Deserve fair pay

TORONTO (CP)—Older workers shouldn't have to accept smaller salaries because of their age, Andy Andras, director of legislation for the Canadian Labor Congress, said Wednesday.

Farm pay low

TORONTO (CP)—Workers in some industrial jobs can make in seven months what takes 12 months to earn on a farm. "And they get no fringe benefits on the farm," said W. S. Forrester of Emerson, Man., Wednesday as he pointed out for the Canadian Federation of Agriculture one of agriculture's main problems.

SWEATERS FOUND

Some 45 sweaters worth almost $1,000, belonging to Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League and stolen from the Montreal Forum last week, turned up Wednesday. Seven students from the physical education department of the University of Montreal Wednesday told reporters in Montreal that they removed the sweaters from the Forum after a game Friday night between the Quebec and Detroit Old-timers. Mr. Jeanson said that he does not wish the project to be misunderstood or misinterpreted. At the January 17 meeting, Mr. Jeanson produced a document claiming that there were about 300 slums in the city with about 200 inadequate tenements.

The program calls for two parts. One is the preparation of the report and the other is placing into action the report.

Major education spending hike appears likely in near future

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government, which slowly has increased its financial aid to universities since entering the field 20 years ago, appears on the brink of a major spending increase on higher education.

Although the federal government and its agencies help universities through research grants and capital assistance, its main financial aid is through the operating grants started in 1951 by the St. Laurent government at a rate of 50 cents per capita.

PICKED UP SLACK

The grants were established to pick up the slack in university revenues after completion of the postwar training program for returning armed services personnel. Universities received $150 annually for each student backed by the veterans affairs department.

Quebec took the operating grants the first year but rejected them the next on the grounds this trespassed provincial jurisdiction.

ACCEPT ESTIMATE

Mr. Pearson has accepted the commission's estimate that university enrolment will jump to 161,000 in 1975-76 from 178,200 in 1964-65 and that total university spending will increase to $2,032,000,000 from $576,000,000.

Sweeping tax changes advised Quebec revenues dangerously low Belanger finds QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec government Wednesday warned its tax revenues are dangerously low, and along with the warning came 166 suggestions on what to do about it.

Lottery found to be not very profitable

QUEBEC (CP)—A Quebec provincial lottery would not be "particularly profitable," the Belanger royal commission on taxation said Wednesday.

Bet on Labor

HULL, England (Reuters)—A by-election here today that could reduce Prime Minister Wilson's majority in the House of Commons to one vote, is under way with the odds running in Wilson's favor.

URGES BIG CHANGES

Sweeping taxation changes would result if all the report's recommendations were put into effect. Among the results would be the following:

—Personal income tax payments would be increased.
—Provincial sales tax, which now applies only to the sale of goods, would apply to services ranging from haircuts to Turkish baths.

—A tax would be imposed on capital gains, subject to the agreement of other provinces and the federal government.

—Members of religious orders, now fully tax-exempt, would pay personal income tax, with a tax exemption equal to that now given married persons.

—Taxes on gasoline, tobacco and liquor could be increased, provided this did not create too wide a gap between prices in Quebec and neighboring provinces.

—Succession duties would be cut by raising the exemption to $75,000 from $20,000.

—The tax on farm land and buildings would be cut by 50 per cent.

—School tax on property, which now accounts for 40 to 45 per cent of school board revenues, would be reduced to provide only 25 per cent.

RULES OUT LOTTERY

The report dashes cold water on the suggestion from many quarters that a provincial lottery could contribute substantially to Quebec's income.

A lottery would require an investment of $30,000,000 and provide revenues of not more than $10,000,000, the report says.

"Contrary to popular belief, this amount is extremely small in relation to the expenditures the Quebec government must make."

As head of giant firms E.P. Taylor quits

TORONTO (CP)—E. P. Taylor, who held his first company directorship at the age of 22, resigned Wednesday as chairman of the boards of Canadian Breweries Ltd. and Domtar Ltd.

"All my business life I have said that anyone who is prominent in competitive industry in a large public company should never continue to serve as one of its principal officers after he reaches the age of 65," Mr. Taylor said at a press conference.

The internationally known industrialist will be 65 Saturday. A. B. Matthews, vice-chairman of Canadian Breweries, succeeds Mr. Taylor as chairman of the firm. T. N. Beaupre, chairman of British Columbia Forest Products Ltd., takes over the Domtar chairmanship.

Mr. Taylor will retain his other directorships and executive positions and will remain as a director and as chairman of the executive committees of both companies. He currently holds directorships of 17 public companies.

Mr. Taylor said there are no plans for a merger of Forest Products and Domtar although Mr. Beaupre now is chairman of both.

He said several offers have been received and rejected for the purchase of the continuous-process brewery at Fort Worth, Tex., of Canadian Breweries' United States subsidiary, Carling Brewing Co. Inc.

The $8,000,000 plant was closed last year because of unsatisfactory sales in the U.S. southwest.

"The real trouble is the anti-trust laws of the United States," he said.

"We (Carling) do no business in California, Chicago, New Orleans or New York. If we could merge with companies in those places, we could make our company a national company as it is in Canada, but the law says 'no'."

"It would be a good thing, and a constructive thing, for all concerned to allow mergers to take place as long as it did not create an absolute monopoly."

A year after graduating from engineering at McGill University, Mr. Taylor became director of his grandfather's firm, Brading Breweries Ltd.

Wednesday, he announced that as of Feb. 1 he will hold the following offices:

In Canada—President of Argus Corp. Ltd.; chairman of the executive committee, B.C. Forest Products, Domtar, Canadian Breweries and Massey-Ferguson Ltd., chairman of Canadian Equity and Development Co. Ltd. and the Jockey Club Ltd.; director of Royal Bank of Canada, Dominion Stores Ltd.

Spudnik orbiting potato

DETROIT (AP)—A common potato that sells for pennies a pound is to be carried into space by a multi-million-dollar rocket to help seek the key to a biological mystery.

Space Defence Corp. in suburban Birmingham, Mich., in conjunction with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, plans to orbit the potato within the next two years under Project Spudnik.

Bruce Pine, a biologist with the firm, says: "If Spudnik accomplishes what we expect, its potential in the study of the entire area of biological science is staggering."

Spudnik is designed to investigate what Pine calls the "rhythm of biorythmicity, one of the five most important questions in biological science." He says this describes the tendency of living organisms to become active at regular, predictable intervals.

"It's all very well to say sudden spurts of growth in adolescents are due to an increased presence of the growth hormone," says Pine. "What we want to know is what stimulates the gland which produces the hormone and why the stimulation occurs."

One school of thought contends "clock-like" mechanisms inside the cell control activity and that no outside forces influence stimulation of cells.

Another view is that outside forces such as the sun, moon, gravity and so on dictate variations in organic activity. The greatest problem is attempting to prove the theory has been the near-impossibility of eliminating such outside forces in experimentation.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Long ago, when television was young and viewers unsophisticated, a lot of us believed it would start a cultural revolution.

It would, some predicted, bring fine theatre to millions who could never get to Broadway. It would present great music to people far from opera houses and concert halls. Millions would be able to see things to which only thousands had had access before.

Certainly some of this has come to pass. We have indeed been able to see some fine dramatic performances and heard fine music.

But that has been rare enough—particularly in the last couple of seasons—to generate considerable excitement when we are promised a rare treat.

And CBS has one, it announced today, coming up in the early spring: Arthur Miller's Death of a Salesman, with Lee J. Cobb and Mildred Dunnock playing their original roles of Willie Loman and wife in the Pulitzer prize-winning drama of Broadway's 1949 season.

Miller will adapt the play to a two-hour broadcast Sunday, April 3.

ABC also is proceeding with big plans for a quality series called ABC 66 with emphasis on original dramas, musical comedies and a variety of other forms. It is probable that we won't see the series until next fall.

A revival of a fine play and a projected series of high quality suggests that network executives are concerned about widespread criticism of the quality and content of much of the current output.

CBS concluded its two-part National Health Test Tuesday night with 37 more questions covering subjects ranging from the length of time a polio vaccine provides immunization to the best way to lose weight.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I never felt I had to tell any lies or make any excuses," says violin virtuoso Mischa Elman, admitting to his 75 years. He adds: "When the time arrives that I have to find excuses, I will simply retire."

He seemed far from retirement as he played in a concert for international concert exchange at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion of the Music Centre Tuesday night. It was the first appearance in the brilliant new hall for Elman, who made his initial concert appearance in Los Angeles 37 years ago.

"Every performance is a new performance," he said in an interview. "I feel as if I have to go out and conquer each audience anew—and myself as well as the audience."

This devotion to perfection has been implicit in the Elman art since his debut as a soloist in Berlin in 1904.

'JUST GOOD AND BAD'
"I believe there are only two kinds of music—good and bad. It doesn't matter if it's old or new."

"I feel I am a contemporary. I am still here, thank God, I am performing." Elman retains an amazing zest for travel.

C of C lauds city's budget

The Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce reports in a press release that it has made a study of the 1966 municipal budget under the direction of one of its directors, T. J. Wagg.

The directors can do nothing but congratulate those who have prepared the municipal budget for their excellent work, says the release.

They deplore however, the fact that the budget represents a deficit and they hope that a more attentive study of expenditures will lead to a balanced budget next year.

Second case heard in expropriation claims

The Quebec Public Service Board, presently hearing claims from Sherbrooke citizens about their expropriated property for the St. Francis Bridge completed its second day of inquiry yesterday but did not complete its second case.

The hearings, may continue at least one day more than expected.

There are eight cases before the board and but two have been heard.

At yesterday's hearing, the case of Dr. Gordon Loomis came up. Dr. Loomis is asking $38,833.40 in compensation.

These costs are broken down as follows:

Land — 2,848 square feet, should be evaluated at 43 cents per square foot giving a total of $1,231.24.

Damages on the unexpropriated property, $13,619.

Loss of trees, flowers and shrubs, $2,000.

Damage to paint work on buildings $250.

Provisions for costs of putting a wall around the property $750.

Provisions for costs of new cadastral description, $350.

Indemnity as a consequence of forcible dispossession, $3,539.40.

Dr. Loomis said that he wanted to keep the property until retirement age. At that time he wished to construct an apartment building.

Dr. Loomis said that the present approach to the bridge deprives him of any privacy. Lawyer Albert Rivard, acting on behalf of the city of Sherbrooke, asked Mr. Loomis if the apartment would not do the same. Dr. Loomis replied that he would move out of Sherbrooke when he retired.

The doctor used the land expropriated to keep his horses. The hearings will continue tomorrow.

ST. AIME SCHOOL in Asbestos is to be demolished for expansion of Jeffrey Mine Open Pit.

Asbestos mine needs school sites; two new schools to be constructed

ASBESTOS — The Catholic School Commission is having plans drawn up by the architect Richard Geoffroy for two new school structures to be built in the town.

One building will be constructed on Coulston Avenue, at the corner of St. Luc Blvd. on Lot 80 which was ceded to the commission by the Canadian Johns-Manville Company.

The second building, a twelve-class elementary and secondary school is to be constructed on property on St. Luc Blvd. between Laurier and Panneton Streets. This ground is presently occupied by thirteen houses and the commission is expropriating the area in order to secure the property by June 1.

Some of the property owners are reluctant to the move, and the commission has hired a team of registered appraisers to evaluate the properties before going ahead with the final move.

According to the Quebec Provincial Legislation, land so required by school commissions may be expropriated.

These two structures are being built to replace the St. Marguerite Convent on St. Aime Street which was sold to the Canadian Johns-Manville Company for $650,000 and the St. Aime School which will soon have to be replaced.

In another transaction, the Catholic school commission has hired the firm of Guertin, LeRoux and Associates to evaluate the property and St. Aime primary and secondary school buildings and staff residence, situated on the block bounded by Lebel, Noel, Bourbeau and Notre Dame Streets.

The commission has been approached by the Canadian Johns-Manville Company which requires the land for the expansion of the Jeffrey Mine Open Pit.

The company have already purchased the St. Aime parish church, St. Marguerite Convent and the Asbestos Town Hall building and property, all situated in the same district of the town, along with a considerable number of private residences. The company requires the property for the expansion of the Jeffrey Mine Open Pit.

Involuntary homicide trial

Relates judo chops in dance hall fight

"Fernand Cyr hit Robert Bedard five, six or seven times with a judo punch," eye-witness Maurice Barriere said in the Sherbrooke Court of Queen's Bench yesterday, as he described to the jury the dance hall fight of last March that allegedly led to the death of 18-year-old Bedard.

Fernand "Banjo" Cyr's trial on a charge of involuntary homicide goes into its second day today. It took the court presided over by Mr. Justice William Mitchell an hour and a half to pick an all male jury at the opening of yesterday's proceedings.

Barriere, the Crown's major witness, said that he had gone to a dance in Stoke in the company of two friends. He had come out of the dance hall in time to see Robert Bedard and Fernand Cyr arguing. Fernand Cyr hit the boy on the neck with the side of his hand, knocking him down three times.

Defense lawyer Frechette asked the witness: "How big was the deceased?"

"He weighed about 125 pounds," he testified.

"Did you know him?"

"A little bit."

Leaning close to the witness Mr. Frechette asked: "Why didn't you help Bedard?"

"It wasn't my fight."

Later on Mr. Frechette asked: "When the boy fell did he fall on grass or was it asphalt?"

"Asphalt."

Robert Bedard, one of Sherbrooke laborer Rosario Bedard's 14 children, died last March 16 after he was involved in a fight at a dance hall in Stoke.

Witness for the prosecution, Dr. Jean-Paul Valcourt of Montreal told the court yesterday that a post-mortem examination showed that the deceased had died as the result of a cerebral hemorrhage caused by head injuries.

Defense lawyer Raynald Frechette, asked Dr. Valcourt if the death could have been caused by the force of a man's hand, "In my opinion," said the doctor, "it seems unlikely."

"Could it have been caused by falling down a flight of stairs," asked the defence.

"Possibly."

Crown Prosecutor Guy Blanchette called the dead boy's father Rosario Bedard to the stand. The 54-year-old laborer told the court that his son had gone out on Saturday night, March 13, and returned after his parents had gone to bed. He slept all Sunday and didn't get up until late afternoon, he said.

He was quiet all evening, explained the father, and slept in the next morning. On Monday the boy was taken by his mother to the Hotel Dieu Hospital, where he was examined by Dr. Jacques Crepeau. The boy was sent home.

On Tuesday morning, Mr. Bedard said, his wife phoned him and told him that Robert was unconscious. The boy was taken to the Hotel Dieu Hospital again and from there was sent by Dr. Crepeau to the Notre Dame Hospital in Montreal, where he died the next morning without ever regaining consciousness.

In his cross examination, Mr. Frechette asked the father how many stories there was in his home.

"Two," said the father.

"With a stairway connecting them?"

"Yes, of course."

The next witness called by the prosecution was the boy's mother, who testified that her son had not left the house from the Sunday until he was to the hospital. Mrs. Bedard said that he complained of severe headaches and dizziness. "That was why I took him to the hospital," she said.

She went on to tell the court that Dr. Crepeau had told her that he could find nothing wrong with her son, and that he had sent him home with instructions to call in case of change.

On Tuesday morning, Robert was unconscious, she said, and he was taken to the Hotel Dieu Hospital.

In cross-examinations, Mr. Frechette asked her "Did your son ever leave the house between Sunday and the time he went to the hospital?"

"No."

"Later he on he asked her: 'Did you not tell your sister, Mrs. Leo Lamontagne, that Robert fell at home during that period?'"

"No."

"Are you sure?"

"Yes."

Dr. Jacques Crepeau took the stand and testified that he had examined the boy. "At the time of the examination," he said, "there was nothing that indicated that there was anything wrong with the boy."

He told the court that the boy's symptoms, headaches and

To perform at Expo

An all-girl singing group from Sherbrooke has been asked to perform at Expo '67 in Montreal.

The singing girls of Sherbrooke under the direction of Mrs. Lois Blanchette have been asked in a letter from Glay Sperling to perform on June 10 and during the fall of 1967. The group has accepted.

The programs will include songs of several ethnic groups in Canada. Songs will be sung in seven different languages. A group of Canadian folksongs is also planned.

The group has also been asked to record, in each of Canada's official languages, O Canada. The song will be played at all official openings and closings. Mrs. Blanchette said the disc might be on sale at Expo '67.

Mrs. Blanchette said also that she and her group have been asked by London Records to record several songs for release on the Caprice Label at Christmas time.

Charged in Richmond theft

Conrad Brunelle, 39, of Montreal, was arraigned before Judge Redmond Hayes of the Sherbrooke Court of Sessions yesterday on charges of armed robbery and a charge of using violence.

Brunelle is accused of stealing 25 bags of mail valued at $6,500 on May 11, 1965 in Richmond. He is also accused of using violence against Oscar St. Jean and Gordon McKeage, two Richmond postal employees.

The crown prosecutor Guy Blanchette asked that the accused's case be postponed until February 27.

At Bishop's model parliament

Viet Nam, Indian bills passed

By DOUGLAS WHATLEY (Bishop's Correspondent)

The problems of the war in Viet Nam and of the Indians in Canada were debated by student legislators last night at the final session of the 1966 Model Parliament at Bishop's University.

An Indian Aid Bill, introduced by the New Democratic Party and passed with the support of Liberals and Conservatives as well, called for the establishment of a royal commission "to make recommendations for the long-term integration of Indians as useful and contributing members of the Canadian community."

The measure, a rather strongly pro-American document when introduced by the Liberals, had claimed that these "oppressed peoples" were those in the southern sector of Viet Nam, and had also claimed that their oppression was the result of "aggression" from the north. The NDP amendment had the effect of dropping all references to the alleged countries of "North" and "South" Viet Nam in favor of reference only to "Viet Nam," and of eliminating references to "aggression." It left Canadian policy toward the Indochinese combatants much more flexible. The Liberal proposal had also contained a resolution that the Canadian government issue a statement supporting the policy of the United States in Viet Nam. By the NDP amendment the measure commanded government support of the Americans only insofar as they sought "a negotiated peace".

The royal commission proposed by the Indian Aid Bill would, beside investigation the modes of integrating Indians into the Canadian community, review existing Indian treaties and "arrive at a standard formula for the preservation of Indian rights."

This Bill also commanded the government to initiate an extended program of assistance at once, "so that Indians can make use of the natural resources available to them."

Aiding child victims of Viet war

The Swiss are an exceptionally practical people and over the years they have brought their country to a position where it is second to none in the matter of fiscal stability.

But they also are noted for their humaneness which, however, is of a practical nature.

Rather than be carried away by idealistic philosophy into undertaking some impractical policy to reform conditions throughout the world, they advance programs which are easy to operate and at the same time provide the best direct benefits to the recipients.

Such is the program they are attempting to sell, with some degree of success, to several Western European governments under which hospital space would be made available to Vietnamese children who are victims of the war.

A large number of these children who were either wounded or burned in the war are now in South Vietnamese hospitals. Few of these institutions have the personnel or the facilities to help the children towards a complete recovery or rehabilitation.

The Swiss will take a number of such children into their own hospitals and hope to induce other European countries to do the same.

Here is a program in which Canada could offer substantial assistance.

Our medical facilities are among the best in the world and the task of helping innocent child victims of the war should appeal to the humanitarian spirit of the Canadian people.

No extensive preparations are required. Medical research centres in this country could list the number of children they are in a position to handle without undue delay. Transportation costs probably could be held down by arranging with the United States authorities to bring them to this continent by transport planes or ships returning from the troubled land.

By using the personnel and equipment of existing institutions capital outlays would be slight and the operating costs moderate.

Private members waste House time

Canadian parliamentarians are inclined to offer loud complaints that sessions have become too long, but Monday's edition of Hansard indicates that they may be largely responsible for the problem.

When the House got down to business, Mr. Speaker had to seek permission to amend the customary procedure by asking that more than one hundred public bills, introduced by private members be placed on the order paper en bloc. More than two hours would be required to introduce each one separately.

Obviously many of these measures are designed more to increase the prestige of the sponsor in his home riding than to have any effect on the affairs on the nation.

Many of them deal with questions

Proposal really asks for trouble

By some strange process of reasoning the National Junior Chamber of Commerce believes that Canadian unity can be promoted by using the country's paper money as a sort of picture gallery of "prominent Canadians of both cultures."

The Jaycee brief recently submitted to the Bi-Bi Commission indicates that such a practice would develop Canadianism, or French-English understanding, or historical consciousness in that general order of importance.

But it would seem that the real reason is that the new Canadian togetherness would result from the banishment of the Queen's portrait from the currency.

Actually, the idea might serve as one of the greatest divisive forces to strike the nation.

First off, we can anticipate a mighty fight when it comes to a selection of the people to be so honored. And then there would be the inevitable row as to who was insulted because of the denomination which he was chosen to grace.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier would be an obvious choice.

But would his presence on a one-dollar bill be an indication that he represented a "one-buck" race or on a thousand-dollar note be a sign that he was being relegated into oblivion?

And so on for the rest of the politicians, past or present.

If the area of prominence were extended, the supporters of culture would feel the appearance of their selection on a C-note might be an indication that culture was only for the wealthy.

And a sportsman would feel slighted if it was hinted that two dollars was sufficient to pay for his performance.

Canada probably will have new currency in the near future to counteract counterfeiting, but for the benefit of the country as whole it is to be hoped the designers do not feel impelled to break away from tradition in one respect — retaining the Queen's portrait.

USAF planes

Canada safety device employed

WASHINGTON (CP) — An Ottawa and now is a commercial United States Air Force class of plane has been cleared firm called Leigh Instruments for becoming equipped with a safety device designed and produced in Canada.

Some other USAF aircraft already have it. The addition is the C-141 which is the newest and largest high-speed jet cargo and troop carrier.

The Canadian device is a crash position indicator which consists of a small radio transmitter tuned to the standard air force emergency channel.

If a plane crashes, the device whirrs away like a falling leaf and starts sending a steady signal which can be traced. The idea was tested by the National Research Council at assembly. Other aircraft have other structural peculiarities that must be accounted for.

Sherbrooke Trust president

Argues against a higher ceiling on interest on bank's loans

By GEORGE GRAHAM

Marcel Faribault, president of Trust General du Canada, and of the Sherbrooke Trust Company, impatiently dismisses the chartered banks' arguments in favor of a higher ceiling on their interest rates.

"I don't even care to discuss it, really, it makes me so angry," he said in an interview.

He then spent the next 45 minutes discussing it — with some fervor.

Mr. Faribault insists that the arguments advanced by the chartered banks are "completely bad."

He conceded that there may be compelling reasons for increasing the bank interest rate ceiling from 6 per cent. "But I certainly haven't heard them."

ARGUMENT

The banks have argued that the 6 per cent maximum hobbles their lending activities. They say trust companies are allowed to charge higher rates and therefore are able to pay higher interest to depositors.

And they contend that higher bank charges would deter borrowing and relieve some of the pressure on increasingly scarce money supplies. Bank rates are now at the 6 per cent maximum.

The banks received support from the Porter Commission on Banking and Finance which recommended greater "competition" in the banking field.

"It is absurd to say that trust companies compete in the banking field," Mr. Faribault declares.

"Chartered banks are active in the money circuit. Trust companies cannot create money as chartered banks can."

He explained that while trust companies accept deposits from the public and give depositors cheque-writing privileges, they cannot lend money without security.

This means that the money they lend or invest in bonds and other securities must be obtained from some outside source or supplied from available resources.

Chartered banks can lend money without security merely by making a ledger entry, he said. This he calls creating money.

The Montreal businessman, co-author of Ten to One — The Confederation Wager, and a highly-regarded conservative spokesman in Quebec, agreed that the chartered banks are under severe pressure from clients seeking money.

"I am a director of a bank, too," he said. "And I know what they have to go through." (He is a director of the Banque Canadienne Nationale.)

NO DETERRENT

But he insists higher interest rates will not necessarily deter borrowers.

"The banks want to control all the increase in the money supply," he said. "I don't think the banks are justified in claiming that they will be better able to come to the aid of small businessmen if the rates are increased. I think that what will happen is that power will be concentrated in the hands of the banks."

Mr. Faribault suggested that pressure on the money supply could be relieved more effectively if municipal and provincial governments would return to orthodox money-raising channels.

He said these governments have adopted the practice of issuing short-term notes and savings bonds to raise funds.

Mr. Faribault said that the tight-money situation has hurt trust companies, especially at this time when financial circles are still smarting from the Atlantic British Mortgage & Trust debacle.

And he said that if trust companies were forced into competition with institutions as big as the chartered banks "we would be swallowed whole."

But Mr. Faribault suggested much can be done to improve the trust company field.

One proposal — already implemented in Quebec — would be to increase the minimum capitalization to $1 million. It is now $250,000 in Ontario. Another would be to set out the ratio of money held in trust which could be invested in shares.

Mr. Faribault also suggests that provinces should limit the amount of trust company investment in relation to total assets and proposes maximum limits for the amount a finance company may lend to any one client.

Restrictions like this might have averted the Atlantic catastrophe, he argues.

UP TO PROVINCE

He is strongly opposed to the Federal Government's intervention in the trust company field, however.

"The Federal Government should desist from chartering trust companies," he says. "The Constitution clearly places civil rights and property under provincial jurisdiction."

Mr. Faribault says that the provinces should review their legislation affecting trustees and trust companies. Quebec is already doing this and Ontario is about to follow suit, he said.

Many provincial laws in this area have become obsolete, he said.

COMMENT

by Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA — (TNS) — The narrow margin of the Government's survival reflects pretty accurately the Pearson ministry's standing in the Commons and the nation. Having frittered away the goodwill and the hopes vested in it after the 1963 election, it can now count on no more than uneasy tolerance for lack of a better alternative.

This was clearly demonstrated by the first no-confidence motion, which the Liberals weathered thanks to Secord Leader Robert Thompson's tortuous rationalization of his little group's support for the treasury benches. The argument Mr. Thompson used — namely that voting for the Tory-NDP demanded pension increase would not help the pensioners — was tenable only because of the precarious balance of power in the House. For had the five Secords voted in accordance with their stated convictions on the pension issue, the Government would have been defeated by one vote and the country plunged into another election. And no pensioner would of course be helped by the dissolution of Parliament.

While Mr. Thompson can be expected to use the same Government-saving reasoning for some time to come, he cannot go on sacrificing his own stand on sensitive public issues indefinitely without committing political suicide. Sooner or later he is bound to reach the same point of despair that forced his hand in the 1963 toppling of the Diefenbaker minority regime.

TWO COURSES

To avoid this pitfall of its minority position, the Pearson Government has two courses open to it.

It can either tailor its legislative program so as to satisfy (or at least appease) the views of the tiny but balance-of-power-holding Secord group, or it can gamble on wooing the support of the more numerous New Democrats.

Both these courses would require considerable modification of the Government's stated policies.

To assure permanent loyalty from the Secords, the Pearson ministry would have to bury its mediocre plan and abandon much of its hopes of progressive co-ordination of public welfare measures. The crucial field of education would have to be left untouched by federal authority and blueprints for economic planning would have to be shelved. In short, Ottawa would have to bend visibly in the direction of Premier Manning's biblical concept of rugged individualism with which the real Secord chieftain defies the collectivization trends of the automation era in his oil-soaked kingdom of Alberta.

I don't think the Government can go beyond paying lip service even to the least innocuous aspects of such a kickback in social philosophy without antagonizing the majority of its supporters.

To secure a reliable voting support from the NDP group, the Pearson team would, on the other hand, have to reorient its foreign policy and go farther in state welfare than it deems prudent at this stage of the country's socio-economic development.

While some acceptable compromise might be worked out with the NDP's neo-socialist doctrines in domestic affairs, it's impossible to visualize how the Pearson-Martin concept of Canada's role in the international field could be reconciled with the hopelessly unrealistic views of Tommy Douglas, David Lewis, Colin Cameron and Bert Hertridge.

A SECURITY ISSUE

The nature of the unbridgeable gulf between the Government's foreign policy and the NDP views on this subject of paramount importance to Canada's security was freshly demonstrated by Mr. Douglas when, dealing with the conflict in Southeast Asia he said in the House last week: "Canada's best role is not to defend United States policies in Vietnam, as the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition have done from time to time."

According to Mr. Douglas Canada should "urge the U.S. to accept a strict adherence to the Geneva Agreement, which means an eventual withdrawing by the U.S. of its troops from Vietnam in order to allow the Vietnamese themselves, by free elections, to decide what form of government they will have and whether or not North Vietnam and South Vietnam shall be reunited."

A statement of this kind, made at the time of a massive but apparently unsuccessful American peace efforts, betrays such an abysmal ignorance (or misinterpretation) of the Vietnam war, that no Government-NDP meeting ground in foreign policy can possibly be found. Even though Mr. Douglas may not realize it, what he is advocating is appeasement and eventual surrender to Communist aggression, which no Canadian Government can contemplate even for the sake of saving its political skin.

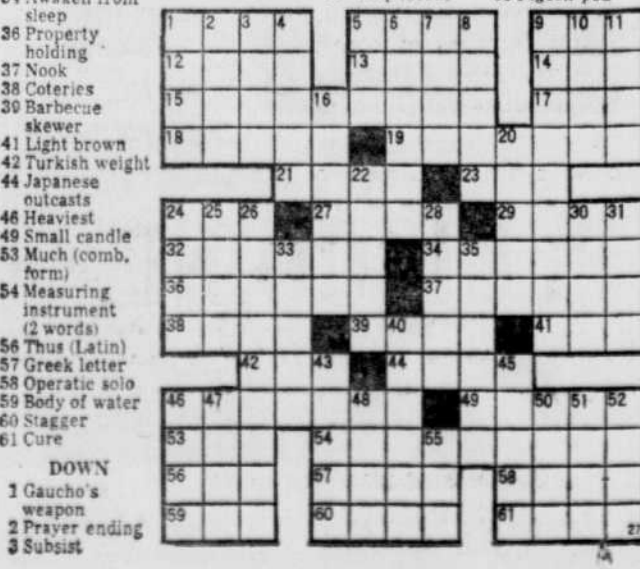

Since both the courses of survival I have outlined cannot but be unacceptable to the Liberals the Government will have to zigzag in soliciting the vote-support it needs to avoid the nightmare of another futile election.

Soaring Expo costs said result of 'inexperience'

MONTREAL (CP) — Robert F. Shaw, deputy commissioner-general of Expo 67, said Tuesday the increasing estimated deficit of the world's fair is the result of "general lack of experience in running exhibitions" and greater participation than originally expected.

Shaw, who was speaking at a press conference, said he must emphasize that with little more than 15 months before the opening of the exhibition, he would not even hazard a guess what the final cost or "investment" will be.

Mr. Shaw said the annual estimate of costs for the year — 1966 — cannot be revealed until cleared by Expo's board of directors, the federal and Quebec governments, and the executive of the city of Montreal, and has been submitted to Parliament.

The vote was 2,893 against the move, while 2,254 voted in favor of joining the French-language Quebec students union.

He was commenting on published reports that the estimated deficit for the world's fair has increased by $20,000,000 on the figure of $60,000,000 given to Parliament last year.

The first referendum Dec. 1 showed McGill students against joining UGEQ by a vote of 2,859 to 2,548, but this vote was declared invalid because of a shortage of ballots at one poll.

Turn down union

MONTREAL (CP) — McGill University students voted Wednesday for the second time against joining l'Union Generale des Etudiants du Quebec.

The vote was 2,893 against the move, while 2,254 voted in favor of joining the French-language Quebec students union.

The first referendum Dec. 1 showed McGill students against joining UGEQ by a vote of 2,859 to 2,548, but this vote was declared invalid because of a shortage of ballots at one poll.

Sir George Williams University and Marianopolis College students are already members of UGEQ.

'Burns' books

QUEBEC (CP) — Judge Henri Jolicœur of court of sessions ordered confiscation and destruction Wednesday of some

1,000 copies of a dozen publications that police seized as obscene in Quebec City and suburban 'Charlesbourg.'

The publications involved were See, Zoque, Tempo, Flirt, Ho, Monsieur, Eve, Headquarters Detective, Rirathon, Fiesta, Jackpot and Pin-up.

The magazines were among some 10,000 of various names seized by police at news-stands last week.

Nurses don't pay

MONTREAL (CP) — Some 2,000 nurses, members of l'Alliance des Infirmieres de Montreal (CNTU) have refused to pay annual dues to the professional association which annually grants them professional recognition.

A spokesman said Wednesday the decision was taken last Nov. 24 as a protest against the decision of l'Association des Infirmieres de la Province de Quebec to increase annual dues of member nurses to $25 from $16.

The spokesman said members also are annoyed because the association recently spent $825,000 on a new headquarters building and they say there is a lack of democracy in the holding of elections.

PRESENTATION — On behalf of the Montreal Regional Scout Council, Earle T. Moore, provincial president, made a presentation to John W. Sharp of Cowansville, recently appointed provincial commissioner, in appreciation of his services while commissioner for Montreal region. The occasion was the annual meeting of the Quebec Provincial Scout Council held last weekend, in the Queen Elizabeth Hotel, Montreal. The water color was painted by the late Marcel Stary, former Scout leader and artist.

THE MARKET TODAY

(Green Shields Ltd.)

Consolidated net income of Shell Canada Ltd. for the year 1965 is estimated at $34.2 million, or $1.03 per class A common share as compared with $25.5 million or 77c a share for 1964. Increased earnings were mainly achieved through higher volume of sales and increased production of crude oil and natural gas liquids.

Business of Tancord Industries Ltd. in the current fiscal year (started Nov. 1) has started off well and prospects for the foreseeable future both with respect to sales and earnings are satisfactory. Manufacturing activity has been at a high level with main productive units operating at capacity. Currently synthetic tying twine is being introduced to the Canadian market and with the steady increasing sales of synthetic ropes is causing a need for additional productive capacity.

Annual reports of Huron and Erie Mortgage Corp. and Canada Trust Corp. for 1965 provide a much more revealing picture of the companies' affairs. There are two marked differences from previous years.

World Day of Prayer slated for February 25

Women across Canada and around the world will join in the World Day of Prayer Friday, Feb. 25. The theme is "Ye are My witnesses" and the basic service has been prepared by the Scottish Committee for the World Day of Prayer.

In Canada the day is sponsored by the Women's Inter-Church Council of Canada which had its beginnings in 1918. That year the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church proposed in a letter to other women's organizations an interdenominational prayer meeting.

The first world day was in 1920, Canada and the United States joining in 1921. By 1929 some 35 countries were holding services and last year about 150 took part.

The basic service is prepared in a different country each year and adapted for local use.

Last year about 3,500 Canadian communities participated and $73,000 was raised for church work around the world.

Today's recipe

PINEAPPLE CREAM SQUARES

This is a rich and very delicious dessert that can be made ahead. Keeps well for serving.

1 package (8½-oz.) vanilla wafers
½ cup soft butter or margarine
1½ cups sifted icing sugar
2 eggs
Dash of vanilla
½ pint whipping cream
1 cup well drained canned crushed pineapple
3 tablespoons drained sliced maraschino cherries
3 tablespoons slivered toasted almonds

(If desired, a baked vanilla wafer crust may be used as lining for the pan, rather than using plain wafer crumbs.)

Crush wafers very fine and use a little over half to line a waxed-paper-lined pan, 8 by 12 inches or equivalent.

Cream butter thoroughly. Gradually blend in sugar and continue to beat until light. Add eggs one at a time, beating until light after each. Add vanilla and spread over crumbs.

Whip cream until stiff and lightly fold in pineapple, cherries, almonds and ginger. Spread over butter mixture and top with remaining crumbs.

Chill at least 2 hours. Cut in squares for serving. Makes 12 dessert servings — or, for refreshment use, the dessert can be cut into as many as 20 servings.

(If desired, a baked vanilla wafer crust may be used as lining for the pan, rather than using plain wafer crumbs.)

The January meeting of Unit III of the Lennoxville United Church Women was held in the ladies parlour with the leader, Mrs. A. Richard Tolhurst presiding. The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Stanley Hamilton, her theme being The Greatest of Lowly Service.

Thirty members answered the roll call with nine visits to sick and shut-ins.

One new member, Mrs. Frederick Duffy, was welcomed into the Unit.

Mrs. Douglas Baldwin, acting treasurer, gave the financial report, stating that a satisfactory sum was on hand to start the new year.

Letters of thanks were read by Mrs. Kenneth McLeod; corresponding secretary. A member recently bereaved thanked the Unit for flowers sent to her. Unit III has been requested to serve refreshments on Anniversary Sunday, Jan. 30, also the luncheon for Quebec Sherbrooke Presbytery on February 10.

Under new business, several projects for the year were decided upon and tentative dates set for same are: June 28, for band concert; U.C.W. rummage sale on April 28 and 29; and Unit III sale on October 1. Cancer Dressings were reported on by Mrs. James Mitchell.

Mrs. James Green reported that there were still a number of cards for sale.

At the close of the business meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. R. G. Forbes, Mrs. George L. Rooney, Mrs. Leo Burczyk, and Mrs. Clarence Phillips.

Qualified instruction essential for skiing

TORONTO (CP)—If you're thinking of taking up skiing, it's a good idea to rent equipment for your first tries at the sport. Then you won't be stuck with a heavy outlay if you don't like it.

Paul Serhenick, a director of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, says it's also essential to start out with qualified instruction.

"Under no circumstances should you go skiing without taking a lesson, and not from a friend who thinks he can ski. A lot of people can ski but they don't know what they are doing. They may ski instinctively and not be able to teach at all." You could start by joining a ski club. Most CASA member clubs have a training program. If you don't want to join a club, you can be sure you have a trained instructor if you choose a member of the Canadian Ski Instructors' Alliance, Mr. Serhenick says.

"Check your own area for a sponsored program. The Y, the park or recreation department or the board of education should be able to tell you where there is one.

"The ideal way, if you're just starting, is to go on a ski week to some place that has a responsible reputation for its ski school. Ski people or a travel agency probably can suggest where."

RENT EQUIPMENT

Mr. Serhenick says most ski areas and many city stores have rental equipment. If you go to a store, choose one you can rely on to outfit you properly.

"You can dress the way you want to, as long as clothes are reasonably loose and comfortable because you'll be twisting your arms and body. I'd suggest wearing thermal underwear, a light sweater, a windproof shirt and a sweater on top of that, depending on how cold it is, and warm slacks. Even if it isn't very cold, you should have the windproof vapor barrier between you and the outside.

"Incidentally, leotards are not recommended. They are not warm."

No matter where you start, do some conditioning exercises first. Any book on skiing should suggest some.

"Women especially should stretch their legs first. You're getting to put on a pair of boots that weigh five or six pounds plus skis that weigh at least as much. Most beginners don't realize 90 per cent of your skiing is done on one foot. It looks like two, but one leg is usually just along for the ride until you turn and shift your weight."

Mr. Serhenick says lack of conditioning is one of the causes of skiing accidents; competition and trying to do things you can't do cause most of the others.

"Racers train for six months before they enter a race. Ninety-five per cent of accidents are caused by people doing something they shouldn't. Skiing is as dangerous as you want to make it."

He says it is as expensive as you want to make it, also. If you have decided you like skiing well enough to buy equipment, start slowly.

BOOTS IMPORTANT

"Go to a ski shop and buy a pair of skis for $20 because you're going to ruin your first pair learning. Buy a good release binding which will free your ski if your foot goes where it shouldn't. They cost about $15 to $18 and are transferable to other skis.

"An average person can buy boots for about $30 which will get you through your first year or year and a half. Poles are about $8, a parka about $8, slacks about $18.

FASHION IS a one-piece navy blue wool dress which gives the illusion of two pieces. As seen in the National Collection preview, the back hangs straight and the front buttons high to the collarless neckline and is fastened from pocket to pocket by a Chatelaine.

Women advised to act age by fashion couturier

PARIS (AP) — Act your age, his silhouette sounds like alphabet soup. The cut is Y or H shaped, slightly widened toward the hem. A new two-piece cut for the sleeves gives the seams a V shape. Sometimes the result is an S curve and other times the shape on the less well-endowed models is much like an 1.

The young model Dorthe was a darling debutante in a white organza ball gown covered with daisies. She was modestly decorous in high-necked delicate dresses sometimes twinkling with a jewelled bodice.

For social occasions, her older friends wore heavy crepe blouses, dresses or graceful, floor-length ball gowns, now and then jewel-embroidered but more often starkly elegant.

Variations of the red range, used as the sole color or as added spice to another costume, were consistent throughout the show. Vivid green and combinations of navy blue and white were also given Balmain's approval.

The young dared to wear hats that looked like lumpy packages tied up with string. Others donned turbans, scarf hats to match neck scarves and blouses of their figure-conscious suits and dresses.

Beauty Tips

Soaking Softens Rough Spots on Skin

A good soaking once a week in addition to daily bathing will help soften any rough spots or toughened skin. Use plenty of sudsy water and clean thoroughly between the toes. If this area tends to crack or be sensitive, use special antibacterial sprays to avoid infection. Scrub the bottoms of the feet with a brush to remove dry skin and work away possible calloused areas.

Housekeeping becomes challenge to handicapped girls and boys

MONTREAL (CP) — Housekeeping has become a challenge for more than 100 handicapped girls and boys at the MacKay Centre for Deaf and Crippled Children here.

The children, aged 11 to 18, take care of a five-room model house that contains two fully-equipped kitchens, and a bedroom, living room and dining room furnished in Early American. There is also a large sewing room.

The course was launched last September and for many it is top on the school curriculum. All equipment was donated.

"We're trying to introduce a more vocational aspect instead of just teaching domestic science," says Dr. L. P. Patterson, executive director of the centre.

"We want to train people to do domestic work so some of them can earn their living at it."

Mrs. Catriona MacDonald, the domestic science teacher who gives the course, says: "Eventually we'd like to spend an entire morning with the students so they could do everything normally required to run a house."

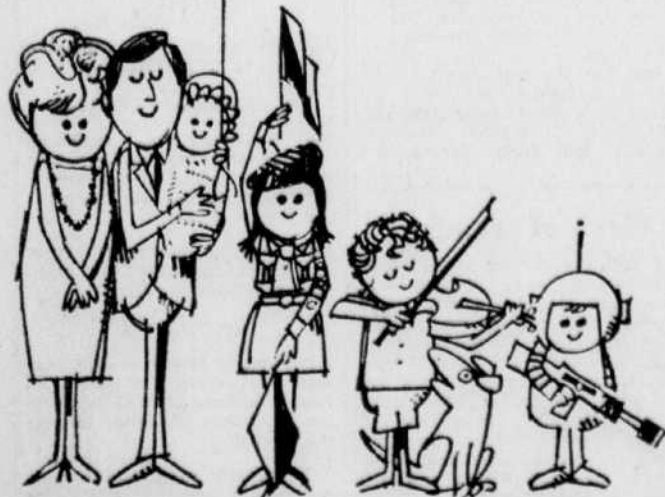

SHE WIPES COUNTER

Manipulating a carpet sweeper while handling two crutches is no easy task, but the children are rapidly learning to make meals, change sheets, clean mirrors and peel apples in spite of such co-ordination difficulties.

Some of the students—most of whom suffer from cerebral palsy, congenital amputation, muscular dystrophy, rheumatoid arthritis, hemophilia or epilepsy—haven't the strength to hold a duster.

Stamps and Argos seem happy over recent trade, question of off season jobs is players worry TORONTO (CP) — Calgary Stampers and Toronto Argonauts expressed satisfaction Wednesday over a four-man trade between the two Canadian Football League clubs. But two of the players involved had slight misgivings.

Pete Manning—the offensive end and defensive back who comes to the Argonauts along with flanker Bobby Taylor, 26, CFL experience, Eagle Day and in exchange for quarterback Pete Warren—said in Calgary he was happy with the move from a football standpoint.

"But I have a lucrative job here and there's no way of transferring," he added. Manning, 28, is a land broker in the off-season, buying and selling leases for an oil company.

"I like Toronto. It's a big city and there are plenty of opportunities there. It will depend on whether Lew Hayman (Argonauts' general manager) and I can mutually negotiate a satisfactory contract."

HAS SIMILAR PROBLEM
Off-the-field employment also was a problem for Warren, 24, whom the Argos brought up from their East York intermediate farm club early last season. He works in the marketing department of a large soap manufacturing firm.

Alain Caron is back on target, Bisons winning
As long as Alain Caron stays on target, there's still hope for Buffalo Bisons.

The tail-enders in the American Hockey League's Western Division couldn't buy a victory in their first 10 starts of 1966 while their sharpshooting right winger suffered a scoring slump. Now Caron is back on the beam and the Bisons, riding a three-game winning streak, are only five points out of third place.

Caron fired his 26th and 27th goals Wednesday night as the Bisons defeated Providence Reds 5-3, handing the eastern cellar-dwellers their 10th straight defeat. The touring Seattle Totems of the Western League downed Hershey Bears 5-3 in the only other game of the night.

Bill Carter, Billy Dea and Mel Pearson also tallied for the Bisons, who salted the game away with a four-goal outburst in the first period. Eddie Kachur, Jim Mikol and Dave Creighton scored for Providence.

Hawks stop Habs, Rangers edge Wings

Phil Esposito stole some of the spotlight from teammate Bobby Hull Wednesday night. Hull continued his record-breaking pace with a goal—his 39th of the season—against Montreal Wednesday night, but Esposito scored two, including the winner, as Chicago Black Hawks defeated the Canadiens 4-2.

New York Rangers edged Detroit Red Wings 4-3 in the other National Hockey League encounter.

Esposito said his goals, his 14th and 15th of the season, were gifts.

The Black Hawks' first victory in more than two weeks moved them into sole possession of second place in the standings, two points ahead of the Canadiens.

Veteran Bill (Red) Hay scored the other Chicago goal, his 11th of the season.

Montreal scorers were defenceman Jean-Claude Tremblay with his third of the campaign and right winger Claude Provost with his ninth.

HULL HELPED HAY
Hull picked up an assist on Hay's goal, giving him a league-leading total of 63 points in the individual scoring parade.

He has 29 games remaining to score 12 goals to break the record of 50 goals in a season. The left winger shares the record with Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffroy, both former Montreal players.

Charlie Hodge started the game in nets for the Canadiens and allowed all four Chicago markers before giving way to Lorne (Gump) Worsley in the final frame.

N H L BIG SEVEN
Bobby Hull scored his 39th goal of the season and assisted on another in Chicago Black Hawks' 4-2 victory over Montreal Canadiens Wednesday night.

Norm Ullman, Detroit Red Wings' centre, had an assist in a losing cause against New York Rangers Wednesday night and trails Hull by 11 points.

45 students from University of Montreal arrested at Forum as they swarm on ice after game

MONTREAL (CP) — Forty-five University of Montreal students will appear in court today charged with theft and receiving as a result of a police roundup at the Montreal Forum Wednesday night.

The students swarmed onto the ice at the Forum following the Montreal-Chicago National Hockey League game wearing Detroit Red Wings' sweaters.

The 45 sweaters, valued at almost $1,000, were taken from the Forum late Friday night after a game between Detroit Red Wings and Montreal NHL Old-Timers.

Seven students of the university's physical education department said the sweaters had been removed as one of a series of pranks connected with the university's winter carnival.

The charges against those wearing the sweaters have been the only ones so far in the wake of a series of student raids staged throughout Montreal.

A police spokesman said no other complaints have been filed in connection with the pranks.

Detroit sweaters found

The students exhibited their prizes on the flank of Mount Royal in zero weather Wednesday night.

The take included: Two go-go girls, bound and gagged and kidnapped from a local night club; a small bear, taken from Lafontaine Park Zoo; a six-foot portrait of the Queen, stolen from the lobby of the Queen Elizabeth hotel; the golden book from city hall;

Several vehicles, including a brewery truck, a pilgrim's bus, a pickup truck owned by the suburban city of Outremont and a French-language radio station reporter's car; and four oil paintings from the Forum.

Canadiens president David Molson said the stealing of the sweaters could have forced the postponement of Saturday's Canadiens-Detroit hockey game. The Red Wings played without their junior farm team in Hamilton.

Before being returned to his cage, the bear was made to wear Gordie Howe's sweater.

Holds three-point spread over Beavers' Bill Dupre, locals at Victoriaville, Rockets-Gauls meet

Guy Black of St. Hyacinthe is setting the pace in the race for individual scoring honors in the Quebec Provincial Senior Hockey League, according to the latest release by Bernard Brodeur, league statistician. The figures don't include games played Tuesday.

Black holds a three-point spread over Bill Dupre of Sherbrooke. He has amassed a total of 17 goals with a record high of 32 assists for his total while Dupre has blinks the light 15 times and picked up 31 in the play making department.

Roger Picaud of Drummondville is third with 42, one more than Rene Pepin of Sherbrooke and three more than Gordie Haworth, also of the Rockets. Six players are deadlocked in sixth spot in the race all with 36 points each. G. Gosselin has 16 with 20, R. Viens 15 and 21, R. Beauregard eight and 28 all of St. Hyacinthe. M. Labrosse of Drummondville has picked up 15 goals and 20 assists and N. Tremblay, formerly with Victoriaville, registered 13 and 23 for his work.

Andy Payette of St. Hyacinthe has the best average with 3.28 while A. Gagnon of Drummondville has compiled 3.34 last Sunday and S. Aubrey of Sherbrooke has 3.72. Three shutouts have been registered in the league by Payette, Gagnon and Claude Cyr.

Andre Samson of Victoriaville and Rene Pepin of Sherbrooke are leading the loop with the most goals, 21, while Guy Black has amassed the most assists in the circuit 32.

Jean Levesque of Sherbrooke is the bad-man having spent 89 minutes in the cooler. St. Hyacinthe holds a five-point spread of Drummondville, 40 to 35, while Sherbrooke is third with a total of 34. This evening the Gauls visit Drummondville and Sherbrooke is in Victoriaville and no doubt the Rockets and Beavers will be seeking victories to close in on the leaders.

To the eleventh annual Eastern Townships Boys' Basketball Jamboree, that is.

It's being sponsored by the Sherbrooke Hi-Y Club this Saturday, and has fourteen schools from E.T. Districts entered. This highlight of cage activity for the 1965-1966 season will see thirteen senior teams competing, with the same number of juniors.

Flint Bondurant, Chairman of the '66 tourney, says that all schools, except Ayer's Cliff and Mitchell School, have entered both the senior and junior teams. Mitchell's name is in the Junior Draw, while Ayer's Cliff has only the senior squad.

This year marks officially the start of another decade of progress, fostering sportsmanlike competition among the high school teams of the Eastern Townships, as they meet in the biggest tournament of its kind.

There is some doubt as to the exact date of the first tournament with this name, but Sherbrooke Daily Record files show that the tourney had the E.T. High Schools competing in 1955.

Chairman Bondurant, ably assisted by fellow co-chairmen Ernie Garbutt and Pete Besson, has acquired the use of five basketball courts to run off the 26-team tournament.

"We will use the two courts at Sherbrooke High, and others at Mitchell School, St. Pat's and Lennoxville High Schools for the opening draw," says Flint Bondurant.

The chairman also stated that the quarter-finals will be played at Sherbrooke High, Mitchell and St. Pat's, with the semis moving up to SHS. This is in both senior and junior competition.

In a letter sent out to the various high schools of the Eastern Townships, tournament regulations, game rules, and player eligibility were outlined, with an application form enclosed.

The fourteen schools replying in the affirmative included St. Pat's High (Sherbrooke); Sawyerville, Asbestos - Danville - Shipton, Cowansville, Sherbrooke High, Sunnyside, Princess Elizabeth High (Magog); Mitchell Knowlton, Lennoxville, Ayer's Cliff, Seminaire St. Charles, and Richmond's Notre Dame and St. Francis High Schools.

Byes were given to the same schools in the draws, senior and junior, and thus allows a simplification in getting the tournament started Saturday morning.

Rollie Dewar, President and Referee-in-Chief of the Eastern Townships Board of Basketball Officials, sub-local 406 to Montreal, made the draw upon receipt of all entries.

AUTOMATIC ELIMINATION

In both divisions of this jamboree, automatic eliminations will face the losers in each game. There will be no consolation events.

The junior series, which will consist of competition between school representatives fifteen years of age and under, will begin at nine o'clock Saturday morning on all five courts. The one hour time lapse allowed for the game, follows with the opening senior games, again on all five courts.

The maximum number of games played by any team that manages to gain the final berth, will be four. A school, receiving a bye in the first round, ending up in the finals, would only play three games in the day-long event.

Chairman Bondurant sent out letters and registration forms to 22 schools, with only 15 offering some reply. Drummondville High School was the only negative reply received.

Trophies for the senior and junior sections will be presented by the Hi-Y organizers after the respective championship games. The junior game, preceding the major senior final, is expected to get underway at 5 p.m.

Admission for the entire day is fifty cents, and thirty-five being charged from noon.

Preparation for cage highlight long and tedious, but worth it

Ever stop to think how much time and work is involved in the organization and actual operation of a major sports attraction?

Only the organizers and co-ordinators of the event know for sure.

Take for instance, this eleventh annual Sherbrooke Hi-Y Boys' Basketball Jamboree for schools of the Eastern Townships.

Flint Bondurant, Chairman of the Jamboree, has been working quite steadily with his two henchmen, Pete Besson and Ernie Garbutt, in completing the plans, sewing up the minor details of this basketball attraction this week.

"We started last November when we were named to the

FLINT BONDURANT
1966 Hi-Y Jamboree Chairman

week from my co-chairmen, Hi-Y Advisors, members of the Hi-Y club and some of the teachers at Sherbrooke and Lennoxville High Schools," says the chairman.

According to this organizer quite a bit has been accomplished.

The 18 members of the Hi-Y Club will be assisted by members of the Trinite Club to help staff the four schools being used in the tourney.

As well, advisors Dave Perkins and Doug Guthrie have offered counselling, helping to direct the young sponsors with experience of the past.

Flint Bondurant has made note of the efforts to aid in the success of this event of the many teachers, principals of the entering schools, the Trinite Club, all coaches, Hi-

Y advisors, and even the players for whom this tourney is staged.

"A great amount of unknown time and effort is put in by the organizers in this project for its success. Organization is the key to the success of any event, and a specialty at the Hi-Y," states Chairman Bondurant.

Whistle-tooters, timers, scorers and even the cheerleaders contribute to the day's events.

HEAVY FINANCES

Another aspect of this tournament that demands considerable meditation is the financial end. The finances are heavy especially with the men in the striped, and light blue shirts with whistles dangling from their necks. The team crests and other miscellaneous expenses also must be included.

positions by the Hi-Y Club," says Flint. "After compiling and checking the lists of high schools with the past entries, we sent flyers to the individual prospects, inviting them to the Jamboree."

But that's just the beginning. With a crew made up of the other members of the Hi-Y Club, the three jamboree directors made plans for posters, set up the rules and regulations of the jamboree and games, and sent out the registration forms.

"During the Christmas break from school, we sent these out and kept waiting patiently for replies that never came," states Chairman Bondurant. "On the last date set for entries, we had four responses to our invitations, and we needed at least six to begin planning the tourney."

The deadline for entries was Wednesday, January 19. "However, we received more replies at the Girls' Jamboree held last weekend, when coaches or representatives of the ET schools came in. As soon as the number reached 14, we stopped, and made up the draws for the Jamboree," continues Flint.

But that's still only half of the work. With the last week before the biggest E.T. basketball event waning into last hours, Flint, Pete and Ernie are still catching the loose ends. "I had a lot of help this

Hi-Y Canteen features food and 'grease' for the in-crowd

You're on your way to the Sherbrooke High School, Saturday morning, to take part in the Sherbrooke Hi-Y basketball Jamboree.

As you open the door, a familiar, tantalizing odor greets you from the corridor in the basement of SHS.

But what is it? You work your way down to the two Hi-Y members seated at the table, ready to stamp you, having paid admission to the tourney.

The admission is fifty cents (morning), but only 35 if you come at noon; that's not bad at all. But what's that noise?

You turn around quickly. Surrounded by other teenagers (or perhaps, the younger generation if you're a parent, come to catch the basketball action), you quickly glance over to the counter.

Immediately you recognize that familiar aroma. It's coming from the hot dog cooker, and the noise or 'grease', is the latest rock 'n' roll music, emitted from records, or being played on the tape.

You're in the Sherbrooke Hi-Y Canteen.

The people behind the counter are Hi-Y members, ready to serve you satisfy your appetite, and welcome you to their eleventh Jamboree. Music is continuous, plenty of room to eat as well as dance, and the food is Canada's favorite . . . the hot dog.

But that's not all the Canteen offers you. There is peace (?) and quiet from the bouncing basketballs and screaming cheerleaders that are in the gymnasium.

There's an opportunity to listen to your favorite singers music groups, and dance to their many tunes. Or, you can just talk with friends, meet new kids, enjoy the atmosphere.

And eat. The Hi-Y Canteen, open from early morning until the final games in the early evening, is for the 'in-crowd.'

If you're not in with the 'in-crowd,' get hep. Get to the Hi-Y Canteen.

We've got the spirit, We've got the yell, We've got the team That fights like . . . shhh!

Team, Team, Show'em how, Rip 'em, sock 'em, Tear 'em, WOW!

If you're an avid basketball fan, or player, you've heard these verses many times before.

Perhaps you haven't. To be sure if you're at the Sherbrooke Hi-Y Basketball Jamboree this Saturday at Sherbrooke High School, Mitchell School, St. Pat's and Lennoxville High, this cheer and many others will be chanted by girls wearing school colors, and shouted by team fans in the stands.

The above may not be a latest original from one particular High School, but it does give an idea of the support rendered the teams entered in the Hi-Y Jamboree.

Of the fourteen schools entered, a great number of teams will be accompanied by their cheerleaders to the tournament. Cheerleaders boost the morale of the losing club, an encouragement to fight harder; and to the winning club, a voice of support and joy in carrying the honors.

The pretty foursome, lively quintet and even the louder group of six to eight, wearing the school colors, express a certain amount of originality in the tourney, the products of weeks of extensive practice sessions, fit in when times permitted.

The cheerleaders are also a great part of a basketball tournament.

And they are an attraction at the Hi-Y Saturday.

When Sunnyside High School senior and junior boys' basketball teams come to the Hi-Y Cage Jamboree in Sherbrooke, Saturday, they will be bringing two treasures with them.

But their main concern that day will be whether they can bring them back home.

The treasures are the Hi-Y Club trophies, presented to the winners of the annual tournament immediately after the final game in each section.

Sunnyside, in returning to the scene of their spoils, will attempt to chalk up their second consecutive tournament sweep. Other schools to have achieved this in the past include Sherbrooke High, Lennoxville High and Knowlton High Schools.

In 1964, Marymount Seniors, formed from a group of Grade 12 students, copped the senior honors, while Lennoxville took those junior honors. Sherbrooke High School had taken the prizes all the way in the previous year.

As well, Knowlton High school refused to split the honors in '61.

Known senior champions of 1962 were the players from the hosting school, Sherbrooke High, while LHS and SHS finished as respective winners in 1960.

CLOSE FINALS IN '65

In the senior finals last year, it may be remembered that Sunnyside High just nipped the Sherbrooke High School juniors 28-23 in the finals, while the seniors topped the same school, Maroon and White, 54-46.

Sherbrooke Record files show that seventeen schools participated in the tourneys, and Sunnyside High juniors started on the rampage to victory over Asbestos - Danville-Shipton, Magog's Princess Elizabeth High, Drummondville and Sherbrooke.

The senior path to the trophy saw the Border Team in conquest over Asbestos - Danville - Shipton, and Cowansville and again, Sherbrooke High.

Morgan Barnes and Lindsay Black teamed up for a total of 35 points against the Sherbrooke seniors. The half-time score had Sunnyside ahead 22-21, after a first quarter 10-9 finish.

It will also be remembered that Sherbrooke's offensive line lacked a defensive unit to control Sunnyside.

The junior victory was achieved after a long struggle with SHS, both teams dropping behind for a few minutes.

Larry Lyonnais was the leader of the winged cagers, dazzling the packed gym with 30 foot shots that counted two points every time.

This was the first time that Sunnyside High had won both honors.

Coach Ernie Hazard will return, backed with strong determination of both senior and junior crews.

A word of encouragement is always appreciated by our youthful sportsmen — GOOD LUCK to Princess Elizabeth High School.

 Victory dance follows tourney ***

Sherbrooke Hi-Y members, in sponsoring any major event among high schools, especially in sports, like to do the job right, if it's to be done at all. So too, with the E.T. Jamboree.

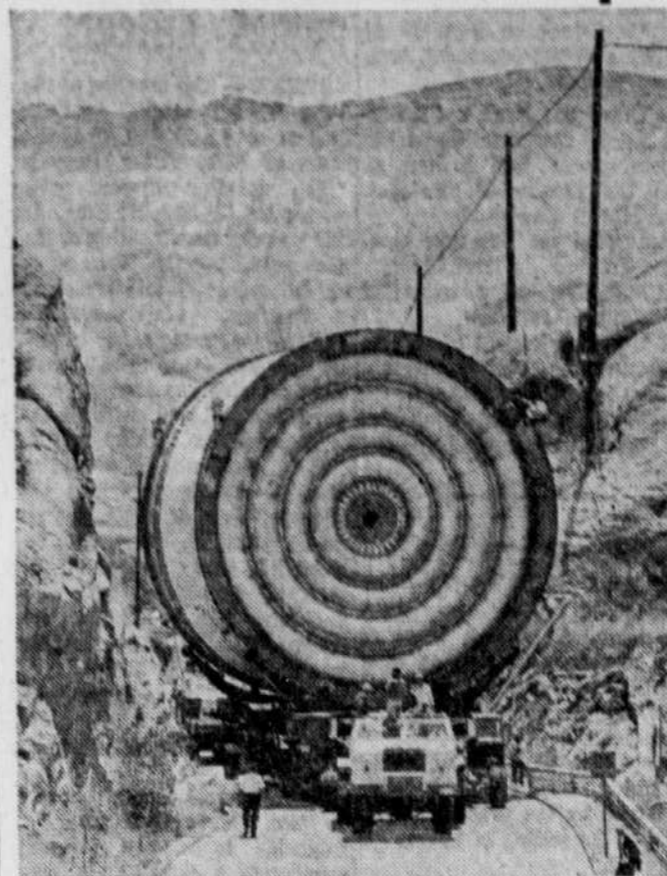

Actually, the tournament officially ends with the final whistle and the winners declared in each of the senior and junior divisions. But there are still the celebrations to be had.

The hardcourt isn't the only floor to get a beating this Saturday. Just after the exciting finals at the Sherbrooke High School, a victory dance will be held at the YM-YMCA on Montreal Street.

The dance, again organized and sponsored by the Hi-Y Club, is open to the public, and special guests will be the winners of the Jamboree.

All proceeds obtained through different activities of the Hi-Y members are collected throughout the year, and at the end of the school term, is distributed to their charities, as well as a bursary to a Sherbrooke High School graduating student. Join the fun at the Jamboree, and don't forget that things are hopping at the YM-YW immediately after.

When Moon-Trip Rocket Plods at Snail's Pace

This photo, taken on the high road to Santa Susana, illustrates the challenge of moving large rocket segments over normal roads and freeways.

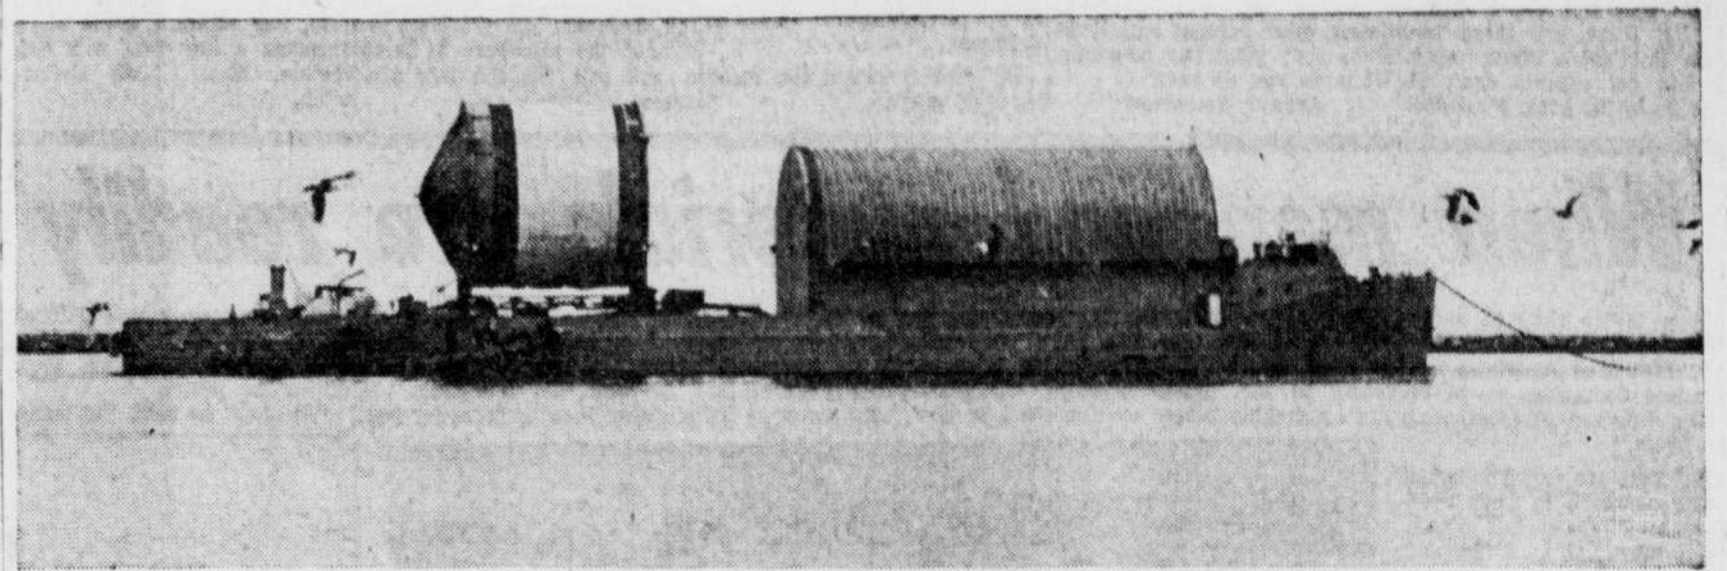

Some time before 1970 (it is hoped) a huge Saturn rocket will blast off at some 18,000 m.p.h. to boost an Apollo spacecraft toward a landing on the moon. But in the meantime, preparation of the Saturn includes snail-slow earth journeys at 10 m.p.h., as these photos show. They were taken during a tedious 110-mile trip of a Saturn test tank 60 miles by water from North American Aviation's Seal Beach, Calif., plant to Port Hueneme, thence 50 miles over Ventura County roads and California freeways to Rocketdyne's testing site at Santa Susana. The test tank is 47 feet long and 33 feet in diameter. The complete Saturn S-11 is 81½ feet long. Long before the trip, surveyors checked every foot of the route. Then an empty 120-foot transporter made the trip. Guidelines for difficult turns were spray-painted on the roadways. Most tranquil part of the journey was the eight-hour sea voyage aboard a huge barge supplied by the National Aeronautics and Space Agency.

Surveying crew checking feasibility of passage. Of special concern were the on and off ramps of the Ventura Freeway.

A worker spray-paints a guide line for the 120-foot, custom-built transporter carrying Saturn segment.

Homely barge served as transporter during the eight-hour, 60-mile sea voyage from Seal Beach to Port Hueneme.

Sooner or later all cars rust.

American Motors makes it later.

When our engineers told us that someday every car rusts, we said: make sure that for our cars... someday is rubbing elbows with never.

So they set out to give you the world's best rustproofing.

They started by putting a tough, galvanized shield on all the underside parts that rust gets to first.

Then they built a 300-foot-long tunnel (we call it our Tunnel of Love). Inside they put spray jets, scouring jets, drying jets and six king-sized bathtubs of special rustproofing compounds.

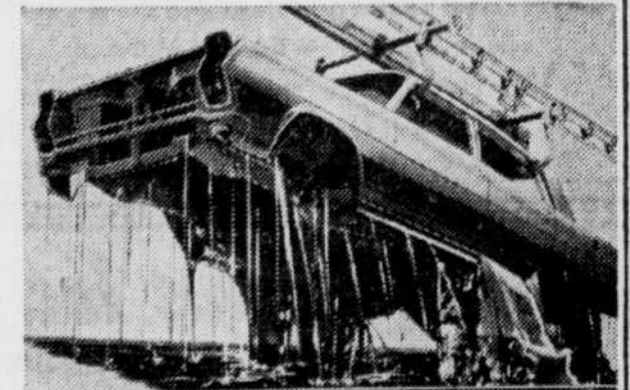

Every car we make takes its trip through the Tunnel of Love. When it comes out, every square inch of steel—every nook, cranny, edge and crevice—is married for life to a heavy rustproof coating.

At American Motors we put more than 15 pounds of rustproofing sealer on every car. Then we top it by baking on three coats of chip-resistant, salt-resistant, corrosion-proof paint.

Oh, sure—the Rockies will crumble, Gibraltar will tumble, your Rambler will rust—someday.

But every year we find new ways of moving that someday a year or two farther on.

WEAK OPENING IS PUNISHED

Sometimes the experts in the trials agreed with ordinary players. At four of the nine tables in the trials this hand was passed out when no one could find a good reason to open the bidding. At the other five tables East decided to make a weak two bid in third seat. At four of these five tables, every one passed. In all cases South opened his doubleton club and eventually the defense collected six tricks to set the spade contract one trick. At the last table the weak two bid really exploded in East's face.

In spite of his bad distribution Ivan Erdos, sitting North, chose to reopen with a takeout double. Kelsey Peterson, sitting South, bid three diamonds and West doubled.

We now quote from the official book of the match: "Peterson played the hand double dummy to make four. He won the spade lead with his king and led a club to dummy's king. He led a heart from dummy, winning Jordan's queen with the ace. A diamond was led and West's nine was covered by dummy's ten. A club return killed communications for the defense and Peterson was eventually able to ruff a heart in dummy to score 10 tricks."

It is worthy of note that no North player opened his hand in second seat. The hand holds 11 high card points in the form of two aces and a king and in addition there are three ten-spots. It is not a "book" opening bid but experts don't always go by the book. What does

Mr. and Mrs. George Clarkson accompanied their son, Mr. Stuart Clarkson and Mrs. Clarkson, Cowansville, to Montreal Jan. 16 to visit their father and grandfather, Mr. Harvey Johnson at the Royal Victoria Hospital. They found him progressing favourably following surgery.

When men and materials are readily available renovations cost less

"Now is the time to create winter jobs in our community," the chairman of the Winter Employment Committee stated recently. "Instead of hibernating like bears."

Residents are urged to adopt a new approach to home renovation and repairs this winter. "We must plan for a 12-month work year instead of the present 8-month employment pattern," he continued. "The economy of our cities is threatened each winter as lay-offs take place."

The local Winter Employment Committee offers some sound advice on how all citizens can create jobs this winter. By rescheduling such activities as decoration, repairs, the building of game rooms and extra bedrooms to the winter months, and by making major purchases during the winter, thousands of citizens usually laid off will be retained in employment.

"This campaign is not an appeal to contribute money," the chairman said. "This is an appeal to time projects already planned to the winter months." He said that if citizens are planning such projects for next spring or summer no additional expense would be involved by arranging to have them done during the winter.

"In fact," he said, "in many instances a saving will result."

The fact that tradesmen are usually busy in the summer could result in a better job being done during the winter months. This applies particularly to decoration and major alterations. Skilled tradesmen are readily available and contractors may even offer special rates in order to retain experienced staff for the spring and summer rush. Retail stores sometimes offer special prices in the off-season.

"Here is a real opportunity to help your community and at the same time improve your home, possibly at a saving," the Campaign chairman concluded.
