of the QMHA and its members in favor of others not even registered with the Association.

The President met recently with the Executive of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association at which time the senior body made certain proposals which would guarantee complete autonomy to the Minors. These proposals are most interesting as they guarantee not only full autonomy but also guard against domination of minor hockey by any one section of the Province. The QMHA Executive plans a further meeting this month with the QAHA to discuss more fully this plan.

In concluding Mr. Lacasse again stated that his organization has had nothing to do with the Trois Rivieres Congress and furthermore cannot see how Messrs. Lessard, Emond and Constantin, all of Montreal District, can speak for a Provincial organization without first having obtained the necessary permission.

"As president of the Sherbrooke Beavers Hockey Club I was very surprised to learn that Gilles Dube would be the next coach," stated President Leander Mercier yesterday afternoon.

"At no time had Gilles Dube been approached by the executive to take over the post of coach. We know that he possesses plenty of hockey sense and earlier offered him the post of technical advisor to the club and even the post of general manager but never the post of coach," further added President Mercier.

"The executive is at present doing all possible in an effort to build a good club for the coming season and we have already contacted several new players," further stated President Mercier.

"The executive realizes that new blood must be added to the lineup and with this in mind we are working on several new plans in order to give Sherbrooke a good representative team next season, stated President Mercier.

Flyers thrash Jr. Habs 8-1, Rangers win

Kitchener Rangers and Niagara Falls Flyers appear good bets to clash for the championship of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series after Tuesday's night's semi-final playoff action.

The Rangers downed Hamilton Red Wings 5-3 and the Flyers thrashed Montreal Junior Canadiens 8-1, giving both winners 3-1 edges in the best-of-seven series.

NHL and CBS reach agreement on change for playoffs, Habs and Bruins even bet

NEW YORK (CP) — The National Hockey League and CBS reached agreement Tuesday on a schedule of afternoon Stanley Cup playoff games to be shown live by CBS-TV across the United States during April weekends.

Don Ruck, NHL publicist, said the second game of the New York-Chicago East Division semi-final will start the TV parade. It will be played here this Sunday at 2:05 p.m. EST, with New York blacked out by CBS.

The Rangers and the Black Hawks open their best-of-seven series here Thursday night.

The second network game will be presented Saturday, April 13 at 1:05 p.m. EST, and Chicago at New York will again be on the menu if this series goes beyond four games. There are two other potential games on April 13, Boston at Montreal and St. Louis at Philadelphia, one of which will be substituted if the Rangers and Black Hawks wind up their series in a minimum four games.

FIT IN SCHEDULE

The unusual Saturday date and the 1:05 p.m. starting time were requested by CBS to clear the air for the Masters golf tournament later Saturday and most of Sunday afternoon.

The network goes back to Sunday for its next game—April 21 at 1:05 p.m. EST. Ruck said a West Division game definitely will be shown, although who will play depends on the results of the first playoff round.

The CBS-TV game to be shown at 2:05 p.m. April 28 will emanate either from Montreal or Boston, he said.

Site of the Sunday, May 5 TV game will depend on which two teams survive into the Stanley Cup final between East and West divisions.

FOUR GAMES THURSDAY

So on April 4 it's Boston at Montreal and Chicago at New York in the East Division and St. Louis at Philadelphia and Minnesota at Los Angeles in the West.

The remainder of the schedule:

April 6—Boston at Montreal, St. Louis at Philadelphia, Minnesota at Los Angeles.

April 7—Chicago at New York.

MONTREAL (CP) — The oddsmakers are hedging because there isn't much to choose from between Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins who start their best-of-seven Stanley Cup East Division semi-final here Thursday.

Over the season the two teams split even right down the middle, with each team winning three games at home and two on the road.

The first game will start at 9 p.m. EST and will be televised on the CBC's national network starting at 9:30 p.m.

Montreal coach Toe Blake is glad his league champions haven't been made prohibitive favorites as in other years.

"Boston won five and lost five with us, so all we can expect is a tough series," Blake says.

The Canadiens whipped through a 90-minute workout Tuesday after journeying down from their Laurentian retreat at Val David, Que. The team will continue the commuter bit between the mountains and the Forum while at home until it either wins the Stanley Cup for Blake for the eighth time in 13 seasons or is eliminated.

Blake said he hopes he can get his club into the proper frame of mind for the playoffs.

"It's pretty hard to get them going for those 'nothing' games," he said.

Blake was referring to the club's last three games of the 74-game season schedule after the team had clinched the Prince of Wales Trophy as league leaders for the 17th time. After clinching the cup the Canadiens promptly dropped a 6-0 decision to Toronto Maple Leafs, were beaten 2-1 by Boston and lost 4-2 to New York Rangers in the season finale.

Lorne (Gump) Worsley, the veteran Montreal goaltender, worked out Tuesday for the first time since suffering a pulled groin muscle in the pre-game warmup last Saturday night.

Rogatien Vachon was in the nets for the team's last three games, allowing all 12 goals.

However, Vachon was without the protection usually afforded by defence stalwarts Terry Harper and Ted Harris. Both have been on the sidelines since March 17 when Harris suffered fractured ribs and Harper an eye injury in a 3-1 defeat in Boston.

BACKLOG OF WRECKS — Philadelphia's $3 million car eater is back in business and chewing into a five-storey pile of junked autos. Earlier this year the "fragmentizer" was shut down with clutch trouble. Spokesman said the machine was put back in operation about March 1 and has been carving into a backlog of about 5,000 autos.

OES chapter holds meeting at Cookshire

COOKSHIRE — The meeting of Cookshire Chapter No. 46, O.E.S., was held Mar. 27 in the Masonic Hall.

A number of invitations were received to attend various functions of the Order, and cash donations solicited for the Cancer Fund, the Arthritic and Rheumatism Fund, and gifts for the Cancer Patients' cupboard with a printed list of suggested articles distributed to the members. A number of thank-you cards were read for gifts and cards received.

A memorial service was held for Peter Lennox, P.W.G.P., and for brothers Fred Robbins and Ibrey Batley.

Suggestions for raising money were discussed, and plans made to have the members bring in various sale articles, to be sold at the June meeting. Sister Griffin is to purchase some material for repairing the wreath.

Worthy Matron Elizabeth Graham suggested that letters of interest be written to members who do not attend the regular meetings, due to having moved from the district, but who still keep up membership in the Chapter. Slips of paper with names and addresses were given out.

Tentative plans were made for a garden party for some children of the Local Young People's Home.

The Worthy Matron presented Sister Bernice Taylor with the commission of Grand Representative to Scotland.

Sisters Helen Matthews, Doris Pope and Ruby Davies served refreshments in the lower hall.

A credence table, candle lighter and snuffer and a desk prayer book, given in memory of Thomas Bown were dedicated by the Bishop, after which Rev. Maxwell Jones presented nineteen candidates for the rites of confirmation.

They were; Ronald and Robert Bake, David and Bruce Bennett, Richard Coates, Robert Dougherty, Dale, Garry and Delbert Hume, James Royer, Helen and Judy Allison, Jocelyn Harper, Sheryl Hume, Alice Mayhew, Mary McHarg, Jean Murray, Wendy Olson and Pamela Ripley.
