BISHOP REPORTS

Monsignor Clune Met Premier—Collins Anxious for Truce

LONDON, Dec. 9.— (Associated Press).—Prospects of an Irish truce, which, last night, were generally regarded as having receded almost out of sight, have been revived, according to a late edition of the Daily Mail as a result of a private interview between Monsignor Patrick Joseph Clune, Bishop of Perth, and Premier Lloyd George yesterday. Monsignor Clune has been prominently mentioned in recent Irish despatches as carrying on negotiations looking to a truce with leaders of the Sinn Fein movement.

The Archbishop, the newspaper declares, conveyed to Mr. Lloyd George what, in effect, was a message from Michael Collins, commander of the Sinn Fein army. It is understood the impression was given that Collins and other Sinn Fein leaders were extremely desirous of a truce, and were prepared to take definite steps to secure it.

The Daily Mail adds that the Premier was much impressed, concluding by saying: "It may definitely be stated that prospects for a settlement are much brighter than they appear on the surface."

Similar information is printed today by the London Times.

EXPECT MORE OUTBREAKS.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(By Webb Miller, United Press Staff Correspondent). — Recurrence of fighting between Sinn Fein and British forces in Ireland was looked for today. Hope of a quick peace appeared to have been lost and the Government, by seizing municipal buildings for its officers and concentrating its forces, indicated it was making ready for a hard winter campaign.

The Irish Office declared Sinn Fein attacks on police had continued throughout the peace talk. The Government also continued its raids, on the ground that Irish Republican leaders had not suggested peace.

The breaking off of peace negotiations seemed indicated in the announcement of Arthur Henderson and William Adamson that they will not return to Ireland.

It was understood today that a note will be sent Father O'Flanagan asking what authority he holds to negotiate for the Sinn Fein.

It was believed, however, that while all these avenues are being explored, the Cabinet had small hope they would lead anywhere. Even while the Cabinet met yesterday raids were being conducted in portions of London against Sinn Fein sympathizers. The military in Dublin was taking possession of a number of municipal buildings to be used as barracks for officers. The men will be quartered there, it was said, to prevent murders such as occurred three weeks ago when fourteen men were killed in hotel and apartment rooms.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin was reported today to be acting as intermediary in the settlement of the Irish rail strike, caused by the refusal of workers to haul munitions.

Archbishop Clune, according to reports today, conferred with Premier Lloyd George late yesterday, bringing direct word from Arthur Griffith, acting head of the Sinn Fein. The Northcliffe press declared the Prime Minister was much impressed by the Archbishop's report and added that hope of peace still exists.

PREPARE ANSWER TO GREEK CLAIMS

British Officials Plan to Show Constantine Was Not Loyal

SUPPORT CHARGES

Compile Documents Showing His Pro-German Leanings

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(United Press).—British officials today compiled a list of documents bearing on their charges that King Constantine of Greece favored Germany during the war. The display was prepared to meet the expected Greek claims that the king was loyal.

The second Allied note, setting forth the economic and financial pressure which will be used on Greece if Constantine returns was expected to bring an answer also. The Greek Government was said to be trying to arrange a financial program which will avoid further borrowing.

British evidence of Constantine's pro-German leanings are included in these war-time statements and documents indicating close connection between the Fourth Greek Army Corps and the German headquarters. There was also a king's message to the Kaiser.

"We follow admiringly your land and sea successes. God quickly grant glorious victory over our infamous enemies."

The Daily Telegraph today said Constantinists are scattering propaganda that Bolshevism seize Greece if the king does not return. The king must return, dispatches read, if only temporarily. The people do not care about charges against him but they insist on seeing and acclaiming him, the messages declared.

NO INVITATION.

LUCERNE, Dec. 9. — (United Press.) — A simple statement of election results, not an invitation to return to Greece, was received today by King Constantine.

The message, from Premier George Rhallis, read:

"The result of the plebiscite is proof of the attachment of the Greeks for Your Majesty, whom they regard as an emblem of national unity."

Constantine, who has been impatient for an invitation to assume the crown, may accept the message as such. It was believed, however, that he has been requested to delay his trip until the Government has had further word from the Allies.

BRITISH MINISTERS FACE CRUCIAL TEST ON MONEY VOTE

Lloyd George Budget Proposals Meeting With Much Opposition

CLIMAX TONIGHT

Vote on Supplementary Appropriations Bill Set for Then

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(By Percy Sarl, United News Staff Correspondent.)—The Lloyd George government is courting trouble on the rocks of domestic finances, after having weathered the worst of the Irish storm, a critical industrial situation, and much adverse criticism of its foreign policies.

A revolt has been steadily taking form, and is now affecting some of the hitherto staunchest supporters of the Cabinet, against further national expenditure. It will come to a head tonight with the introduction of the Supplementary Appropriations Bill, totalling some thirty millions in scattering amounts, to eke out the regular Government appropriations.

Every item on this supplementary bill is bitterly opposed. If it is thrown out, that action by the House may be considered a vote of censure.

George Lambert, Liberal, M.P., is to move an amendment to the bill limiting the Government expenditures to $808,000,000 a year. On the passage or rejection of this amendment hinges the fate of the Coalition.

A feature of the revolt is the fight being made by Lord Northcliffe, through his chain of powerful newspapers, against all "members of Parliament who fail to vote against additional expenditures.

The Northcliffe newspapers are day by day printing the pictures and records of such members, in a "black list" which has thrown some of Lloyd George's supporters into a panic. The campaign is also being carried into various constituencies where timorous members, seeking to dodge the effect of unwelcome publicity by abstaining from voting.

The Government whips are therefore extremely nervous, realizing that the Government narrowly escaped defeat last Friday through the absence of many of these customary supporters, and have been rounding up every recalcitrant vote possible in order to make tonight's vote a real test.

So bitter has this battle of publicity become that little surprise was expressed Wednesday night when it became the subject of Parliamentary discussion resulting in adjournment of the House in a turmoil.

Colonel Arthur Shee and Major Orisby Gore, characterizing Northcliffe's "black-list" as a gross breach of privilege, demanded that the publisher and Lord Rothermere be summoned to the bar of the House to apologize for their conduct.

Debate on the motion was heard during the evening session, following the adjournment which was called for when members began to show unmistakable signs of jumping over the traces of Parliamentary rule.

GLUCK TELLS HOW STOLEN $5,000,000 BONDS WERE SOLD

Sensational Story Brought Out by Prosecution in Arnstein Case

THE "TRUMP CARD"

Alleged to Have Been Disposed of by Sullivan and Company

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. — (Special to The Star.) — The prosecution in the case of Jules (Nicky) Arnstein and his alleged associates in the $5,000,000 bond robbery played its "trump card" yesterday in the person of Joseph Gluck, co-defendant in the case and one of the four messengers who have confessed to their part in the thefts.

Gluck told a sensational story about how bonds arrived in Washington to be disposed of, it is alleged by the local branch of Sullivan and Company.

Gluck, after pointing out David W. Sullivan and Arnstein, said that the latter met Sullivan, Cohn and himself at the Pennsylvania Station on the night of October 14, 1919, where all but Sullivan boarded the train for this city. The witness told how he carried a handbag filled with the stolen securities, said to have come into his possession through his brother, Irving Gluck.

Questioning brought out the statement that Gluck knew Arnstein as "George" and that Nick Cohn had introduced Arnstein to him. Gluck said he met Arnstein the day the bonds were stolen from Wall Street. This meeting, the witness said, was at the Wellington Hotel, he being taken there by Nick Cohn.

At the station, Gluck stated, Cohn bought the tickets with money furnished by Arnstein. Arnstein, Cohn and himself got on the train, Gluck stated. Arnstein closed the door of the drawing room tightly. Then, it was testified, he took them out of the bag and looked them over.

The next morning, the witness said, Cohn told him to meet him and Arnstein in the lobby of the New Willard Hotel. At the appointed hour, Gluck said, Arnstein and Cohn came in and he turned over the bonds to Cohn and Arnstein. Later, Gluck stated, they all went to Sullivan and Company's office.

Cohn stated, it was testified, that he would see about the bonds again at 3 o'clock that afternoon. Then, Gluck said, Cohn called a taxi, and after all three had jumped in it, Cohen handed him $1,000.

STRIKE AND LOCKOUT CLOSES BIG PLANTS

Over 16,000 Garment Workers Out of Employment

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—A combined strike and lockout, following the declaration of war between New York Garment workers and employers, [illegible] day had resulted in more than 16,000 members of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America being thrown out of employment.

Six large concerns had discharged most of their employes as a result of the union's refusal to accept an ultimatum providing for piece work, reduced wages, and the right of employers to hire and discharge workers. When these employes were turned away a number of cutters voluntarily left with them, although no formal strike call had been issued.

Picketing of the affected plants began today. It was expected the Cloaking Manufacturers Association of New York would immediately apply for an injunction to prevent the. The police department was understood to be prepared to curb any violence. Garment-workers' strikes here in the past have been characterized by rioting and stone throwing, in which women have been participants.

CANADA'S FUTURE IS INTERNATIONAL

London Times Praises U.S. Ambassador's Terse Definition

NOTABLE OCCASION

Sir Campbell Stuart Pays Tribute to Times' Editorial Chief

LONDON Dec. 9.—(Star Cable by Windermere. Copyright.)—General attention has been attracted by two features of last night's dinner given by the Canada Club to Sir Campbell Stuart. One is that the London Times still holds unquestioned the premiership among the newspapers of the world and this despite its recent vagaries menacing it and its over-emphasis of the break in the personal relations between Mr. Lloyd George and Lord Northcliffe.

Nothing could be more cordial than the interest shown in the choice of a Canadian as managing director, though Sir Campbell Stuart himself carefully explained that control of the Times' editorial policy remains with, "my gifted friend, Wickham Steed."

The other outstanding feature of the occasion was the sympathetic reception given by leading Britishers to Ambassador Davis' definition of Canada as "interpreter's house," where Britain and America meet on a common ground.

The Times says editorially today:

"Canada's future is international, because it is of the essence of the career of the British partnership of nations." The Times declares that the title which Davis gives to Canada shows: "a touch of deep insight into the relations of the two great English-speaking peoples."

GRAFT DOUBLES DEBT IN TEN YEARS

Montreal Has Suffered Through Repeated Administrative Scandals

WHOLESALE WASTE

Apathy of Electorate Has Permitted Continual Blunders

Now that a new City Charter is being compiled for the city, embracing proposals of a changed system of government, it will be of moment to recall how bitterly Montreal has suffered through administration by City Council, committees, and a Board of Control. It was because of resultant evils that the citizens prayed the Legislature to appoint the present Administrative Commission.

If the debt has more than doubled since 1910 it is largely due to mal-administration, incompetency and graft. Facts given below prove this.

DEPLORABLE WASTE.

It is estimated that the corporation lost something like two million dollars through the widening and extension of St. Joseph Boulevard. The city had to pay four dollars a foot for land assessed at one and two dollars a foot. So freely were funds thrown about in this deal that three valuators were actually given twenty thousand dollars each for a few weeks' work.

When the treasury lost one hundred and fifty thousand dollars in connection with the widening of Dresden street. In this case four dollars a foot was paid for lands assessed at one dollar a foot.

FAVORED HIGH TENDERS.

For sheer audacity there is little to equal the action in awarding huge contracts for paving materials to two companies which sent in the highest tenders. The scheme was to tie up the city for a period of ten years to these particular companies but the courts intervened, and quashed the contracts.

In the Bordeaux sewer scandal it was proved that corporation material was filched wholesale; while the construction of Notre Dame de Grace sewer resulted in the corporation being compelled to pay large sums for the removal of rocks which the earth did not contain.

In the purchasing of general supplies, unending scandals were ventilated.

The unnecessary altering of levels of a large number of streets in the East end cost the city huge sums awarded by the courts to property owners for damages suffered through the work.

The streets in question were in Hochelaga Ward. Several of them were lowered with the result that the houses fronting on the old street levels towered high above them; other streets again were raised with the result that the chimneys of houses were on a level with the surface of the new streets.

The blunderers expended about a quarter of a million in accomplishing this stupidity and then the City Hall voted a huge sum to remove all the material again and give the streets their original levels back. The whole stupendous muddle was brought before the courts and the city was declared to be at fault.

Many other instances could be given where heavy losses have occurred through the giving out of wrong lines connected with street levels.

WASTE IN PAVEMENTS.

Just before the Administrative Commission took over the administration, various pavements had to be dug up and relaid, it being discovered that the proper thickness of asphalt had not been laid—and this despite the fact that there were inspectors galore, paid by the corporation, to guard against such errors. Repeatedly the courts have condemned various heads for incompetency.

Then millions have been lost through blundering exhibited in the construction of the aqueduct, and the creation of the filtration plant. Had the original specifications been satisfactory the whole of the improvements would have been completed years ago at a tithe of the money that has now been outlayed. One disaster after another has dogged the aqueduct work, and it is only now being handled on lines that are considered to promise satisfactory results.

Several years ago large quantities of pipes were purchased, and it was only after they had been put in the earth that the news came out that they were stuffed with putty in many places; there had actually been unloaded on the incompetent officials of the city, old and useless pipes.

AUSTRIA TO PAWN FAMOUS TAPESTRIES

Germany Interested in Effort to Sell ex-Emperor's Gobelins

BERLIN, Dec. 9. — (Star Cable. Copyright, Chicago Tribune.) — Germany is keenly interested in Austria's decision to pawn the late Emperor Franz Joseph's famous Gobelin tapestries in Holland this month.

Germany has already sold rare engravings and duplicates of rare old Dresden china, but the priceless masterpieces, including the Kaiser's possessions, remain.

Although Austria has pawned her Gobelins in order to pay for 60,000 tons of American wheat, it is believed here that Austria will eventually sell them, together with other rarities, in order to feed her starving people and bolster her money exchange.

U.S. IMMIGRATION BILL IS WARMLY OPPOSED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Provisions of the House Immigration Bill, which comes up for debate today are opposed as unnecessary, injurious to the public welfare and constituting a reversal of the "historic policy of the country" in a minority report of the immigration committee, signed by Representatives Siegel of New York, and Sabath of Illinois.

The Bill's proposal for a partial suspension of all immigration for a period of two years, the report declared, is unwarranted both as to present labor conditions in the United States and the number of immigrants arriving. Whereas, prior to 1914, the total immigration frequently exceeded 1,000,000 per year, it was pointed out, the total for the first eleven months of this year was only 840,509, with a total of 366,015 emigrants to balance against that figure.

The report contained other information for the use of opponents of the Bill in the debate today. It asserted there was no evidence to support the contention of the majority committee that a "state of unemployment exists, except sporadically or voluntarily."

PUEYRREDON SAYS IS NO GERMANOPHILE

Head of Argentine Delegation Explains Attitude

PARIS, Dec. 9. — Suggestions that he is Germanophile in tendency were refuted here last night by Honorio Pueyrredon, head of the Argentine delegation which was withdrawn from the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva. This morning's newspapers print long statements from the head of the Argentine mission in which he explains his position. After repeating arguments which have already been published, he said:

"I do not advocate Germany, and I profess deep admiration for France. My resolution in reference to the action of the Argentine mission at Geneva was formed in complete independence. I and my colleagues strove to see beyond the war and to ward off, if possible, further disasters. I think Germany should not be admitted as much as forced to enter the League. That seems to me the best means of exercising an effective check on her peaceful intentions and of calling her to respect her obligations if necessary, with penalties."

SIR GEO. FOSTER WEDS IN GENEVA

Married This Morning Miss Jessie Allan, of England

GENEVA, Dec. 9.—Sir George E. Foster, head of the Canadian delegation to the League of Nations Assembly, was married here this morning to Miss Jessie Allan. The ceremony took place at 10:30 o'clock at Holy Trinity Church and was attended by many of the delegates. The bride was given away by A. J. Balfour, of the British delegation. Sir George was attended by Hon. N. W. Rowell and Mr. Payne of the Canadian delegation.

Miss Jessie Allan is a daughter of Sir William Allan.

The Right Hon. Sir George Foster is a veteran of Canadian public eye. Withe the exception of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Minister of Trade and Commerce, has seen the longest parliamentary service under Confederation of any public man. He has served a little over thirty-four years in Parliament. He was first returned as member for King's County, N.B., in 1882, when he was thirty-five years of age. In 1896 he was elected for York County, N.B., which constituency he represented until 1900. He was defeated in St. John City, N.B., in 1900, and in North Ontario in 1903. He returned to the House in 1904, when he was elected for North Toronto, which constituency he has represented ever since.

Sir George has been a Minister of the Crown for the longest period of any man since Confederation, having held office, not continuously, but taken together, for a period of almost twenty years. He served as Minister of Marine and Fisheries from 1885 to 1888; as Minister of Finance from 1888 to 1896; and as Minister of Trade and Commerce from 1911 to the present time. He is the oldest living Privy Councillor in the Dominion. As a member of the Cabinet he has travelled, probably, more extensively than any other Minister. Sir George, on July 2, 1889, married Addie Davies, daughter of the late Milton Davies, banker, of Hamilton, Ont. She was first married to D. B. Chisholm, a barrister, and at one time a member of Parliament. Lady Foster died on September 17th, 1919.

Miss Jessie Allan is a daughter of the late Sir William Allan, a sturdy Scotsman, who was long a Liberal member of Parliament for Gateshead, in the North of England. Sir William, or "Wully Allan," as he was familiarly known, was an advanced Radical, but strong Imperialist and was personally popular with everybody in the House, irrespective of politics. He was head of a big engineering establishment in Sunderland, and had been the architect of his own fortunes, for he began life as a working engineer in the Royal Navy and the Merchant Service.

Miss Allan has travelled extensively and has published accounts of her travels. Through her mother, who was Jane Beattie, a daughter of Walter Beattie, she is a descendant of Colonel Simon Fraser, of the Strathconecht branch of the Frasers of Lovat, of Inverness-shire, Scotland.

U.S. FARMERS DISCUSS POLICY AND WELFARE

International Farm Congress Convenes at Kansas City

KANSAS CITY., Mo., Dec. 9.—Matters of public policy and welfare instead of the scientific technic of farming occupied the attention of delegates today at the opening session of the twenty-fifth annual convention of the International Farm Congress here.

More than 1,000 delegates are expected to attend the convention which continues through until Saturday.

Discussion of public matters, officials of the Congress declared, was the first step toward the formulation of a declaration of principle by the organization on matters affecting agriculture and the public. Topics under discussion in conformity with a definite, pre-arranged program, include the tariff, immigration, marketing, cooperative and otherwise finance, labor, transportation, balanced production, agricultural education, reclamation, agricultural organization, foreign markets and livestock conditions.

In addition to these the matter of the international aspect of the Congress was opened up, a marked movement having developed for eliminating its international features. Members expressed the belief that agricultural conditions internationally vary too greatly to admit of treatment by one organization.

ODD ITEMS

COW'S BIG THIRST.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Dec. 9.—A curious escapade on the part of a cow is reported from Maple Grove Station, on the Moncton and Edmundston section of the C.N.R. The cow, which is the property of the station agent there, wandered across the railway tracks to a warehouse of the Miramichi Lumber Company and there drank a pail of kerosene and topped the drink off with half a pail of oats. Being observed the cow was driven off. After turning home the animal was none the worse for her unusual drink. The drying of brooks and the scarceness of water is assigned as the cause of the cow's remarkable thirst.

ROOSTER LAYS EGGS.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—He crows like a rooster; a bright red comb adorns his head and his feathery tail would make an ostrich envious. Yet every day for the past month he has laid a perfectly good egg. News of this unusual chicken freak was brought to the Poultry Show in the Coliseum yesterday by C. W. Mogge, Wheaten chicken fancier and Chicago attorney.

BUT BOTH CRY.

QUINCY, Ill., Dec. 9.—What is said to be the smallest child ever born in Quincy, a girl, was born here to Mrs. John Feith. The infant weighs one and three-quarter pounds. Physicians say it is perfectly formed. Earlier in the week a boy was born in Quincy weighing fifteen pounds, which was said to be the heaviest ever born here.

LEADING ONTARIO LUMBERMAN DEAD

Killed by Friend Under Tragic Circumstances While Hunting

OTTAWA, Dec. 9. — (Canadian Press.)—News just received here tells of the death of A. R. Martin, a well-known lumberman, and woods superintendent for a prominent lumber firm, with headquarters at Cache Bay, Ont., under tragic circumstances.

While hunting with a party of friends at Washagaming Landing, Mr. Martin was accidentally shot and killed by a companion who slipped and fell, striking his rifle on the ground, causing it to discharge, the bullet entering Mr. Martin's body, resulting in his death one hour and a quarter later.

As soon as the accident occurred, his son, John C. Martin, who was in the party, was summoned, and was with his father when he died. Before he passed away he expressed his sympathy for the unfortunate young man who carried the rifle. Mr. Martin was born at Thorne Centre, Pontiac County, Quebec, 59 years ago.

He was a Conservative and in the provincial election of 1914 was unsuccessful candidate for the constituency of Sturgeon Falls.

Mr. Martin leaves to mourn his loss a widow and eight children: Mrs. Arlong Clark, Sturgeon Falls; Miss Vera Martin, North Bay; J. P. Martin, River Valley, Ont.; Guy D. Martin, Cache Bay, Ont.; Perley J.; J. C. A.; Gordon and Carmon, North Bay, Ont.; four sisters, Mrs. G. A. MacGregor, Pakenham; Mrs. Wm. Turcotte, Washgaming Landing; Mrs. Jos. Kelly, Toronto; Miss K. Martin and two brothers, Mr. W. J. Martin, Sturgeon Falls, and Mr. Samue Martin, Ludington, Mich.

SEEK CLARA SMITH ON EL PASO, REPORT

ARDMORE, Okla., Dec. 9.—The search for Clara Barton Smith, wanted on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting here of Jake L. Hamon, Ardmore oil magnate, slowed down at this end today while the local authorities awaited word from Sheriff Orndorff, of El Paso, Tex., that he knows definitely where she is hiding.

Sheriff Orndorff, according to Russell Brown, county prosecutor, should have received by today a telegram sent by the prosecutor asking if he knows the whereabouts of the young woman. Until the El Paso officer has replied, Mr. Brown said no developments are expected.

Press despatches have quoted Orndorff as stating that he located the young woman in Mexico, but that upon the receipt of information from Ardmore virtually declaring that she was not wanted there, did not proceed further.

Rumanian Banker Claims Present Situation is Favorable to Germany

GRECIAN ASPECT

I. C. Ioanidu is Seeking Trade Credit from Canada

The establishment of economic machinery, which will operate as an adjustment and compensation for the difference in exchange, and which will facilitate the continuance of commercial enterprises between Canada and Roumania is believed by I. Constantine Ioanidu, Manager of the Credit Interne Roumain, of Bucharest, to be an essential factor in the reconstruction of Roumania with Allied help. Mr. Ioanidu pointed out that one lei of Roumanian money, which, prior to the war was worth the same as a franc, was now only worth five to the franc. Whereas, before 1914 5.17 lei were equal to one dollar, it now took 83 lei to buy a dollar's worth of Canadian goods. This was clearly a crippling discount, and could not long be afforded by the country.

The question accordingly arose regarding the means of adjusting the disparity in such a way that commercial relations could continue and prosper between Roumania and the countries with whom she had been allied in war and with whom she hoped to be on terms of intimate friendship in times of peace. Though no allied nation was without the same problem to face, "it had probably struck Rumania with greater force than any other; and there was now a grave danger that close commercial relations would be established between Germany and Roumania, since Germany alone of all the producing countries had a more depreciated currency than the Roumanian. A mark before the war was worth between 1.50 and 1.70 lei; it was now only worth .50 lei. The advantage for the Roumanian purchaser was obvious and was being ably demonstrated by the German traders. Berlin was offering credit up to twelve months, and was receiving Roumanian trade delegations with a respect which could only be regarded as suspiciously preferential.

Mr. Ioanidu stated that the Rumanians were well aware of this, and were now taking every step in their power to frustrate the consummation of the device. They were the more keen to accomplish this object and make themselves commercially independent of Germany, since he could truly state that no country, save only Belgium, had suffered so much as Roumania at the hands of the Germans during their occupation. This would never be forgotten, and was constantly mentioned in the conversations of the people, who regarded with the most suspicious hostility the German attempt to establish themselves commercially in the country.

GERMANS ARE ACTIVE.

"Yet the Germans are a very sly race," said Mr. Ioanidu, "and if once countenanced, they will, by imperceptible steps, achieve a peaceful penetration of the country. We therefore wish to avoid any commercial dealings with them whatever, and we are turning to our old allies for a little friendly help. If a Bank of Compensation can be arranged in Canada, whereby we can continue to get credit for the purchase of Canadian goods, in payment for which we will offer our Roumanian products, many of which will find a ready market in Canada, we shall have progressed a long way towards the accomplishment of our purpose."

Regarding the situation in Greece, Mr. Ioanidu said that it had changed very materially since he embarked at Havre on November 25. He regarded M. Venizelos as a remarkable power, not only in Greece, but also throughout the entire Near East. The plebiscite may have furnished a result contrary to his wishes, or at least it may appear so, but he did not think that this would, for one moment, interfere with his predominant position in Balkan politics. There was a close co-operation between M. Take Jonescu and the Greek Premier, and it would be unwise to assume without weighty evidence that such a combination had not actually achieved their purpose.

It was not entirely without significance that the Princess Elizabeth of Rumania had become affianced to Prince George of Greece, and that she had made it abundantly clear to the world that this was a love match, that her future husband had no throne in prospect which could have attracted her, and that he had applied for a commission in the Rumanian Army, in which service he proposed to seek a career. A display of such humility in the future might yet be unnecessary for her Royal Highness. He spoke, however, from a total ignorance of the conditions which have so recently been indicated by the plebiscite, and his suggestions were entirely conjectural.

The last and most important point emphasised by Mr. Ioanidu was the contented happiness of the Rumanian people, and their consequent unsuitability to the spread of Bolshevik doctrine. This result had been attained by the governmental adoption of a very bold land policy, by which all the great estates had been purchased compulsorily by the Crown, and distributed in small holdings among the people. Roumania was perhaps the only really contended nation in Europe today.

Mr. Ioanidu, who is well known in Montreal, having visited this country for propagandist purposes during the war, has come to stay the winter, and is a guest at the Ritz Carlton.

PRICE OF TURKEYS STILL IN THE AIR

American Buying May Make Canadian Christmas Dinners Costly

The price of Christmas turkeys may soar to 65 cents a pound, in spite of prophecies that the fowls were going to sell at a reasonable rate this year, according to a merchant of the Bonsecour Market. The change in the situation is attributed to heavy buying by American packing firms who are enabled by the low rate of Canadian exchange to purchase turkeys from farmers in this vicinity at 53 to 56 cents a pound, and still compete with growers in the United States. This unlooked for development will force the price up here, although it is said that other fowls such as ducks, geese and chickens will not be affected.

No change is recorded in retail quotations of beef and pork, but it is noted that the wholesale price of the latter has dropped $7.00 a cwt. in the last three months. Rates here are a good deal higher than in the United States, but it is not practicable to import hogs from that country owing to the high duty which amounts to about three cents a pound after the animal has been butchered. The adverse exchange also hinders import. Although the wholesale price is not expected to drop much lower if the consumer demands it, there may be some alteration in the retail quotations.

UNEMPLOYED FACE DIFFICULT WINTER

S.A. Officer Claims Prevalence of Poverty is Widespread

GLOOMY OUTLOOK

Many Factories are Very Slack and Offer No Work

Visions of an ever-swelling army of the out-of-work are forming in the minds of charity organization workers of this city, who are already very much pre-occupied with the multiform problems of providing Christmas cheer for their many dependents. The staffs in these bureaus of charity and labor state that the employment question shows signs of becoming unusually tense within a month's time, and regret their limited opportunities of affording relief to the many applicants for work who are daily besieging their offices.

While the demands for work of all and any sort become more and more persistent and clamorous, the opportunities for it are shrinking perceptibly. Here, for instance, is the latest list showing the labor situation in a dozen local factories and other representative establishments which usually employ large numbers of hands:

1. Working five days a week. Close every Saturday.
2. Carpenter shop working overtime. Other shops half time.
3. Slack at present. Will take no new people.
4. Slack. Taking on no new men.
5. Very slack. Laying off all men on out-of-town routes. Taking on no new ones.
6. No vacancies in either store or factory likely to occur during winter.
7. Usually can take on laborers. No need of men at present. Expect a slack period.
8. Have nothing to offer.
9. Most men are on half time.
10. Laying off twenty per cent of our men.
11. Very slack.
12. Slack. Some men working only half time.

These notes are not culled from a large list; only twelve concerns were solicited on this occasion and those are the answers made by them.

Summed up, the opinion among charitable bodies is that a number of factors are concurring to threaten a hard and difficult winter; the high cost of mere existence the swelling ranks of the jobless and the ill health and disease which is apt to follow in the wake of hunger and exposure to the weather being chief.

One of the officers of the Salvation Army who is especially active in distress work stated to a representative of The Star today that the prevalence of poverty at present in this city is worse than he has known it for many years. "Each day brings a fresh number of really urgent cases," he said. "Tuesday morning I visited a home where the father had been sick in bed for a month. There were three small children and their mother was about to be confined. There was nothing to eat and only one of the beds had a spring—that used by the mother. The family was Catholic; so after providing immediate necessities we got in touch with the Catholic Social Guild who then took the case in hand."

"The next visit was to a father of 8 children out of work. Three of the children were of an age to work, but two of them had recently been laid off. Our next stop was at the home of a young mother of three children—the youngest being two months old—whose husband had deserted her during the summer. Such cases are becoming painfully numerous."

The Salvation Army pots and tripods will be placed at ten main corners on Saturday, where they will remain until Christmas eve. The fund thus collected will be used, as per custom, in providing Christmas baskets and for winter relief distribution. Last year the amount donated was sufficient to supply over 300 families with Christmas baskets and to furnish winter relief to over 4,000. The need for relief being so much greater this year than last, the Army feels that fully double last year's total of funds will be required to meet the really pressing needs of those in its charge.

CHRISTMAS OPPORTUNITIES

Through The Star the Charity Organization Society of Montreal has for years presented to the public in December some of the pathetic discoveries revealed by the Society's inspectors during their visitations. The people appealed for in these cases are thoroughly deserving, and mostly the kind who do not make their condition known; who do not thrust themselves into notice; who struggle on, often to die, rather than beg. They are discoveries and hence are presented through The Star to the kindly public as "Christmas Opportunities."

Good Neighbors All!

"Christmas is the mile mark of another year." Kinder thoughts, more generous impulses come home to us as we remember what the day commemorates. Even old Scrooge, miserly soul that he was, learned how to keep Christmas well, and echoed Tiny Tim's prayer, "Merry Xmas! God bless us—Every one!"

To you to whom the Christmas season means much of happiness and festivity, we would like to say, Remember those neighbors of yours whose homes the Spirit of Christmas will pass by, leaving them untouched by that joy and cheerfulness which we all crave at this time. Remember too the "stern realities from which these shadows come." The tragedy of unemployment, the bread-winner stricken down by sickness or accident, the infirmity of old age, and all those other ills that so closely beset the lives of the poor. Will you not lend a helping hand to bring encouragement and practical help to just a few of these?

The Charity Organization Society is assuming a burden greater than it can bear. Provision has been made for the majority of families known to the Society, but here are fifteen instances where we have as yet been unable to secure funds to make it possible for us to pledge the help and security during the coming year which their needs demand. Here is a two-fold OPPORTUNITY! It is yours to give, and theirs to realize from your giving that help and inspiration which will make successful their own brave efforts to meet misfortune.

All gifts, large or small, will be very gratefully received and acknowledged, and will be placed exclusively to the account of the opportunities chosen. They should be sent addressed to the Hon. Treasurer of the Society, James Hutchison, Esq., C.A., No. 70 Mance St.

THE CHARITY ORGANIZATION SOCIETY,
Per John B. Dawson, General Secretary.

OPPORTUNITY No. 1.

A family of eight. The father an incurable invalid. The youngest of the family a baby in arms. Coal $18.00 a ton. Rent $15.00 a month, and eight mouths to feed, eight bodies to be clothed, and shoes that wear out at a seemingly impossible rate. This is the problem facing the wage earners in this family—two boys aged 17 and 13. A pretty big burden for two lads to carry. The home is always neat and clean. The children are devoted to their mother who works from early morning till late at night to give them what she can out of their slender resources. It is a worthwhile work to keep such a home going. We must have $350.00 if it is to be done.

OPPORTUNITY No. 2.

"Now isn't it amazing the way they go through their boots?" says "Big Sister," who is the chief bread winner in this family. You who do not know her might look at "Big Sister" and say: "Why, she isn't big at all, but just a child herself." But we who know her think she is big in her way, for she cheerfully shoulders the responsibility of a frail little mother and four active and hungry younger brothers and sisters. "Big" brother has earned his title too, for alas he is a cripple, but manfully contributes his mite which is hard earned indeed. With $10.00 a week we can help to make ends meet in this family and help "Big Sister" from worrying about appetites that are infallible and boots and other things that are not. $420.00 is needed.

OPPORTUNITY No. 3.

There is a pathetic bravery about this little home which you would find very moving could you know it as we do. An old mother of nearly eighty lives with her crippled daughter. Many years ago they emigrated to this country from Holland. They have been good citizens, but time has brought many changes. The old father, the son, who took his place, and then the daughter's husband, all have died and now these two are quite alone. With hands and feet badly crippled from rheumatism, the daughter manages to go each day to do what work she can at a nearby factory, earning a wage, however, that is quite inadequate for their needs, but in a brave attempt to keep the home together. Tidy, and quaint and clean, the home means very much to them. Will you not help them to keep it intact? $120.00 is needed.

OPPORTUNITY No. 4.

The old story of a mother who has denied herself and struggled bravely to keep a home together for her three small boys since the death of their father in the influenza epidemic two years ago. The double burden of being a mother and a wage earner too, has broken her health and strength. The doctor tells her it is imperative for her to take lighter work, but this is impossible without help from others. She has no one to turn to. Will you make her Christmas brighter with the knowledge that there are friends in Montreal who want to see that her burden is lightened? $312.00 is needed.

OPPORTUNITY No. 5.

Do you remember Joe whom some friends helped through the Opportunity column last year? Joe is now only 16 but he has been the chief wage earner of the family since his father died. Joe says that his mother has all that she can do to look after his brothers and sisters. There are three of them younger than he and the mother's health is broken as a result of her struggle against misfortune. The children are bright and doing well in school and the mother, in spite of her own ill health, keeps the home wonderfully clean and attractive for them. Joe still "fathers" them all and does all he can to help his mother bear her burden. Will you not give him a helping hand through another year. $216.00 is needed.

OPPORTUNITY No. 6.

Mrs. F. is a young English widow with four children, the oldest only 14. The mother and her husband emigrated to Canada full of hope for the opportunities they felt their children would have in this new country they had heard so much about. A tragic accident caused the father's death five years ago. The mother is an ideal home maker but she finds it hard indeed to make both ends meet. If the children are to continue to receive the good care which she gives them and to develop into dependable Canadian citizens, Canada, through you, must give a helping hand. Will you subscribe towards the $240.00 we wish to put on one side to supplement her income for the coming twelve months.

OPPORTUNITY No. 7.

The old familiar story of tuberculosis which brings tragedy anew every time it finds its way into the home.

Mr. F., a father of five young children, started out in life as a skilled mechanic, furnished a cheerful little flat and started an account at the Savings Bank. Soon afterwards he developed consumption. There were short absences from work, then longer ones. The bank account first stopped growing and then rapidly began to diminish. Now the man is unable to work, thrown on the "scrap heap" at 40. Will you help to avert the final catastrophe of the break up of the home. Something may yet be done for the man, but in the meantime he mother and children must be cared for. We have secured some help already, but $268.00 is still needed if we are to aid effectively. Will you join with us in raising it?

OPPORTUNITY No. 8.

Last Christmas was a merry Christmas in this home and the New Year seemed bright and happy. The father held a responsible position and the oldest girl was working too. A boy of 14 was in school, doing well, and the two youngest children were still at home. The parents, Old Country people, well educated and cultured, had created a real home for the youngsters. Early in the year the mother was taken suddenly ill with inflammatory rheumatism. Two weeks later the doctor told the father he was actively tubercular. Months of unemployment followed that ate into the savings of years. The boy has been forced to leave school to share with his sister the burden of the family's support. They have done well, this boy and girl, but their joint earnings are insufficient to meet the needs of the family and the increased expenses incident to sickness. $200.00 is needed while the father undergoes a careful course of treatment in the attempt to regain his health. Will you not help this family to which the past year has brought so much sorrow and suffering?

OPPORTUNITY No. 9.

Here is a mother struggling to support her invalid husband and two young children. The doctor holds out no hope of the man's ever being able to return to his old job and his earning capacity is permanently impaired. In time, the children, two sturdy boys, will be able to help, but the oldest one has only just started school. Should we expect the mother to shoulder such a heavy burden as this through the long years that must elapse before the boys can do their part? We would like to be able to assure her of your help. $225.00 is needed here.

OPPORTUNITY No. 10.

The experience Mrs. T. has passed through, tragic as it is, is all too common. Her story is one of an unhappy marriage and a drunken and abusive husband. She has borne up through it all in a truly wonderful way, keeping the home together as well as she could for her five small children whom she watches over with wise and tender care. Some months ago the father deserted, leaving many debts behind him and his family destitute. The C.O.S. is trying to trace the man with the object of compelling him to assume the responsibilities which are properly his and which he has neglected for so long. No trace of the man has been found as yet and in the meantime help is urgently needed for his wife and children, who have no friends of their own to whom they can turn. Temporary help has been given, but we must have a further $100 pledged to meet their needs.

OPPORTUNITY No. 11.

Financial failure, followed shortly after by the death of the father, brought this family from comparative comfort to poverty eight years ago. The mother, two boys and a girl, were left without a penny in the world. For four years the boy has tried to help his mother keep the home together. Delicate himself because of the responsibilities he had to carry so early in life, he is trying now to fit himself for a more remunerative position in work for which he has shown unusual aptitude. He is the only wage earner, for the other children are too young to work, and the mother's health has been undermined through years of poverty and sickness. In another year or two they will not need our assistance. Will you help them to win through to independence and self support? We must have $200.00 for this family next year.

OPPORTUNITY No. 12.

Mrs. M. is a widow—aged and infirm and without kith or kin. She lives alone in a little flat, secretly dreading the thought of perhaps having to go to an institution with an intensity that only those who intimately know the lives of the poor can appreciate. A self-respecting and cheerful old lady. Is it not worth while to make her remaining days happier with the thought that someone will provide for her so that she will be enabled to keep her home together till the end? We still need $160.00 to make this possible through the coming year.

OPPORTUNITY NO. 13.

May we introduce Mildred to you? We consider it a privilege for anyone to know her.

Six years ago, when Mildred was only twelve her father died and left her with a helpless invalid mother to whom she was greatly devoted. Friends told Mildred to put her mother in a home for incurables—but not she! "What, have Mother put where I could hardly ever see her!"

So Mildred went to work in a factory, adding a fictitious two years to her age so she would be given work, and ever since, for six long years, she has been supporting her mother. It has been a big struggle particularly the last two years because of increased prices and the girl's health being undermined so that her work at times has been irregular. Will you help to put $100 by to provide things that are necessary for the invalid and her daughter during the coming year?

OPPORTUNITY NO. 14.

Old Mr. and Mrs. B. are all alone in the world and have not very far to go to reach the end of Life's journey. They are past the three score years and ten and the man is bed ridden. His wife—though feeble herself—attends to his wants and keeps the little flat so neat and attractive that it is a pleasure to enter it. It contains all that they have left of their cherished possessions of earlier and happier days. Their savings are gone, but friends have promised the rent and fuel and incidentals. $264 is still needed to help to provide food for these two old folks during the coming year. Will you help?

OPPORTUNITY NO. 15.

Everyone loves a smiling, lively boy! Dick is one of the brightest now. Three years ago he was taken from a home where a demented mother and drunken father had abused and neglected him. His little body, dirty and distorted with rickets, found loving care at the hands of a motherly woman whom the C.O.S. knew, and she has brought him back to health and strength. Still needing individual care, Dick is however well enough to begin school with the new year. We need $208 to keep him in the care of this woman whose love has done so much for him. Will you help us? We must have good citizens. Why not give Dick a chance?

LOCAL REVIVAL OF SPIRIT HEALING

Many Seek Messages from Other World or Miraculous Cures

MEDIUMS NERVOUS

Woman "Psychomotouses" Objects Handed in by Audience

Healing seems to be undergoing a revival at the present time. For several weeks Aimee Semple McPherson drew crowds to Old St. Andrew's by her eloquent and forceful insistence on the power of faith to heal. At an earlier date, James Moore Hickson had immense audiences at his faith-healing campaign in the Anglican churches, and now the Union Spiritualistic Society has taken up the cause. The theory of this group, however, has its foundation on the power of good and friendly members of the spirit world to heal through mediums.

The society held a meeting for spiritual and magnetic healing last night in the Army and Navy Hall, 602 St. Catherine street West. The mediums in attendance included Mrs. Kerr, Mrs. Swinhoe and Mrs. Ashworth. The proceedings commenced with a lecture by Mrs. Swinhoe on "Life After Death." She essayed to prove, by the story of her own life, that it was indubitable that the spirit goes to the next world to live for ever.

At the conclusion of the address, Mrs. Kerr took the stage. She announced that she would be glad to psychomotorise any articles which were handed to her, and also answer any reasonable written questions. She had an immense response, as the articles handed over ran almost the whole gamut. Gloves, black, grey and brown; necklaces of precious pearls, rose-red rubies, scintillating sapphires and dainty diamonds; handkerchiefs, watches, locks of hair, arm bands, pencils and note-cases, were only a few of the things which she psychomotorised.

One reply to a written question which demonstrated to the full the power of a medium to read minds when under the control of friends of the spirit world, was that to D.S.N. Mrs. Kerr said that she wanted to tell D.S.N. that "you cannot do what you wish at present on account of not having the necessary financial facilities."

To the owner of a black glove, Mrs. Kerr stated that a near and dear friend had lately been lost. A pencil which took her attention she said, had been used in haste, and consequently the spirit moved to answer quickly.

The owner of the handkerchief got little comfort as the medium declared that as it had been washed, the spirit condition was gone. And so the session went. Every article had with it a message, revealing in some cases the innermost secrets of the heart. In others advice was obtained, and all showed that the spirits were indeed with Mrs. Kerr that night.

Healing was the next feature. Here magnetism came into play. Persons suffering from minor complaints, such as rheumatism, loss of blood and back pains approached the platform and were taken in the care of a medium. The latter was assisted by a couple of persons who were high in favor in the spirit world as shown by their influence on the medium. The patient then underwent a species of massage, to the accompaniment of trembling and a whistling intake of breath on the part of the medium as the spirit left her to help the afflicted one.

Mr. Ashworth at one time had to retire on account of the nervous motion of the spirit control he was under. As he collapsed another medium began to show signs of anxious emotion. She could not be restrained from going to the aid of the person who had lost the services of Mr. Ashworth's control.

In the meantime other mediums were busy. In another corner massage was going on in much the same manner, while Mrs. Swinhoe moved among the audience stooping now and again, as she was moved by the spirit, to speak to various members, telling them what they were suffering from, and what they should do to get better.

One man, who was treated for numbness and low circulation of blood, stated that he was feeling a little better, and hoped that at the next meeting a spirit more favorable would be got in touch with, and then his cure would be a mere matter of moments.

SUGAR REFINERS SEE NO SOLUTION

Understood it is Now a Case of "Save Yourself"

MEET IN OTTAWA

Believed Unable to Work Out Plan of Co-operative Marketing

OTTAWA, Dec. 9—(Star Special)—Representatives of the sugar refineries in Canada are in Ottawa conferring on their internal policy and also interviewing the Government to see if any relief can be obtained from their troubles.

It is understood that the refiners were not able to work out any plan of co-operation so far as marketing of their product is concerned as the general feeling was that with American sugars coming into Canada in considerable volume, the market was likely to go still lower and it had become a case of "sauve qui peut."

Various forms of Government relief have been suggested. One is a loan, another Government aid in securing banking facilities and a third, a rebate of duty on the raw sugars which the refiners have purchased. The question will be considered anew by the Cabinet.

HIS EXCELLENCY PATRON OF BLIND

Pupils of Montreal Association School are Giving Exhibition

IN OGILVY'S STORE

Organization Elects Board of Management and Committees

His Excellency, the Duke of Devonshire has consented to become one of the patrons of the Montreal Association for the Blind which is at present holding, in the basement of Ogilvy's Department store, an exhibition of the education and training offered by its school and workshop on Sherbrooke street west. A number of the pupils of the school are present each day giving demonstrations of reading by the Braille system, typewriting from the dictaphone, knitting by machine and by hand and of other branches of work taught to the blind. Men from the wordshops are making brooms so that the public may get an idea of the way in which the sightless may produce articles as good and often better than those manufactured by others with full use of their eyes. In the toy department of the store every afternoon a blind pupil of the school plays the piano, showing what may be accomplished in the teaching of music.

The articles which have been made by the blind are displayed for inspection in the basement, and are for sale, the proceeds going towards the funds of the Association. Such things as socks, sweaters, powder puff cases, stockings, dolls' clothes, boudoir caps and fancy articles, all are to be seen. Brooms are selling at $1 each, and an added interest is given to the purchase by the opportunity offered the buyer of watching the process of manufacture.

Those demonstrating the work yesterday afternoon were Miss Lillian Hungerford, reading; Miss Girard, typewriting from a dictaphone; Miss Rosenstrom, knitting with a machine; Miss Poley, giving piano selections in the toy department; Arthur Salmon, winding brooms; E. W. Smith, sewing brooms. The exhibition will remain open another week. The board of management and committees for the present year are as follows:

Hon. President: David Hodgson; president, Philip E. Layton; vice-presidents: Lt.-Col. W. H. Clark-Kennedy, V.C., and William Clelland; hon. treasurer, Mrs. P. E. Layton; Sir Stopford Brunton, Rev. SASK. PROTESTS CASGRAIN CHARGE

Senator Alleges Province Failed to Pay Guaranteed Rail Bonds

GOV'T ANSWER

Province Not Liable Until Railway Company Defaults

REGINA, Sask., Dec. 9. — That Senator Casgrain "either does not know what he is taking about or else intends to injure the credit of Saskatchewan," is the inference placed on his statement that the Province has not paid millions it had guaranteed in railway construction by Hon. C. A. Dunning, Provincial Treasurer. In a statement he says: "The Senator says that he never heard of the Province paying either capital or interest on any of the guaranteed bonds of Saskatchewan railways." The answer to this is, of course, that the guarantee of the Province operates only when the railways themselves did not pay principal or interest. The Province is not liable until the railway company defaults.

"One railway company did default, owing to the fact that the receiver appointed by the Dominion Government appropriated for other purposes the bond interest earned by Saskatchewan lines. When the company defaulted the Province immediately stepped in and paid the interest to the bondholders to the amount of over $800,000. The Province of Saskatchewan has never failed to meet a single obligation and stands ready to meet any that may accrue.

"No other Province has had to pay or will have to pay a single dollar on account of Saskatchewan guaranteed branch line railways for the reason that not one of these lines fails to earn more than the interest on the bonds issued and sold for its construction.

"More than this, the excessive freight rates now being charged are not made necessary by the requirements of Saskatchewan lines, every one of which is a traffic producer, but by reason of lines built through barren non-traffic producing portions of other Provinces of Canada.

"Senator Casgrain forgets, or is possibly ignorant of the fact, that immense tracts of Saskatchewan land have been granted by the Dominion Government to railway companies for the construction of lines in other Provinces of the Dominion.

"If Senator Casgrain were a responsible individual or were authorized to speak for the Government of Canada or for any Province of Canada, one might take his statement seriously.

"The fact that it has received wide publicity, however, and may in consequence be taken seriously by many people who do not know the Senator implies the Government of Saskatchewan to state plainly that the Province is prepared at any time to meet the obligations arising under its railway guarantees, should the Canadian Northern or Grand Trunk Pacific default in payment to the bondholders. All Canada should clearly understand, however, that such payment by the Province will by the terms of the guarantee involve the surrender of the lines to the Province. Such surrender would cripple the Canadian National Railway system by robbing it of its best traffic-producing and most profitable lines.

"The Government of the Province has no hesitation in affirming its belief that default by the railway companies and consequent acquisition of these lines by the Province would be to the financial advantage of the people of Saskatchewan and to the financial disadvantage of the people of Canada as a whole, the reason being that the people of this Province would not then be burdened with freight rates high enough to pay interest on the cost of lines in other Provinces, some of which do not earn enough to pay the cost of Senator Casgrain's pass and frank privileges over them."

QUEBEC DISAPPROVES MONTREAL-N.T.R. LINE

Declared Proposed Branch Would Prove Vital Blow to Quebec

QUEBEC, Dec. 9.—The Quebec Chronicle in a leading article today comments upon the proposals to build a branch railway line from Montreal to the north, to link up with the C. N. R., formerly the National Transcontinental Railway.

In part the article reads:

"In regard to the proposed line to connect Montreal with the N. T. R., it must be said at once that the National Trans-continental Railway was built expressly to provide the shortest possible rail haul from Winnipeg to the Atlantic and to connect the port of Quebec directly with Western Canada. If this project is carried out the whole future of Quebec will be menaced, if not destroyed.

"The N. T. R. has been running past the gates of this city for several years, but we have never enjoyed any of the benefits anticipated and promised from that fact. If Montreal is no more fortunate, the branch built at the expense of the entire Canadian public will be simply a further waste of money, such as has already created the embarrassing railroad problem of this country. If, on the other hand, —and we do not doubt that every effort will be brought to bear to mend— Montreal succeeds in bringing the grain trade that belongs to Quebec to its harbor, in spite of a longer mileage, the interesting questions will emerge as to why the Ancient Capital should have been discriminated against for so long and why the branch was necessary at all."

TORONTO VETERANS DEMAND RELIEF

Flynn Leads Army of Unemployed to Government Buildings

HARDSHIPS ALLEGED

Ministers, Also City Authorities Promise Assistance

TORONTO, Dec. 9.—Over 1,000 unemployed war veterans, many of whom had not had any breakfast, they said, waited on the Ontario Government outside of the Parliament buildings at noon yesterday demanding work and immediate assistance to keep them and their families from starving, then marched to the City Hall, where they made similar demands upon the Mayor and Controllers from an improvised platform on the City Hall steps. They were led by J. Harry Flynn, organizer of the Grand Army of United Veterans. A number of women were in the crowd.

In front of the Parliament buildings the returned men were addressed by Hon. F. C. Biggs, Minister of Public Works for Ontario, and Hon. Walter Rollo, Minister of Labor, both of whom promised to do all they could to relieve the unemployment situation. The Minister of Public Works stated that his department was opening up all the work possible of the provincial roads, instead of waiting till spring, and as many returned men as possible would be given work at fair wages.

Hon. Mr. Biggs said he believed the unemployment situation primarily was one for the Dominion Government to deal with.

"It was the Dominion Government that encouraged you to go overseas," he said, "and now they are the people who ought to help you. But for all that, we'll stand by you."

When the crowd started for the City Hall the Minister of Labor was seen to slip a bank bill into the hand of a man who, the Minister of Labor had been told, had not eaten for two days.

At the City Hall the veterans were informed by Mayor T. L. Church that the Board of Control yesterday morning had instructed the property Commissioner of the city to open up an employment bureau at the City Hall for returned soldiers.

"Only Toronto men who served in the army will be employed," the Mayor announced.

The crowd appeared displeased at the Mayor's announcement. J. Harry Flynn declared that the city had not kept its promises to the returned men in the matter of giving them the preference in employment. Both at the Parliament buildings and City Hall Flynn demanded that something be done at once to relieve the suffering of those of the veterans who were in want. Their hunger must be appeased, he declared. He uttered a veiled threat by saying that if the Governments, Dominion, Provincial and civic, did not give the veterans a fair chance to earn money with which to buy food, "we shall have to eat anyway."

LEPROSY IN TORONTO.

A case of leprosy has been discovered in this city, the first in eight years, the previous case being that of a Chinaman. The present case is that of a woman from the West Indies. The case has been diagnosed by Dr. J. L. McKinley, nose and throat specialist, and the germs have been segregated by Dr. W. E. Ferguson, pathologist at the Western Hospital. Dr. Ferguson said there need be no fear of a spread of the disease, as it is only mildly contagious. The treatment the woman leper is receiving is very similar to that given for tuberculosis.

LIFE IN CANADA'S PULP SUPPLY.

Fifty years is the life of Canada's available pulpwood supply for commercial purposes, under present circumstances, according to Dr. C. D. Howe, of the University of Toronto, who addressed the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association. There was ample authority for this statement, Dr. Howe said. However, in British Columbia and in the more remote parts of Ontario and Quebec there still were unlimited supplies, he added, but these would be inaccessible for many years yet.

TORONTO MERCHANT DEAD.

W. J. Guinane, a well-known boot and shoe merchant in this city for many years, died last evening.

NEW SPELLING METHOD.

Dr. Louis Nusbaum, associate superintendent of the Philadelphia schools, the other day told of the results of a relatively new special course in written spelling. "It has been combined with the English studies and has been in effect only two years," he said. "We shall see the result when those children now taking it leave the school system. It is no longer oral spelling, but it is written, and the words are learned by association and use so that the correct spelling and application are simultaneously impressed on their minds."

RICH COAL DEPOSIT IN ARCTIC CIRCLE

Particular Area Also Contains World's Biggest Oil Area

IRON AND ORES

Vast Territory Along MacKenzie of Untold Wealth

TORONTO, Dec. 9.—In the eleven hundred miles which it traverses from its source in the Great Slave Lake to its mouth in the Arctic Ocean, the Mackenzie River flows through a vast territory of even vaster wealth in mineral and oil deposits, timber and, for a considerable part of the way, in agricultural possibilities. This information was brought back by Mr. R. A. Brooke, a Dominion Government geologist, who has spent the last two summers on survey work in the great northland, and who was in Toronto yesterday. Away up near the Arctic circle and along the course of the Mackenzie is a deposit of coal of a quality equal to that produced in British Colbia and Alberta. By one of Nature's mysterious processes, this coal deposit, located on a hillside, was ignited decades ago. It was burning when Sir Alexander Mackenzie, the great Scottish explorer, discovered the Mackenzie River nearly 150 years ago, and it is still burning today. Nearby are rich deposits of iron and other ores, which some day may be smelted for commercial use by this same coal.

Mr. Brooke is confident that this area contains the biggest oil deposit discovered in the history of the world. A number of widely separated points there were seepages and other indications of the existence of great reservoirs of petroleum somewhere beneath the surface. At one place the geologist found a huge rock so thoroughly saturated with oil that his camp fire actually ignited it. As the nearest find is some 300 miles from the closest railway point, transportation is one of the biggest obstacles to be overcome, but Mr. Brooke is satisfied that this will be accomplished, and at comparatively reasonable cost.

Among the minerals to be found in large quantities are iron, lead, silver, zinc, copper, gold, mica, salt and gypsum. In some places the formations contain almost free deposits of some of these minerals.

Timber for lumber and pulpwood was discovered in immense tracts all along the valley of the Mackenzie. In the upper reaches of the river, in the neighborhood of the Saskatchewan and Alberta borders, the land has great possibilities from agricultural and ranching standpoints. Summer, with much the same climate, extends usually from May to October, and all kinds of vegetables, including tomatoes, cucumbers and cabbage, are already grown at the Hay River settlement. Contrary to general belief, in this part of Canada the winters are by no means severe.

RATES INQUIRY

Unlikely General Investigation Be Commenced Until New Year

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—There is little expectation here that the general inquiry into railway freight rates arising out of the Government's action in asking the Board of Railway Commissioners to reconsider the judgment granting the increases now in effect, and the application of the Manitoba Government for a suspension of the same, will be commenced before the new year. While nothing will be decided before the conference of all the interested parties to take place on Tuesday, December 14, it is regarded as practically certain that the decision will be that a beginning should not be made with this most important case until after the Christmas holidays.

CANDY PROFITEERS.

CHICAGO.—Dec. —A fight to make Christmas candy cheaper was started recently by the city council high cost of living committee. Alderman Max Adamowski, chairman, said that despite reductions of nearly 20 cents a pound in sugar, candy manufacturers were not lowering the price of their products. "They are planning to reap a harvest during the holidays, but we intend to see that their plans are thwarted," he said.

CRAWFORD ADDRESSES QUEBEC AUDIENCE

Says Maritime Tour Success—League Has 200,000 Members

QUEBEC, Dec. 9.—(By Canadian Press).—The ship laborers' hall, Champlain street, was filled to capacity last night to hear Lindsay Crawford, of Toronto, who arrived here yesterday from Moncton, where he was given a stormy reception.

In the course of his address, Mr. Crawford stated that his tour of the Maritime Provinces was a success and it was only at Fredericton and Moncton that there was any disturbance. He affirmed that it was the Orangemen of Toronto who were responsible for it, as they had sent letters to the Maritime Provinces urging that Self-Determination meetings be broken up. He announced that the Self-Determination League now counted 200,000 members in Canada.

Armand Lavergne, K.C., referred to the local daily press, with the exception of L'Action Catholique, as being the slaves of the Canadian Press. He told Mr. Crawford that if he or his family found Toronto too intolerant to continue living there he would always find a home in the Province of Quebec and could even be elected to the Provincial Legislature, which was in need of men of his stamp.

DEPLORES CUTTING OF CHRISTMAS TREES

Millions of Young Trees Wasted, Says Pulp President

TORONTO, Dec. 9.—Indiscriminate cutting down of millions of young trees yearly for no other purpose than Christmas celebrations was deplored by George Carruthers, president of the Inter-Lake Tissue Mills, at the fall meeting of the Woodlands section of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association in this city yesterday. Mr. Carruthers said that he had seen many carloads of trees on the sidings at Hamilton, trees which, he had no doubt, had been cut for the Christmas trade. He said he thought the time had come when children might be educated on tree life, and he said that his firm would be willing to give $200 to pupils who turned out the best essays on the subject.

DECLARES CONDITIONS IN CHINA APPALLING

Returned Torontonian Says Millions Will Die from Famine

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 9.—In the five provinces of China where famine conditions prevail, natives are starving to death in thousands, according to W. H. Bird, Toronto, secretary of the Canadian Press Photographers' Association, who arrived here on the Empress of Asia. He believes millions will die from lack of food.

Mr. Bird told of trees being stripped of bark and leaves for food, of parents throwing their children into the river rather than see them starve, and of families mixing poison with the last of their food and dying together.

The Chinese Government is doing very little to aid the sufferers, he declared, officials stating that no money is available for that purpose and China is unable to borrow.

The Honan famine committee has a considerable number of Canadians as members and is doing fine work and the Canadian Presbyterian mission is in the centre of the famine district.

AMBITIOUS OIL PROJECT PROPOSED

Pipe Line from MacKenzie River to Behring Sea Possibility

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—Conveyance of the oil products of the Mackenzie River basin to Behring Sea by pipe line from whence it would be carried by tankers to the markets of the world, is an ambitious project for which sanction will be sought by a bill to be considered by Parliament at the approaching session. The proposed pipe line would be laid from the Mackenzie River to the Yukon River systems by way of Rat River and Peel River, thence by the Porcupine and Yukon rivers to Salt water.

Dr. Alfred Thompson, member of Parliament for the Yukon, states that the late William Ogilvie, at one time commissioner of the Yukon Territory, predicted a good many years ago that this method of getting oil from the Mackenzie River basin to the market would some day be adopted. Mr. Ogilvie's first mention of the matter was made in a report on McDougall Pass written in 1887.

HAMILTON IS OUT AFTER OLD QUEBEC HOCKEY PLAYERS

Expected Joe Malone Will Sign if His Conditions are Accepted—Carey and McCarthy Also Sought by New N.H.L. Team

QUEBEC, Dec. 9. (Star Special.) — The Hamilton interests in the N. H. L. are dickering with Joe Malone, George Carey and Tommy McCarthy for their services with the pro team in the Ambitious City this season.

Joe Malone has been offered the position of playing manager, Percy Thomson explaining that he is not in a position to travel much, but the local sharpshooter has written to that gentleman stating certain conditions, and it is practically certain that if these conditions are fulfilled, the lanky goal scorer will be seen pivoting the new N. H.L. team this winter. He has been the recipient of half a dozen telegrams asking him to accept the conditions offered, but up to last night nothing definite had been accomplished one way or the other.

George Carey was also approached yesterday and received a telegram naming a figure for his services for the season. George was asked to accept this figure and report in Hamilton on Monday next, as the opening game is due for Wednesday week. However, the local boy has not yet accepted the terms, and in any case would not be able to report in Hamilton on the date required.

It is more than probable that he will be seen in action with the Ambitious City seekette this winter.

Tommy McCarthy was the third member of the team who played with Quebec last season to receive a telegram yesterday, identical with that of Carey. It is not known whether or not McCarthy will play with Hamilton this season, but he expressed himself as being strongly averse to turning out with the junior member of the N.H.L. last week.

GOSSIP OF THE PROFESSIONAL BOXERS AND WRESTLERS

Jack Bloomfield is going to England, cancelling two immediate engagements. This sudden change of Bloomfield's plans is due to the illness of his mother.

Mickey Delmont, the popular little bantamweight, who has been fighting in local circles for some time now is getting homesome for his former life and friends across the border. Mickey's home town is Newark, N.J., but although he may return there for a short time, his intention, so he says, is to fight in or around New York.

Mickey feels that having earned decisions over some good bantams both here and there he might be in time to step into some more important bouts and for that reason, he is thinking seriously of going to the American metropolis.

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 8. — Boy McCormick, light heavyweight champion of England, received a decision over Battling Levinsky of Philadelphia, on a foul in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round bout last night. Up to the seventh round McCormick had a slight shade. The foul was declared unintentional by Levinsky.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8. — Orders were sent to all officials acting for the State Boxing Commission strictly to enforce the boxing law providing for felt padding an inch in thickness to be placed under the canvas covering fighting rings. The warning was prompted by the death yesterday of Mickey Shannon as a result of injuries received in his bout with Al Roberts at Jersey City.

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 9. — Boxers wishing to enter contests in Oakland will have to present credentials proving permanent means of support other than boxing, the City Council of Oakland announced today. The action follows the recent prohibition of all boxing bouts by the board of supervisors of San Francisco, where it developed that certain professional followers of boxing have been implicated in attacks on young women.

WINDSOR, Dec. 9.—Arthur Pelky, of Ford City, well known Canadian heavyweight battler, fought ten rounds to a draw in the armory here with Young Peter Jackson, heavyweight colored youth of Detroit. Pelky forced the fight, but was unable to connect with a knockout.

NEWARK, Dec. 9. — Charlie Weinert of this city knocked out Sergeant Ray Smith of Camden in the first round of a scheduled 12 round match. Weinert scored his victory in one minute and 25 seconds. The men are heavyweights.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 9. — The proposed bout here on Dec. 14 between Lew Tendler, of Philadelphia, and Eddie Fitzsimmons of New York, was cancelled today by promoter Mulkern when Tendler demanded $13,000 for his share of the show.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 9.—Eddie Fitzsimmons, New York lightweight boxer, was signed to meet Lew Tendler, of Philadelphia, in a 10-round no-decision contest before a local club on December 17.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—Jimmy Frasetti, of Brockton, New England lightweight champion, was awarded the decision over Eddie Valger of New York in ten rounds here. The Brockton boy floored Valger in the third round for the count of nine and rocked him repeatedly during the rest of the bout.

WILL MAKE PLEA TO DEAL WITH THE PSEUDO-AMATEUR

TORONTO, Dec. 9. — D. Bruce MacDonald, of Toronto, president of the A.A.U. of C., will submit his presidential address tomorrow morning at Winnipeg at the annual A.A.U. of C. meeting.

He will, in the course of his address, lay special stress on the pseudo-amateur. He will say in part:

"The real danger we have to confront is not the professional athlete. He at least is honest and once for all elects to leave the realm of amateurism for that of professional. It is the pseudo-amateur who provides the factor truly threatening to the welfare of the State. He is false, and falsehood in man or fact has always meant trouble and ever will mean trouble.

"The footprints of the pseudo-amateur are to be found on many trails. You can see his traces in padded expense accounts, the extra being added to recompense him for his services. Or if you be that at the close of a successful match or contest a vote of the player an honorarium, such action is to adopt a low estimate of the quality of the athlete's manhood, and to use the word 'honorarium' in this case, is to greatly abuse its meaning, for your thoughtful citizen can find little trace of honor therein.

"Perhaps the most conspicuous example of pseudo-amateurism at the present time is furnished by the peripatetic player, whose colors change from season to season and place to place with the shade of dollars. For this man himself is not so much to blame as the local men, who in their eagerness to obtain victory do so at the cost of honor. I submit, gentlemen, that such action is a violation of the spirit of amateurism and it's not playing the game on its own make. I suppose it frequently happens through a mistaken idea that above all things the honor of the home town demands a victorious team, even though it be an imported one in whole or in part. Occasionally I fear that it is due to the fact that citizens otherwise thoughtful, have a financial stake in the success of the season and that they wish to get their money back. In the long run it's the boy of the town who is robbed. For he misses his heritage of healthful sport for sport's sake, while he is brought up to believe that victory and not the game, is the important thing. We are proud of our Canadian heritage, and well we might be. Let us in our day of responsibility not part with it for a mess of pottage.

WRESTLING ENDED IN FALL THROUGH WINDOW

MITCHELL, S.D., Dec. 9.—A wrestling match between Bob Evans, of Sioux Falls, S.D., and Joseph Karhounsari last night ended in a plunge through a window glass into an automobile 10 feet below with one of the wrestlers atop of the other. Evans, who was the man beneath, was seriously hurt, but his opponent escaped with slight scratches.

The match had gone 11 minutes when the wrestlers struggled close to the edge of the mat when one of them apparently lost his balance and they fell through a large pane of glass nearby.

GIANTS MAY MEET INDIANS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—The New York Giants may meet the champion Cleveland Indians in two games at least during the spring training season, it was learned here today. Manager Speaker of the Indians, in a letter to the Giants' headquarters, asked for games between the two teams at Dallas, Tex., March 19 and 20. Secretary O'Brien tentatively accepted the dates pending the arrival of Manager McGraw from Cuba.

D.F.A. OFFICIAL SAYS FINANCIAL CLOUDS ARE CLEARING FAST.

D.F.A. head officials in Winnipeg do not look with favor on the P.Q.F.A.'s request that an extraordinary meeting of council members be called to unravel the financial tangle of the supreme body. This intimation was conveyed in a letter to the local association from Secretary Roy. The great expense such a meeting would cause was one objection. But the secretary also intimated that things were righting themselves, and that a full financial statement would be issued in a few days.

The D.F.A. letter was ordered fyled without comment.

MONTREAL SWIMMING CLUB WON AT POLO

The Montreal Swimming Club won both water polo games from McGill, at the Laurentian Baths last night. The senior score was M.S.C. 3, McGill 2; intermediate final score, M.S.C. 4, McGill 2.

The senior game was one of the best seen in many years and as usual, when these two friendly rival clubs meet, the game was not penalty-ended out or deserved throughout the two games. The seniors started out with the college boys short the services of Les Parsons, whose place was filled by Munro. M.S.C. won the toss and started in the deep end, Vernot secured the ball at the face and tossed back to Harold Fisk and he sounded out Walton, but the M.S.C. nets were well blocked. The play went back and forth with both goalkeepers busy and perhaps with as great a display of pretty combination as ever seen in a local tank. Each side tried to rush matters for the first advantage but Bert Schneider and Walter Foran were defending strong for the Islanders whilst the students' end was well looked after by Munro and Foss. The period went without a score and the teams changed ends. M.S.C. started a massed attack but Vernot and Fisk held back and helped their defence. Schneider interrupted a pass and worked the ball well up to Clary Foran who had to stand a lot of duckling to retain the sphere and when the right moment arrived he passed to the ever famous Jack Kerry, who netted the first tally of the game. After about another minute of strenuous play Clary Foran repeated the same tactics and Kerry once again scored, making the half-time tally read M.S.C. 2, McGill 0.

When play resumed the college six showed lots of pep and started to rush things, forcing the M.S.C. to keep on the defense most of the session. After about two minutes of steady shooting, at Tommy Walton, Fisk started a piece of combination with George Vernot that resulted in Vernot netting a goal for the Red and White, and this started the college supporters to make free use of their rattles. The final period started with the swimmers as fresh as at the start. Early after the first rush Ben MacNamee got a strangle hold on the bag and worked like a trojan until he dellvered nicely into the hands of Clary Foran, who netted it past Curly Walters. The students came back with a rush and must have tried fully a dozen shots at Walton, which he seemed to handle with ease. A minute before time was called George Vernot and Foss started a rush that lasted until he had the bag well up the water and toss over to Harold Fisk resulted in Fisk driving home a sure shot that made the final score read M.S.C. 3, McGill, 2.

The intermediate contest also showed two well-matched set of swimmers. Joe Bouchard put in two in the first period for the Island boys and one in the third quarter and Munro one in the final period. Morris Bruker and Wade each netted one for McGill.

The teams and summary of both games were as follows:—

NEAR-RIOT AMONG SPECTATORS AT THE SIX-DAY RACE

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Police reserves were hurried to Madison Square Garden at 6:45 this morning to quell a near-riot among the spectators at the six-day bicycle race which resulted from an argument in a box over seats.

Shots were fired, knives were flourished and a general melee of fisticuffs caused such a commotion that the race had to be stopped for fifteen minutes while the police cleared out the garden.

No serious injuries resulted. Police denied that shots were fired, saying the noise resulted from the explosion of one of the bicycle tires. When peace was restored the race was resumed.

After quiet had been restored by several squads of police a survey of the battlefield revealed only a few minor casualties. Two were arrested. Conflicting stories were told of the fight's start but the police placed most credance in the explanation that it began when two men disagreed over the ownership of a chair.

At 8 a.m., the 80th hour, Brocco and Coburn still led with 1,306 miles and 7 laps. Debaets and Persyn and Vanhevel and Vandenburgh, 1,303 miles 6 laps.

Six teams were tied at 1,304 miles 5 laps. Speare and Lawrence, 1,304 miles 2 laps. Brocco was leading. The Byron and Stachie combination dropped out at 5:10 a.m.

The record for 80 hours' riding is 1,588 miles, 6 laps, made by Goullet and Grenda in 1914.

CANADIENS ARE STRENGTHENING THEIR 1921 TEAM

The principal matter of importance in connection with the Canadien hockey team today is a deal now pending, in which those concerned are Mummery and Macdonald to be exchanged for Rodgers and Mantha. This deal has been under consideration for some time and negotiations are expected to be concluded satisfactorily in the near future. The former was to come here.

George Kennedy, manager of the local professional hockey club announced that he would have several engagements out with the Canadiens at their preliminaries, as he was in touch with them now, and he also stated that at least two or three of these would play with the Flying Frenchmen this season.

Mr. Kennedy did not mention the names of those soon to be signed, but, confined within from the amateur ranks, but although the amateurs are reported as being hard to get for the professional end of the game, there appear to be several who are not averse to the change.

The Rodgers deal is particularly bright for the Canadiens and it now remains to be seen whether or not these prospects work out in reality.

Coliseum Rink Opens Tomorrow Night

The Coliseum rink, one of the oldest in Montreal, will open its ice for skating tomorrow night. The opening is a week later this year than it was last, but now a fine sheet of ice is in readiness for skaters and is better shape than the previous season's start.

There will be a band every night as well as Saturday afternoon. The management looks for the best season yet and has the rink in good condition.

Device That Shows Pressure of Headlock

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. — Billy Sandow, Strangler Lewis's manager, joined the latter's training camp at Bothner's Gymnasium yesterday, where Lewis is preparing his famous headlock for the match with champion Joe Stecher at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory next Monday evening. Sandow at once settled down to real work and gave Lewis a stiff session on the mat. The silent manager brought with him a new dummy rigged up with heavy coil springs that require enormous strength to squeeze together. The dummy is equipped with a new device which registers the pressure which Lewis clamps on it when he practises for his headlock.

Stetcher continued his workouts at the same gymnasium. The champion reports at the gym in the forenoon and does his roadwork along the drive in the afternoon, reversing his hours from those of Lewis. This afternoon Stetcher will pay a visit to the Columbia gymnasium, where his brother, Lieutenant-Commander Tom Stetcher, is assisting Coach Gus Peterson to train the college wrestlers.

PROSPECTS FOR NEW CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOL HOCKEY LEAGUE ARE BRIGHT

It is announced that the prospects for a big and prosperous Catholic School Hockey League are very bright.

The brothers of St. Leo are greatly in favor of it, and it should not be surprising if St. Michaels, St. Patricks, St. Anns, and St. Thomas Aquinas all joined in.

There is a scarcity of ice, but it has been intimated that the rink of the deaf and dumb hockey club on the corner of Laurier avenue and St. Dominique street, will be available as one of the sites for the matches.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR CONTROL MONUMENT NATIONAL FALL THROUGH

SCHNEIDER'S PROFESSIONAL DEBUT IS TO TAKE PLACE ON TUESDAY JANUARY 4th

The negotiations which have been pending between Billy Moorhouse and some other well-known boxing magnates for the control of the Monument National since there can be no fighting in the Mount Royal Arena till the new ice-making plant is started have fallen through, and it is announced that Bert Schneider has agreed to make his professional debut in the Monument on Tuesday the fourth of January.

Moe Herscovitch may appear on the same bill but has not yet signed up.

Maurice Clerk, former manager of the Mount Royal Arena, it is said, is trying to get the Drillhall on Craig Street for another boxing club.

CAUCUS SLATE FOR P.Q.F.A. BOARD MAY BE SMASHED TO BITS

Dissatisfaction Expressed Over the Defeat of Some and the Victory of Others in What is Called a Senseless Proceeding

There is about water ahead of the P.Q.F.A. barque for the next annual meeting over the state of directors elected last night.

The Midweek League and one or two other clubs were not represented, and it is intimated that their votes, added to those of one or two clubs dissatisfied with last night's results, may upset the caucus slate.

The dissatisfied ones claim that there is nothing in the constitution or by-laws to prevent them from changing their votes given last night if before the annual meeting they consider that the good of the game demands it.

At least one other nomination will be made, it is said, and in addition such combinations and changes in the voting will be made, it is intimated, as will ensure the election of at least two of the men forced out last night. Some do not hesitate to call this straw-vote method a senseless proceeding, and say that it may even result in clubs resigning.

The results of the voting for the new board at last night's meeting of the three divisions of the league produced some startling genuflections. Four old members lost their positions. President Captain H. Colborne, J. M. McCaluate, Jim Flockhart and W. Hamer.

A letter was read from Fred. Baxter, declining nomination, but as this gentleman was elected on the sealed ballot, those clubs supporting Mr. Baxter had to vote again. This meant a slight diversion from the program arranged. Four scrutineers went through the lists and announced the results and the votes received:

Jack Shields	25
Tom Keble	20
Neil Hepburn	19
W. E. Roughton	14
J. Phillips	16
W. Topp	16
Dugald Campbell	12

This is known as the official slate and is equivalent to election by acclamation, providing the clubs do not change their minds. The remainder followed in rotation:

J. M. McQuade	12
Captain H. Colborne	12
Jim Flockhart	12
W. Hamer	10
J. Davey	7
Tom Walker	7
Tom Pollock	6
George Lunn	5

The real elections take place on January 15, and nominations are open till December 15.

This was practically all the business done. The constitution is complete and as vouched for by the clubs present, will be read out, almost as a matter of form, at the annual meeting, January 15th.

The Senior League held a short meeting and acted $150 to Secretary E. Fesser for his services; also $50 to buy a suitable present for President Jack Shiels.

The Third Division will hold a wind-up meeting next Thursday, Dec. 16, in the Grenadier Guards Armory. Bond money will be refunded to all clubs in good standing.

The annual meeting of the Blue Bonnets Football Club will be held in the Town Hall, Ville St. Pierre, on Tuesday, Dec. 14th. New officers are to be elected and a full attendance of members is requested, as business of a most important nature will be discussed.

If W. J. O'Shaughnessy is desirous of receiving his championship medal of the Third Division, he can obtain same by applying to Secretary J. Doyle, of Blue Bonnets.

A general meeting of the Calvin F. C. will be held in the Verdun club house tomorrow evening. A large turn-out of members is requested.

BARKS AND BITES IN THE LOCAL DOGDOM

It was learned here today that W. P. Fraser, Secretary of the Ontario Jockey Club, has been appointed to judge wire-haired fox terriers at the Fox Terrier Specialty Show in New York, in February.

Mr. Fraser was associated with Jas. Lindsay of Montreal, and was a large exhibitor of terriers some years ago; they jointly owned Ch. Match Maker. He has not been very active in canine circles in recent years; however, he is a man that knows terriers and should give a good account of himself.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(Star Special)—Probably the largest selection of terriers ever gathered under one roof at a specialty show will be seen at the 70th Armory, at the Combined Terrier Show, which opens on February 9th, one day prior to the Westminster Kennel Club Show at Madison Square Garden.

The executive of the various Terrier Specialty Clubs, have got together and while in the past the fox terrier and Airedale terrier clubs have held their Specialty Show jointly the day before Westminster, this year the Irish Terrier, Scotch Terrier and Welsh Terrier Clubs have fallen in line, and one huge terrier show will be the result. It is expected that about 400 terriers will be benched.

Definite selection of the judges has not as yet been made, but the various clubs are giving this question grave consideration, and men of the highest type in the fancy will be selected. It is understood that two Canadians are under consideration to judge Irish terriers, and appointments will be given out shortly.

It was reported here today, that J. J. Holgate, the famous English judge who officiated at Ottawa and St. Paul, will judge bull terriers at the Westminster Show, and J. J. O'Callaghan will judge Irish terriers at the same show.

Hoppe Successfully Defended Title

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Willie Hoppe, professional billiards champion, retained the 18.2 balk line title by defeating Jake Schaefer, of San Francisco, 400 to 54, in the fifth game of the championship tournament here yesterday. Hoppe ran 220 in his fifth inning and ended the game in the tenth.

Although Hoppe was scheduled to play Welker Cochran, of San Francisco, in the final game of the series, a defeat could not affect his title as he had lost no games, while Cochran had lost two and Schaefer three.

HOPPE SURE TO DEFEND TITLE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. — After defeating both Jake Schaefer and Welker Cochran in two matches, Willie Hoppe, 18.2 billiard champion, is practically sure to defend his title successfully in the championship tournament which closes here tonight.

TORONTO, Dec. 9. — A wire has been received from the athletic directorate of Pennsylvania State College by the athletic directorate of the University of Toronto asking that a team of boxers be sent to Penn. State for a dual tourney on January 29.

No Enquiry to Be Held by Big Four

CALGARY, Alta., Dec. 9. — The Big Four Hockey League definitely announces that it will not hold an inquiry into the charges made by Frank Patrick and referred to it by the Alberta branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. Allen McGray, president of the Big Four, intimated that this change of front was occasioned by the demand that statutory declarations accompany the evidence. He claims that the Big Four has no authority to compel its players to testify and, therefore, it is not proceeding.

TO TRAIN AT SAN ANTONIO.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. — The New York Nationals will train again at San Antonio, Tex., next spring, an agreement having been reached with officials there to provide improved and enlarged quarters for the players.

Members of the staff of the Canada Steamships, Limited, have organized a bowling league, which opened its season the other night, when three games were played. The games will be played each Tuesday night for the remainder of the season. The teams have been named after the boats owned by the company.

FIGHT TUESDAY FOR ADMISSION CATHOLIC HIGH

This year competitions have set in in schoolboy hockey. Last year the work of the executive was easy, but this season everything is upset. Applications for admittance into the Interscholastic League were received from both the Lachine High School and the Catholic High School. As told in yesterday's Star, the former institution cannot be admitted on account of the poor ice arrangements. The latter school is very anxious to enter a team and is the cause of a special meeting of the league, which will take place next Tuesday night. From outside appearances, it is very, very doubtful that Catholic High will be admitted. Many reasons for this statement are at hand. One is that in former years the schedule had to be rushed through in order to have it finished before the soft weather set in. Another is the fact that the same schools have been competing year after year and there is the tendency to keep the league just as it stands for the future. If many other schools turn out hockey squads in the future another league will have to be formed. This would give the public a chance of seeing the first class schools play off for the title.

Professional Skaters Re-entering Field

SARANAC LAKE, Dec. 9. — Edmund Lamy, former world's professional skating champion, has announced his intention of re-entering the racing field, and intends to challenge both Bobby McLean and Oscar Mathiessen, the present champion. The former champion, who lost his title to McLean in 1918, defeated Mathiessen decisively in 1910 at Montreal when he made his last appearance as an amateur skater.

Everett McGowan, of St. Paul, who won the amateur championship last season at Lake Placid, has entered the professional ranks.

Norval Baptie, who preceded Lamy and McLean as professional skating champion, announced this week at New York that he is going to re-enter the field, and that he intends to meet all the cracks, including Mathiessen.

British and U.S. Boxers to Meet Soon

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—An international boxing carnival between the leading amateur middleweights and heavyweights of Great Britain and the United States, to be held here next month, will be the initial international contest in a short series which promises to make 1921 famous, it was learned yesterday.

Plans for the bouts, which will be held at a place and date to be announced later by the International Sporting Club, were virtually completed by the club match-maker, Tex O'Rourke, after a series of conferences in London.

The leading champions in these two weight classes of the London police and fire departments will also face opponents from the New York departments. The British boxers are to sail in a few days.

SIGNED WITH THE WHITE FOX.

CEDAR FALLS, Ia., Dec. 9. — Peter Jorgenson, Star pitcher of the Iowa State Teachers' College nine for several seasons and captain in 1919, has signed a contract with the Chicago White Sox and will join the team when it leaves for the southern training camp next spring. Jorgenson is now located at Guttenburg, Iowa., where he is superintendent of schools.

CHARLES COMISKEY IS THE MARTYR OF CLEAN BASEBALL

After Three Months, Those So Anxious to Aid Him Then Beginning to Forget He Broke Up Team to Clean Up Ball

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(By Henry L. Farrell, United Press Staff Correspondent).—Somehow baseball magnates will slip a mental cog once in a while.

Their memory, it seems has refused to function in the case of Charles Comiskey, the grand old Roman and the martyr of clean baseball.

Going around the final bend of the 1920 race, Comiskey broke up the White Sox, considered the greatest team in baseball, when he learned they had fallen for the lure of easy money.

He had left but the skeleton of a club, a mere shell of a once great organization.

Then the moguls, altruistic to the core, condoled with the old Roman. The White Sox would re-build from material furnished by the other more fortunate owners, they said.

They rushed with proferred gifts to the exponent of high ideals.

That was three months ago.

But Comiskey is still holding the same fragments, remnants of the wreck. He has added a few more recruits but he got them for cash in the open market and he had to outbid his fellow magnates.

Of course, Comiskey refused gifts. He has money and he insisted upon using it to get a new club together.

But money and all, he's having a hard task.

The other clubs with superfluous material that would fill up holes in the Sox team are holding tight and are refusing to sell.

Not only that, but they are rushing to the bushes and buying up all the rookie prospects, forcing Comiskey to go high for one when he does find a live one.

Comiskey is not howling. He's not that kind. He promised the Chicago bugs that he would get them a team and he probably will have one when the 1921 season gets under ways.

But he'll have to pay and pay high for it.

The New York Yankees, clan-mates of Comiskey in the opposition to Ban Johnson, offered any part of their team to finish the 1920 race.

Probably that was as far as they figured their beneficence should extend, just to help him to the end of the season.

Recently the notion spread that Joey Dugan would be sold by Connie Mack and the Sox wanted him badly.

But the Yankees went wildly after him.

They offered Mack money and five or six players but Mack wouldn't take it. Perhaps Comiskey will get him yet but he will come high.

Three months isn't a long while but it seems plenty long to forget.

RUTH'S AUTOGRAPHED BASEBALLS SOLD TO HELP ORPHANS' FUND.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Babe Ruth, the mighty Yankee hitter, now in Cuba, has proved himself as powerful with the pen as with the bat. The Gibault Home in Indianapolis, a shelter for orphan lads, sent out recently a call for financial aid. Ruth, who received some of his early training in such a home, autographed 500 baseballs, which were sold by the Indiana Knights of Columbus for the benefit of the parentless youngsters. As the prices for the initialled spheres ranged from $10 to $100, the master walloper batted out a very substantial sum for the home.

WILSON WORKED OUT FOR TONIGHT'S BOUT

Montreal boxing fans will see tonight a middleweight boxing champion in action when Johnny Wilson, the swarthy Boston Italian, who now holds the crown, meets George Robinson, the clever colored fighter, in a ten-round bout at Mount Royal Arena. Wilson yesterday breezed through a light work-out at the Cercle Outremont gymnasium before a large crowd. He punched the bag, skipped the rope and toyed with the pulleys, but did not box. His exercises were merely by way of tapering up after his train-ride, for he has spent several weeks of training at a mountain camp outside Boston and declares himself to be in fine condition.

He scarcely perspired after half an hour's work. He started off punching the bag, but with almost the first blow the rope broke and the light bag went sailing through the air. It was not a stage trick, but merely because the rope had broken. While a new rope was being secured, Wilson skipped the rope, afterwards gave the bag a drilling, and did some gymnasium work.

"Wilson has been unfortunate since getting the title in not fighting more often," says his manager, "but that was the result of a training camp injury. When he gets a few fights under his belt, he'll fight them all. If his judgment of distance happens to be right, Robinson will be in for a tough evening, for this fellow can punch."

Spike Sullivan, the former Montreal light-heavyweight, who knocked out "Red" Lyons at Jersey City Tuesday night in two rounds, arrived this morning for his bout with Jack Renault, which will be the semi-final. Sullivan is a much improved fighter and in good shape.

MISSED FOR DELAYING GAME.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—Robert Cannefax, title-holder, was defeated by Clarence Jackson yesterday in the third game of the final round for the national three cushion billiard championship, by a score of 75 to 69.

Cannefax was hissed several times by the spectators, because it was declared he delayed the game.

BLUE DOGS FOR THE COMING SHOW AT VICS' ARMORY

The entries for the coming dog show at the Vics armory are now all complied and the catalog now is in the hands of the printers. The dogs total 287 and the entries are near the 600 mark, making this show the largest winter show in the history of the M. K. C. of C. The largest entered is a hundred pound Great Dane and the smallest is a Pomeranian weighing six ounces. There are dogs of all colors, even blue ones. Some people may think "there ain't no such animal," but a team of Blue Bedlingtons imported from England by a local fancy has entered under their classes. These dogs are the miners' dogs of the Black Country in England, and are the noted pouching dogs and are claimed to be the gamest dogs living by the miners. Wheatened Fox Terriers are next in number, 30 in the entry with 28 dogs. They are closely followed by the ever popular national breed with 26 dogs. Airedale terriers are next with 23 dogs. Belgian police dogs are gaining in favor and are very strongly represented, and trailing along behind in point of numbers are all the breeds imaginable right down to the aristocratic Chow Chows with a sole lonesome entry. Irish and Scottish terriers, once so strong in Montreal, are fast giving away to the wires, which are easily the most popular of the terrier breeds on both sides of the water.

U.S. Middleweight Not to Compete Sat.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 9. — An international-intercity boxing show will be held under the auspices of the A.A.U. here on Saturday night between boxers from Canada and Pittsburgh. Pete Cale, who was a member of the United States Olympic boxing team, will be Pittsburgh's representative in the 125-pound class.

Frank Grayber, a middleweight, who was to take part in the show, has been indefinitely suspended by the Allegheny Mountain branch of the A. A. U. for an alleged attack on a referee at the close of the greater Pittsburgh championship matches here last week.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. — Formal arrangements for two championship billiard matches between Willie Hoppe, world's champion, and Edouard Horemans, Belgian expert, were anticipated today at a conference between the respective representatives. Proposals called for one match at 18.1 and one at 18.2 balk line.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAS. J. MONTAGUE

THE GOLFER'S DEFIANCE.

I have no quarrel with reform;
I know that it would ill behoove me,
To gnash my teeth and rage and storm
At others' efforts to improve me.
When Mr. Volstead's law forbade
A further alcoholic diet,
I saved what little stuff I had,
And only drank it on the quiet.

I'll not indulge in language blue,
Or waste my time in futile croaking,
When in another year or two
I'm ordered to forego my smoking.
I'd not make trouble if I could,
Because, as the reformers view it,
They pass these measures for my good,
And, anyway, they're going to do it.

But if they take my golf away,
A pleasure I enjoy but one day,
(Because I have no time to play
Around the course except on Sunday),
Although I'm not a man to let
A casual vexation try me,
I'm going to try my darndest yet
To lay those smug old birds a stymie.

I don't need booze; I don't need smokes;
And though I rather hate to lose 'em,
I'll give 'em up, if better folks
Than I declare I mustn't use 'em.
I've been an easy man to drive—
Resembling much dumb driven cattle—
But just as long as I'm alive
I'll not quit golf without a battle.

IT MAKES A DIFFERENCE.

Demand for some things must be slackening. Nowadays automobile salesmen almost smile at you when you go into one of their stores.

HERE TO STAY.

The Volstead Law will never be repealed. The bootleggers' lobby is already strong enough to prevent any such thing.

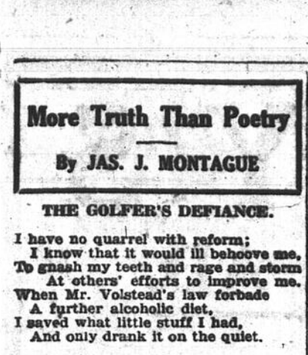
THE PASSING HOUR

SHE GRABBED HIM RIGHT THERE.



Percy—How would you—aw—like to own—aw—a little puppy, Miss Dovely?
Miss D.—This is so sudden, Mr. Chappingham.

Bishop Hoss said at a Nashville picnic: "The religious knowledge of too many adults resembles, I am afraid, the religious knowledge of little Eve. "So you attend Sunday school regularly?" the minister said to little Eve. 'Oh, yes, sir.' "And you know your Bible?" 'Oh, yes, sir.' 'Could you, perhaps tell me something that could tell you everything that's in it.' 'Indeed.' And the minister smiled. 'Do tell me, then.' 'Sister's beau's photo is in it,' said little Eve promptly, 'and ma's recipe for vanishin' cream is in it, and a lock of my hair cut off when I was a baby is in it, and the ticket for pa's watch is in it.'"

He—I'm afraid you are without any sense of humor.
She—Nonsense! Didn't I laugh when you proposed?

BLUE LAWS OF 1921.

14. Automobiling on the Sabbath shall be prohibited, and the presence of any man underneath his flivver in the gagage during Sunday shall be taken as prima facie evidence that he would go automobiling if he could get the darned machine to run.

15. Monkeying with the carburetor, cleaning the spark plugs, and trying to do anything with a wrench without barking the knuckles shall be prohibited. Profanity must be stopped!

16. Riding on a trolley car on the Sabbath shall be prohibited, and any man riding on said cars and suddenly realizing that he is in a state of sin shall be allowed to get off without paying his fare. Any man doing this more than twice the same day shall be liable to arrest on suspicion of trying to bunco the trolley company.

17. Nobody shall read a Sunday newspaper earlier than Tuesday night, and any man found out in the woodshed with a smuggled photogravure section showing the harem scene from "Mecca" shall be lashed nine times in the public square and other vulnerable places.

18. In cases where newspapers are spread upon the pantry shelves as shelf paper all members of the household shall use smoked glasses while in the pantry.

19. It shall be unlawful to go any place on a railroad train or to return from the same.

20. Any man who uses a motorcycle on Sunday shall be snubbed by the Right People, and any wife who rides in the side car of a motorcycle shall be adjudged fifty times more cuckooed than a wife who rides in a motorcycle side car on a weekday (which is exceedingly cuckooed).

21. Nobody shall mail or receive a letter or souvenir postcard on Sunday. The postmaster works hard all the other days and needs Sunday to look over the mail and get the gossip.

22. Laughing will not be countenanced under any circumstances on the Sabbath. The Blue Laws committee of enforcement is very self-conscious and might misinterpret the laugh.

23. No funny stories should be told except to the chairman of the blue laws governing board, who is running short of new ones anyway.

24. It shall be illegal for any person to speak to a baseball player, actor, or dancing teacher on Sunday, and any one found in conversation with a movie picture promoter shall be sent to the ducking stool

25. No home brewing shall be planned, started, completed, or discussed. But all persons having any on hand should call up the Blue Laws enforcement committee; the members carry their own cups and are good fellows when they have it.

Turf Men Anxious; Waiting Patiently

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 9—A feeling of assurance has replaced the anxiety of the last midweek regarding the Fair Grounds outlook, and horsemen and turf followers from the north and west are awaiting the fulfillment of the optimistic promises of the local seers, rather than worrying about railroad fares and shipping accommodations to Tia Juana or Havana.

A test case based on evidence gathered by the new district attorney of Jefferson Parish during the week is within the possibilities, and the outspoken confidence of the legal advisers of the Jefferson course that other decisions of the Supreme Court of Louisiana will be approved has done much to relieve doubt. Slight offenders have been escorted from the grounds on numerous occasions during the last three years of Jefferson's existence, and there is other ample proof that the law has been obeyed in its spirit.

Schedule of City League for End of Week

The schedule of the Montreal City League will be announced at the end of the week, and will show that the first game will be played at Mount Royal Arena on Monday night, December 27. The games will be played on Monday and Thursday nights as previously, and a single schedule will be followed out as a year ago, with a semi-final to determine the championship.

St. Ann's will be without the services of a number of the men who wore the colors a year ago. A number are with the Bankers' League.

IMPORTANT RULING ON RENT PAYMENT

Plaintiff Loses Case Because Action Taken Was Premature

Under the Quebec law, when the lease fixes a specific date for payment of rent, the tenant has until the morning following the date specified to pay, and unless otherwise stipulated, such rent is payable at tenant's residence. This question has just been decided by Mr. Justice deLorimier in the Superior Court in the case of Donat Collin vs. Cyrie Renaud, for $142, being $16 for one month's rent due October 1, 1920, the balance of the amount claimed being for alleged damages. Defendant denied owing the rent claimed.

The facts, briefly, are as follows: On the morning of October 1 last, the plaintiff called upon the defendant, his tenant, to collect one month's rent, due that day. He was asked to return the same evening, when the rent would be paid. He did not return, but the next day, October 2, he entered the present action. Defendant claimed by his defence that he had the whole day of October 1 in which to pay the rent; therefore, the present action was premature.

Mr. Justice deLorimier, who heard the case, upheld the defendant's contention. The date the rent was payable, in the present instance, was the first of the month, but the lease did not specify where the rent should be paid, and under the circumstances Article 1185 of the Civil Code applies, and payment of rent is to be collected at tenant's domicile. As to the date, the Court held that in such an instance the day of maturity comprises the whole day. Consequently, the debt could be exacted only on the day following. Consequently plaintiff's action was premature, and must be dismissed with costs.

CHILDREN'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM FIRE

The three children of Alfred Drouin, aged 2, 5 and 7 years narrowly escaped asphyxiation yesterday afternoon, when their father rescued them from the kitchen of their home at 62 Menai street. According to the report issued by the fire department the mother had gone out for a little while and had left the father to mind the children. The father went out afterwards, leaving the children alone for about half an hour.

On his return he found the house filled with smoke. He dashed into the building to search for his children and groping through the smoke, he found them huddled up in a corner of the kitchen, where the fire was raging behind the stove. He carried them into the street and turned in an alarm. On the arrival of the firemen the blaze was extinguished with chemicals. It is thought that the fire was due to the children playing with matches.

BROKEN TROLLEY WIRE.

A broken trolley wire at the corner of Irving avenue and St. Catherine street, Westmount, at 10:35 last night tied up the St. Catherine street and returning Windsor car service for forty minutes in the west end of the city.

MODERN SALESMANSHIP.

Customer—Tell me, how is it you have so much antique furniture?

Owner—Between you and me, I put my furniture in my flat and the kids scratch and batter it up so bad I have to sell it as antique stuff.

TO DISCUSS JOINT INDUSTRIAL BOARD

Members of Builders' Exchange are Not Unanimous Regarding Project

The practical value of a Joint Industrial Board in settling disputes between employers and employed in the building trades will be the topic of discussion by the members of the Builders' Exchange at a meeting which will be held in the rooms of the association in the Drummond building this evening. The matter has been before that organization for some time, but no definite action has ever been taken, as the various branches of the Exchange either turned the proposition down or referred it back to the Board of Directors.

The view generally taken is that the board would not have much scope for effective work here, as the situation in this city is slightly different to that in Ottawa or Toronto, inasmuch as here, workmen in the trades represent both the International and the National and Catholic Unions, and all arrangements would have to be made to accommodate both, as there is no connection between them. Another reason for objection lies in the fact that present labor conditions do not justify such a step.

The acquisition of suitable permanent quarters by the Exchange will also be discussed at tonight's meeting.

The chair will be occupied by W. M. Irving, president of the Exchange.

PRINCE OF WALES' FLORIST.

Charles J. Hill, the Westmount florist, is now entitled to call himself "Florist to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales." Mr. Hill supplied the flowers which decorated the royal train on the occasion of the Prince's visit to Canada last year, during the trip from Montreal to Fort William. This, resulted in Mr. Hill's receiving notification of the present license, which carries with it the privilege of using the Prince's coat of arms. Mr. Hill operates the Bain greenhouses, in Verdun. He used also to control the Graves greenhouses on Western avenue.

LAST POST FUNERAL.

The funeral of the late Wellington Garrison, an ex-soldier, who passed away recently at the Montreal General Hospital, was held from Wray's Undertaking establishment yesterday afternoon. Rev. Harold S. Laws, of Trinity Church officiated. W. E. Moore represented the G.W.V.A., H. W. Metcalfe was present on behalf of the Khaiki Club, and the Last Post Fund was represented by A. H. D. Hair, and Chas. A. Shannon. Enquiries are being made by the authorities of the Last Post Fund, under whose auspices the funeral was conducted, to obtain Garrison's overseas record. It is believed that he had relatives in Tweed, Ontario.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1920.

Capital is the Labor of the Past.
Labor is the Capital of the Future.
Capital and Labor pulling together, create the prosperity of the Present.

CANADA'S HIGH MISSION.

In a message to the Canadian Club's dinner in London in honor of Sir Campbell Stuart, Ambassador Davis, of the United States, expressed very happily the part of Canadians in the English-speaking world. "With Great Britain," he said, "you share the traditions of the immemorial past and the problems of the imperial present, while you join America in the adventure of subduing a virgin continent, working out the duties of self-government in a federalized democracy."

The maintenance of harmonious relations between the British and American peoples is a part of Canada's responsibility, giving this country a notable opportunity to perform constructive service to humanity. As Sir Campbell Stuart said in his statesmanlike address, the differences between Britons and Americans are essentially family differences; it will be Canada's fault if these are not composed as they arise.

A DIFFICULT TASK.

DURING the time the Administrative Commission has been in office its lot has not been a particularly easy one.

At the very outset there had to be faced a deficit of many millions which blundering management of the past had piled up.

A particularly difficult task was the remodelling of the payrolls. Convincing proofs had been adduced by this paper showing that fully a million dollars a year was being wasted in the rolls. Unnecessary and useless employees were to be found in all branches of the service. Various departments have been remodelled and the government of the city generally put on more business-like lines.

Practically no helping hand has been held out by the City Council as a body to smooth the difficulties of the Commission, while many employees have evinced active antagonism. Possibly the most trying period of all for the Commission was the strike of the policemen, firemen, water works employees and others; the settlement of the troubles was beset with many difficulties.

It is distinctly to the credit of the Commission that it has kept public sympathy and has won approbation of its course generally. Influential trade and business bodies have repeatedly thanked the Commissioners for the marked improvement noted in the general conducting of the city's complicated affairs.

BAD BUSINESS.

AMAZING revelations concerning waste and inefficiency on the United States Shipping Board have just come to light through investigation. This body, formed during the war to build vessels for the country as a Government business venture, is now known to have conducted operations at a loss of no less than two billion dollars.

Commenting upon the results of the investigation, the New York Tribune says: "The Board threw out of the window hundreds of millions of dollars, most of it going to gougers, profiteers and war leeches of many species." An American ship-owner testified that fifty per cent of the Board's ship operators did not know their business, and that their methods actually put a premium upon inefficiency.

A grave result of this colossal waste in shipping was its depressing influence upon the value of the Government's Liberty Bonds. The shipping loss was so great as to contribute materially to the unhappy result of American war financing, which involved direct public support.

The business of building ships entails heavy financing, and Government waste in shipping remains as a sombre feature of the United States' part in the war, to be remembered for many a day by the taxpayers.

WHERE KNOWLEDGE IS POWER.

CONTESTS held ostensibly to discover the most beautiful and popular young ladies are familiar features of town or rural life. Invariably the winners of such competitions are all drawn from the limited number of people for whom that kind of parading before the public scrutiny has peculiar attractions; the whole field is very rarely covered in such searching out of the fairest and most favored.

Discovery is frequently reported of the most beautiful girl in this country or that, yet how many of these discoveries are really interesting? Every man in the particular country concerned who rejoices in the society of a modest wife, sweetheart or daughter knows better.

CANADA AND THE LEAGUE.

HON. N. W. ROWELL has done a service to the cause of world peace by his plain speaking at the League of Nations Conference at Geneva. Mr. Rowell and his fellow delegates from Canada have the advantage over many of the representatives of other nations in coming to Geneva unhampered by diplomatic tradition and with no long history of alliance and counter alliance to hinder and enmesh their policy. It would be impossible for the Great Powers not to dilute their political ethics with a tincture of expediency and action which taken by Canada may be acclaimed as militant and progressive, if followed by Britain or France would be dubbed radical and revolutionary.

Mr. Rowell puts his finger on the danger which has been the object of no small amount of adverse criticism against the League when he refers to the growing tendency of the Great Powers of Europe to control the machinery of its operations. Article Twenty-Three of the Covenant provides that bureaux for the study and regulation of economy and finance, of transportation and transit and of health, shall be instituted by conventions of the members of the League. A committee appointed by the League recommended that these bureaux should be established by the League forthwith. Mr. Rowell's protests that if the report of this committee were adopted these bureaux would sooner or later come under the control of the Council of the League, which is dominated by the Great Powers, and that with these bureaux centralized at Geneva they themselves would be under the thumb of the Powers of Europe on account of their contiguity, which would tend to make the membership of the bureaux solely European. "Canada, for instance," he pleads, "would be unable to send her leading men so great a distance to become a part of several bodies."

The opening words of the Covenant are: "The high contracting parties, in order to promote international co-operation and to achieve international peace . . . . agree to this Covenant." It is not without significance that the "establishment of international co-operation" is placed in the very forefront of the preamble, and Mr. Rowell made it quite plain in his address that he was anxious that the member nations should grapple with the financial, transportation and health problems. He does not want the solution of those problems to be adopted by a small executive committee of the society of which his country is a member.

"Find your solution and report back to us next year," he says in effect, "but do not take any decisions which may have a vital effect on world peace, and which, therefore, are Canada's concern no less than the concern of every member of the League, until we meet again in the full assembly of all the nations."

It is a testimony to the justice of the case and of the amity that prevails in the League that this viewpoint was adopted after many conferences at midnight, and the report of the great committee is "referred back."

TINO WAITS.

CONSTANTINE is slowly learning the truth which hundreds of fallen idols have discovered in bitterness of soul—"it is hard to come back." Carried on a wave of enthusiasm, the Greek people by an overwhelming majority voted in plebiscite for his return. Ninety-eight per cent of the votes cast were for Constantine's return, says the amazing cable from Athens and Venizelos is forgotten.

"But yesterday the word of Caesar might have stood against the world. Now none so poor to do him reverence." The shout of triumph over Caesar's enemy reaches almost to Switzerland, and Constantine waits in impatience for the herald that shall summon him back in triumph. On Monday he draws the correspondents round him and talks of the summons that is to waft him back to a throne. No herald, no messenger, no telegraph boy. The next day bright and early the correspondents flock round him and he tells them that his trunks are packed and he wishes them goodbye. Then as the messenger still tarries he tells them what an unlucky day Tuesday is for Greece, and he knows that Rhallis would have too much regard for the traditional superstition to ask him to return on a Tuesday. So Wednesday dawns and the champion optimist rises betimes to receive the newspaper men and possibly the errant messenger boy. But instead of a message summoning him to post to Athens with royal speed comes a request that he abdicate the throne in favor of his son.

What has happened? Has anyone asked for a recount? Have charges been laid against the returning officers? Constantine makes a little address to the newspaper men, in which he declares that "never, absolutely never, will he relinquish his claim to the throne." It is not the power, nor the kingly dignity he seeks, but to "do the behest of my faithful people, who have never ceased to trust me." But Rhallis at home in Athens is confronted with a note from the British and French Premiers, in which there are dark hints of debts long overdue and of the possibility of the dream of a Greater Hellas being shattered by an amendment of the Treaty of Sevres. Rhallis hesitates. The country might get on without Constantine, but a Greek Cabinet cannot last long without money, without Thrace, and its new possessions in Smyrna.

The Allies have no faith in Tino, and while they would not prevent his return by force of arms, yet economic pressure is a powerful weapon. Greece's most important crop is currants, and practically all of the crop goes to Britain. So it is currants or Constantine? Rhallis and the Great Powers are playing an intricate game, but it looks as if most of the trumps lie in the Allies' hands.

THE WORLD'S PRESS

What About Montreal?

Chicago Tribune: A great city, if it is to be noble and beautiful, a city in truth, must always be realizing on its future. If it does not it will have no future. New York has spent royally, but she has got the full return for her expenditures. If she has piled up debt for the future to pay, she has made it possible for that future to meet the debt. Chicago's thrift deprives the present and cheats the future.

The Home Training.

Detroit News: If the discipline of the home is what it should be it will effectually prevent children of high school age from indulging in midnight revelry, perilous joy rides, and other dubious festivities. But if that discipline is lacking up to the high school age these uncontrolled youngsters become a menace to the institution, and to the community of normal, well-managed homes which must suffer because of the influence upon decent and self-respecting pupils.

Life's Revolving Wheels.

Boston Globe: The knock-down blow to the conservative argument for trying to keep Things-As-They-Are is dealt by the mere fact that such a thing as slang exists. Slang is life's reply to those who would stop the clock of Time or sweep back the tides of a sea beach with a kitchen broom. New words are the mint of the future, and in this coinage we are all counterfeiters. Is the newspaper blamed for corrupting good English? Go accuse the midwife with the maternity of the baby she swaddles.

Safe and Sane.

Bulawayo Chronicle: Rhodesia has a special interest in the South African publicity campaign that was so long promised and is at last being set on foot in London. For we need two classes of people here—tourists and settlers, and the more we have of the former the more likely we are to get the latter. South Africa is one of the safest parts of the world just now for the globe-trotter, and has its attractions in a comparative absence of those economic and industrial troubles which afflict so many of the older countries.

Following the Fashion.

Pittsburg Post: Hugh Walpole, the English writer, on his return from a successful visit to the United States, has made some interesting observations, in an address before a London society of authors, on the habits of the American reading public. What he has to say of us is not altogether complimentary, but candor compels the admission that there is a measure of truth in his statement that we follow fads, surrendering our own judgment to the dictates of fashion, reading and talking about books which in themselves do not interest us, but which happen to be the vogue.

"After the Steed is Stolen."

Hong Kong Weekly Press: If America from the beginning of the Japanese emigration had put her foot down and excluded all laborers then there would be nothing to say. But having admitted the laborers and allowed them to own land and having allowed a large part of the agricultural work to pass into their hands, the work of expropriation now is unendurable. The justice of the Japanese claim here seems undeniable. Japan has no quarrel with Australia, because Australia has from the first refused to admit Japanese laborers, who have, therefore, not been able to obtain any footing in the country.

The Wide Open Fireplace.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Not all of us can go nutting when the leaves turn from green to gold and scarlet, carrying with us gunny sacks in which to bring home nuts to crack around open fires winter evenings. Not all of us live at Edgewood and dream over the glowing embers with wide-open eyes, as Ik Marvel did. Many of us live in cities and turn on steam, hot air or gas to heat the house, or the flat, knowing in fiction or through tradition rather than otherwise, dog irons, backlogs, dry wood that pops and sappy wood that sings, and "wide-throated chimneys that bluster defiance of the storm." But all of us can eat nuts and raisins after dinner and enjoy nut salads as a middle course.

Training for Leadership.

Manchester Guardian: The idea of training men to be rulers is an old one, and critics of democracy from Plato's time to today have stressed the difficulties of governing and the necessity of acquiring administrative technique. Far more recent is the idea of training men to be citizens, or, rather, to be their own rulers, with a nice discrimination in their choice of representatives and a full knowledge of their own privileges. But it is surely the right answer to the champions of Platonism and the seekers after bureaucratic supermen. Citizenship is a subject that will be increasingly administered to the young. That is a welcome fact, but it does not destroy a lingering regret that the fashion is not an older one. Some of those who are now in very high places might profit by instruction even now in the principles of the British Constitution.

Germany and Reparations.

London Daily News: In the interview which he gave to a correspondent of the Petit Parisien on the subject of reparations, Mr. Lloyd George spoke first as a "lawyer," then as a "business man," and finally as a "realist." In all these roles he spoke sound sense. There are two courses open, he pointed out, in dealing with Germany as a debtor. Either the Allies may "pursue the case to the end," and in ruining the debtor receive little or nothing of the debt, or they may adopt this attitude: "You owe so much — how much can you pay?" The Prime Minister favors the second alternative, and emphasizes how necessary it is to "investigate, estimate and fix." There is still a chance not only of securing substantial reparations, but of restoring peace and goodwill on the Continent if the investigation which he proposes is honest, the estimate just, and the fixing prompt.

Three Tarry Men.

They came from only God knows where,
Three tarry, blue-eyed men.
They blundered through the swaying train
To empty seats—and then
Forgotten talk of long ago
I listened to again.

They spoke of rising storms and tides,
Of heaving decks and seas,
Of Port Soudan and Port au Prince,
Seychelles and Hebrides,
Of lonely hours in doldrum calm,
And unsolved mysteries.

Their talk was thick with briny oaths,
And some of it was lies;
They yarned of captains, crews and ships,
Far seas, and ports and skies—
But splendid peace and happiness
Shone deep in their blue eyes.

And each one knew whate'er his talk,
Though cursed as fiend and foe—
The sea was dearer to them all,
And at her word would go
Each mother's son, for none could fail
When she lured sighing low.

So from the train they lumbered off
With worn and battered grips,
With curses they were leaving port,
But smiles upon their lips,
Down, down the twisting ways to where
There lay the waiting ships.

MUSICAL WATER TAPS.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—I have found that when a water tap screams a discordant note on being turned; the noise is caused by the water, under pressure passing through, playing upon a loose edge of the frayed rubber washer inside the tap. The vibration is much like that caused by air blown into an organ pipe, or against the reed of a clarinet. The remedy is a new and unfrayed washer.

ALLEN G. INGALLS.

THE "SPEIFOX."

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:

Sir,—In The Montreal Star I see under the caption, "Suggest Many Names for Foxes," that "Peifox" is given as one suggested. The name I suggested in a former communication was "Speifox," which is somewhat similar, but with the initial letter S added, representing the word "silver." The whole word "Speifox," when translated, means the "Silver Prince Edward Island Fox." If the Silver Fox Selling Association of P. E. Island does not get a better trade mark than "Speifox," I shall be glad to receive the $100 which your advertisement seemed to indicate was offered for the most suitable name. And I can assure both you and the association that it will be thankfully received and appropriately expended," or whatever the cryptic term is for such a contribution.

WM. THOS. WILKINS.

AN EVEN SIMPLER SCHEME.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:

Sir, In your issue ofthe 27th ultime you published a communication signed W. Cliche. This gentleman suggests the heating of the St. Lawrence River in order to keep it open to navigation all the year round. While, in principle, I approve the plan, I find the undertaking a stupendous task. Allow me to expose a much simpler one, one that would cost next to nothing. Here it is. A score or two of men perched on a platform running alongside the Victoria Bridge could heat a couple of hundred of flat irons which they would dip into the river, then draw them out and plunge another set while the first set would be heated. In this manner, an artificial Gulf Stream would be the result as the current at this point runs nine miles an hour; then, the boats and ocean vessels could ply during the whole winter without any interruption.

The readers of The Star would surely like to have the opinion of Mr. Allan G. Ingalls and that of Simp McGlimp, who are undisputed authorities on the above subject.

DAVID R. PERRY.

CHEAP FARES AND THE PRIVILEGED CLASSES.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—Are the public to have the advantage of cheaper railway fares for the Christmas and New Year's seasons, say tickets to date from 20th December, good for thirty days?

I fear that there will be strong opposition from those high in railway authority, notwithstanding the heavy increase in fares made during the past two years. It seems a great injustice that the ordinary individual, who may have a keen desire to see his old home and friends during the festive seasons, is probably hopelessly debarred from doing so, when the cost of the railway ticket is taken into consideration.

Even the commercial traveller, who is for months paying into the railways, dollar after dollar for tickets, receives no special rate for seasons referred to. Not so with the railway employe, especially on our Government railroads, also his family and relatives; he and they appear to have carriage free the year round, judging by the number of "passes" that the ordinary traveller (who pays his way) sees taken up in a car during a few hours' journey. Why should not these employes, who are now the best paid of any class of workers, clerical, mechanical or laboring, pay their way like other ordinary travellers, they take up car space in already overcrowded trains.

I trust that other readers of The Montreal Star, who agree with my views, will not allow the matter to remain dormant, of cheaper fares for the holiday seasons, and the elimination of the railway pass, except only when a railway employe is travelling on business for the railroad.

TRAVELLER.

WHY CONSUMERS STRIKE.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:

Sir,—Capital, learning how to tan hides, brings the leather to Labor offering to pay for making shoes. "Are you then a centipede, Henry, that you can wear 100 pairs at once?" "Not so," he answers. "I would sell to our neighbors." Thereupon Jerry-the-Cobbler earns oodles of money more than he ever had before, for the shoes sell at a profit, and others are ordered. Comes a time when Jerry is making fewer shoes. His living costs more. He strikes for larger oodles. "Not so, again," answers Henry Hyde. "The neighbors buy no more, for they wear out their old ones." "We are enemies then, to the very edge of the shoeknife," says Jerry-the-Cobbler. "You always were the blankets ——" "Not so," thrice," smiles Henry. "For mutual protection, we are friends. Needs must when the neighbors drive." So Capital and Labor (come to discretion) hug each other with great joy, while waiting till demand has caught up with supply, and Henry can give greater orders for more shoes. And times become so good, with money circulating so plentifully, that even the banks will advance it when there is no need. Instead of leaving it in the basket and sitting on the basket to the detriment of the eggs.

This fable teaches that capital and labor, like poverty and riches, are merely relative terms. That capital, labor and consumption (when their interests pull together) make the prosperity of the present. That we can stop production, but cannot create the purchasing faculty in the consumer; for, although one man can lead a horse to water, twenty cannot make him drink. It teaches also that not only the neighbors have feet to be shod, but Henry, and Jerry likewise, and their several numerous families, also.

STUDENT.

NO NEED FOR PANIC.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:

Sir,—Believing as I do that the present stagnation in trade has been caused more as a result of a condition of the mind and as a result of repeated newspaper talk rather than a logical after-the-war effect on commerce, I think that it is incumbent on the editors of newspapers throughout this Dominion to do their very utmost to commence an active propaganda to undo the work that they so vigorously and foolishly undertook when they started this campaign towards lower prices irrespective of the disastrous economic consequences both to capital and labor.

If the editors had in mind the public good, which undoubtedly was the case, then I would say that they are to be congratulated on their work having been carried out, not wisely but too well. They have not only done their work; they have overdone it. They have brought their readers to so panicky a state of mind that they are really now in no fit condition to appreciate value when they see it.

It is common talk among retailers throughout the country that selling was never as hard as it is today, and that, at a time when no sensible retailer is looking for profits but is simply seeking to sell his stock so as to meet his just obligations.

The Government, too, are to be congratulated on the stand they have taken to encourage honest trading by the imposition of the obnoxious luxury tax. If, as I understand it, it was the intention of the Government to curtail the sale of luxury goods, then they are to be doubly congratulated, for they have not only killed business, but, with the help of the newspapers, they have entirely murdered it.

The newspapers started this propaganda, I say, with a view to stabilizing things; they have brought about little short of a panic. If the newspapers have the same idea in mind now as they had when they started their propaganda, then I repeat it is high time for them to sit up and take note of the disastrous results of their work that was fraught with so much perspiration, but very little inspiration.

There is no justification for such a panic as now exists. Have the mines any less in them than they had six months ago? Have the rivers or sea less fish? Have the forests lost any of their timber wealth? In short, are not our natural resources with us just as much as ever and our power to utilize them just as great?

The only thing that is wrong is that our vision has been dimmed, our initiative dwarfed, and our belief in ourselves and our resources almost killed by this continuous swan song.

For goodness sake, let us wake up.

A MERCHANT.

[Present conditions are not the result of any newspaper propaganda, but of inexorable economic law. The price pendulum swung so high most people could not touch it; then some dealers started cutting to stir up sales, and down it swung. But we agree with the correspondent that there is no reason for any panic. The process of readjustment is almost over. The train of progress and prosperity is moving again. It's time to get on board.—Ed.]

FROM THE STAR FILES

THIRTY YEARS AGO.

(From The Star Files, Dec. 9, 1890.)

London — Subscriptions to the fund for the establishment in Dublin of a new daily paper devoted to the interests of the anti-Parnellite section of the Irish party have reached many thousands of pounds. Thomas Power O'Connor is mentioned as likely to be editor of the new paper. In response to the call issued by Justin McCarthy, leader of the anti-Parnellite section of the Irish party, all the parliamentarians who oppose Mr. Parnell assembled yesterday to consider further the line of policy to be adopted.

Montreal—The following officers were elected this morning at the meeting held by the Protestant Ministerial Association: Revs. Theodore Lafleur, Thomas Bennett, J. T. Pitcher, J. Patterson. On a motion by Rev. Dr. MacVicar, seconded by Rev. Dr. Antliff, a vote of thanks was tendered the retiring president, Rev. J. Fleck, for his efficient service during his term of office.

Helsingfors, Finland — The opera "Mikado" is being performed in the theatre here. The recently-appointed Russian censor considered the part of Poo-Bah objectionable, as likely to inspire disrespect for superior authority and ordered that part of the opera to be considerably modified.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

(Dec. 9, 1900, was Sunday.)

FRENCH-CANADIAN VIEWS

AN ALARMING VERDICT.

L'Evenement: The last time that municipal elections were held at Winnipeg on the morrow of the outbreak and the beginnings of revolution, the Socialist candidate was defeated by Mayor Gray, the latter securing a majority of several thousand votes. This result, now indefinite as we remarked immediately after the election because the property owners having the privelege of a proportional voting in Manitoba, both in municipal and provincial elections, it was evident that their finely organized efforts had saved the champion of order in this eleectoral battle. This year the struggle has not been fought apparently on the class question. Yet the Socialist candidate although beaten once again by the plural vote has reduced the majority of the candidate put forward by the League of Citizens by two-thirds. It appears even that if a great number of the papers that were marked in favor of the demagogue Farmer had not been thrown out the new Mayor Parnell would only have escaped defeat by a majority of a few dozen votes. That is to say that if the revolutionary elements in Winnipeg are less noisy they are not less compact nor less well organized than they were in 1918. It is in the Manitoba capital that their majority is largest. In their bad influence is to be found the key of the situation in the western provinces. It is a poison instead of a medicine in the alimentary duct that feeds the life of the western provinces of Canada. We are not undue alarmists. But we would be blind if we disregarded altogether the danger in that quarter.

PETER'S PENCE.

Le Soleil: In all the churches and chapels of this archdiocese a collection is made on Wednesday for Peter's Pence. Some weeks ago we invited our readers to give a proof of their affection for the Sovereign Pontiff by praying for him. Might we be permitted to ask today that they give positive testimony of their affection by contributing generously to Peter's Pence. The Holy See has expenses to meet which are greater than those of any other government and it is most charitable with its available surplus. The gifts of St. Peter at Rome and Italy alone are equal to those of a king if they do not indeed often surpass them. And while the Governments of the different countries can count on the taxes which they levy the Holy See has only the generosity of the Faithful on which to reckon. To contribute to the cost of the Roman court is as much a Christian duty as it is a Catholic duty. The papacy today is very necessary to the world.

CHRISTMAS GOODIES

CANADIAN MINCEMEAT.

One lb. beef, 1 lb. beef suet, 2 lbs. apples, 3 lbs. currants, 2 lbs. raisins, 1 lb. lemon or orange peel, ½ lb. citron peel, 1½ lbs. brown sugar, 2 nutmegs grated, ½ oz. allspice, ½ oz. cloves, 1 oz. ginger, 1 oz. salt, 3 lemons (juice and grated rind), 1 pint cider.

JELLIED MEAT FOR CHRISTMAS SUPPER.

Soak a tablespoon of gelatin one-half hour in one-half cup of sugar. Put sufficient cooked round steak, cold, through the meat chopper to make a pint and heat until gelatin is dissolved. Add about dessertspoon of canned tomatoes, a tablespoon of grated onion, a level teaspoon of salt and a dash of pepper. Add one-half pint of boiling water in which one-half teaspoon of extract of beef has been dissolved. Stir this into the beef, turn into a small mould and set it in a cool place to harden. Serve cold.

CHRISTMAS CANDIES.

There were never any confections half as delicious or half as wholesome as those made in the home kitchen. They are simple and nourishing. It should be a pleasant occupation for housewives to devise new and pretty Christmas bonbons for their boys and girls. They can picture some of the following at the children's party or on the dinner table—dates split open, pitted, a little marshmallow icing placed within the bright red cherries on top; others filled with cherries or nuts or with marshmallow and nuts. Figs form the basis for another confection when sliced and topped with marshmallow and raisins. Other fig slices might have maple sugar and nuts on top, while maple sugar bonbons could be nicely finished off with raisins.

A pretty idea for anyone wanting a particularly decorative effect is that of a light yellow basket, with a bow of fluffy gauze ribbon on the handle and in the basket rows of prunes from which the pits have been removed and the openings filled with whipped cream piled high. The finishing touch is given when chopped green pistachio nuts are sprinkled over the cream.

The following are some tried and proved candy recipes, which every housekeeper may be assured are nourishing:

Pop-Corn Candy—For making pop-corn candy, either honey, maple syrup, molasses, white cane syrup or corn syrup may be used instead of sugar. To one cup of syrup allow one tablespoon of vinegar. Boil together until syrup hardens when dropped into cold water. Pour over freshly popped corn and mould into balls or fancy shapes for the Christmas tree. Little pop-corn men will please the children. Mark in the features and outline with melted chocolate.

Crystalized Fruits—Use your own preserves. Peach, pear, apple, quince or watermelon rind will do. Drain from the fruit all syrup possible. Cut any size desired, sprinkle with sugar and dry in a warm or a very slow oven. It may be necessary to sprinkle fruit again with sugar during the drying. When dry enough not to be at all sticky sprinkle with sugar and pack in layers with wax paper between. This fruit may be used for dipping in bitter chocolate for bittersweet.

Bitter-sweets—An attractive variety of candies may be made by dipping sweet fruits in bitter chocolate. Use for this purpose dates, citron, candied orange peel or crystalized fruit. Melt unsweetened chocolate in a double boiler. Keep the chocolate just warm enough to prevent solidifying. With a silver fork drop pieces of fruit in chocolate. See that each piece is completely coated, then remove to waxed paper to harden.

Fruit Paste—Put through the meat chopper enough cherry, peach or quince preserves to make a half pint with the juice. Heat it and add two tablespoons of gelatine previously softened in a very little cold water. Stir well, and continue stirring until it begins to cool and thicken, then pour into oiled dish to make a layer one inch thick. Let dry slowly, sprinkle with sugar and place in box with waxed paper between the layers. A mixture of dried apricots and dates may be used for this paste. Wash apricot and soak overnight in enough water to cover. Pour off water, bring it to a boil, pour over apricots and let stand until cool. Put apricots and dates through meat chopper and proceed with the proportions as given.

Chocolate Dainties—Put through the meat chopper one-half cup each of dates, figs and nut meats. Add one tablespoon orange juice, a little grated orange peel and one square of melted unsweetened chocolate. Mould into balls and roll in chopped nuts or granulated sugar. This mixture may be packed in an oiled tin, put under a weight until firm, then cut in any shape desired.

Maple Creams—Boil one cup maple sugar with one cup water until it forms a soft ball when dropped in cold water. Remove from the fire and stir rapidly until it becomes creamy. Form into balls the size of marbles and put nut meats on either side. Lay on wax paper to cool.

SHE RETURNED CHOCOLATES.

I am very quick-tempered and it does not take very much to make me angry.

My friend gave me a box of chocolates and I returned it to him because of a misunderstanding we had.

He called me up at the office the next day and was very angry because I returned the chocolates. I couldn't very well explain myself then as there were some people in the office and he closed the phone without saying good-bye. It was my fault that we quarrelled but I know that in time he would have forgiven me, but by returning the chocolates I lost the best friend I ever had and I know that I will never find another fellow that I could trust as much as I trusted my friend and although I may never see him again, I shall never forget how good and true he was to me. I know he'll never forgive me, but just the same I want him to see that I appreciated his friendship and that I'm very sorry I hurt his feelings.

"TRUE BLUE FRIEND."

THEY THINK HE'S SPOILED.

Under the heading "After the Ball," we have just finished reading a letter signed by "Extremely Disappointed." We would like to meet that young man and tell him our opinion of him, and we can certainly tell him what he is suffering from. He says: "What keeps me sad, and serious, and grievous?" We can tell him. It's just an extremely large bump of false pride, or he is just plain stuck on himself. What he wanted was to have the girl stick around and make a fuss over him. We have met types like him before, but they are few and far between, thank goodness, and don't generally waste good time in airing their grievances to the public. What has he been reading Dime novels? How old is he, anyhow? Is he out of the cradle, for he writes like a spoilt child. Is he so good-looking that he thinks all the girls should fall in love with him? Let him come to Sault Ste. Marie, and he will soon find out how to get used to little things like that. If that is a disappointment, he can look out for many more. For one thing, did he ask the girl for these dances, or just take them for granted? Or because it is Leap Year did he think she should ask him for them?

Our sympathy is all for the girl, and we sincerely hope that he will get over "the shame and injustice he has suffered" before he wishes himself on another girl for an evening's entertainment. If he takes every little thing like that he is going to get a good many hard knocks getting through this world.

We do like good sports, and he certainly is not one. We can't help but think that maybe that letter was sent in for a joke, but we hope you will print this anyway, as we are sure a good many boys and girls agree with us.

HEALTH TALKS
By JOHN B. HUBER, A.M., M.D.

"Nature is conquered only by medicine."

MORPHINISM.

"I have been taking morphine for severe pain due to disease. I am not increasing the amount I take. If you could advise something that would, to a certain extent, take the place of the morphine I would be deeply grateful to you. I cannot go about my occupation, so necessary to my existence, while suffering from the severe pain. Thus for years I have continued taking a remedy that is worse than the disease."

Answer—I am deeply grieved by your letter, all of which I do not print. As you say, institutions are expensive and utterly beyond the means of most sufferers; nor do they invariably produce the results they claim. You appear to be amenable to treatment. An earnest, firm, family doctor, and a good patient like yourself (with, if possible, a nurse or other attendant) should by good team work rid you of the habit.

The Lambert, Pettey, Jennings and other systems of cure can all be carried out in the home. The main issues are persistence in the treatment and extreme fortitude in the patient.

Has your doctor consulted a surgeon about having the diseased conditions you mention entirely removed from your system? Further information is being mailed to you.

Questions And Answers.

CHILLS.

"I have been suffering with 'chills' between the shoulder blades and at times, in hot or cold weather, am taken with a chill that shakes me through and through; but suffer mostly at bedtime with the chill in the centre of my back, which seems never to grow warm."

Answer—A true chill is always associated with more or less elevation of bodily temperature, although the surface is pale and cold, the teeth chatter and the nails and lips are blue.

There are degrees of chill, from the "creepiness" that, when you mention it, causes people to say, "Some one is walking over your grave," to the hard chill which may be associated with danger to life. Almost all fever diseases, whether infectious or inflammatory or suppurative or malarial, are ushered in by chilliness or marked chill. Acute Pneumonia, peritonitis, blood poisoning and rheumatism are examples. Chill and fever may follow the passage of a stone, or an attack of severe pain. A pain in the chest associated with a chill should call for an examination as to possible tuberculosis.

True chill must be discriminated from the "nervous chill" which excitable people often feel. Here the skin remains normal and there is no internal fever demonstrable by the clynical thermometer. As a result of conditions in general, there may be hysteria or neurasthenia, or depressed sensations of chilliness, of coldness, without shaking or fever.

Vincent's Angina.

"What is Vincent's Angina?"

Answer—It is a form of tonsilitis without fever, and generally affecting only one tonsil.

All inquiries addressed to Dr. Huber in care of the "Health Talks" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

NEAR EAST RELIEF FUND.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. — The executive committee of the Near East relief yesterday appropriated $2,141,269.96 for relief work and made it immediately available to meet the emergency caused by the Turkish invasion of the Armenian Republic and the distress incident to the approach of winter.

Every cell of the human body which needs to be repaired or renewed must have the food constituent called protein, obtained from milk, meat, eggs, peas, beans, and the gluten of wheat. While the primary function of protein foods is repair and growth, yet the body can use them to furnish heat and energy, though fats and sugars are the right foods to supply these factors. Thus, if the body gets more protein than it needs for growth, it turns it into heat. About fifteen per cent of the caloric value (heat value) should come from proteins, but as they are the most expensive kind of food, the rest ought to come from fats and sugars, the natural sources of heat and energy. When this balance is preserved, it is said that the proteins are "protected," that is, they are used for growth, and not for heat.

Besides the higher cost of proteins there is the disadvantage to the body that when taken in excess they are slow and difficult of digestion, and the strain on the digestive organs is greater than it should be. A great part of the suffering from liver and kidney trouble, especially after middle age, when growth has ceased, and only repair is necessary, has been attributed to over strain on the organs of elimination in the digestion of protein foods. A diet should provide protein for growth and repair, but heat and energy should come from fats and sugars. Young people need more protein than old people, who should gradually decrease that part of their food content.

Covent Garden, in London, originally was the garden of the abbot of Westminster. It is a spacious square in London, celebrated for a great market, where fruits and vegetables and flowers are sold, and has an auditorium where many famous events have taken place. The square was formed about 1631 and is related to the modern history of London.

How Do You Say It?
Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them
By C. N. LURIE
(Copyright.)

"A BIG MAN."

(Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

"You don't know Henry Smith? Why, he's the big man of our town!"

This use of "big" is not approved by authorities on English. It is called "colloquial," which means "used in common use." One writer, in the Standard Dictionary, tells us that "'big' is not the equivalent of 'great.' A 'big' man may be very far from being a 'great' man, physically a 'large' man; but we do not ordinarily speak of the Father of His Country as a 'Big' man."

In the example criticised here, we should say: "He's the leading man of our town, or the chief man, or the great man." Any of these words conveys the idea, and it is not necessary to take "big" away from its proper employment, to show greatness of amount or size. For example, we may say of a writer that his writings amount in words of three or more syllables; that he is too fond of big words.

First class narrow roads are replacing the old paths in Japan. Auto roads, electric roads and light railways serve many parts of the country in a surprising manner, while rolling stock and handling methods are being improved.

BEDTIME STORY--HISTORY OF NAME

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME BY THORNTON W. BURGESS

FARMER BROWN'S BOY GUESSES WHAT IS WRONG.

He is his own most helpful aid
Who knows just when to be afraid.
--Farmer Brown's Boy.

Something was wrong with Rusty the Fox Squirrel. Farmer Brown's boy knew it the instant he discovered that Rusty had no appetite for his breakfast. It was a good breakfast, a fine breakfast, but Rusty hardly touched it, which was very unusual for him.

"What is the matter with you?" asked Farmer Brown's boy. Of course Rusty didn't reply. He didn't reply because he didn't understand what Farmer Brown's boy said. Instead he climbed up on Farmer Brown's boy's head, a thing he had never done before. Then Farmer Brown's boy noticed that Rusty was trembling.

He was puzzled. It was clear to him that Rusty was afraid of something, but that he wasn't afraid of him. He took Rusty out of the cage. It was the first time, and he half expected to see Rusty leap away. But Rusty didn't. Instead he ran up Farmer Brown's boy's arm to his shoulder and sat there, still trembling. Farmer Brown's boy gently put him down on the floor and stepped back.

Rusty hesitated. Then what do you think he did? He climbed back into that wire cage. Yes, sir, that is just what he did. He climbed back into that wire prison and crouched in the darkest corner of it. Farmer Brown's boy scratched his head in a puzzled way. He was puzzled. He couldn't understand Rusty going back into that cage of his own accord. "Something is the matter with him," muttered Farmer Brown's boy. "He acts afraid of something, but there isn't a thing here for him to be afraid of." Then a thought popped into his head. "I wonder," said he, "if Rusty had a fright in the night. Perhaps Black Pussy the Cat got in here and tried to get at him. Yet I am sure I shut Black Pussy up last night. I don't see how it could have been her, but it is a sure thing that something gave him a bad fright."

Farmer Brown's boy closed the little door of the cage and went about his morning work, and all the time he kept puzzling over Rusty's behavior. By and by, as he was getting some meal from a bin, he noticed something on the floor in a corner. He went over to it and found the body of a gray old Rat.

"This is queer," muttered Farmer Brown's boy. "Now what could have happened to him?"

He turned the Rat over with his toe and bent to look closer. Then his face lighted. "Shadow the Weasel has been here!" he exclaimed. "There isn't the least doubt about it. He killed this pest, and I hope he has killed all the rest of the Rats about here. Now I know what ails Rusty. Shadow must have discovered him in that cage and tried to get in. No wonder he is frightened. But the little rascal knows when he is well off. He knows that Shadow can't get into that cage and that is why he went back into it. He knows he isn't safe outside with Shadow the Weasel about, and that he is safe inside. Poor little chap, he must have had a dreadful scare. I'll have to see to it he doesn't have another. Shadow probably will stay around here until he has driven out all those pesky Rats. I hope he will. But I can't have him frightening Rusty to death."

So when he had finished his work Farmer Brown's boy took Rusty's cage over to the house, where there was no chance for Shadow the Weasel to frighten him again, and that night Rusty slept well.

"Shadow the Weasel has been here!" he exclaimed.

THE HISTORY OF YOUR NAME

(By Philip Francis Nowlan.)

MacDERMOT

VARIATIONS—MacDermid, MacDermott, MacDiarmid, Darby.
RACIAL ORIGIN—Gaelic.
SOURCE—A given name.

Family names of this group are common in both Ireland and Scotland, coming as they do from the same given name. But the evidence is that they originated in both countries independently.

The given name is a very ancient one, and is found spelled variously "Diarmid," "Dermid" and "Diarmoldh." It is one that is found all through the history of Ireland, long before it was taken from that country to the land destined to be known in the future as Scotland by the Irish clans known as the Dairiadic Scots.

But probably the most noteworthy "Diarmid," at least the one who had the greatest influence on the history of Ireland, was one who lived later, at the time of the first Anglo-Norman invasions. He was a king of Leinster, a romantic figure, though a traitor to his Celtic blood, who invited the aid of Earl Strongbow and the English in attacks on neighboring Irish kingdoms.

In Scotland the family name of MacDermid of MacDiarmid is borne chiefly by members of one of the septs of the Clan Campbell of Argyle, who derive it from a chieftain of that name, celebrated as "the slayer of the wild boar," who was the progenitor of the house of Argyle.

The given name, in the ancient Gaelic tongue, meant "free-man."

Tomorrow—Fortescue.

The Most Beautiful Phonograph To Be Had

FASHIONS FOR TODAY

Checks and plaids are always in style for children, although during the present season plain colors have decidedly held first place. For this very reason a frock or coat developed in a striking plaid or checked fabric stands as distinctive.

The coat shown in the sketch indicates what may be done with a checked fabric when a girl of eight or ten years is to be outfitted. The coat blouses a trifle at the waist line and fastens snugly at one side, the neck being finished with a generous scarf collar. One end of this collar is slit so that the other end may be passed through it and the collar held more snugly in place on a very cold or windy day. The ends of the scarf may be finished with a bias band of the fabric or with deep fringe.

Soft flannel in vivid colors is used to line many smart little coats. The one illustrated might be lined with bright red, blue or green flannel. A velvet tam blending with the coat in color or of black would be smart as a headgear selection.

Checks and plaids, according to present indications, will come into their own again in children's early spring apparel. One little frock recently seen, combining plain and plaid material, had a full pleated skirt of the plaid with a plain color waist finished with collar and cuffs matching the skirt.

Plaid ginghams are used for cunning bloomers for very small boys and girls, these garments being usually finished with plain collar, cuffs and knee bandings. Incidentally, pongee and gingham are combined with very good effect in the development of romper suits.

According to present indications, next season will see a great many little long waisted wash frocks for girls of six years and less, the skirts of many of these dresses being mere ruffles sewed on to a dress that is as straight and plain as an old-fashioned apron. Sometimes one ruffle or skirt is used, again two or three appear, the effect being rather ballet-like if the material used is of the crisp and flaring variety.

DANCING---GOOD OR EVIL?

ENGLAND DANCE MAD

Parents Alarmed for Their Children But are Dancing Themselves

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 4.—English mothers are alarmed by their daughters' new dancing customs. The old dances were promiscuous affairs, and girls were constantly changing partners. The new dances are intimate, and there is no change of partner. The London girls are now busy making their selection of the partner who shall dance with them during the coming season—that is, they are trying to. Only the fortunate succeed, for there is a dearth of men.

Father and mother may protest that it wasn't so in their day, that it was noticeably wrong, and caused comment, when a young lady danced repeatedly with the same partner. But father and mother must keep silent, or be classed as out of date as the lancers, and nobody wants to be so old as that, in London.

The professional dancer usually is blamed for the permanent association. Nearly every dance hall has a star turn, a dancing duet, who live by showing how divinely two people can dance together, provided they dance often enough and long enough together.

"It is so obvious when people are not practiced together. If one 'dips' and the other is unprepared, of course it is a clumsy exhibition, and nobody wants to be clumsy." * * * "So the daughter of the house argues with her parents.

Because the parents cannot prevail on their children directly there is the likelihood of a little storm in the newspapers about it. A short time ago there was discussion of war marriages. The modern equivalent is the "dance marriage."

DANCERS SEEM MADLY IN LOVE.

Again the professional is blamed, for all professionals when they dance seem madly in love with each other. They may be, or they may not, but whether they are or not it is nobody's affair as long as they keep up appearances. The winning smile of the lady, and the worshipful attendance of the man, however, are not lost on the dance partners, and dreams of dancing through life follow. Sometimes they try it * * * but not being professionals, they don't all keep up the pace and the marriages are not often happy.

The selection of a dance partner, according to the modern Mrs. Grundy, is the first step towards unhappy marriage. The young lady of today replies that she has no intention of marrying her partner. He is only a dance partner.

IS A STRANGE DANCE SEASON.

Meanwhile the dance is on, and the possible unhappiness is lost in the exhilaration of the moment. Parents wish the dances were a little different, but * * * they are learning the new ones, and the happy other side is coming to notice. Dance partnership works both ways. It is a strange season. Some younger partners are, possibly, making mistakes, and many older partners are undoing mistakes.

This winter there will be an orgy of dancing. Fortunes are

HOOVER TO GIVE HARDING ADVICE

Will Be First Consulted to Recommend Peace Ratification

ON ARTICLE X.

To Advise United States Entry Into League, Minus Objections

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(By Fred S. Ferguson, United News). — Herbert Hoover will advise President-elect Harding on Saturday that the Republican administration ratify the Treaty of Versailles at as early a date as possible after March 4 next, eliminate Article X from the Covenant of the League of Nations insofar as America is concerned, and then notify the League that if this and some minor changes are made in the Covenant, the United States will become a member.

HOOVER TO BE CONSULTED.

Hoover will be the first of several of the "leading minds" of the country with whom Harding will consult in a series of conferences at his home in Marion. The "pro-Leaguers" within the Republican party are thus the first to get the ear of the President-elect. Harding will hear Senators and other leaders representing all shades of opinion on the League question, from "irreconcilables" on to "mild reservationists," before announcing his policy. Senator McCormick, one of those opposed to entrance into the League upon any consideration, will make a detailed report to Harding from his viewpoint, based upon first-hand observation. Former Senator Root will present his viewpoint, based upon his observations while assisting in setting up the machinery for the International Court of Justice.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 9. — A fifty per cent cut in cotton production in 1921, through curtailment of the acreage planted to one-third of the total land in cultivation, was agreed upon at a conference here yesterday of the Southern bankers, merchants and farmers.

IMPORTS INCREASE IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Apparent Effort to Reduce Adverse Trade Balance With U.S.

Big increases in Newfoundland imports from other parts of the Empire, and particularly from Canada, easily her largest supplier, are shown in customs figures received this morning by the Senior British Trade Commissioner from St. John's, Nfld. There is a notable decrease in imports from the United States, of $1,155,169, and it was suggested that this may be an attempt on the part of Newfoundlanders to cut down their adverse trade balance with the States. With almost every country from which Newfoundland buys, however, increases in business are shown for the fiscal year ending June 30 last, compared with the previous year.

Imports from Great Britain, for example, for the last fiscal year almost doubled, the total being $4,637,074, an increase of $2,237,221, or 93 per cent. The increase with Canada totals almost twice as much, the total imports having been $18,767,238, an increase of $5,989,554, or 47 per cent. Spain is another fair-sized supplier to Newfoundland, but last year the imports decreased $74,140, or about 30 per cent.

As regards exports, comparative figures for the last two years have not been received. But it may be noted that Great Britain last year bought Newfoundland products to the value of $6,411,967, about 70 per cent. more than she sold her, whilst Canada's purchases are much smaller than her sales, totalling only $2,602,859.

Portugal looks to Newfoundland for much of her requirements, as she bought $8,242,401 worth; Spain, the next largest buyer, coming in with $4,612,851. Brazil comes close with purchases of $4,065,499.

The United States is another country which, like Canada, buys less from than she sells to Newfoundland, and her purchases for the last year were only $4,426,142.

Other Empire buyers include the British West Indies, while Australia, distant as she is, bought $300,000 worth of goods. Greece and Italy are the only large European purchasers, not already mentioned.

LORD CURZON AS GRAMMAR TEACHER

When he first went to the Foreign Office as Under-Secretary to Lord Salisbury, Lord Curzon, George Nathaniel Curzon as he was then), going through the copy of a despatch from the British Ambassador in Peking to the Chinese Yamen, lit on the following passage:—"Your Highness and your Excellencies have more than once intimated to me that the Chinese Government were aware of the great importance that has always been attached by Great Britain to the retention of the Chinese possession of the Yangtse region, now entirely hers."

MORE JOY.

The construction of this sentence so vexed Mr. Curzon that he wrote in the margin: "Not grammar! 'China' has not been mentioned, only 'Chinese possession' and 'the Chinese Government,' neither of which are of the feminine gender. However, I suppose we must not be pedantic, but must leave Sir C. Macdonald and the Yamen to use bad grammar if they prefer."

There was huge joy in the Foreign Office when the despatch was made public and they found that the printer had embodied therein Mr. Curzon's annotation. And still greater was the joy when the newspapers pointed out that the Under-Secretary, when pontifically correcting the Ambassador's grammar, had made a worse blunder by writing "neither of which are of the feminine gender."

A COMMON TROUBLE.

"I got a letter from my husband from Paris."

"How is he getting on with the French people?"

"He says they are very nice and polite, but they don't seem to understand their own language."—Baltimore American.

DESCRIBES TROUT AND RE-STOCKING

Chapleau Fishing Club President Gives Talk on Game Fish

W. J. Carmichael, president of the Chapleau Trout Fishing Club, who was the guest of honor yesterday at the weekly luncheon of the Montreal Electrical Club, held at Freeman's hotel, delivered an interesting address on the subject of "Trout and Re-stocking."

Describing the diminuition in the game fish of the country as opposed to the increase in the numbers of the market varieties such as white fish, the speaker attributed it to the fact that the Federal Government supplies hatcheries for the latter, while the care of the former is left to the provinces and the private clubs.

Mr. Carmichael spoke of the conditions which have eventually succeeded in cutting down the supply of trout, chief among these being the cutting of the forests with the encroachment of civilization, poaching on a large scale, including netting and dynamiting of the lakes, and to a smaller extent the ever larger number of sportsmen who go each year into the woods in search of sport and who kill as many fish as they can.

Dealing especially with the steps taken by the Chapleau Club on Sugar bush Lake, the speaker explained in detail the process of spawning of the red trout which use the shallow spots in lake and river for the purpose. The habits of the grey trout, which use the deeper rocky bottomed pools, were more difficult to determine. Statistics showed that 85 per cent of eggs spawned under natural conditions failed to hatch out, while a like number of eggs matured in hatcheries produced fish. Of 30,000 eggs laid on the bed of a river, said Mr. Carmichael, quoting a well-known authority, only 4 or 5 fit fish will appear.

In the past three years at the Chapleau Club two to two and a half times the amount of fish have resulted from the intelligent supervision of the spawning in conjunction with the Government Fish hatcheries at Mont Tremblant. A vote of thanks was accorded to the speaker. Eugene Tarte, vice-president of the Chapleau Club, also attended the luncheon.

ANXIOUS TO KNOW SHAPE OF ANKLES

"How many of us really know how we look from the waistline down?" asks the New York Sun. "We are perfectly acquainted with the upper part of our body, especially the head, but if suddenly we struck a reflection of the lower part we would think it belonged to someone else.

"This undoubtedly is the result of the absence of "floor mirrors" from our homes. We dress in the morning before the chiffonier or dresser mirror, during the day perhaps snatch a glance of ourselves in a mirror pasted near the top of a chewing gum or chocolate contrivance and in the evening another hurried glance, and so forth, day in and day out.

"And this is the cause of so many of us being interested in our visions when passing a store window that has sufficient background for a clear reflection. We want to become friends with the shape of our ankles and the fit of our shoes and upward as far as the waist.

"Also it will be noticed that long mirrors in public places are continually kept busy by would-fe friends with their ankles."

"I won't leave him, and that is all there is about it!" declared Nan with sudden spirit, her dark, gipsy-like face aglow. "I love Dad almost better than anybody in the world, and I won't run away while he is ill and needs me. Don't mind him, Sergeant Odell; we're always quarreling. Did you wish to talk to me?"

"Yes, for just a moment; but first I want to assure your friend that you are as safe here as constant care and watchfulness can make you. I do not think it would be wise for you to take up even a temporary residence elsewhere unless actual danger threatens you from a source which we cannot control; for others of the household might wish to avail themselves of the same privilege."

"In that case," said Tad, rising, "I suppose I had better take myself off. I hope, Sergeant, that you will be able to take care of her; but it is a horrible thing to think of her being here! Good-by, Nan."

Woman-like, she permitted him to get as far as the entrance door before she ran after him, and the detective smiled in spite of himself. There had been an engaging quality about the young man's boyish yet very earnest outburst, which had enabled Odell to read his character more clearly than hours of grilling examination would have revealed; and he felt with relief that here at least was one person more or less intimately connected with the household whose complexities need not be taken into account.

Nan returned as the front door thudded, her soft eyes sparkling and the dusky rose glow still suffusing her face; but color and light alike died from her expression as she closed the door carefully behind her and approached the detective.

"Ronnie says that you have proof that my mother—" Her voice faltered and stopped. Then suddenly a swift cry burst from her lips. "Is it true that they were murdered, my mother and Juliani?"

"I am afraid there is no possibility of a doubt," Odell returned gravely. "I have heard all that the rest of the family and the servants can tell me, Miss Chalmers; and now I have come to you. You experienced the same fears, the same vague suspicions as the others after your brother's death, did you not?"

"Yes, but I didn't really suspect; none of us did, I'm sure. I only felt nervous and afraid of something I couldn't see, as if I were a little bit of a girl again and woke up in the dark." She drew a deep breath. "I cannot imagine who would wish to harm us; I can scarcely believe that this dreadful thing is true. But, but granted that it is, the most awful part is that someone beneath our roof—"

Her voice had sunk to a mere whisper and once more it failed her.

"I realize how difficult it is for you to face, but there is no alternative." The detective spoke very gently. "Some one of the household is guilty, and it is my business to discover the identity of that person before another tragedy comes. I will not distress you by asking for details which the others have already given me of the events of the past month; but there is just one question I should like to put to you, and I want you to think back very carefully before you reply. Can you recall the slightest incident, the most trivial remark on the part of anyone, no matter who, which might lead you to think that they possessed some personal knowledge of the truth?"

For a moment Nan reflected, while Odell watched the ever-changing play of expression on her childishly mobile face. The mingling of horror and grief gave place to a look of forced concentration, as if, in obedience to his request, she was indeed reviewing each tragic episode in her mind and striving to recall a possible clue. All at once a startled gleam quivered like a flame from her eyes and she caught her breath sharply. Then the light fluttered and she shook her head.

"No, Sergeant Odell. There was nothing, nothing that anyone said or did at any time which could have made me think such a thing."

Ten minutes later as the detective went briskly down the steps of the house he mentally catalogued that flitting expression for future reference. It was the only point which his interview with Nan Chalmers had elicited, yet is was a pregnant one. She had remembered something, some act or word on the part of one of those about her which conveyed a startling possibility to her mind, and she had as quickly and instinctively hidden it from him.

After a hasty lunch he made his way to the address which Smith had given him, and found himself facing a somber, old-fashioned apartment house of the cheaper grade, one of a long row identical with it which stretched the length of the block. He entered the vestibule, scrutinized the soiled cards inserted in the slots below the mail-boxes, and at length rang the janitor's bell.

After an interval heavy, shuffling footsteps sounded from within and the door opened, disclosing a fat, middle-aged woman with a good-natured if somewhat loose-lipped smile, which froze at the sight of the stranger.

"If you've got me up all them stairs to try to sell me somethin'—", she began, but Odell cut her short.

"I haven't. I'm looking for a Mrs. Gael who used to live here, and if you can tell me anything which will help me to locate her I will make it worth your while."

The woman sniffed.

"Process-server?"

"No; a friend of hers." Odell smiled. "We've been unable to find out where she went from here, and it occurred to me that possibly you would know if you are the janitress. She has simply dropped from the sight of her friends."

"Wel, I wouldn't wonder." The woman sniffed again. "I guess if I had to be took off to a place like that I wouldn't want folks to know, either. Not that you'd ever have thought it for a minute to look at her or talk to her; but if I'd known she wasn't right you'd never have got me alone there in the flat with her."

"Wasn't right!" Odell repeated when he could stem the flow of words. "What sort of a place was she taken to?"

"A loon'tic asylum!" the woman replied with morbid relish. "You could have knocked me down with a feather when I heard it. She told me she was goin' to a san'tarium to rest, though she hadn't done nothin' while she lived here but moon around the house; and she had hardly any callers, only one gentleman as I know of, and him not often. It's funny her friends didn't look her up before, if they was so concerned about her."

"But where was she taken? What sanitarium?" The detective's thoughts were racing now. "On whose advice did she go?"

"How should I know?" I ain't never one to poke my nose in the tenants' affairs. She was sad-like when she came, and she kept gettin' droopier and droopier as time went on, but she was always soft-spoken and quiet, and I never saw her do anythin' funny; no more did Agnes, her girl that come in by the day. Except for her, Mis' Gael was all alone. It was after that gentleman who called now and again had been here for the next to the last time that Mis' Gael sent for me and told me she was goin' away to the san'tarium, but she'd be back in a few weeks. She left the next day, and my man helped put her trunk in the taxi. That very afternoon a movin'-van backed up to the door, and the boss of it showed me an order to take out all her things and put them in storage. Her rent was paid up in advance till the end of her lease, so I had nothin' to say, and I an't heard of her since."

"Who told you that the sanitarium to which Mrs. Gael was taken was a lunatic asylum?" Odell drew a wallet from his pocket and ostentatiously selected a bill.

"The gentleman, sir; the one that used to call on her." With an effort the woman wrenched her fascinated gaze from the wallet. "I never did hear his name, but I guess he was a relation. He came in that afternoon before the movin' men was through, just as I was havin' words with the boss of them about scratchin' my hall wall-paper, and he drew me to one side and told me Mrs. Gael was crazy. He said she had been for a long time, and her family had made up their minds now to put her where maybe she'd be cured. You could have knocked me down—"

"What was this gentleman like?"

"Well, about forty, sir. I guess. Kind of handsome he was; but he looked like he'd done most everything there is and a lot of it hadn't agreed with him. He was a gentleman though; you'd only to look at his clothes and that elegant scarf-pin to tell that. Not that it would be my taste to be wearin' a thing shaped like a skull—"

"A skull?" repeated the detective.

"The pin, sir. Some kind of a pearl, it looked like, and it must have cost a lot of money, but it was just the shape of a skull. It give me a turn to look at it." The woman paused for breath and then rattled on: "Well, after the gentleman talked to me he went up to the flat where Agnes was wonderin' what was goin' to happen next; and he told her just what he told me. After he'd gone she came down and said he had got her a fine job in Chicago and given her the money to get there. I guess she went; for I ain't seen her again, either."

"When did all this happen?"

"About nine months ago, sir. The flat's rented again now to a family named—"

"Never mind." Odell pressed the bill into her hand. "I think Mrs. Gael's friends will be able to locate her now."

"Thank you, sir. There was a young lady here askin' for her yesterday, too, my man tells me. I hope Mrs. Gael gets well; there's a lot that's crazier-actin' than her walkin' around loose."

Odell glanced at his watch as he descended the steps. It was a quarter to three. If he made a quick subway connection he would reach the financial district just in time to catch Dilke—

As he returned the watch to his pocket he glanced idly at a figure loitering by the curb and his train of though snapped. The figure was shabby and uncouth, and the eyes which stared out at him from the thin, sickly yellow countenance were deeply sunken. The man uttered a low imprecation and turned to run; but in another moment Odell's hand gripped his shoulder and swung him about so that they stood face to face.

"Well, Tony! So you weren't burned, after all, when you set fire to the boathouse!" The grip tightened. "Why did you kill Pete?"

"I didn't! Honest to Gawd, I didn't!" Tony cringed. "When I woke up he was sittin' there dead in the chair, an' you an' de other guy was gone. So help me Gawd!"

"Come along and tell that to the Old Man down at Headquarters." Odell signaled a passing taxi, and thrusting in his cowering captive he followed. "Two-forty Centre Street, and step on the gas!"

As the chauffeur obeyed Tony passed a shaking hand across his unshaven lips.

"I'm wise dat I gotta do a stretch for stickin' up youse an' de other guy an' keepin' youse hid in dat boathouse, but I never croaked Pete."

"There'll be a little charge of incendiarism tacked on that will hold you on another count, too, my friend," Odell promised grimly.

"Come again?"

"Burning down that boathouse to conceal the body."

"Nottin' doin'. Dat was a accident. De dope got to Pete, an' when I see he's croaked I falls back against dat table an' over koes de lamp. I'm still cloudy from de dope, an' all I got sense enough ter do is ter beat it.—Say, mister," Tony leaned forward slyly, "if youse was wise dat Pete was dead before youse an' de other guy made your get-away, youse are hep dat I didn't croak him; an' it's a safe bet Pete an' me didn't drag youse an' yer look-out ter dat Gawd-forsaken hole ter nurse youse hot back ter health. Youse is a square guy; will youse say a good word fer me wit' de Old Man if I put youse wise ter de main squeeze in dat little game, de swell dat paid us ter keep youse out o' de way?"

"Can that," Odell responded laconically. "You don't know where to find him yourself or you wouldn't have been hanging around that street. Who told you to look there for him—Sims?"

"Youse is on." Tony drew back disconsolately in his corner. "I may do a stretch but dey'll go up wit' me, de two o' dem! Dis ain't the foist job I done fer dat guy, but Sims was always de go-between, an' I never laid eyes on him till he showed up yes'day wit' Sims at de boathouse. Dat's Gawd's trut'."

"What other jobs have you done for him? Come clean, Tony. How do I know you didn't dope that whiskey to get away with Pete's roll and the rest that you were both to be paid?"

"Youse wouldn't frame me?" Tony's hoarse voice rose to a whine. "I kin prove dat Pete bought dat whiskey off a hick an' de laud-mun in a drug store in de burg near where we was at. But I'll come clean, all right; if I'm goin' up, I'm goin' ter have comp'ny. De guy dat Sims works fer is a blackmailer, see? Gets somet'in' on rich kids an' makes 'em cough up. When dey puts up a kick Sims comes after me, an' I rocks 'em ter sleep an' sits beside de cradle till dey wakes up an' comes across. Dey t'inks it's just a hold-up an' kidnappin' job o' mine an' never gets wise dat de big guy is back o' it; but dey coughs up just de same an' never squeals fer fear de other bus'ness will come out; an' I divvy wid de main squeeze t'rough Sims."

"You made use of that boathouse before?"

"Nix. We never took nome o' dem out o' de city, an' I t'ought it was bad dope ter do it wid youse, but we had our orders. We kept 'em in a loft over by de river; I kin take youse dere—"

STUART GUEST OF LONDON CANADIANS

Anglo-American Friendship Features Speeches at Banquet

DAVIS' TRIBUTE

U.S. Ambassador Says Canada Truly Interpreter Between Two Nations

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(By Canadian Press Cable)—The Canadian Club here last night entertained Sir Campbell Stuart, managing director of the Times. Sir George Parkin presided and proposed Sir Campbell's health, and the toast was supported by Sir George Perley, Canadian High Commissioner.

John W. Davis, United States Ambassador, wrote: "I greatly regret that other engagements prevent my attendance as I had hoped to join in wishing the guest of honor all success in the great and responsible duties which have fallen to him.

"His past career gives sufficient earnest of further triumphs I should have welcomed, also the opportunity to salute in a fraternal spirit the Canadians assembled together, for Canada is truly the 'interpreter's house,' where Great Britain and the United States meet on common ground. With Great Britain you share the traditions of the immemorial past and the problems of the Imperial present, while you join America in the adventure of subduing a virgin continent working out the duties of self-government in a Federalized democracy.

"We are thus comrades in peace, as we have been brothers in arms. May we never be strangers at each other's feasts."

Sir Campbell Stuart, responding to the toast in his honor, said he could imagine no greater honor for a Canadian than to be a guest at such a gathering, nor was the honor lessened by the presence of the chairman, whose high privilege it was to be the guardian of that treasury of Imperial sentiment and faith which Cecil Rhodes, the boldest and biggest figure of our time, bequeathed to the Empire of his vision and of our vision.

Sir Campbell was also grateful to Premier Meighen and ex-Premier Sir Robert Borden for the messages they had sent. Canadians, he said, who lived away from their native land, were able to appreciate the services Sir Robert Borden rendered. Continuing, Sir Campbell said:—

ANGLO-AMERICAN FRIENDSHIP.

"Anglo-American friendship is built on deep and firm foundations; on a community of race and a community of ideals. If there have been, if there are any differences between the two countries, they are essentially family differences, the outcome of a close similarity, rather than of any natural divergence. But we Canadians cannot regard those relations as being reciprocal between Great Britain and the United States alone. We of the British race are also of the western continent. We possess an individuality of our own. In this matter we agree with Ambassador Davis that we are conscious that we have our own part to play in cementing a true union of ideals between the Anglo-Saxon race of the Old World and the Anglo-Saxon race of the New World. No United States Ambassador has ever estimated the Canadian factor in world peace more accurately than Mr. Davis, but when I speak of him in this regard I must also mention another Ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, who has already proved himself one of the most successful and one of the greatest of our representatives in the United States. He had the great advantage that he knew Canada well. He knew how firmly the structure of Anglo-American friendship will be welded in Canada; will be, indeed, the keystone of the arch. He has had knowledge and breadth of vision to foresee how the growth of our country, rapid and immense as it is certain to be, should mean, as please God it will mean, an increasing stability in the equilibrium of the world. From our four dark and terrible years of war there has sprung up amongst us a new and vital conception of the British Commonwealth, united in race and aim.

IMPERIAL UNITY.

"The age of the pioneer is passing. Cecil Rhodes and Joseph Chamberlain have gone. Let us hope that the destiny of our Empire in the great tomorrow may be in the hands of such another pioneer. We have Scriptural warrant for the visions we see. I would trespass on no forbidden ground, but sometimes I long that that spirit which permeates the Empire might be invested with the substance of closer organization in practical affairs. The great Dominions are still in their youth. In all of them new enterprises are coming to birth while their commerce grows and spreads rapidly. But as the young sap rises so will the full grown tree be shaped. Is not this the hour for Imperial statesmen to take counsel, whether it be not possible through a far-seeing policy in Imperial affairs so to influence the springing life of the Empire that Imperial unity will be assured for all time by its strong and interlocking branches?"

TWO DESTROYERS JOIN FORCES OF D'ANNUNZIO

TRIESTE, Dec. 9.—Replying to a letter from Cardinal Gasparri, the Papal Secretary of State, counselling peace and moderation, the mayor of Fiume says that the city is loyal to Italy and desires to rejoin that country.

DESTROYERS JOIN D'ANNUNZIO.

MILAN, Dec. 9. (Star Cable, Copyright)—Much excitement was caused here yesterday when it was reported that two Italian destroyers, the Fratelli and Bronzetti, and the submarine 68 which had formed part of the fleet blockading Fiume, had arrived unexpectedly in Fiume harbor where the sailors pledged themselves as faithful to the D'Annunzio cause.

The officers, the report said, were found imprisoned aboard their vessels. The sailors said the officers had declared they would remain faithful to the Rome Government.

URGE QUICK SETTLEMENT.

ROME, Dec. 9.—Members of the Chamber of Deputies who have returned from Fiume have reported to Premier Giolitti the impressions they received from their visit there, insisting upon the necessity of a quick settlement of the problem.

Meanwhile, the Government has received reports from Fiume to the effect that Socialist, Catholic and Democratic parties do not recognize the legality of the regency instituted by D'Annunzio, and claiming that the people there must be left free to choose their own form of government. The reports add that a large majority of the population of Fiume are ready to accept the Treaty of Rapallo, only wishing to settle the question of the port of Baross, which they think cannot be separated from the remainder of the port of Fiume.

The people of Fiume also are anxious to emerge from the abnormal situation which for fifteen months has cut the city off from commercial activities.

The gravest difficulty seems to be that the Italian Government does not wish to recognize the regency without positive guarantees that before long the population of Fiume will be allowed freely to express their self-determination. Premier Giolitti is anxious to take such action that once the regency is recognized D'Annunzio shall not consider it as a perpetuation of his military rule.

To Construct 45 Public Schools in Mennonite District

WINNIPEG, Dec. 9.—With the completion next year of sixteen new schools to cost approximately $100,000, in the Mennonite districts of Manitoba, the Government's building program instituted two years ago to enforce Mennonites educating their children in the public schools of the province will be completed.

This new construction will make a total of 45 schools in the Mennonite districts of the province.

It was also learned that the Mennonites now hold 460,800 acres of land in Manitoba.

DISCUSS WATERWAY DEVELOPMENT IN U.S.

National Rivers and Harbors Congress Urges Conservation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. — Importance of a studied and systematic development of the waterways of the United States as a means of relieving congestion in railroad traffic, particularly in bulk commodities, and of insuring more economic movement of export freight was emphasized by speakers at the opening session here yesterday of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress.

Secretary of War Baker told the Congress the country faced a period when it must conserve to the utmost its transportation resources and facilities, while Secretary of Commerce Alexander emphasized the importance of cheaper movement of export freight from the interior of the United States to maintain an export trade commensurate with the carrying capacity of its new merchant marine. Both declared the necessities could be met only by a systematic development and use of inland waterways.

"I think we are coming to a realization," Secretary Baker said, "that the mania for speed in transportation is an unwise one unless it is at the same time a discriminating mania; that great bulk commodities drawn at express speed is a waste of the natural resources of the country."

The conclusion is manifest," said Secretary Alexander, "that the future prosperity of the great Mississippi valley demands more adequate and economical transportation facilities, and the only practical way to secure these would seem to be to utilize our great waterways and make them arteries of commerce, not only to the gateways of the Gulf of Mexico, but from Duluth, by way of the Great Lakes to the Atlantic.

C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central, another speaker, declared it would be a mistake to turn over the transportation of heavy freight to inland water lines as it was from the shipment of such freight that the railroads derived a large proportion of their freight-carrying profits. Mr. Markham urged that waterway expenditures be concentrated "where physical and commercial conditions are favorable to the development of a large water-borne traffic."

U.S. FARMERS ENDORSE RIVER ROUTE.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 9.—Resolutions favoring the St. Lawrence great waterways ship canal development were adopted here yesterday at the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation. The farmers further requested President-elect Harding to appoint a secretary of agriculture who has a practical understanding of all phases of farming.

The legislative program asked of Congress by the Federation was a lengthy one, including changes in the tariff, extended loans to farmers, and measures to check the present rapid progress of price deflation.

PRINCE OF WALES SHOWS BIG VISION

British Press Warns Other Leaders Must Widen Their Views

MUST UNDERSTAND

Great Need for Clear Knowledge of Dominions' Aspirations

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(By Canadian Press Cable)—Discussing the visit of the Prince of Wales to the city on Tuesday, the Times remarks that it is almost a year ago since he spoke at the Mansion House after his return from Canada.

The burden of his speech at that time was the change the war had made in the mutual relations between the various States of the Empire and he insisted that the Old Country must understand the ideas and aspirations of the Dominions.

These truths, says the Times, have made their way into the consciousness of the British people during the past year, but they are not yet understood here in their full significance even by some leading statesmen of these islands, as witness the antiquated ideas of what Dominion status means which have been evident in recent contributions to the Irish question.

The Prince, says the Times, is still far ahead of public comprehension here, even in circles which should know better. If he had devoted a part of his speech yesterday to a fresh exposition of this theme, he would have done valuable public service, but doubtless his visits to the Dominions have made Dominion ideas about their national position and future so much commonplace to him that it is difficult for him to appreciate the slow progress they are making here. The Times continues:

"We are bound to say too that the Prime Minister showed once again yesterday that this reproach of lack of understanding and sympathy with the ideas, faiths and visions of the Dominions does not lie against him as it lies against too many of his contemporaries."

"The Daily Telegraph remarks that the disillusionment and depression which have weighed us down during the last two years have had their counterpart in the Dominions. The credentials of every institution have become challenged anew. Among these we may be sure that the Crown and the Imperial connection did not escape. These questions have been questioned afresh, especially in Australia, where the Labor party has been in the ascendant for some years. Many Australians were genuinely anxious to know what reception would await the Prince of Wales. The event showed that their anxiety was needless, but it was the Prince who controlled the event.

Democracy, especially young democracy, is fiercely jealous, not so much of the monarchy as of the traits and characteristics traditionally associated with it. The Prince appeared amongst them and gave a new conception of what a Prince might be and won them by his naturalness and his manifest sincerity, by his indifference to old world artificialties and by his desire to please and be rather a son by willing adoption than an heir by divine right.

PRINCE'S FINAL WORDS.

The Prince's final words yesterday were:—

"The Dominions want population. We have population to spare, but a purely business method of emigration is no good nowadays. Flaming prospectuses will not draw emigration steadily from this country. What is wanted is to plan human co-operation. We should not feel that we are populating places that will be lost to us and they on their side should welcome our emigrants as friends and comrades and make them feel above all that they are at home and really wanted there. There is no worse type of immigrant than the immigrant who fails; there is no better advertisement than immigrants who succeed.

"Success depends upon the way and spirit in which both sides tackle the subject. British population is a very valuable thing and we must see to it that it remains all British. The closer and more human the understanding, the easier becomes the movement of men and, I may add, of capital which the Empire requires. We want to make that understanding wider and deeper, so that it is never swamped with jealousy, either local or other.

"I hope the longer I live, the more I may see the ties that unite them and us, steadily strengthened and multiplied until the bond of fellowship which unites us is unbreakable."

ALLOCUTION SECRET

Papal Address on Franco-Vatican Relations

ROME, Dec. 9.—It is probable that the allocution to be delivered by Pope Benedict at the secret consistory to be held on December 15, will deal with the resumption of diplomatic relations with France, according to well-informed circles at the Vatican. The question of a Franco-Vatican understanding has not as yet been completely settled, it being necessary for the French Senate to give its approval.

According to reliable information from the Vatican Pope Benedict intends to continue the custom, which he restored, of not permitting the publication of allocutions he delivers at secret consistories in the presence of Cardinals only.

BRITISH EXPORTS SHOW BIG INCREASE

November Returns Indicate Advance of £32,000,000

LONDON, Dec. 9. — (By Canadian Press Cable)—British Trade Returns for November show exports to be over £119,000,000, an increase of £32,000,000, and imports to be £114,250,000, an advance of £715,000 over the corresponding figures for November, 1919. There is a drop of £10,000,000 in raw materials value, but to counterbalance this, a rise of £12,000,000 in the value of manufactured goods for the month.

TERRORIST TAKEN

BOLOGNA, Italy, Dec. 9.—Police officials at Potenza have arrested a man who boasts that he is a member of a "terror squad," which is composed of 20 men who have plotted the assassination of public authorities. He asserts, according to the police, that he escaped from this city in an automobile with Municipal Councillor Armando Gossi, a communist and a Bolshevik "teacher" named Martelli. Both of them, he says, left him at Rimini, from which city they fled into the Republic of San Marino for refuge.

Plucky Postmaster's Wife Alone Put Bandits to Flight

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Dec. 9.—Three masked safe-blowers who tonight broke into the post office at Port Republic, near here, were routed with a lighted oil lamp hurled at them by Mrs. Amanda Blake, the postmaster's wife. Their clothing was set afire and thoroughly bewildered by the unexpected firery shower, they fled precipitately and escaped in an automobile. The little store also caught fire, but the plucky woman put out the blaze before the firemen arrived. Mrs. Blake was awakened by a crash of glass.

HARDING ASSERTS SELF IN SENATE

In Farewell Speech Gives Comrades Glimpse of President

NO "OBLIGARCHY"

Tells Upper House He Will Not Tolerate Interference

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(By David Lawrence, Copyright). — President elect Harding's show of independence in his farewell speech at the Senate is the talk of the national capital. It wasn't so much the impressive way by which the departing Senator appealed to his colleagues for co-operation, but the very clear-cut emphasis which he placed upon the powers of the executive that caught the ear of political Washington and promptly set everybody gossiping as to the true meaning of the informal utterance.

NO "SENATORIAL OLIGARCHY."

It is a fact, for instance, that when Mr. Harding arrived here Sunday night, indeed when he met some of his colleagues early Monday, they were almost unanimously against the idea of his making a speech at all. Some suggested that it would be indelicate for him to address the Senate in his present position. But Warren Harding showed that he has a mind of his own. He determined to make the speech because he had something very definite to say, something that couldn't very well be said if he were already President and had to address the Senate on official business. He wanted the men in the Senate to know that he intended to be as insistant upon the powers of the executive as he had been on the powers of a Senator. He gave a gentle warning that anything like a "senatorial oligarchy" wouldn't be tolerated. He referred more or less humorously to Governor Cox's phrase—"a Senate oligarchy"—but the significant thing is that he saw fit to bring the phrase back into this particular speech at all. Those who know Mr. Harding's mind say he wanted to take occasion to appeal to his friends not to presume too much, not to make his task hard simply because he had grown so intimate with his colleagues in the Senate. Moreover, he wanted to remove any suggestion that the Senate would control the next administration as has been so annoyingly suggested from time to time not by Democrats alone but by leading Republicans in the Senate with whom the wish is the father to thought.

WHAT HARDING FOUND.

To to sure, Mr. Harding has found out one thing already during his brief visit in Washington, namely, that the most insistent demands for representation in the Cabinet has come from his colleagues in the United States Senate. This has led to two well defined counter-movements—one on the part of some loyal comrades who really think they are of the greatest assistance to Mr. Harding by their effort to keep anybody in the Senate from going into the Cabinet and another group which really wants to have a good deal to say in the next administration, and thinks the best way to accomplish it is by retaining in the Senate all the strong men and making the capitol the same centre of gravity that it was in the days of Aldrich and Cannon, when to know what the administration was going to do, newspapermen flocked to the Senate or the House, instead of the White House.

British Naval Estimates Over £6,000,000 Sterling

EXPLAINS JAPANESE NAVAL PROGRAM

Admiral Kato Says Japan Cannot Equal Western Achievements

LONDON, Dec. 9. — Vice-Admiral Baron Sadakichi Kato, chief of the Japanese naval board of education, interviewed by the correspondent of the London Times in Tokio, said Japan was unable because of financial and technical reasons, to equal the naval achievement of the leading maritime powers.

The statement, says the correspondent, was in reply to a suggestion that critics in the United States and elsewhere saw in Japan's budget plans on the part of Japan to equal, if not excel, the naval forces of Japan's most likely future rival.

Baron Kato declared Japan could not build more than the eight capital ships authorized by the last regular Diet, but it was intended that these should equal, vessel for vessel, those of the other powers, and hence the construction of the largest types. The baron said he hoped armaments everywhere would be reduced, in which case Japan's naval strength would be correspondingly changed.

Fires Shot at President's Tribune—Alleges Unjust Treatment

BRUSSELS, Dec. 9.—Three shots from a revolver were fired in the direction of the president's tribune in the Chamber of Deputies by a spectator in the public gallery, just as the Chamber was adjourning last evening.

"I have been four years a prisoner in Germany and have not obtained justice since my return," the man shouted.

No one is reported to have been hurt except a few deputies and spectators who were bruised in the scramble to leave the Chamber.

WAR COST TO U.S. $24,010,000,000

Secretary of Treasury Says Amount Represents "Adjusted" Expenditure

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. — The net cost of the war to the United States Government was fixed by Secretary of the Treasury Houston at $24,010,000,000. This, he said, represented the "adjusted expenditure of the Treasury, excluding all other outlay which had no relation to the actual prosecution of the war during the period from April 6, 1917, to June 30, last, which he said covered the extremes of the Government's war-time fiscal operations.

Total expenditures by the Government during the period covered, excepting only postal disbursements from postal revenues, were $38,830,812,895, Treasury figures showed. Of this, amount $16,078,644,007 was obtained in taxes and revenue from sources other than borrowed money.

Mr. Houston said a deduction of $9,523,000,000, the amount loaned to foreign Governments, should be made from the grand total, since these loans will be repaid, and consequently cannot be charged as an actual expenditure. The Treasury made other deductions aggregating approximately $4,500,000,000, which he said represented the excess cost of actual Government operations for the three years and three months over what they would have been in normal times.

A special measure giving the complete expenses of the United States peace commission during its work abroad was transmitted to the Senate today by President Wilson. Total expenditures amounted to $1,165,119, from December 1, 1918, to December 4, 1920. The amount actually paid out was $1,703,712.06, but repayments and gains in exchange reduced this by $52,520.97.

OPINIONS VARY ON SPRING TRADE

Rumor Big Buying Movement Brought About by Cut in Prices

Many and varied are the opinions voiced by the textile and clothing manufacturers concerning prospects for the spring trade. While some are rather optimistic and predict a return to normal within a short time, others do not look forward to a change for the better for a considerable period. The reason alleged by local makers of clothing for a recovery was that a big buying movement was soon to be inaugurated on the part of the public, which would be brought about by a general cut in prices, although it was not definitely stated just how this was going to be effected.

Others gave as the reason for the present conditions which to them appeared not at all cheerful—that a feeling of distrust, had been engendered between buyer and manufacturer, between retailer and the public. Until this relation were changed to one of mutual co-operation, there could be no hope for a clearing of the situation.

Conditions in the various textile and clothing industries were found to vary slightly. While the general condition seemed to be of relative inactivity, and measures had been resorted to by which to meet the situation by a partial curtailing of operations, affecting hours, number of help and wages, some manufacturers still held out bright prospects for the coming season.

A hopeful condition was reported by A. O. Dawson, of Canadian Cottons, Limited. This concern has a number of mills in Ontario and the Maritime Provinces, and no reductions of any kind had been resorted to, as business warranted continuing operations as heretofore.

As working conditions depended entirely upon orders and amount of output required, some of the staff have been laid off at the Fashion Craft shops, and the hours have been reduced in some instances to meet the situation. The New York Hat Company, which had given a ten per cent. raise in wages this spring, went back to the old schedule some time ago, but did not resort to curtailing hours or number of workers.

No change has been made since November 1 in the boot and shoe manufacturing department of the Daoust Lalonde Company, said the manager, L. Daoust, today. At that time, a reduction of five per cent was made in wages, and the working time was reduced from fifty to thirty hours a week.

Asked whether the rumored report of the closing of the T. Eaton factories were true, R. Mann, manager of the factory here, said that absolutely nothing had been heard of the move officially, and there was no talk of such a step as far as he knew. The factory was preparing for the spring trade, and although this would not be so heavy as in former years, still, there was sufficient work for all the help when the orders would be commenced. Just at present, some of the hands were laid off temporarily, as the fall work usually ended about this time, and there was always a lull before the next season's work was started.

Most of the staff of the Semi-ready factory were still at work, Advertising Manager Wood stated this morning. Of course, the general trade condition reflected on this branch of industry, but no cut in wages or hours of work had as yet been made. Any prophecy for the future of the trade would be hard to make, as a general state of upheaval was being experienced in the clothing line, following similar movements in the food and building trades.

Travellers reported very slack business and reluctance to buy even standard lines of goods, it was said at the offices of the London Hat and Cap Company. Practically no work had been done in the past three or four weeks, and with a paucity of orders prospects for the coming season were not extremely bright.

A reticence to discuss the question was manifested by some manufacturers, who would not vouchsafe an opinion on the future of their respective lines.

So far as industrial in textile and clothing manufacture were concerned, it does not appear that the letting out of help is as general as would have been expected, comparing local conditions that prevail in smaller centres.

The situation can be summed up as one in which uncertainty and hesitancy to take any chance on the market are playing an important part, and, until the commercial atmosphere clears, it would be impossible to predict what the immediate future holds for the particular lines in question.

THE TRUTH FOR ALL PEOPLE

In making this statement over my signature I desire to impress upon the Public most emphatically that no statement will be made but that is a bona-fide fact. Read it neighbour to your own good. A force of circumstances, the backward season, belated shipments caused by freight and express embargoes causes this unusual selling event. Here's the plain facts. In plain blunt English. In my eagerness to have plenty of merchandise to supply my exceptionally large and increasing trade I over did it and bought doubly heavy for fall and winter. These goods are now in my store and naturally they must be paid for shortly. Money is tight. Extensions and borrowing money are impossible. After careful thought and consideration, I decided to send for Gilk, the Merchandise Doctor (which I did) and I gave him orders to raise cash to take care of these bills which are shortly due and you can believe me the way he is slashing prices there will not be any trouble in raising the necessary cash to take care of my obligations when due. . . . . .

Sincerely yours,

J. GARMAISE.

E. T. CLUB HELD ANNUAL DINNER

McGill Men from "The Garden of the Province" at Re-union

The Hon. Walter Mitchell, A. R. McMaster, M.P., and the Hon. Sydney Fisher, at the annual dinner of the Eastern Townships Clubs of McGill University in the McGill Union last night were united in expressing their appreciation of the past, present and future worth of the part of this province from which the members of the club hailed. It had been hoped that Sir Arthur Currie would be present at the dinner but the principal was unable to attend.

The president of the club, Walter Bulloc, in proposing the toast, "Our Patrons," briefly outlined the aims and hopes of the Eastern Township Club. The Hon. Walter Mitchell in responding, sketched rapidly the development of the Eastern Townships from the early settlement by British soldiers at the beginning of the 19th century and by the United Empire Loyalists, followed by the French settlement, to the present time when Brome is almost the only county which has not a majority of French-speaking people. He referred to the Townships as "the garden" of the Province, from which many of her greatest men had come. He expressed his appreciation at being elected honorary president of the club.

A. S. Johnson proposed the toast, "McGill" to which a hearty McGill yell was given in response.

A. R. McMaster, M.P. for Brome, proposed "The Eastern Townships" speaking briefly on the agricultural, mineral and other resources of the Townships, advising the young men from that part of the country who were enjoying the advantages won by their forebears, to resist the attractions of the city and plan their future careers as far as possible in the Eastern Townships.

The Hon. Sydney Fisher responded humorously, referring to his entrance as an undergraduate at McGill in 1866. It had taken him 54 years, he said, to get a degree from the university, one having been conferred only last year when he became an L. L. D. His two years' undergraduate work at McGill, he believed, had stood him in good stead when he studied for his degree at Cambridge University. In speaking of the Eastern Townships he said that he had not been one of those who had been born there and had left but one who had gone there to become a farmer, a reversal of the usual tendency of leaving the country for the city. This was the occasion of the first address made by Mr. Fisher since his recent illness and he was accorded a hearty reception.

REV. JOHN LINTON TO SPEAK.

Rev. John Linton, the new paster of the Point St. Charles Baptist Church, will be the principal speaker at the service to be held in Sherbrooke Street Methodist Church this evening in connection with the week's evangelistic meetings. Rev. Arthur White of the Oratoire Church, Mance Street, will sing and speak briefly.

AN EVEN TRADE.

A country storekeeper was standing in front of his place one morning when a man came along leading a couple of old and weary-looking nags.

"Want a hoss?" he inquired.

"Guess not."

"I'll trade you one for goods," said he stranger. "I'll take it out in terbacker, to start."

"Might make a dicker along those lines," said the storekeeper, "provided we kin agree on a basis."

"What's your basis?"

"Well, I'll trade with your plug for hog."—Boston Transcript.

SPOKE ON CARE OF SICK INFANTS

Baby Welfare Committee Also Discussed Plans for Coming Drive

A brief address on the methods of obtaining mothers' milk for the use of sick babies in institutions was given by Dr. A. Goldbloom at a meeting of the Baby Welfare Committee held yesterday afternoon in the Drummond Building. Dr. Goldbloom spoke of experiments carried on in the New York Babies' Hospital as well as in Boston, where a nurse undertook the double duty of carrying on social service work, and inducing mothers who were nursing their own children to spare a little of their milk for some of the sick infants in institutions, whose lives might thus be saved by proper food. Mothers who brought their babies to the outdoor departments of hospitals were also approached, and both these methods were found superior to that of keeping wet nurses in a hospital, since the latter were usually expensive and unsatisfactory.

The campaign to provide Christmas funds was also touched upon. The drive will commence on Monday, December 13, with the showing of slides and films in the various moving picture and amusement houses to bring before the public the work accomplished by the stations, but collections will not be taken until Wednesday, December 15. A printed appeal has been prepared, and 7,000 copies mailed to prospective subscribers, while the Special Names Committee expects to raise a considerable sum from friends who have given in former years. In addition to the collections in places of amusement, the hotels will be canvassed, and such organizations as the C.P.R., where tags will be given to those who give contributions to the fund.

There will also be a house to house canvass in some sections of the city, and special support is expected from certain factories whose employes' babies receive milk and medical attention from the stations.

Special attention was drawn to the warning printed on the bottom of circulars to the effect that the Child Welfare Committee has no connection with the Canada's Baby Book or any similar publication.

Many former soldiers of the British army who are unable to follow their pre-war vocations are working in the royal gardens, at Windsor castle, in England. They are learning to become market, private and jobbing gardeners. Others are taking up training as grooms, clerks, jockeys and pastry cooks.

"AVIOMANIAC" SEEN NEAR MARSEILLES

An "aviomaniac" appeared for the first time on record yesterday near Marseilles when the pilot of a Chasse plane spent an hour in a grotesque man hunt over the farms in the vicinity. His mania consisted in attempts to decapitate workers in the fields by descending abruptly. Nearly a hundred workers were prostrated during their exciting race for shelter. At a military inquiry Tuesday night a strict search was ordered for the pilot who is declared to have become suddenly insane in the air on account of the high speed of his machine.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Local plumbers yesterday began negotiations with the employers in an effort to have the wage scale made to conform to one which it is hoped will be provincial-wide in a short time. The men point to the example of Hamilton, St. Catharines and Toronto, where the rate has been increased to 90c an hour, as an indication of the trend of the wage negotiations. London plumbers are now receiving 70 and 75c per hour.

OIL PROSPECTORS TO USE AIRPLANE

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 9.—Oil prospectors of this city are considering a scheme to use a long distance airplane, if one is procurable, in which to fly to the Fort Norman oil fields and back to the coast. They expect thus to steal a march on those who are waiting at Peace River Crossing in the hope that they may be able to enter the district in the spring. The distance is approximately 600 miles and Major McLaurin, superintendent of the Jericho station of the air board thinks the idea is quite feasible.

CANNOT REMOVE CATTLE EMBARGO

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The secretary of the Ministry of Agriculture admitted in the House of Commons yesterday that his attention had been drawn to a statement by Hon. Manning Doherty, Ontario Minister of Agriculture that the British embargo on cattle was a gross injustice to Canada. He reiterated his inability to remove the embargo, although he denied that any slur was implied on the health of Canadian cattle.

ROWELL'S SPEECH CAUSES SENSATION IN LEAGUE CIRCLES

European Delegates Have Not Recovered from the Shock

AUSTRALIAN SUPPORT

Hanotaux's Plan is Finally Referred Back to Committee

GENEVA, Dec. 9 (Special Star Cable)—European delegates of the League of Nations Assembly today had not recovered from the shock they received yesterday when Canada's spokesman, Newton W. Rowell, in brusque terms voiced the Dominion's firm resolve to prevent the domination of the League of Nations by European statecraft. The independent stand maintained by Canada has been the leading feature of the Assembly meetings to date. Yesterday's incident was regarded in the light of a sensation.

Mr. Rowell's speech was inspired by the committee report on the League's technical organization. It proved to be the sharpest attack upon the old school diplomacy yet delivered on the floor of the Assembly. Australia came to the support of Canada. France jumped in to defend the old world. Great Britain was speechless. Arthur Balfour and H. L. Fisher, the British delegates, seemed too amazed to say anything.

CAUSE OF INDICTMENT.

The report that caused Mr. Rowell's indictment is that of M. Hanotaux, former French Foreign Minister, which recommends the creation of three annual conferences dealing respectively with finances, transportation and health, in addition to the yearly meeting of the Assembly and the International Labor Bureau. The Assembly's control over these enterprises, particularly as regards their expenditures, is left vague. Canada contends that greater care should be taken in the supervision of the technical services, the budget outlay of which, Mr. Rowell pointed out, attained 7,000,000 gold francs in the case of the labor bureau.

In view of the great distances and expense, Mr. Rowell pointed out, the western nations and the Orientals would be unable to send their important and responsible men on long journeys to attend conferences several times a year. The Canadian Government would never consent to such an arrangement.

CANADA'S POSITION.

"And if you do not send them, what follows?" Mr. Rowell asked. "It means that the countries of Europe here at hand will send their best men and control and shape the whole policy. That might be all right if this were a European league but it is all wrong if this is a world league. I am perfectly sure the people of Canada are not prepared to turn over the question of dealing with these problems to a European league or a European committee.

"It is not that we have not the greatest respect and admiration for European statesmen but they do not understand our viewpoint. Why, even the statesmen of our mother country, for whom we have the greatest respect, admiration and affection, we do not permit to settle Canadian affairs. We settle them ourselves. Much less are we prepared to sign over the settlement of these affairs to a general European committee.

SCORES STATESMANSHIP.

"You may say that we should have confidence in your European statesmen and leaders. Perhaps we should, but it was European policy, European statesmanship, European ambition, that stained this world with the blood from which we are still suffering and will suffer for generations. Fifty thousand Canadians under the soil of France and Flanders is what Canada has paid for European statesmanship trying to settle European problems. I place the responsibility on a few. I would not distribute it over many, but nevertheless it is European.

"Therefore I submit we should not in this international assembly part with our control in connection with these matters. I repeat, do everything necessary this year to grapple with your economic, financial, transportation and health problems. Summon your first conferences and then at the next Assembly of the League let us see what the results are. But do not now set up a machine, which, when once it is started, you cannot control and for which you will have to pay expenses in the days to come."

Claiming that Mr. Rowell should have formulated his objections earlier in the session, M. Hantaux of France insisted that technical problems must be left wholly in the hands of highly trained and technical men. "We are subjected to attack on European statesmanship," he declared. "I say that Europe fought for the world — Europe fought for humanity. Do you mean to say that after we have defended the world and humanity, when we call upon men to help in the endeavor to solve these problems in the interest of humanity, you are going to refuse to answer the call?"

AUSTRALIAN SUPPORT.

Mr. Miller, of Australia, supported his Canadian colleague's position. The League's covenant, he observed, provided in Article XXIII. that the technical organization should be founded upon international convention existing of hereafter to be agreed upon, and no such convention had yet been held.

Lord Robert Cecil proposed that the whole arrangement should be made temporary, and not permanent. This suggestion, he thought, would attain the objects sought by Hanotaux.

In reply to M. Hanotaux's complaint that he had not spoken sooner, Mr. Rowell declared that on the contrary he had raised the issue in one of his first speeches in the Assembly, and subsequently in committee, and it was only because no heed had been given to his warning that he had brought the matter before the main body of delegates.

President Hymans finally wound up the controversy by referring the report back to the committee on the understanding that this morning's speakers should confer with M. Hanotaux in an attempt to reach a satisfactory arrangement.

VILNA PLEBISCITE.

GENEVA, Dec. 9. — A member of the Council of the League informed the Associated Press that arrangements for a plebiscite at Vilna were being continued, and that the reported refusal of the Lithuanians to allow the League forces to enter Lithuania was due to a misunderstanding. The Lithuanian Government, after the explanation which has been given, is expected to co-operate with the Council in the arrangements now in progress, concerning which, the informant said, no change will be made.

LEAGUE INTENTIONS.

THE HAGUE, Dec. 9.—Replying to a request made by Holland, the secretary of the League of Nations has explained its intentions concerning the Vilna expedition. The League Council understands that both Poland and Lithuania have agreed to the League program, and that General Zeligouski, in command of the insurgents at Vilna, will not oppose the Council.

The Council does not intend to institute in the plebiscite area, a complete government under its own supervision, but will take certain measures to secure an uninfluenced vote, and the expeditionary forces will leave when the plebiscite is taken, and the boundaries are settled, which will be as soon as possible.

Last night 221 candidates were initiated making the total membership 1,978. About 1,500 members attended the meeting.

BRITISH LABOR WILL CONTINUE IRISH AID

Irish Office, However, Says Situation Shows Little Improvement

MANY DISTURBANCES

Widespread Search for Arms Causes Sensation in Cork

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(By Percy Sarl, United News Staff Correspondent).—Undismayed by Arthur Henderson's cool reception in Downing Street, when he presented his proposition for an Irish truce to Lloyd George, the Labor Party will continue to do its utmost to promote this great project which it has adopted as its own. At the party's headquarters there is a belief that the Government is trying to play down the importance of Henderson and to discourage the party from continuing in this important political role. It is pointed out also that Henderson's conference with the Premier really was of some duration and not, as the Government hinted, a brief one. Henderson is advancing without delay to the alternative action, prescribed in advance—that of preparing a manifesto giving the public the results of his mission to Ireland and outlining the Irish policy of the Labor Party. This he will read in a speech tonight.

IRISH OFFICE IS FIRM.

The Irish Office maintains that there is no justification for predictions of an early peace in Ireland, maintaining that the rebellion has not been checked so far. Reports received at the office continue to describe a series of minor ambuscades and raids by both the rebels and the police throughout the country. No deaths are reported, however.

Two of the owners of the Freeman's Journal, of Dublin, Edwards and Fitzgerald tried by court martial for printing disloyal reports have been sentenced to six months in prison. Hooper, the editor, was remanded in custody and the Journal company was fined £500.

SEARCH CORK RESIDENTS.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—A brief despatch received from Cork late last night says there was a general holdup of the public in the streets of Cork by the auxiliary police last evening. Firing was heard in various parts of the city.

A man leaving a church was shot dead. There was much alarm in the streets, which were quickly deserted.

HORACE PLUNKETT'S VIEW.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 9.—Prior to sailing yesterday for New York on board the steamship Baltic, Sir Horace Plunkett, chairman of the Dublin convention, in an interview said:

"I see no hope of a truce in Ireland, nor any hope in the overtures reported in the press. There cannot be peace while there is frightfulness on both sides. In my judgment the British Government is blameable.

"If the people knew how many persons had been killed in Ireland, we would soon have peace."

Sir Horace recently was invited to visit the United States and testify before the "Committee of One Hundred."

COMMITTEE WAS WARNED.

CORK, Dec. 9. — Warning of possible danger along the road to Tralee was given the party of British Labor representatives investigating Irish conditions yesterday when the Labor men announced their expectation of leaving for Tralee by motor this afternoon, accompanied by a party of journalists. The authorities told the delegation and the newspapermen they had best proceed slowly, owing to the possibility of encountering trenches cut in the road. They also stated information had been received in Cork indicating the road had been mined at several places in County Kerry.

Aside from raids on private houses and intermittent rifle and revolver firing in various parts of the city Wednesday night passed quietly here. The usualy military curfew patrol was reinforced and numerous raids and searches were carried out in the western part of Cork.

"This IS a Gift, indeed!"

IT'S the tendency nowadays (and a wise tendency it is), to give presents that serve some useful purpose. Gifts that are "pretty" have been supplanted by those that are "useful". Christmas gifts that are only "handsome" are not so popular as gifts that are "serviceable" as well. And isn't it wiser, after all? There are thousands and thousands of Canadian women—wives, mothers, sisters—who, should they receive a "Colonial Maid" BlueBird Electric Clothes Washer this Christmas, would consider it the finest present they ever received. If they should find this Christmas morning that through your thoughtfulness, the drudgery of wash day was over forever, they would say fervently "This IS a gift!"

Rubbing clothes up and down on a washboard is destructive to health, to happiness and to the clothes themselves. But the BlueBird washes clothes clean without effort.

The Colonial Maid

BlueBird ELECTRIC CLOTHES WASHER

"Brings Happiness in Home Work"

It means freedom from drudgery—time for other things. But it does not merely bring these as a temporary blessing. BLUEBIRD means not only an ideal Christmas gift, but carries with it 52 happy "washdays" a year for years and years to come. For BLUEBIRD is a perfect piece of machinery—the very best washing machine made in the world today—built to give a lifetime of faithful service.

Do you know of any gift as appropriate—any gift that so truly fulfills the Christmas spirit—as the BLUEBIRD?

But you really must see the BLUEBIRD to fully appreciate the truth of all these facts. There's a BLUEBIRD Dealer in your town—ask him to explain and demonstrate this epoch-marking machine to you—in your own home, if you prefer. If you cannot locate such a dealer, write to us direct. We'll send you a copy of "Out of Bondage," one of the most interesting books you ever read, and tell you where to meet BLUEBIRD—the modern laundress—in person.

LEGAL QUERIES

VALIDITY OF WILL.

Q.—Is the following form of will quite valid in any country: "I hereby give and bequeath to my sister, Mary Jones, all I possess, consisting of bonds, cash and personal effects. I appoint her sole executor. In the event of her wishing assistance she is at liberty to appoint whom she pleases."—(Miss) A. E. B., Chatham, N.B.

A.—The will would be valid provided it conformed to all the formalities required by law of the place where it is made. We would suggest that you see an attorney there.

CANNOT MARRY.

Q.—After husband and wife have been parted for seven years, not even corresponding, can they marry again? Wife has two children to support—L. M., St. Armand, Que.

A.—The parties cannot marry again, but the wife can compel husband to support her and her children even if they have been separated for such a long time.

CHARITY TAX.

Q.—If a person hires a hall and invites friends to a social evening of songs, dances, etc., are friends liable to pay charity tax? Also if a fraternal society, after finishing business of the evening, entertain a few friends to a dance or game of euchre, and no charge is made for admission, should charity tax be paid?—J. H. A.

A.—You never have to pay a charity tax for an entertainment to which there is no charge for admission.

SISTER'S SUPPORT.

Q.—Kindly state the law with reference to the help brothers would be compelled to give to a widowed sister with three children. She wishes to get two of the children into the Ladies' Benevolent Home, but they charge $12 per month each, which she is unable to pay. Are the brothers legally entitled to help her?—J. S., Montreal.

A.—There is no law which compels brothers to help their sisters or vice versa; it is left to one's generosity.

ACTION TO CANCEL SALE.

Q.—I bought a house supposed to be solid brick, and now I find that only three sides of house are brick and other side is of wood. I did not notice it at the time because the shed was attached to the house; I have not paid full amount as yet, and would like to know before paying further, assuming what action I can take?—Careless Buyer, St. Lambert, Que.

A.—If the house is not as was represented you can take action to cancel sale and to recover the amount you paid.

PROPERTY TAXES.

Q.—Having paid my 1918 year property taxes in March this year, I would like to know if I can let 1919 taxes run until 1921.—X. L., Que.

A.—A person is allowed to have arrears of two lots of taxes up to eighteen months after which the city has to take action to attach or sell the property by the sheriff. For instance, a property for which the taxes are made up in May, 1920, and due in September of the same year, is placed on the sheriff's list on May 1, 1921. 6 per cent is charged for the first two months, and 7 per cent after, counting from due date.

SUPPORT OF FATHER.

Q.—1. I am single, and have to support father with everything, even to tobacco, married brother does not give a cent; should he not give something? 2. If father dies without making will, can brother claim anything? If so, can he claim more than daughter? Can I put a claim for father's debts I have paid?—F. J., Montreal.

A.—1. If your married brother is in a position to do so, he is, of course, obliged to help support your father. 2. Your brother would share equally with you. If your father died without a will you would have a right to be repaid the debts you paid on behalf of your father, provided they were not outlawed.

MUST HEAT HOUSE.

Q.—B had lease for house of seven rooms in 1918-1919, heated by A, who had store below the house; B kept house for 1920 on same condition without signing another lease; B could not live in house if it was so cold, so rented five rooms to C, who is now alone in house and paying full rent to landlord. A, who accepted and signed a receipt to C. Can C force A to heat the house or will he have to take action against B to have A fulfill his conditions?—Tenant, Montreal.

A.—As landlord has accepted new tenant, he is obliged to comply with the conditions of the lease requiring him to heat the premises sufficiently.

RENTED ROOMS.

Q.—If I rent room for $10 a month supplied with 40 c.p. electric light bulb, and roomer removes my lamp and puts on much stronger one; even puts in an extra light, and without permission use electric current for electric irons and other purposes, have I any redress? Also can lodgers bring in other young men several times a week to sleep with them sometimes to stay same until daylight, even though they make no noise to disturb us, yet lights are kept on in toilet room and halls as well as in their rooms?—Housekeeper, Que.

A.—You can cancel the lease and sue for damages as the roomer is using the room for purposes other than those for which it was leased.

LANDLORD AND RENT.

Q.—By law is landlord obliged to call at tenant's residence for rent? Landlord has not yet called to collect rent for September and October. Can he compel us to pay interest on this back rent, or can he sue us for non-payment? —A Constant Reader, Montreal.

A.—If the lease does not provide a place for payment, the landlord must call for same. Interest would not be due on the back rent the landlord failed to call for.

BUSINESS TAX.

Q.—Will you please let me know through your paper if I would be obliged to pay business tax if I carried on business in my private house—such as dressmaking, millinery, hemstitching, etc.? I am told only registered stores have to pay a business tax.—L. H., Montreal.

A.—Any person carrying on a paying business whether in his private house or in a registered store has to pay a business tax. The tax is based upon the total value of the house in proportion to the space used therein for the business.

EXTRADITION LAWS.

Q.—What are the extradition laws between Canada and the United States? In other words, on what charge can a man be extradited from either one to try? A.—You will find a long list of crimes susceptible to the Extradition Act. Most all the crimes coming under our criminal law are of this category. If you will submit the name or the nature of the crime, we will inform you whether it is extraditable.

STATION LOCKED.

Q.—Eight or nine residents of a certain village have to take a train 6:45 a.m. to get to work in Montreal at 8 a.m.; station agent refuses to open station doors until 8 a.m., his time for starting work, although he lives on the spot; last winter we had to stand out in the cold and wait an hour for next train if first one was late. Can we compel him to open the door, or is he right in action he takes?—Residents, Que.

A.—Write to the Railway Commissioners setting out your complaint. We feel certain that this will be remedied.

WIFE'S ALLOWANCE.

Q.—My husband is disabled returned soldier drawing pension of $100 a months; we have four children; his idea is to keep us without a penny to spend, having the pension sent to the bank and saving expenses by cheque; he also has a shoemaking business which brings in over $70 a month, but he will not allow us anything; we are all in need of underwear and bed clothes; can I get an allowance for myself and the children? —Mrs. E. B., Montreal, Que.

A.—You can take action for alimentary pension so that you will have sufficient to properly support yourself.

ELECTRIC LIGHT BILL.

Q.—Have received large bills for electricity; am living in house divided for two families. Is it possible to have two meters put in, with only one connection to power in street, and have them register correct amount of power on each meter, used by these two families? I think I am being charged for more power than I am using. Can I compel power company to make connection to my part of the house and can I make them refund some of the money paid?—E. R., Country Village, Que.

A.—You are not obliged to pay for more electricity than you use. See the electric company and make a complaint.

SUPPORT OF MOTHER.

Q.—I am poor and my two brothers are landlords. How much should they pay me for my mother's board? Is my brother-in-law, whose wife is dead, obliged to pay anything towards support of mother-in-law?—Lind, Que.

A.—Your brother and brother-in-law are obliged to support your mother in proportion to her needs and according to their ability to pay.

BUSINESS TAX.

Q.—I occupy five room flat, using two rooms for tailoring business, and three for domestic purposes; first year was assessed $10.92 business tax; I complained to council as tax was based 7 per cent on rent of place of business and I was taxed on total rental of premises, including rooms used for domestic purposes; I was informed that I would have to pay, which I did; following year's bill for business tax was $5.04 allowance being made for three rooms used for domestic purposes; this is a recent bill for $12.0) for business tax, on making enquiries was told that as rent was $3.0 a month, I as assessed on $.5 a month for two rooms used for business, allowance of $1 a month being made for other three rooms; I refused to pay as I consider this an unfair and unjust assessment. Is this justifiable in making such an assessment? Have I any grounds to fight the case if sued. —C. L., Verdun, Que.

A.—A copy is fixed during which complaints as to the assessments may be made—in such event the board of assessors fixes a day for hearing your case. See the board of assessors and determine from them the date that you may file your complaint and they will give you a date when your complaint will be heard.

SUE FOR DAMAGES.

Q.—My husband was hurt recently while working in the country, a plank on a scaffold slipped throwing him against a wall, and his arm went through a window and cut an artery, doctor dressed wound and advised him to come to hospital in Montreal; driving to the station caused a hemorrhage so that he had to be taken off train and taken to a hospital eighteen miles from starting point; his suit and overcoat were ruined with blood, and he is losing $33 a week; he had nothing to do with putting up scaffold; he is insured by his firm, but nothing yet has been settled. Could you give an idea what he is entitled to?—Mrs. K. H. B., Maisonneuve, Que.

A.—If your husband's salary was $33 a week he could not sue for damages inder the Workmen's Compensation Act; but if the accident was due to the fault of the company by whom he was employed he can sue under the common law. It would be advisable to see an attorney and explain the entire matter to him.

WANTS A ROAD.

Q.—I bought and paid for piece of land at Ste Agathe without seeing it; was told there was a road, and force round it; had to pay $1 to be taken to it in a boat, as found there was no road; wrote to corporation of Ste. Agathe asking if they would make a road; they replied it would cost several hundred dollars to make a road and cost would be against each property; also bridge costing $330 would be necessary. Is it right that I should have to pay so much for a road? Also could you tell me what it would cost to get land surveyed? It is 65 acres mostly bush.—A. K., Montreal.

A.—1. You are obliged to share in the cost of building both the road and the bridge. 2. The cost of surveying would depend entirely upon the nature of the land and the surveyor you hired.

SUCCESSION TAX.

Q.—1. What must a man be worth at death to require succession tax paid to Government, and what per cent should be paid? 2. How is valuation obtained on shares, notes, mortgages, Victory bonds, dwelling houses, etc?—J. M. L., Hensville, Que.

A.—1. The percentage of the succession tax depends entirely upon the value of the estate and upon the relationship of the beneficiaries to the deceased. 2. The valuation is based upon the market value.

NO LAW OF ADOPTION.

Q.—Is it correct that Parliament has recently passed a law of adoption?—Constant Reader, Montreal.

A.—There is presently no law in force in the Province of Quebec dealing with adoption.

GERMAN CABLES DISPUTE UNSOLVED

Electrical Council Proposed at Communications Conference

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Technical recommendations of the delegates of the five Allied and Associated Powers who have been in session here at the preliminary International Communications Conference to be submitted to the general conference of all nations for approval, as made public here yesterday through the State Department, show that disposition of the former German cables seized by France, Great Britain and Japan in 1914 still remains unsolved. This was one of the principal questions for settlement with which the conference was charged.

It was proposed that an electrical communications Council should be established, consisting of representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan and the United States and four representatives selected by the other Powers who will compose the personnel of the general communications conference to be held after the adjournment of the present preliminary conference. Such a council would meet frequently and have general advisory and consultative powers and its function would be to encourage the improvement of communications facilities and and the exchange of traffic.

Decision was made by the conference to retain the central bureau at Berne and to maintain its present function as a clearing house for the general interchange of information relating to communications. So far as formulation of a code of international law relating to communications was concerned, it was decided to propose an agreement among the powers not to grant hereafter exclusive cable landing or radio rights serving to check the development of communication facilities. Formulation of an international code determining the status of submarine cables in war time also was proposed, such a code to be prepared at a special conference to be held at The Hague or in connection with the forthcoming world communications congress.

Resolutions adopted by the delegates, looking toward the improvement of communications between the principal Allied and Associated Powers, are expected to serve as a basis for continued efforts along that line.

The British draft of the amalgamation of the radio and telegraphic conventions served as a basis for discussion, it was said, but in the draft finally agreed upon each delegate reserved the right to submit modifications or additions at the world conference.

U. S. TEACHER SHORTAGE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. — Between 300,000 and 400,000 children were deprived of schooling in the United States last year as a direct result of the shortage of teachers, according to estimates made by P. P. Claxton, federal commissioner of education, in his annual report.

CIRCUMSTANCES ALTER CASES.

Whistler and Sickert were once printing etchings together, when the latter dropped a copper plate.

"How like you!" exclaimed Whistler.

A few minutes later he dropped one himself.

"How unlike me!" he said. — Boston Transcript.

Tokio Disavows Unfriendly Note Sent Missionaries

TOKIO, Dec. 9.—Responsibility for a letter sent to Canadian missionaries at Chang Tao, Manchuria, by a military commission giving warning that any spiritual or material assistance given Korean malcontents by British missionaries would lead to a breach in the good understanding between Japan and Great Britain has been disavowed by the Foreign Office here.

The British Government has been informed the Foreign Office had no knowledge of the letter, and officials privately declare it the work of a single officer.

LATE EDWARD CAMPBELL.

SUSSEX, N.B., Dec. 9. — Word was received here by relatives last night that Edward Campbell, a former well-known resident of Ragger's Corner, in the parish of Sussex, had been killed in Somerville, Mass., where he has been living. The body has been shipped here for burial.

A WAY OUT.

"I must break the engagement, and yet I don't want people to say I jilted him," said Maud.

"I have it. Invite him to eat," suggested her friend.

"Yes?"

"Make some of your tea biscuits."

"Yes."

"And he will break it himself."—Houston Post.

SHE CAUGHT HIM.

"Pop!"

"Yes, my son."

"Are you busy just now?"

"No, my boy. Why?"

"Got time to answer me a question?"

"Oh, I think so."

"Well, pop, how are lobsters caught?"

"Oh, go ask your mother. She ought to know."—Yonkers Statesmen.

MAY PROLONG ARTS COURSE SESSION

Governor-General as Visitor Makes Inspection of University

CURRIE PRESIDES

Miss H. Y. Reid Welcomes Principal on Behalf of Governors

The extension of the session of the Arts course was one of the important matters discussed yesterday at a meeting of the Corporation of McGill University. It has been felt for some time, that it would be advantageous to both students and professors if the term could be lengthened to bring the convocation in Arts to the beginning of June instead of the early part of May as has been the custom for many years. The Faculty of Arts reported yesterday that it was ready to make this change which would make the convocation of Arts fall on the same date as that of Medicine. After considerable discussion a committee was formed to approach the other faculties on the subject since lengthening the Arts term would mean changes in a number of combined courses, affecting the work of other faculties.

The corporation authorized the Science Faculty to apply to the council of the Royal Institution of British Architects for associate membership for graduates of the Department of Architecture who have completed the five years course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Architecture. The request for permission to apply for such membership was made by the Faculty upon receipt of a communication from the A.R.I.B.A. stating that graduates of schools of architecture having a five years course leading to a degree would be recognized as exempt from the final examinations of the Institution, except for such examinations as lead to professional practice.

Reference was made to the visit of His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire to the University this week. Since the establishment of McGill under royal charter as a Royal Institution for the Advancement of Learning the official visitor of the university has always been the Governor-General. The Duke of Devonshire has shown a keen interest in the work of the university and was this week received in the Arts Building by Sir Arthur Currie and other members of Faculty and conducted over the new Medical Building, the Engineering and Physics Buildings and the Library.

The Faculty of Law reported in detail to the meeting the new course in study of English law, preparing students for the practice of law in any part of Canada, which was established this session.

The library in its report announced that the subscriptions to the campaign fund of Henry Morgan & Company, Limited would be combined with those of the members of the Morgan family, amounting in all to $8,000, for the purchase of incunabula and books illustrating the history of printing and binding.

A total enrollment of 43 was reported from the graduate school, of these 22 are proceeding to the degree of M. Sc., 12 to that of M.A. and 9 to that of Ph.D.

The meeting was the first presided over by the new principal, Sir Arthur Currie, and the official welcome of the governing body was expressed to Sir Arthur by Miss Helen E. Y. Reid. New members of corporation in attendance included, I. Gammell, representative of the Protestant Teachers Association; Gordon McKinnon, representative of the graduates of the Faculty of Law; F. Baylis Brown, representing the graduates of Applied Science and Prof. C. M. McGregor, representing the Faculty of Applied Science.

The committee on Morals and Discipline appointed at the meeting was composed of Judge R. A. E. Greenshields; Paul Sise, president of the graduates Society; Professor E. Brown; Dr. A. S. Eve; and Dr. F. D. Adams.

"Tommy, can you spell?"

"Sure!" I can even spell words of four cylinders!"—Los Angeles Times.

Christmas Mail for Old Country Closes This Afternoon

The last mail for the Old Country, sure to arrive in time for Christmas, closed this afternoon at five o'clock, while all parcels had to be in two hours earlier. These will be shipped by mail to St. John and there placed on board the SS. Metia, sailing tomorrow and carrying Yule-tide greetings and gifts not only to the United Kingdom, but also to France, Belgium and other European countries.

The volume of mail matter for destinations overseas is the lightest this year since the Christmas of 1913, say the authorities, for even last holiday season an unusual number of parcels was despatched and in previous years comforts for the troops and their dependents broke all former mail records.

For those who have been tardy in their Christmas preparations there is still another mail for the Old Country which closes on December 14, and will be shipped by the SS. Megantic which leaves Halifax on December 16 and arrives in Liverpool seven days later. There is little chance, however, of letters and parcels sent by this ship reaching their destinations in time for Christmas, owing to the congestion in local post offices of the United Kingdom and the possibility of the vessel being delayed.

NO SUGGESTION TO REPLACE LUXURY TAX

The luxury tax was discussed at considerable length at the weekly meeting of the council of the Board of Trade yesterday afternoon, the opposition to it being general and strong. But there was no suggestion before the council as to any other form of taxation which would bring in as much revenue, and it was felt to be undesirable to approach the Minister of Finance with a request to remove this tax without some suggestion for its replacement. The matter was therefore adjourned for a week.

Mails to the Orient are again to be forwarded via Vancouver and the Canadian Pacific Overseas Services, Ltd., it was stated in a letter from the Vancouver Board of Trade reporting its success in getting the Government to carry mails by this route again. Letters to go via Vancouver must have on the envelope the name of the vessel or of the Canadian Pacific Overseas Services, Ltd. Satisfaction was expressed at this result by the council, which had supported the Vancouver Board of Trade in making this request of the Postmaster-General.

George Sumner, president, reported the result of the large delegation which waited on the Administrative Commission, urging opposition to the police demands for a "closed shop." Members of the executive, the Municipal Affairs Committee and the secretary, together with a large number of other organizations totalling about fifty persons, had urged the need for strongly maintaining the commission's policy of declining to permit the "closed shop."

Those present were: Geo. Sumner, president; Hon. Lorne C. Webster, first vice-president; Wm. M. Birks, second vice-president; Arthur Lyman, treasurer; R. E. Calder, Graham Drinkwater, H. D. Dwyer, Geo. W. Grier, E. H. Hodgson, A. M. Irvine, W. S. Leslie, Walter B. Ramsay.

ON SOCIAL CONDITIONS.

An outline of social and economic conditions will be the theme of an address to be delivered at the Central Y.M.C.A., tomorrow evening by Mrs. Ada Brown Talbot, of New York. Mrs. Talbot who spent many years in Mexico is a member of the National Geographical and Statistical Society of Mexico. She is a member of the lecturing staff of the New York Board of Education.

YALE MAN UPBRAIDS FOOTBALL REGIME NOW AT NEW HAVEN

Says Sons of Old Eli Saying "To Perdition With Wonderful Defeats; Give Us Wonderful Victories"—Predicts Change is Coming

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—When Yale was beaten again this year by Boston College, several rabid Eli supporters began to clamor immediately for the scalp of Tad Jones. And when Princeton and Harvard both took a fall out of old Eli the clamor became louder. Some old Yale grads took it upon themselves to investigate matters. Others shook their heads sadly and exclaimed: "It was not like this in the good old days."

From out of the turmoil comes a letter, written by a Yale man whose name is known, but who prefers to sign himself "A Yale Man." He asks to be allowed to have his little say, and the following are his words, phrases and facts:

"Beginning with 1890 at Springfield I have seen every big Yale football game. In the last thirty years I have played a little Yale football, coached it a lot and seen more than a lot. I am now breaking a silence of thirty years because the stupid football publicity which is being sent from New Haven compels me to do so. And I have a right to speak, because I am a Yale graduate, even though not of the elect.

"The latest publicity from Yale sets forth that the three reasons Yale lost in football this year were: Lack of material, constant injuries, and because most of the eleven were unable to play together. It is just this sort of juvenile bunk which exasperates one beyond measure. Why not tell the truth and provide a cure?

"What is causing all the trouble in Yale football is the fact that dry rot has set in. Yale has not been willing to accept what all the rest of the football world has accepted—to wit, the open game. Yale lost this year because Tad Jones overworked the men, because he did not have, or did not use, backs and ends who had enough speed, because of poor tackling, because he did not develop a forward passing game and because he put in, or was forced to put in, two or three players who had no license to ever get above the third eleven. But Tad Jones is a real leader, and should be retained. He is young, and his mistakes were human. He will do better things next year.

YALE PUBLICITY ALL WRONG.

"So the publicity which has been sent from New Haven to the effect that in the Harvard game 'Yale won a great moral victory' is piffle. Yale is sore, sore to her marrow, and she should be sore at losing when she ought not to lose. The powers that be in New Haven may continue to keep on their blinders and exclaim with collegiate cocksureness and lack of vision that 'The Yale spirit was never more indomitable in defeat,' and that 'Yale sand was never more in evidence,' but Yale men in general are demanding :To perdition with wonderful defeats—give us wonderful victories! They are right! And as one Yale man who has personally watched the trend of things in Yale athletics, I want to say that what Yale needs in football is less guts and more brains.

"The idea that what was good enough for the old Yale is good enough for the new is all wrong. It has been officially given out at New Haven that next year the price of football tickets to the general public in the big games is to be raised to $5 or more, but that to Yale the price would be $3 or less. Since when does Yale football belong to Yale alone? Since when does Yale University belong to New Haven alone?

"Can't they realize that Yale belongs to every one who wants her? Just what sort of a university would Yale be if only sons of Yale men went to Yale? It's preposterous! The opportunity and the glory of our country is reflected in the opportunity and glory of Yale. As a university Yale can never be a close corporation—Yale can never say, 'Yale first and the public afterward!' No, indeed—Yale is great because she belongs to a great nation.

SEES SIGNS OF A CHANGE.

"However, this deplorable attitude by those at present in power is merely the reign of a few in passing. It can't last because it isn't right. Some day, and before long, I hope, proper publicity will emanate from Haven. Then will Yale begin to put her best foot forward, and then will the right hand of press and public again be offered to Yale.

"On every side I hear growlings against the things that are. It is an ominous note and quite soon it must penetrate even Yale density at New Haven. How many times in the last week have I heard Yale graduates say: 'It's time we got together!' Yes, it surely is. We are not together. Pinheads have been in control and pinheads have been pulling bones. Please understand that I say 'bones' literally—I have no double meaning in using the word 'bones'!

SHOULD CALL ON WALTER CAMP

"A year ago when Walter Camp's name was mentioned to one of the Yale football coaches the latter said that Camp was a fine coach, and then the smart Aleck held his nose. Not so long ago in the Yale Club, some one suggested that Foster Sanford ought to go up and help coach the line. Whereupon several of the graduates exclaimed hotly that if Sanford went to New Haven they would never go there again! And there you are!

"It is time that the feeling against Camp and against Sanford and all the other little petty squabbles were ironed out. It is time for a mental housecleaning in Yale athletics, and those who use the disinfectant must sprinkle it liberally on themselves. That is the only way to kill dry rot.

"As I said in the beginning, I have a right to criticize because I am a Yale man, even though not of the elect, and I have a further right to criticise, because I am giving three sons to Yale, and they will not be of the elect!"

WOMEN'S WORK

American Women's Club; Drama League to Give Play

That the natural resources of this country should be made free, for use and not for profit, was the advanced view put forward by Howard S. Ross, in an address to the American Women's Club yesterday on "Are equal freedom and equal opportunities desirable and possible," Mr. Ross drew a comprehensive picture of the unrest and misunderstanding prevalent today. They had learned by experience in almost every endeavor, but that of politics, and it was in that sphere they had to dig round to find a solution for the present unrest. They should be able to find some law of human association which should provide some way out of the tangle they were in. The question of ownership he thought was at the root. For instance 20 per cent. of the people of Canada owned 90 per cent. of the natural resources, and a condition in which the few levied tribute on the many did not make for industrial peace. Under the present social order waste was inevitable, and it was impossible to live up to the Golden Rule. The question could only be tackled by reason and co-operation. They could tear down bad things by force, but they could only rebuild with reason.

In conclusion Mr. Ross urged that they had got to find a good medium of exchange of service, and he believed they would come to grips on that point in a few years. If they had some equitable exchange of human services there would not be much need of a League of Nations. But they must get down to the root of the trouble and by co-operation find a way out.

Mrs. M. W. Sherwood, the president occupied the chair. The musicians for the day were Miss Annie Mattinson, who gave an excellent rendering of "Mother O'Mine" (Tours) and Lullaby (Hanscom), and Mrs. Owen who was much applauded for her piano solo, "The Nightingale" (Liszt).

DRAMA LEAGUE.

The American Women's Club celebration of the Tercentenary of the Pilgrim Fathers will take place next Wednesday, when the Drama League will present a one-act play "Sojourners." The story depicts the fortunes of a family which left England for Leyden, Holland in 1620 to obtain religious freedom and finally sailed for the New World.

Great care has been taken in the matter of staging and costumes, an old Dutch garden scene having been faithfully reproduced. The cast will be as follows: John Debenham, Mrs. Burt Greenslit; Deborah Debenham, Mrs. W. A. Weis; David, Mrs. E. M. Lake; Prudence, Mrs. John Frazer; Roger, Mrs. W. A. Dixon; Jan Huiddekofer, Mrs. A. A. Pitte.

WOMEN'S ART SOCIETY.

The receipts from the recent Studio Sale organized by the Women's Art Society amounted to $375. An additional sum of $50 was realised by teas and was donated to the Society's Fund for Sick Soldiers.

JEWISH ARTISTE'S RECITAL.

The Ladies' Ordinary was crowded yesterday afternoon for the drama reading given under the auspices of the Montreal section of the Council of Jewish Women, by Miss Jane Manners, an artiste well-known in many parts of the United States. The program consisted of "The Will" (Barrie); a scene from Zangwill's "Children of the Ghetto," (The Hyams' Honeymoon); and Kitty Clive, F. Frankfort Moore's one-act comedy. Miss Manners is the possessor of a fine voice of the true contralto timbre, and was, as might be expected, at her best in Children of the Ghetto, where her portrayal was instinct with sympathy and insight. Incidentally, her recital was a prodigious feat of memory.

ST. ANNE'S DAY NURSERY.

Owing to the weather conditions, the Christmas Sale for the benefit of St. Anne's Day Nursery, which was postponed on account of inclement weather, will be continued in St. Anne's Kindergarten Hall, 1, Eleanor Street, corner Ottawa street, on Friday and Saturday, December 10 and 11, afternoon and evening.

Murray, vocalist, and Miss Irene Pena. Mrs. Frank Woolley will preside and the hostesses will be Mrs. O. Edy, Mrs. J. H. Reid, Mrs. R. Autliff, Mrs. W. J. Sullivan, Mrs. C. W. Schnare, and Mrs. H. Armstrong. Tea will be served.

FAIRMOUNT METHODIST BAZAAR.

A Fairmount Methodist Bazaar, to be held on Saturday afternoon and evening Mrs. G. Yale will have charge of housekeepers' supplies and home-cooking and Mrs. N. Yale of dolls and baby-wear. Supper will be served from 6 p.m. to 7.30 p.m.

SOLDIERS' WIVES' LEAGUE.

At a recent meeting of Montreal Soldiers' Wives' League held at 85, Osborne Street, reports were received from the Emergency, Clothing, Coal and House Committees. The most important question under discussion was the preparation for Christmas, the Kiwanis Club who generously provided for the children of soldiers last year having promised to do the same this year. Other business related to the families on the Emergency list, and a committee was formed to deal with the question of limiting the numbers who should receive relief. It was felt that the League should reserve its funds for cases of extreme need. Many deserving families well-known to the League will receive a Christmas hamper while others are assisted with clothing and in special cases financial relief is given. The Christmas Committee is at present working on its Emergency list in co-operation with other Institutions so that there will be no unnecessary overlapping. As this is a large undertaking, donations of money for this special work will be gratefully received by the Treasurer or through the office of the League. Several letters were read from families expressing their gratitude for the assistance received during the past month.

HOPE REVERSAL OF PASSPORT DECISION

Irish Committee Sends Letter to Sir Auckland Geddes

U.S. PASSPORTS

State Dept. Had Granted Documents to Committee Members

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(United Press)—Hope that the British Government will reverse its refusal to vise passports for the members of "The Nation's" commission on conditions in Ireland, was expressed today in a letter sent by the unofficial commission to Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador.

The refusal, if made final, "would seem to imply autocratic interference on the part of the Government with the free communication of friendly peoples," the letter said.

"It would check for the moment a modest but sincere effort toward the formation of international public opinion which could be made to focus on problems which threaten the peace of the world," the letter continued, declaring the Irish question is "literally a domestic issue within the United States."

Decision not to vise the passports of the unofficial commission was made known yesterday. It was understood it was announced on orders from London.

LETTER OF REFUSAL.

The letter informing William MacDonald, secretary of the Villard Commission that its members would be refused passports was written by R. L. Craddie, first secretary of the British embassy, and says:

"With reference to your application for vise of the passports of certain gentlemen whom your committee have designated as their representatives to proceed to the United Kingdom to investigate conditions in Ireland, I am directed by His Britannic Majesty's ambassador to inform you that the proposed visit to British territory is not agreeable to His Majesty's Government. Vises will therefore not be affixed to the passports in question. The passport officer in New York has been instructed accordingly.

"This decision has been reached after full consideration of the circumstances of the case and I am to refer you to the ambassador's letter, October 23, in which he informed you that he was unable to believe that the truth could be established until there had been a period of quiet in Ireland, and then only by persons of the greatest experience of the laws of evidence, with power to compel the production of books, papers and records, and that any other form of inquiry would, in his opinion, lead only to a mass of statements unsupported by facts being made for propaganda purposes.

"Sir Auckland Geddes had ventured to hope that the full meaning and significance of these observations would have been clear.

"In view of the fact that the ambassador's letter to you of October 23 last appeared in the press, I am to inform you that this letter will be published."

U. S. GRANTED PASSPORT.

The State Department had already granted passports to the commission members who hoped to continue in England and Ireland the unofficial inquiry now under way here.

Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of the late Lord Mayor of Cork was to testify before the commission today. She is expected to tell of her husband's part in the fight for Irish freedom. Miss Mary MacSwiney testified yesterday.

Four former members of the Royal Irish Constabulary also are here to testify. They claim they were threatened with death if they came here.

RESTITUTION OF CHURCH PROPERTY

Movement in France to Restore Lands to Religious Orders

PARIS, Dec. 9. — (By Mail). — That the Church of France was a very powerful factor in bringing about the victory of the nation in the great war is universally admitted. The extent to which this is recognized has received a striking illustration in the national movement which has been started with a view to the restitution of the property of the church and of the religious orders which was confiscated to the state some years before the outbreak of the world war.

More remarkable still is the circumstance that this movement has found its inception not among the conservatives nor among what might be described as the clericals, but among the deputies of the left in the national legislature—that is to say, among the radicals, headed by former Prime Minister Louis Barthou—indeed, by the very men who took a leading part in bringing about the confiscatory legislation.

LITTLE REALIZED FROM SALES.

It was anticipated that an enormous amount of money would be realized by the confiscation of the church property. But most of it was found to be unsalable, while through gross mismanagement, if not worse, on the part of subordinate officials the sums realized by the sale of such property of the religious orders as found purchasers were relatively insignificant and altogether out of proportion to the amount of odium at home and abroad aroused by the confiscatory legislation.

There will be no attempt made to buy back or to invalidate the sales of the property already disposed of. But the bulk of the property confiscated still remains on the hands of the Government, more or less of a white elephant, and it is this that it is now proposed to restore to the church. Of course, it will include the numerous beautiful and historic cathedrals of France.

ASSURED BY MILLERAND'S ATTITUDE.

As for President Millerand, his attitude is well known, for as high commissioner of Alsace and Lorraine in the period following their restoration to France he was instrumental in assuring to the church and to the religious orders of the two provinces in question the uninterrupted continuance in the possession of their property.

Alsace and Lorraine are now part and parcel of France, and it is an anomaly that whereas within their borders the church and the religious orders should be allowed to possess property, this should be unlawful in the other parts of France. This anomaly will soon be a thing of the past when the restitution engineered by former Premier Barthou becomes an accomplished fact.

NO HOTEL ON SACRED GROUND

LONDON, Dec. 09.—(By Mail). — A complete denial is given by Messrs. Samuel Allsopp, Limited, brewers, Burton-on-Trent, to the statement that they intend erecting an hotel on the site of the historic Hill 60, which has been purchased by Mr. J. J. Calder, managing director.

An official of the firm stated that they regard the site as sacred ground. Mr. Calder, of Ardargie, Perthshire, says he merely stepped in and purchased because the land was for sale, and it was necessary to take prompt action to secure it for a war memorial to the regiments which suffered there.

The ground will be transferred to regimental committees.

SHIPPING NEWS

SUNKEN SHIP IS BLOCKING CANAL

Mapleheath at Bottom of No. 3 Lock With Coal—Raised Tomorrow

SHIP TAKING CHANCE

Keyvive Will Attempt Run Here Without Navigation Buoys

After one of its busiest and most successful years the Lachine canal has become blocked just as the last two ships of the season were about to pass through. One of the ships, the Mapleheath, of the Canada Steamship Lines, sank to the bottom of the canal last night in No. 3 lock and is holding up the Vismount of the same company which intends to winter further up in the lakes.

The Lachine canal authorities stated to The Star today that they expected to have the Mapleheath raised by tomorrow and the canal clear for shipping. The accident to the Mapleheath was not noticed at the time of the occurrence and it was not until the steamer, with a full cargo of coal, reached the lock proper that she began noticeably to settle down.

The cause of the leak was due to the premature dropping of the anchor, which the vessel collided with, stoving a hole in her starboard bow. The depth of the vessel is very close to that of the canal so that it was not until she had touched bottom and stopped that the damage was discovered.

TWENTY TONS IN CANAL.

Coal is being thrown out to lighten the boat and pumps from Kingston, now working, are expected to keep the water out. With the increase in coal cargoes passing through the canals this season the canal bed is expected to yield a better harvest than usual to those who search the empty locks and bed in the spring for junk and whatever they can find.

In normal years it is estimated by the canal authorities that at least twenty tons of coal drop into the canal in loading and unloading during the season. With the passing out of the Mapleheath and Vismount, tomorrow, the former to drydock in the canal, the canal itself is expected to be closed finally for the season on Sunday or Monday at the latest. It has outlived the harbor in its usefulness by one week in the 1920 season.

KEYVIVE COMING HERE.

Inquiries are now coming in rapidly for the classes in navigation which will be opened in Montreal next month. Captain J. O. Grey, in charge, intends opening up the nautical college on the first Monday in January. The examinations for certificates for marine efficiency are scheduled for the first Tuesday in January, and the first Tuesday in February for master's certificates.

That a touch of excitement usually comes in the closing of the Montreal port and St. Lawrence river to navigation is again borne out this year. The Star learned today that the steamer Keyvive, now at Three Rivers, will make the attempt tomorrow morning to reach Montreal port for her winter berth.

She will be without any aid from navigation buoys, and will depend largely on the ice-breaker Lady Grey for her directions while en route.

If the Keyvive misses the channel and runs aground, the Lady Grey will be on hand to pull her off, being a first-class wrecking steamer as well as an ice-crusher.

The trip which is under contemplation will leave the Lady Grey to make the last after-the-season trip of 1920 season from here to Quebec, at the end of this week.

ANSWER TO COMPLAINT.

C.P.O.S. officials are quite comfident here that the attitude assumed by Quebec and Halifax authorities with reference to shipping in general is due entirely to a misunderstanding of the situation. The protest concerning to passing of Halifax with the Empress of Britain mails would be well grounded if the Empress of Britain called at Halifax regularly before docking at St. John, but the routine run is the other way about. Last voyage of the Empress liner is an exception to the rule. Passengers and mail will therefore be put off at St. John, N.B., as would be expected. The liner will then fuel at Halifax on her eastward trip home as on normal occasions.

Quebec's complaint that the C.P.O.S. has increased the Montreal summer service in 1921 to 75 trips and reduced the Quebec service to 17 trips, brings to light a fact that the C.P.O.S. is the only passenger line which considers Quebec at all. The port of Quebec, said one official today, has our two best liners, the Empress of France and the Empress of Britain. All our first class cabin business is concentrated at Quebec and incidentally the service of our best ships.

TWO LINERS LEAVE.

St. John port will have its first busy week-end this week when the Melita and Corsican sail out with full passenger lists for Liverpool and London. The Melita leaves tomorrow and the Corsican leaves Saturday. Passenger lists of the outgoing liners have already been published in The Star.

C.P.O.S. MOVEMENTS.

Corsican leaves St. John on 11th for London.

Melita leaves St. John, N.B., tomorrow for Liverpool.

Empress of Britain leaves St. John 15th for Liverpool.

Empress of Britain arrived at St. John at 9 a.m. today from Liverpool.

Pretorian is arrived at Glasgow 1 p.m. yesterday from Montreal.

Scotian will arrive at Southampton from Montreal today.

Victorian left Liverpool noon yesterday having been delayed one day by bad weather.

Empress of Russia is due at Hong Kong today from Vancouver.

Saxonia leaves Halifax Saturday for Liverpool.

Saturnia leaves Portland noon today for Glasgow.

WHITE STAR LINE.

S.S. Megantic arrived Halifax 8 a.m. Dec. 9th, and is due Portland, Dec. 10th.

S.S. Canada sailed from Halifax Dec. 6th for Liverpool. Reported 782 miles east Chebucto Head, Thursday morning. Due Liverpool Tuesday.

S.S. Adriatic is expected to dock at New York on Friday, December 10th.

S.S. Mongolia is due to arrive at New York on Friday, December 10th.

COMMISSION AND POLICE CONFER

A two hour conference took place this morning between the Administrative Commission and three members of the Police Union, headed by President Bouchard. There was a very full discussion of the demands made by the police and the answer that had been given by the Commission through Col. Gaudet. Explanations were made of certain clauses and the members of the union decided that they would report the case to a meeting of their confreres and confer with the Commission later on the decisions arrived at.

It is understood that representatives of the Firemen's Union are going to see the Commission in a day or two with reference to their position. It is stated that the majority of the men are satisfied with the proposals made by the Commission, but there are a few minor points it is desired to clear up before the end of the year.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

Central Y.M.C.A. senior competitive sports are drawing to a close, three more events being completed last night, leaving only three more to be run off on December 15th.

Last night the events were: S.H. step and jump; 600 yard run; 25 yard swing. The results are as below:

S. H. step and jump—1, J. Clarke, 23 feet 5 inches, 58 points; 2, C. F. Castleman, 23 feet 2 inches, 56 points; 3, W. E. Dietsche, 23 feet, 56 points.

600 yard run—1, R. W. Dietsche, time, 1 min. 43 secs.; 72 points; 2, J. Clarke, 1:48 2-5; 66 points; 3, N. Staples, 1:49, 64 points.

25 yard swim—1, J. H. Shepherd, 15 secs., 84 point; R. W. Dietsche, 15 3-5 secs., 82 points; 3, J. Clarke, 18 secs., 74 points.

C. Deere, who had been prevented from competing in the 30 yard run previously, completed this event on Saturday morning. This arrangement was mutually consented to by the other competitors concerned. Deere scored 72 points, so that this gave him the lead over Dietsche by two points; their totals being 1,614 and 1,612 respectively. This also gave Deere the lead over Shepherd, so that Shepherd dropped to third and Clarke to fourth, both of whom are fighting hard to be in the final standing among the first three, who are to receive awards.

The standing to date, including the above events and also Deere's 72 points scored in the 300 yard run, are as follows:

1, R. W. Dietsche, 1,868 points; 2, C. Deere, 1,852; 3, J. H. Shepherd, 1,754; 4, J. Clarke, 1,636; 5, C. F. Castleman, 1,216.

Concluding events to be held on Dec. 15: Running high jump, 120 yard run and 50 yard swim.

The names of the prize winners will be published after these events, and also times and distances that were made that were especially good.

The contest has been an "average man's" series of events, the effort being made to bring out everybody rather than the star performer who does not need coaching or practice as the others do. The tables that have been used were compiled with this end in view, and have shown their fairness and value.

TORONTO CURLERS.

TORONTO, Dec. 9. — (Star Special)— As usual, the Queen City Curling Club have got the edge on their sister clubs by enjoying the first game of the season, the event taking place last night at the Church Street Club, with the ice in good condition, and Charley Kelk ushered in the season by beating Billy Philip by one shot.

THEATRE MERGER PLANNED--LOCAL STOCKS FAIRLY STEADY

SOME ADVANCES SPRINKLED LIST; OTHERS EASIER

The market has given indication this week of being less influenced by the resumption of bear attacks in Wall Street and this has given encouragement to the belief that really weak features of the situation have been cleaned away.

Some of the issues which rallied more sharply when the local pressure was relieved yielded part of their gains more readily than those which have improved steadily but less spectacularly.

Buying demand was on the light side today with a somewhat irregular tone but a fair sprinkling of advances over yesterday's closing figures.

The most notable change was in Weyagamack which moved up recently to 98 and closed easier at 95 yesterday. The market opened at 95 again today and continued the reaction to 80. The other paper stocks developed only moderate changes. Spanish River was steady at 88 1-2 to 3-4 and the preferred 96 to 95. Abitibi and Brompton only varied fractions at 66 3-4 and 58 respectively. Laurentide was up 3-4 to 94 3-4. Atlantic Sugar was a stronger feature of the general list at 25 1-2 to 26, a net gain of 1 1-4. Brazilian was also stronger at 33 to 7-8, but Quebec Railway which moved up easily a couple of points yesterday to 24 reacted to 22 7-8.

Asbestos rallied to 56 1-2, up 2 1-2; Bridge gained one to 76, while Breweries held steady at 48 3-4 to 1-2. Car, which recently moved up to 40, was off two. Steel of Canada was off 1 1-2 to 61 3-4.

Other features were: Smelters strong at 17 to 1-2, Shawinigan off 1-2 to 102 1-2, Power steady at 79 1-2, Steamships steady at 47 1-2 to 47, Car pfd. 68, up one.

Victory bonds were mainly steady. The 1933 issue was strengthened sharply at the opening to 96 3-8 from 95 7-8, at the close yesterday but reacted to 95 to 1-8. The 1927 maturity was off from 98 to 94 7-8. Others showed slight changes.

There was little change among the paper leaders both Spanish common and preferred holding steady to softer at the midday level of 88 3-4 to 88 for the common and 95 for the preferred. WAYAGAMACK'S CAPITAL

THREE RIVERS, Que., Dec. 9.—At a special general meeting of the shareholders of the Wayagamack Pulp & Paper Company, held at the head office here today, unanimous ratification was given to the proposals authorizing an increase in the capital stock of the company.

C. R. Whitehead, the President of the company, presided and proxies showed that over seven-eighths of the outstanding capital stock was represented at the meeting. By the proposal the capital stock of the company will be converted from 50,000 common shares of a par value of $100 into 100,000 common shares without nominal or par value.

In addition, the various proposals in connection with the increase of capital were carried out by the adoption of by-law No. 21.

Authority was also secured from shareholders to move the head office of the company from Montreal to Three Rivers.

APPEAL REFUSED IN MONTREAL CASE

Decision in Watt & Scott Versus City of Montreal

SNOWFALL CAUSE

Decision of Similar Case Interests Local Property Owners

LONDON, Dec. 9.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The Privy Council has refused leave to appeal in the case of Watt and Scott vs. the City of Montreal, concerning damage done to property by snowfall. The refusal is made on the ground that leave has already been granted in another action covering similar circumstances.

Messrs. Watt and Scott are foodstuff importers at 36 St. Paul street, and the law suit in question dates back to the spring of 1917.

Litigation was started with two actions before the Superior Court of Montreal, the first claiming damage caused by the overflow of the Commissioner street sewer in the month of March, 1917, and the second claiming damage from a similar cause in July, 1917. Before trial the two cases were ordered joined as one by judgment of the court and both claims were heard and decided at one hearing. The Superior Court maintained both claims.

From this judgment the city appealed to the Court of King's Bench, which reversed the judgment of the Superior Court unanimously as regards the claim arising from the July flooding and by a majority of three to two as regards the claim arising from the March flooding. Plaintiff then appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada. The city moved that this appeal be quashed as regards the March claim on the grounds that the amount involved was less than $2,000, and that the Supreme Court therefore had no jurisdiction. Plaintiff contended that the judgment uniting the actions already referred to was a consolidation of the two actions which must therefore subsequently be treated as one action involving a total of the two claims and making the amount in issue over $4,000.

The city's motion to quash was continued to the hearing on the merits and after argument had proceeded for some time the Supreme Court finally decided by a 3 to 2 majority that the motion to quash should be granted and that the Court would not consider the item of damages claimed in respect to the March flooding, the majority of the Court holding that the joinder of the actions before the Supreme Court was not a consolidation to the extent mentioned and that the March claim being under $2,000 the Court had no jurisdiction to consider same.

On the second claim arising from the July flooding the Supreme Court reversed the judgment of the Court of King's Bench and partially restored the judgment of the Superior Court, awarding plaintiff half of the amount claimed instead of the full amount, the reason for the reduction being that Plaintiff was also at fault in not taking the precautions of equipping the private drain connection with automatic valves or some similar device. The judgment laid down the important principle that the city was responsible for damage done by the flooding of its sewers unless it was able to show that it was unable to prevent such an occurrence, or, in other words, that same had been caused by unprecented weather conditions constituting force majeure or similar reasons.

Last July the city moved before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council for special leave to appeal from this judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada by reason of the importance of the general questions involved. Leave to appeal was granted and then Messrs. Watt and Scott Limited moved for special leave to have the Privy Council consider the claim arising from the March flooding, which had not been passed upon by the Supreme Court for the reason above mentioned. It is this latter application which has apparently been refused, according to the above cable advice from London.

Messrs. Davidson, Wainwright, Alexander and Elder, counsel for plaintiff, when seen by a representative of The Star this morning stated that they had not yet received word from the Solicitors in London. They did not quite understand the last sentence of the cable despatch, they stated, inasmuch as the facts involved in the claim for damages by flooding in the month of March were quite different from those arising under the July claim; and that while the question of the responsibility of a municipal corporation for damage caused by flooding of its sewers arose in both instances it by no means necessarily followed that one case must follow the outcome of the other.

BUSY WITH DRUG CASES.

The narcotic squad of the R.C.M.P. has been making cases against drug sellers about as fast as the courts can handle them. This morning a summons was issued for the appearance of Frank Rou, a Chinaman, of 1396 Notre Dame street West, said to have sold a box of opium for $45. Constables Farfard and McDonald took out the summons.

BODY NOT YET FOUND.

No trace has yet been found of 16 year old Gwendoline Edwards, who is supposed to have jumped into the river at Windmill Basin. Dragging operations have been continued for the past two days but without success. It is contemplated using dynamite this afternoon in an endeavor to bring the body, if it is in the river, to the surface.

NO INCREASE FOR GARMENT WORKERS

Clothing Trade Arbitration Board Announces Final Award

WORKERS SATISFIED

Certains Questions Will Come Before Permanent Arbitration Council

Refusal of the Ladies' Garment Workers request for an increase in wages of $8 per week is the outstanding feature of the decision which has just been rendered by the arbitration board jointly appointed by the Cloak, Skirt, Dress, Waist and Raincoat Makers' Union of Montreal and the Cloak and Suit Manufacturers' Association, which has been in session since September 7.

After reviewing the situation of the trade generally, and pointing out that several increases of wages had been granted since 1918, that cost of manufacture had been increased both by these increases and by reduction of production, but that nevertheless there still exist certain discrepancies between the rates paid here and in Toronto and other centres, the chairman of the board, C. B. Barnes, in his award continues:

"The chairman feels that his decision should take into consideration the present depressed condition of the garment industry and the uncertain outlook for the coming season, as well as the general condition of unemployment and the tendency to wage reductions throughout the country. It is therefore decided that the request of the Union for an increase of $8 in scales and wages is refused."

The award further points out that the agreement under which this arbitration was held provides for the appointment of a permanent council for arbitration purposes, and in view of the fact that there are certain questions, such as the discrepancies in wages between Montreal and Toronto which may be necessary to adjudicate upon later on, calls for the immediate appointment of such a council, the president to act as impartial chairman to settle all questions raised by either party and appoint necessary committees for investigation of any questions regarding wage rates or labor conditions which may be raised by either party.

J. Lanch, who with J. Schubert represented the workers at the sittings of the arbitration board, in communicating the contents of the award to The Star, expressed the opinion this morning that the result was on the whole satisfactory to the workers. While their request was for the time being refused owing to the market conditions, he pointed out that the way was left open to reconsider it when conditions changed.

PLEASES MANUFACTURERS.

The award appears to give equal satisfaction to the manufacturers. I. Greenberg, president of the Cloak and Suit Manufacturers, pointed out this morning that no opinion was expressed in the award as to the extent of the wage discrepancies which existed, or how far they might work as a hardship, it being merely provided that machinery was to be set up for dealing with such questions later on, as and when they might arise.

Although there might be some discrepancies between the wages paid in Montreal and in other centres, Mr. Greenberg remarked, it did not necessarily follow that the Montreal workers suffered a disadvantage. There were differences in labor conditions which would have to be taken into consideration by the board when taking up that question. His association did not admit that any disadvantage was suffered by Montreal workers.

Incidentally, Mr. Greenberg pointed out that the buying public had absolutely refused for some time past to purchase ladies' ready-to-wear garments on account of the very high cost of the goods, which, to a great extent, had been caused by the high cost of production.

The question of wages and production is also under discussion between the men's wear manufacturers and the Clothing Workers Union, whose contract expired on Dec. 1, and who are now negotiating a new agreement. Negotiations are actively in progress, and it is hoped that a definite result will be arrived at within a few days.

RE-OPENS COURT HOUSE HEARING

The hearing of evidence in the expropriation proceedings to fix a price for the building on St. Vincent street, which the Provincial Government has secured to provide for the extension to the Court House, was resumed this morning before Lieut.-Col. F. W. Hibbard, of the Public Services Commission. The property belongs to the Sauvegarde Company, and this morning Pierre Beullac, K.C., produced three witnesses who were cross-examined by Alphonse Decary, K.C., for the Government. Hugh Vallance, architect, compared his valuation of the Jaeger building with the Sauvegarde building. S. A. Beaulne, engineer, gave evidence as to the condition of the building, and Gabriel Hurtubise compared the condition of the Sauvegarde building with that of the Morgan building.

DISPUTE POWER OF QUEBEC PROVINCE

Defendant in "House" Injunction Alleges Law Unconstitutional

LEGALITY UPHELD

Attorney-General Intervenes in Committee of Sixteen's Action

The test case brought by the Committee of Sixteen against Dame Delia Bedard, wife of J. Labrecque, formerly owner of premises bearing No. 61 City Hall avenue, is being argued today before Mr. Justice Maclennan, in the Superior Court, on injunction proceedings against the said Delia Bedard to prevent her from using the premises for any purposes whatsoever for a period of twelve months. The action was taken by virtue of legislation enacted at the last session of the Quebec Legislature.

Peter Bercovitch, K.C., appeared for the committee of Sixteen: Albert Theberge, K.C., with N. K. Laflamme, K.C., as counsel, for defendant Delia Bedard; and Charles Lanctot, K.C., assistant attorney-general for the Attorney-General of the Province, the law as passed being challenged as unconstitutional by defendant.

This morning's session was taken up with argument from Messrs. Theberge and Laflamme on behalf of defendant.

The intervention filed on behalf of the Attorney-General is to the effect that the law as passed is constitutional inasmuch as the Legislature has jurisdiction to the exclusion of the Parliament of Canada to legislate on property and civil rights. Further, that by virtue of this jurisdiction, it has the right to define and determine the civil rights as well as the persons who enjoy it and have power to exercise it, and that the Legislature can edict laws depriving such persons for any cause whatsoever, of the enjoyment or the exercise of all civil rights or part of them. That, particularly, the Province of Quebec has the power to adopt laws to determine and restrain the rights of property and the right of enjoyment of the lessee or the tenant of a house or building, and to decree that an illicit act is an abuse of the right of property or enjoyment and is illegal, and that its commission by the proprietor himself or by other persons to his knowledge involves the total or partial deprivation for a certain time or forever, of the right of property. Again, the law in question has no other object and cannot be interpreted in another sense; that the Legislature had the right to enact such a law and that in so doing it acted within its powers and constitutionally.

CLAIM LAW ULTRA VIRES.

In her defense, defendant denies the plaintiff's contention and the intervention of the Attorney General, inasmuch as the law they seek to apply is ultra vires, null and of no effect; that the Legislature of the Province of Quebec does not possess by virtue of the Act of British North America, the necessary powers to pass and vote the law which is now being challenged. She claims that the Parliament of Canada alone can adopt such a law; that the nature and bearing of the said law aim to prevent, repress and punish the crime of prostitution and pertains to the criminal law; that the civil rights and the rights of property are not affected by a law which purpose the prevention the restraining and the punishment of a criminal offence; that the offences concerning prostitution cannot be ruled by police by-laws, the said offences not being of local and private interests concerning the conditions or habits of a province in particular.

The defense also alleges that the offence charged against defendant falls under Article 228 of the Criminal Code and that the province has not the right to decide if a criminal offence has been committed, and that no conviction can be obtained without a trial which, the defence claims, is the purpose of the law which is now being challenged, inasmuch as it decrees that a certain place, domicile, residence, house or building "shall not be rented for any purpose for the space of one year."

The argument is being continued this afternoon.

CONFESSION OF "THEFT FROM CITY"

Someone has been stealing the funds of the city. When or how remains a mystery, but that this has occurred sometime in the past, was made evident this morning when the acting city treasurer received a letter enclosing five dollars with the blunt statement: "Herewith find five dollars which I stole from the city." This is the first time that such a frank admission has been made by anyone and there was much speculation at the City Hall this morning as to who committed the theft.

The suggestion that the "gift" came from one of the former members of the city council—whose belated conscience has just begun to stir at this season of the year, was discounted by the assertion of one acquainted with the old days that preceded the Cannon inquiry that the alderman of those days did not consider any money they got out of the city treasury as theft—but the legitimate perquisites of their positions. And anyhow such small amounts were beneath the attention of those who brought the city to a very unhealthy financial condition.

There will not be much delving into past accounts to ascertain from where the five dollars was stolen, for it will simply go into the general fund and be classed with other conscience money received from time to time as "other receipts."

TWO MEN HELD FOR AUTOMOBILE DEATH

"We are severe with reckless motor drivers and we are going to be more so in the future. A man who has been drinking, as the evidence shows in this case, even if he has had only one drink, has no right to drive an automobile. He has no more right to drink than the pilot of a ship which is going to shoot the rapids." So stated Deputy-Coroner Prince this morning at the inquest on Elzear Lefebvre, of 585 Albert street, who died in the Western Hospital on Monday from injuries sustained in an automobile accident on the St. Hubert road, on October 10, last. Geraldin Lefebvre and Abraham Goldstein were found criminally responsible for the death and will be arraigned in the Enquete Court this afternoon. One of the members of the coroner's jury disagreed with the verdict.

Lent Stranger Modest Sum of $1,800 for An Hour

A good Samaritan is not always a good business man. Peter Ciz, who has been staying at the Parker House, on St. Antoine street, was approached by a stranger yesterday, who requested the loan of a small sum, about $1,800 for an hour to get goods from an express office. He would return the money immediately afterwards. He failed to return, and after waiting some time Mr. Ciz appeared at the detective bureau and asked that his money be recovered at once. His faith in the detective force is apparently as firm as it was in the stranger. Perhaps they will not disappoint him.

MAPLE LEAFS TO REMAIN ANOTHER WEEK IN MONTREAL

Syncopation at Princess—"The Yellow Ticket" at the Orpheum Theatre

THE public appreciation of The Maple Leafs has been so extensive and the booking for the balance of the present week is so heavy that the management of His Majesty's theatre have decided to hold the organization over for a second week here.

The Maple Leafs have proved themselves very capable and versatile entertainers and their program has won general approval. Their dancing and singing, as well as their comedy, have stood the test of critical audiences, and now that they have got into their stride, as it were, they are doing praiseworthy work in a manner that challenges comparison with skilled and experienced veterans of the professional stage.

For next week a new skit will be included in their program, as well as new songs and other features. Pat Rafferty, their leading comedian, who is a host in himself, will get a big opportunity in the new sketch.

At the Princess Theatre next week Henry Santrey and His Syncopated Society Band will make their initial appearance, opening at tomorrow's matinee. Mr. Santrey is a popular baritone, who has been heard in many musical productions. Jack Osterman will be seen in his latest sketch, "Fifteen Minutes of Something," hodge-podge of song, dance and chatter, and Bensee and Baird in a new skit, "Songtimes." They have both been particularly successful in Australia. Hubert H. Kinney and Corinne have revived old dances. Bartram and Saxton are a team of comedians. The Four Lamy Brothers are said to present the only casting act in existence which includes a triple somersault. Two other features yet to be announced will complete the bill.

A drama of old Russia in the days before the European war, "The Yellow Ticket," will be the offering at the Orpheum Theatre next week. It is a story of intrigue, of the persecution of a beautiful young Jewish girl by the officials whose duty it was to protect womanhood. One of the leaders of the Jewish faith in New York, after seeing the play, said: "It is a strong and moving drama, based on undeniably documentary facts of Russian officialdom which will come as a terrible shock." In the days with which the story deals "the yellow ticket" was a passport, a badge of protection, issued to social outcasts, and the possessor of one of these tickets was thereby branded as a sort of social leper. A beautiful young Jewess, forced to apply for one of these documents as a means of protection in getting out of the city, is engaged as a companion to the daughter of an American. The latter does not know of the yellow ticket incident until at a social function a member of the secret police informs him. The young Jewess is turned out of the house and an influential baron promises her protection. She goes to his room and while she is there he is murdered. From then on the girl is the victim of the most brutal persecution. "The Yellow Ticket" has never before been presented in Montreal.

"The Bowery Burlesquers" will be seen all next week at the Gayety Theatre. Joeh Hurtig has had Hugh Shubert write a special musical score for The "Bowerys" and he has added to their attractiveness by engaging Arthur Conrad, a master of the dance, to stage some special dances and ensembles. Two big scenic effects show an aviation field with a huge aeroplane in full operation, and a wreck at sea. The book is in ten scenes and inasmuch as it deals with the timely subject of aviation and an airship flight around the world, the audience is transported in a logical manner to Sunny Spain, where a realistic bull fight is shown in progress; Gay Paris, in its new regime of gayety; and Darkest Russia, where the Bolsheviks are now holding forth.

At the St. Denis next week; The Wakas, three Japs who are exponents of the wonderful art of jiu-jit su, will be the principal feature. Charles Rose is billed as a musical comedian; Zano, Ball and Carl are comedy acrobats. A dainty and prettily costumed little miss in the person of Marion Claire will be heard in vocal selections. The Lombardis present a singing act in which many operatic arias are rendered.

The feature picture will disclose Robert Warwick in "The City of Masks." "It's a Boy" will provide the comedy and the Paramount Magazine and the St. Denis Weekly will complete the bill.

Young People Give Musical Comedy in Maisonneuve Church

The Young People's Society of Maisonneuve Presbyterian Church opened this season of amateur plays on Monday night with giving a musical comedy entitled "Oh You Rustic Romeo," directed by Mrs. H. Dunbar.

Mr. David McCaw, Miss Alice Holder, Mr. David Martin, Mr. Eric Crossley, Miss Blanch Holder, Miss Bella Scott, George Gebbie, Mr. Alex Docherty, and Miss Betty Boomer, all took part. The singers were Miss Sarah Hodge and Miss Lillian Booth. Mrs. J. J. McCaskill acted as accompanist. The entertainment was a decided success.

ALLEGE CHEQUE WAS BOGUS.

Charged with passing bogus cheque, Irving Kearns, 24 years old, of 33 Prospere street and John Bowman, 23 years old, of 119 Ontario street east, appeared before Judge Cusson in the court of arraignment this morning. Enquete was set for next Wednesday. The complaint was laid by Molson's Bank, it was alleged that the two men deposited a cheque, drawn on a well-known firm in the city for $142 and later tried to draw out $75.

TRIED AND NOT FOUND WANTING.

(Sam, who covets the boss's white pants:) Boss, Ah jes' can't clean dem pants of your'n.

Boss: Have you tried gasoline.

Sam: Yes, sah, it don't do no good!"

Boss: Well, try ammonia.

Sam: I've done tried 'em on, boss, and dey fits me fine.—Science and Invention.

Stage & Screen.

TO obtain a clear idea of the influence the movies have on the ordinary youngster who frequents the films, just stand outside any motion picture house any night at the end of the show and listen to the children's comments. Then you will realise the necessity of hammering into the heads of some parents the fact that it is an utter impossibility, and will always remain an utter impossibility, to retain the motion picture theatre exclusively for the entertainment of the young.

Incorporation papers have been filed in Albany for the "Better Picture Circuit," an organization having as its aim the establishment of a central, neutral organization that will work between the public and the picture industry in an effort to improve general conditions. "One million people have seen "Good Times." It was officially announced at the New York Hippodrome on Friday last, when the 200th performance of "Good Times" was celebrated, that the attendance mark for the season had reached 1,000,000. The season began August 9, 1920.

Commenting upon the production of George Bernard Shaw's "Heartbreak House," in Vienna, a critic says:

"The audience received the production with marked coolness. The approach of an aeroplane on a bombing expedition was splendidly done, and when the bomb exploded in Captain Shotover's garden or its neighborhood it brought the audience down, as well as a considerable amount of crockery behind the scenes. But this is not how Mr. Shaw is wont to bring down his audiences."

Come to think of it, the utilization of crockery is not as ingenious a thing as we have grown to expect from Mr. Shaw.

Catherine Valvert, who portrays the leading role in "Dead Men Tell No Tales," has returned to New York from a two weeks' vacation spent in Canada. Her final week's work on this picture is finished. The big sailing vessel used in the production, the Lady Jermyn, was blown up off Northport, Long Island, and this completed the actual camera work. Tom Terriss directed "Dead Men Tell No Tales."

The producer of the film version of Vincents Ibanes' story of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" has a stickler for reality. He has insisted that his players shall speak Spanish in the close-ups, in order to baffle lip-readers who might try to find fault with the picture. What hopes for the "Pulling Picture to Pieces" enthusiasts when the film is shown in England?

Los Angeles has been troubled of late with a series of more or less mild earthquakes, so when Robert McKim, the villain-star, announced that he had invented a refuge from earthquakes he became the centre of interest. Everybody wanted to spend the night in his "dug-out," but Robert only revealed the secret to Jack Conway, his director. When Jack asked the secret, Robert trotted out the fact that this portable cellar hung from a balloon!

Pearl White says the funniest incident of her career occured during the filming of one of the scenes for "The White Moll," by Frank R. Packard, of Lachine, her first Fox production. In the scene referred to she was supposedly attacked by two thieves who had to rob her of her purse. A policeman happened to come round the corner during a rehearsal of the scene, which was filmed in the slums of New York. He did not see the director and his assistants standing on one side, and quite naturally thought it was a real robbery. He charged down upon the two "extras," intending to arrest them, and then, as Miss White suddenly burst out laughing, discovered the mistake he had made and apologized.

The wild daredevil cameraman Billy Fostery, with Lois Weber productions, and Dev Jennings, cinematographer for Pauline Fredericks, had narrow escapes from sudden death recently while returning in Jennings' high powered auto from duck hunting at Bear Lake. The trip was made without serious trouble and the hunters were returning home laden with duck. Out about the Arroyo Seco near Eagle Rock, while gliding along easily, a mistake was made in the road. Foster saw the error just in time to jump out of the car. Dev threw on the emergency brake, as Billy hates it graphically, the big machine, thanks to Jennings' presence of mind, was stopped with its front wheels almost hanging over a hundred foot precipice. And no camera ready to shoot the scene.

Movies have been the lively daughters of dead photography, until just lately, when suddenly they have become an art. Says Herman Scheffauer in "The Freeman," discussing the fourth dimension in this, the most pebien of all the arts. The significance of the cinema is the significance of the aeroplane, says the writer. Both conquer space. "Man shall not only know by hypothesis that the earth is not flat and still but feel by sense and instinct that it is round and in flight. He shall know the earth as his own house. If our feeling for space be developed aesthetically by the possibilities of the film, as physically by the possibilities of the aeroplane, if this sixth sense grow subtler and sharper, we shall achieve a finer adjustment of man to his environment, a closer contact with the abstract and concrete worlds, a new harmony with nature, and the universe." All that highbrow talk about the lowbrow movies, but "The Freeman" is all-inclusive and tolerant.

The domestic circle of the Royal Family has been provoked to many smiles by a film cartoon exhibiting the humorous side of the recent voyage of the Prince of Wales in the Renown. The figures for this cartoon were cut by the Prince himself, and to him also is due the tragi-comical climax of the "plot." Lord Louis Mountbatten, who accompanied the Prince in the Renown, is an enthusiastic cinematographer, and has even invented a system of intensive marine signalling by means of the screen. He put this into practice during the voyage, and was joined by the Prince of Wales in making, by means of cardboard ships on a canvas "sea," a film, which is now being considered by the Admiralty. "Captain Will Barker, the official cinematographer on board the Renown, told the Prince that cartoons of "Mutt and Jeff" were prepared in that way for the screen, and this interested the Prince so much that he determined to have the story of the voyage told in a film cartoon. It is not probable, however, that the film will be "released" for public exhibition.

How vast the improvements are that have been effected in film display since the days of Edison's "kinetoscope" everyone knows who has had an opportunity of comparing the early flickering films with the latest screen productions. The American Inventor's method of moving the film and working the shutter of the lens is still employed, but in every other respect the apparatus has been improved out of recognition.

The shutter itself has undergone desirable changes since the days when a picture used to show stripes. This was eliminated and gave place to the flickering movement that was so trying and even injurious to the eyes. Now the flicker has in turn been eliminated by means of an ingenious British invention known as the "Extralite" shutter, and its usefulness is enhanced by the fact that it is adaptable to any make of cinematograph projector. The new shutter eliminates flickering because it never cuts the picture entirely off the screen, but allows the light to pass through the blades of the shutter.

From the point of view of the cinema patron, the new shutter has the threefold advantage of eliminating the flicker, increasing the light and nullifying the possibilities of eyestrain.

PIANO AND 'CELLO MUSIC IS PLAYED

Joint Recital by Aurore La Croix and Maurice Dambois

The debut of an artist is always an event to rouse expectations and interest, especially when the artist, even if not famous, comes with the seal of critical approval upon his, or her work, as was the case with Miss Aurore La Croix, pianist, whose first appearance in our city was made last night in a joint concert given with Maurice Dambois, 'cellist, in the Prince of Wales Hall in the Windsor Hotel.

In Miss La Croix's first piece, a Sonata by Galuppi, it seemed as if a new and very distinctive star were rising upon the musical horizon. The clear intelligence revealed in her reading of this fascinating music, the classic repose of her style and the finish of every phrase, made one think of Cortot and other great French performers. In the Weber Perpetual Motion Rondo too, the fleet scales were as strings of pearls in their evenness and lustre, the color was fresh and the gentle gayety of the movement irresistible; but the poetry of Schumann's "Pappillons" eluded Miss LaCroix and the touch that had been crisp in the Sonata became sharp in bravura fortissimo playing as a crackling tone was developed from what had originally been pretty and sparkling. This forced tone spoiled the Chopin "Winter Wind" Study; but the Strauss-Tausig Waltz had many moments in it of allurment and charm.

DAMBOIS IMPROVES.

Mr. Dambois' playing showed marked improvement over his last work here. He has lost not a little of the excess of sentiment which formerly clouded his interpretations of melodic measures, but he has not yet risen to the heights from which an artist of the first rank surveys the realm of music. His tone is warmer and richer than ever, and his technique clean and sure, (though still not flawless); but, on the whole, his playing gets mentally monotonous. Mr. Dambois numbers were: a new Concerto by Albert Dupuis,—interesting but not epochal—sober and bright pieces by Handel, Boccherini and Dittersdorf-Kreisler, and a group from his own pen which, like the new Concerto, are pleasing to hear but not provocative of excitement or intense admiration.

The accompaniments of Marcel Hansotte were blended so naturally into Mr. Dambois playing that there was danger of overlooking how good they were, and of taking them for granted. The concert was arranged by J. A. Gauvin.—P.K.

DVORAK SYMPHONY.

Dvorak's Symphony No. 3 will be played to-night by the McGill Conservatorium of Music Orchestra in the Royal Victoria College. A "Triumphal March" by Grieg, is also included in the program.

AT THE MOVIES

Nazimova in "Madame Peacock" is the feature at the Imperial for the balance of the week. When this most recent of the Russian actress's pictures was thrown on the screen of the Imperial, she came before the audience first as a brilliant stage celebrity, Jane Goring, a woman of fascinating personality, who had sacrificed the love of a man to her irresistible ambition. Then suddenly there appeared a young girl, eager, ingenuous, aspiring; and had it not been for the explanatory subtitle, doubt would have remained in the minds of those who witnessed the shadow performance as to whether so utterly different a person could be portrayed by the same actress. This picture will be shown today, Friday and Saturday.

Bertram Bailey, tenor, will sing at 3 and 9 o'clock daily.

It is a liberal education in dramatic art to watch Dorothy Phillips in the evolution of her character in "Once to Every Woman," in which she is appearing at the Holman Theatre. Her growth and development from a school girl in a country town until she becomes a grand opera prima donna with the world at her feet are portrayed with the skill one expects from this charming actress.

Watching the Parade

by JOHN PILGRIM

There's a meek little cuss uptown who has just invented a mighty fine morning exercise. He says it has been of the greatest benefit to him. He says he couldn't do without it.

"Why," says he, "if I were to drop that exercise for a week I couldn't pay my rent."

He's a meek little cuss, as I've told you. A kind hearted little cuss, too. A credulous little cuss, likewise. He preferred to believe every good story he heard. So that every now and then the office door would open and a friend would drift in and sit down by the side of his desk and tell two or three good stories and repeat some of the day's gossip. Then the friend would bore into the meek little cuss.

"Loan me $50," he'd say.

And the meek little cuss usually did. Until he noticed that none of those loaned $50 ever came back, but that the borrowers wore better clothes than he did. So he invented his morning exercise. Upon arising he picks up his bankbook, turns to the page where the balance shows that he has less money in the bank today than he had a year ago, although he never made so much money in his life—and then he faces the mirror, lefts the right-hand palm to the fore—and says:

"No. Not a nickel. I can't spare the money."

Then he bites down very hard and looks the mirrored image right in the eye. He says his bank account is growing beautifully now. But he doesn't stand so well with the gang at the cigar store. They say he is a fair weather friend.

Red Cross Workers Draw for Necklace Made by ex-Soldier

An ex-soldier patient of the St. Annes Hospital, St. Anne de Bellevue, has made a present to the women of the Canadian Red Cross Society of a necklace of white beads with red crosses. It is a beautiful ornament in the opinion of the recipients, and reveals rare art and skilful workmanship on the part of the giver.

Meeting in conclave at the provincial headquarters of the Society in Belmont Park they decided today to make up a complete list of all Red Cross women workers throughout the province and to draw for this prize. The draw will be made as soon as the list is complete; and the winner of the necklet will be presented with it at Christmas.

This morning these ladies were busy in making up Christmas packages for veteran patients in all the hospitals. This work will continue each morning of the present week. The boxes will go to all veterans of all wars in all the hospitals of this province, whether under the D.S.C.R. or not. No ex-service patient, however remote, will be overlooked.

While not wishing to divulge the secret of their contents it can safely be said that the articles which fill these Christmas boxes are of a sort to be equally welcome and useful to those who will soon be passing out of hospital as to those who will be remaining longer.

MORE SHOPLIFTING CHARGES.

Shoplifting persists in spite of the net spread by detective agencies throughout all the large stores of the city. Two ambitious Christmas shoppers who it is thought left home without their pocketbooks were picked up yesterday and appeared before Judge Cusson in the court of arraignment this morning. Enquete will take place on December 15. They gave the names of Robert Green, 56a Latour St. and Nathan Katz, 783 St. Dominique street. They are charged with taking several small articles from Almys store, the most valuable thing being a lady's blouse..

The manufacture of toys has proved a very attractive means of employment for old men, and hundreds of them who have been regarded as entirely incapable of making a living are now doing well at this industry.

MAILS MUST GO TO ASSIGNED PORT

Answering Haligonian Protest, C.P.O.S. Post Office Explains Situation

Mails especially assigned from a point on the other side of the Atlantic ocean to any Canadian port cannot be landed at another, even in the event of the vessel bearing them making an unexpected call, without authority from Ottawa, according to G. M. Bosworth, chairman of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services Ltd. This statement was given The Star this morning as the result of expressions of discontent amongst business men and others of Halifax, N.S., because the "Empress of Britain" bound from Liverpool to St. John, N.B., with Canadian mails, put in at Halifax harbor and failed to land mails destined for the maritime provinces.

Some of the citizens of Halifax even went as far as to address a letter stating their grievances to Hon. F. B. McCurdy at Ottawa. A letter to Mr. McCurdy from the Halifax Board of Trade stated that the business community of the eastern city is indignant over the Empress of Britain not landing its mails. These, if handed over to the postal authorities at Halifax, the letter states, would arrive in Montreal before they will now reach St. John. Letters for Halifax, the members of the Halifax Board of Trade complain, will now only arrive back in the city by rail on Saturday.

"The Empress of Britain did not call at Halifax," Mr. Bosworth stated to The Star this morning. The chairman pointed out that the vessel had passed through a storm, and fearing further bad weather on her trip to St. John, made an emergency call at Dartmouth, on the Halifax harbor, some distance from the city, where it was loaded with 750,000 gallons of oil. This, Mr. Bosworth said was to ensure that there would be no shortage of fuel during the remainder of the trip.

Further details of the regulations which do not allow of mails being unloaded at a port other than that to which they were originally assigned, were given to The Star by R. Laprairie, superintendent of the Railway Mail service, of the Postal Department. Mr. Laprairie explained that at every port where mails are scheduled to arrive a "British Mail Officer" meets the boat, examines the mail, checks it, and assigns it to its various provinces or districts as the case may be.

When a vessel leaves its port outward bound, the superintendent said, a cable is sent by its company to the Postal Department on this side of the water. A British Mail Officer is then despatched to meet the boat and to attend to the incoming mail. Mr. Laprairie stated that there are no British Mail Officers resident in Halifax. It would be impossible, therefore, for the mail to be unloaded there when a vessel unexpectedly makes this a port of call.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH MEETING

The 80th. Annual Meeting of the First Baptist Church was held last evening with a large attendance of members. The Pastor, Rev. M. F. McCutcheon, was in the chair. Reports from all departments and committees were full of encouragement. Total receipts for the year, including missionary offerings, as shown by the Treasurer's statement, amounted to $9,324.02, with expenditures of $9,145.93. In addition to these regular givings, the Forward Movement Campaign, held last February,—with an objective of $6,000.00—netted $8,346.000. This amount was raised by voluntary subscriptions, without any general canvassing of members. The Women's Mission Circle raised during the year, for missionary purposes, nearly $1,000.00.

In expressing their deep appreciation of the services of the pastor, the members took the opportunity of unanimously voting an increase in salary. Under his ministry the membership has increased during the year, and the work strengthened along all lines.

The election of officers included the the following: Church Clerk, A. F. Waters; Treasurer, F. H. Tuck; Trustees, C. P. Rice, J. C. Copping, R. Johnston, F. A. Buck, J. A. Dyke, O. C. Martin and J. W. Reid.
