LIBERATION OF SEOUL IS ANNOUNCED

World News In Brief

Perth, Australia, Sept. 26.—(Reuters)—A former British army captain, 31-year-old Peter Munro Blake, has arrived in Perth after driving a jeep 21,000 miles from Britain. Blake started out with three other men but is the only one of the party to reach here. He travelled through France, Spain, Libya, Egypt, Persia, Pakistan, India and Malaya. The former army captain, who gave up a job as a plant manager in a pipemaking firm for a round-the-world jeep trip, intends to visit Latin America, the United States and Canada before returning to Britain in 1952.

Casablanca, French Morocco, Sept. 26.—(AP)—A sudden torrential downpour in the mountainous region of Sefrou last night brought death to about 100 persons, it was estimated today. Authorities estimated damages at about $2,000,000. The cloudburst sent a flash flood tumbling down the course of the Agdal river. Many bridges and homes were destroyed and roads cut.

Berlin, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Seizure of several hundred small shops by the communist government in East Berlin was reported today.

The newspapers, Telegraf and the Berlin Stadtblatt, which have good sources among former Socialists in the east, said the seizures occurred in the last 24 hours. The East Zone government assigned several hundred employees of various "people's owned" plants to take over title to the shops, which included cabinet makers, retailers, small construction firms and laundries. The People's Police accompanied employees of nationalized industries chosen to act as trustees of the seized shops. Owners were served with notices charging the victims with "a number of violations as regarded to goods as well as money against the law for the protection of inner German trade."

Many of the larger industries in East Berlin were taken over by the communist state long ago. But small private enterprises had survived until now.

Tokyo, Sept. 26.—(AP)—A British army spokesman reported today 21 men were killed and 20 wounded in the error bombing of the British 27th Brigade by American planes Saturday. The spokesman said the number of casualties was determined personally by Air Vice-Marshal C. A. Boucher on a two-day visit to the front in South Korea.

(Reuters News Agency reported from Waegwan, Korea, Sunday there were 150 casualties as a result of the mistake bombings.)

Sorel, Que., Sept. 26.—(G)—A fourth prisoner escaped from jail here yesterday — shortly after Jail Governor Lucien Bateau was suspended and a full-scale investigation was ordered by the Provincial Government into a series of recent breaks.

Provincial Police officers have been running the jail since last week, when Mr. Bateau was pulled off the job. Ironically, the provincials weren't aware of the escape of Gerard Picard until he was captured and returned to them by city police.

Three-Month Occupation Of Southern Korean Capital Ended, MacArthur Declares

Great Rescue Campaign Is Completed

Halifax, Sept. 26.—(G)—Sixteen American airmen were safe in Goose Bay today after a tricky rescue yesterday from the barren Labrador muskeg where they parachuted Thursday from their disabled bomber. The rescue was effected after the survivors were spotted by an R.C.A.F. search plane Sunday, 95 miles southwest of the big northern base. A helicopter landed in the Labrador wilderness picked up the men and took them to the shore of a large lake nearby, from where two Albatross amphibians carried them to Goose Bay for medical attention. The only man injured among the 12 crew members and four passengers suffered a broken leg when he landed in a river after jumping from the bomber.

The four-engined plane was on a routine training flight from Goose Bay to Tucson, Ariz., when two engines caught fire and another stalled and those aboard had to jump for their lives. The unidentified man who suffered a broken leg had to be rescued from the river water by another crew member who landed nearby. A member of the highly-trained American para-rescue squad parachuted to the survivors earlier yesterday to prepare them for evacuation.

An R.C.A.F. source said one of the big plane's engines caught fire shortly after it cleared Goose Bay Thursday night. This blaze was controlled but then flames shot out from another engine and the aircraft turned back towards Goose Bay.

The men found one another slowly after landing. Giant bonfires brought all 16 together by Friday morning. The aircraft crashed about four miles from the rocky bluff where they made camp and awaited rescue.

They made a shelter out of parachutes and stretched others out to signal search planes. One called for food and heater, another for a doctor and a third said "all's well."

Their main worry was lack of food, but morale was high except on the second day — Saturday — when bad weather kept search planes grounded.

Sunday a giant armada of American and Canadian planes took off on a hunt extending from Labrador to the southwest United States — the route the plane was to have travelled.

F. O. J. M. Wallace of Halifax, piloting a Lancaster from Greenwood, N.S., R.C.A.F. airbase, was searching in the area in the afternoon when he spotted a thin wispy of smoke curling up into the chilly Labrador air.

Investigating, he found the encamped survivors and called in nearby United States planes to drop supplies. A Canadian plane from Rockcliffe, Ont., piloted by Flt.-Lt. Richmond, also dropped food, radio and medical supplies.

Wallace, telling of the spotting of the Labrador survivors, said they lined up "and we counted 14" when he flew over. "Nearby we saw a tent made of a parachute."

He said he spotted the men about half an hour after leaving Goose Bay.

The terrain, he said, was "rough, with only squat scrub and a few stubby trees here and there."

Much Hand-To-Hand Fighting Still Remains Before Die-hard Reds Are Completely Cleared From City.

Tokyo, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today the United Nations forces have liberated Seoul from North Koreans who held the city in Communist bondage almost three months.

This was the big initial victory for the 53 non-Communist countries behind the first armed peace-enforcement measure undertaken by the United Nations.

But mopping up of an estimated 5,000 die-hard Communist defenders in Seoul remained to be done by Allied forces fighting house by house and street by street.

The Allied forces hoped to complete the clean-up task with a minimum of destruction to the city.

Four big blazes were burning as the ravages of battle. The Allied force credited with liberation of the 500-year-old capital of 1,000,000 normal population is American and South Korean.

It was officially in control just three months and a day after the Korean Reds—Communist-trained and Russian-armed—invaded the U. N.-sponsored republic across parallel 38 June 25.

MacArthur issued a special communique at 2:10 p.m. Tuesday (12:00 a.m. EST), to announce the end of effective Red resistance in Seoul. It said:

"Seoul, capital of the Republic of Korea, is again in friendly hands. United Nations forces, including the 17th regiment of the ROK (Republic of Korea) army and elements of the U. S. seventh (army) and 1st Marine division, have completed the envelopment and seizure of the city . . .

"The liberation of the city was conducted in such a manner as to cause the least possible damage to civil installations."

The big gamble to break the back of Red Korean resistance and end the war of liberation soon was paying off with surprising speed.

That calculated risk involved a hazardous landing far behind enemy lines at Incheon and a quick drive for Seoul. Eleven days elapsed between the Incheon beachhead landings and announcement of Seoul's liberation.

The capital not only was a symbolic prize but the hub of virtually all road and rail lines into south-east Korea where more than 100,000 communists were floundering away from the old Allied defence base.

Allied troops started pouring ashore at Incheon, 22 miles west of Seoul, Sept. 15, to change the complexion of the Korean war.

The 10th corps directing the Seoul fight said Seoul's military defenses actually were broken by 2 p.m. Monday — just 10 days after the Incheon landings.

MacArthur said Seoul's communist garrison was fleeing northward in disorder.

The Reds appeared to be shattered everywhere as a unified fighting force.

Allied forces hammered out sharp new gains throughout the whole battle zone — in which may be the war's conclusive offensive — against resistance ranging from bitter to feeble.

South Koreans thrust 35 miles out of the old beachhead all along the northern wall.

British and American infantrymen gained nearly that same distance along the western perimeter. And a powerful armored task force raced 70 miles out of the northwest corner in four days, striking within 40 miles of a link-up with the second front Seoul-Incheon beachhead.

The link-up, expected hourly, may seal scores of thousands of Red Korean troops in the south. They will have the task of escaping piecemeal to the north over secondary roads and rugged hills.

Fighting inside Seoul raged throughout Monday night and into Tuesday.

AP correspondents Tom Lambert and Bill Ross said U.S. marines beat a massed counter-attack in a fierce all-night battle.

The Reds hurled their largest attack of the Seoul fighting at the 1st Marine regiment about 500 yards south of the Governor's Palace.

Marines firing bazookas knocked out 11 Red tanks and broke the assault.

"We may be able to take just about all of the city today (Tuesday)," a Marine general said in the forenoon, "if the Reds shot their main bolt last night."

Front intelligence officers and air observers said 2,000 communists fled the city in about 100 vehicles Monday night.

One Marine battalion reported killing 1,800 Reds in 36 hours on Seoul's northwest outskirts. Hunted out quality-wise.

Labor Group Expels Red Affiliates

Winnipeg, Sept. 26.—(G)—Reds have absorbed their first pasting at the Canadian Congress of Labor convention.

Opening move of the annual meeting of spokesmen for 360,000 unionists yesterday was to heave out of its ranks the Communist-dominated United Electrical Workers of America.

Its 25,000-member affiliate—third largest union in the Congress—the 700-delegate got set today for further wallops against the Red element in Canadian labor.

Later in the week, the convention is expected to give its executive council power to suspend unions on the outright ground of being dominated by Communists. It has not had that power up to now, and has had to use various devices for getting rid of left-wing bodies.

Expulsion of the Electrical Workers, forecast for several months following the union's suspension by the C.C.L. executive council last December, came as something of an anti-climax in a quiet meeting yesterday.

A year ago at Ottawa, the convention was in a turmoil as left-wingers fought unsuccessfully against the expulsion of the Red-run International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers and the suspension of five top officers of the U.E.W.

In a vote on the question of expelling the U.E.W., the left-wingers mustered perhaps 50 hands of 700-delegate delegates. This made it clear the anti-Red policies of the C.C.L. executive will go through during the next four days of the convention.

These will include declarations on foreign policy and other questions, in which the C.C.L. will adopt a stiff anti-communist line.

In yesterday's opening meeting, President A. R. Mosher, told the convention that communist unions should be outlawed from the congress. This foreshadows a move by the executive to develop later—giving it power to put out

Korean Campaign Proves Value Of U.N. Army As Peace Means

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

Support is mounting among the democracies for the U.S. proposal that every United Nations member maintain a special unit in its army subject to call by the U.N. for enforcement of peace.

This amounts to creation of a United Nations army which, in its totality, would be a powerful military machine. It would provide the strength to make the peace organization fully effective.

Without this the U.N. must be impotent in the face of any crisis which could only be dealt with by force.

The Korean war is a fair illustration of the point. Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the U. S. joint chiefs-of-staff, said the other day that this campaign has become one of the most significant in all military history because it marks the birth of a new power in the world: "Armed action by the United Nations."

When Korea was invaded from the north, the U. N. was powerless—in its own strength—to intervene. It appealed for interven-

Eighty British Miners Lose Lives In Underground Blaze

Creswell, England, Sept. 26.—(AP)—A raging underground fire trapped and killed 83 men today at the Creswell coal mine. Eighty of the men were caught behind a wall of flame and choked to death by gas and fumes.

Three others were brought out dead by fellow workers who crept to safety on their hands and knees.

After rescue operations had been carried out for seven hours, the blazing pit was sealed off.

Smoke and intense heat drove back rescuers and hope for the trapped men was abandoned at 1 p.m. (7 a.m. EST), when the fire had been burning for nine hours.

Decision to give up rescue attempts and seal off the burning section of the mine was announced by Sir Hubert Houldsworth, chairman of the East Midlands Division of the National Coal Board.

He said a check showed 80 men missing.

More than half of the approximately 200 men working in the mine escape when the fire flared, crawling through dense smoke and rubber fumes to reach the main shaft.

Scorched and blackened volunteers who went below to fight the fire staggered to the surface saying "It is hell down below."

The flames broke out soon after midnight in a conveyor belt.

About 90 men were in the section affected by the fire. Sir Hubert said, adding that the fire there was "intense and the air very foul."

It was Britain's second coal mine disaster in recent weeks. Thirteen men were killed and 116 others were entombed for two days before they were rescued after a cave-in Sept. 8 near New Cumnock, Scotland.

The Creswell mine is a mile from Creswell Crags, a noted beauty spot near Welbeck Abbey, the home of the Dukes of Portland. The colliery, employing more than 1,500 workers, is the centre of a community of 6,000 persons.

This afternoon Sir Hubert and the Mineworkers Union, in a joint statement, said despite rescue efforts "it was not possible to rescue any of the trapped men."

The statement added: "All possible steps were taken to combat the fire but it was impossible to prevent it spreading. After a full inspection underground . . . It was the unanimous opinion that there was no possibility of any of the men remaining in the districts affected being alive."

"It was also considered that any attempt to recover the bodies was bound to fail and that such attempts would inevitably involve further loss of life."

"It was then unanimously resolved that no course remained except to seal off the affected part of the pit. This work is now taking place."

A long moan went up from waiting wives and children of the trapped men when the decision was announced.

Virtually the whole community of 6,000 persons had been clustered around the pit head since early morning.

Above ground, hundreds of men filled sandbags to be taken below to seal off the fire. Rescue teams rushed here from surrounding mines.

The flames broke out at 4 a.m., apparently in a conveyor belt about 1,000 yards from the bottom of the pit. The mine has an elaborate network of more than 1" miles of such belts — one of the 1,932 yard long — to carry coal from the coal face to the main shaft.

Frost Loss Cuts Down Wheat Crop

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—(G)—A wheat crop that might have been the largest in history — except for sharply below the 544,000,000-bushel crop farmers had hoped for, the crop still is a big gain over the 367,000,000 bushels realized last year and well above the 394,000,000-bushel 1940-49 10-year average.

Offering silent prayers for continuing good weather, western farmers have hauled away about 250,000,000 of the 490,000,000-bushel crop they are expected to harvest this year.

A small segment of the prairie farm population is working in gloom, facing fields blackened by crop-killing frost that destroyed about 54,000,000 bushels and weakened the quality of millions more.

However, all told, the harvest is not considered "too bad" by government grain experts. Though sharply below the 544,000,000-bushel crop farmers had hoped for, the crop still is a big gain over the 367,000,000 bushels realized last year and well above the 394,000,000-bushel 1940-49 10-year average.

The loss through frost has not been felt in wheat alone. The harvest of oats, barley, rye and flaxseed now going on will see clearance of quantities below that estimated by the Government's Bureau of Statistics.

The oat crop now is estimated at 414,000,000 bushels, down from last month's estimate of 433,000,000. A harvest of 179,000,000 bushels of barley is expected, compared with last month's estimate of 184,000,000. The rye crop likely will be about 14,500,000, down from 15,300,000; flaxseed, 4,900,000, down from 5,100,000.

Though the wheat harvest is smaller than anticipated, there will be plenty of wheat for export, Canada has a carry-over from the previous crop year of about 100,000,000 bushels. This, together with current production of milling grades of 1, 2 and 3 which likely will run to about 400,000,000 bushels, should give the Canadian Wheat Board about 500,000,000 bushels with which to meet domestic and foreign commitments and for carry-over into the next crop year.

Domestic millers likely will require about 150,000,000 bushels and Canada's export trade about 250,000,000 or more, including Britain's anticipated purchases of between 100,000,000 and 120,000,000 bushels from Canada. That still will leave Canada with a carry-over of about the same as this year.

U.N. Diplomats Evade Quick Action On Soviet Proposal

By A. L. GOLDBERG
New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—United Nations diplomats today shied away from a quick verdict on a new Russian peace and atomic control statements branded as propaganda by the United States state Department.

Interested but cautious, and careful not to appear to reject any really sincere Russian olive branch, they pleaded for more time to study a declaration by Jakob A. Malik, Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister, to a group of Maryland peace petitioners yesterday.

"We have had enough of words. What is needed now is action to give practical effect to these expressions of good intention."

A spokesman for Secretary-General Trygve Lie of the U.N. said the chief U.N. executive has no idea now of trying to arrange a meeting between President Truman and Prime Minister Stalin in or of attempting to pick up the ball on the other Malik statement proposals. Lie would not comment on the Malik declarations.

Lie has a 10-point program for peace on the U. N. agenda which covers everything Malik offered and many other angles as well, including periodic meetings of top world diplomats in the Security Council. His program will be debated toward the end of the Assembly sessions.

A Security Council session, at which quick action was expected on Indonesia's application to be the U. N.'s 60th member, was scheduled this afternoon in addition to morning and afternoon assembly meetings for policy debates.

International Situation Is Worry To US Crop Planners

By OVID A. MARTIN
Washington, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The international situation is outside the scope of the Agriculture Department, but other agencies of the United States government is keeping a closer tab on world developments.

The reason: The department soon must draw up a 1951 farm-production program for the U.S. that will fit next year's prospective demands.

Food requirements would be one thing under peace, but quite another under war. The department has the responsibility of guessing right when it sets up a program. It is too late to change, until another year rolls around, once plans have been made and crops have been sown.

If it guesses wrong one way, it may find itself confronting with big surpluses or shortages of heavy government price-support outlays; if it guesses wrong the other way, prices will jump and there may be real shortages.

The department must announce 1951 plans now. The farmers want to get what material they'll need, do the amount of fall plowing that would be called for and the like.

The department already has announced the 1951 wheat program calling for 72,500,000 acres compared with about 69,000,000 this year. The program was announced early because much of that grain is planted in the fall.

The department must announce by Oct. 15 whether it will continue rigid production and marketing controls on cotton.

The only crops for which rigid-production controls are likely to be maintained next year are tobacco and peanuts.

Unless the international situation worsens, the department is likely to keep acreage allotments of corn, but to increase them over this year's levels. Much depends also on how this year's crop turns out quality-wise.

HE'S TOO THIN FOR ME, CRIED, "WILSON". Hollywood - Behind the Screen: Sidney Blackmer, back before the cameras in Columbia's "The Hero," after a long absence from Hollywood, tells about the time he played Josephus Daniels in Fox's production of "Wilson."

The late cabinet member was a personal friend of Sidney's and prided himself on a stomach as flat as Gary Cooper's. When Blackmer reported to the studio as a trim Josephus Daniels, Darryl Zanuck threw up his hands and issued orders that the callous Josephus Daniels would have to sport a bay window. Padding was placed around Blackmer's middle and the cameras began to roll.

The same evening Blackmer sent this telegram to Daniels: "When you see yourself in 'Wilson,' please remember that the stomach is neither yours nor mine." Who's Up Front? It happened in the U.S. publicity unit room when word reached the press agents that Bill Mauldin, whose "Up Front With Mauldin" had been purchased by the studio, was turning actor in MGM's "Red Badge of Courage."

have longer hair on movie stars' legs? Alan Dale, one-time film actor and now proprietor of Hollywood's picturesque Villa Nova, recall the time that the late John Barrymore arrived accompanied by a doctor and two nurses, throwing the restaurant chefs and waiters into a tizzy.

It was during an on-the-wagon period for John following one of his extended lost week-ends and he ordered scalloped mussels. "What happened back in the kitchen?" Barrymore thundered after wolfing down the dish. "Bring me another order and this time don't make it so cursed dry."

A second, third, fourth and fifth order were brought to Barrymore, who spooned up the last drop each time, complained bitterly of the lack of sauce and called upon his companions to witness the abominations placed before him. Finally Dale rushed up to the table on the sixth serving and apologized profusely to the great actor.

"Think nothing of it," said Barrymore. "Thanks to the excellent snery in your scalloped mussels I am now delightfully drunk and have again foiled my medical friends." Clothes Make The Actor "Wild track" is movietown lingo for dialogue which is added to pictures after certain scenes have been photographed. The bald-pated actor was in street clothes and refused to go to the sound room. "I could not think of doing this without the uniform I wore in the scene," he told Merman.

Wage Limits Continued From Page 4 bined efforts of industrialists, trade unions and the government. Sir Arthur says conditions contributing to the "sterling areas" gave Britain sheltered external markets. One effect was to narrow the margin afforded by devaluation. As soon as other countries earned more dollars and found sterling prices less attractive, the "elaborate but fragile" shelter of inconvertibility, bi-lateral agreements and exchange controls would collapse. "The only way to avert disaster that would then follow is to anticipate it," he says. "Otherwise we shall drift into a situation in which a further devaluation becomes as inevitable as the first, and sterling may cease to be a world currency."

Evidence Is Presented At Brady Inquest

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday after an inquest into the death of sixteen-year-old John Brady, of Lennoxville.

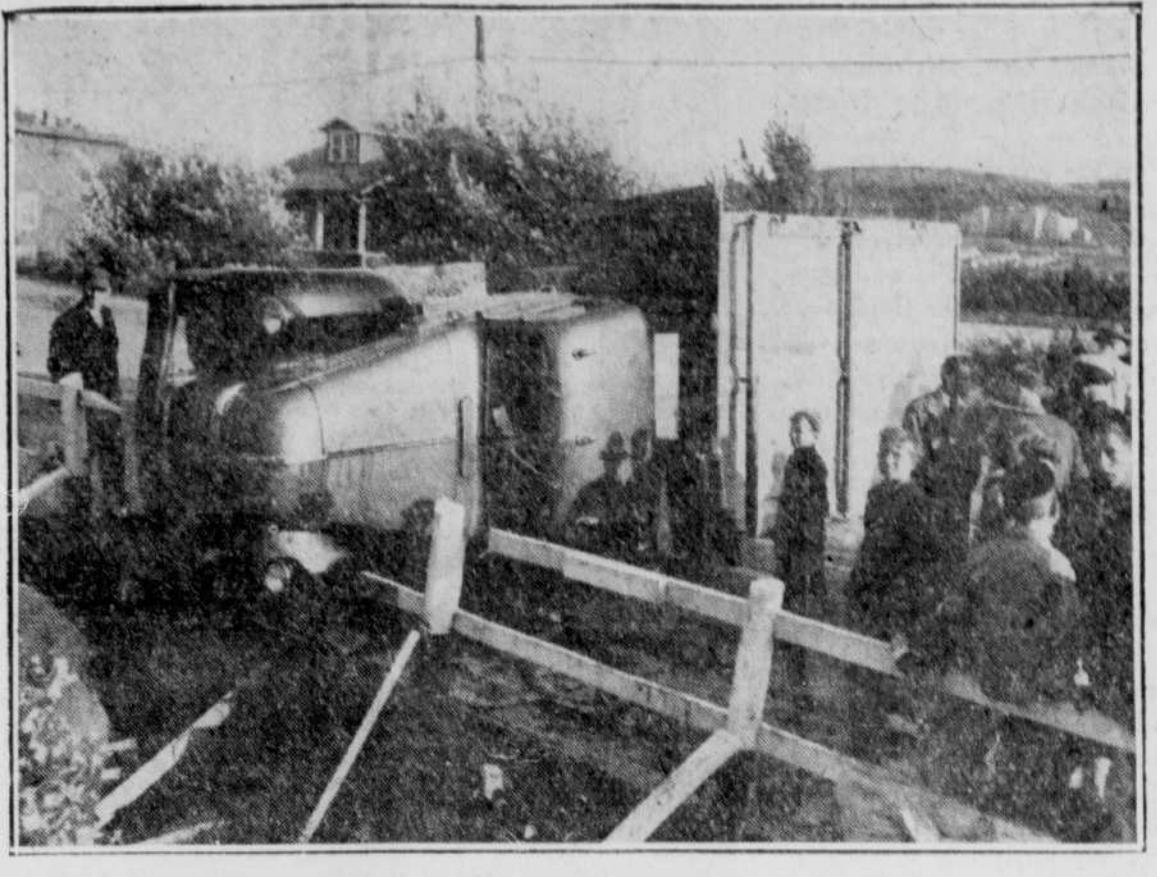

The victim succumbed to injuries in hospital here following an accident on the Stanstead highway on Saturday. He was struck by a truck driven by Leon Roberge, 45, of Racine.

Young Brady and a group of men, all working for Webster Motors, were repairing a truck on the highway. The victim was standing beside one of the vehicles and was struck by the truck which, travelling on the right side of the road, did not see the parked vehicle until it was too late. The driver of the truck was watching another parked vehicle on the other side of the road.

Dr. Louis Gagnon, coroner for the district of St. Francis, presided at the inquest. The accident was investigated by Provincial Police officer Roch Dandenault.

The jury quickly returned the verdict of accidental death.

Lumber Truck Upset

Rush hour traffic on the Sherbrooke-Montreal highway just inside the Sherbrooke city limits was seriously impeded and one man found himself in the hospital when a large trailer-truck loaded with 7,000 feet of lumber upset shortly after five o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The truck, driven by Aristide Rodrigue, aged 34, of Lennoxville, and owned by L. O. Noel, Inc., of Sherbrooke, was headed in the direction of Montreal when the driver was forced to jam on his brakes when another vehicle stopped suddenly in front of him. Rodrigue sought to make for the ditch to avoid the other machine and in doing so the vehicle overturned.

Louis de Vaudreuil, 72, of Sherbrooke, who was walking along the pathway at the side of the road was hit by the lumber truck and taken to the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital where he was reported in good condition this morning.

Local police officers were busy directing the traffic through the narrow lane. They also sought to prevent smoking among the spectators as the large quantity of gasoline which flowed from the overturned truck provided a distinct fire menace.

Clear Skies Favored Local Citizens In Viewing Total Eclipse Of Moon

Sherbrooke citizens had a good view of a total eclipse of the moon last evening, skies being unusually clear for this phenomenon. However, Canadians in many parts of the country could not witness the earth's shadow blacking out the moon owing to clouds and smoke.

In Central British Columbia, Winnipeg, Montreal and Ottawa, professional and amateur astronomers had a good view of the total eclipse, caused by the earth's intervention between the moon and the sun.

But in Toronto, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria heavy clouds or smoke from Alberta forest fires blocked the show.

The total eclipse began at 10:31. Eastern Daylight Saving Time, and reached a forty-six minute complete blackout at 12:54.

In Regina, hundreds of persons took advantage of a clear night to watch the phenomenon.

In some parts of the United States—Detroit and Milwaukee for instance—the skies were fine and clear and onlookers had a perfect view. In other parts, however, great smoke layers blown from forest fires in Alberta blacked out the sky.

In New York, a television show of the event was a flop.

Scandinavia Is Topic For Women's Club

The Women's Canadian Club of the Eastern Townships will resume its luncheon meetings for the fall and winter season on Thursday of this week when the guest speaker will be Vicomte Yves du Guerny whose subject will be "Scandinavia, between East and West."

Vicomte du Guerny was born in France in 1940. He was educated in Brittany and at the Sorbonne in Paris where his subject was history.

After leaving the Sorbonne, he went to England to continue his historical studies and there first took up journalism, covering political events for a group of French newspapers. From 1931 he began to contribute regularly to English newspapers and periodicals as a free-lance writer and it was in this capacity that he visited Norway and Sweden for the first time.

In the years before the war, Vicomte du Guerny specialized in writing articles on industry and social conditions in Northern Europe. He also visited most of Central and Eastern Europe.

In 1935 he became correspondent in Copenhagen for the leading French newspaper "Le Temps," later being transferred to Helsinki and in 1939, after the occupation of Denmark and Norway, to Stockholm.

Immediately after the establishment of the Vichy regime, Vicomte du Guerny helped form an independent French news agency in London and was asked by the London News Chronicle to take over their Stockholm post. Throughout the war years he functioned as a "listening post" over Norway, Denmark, Finland, Germany and

REASONED DOUBT

The United States Department of State is reported as being rather cool to the Russian proposals for a meeting of the top leaders of the United States and the Soviet Union to negotiate for peace.

And there is little reason to take issue with their brusque reaction to the Soviet move in the light of the general record of the Russians at peace conferences and in the halls of the United Nations. The view of the State Department is clearly expressed in the statement, "We have had enough of words. What is needed now is action to give practical effect to these expressions of good intentions."

The very manner in which the peace proposals were presented by Jacob A. Malik brands them as propaganda. No direct approach was made to any responsible official of any of the members of the United Nations. Rather advantage was taken of some high-sounding United States organization whose antecedents are uncertain and which is probably linked closely with the Soviet propaganda machine. But, regardless of its background, the meeting was made to serve a propaganda purpose, the Russians taking good care to see that it did.

Until such time as the Russians have some definite proposals to offer, the United States will be justified in ignoring, officially at least, any olive branch they may extend.

INFLATION FORCES STILL IN ASCENDANCY

The forces of inflation are again in the ascendancy, concludes the Bank of Montreal, after analyzing the Government's new interim budget in its latest Business Review. Whether these forces are aggravated or mitigated will depend as much on public attitudes as on any steps government can reasonably be expected to take.

For the majority of Canadians, the report begins, the budget was "an unexpectedly painless operation." However, the budget speech demanded consideration, for it disclosed the Government's plan to fit additional defense expenditures into an economy already in a condition of virtual full employment, and doing so without aggravating inflationary pressures.

"Moreover, while the proposals appear to offer the first instalment of the program at low initial cost, the taxpayer is, by implication, warned that the second instalment may well be in higher figures.

"On a budgetary basis, therefore, the stage is set for 'pay as you go' for the present fiscal year. No estimate is made, however, of the probable size of any extra budgetary items which may affect the gross debt." A major factor here, the bank adds, may be changes in official holdings of gold and U. S. dollars, which increased by $128,000,000 in the first four months of the fiscal year. This and any later additions must be financed in the same way as accretions to any other Government-owned "stock-pile".

Speaking of the Minister of Finance's warning about inflationary dangers, the Bank stresses that in recent months both wholesale prices and living costs in Canada have been steadily rising and are now at all-time peaks. Into this picture there now come increased military demands plus any additional net exports of Canadian war materials.

Nearly half the full year's yield from the new imposts is expected to come from higher corporation taxes, the report says. Apart from the possibility that increased rates may deter new capital projects, it is "difficult to see that this new levy will have any specific contra-inflationary effects." Indeed if higher taxes result in increased prices, the consequences may be the reverse.

The Bank is not convinced that the various consumption taxes will be "wholly anti-inflationary". To the degree that they fail to reduce consumption the most likely result will be an increase in cost to the consumer. But insofar as they reduce demand the Government foregoes revenue. However, if declining demand should bring cutbacks in output, some materials and productive facilities would be released for the defense program. But, the review points that it is difficult to see "how surplus capacity for making such things as candy, chewing gum, soft drinks or jewellery could quickly be turned to defense account."

Commenting on the government's request that public authorities and businessmen confine themselves to construction and investment projects that are "within the limits of immediately essential undertakings," the Bank suggests that the individual businessman will wonder what "criteria he should apply in deciding whether or not his own expansion project is 'essential'."

"A review of the official policy as a whole impresses one with its essentially interim nature. The new taxes do not ensure a balanced budget in the next fiscal year, while on the economic side the anti-inflationary impact of the program as a whole does not promise to be great."

But it would be unrealistic, the Bank states, to leave the whole problem in the Government's lap. "The forces of inflation are again in the ascendancy. Whether they are aggravated or mitigated will depend as much on the attitude of the public as on any steps which government can reasonably be expected to take." Any formal anti-inflationary defences would be weak in the face of "scare buying" or prices kept spiralling by wage demands out-running the rise in living costs.

UNIONS PRAISED FOR OUSTING REDS

From the Brantford Expositor
The action taken by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada to oust every communist, suspected communist, fellow-traveller or communist sympathizer may seem drastic, but the time for drastic action in this regard is at hand. The tone of the annual convention, which was held recently in Montreal, indicated clearly that the respect of the unions in the eyes of management and the public at large was in danger as long as they harbored members with communist leanings. To illustrate: Sessions of the convention were frequently thrown into confusion by deliberate riot-inciting tactics of unionists who were extreme left in their political views.

While many of the top Reds in the organization were barred from the meeting, a few apparently slipped in. The new regulations, now adopted into the constitution of the T.L.C., are aimed at keeping the communists out of Canadian unions permanently.

This commendable action on the part of Canadian labor is long overdue. The philosophy of communism contains world domination as one of its principal objectives. With communists, the end justifies the means. In other words, world conquest must be secured regardless of how ruthless the ways employed to secure it might be.

Communist-inspired strikes represent one of the most effective weapons of the international Reds in their bid for supremacy. Strikes, if carried out on a large scale and over a prolonged period, can so disrupt the economy of a nation that the resulting chaos creates fertile ground for the seeds of Marxism.

Since all strikes contribute to communist interests, it would be well for the T.L.C. to carry its new anti-communist regulations a step further. Obviously, the Congress cannot completely eliminate the Red element from its ranks and, as long as that faction is represented, danger remains. A strike is an out-moded and inefficient method of settling disputes. It occasionally brings about certain material gains for those who participate in it but the ill-feeling created between employer and employee and between both and the public tends to counteract benefits which might accrue.

This newspaper has frequently urged the establishment of labor courts which would be empowered to settle disputes between labor and management. By advocating the abolition of strikes—and the violence which often accompanies them—the T.L.C. would be dealing a crippling blow to all communists and their sympathizers.

HAMILTON STRIKERS OVERSTEP ALL BOUNDS

Kingston Whig-Standard
Garbage collection in the city of Hamilton has been halted by a strike of workers during the latter half of the summer. This inconvenience caused residents, commercial establishments and industries by this strike can be easily imagined, but there is on even more serious side to it. The unavoidable accumulation of garbage in streets, laneways, backyards and elsewhere seriously endangers the health of the people of Hamilton. It is a situation which might give any working force reason to hesitate to prolong a strike that has created an obvious menace to their fellow citizens.

Not only did this not occur to the Hamilton strikers, but they have also resorted to violence to prevent attempts to alleviate the situation. Citizens attempting to take their own garbage to the city dump were met and forcibly turned back by picket lines. The strikers first created highly unhealthy conditions throughout the city, and then resorted to force in an attempt to maintain those conditions unchanged. Their action callously disregarded any consideration of humanity—and legality.

The striking workers of Hamilton's garbage departments do not own the city dump. Nor does the agency that hires and supervises them own it; it merely holds it in trust. The city dump is the property of all the citizens of Hamilton, and each of them has the right to use it for the purpose for which it is maintained. If civil representatives and officials are unable to provide the service which normally takes garbage to the dump, individual citizens willing to serve themselves in this manner should be perfectly free to do so.

We do not know whether the demands of the strikers are justified or not. There may even be grounds justifying their action in going on strike, although there is something repugnant about the abrupt withdrawal of this sanitation measure from an entire city. Apart from that, however, the use of violence by strikers cannot be condoned, and should be punished, although that is perhaps unlikely. Nevertheless, it will be surprising if the strikers do not lose by their action—lose whatever measure of public support or sympathy was accorded them in the past.

N.Z. House Told Air Force Unfit For War Service

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent
Wellington, N. Z., Sept. 25.—New Zealand's air force is unfit for war service either at home or overseas, according to the Chief of Air Staff, Air Vice-Marshal Sir Arthur Nevill.

In his annual report presented to Parliament he said that progress had been made during the past year. However, he added: "Much remains to be accomplished before the operational control organization is fit for war in this theatre and before any units of the regular air force reach the minimum strength and operational efficiency necessary for service overseas."

He placed the blame chiefly on the insufficient response to recruiting campaigns for ground staff and to problems arising from the continued use of obsolete aircraft. The most modern planes in use in any numbers in the air force are Mosquitoes, all other planes being of still earlier vintage. Despite Air Vice-Marshal Nevill's statement, a small unit of the New Zealand air force has been operating overseas with conspicuous success since late last year.

A transport unit of Dakotas stationed at Singapore has been taking part in the airlift to Hong Kong and also in the campaign against the rebels in Malaya on supply-dropping missions.

As a major step toward improving the position the government has already placed orders in England for large-scale re-equipment. The planes selected after lengthy investigation as most suitable for New Zealand requirements are the de Havilland Vampire, a jet fighter-bomber, the Handley-Page Hastings, a four-engine long-range transport, the Bristol freighter, a twin-engine short-range transport, and the de Havilland Devon, a communications and training type.

Wage Limits In British National Industry Urged

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
London, Sept. 26.—Creation of a statutory authority, independent of the government, to determine wage trends in Britain's nationalized industries, is urged by Sir Arthur Salter, noted economist and former Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministries of Shipping and Transport.

Writing in the current issue of the National Provincial Bank Review, Sir Arthur charges that "certain inherent defects" in nationalization may add seriously to the country's difficulties in expanding its foreign markets.

The old system of collective bargaining, he contends, cannot operate satisfactorily in nationalized industry. Under private enterprise, negotiations are practicable and beneficial because employees realize that if they push their demands too far increased costs would result in bankruptcy and disaster.

"There is no such restraining influence in a nationalized monopoly," Sir Arthur writes. "Because it is a monopoly it can pass on increased costs in increased prices to the consumer till he breaks. And if there is still a loss the taxpayer shoulders it." Wage increases granted workers in nationalized monopolies, he declares, will stimulate similar demands in private industry. The difficulties, however, do not end there. Standards of work are bound to sag if there can be no dismissals in cases of persistent slackness and absenteeism.

Insisting that the problem must be solved if nationalization is not to be fatal to Britain's exporting industries, Sir Arthur offers this solution: "It is possible that a statutory authority, independent of the government, might be set up with the duty of determining from time to time the total wage bill in each nationalized monopoly, after comparison with wage rates in other industries. . . . Bargaining could then be legally allowed within the total so fixed, but not beyond it."

Low-Priced Exports
Under conditions of intense competition which, he says, Britain must soon expect, costs of exportable goods will have to be kept low enough to enable them to compete successfully in foreign markets. Devaluation, he adds, gives the United Kingdom an advantage for the moment, but any substantial rise in prices would pose a serious problem.

To avert this danger and to establish British economy on a sound basis, he recommends: (1) Severe restraints on inflationary tendencies; (2) More efficient operation of nationalized industries; (3) Full employment; (4) Increased production, encouraged by bonus incentives; (5) Removal of government controls as soon as they are no longer necessary; (6) Reduction in government expenditure.

"At every point from which we look at our economy, we see that we still lag behind the standard of effort needed to put it on a sound basis," Sir Arthur says.

He believes "disinflation" is the crux of Britain's present economic problem. It could probably be achieved through a rigid program of austerity. But increased production, accompanied by a smaller boost in spending power, would be as effective and preferable.

Production, he thinks, will be increased by improved techniques and mechanization. However, adequate incentives to the workers are also desirable. Precise methods of granting these would vary from industry to industry. And he suggests some workable plan could best be devised by the com-

LITTLE SISTER

By HOLLIS STARNES

"Why did I ever ask her to my wedding? I might have known she'd make trouble!"

Hannah Griffin, gray-haired and gentle-voiced woman druggist of small-town Silverlake, faced a distraught bride-to-be at the drug counter. "Audrey's your only sister, Sally. It was natural to invite her," she said soothingly.

Sally Coburn's dark eyes blazed. "And natural for her to try again to snatch my bridegroom!"

"Don't say such things, Sally!"

"But the bride-elect stormed on. 'I know my little sister! She wouldn't have come at all if she hadn't been curious. What sort of man could I get to marry me—a worn-out household drudge, an old maid?'"

Hannah protested as she surveyed the young-looking, pretty woman with proud features and smooth brown hair. "You're not the old maid type, my dear. What you've lived through doesn't show in your face or figure."

"You're just being kind," Sally said. "Who's to blame for my hard, empty life? My rash, ruthless sister! But what she did at 19 I've condoned."

"That's a generous attitude," murmured Hannah. It was more than 17 years now since Audrey Coburn, two years her sister's junior, had eloped with Sally's fiancé a month before the wedding.

"But when a mature woman of 36, a widow of less than eight months, tries the same thing—Audrey will get nowhere with Clement Mills!" Hannah broke in as she labeled the tablets Sally had ordered. "Don't forget, Brad Hoyt was a youth of 22, unstable and immature. Clement Mills is mature and responsible. I've seen a lot of him in the years he's summered here."

This romance which started under her roof was close to the druggist's heart. Here were two fine people, ideally suited. In Sally's case it seemed the outworking of simple justice. After Audrey had run off with Brad, the jilted sister kept house for her ailing parents, nursed both through lingering illnesses. Now orphaned, she faced a bleak, lonely future when Clement Mills fell in love with her.

Sally said realistically, "Audrey's spectacles still stunning to look at. She said last night she could win any man she went after. We had just come from dinner at Clement's home on the lakefront. She was vastly impressed by him."

"But Clement's in love with you!" Hannah cried.

Sally shrugged. "So was Brad. It's like dreaming the same night-mare over, she told Clement yesterday when she arrived. 'I'll take you off his hands till the wedding bells ring.'"

"She may have meant well," Hannah said. "Final dressmaker's fittings, reception plans—you'll be terribly pushed."

Sally smiled grimly. "This morning at breakfast she told me her plans for the day. Tennis on Clement's court, lunch with him at the yacht club. Swimming this afternoon and a moonlight sail to-night." She reached for her package and hurried out.

Hannah called after her. "When you take the first tablet, lie down and relax a half hour. When that headache's gone, you'll laugh at your fears!"

Sally turned in the doorway. "Rather than face what I went through before, I'd run away!"

All the rest of that day, between serving customers, Hannah's thoughts returned to Sally Coburn and the recurring fear of her sister's treachery. The idea that Audrey could upset another wedding seemed preposterous, but villagers coming and going the next few days reported with growing concern that Audrey was being seen everywhere with her sister's fiancé.

No further word came from Sally herself until the eve of her wedding-day. Around 8 o'clock she burst into the drugstore, face tense with frenzy and fear. "I need more pills for this pain in my head. It's blinding me, and I've got to drive fast—a long way."

With a start Hannah remembered the girl's threat. Time was of the element—and a quick plan of action. Seizing on the first idea that came into her mind, the druggist said calmly, "You can't drive fast or long with a blinding headache. As I said, these tablets won't relieve pain unless taken according to directions."

"But I have no time now to relax!" Sally cried.

"Even 10 minutes would help," Hannah pleaded. "Here, I'll give you one now, let you stretch out on the cot in my lab. I'll call you as soon as you say."

"In 10 minutes—and don't try to talk me out of what I'm going to do!" Sally said.

Hannah reached for a vial, shook out a tablet. "I promise, Now let's get some water to swallow this with. Come along."

Back in the tiny lab, Sally took the pill meekly. "I'm going to leave you a note to give Clement. He and Audrey are at the club; they think I'm at the dressmaker's. My bag's in the car. I'm going away."

Hannah said gently, "Don't try to talk now. Stretch out and relax."

Sally choked. "I tried to hold on till the wedding. I thought, once I'm married, she'll go away again and be out of my life."

"But she won't, tomorrow!"

"But she won't. You know Father's will left the house to us both. She always hated it so, I thought she'd want to sell her share, as I do. But she's planning to live here."

"Live in that house?" Hannah gasped.

Sally smiled ruefully. "She intends to spend most of her time people, ideally suited. In Sally's case it seemed the outworking of simple justice. After Audrey had run off with Brad, the jilted sister kept house for her ailing parents, nursed both through lingering illnesses. Now orphaned, she faced a bleak, lonely future when Clement Mills fell in love with her."

Brigham, Sept. 26.—A very delightful miscellaneous shower was given by the ladies of Brigham in the Ladies' Aid Hall, on Saturday, September 16, in honor of Miss Monjca Marchessault, whose marriage takes place in October.

The hall was beautifully decorated with pink and white streamers, white wedding bells and a profusion of pink and white flowers.

Miss Marchessault was then escorted to a long table piled with attractively wrapped gifts and was assisted in unwrapping them by Miss Marcella Bessette.

After the gifts had been opened and passed around, she very graciously thanked everyone for giving her such a pleasant surprise and beautiful gifts. A buffet lunch was served to upwards of 25 friends. The bride's table was covered with a pink table cloth with white lace overset and pink and white streamers suspended from a white bell, and centered with a three tiered wedding cake, with crystal candlesticks and pink and white candles on each side.

Twenty-Two Die In Plane Crash

Toyko, Sept. 26.—(AP)—A Korea-bound transport plane plunged into the sea with 51 persons aboard. Twenty-eight were rescued, 22 are missing and one body was recovered.

The big plane crashed on take-off from a southern Japan airbase about a half-mile from the end of the runway. Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said it carried 43 passengers and a crew of eight.

The circumstances were similar to the crash of a transport on a take-off from Kawajalein Island a week ago. Twenty-six navy personnel, also bound for Korea, perished — one of the navy's worst air disasters in the Pacific.

Details of today's crash were meagre. Twenty-five passengers and three crew members got into life rafts and were picked up by Japanese fishing boats. A nurse was among the survivors.

The Doctor Says:

RESEARCH IS NOT COMPLETE ON USEFUL ACTH AND CORTISONE

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

It is not surprising that people generally are quite confused about Cortisone and ACTH since the medical profession itself has a hard time keeping up with the developments made on these two substances. It must be realized that hundreds of researchers are investigating the properties and actions of these two exciting preparations, and although many facts have been uncovered about them, there is still a great deal which no one knows as yet.

There are two tiny glands of internal secretion lying next to the two kidneys which are called the adrenal glands. These glands manufacture a number of chemical substances or hormones which exert an enormous effect on the various function of the body.

TRADING POST

A HANDY GUIDE TO EASTERN TOWNSHIPS' MERCHANTS AND BUSINESS SERVICES

One of these hormones, which has been obtained in pure form, has been named cortisone.

Another tiny internal secretion gland lies in the brain and is called the pituitary. From this gland another chemical substance, called ACTH (a d r e n o c o r t i c o t r o p i c hormone), has been obtained. From the information so far available it appears that ACTH stimulates the adrenal glands to produce more cortisone. For the reason the action of both substances in the human body is somewhat similar, though there are differences.

Both cortisone and ACTH when given to human beings exert profound effects on various functions, and influence several diseases favorably or unfavorably. Both cause a dramatic improvement in rheumatoid arthritis, though the results have so far not proved lasting in most cases. Both cause the rapid disappearance of most of the symptoms of acute rheumatic fever, though their final effect in protecting the heart from the damaging effects of this disease will take a long time to determine. Cortisone and ACTH appear to be useful in a number of other diseases, such as lupus erythematosus, certain inflammatory diseases of the eye, and a number of other common and uncommon disorders of human beings.

Undesirable Results Too. These are strong substances and like other powerful chemicals, they produce undesirable effects as well as those which are sought. It is already known for example that they may be harmful in the presence of such conditions as high blood pressure, diabetes, certain form of heart disease, and chronic inflammation of the kidneys.

As stated previously, hundreds of research projects, both in the laboratory and with patients, are now going on. ACTH and cortisone undoubtedly will prove useful in the treatment of many diseases, and valuable in the investigation of other conditions (such as leukemia) in which it seems at present doubtful that they will prove of curative value. It will take a long time, however, to gather all the facts.

BEERWORT-DERICK

Noyan, Que., Sept. 26.—St. Thomas Anglican Church in Noyan, Que., was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon, September 9, at three o'clock, when Irene Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Mr. Stuart S. Derick, and the late Mrs. Derick, of Noyan, became the bride of William Hermon, elder son of the late Mr. Clifford Beerwort and of Mrs. Beerwort, of Clarenceville.

Rev. E. E. Dawson, of Lacolle, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. M. Rubalcaba, of Barre, Vt., cousin of the groom, played the wedding music. The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of gladioli and hydrangeas. The pews reserved for guests were marked with white satin ribbon bows.

The bridal attendants were Miss Laura Derick, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and little Miss Donna Derick, cousin of the bride, of Boston, Mass., as flower girl. Mr. Eric Beerwort acted as best man for his brother, while the ushers were Mr. Rodney Derick, brother of the bride, and Mr. Gerald Beerwort, cousin of the groom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charmingly dressed in a floor-length gown of white chenille embroidered organza over taffeta with which she wore long mitts of the same material. Her dress was styled with a full gathered skirt, a simple bodice which featured a row of tiny covered buttons down the front and a small pointed collar closing the neckline. Her double fingertip-length veil was held in place by a satin and lace bonnet-effect headress trimmed with tiny white velvet flowers, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white Madonna lilies and gypsophila.

The maid-of-honor wore a floor-length gown of blue moire taffeta, fashioned with a fitted bodice having a double row scalloped bertha collar which extended briefly over the shoulders forming cap sleeves, and a full gathered skirt, with blue satin ribbon tied at the waistline. She wore elbow-length mitts of the same material as her gown, and a scalloped shoulder-length veil of blue nylon net, held in place by a coronet fashioned of the same material trimmed with tiny blue velvet forget-me-nots, and she carried a colonial bouquet of yellow gladioli.

The flower girl was dressed in a floor-length frock of pink taffeta with lace-edged puffed sleeves, full gathered skirt, the hemline in the front being caught up by tiny blue and pink flowers revealing rows of narrow white lace on the underskirt. She wore a band of blue and white flowers in her hair and carried a basket of rose petals and forget-me-nots which she scattered in the path of the bride.

The groom's mother was gowned in a printed grey crepe street-length dress with black accessories and she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's father where the happy couple received the congratulations and best wishes of upwards of seventy guests. The rooms were tastefully decorated with gladioli, cosmos, pink and white streamers and white wedding bells. The bridal table was laid with a white cover and adorned with cosmos in pastel shades and centered with the three-tier wedding cake flanked by pink and white candles in crystal holders.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Beerwort left by motor for a honeymoon in Niagara Falls, Detroit, Mich., and other points of interest, the bride travelling in a forest green gabardine suit with green and yellow accessories and wearing a corsage of yellow roses.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Beerwort will reside in Clarenceville.

Canned Salmon Helps Budget

To most homemakers, the cost of food has become a major problem, requiring careful planning to fit within a set budget. More and more, women are planning their meals in advance, with an eye to low-cost foods that can be made into nutritious meals for the family.

Canned salmon fits well into this category. Its rich flavor goes well with any number of "extenders" such as noodles, rice, macaroni and spaghetti, to give excellent meals of high nutrition value, at low cost per serving. Here is such a recipe, to serve 8 people. Simply cut the quantity proportionately, to serve less.

Salmon and Macaroni Au Gratin
1 1-lb. can Pink Salmon.
4 oz. macaroni.
2 cups of milk.
2 tbs. fat.
3 tbs. flour.
1/2 medium onion, chopped.

Method: Melt fat, add onion, cook gently but do not brown. Add flour, stir until smooth; add milk, stirring until mixture thickens. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Strain the liquor from salmon, and add this liquor to mixture. Boil macaroni in 1-inch pieces. Flake the salmon, and put alternate layers of salmon and cooked macaroni in greased baking dish. Cover with sauce, sprinkled with grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven. Spaghetti or noodles may be used instead of macaroni.

50th Wedding Anniversary Was Celebrated At Manchester, N. H.

Eastman, Sept. 26. — Mr. and Mrs. Harlow E. Miller, of 856 Island Pond Road, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary on September 19. Mrs. Miller, one of seven sisters, was the former Fanny Parker, of Eastman. She met her future husband upon coming to Manchester, N. H., to reside, and they were married by the pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, the late Rev. Samuel McLaughlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller had four children, all of whom are living. They are Mrs. Richard Greenleaf, of Nashua, N. H.; Mrs. Lois Lamb, of Eastman; Harry Miller, of Hudson, N. H.; and Frank E. Miller, of Manchester, N.H. There are eighteen grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mr. Miller is seventy-six years old and Mrs. Miller is seventy. Each continues to be interested in current affairs and each has a hobby. Although retired from active work, Mr. Miller has a fine garden and his wife makes quilts, braids rugs and sews for her grandchildren.

Because the family could not get together for an observance on the anniversary date, a reunion was planned for August when the four generations gathered at the home of Mrs. Richard Greenleaf, of Nashua, N. H.

Stanstead South United Church Has Opened Its Regular Church Activities

Rock Island, Sept. 23 — The Ladies' Aid of Stanstead South United Church, at Rock Island, resumed its semi-weekly meetings following the summer vacation, on Thursday afternoon, September 14, at the "Parsonage", home of Mrs. T. W. Tyson, with eighteen present.

The meeting opened with devotional reading by Miss Mirabel Robinson, and was presided over by the president, Mrs. R. Grow.

Mrs. H. Demick gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. H. A. Rice read the minutes of the last meeting in June.

The sum of five dollars was voted to be donated to the Canadian Institute for the Blind, and five dollars to the Vermont Association for the Blind.

It was decided that as a way of raising money to help meet the expenses of the church repairs being done, to have a food sale each month for one year, the first one to be held the end of September, also to ask the Helping Circle if they cared to join with them.

It was thought best to have a rummage sale in October.

It was decided to send a birthday card to an Aid member. Always a welcome guest at any Aid meetings was Mrs. J. B. Wallace, of Ayer's Cliff, who attended this meeting.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Agnes Greenwood, with Mrs. Henry Demick and Mrs. Austin Whiteman, the assisting hostesses, on Thursday afternoon, September 28. This concluded the business meeting.

Mrs. Horace Cordeau and Miss Mirabel Robinson each gave a humorous reading, which were very much enjoyed. The ladies then enjoyed a delicious tea.

Shipshouse No. 2 puts a river to work

"Daddy, what makes it hum?"

"HARNESSED RAINDROPS, SONNY!" It's a true answer...

In Shipshaw powerhouse you are awed by the hum of twelve gigantic generators. They are driven by rain and snow which fill Lake St. John and pour down the Saguenay River.

The water is channelled to a man-made lake on top of a hill. Then it rushes down tunnels chiselled through solid rock to dash against turbines like the model at which the boy is peering — but weighing 50 tons.

The turbines drive generators. The electricity they generate speeds to nearby Arvida. There it refines shining aluminum out of bauxite from British Guiana.

Over 1000 Canadian companies form aluminum into all sorts of useful articles. All this means work for Canadians. This country supplies nothing but the raindrops — and the brains, hands and enterprise to harness them.

The hum in the power house at Shipshaw is a hymn of progress. It is a sound of Canada's standard of living going up...

Locals Held Two Hard Workouts Yesterday; Newcomers Impressive; Former Saints Flying In Drills

St. Hyacinthe, Sept. 26.—Twenty-two men took the ice here yesterday as the Sherbrooke Saints resumed workouts after a week-end holiday.

Coach Dugre put the boys through their paces and started off with a two hour drill in the morning then finished off the day with another stiff workout in the afternoon.

Big Eddie Bush, who had been in Sherbrooke for a medical check up, had left for home. Dr. Groleau stated that Bush would require at least two months rest, following an operation on his knee, before he could be of any help to the locals.

Jimmy Galarath, was the latest addition to join the staff, when he reported in for the morning workout. Red Gouppie missed yesterday's drills as he had been given the day off by Coach Dugre to attend to some personal business.

Normie McAtee will travel over today to join his former mates and with the exception of Ray Barry and Bill Heindl everybody has been accounted for. Barry is practising with Boston Bruins at Hershey while Bill Heindl is presumed to be out West, still unheard from. Reg Sinclair, the other absentee, is working out with New York Rangers at Lake Placid and should be back with the Saints at the close of the camp, unless he makes the jump to the professional ranks.

Barry and Heindl, contrary to all rumors, are still the property of the Sherbrooke hockey team and have to report to them, unless they turn professional, or otherwise they will be suspended. Reports from the West have them playing for Edmonton and Saskatoon, but these clubs have failed, so far, to purchase their releases from Sherbrooke.

Last year members, Adj Cote, Jacques Prefontaine, Fern Gladu, Denis Fillion, Marcel Fillion and Jimmy Pichane are on the scene, and from the manner in which they were flying the boys should be in for a good season.

Among the new faces were Marcel Bessette, Marius Groleau, Charlie Knox, Jean-Marie Fillion, Denis Fillion, Gordon Russell, Jimmy Galbraith and Bob Fillion. Big Guy Labrie, Phil Metcalfe and Dave Stearns, assisted by Bobby Fillion and Jimmy Galbraith looked after the blue-line duties and gave Roger Bessette and Paul Deschene fine protection.

Coach Dugre tried several different trios but the main thing which was stressed was skating. He kept after the squad and at the end of the workout they were ready to call it a day.

The team on the whole showed more speed than last year's outfit and with the addition of the hold-overs should be a well reinforced aggregation. Roger Bessette seemed to be in fine condition and was kicking them out in mid-season form.

Coach Dugre will give his hopefuls their first test on Saturday evening when they tangle with the Lions of St. Hyacinthe and then on Sunday they will move over to Three Rivers to take on Jack Toupin's Reds of J.A.H.A.

Bombers Hold 3 1/2 Game Lead Over Tigers; Sweep Doubleheader From Senators As Red Sox Cop Two Also Peerless Joe DiMaggio is the "Villain" in New York Yankees mad dash to their 17th American League pennant.

His booming bat has blazed the Yanks into the commanding 3 1/2-game lead they hold today. And it will be nothing less than a miracle if the booming Bombers don't win their second straight championship.

Casey Stengel's marauders have six games left to play and need win only four to seal things up. They win only three the runner-up Detroit Tigers would have to take all of their seven just to tie the Yanks. Three Yankee victories would eliminate the third-place Boston Red Sox.

With a little luck, New York can eliminate the Tigers today. All they have to do is beat Washington twice while St. Louis knocks out Detroit twice.

DiMaggio has been tearing the seams out of the ball since the stretch drive began Sept. 1. The big guy has hit safely in his last 17 games and in 21 of 22.

His terrific .391 slugging pace has lifted his season average over the .300 mark for the first time this year. During the stretch DiMaggio has belted 24 hits with half of them going for extra bases—eight doubles and nine home runs.

DiMaggio's lusty slugging has inspired Yogi Berra and Johnny Mize to greater deeds. During this same stretch Berra has been hitting away at a .322 clip and Mize at .282. The trio as a group is clouting at a .330 clip and has pounded out 22 home runs and batted in 65 runs.

The awesome trio's batting has been carrying the load, as the pitching didn't jell until recently. In the 22 games played since Sept. 1 the Yankee staff turned in only 10 complete games, but five of these route-going jobs have occurred in the clutch—the last five games.

Allie Reynolds and Ed Ford, sensational rookie lefthander, did the trick yesterday as they turned back Washington Senators 8-3 and 7-4.

Reynolds scattered nine hits to hang up his 15th victory in the opener and Ford granted only seven in bagging his ninth without a setback in the finale.

DiMaggio was the big noise in both. He got three of the Yanks' 15 hits in the opener and his three-run double ignited a six-run third-inning rally in the nightcap. Mize followed DiMaggio's base-clearing blast with his 24th home run.

The Red Sox kept their faint hopes alive by sweeping a doubleheader from the hopeless Philadelphia Athletics 8-0 and 3-0 in the only other American League activity.

Mel Parnell blanked the A's on three hits in the opener for his 18th victory. Harry Taylor shut out the A's on two safeties in the finale.

Philadelphia Phillies made hay in the National League pennant drive. They divided a doubleheader with the Braves in Boston while the runner-up Brooklyn Dodgers split a day-night twin bill with New York Giants to remain five games back.

Philadelphia now needs to win only four of its remaining seven games to clinch its first pennant since 1915. If the Phils win only three games the Dodgers would be forced to take all of their nine to tie the Whiz Kids.

Ken Heintzelman, making his first start since July 30, pitched the Phils to a 12-4 victory in the opener. He allowed 11 hits while the Phils slugged 21-game winner Warren Spahn and four successors for 13 blows.

The Braves took the nightcap 5-3 to spoil Jim Konstanty's record-tying 70th relief appearance. Max Surkont was the winner.

Konstanty tied Ace Adams of the Giants for most games pitched in a single season. Adams set the mark in 1943 when he worked in 65 games as a reliever and five as a starter.

Preacher Roe turned in his 19th victory—a 3-2 verdict—for the Dodgers in the day half of their doubleheader with the Giants. Pee Wee Reese smashed a two-run homer in the fourth for the winning blow.

The Giants scored three runs in the eighth inning to wipe out a 2-1 deficit and win the night encounter 4-3. Sal Maglie gained credit for the victory, his 17th. Carl Erskine was the loser.

Fight Experts Still Divided On Louis-Charles Outcome; Tunney Predicts Brown Bomber To Win

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—With the Joe Louis - Ezzard Charles heavyweight championship fight only a day away, experts are disagreeing violently on the outcome at Yankee Stadium tomorrow night.

Gene Tunney, the only retired, undefeated heavyweight champion to stay retired, was among those on the Louis bandwagon.

"Joe will knock him out in five rounds," said Tunney.

"If Jack Dempsey is not the greatest fighter who ever lived, then Joe Louis is," said Tunney. "There is no reason to think, because Louis is 36, that he has not retained the skill and power that he had when he retired."

Tunney and the others who predict a Louis victory, believe Joe is going to catch Ezzard at least once, and that will be enough.

Charles backers, headed by fight manager Vic Marsillo, wall that Ezzard is the most under-rated heavyweight challenger since Tunney first stepped into the ring against Dempsey.

Marsillo believes the 29-year-old Cincinnati Negro will knock Louis out.

"Unless he freezes, and I don't think he will, he's going to stick Joe and get out of there. He'll keep on doing that until Joe's legs give out. Then he'll chop him up," Marsillo says.

The Tunney - Marsillo remarks were echoed up and down Bashed Beak Boulevard. Many boxing writers, here from all parts of the world, are uncertain, especially those who have visited the training camps.

Charles has looked fast and sharp.

Louis has been alternately "terrible" and "very good."

His latest drills have caused several writers to switch from Charles to Louis. Both finished training yesterday.

Bookmakers still have Louis the favorite at 1 to 2. If you like Louis to win by a knockout, it's even money. Six to five and pick 'em is the bookies' term for this. If you like Charles by a knockout you can get 5 to 1 odds.

Tuester Markson, managing director of the International Boxing Club, a notorious conservative, said "If the weather is good, and the forecast (the weatherman says "fair") is for favorable weather, we will have in excess of 30,000 people and $250,000."

The bout, starting at 9 p.m. (EST), will be broadcast and televised by the Columbia Broadcasting System. For the air rights, the I.B.C. received $140,000. Of this Louis will get 35 per cent and Charles 20. That's the same way they're splitting the net gate.

Pre-fight statements by the principals:

Louis: "I'm in good shape . . . and I hope to win by a knockout . . . My legs are strong and I think I'm punching just as fast and as hard as ever . . ."

"I have trained to go 15 rounds . . . I don't think Charles will run away like Jersey Joe Walcott . . ."

Charles: "I am confident that I will win and gain world-wide recognition as champion. I am determined to win . . . I wouldn't be fighting Joe Louis if I didn't think I could win and I know I can win . . ."

Home Runs Feature I.L. Playdowns

The spot hitting of Austin Knickerbocker came through again for Baltimore Orioles last night.

Knickerbocker, a right-handed hitting utility outfielder, clouted a two-run homer in the ninth inning to give the Orioles a 6-5 victory over Rochester, squaring the final International League playoff series at 2-2.

It was Knickerbocker's second home run in the playoffs against Rochester.

Home runs stole the spotlight from a mound duel between the League's two all-star pitchers. Butch Hoyt hit a grand-slammer in the third for Baltimore to erase a Red Wing 3-0 lead. Del Wilber slammed a two-run homer in the seventh to put Rochester back on top, 5-4. Then came Knickerbocker's game-deciding blow in the ninth.

The winning pitcher was lefty Bill Kennedy. The loser was Tom Poholsky, righthander who closed the season with an 18-6 record. Both allowed eight hits.

The series resumes tonight (8.15 p.m. EST) in Baltimore and tomorrow the scene shifts back to Rochester for the sixth, and, if necessary, seventh games.

The winner will meet the American Association victor, either Columbus or Indianapolis, in the Little World Series.

Montreal, Sept. 26.—Coach Dick Irvin swung the axe yesterday and seven hopefuls will be missing when Montreal Canadiens work out today at their hockey training camp.

The seven are Stan Long, Dugger McNeil, Art Rose, Reggie Abbott, Bernie Geoffrion, Georges Bougie and Dickie Moore.

Some will go to Cincinnati or Cincinnati or Victoria, affiliate clubs, and others, particularly Moore and Geoffrion, will likely return to junior hockey—Moore to Montreal Junior Canadiens and Geoffrion to the Nationale team.

Only three amateur rookies are still with Canadiens. They are Paul Masnick of Regina, Jean Bellevue of Quebec and Cliff Malone of Montreal Royals.
