

OVERWHELMING NAZI FORCES MOVE ON ROSTOV

Russian Forces Advancing From Voronezh Base

Temporarily Halted in Northern and Westward Drive, German Armies Are Launching All-Out Offensive Against Caucasus Base—Russians Claim Large-Scale Advances on Several Sectors of Lengthy Front.

By EDDIE GILMORE.
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Moscow, July 20.—(AP)—The Red army fell back toward Rostov in the gigantic, wasting battle on the Don steppes today as the Germans rushed up superior numbers of men, tanks and other weapons in an impressive bid for that key to the Caucasus.

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko was assembling all his available forces in an orderly retreat for a stand somewhere along a forty-mile stretch from abandoned Voroshilovgrad to the battleground South of Mirovovo.

While the stage thus was being set for a momentous new struggle, the Russians reported significant new successes around their anchor bastion of Voronezh to the North which now resembled a doubled fist in the German flank.

In hand-to-hand fighting the Russians took one main German bridgehead pointed across the Don at Voronezh after a heavy defeat of the invaders' 75th Division.

Other counter-attacking defenders of the city grappled with the Germans South and West of Voronezh on the banks of the Don.

(This appeared to mean that the Germans had been driven back from the city's environs on all sides. Previous dispatches have indicated the Germans had been routed to the North of the City and held at bay to the South but had held on to the Western outskirts. Voronezh is about ten miles East of the Don.)

(The Germans' communique declared Russian attempts to "recapture Voronezh" had been beaten off.)

The Russians, who had vacated Voroshilovgrad, one hundred miles North of Rostov and fifty miles Southwest of Mirovovo, now were able to concentrate their forces before Rostov as the Germans beat Southward along the Moscow-Rostov railway line. Apparently the Germans were approaching Kamensk where the line crosses the Donets River. Kamensk is eighty-five miles North of Rostov, and forty-five miles East of Voroshilovgrad.

(The Germans claim already to have severed a railway which runs South of Kamensk.)

German tanks have played an impressive role in this Southern drive, and the desperate nature of the struggle was tacitly indicated by a self-searching article in Pravda, the Communist party organ which told Red artillerymen that the issue is at stake.

Recalling that Joseph Stalin had declared "artillery is the God of war," Pravda said sometimes Red army guns had been so scattered that the Germans had been able to concentrate tanks between them and then rush through.

The party organ urged better reconnaissance to locate enemy tank concentrations.

While the Germans pushed South and the Russians grew stronger around Voronezh there still was no word of the Nazi Eastward drives.

Farm Bloc Seeks Separation Of Synthetic Rubber Control Units

Washington, July 20.—(AP)—The administration defended Donald M. Nelson's centralized control of the synthetic rubber programme against a Senate farm bloc attack today but found the farm group strengthened by Republican support.

Democratic Leader Alben Barkley of Kentucky said he would fight a motion by Senators Elmer Thomas (Democrat, Oklahoma) and Guy Gillette (Democrat, Iowa) to bring before the Senate tomorrow a measure to establish an independent rubber supply agency whose director would be given wide authority to facilitate the production of the synthetic product from grain alcohol.

On the other hand, Republican Leader Charles McNary of Oregon said he would support the bill.

Nelson has opposed the measure because it would divide responsibility for the success of the synthetic rubber production programme. As war production chief, he has assumed full responsibility himself.

He has insisted he intends to do everything he can to speed the output of synthetic rubber from all sources. However, he has opposed the conversion of butylene glycol to alcohol production plants on the ground they would take vital materials needed in the manufacture of guns, ships, planes and tanks.

EXPERIMENTS MEET SUCCESS

Washington, July 20.—(AP)—The United States Department of Agriculture today reported producing "excellent yields" of pure butadiene—basic ingredient of synthetic rubber—in small-scale operations using butylene glycol made from corn.

"The major problem remaining is conversion of butylene glycol to butadiene on a commercial scale," the Department said, in disclosing also the development of a short and economical fermentation process for making butylene glycol from such plentiful farm crops as corn and wheat.

U-Boat Yards Again Heavily Attacked By R.A.F. Aircraft

Four-Engined Bombers of Royal Air Force Picked Submarine Building Yards at Vegesack as Principal Objective of Heavy Attack During Night—German Ships Using New Type of Anti-Aircraft Fire.

London, July 20.—(AP)—Four-engined bombers of the Royal Air Force raided Northwest Germany last night, including submarine building yards at Vegesack, the Air Ministry announced today.

Vegesack is ten miles Northwest of Bremen.

"Three of our bombers are missing from these operations," the Air Ministry said.

The blow against Northwest Germany was the fourth in as many days, having been preceded by three daylight smashes against the Ruhr and submarine construction centres at Lubeck and Flensburg.

Yesterday at daylight R.A.F. fighters in Boston bombers attacked targets in the German-occupied Lille and Bethune areas, including power stations at Choques and Lazinggarbe. Hurricane bombers and Spitfires attacked two enemy ships, an armed freighter and a minesweeper. The Air Ministry said both ships were hit.

Two bombers and a fighter were reported missing from the day operations, making a total of six for the day and night.

The Air Ministry said the planes which attacked the freighter and minesweeper met a new type of fierce, light anti-aircraft fire.

"This came up vertically," a returning pilot said. "It was white and looked like rockets." No other details were given.

ALL LOUISIANA FACTIONS JOIN TO HALT ORDER

State-Wide Demonstrations Held Against Order Closing Closing Large Shipbuilding Concern.

New Orleans, July 20.—(AP)—Business and labor organizations and leaders of Louisiana's political factions joined today in demands to know why the huge Higgins Corporation shipyard here was closed and what would be done to reopen it.

Telegrams to President Roosevelt and top Washington officials, resolutions of protest, a parade of workers moving through the business district and plans for a city-wide mass meeting followed the Maritime Commission's order throwing 10,000 men out of jobs.

The Higgins Corporation held a contract to build 200 Liberty ships in the yard, which was still under construction. A new assembly line process eliminating the use of ways was to be employed. But Saturday the Maritime Commission declared the deal off, citing the shortage of steel as a reason.

Governor Sam Jones telegraphed Chairman Donald Nelson, of the War Production Board, declaring "I am wondering if it is the part of wisdom to destroy a plant with such great potential capacity in a war the very basis of which is ability to supply troops with needed provisions of war."

Mayor Robert S. Maestri, engaged in a political battle with Jones for control of the state, telegraphed President Roosevelt himself, urging reconsideration of the Maritime Commission's order.

SEEK AGREEMENT ON INTERNED VESSELS

London, July 20.—(AP)—British authorities at Alexandria and representatives of the United States Department are continuing negotiations for disposal of interned French warships there in case the Mediterranean port falls to the Axis, a Foreign Office commentator said today.

Both the State Department and the Foreign Office are working in the closest co-operation in this matter," he added.

The Vichy Government on July 13 rejected as "contrary to the honor and interests of France" a proposal by President Roosevelt to move the nine interned warships from Alexandria to Martinique.

Chinese Army, Taking Initiative; Recaptures Important Port Area

Chungking, July 20.—(AP)—Chinese forces, inflicting major setbacks to the Japanese drive aimed at the heart of China from the Southeast, have recaptured the seaports of Wenchow and Julian in Chekiang Province and broken the invaders' hold on a fifteen-mile strip of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway by seizing Iyang and Hengfeng, the Chinese high command announced yesterday.

The announcement said the enemy lost heavily in casualties and that large stores of booty fell into Chinese hands.

United States bombing planes blasted a Japanese airfield at Canton Saturday, planting their bombs among between fifty and sixty planes on the ground and leaving six great fires blazing. Lt.-Gen. W. Stillwell's headquarters announced today.

In a second attack the American airmen yesterday bombed Linchuan, Japanese base in Kiangsi Province. The planes returned safely from both raids.

The reports of these successes after a long series of Japanese gains was greeted as the best news in weeks from the warfronts.

Both Wenchow and Julian, thirteen miles to the South, were recaptured last Friday less than six days after their occupation by the Japanese in a thrust which extended across the length of Chekiang from Hangchow in the North.

In still another victory, the Chinese said their troops captured Yen-shan, Southern Honan, yesterday after a five-day battle and that an attack is in progress on the nearby Japanese base at Sinyang. Yen-shan is about midway between the Yangtze and Yellow rivers.

The communique from Gen. Stillwell's headquarters said Japanese headquarters were attacked with "excellent results" at Linchuan in this second raid upon that base. It first was attacked July 10.

Canton last was attacked by United States bombers on July 4 when the Whiteclouds airbase on the outskirts of the city was the target. Today's official announcement that an airfield was attacked, without identifying it, indicated a second field was visited this time, since the Japanese maintain several around most of the larger cities under their domination.

Kiska Harbor May Prove Burial Ground For Japanese Aspiration

(This is the first of a series of stories by Staff Correspondent Keith Wheeler, of the Chicago Times on action in the Aleutian Islands. Wheeler, attached to the United States Pacific fleet since shortly after the attack on Pearl Harbor, arrived in Alaska with a fleet only shortly after the Japanese first struck on Dutch Harbor on June 3 and was the first accredited correspondent to reach Alaska.)

At Sea with the Pacific Fleet, (delayed)—Kiska harbor may earn a place in history as the dreariest tomb ever to receive the corpse of an invader's hope to conquer the world.

It may be that Honshu's hopeful little men have chosen the foggy bay under the black peaks of Kiska's hills to launch their last serious attempt to invade and conquer the United States.

It now seems more likely they have chosen a place to die.

Midway was their first choice and they failed there. Now despite repetitious punishment by bombers they are doggedly assembling at Kiska.

Already the Emperor's high-powered ships are going down at their moorings, victims of bombs falling day and night from big brown and gray planes running a shuttle service of destruction along the Aleutian chain.

Flying boats first located the Japanese in Kiska harbor June 10. They had moved in during a stormy week and had captured or otherwise disposed of ten American weather observers stationed there.

Singly and in flights of two or three, the workhorse Catalinas slid across the mile-high peak of Kiska volcano and down on the ships in the harbor. That day one heavy cruiser, two light cruisers, a single destroyer and a half a dozen transports lay anchored there.

WAR BULLETINS

Santiago, Chile—Approximately 8,000 persons attended a mass meeting Sunday to demonstrate their wish to have Chile break relations with the Axis. Marcial Mora, former chairman of the Radical party, presided.

Madrid—A group of Spanish glider enthusiasts supported by the Air Ministry is developing a school for gliders which the newspaper Arriba said today may soon be the largest in Spain. The chief of the German glider organization recently visited Spain and helped choose the field for the school.

London—British light warships bombarded Matruh, Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's advanced Egyptian sea base, on Friday and Saturday nights, the Admiralty announced today.

The Admiralty gave no account of the damage done, but said the answering bombardment from Axis shore batteries during the first attack was ineffective. One motor torpedo boat which attempted to interfere during the second bombardment was chased off.

The British ships had no casualties or damage in either engagement.

HEAVY TOLL OF FLASH FLOODS IN MOUNTAINS

At Least Ten Persons Drowned as Rivers Rise Suddenly in Pennsylvania and New York States.

Ridgway, Pa., July 20.—(AP)—Violent flash floods rolling through Central Pennsylvania and New York today took at least ten lives and damaged or destroyed hundreds of homes, business establishments and industrial plants.

Railroad roadways and highway bridges were washed out. Traffic was paralyzed. Power and telephone service was disrupted. There were fires, landslides and disease threats.

The flood waters swirled from the upper tributaries of the Susquehanna, Clarion and Allegheny rivers in Pennsylvania. The Allegheny winds Northward through Southern New York before turning Southwest to its junction with the Ohio at Pittsburgh.

Hardest hit were Port Allegany, Dustin, Wharton, Ridgway, Emporium and Johnstown in Pennsylvania and Olean, Portville and Salamanca in New York.

At Port Allegany, where six persons were reported drowned, the Allegheny smashed into the Free Methodist Church while 150 persons were

FISHING NAVY PROVES EYE OF PACIFIC FLEET

Dozens of Small Converted Craft Maintain Twenty-Four-Hour Watch Over Canadian Pacific Coast Line.

The Canadian Press sent a man to sea with the Fishermen's Reserve. Today's story, one of a series, described the endless check-up of passing craft conducted by this branch of the Navy.

By HERBERT JONES.
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the West Coast Patrol at Sea, July 20.—Out on the dark Pacific a small grey patrol vessel pushes through a heavy sea. Suddenly the lookout on the bridge spots a dark shape off in the distance.

Aldis lamp signals, a white winking eye, flashes out a challenge. The patrol vessel identifies herself, then passes on.

This is duplicated every night and every day now along Canada's West Coast as the patrol vessels of the Fishermen's Reserve Branch of the Royal Canadian Navy carry out a twenty-four-hour watch in waters where enemy submarines have been reported.

The former fishing trade vessels, now grey-painted and flying the White Ensign, challenge every passing craft and even planes, thus guarding against the possibility of the enemy sneaking close to shore in friendly guise.

Fishing boats don't escape a challenge if they are in some out-of-the-way place, but they have come to know the "Fisherman's Navy" as their guardians and usually give the required information and wave a cheery greeting.

Sometimes the skipper of the fishing boat may turn out to be an old friend of those aboard the naval craft, one known in the days of peace-time fishing.

Canada's Pacific fishing fleet is doing wartime service too in providing a thousand eyes for the naval patrol boats. Scores of reports come in from fishermen. Some tell of sighting what they believe to be enemy submarines, others of seeing big barrels floating with the tide, which they suspect might be mines.

And every report is tracked down and investigated by one of the patrol boats of the "Fisherman's Navy."

BAN ON METALS APPLIED SOON

Ottawa, July 20.—(AP)—Restrictions on the use of steel, copper and all other metals except gold and silver in the manufacture of a list of about one hundred articles go into full effect July 31, manufacturers were reminded today by D. P. Cruikshank, Co-ordinator of the Metals Administration of Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Under these restrictions, originally announced June 13, manufacturers were permitted to use up stocks which were processed to a point where they would be no use for any other purpose. This provision expires July 31 and not even stocks of metals or alloys on hand may be used after that.

Included in the list are various metal household commodities and hardware.

Former 5th C.M.R. Officer Heads New Eighth Division

Brig. Hardy Nelson Ganong, of St. Stephen, N.B., Who Served Overseas in First Great War with Eastern Townships Unit, Appointed as General Officer Commanding 8th Division Now Being Organized.

Ottawa, July 20.—(AP)—Brig. Hardy Nelson Ganong, of St. Stephen, N.B., has been appointed commander of Canada's new 8th Division, it was announced today by Defence Minister Ralston.

The new division commander is a former officer commanding Carleton and York Regiment.

With his appointment, each of the divisions now established as being established by National Defence headquarters has been assigned a general officer commanding.

The 8th Division, it was announced some time ago by the Defence Minister, is intended to be a home defence division. Like the 7th Division it will be primarily a force for coast-guard protection. The majority of its men will be men called up under the National Resources Mobilization Act for compulsory military service.

With his new appointment, Brig. Ganong, formerly commander of a Canadian infantry brigade, becomes a major-general. He is fifty-two years old.

Member of a well known industrial family in St. Stephen, Ganong was born in that border town. His military career dates from 1909 when he enlisted in the ranks of the York Regiment in which he served for three years. His appointment to a commission came in 1915 when he joined the Canadian Expeditionary Force and he served overseas with the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles, recruited largely in the Eastern Townships of Quebec.

After the armistice he joined the York Regiment of the Non-Permanent Active Militia—now the Reserve.

Production Now Resumed In Vital New England Chemical Factories

BUFFALO STRIKE ENDS

Buffalo, N.Y., July 20.—(AP)—Production was resumed today at the American Magnesium Corporation's Buffalo plant—manufacturing vital aircraft materials—as workers returned to their jobs after a three-day strike.

In answer to pleas from fellow employees and army officials, workers agreed Saturday to submit their complaints to the War Labor Board in Washington today. J. E. Dick, personnel manager, said all employees on the midnight shift reported.

The plant closed Thursday night shortly after the walkout, involving about 1,000, began. Walker H. Morris, President of Local 12,258, United Mine Workers (C.I.O.), said the walkout was "unauthorized."

Issues of the controversy include a union demand for fifteen-cent hourly wage increase over the present minimum of seventy-three cents.

Boston, July 20.—(AP)—Strikes in three New England war-vital plants involving about 1,000 workers ended today with intervention of the War Labor Board.

Approximately 800 employees returned to the plants of the Monsanto Chemical Company of Everett and its subsidiary, the New England Alcohol Company, after a five-day strike.

Pending a decision by the War Labor Board, 800 striking employees of the Browne and Sharpe Manufacturing Company of Providence, R.I., also agreed to return to work today. They had walked out last Wednesday in protest against the discharge of a union steward.

The Chemical and Alcohol plant workers agreed to accept a 6 1/2% an hour increase for hourly workers, with an additional 2 1/2% cents for "rotating workers." The union had demanded 7 1/2% cents an hour, with an additional three cents.

MOVIES AD IN ARMY FIGHT TO IMPROVE DIET

Crusade for Better Eating in Canadian Army Enlists Use of Movies to Tell Soldiers Importance of Diet.

By FRANK FLAHERTY, Canadian Press Staff Writer
Ottawa, July 20.—In a crusade for good eating the army has enlisted the aid of the movies and Lt.-Col. Ralph H. Webb, former Mayor of Winnipeg and now Director of Catering and Messing, appears on the screen daily to tell soldiers why they should eat properly for their stomachs' sake.

"The orderly system of messing" is the title of the training film made specially for the Canadian army, featuring Col. Webb and a mess-room full of cheerful soldiers chewing their food well.

"One of the biggest battles of this war is being fought below the belt," says Col. Webb, talking from the screen with his old-time election campaign fervor. "It is being fought in the stomach."

He goes on to say that the army can put a new engine in a tank but it can't give a man a new stomach if he ruins it by abuse; that the army wants to keep men in good condition for their own and the army's good.

Then, in news reel style, the film shows the wheat fields, the fisheries and the livestock farms from which the army gets its food, shows it delivered to depots, inspected for quality, drawn from the depots by unit quartermasters, drawn from quartermasters' stores in exact quantities for the various camp kitchens, and the serving of food in men's, sergeants' and officers' messes.

The cooking is portrayed and the inspection of hands and clothing of kitchen help for cleanliness, their regular medical examinations, the testing of the food in cooking and finally the system of serving with the men eating at tables and orderlies bringing the food from the kitchens.

Winter training is another film produced for the Canadian army to meet a special Canadian problem. It shows how men should use their ordinary equipment in order to be comfortable and efficient in the coldest weather. Into a lot of the tricks of winter practice by trappers in the Far North.

Both films were produced by the National Film Board in Canadian army training centers under supervision of the Directorate of Military Training.

MAE WEST ASKS DIVORCE ORDER

Los Angeles, July 20.—(P)—Mae West and her one-time vaudeville partner, Frank Wallace, planned today to end their marriage, a ceremony kept secret for years, then widely publicized.

Wallace, whom she married in Milwaukee, April 11, 1911, pleaded for separate maintenance of $1,000 a month. He asked Superior Judge Walter Desmond for alimony on the ground of cruelty. Her complaint contained no specific charges.

The case originally was scheduled in San Bernardino, Calif., where Wallace fired the opening salvo, demanding separate maintenance and charging that Miss West had been associating with other men. Her manager, James Timony, was named co-respondent.

whom the chemists at the Peoria, Ill., laboratory have succeeded in producing excellent yields of pure butadiene from corn-made butylene glycol in the laboratory, but they have not as yet developed the process to a pilot-plant scale and they are not making any definite predictions as to this has been done," the announcement said.

Chemists at the Department's Northern Regional Research Laboratory at Peoria are producing butylene glycol on a pilot plant, or semi-commercial, scale through the use of a lot of grain.

The comparatively rare chemical has several important commercial uses, including the manufacture of radiator anti-freeze and the production of commercial solvents vital in some war industries.

British troops knocked out a considerable number of German tanks during the past few days and the communiqué reported that the desert was littered with the hulks of the armored monsters.

British engineers, setting out at dawn to blow up some of these derelicts, discovered just in time that the Germans had planted seven good tanks among the hulks in an attempted ambush. Anti-tank batteries opened up and smashed several of the "leopards" and the others scuttled away.

RUSSIAN FLEET AIDS CONVOYS

Moscow, July 20.—(P)—Red Fleet, Soviet navy organ, reported today that Russian warships and planes had helped a British and American convoy beat off a heavy German aerial attack, during which the Nazis unloaded 212 bombs and fourteen aerial torpedoes.

Several of the German planes were said to have been shot down into the sea.

(Red Fleet did not say where or when the action occurred. Only last week, however, dispatches from London told of a running fight in which two Allied convoys got through to Russia with only the loss of a few vessels after at least two German submarines had been sunk and several Nazi planes downed.)

(The German high command claimed on July 10 that thirty-five to thirty-eight merchant ships and a United States cruiser had been sunk in attacks on a convoy bound for Archangel. The Admiralty said the claims were "grossly exaggerated.") from Boguchar and Millerovo toward Stalingrad on the Volga bend. Apparently the German drives in that direction were stalled.

In the Voronezh sector, the Red army held its recaptured positions on the West bank of the Don after a recrossing of that stream where it fought heavy forces, including the 6th and 7th Hungarian brigades supported by seventy tanks. The Hitler forces tried to encircle the Russian Bridgehead, but were repulsed. The German army was beaten off with a Hungarian brigade put to flight and fourteen tanks destroyed.

The Russian recapture of the Germans' bridgehead on the East bank cut their shortest route to bring up reinforcements to hold remaining positions.

Another German drive continued to fortify with trenches, barbed wire, mortars and machine guns, and from behind these defenses they fought back stubbornly.

The Red air force was a scourge to the Germans in the Voronezh and Lower Don sectors.

One Russian plane shot down a Soviet air unit shot down thirty-three Nazi planes in repulsing attacks on Voronezh, while another unit went through a hurricane of anti-aircraft fire and fighter opposition, destroyed a pontoon bridge and blasted a tank and truck convoy which was crossing it.

Another Soviet unit patrolling the Don skies was said to have destroyed more than thirty planes in three days.

To blunt the German drive through the land where Cossack cavalrymen once were supreme, the Russians were using all their available weapons, including the many British and American tanks which have been received over the lend-lease routes of Murnansk and the Persian Gulf.

It was acknowledged in today's mid-day communiqué that the Germans were continuing their advance South of Millerovo and the Russians reported a new withdrawal in one sector where "under pressure of numerically superior enemy forces."

However, in another sector of the Millerovo battle, the Russians said they had broken up a German wedge driven into their positions, killing more than 1,200 Germans and destroying fifteen tanks, ten guns and sixty machine guns.

The withdrawal from Voronezh apparently was ordered to prevent an encirclement of the defenders by the German column advancing along the Moscow-Rostov railway South of Millerovo.

To the North around Voronezh, the picture was brighter. Dispatches reported Soviet forces not only holding grimly to this anchor, but improving their positions and delivering counter-blows of increasing strength.

The mid-day communiqué said a day-long battle in a populated place resulted in victory for Russian infantry and tanks. The Germans were reported to have left 1,500 dead officers and men on the streets of the village.

An "important German crossing" over the Don river was reported recaptured and South of Voronezh a Soviet unit moved in to an important inhabited locality after a three-day attack. A violent battle for another German bridgehead on the Don was reported in progress.

The stubborn defence at Voronezh and the aggressive spirit of the Soviet forces there, coupled with German reports of large Russian troop concentrations in that region, seemed to indicate that a Russian counter-offensive of considerable scope is in the making against the Germans' extended lines.

The increasing tempo of aerial warfare was indicated in an announcement that 211 German planes had been destroyed in last week's fighting against Russian losses of 136 planes.

The Germans were reported making increasing use of their parachute troops and the Russians said that in one sector, apparently South of Millerovo, a "German parachute party which landed in the rear of our troops was completely annihilated."

Intense scouting activity was reported from the Kalinin front, Northwest of Moscow.

A battalion of German infantry attacked a Soviet unit in the Kalinin region, but the Russians beat off the attack with rifle fire, killing eighty Germans and forcing the remainder to retreat, the mid-day communiqué said.

The Porters, bombers, working over the harbor, discovered still more evidence of a permanent establishment when ack ack fire from the ships got support from gun emplacements on the hills.

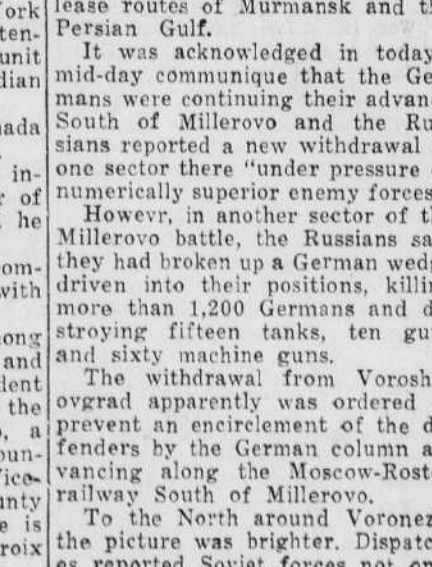

At Attu the Catalinas chased a Japanese landing party through the bush, bombing their encampment and machine-gunning personnel. At Kiska they blew up the radio station already erected on the beach.

Now and then a 500-pounder dropped on Kiska would connect with a ship despite the most miserable bombing conditions in the history of military aviation.

Liberators made direct hits on two cruisers and a destroyer and left them burning.

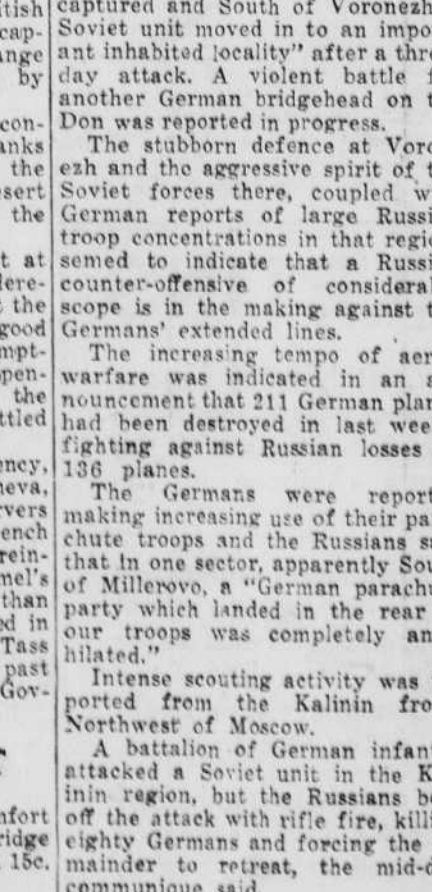

The Catalinas worked around the clock, flying through the dusk of daytime and the weird light provided by the short night. One trip brought a mighty explosion and many large fires among the Jap ships.

ROOSEVELT URGES SLAV RACES TO MAINTAIN FAITH IN FREEDOM

Chicago, July 20.—(P)—President Roosevelt, in a message to thousands of Chicago Slavs at a victory rally in Soldier Field yesterday, urged them "to keep their courage high and their faith firm until we crush the tyrant and bring freedom and peace to all men."

The president told the estimated 50,000 at the Lake front stadium that the rally was "a stirring symbol of the unity of a mighty nation; a nation composed of many people from many distant lands, marching forward as one man in the name of freedom. You whose father's soil has been overrun need not be reminded of the nature of the enemy nor of his black purpose."

Another resolution supported the speedy opening of a second front in Europe and instructed the new executive to ask the Provincial Government for greater labor-management and French-English co-operation in all phases of the effort to "guarantee that Quebec will play her full part in ensuring final victory."

12-Year-Old Sherbrooke Lad Loses Life In Magog River

Roland Drasse, 17 Bowen Avenue South, Drowns While Bathing Near Vacation Colony Yesterday Afternoon—Artificial Respiration Practised in Vain—Nineteen Persons Meet Violent Deaths in Eastern Canada.

In the first swimming fatality of the year in Sherbrooke, twelve-year-old Roland Drasse, 17 Bowen Avenue South, was drowned in the Magog River on the north side of the C.P.R. bridge, near the Sherbrooke Vacation Colony at about four o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Leonidas Bachand, Coroner for the District of St. Francis, announced this morning that an inquest into the drowning will be held at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon at the Marquette Street Police Station.

The body was recovered about ten feet from the shore by Gerard Daigle, 10 Houle Lane, and Jean Paul Laverdure, 38-b Princess Street, who searched for it from a boat by using grappling hooks from 4.05 to 4.50 p.m. The body was located in approximately thirty feet of water.

Cpl. C. Gauthier, of the Municipal Police Department, was the first to arrive at the scene of the drowning. Immediately notified at the Marquette Police Station of what had happened, Director of Police Donahue, Sgt. Joffe L'Heureux and Constables Fournier and Riel rushed in the Fire Department salvage truck in an effort to revive the boy.

Using a pulmotor, Director Donahue and Sgt. L'Heureux worked over the youth for twenty minutes, but to no avail. Other methods of artificial respiration also failed and the lad was pronounced dead by Dr. R. Lamy at 5.10 p.m.

Police learned that Drasse had been playing at the Sherbrooke Vacation Colony earlier in the afternoon and apparently jumped the "safety fence" erected by the city between the Vacation Colony and the Magog River. The lad wore a bathing suit, police said.

Four witnesses, present when the boy drowned will testify at the inquest. They are Rejean Desjardis, 203 Esplanade Street; Euclide Morin, 112 Council Street; Gordon Munday, R.R. No. 1, Belvidere Road, and Roger Theberge, 64 Lincoln Street. The drowned boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Drasse.

By the Canadian Press
Drownings claimed the greatest number of lives in Eastern Canada during the week-end when fourteen of the nineteen persons who met violent deaths died in the water. Pedestrians died of traffic injuries and a student man was gored to death by a bull.

The heaviest drowning toll was reported in the Ottawa district where five and possibly six lives were lost. Police were dragging the Rideson Canal for the body of a six-year-old child believed drowned. These who drowned in the Ottawa district were: Cpl. Lorne Ferguson, 26, of Sarnia, Ont.; Yvon Caron, 15,

Many Matters Pertaining To Law Enforcement Scheduled To Be Discussed At Congress

Director of Police and Fire Percy Donahue, accompanied by Alderman J. A. Robert, Chairman of the Police and Fire Committee, and L. Boisvert, Police Department accountant, left Sherbrooke early this morning for Montreal, where they will attend the opening of the tenth annual convention of the Province of Quebec Police and Fire Chiefs' Association. Sherbrooke delegates to the party were named by City Council early last week.

Director Donahue said that the four-day convention, which is to be officially opened by Mayor Adhemar Raynault, of Montreal, will be under the presidency of Police Director A. S. Bigouette, of Quebec, and is expected to attract between five and seven hundred delegates. He explained that the occasion will afford police and fire directors an opportunity to meet on common ground for discussion and exchange of ideas on up-to-date law enforcement techniques and fire prevention.

Highlight of the four-day meeting will be the attendance of heads of the service police from Canada's armed forces, together with officials of the Civilian Protection Committee.

Director Donahue said that the agenda of general and sectional meetings covering crime prevention, law enforcement, fire extinguishing, traffic safety, and every phase of police work will be featured by a series of addresses by ranked authorities. These speakers will include a representative of the United States Federal Bureau of Investigation, J. Scott, Ontario Fire Marshal, Lieut. J. King, New Orleans (La.) Police Department, and many other Canadian authorities on both police and fire subjects.

Sherbrooke delegates have been requested to take part in specific subjects scheduled for consideration, which include federal and provincial co-operation in the event of an invasion, the co-ordination of provincial and municipal activities to combat subversive elements, civilian constabularies and the policing of industries and utilities.

Director Donahue also will participate in a parade from Dominion Square to the various Montreal cemeteries where wreaths will be deposited on the graves of the chiefs killed during the course of their duties.

It was announced today that Alderman R. W. Reid left for the convention yesterday. City Clerk Antonin Deslauriers said that Mayor A. C. Ross and Aldermen J. W. Goss, J. A. Savard and Paul Hamel will leave tomorrow to attend the party.

BUSES, TAXIS REGISTRATION NOW EXTENDED

Transit Controller Will Issue Nameplate to Public Passenger Vehicles, Which Will Be Checked by Municipal and Provincial Police on August 1.

Municipal and Quebec Provincial Police said today that stern measures will be taken against taxis and buses in Sherbrooke and the Eastern Townships for not carrying the marker which indicates that they have registered under the new War-time regulations.

Although July 15 was the deadline for the order designed to aid in the conservation of rubber, gasoline and other essential material, it has been extended until August 1. Police announced during the week-end, Police said that the time extension for the order, issued May 6 by Transit Controller Gray S. Gray, has been made necessary because of a large amount of organization to implement new regulations.

The nameplate for taxis and buses, issued by the Transit Controller, is to control the movements of these vehicles. They are in the form of a transfer to be attached to the windshield, and each bears a registered number and the name of the city or town in which the taxicab or bus is licensed.

Police explained that under regulations of the War-time Prices and Trade Board no taxicab can travel more than fifteen miles from its place of registration without a special permit obtainable from the Transit Controller's office. These permits, it was pointed out, will be only issued for special purposes.

LIBERAL PARTY SUPPORTERS IN ANNUAL PICNIC

Review of Federal Government's Policies Featured Addresses at Outing on Dillard Club Grounds Yesterday.

A review of the Federal Government's policies, with particular emphasis upon the part Canada is playing in the prosecution of the war as one of the arsenals of democracy, featured the annual picnic of the Liberal Party held at the Dillard Snowshoe Club yesterday and attended by several hundred supporters of the Liberal party and their families.

The picnicers arrived at the Dillard Club in the morning and a programme of sporting events was at once inaugurated, this being featured by a horseshoe elimination contest and a softball encounter between two picked teams. Racing and swimming events were held in the afternoon following a Canadian ragout dinner served to the gathering.

Brief addresses in which the policies of the Government were outlined were delivered in the afternoon by Senator Charles B. Howard and Maurice Gingues, M.P. for Sherbrooke.

BLOOD DONORS ARE RENDERING VITAL SERVICE

Many thousands of loyal Canadian men between the ages of twenty-one and twenty-five years are giving their blood at some one of the twenty-five Red Cross Voluntary Blood Donors' Clinics now in operation across Canada.

In the Province of Quebec a small army of these men are already enrolled in Montreal, while new clinics will be opened in the very near future at Quebec City and Shawinigan Falls.

At the Montreal Clinic an average of between 175 and 200 men attend each of the three weekly clinics. Each man donates five-sevenths of a pint, making a total of approximately 550 units collected weekly.

Last year throughout Canada over 30,000 donations were made. This year, Red Cross officials point out, at least 75,000 donors will be needed to secure the new objective of 4,500 donations per week which the Red Cross has asked to obtain.

The blood is processed at the Connaught Laboratories in Toronto into serum and powdered form for shipment to military and naval centres of Canada as well as Overseas for use among civilian and armed forces casualties. Distilled water returns the serum or powder to its natural state.

The blood of five donors is needed for the average transfusion for a wounded man. Thus it is stressed the urgent need for volunteers, as the Red Cross is now making every possible effort to build up a reserve of serum for use by the Canadian active forces and British civilian population.

Volunteers are needed at the Montreal Clinic, and men between the ages of 21 and 55 years in Quebec City and in the Shawinigan Falls area are also asked to register with their local Red Cross.

One of the most outstanding forward steps in medicine was the beginning of the present war has been the discovery by a group of prominent medical men, under Dr. C. Best of the Connaught Laboratories, of a method of successfully processing whole blood into dried serum which can be used in hospitals, at field dressing stations, or other strategic points, indefinitely, and yet be one hundred per cent effective when needed.

In the First Great War the only method was from arm to arm, with persons of the same type of blood. The development of dried serum has simplified the procedure. Now the powdered blood is simply mixed with sterilized water, forming a blood plasma which can be transferred into the vein of a wounded person regardless of blood type.

Even if there is no actual loss of blood from an open wound nearly every badly injured person suffers from shock. Vital liquid pours from the blood vessels into the damaged tissues, and unless this is replaced the injured person's condition becomes critical. The wounds of this war, Red Cross officials point out, are often from high explosive bombs or burns. Blood serum is a necessity in the treatment of these cases.

The procedure of making a blood donation is simple. It takes only a few minutes—on at the most, and there is no after-effect. Donations are made not often more than once every two months, and after the third a bronze Red Cross button is presented. After the sixth donation a silver button is awarded to the donor.

"Our soldiers, sailors and air force men are fighting on widely separated fronts today," declared one Montreal Red Cross Blood Clinic official, "and there is need for blood serum at all battle fronts. Already many lives have been saved by the prompt restorative effect of serum from clinics in Canada. We hope the men of the Province of Quebec will respond to the urgent appeal for donors."

Lorenzo Maheu, of Ascot Corner, in Critical Condition Suffering from Perforated Larynx—Roland Roy, of this City, Received Fractured Left Leg When Car Overturned in Ditch After Collision on Magog Road.

Three persons are confined to hospital, one in critical condition suffering from a perforated larynx, as the result of automobile accidents which occurred in this district over the week-end.

Most seriously hurt is Lorenzo Maheu, 30-year-old resident of Ascot Corner, driver of an automobile involved in a collision on the Sherbrooke-Ascot highway at midnight Saturday. He is confined to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital where his condition is considered to be critical.

Roland Roy, 32 years old, 46 Melbourne Street, suffered a compound fracture of the left leg and bruises about the face and body when his automobile catapulted in the ditch following a collision on the Sherbrooke-Lake Park Road four miles from here Saturday morning. He is also confined to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital where his condition is reported as satisfactory.

The Maheu accident occurred a few miles out of Sherbrooke when the automobile he was driving collided with a car operated by Arthur

Bald, 585 Hillside Avenue, Berlin, N.H. The two cars met head on with Maheu proceeding towards Sherbrooke and Bald returning to Ascot to rejoin relatives he was visiting. Bald was accompanied by his wife and his brother and the three escaped unhurt.

Raoul Simard, 17 years of age, a passenger in Maheu's automobile, received a fractured foot and was taken to hospital. Simard is the son of Ligouri Simard, 52 Windsor Street. Maheu himself suffered a perforated larynx and received the last rites of the church shortly after being admitted to hospital.

Roland Roy was hurt when the car he was operating collided with an automobile operated by Romeo Gaudet, 57 St. Louis Street, four miles from here Saturday morning. He is also confined to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital where his condition is reported as satisfactory.

In another accident which occurred at 2 o'clock this morning Ernest Fortin's car collided with an automobile driven by Mrs. Wellie Gamache on the Sherbrooke-East Angus road. Both cars were damaged but no one was hurt.

The accidents were investigated by Highway Patrol Officer Mat Lemieux.

SHORTAGE OF CANNED PINEAPPLE
All the canned pineapple that Sherbrooke people are likely to get until the war is over is what now remains on retail shelves, a manager of the local chain store today told a Record reporter.

He explained that the bulk of the canned pineapple offered here in recent years came from Singapore. The remaining supply, imported fresh from the West Indies, was canned in Canada.

"Owing to the tin shortage, commercial canning of imported fruits has not been permitted since the first of the year," he said. "So far as we know now, it still will be possible to obtain fresh pineapple in season."

THE SESSION END NEARS

After wasting days and weeks in fruitless debate in the early months of the session, the House of Commons today embarks upon morning, afternoon and evening sittings in an effort to hasten the summer adjournment, with the prospect of a debate on the existing ban on the Communist Party of Canada to add to other business still on the agenda.

The House held a secret session Saturday to discuss war incidents and defence arrangements in Canadian waters, notably ship sinkings in the Lower St. Lawrence. It was the first Saturday sitting of the year.

The House has a heavy programme to handle if it is to obtain its objective of adjourning at the end of this week.

The conscription measure which already has been debated at length has to be put through committee stage and third reading. The budget resolutions are still under discussion. Sum of $434,000,000 has to be voted to cover non-war costs of Government and departmental administration.

The Government has assured the House that members will have a chance to debate the Duff report on the dispatch of a Canadian expeditionary force to Hong Kong and it is considered almost certain that there will be a wide-open debate on whether or not the ban on the Communist party should be lifted.

Fisheries Minister Michaud is chairman of the House Committee which has been studying the problem of the ban on the Communist Party of Canada. Since 1940 the party has been classed as an illegal organization under the Defence of Canada Regulations and the Committee is scheduled to vote tomorrow on whether it will ask Parliament to legalize the party.

Mr. Michaud declined comment Saturday on the report that he personally was opposed to lifting the ban and that he would quit the chairmanship rather than submit a report recommending such a move.

The secret sitting—the second of the session—started at 11 a.m. and continued until 6.19 p.m. except for a two-hour luncheon interval.

The only announcement officially released for publication through Speaker James Glen, said the sitting was "devoted to the question of coastal defence in Canada." It added that the situation was explained by Defence Minister Ralston, Navy Minister Macdonald and Air Minister Power.

The legislative programme confronting the House is so heavy that it would seem quite possible that the adjournment date will be nearer the end of the month than to next Saturday.

It is considered possible that if other business were disposed of by next Saturday a bill to amend the Alberta Natural Resources Act, covering a new agreement between the Alberta Government and oil companies on royalty payments, might be left over to a later session. The same step might be taken with a resolution leading to legislation to amend the External Affairs Department Act to provide for application of the Civil Service Act to diplomatic or consular representatives.

NETHERLANDS RESISTANCE STRONG

Public admissions of Dutch Nazi leaders, the increasing severity of repressive measures and the continuance of anti-Nazi resistance and sabotage show, according to The Netherlands Aneta news agency, that the efforts of the Nazis to win over the people of the Occupied Netherlands to the Nazi "New Order" has failed.

Attempts of the Nazis, The Netherlands agency added, to induce Netherlands artists, writers and actors to join the various guilds instituted by the Nazi-controlled "Netherlands Chamber of Culture" have been almost completely unsuccessful, despite social and economic inducements which, in the case of members of the theatrical profession, are exceptionally strong.

Membership in the Nazi-sponsored Theatrical Guild means for actors and dramatists a guaranteed monthly salary, an annual month's vacation with pay, a retirement pension and an abundance of work. Nevertheless, practically none has joined.

The Netherlands theatre-going public co-operates in this attitude by boycotting theatres which show the work of German playwrights and crowding theatres where Netherlands plays are shown.

The reply of the German occupation authorities has been to shut down theatres which fail to have performances of German dramas. According to recent reports, this has occurred frequently.

Newsreel appearances of Anton Mussert, Netherlands Nazi leader who aspires to be the "Quisling" of The Netherlands, are the occasion of mocking comment from the audience.

After one derisive remark was made, it was reported, a Netherlands Nazi Storm Trooper jumped on to the stage and shouted:

"If the man who made that remark considers himself a hero let him come up here."

The reply, from the depth of the audience, was: "I thought all heroes were on the Eastern Front"—a reference to The Netherlands Nazi volunteers serving with the Germans in Russia.

This and similar incidents in Netherlands motion picture theatres have caused Max Blokzijl, Netherlands Nazi radio commentator, to indulge in bitter tirades over the German-controlled Netherlands radio.

Recently the German-controlled Netherlands press has been filled with admissions by Netherlands Nazi leaders of the failure of their recruiting efforts. The propaganda tour recently undertaken by Mussert throughout the country is admitted by Nazi Commissar Backer of North Holland to have met with no success.

Netherlands Nazi propaganda Chief Voorhoeve, speaking at Utrecht June 25th, confessed that efforts to recruit volunteers for service with the German armies in Russia had been "practically a dismal failure."

Count de Marchant Diansenbourg, Nazi Commissar of the Province of Limburg, admitted at a recent Netherlands Nazi meeting at Roermond that his "years of exertion" to obtain new party members in the City of Maastricht had "proved fruitless."

In the Eastern part of The Netherlands, where before the German invasion The Netherlands Nazis had considerable strength, "not a vestige of pro-German feeling is left," an industrialist who recently escaped from Holland to Britain said.

He revealed that employers in that region were keeping on workers at the greatest financial loss to themselves to prevent these workers being sent to Germany to work for the German industrial war machine.

Workers who had gone to the Ruhr and Rhineland to work in German factories, he added, almost invariably refused to return to Germany after coming home on leave. Many of these workers, he said, had told him:

"We would rather starve in Holland than be killed by the bombs of our friends in the R.A.F."

Among cases of sabotage reported recently is the partial destruction of a German machine-gun nest near Vlaardingen by patriots who escaped on bicycles.

TRUE SUCCESS IN LIFE

By Grenville Kleiser

I asked Edward G. Seubert, President of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, what he would advise young men to do today. He said:

"My suggestion to ambitious young men would be to conserve and develop their physical and mental strength, cram their heads with all the useful knowledge they can, and work, work, work—not simply for their own advancement, but to get worthwhile things done. Advancement will reward those who earn it."

True success in life—that is, success in all the various sides and employments of life—implies the power of adapting oneself to circumstances and environment. When one hears that a man is a "social success," it does not mean merely that he shines in one set of people; it means that he is universally liked and respected and admired.

And the same quality that wins social success for a man is necessary for success in life as a whole. A man who is a brilliant lawyer, but mismanages his financial affairs, cannot be said to have "done well" in life, whatever his legal reputation. A great author who has not a friend in the world is a failure in life, however rich and famous he may be.

The man who has made a success of life is the man who has done well in his work and in his play; who has made friends of all types and ages and classes; who has a well-developed body, an alert mind, a quick imagination, a sensitive conscience; who is free from prejudice, rancor, inertia and selfishness; who can get pleasure from books, from his work, from exercise, conversation, art, meditation.

He is, in short, adaptable—not with an effort, but with real enjoyment of the variety that life has to offer. And he is successful also in his work, for adaptability, readiness to grasp new ideas, to take a fresh outlook, to see another's point of view, all mean an alertness and freshness of mind that make for success.

The truly adaptable man can adjust not only himself but also his circumstances to his aim. He can see things "all the way round," see how to turn an apparent disaster into at least a partial success, can seize opportunities, can turn everything into a stepping-stone leading to achievement.

He is quick to assess men and facts, alert to catch at the skirts of chance, ready to adapt unpromising-looking facts to future benefits.

He knows how to appraise everything that comes his way. He examines everything, every fact, every occasion, every man, every circumstance, before he rejects them as being of no value.

Another quality necessary to true success is a sense of proportion. A man must know how to allot his time, his energy, his gifts, among the various claims of life.

105,000,000 PIGS IN THE UNITED STATES

From Newsweek, New York

The big population of the United States will be more than 105,000,000 for 1942, or a pig for almost every man, woman and child in the United States. This all-time record—20,000,000 over last year and 18,500,000 more than any previous year—was announced last week by the Department of Agriculture with considerable satisfaction, for the crop was no accident. The department had made it profitable for farmers to grow pigs by fixing a minimum of $9 a hundred pounds. And since Mr. Pig can grow from a fat little suckling to a 250-pound quint-eyed hog full of vitamins and fat in about eight months, he is quick profit and also quick food production.

Pigs are important fighters on the food front and among the most important foods in the United States. Lard-Lesse larder. Pork is high in vitamin content, and it takes less room in shipping than corn, wheat, or other protein foods. Lard, a pork by-product, is also especially important for Lend-Lease, for it substitutes for the whale oil (used in margarine) which British and Norwegian whaling fleets once supplied. Great Britain alone needs a billion pounds of lard this year; the United States, another billion pounds. Already the Government is buying 40 per cent of the pork and 60 per cent of the lard processed by Federal inspected packing houses so it can meet Lend-Lease requirement. In addition, it is purchasing huge supplies for American military forces at home and abroad. All in all, from the combined crops of spring and fall pigs, there will be 2,000,000 more pounds of pork and lard in 1942 than there are this year, and the Government says the additional supply can all be easily sold.

The only thing that worries Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard is how the little pigs will go to market. In view of transportation difficulties, he urges farmers to feed the shoats good corn and wheat, instead of slops, so they will be fattened up early. They will be ready for slaughter—and so processing—over an extended period instead of causing a transport bottleneck by all being shipped in the usual November-January period.

TWO FRONTS ARE INSEPARABLE

(New York Times)

A straight line drawn due South from Sevastopol would end quite near the mouth of the Nile. It would be a long line, crossing the Black Sea, Turkey and the Eastern gulf of the Mediterranean, and could not be followed directly even by the open roads of the sky, which take no heed of mountains, deserts or the no-trespass signs of neutrals. But the imagination leaps easily from the battered fortress at the tip of the Crimea to the African forts falling before the swift impact of Marshal Rommel's racing tanks. It requires no stretch of fancy to see that whether they are connected or not, the two fronts are inseparable. The Battle of Egypt is an extension of the Battle of Russia. Certainly it is so considered by the German strategists, who launched simultaneously.

He was the nover in the most extreme Right faction of French politics. MAIER DEATH LEAVES CHAMPIONSHIP OPEN

The summer session of the national championships, beginning August 3, will be held at the Park Central Hotel in New York. One of the main features is the world championship Masters Pair event, which will open this year with an underlying thought of sorrow in everyone's mind, due to the death during the past year of M. D. (Jimmie) Maier. Maier won the event in 1941 with Howard Schenken.

Today's hand is one that Jimmie Maier defeated in typical style. The opening lead by Maier (West) brought out the jack and queen of clubs. Declarer inserted the diamonds. East took his ace and led the three of clubs, on which South played the ace, then cashed his remaining diamonds.

Maier's first discard was the deuce of spades, a clever idea to deceive the declarer. From South's point of view, West could not afford to discard a spade unless he held merely two or three worthless spades. On the last diamond West let go a club. South then led a low the drive on the Suez and the drive on the Caucasus.

It is impossible to segregate the war in Russia from what is happening in Africa or to lose sight of the effects on the Russian campaign of a Nazi conquest of the Nile Valley. In the most general sense the Southern end of the Soviet defence system is anchored in the Middle East. Cut off from the Allied supply line through Iran, cut off from the Baku oil wells, flanked and shut in by an Axis-dominated Turkey, Russia would fight under much greater handicaps than those she overcomes today with superb and stubborn courage. These are extreme contingencies, but they suggest how seriously the Russians are involved in the fate of Egypt. So, for that matter, are we all. The inescapable truth that gives unreality and irrelevance on the world-encircling battle line proves that it is all one front. Where to fight is another question, depending on where our limited striking power can be used most effectively.

It is highly probable that the Germans are preparing an attack on Syria, to be loosed when the decisive struggle for the Nile begins. But the persistent confidence of the British, reiterated again yesterday by General Auchinleck, must mean that they are counting on making a stand they believe is likely to succeed. We are giving naval aid as well as tanks and air support, and these reinforcements are also a sign not only of the importance of the position to us but of our belief that it can be held. From the beginning, it must be remembered, Egypt has been recognized as an American as well as a British defence line. It is part of the Russian front and it is also our front.

A GREAT JOURNALIST PASSES

French journalism retained until quite recently a flavor—somewhat reminiscent of garlic—which disappeared from the newspapers of Britain and America at the turn of the century; the French enjoyed and excelled at polemic journalism. And now the last of the polemic journalists, Leon Daudet, is dead.

EVENING RAIN

How glad I am that evening rain has come!
I listen to its music on the leaves,
And to the louder beat, the steady drum
Upon the roof, and from the dusty eaves
The rain sweeps like a silver bird in flight.
And in the garden every leaf and flower—
Strange and enchanted in the evening light—
Lifts up its head to catch this magic power;
This long-awaited benison that sweeps
On house and flower and tree, and through my soul,
That thirsty with desire for beauty, leaps
With joy to find the rain has made me whole.

South Durham, July 20.—A pleasant event took place on Saturday evening, July 11, at the home of Mrs. R. C. Griffith.

KNOWLTON GIRL PLAYS PART IN WOMEN'S ARMY

Private Norma Wiken, of Knowlton, Forms Reception Committee of One at Montreal Barracks.

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal, July 20.—(C)—Montreal's first Canadian Women's Army Corps barracks is still wearing its overalls—but Shaughnessy Barracks is going to be very slick and very smart when it gets a few coats of paint.

The faded glory of a glamorous past still hangs over the make-overed barracks and its jungle-lush garden. Once Lord Shaughnessy entertained in these rooms in downtown Montreal and wandered under the huge trees. Later the Provost Corps of the Canadian Army had its quarters here.

But for the past fortnight C.W.A.C.'s with their sleeves rolled up have cluttered at typewriters or scurried around getting the place ready for the more than seventy women in khaki it will house before long. Not half of these have arrived as yet.

In the lofty hall, Private Norma Wiken, of Knowlton, Que., at a businesslike information desk is a reception committee of one—but her chief job is interviewing recruits.

Sadie Weatherston, of Montreal, had wanted to enlist ever since she broke out but she had a job as a paint sprayer and didn't do anything about it. The job's gone now and Sadie is already for action in the motor transport division. She wants to go overseas.

Pte. Wiken seemed very interested in Sadie and in a minute or two she was whisked away into a vast space labelled "Orderly Room."

A stream of girls tries to enlist every day, said Pte. Wiken, but only a fairly small percentage of them have the qualifications the C.W.A.C. demands.

Capt. Madeleine St. Laurent, says she is going to make the place a home away from home for the girls.

The orderly room is a busy place. Pte. Mary Walsh, of Sydney, N.S., was filing the documents of new recruits and Cpl. Jean MacFarlane, of Edmundston, N.B., was working on "Part II Orders," which she described as "The life of the army—you get paid by them."

The three officers—Capt. St. Laurent, 2nd Lieut. Ann Bartlett, of Windsor, Ont., and Lieut. Constance Dupre, of Quebec, have a large but shabby room which won't be shabby long. The walls will soon be light yellow and the woodwork turquoise.

Colorful Cross-Stitch Makes This Lovely Rug

All Crosses in Same Direction
The individual touch that makes your home charming—a handmade cross-stitch rug—OR RUGS—for you can make several with fast, sturdy cross-stitch.

The first thing is to rule squares on your rug canvas (35 squares on a 28 by 35-inch piece) leaving a 1½-inch margin on all sides.

Then to stitch, following for each square our pattern diagram. Each little block stands for one cross-stitch; the shades are for colors—peach, turquoise, brown. In alternate squares you might have turquoise, orchid, cerise.

Your stitching's done with fast rug yarn. Each stitch in the row working to the right, should be from lower left to upper right. Coming back over these stitches, cross from lower right to upper left—all crosses in the same direction!

After completing all squares, make a border of one row of turquoise and one brown and stitch canvas to denim backing.

Our 32-page booklet has detailed instructions and diagrams for making this rug; also shows how to make lovely hooked, woven, braided and crocheted rugs. Includes Oriental, novel styles. Tells how much material you need for each.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "How to Make Your Own Rugs" to Daily Record, Home Service, Sherbrooke, Quebec. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Mrs. Edward W. Bryant and Mrs. Frank Edwards acted jointly as hostesses on Saturday afternoon at the former's home on Fairmount Avenue, for a charmingly-arranged tea and shower given in honor of Miss Norcen Dunsmore, whose marriage is taking place this afternoon, and who has been the raison d'être for many pre-nuptial parties. The hostesses used red and white as their color scheme, the entrance hall and living room, where they received from three until five o'clock, being attractively decorated with a profusion of lovely garden flowers.

In the dining room, where tea and delectable refreshments were served, red sweet peas and "lute" bridal wreath, with matching red tapers in silver holders, adorned the lovely table at which Mrs. Lewis A. Dunsmore, mother of the bride-elect, did the honors. Assisting were Master Earl Bryant and his sister, Miss Gloria. During the interim the bride-elect was presented with a shower of useful and ornamental kitchen accessories in red and white, when came the suggestion for the unusual but most effective color scheme used throughout by the hostesses. The presentation was made by Mrs. Bryant's little daughter, Gloria, who invited the bride-elect to take a lovely parasol covered with red and white ruffles as she cutly said, "I think there's going to be a shower!" and as Miss Dunsmore lifted the pretty, old-fashioned parasol she found indeed a generous "shower" of attractive gifts, their wrappings further continuing the artistic color combination upon which the hostesses were warmly congratulated, both the bride and groom.

GLORIOUS 12TH IS CELEBRATED AT REEDSDALE

Inclement Weather Failed to Mar 252nd Observance—Many Orange Lodge Officers Present.

Reeddale, July 20.—The 252nd anniversary of "the Glorious Twelfth" was celebrated in the Lowry brothers grove, on July 11th. The rain poured down almost without ceasing, but it failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the crowd because the field was covered with cars from many of the North-eastern States as well as from many provinces of the Dominion.

It is thought that the "Twelfth" celebration would have been larger than usual if the weather had permitted, even though a large number of members are serving in the armed forces.

Lower Ireland Lodge had the honor of being the first band to enter the field, followed by others in quick succession, led by horsemen and playing the gay orange-men's tunes of "The Protestant Boys," "Red Feather" and "The Girl I Left Behind Me."

The programme for the afternoon was abandoned on account of the rain, but the people stood talking and laughing under the trees and umbrellas as if the sun were shining as brightly as on another Twelfth long ago, when King William crossed the Boyne.

In the evening the bands left the field, followed by the cars, only to go to the Orange Halls, where dances were held at night, which brought an end to the celebrations until another year.

Grand Orange Lodge officers on the field were P.G.M. Mrs. C. McHarg, of Thetford Mines; J.D.G.M. R. Marshall, of Sawyerville; and G.L.C. Cruickshanks, of Thetford Mines.
