World News In Brief

Tokyo, May 13.—(AP)—Approximately 450,000 Japanese coal miners will begin a 48-hour strike at midnight tonight. The miners want a pay increase. Management wants to cut wages 20 per cent because mine owners recently lost their government subsidies.

London, May 13.—(AP)—An operation described by his physician as successful was performed yesterday on the injured eye of United States ambassador Lewis W. Douglas. The operation was for treatment for the injury Douglas suffered six weeks ago. He hooked his eye with a trout fly while fishing.

Bangkok, May 13.—(AP)—Premier Pibul Songgram has changed Siam's name back to Thailand—the name he originated during the pre-war regime. The Bangkok radio said that since the country is called "Pratet Thai" in the new constitution the government should be consistent in its choice of a name.

Washington, May 13.—(AP)—Francis Patrick Matthews, Omaha lawyer, today was named secretary of the United States navy.

The White House announced that Matthews, 62, widely known as a Catholic layman, has been picked to succeed John L. Sullivan, Sullivan quit recently with a blast at defence secretary Louis Johnson for halting work on the navy's super aircraft carrier.

It was learned that the President is not yet ready to name a new secretary of the army to succeed Kenneth C. Royal, who also resigned.

Moscow, May 13.—(AP)—The Russians added aviation's loop-the-loop to their list of "firsts" today.

Komol Prava, organ of the young Communist league, said a Russian aviator, Peter Nikolaevich, first performed the feat. No date was given.

Ottawa, May 13.—(CP)—An R.C.A.F. pilot with more than 2,000 hours flying on the coast guard trips is the 1948 winner of the McKee trophy, awarded annually for "meritorious service in advancement of aviation in Canada."

He is F.O. R. B. West of Canning, N.S. He also holds the Distinguished Flying Cross for wartime operations off the east coast and the Air Force Cross for two hazardous rescue flights to isolated Quebec outposts last year.

Bombay, May 13.—(CP)—Thirty-one members of the crew of the Canadian freighter Shellburne County have been arrested and charged with insubordination and refusal to report for duty following what the captain described as "violence" aboard the ship.

Police boarded the vessel last night after a call from the captain, Frank Kappase, and restored order. Later magistrate Oscar Brown ordered the arrest of three alleged ringleaders. Another 28 men were arrested this morning.

National Unity Is Keynote Of St. Laurent Addresses

Yarmouth, N.S., May 13.—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent, going to the people in his own way, carried his gospel of national unity into another segment of Canada yesterday, into Nova Scotia's storied, social Acadian land.

Moving by car along a 65-mile strip of coastline between Digby and Yarmouth, he spoke again the message he has been proclaiming in the west, in Ontario and in his own native Quebec, speaking out on the thing which, he said recently, kept him in the post-war Cabinet.

Its core is simple. It is great, he says, to be a Canadian. He got the phrase from a leaflet issued by a service club when he spoke in Saskatchewan.

More and more Canadians are realizing this because there is a growing consciousness from coast to coast of national unity, of the value of rearing a national edifice bulwarked by the distinctive characteristics of two great races. Canadians are blessed with an unmatched land and they themselves are a superb and unified race. Given peace through the Atlantic pact and given a continuation of unity there is nothing to stop them scaling the heights destiny has offered.

To the descendants of the original French settlers of Canada, he spoke in French. To the English-speaking Canadians who fish and farm and build ships before he spoke it in English.

He was heard this time in Yarmouth and in Digby and at the Roman Catholic college of St. Ann at Church Point along that stretch of coast Nova Scotians call the French Shore or One Long Street because there are substantial, wooden homes scattered all along it.

Bickering Starts Anew In Berlin As Russians Make Charges Against The West

Allies Approve Constitution Drafted For West Germany

Frankfurt, Germany, May 13.—(AP)—The western allies approved with reservations last night the new west German federal republic's draft constitution.

Thus they gave themselves a high trump card for use in the May 23 Paris peace talks with Russia seeking a solution to the entire German problem.

They are shooting for an ultimate agreement uniting the Soviet zone of Germany with the republic, and hope the constitution, which guarantees a free government of the people, will be the basis for settlement.

Britain, the United States and France also ordered an "occupation statute" or interim peace treaty for the western occupation zones' 45,000,000 Germans, to come into force the day the west German government takes office. Its terms had been announced earlier this year.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, for the United States; Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, for Britain and Lt. Gen. Pierre Koenig, for France, signed the constitution. Their action cut away the last obstacle to formation of the first German civil government since the war.

The draft constitution now goes to the 11 state parliaments in western Germany for ratification which may be completed before the end of May.

The military governors signed with reservations designed to make sure that no "jokers" in the constitution's wording would permit the Germans to do these things:

1—Violate the occupation statute which limits German government activity in the fields of armaments, the industrial Ruhr valley, foreign relations and trade.

2—Form a strong central police force under any pretext without the occupation authorities' consent.

3—Give west Berlin representatives at this time voting rights in a future government. West Berlin is excluded from the proposed republic.

4—Change state borders "until the peace treaty."

5—Use any device to achieve "excessive concentration of authority" in the central government.

An article in the constitution says specifically that "weapons designed for warfare may be manufactured, transported or marketed only with permission of the federal government." Gen. Clay said this is not a "joker" because international and military government laws, which are paramount, forbid the Germans to manufacture war goods.

Rather, Clay said, the provision is intended to put weapons manufacturing under government control, instead of in private hands, and that he considers it a "good thing."

Battle Roar Is Audible In Shanghai

By FRED HAMPSON
Shanghai, May 13.—(AP)—The roar of battle could be heard today at Woosung harbor and Lungwa airfield, Shanghai's remaining links with the world.

Two Communist prongs crept closer to the city. Government troops stoutly resisted.

One battle raged southwest of the city some 15 miles from Lungwa airport. Lungwa is at the southwest edge of the city 10 miles from the heart of the city. The scene of this battle was around the village of Sunghang, of the Shanghai-Hangchow railroad.

Another developed to the northward around the village of Tansang, just north of the Shanghai-Nanking railroad. Red lines there appear to be about 20 miles from Shanghai.

Woosung is where the narrow Whangpoo river pours its gritty flood into the Yangtze and where ships from Shanghai pass through a narrow channel to the Yangtze and the sea. It is about eight miles north of Shanghai. Woosung harbor and the Whangpoo form the city's main artery. It could not live long if it were cut.

Lungwa's loss would cut Shanghai's air link. There are even other airfields but they are even farther away.

Failure To Stamp Cheque Can Be Costly

Ottawa, May 13.—(CP)—That last cheque you wrote—the one you didn't put a stamp on—could get you in trouble.

Because that sort of thing is against the law.

The law, revenue department officials explained, requires that the person who writes the cheque must pay the tax of three cents on cheques up to $100 and six cents for cheques of more than $100.

The tax must be paid before the cheque is cashed. So you just can't make out the cheque for an extra three cents and let it go at that. You may have intended the extra three cents as the tax—but you didn't actually pay it.

The stamp tax has been on cheques, purely as a revenue measure, for some 25 years and there have been prosecutions for not putting stamps on when the cheque is written. Conviction carries a fine of $10, but prosecutions are "few and far between," an official said.

That means you don't have to accept a cheque for payment unless there's a stamp on it when you get it. Judge T. H. Barton ruled in Toronto yesterday, in what was believed to be the first legal decision of its kind, that an unstamped cheque doesn't constitute a payment. A landlord was trying to evict a tenant because, he said, she hadn't paid her rent. The tenant had given the landlord an unstamped cheque for one month's rent, but the judge ruled that wasn't good enough and ordered the eviction. The tenant, Mrs. Lillian Baxter, said she will appeal. She can't be evicted until after the appeal is heard.

If someone does give you an unstamped cheque, you can't strictly speaking—take it to the bank, give the teller three cents and have him put on a stamp. Because then the wrong person pays the tax. The law says it's to be paid by the person who writes—not the person who cashes—the cheque.

The revenue department doesn't go around looking for people to prosecute. It gets the money regardless of who pays it. And it can't get a conviction unless it has an unstamped cheque. But the department is forced to prosecute when someone presents it with an unstamped cheque and asks for a prosecution.

Kingston, Ont., May 13.—(CP)—Most Rev. John Lyons, 70, Anglican archbishop of the diocese of Ontario, was enthroned last night as Metropolitan of the ecclesiastical province of Ontario amid ceremonies centuries old.

He took up the confederation issue after provincial party leader Harry Mew said union terms were not satisfactory.

Mr. Drew declared that if Newfoundland's government requested amendments to those terms, a Progressive Conservative government would be prepared to make them.

Today, Mr. Drew concludes his island tour with an address in St. John's. He then returns to the mainland for a speech in Moncton, N. B.

Reds Accuse Allies Of Torpedoing Agreement To Lift Blockade—West Says "Nonsense"

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Berlin, May 13.—(AP)—The Russians accused the western allies today of "torpedoing" the agreement to lift the Berlin blockade.

A western spokesman promptly labelled the accusation "a lot of nonsense." The spokesman was Lawrence Wilkinson, economics adviser to the United States military governor. "We were told by our governments to remove all restrictions put into effect since March 1, 1948," he said.

"We've done that and more."

The Soviet protest was voiced informally, through the Soviet army newspaper in Germany, Taegliche Rundschau.

"The western powers are evading the lifting of their restrictions under invalid pretexts," it charged.

"The agreement cannot be fulfilled by the Soviet side alone," it added.

Some observers saw in those words an implied threat to impose the blockade, but such a step would be a matter of policy for higher authorities than the Russians in Germany to decide.

But the Rundschau statements did lend emphasis to the Russian need for getting supplies from western Germany for her nearly bankrupt occupation zone.

Wilkinson said that at a four-power meeting of economic chiefs here yesterday the Russian representative insisted on a formal order reinstating the east-west trade agreement of 1948. The allies contend it is no longer applicable, he said. Wilkinson said another meeting may be held today.

"We told him east Germans were welcome to buy or sell anything they wanted with the west Germans and that the western powers would not restrict international trade," Wilkinson said. "All individual contracts made by German firms under the 1948 agreement could be revived if the firms so wished. But he kept quibbling that the 1948 agreement had to be officially reinstated as of March 1 last year."

However, one source of friction—a dispute over exports from Berlin to the western zones—seemed to have been removed.

The Russians had incurred western wrath yesterday by refusing to allow trucks from west Berlin to travel to the western occupation zones without obtaining permits from the Soviet military or the Russian-backed German economic commission. West Berlin and west Germany are separated by 100 miles of Russian-controlled territory, the geographical fact which made the blockade possible.

However, early today west Berlin police quoted the officer commanding the Russian highway check point outside Berlin as saying that such trucks now need only an order from the west Berlin government.

There was no official announcement of the change, and the proof of it will lie in what happens when there is an actual test.

Yesterday there was some whimpering.

British Commons Gives Overwhelming Approval To North Atlantic Alliance

Eisler To Be Returned For Deportation

By JACK ADAMS
Washington, May 13.—(AP)—If it weren't for the principle involved, Uncle Sam could save quite a sum of money by just looking the other way while Communist Gerhart Eisler apparently flees across the seas.

But, said United States justice department officials today, they are determined to bring back a sowarday identified as Eisler so they can later ship him overseas officially—assuming he is Eisler. This is their reasoning:

The 52-year-old admitted Communist owes the United States time in prison for violating its laws while here as an alien guest.

And while the department frankly will be delighted to exclude him from the United States forever, it insists upon doing this through the regular procedure: by a deportation action which already is in motion.

Hence, elaborate arrangements have been completed for interception of the sowarday aboard the Polish liner Batory—now on the Atlantic—who has identified himself as Eisler. These arrangements call for his prompt return to the United States.

Meanwhile, an immigration department spokesman in New York said that Mrs. Eisler also has disappeared from their home there. She has been at liberty without bond, under charges of being illegally in the United States. She is being sought for questioning about her husband.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has asked Britain's Scotland Yard to meet the Batory when it docks at Southampton on Saturday and take the sowarday into custody.

And, on the assumption that he is Eisler, under two criminal sentences and described as the one-time No. 1 non-office-holding Communist in the United States, justice officials have asked the State Department to obtain a quick extradition authority from Britain. Arrangements have been made

By DON GILBERT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, May 13.—(AP)—The House of Commons last night overwhelmingly approved the north Atlantic security treaty after Foreign Secretary Bevin said the pact was a "deterrent" to Soviet aggressiveness and Winston Churchill called it one of the "surest guarantees of peace and safety."

The vote was 233 to 6. It came on this motion put by Bevin: "That this House approves the north Atlantic treaty signed in Washington on April 4, 1949, relating to the promotion of stability and well-being in the north Atlantic area and to the collective defence for the preservation of peace and security."

Parliamentary observers said the near-unanimous approval of the motion was sufficient to effect ratification of the pact. They said similar action was not required in the House of Lords although the peers may also pass a motion of approval as a formality if they wish.

Thus Britain would become the third of 12 western countries to ratify the Atlantic treaty. Canada was the first country to ratify it and Belgium completed the final step for ratification yesterday when the Belgian Senate approved the pact, 127 to 12.

Speaking during the Commons debate on the alliance, Bevin and Churchill pulled few punches in their criticism of Soviet policy since the end of the war. The foreign secretary was more outspoken than usual.

He blamed Russia for forcing the security treaty on the western powers and he justified its need by saying that if the Soviet Union had gone unchecked the situation would have led to a third world war. He said he hoped that Russia now might be encouraged to co-operate with the west on a sensible and sound basis.

Bevin said he is "convinced" that the closer link between the Atlantic powers under the pact "has led Russia to second thoughts about tactics that have been followed regarding Germany, and particularly about Berlin."

The treaty's object is "to make aggression too risky to those who are making calculations and to make sure before they start their nefarious game that defeat is their certain end."

The foreign secretary spoke of the "frustration and disappointments" due to the use of the veto and other devices in the United Nations by Russia and her satellite countries. The grouping of the countries of eastern Europe under the Iron Curtain "was the first deliberate step taken to create a division in Europe."

"Perhaps the most ruthless act which shook the world's conscience and which I am certain will echo and influence opinion for many years to come was the coup in Czechoslovakia."

"This situation, if allowed to continue, would inevitably have led ultimately to war. We were driven to consider how like-minded neighboring people whose institutions had been marked down for destruction could get together, not for the purpose of attack but in sheer self-defence."

Churchill, the Conservative leader, noting that the Commons had been asked to approve the Atlantic pact on the day the Berlin blockade was lifted, took the occasion to warn the western big three against trickery when they meet with Russia next week in Paris to sign the German problem.

Churchill praised Bevin for his "wise and prudent leadership" in the pact negotiations. The former

He added that the Progressive Conservative party believed in old age pensions far beyond anything the Liberals had done.

Armed Police Are Watching Downing St.

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, May 13.—(AP)—Armed police today patrolled Downing Street, official residence of Prime Minister Attlee and other Cabinet ministers, as a precaution against possible terrorism.

A spokesman for Scotland Yard said last night the decision to issue revolvers to constables on duty around the Prime Minister's residence at No. 10 was taken as "an extra safety precaution." But the spokesman denied that Attlee had received threats.

Bitter anti-British feeling among Irishmen over the recent general election's new Ireland bill was believed to be the reason. Usually constables do not carry firearms.

The Ireland bill, which received second reading in the House of Commons Wednesday night, would prevent the reunion of the republic of Ireland with the six countries of Northern Ireland without approval of the British parliament.

Some "patriots" claim that four of the six northern countries—Down, Tyrone, Fermanagh and Armagh—would, if given the opportunity, join the republic. But the Unionist party, headed by Prime Minister Sir Basil Brooke, will fight to the death to maintain Northern Ireland under the British crown.

Sir Basil's government was empowered by the recent general election to keep the six Ulster counties in the United Kingdom.

The Ireland bill has brought bitter reaction from leaders of the government of the newly-born republic of Ireland. The 26 southern countries of the republic are strong-

Showdown On Italian Empire Nears

Lake Success, May 13.—(AP)—Russia accused Britain and the United States today of making a "deal" to keep control of strategic parts of Italy's one-time African Empire.

The charge came from Soviet deputy foreign minister Andrei A. Gromyko as the United States Assembly's political committee neared a showdown vote on disposal of the colonies after six weeks of bitter debate.

Gromyko, said an anti-American riot in Tripoli on May 11th was a protest by the natives against the plan backed by Britain and the United States to split up Libya under separate U.N. trusteeships.

The committee adjourned after Gromyko's attack and will again this morning begin voting on a series of conflicting plans for settling the thorny problem. Any plan passed by the committee must get a two-thirds vote in the Assembly's plenary session for final approval.

The Soviet delegate directed most of his fire at a plan approved by a 16-nation subcommittee to put Libya under three separate U.N. trusteeships for 10 years.

Russia favors a collective U.N. trusteeship over all three former colonies—a plan which would give the Soviet Union a voice in administering the strategic Mediterranean area.

Lake Success, May 13.—(AP)—The United Nations Assembly's special committee early today overwhelmingly defeated a Polish resolution which western delegates called a "political attack" on the displaced-persons program.

Poland's Henryk Altman charged that D.P. camps in the western occupation zones of Germany and Austria are being used to "furnish cheap labor to Marshall Plan countries." Western officials were blocking efforts of eastern European displaced persons to return to their homelands.

The resolution, backed only by the Slav bloc, had asked United Nations members "not to permit persecution of displaced persons" and "not to tolerate the presence in camps of persons carrying on hostile activities of propaganda against any state member of the United Nations."

Altman also charged Canada with exploitation of displaced persons who came to the Dominion after the war, charging that they worked under worse conditions than they endured in German camps.

Leon Mayrand, head of the American and far-eastern division of the Dominion External Affairs Department, rejected the Polish charges, saying "nothing... could be farther from the truth."

From the Dominion itself came a reply that immigrants to Canada are "highly placed with the treatment they have and in Canada."

The statement was made by Arthur MacNamara, deputy minister in Ottawa. He pointed out that so far none of the immigrants have asked to go back to Europe.

In St. Georges de Beauce, Que., neither Ludger Dionne nor his minister were available for comment on Altman's charges that D.P. girls brought to Canada by Dionne "could not endure the working conditions" there.

It was noted that the original 100, only eight of the Polish girls flown to Canada remain employed at the Dionne mill. However, none have returned to Poland.

Hollywood — No more arguments, please, about the most versatile actress of stage, screen and radio. The lady is six-foot, two-inch, 230-pound Hope Emerson, a born comedienne.

Hope has been the voice of Elsie the cow, Jimmy Durante's girl friend "Toodles Bong-Snook," a lady blacksmith, an opera singer, a night club star, a drunken yodeler, a murderous masseuse, and more recently, the rootin', tootin', gun-totin' Mrs. Hatfield of the feudin' Hatfields and McCoy's.

How's that for getting around? I found Hope Emerson playing a hard-boiled landlady who evicts William Powell in "The Bandwagon" at 20th Century-Fox.

Hope is no beauty, but neither is she homely.

She says: "I'm just smart enough to exaggerate my funny characteristics. I'm the contrast gal—the ugly duckling who makes everyone else look like a graceful swan."

Leaping from stage to screen to radio, she doesn't call any place home. She has apartments in New York, in her native Iowa and one in Hollywood.

"I'm scattered from coast to coast," she said, "but there's plenty of me to scatter."

Moo-ving Performance

She played Elsie the cow on the Ed Wynn air show and, to warm up the audience, she came on stage wearing a paper cow's head. It was the first time anyone had heard the voice of the famed Elsie and Hope asked the sponsor how they wanted her to sound.

"Like a Westchester housewife," she was told.

"I talked and moored," Hope said, "with a Westchester accent."

Hope said she's frequently confused with Elliott Roosevelt's wife, Faye Emerson, and also with Hope Hampton.

"But," she said, "if I had Faye's looks and Hope's money, I'd be leading a technicolor life for love instead of working in technicolor pictures for dough."

About those other roles: She was "Toodles Bong-Snook" on Jimmy Durante's airshow and a lady blacksmith in the Broadway play, "Swing Your Lady." She sang with the St. Louis Municipal Opera and was a night club star at a Dwight Fiske.

She was the drunken yodeler in the play, "Chicken Every Sunday," the murderous masseuse who tried to choke Richard Conte in "Cry of the City," and Mrs.

PITCHING HORSESHOES
By BILLY ROSE

When you're travelling, it's always a kick to get your mitts on a copy of a home-town newspaper, and so, when the stewardess on the Pan-Am Clipper to Tokyo handed me a New York Herald Tribune, I buried my head in it as if it were a growler of soda.

After casting pages 1 and 2, I automatically turned to the theatre section and there my optics collided with an item which left me a little aiskick: Congressman Javits had a bill before the 81st Congress authorizing the President to spend up to $250,000 in assembling a group to work out a plan for a national theatre, opera and ballet.

When I showed the squib to Eleanor, her comment was, "Fat chance that has of getting by the politicians."

Well, the rest of the way to Tokyo I kept thinking of the occasion in recent years when threadbare foreigners had pointed out to me that American culture was somewhat less impressive than American plumbing and, now that I'm back at my hotel desk after seeing some of what the world has to offer in the art departments, I have to admit there's quite a bit of truth mixed in with their condescension.

While we think nothing of spending millions to protect the breeding grounds of oysters, we're as stingy as Scrooge where the arts are concerned and, as a consequence, our output of paintings, sculpture and good music is hardly on a par with our output of chewing gum.

In Italy, France and England, my wife and I got a good look- listen at their government-subsidized opera houses and theatres, and usually we came away pop-eyed and perk-ecard.

We saw revivals of classics and experimental productions of new plays which no commercial showman could afford to gamble with and, in practically every instance, the price of admission was what we pay here for a sleazy movie.

As you know, this business of a nation's picking up the tabs for art projects is old stuff in Europe. It started when the Greeks began turning hillside into theatres and, during the Renaissance, there was hardly a town in Italy which didn't do the right and proper by its talented painters and sculptors.

Well, if you get to traipse through the museums, parks and libraries of the Continent, you'll quickly realize how good an investment this has been, even in terms of hard cash. I'm no authority on the subject, but it's my hunch that the masterpieces in one gallery alone—the Uffizi in Florence—would bring a billion dollars under the hammer.

And even today, when most of Europe isn't eating regularly, it continues to make good the deficits of its important cultural showcases. For instance, in austere England, the exchequer recently earmarked a million pounds for a National Theatre on the far side of the Thames; 120,000 pounds to keep the opera and ballet going for a year at Covent Gardens, and another 575,000 pounds for the Arts Council which runs the old Vic Theatre, the Old Vic Theatre School, the Young Vic Acting Company and the Sadler Wells ballet group.

The French Government, broke as it is, goes right on making good the losses of its national opera and ballet companies, several theatres including the Opera Comique and the Comedie Francaise, and, in addition, lends assistance to the art groups functioning in 30 provincial towns. And little Italy, despite its shortage of pasta and pizza, still ponies up for its grand opera and—make no mistake about it—the performance at La Scala in Milan and the Teatro di la Opera in Rome make our privately-managed outfits look like success by comparison.

Of course, whenever the subject of a national theatre is brought up in this country, some yahoo will point out that Russia—the one government that takes care of all theatre deficits—has a stranglehold on the entertainment business, and uses it for its humpty-dumpty propaganda. Well, the answer to this carpy comment is that a dozen countries in Europe subsidize their dramatic arts too, and have no more thought control over the participants than Ernest Bevin has over the speeches of Winston Churchill. In other words, it all depends on what nation is subsidizing what theatre.

A more potent argument against the Javits Bill is that we financed a national theatre once before—the WPA Federal Theatre—and that a good many of the stars in this ill-starred venture turned out to be members of the Communist Party. How, some of our legislators have asked, do we make certain that the proposed national theatre doesn't run true to Cominform?

Well, today there exists a carefully documented list of all the cardholders and over-the-edge fellow travellers who have operated in the various art forms for the past ten years, and who might try to muscle in on a new national setup. And I can assure all interested parties that the Helen Hayeses, Vinton Freedleys, Robert Sherwoods and others heading the movement for a national theatre are not on it.

Moreover, this list is within easy reach—it's in my Vault—and at the proper time, I can think of nothing I'd like better than to make it available to the proper authorities.

the feeling that, although much of the visible prosperity may still be superficial, this part of Europe is on its way back. In fact, the saddest impression as to the balance sheet of the world is, I feel, that the nation which probably sacrificed more in physical, human and material values—Britain—presents the least cheerful picture among the countries I have visited. It seems a tragedy that this proud nation, which in the early stages of the war accepted responsibility as the lone defender of freedom, should be rewarded with so little as compared to others.

However, even though England's economic plight is grim indeed, it can be stated with thorough allegiance to truth that Britain's moral prestige throughout Europe was never greater than today. I can't tell you why, but I have a strong feeling that Britain too will recover sooner than some may think. Those who choose to be England's detractors may look on her through dark glasses, but the truth will out. This noble breed has still a great deal to offer to mankind, and it will.

Sherbrooke County P.C.'s Will Name S.H.S. Students Candidate At Convention On May 23

Sherbrooke County Progressive Conservatives will meet on Monday evening, May 23, at the Sacred Heart School, Ball and Gillespie streets, to select a candidate for the current federal general elections. Final arrangements for the convention were completed at an organization meeting held last evening at the office of the Association president, Georges Sylvestre, N.P.

The delegates to the convention will comprise the patrons of the Association, the two honorary presidents, the five members of the executive, two representatives at large from each ward and two each from St. Elie, Rock Forest, Petit Lac Magog, Brompton Road and Ascot, four women delegates at large from each ward in the City of Sherbrooke and two delegates from each of the 120 polling divisions. The latter delegates may be either men or women.

The district organizers will report the list of delegates to the president of the Association by Wednesday, May 18, the required credentials being forwarded to the delegates by registered mail.

Prospective candidates must be proposed and seconded by qualified delegates, the written nominations being in the hands of the president before noon of Saturday, May 21. The candidates must be present at the convention before their names can go before the delegates.

Liberal convention delegates were also chosen at a meeting held at the Sacred Heart School last night, the Government gathering being scheduled for the same hall on Tuesday evening next.

It is generally assumed that the present representative, Maurice Giguere, will be the choice of the Liberals for the current campaign but so far the Conservatives have not made any definite pronouncement. Three names are prominently mentioned, those of Leonie Cote, Richard Crepeau and Redmond Hayes, K.C.

Freedom Is An Attribute Of Canadians

The importance of political and economic freedom was stressed last night in a broadcast sponsored by the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce. Such freedoms created the atmosphere required by men and women in order that they might develop the vital, creative spark which lead to individual progress, it was asserted.

"When a man cannot call his life his own—when he is told by the state what he must do, where he must live, and how much he must produce—then his individualism cannot live, and the vital spark flickers and dies," the broadcast declared. Canadians were fortunate because they had plenty of food and other material blessings, as well as the more important assets, "social freedom, political freedom, economic freedom—the freedom to be yourself and make your life what you want it to be."

S.H.S. Students Senior About Professions

Every year at this time, the question "What will I do now that school is coming to a close" arises in the minds of most graduating students.

Last week Sherbrooke High School students heard three talks on different professions: Physiotherapy, nursing, and teaching.

On Monday afternoon, Miss Helen Nicholson, assistant director at the School of Physiotherapy of McGill University, spoke to the Senior girls about this profession. Miss Nicholson outlined the work involved and the educational requirements. Her talk interested many students in this field.

Tuesday afternoon, S. H. S. had another visitor. This time Miss Vera L. Graham, supervisor of nurses, Sherbrooke Hospital, told the background story of the nursing profession. She told of hospitals, and their improvement during the last century, and traced them back to the Dark Ages.

Miss Graham realized the girls would be interested in what kind of schools of nursing there were, for she explained fully the accommodations offered to nurses in training. After her talk many interested girls asked questions which Miss Graham answered.

The third visitor, H. G. Young, inspector of superior schools, Department of Education, visited the school on Wednesday morning to call to the attention of members of the graduating classes the advantages of a teaching career. This profession again, held the interest of many students.

Choosing a vocation, is a different task. Academic classes have been fortunate in hearing three talks, but the commercial class is not loafing either. They are starting a "job hunting plan" to secure proper employment.

Raoul Codere Dies Suddenly

Raoul Codere, member of a well known Sherbrooke family, collapsed about 9 o'clock this morning in Codere's store and died of a heart attack. He was in his 64th year.

Son of the late L. Auguste Codere, the deceased spent most of his life in Sherbrooke and was an employee of the store for several years. This morning he was speaking with the elevator inspector when he suddenly collapsed and died.

He is survived by his widow and five children, as well as several brothers and sisters. The remains are exposed at Brien's Funeral Parlor and the funeral service will be held in St. Michael's Cathedral, Monday, at 8:30.

Plans Are Made For Bar-B-Q

The Magog House and manager, Gilles Choquette, played host to the Fairplay Amusement Committee at its regular meeting held Wednesday evening, under the presidency of Dr. E. W. Morgan. Plans were made for the Western Bar-B-Q, which will be held by the Committee for members and friends at the M. L. Ryan farm on the East Brompton Road on Saturday, June 18th.

Friday, 13th, Holds No Dread For Mrs. J. Ferguson, She Is 100 Today

To some, Friday the 13th brings fear and dread, but to Mrs. John Ferguson, of St. Margaret's Home, Montreal, who celebrates her 100th birthday today, it brings nothing but happiness.

Today she visits the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Roberts Mitchell, in Granby, where relatives and friends will gather for the occasion.

Coming from a family noted for their longevity, Mrs. Ferguson's mother lived to be 102. One sister is 99 and another 86. Her husband, Rev. John Ferguson, died 39 years ago.

Although her sight has failed some in the past few years and her Ferguson's mind is still sharp and alert, she retains the greatest gift of all, however, her sense of humor.

Cotton Town Coons' Minstrel Show In Magog Is Outstanding Success

Bill Kirk, was at his old post as intendant, and the end men, Albert Sandell, as Bones, George Hulme, as Sambo, Julius Richardson, as Mose, and Frank Bennett, as Rastus, kept the audience in a state of amusement with their good line of up-to-the-minute jokes.

A 19-man circle together with a 14-piece orchestra, under the direction of C. S. Hooper, were responsible for much of the overwhelming success of the show.

Those taking part in the circle were F. Cole, W. Powers, D. Cross,

Lennoxville W.M.S. Has May Meeting

The May meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was a most interesting one, conducted by the president, Mrs. P. Pergau.

The singing of a hymn was followed by a few moments of silent prayer for the prayer partners—Miss Elizabeth Stephens, of Pine River, Manitoba, and Miss Constance Ward, missionary in West China.

The treasurer's report was very encouraging. A letter from the Presbyterian Community Friendship Society was read by Mrs. James Marlin, and interesting letters were read from three W. M. S. missionaries in Korea to whom parcels of clothing were sent last fall, acknowledging the safe arrival of the same and giving items of interest concerning their work. A letter was received from the Central Depot in Toronto, where three parcels of used clothing were sent in April.

Members were reminded of the Presbyterian to be held in Stanstead and Rock Island, on May 13 and 14.

Mrs. Elsie R. Smith and Mrs. Norman McLeod gave most interesting reports of the Conference Branch meeting held in Cornwall, Ont., for three days last week, which they attended, and at which meeting, Mrs. Ruth D. Taylor, Overseas Home Missions Secretary of the Dominion Board, and the Very Rev. T. W. Jones, of Montreal, were the principal guest speakers.

Two Lose Lives Following Accident On Road Near St. Frederic de Beauce

Lucien Jutras, 18, 3a Windsor street here, died in a Thetford Mines hospital last night following a road accident near St. Frederic de Beauce, in which Joseph Masson, 58, Quebec Liquor Commission inspector also was killed.

Inspector Masson died within several seconds after the crash, but young Jutras lived until brought to hospital.

Jutras was driver of a truck belonging to Codere Limited of Sherbrooke.

Another Liquor Commission inspector, Henri Emond, was also injured. His injuries were slight, police said.

The accident occurred just one mile and a half north of St. Frederic de Beauce.

An inquest into the deaths will be conducted at St. Frederic this afternoon. Coroner E. Leclerc will preside. Findings are expected to be released tomorrow.

Lucien Jutras is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aime Jutras of the same address. Six of the Jutras family are employees of the Codere company.

Three more strikers from the Canadian Johns-Manville Company appeared before Judge Joseph Martier this morning, in Court of Sessions of the Peace, charged with illegal assembly in Asbestos, May 5.

The accused, Henri Gagne, Germain Gouin and Alphonse Cote, all of St. Camille, were released on bail of $300 cash or $500 bond and remanded to June 14.

Hearing of charges against other strikers, arraigned last week-end and scheduled for today was, in all cases, postponed to May 31.

Two other strikers were arraigned yesterday.

Leo Duchesneau appeared before Judge Dorais Panneton charged with illegal assembly, while Ludger Nault, accused of assaulting a constable, appeared before the local Justice of the Peace.

Both were remanded to May 27 and released on bail of $300 cash or $500 bond.

AS MIGHT BE EXPECTED

The discovery by the Western Allies that a "joker" has turned up in the deal to end the blockade of Berlin is not surprising in view of the repeated statements by competent observers that the Russians are by no means convinced that they have lost the use of the German capital as a pawn in their international negotiations. Of course, the extent to which the Russian theory that the Reds have the right to control exports from Berlin will be applied can only be determined in practice. But it is obvious that if they seek to operate their control policy to the limit, the economic drain on the Western powers to maintain the German capital will be increased.

During the operation of the air lift, the residents of Berlin were maintained on an adequate if decidedly austere diet, with food being provided on the basis of its nutritive value rather than on its appeal to the palate. With the supposed lifting of the blockade, the Allies will be forced to increase the rations, both in volume and variety, for the people of Berlin unless the ground be ploughed for Russian infiltration. To maintain the existing supplies would be to offer the Reds a splendid opportunity to start a whispering campaign to the effect that the Western Allies were in no position to give any long-term effective aid to the people of the occupied areas. Thus the flow of supplies into Berlin must increase.

It had been hoped that the increased burden would be met almost entirely by increased exports of fabricated goods from the factories of Berlin and of natural products from the areas immediately surrounding the capital. If the right to export freely is denied, it means that the expanded imports must be financed from the resources of the Western powers and there is the ever-present fear that a substantial portion of the additional supplies will be side-tracked, directly or indirectly, from the use of the German people to the benefit of the Soviets.

COST OF HEALTH INSURANCE

One of the greatest dangers of any state-operated social insurance scheme is that the actual cost of the undertaking may bear little relationship to the figures prepared by the supporters of the particular scheme. The trouble is aggravated by the disinclination of some of the sponsors to even mention the cost factor, despite the knowledge that it will sooner or later become a levy on the wages of the workers. The situation in the United States is reviewed by the Christian Science Monitor, which declares:

It has become a habit for federal officials promoting compulsory health insurance in the United States to minimize or ignore its costs. The original Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill played down the costs. The last of the series under this name left them out altogether. Effort has been persistently made for the past 10 years to sell the American public something calling for a huge expense without giving an accurate forecast of the ultimate cost. That may be ingenious, but it is poor public policy.

However, analysis is now and then furnished by independent sources. W. Rulon Williamson, former actuary of the Social Security Board, says there could be a high of 18 per cent of a payroll, a plausible medium of 12 to 15 per cent, and a low, hardly to be expected, of 7 per cent when years hence the program is fully under way. These benefits include both medical care and cash benefits for disability—the standard features of government health insurance.

Mr. Williamson points out that a great deal depends on the liberality both of the formula and of administrators, and hence estimates must vary widely. But in his view the total cost of social security, with health insurance added to the liberalized old-age and survivors' insurance and unemployment compensations, could come between 18 per cent and 36 per cent of payroll.

The greatly mounting cost of the British and New Zealand health insurance programs indicate that the United States would be faced with the same problem. If introduced here and really made effective, health insurance for many years would probably require much more tax money than old-age or unemployment insurance. Its financing should be adequately explored.

The editorial is followed up with a striking cartoon, two men carrying the heavy burden labelled: "Employee's share of compulsory health insurance costs, plus employer's share in form of higher prices."

Canada, of course, is in similar position to the United States. This country has gone a considerable distance in social welfare measures, but the cost of future projects, and the limited resources, must surely govern national policies, regardless of all the pie-in-the-sky promises which may be made in a general election campaign.

TIME OUT

It was pretty tough while it lasted. We tried manfully to neat up the place, pat dogs and babies, deal patiently with the older children, discard our four-in-hand ties, tiptoe, eat out, and go around with chin in and chest out, exuding love for our fellow man.

For May 2 ushered in Spring Cleaning Week, Be Kind to Animals Week, Baby Week, National Boys' and Girls' Week, Bow Tie Week, Noise Abatement Week, National Restaurant Week, Good Posture Week and Good Will Week.

Now how about a Weekless Week—a quiet time in which to catch the breath, pay the bills, and marvel anew at the persuasive powers of press-agency.

EXTINCT TREES

U.K. Information Office
A type of fir tree which was believed to have been extinct for more than 1,000,000 years has been successfully grown from seed in Britain.

Details of this fascinating botanic achievement are in the annual report of the Timber Development Association, just published. Several seeds of the tree were sent to Britain from Central China. They were taken from some specimens of Metasequoia glyptostroboides found growing there by an exploratory expedition.

This tree has only been known from fossilized remains until some Chinese explorers found a single specimen growing in a remote valley about two years ago. When fully developed this type of fir is said to reach 150 feet in height and measure seven feet in diameter. The mildest possible climate is recommended for rearing plants from its seed.

CHESS IN A NEW LOOK

Victoria Times
The historian of the future may be able to trace a significant change in world thought from the event, but we, so close to the time and the scene, can only gather a nebulous impression of its importance. The event? Why the decision of the Victoria City Chess Club to lower the bars it has always maintained against the entry of women into membership.

This must surely be one of the milestones in feminine emancipation, a triumph in the long battle for equality. Now they may ponder above the carefully carved pieces spread on the checkered board. Now has been invaded one of the last of man's sanctuaries.

And what will the men do if the staff side presses its advantage and invades the club in force? That we can only guess. But they might learn to knit and catch up on the local gossip in an effort to establish their own equality. Chess, it would appear, is due for a new look in Victoria.

THE MESSAGE OF THE SEA

Montreal Gazette
City-bound, one may forget that on either coast the ocean rolls steadily on. Apart from the hustle of people and the whine and roar of traffic, blue of ocean blends with blue of sky, and waves follow one another in long succession to the shore.

Seabirds float easily, rising and falling with the swell of the sea. Whitecaps form and form again, breaking on the shore with rhythmic sound. Gulls shriek and their wings whiten as they soar into the sunlight.

Ships ply slowly past. Lighthouses raise sentinel heads. Wanderers make their way along the beach, stopping to dig into the sand or watch the constant motion of the sea. Children shout and and men sit and gaze into the endless blue.

Here, with the washing of the waves and the sharp, wet tang of salt, is peace. The ocean rolls steadily, reassuringly, with a solemn undertone. The breeze comes freshly, briskly. Here is wholeness and strength. Here is continuity and peace.

Marshall Plan Has Aided Greatly In Restoring Economy Of France

By George McCullagh
Publisher Of The Globe And Mail

Paris, May 13.—The economy of France has improved tremendously since the end of the war. Again the evidence of the Marshall plan is on every side. It was a most necessary and potent force in the rebuilding of this old nation's shattered economic life. Thanks to it and to the hard work and industry of the French people things are substantially improving.

It should be pointed out that at some point in Europe's recovery, at which the physical and psychological situation would be favorable, Marshall aid will cease to be an asset. It could well become an impediment to further recovery. In its noblest conception, it was only designed as a crutch by whose assistance Europe could be helped back to economic health. Like any other crutch, if it is used after the patient has reached a certain stage of recovery, it can retard the very recuperation which it seeks to achieve.

It is apparent, therefore, that it will become the duty of the administrators of this wonderful stimulant to decide when it should be tapered off in the best interests of the beneficiaries. This will not only be a relief to the heavily burdened and generous American taxpayer, it will also enable the patients of Europe to develop strong and healthy economic muscles of their own.

Taking into consideration the inflation of the currency, the cost of living and essentials in France appears to be about three times the pre-war figure, with wages substantially behind. There has been approximately only a 50 per cent increase in the wage-earner's pay. Yet an item recently appeared in a local paper that in Dordogne, in the southwest of France, an egg costs only five francs, 60 francs a dozen. Sixty francs equal about 20 cents in our money.

The holiday-seekers on the Riviera crowd the hotels and restaurants for a time beyond the usual vacation limits of Easter holidays. There is plenty of food in France, but it seems very unevenly distributed. Prices are high in Paris.

SQUEEZE PLAY WINS DOUBLED CONTRACT

I was talking to Morrie Ellis, one of the members of the team who recently won the Vanderbilt Cup National Knockout Team of Four Championship. Ellis is considered one of the outstanding players of the world today.

I was rather interested in the background of some of these great players. I found out that Ellis graduated from New York University in 1928 where he majored in banking. His Dad was a hat manufacturer, but for years Morrie was undecided whether to take on the hat business as his life endeavor. Then the war came along and he spent four years in the Army. He served in New Guinea and the Philippines.

Upon his return from the war he was married, and now his little daughter Judy is the pride of his life. He is president of his own company, called Westbrook Hats. Morrie played West's hand as South in a recent tournament. When the dummy went down he reasoned that in order to make his contract, he would have to employ the high cards in West's hand to his advantage.

The Record Short Story

SHE WENT SHOPPING

By H. E. WHELEN

A week after his marriage, Steve Collins wondered how long he could keep his bride happy. No psychologist or marriage counselor would sympathize with him, he supposed. Those learned gentlemen warned that a successful marriage is usually preceded by a courtship long enough for the interested parties to become well acquainted with each other's background and habits. Steve had surprised himself by his impulsiveness where Luck was concerned.

He'd been sent on a business trip to New York. The second day he'd gone into a telephone booth to call an old college friend of his, Mort Truitt, and say hello, and had come out with an invitation to spend the week-end with Mort and his wife.

It was obvious Mort had hit the jackpot. His home was on a swank suburb, and Saturday night the Truitts took Steve to the country club dance. The third girl they introduced him to was a blonde, gay, charming angel, with interested eyes, named Lucy Starling. After one dance with her, Steve told Mort no more introductions were desired. Lucy was enough for him.

Lucy had graduated from a woman's college not long before and was staying home because her parents liked it that way after only seeing her during vacations for four years. Her father was a vice-president of a manufacturing company. From things Mort said, Steve gathered that the Starlings had only Mr. Starling's salary and spent every penny of it on gracious living.

Steve wasn't interested in that then. Lucy magnetized his attention as no other girl ever had. He'd jealously observed the frequent cut-ins she'd had at the dance. He was afraid of losing her if he went home and conducted his courtship by remote control. So he proposed four days later.

Lucy knew her parents would urge an engagement period. But she was positive a lot of girls in Steve's home town must be looking for a husband. So she and Steve eloped, had their wedding breakfast at the Waldorf-Astoria with not even the waiters aware that that was what he was serving, then broke the news to the Starlings.

A few days more would finish up Steve's business. He put in a long distance call to his firm, reported his satisfactory progress and his new marital state, and got permission to take his vacation now.

It was his own idea to move from the big, medium-priced mid-town hotel, where he was registered, to a hotel with a famous name and overlooking Central Park. Lucy would have only one honeymoon in her life—he hoped—and he wanted it to be a cherished memory.

There was every indication, in the beginning, that it would be evidence for the truth of the object lesson.

Too many people in the outside world get the impression that the instability of French politics is a true reflection of the spirit of the French people. It is not by any means. The population here are thrifty, industrious, God-fearing. When you get out of the cities and into the countryside, where emotions are not stimulated by scare headlines in newspapers and the people live close to the soil and enjoy the great benefits of the simple life, you become even more convinced of the stability of the French. From the country folk you get a true impression of the character and perseverance of those who have played such an important part in making this one of the most civilized countries on the face of the earth.

As a matter of fact, when we remember the shattering of the French economy by the German occupation, the harsh stupidity of the Laval-Pétain combine and the devastation which was inevitable when the Germans were being chased out of France, it is nothing short of miraculous what the French have demonstrated in thrift, industry and perseverance. We must admire their ability to stand the stunning blows that cruel history chose to inflict upon them.

Thus, after a hasty tour of much of the area outside the Iron Curtain, I leave Paris and France with

He couldn't phone a wire like that, with Lucy listening. He mumbled an excuse about needing cigarettes and escaped.

He was writing the telegram when Lucy unexpectedly poked her head around his shoulder and said "Steve I've a $100 bill I had tucked into my purse yesterday as a going-away present. We'll use that."

Steve was flabbergasted. "How'd I know you were broke?" Lucy asked. "I didn't, for sure, so I didn't want to hurt your pride by saying anything, in case I was guessing wrong. But lately you've had that worried look that gets sometimes around the first of the month—and if you were bothered about money, I thought you'd feel better when I knew all. So I tried to spend what money you did have, so you'd have to confess and get it over with Steve. I studied home economics at college. I'll be a better home manager than you expected. Now come upstairs and look at your package."

It was a hand-painted necktie. "The only thing I saw that cost enough to take all the money I glimpsed in your wallet last night," Lucy explained. "Want to return it?"

"No," Steve said. "Going to keep it always—to remind me I can't hide anything from my wife, so I'd better not try."

"Then I'm very glad I bought it," Lucy said.

Steve put on the tie and they went out to dinner at the Automat.

Laurent told the students of the workings of Canada's government system and talked to them of the responsibilities they will assume on leaving school.

In Yarmouth last night, he placed the record of his government on family allowances, old age pensions, unemployment insurance, farm and fish flood prices and other things before an audience packing a resort hotel and said it should invite re-election June 27th.

His big point for this region was his statement that although fish sales have vaulted greatly in recent years there are still strong possibilities of being able to create a much more important home market for fish in Canada. The government was establishing machinery to deliver fish in good condition to the big centres of population.

All in all, there appeared to be good prospects that Canadians would boost their 12 pounds per person a year consumption of fish. Mr. St. Laurent left to Reconstruction Ministers Winers the job of political assault. The 58-year-old Nova Scotian promptly fired into George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, for "blackening" and "never adequately explaining why" a Dominion-provincial agreement which would have brought social security benefits to all Canadians.

Mr. Drew had once called family allowances "iniquitous" but now his party was swinging behind them because "the Liberals showed they are the right thing." The allowances were bringing $14,500,000 a year into Nova Scotia, more than either the fishing or lumber industries made in any depression year. This ensured that Nova Scotia never again would experience the depths of the depression of the '30s.

Prime Minister said he found himself "in very general agreement with the sombre speech of Mr. Bevin."

"I am glad the lifting by the Soviet government of the blockade of Berlin was not taken by him as the occasion for proclaiming that an important peace gesture has been made," Churchill said.

"We are on the eve of a four-power conference out of which we hope that a peace treaty with Germany may come. And we must give the conference the best possible chance and not use any words which would hamper or compromise its chances of success."

"Any deeds by the Soviet government which really make for peace and friendly intercourse of mankind will have an immediate response, but more manoeuvres must be watched with utmost vigilance."

Then Churchill warned: "There can be no assurance of permanent peace in Europe while Asia is on the Elbe or while so many ancient cities in eastern Europe are held in the grip of 10 men who form the oligarchy of the Kremlin."

Britain must not lose sight of the fact the "prime agent" of the Atlantic treaty was the United States. Only the power of the atomic bomb in the hands of the United States, Churchill added, "has given us time to take measures of self-protection and to develop unities" such as those crystallized in the pact.

In dealing with the Soviet Union, the western countries faced "absolutely incalculable factors." Russia had not only vast armies but fifth columns in many countries "waiting for the moment when they would play quelling."

The Atlantic pact, the five-power Brussels treaty and the recently-created council of Europe "are sical interpretation of the rule. Numerous empty trucks were forbidden to proceed from west Berlin to west Germany for lack of a Russian permit, but a truck load of radio sets was allowed to pass without the permit. Even east German police said they were confused.

Meanwhile, fresh food shipments from the western zone were pouring into west Berlin by rail and truck without interference by the Russians.

When the blockade and counter-blockade ended at midnight Wednesday, restrictions were lifted also on the movement of Germans in Berlin, so all food reaching the city is available to any buyer.

Although the blockade is off, east and west Berlin still glare at one another politically. British and Soviet police picked up 11 vendors of Soviet-licensed newspapers, but later let them go. The police said they had not been advised of the "officially reported agreement to eliminate inter-zonal restrictions on distribution of newspapers."

Communists stepped up their campaign to elect a "German people's congress" in voting Sunday and Monday which may provide the basis for an east German government rivaling that backed by the western powers in their zones.

our surest guarantees of peace and safety."

Churchill said the absence of Spain from the treaty is "a serious gap in the strategic arrangements for western Europe." He asked the government to return its ambassador to Madrid. The envoy was recalled in keeping with the United Nations General Assembly resolution of 1946 asking all U.N. members to withdraw its ambassadors and ministers to Spain.

for a plane to fly Eisler back at once.

All of this involves new expense, whereas—if he were allowed to go his way—his bondsmen in this country would lose to the treasury the $23,500 they put up to obtain his liberty pending trial disposition of the legal cases against him.

Eisler, a German, established residence in New York City in 1941, but is alleged to have been in and out of the country a number of times before and since, as a contact between American and foreign Communists.

Summoned before the House committee on un-American activities in February, 1947, he refused to testify, demanding that he be allowed to read a statement. This resulted in his conviction four months later on a charge of contempt of Congress, for which a one-year sentence and $1,000 fine was imposed. An appeal in this case is pending in the Supreme Court.

In August, 1947, Eisler also was convicted in federal district court of passport fraud. He was sentenced to an additional one to three years on this charge, and this sentence has been upheld by the court of appeal.

Los Angeles, May 13.—(AP)—Los Angeles was shaken early today by an earthquake that startled residents out of bed but apparently caused no damage.

The tremor was felt the hardest in cities throughout the San Gabriel and San Fernando valleys such as Altadena, Pasadena, Burbank and Glendale. Long Beach, scene of a disastrous quake in 1933, said there was a gentle rumbling there.

KNOWLTON

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Association took place in the United Church parlor one evening with Mrs. E. H. Gray presiding in the absence of Mrs. Marion Pettes. Eleven members answered the roll call. The opening devotion was conducted by Mrs. Donald E. Miller and consisted of the hymn, "Happy The Home Where God Is There," with Mrs. H. Parkes at the piano, and Scripture reading from Proverbs. A "Mother's Prayer" was read and the "Lord's Prayer" followed. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Elton Boekus, and were approved and Mrs. H. L. Parkes, the treasurer, gave her report. Bills were presented for hot lunches at the High School and for repairs at the parsonage. It was decided to hold a food sale in the Southern Canada building on May 27, with Mrs. H. L. Parkes and Mrs. C. P. Thornton in charge. Mrs. George Coote kindly offered her home for the June meeting. The meeting closed with the benediction, after which boxes of clothing were packed to be sent to Europe. At the close of the evening, the executive served refreshments.

The Men's Carpenters Club was host to the Ladies' Club, when a most enjoyable evening was spent. Mixed bowling was played throughout the evening. Silver spoons were awarded the ladies on the following teams: 1, with a score of nine were Mrs. William C. Partridge, Dr. A. S. Douglass, Mr. J. L. d'Artois and Miss Mary Farmer; 2, with a score of eight were Mrs. Elton Boekus, Mr. Robert Bullard, Miss Doris Beals and Mr. Duncan; consolation prizes were awarded to Mr. A. LeRoy Bullard, Miss Bernadette Page, Mrs. A. LeRoy Bullard and Mr. Lawrence Wright. At the conclusion of the games, the men served refreshments. Mrs. E. Perry on behalf of the Ladies' Club expressed thanks for the very pleasant evening and said that the ladies hope to have a return evening in the very near future, when the Men's Club will be their guests.

Colfax Rebekah at Lodge, No. 23, met in regular session one Thursday evening in the L.O.O.F. Hall, with Noble Grand Sister Helen McKerrill in the chair. There were thirty-two members present. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Sister Pearl L. Winick, and were approved and all outstanding bills were voted to be paid. During the meeting a beautiful ceremony for draping the charter in memory of the late Brother Edward W. Morgan, charter member, was exemplified by several of the members while Sister Gula Morrison and Sister Irene Hamilton sang the lovely old hymn, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." This ceremony was most impressive and the members taking part in it are to be congratulated on their fine work. Sister Hilma Arnett won the drawing on the towel and face cloths and will in turn furnish an article for the next meeting. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served in the dining hall, by the committee in charge.

The regular weekly meeting of the Canadian Girls in Training group took place in the United Church parlors one Wednesday afternoon, under the leadership of Mrs. William Stockwell. The president, Trixie Sharran, was presented with affiliation badges, the chair and conducted the meeting. It was decided to hold the next meeting on Tuesday, May 10, due to a practice at school. Further discussions were held in connection with the "Mother and Daughter" banquet taking place in June. Mrs. Stockwell informed the members that the affiliation service with the Women's Missionary Society would be held on Sunday, May 8, at the morning service at the United Church. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Beverly Boekus and were approved. The meeting was brought to a close with "Taps."

Christian Family Week, May 2 to 8 was fittingly observed in the United Church Sunday School on Sunday morning, May 8, when parents and friends of the school were invited to attend the service. The theme for the service was "In every home, Jesus," and Mr. H. W. Spencer, Sunday School superintendent, led the service. Miss June Spencer presided at the piano throughout the service and the hymns, "For The Beauty of Jesus" and "Happy The Home When God Is There," were sung. Bible readings were given by Junia Joernan, Connie Spencer, Patricia Tibbitts, Beverly Boekus, Alden Mizner and Marilyn Perry. The offering was taken up by Bobby Gorham. Mrs. E. H. Gray told an interesting story and pupils adjourned to their classes for a few minutes before the closing of Sunday School.

On Sunday morning, the local Canadian Girls in Training Group, with their leader, Mrs. William Stockwell, attended the service at the United Church, when the affiliation with the Women's Missionary Society took place. Mrs. E. H. Gray, Mrs. L. M. Knowlton and Mrs. G. M. Ransom, members of the local W.M.S., took part in the service. The girls were presented with affiliation badges.

ly against partition as recognized in the measure.

Not since 1940 has there been any major wave of terrorism in Britain involving Irishmen and Englishmen. During the summer of 1939 members of the Irish Republican Army launched a campaign of violence in Britain. One man was killed and 55 others were injured.

Considerable damage was done in London and elsewhere by the I.R.A. through the planting of small bombs. The incidents continued until early in 1940.

During Wednesday's debate Jack Beattie, firebrand rebel labor supporter from West Belfast, who toured the Northern Ireland Capital during the last election in a gasmask and battle bowler—moved an amendment to reject the bill. It was defeated by a vote of 317 to 12.

Beattie warned: "This measure is sowing dragons teeth... may they not spring up as armed men do but if they do let the blame be assigned this government."

And Sir Hugh O'Neill, Conservative for Antrim, said he feared "repulsion of tactics used against Ulster between 1920-22 when there were assassinations, terrorists, bomb outrages and burning of public offices and houses."

The Doctor Says

SUMMER CAMPS FOR CHILDREN ARE SAFE IF RULES OBSERVED

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

At this time of year many lucky youngsters are looking forward to summer camps. Almost all the camps are well organized. Most of them require a physical examination. This is to reveal any physical defect in the child which might interfere with full activity so that proper measures can be taken to avoid undue risk.

The presence of heart disease, a severe allergy, or diabetes, for example, should be known before the youngster gets into trouble from any activity normally conducted in a summer camp. Parents are also given instructions as to what clothes should be taken, the number of blankets, and similar information which is always needed before a camping experience can be comfortable and the full benefit gained from it.

Most camps require one or more successful vaccinations against smallpox. Some ask for typhoid inoculations, although the danger from this disease has greatly decreased. Others require inoculations against tetanus or lockjaw. The regulations for camps vary as those against diphtheria, may or may not be required.

Should Follow Rules

The youngster going to a camp should be prepared to abide by the rules. In most places swimming is an important part of camp life and the rules of safety should be strictly followed. Knives, axes, and other instruments which can cause injury should be taken only as advised by the camp directors and then certain rules for their safe use must be followed.

It is a mistake to believe that camps are bound by too many rules. This is far from the case.

Summer camps for youngsters have only those rules which have been proved necessary for the protection of the campers. They will greatly increase the safety of the fortunate boys and girls who have this opportunity.

Q—Can anything be done to "whiten" a red nose not caused by drinking?

A—The question here is what did cause the red nose. There is, for example, a condition called acne rosacea which should be treated. With this in mind, it would involve risk to put anything on a really red nose without making sure that the underlying condition was not made worse by what was applied.

FAST-THINKING LINEMAN SAVES CHILD FROM PATH OF TRAIN

1. Rooted to the spot in terror, Mrs. Fitzgerald watched the train thundering towards her little daughter. The baby seemed almost fascinated at the sight of the approaching engine.

2. Truman Dickson, a New Brunswick Electric Power Commission lineman, leaped from the pole on which he was working... and snatched the child from the tracks just in time.

3. With his precious armful, Dickson jumped aside as the train sped past. His daring action and quick courage had saved the little girl's life.

drops from pole in nick of time

Mrs. Fitzgerald was out walking with her little daughter when the child suddenly darted out onto the railway tracks. The toddler had moved so unexpectedly that her mother was left yards behind — horrified at the sight of a train bearing down on the child.

Truman Dickson, working on a pole near the tracks, took in the situation in a glance, dropped to the ground and grabbed the child just before the train roared past.

We are proud to pay him tribute through the presentation of The Dow Award.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes a $100 Canada Savings Bond. The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers, selects winners from recommendations made by a nationally known news organization.

Spring Lawn Maintenance Should Start As Soon As Snow Melts

Spring lawn maintenance should start just as soon as the snow begins to melt, says J. H. Boyce, Division of Forage Plants, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. The masses of white or dirty gray cobwebby growth which appear on many lawns at this time are caused by the fungus disease "Snow Mold." This disease could have been prevented by making applications of suitable fungicides in the fall, but if these treatments were not made little can be done to alleviate the condition. Breaking up the masses by brushing or raking them sometimes helps as does any operation which will help the lawn area to dry quickly. The winter's accumulation of leaves, twigs and other debris should be raked off as soon as possible.

Proper fertilization is most important in securing and maintaining a desirable turf. If the lawn is in only fair condition and fertility obviously low, it is suggested that a complete fertilizer such as 4-12-6, 4-12-4 or 5-10-5 be applied at the rate of 25 to 40 pounds per 1,000 square feet. High nitrogen fertilizers such as 10-5-4 and 10-5-2 applied to 10-12 lbs. per 1,000 square feet are excellent for maintaining better quality lawns. It is recommended that the spring application of fertilizers to turf be made just before active growth begins; if applied after the grass begins to grow actively it is necessary to water the fertilizer in immediately after treatment in order to prevent burning.

If large bare areas exist these can be reseeded at any time after the lawn is sufficiently dry to permit work. After sacrificing the soil, seed of an adapted lawn mixture should be scattered over the bare areas at the rate of 3 to 4 pounds per 1,000 square feet and covered by light raking or by means of a shallow covering of screened topsoil followed by rolling.

Most established lawns do not require rolling, except after reseeded, this operation is only necessary when the soil has been heaved by freezing and thawing. The rolling should be done when the soil is dry enough that "puddling" of the soil will not occur, and yet moist enough to permit the roller to put the heaved plants and soil back in place.

Those contemplating the use of 2, 4-D weed killers may apply these at any time after the weather becomes warm and the weeds start growing actively. The manufacturer's instructions and warnings should be followed closely. It must be pointed out that it is useless to use these weed killers unless a suitable maintenance program including proper fertilization is followed so that the desirable lawn species can be encouraged to take over the voids left by the departing weeds.

FERTILIZER UPS HAY CROP

The boosting of a hay crop yield by 300 per cent after using chemical fertilizer on an experimental pasture was accomplished last year. Two adjoining fields with identical acreage were used in the test. One field was fertilized, the other was not. In the fall, the fertilized plot produced 3,993 pounds of hay while the unfertilized area yielded only 1,160 pounds.

A further advantage offered by pasture fertilization is the substantial increase in grazing time, according to the agricultural chemicals division of Canadian Industries Limited.

1500 Turkeys Shipped By Air

Montreal May 13.—One thousand and five hundred day-old turkey poulters, from the Societe Co-operative Avicole des Bois Francs, at Victoriaville, left Montreal Airport aboard a TCA "North Star" for a hatchery at St. Boniface in Manitoba this week.

This shipment which was the largest yet to leave Montreal, is one of the many poultry movements taking place across the Dominion. Trans-Canada Air Lines Airco recently carried eight thousand poulters from Vancouver to the prairie provinces.

Owing to their very fragile condition, extra care in handling is necessary, and precautions have to be taken to prevent their chilling or over-heating. Turkey poulters being very stupid as compared with baby chicks, have to be handled extra delicately, because if a poult falls on its back, it just lies and kicks and the others sit on it.

Both chicks and poulters are sent when only a day old, because they do not need feeding, as they still carry a considerable amount of undigested yolk which provides nourishment for nearly 48 hours after they have hatched.

K. B. Keele officiating. Miss May Hextall, the groom's aunt, organist, played the Lohengrin Wedding Chorus and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register. The altar and church were decorated with spring flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Albert Williams, wore a floor-length gown of ivory satin with a yoke of nixon, long tight fitting sleeves tapering to a point over the hands, a full skirt, the edge of the hem being caught up with bows of satin showing lace ruffles underneath. Her three-quarter length veil of tulle illusion was held by a beaded headress and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Her maid-of-honor was Miss Elizabeth Hastings, sister of the groom, who wore a floor-length gown of heavenly blue taffeta with sweetheart neckline, cap sleeves, matching long gloves and a finger-veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of sweet peas and stephanotis.

Mr. Vollen Hastings, Jr., cousin of the groom, acted as best man. Mr. Earl McGovern, the groom's brother-in-law, was the usher.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, where the bride's table was decorated with pink sweet peas and centered with a three-tier wedding cake.

Later the bridal couple left for a honeymoon trip, the bride traveling in a leaf green gabardine suit with black accessories. Upon their return they will reside at 295, 3rd Avenue.

Maple Copse Chapter I.O.D.E. Held Fine Meeting At Lennoxville

Lennoxville, May 13.—Mrs. Austin Scott, the regent, presided over the regular monthly meeting of the Maple Copse Chapter, I. O. D. E. There were 22 members present and two new recruits were welcomed during the afternoon. Mrs. Everett Bayley and Mrs. C. A. McKee.

The usual reports were submitted by officers and conveners. A considerable amount of time was devoted to ways in which educational work could be improved, following an interesting report by the education secretary, Miss M. B. Reynier. It was decided to offer prizes in the lower grades of the Lennoxville High School for improvement in history; prizes in the French School for improvement in English, and to spend up to $50 on the High School Library, which is badly in need of new books.

Miss G. Stevens, "Echoes" secretary, spoke of the proposed increase in the price of the magazine and it was decided to instruct the Chapter's delegate to the National meeting in Victoria, B. C., to vote for the plan of four issues for 75 cents.

The post-war service convener, Mrs. Arthur Preston, reported two food parcels were distributed and the conveners stated that members who did not wish to sew might have nightdresses and pajamas made on their behalf by paying a very small sum.

Mrs. R. C. McFadden, entertainment convener, referred to the performance of "Her Step-Husband," proceeds from the final showing having been divided with the Chapter by St. Monica's Guild. A vote of thanks to the members of this Guild was passed unanimously.

The proposed waste paper collection from the members had been abandoned, the price offered being too low to make it worth while.

The raffle of some china donated by the regent was approved and Mrs. R. C. McFadden agreed to organize the sale of tickets.

Mrs. A. R. Jewitt offered her grounds for a garden party in the latter part of June and this offer was left over until the next meeting.

The provincial annual meeting held at Quebec in April had been attended by the regent, Mrs. Scott, accompanied by Mrs. R. L. Young, Mrs. Arthur Preston and Miss E. F. Molony. A report of the highlights of the proceedings there was given by Miss Molony.

After the usual ceremony, the meeting adjourned and tea was served by Mrs. G. Sutherland and the Misses Stevens.

An illuminated scroll, presented to the Chapter by the Royal Canadian Navy as a token of appreciation for their "adoption" of a ship during the war, was on display and will be framed.

Eaton Cemetery Group Makes Appeal For Funds

Eaton, May 12. —Early in 1922, a number of interested parties petitioned the Lieutenant-Governor to have the Eaton Cemetery incorporated under the name of "Eaton Cemetery Association," and on June 27, of that same year, the corporation was constituted.

Previous to this time a canvass of interested parties and lot-owners, had been made and a good sum raised. About $1,500 was used in renovating and improving the cemetery and the remainder was invested so that the Association could have an annual income to use for the up-keep.

Last year's annual meeting of the Association was held on the second Monday in May and the financial statement showed that there was only about $400 for up-keep of fences, grounds, flowers and markers, and this is not sufficient.

The cemetery contains 3½ acres, with another acre fenced, which can be taken in at any time. There are 538 lots with approximately 260 fully or partly occupied, and all lots are marked with cement blocks and numbered. There are also 100 rods of driveway.

Mr. Robert Kirby, the trusty and experienced caretaker, keeps the grass mowed, depressions filled, the monuments in shape, and the large flower border along the front cared for. From time to time the fence needs repair and paint, mowers have to be replaced, small implements and tools wear out and other little items of expense spring up.

This takes a lot of time and expense, and the sad part in the fact that as the present bonds are redeemed, the money will have to be reinvested at a very low rate. Wages are higher, as well as materials.

An appeal is being made to friends and relatives for donations. Already, donations have been coming in and the directors look forward to having more to work with, in this worthy cause. Any amount is accepted and may be mailed to any of the directors or secretary.

A. B. Farquhar Gives Central School Board Talk At Boundary Club meeting

Derby Line, May 13.—"The quality of the youth of tomorrow depends upon our schools," said A. B. Farquhar, of North Hatley, in an interesting and important talk at the regular Monday evening meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary, held at the Del Monty Hotel.

Likening the Central School Board to a central heating system, the speaker said that the purpose was to transmit ideas, to aid in getting the most for the dollar spent, and to do things that local boards could not do without assistance. "Many times," said the speaker, "a really fine teacher cannot do well in a certain school. Through the Central board this teacher's fine qualities could be transferred to a school that gave her a better opportunity. That way cuts down the waste of good teachers and aids the schools to get the teachers that especially suit them. Surveys of physical and mental defects can be made through the board, and steps taken to correct them that would be difficult for smaller groups to handle with success. The central board acts as the furnace that transmits assistance to various local radiators.

"We haven't been too successful in making a better world, and a great task remains for our children. The quality of the world depends upon the quality of the young people, and in turn that depends upon how good and how efficient our educational system is. Anything that aids in improving our schools is worth trying. An extra dollar spent for education is returned a hundredfold to all of us. No one should begrudge a few extra cents of tax if it results in a real improvement in our schools. The central board is designed to get the most for every penny spent and to increase the efficiency and quality of education in general."

The talk was highly interesting and thought-provoking, and in thanking Mr. Farquhar, David Goodell, principal of Derby Academy, stated that he much appreciated the approach and the ideas expressed, and hoped that the listeners would take the talk home with them. The speaker was introduced by J. A. Grady.

Lyman Hall, of Newport, Vt., was present as a visiting Rotarian, bringing George Eaton, of Newport, Vt., with him as his guest. Peto Joly of Derby Academy was present as guest of David Goodell, and E. Powers was present as a guest of Albert Young.

President Earl Heath gave a short account of the Rotary Spring Conference, held in Rutland, Vt., last week, and attended by him and Maurice Moore.

Rotary Camp and Rotary Fair. Elwin Chadsey will be chairman of the 5th annual Boundary Rotary Fair to be held this coming September, and William Dailey will be chairman of the Rotary Children's Camp to be held the last weekend in June and first two weeks in July.

Mr. Chadsey was assistant to Claude Willard for the fair last year, and said that with the assistance of all the members of the club he would do the best he could to make the fair a success again this year.

William Dailey was chairman of the camp project last year, and consented to handle it again this year. Miss Margaret Rowell will be the chief counselor at the camp, replacing Peto Joly, who will be away for the summer. Advance arrangements for the camp will be made by David Goodell and Peto Joly, with William Dailey acting as chairman for the club. A list of committees, and other plans will be announced in the near future.

During the past years around 100 children have each spent a week at the camp, and the plans are to operate the camp upon the same plan this year. Children from Derby, Derby Line, Ayer's Cliff, Beebe, Stanstead and Rock Island will be eligible to go. Where the parents can pay there will be expected to do so, but no child will be refused because funds are not available from the parents.

The club has averaged to spend around $1,000 per year on this project, and the pleasure the boys and girls get from their week camping out is sufficient recompense for the work and expense. The funds to operate the camp from the proceeds of the Rotary Fair.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the Del Monty Hotel next Monday evening at 8 p. m.

Recommission Naval Base

The big Canadian Navy base at Deep Brook, N.S., which turned out thousands of trained men during the war when it was the largest naval establishment in the British Empire, was recommissioned May 1. Regular Dinner Meeting Is Held By Magog Lions Magog, May 13.—The regular bi-monthly dinner meeting of the Magog Lions Club was held Wednesday night at the Chateau du Lac with president George Abbott in the chair.

Business was brief, being limited to an announcement that new road signs, to be placed at the entrances to the town, have arrived, and to discussion of the possibility of the local club sending delegates to forthcoming Lions conventions in Montreal and New York.

Elmer Dagenais led a sing song, with Manse Scruton accompanying at the piano.

Ezra Ball introduced the guest speaker, Douglas Amaron, editorial director of the Sherbrooke Daily Record.

Mr. Amaron spoke about the operations of reporters and war correspondents overseas during the last war, illustrating his remarks with personal experiences during five war years he was in England, Italy and on the western front.

A correspondent attached to the Canadian troops, Mr. Amaron said that while censorship was, at times, annoying to the writers, it was on all occasions just and no articles were withheld or cut without good reason.

The speaker also spoke briefly of the co-operation of the correspondents received from military authorities who took the writers completely into their confidence, thus enabling correspondents to send back far more intelligent reports of operations than might otherwise have been the case.

W. H. McKenna thanked the speaker.

Rene Monty Was Coaticook Elected Head Of Stores Discuss Swimming Project May 25th Closing

Derby Line, May 13.—Rene Monty was elected president of the Frontier "Learn to Swim" Project, at a meeting held at the Del Monty Hotel, Monday evening. Other officers were elected, committee heads appointed, and plans made to continue this valuable project this summer.

Besides Rene Monty, president, the following officers were elected: Earle Farley, vice-president; Mrs. Alice Merriman, secretary, and Gordon Petrie, treasurer. The organization committee will be headed by Mrs. Ann Aldrich; transportation by Albert Young; finance by Gordon Petrie; and publicity by Earl Heath.

Miss Gwen MacHarg will again be chief instructor and will be assisted by David Wood and Fred Allard. The same plan of instruction will be followed and there will be two weeks for each community for the swimming.

One week will be for Beebe, one week for Stanstead, one for Rock Island, and one for Derby and Derby Line. As the local ill shrd Derby Line. As the school will operate eight weeks, each of the above communities will receive two weeks for the boys and girls to learn swimming and water safety.

It was emphasized that children could go at any time, but that special transportation will be provided for the children whose week it is at Lake Salem. If there is room for boys and girls of other communities they may ride down, even though it is not their week. Where parents provide transportation for their children, they may come at any time, and it is hoped that many more parents will visit the "Learn to Swim" project, this summer.

The finance committee, under Gordon Petrie, will work out a campaign to secure sufficient funds to operate the project, and letters will be sent to past contributors and to parents. The fee for transportation will remain at 10 cents

Coaticook, May 13.—Local merchants have entered a request to the Board of Trade that stores remain open on May 24th and close on May 25th.

As Ascension Day is on the 26th, a working day between the two holidays would cause considerable confusion during the week, whereas if the stores were to remain closed on the 25th and 26th, employees would be given an opportunity to enjoy two consecutive holidays.

Citizens will be notified of the decision of the Board of Trade as soon as possible.

The value of learning swimming and water safety is made apparent by the loss of life of many who grow up without this knowledge, and it is felt that by concentrating training on boys and girls from eight to 12 years of age, the number of lives lost can be substantially reduced. All three instructors will have complete Red Cross training at aquatic schools and will be able to see that all boys and girls receive adequate instruction. Badges and certificates will be awarded to those who pass the various tests.

Further announcements, schedules, etc., will appear well in advance of the start of the project. The first week will begin July 4. Those present at the meeting were Rev. E. C. Amaron, Rene Monty, Mrs. Ann Aldrich, Mrs. Allen Pocock, Miss Catherine MacKenzie, Stanley Holland, Gordon Petrie, Earle Farley, Henry Rollins, Elbert Young, E. Powers and Earl Heath.

Q—Can magnetic compasses be used at the magnetic poles?
A—Magnetic compasses are of no help in the areas above Hudson Bay and below the Straits of Magellan, close to the magnetic poles. Nor can a sun compass, which indicates the direction of flight by direct sighting on the sun, be depended upon because of the many hours of twilight in these regions. The same is true of the astro compass, which measures direction by the stars or other heavenly bodies.

BRANDON WALLOPS MONTREAL 5-1 TO FORCE EIGHTH GAME

Wheat Kings Register Second Straight Win As They Outplay Royals; Final Tilt Monday Night

Brandon, Man., May 13.—(P)—Montreal Royals and Brandon Wheat Kings today are back on even terms in their battle for the Memorial Cup—highest honor in Canadian junior hockey—and will fight it out in the final game at Winnipeg Monday night.

Wheat Kings, fighting an uphill battle in the last two contests, forced the eighth game in what originally was scheduled as a best-of-seven series when they trounced Royals 5-1 last night before more than 4,800 fans. The victory—Wheat Kings' second straight—levelled the count at three wins apiece, with one game tied in overtime.

Frank King, fast-rushing Brandon captain, added to his individual scoring by scoring one goal and assisting on two others. He now has six goals and five assists for 11 points to lead marksmen of both clubs by a wide margin in the series.

Brandon's other goals last night were by Alf Francis, Reggie Abbott, Joe Crozier and Mac Beaton. Royals' lone counter went to Neal Langill.

For the first time in the series, Brandon skated off the ice at the end of the first period with a lead, going ahead 1-0 on Francis' goal.

The teams split goals in the middle session, but the driving Wheat Kings pumped home three counters without a reply in the final frame to win going away.

Each team drew six penalties, including two majors to each. Brandon outshot Royals 32-27 as they carried the play throughout most of the last period when they threw 17 shots at slim Bobby Bieau, Royal netminder.

Ray Frederick, Brandon goalie and star of the game, had a comparatively easy time in the final frame, only making six saves. But his work in the first two periods robbed Royals of many drives that were labelled goal all the way.

He brought the many shirt-sleeved fans to their feet time and again as he acrobatically kicked out at but one of the 21 shots thrown at him in the first two sessions.

Francis put Brandon into a 1-0 lead in the first period on his shot which carried off Royal defence-man Vic Fields' skate. Then Wheat Kings went two-up at the 10:40 mark in the second when Crozier bagged his first goal of the series. He sent a long screened shot from about 18 feet out straight into the upper corner of the net after picking up a pass from King and Beaton.

It took Royals only 44 seconds to get the puck back, as Langill pushed the puck under the prone Frederick after Bob Frampton and Bert Herschfeld had been stopped from close in. Royals drew the only penalty of the period, but didn't go short-handed as Dick Moore was given a 10-minute misconduct for a display of temper, after the referees had ruled a Montreal goal off-side.

The Montrealers started off speedily in the last period in an effort to gain a tie which would have given them the series on points, but faded badly after the halfway mark when Brandon scored their last three counters. Abbott put Wheat Kings ahead 3-1 at 12:15 and, with Bill Rattray off for tripping, King and Beaton added two more within 25 seconds of each other.

With less than two minutes remaining, the fans were treated to two fights which resulted in Brian Roche and Glen Sonmor of Brandon and Rolfe Rousseau and Rattray each drawing majors for fistfights.

Poholsky Wings' Choice For Rookie Award

Tom Poholsky, hefty Rochester pitcher, is the Red Wings' "Book" entry for the International League's Rookie Of The Year honor.

The 200-pound, 19-year-old right-hander from Detroit posted his fifth victory in as many outings last night in beating the Syracuse Chiefs, 15-1.

Poholsky, who isn't stingy when it comes to allowing the opposition hits, yielded 10 but as usual he was tough with men on base.

The Wings supported their crack recruit with their largest collection of hits this year, 12.
Russ Derry featured the attack against Johnny Hetki and Mike Schultz with his seventh homer, a grand slam drive in the fourth inning that keyed a six-run rally. Catcher Jim Bucha also homered for Rochester while Ed Mierkiewicz chipped in with a triple and three singles.

The victory enabled the Wings to move from fourth to second place with the Buffalo Bisons, erstwhile runner-up, dropping to fourth.

Buffalo dropped a 3-2 decision to the last place Newark Bears, getting only two hits off righthander Joe Valenzuela.

The Bears jumped on Ernie Silberman for two runs in the second inning when Bud Heslet cracked a two-run homer. They pushed across the winning run in the fourth on Ed Ehler's single and errors by Gene Markland and Billy De Mars.

Buffalo scored both of its runs in the sixth on a walk, Chet Leach's triple and an infield out. The victory was Valenzuela's first in four decisions.

Baltimore Orioles smashed Toronto Maple Leafs 9-3. Bryan Stephens scattered nine safeties in posting his second triumph.

Al Porto, who hurled a seven-inning no-hitter last Saturday, started for the Leafs and after yielding two runs in the first inning, departed in the fourth during a four-run Baltimore rally.

The scheduled game between the pace-setting Jersey City Giants and the third-place Montreal Royals was postponed because of rain.

Dom DiMaggio, Now Batting .365, Isn't Joe's Little Brother Any More

Chicago, May 13.—(P)—In a way, it's kind of embarrassing for Dominic DiMaggio to be hitting .365.

"The fans read the sports pages," said the Boston Red Sox centerfielder, "and probably say to themselves: 'Well, I see where Joe DiMaggio's still up there, wonder when he was traded to Boston.'"

Dandy Dom, the only Dimag still making big league headlines now that Joltin' Joe is convalescing, admits "it's nice to be on top" for a change, instead of just being Joe's brother.

When Dom belted a pair of singles in five trips yesterday as the Red Sox nipped the White Sox 2-1 in 11 innings, it gave the little, bespectacled gardener 27 safe blows in 47 times up.

The Boston leadoff man hasn't changed his bat, his stance or his swing.

"I'm just hitting better to all parts of the field than ever before," he explained. "I started out the first day in spring training and was hitting over .400 when the season opened."

"I hit a lot of balls hard last year, but they were caught. Now, I'm getting a few breaks. You gotta be lucky. After all, the difference between a .290 hitter and a .350 hitter often is where a few balls fall out of reach."

"For a right-handed hitter, I'm getting a lot of knocks to right field now."

Thumpin' Ted Williams, the American League batting champion the past two seasons and some 50 percentage points behind DiMaggio, is proud of the way his teammate has been belting the ball.

"We've been looking at good pitching this spring, too," said Williams. "There aren't a flock of those .400 guys around that you used to see at the end of 20 games in previous years."

"That makes Dom's average look all the better." As for his own plate activity, Williams declared "I'm swinging good. I'll hit better when it gets warmer."

Trap Shot Actually Is Easiest; You Don't Have To Hit Ball; Stroke Loses Its Power In Sand

By GENE SARAZEN
One of the reasons why the average golfer is paralyzed in a trap is that he never practices trap shots, doesn't familiarize himself with sand.

I have devoted thousands of hours to this shot, and even now when I go to the major tournaments I spend 10 or 15 minutes practicing in sand.

Actually it is the easiest shot in golf because it is the only shot in the game in which you don't have to hit the ball.

Play the ball off the right heel with your sand iron.
It must have a wide flange. The back is one-eighth of an inch higher than the front sole.

This prevents the clubhead from digging into the sand.
Pick the club up with both hands, and punch down and through, hitting behind the ball.

Use a short backswing.
When taking the club back it should be taken away on the outside of the backswing.

This automatically opens the face of the club which is necessary when playing with a sand iron.
The stroke loses its power because of the cushion of sand between the ball and the clubhead.

Don't hit the ball, and don't be afraid of the shot. The sand will push the ball up onto the green.
Practice good and bad lies.
You should also practice different ranges.

The range is controlled by the distance behind the ball that you hit.
Hitting from a trap 10 yards from the green you should hit two inches behind the ball.

In order for the ball to carry 20 or 30 yards, hit within one inch of the ball.
That is how to guide the distance.
Practice this shot and lower your score.

To Compete In Horse Show

SUNNY BELLE, owned by Mrs. B. V. Triganne, of Sherbrooke, with Miss Louise Triganne up, will take part in the opening horse show of the season tomorrow afternoon at Dufferin Park.

This dark chestnut mare will be appearing in her second season in the local horse shows. Last year Sunny Belle came through with quite a few ribbons in her initial performance and will no doubt give the rest of the competitors a run before the winner is declared.

Beaches To Operate On Share-The-Wealth Plan

Toronto, May 13.—(P)—Toronto Beaches football club will operate on a co-operative share-the-wealth plan in the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union next fall, it was announced today.

In a statement outlining the 24-year-old club's plans, officials said "our senior grouping does not warrant, we believe, entering the play-off market which at present is out of all proportion for all but a couple of clubs in Canada." (Eastern and Western senior teams estimate between $35,000 and $70,000 is needed for a season's operation).

The statement added: "If at a future date football achieves some different grouping, we will be in a position to operate as a professional or semi-professional club again."

Meanwhile, we can carry a senior club in the Ontario Rugby Football Union on a plan of share-the-wealth, (if any) with the players, after training and travelling expenses are met.

"Since the war Beaches have reached the league playoffs in all four seasons and the Eastern Canada finals twice. Like the teams in Regina and other Western cities, we visited on our tour last fall, we find that such success will still fail to come anywhere close to meeting expenses as if we are to pay a competitive salary list."

"We have no intention of asking our patrons to further support football players in the luxury to which they may have become accustomed but we sure we can carry along for good sport on our gates and trust we can supply, as always, our share of hard, fast football."

Clapper Nominated As Candidate For June 27

Peterborough, Ont., May 13.—(P)—Aubrey (Dit) Clapper, recently retired coach of Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, Wednesday night was nominated as Liberal candidate for Hastings-Peterborough in the June 27th Federal election. The seat was held in the last House by George S. White, a Progressive Conservative.

Clapper retired in 1948 after 20 years as an active player and coached last season for Boston.
