

Police department gets radar speed check set

A new phase in the development of the City's efforts to control imprudent driving and make the streets safer for pedestrian and motorist alike was embarked on by Council, Monday night, when it was decided to purchase a complete radar traffic control unit.

The equipment will be similar to that which has been in operation in Toronto since 1956 and an officer from Westmount Police Department has just returned from making a complete study of the methods used in the radar section of the Toronto Metropolitan Police Department.

His report reveals that Toronto now has 16 radar speed checking sets in operation, 13 hours a day, 7 days a week, and although a declining accident rate there since 1956 cannot be entirely attributed to the use of radar, it is believed the equipment has helped ease the number of accidents.

The equipment can be operated from a motor vehicle or by one man on foot and is mobile enough to be set up in practically any location on the City streets.

As was the practice in Toronto, warning will be given to the public before operation begins.

Explanations can also be given to offenders at the time a speeding ticket is issued and they can be shown the recorded evidence of their infraction.

CAR STRIKES BOY ON WESTERN AVE.

A 7 year-old boy was taken by police car to the Queen Elizabeth Hospital after he had been knocked down in a street accident near his Victoria avenue home, Monday.

The driver of the car, Leon Pronovost, 47, 81 Phillippe street, St. Vincent de Paul, told police that as he was proceeding along Western avenue the boy, Murray Millett, 316 Victoria avenue ran onto the street and though he was driving slowly was unable to stop in time from hitting the boy.

The boy told police he was on his way home but saw some friends having a scrap and ran back to join in.

Young Millett received back injuries and was detained in hospital as a precautionary measure for X-ray examination. He was later released.

SGT-DETECTIVE William Wylie of the Westmount Police Department spoke to the Lions Club of Verdun Monday on "Fingerprinting". Here he is seen explaining the system to Les Thomas, advertising manager of The Guardian and President Terry Ashford of the Verdun Lions.

An Editorial:

How do you remember?

REMEMBRANCE takes many forms. It depends upon who remembers. Some even would prefer to forget.

Tuesday Canada, as it has for 40 years, will pause in its ever lengthening strides to mark that Armistice Day of Nov. 11, 1918, which ended the First World War — an armistice all too short-lived, which led on to a second global conflict, to Korea, to lesser crises of arms, to the uncertainties of cold war and the atomic age.

We now call Nov. 11 Remembrance Day. It will endure as such. It embraces so many more unhappy memories garnered since 1914-18.

To the grizzled veterans of that First debacle, their ranks now thinning ever faster with the marching years, Tuesday's remembrance probably is most significant. These men knew war in its filthiest, most miserable form of modern times. They can never forget.

Those widowed by Korea, on the other hand, will have the most vivid memories. Life goes on for them with all too fresh recollections of loved ones lost in our nations first real armed encounter with communism, which may not be our last.

And there are the parents and the children of that generation which went into the battles on land, sea and air from 1939 to 1945 whose memories are far from dulled by the nearly two decades which have passed since the start of the Second World War. Those parents must ponder what those sons, who now would have been in the prime of life, would be today. Those children, born into the world of Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo but too young to know it, are youths and young adults now who can appreciate that the fathers taken from them then sacrificed not only their own lives but an essential and joyful part of their growing children's very existence. An aching void is the remembrance here.

In this city and this country remembrance will take many forms. For some, it even will be a shrugged "So what!"

We may be on the threshold of some new and terrible form of war for which there will be no remembrance.

It may serve us well to remember, this Remembrance Day, war's sorrows as deeply as we can. It may help us to find a way to prevent the next.

Fingerprinting explained by Det.-Sgt. Wylie

The mysteries of fingerprinting were explained to members of the Verdun Lions Club Tuesday evening at their regular bi-monthly meeting held in the Legion Hall. The speaker, an experienced criminologist, was Sgt. Detective William Wylie of the Westmount Police Department who has spent many years in the study and application of fingerprinting in the detection of crime and the apprehending of criminals.

President Terry Ashford introduced the speaker to the gathering reviewing his enviable record in police circles.

Fingerprints, said the speaker never change from birth to death and for a long time after. He explained that the discovery of their unique characteristics was first made by the Chinese and later developed by scientific observers in France and Great Britain.

Sgt. Detective Wylie further enlightened his listeners with informative charts which showed the prints enlarged to enormous proportions. He also had the members examine tell-tale fingerprints with microscopes which they had made by simply picking up a glass.

Full credit to the RCMP was given as having one of the finest collection of fingerprints in the world, and within the matter of a few minutes could identify any person if their prints were on file. Fingerprinting, he said, was one of the safest means of positive identification and today were also being used in civilian life to advantage.

Examiner weatherman appointed city's consultant

The Examiner Weatherman has done it again! Only this time it was an event in the weather world which he did not predict ... or at least not in public.

Captain Eric Neal, weatherman for Canadair and for the Examiner Publishing Company for the last two years, was appointed last week as weather consultant to the City of Montreal.

His part-time duties will include long range forecasts, his specialty, to enable the city to have their snow-fighting equipment ready for big storms at least a week in advance. "Now they'll have their plows and men ready when the snow arrives", says Captain Neal, which should help get the streets cleared faster.

The two regular city weather services, The Public Weather Service at Dorval and the Weather Engineering Inc. give immediate forecasts, he says ... what's happening today or tomorrow, and his work will be supplementary to theirs.

Asked how he is able to predict long-range weather conditions so accurately, Captain Neal says he uses "two correcting cycles", but he adds "if I explain which cycle, my secret will be out".

He started in the weather business over 25 years ago. Working with the Canadian Airways as a maintenance engineer, he saw the problems caused by inadequate weather information and decided to do something about it.

At that time there were no

CAPTAIN ERIC NEAL

weather schools or courses, and he worked out his own system by studying Canadian weather statistics from as far back as 1850. "A pioneer can't take courses", says Captain Neal, "he makes them".

He predicts 20 inches more snow this winter than last.

Next week's weather

By ERIC NEAL

November 8 to 15

Bright, cold and windy with some mist and only occasional drizzle or light flurries. A cold snap from the west is moving our way. Temperature range 5-35°F in the south, and 0-30°F in the north this week, with 35 hours of sunshine to warm the afternoons.

Pleasant, clear and quite cold in the middle of the week, with widely scattered cold rains or flurries, then much milder. Heavy snows in the north, the southern counties and Vermont would be normal at this time.

Sunny periods, fog, mists and more snow to end the week for many regions. Roads icy.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BANQUET
 PLACE: Unity Boys' Club.
 DATE: Wednesday, November 19th, 1958.
 TIME: 6.30 p.m. sharp.

The Sixth Annual Father and Son Banquet and the Fifth Annual Mother and Daughter Banquet of the Unity Boys' Club of Westmount will be held as specified above and will be held in conjunction with the Club's Sports Award Night.

Reservations for the big event of the year must be made prior to Saturday, November 15th, so that catering arrangements can be properly completed. As seating accommodations are limited, parents and their children are urged to reserve early.

To help defray costs of catering, etc., a small charge has been levied; however, a family with more than one boy has financial responsibility for only one boy, because the others are individually sponsored by members of the Westmount Rotary Club. Similarly, sponsors are available for fatherless boys or boys whose fathers may be at work at the time of the Banquet. The same policies are in effect for the Girls' Banquet — in this case, Rotarians wives act as the sponsors.

As in previous years, the head table guests will include top personalities from the World of Sport. It is expected that the Montreal Canadiens will be represented and also members of the Montreal Alouettes Football Team. Eddie Quinn, Montreal's Wrestling Chief will send along one of his top wrestling stars. Mayor Bruneau of Westmount will also be an honored guest. Russ Taylor of CFCF will return for his sixth consecutive year to conduct interviews with the sports celebrities. Gordon

Sarto Fournier plays host to Rotary December 3rd

Sarto Fournier will be the guest of honor and the City of Montreal will tender a cocktail party, on the occasion of Westmount Rotary Club's Ladies' Night, to be held at the Chateau de Ramezay on Wednesday, December 3rd.

This was the main item to emerge from the club's weekly meeting, Wednesday, when, under the chairmanship of Frank Sharpe, Director in Charge of Club Service activities, a program was presented outlining some of the future projects.

Slated as speaker for this special occasion is Edgar Andrew Colard, Editor of the Montreal Gazette, L. J. Stuart, chairman of the Fellowship Committee said.

Additional events proposed for this year and next include a special lunch on December 30, a Family Day at Easter-time and a curling bonspiel sometime in January, further details to be announced as the time for each approaches.

Some time was taken by W. F. Close, chairman of the Information Committee, to explain to members what he thought should be the guiding principles in the selection of possible members for the club.

Since Rotary operated on a system of trade or professional classification he felt it was wrong to make promises to a prospective member then tell him that he could not be accepted because his classification was filled.

He said that sufficient information should be imparted to make a prospect realize what was expected of him in the way of attendance and participation in the club's activities and that any illusions he might have that a Rotary Club was solely a place for making business contacts should be quickly dissolved.

Cyril Dendy, who heads the program committee, commented that members ought to make their wishes known about the kind of speaker they wanted to hear.

He thought that Montreal and the club itself offered a good deal of talent which could be drawn on to provide talks on topical and interesting subjects.

3 car smash at Wood - Western

A three-car collision occurred, at Wood and Western avenues, Sunday, when the driver of one of the cars apparently failed to see the stop sign before entering the intersection.

The car driven by Georges Bourque 40, of Plessis Ville, collided with another car driven by Pierre Giroux, 20, 3 Girouard avenue Dorval, as the latter was proceeding west along Western.

The force of the collision threw Giroux into the path of another car driven by J. J. Lafrancois, 41, 3571 Vendome, Montreal who was proceeding east on Western.

A passenger in the first car, Gisele Camire, 21, of Plessis Ville, received a cut on the left knee. She was taken to Montreal General Hospital by radio car 17 for First Aid treatment.

Westmount YMCA classes keep everyone ship-shape

Thirty Westmount ladies are taking time out twice a week to visit the local branch of the YMCA where they are greeted by Miss Nellie De Vos who puts them through a series of exercises aimed at loosening a few stiff joints and finding some unused muscles.

Classes are held Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 10 a.m. to midday.

After the exercise period the ladies go to the pool for a recreational swim and lessons are available there if required. Those not interested in swimming can remain in the gym for badminton.

To make the course a little more interesting an attendance prize will be handed out at Christmas and with four ladies leading in an attendance record of eight days out of a possible nine, the race is a close one at the moment.

Following the visit of Dr. Cureton, the noted expert on physical fitness, to the Central Branch of the YMCA, it is expected a good turn out will be the rule at the Men's Keep Fit Classes.

To help remedy the report that men start to decline physically at the early age of twenty-six this class will be held on Tuesdays from 7 to 8 p.m. and it is hoped that local men will make use of them.

As Dr. Cureton said "A man

Skiing school starts soon

It won't be long now before the snowy mantle of winter will be covering the mountains and hills in the environs of Montreal. But yet, even before the fluffy white stuff comes swirling down to blanket the bleak late autumn landscape, the Westmount Y's Ski School will have gotten the jump on Old Man Winter with their first class.

Wednesday evening, November 12th will see the first gathering of the skiing fraternity at the Westmount Y at seven o'clock, Mr. Jack Holland of St. Margarets will be the instructor.

Applications have already started to filter in and, if the present trend keeps up, the course should be filled up by the opening date. Mr. Holland has announced that enthusiasts won't need any equipment for the initial lesson as the evening will feature instructional films and discussions concerning the proper equipment required for the sport.

CD training chief well prepared

By CYNTHIA JONES

A man who was once buried alive in debris for 96 hours during World War II on his own bomb-torn Malta is the chief of operations and training in Montreal's new civil defence set-up announced last week.

Major Henry Calleja (pronounced Calaya) is a 35-year-old exuberant Maltese, a British subject of Spanish origin, with an adventurous background in war, whose black eyes glisten when he envisages a disaster of any kind hitting Montreal and posifireman available and our specially-trained wardens would be assigned to their individual tasks."

Major Calleja, who graduated with distinction from the Civil Defence College at Arnprior which he attended in 1954 along with his wife who specialized in emergency feeding, said his job is to be prepared for gas, nuclear, biological, chemical and radiological warfare. "I cannot afford to speculate what the enemy might do," he said. "My duty is to have plans ready for the co-ordinator so that he is able to meet every kind of disaster that might occur in the city from a bucket of rain to a hydrogen bomb. If it should happen in the teeth of a hurricane that he gets word of an attack we must be patrol — is a vital one for Montreal "Our huge river is a critical area where up to 200,000 people could be evacuated in event of attack," he said. "My job is to be sure to have trained leaders at the disposal of the co-ordinator and to become a leader one must go to Arnprior. Civil defence can't save people, it can only lead them. Our duty is to teach them, not to die, but to survive and the public must have as much faith in us as we have confidence in them"

A student of world affairs, a political analyst, writer and broadcaster and fighter against Communist subversion, Major Calleja came to Canada from Malta in 1951 and was later appointed chief rescue officer in the former CD set up here. His first job in Canada was news commentator for CJAD and in the two years he was there he claims to have made world political predictions which have since come true. For a time he acted as assistant circulation manager for The Ensign and did a five month stint as a film editor for CBMT and CBFT. Three years ago he joined the staff of La Patrie.

The loving father of two children, Diana, 2½, and Eric, eight months, Major Calleja is married to the former Margot Wagener, a Luxembourg girl who came to Canada before him and persuaded her future husband to settle for Canada rather than Africa.

Major Calleja was born in Malta in 1923 and matriculated from St. Edward's School there. At the age of 16 he graduated from Sandhurst in England as a second lieutenant and returned to Malta to join up just before the outbreak of war. Then the long siege of Malta began Major Calleja returned to England for glider pilot and paratroop courses and then found himself a lieutenant in the Western desert in North Africa fighting with the Eighth Army.

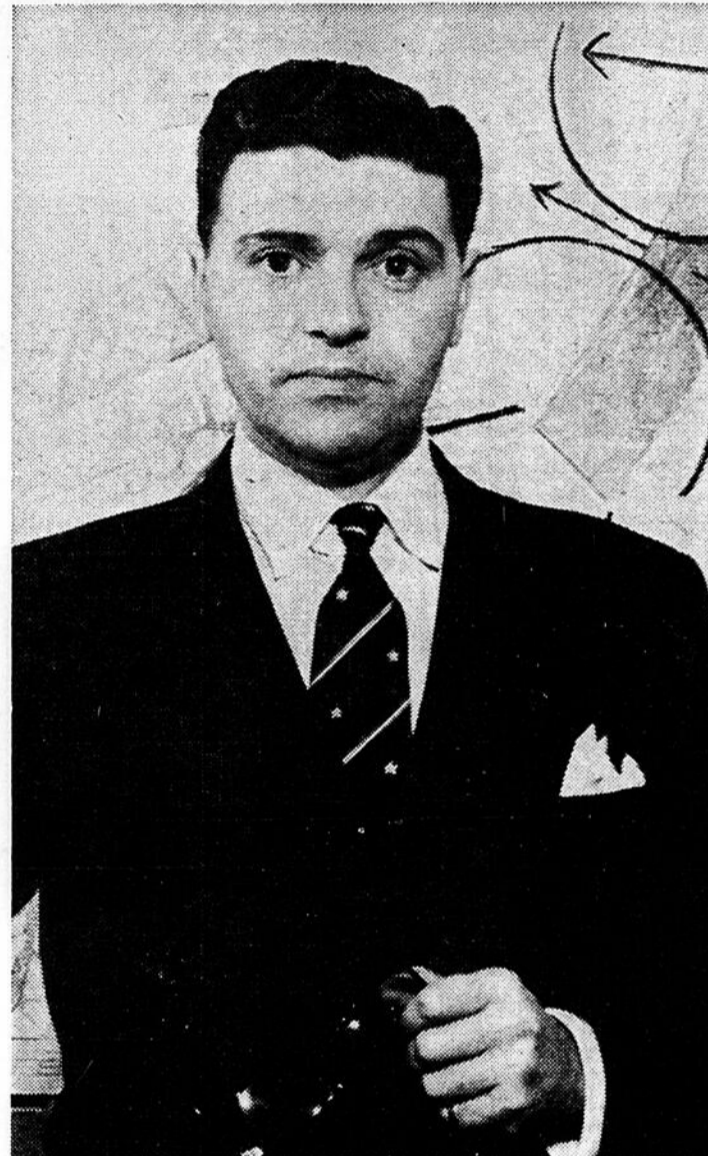

He was hospitalized with a wound in his leg for three months and was then shipped to East Africa as a captain with the King's African Rifles. He participated in the Sicily landings and later went to the Far East with the 11th East African division.

In 1944 he was sent to the Pacific Theatre as a liaison officer with the Americans. When the war ended he was shipped back to England and then to Germany where he served with the occupation forces in Berlin. He resigned from the Army in 1950 and went home to Malta to serve a year with the police.

Five foot 10½, weighing 158 pounds, Major Calleja was once an amateur racing driver but now his hobbies are photography and cooking which are more compatible with his new-found domesticity.

Major Calleja speaks five languages — French, English, Italian, Arabic and Swahili — and is an associate fellow of the Institute of Civil Defence in London, a life member of the Malta Civil Defence Officer's Association, a holder of both the Royal Life Saving Society and the St. John Ambulance Association certificates, a member of the International Rescue and First Aid Association.

His motto? "To be prepared every minute."

Major Henry Calleja

"My new job is a full-time one and I have resigned from La Patrie's advertising department," said Major Calleja during an interview in his apartment on Decelles avenue. "As chief of operations I must implement the policy as dictated by the co-ordinator Major Maurice St. Pierre, the king pin, and my task is a technical and tactical one associated with any type of disaster — gas explosion, any large hurricane or fire. For instance if a plane landed on a department store at noon during the Christmas season it would leave a hell of a hole but not wreck it.

"If it knocked out the elevators it would involve 5,000 people inside the store and 2,000 people on St. Catherine street. Many people would suffer from broken glass and from shock. This disaster would be a civil defence operation. We would commandeer every vehicle at hand, every policeman and every ready to move in face of that hurricane."

With Mrs. R. L. Pineo, the new planning officer, Major Calleja is now working out of the temporary civil defence headquarters on Botrel avenue in Notre Dame de Grace just above the police station. "I believe we are the youngest team in the country," said Major Calleja. "It's a young man's job because you need staying power and a dedicated spirit." (There is no doubt whatever about the major's zeal and earnestness for his formidable task)

Major Calleja envisages a civil defence army of 150,000 volunteers in the city. The training of leaders probably will begin soon and includes a first-aid course and a course at Arnprior in any of the following classifications: heavy and light rescue, wardens, auxiliary police, auxiliary fire services, medical, communications, welfare (refugee registration, emergency feeding, clothing and rehabilitation) chaplains, first aid and inland water patrol.

Major Calleja thinks the latter topic — inland water

Cycle is safe for one rider

Objects to apartments

MANY years ago some bright mind came up with the idea that two wheels, joined tandem style by a connecting bar, would make a good vehicle. The first to use it jabbed the ground with his feet, in the same fashion as is employed to propel a baby's walker.

Soon another bright mind conceived the plan to connect a pedal-motivated small wheel turned by footwork which would cause the hind wheel to roll. The front wheel became governed by a handle-bar.

Then came more additions — basket, bell, lamp, reflectors, fox-tails, ribbons, rearview mirrors. The contraption was originally designed for one rider. It was a comparatively safe means of locomotion.

However, when a passenger was added, the driver found himself most frequently in for trouble, and in some areas was breaking the law. Children are killed and crippled every year, riding two to a bicycle-built-for-one.

Riding no hands really isn't clever — it's criminally dangerous. Hanging on to a truck while riding a bike is another form of suicide. So is riding two and three abreast in traffic. Even when not in motion the bicycle can be dangerous. If the young rider lets it fall across the sidewalk when he delivers parcels, people may fall over it.

People have been struck by bicycles and killed.

If parents, teachers, employers of bicycling youngsters will emphasize the dangerous possibilities of careless riding and parking of the machine, the bike may yet be preserved as a safe one-person vehicle.

Despite the song 'Daisy' the one-seat bicycle just isn't built for two.

Sir: Permission has been requested to build an apartment house on Stanton avenue opposite Westmount Fire Station.

I object to permission being granted for the following reasons:-

1) Because there is no parking on Stanton avenue or Cote-St. Antoine road. Thornhill avenue will have to bear the casual and delivery parking for the apartment house. We experience jammed parking on Sunday mornings and are often unable to get our cars out of the drives.

2) The apartment house's incinerators, on a level with Thornhill avenue, will loose dirt and smut into our windows.

3) Thornhill avenue is zoned for houses only. An apartment house only a few yards away, overlooking Thornhill and using its facilities, will depress property values.

4) The site is unattractive and noisy. Fire engines go out from the fire station at all hours of the day and night. On three sides of the apartment house the windows will look out onto walls. The front, with no parking, will face the fire-station and the yards where park-benches are painted, derelict cars dumped, police cars re-fueled, and the fire-fighting equipment is tested.

Can apartments in such a site be rented economically?
Yours truly,

Mrs. David Wanklyn.

Rink projects

Sir: I enclose a copy of a very good letter by the Hampstead Municipal Association.

(Editor's Note: The Hampstead letter, sent to all residents of that Town, outlines a project for a municipal covered artificial ice rink and invites them to a citizens' meeting to discuss it. The meeting was held in mid-September and saw a record turnout. The plan was provisionally endorsed.)

It occurred to me that a comparison of the approach used by Hampstead and Westmount concerning the same problem would provide scope for an editorial now or at a later date.

The cost factor, the fact that the Westmount Municipal Association declined to convene a general meeting, and the alderman of Westmount, declined a request for a public referendum all sums up a rather different approach.

The heading for the editorial would naturally be "A Tale of Two Cities." This is just an idea in support of your excellent editorial work in connection with Westmount problems.

John E. Donovan.

A GERMAN FESTIVAL

CULTURE IN MONTREAL abounds in every art. Our cosmopolitan city is now a goal for more world famous recitalists, conductors, top notch painters and writers than former years and the second largest French speaking city in the world is considered in the same category as the important centres of European fame. Always adding to local prestige, a new venture which embodies eight nationalities is this Montreal International Theatre.

The German Section of this wonderful undertaking has just concluded a Festival that took in theatre, chamber music, a piano recital, an afternoon of songs and poetry and an exhibition of painting. All the events took place in that cosy little theatre "La Poudriere" in the heart of St. Helen's Island.

I attended the last of eight performances of Gerhart Hauptmann's "Der Biberpelz" (The Beaver Coat) in a polished demonstration of European thoroughness, the cast of 13 actors were well directed under the guidance of Marie-Louise Holtz. The stars were Jo Kronemann and Fred Doederlein. I met these two handsome people and the others at a reception in their honor and all the other artists of the Festival at the home of the German Consul General, Dr. and Mrs. Gerhard Stahlberg. Although I do not speak German I understood the content of the play because there was a clear English synopsis in the program. (Is it not the same as attending opera in German or Italian and being familiar with the story?)

The settings were most attractive and were executed by artist Pierre L'Amare assisted by Neil Shakerey. Mr. L'Amare came to Canada in 1951 and is connected with the Animation Departments of the National Film Board and the painting exhibition of this German Festival was a one-man show by the same gifted artist.

An afternoon of Songs and Poetry was given last Sunday by contralto Louise Myette, raconteur and comedian Uriel Luft and pianist Guy Lafond. The Montreal String Quartet played a Beethoven program and the Festival ended with a piano recital by Count von Gessler, a first rank virtuoso who was a pupil of Wilhelm Kempff and Robert Teichmuller. The family ancestry dates back to the foremost aristocracy of Germany. I chatted with this famed pianist, a tall thin man who is so well known throughout Europe and was sorry not to have been able to hear his recital of Bach, Mozart, Haydn, Liszt and Schubert on Monday night due to another commitment.

Great credit must be given to the Directrice of the Montreal International Theatre, Madame Jeannine Beaubien, for the efficiency shown in all the events.

This artistic venture makes us realize how much our city has progressed in cultural activity. Consults from many countries (Continued on page 13)

Travel bureau celebrates appointment as agency

Last Thursday, Mr. Roger Huysmans, owner and manager of Westmount International Travel Service, 4935 Sherbrooke street, played host to local representatives of airline, steamship and bus companies at a cocktail party to celebrate the appointment of the travel bureau as their official agency in Westmount.

Mr. Huysmans, who is a Belgian by birth and who has resided in Canada for seven years, decided to use his vast travel experience in Europe by opening an agency in Montreal. His modest start in the business a few doors away from his present location two years ago gave him an opportunity to explore the travel potential of the west end of the city and to learn the interests and desires of the traveling public in Canada.

As always, patience, willingness to learn, and a lot of hard work, has brought success.

The facilities of the new and well appointed office and the ability of Mr. Huysmans to prepare itineraries ranging from a weekend in New York to a trip around the world will offer residents of the west end in particular, service, assistance and expert travel advice without cost.

Travel agents derive their income from the transportation companies they represent. The valuable store of information ranging from where-to-go and what-to-see to weather conditions abroad and the world's best shopping buys could never be handled by the busy staffs of the transportation companies themselves.

Therefore by appointing a well-versed and experienced travel agent to serve the public on their behalf, the transportation companies are doing their part in furthering better understanding between peoples of different lands by promoting travel.

GUESTS

Guests at the cocktail party which included local prominent businessmen were as follows:—

Mr. J. P. Agnieray, District Sales Mgr. and Mr. G. Gauvreau Sales Rep. AIR FRANCE; Mrs. D. Rowden, District Sales Rep. ALITALIA; Mr. C. Labelle, District Sales Mgr. and Mr. B. McDougald Sales Rep. As you like it

By LAURENT PRICE

Certainly, Virginia!

A few days ago we received a note from a girl named Virginia. And, as it has always been an old family custom (or curse) to read magazines and letters backwards, the young lady's pretty name — and Christmas a few scant weeks away — almost prompted us to emulate a famous editor of yesteryear and start off haphazardly with an answer something like: "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus . . ."

Restrained from such folly by Uncle Beauregard, who is prone to over-the-shoulder reading, we discovered by more exact perusal that all this damsel had on her mind was a well worded beef on the desirability of having contemporary escorts come closer to the habiliment standards set by girls on dining and dancing dates. Even to the point of putting in a strong plug for the dinner jacket's return to regular and proper use.

Without too much prodding from Uncle Beauregard, who is a sucker for a black or white tie occasion, we agree. Too, and entirely on our own hook, we'll add that lately we've observed girls — probably just like Virginia — dressed to resemble little dreams, out with some very sartorially sub-standard looking slob . . . in smart places, as well. Which means money — or lack of it — was not the excuse.

Our fairly recent perception, according to the department's elderly and correct relative, would have had harsher reactive tones had we viewed the situation a few years ago. Then conditions were really dreary. But, Uncle Beau informed us, the trend now is definitely towards better garmented swains.

Within the foreseeable future, he continued, guys looking like Fred Astaire or Cary Grant should be seen popping in and out of restaurants and supper clubs all over town, garbed in the right attire to set off their lovely companions decorously. It's also safe to assume enthusiastic assistance from clothing manufacturers and haberdashers in their merchandising and promotional efforts will hasten the day. So right back to 1939, say we, but without the boiled shirt front, please!

Hope you feel better for all this assurance, Virginia. However, we'd like to interject one word of warning. If you had some particular boy in mind when you wrote, our advice is not to rush him on the dinner jacket if he's short of dough. Perhaps he has a nice blue suit? Or a grey one?

You never can tell, young lady, in his pocket — among those measly dollars he's rustled up to entertain you — may be his heart.

There is an ancient and painfully true saying "Man is born unto trouble, as the sparks fly upward." It is a fact against which man has been fighting ever since he became man: it is also a fact which has conditioned his growth form savagery to civilization; and also his development from fetishism to Christianity. It may even be said that trouble in some form of hardship has been the cause of all the development that has taken place in the world.

Friday Evening Hour
 The opening session of the Friday Evening Hour and Oneg Shabbat will take place on Friday, November 14th in the Beth Hamedrash. Rabbi Wilfred Shuchat will preside with the participation of the Choral Group. Mr. Allan Bernfeld, chairman of the Friday Evening Hour cordially invites the congregation to note the date and plan to attend.

The children of Israel left the flesh pots of Egypt and faced the rigors of the desert, and thereby passed from slavery to freedom. The Remnant of Judah went into captivity in Babylon and achieved the highest form of religion known at that time. In the times of their comparative prosperity there had been a steady deterioration. In the Second Century B.C. the Jews could have found a fairly easy peace, but they preferred the wilderness under the Macabees and maintained their religion. Jesus of Nazareth carried his resistance to the conventional religion of His day to the Cross and achieved freedom for His people. This is not confined to the Biblical tradition. There is a great deal expressed in a saying of the great Greek tragedian, Aeschylus. He expresses it in two words which we translate: "Learning comes from suffering."

November 10 at 8 p. m. Courses will be offered from 8 to 8.45 o'clock as follows: Bible As The Fountainhead of Learning - Instructor - Mrs. Abraham Wolk; Course In Leadership - Instructor Mr. Sam J. Davidson; Advanced Hebrew Instructor - Abraham Wolk. At 8.45 o'clock all students will assemble for the course "Judaism for The Modern World" conducted by Rabbi Dr. Harry J. Stern. A nominal registration fee is charged and the school for adults is open to the public.

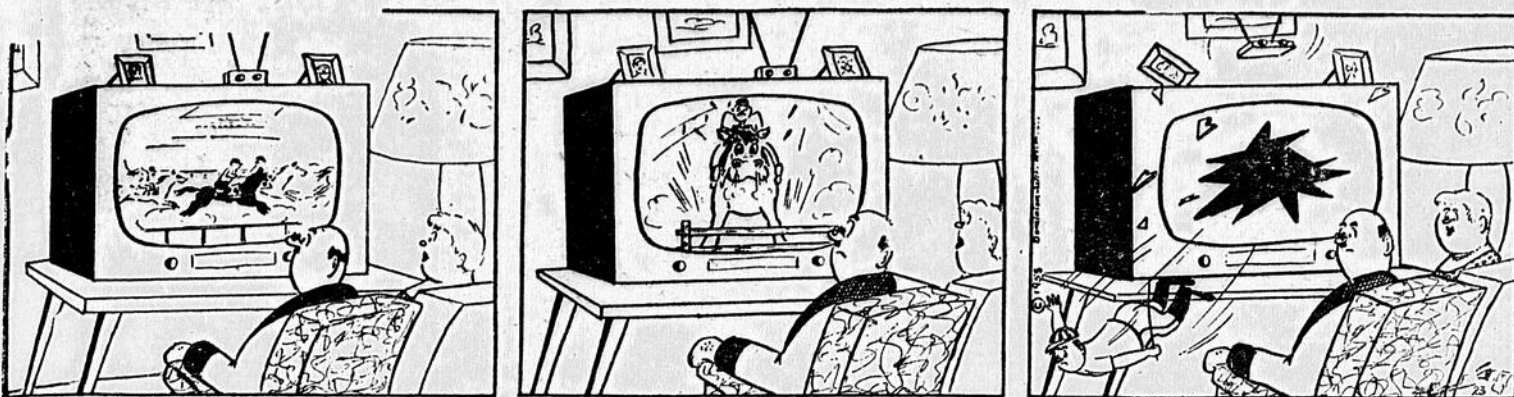

This is all contrary to our modern way of thinking, which places security before everything else; financial and physical security. It is also contrary to the attitude of many sincere Christians whose response to suffering has been: "I do not know what I have done to deserve this." Our Lord tried to correct that attitude 19 centuries ago.

With Our Temple School

There are several things then to say about suffering: The first is that it is a part of human life as we know that life. Not one of us can escape. If nothing else, there is the tragedy of our own dissolution. And yet the suffering is not all tragedy. If we will allow ourselves we are trained and developed by suffering. If life was always easy and comfortable we should grow slack in body and soul. Life was not intended to be easy. In the second place it is not only the sufferer who is developed. It is also the onlooker who suffers with his friend - or, he may even be a stranger. But I sympathize with him; that is, I suffer with him. Sympathy is one of the most desirable characteristics in man; it could never have developed without suffering. Try to imagine what life would be like without sympathy.

The third thing is that sympathy must be expressed both in word and deed. All of this is prompted by the tragedy at Springhill. Our hearts have been torn by the sufferings of men and their families, engaged in the carrying on of their everyday affairs. That seems to be why it is more dreadful than the same number of deaths on the highway on a weekend. It is a concentrated agony. But it also falls into the pattern of this series which has tried to deal with the Nature of God and His world. It is not an easy thing to say that God's world is a hard world, but it is, and it always has been, and as far as we can it always will be. On the other hand we can turn that hardness into a school of character and rise above our own tragedy, and also share in the tragedy of others. And lastly, the fact of the Incarnation shows that God Himself shares in the tragedy in its most extreme form and turns it into salvation. Even the Captain of our salvation was made perfect through suffering.

Chairman of Jewish drive sets $1,000,000 mark

Westmount resident Maxwell S. Pascal, general chairman of the 1958 Joint Campaign for Combined Jewish Appeal and United Israel Appeal has strongly urged all canvassers to work as hard as they can in order that "vital humanitarian services here and abroad will be able to continue."

Mr. Pascal is heading 4,000* volunteer canvassers in a gigantic effort to raise $3,878,800 during the drive which began Monday and which will end November 17.

"The more than 26 causes in Montreal, Israel and in other countries of the world must be fostered," he said. "They represent the tenets of Judaism which places the integrity of the individual uppermost. We cannot afford to let these principles die."

Major non-sectarian beneficiaries in Montreal are Jewish General Hospital, Mount Sinai Sanatorium, Jewish Vocational Service, Herzl Health Centre, Baron de Hirsch Institute and Jewish Child Welfare Bureau, and Neighborhood House.

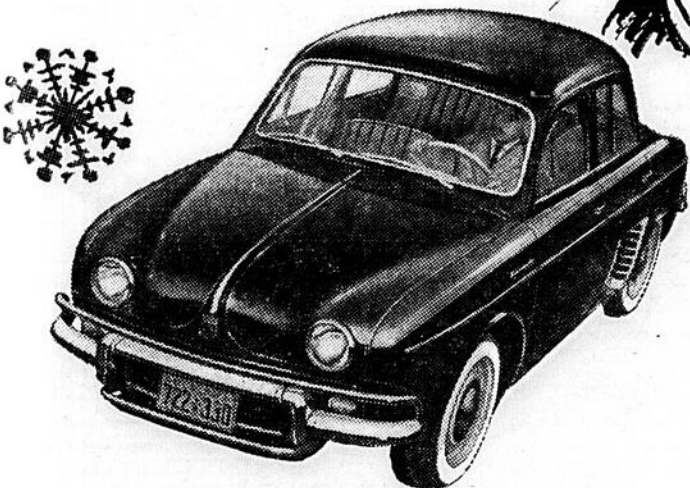

Earlier this week, Percy Caplan, associate chairman of the drive, announced the campaign had reached the $1,000,000 mark. A large percentage of this total was raised in pre-campaign events during the months of September and October.

ABOUT INSURANCE

By
D. R. WESTON

Insurance companies prove to be pretty sticky — in the eyes of the insured, anyway, who has suffered a loss — about insureds not abiding by the clauses in their policies. But there is justification for this attitude; the clauses and conditions written in every policy are there for not only the protection of the insured but also for the insurance company.

It not infrequently happens that a salesman, calling on a prospect, will leave his car unlocked and unattended. More than once samples have been stolen. In one particular case the insurance company refused to meet the claim, stating that the insured had violated the conditions of the policy.

The policy stated that there was no liability "while the property is left unattended in any automobile unless there are visible signs of forcible entry into said automobile." There was further provision that "it is expressly understood and agreed that the insured will at all times use diligence to protect the property insured hereunder from loss or damage." It was held by court that this excluded the plaintiff's right to indemnity under the insuring clause "against loss by theft and risks of transportation."

The court found that the salesman was negligent in leaving valuable property in an unlocked car on a city street.

"There was a breach on his part of the understanding and agreement as contained in the policy and upon which the defendant accepted the risk against loss or damage to the insured property."

Moral: Read and be sure you understand the clauses in every insurance policy you take out.

Further moral: Don't leave your car unlocked and, unattended, in the street.

SAYING OF THE WEEK:
Men are not to be judged by their looks, habits and appearances; but by the character of their lives and conversations, and by their work. It is better to be praised by one's own works than by the words of another—Sir Roger L'Estrange (1616-1704).

Mrs. Gilmour, the bride's mother, was in a gown of sage green lace. She wore a hat and accessories to match.

Mrs. Martin, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of royal blue silk, with a hat of the same shade.

The reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents.

Later, the Rev. and Mrs. Martin left by motor for Vermont, the bride travelling in a suit of grey wool, and wearing a rust hat and black accessories.

Bishop's Messengers are active church workers in far west areas

By LESLIE BELL.

"ARE you still alive?"

Blinding snow and a forty-mile per hour wind ripped the words from the lips of a Bishop's Messenger to her colleague in the rear seat of a dog-sled battling its way across frozen Herb Lake in Northern Manitoba.

"Unfortunately — yes!" shouted the second Messenger trying to laugh.

Who are the Bishop's Messengers and what do they do?

They are a band of women who, for more than thirty years have been used in the Diocese of Brandon to maintain the everyday life, work and fellowship of the Church, in scattered communities with no resident clergy. Licensed by the Bishop to hold Sunday services, to baptize (in emergency only), to prepare people for Confirmation, the Bishop's Messengers teach, nurse, visit and minister to the variegated needs of sparsely populated areas in this oddly shaped Diocese (rather like an artificial leg hung up for the night) which stretches from the United States border almost to the 60th parallel with Brandon as the ankle and Swan River — chosen as the center of the work, where St. Faith's is the Mother House — part way up the shin.

Mobility is the watch-word of the Bishop's Messengers — they go wherever they are needed. Sometimes they remain for years; sometimes, after meeting the immediate need, they hand over their work to others.

As the movement towards the north grew, the Messengers decided in consultation with the Bishop, that St. Faith's house should be moved from Swan River to the Pas. This was accomplished last month. The newly elected Senior Messenger (this office falls vacant every three years) is already going important work at the Government School in the Pas and another Messenger is teaching in a Government School in Dauphin, Man. The Messengers have charge of the Sunday School by post in the Diocese and in summer one or more of them go out on the Sunday School van.

It all began in the summer of 1926 when Miss Marguerita Fowler, OBE, on a visit to friends in West Central Canada had a vision and heard a call. A vision of the spiritual isolation in the vast land she was visiting and a call to do something about it.

On Sunday November 9 Miss Olive Thompson, Bishop's Messenger for 20 years, will address the congregation at Evensong in the Church of the Advent, corner of Wood and Western avenues, at 7 p.m. All interested in this unique women's ministry are invited.

YWCA Carnival starts Nov. 13

The YWCA World Service Carnival opens this year with a fashion show on Thursday, November 13, at 8.30 p.m. Jas. A. Ogilvy's will provide the clothes which will be modelled by members of the YWCA. Imported fashions from several countries will be shown in keeping with the international theme of the carnival. There will also be a penny fair in the snack bar on the same evening.

This carnival, the only fund raising project undertaken by the YWCA at 1355 Dorchester street, W., runs for three days, November 13, 14 and 15. The entire proceeds go to further the work of the YWCA in foreign countries.

On Friday, at 1.15 p.m., there will be a bridge luncheon. Interesting booths on this day will be a gourmet table and a home-cooking table. Other booths open throughout the carnival will include a boutique, jewellery and parcel post, Christmas cards and wrappings, candy, etc.

A swimming demonstration and a Fun Fair will be features of Friday evening.

On Saturday morning from 10 o'clock until 12 noon, a children's party has been planned, with Tom Auburn, the magician, games, movies and a fish pond to delight the participants.

The Young Adult dance in the auditorium and the Fun Fair will take place on Saturday evening, the final night of the carnival.

Remembrance Day

The Christ held tenderly, the shattered souls
And bodies, broken by the cruel war,
And all the pain, and grief, of years, were gone,
Remembering the sword thrust that He bore.

The bruised soul was knit in one again,
And from the Chalice of His hand, arose
The beauty of the light of unknown spheres,
Where sounds no faintest echo of life's woes.

Als will win to hold second place; Ticats to beat Roughriders

Selecting Big Four winners as the schedule moved into the last stretch has not been easy, to say the least.

Last week, we missed on both games, first time since the league started. Since Thanksgiving, the bottom place teams have been causing the experts to sit up and take note.

For Saturday, Als, who are fighting for that Wednesday home game against Ottawa will win over Toronto, to hold second place.

Hamilton, who have shown nothing since they lost to Als three weeks ago should come to life and beat Ottawa on Saturday.

Grads look back at Kerr's day

Warm and sincere tributes were paid to former coach, Doug Kerr, his assistants and a gathering of 1938 Redmen, last McGill football team to win a senior intercollegiate football championship, at the re-union styled "Doug Kerr Day" held at Sir Arthur Currie gymnasium Saturday.

A luncheon sponsored by the McGill Society of Montreal was strictly informal. Kerr and members of his family, his associates, trainer Harry Grimes, players and wives, were seated at a long table, the centre of interest.

No speeches were made save brief remarks by Dave Tennant, president of the Society who presented Kerr with an engraved stein.

It was in the spontaneous remarks of his players on the '38 team, and graduates and faculty members of the period, that the high esteem with which Kerr was held; his instinct for impressing a permanent mark on character, was stressed as more than 400 assembled in the gym.

There was a constant buzz like "Remember the time Kerr . . ." or "Doug said . . ." or "Pop said to me this day . . ."

Later Kerr and his players were serenaded, first by the McGill band, then by the kilted cohorts from Queen's, before the party adjourned to the Stadium for the Queen's-McGill football tussle which the Redmen won 16-13 to make the "Day" a complete success.

Sixteen teams entered in senior 'B' tourney

Sixteen teams are entered in the Senior B competition of the MBL Golden Ball. They have been split into divisions of four teams each.

RCAF St. Hubert, St. Lambert CSA, Unity Boys Club and Golden Knights are in one division, while Lakeshore YMCA, Holy Cross, MacDonald College and Tauras form another group.

The other groups are: Yvon Coutu, Palestre Nationale, Querbes, UBC, and Northmount Y, Westmount Y, SERA and East End Boys Club.

Rugger semi playoff underway Saturday at West Hill, Westmount

Westmount turned in their best display of the season when it was most needed and blanked Barbarians 11-0 last Saturday in a Quebec Rugger League match played at Westmount Park. In other action round the loop Wanderers assured themselves of a play-off berth by whitewashing winless Canadair 22-0 while McGill Redmen dropped a home game to the Bytown Beavers. The Irish were awarded the game against RCAF St. Hubert who were unable to field a side because of flying commitments.

The top four clubs in the standings go into the play-offs which opens Saturday with the final for the provincial championship November 15.

In the crucial tilt at Westmount Park, Barbs, defending champions and league-leaders, started off with a bang and came close to scoring twice in the first five minutes. Only a desperate defence thrown up by the Westies held them at bay.

Barbs used the wind advantage cleverly in the opening period with Dick Hyde many times putting them deep in Westmount territory with long touch finding boots.

Westmount meant business right from the start of the second stanza and the forwards who had been playing well turned on full steam and gradually wore Barbarian into the ground.

A loose bounding ball which the Barbs defence allowed to roll around finally spelled disaster as speedy Geoff Jackson nipped in to gather up the ball, hand-off three would-be tacklers to go over near the posts for Alister Wittet to convert and the Westies were out in front 5-0.

Westmount came close on several other occasions but were unable to break the barrier again for a major score and it was left to big Jim Adam to put the final nails in the coffin with two long range penalty kicks for the 11-0 win.

Wanderers nailed down fourth and last play-off position by easily turning back Canadair 22-0. Peter Brodie-Brown led the scoring parade with two touchdowns with single counters coming from Colin Hudson, Ray Smith and Ken Gordon.

John Davis was back in good kicking form and booted seven points.

PLAYOFF TEAMS

The draw for the play-offs in the Quebec Rugger League was announced by Union officials. Westmount vs Wanderers, Westmount Park, 2.30 p.m.; Barbarians vs Irish, West Hill High School, 2.30 p.m.

Sem's to be played Saturday with the two winning teams meeting one week later for the provincial championship and the newly awarded Mair Shield, emblematic of rugger supremacy in the province.

With only the McGill-Irish game left to compete leaves the standings as:

Warrior cagers in opening MBL win

Warriors from Loyola college got away to a good start in the opening game of the MBL Golden Ball tournament edging out University of Montreal Carabins 55-54.

Coach Doug Potvin of the Warriors had his scorers working on small points before a small crowd at Mont St. Louis gym court.

Alex McAllister was high man for the winning Warriors. The sharp shooting centre forward scored 17 points.

Dan Morgan chipped in with nine while Gerry McQuade, playing a standout game under both back boards, netted eight.

Another defensive standout Ed Baltuonis also contributed seven points to the winning cause.

Carabins were paced in a scoring way by bespectacled Pete McKay who counted 16 points. Bob Forcione scored 11.

Loyola Warriors can clinch grid title with win over Bishop's in tonight's tilt

Loyola Warriors will be out to clinch the Ottawa-St. Lawrence League championship tomorrow night when they meet Bishop's Gaiters at Trenholme Park starting at 8:00 p.m.

The Warriors are currently riding in first place after a hard fought 21-7 victory over St. Pat's on Sunday. Unbeaten and untied Warriors have eight points while Bishop's in second with six.

By defeating Bishop's, Loyola would knock their nearest rival out of the running and, regardless of the outcome of their last game against Macdonald College on Nov. 15, they would be league champs.

Should Warriors come through with the big win, it will mark the first time since 1947 that a Loyola team has finished on top. It would also be a fitting climax to the Warriors' first football season since the College dropped extramural play two years ago.

Bishop's dropped their opener against Macdonald College 19-6 but have since improved with two shutout victories over RMC and in a return encounter with Mac.

Veteran halfbacks Andy Davis and Bill Badger spearhead a strong running and aerial attack which has piled up a total of 60 points this year.

Bishop's, however, will have their hands full against Warriors tomorrow night. The Maroon and White team decisively defeated a tough Ottawa St. Pat's squad, league champions for the past two years, by a solid 21-7 score.

Quarterback Bob Beauregard led the Warriors attack by passing to speedy end John Roche for two TD's and by carrying one over himself. A strong Warrior defense held the vaunted St. Pat's single wing offense to one touchdown and came up with crucial pass interceptions and fumble recoveries to successfully scuttle the Irish attack.

The Warriors were the first to score in capitalizing on two early errors by St. Pat's. Two consecutive third down passes from center Bernie MacIsaac eluded punter Gordie Ventura.

The Irish recovered the first but charging Warrior end Larry Sheehan recovered the second on the St. Pat's five yard line. Two plays later Beauregard went around right end for the TD. Fullback George Bedard converted.
