Local Red Cross Drive Quota Not Yet Reached

Canvassers Working Hard to Make Quota by Saturday

Small Contributions as Acceptable as Large Ones—Give as Much as Possible

Saturday of this week is the last day of the present Red Cross campaign to raise $90,000 with which to carry on its work of relief of human suffering. The public is being asked to give all possible to this worthwhile cause and especially are the people of Huntingdon being asked to contribute, as the quota for this district is only about half what it should be.

The quota for Huntingdon was set at $2500, and it was hoped by the committee in charge of the drive, that this amount would be exceeded by a considerable sum. So far, one very large donation has been made and was reported in the last issue, the sum being $500 and was given by the Huntingdon Woolen Mills. This amount has done much to put Huntingdon's quota up, but we still have a long way to go to reach the objective set.

Local Red Cross officials are not entirely satisfied with the results of the canvass so far, but they hope before the deadline is reached on Saturday, that Huntingdon will have reached its quota. At the time of writing this article, the total which had been collected was only $1,319.25, which is very little more than half of the amount set. Huntingdon is always known for its generous treatment of all worthwhile projects, and the committee hopes that this good name will be kept up.

The objective for the Province of Quebec is set at $2,000,000. Last year the Quebec division of the Red Cross operated on a budget of $1,146,000 of which $977,000 went for work, and $169,000 for maintenance of the long-range health plan so vital to rural parts of the Province.

Continuation of all this work, some of it on a scale greater than ever, constitutes the programme of the Red Cross in Quebec for the year to come. To implement that programme, money is urgently needed because the Red Cross treasury is empty, and the Red Cross is nothing more than the machinery for doing good with the funds given it by generous residents of Huntingdon, the Province of Quebec, or elsewhere in Canada. If the money is not forthcoming, the Red Cross may not be able to carry on. The sufferers will be Canadian fighting heroic merchant sailors, victims of the blitz in Britain, men in training camps and fortified areas in the Dominion.

As this is the last appeal that can be made before the campaign closes, the Huntingdon local Red Cross Committee is urging all to give as much as they possibly can. Such assistance may be the very means of keeping the Red Cross functioning and providing its many valuable services to those in need of them. Therefore, it is your duty to assist in every way possible to provide the funds.

FORMER SHERIFF

Memorial Service for Douglas Hampson

A Memorial Service will be held at St. John's Anglican Church, Huntingdon, on Sunday, May 24th, at 11 a.m. for the late Sgt. Wireless Air Gunner Douglas E. J. Hampson, R.C.A.F., who was killed in action over Western Germany on August 15th, 1941. At this service a Memorial Tablet will be dedicated.

Boy Injured in Fall From Dam

Guy Lefebvre, 7 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lefebvre, of Huntingdon, suffered severe head injuries, on Sunday, when he fell from the cement pier at the dam on the Chateauguay River, at Huntingdon, to the rocks thirteen feet below. The lad is reported to have lost his balance when he leaned over the ledge of the pier to look at a fish a schoolmate had caught.

He fell head-first on to the rocks, the fall being broken partially when his shoulder struck a companion who was playing directly below the pier. His father, who is employed at O'Connor's Garage, rushed him to Chateauguay Barracks hospital, being unable to contact a doctor in town. He was later taken to Barrie Memorial Hospital, Ormstown, where seven stitches were necessary to close a wound in his head. The boy was returned to his home the same evening, where he is progressing favourably.

Two Injured in Car Accident

Car Stands on End—Complete Wreck

A serious car accident occurred on the Ridge Road near Athelstan, on Monday evening about 6 p.m., which involved two young men, one a civilian and one a soldier. The names of the victims are Arthur Boucher, son of Jos. Boucher of Athelstan; the soldier is Ernest Reid, stationed at the Chateauguay Barracks, and son of George Reid, of Glemish, Que.

The car, a 1937 coupe model, was being driven from Athelstan to town No. 52 Highway, on the Ridge Road, when for some cause unknown, the car turned and struck a large rock near the side of the road. The force of the impact against the rock, caused the car to stand right up on its front end and practically wrap itself around a large tree. The occupants were pinned within the car and were extricated with much difficulty.

Parts of the body of the car had to be taken apart before the two occupants could be released. Arthur Boucher was very badly injured and more critically than Reid, who escaped with cuts and bruises. Dr. McCrimmon of Huntingdon was called and took Boucher to the Barrie Memorial Hospital, Ormstown. Ernest Reid was brought back to Chateauguay Barrack Military Hospital. The car was a total wreck and had only recently been purchased by Boucher. Arthur Boucher is suffering a lacerated forehead and concussion, according to information obtained from the doctor. Enquiry at the barracks as to Reid's condition, elicited the information that he is coming along and doing nicely.

Persons who viewed the scene of the accident report that the tree is marked quite high up, where the car struck it.

To Control Traffic in Huntingdon

Mrs. Cameron Dies, Aged 94

Had Resided in Huntingdon Almost Since Founding

Noted for her gracious hospitality, Mrs. Cameron, formerly Elizabeth Mackenzie Wallace, and widow of Dr. Alexander Cameron, M.L.A., died at her residence in Huntingdon, on Wednesday, May 15th, 1942, in her 94th year. Born and educated in Huntingdon, she was the eldest daughter of the Rev. Alexander Wallace and his wife, Mary Ann Millar. Her father was second minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Huntingdon.

Her husband, Dr. Cameron, who died 45 years ago, was a native of Pictou County, Nova Scotia, and was educated at Pictou Academy and Glasgow University. He practised medicine for most of his life in Huntingdon and was for many years district representative in the Provincial House.

Being of Scottish stock who settled in Huntingdon almost at the time of its founding, Mrs. Cameron always took an active interest in the welfare of her community, and in the church where her father once served as minister.

One daughter, Mrs. C. J. Brooke of Ottawa, predeceased her three years ago. She was also preceded by two sons: William Fletcher Cameron, who died in childhood, and J. Alex. Cameron, a well-known Montreal notary, and a very prominent member of the Masonic Fraternity.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. W. D. Shanks, of Huntingdon; a sister, Mrs. Angus MacNaughton, of Montreal; seven grandchildren, Mrs. Farrer Cochrane and Dr. Charles Vyner Brooke of Ottawa, Mrs. William H. Aird and Lieut. J. Ross Cameron, R.C.A., of Montreal, Miss Helen Shanks, R.C.A.M.C., of Huntingdon, and Mr. W. Cameron Shanks of Arvida, Que.; and by three great grandchildren.

The funeral service was held from her late residence on Friday afternoon. It was conducted by the Rev. Dr. J. B. Maclean, minister of St. Andrew's Church, assisted by the Very Rev. Dr. Malcolm Campbell of Montreal and the Rev. W. S. Hatcher of St. John's Church, Huntingdon.

Sherbrooke Telegram Changes Management For Duration

An announcement contained in last week's issue of the Sherbrooke Telegram said that the paper would be published by the Granby Printing & Publishing Co. Limited, for the duration of the war. Mr. A. W. Reid and his daughter Miss Olga Reid, who have been editing and managing the affairs of the paper, have decided to throw in their lot on the side of active war duties. Mr. Reid has also been publishing another weekly paper, the Coaticook Observer, and this will be published by the Granby Printing & Publishing Co. Limited. Mr. Walter Legge is the owner of this latter establishment, and to him now falls the task of publishing these two papers for the duration of the war.

The announcement says that it is a pooling of resources to assist in the war effort. While Mr. Reid and his daughter do their bit in serving the country, the two papers will continue as usual. The people of Sherbrooke and Coaticook will feel a source of pride that these prominent persons have laid aside their civilian enterprises in order to serve their country. It is such sacrifice as this which will be the means of winning this war.

Garbage to be Collected Twice Each Week

Additional Benches to be Made and Placed in Park

At an adjourned meeting of the Huntingdon Town Council, on Monday evening, a number of bills were read and ordered paid. An account for the Filter Plant, from Frances Hankin and Company for $394.98 was held over to the next meeting. After some discussion regarding the account from the Shawinigan Water and Power Company for the filter plant it was decided that a 30 horse-power auxiliary motor should not be used in conjunction with a 50 horse-power motor until this company had checked on the amount of electricity used at the plant.

Renée Langevin came before the Board asking for a card of admittance to a Montreal hospital. After due consideration his request was granted.

Discussion arose regarding the traffic situation on Chateauguay street on Wednesday and Saturday evenings. It was decided that D. A. Moody, Town Engineer, should be appointed to direct traffic and assist Police Chief Seton on these evenings. It was pointed out at the meeting that motorists were not obeying traffic regulations in the town. In an effort to remedy this situation, stop signs, etc., will be repaired and fines imposed on persons who break the law.

Alderman Michaud stated that a number of benches were needed at the park. It was decided that a carpenter should be engaged to make the necessary benches, which will be similar to those at Saucy Park, in Valleyfield.

The secretary reported that he had received no tenders for the removal of garbage in the town. After some deliberation, the Mayor suggested that the town hire carters to collect the garbage twice a week, on Tuesday and Fridays, and dispose of it at the town dump, on the Plank road. People wishing to dispose of their garbage in this manner are to notify the town secretary and pay him two dollars for the summer season, which will end on or about November first. Residents of Huntingdon are not obliged to avail themselves of this service, but if they do, the two dollar fee must be paid in advance. It was also suggested that the refuse, from day to day, should be wrapped in paper before it is placed in the containers.

The Aldermen debated for some time regarding the type of vehicle that should be used to transfer the garbage from the town to the dump. It was decided that only trucks carrying insurance would be hired. As there are very few truckers in town who carry insurance on their vehicles, and as the cost of hiring trucks over a period of years would be very high, the Mayor suggested that the town should purchase a truck. Aldermen A. A. Lunan and R. E. McWinn were appointed to inquire about the price of trucks, new or second-hand.

Canadian Legion All Stars Thrill Soldier Audience

Snappy Variety Program at Chateauguay Barracks Provides Very Amusing Evening

The Canadian Legion All Stars presented an excellent and varied programme at Chateauguay Barracks on Thursday evening. The entire cast, with the exception of three, are from Montreal and devote their time and talent free of charge in order that the soldiers stationed at various training centres in M.D. 4, and their friends, may be entertained without cost. The troupe performs under the able supervision of Mr. George Layton and his wife, who acts as Master of Ceremonies.

The opening number was a song, "Hi, Soldier," sung by fourteen talented singers. Among this number were five tap dancers, who evoked much applause from the audience with their performance. The next number was a snappy variety act, Miss May Curran, who proved to be a highly talented musician. The third act was something new for the men at the barracks. Mr. Romeo Duval, who claims to be "the man with no feeling," proceeded to astonish the men by startling the ladies by having two soldiers from the barracks push a three-inch steel instrument, fashioned like a hatpin, into his back. He then thrust another pin into his side, which he later removed to the amazement of the men. The light of his performance was sewing two buttons onto his chest. He produced a long needle and thread, which he ran into his body, securely attaching the buttons to his chest, much to the amazement of a woman who saw a button on a coat. After several similar demonstrations, he allowed the soldiers to remove the instruments.

After Duval's thrilling act, Mrs. Layton, Master of Ceremonies, asked permission to make a personal comment to one of the audience. She then addressed Mrs. Beckingham, wife of Mr. W. W. Beckingham, who is in charge of the canteen and supervisor of Canadian Legion activities at Chateauguay Barracks. Mrs. Layton stated that Mrs. Beckingham, as representative of the Women's Auxiliary, Montreal, had done more for that organization than any other woman in the Province of Quebec. Mrs. Beckingham, although taken by surprise, made a short reply in a very able manner.

A tap dancing act followed, given by Miss Peggy Landry. Peggy comes from Rouse's Point, N.Y., and travels by auto with her parents to each show sponsored for the benefit of the soldiers. This talented actress, who danced to the tune, "Smoke Gets in My Eyes," drew rounds of applause from the entire audience.

Miss Landry's performance was followed by popular songs sung by Miss Mary Wood. Miss Wood was a recent winner on the Ken Sobel amateur programme which is heard every Sunday over a combined network. Among her more popular renditions was the popular melody, "Somebody Else is Taking My Place."

The next number was a jazz toe dance to the tune, "Love Nest." This number was under the direction of Miss Betty Spiers and her pupils. It was followed by a ballet dance by Miss Doreen Gilday. Miss Gilday's brothers are serving in Canada's Armed Forces. Peter Miller, who is a veteran of the First Great War, accompanied by his pupil, Miss Terry Landry, presented the next number, which was a ballroom dance to the tune of "Tea for Two."

A comedy act was featured mainly through the efforts of officers stationed at Chateauguay Barracks and at Valleyfield Training Centre. Corporal Rene Normandin, ex-pro-

Less Gasoline In Canada For Tourists

20 Gallons of Gasoline Total Quantity Allowed

Visitors to Canada will only be able to purchase four units, or twenty gallons of gasoline, while in this country, effective at once, because of the growing shortage of this fuel.

When rationing of gasoline became effective on April 1 last, the quota for visitors to the Dominion was set at twenty gallons for less than forty-eight hours, and one hundred gallons for anything over this period. A statement has now been issued by G. R. Cottrill, Oil Controller for Canada, abolishing the booklet containing twenty units (100 gallons) which had been specially prepared for the use of visitors who intended remaining in Canada more than 48 hours. This statement also points out that visitors to the Dominion will only be able to obtain a booklet of four units (20 gallons) for their stay, no matter how long it may be. Visitors will only be able to receive one such booklet per year, and should they experience any gasoline shortage, will have to make their own arrangements about extricating themselves from their difficulty.

In commenting on the new regulations, Hon. C. R. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, stated: "It is unfortunate that we have had to take such a drastic step, but it became inevitable through the gasoline shortage in Canada."

High School Principals Meet in Quebec City

Many Immediate Problems Discussed—Changes Proposed in Some Study Courses

Fifteen members of the High School Principals' Association gathered in the new Quebec High School at their annual Spring meeting on Saturday, May 9th. The morning sessions were presided over by the president, D. S. McMullan, Principal of Quebec High School, who welcomed the members and their wives and outlined the program for the day. The business session was devoted to the discussion of several immediate problems—proposed changes in the Latin Course of Study, larger Administrative Units, improvement in the arrangements for Supplemental Examinations in September and the difficulties arising from the present shortage of teachers. A motion was adopted asking the Protestant Committee to appoint a teacher representative to the High School Leaving Board.

At the second session, two papers were presented. D. C. Munroe read one on "Teaching from Syllabus in the Social Sciences," and D. S. McMullan gave a second on "Teaching from Syllabus in the Experimental Sciences." Mr. Munroe referred particularly to the new course in World History for Grades 10 and XI, while Mr. McMullan discussed methods in Chemistry, Physics and Biology. Discussions followed each of these papers, in which Mr. E. S. Giles, Inspector

Toxoid Week -- May 18 to 25 Toxoid Prevents Diphtheria

Precaution is Better Than Cure—Campaign Seeks to Oust Diphtheria

The family lived some distance from the town on a farm of fifty acres in a somewhat isolated district. The river ran close by and the five happy children enjoyed the swimming and fishing in the summer, as well as the sleighing and skating in the crisp winter months.

Father and Mother worked hard, early and late, to provide food and clothing for the little ones, so full of life and vigour, and to some extent an education was being given each one as they came along.

Suddenly two of the children developed sore throats and the mother, not knowing it to be other than ordinary colds with sore glands, treated them just as most mothers would do in out-of-the-way places where doctors are seldom seen, except in cases of severe illness.

Mother tried to keep the kiddies comfortable and warm, thinking that time and tender care would cure all, but her kind ministrations did not seem effective. The boy and girl of ten and twelve years grew steadily worse and the other children were now sick also.

Finally in distraction the doctor was sent for, but it was TOO LATE, for when he arrived the two children had already died. He made a hasty examination and found that Diphtheria was the cause.

Further examination disclosed the fact that the other children were already in an advanced stage of the disease and, in less than a week all five were buried side by side in the little cemetery.

Kindly neighbors did everything possible to lighten the terrible blow, but the fifty acre farm with its beautiful rolling hills, the forest and winding river, at once became as desolate to the parents as the most forsaken place the world ever knew.

Where so much life, happiness and expectancy existed just a few weeks before, sadness beyond human expression now reigned supreme.

This all happened prior to Toxoid week. Toxoid treatments such as are now being freely provided by medical health authorities to tens of thousands of children, would have completely averted this terribly tragic story. And yet, well-meaning folk, either through ignorance or stupidity, still obstruct the advance of preventive methods, as they did in regard to vaccination against smallpox.

Parents everywhere should follow the counsel of the most outstanding medical authorities in the world today by making sure that their children are safeguarded against Diphtheria through toxoid treatments.

The Health League of Canada is determined that every child in Canada should be given Toxoid treatment and thereby protected

Huntingdon, Wed., May 20th, 1942

Conscription Issue in Quebec

EVENTS of the past week at Ottawa and in Quebec have been of such a nature as to arouse public interest over the entire Dominion. The resignation of Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, supplied the dynamite which caused an eruption among thinking people all over Canada. Following on this came repercussions from other quarters, which had equal bombshell proportions. There appeared for a time as if there would be serious complications in this province, but some of the violence of the storm seems to have died down. Of course, it may only be a lull to the gathering again of the storm clouds.

As forecast by many writers on political matters, the Plebiscite would bring its complications whichever way it went, Yes or No. In a general survey before the vote was taken, it was thought that there would be a greater number of "No's" throughout the country, than actually was the case. Quebec's almost solid "No" vote was not surprising, but there was a little surprise that it should be the outstanding province in this respect. The general result for the Dominion, however, was very definitely "Yes."

In view of the events of the past week at Ottawa and in the Quebec Legislature, will Quebec be allowed to impose its will upon the whole of Canada and cause the Government at Ottawa to sway from a determined course of action? The vote was to free the hands of the Government and release it from its election promises. There was no hint at conscription being immediately put into effect, merely a clear the decks for action command, was asked for. It is our belief that Mr. King does not intend to immediately conscript men for service overseas. He asked for a free hand, and it was granted. It stands to reason that certain preliminary changes in Acts and introduction of new legislation, must of necessity follow. We believe it is Mr. King's idea to merely pave the way in a preparedness program against such times as real danger threatens, or the call for men is increased. Such a call must come, if there is to be any real action in Europe and elsewhere in the near future. If Mr. King has his plans carefully laid in advance, it will be a simple matter to implement them. Canada will be prepared, the people of Canada will be prepared, the articles of war will be prepared. We will not be like France and the other countries, bewildered, surprised, befuddled and with our government not knowing what it should do. Therefore, Mr. King must introduce changes and measures, which, while they may look very much like a fast entry into conscription, may only be preparing the way in case such steps become actually necessary. Past experience has taught us that we cannot afford to wait until the actual moment for action has arrived, we must act at once to meet every possible necessity as quickly as it can be foreseen. Even then we may be too late.

The action of Quebec in voting "No" is not helping the war effort, it is like playing a delaying action. It is just the type of thing that Hitler is looking for. He likes to see the people of the countries he hopes to conquer, start quarrelling among themselves, he likes better still to see the men in governmental positions come out openly in opposition to such issues as the present one. Hitler knows that while they are arguing on such matters, the attention to actual war affairs is diverted. Internal dissension has caused the loss of almost every country which Hitler has overrun. It is in such times that Quislings begin to take hold. The whisper which rises in crescendo until it is a shout and overpowers the sound that come from the right thinking populace. We cannot wait in this war, until the blow is struck, we must act to forestall it. Our Democracy gives the right to every person to state his views and to have his opinions. But it does not give the right to any one person to force such opinions on all other persons to the extent that minority, and not majority, rules. Such is the attitude of the Quebec members of parliament in the Federal House, who have sided with Hon. Mr. Cardin. Such is the attitude of the people of Quebec who voted "No" in the Plebiscite. They want to force their opinion on the whole of Canada, after the majority has stated otherwise.

While we live in Quebec, and the broad statement Quebec, has been used in this editorial, it does not mean that every one in this province voted "No." Thousands of persons said "Yes" in Quebec Province, and they must be defended and segregated from the "No's". When such statements as that used by Mr. Chalout, in the Quebec Legislature, are made, it is time for a defense. The statement follows: "If Quebec's point of view is not respected at Ottawa, there is only one solution. Let Quebec get out of the Confederation, Mr. Chalout said. If it is attempted to force conscription on Quebec, let the Government face its responsibilities, and face the danger of civil war, the member said in his concluding remarks."

Imagine such a statement being made in Germany. Then imagine the consequences which would follow such a statement. The very fact that Mr. Chalout can make such a speech without fear of consequences, should be proof positive to every right thinking person in Quebec, that Canada and the British constitution is worth defending. Even if to defend it, we have to go to Europe or the farthest points of the earth. The recent sinkings of ships in the St. Lawrence, by Nazi submarines, should be further proof that Canada is not safe. There is always the possibility that we may be attacked. If the attack is made from the St. Lawrence, where would the most logical point be for such? Quebec, Montreal, and the Province itself. In the face of this should there be a division of opinion in this province, which might also cause similar division throughout our Dominion?

Mr. King must face the matter squarely. He must put the welfare of the country and its people as a whole, first and foremost. He must not give way to the few and sacrifice the masses. He must show the same determination in the face of crisis, as did Prime Minister Churchill, when Britain stood alone. Concessions to Quebec have gone on long enough, the time has come to be firm and adamant. There must be unity in all we do and say. If there are any differences to settle, let them wait until we have won the war, but let the matter of winning the war be our first consideration.

The Last Call

THE $2,000,000 appeal of the Canadian Red Cross, which commenced throughout the province of Quebec on May 11th, has won the whole-hearted and generous support of the men, women and children in every city, town, village and rural point from the Gaspé coast to the mining sections of Noranda, and from the most northern sections of the province to the United States border.

In Huntingdon, Red Cross canvassers under the direction of James E. Barrett, have thus far collected subscriptions totalling $1,307.25, according to reports at this writing from the local Red Cross campaign headquarters. This is only about half of the objective.

The campaign ends on Saturday of this week, May 23rd, so we again urge you to give all you can and see that the Huntingdon quota is reached by that time.

A report from the provincial headquarters in the Confederation Building, Montreal, indicates that the people of this province have really "taken the Red Cross appeal to their hearts" and are working with enthusiastic concentration on obtaining the $2,000,000 quota set for Quebec.

The campaign co-chairman, J. Colin Kemp and Hon. L. Mercier Gouin, have issued a special message, however, stressing that a complete canvass and generous contributions will be necessary and that every cent of the two million dollars will be needed if the Red Cross is to carry on its ever-increasing scope of work.

During the past week a striking example of the readiness of the Red Cross was shown at a small town on the eastern coast when the Red Cross was called upon to provide care for the survivors of the two freighters torpedoed in the St. Lawrence River. Within two hours of receiving the call for assistance the Red Cross representatives at this town had arranged for supplies of clothing, such as socks and sweaters and other available woollens, as well as food and other comforts. He also arranged for volunteer nurses and doctors to meet the ships crews in case any of them were in need of medical attention. In case the emergency should be larger than was anticipated a wire was also sent to Red Cross House in Montreal and supplies were made ready in case they were needed.

Thus the Red Cross stood ready for the first disaster of enemy action within Canadian waters during the present conflict.

It is because of the ever-growing need for all types of Red Cross work such as prisoners of war parcels, blood clinic, supplies to the armed forces, aid to civilian bombed victims and its wide programme of activities on the home-front that the $2,000,000 asked for within this province is so urgently needed.

A Salute to Montreal

THIS week the people of Montreal are celebrating the Tercentenary of the founding of that city. Three hundred years ago Montreal first took its shape as a city. It was in mid-May, 1642, when a band of pioneers, three score of them, headed by Sieur de Maisonneuve, landed on the shore and set up camp. This was to be the founding of Montreal. It was dedicated to the Virgin Mary and given the name Ville Marie, and was intended as a missionary venture. Many were the fights these first settlers of Montreal had with the Indians, and many exciting stories are told of those days. But despite hardships and setbacks this great city has become the Dominion's largest centre and more than a million persons who make up the population of Montreal, are celebrating the event. Closely allied with the development of Montreal, the Chateauguay Valley feels a certain amount of pride in being a close neighbor of the large metropolis. Montreal has become the market for a large amount of the produce gleaned by our farmers from their farms, and thus this great city means much to this district. Such being the case, the people of the Chateauguay Valley are as interested in the Tercentenary of Montreal, as the people of Montreal themselves. Many of our local citizens are as well acquainted with the growth of Montreal, as the older citizens of that city. In historical writings of the district of the St. Lawrence which takes in Huntingdon, Chateauguay and Montreal, many of the settlers originally came to that city and then journeyed on to these parts. Thus, we in Chateauguay-Huntingdon have much in common with the City of Montreal. It is our railway centre, the point on which we converge to make contact with the different larger concerns we have to do business with, and it is our supply centre. In dealing with Montreal, we are also contacting the largest city in this great Dominion. We are in direct negotiation with a nerve centre of commerce that reaches all over the world, and probably one of the largest shipping points in the British Empire. Not only does the shipment of merchandise go out from Montreal by the ocean liners, but it is shipped in, reshipped by land across the Dominion to Vancouver, and then via ocean liner again to the Far East. Therefore, we people of the Chateauguay Valley, salute the City of Montreal, its Mayor and Aldermen and other civic bodies, and its teeming million or so citizens, and congratulate them on reaching the 300-year mark. May Montreal continue to forge ahead in historical and business successes for hundreds more years to come.

From Manuscripts of The Late ROBERT SELLAR

Forbes lived on the Flats and his store is where the man now is. He gave credit and worked many settlers out of their lots. His wife was an American and a Presbyterian. She was the cause of building the Russelltown church.

A number of settlers on the upper road of Havelock and Hemmingford had been seeders and they wanted to form a congregation. A minister was secured and a meeting called to organize, when those who went took their certificates of membership. Before opening proceedings, the minister called the men together privately and telling them he had seen informed many were Free Masons, they must promise to leave before being enrolled as members of the new congregation. This decided those who were Masons not to join and when, on the Sunday following, the minister dispensed the sacrament in the Robson schoolhouse, when the invitation to approach was given the wives rose but the men sat. Then the truth came out and the movement failed for the time being, while the Masons turned in and helped Mrs. Forbes, who could never have built her church but for that minister's unreasonableness about Free Masonry. The Secession church eventually established at Robson's was always a weak body.

Joseph Bouchette, then a young man, was sent to survey Hinchinbrook. He laid out the three first concessions and on running out a new line was so disgusted on finding it crossed the last one he had run, that he threw up the job; this I had from the men who assisted him. The lines of Hinchinbrook were badly drawn and the lots are irregular in size. Lallene (pronounced La-len) the surveyor did a good business at one time but lost all by Ames and Lewis. He died while living between Centreville, N.Y., and the Lakes. A daughter was married to Geo. Abbott. Barrett had learned surveying in England had had to qualify here and served accordingly for a while under Lallene, who left Canada in 1837 because of sympathizing with the Rebellion.

GEO. SAYER—Elliott told me on the march back of Hampton's army, they encamped on his place, burned his fences, ate up his potatoes and destroyed his hives for the honey. On Bowron's coming he got Thos. Pringle's lot in compensation, and afterwards moving to Burke, received $400 from the U.S. government. He said they threatened to send him back to Chateauguay corners as a prisoner. I knew a U.S. soldier at Champlain who had been with Hampton. He said they were poorly clothed, trousers short, short socks and shoes. They waded the Chateauguay at head of rapids and were miserably cold after it. He would not say much about the skirmishing, being ashamed of his officers. I also knew a French-Canadian who had been with de Salaberry. He laughed at the idea of the affair being a battle. Allan Munro, while coming up the river one day, saw a keg at the bottom. He got out and pried it out of the sand, thinking it was part of Hampton's treasure. It proved to be a powder keg. I heard McWattie. Once at Percy's tavern he let the Bible fall, from being under liquor.

WM. MILLER—We belonged to Dairy, Scotland, and came to the Bay of Chaleurs, near Dalhousie, in 1817. We stayed there until 1823, when we left, and took land in the Seigneurie. The Scotch Congregation was then being opened and we went in. We came up the river in canoes, and walked across, guided by the blazes on the trees. There were one or two before us but not long. The timber was very heavy. The Ste-Martine gristmill was opened the year we came. It is now used as the curing mill.

PURPOSE OF SCHOOLS

Speaking before the Ontario Educational Association in Toronto, Easter week, Dr. H. L. Forkner, of Columbia University, bluntly told the teachers that the schools of today are too full of stuff that is no use. The schools, after all, he declared were for the express purpose of preparing young people for what is going to face them after they get out into the world and learning the dates and names of a lot of battles was not going to help them. Certainly the study of the causes of war and the effects were of the utmost importance but the actual memorizing of dates was useless. Not enough attention, he felt, was placed on the life surrounding the students out of school hours. "The responsibility of the schools doesn't stop until a youngster has found his place in the world and it is directly up to the schools to fit him for this place."

Did not Prof. Forkner speak much truth? Experience with graduates of the schools has been that they are found with minds burdened with a heap of information on many subjects, but apparently lack-

WEEK IN OTTAWA

The United Nations air conference now being held at Ottawa is no casual meeting of representatives of friendly powers. It is unquestionably of very great importance and may materially help to sharpen the sword of victory. In the capital are about 100 technical experts and administrative leaders of the air forces of eleven nations joined in the imperative task of defeating the Axis powers. The immediate reason for calling the conference together is to coordinate the air training facilities of the American continent. Whether there will be a physical exchange of instructors and students across the frontier is a thing which the conference may decide. If the U.S. sends some airmen for instruction in Canada, this country will be prepared to receive them. But beyond this, and irrespective of actual decisions by the conference, there will be the exchange of essential information not alone on training matters but on all important questions of air warfare.

The conference meets at a fateful hour in history, when the hardening of the turf of the battle line in Russia has unleashed not only the assembled Nazi force but also the full striking power of our Russian ally. Thoughtful Canadians will realize that the future of Canada hangs a great deal more on the resisting power of the Russians at Kerch and their driving spirit at Kharkov, and elsewhere along the 2000 mile battleline than on the sporadic activities of a German U-boat in the St. Lawrence. Canada's frontiers it is recognized are everywhere that the allied forces are at grips with the enemy. This, however, does not mean that Canadians are not vitally interested in the protection of our coasts which the defence ministers have given assurance are being alertly watched. There is a difference of opinion which has been expressed in the house on navy minister Macdonald's statement that future sinkings will not be announced. Mr. Macdonald, however, has told the house that the decision that this course will be followed when such announcements might be of value to the enemy was reached in full consultation with and full approval of his advisers and also of a member of the British Naval Intelligence service who has been in the capital.

During the past week in the progress of discussing the war appropriation of two billion dollars, defence ministers and the minister of munitions and supply have been giving an accounting of the work of their departments in moulding Canada's military forces. Members from all parts of the house agreed with C. G. Power, air minister when he said that the calling of the air conference in Canada was a tribute to the remarkable achievements of the joint air training plan. What this country has done in air training over the past two and a half years will be an open book to the delegates of the allied nations. The annual output of airmen is 25 per cent higher than originally forecast, and the date of full production of the schools was reached in December 1941, four months before the date originally set. The estimated cost of the joint plan had risen from $642,000,000 to $824,000,000. Of the total cost Canada's commonwealth partners, Britain, Australia and New Zealand pay an agreed part. A considerable number of the graduates of the 90 schools in Canada have been put in the home establishment but much the larger number have gone to Britain and are taking part in every front where the British are fighting and in the bombings of military objectives in Germany and France.

C. D. Howe minister of munitions and supply has given an encouraging account of the work of factories and shipyards in Canada. In the fight to keep open the sealanes, Canada is now launching one 10,000 ton merchant ship every four days and the output will be increased to one every three days, while the yards on the seaboard and the great lakes are "full-out" in the restricting sales of new, retreaded, and used tires, new and used tubes, and retreading services

Only a limited few, the owners of essential eligible vehicles, may now obtain usable tires or tubes, or retreading services. Apart from sales permitted by the new regulations, no person may buy or sell, borrow or lend, barter, give away, mortgage, burn, cut, destroy or otherwise dispose of any such tire or tube. Eligible vehicle owners are divided into three classes, on this basis:

Class: Who may buy:	What may be bought:	How purchases may be made:
"A" Physicians, Visiting nurses, Firefighters, Police, Certain trucks, etc.	New, retreaded, or used tires; new or used tubes; retreading services.	To buy new tire or tube, retreaded tire or retreading service, purchaser must apply for Ration Permit to the nearest office of Wartime Prices and Trade Board: (For used tire or used tube, see Class "C").
"B" War Technicians, War supply inspectors, Taxi owners, etc.	Retreaded or used tires; used tubes; retreading services. He must prove necessity to any authorized dealer and fill out with the dealer a Purchase Certificate. Classes "A" and "B" may also buy used tires and tubes under the same conditions.

FULL DETAILS OF THE NEW ORDER ARE OBTAINABLE FROM ANY TIRE DEALER

Very severe penalties will be imposed for any infractions of the new regulations. The tire dealers of Canada are co-operating with the Government in the efficient operation of the order, and in its enforcement. It is their patriotic duty to repair and legally resell all usable tires in their possession, and turn over at once to the nearest salvage agency any scrap rubber they have on hand or receive in the future, including all tires and tubes no longer serviceable.

Every person, whether a dealer or not, must report by May 31 to the Tire Rationing Representative at his nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office, all tires and tubes in his possession on May 15, which are not scrap, and which are not on the running wheels and one spare rim of each vehicle he owns.

SUGARLESS DESSERTS AND SALADS

Not all housewives reading this can remember back to World War No. 1, when sugar was almost unobtainable at any price and hard to come by. The war has made it a delicacy that we must conserve. Heavily sweetened desserts must be few and far between.

These few pounds of sugar that even a large family may secure each month must be stretched out to cover breakfast cereal, coffee, tea, canning, preserving, baking, salads and desserts. It's going to be a problem in home economics for most of us.

How about starting a special list of "sugarless desserts" for your recipe file?

Ordinary desserts dig deeply into your sugar supply. Sugarless desserts four or five times a week, or every day, will be an ideal start on your sugar conservation campaign.

Of course these desserts will still have sweetness for that sweet tooth of yours. The natural sugar of fruit is not being rationed to date, and fruit desserts may still supply us with that sugar we so relish. Incidentally, we will be getting our sugar in its most desirable form.

What applies to desserts, applies also to salads—and even to beverages. Oranges supply natural fruit sugars in abundance and what makes a better salad than oranges and other fruits and foods on lettuce? Or what is more tasty and healthful than a glass of pure orange juice?

Now that large-sized navel oranges are on the market, the fruit salad and dessert are particularly easy to make attractive and delicious.

Luncheon Salad

- (Serves 6)
- 2 cups cold cubed veal
- 1 cup cut celery
- 3 oranges, segmented
- 1-2 cup toasted almonds

- Lettuce or endive

Cut cold veal and celery into even pieces the size of a small bite. Peel oranges and segment. Place in a large bowl, add dressing and blend with two forks. Allow to marinate for a time, then place in salad bowl lined with greens. Sprinkle toasted almonds over the top. Serve liberally as main luncheon dish.

WEDDING

HYNDMAN-LINDSAY

The wedding took place on Saturday evening last, May 16th, of Miss Grace Agnes Lindsay, R.N., only daughter of Mrs. Lindsay and the late William Lindsay of Ormstown, Que., and Dr. Charles Frederick Hyndman, M.D., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hyndman of Charlottetown, P.E.I. Captain, the Rev. T. W. Jones conducted the ceremony, which took place in Calvary United Church, Montreal.

Mrs. John E. Pope attended the bride as matron of honor. The bride was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Donald Steel, Dr. A. R. Reid was best man for Dr. Hyndman, and Dr. Muncey Tanton and Dr. Philip Sullivan were ushers.

The bride wore a gown of white sheer net, embroidered with French bows over satin, with a long veil falling over a headdress of orange blossoms, and she carried white Easter lilies. The matron of honor wore a frock of turquoise blue sheer with tight bodice and full skirt and a matching flower hat, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Mrs. Lindsay, the bride's mother, wore a Pacific blue two-piece crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses. Mrs. Hyndman, the bridegroom's mother, wore a two-piece dress of navy, with accessories to the North Carolina, then still an English colony, but before long, i.e. in 1775, the war of Independence was started. Flora would then be fifty-five years of age. Her husband became an officer in the local regiment raised to support the cause of the mother country. When the revolution ended successfully, the corps was disbanded and he with his wife and family returned to Scotland.

Notwithstanding her sympathy for the Jacobite cause and "bonnie Prince Charlie" Flora and her family seemed to become entirely reconciled to the House of Hanover, and five of her sons became officers in the British army.

But still her devotion to the Prince was strong even in death, which came to her at the age of 70. She gave instructions before she died that the sheet whereon Prince Charles Stuart had slept at Kingsburgh, and which she had religiously preserved during her travels, should be her shroud in her grave. Her husband saw that this wish was carried out. He did not long survive her loss.

If we compare the later years of Flora Macdonald and Charles Edward Stuart we may at first be struck by the contrasts and apparent contradictions of fate as seen in their two lives. But these inconsistencies were only on the surface. The closing scenes of each career were the logical result of individual character.

The young woman who had been born to a city in her life, had the heroic spirit to risk all for her ideal, and yet the shrewd common sense to adapt herself to circumstances. The Prince Charming whose polished compliments brought the proud blush to the cheek of many a noble lady at the ball, in Holyrood palace, during his brief success, was never captured by the emissaries of the English king, yet in the end he became enslaved by a worse enemy than George of Hanover, and died a broken-down drunkard.

DAHLIA'S WHATNOTS

Flora Macdonald.—Not long after her marriage to the factor's son, who was also a kinsman of her own, her father-in-law died and she became mistress of the Kingsburgh mansion, where she and the Prince had once shared such hospitable entertainment.

It would appear that as a family grew around them, Flora and her husband "deemed it prudent to leave their home in Skye and emigrate to America, to better their own and their children's fortunes."

—so says a biographer of our enterprising heroine. They settled in North Carolina, then still an English colony, but before long, i.e. in 1775, the war of Independence was started. Flora would then be fifty-five years of age. Her husband became an officer in the local regiment raised to support the cause of the mother country. CHILDREN'S CORNER

TEACH KINDNESS BY EXAMPLE

Children learn best by the example set for them by their elders, and there is no more effective way of teaching them than to be kind to dumb animals.

There is a man in my community who owns a fine dog. The man, however, has a vicious temper and I have often seen him pulling and jerking on the dog's leash for no apparent reason at all. The other day I saw his small son walking the dog and doing the same thing. When I told the boy that it was wrong to treat a dumb animal that way, he replied, quite sincerely, "Oh, it's all right! Daddy does it, too."

It is perfectly natural for a child to wish to emulate his elders, particularly his parents. In households where there are pets, it is well to bear this constantly in mind. If a child hears a grown-up talking harshly to a dog or cat, or mistreating the animal, it is apt to accept such action as being perfectly normal.

There is an old saying to the effect that "imitation is the highest form of flattery." In teaching impressionable youngsters to be kind to their pets by example, we are playing an important role in character building and in fostering humane ideals among those to whom we must some day "throw the torch." REDUCTION OF SUGAR CAN BE PAINLESS

Sugar rationing won't hurt anyone. According to nutritionists, sugar does nothing more than supply quick energy and create an appetite for more sugar.

Here are "painless" ways to cut down on sugar: Gradually reduce amounts in tea, coffee and cereals. Make icings thinner or eliminate entirely.

Serve fruits in season in their natural state instead of cakes, pies and puddings. Gradually reduce amounts in nut, coffee and cereals.

Make icings thinner or eliminate entirely. Serve fruits in season in their natural state instead of cakes, pies and puddings.

When stewing fruit, add sugar towards the end of the cooking period when it takes less to sweeten. A pinch of salt added will bring out the flavor. Avoid using soda as the destroyer of vitamins.

Substitute honey, corn syrup, maple products or molasses when available. Remember if you have to buy these substitutes that they cost more than sugar. Save this money to serve more of the protective foods—fruits, vegetables, milk, eggs, cheese, meat, butter and bread made from Canada Approved flour.

When the family becomes accustomed to the natural food flavour, they will in all likelihood prefer it. If dried fruits are used in muffins or cookies the amount of sugar called for in the recipe may be cut down.

gram recommended editorially by the Toronto Star suggests the installation of facilities such as are serving the British workers and an increasing number of American workers. These facilities are restaurants where the employees may secure nourishing meals at nominal prices; medical services to prevent the development of serious illnesses, at a price they can afford to pay; rest periods and recreation services to give their minds and nervous systems rest and refreshment.

Balanced foods is another recommended way to boost health, milk, eggs, vegetables and some fruit once a day are indicated.

For pure reasons of geography, over-indulgence of alcohol is dangerous, since authorities point out that the climate of North America is a bad one for drinking. We live in the most high pressure area on earth—the area where climatic conditions make for the greatest amount of physical and mental activity. The temptation to over-indulge is further stimulated by the fact that our standard of living is higher than that elsewhere and funds for such purposes are more available.

Excessive hours of work, according to a recent report of the British Industrial Health Research Board, are, excepting for very short periods, utterly wasteful. A maximum work-week of from 60 to 65 hours for men and between 52 and 60 hours for women is recommended for best results during the war.

As regards married women, special shifts are recommended so as to safeguard their health, reduce the labour turnover and loss of working time. The provision of the day nurseries and other child welfare services for working mothers is a national program, in Britain.

Look to peanuts when you're shopping for an inexpensive source of several important food values. According to nutrition experts, they contain about 26 per cent of good quality protein; their fat content averages 40 to 50 per cent, which means high energy value and good staying power. They also furnish valuable amounts of the B vitamins and minerals.

Peanut butter is tops as a sandwich filler for snacks and school lunches. For added flavor combine with any one of the following—honey, pickle, relish or finely chopped celery, using whole wheat or Vitamin B white bread Canada approved.

For extra vitamins with peanut butter sandwiches serve raw carrot or turnip sticks; celery in season, or cole slaw with mayonnaise or salad dressing, easily put up in a container for the lunch box.

Portugese Bullfight Brilliant Pageant Without Any Blood Being Spilled

This is the 17th in the series of stories about a trip to wartime Britain and return, by way of Portugal. They are written for the weekly newspapers of Canada by Hugh Templin, editor of the Fergus News-Record.

I have already written something of Lisbon, the capital of Portugal. This week, I add some more. Frankly, what I write is colored by my point of view. Perhaps I do Lisbon an injustice.

An excellent guide book, published by the Government of Portugal and presented to me with the compliments of the Minister of Propaganda (for they call a spade a spade in Portugal), says:

Lisbon is enchanting. It is a city at once ancient and modern, with wide avenues bordered by magnificent houses and crowded with swift motor cars. There are streets of steep steps in which houses of many-colored fronts jostle one another confusedly, while between them passes a motley crowd in typical costumes—fishwives, bare-legged but wearing golden necklaces, women carrying jars of water on their heads in classic pose.

True enough, no doubt, but my diary tells a different story. Up to that time, it had been full and complete, as readers may have guessed. But for the week in Portugal, it is brief. It says:

Saturday, October 10th to Friday, October 18th—The terrible week in Lisbon. Disliked it from the start. Saw bullfight on Sunday, October 11th. Sick on Tuesday and stayed that way till Exambion sailed on Friday—and for four days more.

Except for two pages of notes on the bullfight, is all. But I need no notes to bring back memories of Lisbon. They keep coming back, even in my sleep, and nearly always as nightmares.

All in the Point of View. Yet it is as if I were looking at you, apparently to thousands of people from Nazi-dominated Europe, Lisbon in those months and for some fifteen months before, was the symbol of liberty and comparative safety. Some of them had fled everything they had except their lives, to reach the city. Uncounted hundreds probably lost their lives trying to reach it.

Lisbon's bull-ring has a magnificent setting. The taxi cab turned into a beautiful park. In the centre rose the great, circular bull-ring, a tall structure in fancy Moorish architecture. People were getting out of cars all around it, while hundreds of others came off the street cars on foot.

The Portuguese Lieutenant found the proper door and we began to climb up and up on concrete stairs. It reminded me of the Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto. It was another typical hockey crowd, with a fair young couple, a few families with the children accompanying the parents. They were a happy, excited lot.

On the Side of the Bulls. The Portuguese bullfight, as it turned out, is not a bloody spectacle, but rather a pageant. Horses and costumes are beautiful and when they came on at first, shouting and occasionally pawing the sand. But no blood is spilled, no animals are killed and no person gets hurt.

Down below were the cheap seats around a perfectly circular ring with a sandy floor. Over on the sunny side, a band played unknown airs. The place seated about 15,000 and was fairly well filled, though there was a big counter-attraction that day in a smaller city nearby, with nearly twice as many bulls.

The trumpets blew again. The ring gate opened and a black bull with brass balls on his horns came rushing in. Another gate across the ring opened and a horseman entered, while tereadors jumped over the fence into the circle.

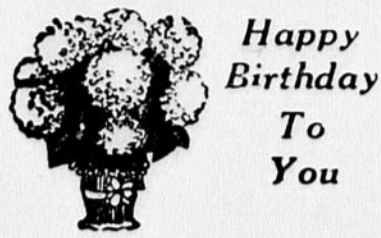

After his first rush the bull had lost his enthusiasm. The tereadors waved their red capes at him and he charged them, while they neatly sidestepped, or turned over their capes to show the yellow side, whereupon the bull lost interest. But he didn't like the horse, and charged for it. The cavaleiro held what looked like two tiny spears, with bright ribbons on the ends. As the bull charged, he turned his horse, leaned towards the bull and neatly planted the barbed ends of these banderillas in the fatty part of the neck. The spears broke off near the points, leaving ribbons hanging on the bull's neck.

The bull looked angry, rather than hurt, but he didn't press the fight until the men with the capes stirred him up again. Six darts, in all, were placed in his neck before the cavaleiro took a wooden sword, and all alone in the ring made several attacks on the bull before dealing what might have been a death blow with a real sword. The crowd, understanding the fine points, booed cheerfully when he missed and cheered when he succeeded. Then the trumpet blew again as the referee, sitting on a pedestal, signalled that the fight was over.

So that was that!

A report reached us this week which concerns the brother-in-law of Mr. Arlington Collins, formerly Miss Muriel Graham of Huntingdon. The report says that F. Merrill Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Collins of Malone, N.Y., was instantly killed on Monday morning, May 18th, when the tractor which he was operating, overturned on a hill, pinning the youth beneath it. The young man is known to several people in Huntingdon as well as to Mrs. A. Collins.

Propose Community School.—On Monday evening, Principal Munroe of the Ormstown High School, met with representatives of the Huntingdon School Board, Messrs. Austin Kelly, Lawrence Brown and Mac Riddock, to discuss ways and means of starting a Community School as part of a circuit including as many of the High Schools of the district as possible.

Mr. Munroe spoke with authority as this type of school has worked very well in Ormstown, under the direction and guidance of himself and prominent representative citizens.

The matter will be brought before a regular meeting of the School Board, which organization, it is hoped, will sponsor it for the first year, at least. Courses will be planned, and a public meeting will be called later to lay the proposals before the community, which, it is hoped, will accept such a worthy project most heartily.

These adult classes will be held once a week for a period of four to six weeks, to commence in the fall, after Thanksgiving. Further information will appear in these columns as information is available.

In Memoriam

Edmund James Fisher, Able Seaman. On Sunday, May 10, 1942, a memorial service was held in St. John's Church, Hallowell, Que., for the late Able Seaman Edmund James Fisher, youngest and beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fisher, Barrington, Que.

The service was conducted by Rev. E. E. Dawson, rector of L'Assommoir and Hallowell, using the burial service of the Anglican Church, then reading a portion of Psalm 107, which is part of the service for those at sea. Beginning at verse 23, "They that go down to the sea in ships," basing his remarks on that, he traced from that time till the present, the protection given to the world by the Navy, and paid tribute to the work done by Edmund, since his enlistment, assisting in conveying merchant ships from Canada to Britain; sometimes in actual combat with the enemy; losing his life when H.M.C.S. Spiknard, was torpedoed and sunk in the North Atlantic, on convoy duty, Feb. 10, 1942.

Three hymns were sung by the choir and congregation, "God Our Help in Age to Come," "Used by the Navy," "Lead Kindly Light," and "The King of Love My Shepherd Is."

Two men of the R.C.A.F., Frank Pelletier and Chas. Barr, and one of the Warden, Ralph McClelland, acted as usher.

Flowers from the family and friends were on the flag draped altar, and potted plants were placed in every window, by the women of the community.

The Canadian Legion, veterans of the Great War, wearing medals and decorations, attended in a body, and formed a guard as the congregation left the church.

The great assembly gathering from a wide neighboring area, and from Moores, St. Johns, Huntingdon, Plattsburg, Ormstown, and Montreal, showed homage and respect to the memory of the gallant young seaman and sympathy with his family.

One of the eight survivors of the Spiknard's crew, out of sixty-five officers and ratings, Mr. Alex. A. Day of Montreal, was present with his wife and little daughter.

In Appreciation

We wish to offer our heartfelt thanks to all who assisted in any way with the memorial service held Sunday, May 10, 1942, in St. John's Church, Hallowell, for our dear son and brother, Edmund James.

To the Rev. E. E. Dawson, the organist, choir, ushers, The Canadian Legion, the friends who so kindly prepared the church for the service, for flowers, and the great congregation assembled to pay honour and respect to the memory of one who laid down his life in his prime, for King, country and friends.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." St. John 15-13. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fisher and family, Barrington, Que.

A printer's business resembles somewhat a custom tailor's: every order is executed according to the customer's individual requirements. Deliveries cannot be made from stock on hand. That is why good craftsmanship plays such an important part. To be fully effective, printing must be designed artistically and properly, or like a badly tailored suit—it will not fit. Great Value Put on Paper In England

If you light a paper bonfire in England you are automatically liable to be fined about $500 in Canadian money or sentenced to six months' imprisonment, according to soldiers returning from overseas.

Paper is at a premium in England and men are often stopped by "bobbies" for dropping a cigarette paper on the street.

The custom of touching a match to secret military papers is no longer observed in England. This material is finely shredded, then soaked in water. The paper is then salvaged.

To forestall such a situation in Canada and avoid actual waste of paper, explains why publishers are advised not to continue sending a paper to a subscriber after it has become one month in arrears. This ruling became effective May 1st, so to avoid disappointment, send in your renewal today.

GETTING NEARER

"It Can't Happen Here." How often have we heard these words from different people here, and in other countries. But it has happened, despite the fact that it was thought it could not. The recent appearance of a Nazi submarine in the St. Lawrence River is proof evident that it can happen here, and it may happen here again.

As far as we know from reading the newspapers, two ships were lost to this submarine, some lives also were lost. A number of survivors were landed at points along the river and reached Montreal. From their stories it would appear that the guns on the ship were not manned and the ship and its cargo were easy prey for the marauding submarine.

We must realize that the war is no game. We are not making munitions for a living, we are making them because they are a vital need, we are trying to keep the enemy as far away from these shores as we possibly can. Secrecy may be all right in some things, but I think the people should be told of those that are as close to home as submarines in the St. Lawrence. Preparedness should be the watchword, not "Well what do you know about that?"

IT'S DRASTIC

What a beautiful state of complacency to be in. Because the ships were on the St. Lawrence River with the shore-line of Canada almost within hailing distance, there was no need to keep a lookout. Submarines wouldn't dare come up the river, they might roam around in the ocean, but not in the St. Lawrence. Well, it is just another of those jolts which the people seem to need all the time before they come to realize it can happen here. Who is to know but what some of these times a few shells may not be fired on Quebec or Montreal. It has been done in other countries you know. This incident should be enough to show that the war is getting nearer all the time and that Canada is not immune.

There is no doubt now that a large number of motorists are running on their last tires, until after the war. New regulations just put into effect have made it quite clear that only certain very essential cars will get more tires, when the present ones are worn out. Motorists, at least, should soon be fully aware that there is a war on. I have heard certain persons talking about this rationing business being all bluff. There's plenty of gasoline, they don't need to ration it, they're catering to the big oil companies, is a remark I have heard quite often. But when the restriction came on tires, it could not be denied, we were really short. Now it is being pressed home even harder than ever. Tires are going to be so short that certain types of motorists are not going to be able to get more. Then again, gasoline for certain types of cars is going to be rationed a little more, that is, the motorist will be getting a little less of this now precious liquid. Gradually, as this writer said in earlier articles, we are beginning to realize there is a war on, 1942 is the starting year, it will increase in tempo.

SECRECY

It has been announced from official headquarters that future sinkings in the St. Lawrence will not be made public. The reason offered is that it might give valuable information to the enemy. It looks like a case of closing the barn door after the horse is out. There may be merits to a policy of secrecy, but shouldn't the people know about these things? Wouldn't such news bring a greater sense of the dangers and responsibility we must face. This complacent attitude must go.

Dundee

On Thursday evening the W.M.S. held their regular monthly meeting, in Zion United Church. Mrs. Lindley, vice-president, conducted the meeting, and the scripture lesson was read by Mrs. R. G. Steven. Miss Mary Lamb, who has spent nearly twenty years in China as missionary under the W.M.S. board, was the guest speaker. Miss Lamb, in her quiet, unassuming manner, held her listeners for over an hour, while she gave an account of her experiences in her work among the Chinese.

She based her remarks on what is said to be "the seven great sins of China," which are selfishness, pride, fear, avoiding responsibility, fear of loss of face, cliquism and inaccuracy.

Mrs. E. Watterson and Mrs. H. McNaughton received the offering which amounted to $6.47.

Mrs. W. D. Fraser expressed appreciation and thanks on behalf of the members, to Miss Lamb, for her splendid address.

A bale of clothing was packed to be sent to Montreal valued at $21.25.

The refreshments committee served sandwiches and coffee at the close, to about thirty-five members and visitors.

ing a power to make it so practically applicable that it will register in bringing about a fitting return. For this the teachers should scarcely be held responsible, except, inasmuch as they are the experienced leaders, there is room for disagreement with the powers that be as to the courses of study.

As to student life beyond school hours there is room for disagreement with the professor. In this age there would seem to be an overplus of organizations endeavoring to take care of the young people, but at that there might be some improvement, as for example a greater interest shown in the attendance of boys and girls at church services and Sunday schools. Religious education added to secular education will never prove injurious. Instead, it will be of untold advantage in years after the classrooms are left and an entry made on the wider life. To sum up, it would appear that there is a divided obligation resting with teachers and parents, largely the parents. If either neglect, the sufferers will be the boys and girls. Fit them to take their place and all will be well in the years ahead—Collingwood Enterprise Bulletin.

production of corvettes and minesweepers. An indication of the growth of Canada's war industries is shown in the figure of $4,000,000,000 which is the total of contracts let by the department.

At this time there is the short lull before discussion starts in the house of commons on the proposed amendment to the National Resources Mobilization Act. So much has been said in the press and in the daily conversation of practically all Canadians on the resignation from the cabinet of minister of public works, P. J. A. Gardin and his probable implications and on how the members from Quebec will line up and act during the debates that little more need be said here. The situation to use a familiar phrase is "confused," following caucuses of the different parties and of forty Quebec members, but it is hoped that the earnest plea of air minister Power that there will be a truce to discussion while the air conference is meeting at Ottawa will be faithfully observed.

Go out into your yard or your garage, please, and gaze with respect on the tires of your car, for they will be your friends for the "duration." The new tire rationing order of the control board of munitions and supply is very strict. Anyone trying to get even used tires must prove that the need is imperative, and a price ceiling has been put on used tires. "Essential vehicles must be kept in service," said Mr. Howe, "and the rest of us, until the war is over must do the best we can with the tires and tubes now in our possession."

GARDEN FOR VICTORY
Grow Vitamins at Your Kitchen Door

The one and only good reason for not growing sweet corn in the Victory garden is because the garden is too small. Otherwise sweet corn is the most desirable of vegetables for the home garden.

This is true because sweet corn is always best when eaten immediately after harvesting, because the quality and flavor deteriorate rapidly after the ears are pulled from the plants. The higher the temperature, the greater the deterioration. Isn't this a sufficient reason why there should be a corn patch in every vegetable garden?

A patch of six rows, each 15 feet long, need not occupy more than a 15 foot square. In normal seasons, planted to good strains, it should yield 120 to 180 ears.

Corn will grow in any well-worked soil but the best corn requires the best soil. Apply a balanced plant food at the rate of 4 pounds to 100 square feet, raked into the top soil before sowing corn. Well-drained, warm soil is to this vegetable's taste, with constant moderate moisture. It does not like water-logged soil.

Corn is a warm weather crop. In cold, wet springs there is often difficulty with seed rotting after it is sown and it has to be replanted. It is wisest to be in no great hurry to get corn planted, as greater speed of growth will be made in warm days and nights.

The time-honored system of planting corn in hills, three or four stalks to a hill, the hills about three feet apart each way. With the smaller growing corn planting in rows, sowing at the rate of five or six kernels to the foot, planted about 2 inches deep to insure plenty of plants and then thinning them to 8 inches apart in the row

Plenty of sleep and rest are sometimes as important as exercise and authorities recommend that good sense be applied in determining each person's individual routine for health.

Don't be a CUPBOARD QUISLING!

"Cupboard Quislings"! Is that too hard a name for people who selfishly lay in unnecessary stocks of clothes or food, or other goods for fear of shortages?

No! The name is not too hard, even though it may be earned through thoughtlessness. For in reality they are doing, in a petty, mean way, what the Quisling does in the open.

Anyone who buys more than is necessary for current needs—

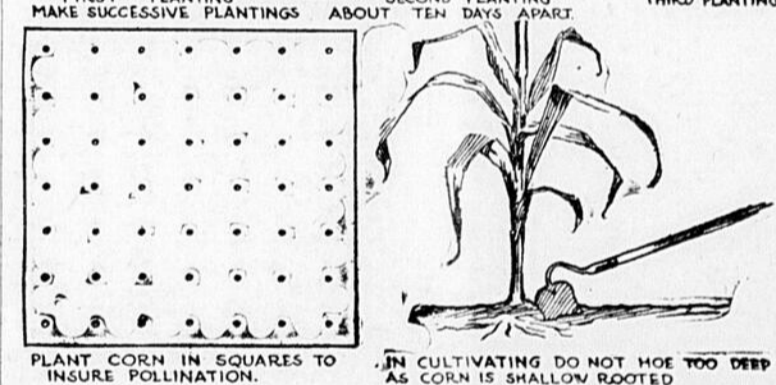

- Is breaking his country's law for personal advantage.
- Is betraying his loyal neighbours and those who are not so well off as he.
- Is, in effect, depriving our fighting men of the munitions and supplies they must have to defend us.
- Is hindering our war effort and helping our enemies.

Loyal citizens avoid putting unnecessary and abnormal strains on our factories. In time of war, loyal citizens do not spend one dollar more on civilian goods than is absolutely necessary for current needs.

The law provides for fines up to $5,000 and imprisonment up to two years for hoarding; and hoarding is just another word for unnecessary selfish buying.

In cases where it is advisable for you to buy in advance of your immediate requirements—such as your next season's coal supply—you will be encouraged to do so by direct statement from responsible officials.

The Community Doctor

An innovation in medical service to rural communities is announced by the Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross. The Community Doctor has arrived.

The plan, worked out by the Red Cross in conjunction with the Ontario Medical Association and the Department of Health, proposes to give medical service to people of isolated communities. The service has been accelerated owing to the large number of physicians who have enlisted for war service.

The Community Doctor is assured an income of $4000., which is guaranteed by the Ontario Division of the Red Cross. To apply against this will be dues from subscribers, fees from private patients, who are non-subscribers, and from municipal grants.

The plan differs from the Municipal Doctor plan. A patient is free to choose his own family physician, and no one needs to support the project who prefers to get medical help elsewhere.

One of these Community Doctors is now stationed east of the Soo. He renders medical service to the residents of four rural municipalities in Algoma District. It is also proposed to establish another Community Doctor at Leno's Head, Bruce Peninsula, and another over at Rosseau, Muskoka.

This new undertaking by the Red Cross is indicative of the alertness and readiness of this organization to meet emergent war conditions, whether in Canada or overseas. It is such determination to "fill the breach" where there is no other service available, that intensifies public interest in the Red Cross, and prompts ready response to their appeals for help.—Huntsville Forester.

Telephone Widely Used In Canada

Five Times as Many For Every 100 People As Axis Powers

Canada has more than five times as many telephones for every 100 people as the Axis powers. There are more telephones in the Dominion to serve 11 million people than the entire Japanese Empire has for its teeming millions.

These comparisons come from a survey of the latest available world telephone statistics recently compiled by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. The three Axis powers and their pre-war dominions, this survey shows, average only 2.34 telephones, whereas on January 1, 1941 this country had 12.78 telephones for every 100 people.

There is an average of two telephones per 100 population in the world. Using estimates in the case of those countries for which no recent official data are available this continent a world total of 44,190,000 telephones is indicated as of January 1, 1941. At the present time it is likely that over 46 million telephones are in service, with well over one-half of the world's telephones being on this continent and about one-third in Europe.

Telephones operated by private companies account for more than 60% of the world's total. Close to 58% of all the telephones in the world are now operated from automatic central offices, including some 767,000 dial telephones in Canada. Canada had a total of 1,461,000 telephones on January 1, 1941.

Only three countries have more telephones for every 100 of the population than Canada: the United States, 16.56; Sweden, 14.26 and New Zealand, 13.96 top Canada's 12.78 telephones.

While no comparison of the number of telephone conversations carried on in the respective countries is shown, it is reasonably safe to assume that Canadians continue to be the world's greatest telephone talkers. The previous statistics issued by the A. T. & T. showed that Canadians led the world in the number of calls per capita in 1939, followed by the United States with 231.5 conversations, Denmark with 189.5, Sweden with 189.0 and Norway with 96.1. According to figures issued recently by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics the average number of telephone calls per capita in Canada increased to 255 in 1940.

Toronto has more residence telephones per hundred families than any other of the big cities of the continent—that is those of more than 750,000 population. With 74.9 home telephones per hundred families on January 1, 1941, Toronto had a wide margin over Chicago which was in second place with 61.6 telephones with 24.9 telephones per family on the continent and with 50.8 telephones for each 100 families stands seventh also in its residence telephone development among the cities having more than three quarters of a million people.

BRITAIN WANTS MORE CHEESE THIS YEAR

Hon. James G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, announced on April 22 that the Dominion Government has approved an Agreement with the British Ministry of Food for the sale of Canadian cheese produced between the 1st of April, 1942, and the 31st of March, 1943. The Agreement provides for a minimum of 125,000,000 pounds and, subject to marine freight space being available, such additional quantities as the Ministry may require and Canada may have available for export at a price of 20 cents per pound for First Grade cheese f.o.b. ship Montreal, or f.o.b. car Montreal for shipments made after the close of navigation from Montreal.

Revised Rental Regulations Issued

Landlord Must Prove Need

Revised rental regulations issued by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board protect tenants required to vacate premises on the ground that premises are required by the landlord.

The landlord, in addition to being required to give the tenant three months' notice, must, before a tenant can be evicted, supply reasonable proof that the accommodation is actually needed and must undertake to live in the vacated premises for the ensuing year.

Interesting Case

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Winnipeg received a complaint last week from a tenant who rented three rooms in a house for the last two years. The tenants had the use of the telephone for that time.

Recently the telephone was removed by the landlord and the Board was asked if this was permissible. The answer was: "That constitutes a discontinuation of service which is forbidden under the rental regulations."

Tourist Cabin Ceiling

Under the rental regulations tourist homes and tourist cabins must not charge more than the rate in force in the corresponding season of 1941, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board states. "Maximum seasonal rates must be posted in each room or cabin," says the order.

At the Movies

WEEK-END IN HAVANA
The new film of the Alice Faye-Carmen Miranda, tour of Latin America is as gay, colorful and improbable as the Cuban capital itself. Ernest Palmer, as photographic director, working in Technicolor, has presented a tourists' paradise, with a few excellent shots of the Islanders, whose Cuba it barely resembles.

But this is a Hollywood-New York product from the glamorous hosiery salesgirl whose cherished vacation is almost ruined by a steamship mishap, to the charming bouncer who agrees to provide Latin romance for a fee, and who incidentally falls from Brooklyn. The week-end of the title is underwritten by a steamship company on the girl's promise of a waiver of liability if it lives up to her dreams. That it ultimately does is incidental to the audience's enjoyment. For meanwhile there is Carmen Miranda with her locomotive Portuguese and equally expressive English. Several beautifully-staged song and dance numbers interrupt her hot pursuit of the Brooklyn boy who lives by his wits—and in the best performance in the film, the romance between Alice Faye and John Payne is necessarily a little tepid, but the pair are attractive enough to keep the thread of story the help of director Lang. Showing at the O'Connor Theatre, Huntingdon, Sunday and Monday, May 24 and 25.
