SHERBROOKE (RH) — The City of Sherbrooke ended the year in the black, it was revealed yesterday, when the 1974 financial report was released.

In fact, the municipality nearly doubled its expected surplus of $324,594 to $650,093, Charles Martel, city treasurer, told a press conference yesterday.

The surplus will be used to wipe out the remainder of an accumulated 10 year deficit of $1,274,220.

However, Sherbrooke did not collect its expected revenue from water service, Mr. Martel explained. While an estimate of $243,007 surplus was called for in the 1974 budget for waterworks, the city went into a waterworks deficit of $38,627. But $2,217,138 were collected in hydro revenues, which, although less than the expected sum of $2,402,027, accounted for most of the surplus.

Serge Racine, Director General of the city, referred to the annual financial report as "the day of judgment" of the city administration, he said, the relationship between expenses and revenues reflects the efficiency of the municipal government.

"Assuming that the quality of services to the residents is adequate," he said, "an operating surplus definitely signifies high marks for the city administrators, since they need not increase the tax rate to make up expenses."

He added that many factors resulted in the surplus, in spite of the pressures of inflation which affected materials, equipment and manpower, and attributed the successful financial year to the efforts of the city council.

Mayor Jacques O'Bready said the results of the financial report "were the fruits of teamwork."

The mayor added that it has taken only two years to erase the city's debt of over a million dollars.

"When you take into account the fact that the 1974 surplus follows a surplus of $815,154 from the preceding year, and that in two years, we have erased an accumulated deficit of $1,274,220, all the while improving services to the residents, I believe the outlook is good for the upcoming years, and I have enthusiasm over the destiny of our city," he said.

The report, which was divided in three parts, indicated that a total of $8,971,300 was collected in local revenues by means of taxes, rents, licences, permits and similar ventures.

The federal and provincial governments returned a total of $180,408 of the taxes they collected as per agreement, which together with a local business tax totalled $674,847.

A charge of $18,617 was made for services rendered to other municipalities, while revenues from recreation, cultural and other activities amounted to $436,104.

Miscellaneous amounts for things such as returns on industrial loans, pension funds and city laws added up to $1,983,267.

The government of Quebec, under a previous agreement, contributed $4,549,938 to the city's coffers, while hydro returns amounted to $2,217,138.

The total revenues collected for general services was $18,834,073. General administration expenses amounted to $1,709,401. Fire and police services cost the city $2,034,081 in 1974, while the sewage system cost $1,481,831.

Public health and welfare costs were $64,311, while town planning and tourism costs were $437,444.

Recreational sports and cultural activities amounted to a $2,037,419 expense, and the city loan was $5,885,392. Total expenses were $18,183,980.

Taken to Granby hospital Morgentaler suffers apparent stroke

GRANBY (Staff) — Dr. Henry Morgentaler was reported this morning to be under heavy sedation at a hospital here, where he was taken early Monday.

A hospital spokesperson told The Record the famous abortionist reportedly suffered a heart attack, and at 8 a.m. was in an oxygen tent in the hospital's intensive care unit.

The doctor's wife said Monday he was taken to Shefford General Hospital following recurrence of heart trouble after allegedly arguing with guards at the nearby Waterloo Rehabilitation Centre, three hours after he was taken naked and by force to solitary confinement.

Mrs. Morgentaler said she talked with her husband at the hospital where he was taken early Monday. Dr. Morgentaler is currently serving an 18-month sentence for performing an illegal abortion.

She said at least six guards late Sunday night "went into his dorm, where 14 other prisoners sleep, and asked my husband to strip."

The guards would not tell Dr. Morgentaler why they wanted him to strip, she said. "So he stripped and threw his underwear in one of the guards' faces because he was so enraged."

He said he was then taken naked and by force to solitary confinement, Mrs. Morgentaler said.

The 52-year-old doctor complained of stomach, chest and arm pains and guards sent another doctor to see him. He was taken to the intensive care unit of the hospital and given oxygen and morphine, his wife said.

CAUSED BY STRESS
"This condition obviously has something to do with stress," Mrs. Morgentaler said. "It could have been brought on partly by the pressure of the trial."

The doctor suffered similar pains and was taken to hospital briefly during his second trial in which he was acquitted by a jury for performing an illegal abortion.

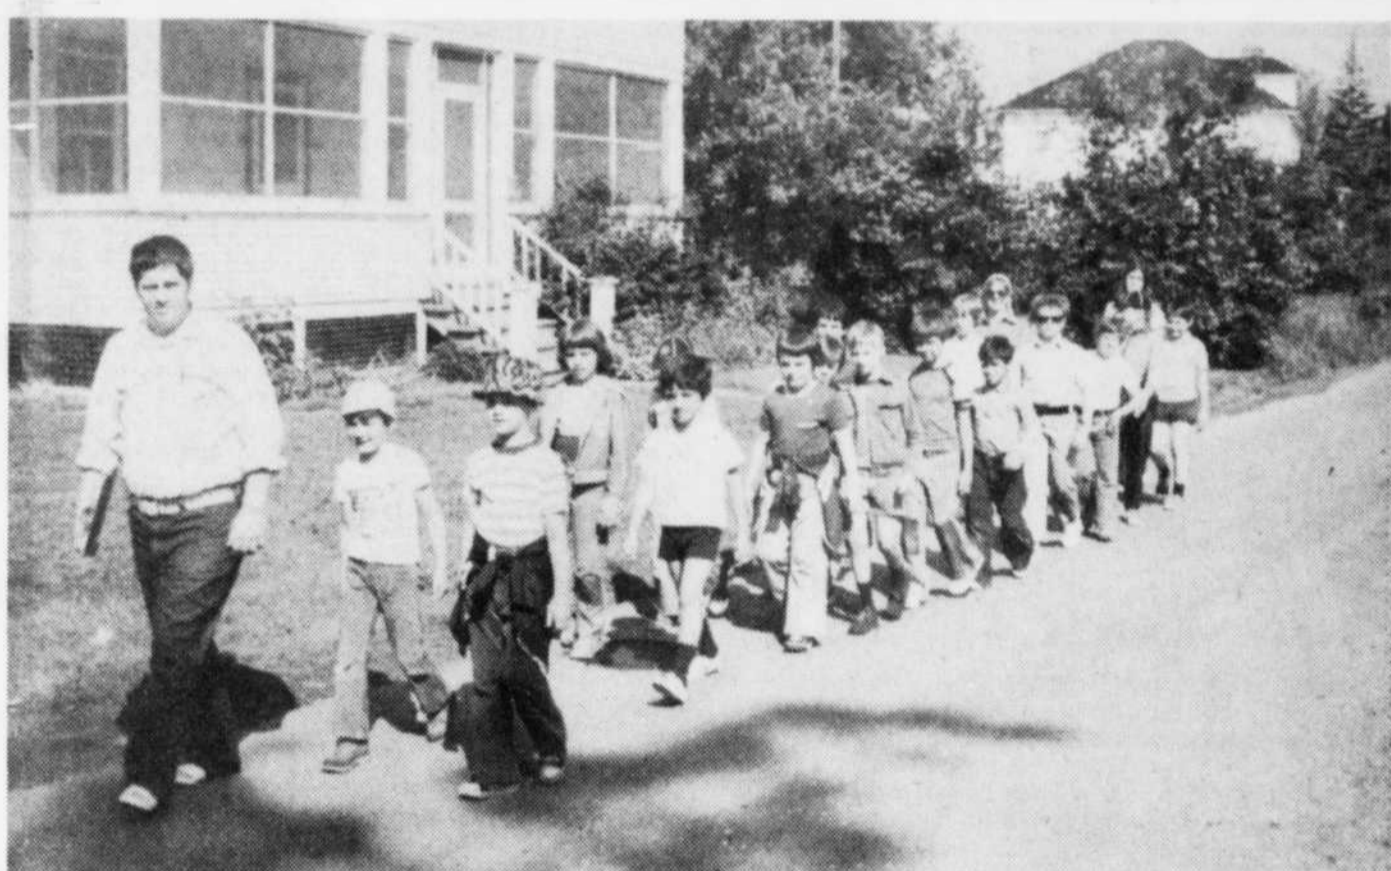

James McGillis, a fellow prisoner at the Parthenais detention centre in Montreal, where the doctor was detained during his trial, said Dr. Morgentaler asked to see a doctor on five days last week, but was refused.

A statement from the justice department in Quebec City alleged the doctor insulted supervisors at the minimum security detention centre by "throwing his underwear" in the face of a prison official.

Quebec Justice Minister Jerome Choquette has launched an appeal against the doctor's second acquittal and instructed the Crown prosecutor to proceed with 10 other similar charges.

Dr. Morgentaler was acquitted by a jury on his first charge of performing an illegal abortion. A Quebec Court of Appeal decision to overturn the ruling was upheld by the Supreme Court of Canada.

City seizes over ton of meat

SHERBROOKE (RM) — The city of Sherbrooke is withholding from the public the names of businesses where suspected meat was seized by the Municipal Health department Friday.

At a news conference yesterday afternoon, city council said the names will not be released unless charges are brought against the firms currently under investigation and cases taken to court.

La Tribune reported Saturday 2500 pounds of meat were seized by the city Friday, not stamped according to regulations and "possibly unfit for (human) consumption."

The French-language daily quoted a city official as saying, of the meat confiscated, 500 was from the Chez Tony restaurant and 600 from the Napoli. Both are pizza operations.

While admitting that meat bearing the "MUC 170" stamp was seized Friday, Municipal Health Department director Aurele Denault was unable to say how much was seized in all, pending the completion of current investigations.

The Montreal Urban Community's Health Department, confiscated "MUC 170" stamped meat the day before the Sherbrooke operation.

TO REGGIO FOODS
"MUC 170" was issued by the MUC to Reggio Foods, often mentioned in the Quebec Police Commission inquiry into organized crime as a source of tainted meat.

While the city has by-laws maintaining that meat sold in Sherbrooke must bear either "Quebec-Approved" or "Canada-Approved" stamps, council said, there is an agreement between the Sherbrooke and MUC Health Departments which states meat bearing one's seal may be legally sold within the other's limits.

During the conference, council indicated the meat is being held for analysis, at the Sherbrooke Health Department.

This appears to contradict a statement later on in the conference, claiming that the meat seized was "destroyed."

USUAL PROCEDURE
The council further said the procedure taken by the Health Department was as usual and similar to the recent seizure of Federal Packing meats on the Sherbrooke market following the outlawing of Federal products by the provincial government.

Quebec in focus

Threats made

MONTREAL (CP) — A member of the Cliche commission, who alleged collusion between the Quebec government and the Quebec Federation of Labor (QFL) was preventing implementation of the commission's recommendations, said Monday threats have been made against himself and his family.

Guy Chevrette said police were guarding his Joliette, Que. home after threats were made against himself and his wife.

Mr. Chevrette, a vice-president of the Quebec Teachers Corp., Quebec's largest teachers' union, was one of three members of the Cliche commission inquiry into Quebec's construction industry.

QFL prevented

MONTREAL (CP) — The lawyer for Louis Laberge, Quebec Federation of Labor (QFL) president, said Monday the labor leader's conviction on a charge of mischief is the result of several judicial errors by Judge Marcel Nichols.

In his pre-sentence notes to Judge Nichols, Phil Cutler asked for clemency for Mr. Laberge, who was found guilty by a jury, in Joliette, Que. May 30 of mischief in inciting employees of Hupp Canada Ltd. to sabotage products coming off the assembly lines.

Longest ever pregnancy ends

LONDON (AP) — Linda Wheate claims to have set a world record for the longest pregnancy—more than 13 months.

Mrs. Wheate, 25, who gave birth to an 8-pound 12-ounce boy, says she waited 413 days for the happy event—23 days more than the longest medically accepted pregnancy reported by the Guinness Book of Records.

Her son Matthew made his much-delayed debut on June 13 at the New Cross Hospital, Wolverhampton, in the British Midlands.

Doctors there have been tight-lipped about confirming Mrs. Wheate's record claim, but one leading consultant was quoted as saying: "There has never been authoritative evidence of such a long pregnancy."

Most children are born after about 280 days. Although her claim has yet to be verified by medical authorities, Mrs. Wheate is sure of one thing—"he's been worth waiting for."

"We wanted a boy—but I never dreamed I would be waiting more than 13 months for him."

Official warned Quebec about bad meat

MONTREAL (CP) — A former high-ranking official of the Quebec agriculture department testified Monday he warned the Quebec government in 1968 that illegal trade in dead animals had been going on for at least four years.

Dr. Marc L'Heureux told the Quebec Police Commission inquiry into organized crime he made the warning in a report submitted while he was the department's head of regional coordination for Montreal North, a position he held from 1964 until his retirement in 1973.

The report urged greater fines and stricter regulations to prevent meat from dead and sick animals from being sold to the public, Dr. L'Heureux said.

Asked what action the provincial government took once the report was received in March, 1968, he replied:

"None, to my knowledge."

Dr. L'Heureux said the government also failed to outline conflict-of-interest regulations to prevent meat inspectors from engaging in business on their own.

He said conflict of interest was left as a question of personnel interpretation because there were no clear guidelines.

HAD 'SIDELINE'
Earlier Monday, a former government meat inspector told the inquiry he was fired by the agriculture department because he sold tainted meat to retail butchers as a "sideline."

Bulletin

SHERBROOKE (RH) — An unidentified woman was shot while driving her car in the east end of Sherbrooke at 8 a.m. today.

Police as yet are not giving out any information on her condition or her name.

Medicare jeopardized

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec's health care programs are jeopardized by a dispute between the government and the province's general practitioners, a spokesman for doctors working in community clinics said Monday.

"The Federation of General Practitioners and the department of social affairs have been negotiating for more than a year," said Andre Tetreault, president of the federation of local community service centres.

He said the general practitioners are "trying to scare everyone" and the government has taken no action.

"Despite assurances of good intentions from both the negotiating parties I doubt the results of these secret negotiations will be to the advantage of the general public," Dr. Tetreault said.

Doctors in the service centres, established in the province three years ago, would like to protect their interests by participating in the negotiations, he said.

Dr. Tetreault said the general practitioners are demanding the right for doctors to participate autonomously in the community clinics.

Quebec housing picture dim

MONTREAL (CP) — Industry representatives say Quebec's housing picture is not bright despite recent lower prices in Montreal and an acceleration of construction activity last month.

Quebec housing starts in May for centres with populations exceeding 10,000 reached 4,734, a marked increase from the first four months of the year but an 18-per-cent decline from May, 1974. Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. reported. So far this year, there were 11,931 housing starts in Quebec, a decline of 5,000 from the corresponding period a year ago.

A CMHC official forecast the industry will fall about 10,000 short of the estimated 60,000 housing starts needed by Quebec this year. An official from A. E. LePage and Westmount Realities Inc., one of the nation's largest real estate firms, suggested the apparent surge in Quebec housing starts during May will not last. He said the situation is not as promising as the figures appear to show. "They are based on statistics when interest rates were lower."

Trust Mortgage Corp. said Quebec housing starts rose more than Ontario's during the first five months of 1975 because of the high-priced housing market in Ontario. A Royal Trust survey this spring revealed that a $72,000-home in Toronto would cost $41,000 or less in Montreal.

The same situation applied to smaller Ontario and Quebec cities. In its 1975 real estate market survey, LePage forecast Canada will have only 70 per cent to 80 per cent of the 250,000 housing starts it needs for 1975.

The survey blamed the construction slowdown on the high cost of housing, due to the shortage of serviced lots, increased construction costs and high mortgage rates.

Although Montreal housing prices began to decline in the first part of 1975, most officials are expecting the over-all trend to continue edging upwards.

The Montreal Real Estate Board reported the average selling price of houses during the first three months of 1975 declined to $32,683 from $34,367 at the end of 1974.

However, in the first quarter of 1974, the average price was $28,600. LePage urged increased construction activity in types of housing other than single family dwellings.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks advanced sharply in relatively light trading Monday in a rally that seemed to stem from a favorable view of the market's recent behavior by technically-inclined investors.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials jumped 10.09 to 834.56.

NYSE volume came to 16.66 million shares, up slightly from Friday's 16.28 million total.

Standard and Poor's 500-stock index picked up .94 to 91.46, and the NYSE's composite index rose .50 to 48.69.

Brokers said the one possible stimulus for the rally in the economic news was a report that Libya was cutting its oil price by as much as 50 cents a barrel. But analysts said Libya had for some time been charging more than most other petroleum-exporting countries because its oil was lower in sulphur than most. So some viewed the reported move as a step to bring the Libyan price more closely into line with prevailing levels.

The latest bid turned down was from U.S.-controlled Syntex Ltd. of Montreal for the acquisition of Mowatt and Moore Ltd., a privately held drug company in Montreal.

The takeovers approved by cabinet were: —Acquisition of all issued shares of Commercial

Energy Waste Watcher

This column will look at painless ways of cutting down your fuel and electricity bills at home. Have any suggestions? Send them along to the Energy Waste Watcher at Information EMR, 588 Booth Street, Ottawa K1A 0E4.

Nowadays just about every garden maintenance project has a power tool for the job. Power lawnmowers, rototillers, grass trimmers, hedge clippers and so on. What ever happened to the push lawnmower, garden fork and manual clippers? With the energy problem and our chronic lack of physical exercise, they may be due for a comeback.

But back to those power tools. Although each one of them consumes energy, a well-maintained machine will do a better job and conserve fuel at the same time.

Now that the grass is green, it's tune-up time for mowers and rototillers. Spark plugs should be cleaned, checked, and replaced, if necessary. You should adjust the carburetor and make sure the choke is working well. If necessary, replace the transmission oil. The owner's manuals should help you handle engine kinks yourself.

When running a gas-powered mower, keep the engine speed as low as possible. Regulate the motor by opening the throttle gradually till you have the power you need. By the way, you should avoid leaving the machine idling for longer periods. It's wearing on the motor, wasteful of fuel, and a hazard to small children and pets if left unattended.

Electric lawnmowers need an occasional oiling to keep them running smoothly. The owner's manual will tell you where to oil and what kind to use. Don't forget to keep the motor clean of grass clippings. Check under the hood—a grass-clogged motor could overwork itself and eventually burn out. The cord should also be checked for breaks

Sherbrooke Hospital assists in home care

By ROSA HARRIS
(Record Reporter)

SHERBROOKE — As far as Ruth Atto is concerned, the sooner a patient can leave the hospital to continue his recovery at home, the better off he or she will be.

Mrs. Atto, as the liaison between the hospital's home care service and the patients who are discharged but still need assistance from nurses, knows what she is talking about.

"We have a corps of six female nurses and two male nurses on hand to help people who really don't need hospitalization any more but still require some help to get on in their homes," she explained. With the demands that we have, we could certainly utilize more nurses to meet the needs in the community, she added.

Home care doesn't extend its services only to the elderly, according to Mrs. Atto.

"Just the other day, in fact, we were asked to help a 30 year diabetic become familiar with how to use insulin at home. Our work encompasses all age groups."

Mrs. Atto stressed that studies have proven that a patient does much better in the familiar environment of home as compared to the atmosphere of a functional hospital. But the goals of the home care service are multifold.

"Not only do we want to shorten the period of hospitalization," she went on, "but we also want to teach prevention so that the potential patient can avoid hospitalization altogether. And for those who have spent time in a hospital, we want to ensure that they don't have to re-enter."

Asbestos Corp. 'frustrated' with current negotiations

THETFORD (RM) — Asbestos Corp., strike-bound since March, claims it is in "a state of frustration" at its inability to have "meaningful negotiations" with its workers' union.

In a news release yesterday, the company, largest of four Thetford asbestos mining operations hit by the strike by 3500 workers, said the union's rejection of the company's May 21 offer, as well as its decision to maintain their original wage demands "leave in doubt their seriousness of their desire to settle the strike."

It added that the union, the Syndicat des Mineurs d'Asbestos Corp., has not properly explained the company's offer to the membership. Spokesmen for the union, affiliated with the Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU), were unavailable for comment yesterday afternoon.

The strike in Thetford began March 17, shortly after negotiations between the companies and a common front the CNTU and the Quebec Federation of Labor (FTQ)-affiliated unions broke off.

Negotiations between the Syndicat d'Asbestos and Asbestos Corporation, however, resumed May 21.

The unions are calling for a $1.20 hourly increase from the current base rate of $3.73, plus a 15 per cent wage increase the first year of a two-year agreement. In the second year, they seek a $1 an hour increase, plus a cost of living allowance.

Better working conditions, especially action to lower the level of asbestos fibres in the air at the mines, are also on the unions' bill.

In its notice yesterday, Asbestos Corp. said its offer of a 44.2 per cent wage increase over a three-year contract, including a 27.2 per cent increase in the first, would have cost the company more than $19,000.

The company also fears that the strike is seriously affecting Thetford and region economically, as well as the mining firm's future.

"There is always a possibility that we could lose our markets to other countries, or our customers may direct their efforts towards attempting to develop a substitute product. All these factors can have a serious impact on the future of the asbestos industry and of all communities concerned," yesterday's news release said, quoting an unidentified company spokesman.

Meanwhile, the Roman Catholic clergy in Quebec appear to be repeating history as they openly support the Thetford strikers' cause.

Hundreds of dollars, mostly from Thetford area priests but also from some in Montreal, have been put into a collection for the strikers, managed by the Quebec Teachers' Corporation (QTC).

The QTC reported yesterday afternoon $112,264 in the fund, or about $32 per striker.

During the famous 1949 strike in Asbestos, the Roman Catholic church departed from its traditional alliance with the then-government of Maurice Duplessis, by openly endorsing the strikers.

At council meeting

Sidewalk requested

SHERBROOKE (RH) — A delegation of 13th Avenue residents petitioned city council at a special meeting last night to construct sidewalks along their street.

Councillor Romeo Quintal, who had initially received the delegation said he felt that after studying the issue the cost of sidewalks there was not necessarily justified by the need.

On the residents' suggestion that the street become a provincial route as a means of reducing the cost of the project to the city, Quintal explained the financial responsibility for the project would still fall to the city of Sherbrooke.

"12th Avenue is a provincial route," he said, "but the cost of paving the sidewalks still fell to us. It wouldn't change a thing if the street became listed as a provincial route."

The petition was tabled for further study.

In other council news, the annual financial report for 1974 was approved by members of the municipal government, who commended the work of the administrative staff for the nicely-packaged easy-to-read report they had produced.

The general consensus was that the attractive report would induce residents to take a wider interest in the financial affairs of the city.

The city is involved in a land purchase agreement with F.W. Woolworth Inc., which owns land along Wellington St. N., to complete its plans for a pedestrian mall. A copy of the potential agreement was circulated at the city council meeting and tabled until a later date.

The 13th treasurer's report of the year was submitted, which was accepted by the councillors with a minimum of questions and changes.

Romeo Quintal, following an earlier meeting on the question of the quality of Sherbrooke meat products, asked for clarification of the city's inspection law.

He was informed that information on the by-laws could be found at city hall and it was suggested he do his research for the by-laws there.

The meeting adjourned at approximately 10:30 p.m.

North Hatley plans antique show

NORTH HATLEY — The end of an era in North Hatley but not the end of a tradition! For the fifteenth successive year, the Community Club of North Hatley will present its Antique Show. The lovely old building, "The Community Hall" is gone as it burned to the ground twenty-four hours after the 1974 show. Nothing was spared that morning of July 7th. The furniture, kitchen ware, dishes and silver, rare old prints, framed pictures and paintings were destroyed by the fire.

It was a sad day for the local residents and also for the many visitors who, at one time or another have been coming to this town. The phoenix has arisen from the ashes; the community spirit of North Hatley was not destroyed; it too is on the ascent, a press release states.

Twenty-six reputable dealers will be participating on July 3rd, 4th and 5th. The new setting for the Antique Show will be the North Hatley Elementary School. It will have the advantage of displaying the exhibits and serving the meals under one roof.

The gala opening and sale including a buffet-supper will take place on Thursday, July 3rd by reservation only, beginning at 5 o'clock. The show will be open to the public on Friday, July 4, from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m. and on Saturday, July 5th 11 a.m. — 5 p.m. There will be excellent dining room facilities catered by the local women's associations with home cooking.

Madame Jehane Benoit has accepted our invitation to return again this year and will welcome visitors in the gymnasium.

The old building is gone but the jewel setting remains. Browsing among antiques amid beautiful surroundings is something city people, village people and antique lovers enjoy.

Reservation may be obtained from Roger Robert, Box 248, North Hatley.

Canada Council holding workshops

The Touring Office of the Canada Council announces that two Sponsors' Workshops for Touring Attractions will be held in Sherbrooke on the occasion of a conference being organized by the Comité de rencontres des amateurs culturels. The two workshops will take place on June 17 and 18, and June 19 and 20 at the University of Sherbrooke.

The workshops are part of a very successful series held over the past nine months in Toronto, Swift Current, Halifax and Vancouver, for the benefit of concert managers and local sponsors of performing arts. The 250 conference delegates representing French cultural centres across Canada, will have the opportunity of attending two such informative workshops during the week-long meeting, June 15-21, 1975.

Discussing the relationship of these workshops to the development of the performing arts in Canada, John Crompton, General Manager of the Touring Office said, "The proper sponsoring of artists on the local level has basic problems common to all of us in the business. The sharing of these problems and subsequent discussion of solutions will certainly benefit the whole performing arts scene in Canada."

Among the specialists invited by the Touring Office to conduct the workshop seminars are: Henri Blanchard, Director of the Shawinigan Cultural Centre, will discuss "Programming;" Andre Lachance, Director of the Sherbrooke

Cultural Centre, will conduct two sessions, "Grants and Budgeting" and "Negotiations"; Gilles Lemarre, Box Office Manager of the National Arts Centre, Ottawa, will deal with "Front of House and Box Office"; Jean-Claude Lesperance, General Manager of Kebec-Spec, will handle "Theatres: Technical Requirements"; Robert Patoiné, Assistant Administrative Director of Le Theatre Populaire du Quebec, will be on hand for the "Marketing" and "Organization" sessions; and, Claude Pichette, Executive Secretary of l'Association des Directeurs de Theatre, will be available for "Contracts and Unions."

Survey conducted on death penalty

COWANSVILLE (JM) — A survey of 387 persons conducted in the immediate area of Cowansville this weekend revealed most of the population are in favor of retaining the death penalty.

The group interviewed varied in ages from 18 to 80 plus, and were asked whether they favored capital punishment for premeditated murder and secondly whether or not final decision should be left to the electorate through a referendum which might be conducted during the next federal election.

More than 98 per cent favored capital punishment for all premeditated murders and over 92 per cent said they felt a referendum on capital punishment should be established during the next election with the results binding on the government.

There was no appreciable difference in response from the youth to the elderly and certainly no distinguishable differences from an ethnic point of view. None of the persons questioned were peace officers.

Feelings have been running high here since the slaying of painting instructor Georges Nadeau at the local penitentiary April 8 when he was killed as the result of a series of hammer blows. Mario Gauthier has been ordered to the next term of the local assizes following preliminary hearing on a charge of capital murder, punishable by death, in the case.

The murder of Jean Maurice Tringle June 6 has done nothing to alleviate people's feelings. Benoit Roy and Dennis Pearson, the suspects in the Tringle murder, are the first escapes from the Cowansville Penitentiary since May 1, 1973.

Their escape and the two recent murders have raised emotional feelings to a level which was only equalled when 10 persons escaped from the penitentiary in nine different escapes between April 15 and May 1, 1973.

Nationalistic Publishers

There can be few countries in the world where the publishing industry receives as much attention as in Canada. One of the main reasons is that Canadian publishers have been able to identify themselves with the cause of Canadian nationalism.

They have cast themselves as the guardians of Canadian literature as opposed to the British and American firms which are linked, in some minds, with a cultural imperialism responsible for keeping many of our writers in obscurity. Although a native publishing industry certainly has its value, it is a mistake to identify it too closely with the survival of Canadian literature. It is not necessarily a blow to either our nationhood or our culture if a Canadian publisher folds; nationalism can be the last refuge of both bad writers and inefficient publishers. Ireland, to use an extreme example, has no general trade publishers but could not be accused of lacking either nationalist feelings or a national literature. Canadian writers, if they had to, could find their own place in literature as Irish writers have done.

Where a native publishing industry can play a valuable role is in publishing those writers who have difficulty being published abroad — particularly when, as now, publishers everywhere are experiencing hard times — but whose work still merits publication. There are, however, grounds for suspicion that Canadian publishers have gone beyond this role in their eagerness to promote Canadian literature. An editor for a Toronto branch of an American firm said recently that his company was anxious to publish more Canadian books — as they were warned to do recently by Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner — but, with the Canadian publishers in fierce competition for the best writers, it was difficult, especially in fiction and poetry, to find work that merited publication if one ignored the nationality of the author and looked only at the quality of the material.

We seem to have more publishers in Canada than we have good writers; there are for example, over 30 publishers in British Columbia and eight, if we can still count William Clare, in Winnipeg, and new publishing ventures seem to pop up overnight like mushrooms. Two surfaced recently, one in the Yukon and one in Sudbury, the latter dedicated to works by and for the French-speaking population of Ontario.

The result of this is that many books are published that never should be. More seriously, it hurts writers of promise and talent to be published too easily. Talent that could mature with discipline and direction atrophies when neither is demanded and all that is required is a manuscript.

It is also bad business, and one of the reasons why Canadian publishers always seem to be in financial trouble. Both writers and publishers frequently complain that they don't make enough money from their books. The reason is obvious; too many of the books printed are books that no one wants to read.

The nationalist coloring that the publishers have given themselves has accomplished one thing — it has brought government into the industry. Tax dollars have been made available to publishers to bail themselves out when, for one reason or another — often inefficiency and over-publication — they have got themselves into trouble. Within the industry itself, there are two views about government involvement. Most publishers seem to welcome it and urge the government to do more in terms of both money and legislation. They see it as the duty of government, both federal and provincial, to protect Canadian publishers and help them prosper. There is a minority, however, who, although they are willing to take money if it is being handed out, see danger in this involvement. "Control usually follows money," one of them remarked recently.

Aside from the danger of eventual control, the use of taxpayers' money to shore the publishers probably does more harm than good in the long run and perpetuates the troubles that plague the industry.

Desert focus of 4 nation conflict

An arid corner of African desert, the Spanish Sahara, has suddenly become the centre of a four-country conflict that could quickly erupt into warfare.

On the surface, there seems little worth fighting for in a region almost entirely covered in sand and populated by only about 74,000 wandering tribesmen. But, in the last two years Spain has developed the world's largest deposits of hydrate phosphates—used in making fertilizer—worth an estimated $650 million a year.

Spain has said it is willing to quit the colony if it has held for more than 40 years, while keeping rights to the valuable phosphate developments.

But the future of the colony is enmeshed in territorial claims by Morocco and Mauritania, and the insistence of neighboring Algeria that the colony's own people have the right of self-determination.

ARMY ATTACKED

Inside the colony, a "liberation" front—said to be backed by Algeria—has launched sporadic attacks on remote Spanish army outposts.

Morocco and Mauritania have taken their claims to the colony to the World Court at The Hague. United Nations resolutions calling for a referendum on self-determination have been held in abeyance until the court case is settled.

While Moroccan and Spanish troops face each other across the frontier, reports from the area suggest that the two countries may be seeking a bilateral agreement on the Spanish Sahara.

Such an agreement, however, is understood to be opposed by Algeria in its attempts to create an independent government over the area.

The dangers of warfare in a region that has seen border wars in the past has drawn the UN into mediation attempts.

A mission of UN officials visited the Spanish Sahara last month.

WALDHEIM INVOLVED

UN Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim followed up with personal visits to the region, and this week held talks in Madrid in an effort to create a peaceful settlement.

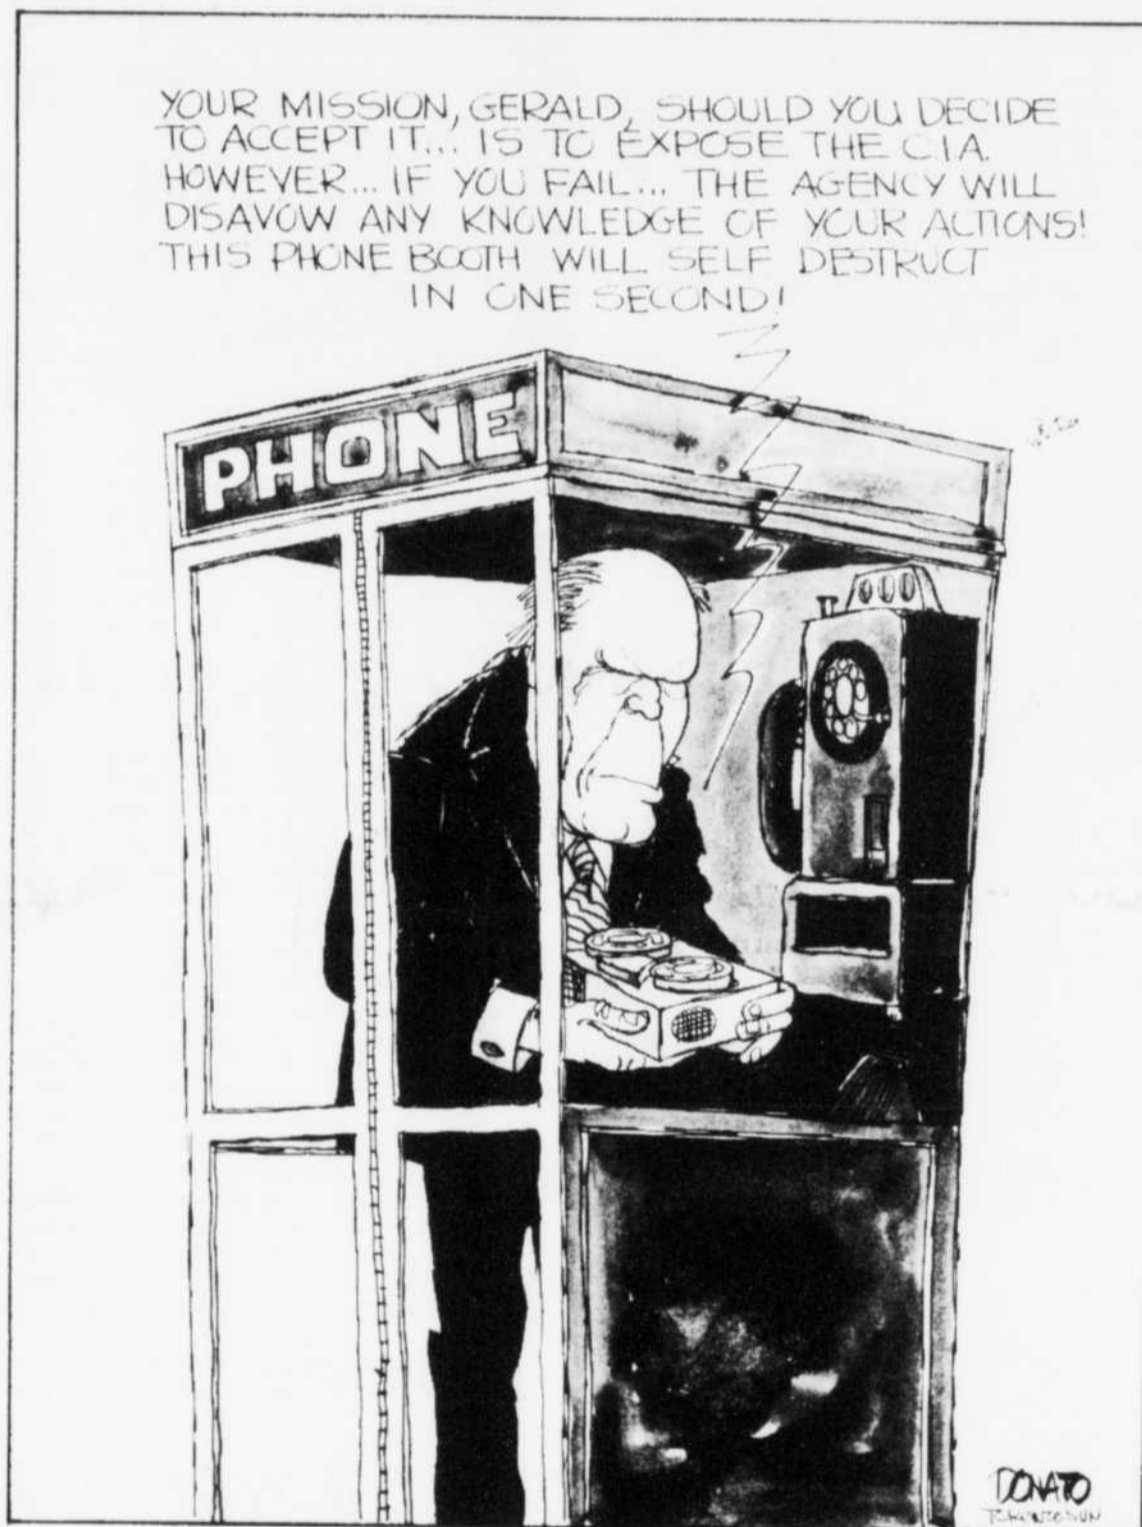

Reports from Madrid now indicate that Spain is ready to accept UN resolutions on the future of the territory. But some observers doubt that the colony's own "liberation" fighters will accept anything less than a guarantee of self-determination.

Meanwhile, the views of the population—if they have any—are hard to determine. The Spanish administrators had organized a council of tribal chiefs and a political party.

But leading members of the party have since defected to Morocco, arguing that Spain was promoting a separatist group in the colony just to perpetuate its own presence there.

Sensing troubles to come, Spanish civilians have begun to flee the colony for the Canary Islands as troop reinforcements have been flown into the Spanish Sahara.

Oil crisis was avoidable

WASHINGTON — Congressional investigators have gotten hold of some explosive documents, which suggest that the world oil crisis could have been averted. The documents allege that France wanted to break the oil-producing cartel back in December, 1973. The French believed that the consuming countries could have prevented the disastrous price rise if they had stood together, according to the documents.

This completely contradicts the popular impression that France, more than any other nation, refused to hold the line against the oil increase and, thereby, precipitated the collapse of consumer solidarity.

But the documents lay the blame on Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, claiming he favored cooperation instead of confrontation with the oil bloc. His pursuit of a Middle East settlement, it is alleged, led him to take a soft line with the Arabs on oil.

"He seemed to... underestimate economics and overestimate the Middle East political problem," states one confidential paper.

There is no dispute about what happened thereafter. The 13 nations, which control 85 per cent of the crude moving in international commerce, quadrupled the price of oil.

The consuming nations scrambled to make separate deals with the oil potentates. Oil that was produced in the Middle East for 11 cents a barrel suddenly began selling for $11 a barrel. Some frantic companies bid up the price of oil as high as $23 a barrel.

This gave the Western world the greatest jolt since World War II. There was a massive transfer of wealth from the consuming countries to the oil producers. The world's financial system was strained to the breaking point. And the industrial nations were plunged into an economic crisis.

Now the oil potentates, even as they are wallowing in their new wealth, are talking about raising prices another $1 per barrel in September. This continuing economic assault upon the oil-importing nations has caused more damage than a military attack.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, a power on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is preparing to challenge the U.S. policy of placating the oil-exporting countries. He wants to know what the United States has received in return for arming Iran and Saudi Arabia, the kingpins of the oil cartel.

The shah has spearheaded the drive for higher and higher oil prices. The Saudis, on the other hand, have shown more concern about the economic damage they are inflicting upon the West.

Senator Church has ordered his subcommittee to delve into the intricacies of oil diplomacy. He believes the consuming countries, before they are left in economic ruins, must take a tough, united stand against the oil giants.

He has information, however, that it is not the French, but Kissinger, who still wants to appease the oil cartel. As one confidential document puts it, "Since 60 per cent of the dollar value of raw materials exports moving in international trade today originates from the consuming countries, the French have taken the position that the major oil consumers should not fear discussing this subject with the oil producers."

"Closer U.S. - France relations are needed if the consumer governments are to have any effective leverage over the oil cartel." If the U.S. unilaterally cuts off arms shipments and other industrial goods to Iran, the possibility exists that the French and others would step in and take the business.

"(But) the French care more about heading off another oil price rise than about selling mirages to the Shah."

The most sensational revelation in the confidential documents is that the French suggested possible military action in 1973 to break the oil squeeze. "The French representative at the United Nations," alleges one document, "took (American Ambassador John) Scali aside and raised the issue of joint U.S.-French military action... References to the French proposal were made at the embassy level and were reflected in cable traffic."

This report was flatly denied by both Kissinger and Scali. "Total nonsense," Kissinger told us. "Incredible," echoed Scali. The former UN Ambassador recalled only one conversation with the French representative on the oil crisis in late 1973. As Scali remembered it, he had insisted oil prices could be brought down, and the French representative contended the prices would hold. They bet a dinner on the outcome — he said.

The reason the French left the other oil-importing countries and began negotiating their own oil deals, according to the documents, was because Kissinger tried to dictate terms.

"Kissinger made it impossible politically for the French government to cooperate with the U.S. on the oil problem," states one document. "Put differently, the breakdown in U.S. - France relations was not over an unwillingness to cooperate but over the structure within which that cooperation would take place."

A State Department spokesman disputed this. Any French offer of cooperation, he said, "had no practical significance. When we tried to tie them down to something specific, they would always refuse to go along."

Kissinger's first priority in late 1973, the spokesman reminded us, was to keep the Middle East "from blowing up again." The Secretary had to keep this objective in mind in his dealings with the oil producers, the spokesman said.

Closer ties between Canada, US predicted

LONDON (CP) — A report published by a British research group says world economic pressures may force Canada into closer ties with the United States despite rising nationalism in both countries.

The report, released this week by the Trade Policy Research Centre, cites Ottawa measures to control foreign investment in Canada and energy sales to the U.S. and Washington's attempts to reach greater self-reliance in resources, including energy.

But, the report says, "international developments may push Canada and the United States closer together, regardless of their wishes in the matter."

The Canadian government had tried to expand exports to countries other than the U.S.

But those other markets, "particularly for Canadian manufactured goods, may not increase significantly, or they may become more restrictive owing to economic difficulties and increased nationalism abroad."

That would mean exports to the rest of the world would not sustain Canadian employment and incomes, forcing Canada "to place greater reliance upon exporting to the American market."

"UNCERTAINTIES" On the other hand, "the uncertainties of raw-material and energy supplies from other sources could make the United States more dependent on those from Canada."

"Thus, even in the period of the new nationalism, it is unlikely that the degree of Canadian-American economic integration will be significantly reduced by the unilateral or joint actions of the two governments, and it could even be increased in spite of their intentions to the contrary."

The report says both sides must recognize the pressures toward continued integration, the authors say. They note that the 1974 U.S. Trade Reform Act authorizes Washington to discuss free trade with Canada, and that the Economic Council of Canada recently raised the possibility of free trade itself.

The report of the independent research body was written by two U.S.-based economists.

Theodore Geiger, a former U.S. state department official, now is director of international studies at the National Planning Association in Washington.

John Volpe is the U.S. director of research for the Canadian-American Committee, jointly sponsored by the U.S. National Planning Association and the C. D. Howe Research Institute in Montreal. He also teaches economics at Georgetown University in Washington.

FORTUNE IN GLASS

Dave Alexander, who operates an antique store in Gravenhurst, Ontario, believes there's a fortune in glass bottles deep in the Muskoka lakes.

He has recovered between four and five thousand bottles in the past few years. A few are valued at $50 and up, he says.

One Gravenhurst resident brings up enough bottles every year to hold an auction sale. One bottled fetched $75.

Not all of the bottles are empty. About 100 full wine and beer bottles have been discovered and the wine was still drinkable, although it had been submerged for more than 50 years.

The beer, however, was not fit to drink.

AFRICAN LION SAFARI

African Lion Safari, the 500-acre, drive-through wildlife park near Hamilton, recently added to its large and varied collection of exotic animals and birds.

Twelve young grey seals, which had been abandoned by their mothers, were retrieved off the ice floes in the Gulf of St. Lawrence to arrive in time for Easter.

The seal pups are available for visitors to view and photograph in the walk-through Pets' Corner attraction at the Park.

RALLY

The Wally Byam Caravan Club International's 18th rally will take place June 25 to July 4 at Brandon, Manitoba. It will be attended by about 12,000 people travelling in 4,000 Airstream trailers, according to WBCCI officials.

It's the biggest convention ever for Brandon (pop. 40,000), hub of Manitoba's agricultural community with club members coming from across Canada, the U.S. and Mexico.

A big entertainment program is planned. Confirmed performances thus far are the Canadian Armed Forces Training Command Band from Camp Shilo, the Philharmonic Massed Choir of Brandon, the 200-strong Massed Pipes and Drums of Winnipeg and the Winnipeg Police Pipe Band, the Rivers and District Highland Tattoo, a group of native Indian powwow dancers and the world-famous Royal Canadian Mounted Police Musical Ride.

June 30 there will be a French variety show with Manitoba groups and individual artists performing.

SHERBROOKE — Henry Messier and Hermengilde Dufault, the two young men who were arrested a short distance from here by local police officers and officials of the Sorel police in connection with the death of Emile Pelletier, Sorel butcher, who was murdered in November last, and who were later found guilty of the murder, will pay the supreme penalty on Friday next. The Cabinet, having reviewed the case, has decided that the law will take its course.

Pelletier, a butcher, was driving from Sorel to his home at St. Victoire when he was attacked, beaten with an iron bar and robbed. Later he died in a Montreal hospital.

SHANGHAI — The representatives of the foreign legations sent from Peking and the Chinese officials, who have been carrying on negotiations with a view to a settlement of the situation here, have reached the basis for a discussion, an authoritative statement announced. There are prospects for an early adjustment of the difficulty and a calling off of the strike.

The authorities, it is reported, have agreed, immediately the strike is called off, to arrange for the removal of the naval contingents, demobilize the volunteer corps, indemnify the families of the Chinese killed during the rioting and constitute a special tribunal, with Chinese representation, to determine responsibility for the shootings.

The conditions demand the punishment of the Chinese Chief of Police.

Hostesses, Mrs. F. Young and Mrs. Kay Schoolcraft, greeted the young lady as she entered the home and Mrs. Schoolcraft pinned a utensil corsage on the shoulder of Debra's blouse and led her to the place of honor, trimmed with pink and white streamers and a white miniature accordion pleated inverted shower umbrella, where her mother, and her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Agnes Cote, also from North Troy, helped her to unwrap the many lovely variety of gifts and passed them around to the over 20 people gathered for the enjoyable afternoon. Also unable to attend was the bride's prospective mother-in-law, Mrs. Phyllis Merrill of North Troy.

Five children joined little Edward Young in another room for a time of play.

These two were separated by four pink pillars; it was of white frosting with pink miniature carnations dotted with silver glitter and little green ferns, also.

Miss Young graciously thanked everyone with special mention to the hostesses who were assisted by Mrs. Carleton Gately, and to her mother and grandmother who assisted her with opening the gift wrappings.

Out-of-towners came from South Bolton, Cowansville, Montreal, Que. and North Troy, Vt.

Debra will wed Stanley Ernest Merrill on July 5 at 10 a.m. in the North Troy United Church of Christ. The reception will be held at Troy Parish Hall in Vermont.

Ann Landers

C-Minus lover sends hubby hunting

Dear Ann Landers: Me write to Ann Landers? Never. But here I am. I don't know what good it will do, but maybe I'll feel better. The problem is my wife. Here's how I'd rate her: Housekeeper — A. Cook — A. Economist — A. Lover — C-minus. The reason I don't flunk her completely is because once in awhile she does me a big favor. Usually it's when we return from a party and she's had more than her share of drinks. Then, I'd better be ready or I would never hear the end of it.

Her usual routine goes like this. After supper, in the middle of a TV program, she gets up and says, "I'm tired and I'm going to bed. When you come in, don't bother me." On weekends her best excuses are: (1) your mother may drop in; (2) the kids are due home from the movies; (3) the insurance man, paperboy or milkman is coming to collect; (4) I just had my hair done.

I'm not the type to run around, but I don't know WHAT type I'll be in five years. (I'm 38 now.) A word to you chicks who are sitting around drying up: If there are enough treats at home, your man won't go out looking for tricks. — Underfed and Looking In Buffalo

Dear Buff: Your letter contained an interesting clue. Booze makes your wife amorous. This means she has inhibitions about sex that undoubtedly go back to her early childhood. I suggest joint counseling. Can't hurt. Might help.

Dear Ann Landers: I must remind you for your crude reply to "His Widow." She wrote that her husband died suddenly, leaving her with several children to raise, and no insurance. She said he believed it made better sense to put money in the bank where it would draw interest rather than pay it out in insurance premiums. The woman was very bitter when she learned the bank balance was $5,000. If he had carried life insurance she would have collected over $50,000.

You answered: "Put aside your resentment. In my opinion your husband wasn't inconsiderate, he was ignorant." What a lousy thing to say! The man is dead. He can't defend himself. And YOU call him ignorant! You owe every widow in the world an apology. — Appalled

Dear App.: The man WAS ignorant. That's what I said and that's what I meant. True, he's dead, but his widow is alive — and she has four little kids to raise and very little money. Had he known better, he would have carried life insurance.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from "The Life of the Party" prompted me to write my first letter to a newspaper.

Your advice was exactly right. I know, because I was once "The Life of the Party," willing to be the butt of any joke in exchange for attention. It took a shattered marriage to get me into therapy. When I discovered the real me, I achieved a sense of personal worth I had never known before.

When I tell friends that my new approach to life is the result of counseling, I get looks of disbelief. "Why would anyone so jolly and outgoing need therapy?" they ask. If they only knew!

Now my friends call ME. I don't chase them. I can be in a group and listen instead of trying to monopolize every conversation and hogging the spotlight. Sign me — Showing Off Less And Enjoying Myself More

Dear Friend: Less IS more. I doff my bonnet to you!

Dear Ann: I think your advice to "Scarred Forever"

(she found a bunch of dirty pictures among her dead father's belongings), was wrong. You said, "His ability to lead two completely different lives is a symptom of a severe personality disorder."

I am a bisexual who has a terrific marriage. But every month or so I like the "companionship" of another guy. I've been carrying on like this for 9 of the 11 years of our marriage. My wife would divorce me if she found out. Of course, I'd never leave dirty pictures lying around, but I don't believe I have a "severe personality disorder." It's just that my second life provides me with a necessary release.

You owe people like me a retraction. I'll accept the label "rat" but I resent being told I'm not normal. — Happy In Southern California

Dear Happy: I wouldn't call you a rat. I'd just say you are the unfortunate victim of a severe personality disorder.

There is so much more about Kim Spurgeon than meets the eye that it is difficult to know what to say first.

Meeting her, she seems very much a part of today's world. Her blonde hair is worn long and loose, she has a natural and relaxed manner, accompanied by a creative and enquiring mind.

And though she lives in the present, she is greatly concerned with both the future and the past. An architect, Kim specializes in preservation and restoration. For most of each year she is an assistant professor of architecture at Kansas State University at Manhattan.

But with the close of the spring term, she will pack her gear and head for San Diego, Calif. There she will supervise a team of student architects in surveying and documenting historic old buildings for the city.

Her team will be one of about 14 throughout the United States working under the Historic American Buildings Survey (HABS), a program of the National Park Service of the U.S. Department of the Interior in cooperation with the American Institute of Architects and the Library of Congress.

Her interest in preservation was aroused when still a student at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y., and she later received a master's degree from Columbia University, New York City, specializing in preservation and restoration.

"My first summer, in 1970, I worked for the New York State Historic Trust and we spent the whole summer documenting the John Jay homestead including about 20 outbuildings," she explained. "I didn't know what I was getting into but I liked it very much."

So much so, that in 1973 she worked with a team in Bloomington, Ind. and she met her favorite building—the West Baden Springs Hotel. Built around a tiled courtyard, the hotel had a 200-foot dome which had to be documented with the assistance of computers, she said.

In 1974, Prof. Spurgeon became the first woman project supervisor in the 40-year history of HABS. Her summer was spent in San Mateo County, Calif. documenting such diverse structures as a lighthouse, the Menlo Park train station, a church and a bank.

Each team consists of a supervisor, draftsman and a historian. It costs about $20,000 for a team and costs are shared by HABS and the local community, she pointed out. The team can survey about ten buildings in the summer months. "What we're doing is documenting architectural art in the United States. In a sense, it's like writing a history."

In addition to the detailed architectural drawings made by the team, photographic essays are compiled and the "building" is placed on file in the Library of Congress.

If it ever becomes necessary to replace one of these buildings because it was destroyed it can be duplicated exactly from the information we compile, she said.

Through her efforts and those of others like her, the past will be recorded for future generations. "It's strange doing something that will be around longer than we will."

WI meeting

Bay area by pipelines is permitted.

The report of the Convention followed. This was given by the delegates, Mrs. C. Harvey and Mrs. A. Stote, who gave a detailed report which everyone enjoyed. We were pleased and proud to learn that two of our members each won a prize in the Handicraft Competitions. Mrs. Short won 2nd prize in the Q.W.I. Competitions on a tatted doily and Mrs. C. Harvey won 2nd prize at the County level on a crazy patchwork cushion top.

As Canon Willis is retiring and will soon be moving away, Mrs. Hayes had invited him and his brother, Mr. Inglis Willis to join us. The president, Mrs. Short, asked Canon Willis to speak to us, which he did, congratulating us on our work and saying that he had had pleasant relationships with Women's Institutes in Rawdon and with us since being here. He also spoke briefly on his work when in Fort St. John, B.C., before there were any highways.

Members were pleased to have Mrs. S. Davitt back at our meeting after a long absence due to illness.

The meeting adjourned and delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Stolliker, Mrs. H. Harvey and Mrs. Short, with the four menfolk joining us for lunch.

As this was Mrs. Davitt's birthday, Mrs. Hayes had made her a birthday cake which she brought in, alight with candles. Everyone rose and sang "Happy Birthday, dear Lorena." Though taken by surprise, Mrs. Davitt thanked Mrs. Hayes and all present in a gracious manner.

A Canadian Red Cross Summer Safety Tip: If it is necessary to change seats in a small boat, always crouch low, hold onto both gunwales and keep your weight on the boat's centerline. Do not stand up, and do not change position unless it is absolutely necessary.

Welfare & Health: Mrs. J. Moore reported that she and Mrs. Tremblay had delivered a dozen stuffed toys which she had made to the Home for Retarded, Bedford. They had been received by Mrs. Bissonette, who with her husband are in charge of the Home. Mrs. Bissonette told them that all the inmates (80) were taken out-of-doors, some in their cots or beds, every day when weather permitted.

Education: Mrs. C. Harvey gave a report on the two plays presented at the Q.W.I. Convention. Missisquoi County won 2nd prize on their play "The Quilting" which was written by our County President, Mrs. I. Williams and put on by Fordyce Branch. She also mentioned that three members from this Branch went with the W.I. group to Ottawa by bus on May 21. They were received at the Parliament Buildings by Mr. H. Graffley and each member was given a box containing a small Canadian flag on a stand and also a small pin of the Flag when leaving.

Citizenship: Mrs. Shepardson reported that 24 Ditty Bags, 12 for girls and 12 for boys had been sent to Can Save. She also read a letter of thanks for same, which mentioned the knitted articles made by Mrs. Joyce Creller, and hoping for our continued support.

Home Economics: Mrs. Corey gave each member a mimeographed leaflet on handling and storing fruit and vegetables.

Publicity: Mrs. Tremblay told how a resolution had been unanimously adopted at the first Convention of the F.W.I.C. in 1919 at Winnipeg, that women should be allowed to hold a seat in the Senate. In 1930, 11 years later, Judge Emily Murphy (Janey Canuck) of Edmonton was the first woman senator. She was also the first president of the F.W.I.C. (Federated Women's Institutes of Canada).

St. Peter's ACW

The old Rectory at Hatley Village was the site of the June meeting of St. Peter's (Sherbrooke) branch of the Anglican Church Women.

This sturdy old building has been converted to use as a Conference Centre recently, and the ladies were interested in inspecting it and admiring the wide pine boards and fine woodwork of the last century and in contrast, the modern plumbing and kitchen equipment.

Mrs. Franklin presided at the meeting, convened at 2:30 p.m. with 17 ladies present. Mrs. Joan Thomson led the devotional—period with prayer and inspirational reading. Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary Mrs. Neville. The Treasurer's report by Miss D. Giroux showed a satisfactory balance. Sale of 1976 calendars in the Fall was considered and approved, and a reorganization of Little Helpers and Family Life discussed. Mrs. Dawson for the Dorcas Committee reported three quilts in progress and on order.

Appeals from the Social Action Committee asked for utensils and equipment for Quebec Lodge and materials and clothing for Douglas Hospital. Gifts for Douglas Hospital had been packed and delivered since the last meeting, and a donation was earmarked for the Quebec Lodge camp. There was some discussion of money-raising projects for the autumn.

The regional ACW meeting will be held at St. Peter's Church Hall in October, and a mission for the whole diocese is planned for the Advent season.

The next meeting will be held at the Church Hall the second Monday in September at 8 p.m. with Mrs. Allan presiding. After adjournment a cup of tea with cake and cookies was served.

Following the meeting many of the ladies went on to Quebec Lodge where the Church Picnic was being held.

Sympathy is extended to the Fontaine and Ferland families in the recent death of Mrs. Eugene Fontaine of Racine. The deceased was the sister of Mrs. George Murphy.

Friends of Mrs. Edsel Long of Waterloo regret to hear she is a patient at the Medical Centre Sherbrooke. Sympathy is extended to the Pepin families in the death of Ernest Pepin at the age of 61 years. The funeral took place on June 5th at the Ste. Marie Church.

FAMOUS MAPLE — Pretty Laura McKinnon, direct descendant of Laura Secord, with daughters Tracy and Tammy, at site of 500 year old Maple which grows on property once owned by the family of Laura Secord, heroine of War of 1812.

Canada's largest maple tree is 500 years old

Towering over the young fruit trees that surround it this "Comfort" Sugar Maple is recorded in the Ontario Forestry Association, Honor Roll of Trees. It is reputed to be the finest Sugar Maple in the whole of Canada and is situated near the hamlet of North Pelham, Ontario, some 12 miles West of Niagara Falls. It rises to a height of 82 feet, and its branches, like an umbrella, form an almost perfect circle with an average crown spread of 82 feet. The tree trunk, rough and noble with age, measures 18 feet, 6½ inches in circumference at breast height.

This precise age of the Comfort Maple is not positively known but it is estimated by the Ontario Forestry Association to be between 450 and 500 years old. It would have been some 350 to 400 years old when the Fathers of Confederation promulgated "Canada" as a nation.

The entire tree appears both vigorous and healthy in the opinion of the Ontario Forestry Association which is dedicated through public subscription to the development and protection of Ontario's forests.

Originally Crown land, a grant of the 100 acre township lot containing the tree was made to Major David Secord, Sr. in 1808. Major Secord was a prominent business man in St. David's prior to 1812. Delving into history one finds that he was also a Justice of the Peace. In this latter role, Major Secord married his brother James to Laura Ingersoll, after whose family the town of Niagara Falls is named. After marriage, Laura Ingersoll became Laura Secord whose role and fame in the war of 1812 is well known.

It is interesting that 1975 is the bi-centennial year of the birth of Laura Secord. This marvellous tree would have been between 300 and 400 years old when Laura Secord was born.

Robert Comfort acquired the land from James Secord in 1816 and it remained in the Comfort family until April 30th, 1961 when the Niagara Peninsula Conservation Authority leased the reserved land from Miss Edna Comfort for a period of 999 years or the life of the tree. On the terms of the lease this tree is to be available for the public to view, study and photograph at all times.

There is little doubt that the virgin forest surrounding this old "Comfort" Sugar Maple was originally cleared by Indians. Here many have settled the Neutrals, a tribe that ceased to be nomadic hunters and cleared the land to cultivate corn, beans and squash. On this land was an Indian burial ground with many signs of habitation — stone implements, arrowheads, beads, etc.

Miss Edna Comfort, a descendant of the Comfort family, has related that toward the end of the eighteenth century, when the Confederacy of Six Nations settled near Brantford, a small group of Indians returned each year to the land of their forefathers and camped close to the big Maple. Here they spent the long days of summer weaving baskets to sell to the early settlers of the district.

Lovers of Trees will find a trip to see this fine old landmark well rewarding. The tree has developed in an open rather than crowded forest condition and provides a splendid view from all sides. It may be reached conveniently via Queen Elizabeth Highway to Vineland where you take County Road 24 south, to Highway 20. Left on Highway 20 to Pelham Road and left again on Pelham Road until you reach a dead end which is Metler Road. Right on Metler for a few hundred yards.

Penguins franchise a big topic at NHL board of governors talk

MONTREAL (CP) — of the Pittsburgh Penguins franchise. Last Friday, the Penguins went into receivership and it was reported Monday that Equibank, the largest single creditor of the financially-troubled club, filed writs of execution to attach the bank accounts of the club's owners.

Until the Pittsburgh and California problems are settled, it will be difficult for the league to draw up a schedule for the 1975-76 season.

The Penguins owe creditors about $6.5 million, including $5 million to the bank. The NHL governors will also consider the plight of California Seals, as well as a bid by Greg Neeld to play in the league despite the fact he only has one good eye.

Neeld lost his left eye while playing for Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series in 1973.

Scheduled for late today is the league's annual intra-league draft. The NHL is proceeding on the assumption that a group headed by Mel Swig, a San Francisco businessman, will operate the California team next season.

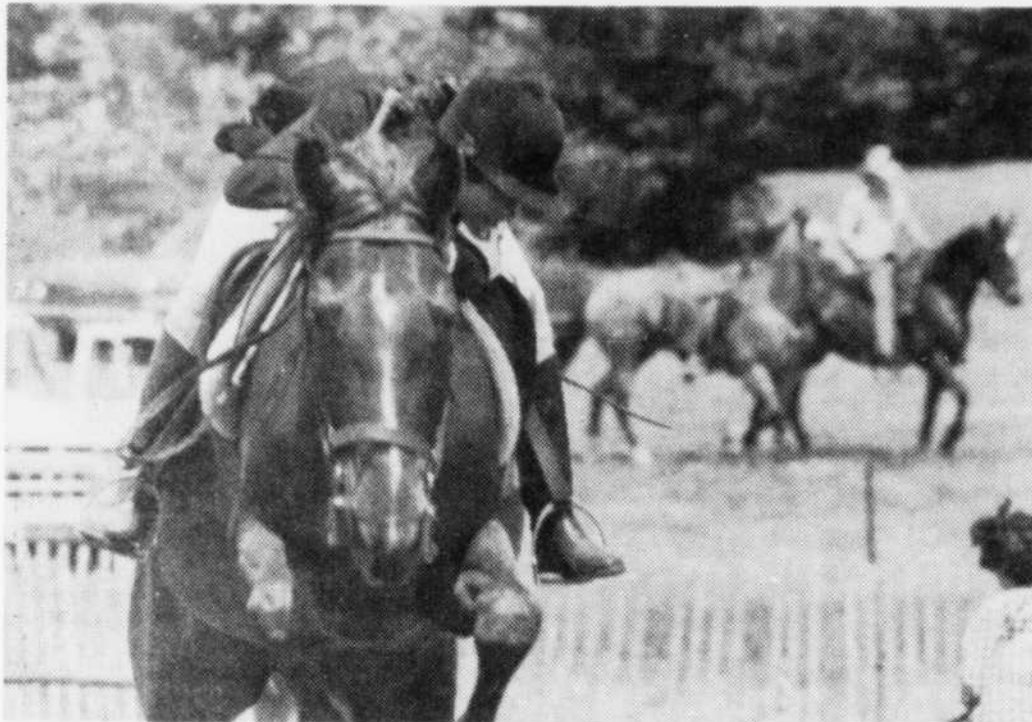

An NHL rule bans players with less than 25 per cent vision in any eye from competing in the league. Campbell is already on record as saying he is strongly opposed to any change in the sight rule.

NHL president Clarence Campbell said last Monday that Swig has been able to make financial arrangements to purchase the league-operated club, adding the transaction could be completed in a "matter of days."

Neeld demonstrated his mask Monday at a session of the NHL's joint rules committee. Nine members of the committee voted to accept the mask while eight voted against it, including the three Canadian teams—Montreal, Toronto and Van-

Play 16 games in Mtl.

Expos start long homestand today

Noise night ... beach bag day ... a family day ... a ladies and senior citizens day ... two two-night doubleheaders ... and renewed rivalry against clubs from the national league east — That's what awaits fans as the Montreal Expos return to Jarry Park from a very successful West coast trip.

It is foreseen as a great occasion for fans to let off steam and, at the same time, cheer the Expos, who won six of eight games against Los Angeles, San Diego, and San Francisco during a just-concluded swing of the West Coasts.

The Expos play 16 of their next 20 games at home. The string of home games will be interrupted only by a weekend series against the Phillies in Philadelphia on June 20-22.

Fans are invited to bring noisemakers — horns, bells, whistles, clackers, drums, on noise night.

Rusty Staub and the New York Mets lead off the homestand for a four-game set, starting with a Tuesday, June 17 two-night doubleheader at 6:05 p.m. The Mets also will be at Jarry Park for night games on Wednesday and Thursday (June 18, 19).

Beach bag day, a new idea for Expos fans, is set for June 24, St. Jean Baptiste day, when the Expos meet the Chicago Cubs in a day game, at 2:15 p.m.

After the short trip to Philadelphia, the Expos will be back at Jarry Park for series with the Chicago Cubs, the St. Louis Cardinals and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

And, of course, there'll be balloting for selection of players to the 1975 National and American League all-star teams throughout the homestand. The 1975 balloting at Jarry Park will end on July 3.

Noise night, a project of CFCF and CKAC, the flagship stations of the Expos' English and French radio networks, is set for Wednesday night (June 18).

Family day is set for Sunday, June 29 when the Expos meet the Cardinals in a single game at 2:15 p.m. On Family Day, dad buys a ticket at full price and members of his family can get tickets at half-price. The offer is applicable to all available seats in the park, and tickets can be purchased in advance at Jarry Park and T.R.S. Counters.

San Diego managed only two singles through the first five innings against the Giants before collecting six runs on six hits in the sixth inning.

All-star ballots will be distributed and collected at every game until July 3. From completed ballots collected each day, one will be drawn and the person whose name appears on the ballot will be awarded a Gillette Max hair dryer, courtesy of Gillette of Canada.

COJO approves '76 operating budget

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal Olympic organizing committee (COJO) announced approval Monday of its $34-million operating budget for the coming year, but the total games budget was not discussed.

dedicated that expenses for the Games had risen to $653 million, with Rousseau placing the cost at $644 million against expected revenue of between $335 million and $435 million. Rousseau predicted then a minimum deficit of $209 million. Government members placed the deficit at $250 million.

"We've had three full meetings of the (COJO) board," commissioner-general Roger Rousseau told a news conference. "And they haven't been able to approve the total budget."

City's swimming pools to open this Saturday

"The board is still studying and analyzing figures from the previous meeting and, believe me, they are undergoing close scrutiny. The board is studying them in the light of contingency adjustments and possible amendments by the federal government in regulations governing olympic revenues."

SHERBROOKE (RM) — The city's 12 swimming pools and two beaches will be open to the general public beginning this Saturday.

"Revised figures should be ready to be tabled at the next board meeting July 5, and we hope at that time to announce definite figures on revenues and capital expenditures."

Details on each swimming area, including hours open, are outlined in a program prepared by the Municipal Recreation Department, to be distributed door-to-door this week.

However Rousseau admitted later that this might not be possible.

Meanwhile, two Municipal swimming areas are to be closed or restricted, due to their poor usage in past summer seasons.

This year's COJO operating budget is almost triple the amount spent last year.

The pool at the St-Francois Park will be shut down this summer, while swimming at Jacques-Cartier Park beach on the Magog River will be limited to a smaller area, under the supervision of only one lifeguard.

Figures DELAYED
 Revelation of the over-all figures, giving a breakdown of capital expenditures and construction of Games facilities, had been expected last Thursday. The figures were expected to show a deficit of almost $250 million on an estimated over-all outlay of $626.1 million.

Homers send Pirates over Cards

If there's anything a pitcher likes more than a home run, it's a home run ball, it's a soaring home run ball.

It was the Pirates' fifth consecutive victory and gave them a two-game edge over the idle New York Mets in the East Division.

Bruce Kison of Pittsburgh Pirates had plenty of them Monday night.

SENT FOUR HOME
 Stennett led the Pittsburgh stampede against loser Ron Bryant and four relievers—one of them Bob Gibson—with four runs batted in on his homer and two singles.

He was in the dugout, gleefully watching the homers bounce off the bats of teammates Willie Stargell, Rennie Stennett and Al Oliver in a 15-hit assault that led the Pirates to a 10-2 win over St. Louis Cardinals.

Andy Thornton, Manny Trillo, Jerry Morales and Tim Hosley slugged home runs that helped bring Chicago back from a 5-1 deficit after 5½ innings against the Phillies. Bill Madlock, the league's batting leader with a .367 average, didn't hit any homers for the Cubs—but he did just about everything else.

In Monday's other National League baseball action, Chicago Cubs beat Philadelphia Phillies 9-7, San Diego Padres defeated San Francisco Giants 7-1, Cincinnati Reds beat Atlanta Braves 9-2 and Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Houston Astros 4-2.

He doubled in the fourth and scored Chicago's first run. With two out in the seventh, he beat out a bunt that gave Morales a chance

"All our hitters seem to be coming to life at once," said Kison. "It's great for a pitcher."
