SAO terrorism sweeps Algiers

May Day disturbances

Riots hit Portugal

CP from Reuters-AP

LISBON — Portugal today counted one dead and more than 50 injured while scores were arrested in turbulent May Day clashes between security forces and anti-government demonstrators in the country's two largest cities.

Club - swinging police and troops crushed the outbursts, but scattered violence continued through the night.

Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar's dictatorship claimed the demonstrations — the most violent in years — were part of a Communist plan for a general uprising through the country. The government said the Communists had failed to muster support except in Lisbon, the capital, and Oporto, Portugal's second city 175 miles to the northeast.

The regime had banned May Day demonstrations after the appearance of anti-government leaflets signed Duarte, the pseudonym of Alvaro Cunhal, general secretary of the outlawed Portuguese Communist party. Unconfirmed reports said Cunhal recently slipped back into Portugal after two years in Moscow.

ALGIERS — A savage wave of Secret Army terrorism including the explosion of a booby-trapped car left at least 16 Moslems dead and upwards of 100 wounded today.

It was the bloodiest day in recent weeks in Algiers, and for a time it appeared that Moslem patience was about to break into bitter widespread vengeance against the Europeans.

One European man caught up in a Moslem crowd after the booby-trapped car exploded had his throat cut. But otherwise the well-disciplined Moslems, taken in hand by nationalist agents, kept calm.

One nationalist told a reporter, however, "this sort of thing can't go on eternally." At least eight Moslems were killed when the booby-trapped car exploded like a bomb beside a crowd of 1,500 Moslems waiting for work on the Algiers docks. About 100 were injured in the withering hail of metal. Many were so badly hurt they were not expected to live.

GUN DOWN MOSLEMS — Another eight Moslems were slain and 10 wounded in Secret Army terrorist machine-gun attacks.

The Moslem workers scattered in panic, then regrouped and started surging toward European motorists who abandoned their cars.

Slaying victim is identified

HULL, Que. (CP) — The victim of a "sadistic" slaying here Monday night was identified by police today as an 83-year-old Hull woman, Mrs. Bernadette Rochon.

Police continued round the clock questioning of potential witnesses and collecting evidence, but reported they have turned up no clues as to the identity of the slayer.

They believe the elderly woman was seized on a sidewalk in the business district of this city across the Ottawa River from the capital, dragged into an abandoned partially demolished house, beaten and strangled.

The body was identified Tuesday night by Aldora Belanger, a nephew with whom Mrs. Rochon had been staying.

HIGH HOPES — Four-year-old Freddy Hooey squats patiently atop a culvert in Sault Ste. Marie with high hopes of catching a trout with his hook and string attached to a small tree branch. When trout season officially opened, Freddy was among the first out to try for a big catch. (CP Wirephoto)

THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Macmillan offers tip for all candidates

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Candidates in Canada's general election may take a tip from British Prime Minister Macmillan's 40 years' experience in politics.

This is how they can expect to feel after the votes are counted on June 18.

"When you lose, you're apt to lose patience with democracy," he says. "When you win — ah, then you always knew the people were sound at heart."

Mr. Macmillan's strictly non-partisan comment was made Tuesday night in Toronto to newspaper publishers and editors at the annual dinner of The Canadian Press.

The economy and nuclear armaments were among the issues which emerged in a day's electioneering that saw only two national leaders in action — Lester Pearson of the Liberals in British Columbia and T. C. Douglas of the New Democratic Party in Alberta.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker was in Ottawa winding up the second day of talks, focusing on the European Common Market and its ramifications, with Mr. Macmillan.

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson was putting the finishing touches on party organizational work in Toronto.

Today's schedule has Mr. Diefenbaker flying to St. John's for a quick two-day Newfoundland tour; Mr. Pearson visiting Kelowna and Cranbrook in interior B.C. and Lethbridge and Calgary in Alberta; Mr. Douglas speaking in Selkirk, Man.; and Mr. Thompson doing party administrative work in Ottawa.

Justice Minister Fulton, speaking in New Westminster, B.C., Tuesday described the Progressive Conservative approach as that of "a government

Nuclear control under discussion

ATHENS (AP) — Foreign and defence ministers of the Atlantic Alliance gathered here today to appraise NATO nuclear policy, the Berlin situation and East-West relations.

Foremost among the problems facing the 15 members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was the delicate question of control of nuclear weapons, now essentially in the hands of the United States.

The chief point at issue is the question of conditions under which the nuclear weapons would be ordered into action and what veto the Allies would have over the firing orders.

Confidence in Reds 'shaken'

Resume test ban talks tomorrow

GENEVA — (Reuters) — Talks among Britain, the United States and Russia on a nuclear test ban treaty will resume Thursday, a British spokesman announced today.

Agreement on Thursday's meeting of the three-power nuclear subcommittee of the disarmament conference here was reached in informal consultations held by the member delegations.

Raps labor demands

MONTREAL (CP) — The president of the CPR said today labor is hurting its own chances for employment by claiming an undue share of earnings.

Speaking to the annual meeting, N. R. Crump, president and chairman of the world-wide organization, said the use of capital must be paid for in the same way as the use of labor.

"The determining factor is the amount of reward necessary to attract the investment. If the return on investment in any company or industry is inadequate to attract investment, employment opportunities must diminish."

He added: "If labor attempts to appropriate an undue proportion of the earnings of any industry, opportunities for it must be impaired."

After referring to the company's major labor dispute at present with the non-operating railway unions, who are demanding a rigid job freeze, he said freezing employment in any industry or occupation "completely frustrates adaptability."

SECURITY AFFECTED

"Rules or practices which inhibit the most productive use of human resources, whether in a managerial professional, skilled or unskilled labor, are bad for productivity and trade and, therefore, in the final analysis, for living standards and security."

Further, he said, flexibility is even more important in transportation and communications than elsewhere in the economy, as the costs of these services are basic factors in both domestic and foreign trade.

The company anticipates the total volume of business to be handled by passenger services in 1962 will increase over 1961 revenues, he said.

Amend bill

LONDON (AP) — The House of Lords Tuesday night wrote into the government's South Africa bill a pledge that Britain will grant asylum to political fugitives from the new republic. With this addition, the peers formally approved the bill, already passed through the Commons, which regulates relations between Britain and South Africa now that South Africa has left the Commonwealth.

Switches plea to guilty

Court martial resumes on charges of smuggling

OTTAWA (CP) — A general court martial resumes today to hear evidence leading to the military punishment — if any — of Cpl. Gerald Albert West, charged with smuggling by army personnel in Indochina.

The killed Black Watch corporal listened to 3½ hours of his trial Tuesday before suddenly switching his plea to one of guilty on two counts of service offences that carry a maximum penalty of dismissal with disgrace.

Open to the five-member court of officers are lesser penalties — under the military scale of punishments — that include less than two years in prison, plain dismissal, reduction in rank, detention, a fine, a "severe reprimand" and a "reprimand."

Cpl. West, about 33, served as a security guard in Vientiane and Saigon last year and is the first of five soldiers to stand trial in charges arising from alleged smuggling of gold and opium within Indochina.

French language debated

QUEBEC (CP) — A rare air of camaraderie descended upon the Quebec legislature Tuesday night as the assembly discussed a subject close to the heart of many members — preservation and improvement of the French language in Quebec.

Members from both sides applauded each others' remarks and there was no bantering or interruptions.

The question, said Cultural Affairs Minister Georges Lapalme, was not a matter of politics but of survival and of pride.

The language must be respected if Quebec was to retain its French aspect.

There must be a "renaissance" among teachers of the language, he said.

IS LONG WORK

"It is a long-term work. It is not possible to transform the rubbish of our language from one day to the next. Our point of departure must be the student and the teacher."

Two Union Nationale opposition members spoke in similar terms and one, Maurice Bellemare (UN-Champlain) said he was "proud" of the attitude Mr. Lapalme had taken.

Mr. Bellemare said the French language must not be commercialized. English words like "snack bar" and "hot dog" should be banished from French restaurants.

In a restrained mood, the assembly also considered the situation of French-speaking minorities outside the province.

Jean-Jacques Bertrand, (UN — Missisquoi) said that in any remaking of the constitution of Canada, consideration must be given to the French-speaking minorities.

Reporters astounded

Argentine minister claims revolt is on

BUENOS AIRES — (Reuters) — Argentina's new interior minister, Jorge Walter Perkins, astounded reporters Tuesday night by telling them "a revolution is under way."

Perkins said: "When a president is in prison and elections are scrapped there is a revolution under way."

"It is an illusion to believe we live within the law. This is a revolution. The country suffers a big tragedy. Let us see how we shall get out of it."

Former President Arturo Frondizi, who was forcibly replaced by President Jose Maria

Guido to prevent elected Peronist candidates from assuming office, was last reported living in exile on an island.

Perkins, former parliament member of the leading opposition group, the People's Radical Party, summoned reporters to a conference to inform them of an obvious fact — that May Day here was "extraordinarily tranquil."

MEETINGS BANNED

With workers' meetings banned and movies, stories and offices shuttered, Tuesday was the dullest May Day Buenos Aires has seen in many years.

Elected Peronists — including several governors and provincial representatives — were prevented from taking office Tuesday, the day originally set for the opening session of state legislatures.

Andres Framini, the Peronist who was prevented from taking office as governor of Buenos Aires province handed reporters a 20,000-word address which he had intended to make at the opening of the provincial legislature.

The statement said the years under exiled dictator Juan Peron, now in Spain, were "10 years of happiness and peace... in blatant contrast to the anarchy and violence into which the country has been plunged."

Duffers and experts alike will soon be out on the fairways of the Eastern Townships many golf courses, taking up again that old battle against par.

And there are indeed who, at one time or another, are not troubled by a slice, or a hook or shaky putting or downhill lies or any of the thousand and one other afflictions golfers are heir to. To help iron out some of these wrinkles and make golfing this year even more pleasant than last, The Record presents Tee Time on the sports pages. Written by well-known American pro, Bob Rosburg, the series begins today on Page 10.

WAGE INCREASE ENDS DRUMMONDVILLE STRIKE

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. — (CP) — A 44-day strike that involved 1,800 employees of Canadian Celanese Limited here was settled Tuesday night after the textile workers voted to accept an 11-cent hourly wage increase spread over a two-year contract.

A six-cent increase is to take effect at signing, and an additional five-cent boost in the second year of the contract.

Employees now working 55 hours a week are to have their work week reduced to 50 hours, and those working 50 hours to 45 hours.

Compensation of five cents an hour will be paid to offset the loss in take-home pay by the reduction in the work week.

In addition, some 1,000 workers will receive an additional salary adjustment of between four and eight cents. The workers, members of the United Textile Workers of America (CLC), walked out March 17 to back demands for higher pay and other benefits.

Macmillan winds up busy week

Explains importance of Europe; heads into courtesy call round

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Macmillan headed into a flurry of courtesy calls and civic honors today after explaining to Canadians that Britain cannot ignore the prospects offered by closer ties to continental Europe.

The British leader was winding up a busy week in which he conferred with President Kennedy in Washington and Prime Minister Diefenbaker in Ottawa. He also addressed United States newspaper publishers and editors in New York and their Canadian counterparts in Canada.

After calling on Ontario's Lieutenant-Governor, J. Keiller Mackay, Mr. Macmillan was scheduled to receive the freedom of Toronto and a silver cigar box at a city hall ceremony. A luncheon reception by the Ontario government was listed as his last official function before leaving by air for London at 7:30 p.m. EDT.

In a televised speech Tuesday night at the annual dinner of the Canadian Press, Mr. Macmillan emphasized the importance and difficulty of Britain's pending decision to join or remain outside the six-nation European Economic Community.

A communique issued following three formal conferences with Mr. Diefenbaker in Ottawa said Mr. Macmillan had reaffirmed his government's determination to safeguard essential Commonwealth interests in negotiations aimed at British entry into the Common Market.

He suggested that Britain cannot afford to "stand altogether aside" from the movement for European unity.

"Every time we have tried to escape from the grip of Europe we have been drawn back," he said. "If things go wrong in Europe, we are immediately involved — and so, indeed are you."

Today's chuckle

Maybe we don't need to change the work week as much as some of the weak work.

JACOBY On Bridge

ELIMINATION WILL NET SMALL WILL

North and South have a difficult par. They must first bid the spade slam and then they have to make it.

An elimination play is indicated so North draws trumps and plays out all the clubs and diamonds.

Then he must attack the heart suit and there are two plays better than the simple finesse. One is to lead the four of hearts from dummy and let it ride. If East wins the trick he will end played, but West will surely play a high enough heart to keep the lead and play a second heart.

The best percentage play is to cash his ace of hearts, go to dummy, lead a second heart, and rise with his queen.

This play works if West holds the king, or in the situation as it appears here. East will take the queen with the king, but will have to lead a club or a

Attempt to end strike

Union, contractors meeting scheduled

The Eastern Townships Builders' Association and the Confederation of National Trade Unions were scheduled to meet today at 2 p.m. in an attempt to put an end to the 20-day-old Township-wide construction strike.

The meeting is for union members to vote on new proposals made by the Builders Association.

"We are calling our members together to present them the offer made to us by the association and our union representatives believe the offer will be accepted," Arthur Lapointe, strike director, said this morning.

Striking construction workers disobeyed strike director Arthur Lapointe Tuesday afternoon in Sherbrooke and prevented a man from pouring cement on Union Street in the city.

Fernand Lafleur, victim of the incident, said this morning that a group of about 10 strikers prevented a truck from unloading its cargo of cement on his property and forced the driver of the truck to unload his cement in a vacant lot nearby.

Arthur Lapointe, strike director, had issued orders for the strikers to return to their headquarters on Gordon Street and leave Mr. Lafleur alone.

"The men just made believe that they didn't hear him and continued to unload the cement on the vacant lot," Mr. Lafleur said this morning.

Meanwhile in Magog, at a meeting of all the contractors of Stanstead county it was decided by them that they would disregard the construction strike and return men to their jobs next week.

Gerard Longpre, local contractor made the announcement after the meeting held in the basement of the Don Bosco Church in Magog.

In Windsor, about 15 striking construction workers abandoned the strike for an afternoon Tuesday and helped an old man pour cement.

Town police said this morning that they had been called to the scene but were surprised when they found the men helping instead of destroying the cement forms.

French-language newspaper "L'Evenement", quoting Mayor Armand Nadeau as saying that Howardene buildings would be turned into concert halls.

The chamber sent a letter to the mayor and aldermen asking when the final decision to turn the Howardene buildings into a concert hall had been made, who made the decision, and did the city council approve it.

Mayor Armand Nadeau said Monday night at the city council meeting he was very dissatisfied with the letter received from the chamber.

The mayor said he was asked by the city to turn the Howardene buildings into concert halls, "and I told them that was a big possibility that it would be."

J. O. Tremblay submitted a letter to the city recently saying he had received a license to operate a flying school and to give pleasure air rides at the city's airport when it opens.

Mayor Nadeau said Mr. Tremblay's request to operate at the airport will be one of the first ones to be studied by council when the airport is opened.

Mr. Tremblay told the city he received his licenses from the air transport board in Ottawa to operate a flying school at the airport and to give special air rides to the public.

In a vote taken by city council members the city agreed to pay Henry Grime, of 991 Champlain Street, $50 for damages caused by water after a water-main broke flooding his home.

The city attorney suggested that the city pay 50 per cent of the damages but seven of the nine aldermen present at the council meeting agreed that the city should pay for all the damage because if their water-main didn't break there wouldn't have been any damages.

The suspect broke down the door to the company apparently with the intention of making it look like striking truck drivers did it," police said.

Jacques Lauzon, manager of the company said that the man did not steal anything but destroyed company property. Police are still holding the man this morning.

Police training classes told:

Strong-armed tactics out in questioning of suspects

Police departments across the country are dropping their strong-armed questioning of suspects in favor of "more orderly and better tactics", Sgt. Maurice Poitras, RCMP officer in charge of narcotics for the Island of Montreal, said.

Sgt. Poitras and James C. Mee, special FBI resident agent at Burlington, Vt., were speakers on the second day of the advanced in-service police training school held at the Sherbrooke Municipal Library and sponsored by the city police department.

Object of the school is to offer expert knowledge in police techniques to police chiefs, sergeants, constables and detectives of the Eastern Townships.

Present for Tuesday's session of the five-day school were police from over 15 Township municipalities, and Newport City, Vt.

Towns represented were Sherbrooke, Thetford Mines, Waterloo, Drummondville, Magog, Asbestos, Windsor, Cookshire, Waterloo, North Hatley, Coaticook, East Angus, Rock Island, Victoriaville, Lennoxville and Brompton.

The two topics discussed by both men were interviews with subjects and witnesses and the patrol function.

"Police officers are becoming professionals, gone are the days where a suspect used to be banged around until he said what was wanted of him," Sgt. Poitras said.

"Departments all over the country are now resorting to more orderly and better tactics," he added.

He outlined a list of simple rules which he said must be used in the questioning of suspects and witnesses.

Many of his rules touched on points given by Frank J. Nowlan, special FBI agent, who addressed the policemen on Monday, first day of the week-long course.

"Don't and never use, sarcasm, ridicule, intimidation, or harshness when questioning him and above all, if you promise him something, make it good," he noted.

"Remember," he said, "policemen are becoming professionals so don't prejudice a suspect, just ask your questions and make your report."

Addressing the patrolmen present, Mr. Mee, the FBI man noted that "police patrolling is one of the most important of police functions."

"A good patrolman is an alert one and his efficiency reflects back on his department," he said.

"There are two kinds of patrolling, conspicuous and inconspicuous," he said.

Conspicuous patrolling may be done by a police constable walking the beat in full police dress, or by a police patrol car clearly marked as such," he added.

"Purpose of the conspicuous patrol is to assure the public that the police are on the job," he said.

"Its chief function is not to detect or prevent crime but to satisfy the critical citizen and to protect the nervous one," he noted.

"Purpose of the inconspicuous patrol, performed by plain clothed police officers in unmarked cars is to curtail crime," he said.

"In many mid-western states plainclothed officers are even used on traffic duty," Mr. Mee said.

"This has proved very successful in the reducing of the highway death toll and in stopping the potential highway killers before they have a chance to strike," he added.

On the program for Wednesday, the third day of the school are talks on public relations, police relations with juveniles, testifying in court, and document examination.

Joseph A. McGraw, another special FBI agent, Armand Genest, police captain with the Sherbrooke Police Department, Pierre E. Beaudry, municipal judge, and a special RCMP representative will deliver the talks.

Mental cases still in city's jail

A spokesman for the Quebec Department of Health said yesterday he would "certainly find out why nothing has been done" about five mentally-deficient men who have been lodged in the Sherbrooke jail for the last five years.

It is to be hoped he finds out soon. There appears to have been a certain amount of confusion among those concerned regarding the matter.

When the plight of the five men was revealed more than a month ago, Quebec's Deputy Attorney General Cantin said every effort was being made to find a place for the men. He admitted that the jail was certainly not the place for them.

Since then, according to the Health Department spokesman, orders have been forwarded to jail authorities in Sherbrooke to move the men. The source could not remember, however, where they were to be moved to.

A check with St. Francis District sheriff Donat Jacques was singularly unhelpful. At first he said no letter had been received from the Health Department concerning the men, and that the men had not been moved. Later, he reiterated that the men had not been moved, but said he could not say whether or not he had received a letter from the Health Department because "this was a private matter."

In reality, the matter is one of public concern, and should be recognized as such by those in authority. Health Department officials and the local sheriff should be making every attempt to bridge what is apparently a major gap between them.

Women enter the seat belt campaign

The campaign for greater use of seat belts in automobiles has been conducted with vigor by numbers of safety groups in the past few years, and now there are indications of a new direction to the drive.

The Canadian Highway Safety Council has announced that more than 700,000 members of the National Council of Women of Canada will participate this month in a Canada-wide women's campaign for seat belts.

Included in kits that will be distributed to the women is a message from Madam Georges Vanier, wife of Canada's Governor-General.

The letter says:

"It is now well established that the automobile seat belt is a major safety factor in Canadian motor traffic. Ordinary common sense dictates that seat belts should be installed in our cars. With them, the appalling number of serious injuries resulting from highway accidents can be significantly reduced; without the risk of grievous harm to those we love they can but increase.

"In recent years the powerful influence of women has been brought to bear on furthering safety in the home with great success. A similar effort can lead to the saving of life and happiness on the highways. If every woman in Canada would insist on the use of seat belts in cars, many tragedies would certainly be avoided."

The participation of the fairer sex in the safety belt campaign may well be the deciding factor in its success. Certainly, husbands who become targets for their wives' urgings will succumb. They won't have much choice.

And this, of course, is all to the good. Now, if only the wives of car manufacturers would work on their husbands' businesses as well as their personal cars, we would shortly have seat belts on all automobiles as standard equipment.

Coordination of historical groups

The proposal to form a committee to coordinate efforts to place markers at historical sites could be an important step towards a broader cooperation among societies gathering material on the past and the people of the Eastern Townships.

The committee project was approved in principle at a meeting Monday in Sherbrooke by delegates of historical societies from various regions of the Townships. The committee would act as a go-between between the Quebec Commission on Historical Sites and Monuments and the societies.

Another significant fact of the meeting is that representatives from both French and English-speaking groups met to discuss their common interests.

The committee plan will not be decided upon until another meeting on May 28. At that time, delegates will report on the views of the executive committees of their respective societies.

If the proposal is adopted, the new coordinating body could serve as the nucleus for a general council of E.T. societies in which the individual group could be represented while retaining its special local autonomy.

This general council could also act as a clearinghouse for historical information and, hence, be a valuable aid in preparing overall historical material on the Townships.

Shocked by US testing resumption

Editor:
Surely the world is shocked by the U.S. resuming nuclear testing even before the amendment by eight neutral nations was considered thoroughly. Their proposal that inspectors from neutral nations only be employed should have won mutual acceptance by East and West if it had been debated adequately. The U.S. was over-anxious to get testing. It is exceedingly deplorable and frustrating after all the complaining about the danger off fall-out from Russia's recent testing.

The finger of condemnation points to the United States as the aggressor, although they try to excuse themselves by saying Russia broke the moratorium on testing, while Russia insists (with reason) that the West broke it by allowing France to test.
The U.S. is not so innocent as it would like to appear. The world knows—Japan especially—that the U.S. dropped two atomic bombs which might have been avoided.

Fighting men of France

Can French army turn from past of defeats to place in NATO?

By TOM A. CULLEN

PARIS — (NEA) — For the past four years France has lived in fear of a military push. Will the French Army remain loyal to President de Gaulle? Or will it revolt and attempt to overthrow the Fifth Republic? These are the big, black question marks that have hung over France since de Gaulle returned to power in 1958.

By "army" was meant, more often than not, those generals and colonels who were determined to keep Algeria French, and who would stop at nothing to realize this goal.

Now that a cease-fire in Algeria has been reached, the military threat has been removed. But the French Army continues to dominate political thinking.

The questions now asked are: Can de Gaulle turn the French Army from its morbid preoccupation with past defeats to face its future in Europe? Can he convert an army which was created to fight brush wars into a modern army equipped with nuclear weapons and prepared to fulfill its NATO obligations?

Before these questions can be answered some understanding of the fever crisis through which the French Army has just passed is necessary. That crisis came to a head on March 23, four days after the Algerian cease-fire took effect.

On that day, four regimental commanders refused to allow their troops to be used to put down OAS violence in the Babel-Oued quarter of Algiers. The commanders were hastily replaced by more trustworthy officers.

But it was still touch and go as to what the other commanding officers would do. After all, most of them had been turning a blind eye to the OAS murders.

But on March 23 the OAS made the fatal mistake of ambushing a truckload of French soldiers and killing six of them. From that moment on the army's task became clear: it was to stamp out the OAS insurrection as quickly as possible, even though it might involve firing on Frenchmen. Three days later, French soldiers did just that.

But it was a close thing. People here still shudder to think what would have happened — how many more officers would have refused to obey orders? — had not the OAS shot the soldiers.

In discussing the French Army in Algeria, a clear distinction must be made between the conscripts and the career soldiers. Two-thirds of the 400,000 soldiers in Algeria are draftees serving their 28-month tour of duty.

They are untainted by the sickness of the professionals. Like draftees everywhere, they are bored with their job, eager to return to civilian life. They feel no special attachment for Algeria nor for its "black feet," as the European settlers are called. Consequently, they feel none of the anguish of betrayal which the career soldiers are said to experience at the thought of an independent Algeria.

It was the draftees who thwarted the April 22, 1961, putsch of generals Salan, Zeller, Jouhand and Challe. They remained stubbornly loyal to de Gaulle and refused to join the insurgents. The career soldiers, or "centurions," are a different matter. These are the elite of the French Army. Many of them, particularly the officers, have been away from France so long that they have lost touch with their countrymen.

I discussed their psychology with a French general, now retired, who started his career by serving under the famed Marshal Lyautey in North Africa during the first quarter of this century. He retains a limp as a result of an early battle. Today, General X dines regularly at the Cercle Militaire, where he meets other career officers, many of them fresh from Algeria. Here is his explanation of their present bitter mood:

"For the past 16 years France has been almost continuously at war. Her armies have fought in Indochina, Korea, Egypt, and now Algeria—and they have known mostly defeat. The road they have traveled is studded by Dien Bien Phu.

"The seven-year Algerian war has been by far the most terrible ordeal of all, for it has added the prospect of Frenchman fighting Frenchman to the other horrors of irregular warfare. Thus it has created a crisis of conscience which each soldier, non-com and officer must resolve."

The general explained that crises of conscience were nothing new. Charles de Gaulle precipitated the first in June, 1940, when from his London exile he called upon French officers to mutiny against the aged Marshal Pétain.

"Things have never been the same since," he added. "Today when a high-ranking officer wishes to disobey an order he has only to cite de Gaulle's precedent. Orders are no longer orders. They are a basis for discussion."

Today's career officers in Algeria are filled with disgust and a sense of betrayal. Many of them are veterans of the Indochina war, and after the fall of Dien Bien Phu they vowed that never again would they allow politicians in Paris to tie their hands. Never again would they send their troops into battle without the proper training and equipment.

"In Indochina, and again in Algeria, the French Army has found itself up against an enemy fighting a total war by revolutionary methods. And in time we learned to fight fire with fire. This explains why psychological warfare now holds such an important place with us."

"The French Army in Algeria was given immense power. It took over the civilian administration. In addition to their military task, officers had to arrange for a town's food supply, organize polling booths, administer justice and a hundred other details.

"In turn the Moslem population, particularly in the villages, learned to have confidence in these officers. That is why they feel so bitter today. Rightly or wrongly, the army feels that it has been made to betray these people for whom it worked."

What will happen to the career soldiers who are to be gradually withdrawn as soon as the referendum on Algerian independence is held? The general shrugged his shoulders.

"Many of them fear the army of the future. They are afraid that there will be no place for them in a pushbutton army of skilled technicians. It will be a long time before they are cured of their present sickness."

"Meanwhile, France will just have to be patient."

Matter of Fact

If you find it difficult to cut out a dress pattern accurately, one cause of trouble might be your scissors. Inaccurate cutting often results when scissors are too heavy and long. Shears should be seven to nine inches long, scissors four to five inches. They should make slick cuts to the very tip and be of forged rather than cast steel.

Report from

LATIN AMERICA

By COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Latin American countries are much like young officers, the graying Uruguayan navy captain said with a smile. They do not earn enough to pay for all their wants. There is no point in making them a loan because they would not be able to repay it.

That, he suggested, is a flaw in the thinking behind President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress.

What Latin America needs most are not loans but rather markets for products, for the metals and foods and other goods it has in such abundance — and stable prices.

That idea is not new. In fact, it is embodied in the Charter of Punta del Este, where the goals of the Alliance for Progress were spelled out last August.

But, because the problem of commodity price stabilization is so complex and difficult of solution, most of the emphasis in the Alliance seems to be directed toward the $10 billion a year in loans and grants that the United States pledged Latin America over the next decade.

NO SUBSTITUTE
Nevertheless, as at the meeting of the board of governors of the Inter-American Development Bank in Buenos Aires, voices are raised to point out that the Alliance can be no substitute for profitable trade.

Colombia's finance minister, Jorge Mejia Palacio, for example, declared in the Argentine capital that, until world coffee prices are stabilized, "the help that is given us, however generous it may be, will not be blood to vitalize our economies . . . but simply tranquilizers to avoid a total collapse."

Mejia's attempt to dramatize Latin America's plight reportedly had an unfavorable reaction on the U.S. delegates. This is surprising.

While most top-ranking U.S. government spokesmen praise the Alliance, President Kennedy's plan to help Latin America help itself, many less well-known U.S. experts appear more realistic.

Take Henry Brodie, director of the Office of International Resources, Bureau of Economic Affairs, Department of State, for example. In a recent speech, Brodie pointed out that U.S. interest in Latin America's commodity problems "has been greatly intensified under the Alliance for Progress."

He recalled President Kennedy's own statement to Latin American ambassadors on the Alliance for Progress:

"The United States is ready," the President said, "to cooperate in serious case-by-case examinations of commodity market problems. Frequent violent changes in commodity prices seriously injure the economies of many

Have agreed on terms

CJM to sign contract on May 10 with Asbestos Workers' Unions

ASBESTOS — The management of the Canadian Johns-Manville Company Limited here and two unions will sign a new three-year labor contract May 10, it was learned recently.

Johns-Manville officials will sign the contract with the National Syndicate of Asbestos Workers and the National Federation of Mining Industry Employees. The contract will be effective from February 1, 1962 to January 31, 1965.

The new collective agreement comprises a compulsory check-off, and a shift differential in 1962, six cents in 1963 and ten cents in 1964. During 1963, seven cents afternoon shift, and 11 cents night shift. In 1964, eight cents afternoon shift and 12 cents night shift.

The agreement also allows for a three-day funeral leave.

The agreement stipulates that St. Jean Baptiste Day and Dominion Day will be celebrated on Monday in 1962.

Holiday pay will be given for scheduled employees for the four to 12 shift before New Year's and Christmas Day, providing production works during this 24-hour period. The same principle is to apply to the 12 employees. The contract will be effective from February 1, 1962 to January 31, 1965.

Mine divisions wages will be increased by 3 1/2 per cent in 1962 with a base rate of $1.98 and a top rate of $2.55. In 1963 there will be a 2 1/2 per cent increase with a base rate of $2.03 and a top rate of $2.61. In 1964 there will be a 3 per cent increase with a base rate of $2.09 and a top rate of $2.69. The contract says the individual wage increases for the Asbestos Factory over the next three years will range between 15 and 18 cents.

COOKSHIRE —

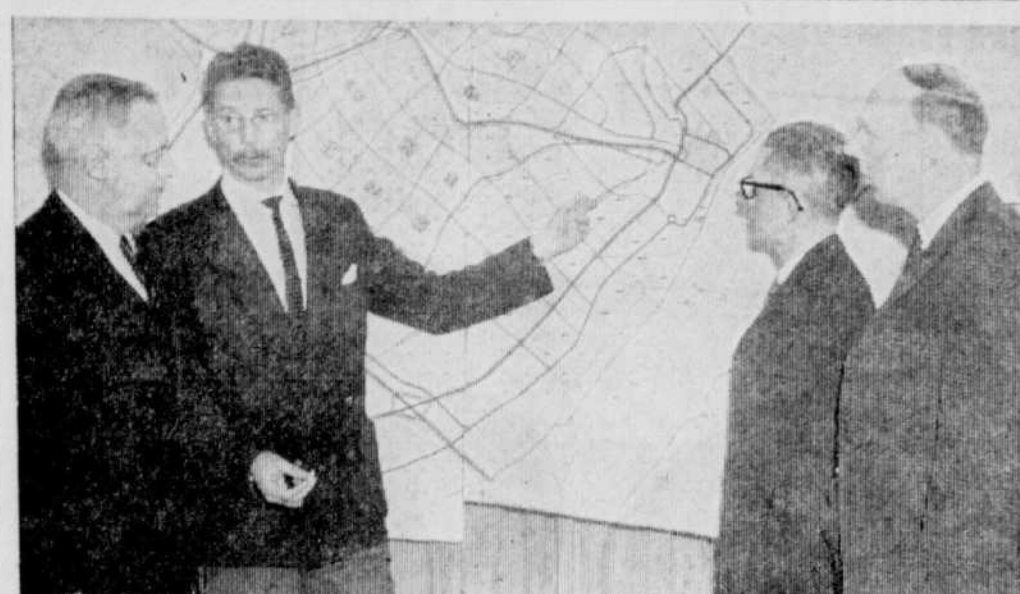

The largest congregation for many years attended the Easter morning service at St. Peter's Anglican Church, when the celebrant at the Holy Eucharist was Rev. Herbert Brandwood, of Deep River, Ont. Others taking part in the service were, Rev. L. P. Durrett, pastor; Anthony Clayton, epistoller; Andre Jacques, crucifier; Robert Matthews, and Richard Durrett, acolytes. The choir rendered the anthem and led in the singing of the Easter hymns, with Mrs. Gill at the organ. The altar was decorated with Easter lilies. Spring flowers in the chancel were given in memory of Fred and Agnes Hurd, and Charles and Clara Baker.

MOSLEM PATIENCE

doned their vehicles and tied.

Steel-helmeted troops, backed by armored cars, hurried to Government Square below the Casbah, fearing a mass invasion by its 80,000 Moslems bent on a murder rampage.

When police arrived at the scene, Moslem nationalist leaders already were on hand, trying to calm the excited crowd and to organize first aid measures.

The Moslem leaders forbade any violent retaliation and sent the injured by car to the Casbah.

PRESS TERROR REIGN

At about the time of the dock area explosion, the Secret Army Organization pressed its terror campaign by slaying four Moslems and wounding four more in the centre of Algiers.

The Secret Army, which opposes Moslem rule in an independent Algeria, has been desperately attempting to provoke the Moslems into attacks on the Europeans, in the hope that the French army would side with the Europeans. Thus, the cease-fire agreements signed March 18 would be compromised or broken and Algeria's evolution toward independence would be slowed or halted.

In the eastern port of Bone, riot police stopped hundreds of Moslems—armed with hatchets, iron bars and pieces of wood—from marching on a European resort Tuesday after rumors spread that the Secret Army was planning to kidnap Moslem children.

The toll throughout Algeria Tuesday was 10 persons killed and 48 wounded in acts of violence. Seven of the dead and 47 of the wounded were Moslems.

In an anti-Secret Army move, seven battalions of troops—about 5,000 men—were converging on the western port city of Oran, a hotbed of European extremism.

Meanwhile, a correspondent for the London Financial Times portrayed the "economic crisis" in Algeria as growing steadily more acute.

The newspaper said some hundreds—if not thousands—of Moslems in the towns will need emergency arrangements for feeding if they are to be kept from starving.

MELBOURNE —

President Pierre Alain of Quebec division of CASA will award new Dow Brewery Trophy to top zone

The most progressive ski zone of Quebec division of Canadian Amateur Ski Association will be honoured by award of a new "Zone of the Year" trophy, Pierre Alain, division president, announced today.

Presentation of the trophy, donated by Dow Brewery, will be made at the division's provincial convention May 5 and 6 in Drummondville.

The zone deemed most progressive will be judged on the following points: Its financial standing and ability to meet commitments; activities achievements; meeting attendance and general improvements effected during the season.

There are seven zones in the Quebec division: Gatineau, Laurentian, Eastern Townships, St. Lawrence Valley, Mont Notre Dame, Saguenay and St. Maurice Valley.

Judges for the award will be made up of a committee of the division's past president, its present president and the secretary-treasurer. Mr. Alain said the trophy is perpetual and is to be challenged for every season. No zone can win it permanently.

"The main purpose of this trophy is to encourage the zones to improve the basis of their operations and urge them to become more active," said Mr. Alain.

Montreal Olympics set for tonight's big battle

Oil Kings are seeking help but one thing certain they won't look for new goalie, Red Wings win 4-2

GUELPH, Ont. (CP)—Coach Buster Brashaw of Edmonton Oil Kings is looking for outside help after his club's second straight Memorial Cup final loss, but it's a cinch he won't replace his goaltender.

But for Harrison Gray's performance in Edmonton nets Tuesday night, Oil Kings might well have been cowed beyond resurrection.

Hamilton Red Wings fired 40 shots at the young goalie and he foiled them 36 times as Wings took a 4-2 victory and a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Brashaw said some changes will be made. He is expected to go after Marc Dufour of Brandon Wheat Kings, the club Edmonton defeated to make Canada's junior hockey final. Brashaw said Dufour will join Oil Kings only if he is in top shape.

Hamilton coach Eddie Bush also hinted at changes. It's expected Jack Wildfong, who played sparingly in the first game, won 5-2 by Red Wings, will be used in the third game here tonight.

BUSH SCEPTICAL

Bush can hardly be as worried as Brashaw, but the Hamilton coach sounded sceptical after the game.

"We knew we were in a hockey game, but we can't seem to score often enough. That Edmonton goalie either has horseshoes or is a good goalie."

Oil Kings were in the game until 15:20 of the third period when Hamilton's Lowell MacDonald of Thorburn, N.S., scored his fourth goal of the series. That made the score 4-2.

Pit Martin, John Goffton and Howie Menard got other Hamilton goals. John Lasysen and Norm Beaudin scored for Edmonton.

Referee Gord Kerr of Winnipeg handed out 17 minor penalties, nine to Edmonton. Oil Kings' inability to capitalize when Red Wings were short-handed kept them from making it a closer game.

Kerr also gave a 10-minute misconduct to Wayne Rivers of Hamilton, who protested too vigorously when the referee called back a goal scored into an empty net by MacDonald with 30 seconds left in the game. Rivers was already in the penalty box serving a minor sentence.

The goal was nullified because Martin had been called for a penalty before it was scored.

Tee Time with BOB ROSBURG

1--- Thinking time

Golf is often tritely called a thinking man's game, which it certainly is.

To play well, you must think your way around and out of trouble. There's a time for burdening your brain—and a time for putting all thought out of your mind in favor of intense concentration. Thinking at the wrong time can be disastrous.

"Golfer becomes automaton" — trupt a swing.

Three-man two-hitter gives Yanks sixth straight win and 1½ game lead, Vic Wertz delivers again

There was a rare bid for a two-man no-hitter in the American League Tuesday night. New York's front-running Yankees didn't quite pull off that spectacular stunt, but they did overwhelm Chicago White Sox 6-1 and strengthened their hold on first place.

Bill Stafford and Roland Sheldon staged the drama, holding the White Sox without a hit for eight innings. After the spell was broken when Sheldon was nicked for a run in the ninth, Marshall Bridges put on a workmanlike flourish by quelling the mild Chicago threat.

The three-man two-hitter resulted in the Yankees' sixth straight victory and stretched their Al lead to 1½ games. Chicago fell into third, 21 percentage points behind Detroit Tigers.

Vic Wertz delivered for the fourth straight time as a pinch hitter and gave Detroit a 3-2 10-inning decision over Kansas City Athletics. Washington Senators ended a 13-game losing string, nipping Boston Red Sox 2-1 on Pete Burnside's four-hit pitching. Leon Wagner took over as the majors' hottest home run hitter with eight as Los Angeles Angels topped Cleveland Indians 8-6. And Camilo Pascual's pitching and hitting led Minnesota Twins over Baltimore Orioles 8-3.

FOX BREAKS SPELL

Stafford turned away the White Sox without a semblance of a hit through five innings, then retired with a sore hip. Sheldon kept the string going until Nellie Fox opened the last of the ninth with a sharp single up the middle. Joe Cunningham drew a walk and Floyd Robinson rapped a double to right, chasing in the lone Chicago run and bringing in the hard-throwing Bridges from the bullpen.

Bridges put away the first two men he faced, walked Sammy Esposito, and got Sherm Lollar on a foul pop for the final out.

Jofre, Marquez meet Friday in title match

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Champion Eder Jofre and Herman Marquez, who meet here Friday for the world bantamweight boxing title, moved to the current high points of their careers with campaigns in their own backyards and the south-west border states.

Jofre, the 26-year-old vegetarian from Brazil, won the title and 41 of his 48 fights despite leaving South America only twice—and both of those trips were to Los Angeles.

Marquez, who's never even had a TV date, got his start in the Stockton-San Francisco area, then made the rounds of Texas, Arizona, California and the Mexican border towns compiling most of his 20-7-1 mark.

Jofre didn't fight a reigning champion for his crown—he won it a piece at a time in a series of elimination bouts that dragged on for more than a year.

Coach Filion will be missing one player tonight, Coach Kromm is still leary about Montreal club TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Trail Smoke Eaters just sat around Tuesday.

It was the first day in a month that they hadn't practised or played in the Allan Cup playoffs.

The eastern champion Montreal Olympics, however, spent an hour on skates in search of the pace they hope will produce victory in tonight's fourth game of the best-of-seven final series for the Canadian senior hockey title. Trail leads the set 2-1.

Smokies can take the crown by winning tonight and Friday. One or more victories by Montreal would push the series to games Saturday and next Monday.

Only one lineup change is in prospect tonight, involving a replacement for Montreal forward George James. He suffered shoulder and back injuries and face bruises in the third game Monday in a collision with Trail's Russ Kowalchuk.

EARN REST

Coach Bobby Kromm of Trail said his club had earned its layoff.

"We have been going hard all year. The boys have been on the ice every day for the last month. The rest might just be what the doctor ordered."

Kromm sizes up the Olympics in these words: "A very good goalie and a strong defence." He thinks, he said Tuesday, Montreal Olympics are capable of better hockey than they've been playing.

"I think there are a lot more games to be played yet," Kromm said in reviewing trail's 4-2 victory over Olympics Monday night in the third game of the best-of-seven series.

With his club due to go against Olympics again tonight, Kromm said:

"From here on it's going to be a tough one. The Olympics have a very good goalie and a strong defence. They know what to do with the puck and are fast to clear it out of their own zone."

As for Montreal coach Maurice Filion he said simply that Olympics just didn't get in close enough before firing and his boys just couldn't seem to get the puck in the net.

Both elements—with occasional costly lapses—have stood up well in the series. Netminder Andre Binette has often been brilliant. But the offensive combinations haven't produced.

Only two players, Roger Picard and Connie Mendala, from the 1961 Italian national team, have scored two goals in the series. Three other players have singles.

Giants extend winning streak to seven games with Billy O'Dell stopping Pirates 4-2, Dodgers win Sensational? Phenomenal? Spectacular?

Take your pick to describe the pitching job being turned in by San Francisco Giants' mound staff.

Billy O'Dell added to the amazing record when he beat Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2 Tuesday night and ran the National League leaders' winning streak to seven games. He was the fifth Giant hurler in succession to go the distance.

In those five games against Juan Marichal, Jack Sanford, Billy Pierce, Gaylord Perry and O'Dell, opposing Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh batters have been able to score only five runs and the Giants' earned run average is an astonishing 1.13.

Al Dark's workmen now have completed 10 of their 21 starts this season. At the same time not one opposing pitcher has managed to last nine innings against a Giants' attack that has made timely hitting its main weapon.

At Los Angeles, Doug Camilli's run-producing single in the last of the 16th gave the Dodgers a 6-5 decision over Chicago. St. Louis Cardinals bopped Houston Cubs 6-4 and Cincinnati Reds walloped New York Mets 8-2. Milwaukee Braves and Philadelphia Phillies were idle because of cold and wet grounds.

O'DELL UNBEATEN

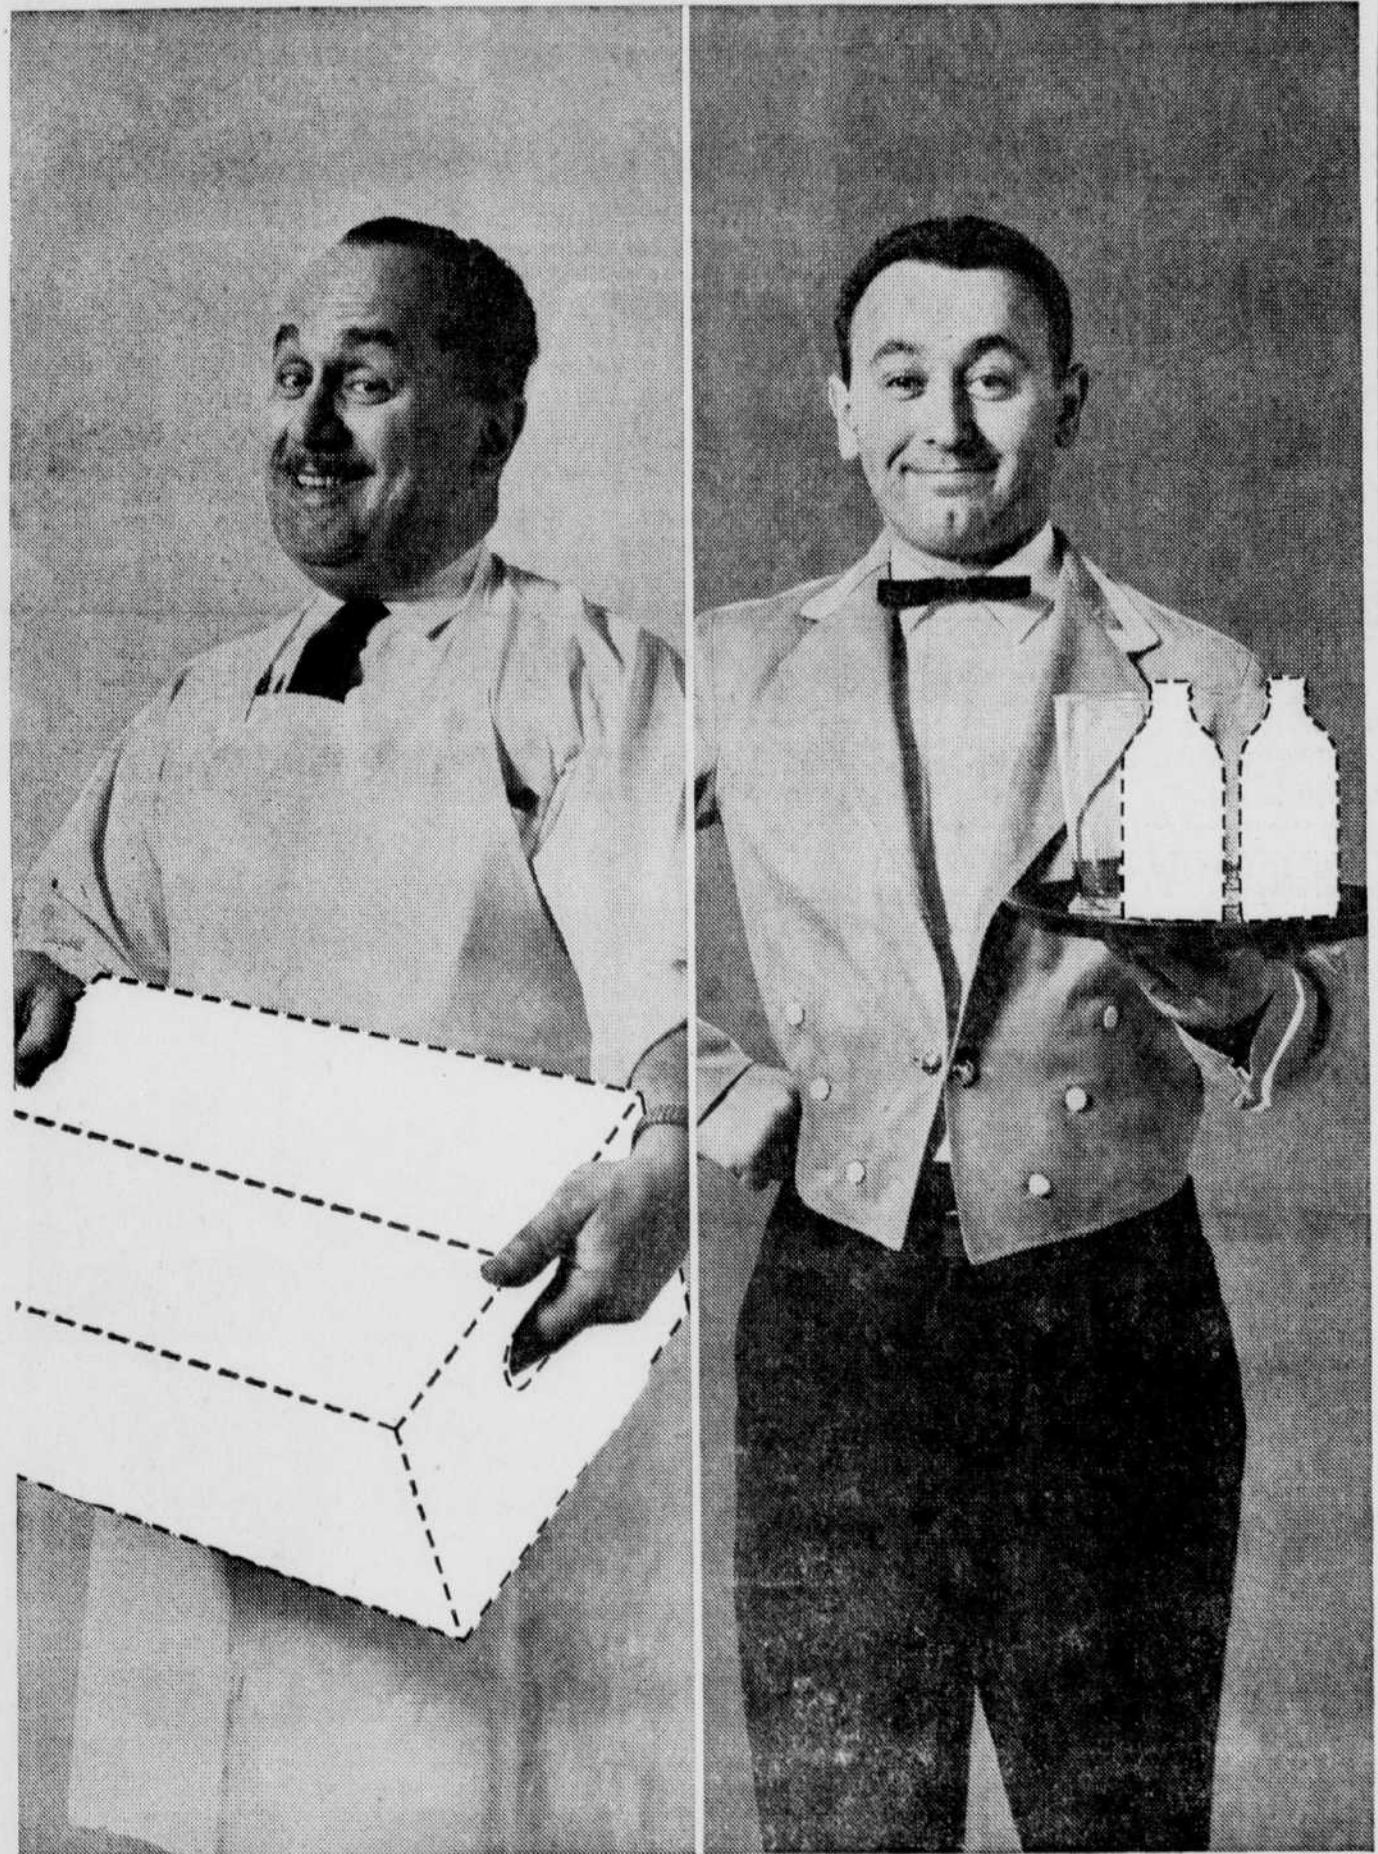

O'Dell ran his record to 3-0, scattering nine hits while going the distance for the second time. Singles by Don Cledenon, Johnny Logan and Bill Mazeroski nicked him for a run in second and Glendon's ninth inning homer ended the Pirates' production for the night. Logan was 4-for-4 but to no avail.

The Giants put it away in the second with three runs on singles by Felipe Alou, Jose Pagan and Jim Davenport, a wild pitch, a passed ball and an error. Orlando Cepeda wound up the Giants' scoring the next inning with the seventh homer, off Bob Veale (1-2).

Camilli's single in the last inning that could have been played—the league curfew rule would have halted play—followed a walk by pinch-hitter Daryl Spencer, a single by Willie Davis and an attempted sacrifice by Andy Carey that failed. Ed Roebuck (1-0) got the victory with Glen Hobbie (0-4) taking the loss.

The Cubs had tied it in the eighth on a two-base error by Davis and George Altman's single, and went ahead in the 15th with two runs on singles by Andre Rodgers, Moe Thacker and Ken Hubbs. But the Dodgers came back to tie on Wally Moon's two-run single.

The Cardinals won their fifth in six games by chasing Cubs' starter Dean Stone (2-1) with a five-run outburst inning. Stone, who had won his two previous games by shutouts, caused his own downfall by walking three. Ken Boyer, Gene Oliver, Charley James and Julio Gotay each drove in one run with Minnie Minoso scoring on Boyer's hit when Him Pendleton threw wild. Ray Washburn (2-0) won it with Ed Bauta's relief.

Billy Marston signs as coach of Coaticook

First year as coach of Canadiens, Alouettes to open practices on Saturday at Park Avenue Stadium

ST. JOHNS — Eastern Township Provincial Baseball League officials met here last night and several announcements regarding the signing of managers and coaches for the coming season were made by the various teams of the league.

Prior to the meeting, the St. John Pirates, the only new team for the year, held a press conference and announced the signing of Paul Bayeur as coach of the team. Also present at the meeting was Al Todd, a New York Yankee scout, who said that the NY organization is thinking seriously of adding the Pirates to the Yankee's farm system.

Paul Bayeur, not new to the league, played with the Waterloo team last year. He is 30 years old and once wore a St. Johns sweater when they were playing in the Pat Farrar Senior League. Andre Tougas and Andre Dion, members of the team executive also announced the signing of two young pitchers, Johnny Gross, 18, and Guy Desrocher, 21.

Another announcement made at the meeting was the signing of Bill Marston as coach of the Coaticook Canadiens. The signing of two American players, first baseman Mike Walsh and pitcher Harry Eichel was also released.

Bill Marston, who will be the playing coach is a pitcher. He graduated from the Plymouth State Teachers College and has taught at the Keene State Teachers College.

In 1954, Marston signed with the Baltimore Oriole organization, playing with York in the Piedmont Class B League. After travelling to many leagues and spending some time in the Army, he played with a semi-pro team where his record was 14 and 9.

Released from the Army in 1956, Marston became junior principal at Gorham High School. The last three years he has been teaching at this school.

Last year he played with the Canadiens, proving to be a star both on the mound and at the plate. Paul Molloy, president and manager of the team, is very happy having signed Marston. Both Walsh and Eichel are young but experienced U.S. players who should help the team immensely.

ALS TO OPEN WORKOUTS

The Sherbrooke Alouettes will hold their first practice of the season next Saturday at the Park Avenue Stadium, it was learned today.

The practice will be a closed one, only open to players contracted by team officials. Gerry Colnair and Jean Paul Pepin will be in charge of the practice, taking over for coach Claude St-Vincent who is still out west with the Montreal Olympics in their bid for the Allan Cup.

In Granby, coach Andre Pratte already has his Chevaliers doing their pace. First practice was held last weekend, and the hatchet men are expected to move in this weekend and cut down the roster.

The Granby team now has nine players under contract and they too are waiting for the Montreal Olympics to return from Trail. John Mentis is out west, and is not expected to sign until his return.

Official opening of the season is slated for May 20. This year the league is comprised of both American and Canadian players, both veteran and rookies, who promise to offer some excellent baseball to fans of the district.

Border Little League to suspend operations but continue in play in Peanut loop following meeting

DERBY LINE — The executive were on hand as interested spectators. The evening of Wednesday, May 9th, President Roland Curtis has called a meeting for coaches, managers and executive, as well as any parents, or friends, who wish to attend to discuss rules for the ball games. The one parent attending Monday's night meeting agreed to be one of the umpires.

The secretary, Mrs. Bernard Labere, was instructed to advise the Little League officials of the Border decision and return the charter. Equipment is badly required by the four teams of Derby Line, Rock Island, Stanstead and Beebe. President Curtis has asked each manager to bring in a list at the May 9th meeting for consideration.

Some 400 season tickets are to be printed and it is hoped will be sold to the public for a small sum of money in order to make the necessary purchases. Insurance of the players will also be attended too as a necessary precaution.

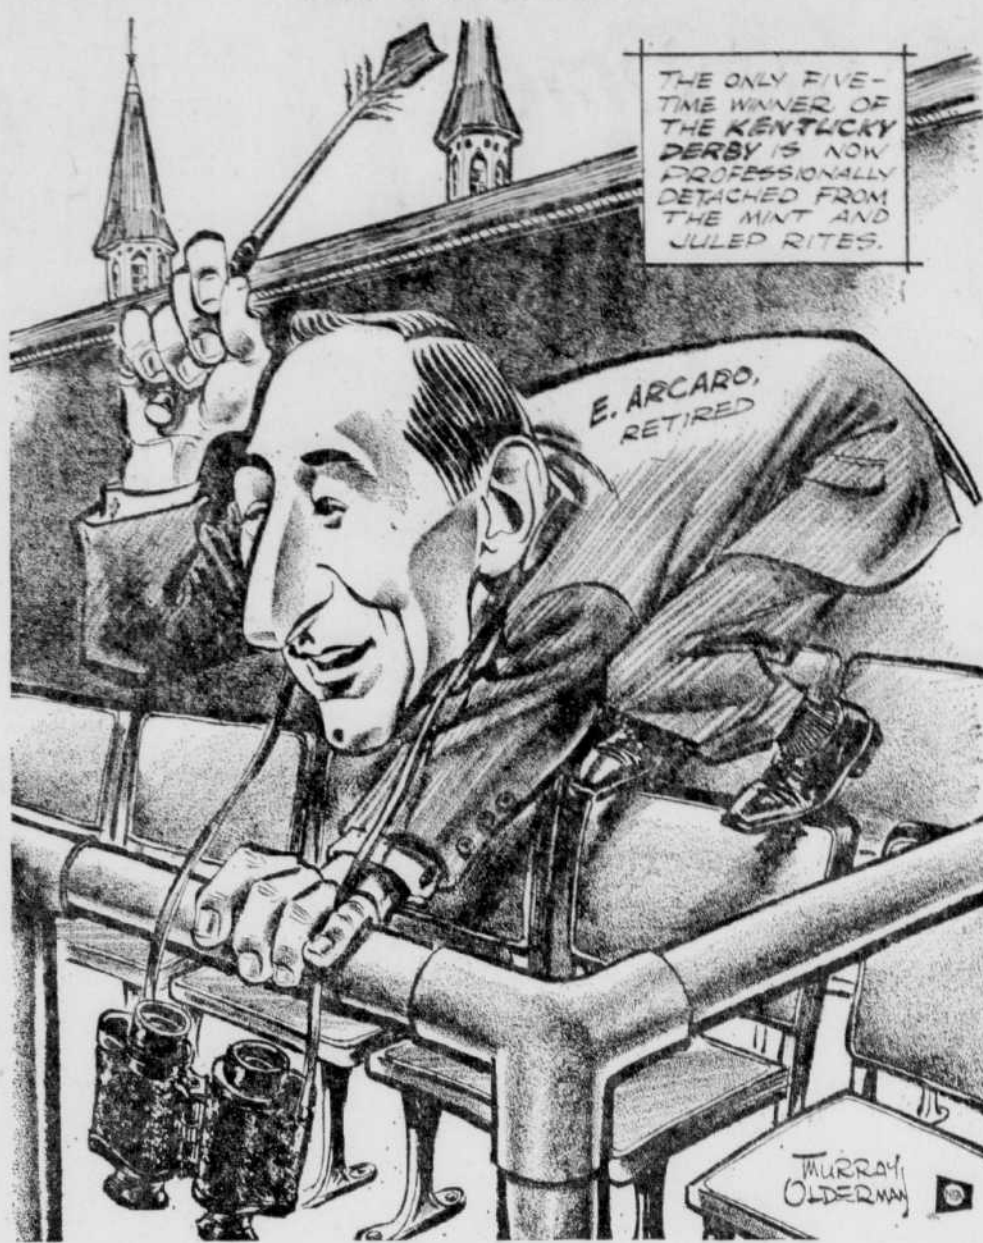

The first game is scheduled to be played on June 2nd.

Stirling Moss still improving

LONDON (P) — Stirling Moss, the British auto racing star who crashed at 100 miles an hour eight days ago, continues to improve in hospital.

A hospital bulletin Tuesday said:

THE SPECTATOR

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Ed die Arcaro, looking back on 21 Kentucky Derby mounts, including five winners, didn't hesitate when asked to pick the horse he would ride if he had to choose among all 21.

He named Citation, the 1948 winner. "He could do everything so much better than any horse I ever rode in the Derby," said the 46-year-old veteran of the saddle who retired recently with a record of having ridden in more Kentucky Derbies — and winning more — than any other jockey.

"He could even make a mistake and beat his opposition. And I wouldn't care whether the track was fast or slow."

On a fast track, Whirlaway, 1941 winner and first of seven Derby champions from Calumet Farm, was Arcaro's second choice. For third it was a toss-up between two of his losers—Hill Prince, runnerup to Middleground in 1950 and Nashua, second to Swaps in 1955.

Whirlaway set the Derby record of 2:01 2/5 for the 1 mile, barreling through the last quarter-mile in 24 seconds for an eight-length triumph. Citation with only stablemate Coaltown offering serious opposition, scored by 3 1/2 lengths with a 2:05 2/5 clocking on a sloppy track.

Arcaro's other Derby winners were Lawrin (1938) Hoop, Jr. (1945) and Hill Gail (1952).

"When you want a horse that could do everything and do it well, there's no comparing my other Derby mounts with Citation. He could put together as many runs as you wanted, and at any time, in a mile and quarter. He truly was a great race horse."

Steve Di Mauri, who trains Mister Pitt for the Golden Triangle stable, Mister Pitt showed a burst of early speed in the trial, then wound up last in the seven-horse field.

With 18 entries and 16 starters, the Derby will gross $163,400 with the winner picking up $120,900. Post time is set for 5:30 p.m. EDT. The event will be televised by CBS and carried in Canada by the CBC.

As the advance guard of some 100,000 persons moved in on this Ohio River town for their annual tribute to king horse, the stars of the colorful event went through their final training exercises.

Ridan travelled the Derby distance in 2:01 after taking the Blue Grass Stakes and Sir Gaylord went the same distance in 2:02 2/5 following his triumph in last Saturday's Stepping Stone purse over the slower Churchill Downs oval.

Early odds held Sir Gaylord at 8 to 5 and Ridan at 5 to 2. Sunrise County is the third choice at 8 to 1, followed by Admiral's Voyage at 10 to 1 and Sir Ribot at 12 to 1.

The "maybe" came from the more we talk to them the more we discover that they think they only made about four mistakes. And they are trying to fix that. Oh, we could trade four men back, all right."

Casey said he was approached to trade Neal to San Francisco Giants. When he asked what he would get in return, the man "forgot the name of Mays. He then forgot the name of Cepeda, and the five or six other fellows they've got over there who could play for me."

Stengel told the sales executive club here he recently ran into some good salesmen himself, the men who sold Mays' rag-tag collection that got off to as bad a start as any one ever did in the league.

"We had to purchase these men (the players) from the demon salesmen in baseball to get into business," he said Tuesday. "And sometimes we put these men back up for sale. And those wonderful salesmen, those wonderful people in baseball, would you believe it, they don't want those men back."

NEW YORK (AP) — Charley Neal in a trade for Willie Mays or Orlando Cepeda?

Well, Casey Stengel can dream, can't he? That's the dream he says he's dreaming these days.

He's using it to make this point: If any one wants the three or four real ball players he managed to land for New York Mets through the mistaken generosity of the National League, they are going to have to give up plenty for them.

Brown was made the No. 1 contender followed by Dave Charnley of England. In another lightweight change, Carlos Hernandez of Venezuela whipped Doug Vaillant of Cuba and moved up from sixth to third among the contenders.

In the heavyweight ranks Sweden's Ingemar Johansson was advanced from fifth to fourth in an exchange of places with Bob Cleroux of Montreal. The switch resulted from Cleroux's loss to third-ranking Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz.

Cassius Clay of Louisville, who stopped George Logan of Boise, Idaho, moves up from 10th to ninth. Argentina's Alejandro Lavorante fell from ninth to 10th.

Advice of coach pays off for Card's rookie

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Curt Flood took the advice of his batting coach, who told him to quit trying for home runs, and now finds himself the top batsman in the National League.

The 24-year-old St. Louis Cardinal centre fielder leads the league with a .418 average. He's had 28 hits in 67 at bats, including four doubles, two triples and two home runs.

Flood has hit safely in the 14 games he has played this year, plus the last 12 in 1961.

"It's taken me a year to get the full benefit of the change in my swinging pattern," the 165-pound right-hander said.

"George Crowe (former Card batting coach) told me late last season to use a shorter swing. I'm not a power hitter, all I'm trying to do is get some good wood on the ball."

Card manager Johnny Keane says the shorter swing allows Flood to hit line drives and grounders through the infield rather than long flies to the outfield.

"He's got the speed to beat out some of those ground balls and he can stretch a single through the infield into a double," Keane said.

"Flood's on the move upwards now. He is winning recognition as one of the better ball players in the league, and he is the top defensive outfielder in either league."

Ortiz named as fighter of month by Ring magazine

NEW YORK (AP) — Lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz of New York was named "fighter of the month" by Ring Magazine today for his one-sided triumph over defender Joey Brown in their 15-round title fight at Las Vegas April 21.

Brown was made the No. 1 contender followed by Dave Charnley of England. In another lightweight change, Carlos Hernandez of Venezuela whipped Doug Vaillant of Cuba and moved up from sixth to third among the contenders.

In the heavyweight ranks Sweden's Ingemar Johansson was advanced from fifth to fourth in an exchange of places with Bob Cleroux of Montreal.

The switch resulted from Cleroux's loss to third-ranking Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz.

Cassius Clay of Louisville, who stopped George Logan of Boise, Idaho, moves up from 10th to ninth. Argentina's Alejandro Lavorante fell from ninth to 10th.

Mrs. L. Buckman

Attitude to retarded children greatly improved over 20 years

The attitude of the public towards retarded children has improved greatly during the last 20 years, Mrs. Lorne Buckman told The Record Monday.

Mrs. Buckman, chairman of the Sherbrooke School for Retarded Children, was the guest speaker at the Sherbrooke Kiwanis Club Monday night.

In discussing the problems of retarded children, she said that people are much more willing than they used to be to acknowledge that a problem exists and to try to do something about it.

"Give a retarded child half a chance and he will amount to something," she said.

The Sherbrooke school has been in operation for six years and during that time 35 children have attended the classes. Six years have done marvels for some of the children Mrs. Buckman said.

The children range in age from six to 18. They are divided into three classes, one French-speaking, one for the younger English-speaking pupils and one for the older ones.

One of the greatest problems in dealing with retarded children, Mrs. Buckman said, is that their attention span is so short that it is difficult to hold their interest. However, they are just like any other children, once they get interested in something then they will work at it for a long time, she said.

If more financial support were available, the school would like very much to set up a sheltered workshop where the older pupils could work on projects for which they could be paid she said. Another of Mrs. Buckman's projects is a residential school but this, of course, she explained would be very expensive undertaking.

"We would also like to conduct classes for retarded people in their twenties who have never had the opportunity to go to school," Mrs. Buckman said. The school was always in need of more financial support, she noted.

She mentioned that the Kiwanis Club had made it possible for one of the pupils to attend a special camp for retarded children and how much this was appreciated.

Mrs. Buckman was introduced by Dr. Tom Cadman and thanked by Don Kelly.

Beebe H. S. installs officers

BEEBE — At the annual meeting of the Home and School Association held at the school on April 17, H. A. Beane, president of the Beebe-Rock Island-Stanstead Protestant School Board, installed the new slate of officers as follows:

Directors for the coming year are Harry Costello, Rev. Ralph Rogers, Lloyd Bliss, Mrs. R. E. Baker and Mrs. Bernard Loney.

The reports of the officers and committee chairmen showed that the year was most active and all obligations had been met. Fluoridation of the Beebe water supply was discussed and the matter will be given further study.

Members enjoyed colored slides, shown by C. R. MacLean of a recent trip taken by him and his family to Jamaica. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Huntingville Ladies Aid

Production of coffee in Bogota is described at women's meeting

HUNTINGVILLE — The meeting of the Huntingville Ladies Aid was held at the home of Mrs. M. Sewell.

Mrs. W. Buchanan, guest speaker, gave an interesting description of the coffee country of Bogota, South America, and illustrated her talk with snapshots.

Mrs. Sewell read an article, How can we get more out of life, and the answer is, Give and it shall be given unto you.

The treasurer's financial report was satisfactory.

The Sunshine convener reported having sent boxes of cheer and cards to shut-ins and several were to be remembered with plants and fruit at Easter.

The work convener reported several articles sold from the work box.

Plans were made to hold a baked bean and salad supper in the Community Hall on May 23.

Marriages

Sherwin-Watts

SHAFTSBURY, VT. — A lovely spring wedding took place at four o'clock on Saturday, April 21, in St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Shaftsbury, Vt. when Miss Brenda Elizabeth-Allen daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Watts of Montreal and Brigham, became the bride of Mr. Lawrence Alan Sherwin, son of Mrs. Isabelle Sherwin and the late Mr. Leo J. Sherwin, of Shaftsbury. The Rev. F. Wolf officiating. Wedding music was played by the church organist. Easter lilies and candelabra were used in decoration.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Bryce F. L. Dougal of Cowansville, was in a floor-length gown of white tulle with a fitted bodice, bateau neckline, long sleeves and a deeply pleated skirt which formed an overskirt in front over a fitted panel. She wore her sister's wedding veil and head-dress of small flowers and seed pearls, and a gold and pearl heirloom pendant, and carried a cascade bouquet of pom-pom chrysanthemums and ivy.

The attendants were the bride's sister, Mrs. John Russell, and Mrs. Guy Daig, neaunt of Montreal, and her aunt Mrs. Bruce Dougal of Cowansville. They were dressed alike in white peau de sole with overtones of yellow, made on similar lines as that of the bride's but having short sleeves and slim skirts. They wore white flower bandeaux in their hair and carried yellow and white chrysanthemums and ivy.

The best man was Mr. Wales M. Hawkins, and the ushers were Mr. Frederick Harvey and Mr. Rudolph Elwell. The ring bearer was Master Kevin Harvey.

The bride's mother chose a printed silk frock in shades of green with a green ostrich-plume hat and a purse corsage of cymbidium orchids.

The groom's mother was attired in Royal blue with matching hat and accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

A reception was held following the wedding at Mt. Anthony Country Club, where a small orchestra played during the dinner.

For travelling the bride chose a sapphire blue wool suit with pleated skirt, and a matching hat and bone colored accessories.

The honeymoon will be spent in New York and various points in New England.

Guests were from, Cowansville, Shaftsbury, Arlington, Vt. Russell, and Mrs. Guy Daig, neaunt of Montreal, and her aunt Mrs. Bruce Dougal of Cowansville. They were dressed

ASK THE DESIGNER

by gaile dugas

Dear Gaile: Someone gave me a coat that is really old-fashioned. But the fabric is such a lovely lightweight gray wool that I would like to make use of the coat. Aside from shortening it and making the sleeves a push-up type, what else can be done? The style is princess and the coat has a detachable white fox collar. Shall I keep the collar?—A. M. L.

Dear A. M. L.: For advice on this problem, I went to Lloyd Schechter, one of this country's new and brilliant designers of coats and suits. He says:

"First, remove the fox collar. Collarless coats are the last word for spring. You can always add a small scarf at the neckline for a bright splash of color. Don't use push-up sleeves. Instead, shorten them to just below the elbow, leaving them wide.

"Change the buttons for a new look. If you have enough fabric left over after altering the sleeves, use it to cover the buttons. This is a small, luxurious touch. Add extra stiffening as an interfacing to the skirt to make it stand out and emphasize the princess line."

Dear Gaile: I am a woman 5 feet 3 inches tall. I am 53 years old and weight 110 pounds. My problem is this: I have always worn sheath dresses but would like very much to wear one of the lovely full-skirted shirtwaist dresses this spring. Do you think a woman my age and height should wear a full dress? Have been afraid it might cut my height.—Mrs. E. S.

Dear Mrs. E. S.: There's absolutely no reason why you shouldn't wear a full-skirted dress. Your weight is just right for your height. But further advice on this comes from Jack Baker of Sue Brett:

"For some time now, I have done proportioned shirtwaist dresses for women 5 feet 3 inches and under. These dresses are scaled to your size and definitely will not cut your height. They fit perfectly from neck to waist and waist to hem, needing no alterations. Collars and all other details are kept small and neat in keeping with your size. It has always been my belief that a short woman can be as well-dressed as a tall one."

Dear Gaile: I read your column all the time and have picked up much useful information. Now I wish you would help me once more. I have bought a camel's hair coat for spring. Can you tell me what color accessories I should wear with it?—Mrs. M. A. G.

Dear Mrs. M. A. G.: I have asked two designers who work in leather to give you their opinions. Joseph Gandolfo, designer for Customcraft Shoes, says:

"The perfect casual shoe for a camel's hair coat would be a softly-grained leather in any of the beige to brown range. A narrowed square or softly rounded toe line would be right. Have a mid-high stacked leather heel."

And handbag designer Gheta says:

"A bag in any of the reptiles such as alligator, lizard or snake in a soft, pouchy design would be perfect with a camel's hair coat."

Fluffy apricot souffle adds variety to bridal shower fare

June, the traditional month of brides, is coming closer, and that means that the whirl of pre-bridal parties, which test the ingenuity of any hostess, is upon us. Bridal showers are gay and fun, but after brides and bridesmaids-to-be have attended a number of them they can be a bit tedious. What's needed is variety! One hostess, loathe to inflict further expense on guests who had already attended a number of showers, armed herself with lengths of unhemmed toweling and yards of brightly colored yarn. She set her guests to work and the bride-elect went home with a supply of unique, if unorthodox, tea towels.

Something new is needed in the usual shower fare of rich cakes, little sandwiches and ice cream. A suitably pretty and appetizing dessert is an apricot souffle, which is easy on the waistline too, as it has a jelly rather than a cream base. In fact, this dessert is so easy to make and so good to eat that the whole family - men included - will mark it down as a favorite.

For the waistline watchers another suggestion is Pineapple Sunset Salad. This is a combination of pineapple tid bits and tangy vegetable pieces in a grapefruit-pineapple jelly mixture.

APRICOT SOUFFLE
1-3 oz. pkg. apricot-orange jelly dessert, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup canned apricots, strained, 3/4 cup apricot juice, 3 egg whites, 1-6 oz. can evaporated milk, chilled, 1 tsp. lemon juice, chopped walnuts.

Dissolve jelly dessert in boiling water. Stir in strained apricots and juice. Chill until partially set. Beat egg whites until stiff and whip evaporated milk to which the lemon juice has been added. Combine egg whites, whipped milk and jelly mixture and whip until thoroughly mixed. Make a heavy paper collar for souffle dish and pour in jelly mixture. When jelly is set, remove collar carefully and decorate sides of mold with chopped nuts. (A 6-cup mold may be used instead of the souffle dish.) Serves 10.

PINEAPPLE SUNSET SALAD

1-3 oz. pkg. grapefruit-pineapple jelly dessert, 1 cup boiling water, 3/4 cup pineapple juice, 1 cup cottage cheese, 1 cup pineapple tid bits, drained, 1/4 cup green pepper, chopped, 1/2 cup celery, chopped.

Dissolve jelly dessert in boiling water. Add pineapple juice and allow to partially set. Fold in remaining ingredients. Pour into 4-cup mold and chill thoroughly. Serves 6-8.

The Doctor Says

FAULTY DIAPHRAGM TIMING UPSETS BREATHING CYCLES

Q—Our 15-year-old son keeps complaining that he can't catch his breath. He's been examined and we've been assured there's nothing wrong with his heart or lungs. I've watched him play basketball in the school gym and he seems to be perfectly all right. But when he gets home and just sits around he gasps for breath like a fish out of water. Can't something be done to help him?

A—Ordinarily, this condition is attributed to an adolescent neurosis that's outgrown sooner or later. On a few occasions I've examined youngsters by fluoroscopy during an attack. What seems to happen is a passing disturbance of the diaphragm much like a fluttering of the eyelid. In general, as you may know, the rate of respiration is governed by a central office in the brain.

The act of breathing (in-spiration, is signaled along nerve cables to the diaphragm which is a sheet of muscle that separates chest and belly cavities. Inspiration is begun when the diaphragm contracts. Normally this contraction is uniform, both leaves of the diaphragm acting in unison. When, for whatever reason, the "timing" is off temporarily, the perfectly healthy person registers this "catch" your son speaks of and that you observe.

If you will explain the mechanism of this disturbance to him and assure him of its medical unimportance, perhaps he'll take it in stride until it self-adjusts. As it SURELY WILL.

Q—Can anything be done to keep nails from splitting? I've taken gelatin, vitamins and calcium injections but they continue to split. I know it's not of medical importance but it's an awful nuisance when you catch threads and other things and get runs in stockings.

A—I don't know whether, at this stage of the game, anything can be done other than to keep your nails pared down to the quick. You see the damage has already been done to your nail bed, probably by an injury or, more likely, by chemical burns from long continued use of some nail polish or cuticle removers. Since the nail bed does not easily regenerate, discontinuance of manicure accessories may not be followed by noticeable improvement. But, as there's nothing else you can do, you might give it a try.

Q—I have high blood pressure and my doctor says I ought to relax and take things easy. Well, the best way for me to relax is to sit and smoke. But you and other doctors say smoking is bad. How come?

A—There's no doubt of the soothing influence of a pause for a smoke in the day's occupations or aggravations. But it's the pause that refreshes, not the smoke except insofar as it is an excuse for taking a break. Like calling time during a football or basketball game. Or stalling to knock the dirt out of spikes and adjust the uniform when the bases are full and the count is 3 and 2. Some of the benefits derived from the pause are opposed by the effects of tobacco that recently has been shown to cause a rise in blood pressure, presumably through stimulation of ACTH secretion. So you'll have to add the debits and credits to figure your own balance sheet.
