Strike Of Seamen Ties Up One-Quarter Of Lake Shipping

Nearly one-quarter of Canada's Great Lakes-St. Lawrence river fleet was either at dock or heading for an unseasonal tieup today because of a wage strike by lake seamen.

At midnight Thursday, 12 hours after the Seafarers' International Union (CLC) called out the men from two shipping companies, 14 ships were tied up at ports from Quebec City to the Lakehead.

There were 325 men aboard the 14 vessels. The two struck companies, the Upper Lakes and St. Lawrence Transportation Co., and N. M. Paterson and Sons Ltd., have a total of 63 ships and employ nearly 2,000 men. Thirteen of the docked ships were owned by these firms.

The other, owned by Colonial Steamships Ltd., was tied up at Kingston, and the 20-man crew paid off in apparent retaliation for the union strike order.

The remaining 50 freighters owned by the Upper Lakes and the Paterson firms were steaming for the nearest ports, where their crews were to form picket lines. The companies belong to the seven-firm Lake Carriers' Association.

Observers felt that the action by Colonial in docking one of its ships indicated the association may carry out a threat to stop movement of 280 freighters that regularly carry grain or ore along the 1,500-mile Lakehead-to-Quebec route.

E. Macaulay Dillon, association counsel, has told the union it "regards a strike against two of its members as a strike against the association."

No violence was reported in any ports. In Toronto, police launches patrolled past one strikebound vessel. A union spokesman said union members will patrol the Welland Canal to prevent any outbreaks.

Only one ship was affected at midnight Thursday in Quebec. The 18-man crew of the Paterson-owned Coteaucoq left the ship shortly after the strike deadline passed.

In Montreal, three ships were tied up—Paterson's Mondoc, and freighters Edwin T. Douglass and John B. Richards of the Upper Lakes Company.

The Paterson-owned Farrandoc was reported heading for Montreal from Sorel, Que., but no arrival time was given. Six other vessels in Montreal harbor were not affected.

McGill Plans Expansion

MONTREAL — McGill University today announced plans for a $6,000,000 building expansion fund which will increase student enrollment by 50 percent by 1956.

The announcement said R. E. Powell, president of the Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd., who is a governor of McGill, will be chairman of the fund. J. A. Fuller, president of Shawinigan Water and Power Co., also a governor, will head the fund management committee.

The university announcement said that student enrollment will total 9,500 by 1955. It now has 6,752 students.

The fund will be used to extend and modernize the engineering, arts and science buildings, provide new medical laboratories and classrooms, extend commerce buildings and provide additional living quarters and classrooms at Macdonald College.

3rd Dominion Plant Takes Strike Action; 950 Employees Idle

Employees at Dominion Textile Company's Sherbrooke plant went on strike this morning.

All work has stopped and pickets have been thrown around the plant to inspect all vehicles entering and leaving.

The strike idles 950 workers here, bringing to more than 4,000 the number of employees off the job at three Dominion Textile plants.

The strike started at about 10:00 a.m. this morning and came as no surprise. It had been strongly rumored that local textilers would strike in the wake of walkouts at Magog and Drummondville.

The company immediately issued the following statement from Montreal:

"The Sherbrooke strike started in the spinning, spooling and warping departments of the plant shortly before 10:00 a.m. and union officials rapidly went through the remaining departments of the mill, ordering all other employees to go out on strike.

"The pattern followed by the union in the Sherbrooke plant was to call the employees out on strike when one doffer had been suspended this morning for not running his machine properly.

"The Catholic Syndicate officials have placed pickets at the gates and the whole plant is shut down.

"Vehicles leaving the plant were stopped by members of the picket line and only allowed to leave the plant after the pickets had searched them and found them empty."

Hammaraskjold Warns Against Settlement Imposed From Outside

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (AP) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations has warned the Security Council not to try to impose a peace settlement on Israel and her Arab neighbors.

Reporting on his recent mission to the Middle East, Hammarskjold said the cease-fire agreements he negotiated between Israel and her four Arab neighbors could start a chain reaction toward peace.

But the secretary-general said:

1. A final settlement may still be far off.

2. The initiative must come from the Middle East countries themselves.

3. No attempt must be made to impose a settlement from the outside.

The secretary-general returned to New York Sunday after getting Israel and Egypt, Syria, Lebanon and Jordan to reaffirm the cease-fire pledges they made originally in the 1949 armistice agreements.

Hammarskjold recommended no specific steps for the Security Council to take. He made clear, however, that he feels both the UN and individual countries should limit their role in the Palestine issue to encouraging and supporting any peace efforts that might be initiated by the Middle East countries themselves.

This part of his report was interpreted as an attempt to head off any move by the big powers to step into the picture or move in the Security Council to take drastic measures.

In contrast to this, British informants in London reported that Western and Soviet diplomats are discussing the advisability of asking Hammarskjold to go back to the Middle East to promote a permanent Palestine peace settlement. The Arabs previously have rejected all suggestions of such a peace treaty.

The secretary-general outlined in detail the border arrangements he had worked out, particularly in the Gaza area, to avoid new incidents between Israel and the Arabs.

He also gave for the first time his views on two other important sources of friction which were raised during his Middle East visit. These were the Israeli-Syrian dispute over proposed Israeli diversion of Jordan river waters and Egypt's restrictions on Israeli shipping in the Suez canal.

He said he did not consider that the Suez problem came under his special assignment of easing border tensions, but that in any approach looking beyond these problems this certainly should be taken up.

On the Jordan problem, the secretary-general appealed to both Israel and Arabs for restraint.

Rail Strike Threat Is Over

MONTREAL — The threat of a nation-wide railway strike virtually eliminated, representatives of 150,000 non-operating employees and five companies met today to draft a new agreement that would end a long-standing dispute.

Drama Dogfight U.C. Raps Festival Sponsor

TORONTO — Should Canadian drama drum up business for the distillers who are keeping the theatre on its financial feet?

The United Church of Canada says no, emphatically no. The Dominion Drama Festival's president disagrees, also emphatically.

The dispute arose Thursday over a letter on official Dominion Drama Festival stationery noting that Calvert Distillers Ltd. donates $16,500 annually to the festival.

The letter was sent to 3,000 Canadians under the signature of David J. Ongley, festival president, Calvert, the letter said, has done much for the festival.

It asked: "But what are we doing or what can we do for Calvert in a tangible and practical way?" It answered: "... each and every friend of DDF—and their friends—when the occasion arises can remember and support Calvert."

Rev. Dr. E. E. Long, secretary of the United Church General Council, said it is "shocking that such sales propaganda should be issued in the name of the Dominion Drama Festival."

He demanded in a letter to Mr. Ongley that he retract "as far as it is in your power."

But before he left Thursday night for Sherbrooke, Que., where the festival opens next week, Mr. Ongley replied: "We have nothing to be ashamed of in our sponsor. We were $11,000 in the hole and had tried all sorts of financial campaigns when Calvert stepped in."

Space Travel Within Our Generation

SAN FRANCISCO — Human colonies on the moon and nearby planets may be established within 200 years, an internationally known rocket expert says.

Man will build a bubble on the moon of plastic or glass, and it will give way to still bigger air-conditioned enclosures which will become the first expeditionary headquarters for the exploration of space.

Dr. Kraft Ehrlicke, former German V-2 rocket propulsion expert now with Convair Corp. in San Diego, Calif., addressed a joint meeting of the American Rocket Society, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences here Thursday night.

"I think that space travel can be accomplished within our generation, assuming there is sufficient demand for such flights."

Today's Chuckle

"I advertised that the poor would be welcome in this church at all times," the minister told the congregation. "And after inspecting the morning collection plate, I see that they have come."

Opposition Battles Pipe Line Loan

OTTAWA — Commons opponents of government financial aid to a private company's cross-Canada gas pipeline plan apparently are ready to use every tactical weapon in Parliament's rule book in their all-out fight.

Conservative and CCF parties gave obvious notice of that yesterday as they threw up an unprecedented array of procedural roadblocks, forcing four votes on the initial stage of a government measure to assist the $375,000,000 project of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

The Liberal majority, bolstered by Social Credit and independent members, won every vote. On the last two they were supported by Carl Nickle (PC—Calgary South).

But 2½ hours were spent in the roll-call votes and procedural wrangling before the House took a normally routine step of ordering debate at a later date of a preliminary resolution by Trade Minister Howe. Debate is expected to start Monday.

Parliamentary observers could recall no occasion in their experience when that routine step was forced to a vote. Nor could they recall previous use of two technical delaying motions employed, including one by Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) that the Commons adjourn for the day.

Mr. Howe's resolution is a package one containing two proposals to help Trans-Canada get started on its 2,200-mile pipeline from Alberta to Ontario and Quebec—a line long delayed by financing difficulties.

The government plans to lend the company up to $80,000,000 at five-per-cent interest, covering 90-per-cent of the cost of the Alberta-Winnipeg section. One problem facing the government—intensified by the opposition filibuster which is shaping up—is that the loan must pass Parliament by June 7. Otherwise Trans-Canada is released from its commitment to complete the Prairie leg by Dec. 31.

The other proposal is for joint federal-Ontario financing of a crown company to build the $118,000,000 Northern Ontario section and lease it to Trans-Canada.

Mr. Knowles' motion to adjourn for the day was downed 148 to 59 and finally a similar division, forced by the two parties, adopted the routine motion that the resolution be scheduled for later debate.

Mr. Nickle, dissenting from his Conservative party's stand, missed the first two votes. He told a reporter he sided with the government on the other votes because he wanted the matter brought before the House as soon as possible.

"I'm still a Conservative," he said when he was asked whether his votes would affect his standing in the party.

Granby Invades Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont. — Granby, Que., moved into Windsor yesterday en masse.

More than 40 representatives of Granby were informally received at the CNR station by a council delegation and representatives of Windsor industry and labor.

The train which brought Mayor Horace Boivin and his council members and Granby civic leaders was scheduled to arrive at 7:15 a.m., but did not pull into Windsor until 8:10 a.m.

Ald. Dr. Roy Perry and Ald. Bernard Newman were the official receptionists.

Although the Granby trip was to be a stag affair, some wives of members of the delegation were aboard the train, and when it arrived they slipped away to cabs.

As the delegates walked down the platform, the brass band from Lowe Vocational began playing martial music. This band led a motorcade to the Prince Edward hotel, where the delegates checked in and then were guests at a civic breakfast.

Rebels Lose Heavily

ALGIERS, Algeria — Military and unofficial reports indicated today that the French have killed more than 500 Algerians this week in their drive to check the new nationalist offensive against European farms and settlements.

Some French newspapers in Algiers estimate rebel losses since last week-end at up to 1,000.

The French have admitted only a handful of soldiers killed and slightly more wounded. In addition, 20 European farmers, wives and children were reported slain in western Algeria last week-end in the initial phase of the new nationalist offensive.

The surge of rebel activity continued unabated. Nationalist bands ranged through the vast central North African territory with torch and machine-gun.

The French concentrated on vast military sweeps in western Algeria, where 40 farms were burned early this week, and in the area north of Constantine, east Algeria, where some 45 settlements and farms were attacked Tuesday and Wednesday.

The French Army reported clashes with the rebels Thursday in the mountainous Kabylie region in northeast Algeria and near Algiers itself.

At least seven rebels were reported killed in the scattered Kabylie fighting.

Bridge Collapses — Two men escaped with body and head injuries when this bridge over the Riviere Noire near Drummondville collapsed under the weight of their 12-ton truck which was loaded with sand. The two men, Maurice Cote, 40, and Bertrand Gendron, 25, both of Notre Dame de Bon Conseil, were treated in the Drummondville Hospital. The vehicle was heavily damaged.

Frogman Case Stirs Interest In Soviet Press; Still Mystery

LONDON — The Moscow press added its voice today to the outcry over the mysterious disappearance of a British "frog man" near a Soviet cruiser in Portsmouth harbor.

The Communist newspaper Pravda and the Soviet government organ Izvestia say the diver was engaged in "shameful" spying.

Lionel (Buster) Crabb, 46, a retired naval lieutenant-commander, vanished April 19 on an underwater mission near the Soviet cruiser Ordzhonikidze, anchored in Portsmouth harbor. The Russian ship had brought Premier Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev to Britain.

The admiralty announced only that Crabb was missing and presumed dead. His body has not been recovered. British newspapers and Labor members of Parliament demanded further explanation, and Prime Minister Eden agreed Thursday to a House of Commons debate on the case Monday.

Dispatches from Moscow said the Soviet newspapers splashed two-column stories on the disappearance.

"The shameful operation of underwater espionage was directed against those who came to the country on a friendly visit," says Pravda, "and does no honor to its organizers and cannot but arouse legitimate concern of the British as well as the Soviet public."

Izvestia blames the incident on the "dirty work of the enemies of international cooperation and friendship among peoples."

In the only hint of a possible motive for the spying they charge, the Moscow publications say the "great speed of the Soviet cruiser had attracted the attention of specialists."

Pravda also declares that the British press "published various fantastic versions of Commander Crabb's fate... based on very dubious facts and hypotheses."

Some British newspapers have speculated that Crabb might have been killed or taken prisoner by the Russians as he carried out an underwater inspection of the cruiser. There also was speculation that he might have died while protecting the vessel against sabotage by anti-Red groups.

Prime Minister Eden first told the Commons "It would not be in the public interest to disclose the circumstances" of Crabb's disappearance.

"What was done," Eden said, "was done without the authority or the knowledge of Her Majesty's ministers." He said appropriate disciplinary steps were being taken.

The Soviet embassy here said earlier a lookout aboard the cruiser spotted a frog man in waters near the cruiser April 19.

Wildlife Hereabouts

PUBLIC OPINION OF THE ANNUAL BIRD AND WILDLIFE REVUE OF SATURDAY MAY 5TH

Here are the opinions of a variety of citizens concerning "Adventures in Colour with American Birds and Big Game," as presented by Cleveland P. and Ruth Grant.
Sportsman — Dr. T. A. Cadman. "These films . . . are both monumental in perfection and inspirational in scope. There is a happy balance between scenic background and wildlife portraiture. From a sportsman's point of view they are informative and, in a subtle manner, they convey the importance of conservation. For sheer interest value to the sportsman no adjective can do these pictures justice."
Artist — W. H. Cripps, Ulverton. "Only moderately interesting in birds, I was carried through the program with never a thought but for the scenes in front of me. Afterwards I was aware of the patience and skill and courage required to produce an evening of such interest. The patience, I think, can be discounted as necessary equipment of all wildlife photographers, but it seemed to be that Cleveland Grant recorded not just the subject in hand but the grace inherent in all wildlife. The smooth flow of gannets over the Bonaventure cliff face will be a pleasant memory always."
Amateur Photographer — Arthur Earnshaw. "The birds in their natural surroundings — always difficult subjects to photograph — and the big game, backed up by wonderful backgrounds, were most stimulating. Some of the close-ups were almost portrait-like in quality and only the "click of an ear" or the "twitch of the animal's nose" indicated that it was a "movie" shot, and further testifies to Mr. Grant's patience and care in his approach to his subject. Mrs. Grant's contribution at the projector must not be overlooked. A fine team."

Artist — Mrs. G. H. Moffat. "Beautiful photography of birds and animals with equal interest in their natural backgrounds, both so well depicted with an artistic interest in colour, light and shadow."
Sportsman — J. B. (Jack) Newton. ". . . some of the finest films that I have ever seen. To most hunters there were many scenes that reminded us of some incident or other of the past. The subjects were familiar to most of us but the detail shown is very seldom seen in the woods. One or two quick glimpses is all the average hunter sees of birds or game. This is why I feel that a movie of this kind is educational for children and adults. I hope that this type of movie will become an annual event for the people of the Eastern Townships."
High School Students — J. Alexander and D. Patriquin, of B.C.S. ". . . we saw the animals in their native surroundings and for the most part portraying their very own interesting and characteristic personalities. In the section on the gannets one could almost feel that he was there flying along with the birds. We feel Mr. Grant has done some very great work in bringing the wildlife of North America to us as it would be found if stumbled across in a wood, in a marsh or on the plains."
High School Teacher — Mrs. Lyndall R. Peabody. ". . . intimate glimpses into the life and habits of some of Canada's birds and animals that very few people ever have an opportunity to see in any other way. I hope that there may be more such programs and that high school pupils especially may attend them, since they could not possibly fail to be keenly interested by such top-rate photography and subject-matter."

Clergyman — Rev. Elton Scott. "The portrayal of natural life in all its beauty, and with scientific accuracy, creates a love of our own country, by seeing what wonderful life it contains, and so creates a desire to conserve it at its best. Also, by portraying vividly the purpose and secrets of the life abundant all about us, it leads to a deeper appreciation of the purpose and laws of the Creator and the value of all His creatures. This forms a good basis on which to build our civilization."
Naturalist — Lewis McL. Terrill, Ulverton. "It seems unnecessary to emphasize Mr. Grant's standing genius as a lecturer and photographer of wildlife. One thing that always impresses me is his custom of selecting a small number of subjects from his large collection of superb films, picturing habits and habitats rather than mere bird or beast. Incidents that might lose their significance stand out in relief, embodied by his clever descriptions. Mrs. Grant, who operates the projector, synchronizes speeds in perfect timing with her husband's explanations and the audience anticipates each point of special interest and misses nothing. None who attended Mr. Grant's lecture could fail to have learned much that was new as well as being delightfully entertained."
Public Official — The Mayor of Lennoxville, Col. L. M. Watson. "The sequence of the picture was nicely arranged and the descriptive text so well prepared that one's attention is never taken from the scenes being projected. I feel that all communities that can possibly do so should arrange to have this program shown for the benefit of children as well as for the education of adults. The more people who see these pictures of North America's birds and animals the greater will become the interest in intelligent action designed to protect and preserve our wildlife and natural resources."

Award Waterloo Garden Prizes At Annual Banquet

WATERLOO. — The annual Mack Molding Garden banquet was held in the Canadian Hotel when 40 contestants and friends assembled to participate in the entertainment.

Besides those who entered gardens last year, present at the head table were James McIntosh, director from Wayne, N. J., and his son Roland McIntosh, also of Wayne; Robert Flood, judge of gardens; Peter Gunter, plant manager, and Mr. Frank Graves, and the chairman, Roger McKergow.

In his remarks to the gardeners, Mr. Flood stated that the main thing was to decide that one wanted a garden, then plant what one wanted, and attend to it properly.

A poor garden results from lack of care and attention, and even though one may be satisfied with the results, it could have been much better, it was stated. "The gardens we judged last August in some cases showed the results of a tremendously hot month of July, while others, those that were well looked after, showed much improvement over the others."

"A poor garden is better than no garden at all" Mr. Flood continued, "and I would strongly suggest at the same time that if you do plant one, look after it, plant it wisely, plant it carefully and then reap a rich harvest."

Mr. McKergow, with the help of Mr. McIntosh, presented the prizes as follows: Ladies prize to Mrs. Yvonne Lafontaine; most improved garden to Gordon Wilkins and novice garden to Fred Guyon.

Third prize went to Alan McKergow, second to Gerald Jackson and the grand prize and trophy to Percy Jones for the third consecutive year.

This marked the tenth annual Mack Garden banquet, and in his brief remarks, Mr. Gunter stated that many gardeners had been to them all. He invited everyone to participate again this year, and thanked Mr. Flood for his big part in the success of the undertaking, and to all who entered their garden, however big or small it might be.

Ungava Deal Betrayed Province, Lapalme Tells Thetford Rally

By CUTHBERT JONES — THETFORD MINES, Que. (Special) — Natural resources, and especially mineral resources, their administration and mal-administration, provided the main thread for the address by Georges Emile Lapalme, leader of the Provincial Liberal party, as he opened his six-week election campaign here last evening.

The Opposition chieftain devoted most of his 90-minute attack on the Duplessis Government to Ungava iron ore issue, maintaining that with so much to criticize in the record of the Duplessis Government it was possible to deal with only one issue in a single address. His contention that the Ungava "betrayal" was the most suitable item to discuss in this mining centre was fully approved by the inhabitants of this mining centre who crammed the hall of the LaSalle College.

But before launching into his attack on the government policies, Mr. Lapalme dealt with the improved prospects of the Provincial Liberal party as compared with the 1952 elections. This changing climate was obvious from the fact that Thetford's mayor, Eugene Caouette, was ready to appear on a platform with the Liberal leaders and that Emilien Maheux, the mayor of the second largest town in the riding, Black Lake, was ready to stand as Liberal candidate.

"In 1952," he said, "we found it difficult to get a mayor who was willing to be even seen with us, fearing reprisals from the powers-that-be at Quebec." Then, he continued, the Provincial Liberal Federation had been formed last fall for the purpose of reuniting the Liberal forces. This has been accomplished and this year the federal Liberal party was giving its unqualified support to the provincial group.

Then, he said, the Liberals had been able to effect a working agreement with the Social Credit forces in a common effort to defeat the present regime. Finally the Nationalists, who could mass 200,000 voters, had been brought within the united front. Rene Chalouit, running as an independent in Kenogami-Jonquiere, and Pierre Laporte, independent candidate in Montreal-Laurier, had been promised Liberal and Social Credit support, and any candidate running as Independent Liberal or Independent Social Credit would be regarded by the executives of these parties as stooges of the Union Nationale.

The white tams of the Social Credit supporters which dotted the hall gave their support to the claims of the Liberal leader that the Union Nationale had been "isolated" and that the forces of the Opposition had been united. Turning to the Ungava iron ore question, Mr. Lapalme declared that this was a "question that will dominate the economic life of this province."

Although Quebec's Ungava region has the richest deposits of iron ore in the world, Mr. Duplessis has sold it for practically nothing. Continued on Page 5

"The Vagabonds" Present Lennoxville Variety Show

Colorful costumes, striking settings and youthful enthusiasm in song and dance combined to make an enjoyable evening's entertainment at the Lennoxville High School auditorium last night.

The Vagabonds presented their 1956 Musical Revue for the second of three successive performances, a variety show which included songs, dances and skits. Particularly eye-catching were the two completely contrasting numbers, "Olaf" and "18th Century Drawing Room." A realistic Mexican setting in the former, complete with colorful sombreros, pretty dancing girls and gauchos and the spirited singing of soloists, Bobby MacDonald and Ernest Tucker made this one of the evening's highlights.

The other, in the dignified setting of a drawing room of the 18th century.

Western style music as sung and played by Doug Ladd assisted by his fellow musicians, Murray Gratham, Gary Winslow and Wendell Beattie also proved to be an audience favorite. Some remarkable tones came out of the "original bull fiddle."

"Hillbilly Hicks" Bobby MacDonald and Frank Jenne provided a sprightly moment with their rendition of "Doin' What Comes Naturally."

Tunes from the "Roarin' Twenties" were featured in the song-skit, "By the Sea" with a clever soft shoe routine by Jim Fearnley and Doug Ladd. Frank Jenne took the role of the singing cop of the seaside beat while Coleen Fearnley was the nursemaid and Cliff Force one of the vacationers. Emsey Elkas and Bobby MacDonald caused a sensation when they came chugging in in their new "Oldsmobile." The backdrop for this scene, as for the other feature numbers, was designed by Don Kuehner, and did much to set the proper atmosphere.

The Vagabonds attempted a dramatic skit this year, which for the most part came off extremely well. A paralyzed girl who dreams that her knight in shining armor comes to rescue her. Continued on Page 5

Mystery Veils Injuries To Asbestos Man

An Asbestos man was taken to Canadian Johns Manville Hospital there last night, following an accident on the Warwick Road. Details of the accident are not yet known but Germain Bissonnette, 38, received multiple injuries when his car either hit another machine or went out of control and left the road. The mishap occurred near the St. Regis Hotel. Locally, an eight-year-old boy received serious head injuries when hit by a bicycle yesterday noon.

Incorporation Proposed For Tourist Group

MAGOG — (Special) — "Mount Orford definitely can be developed with greater advantage than Mount Tremblant," Eric Schiller, of Hillcrest, North Hatley, told a gathering at the Chateau du Lac here last evening, adding this development would be of a decided advantage to all centres in the region in building up the tourist trade.

The meeting sponsored by the Regional Organization for the Development of Mount Orford, was attended by delegates from Magog, Sherbrooke, Waterloo, Granby, North Hatley, Coaticook, the Hermitage Club, near Magog, Eastman, Rock Island, and representatives of district resorts and companies having public services operating in the district.

Rolland Dion, president of the group, which had its beginning on March 30, welcomed those present. He was assisted by Ald. Reginald M. Urwick, of Magog, vice-president.

Jacques Audette, Magog, secretary, reviewed the program, offered in the form of a resolution, which proposed incorporation with a president, two vice-presidents, secretary, publicist, legal advisor and six directors. The committees in the new group would deal with exterior relations, research and inquiry, finance, special organization, and legal advisory.

Mr. Dion said the success of this venture would benefit not only Magog but every community in the region. He thanked the large group that had rallied to this project and presented his constitution. He said the representative from the different communities would have to carry home these ideas presented here, and explain their benefit to their own centres. The first move he said, would be to develop Mount Orford into a ski resort.

Mr. Urwick said there was a lot of spade work to be done, before the development of Mount Orford was possible. This was only a start toward the opening of the district to greater tourist trade. The North has reached a saturation point and although the Townships started late, the time was most satisfactory.

Town Planning, Interest Rates Studied By Municipal Officers

Replacing Hon. Yves Prevost, Minister of Municipal Affairs in the Provincial Government, Hon. J. S. Bourque, last night officially opened the 14th annual convention of the Quebec Municipal Finance Officers Association. Over 250 delegates and their wives attended the opening session of the three-day convention, which is under the general chairmanship of president Pierre Bachand, Sherbrooke City treasurer. The Municipal Affairs Minister could not attend owing to pressure of business.

The delegates were welcomed by Mayor Armand Nadeau and short addresses were given by International Director J. R. French, of Verdun, and Joseph Clark, executive director of Chicago, Ill. Yesterday afternoon the visitors were received at City Hall by Mayor Nadeau and signed the city's golden book.

Speaking to the group last night, Mr. Bourque said a good finance officer is above all a technician, but he urged that they not limit their work to books and figures. A finance officer must not be content with just being a technician for he must remember that the administration of which he is a part exists for the common good, declared the Lands Minister. A sane economy must be practised because the taxpayer is not a pawn but a human.

"We must not forget," continued Mr. Bourque, "that the Municipality exists for the ratepayer and they have the right to expect the essential services from a modern city. Under these circumstances the municipal finance officer must take into account certain special factors."

Referring to the three-day program which has been outlined for the delegates, Mr. Bourque said he was especially happy to see the association dealing with zoning problems and the advantages of mechanical accounting.

Turning to zoning, he said this was a very important item in municipal administration today, for "it is through zoning and its proper application that we can make a success of Town Planning."

Mechanical accounting machines, Mr. Bourque said, helped to reduce administrative expenses, saved time and eliminated errors. Finance officers have great responsibilities, declared the speakers, for they act as administrators and counsellors. Their advice in the preparation of budgets, establishment and division of taxes and forecasting expenditures is invaluable, he concluded.

In his opening remarks President Pierre Bachand, welcomed four new members of the Association from the Eastern Townships who joined in the past year. They are: H. O. Routhier, assistant city treasurer of the City of Sherbrooke, Magella Vigneault, secretary of the Sherbrooke Roman Catholic School Commission, George-Henri Leblanc, secretary-treasurer of Windsor Mills, and Roger Boudreau, secretary-treasurer of Magog.

The president spoke of various local problems which have arisen because of the fast expansion of municipalities. He referred particularly to annexations made by Sherbrooke, Drummondville and Montreal over the past few years, and these annexations, he said brought into the field, Municipal Finance officers who were called upon to forecast and plan the financing program for these municipal undertakings. "The Quebec Municipal Commission through its cooperation with our Association and the treasurers and secretary-treasurers of all municipalities, has been helpful in the establishment of this financing program. However, certain changes which had not been taken into account were made in the interest rate and were responsible for certain reactions in the bond market. In December 1955 and March 1956, the interest rate change created such a turmoil that it was hard to imagine the eventual outcome. The possibilities of finding a secure basis to finance future public works and those already underway also caused a great deal of anxiety," said Mr. Bachand.

It might be in order to call the attention of our municipal governments, through the Union des

Is Churchill Mellowing?

The new Russian regime has made an impression on none other than Winston Churchill — a Red hater and baiter who need take a back seat to nobody.

It seems rather significant that Mr. Churchill should be mellowing in his attitude to the Russians, for he doesn't give the impression of being a man easily fooled.

He is well-versed in the treachery and sudden reverses that have been associated with Russian foreign policy through the past few years.

If he sees something honest and encouraging about the latest Russian moves toward peaceful co-existence, it is some comfort at least to the Western World.

Mr. Churchill's recent statements were couched with caution. He warned that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization must be protected and nurtured despite the apparent change of Russian policy.

But he also suggested that if Russia is sincere in repudiating the policies of Stalin, she should be allowed to take her part in a truly unified Europe.

Two Forgotten Weathermen

What's with these professionals called weathermen?

More often than not, these supposedly psychic men are referred to as forecasters. The reason for this no one has quite yet determined. Frequently their prophesy of the next day's weather is as far off the mark as was this year's anxious gardener who planted his garden during the first rosy days of April.

Yet the human race is a long-suffering lot and still persists upon religiously scanning the newspaper, or listening to weather predictions, only to loudly bemoan the next day when they're all wet.

No one can change the weather. Very few can predict it accurately. But those who come nearest and who could very well teach a thing or two to the wayward weatherman are the farmer and the sea captain.

Their aptitude is natural. They live by the weather day in and day out.

Many stories are told, often with a grain of salt, of the farmer who claims that the weather on the third of the month indicates the weather for the remainder. But if one cares to keep track for a few months, he'll find it's not too far wrong.

Then again, there's the tale that landlubbers have been known to scoff at the hardy seaman who says, in spite of the streaming sun and blue sky, that within half an hour there'll be a storm. He is usually proven right of course.

Somehow or other, these two professions seem to have developed an almost uncanny sense. Hard to beat would be their daily predictions which some newspaper or radio announcer might be fortunate enough to someday employ.

In the meantime, the plodding, plotting forecaster will continue along his familiar path of false predictions.

Compulsory Insurance In New York

Forewarned to forearmed.

If you're planning a motor trip into New York State, you'd be wise to make certain your automobile insurance is in good order.

Of course, this isn't a bad idea even if you aren't going to New York. But without proper insurance on your car, it won't be allowed to cross the border into Governor Harriman's domain.

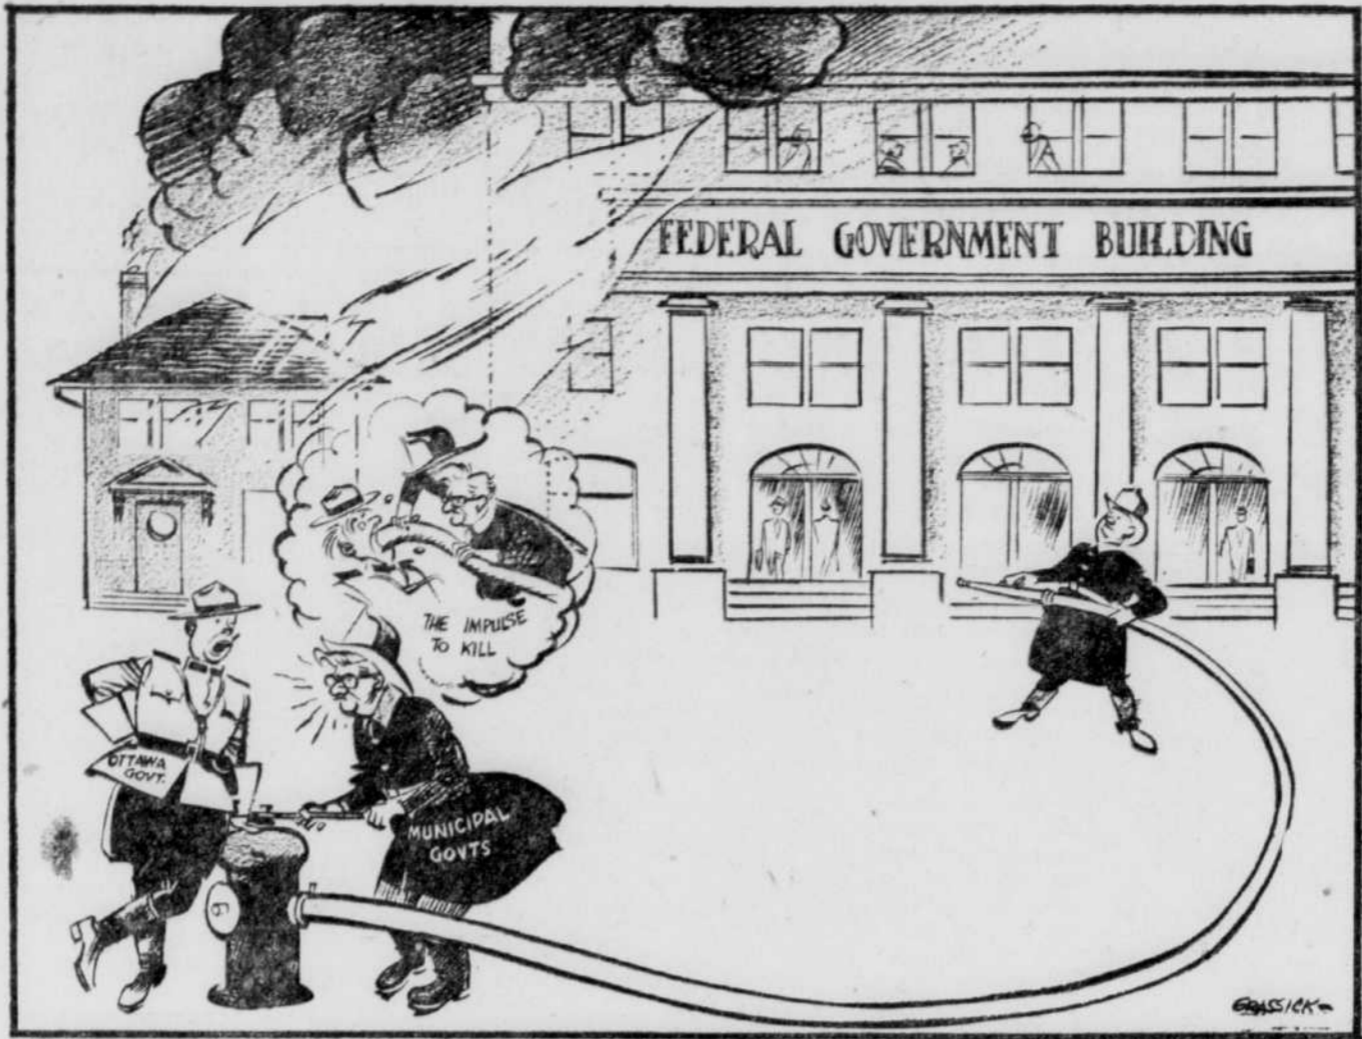

New York State has come up with a piece of legislation which, while it might seem severe at first glance, could be used as a model by Canadian provinces and other states in the union.

All who use New York highways — as of next Oct. 1st — will be required to carry a minimum of $10,000 coverage against the death or injury of one person; $20,000 against the injury or death of two or more persons; and $5,000 against property damage.

There are many pros and cons on the question of compulsory automobile insurance, but it seems sound indeed that people should have some protection, at least, against injury or property loss that is sustained through no fault of their own.

The price tag on the modern car is high, and despite the cost of insurance, it seems reasonable that if a man cannot afford insurance he should not be able to afford the car. It should be so automatic that insurance costs are added to the price of the car in the mind of a prospective buyer and that his choice be made accordingly.

FREAK PLAY IN UNUSUAL HAND

South didn't know whether he was bidding five spades for a make or for a sacrifice in today's hand. It was not likely to cost very much, and he was afraid that West would make game and rubber at five clubs.

North couldn't tell what his partner was doing, but he thought he was entitled to one bid with four trumps to the A-K-J and a void in the enemy's suit. The result proved he was right.

West opened the singleton heart, and South won with the king. Everybody at the table realized that West had led a singleton, but South resisted the impulse to draw the one missing trump. Instead South led the ace of hearts at the second trick.

West pounced on the trick with the queen of spades and returned a diamond. South won with the ace of diamonds and proceeded according to plan. He got to dummy with the jack of spades and ruffed with the king of spades, and ruffed another heart; and got back to dummy a final time with the ace of spades to run the two good hearts, discarding the losing diamonds from his hand.

South would have lost the slam contract if he had led a trump to the ace at the second trick. There would be only two further entries to dummy, and it would be impossible to establish and run dummy's long hearts. South would avoid the ruff, but he would wind up losing two diamond tricks.

Strangely enough, South can make the contract even if he mistakenly leads a trump from his hand at the second trick. If he sees his mistake in time, South can let West win the first round of trumps with the queen! The hearts can then be established and cashed with dummy's three trump winners.

Three Cheers For The Judge

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

A valiant band of New York mothers, aided by a sympathetic judge, has won a decisive victory in the Battle of Central Park, defeating an attempt by the city's Parks Department to transform a half-acre of greenery into a parking lot. The mothers' victory makes it certain that the land will be preserved as play space for their children.

From their triumph, two morals may be drawn. One is that the automobile's increasing domination of modern life can be challenged successfully. The other is that parks are hallowed places in the concrete jungles of the modern metropolis and should be treated with reverence.

This latter conclusion has particular application to Metropolitan Toronto, which is woefully short of park space in congested areas. The value of such amenities was emphasized by the New York judge in his comment that not one inch of park was expendable; this despite the fact that Central Park encompasses 840 acres — twice the size as someone pointed out recently, of the principality of Monaco.

What a pity it is that men of Judge Hofstadter's stature could not have risen to prominence in Toronto at some crucial period in the development of its parks. Too often, parks here have been regarded simply as land which business and industry doesn't want. There is not one verdant haven in the downtown area, not one restful space open to the skies where the spirit can be replenished by a brief communion with Nature.

Every truly great city has a park at its core which is not only esthetically stimulating but which acts as a focus of activity. It is the mark of a civilized and mature commu-

ity. Toronto's lack of one gives it an air of sterility, an absence of soul. One has only to stand at the corner of Queen and Yonge Streets to sense it; there is no beauty. Even a small open space such as Montreal's Dominion Square is refreshing. A park need not be the size of Central Park, Hyde Park or the Boston Common to achieve its purpose.

There are men of vision in this city who dream of a downtown park. Let them take heart from the Battle of Central Park. Let them redouble their efforts to create it. The value of an expressway can be measured in dollars and cents, but the value of a park in the right place is incalculable.

INVESTING IN CANADA

(Regina Leader-Post)

It is generally accepted that cautious Canadian investors have sought the safer investment fields and deliberately let the risk opportunities go begging. This is a Canadian choice and the United States has nothing to do with it.

We can't have it both ways, not when we happen to have an immensely rich and alert neighbor. We can't, in one breath, rejoice over our country's unlimited natural resources—and in the next squawk when our neighbor walks in and begins operating profitably in a vacuum of our own creation. We can't, if we are honest, refuse to recognize what those timely operations have done for Canada to date.

The remedy is in our own hands. If we refuse to finance our own development, someone else will. Canada is already doing that for other peoples and being highly commended for its initiative.

WHAT DO CHINESE THINK

Ottawa Journal
 An interesting speculation, it seems to us, is what China's Red leaders, Mao and Chou En-Lai, think of all those goings-on in Russia over Stalin?

They too thought and said that Stalin was great and good; glorified and sanctified him in books and speeches, had their own Red hierarchy trained under his aegis in Moscow.

Are they now in disillusioned humiliation, fearing that the monolithic state structure which they built on the Stalin pattern may be resting on faulty foundations — that Stalin and all his works were the evil things which those who were closest to him in Moscow now say they were?

Or may it be that being Communists themselves and knowing more than we know of the Communist mind and way, they will have an understanding of this Russian business all their own?

The answer, should one come, would be interesting — and revealing.

Ungava Deal

nothing and did not even say it must be processed here.

The sale price agreed upon by the Government amounts to one cent per ton, the Liberal leader said, and it will diminish as the production is speeded up.

During the Second World War, United States business men began looking to Canada and Venezuela for iron ore, Mr. Lapalme said.

The Venezuela government, despite greater production costs, reached a contract under which it gets 70 cents a ton. But Mr. Duplessis had agreed to a flat payment of $100,000 a year and allowed United States firms to take out as much iron ore as they could, Mr. Lapalme charged.

This year, some 10,000,000 tons would be shipped from Ungava, giving Quebec only one cent a ton.

"During the past fiscal year, the government spent $182,000 on banquets alone," Mr. Lapalme said. "The money received from iron ore production wasn't even enough to pay for the banquets."

While Quebec was selling ore at one cent per ton, Premier Smallwood had reached an agreement whereby the Province of Newfoundland would receive 45 cents a ton for deposits in Labrador.

The Liberal leader declared he was not against foreign capital in Quebec.

"I do not want to stop the Americans from investing their money in this province," he said, "but I want to see the rights of the province protected."

"One-third of the unemployed workers of Canada are in Quebec. Yet these unemployed men can watch boats carrying the province's iron ore to Pittsburgh and Cleveland when they should be drawing top salaries for processing it."

Mr. Lapalme said the establishment of an iron smelter industry on the north shore of the St. Lawrence could lead to a city of 50,000 being established in what now is wilderness.

In closing, Mr. Lapalme issued a word of warning to civil servants who took part in election campaigns. "Any civil servant doing his duty conscientiously will not be disturbed when we take office—I am speaking now as a man certain of victory—but those in the employ of the province who spend their time organizing for a political party will receive their notices the same day we take power."

The first speaker of the evening was Joseph Lafontaine, Member of Parliament for Megantic, in which county Thetford Mines is located, declared that Premier Duplessis was vexed that Liberal M.P.s from Quebec were taking part in the campaign. "But this is nothing new," he said. "I have always taken part in provincial campaigns. Liberal ideals are the same at Ottawa and at Quebec and as a citizen of this province I am interested in the welfare of Quebec."

He took issue with Union Nationale claims that they were financing many social security measures, maintaining these were being paid by the Ottawa Government.

"Old age pension legislation was approved at Quebec on June 10, 1936," he said, "but Mr. Duplessis did not come into power until August 17, 1936. The measure was passed by the Liberal Government of Premier Taschereau."

Educational costs in the Province were condemned by the candidate, Emilien Mahéux, president of the Syndicate at the Black Lake, who promised that if the Liberals were returned, school fees would be abolished and a grant of $150 annually made towards the cost of providing higher education for each child.

"THE VAGABONDS"

her, giving her a night of dancing and gaiety that she will always remember, thus providing the necessary hope and determination for recovery, formed the basis of the plot. Joan Wark as the sick girl did a commendable job. Others who participated as the knight, the doctor and as dream images of various singers such as Nat King Cole and Al Jolson were Chuck Elgasth, Ernest Turner, Emsey Elkan, Peter Blake, P. C. Smith, Jim Fearnley and Wendall Beattie. Lisa Evans took the role of the mother.

"Rise and Shine", the opening routine, featured the singing and chorus line precision work of Pat Vallee, Joan Wark, Barbara Ross, June Blake, Shirley White and Charlotte Vallee.

Ernest Turner was again given the chance to display his musical talents in the song, "You'll Never Walk Alone", backed by the quartet of Colleen Fearnley, Bobby MacDonald, Frank Jenne and Cliff Force.

Mentioned last but by no means least in popularity were the numbers involving Jack Evans. Mr. Evans who was musical director of the show and also wrote the lyrics to the two songs he did, "This Old Car" and "It's Nice in the U.S.A." is completely at home in the straight-faced comedy routines and in the aforementioned patter songs. Both these skills were well put together and humorously enacted.

Emsey Elkas and Lisa Evans assisted in the former and Frank Jenne, June Blake, Pat Vallee and Jim Fearnley in the latter. Mrs. K. Bryce was director of choreography while Glen Allen handled the roles of stage manager and property manager. Mrs. Alice Rowat was in charge of wardrobe. Mrs. Harold Way, make-up; Wells MacDonald, lighting and Gordon Cascadden, sound. Others who assisted were: Alice Rowat, C. C. Rediker, Jim Cascadden, Ian Neeley, Arnold Bell, Alvin Crosby, Neville Hamilton and Jim Buck.

a civil engineer told the gathering that it was impossible for him to give the exact measurements because of snow conditions on the mountain, but that he has started surveying the situation.

R. Savard, director of publicity for the Provincial Transport Company, Ltd., gave statistics on the tourist trade in the North, saying there are 42 ski clubs in Montreal, which charter approximately 50 busses every weekend to journey to the Northern ski resorts. Thus 1,800 persons travel by bus alone to the Laurentian ski resorts each week-end during the winter months. He said the group could count on his company to work hand in hand with the organizers of the venture.

Monte Elsdon, proprietor of Woodacres, Knowlton's Landing, asked that everyone develop fighting enthusiasm in the movement, and that each and every member do his utmost to enthrust others in the project.

R. O. Kennedy, manager of the Hermitage Country Club, South of Magog, said he felt sure that the members of the club he represented would give this effort their unlimited support.

John MacKay, proprietor of The Pleasant View Hotel, North Hatley, told the organizers they were doing a wonderful thing for the region.

Regional president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, D. Maurais said that he felt certain of the value that such a move bring the region.

S. C. Cote, manager of the Bank of Montreal in Magog, and treasurer of the Magog Tourist Commission, noted progress in organizing the commission's popularity contest.

Mr. Dion praised the interest shown by Philippe Gagnon, supervisor of parks for the Province of Quebec. Mr. Gagnon said that $24,000 had been paid by municipalities surrounding Mount Orford when the land making up the park was expropriated. He said that $5,000 of this remained untouched and that it would probably serve as a nucleus for the new fund.

TOWN PLANNING

Municipalities de la Province de Quebec and through the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities from this Province, to suggest that the Bank of Canada consider, when taking steps to channel the Canadian economy, the needs of governments at the municipal level, and that these municipal governments be consulted when such projected changes may affect them considerably; it is pointed out that the ratepayer, at the municipal level, is called upon to pay if the financial policy raises the cost of financing bond issues or narrows the market to only selected governmental issues of provincial and federal funds.

"The Bank of Canada has, for two years, through its efforts, been responsible for the creation of the short term money market in Canada, thus making it possible for industrial corporations, financial institutions and municipal governments to invest money which could be called unemployed for short periods of time. Those of you who took advantage of this money market were able to realize a profit or revenue for the benefit of their municipalities."

In conclusion Mr. Bachand said the convention would afford those attending the opportunity to study these various problems and to request their respective City Councils to join in the movement throughout the province, to assure better municipal administration. He said this movement, through action by the Provincial Government, should take into account the needs of the times and serve the growing needs of the community without having to call upon property owners to share a heavier burden.

Rideau Hall Scene Of Gay Splendour At Annual Ball

OTTAWA — The capital's social spotlight focused on stately Rideau Hall Wednesday night as nearly 800 guests waltzed at the governor-general's annual ball.

It was the first of two glittering spring events to be held in the gilded ballroom at Government House. A second ball, also with about 800 guests, will be held next Wednesday.

The governor-general received parliamentarians, diplomats and officers of the armed services among the long line of guests which moved past him into the ballroom.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and Mrs. St. Laurent wearing a blue and white lame gown trimmed with blue chiffon, led the formally attired procession.

Gay springtime flowers decorated reception rooms and the centre piece on the refreshment table was an Arctic scene of moulded-sugar Eskimos, igloos, seals and kayaks. The motif recalled Mr. Massey's recent tour of the Arctic.

RICHMOND — At the Richmond Hotel, Monday night the Richmond subdivision of the Catholic Women's League held its annual membership meeting and dinner, chaired by the president, Mrs. Jacques Beaubien.

The annual report given during the dinner by Mrs. Paul Labrosse, was followed by a musical program provided by Mrs. M. Chaput and Mrs. R. Cameron, pianists, and Mrs. A. Hebert and Mrs. Jean Marcotte, vocal soloists.

Missignor Moisan, introduced by Mrs. Grant Campbell, opened his address with congratulations to the subdivision on their year's report and in his talk on league work, urged the members to continue their efforts in giving help to others in spiritual and material ways. He told them they should always endeavor to work in unison, thereby making the C.W.L., a better and better organization.

Dance convener, Doreen Hodge, announced that Mr. and Mrs. R. Walker and Mr. and Mrs. B. Peak had agreed to act as chaperons while Terry Carleton would be master of ceremonies. She also advised the members that the gym would be decorated on Saturday morning.

Three new members from Lennoxville were welcomed into the club by the president, Magreta Allen conducted the short worship service. Swimming, bowling, ping-pong and a box supper were thoroughly enjoyed by the members.

It was announced that the last meeting of the season would take place on June 1 and Phyllis Wells was appointed to secure a speaker for the occasion to address the group on the subject of education.

Raisin-Cranberry Upside Down Spice Puddings

These desserts are individual rice puddings topped with a baked-on "crown". The puddings are best served warm with vanilla ice cream or whipped cream. The "crown" or topping is a mixture of whole cranberry sauce and raisins which is cooked a short time then spooned into custard cups. The spice pudding mixture (easy-to-fix) is placed over the topping mixture. After the puddings bake they're turned upside down so the cranberry-raisin mixture is on top.

Growth Of Trucking Industry Has Been Phenomenal

Canadian Registration Of Trucks Increased 200 Percent In 15 Years

The growth of Canada's trucking industry has been phenomenal, largely as the result of the ever-widening service given by the members of the firms to meet the demands of shippers for more efficient service.

In the past 15 years the number of motor trucks registered in Canada has increased by over 200 per cent. And monthly reports indicate the growth is still continuing.

Of course, not all these trucks are commercial or "for hire" vehicles. A vast majority of them are owned independently by farmers and small businesses. But it is estimated that there are approximately 100,000 "for hire" trucks in the country, operated by more than 20,000 trucking firms and organizations.

In 1923, the first year for which complete figures are available, there were only 56,219 trucks of all classifications in the nine provinces, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories, while only a few years before, trucks were still the objects of curiosity.

But the First World War gave trucking real impetus. By 1930 trucks totalled 167,459, and the increase continued even through the threadbare thirties as the need for economic service was underlined by the depression. When the Second World War ended, trucking had assumed king-size proportions in the nation's economy.

During the past few years the growing industry further linked the far-flung sections of the country with a Trans-Canada service, with trucks operating on scheduled runs between Western and Eastern Canada, and between the Maritimes and Central Canada.

The expanding trend is shown in tonnage carried by trucks in recent years. To handle the flow of goods, new terminals have been set up in many districts, and as roads are pushed to outlying northern districts, trucks now haul goods where a few years ago everything had to be flown in at high cost.

Nowhere has trucking's speed and adaptability been better exemplified than in agriculture. Field crops, feeds, milk and fruit produce, livestock, poultry and eggs have to be shipped frequently and rapidly. Milk truck pick-ups have revolutionized the dairy industry by giving services to individual farms and dairies. Today more than 95 per cent of the country's milk is carried by trucks and over two-thirds of Canadian livestock is brought to yards and packing plants.

Behind all the commercial trucking which the farmer has come to value and expect is the work-horse farm truck owned by thousands of individual farmers. They have adapted them to a multitude of uses with tremendous savings in cost and manpower.

In the more industrialized provinces of Canada, trucks have become a vital link in the mid-century picture. Both the assembly line technique in which trucks haul parts from sub-contracting plants to assembly factories, and off highway operations depend on motor vehicle transport, oil, timber, mining and construction operations are being increasingly geared to truck capabilities. It all adds up to a fast-improving, booming transport industry.

Trucking Industry Plays Major Role In Canadian Economy

Almost Every Canadian Industry Depends To Some Degree On Truck Transportation

Canada's trucking industry has grown over the years into a vital part of the nation's economy. The industry has rolled along at a fast pace, ready and able to carry a large burden of the transportation needs of this country.

Almost every field of industry in Canada depends partly, or largely in many cases, on automotive power for transportation in producing and distributing spheres.

With modern merchandising almost entirely relying on highway transport, some care should be given to the condition of the highways. Only by rigid attention to a long-range road preservation and building policy can Canada's economy industrial mobilization and defence efforts be ensured and un-hampered.

"The 20th century belongs to Canada." To underline this famous saying we could add that the truckers of this country will make it a real Canadian century of progress. Because of the economy and flexibility of highway transportation new roads will branch out into newly developed areas making the expansion of the trucking industry a must in Canada's development.

Large urban centres depend on truck transport for an important part of their food supply delivered from the surrounding countryside in staggering volume. Decentralization of industry has been made possible and manufactured articles are now subjected to processes in widely scattered centres and transported to assembly plants by truck, making the highways a sort of assembly conveyor belt.

Modern roads are essential to security because they are a requisite for industrial mobilization, civil defense and military activity.

Roads are a godsend to workers. They are carried to and from their work over the asphalt ribbons. The plants rely on road transport for up to 95 per cent of incoming and outgoing freight.

A civil defense system is worthless unless quick means of communication are available between the major centres of the nation. In military planning, movement is everything. Only by improving existing bridges and roads could defense equipment be used to the best advantage.

Our agricultural produce is brought to market through the transport industry. Roads have broadened the farmers' market, increased consumption of dairy products, fruits and vegetables, and generally improved the standard of living of both farmers and urban dwellers. Trucks now carry more than 90 per cent of the nation's milk supply. They hold a dominant position in livestock shipments. Some people maintain that the trucking industry is not paying its share of highway costs. The Dominion Government Royal Commission on Transportation supplied an emphatic answer. It reported that the industry was paying the provinces adequately for the use it makes of public highways.

Big highway trucks these days pay, in highway taxes alone, more money than is paid for fifty average passenger cars.

Others say that Canada's highways created the trucking industry. On the contrary, trucks fulfilled a public demand for the growing needs of the country.

Without trucks and the millions of dollars in taxes which the industry pays annually, Canada's whole highway building and maintenance program would collapse.

John Poaps Named Fair Chairman At Boundary Rotary Club Meeting

ROCK ISLAND — The next Boundary Rotary Fair will be held at the Border Arena on August 9, 10 and 11, according to plans made at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary.

The meeting was held at the Del Monty Hotel, with the president of the club, Beverly Haselton, presiding.

Discussion of plans for the forthcoming fair was led by Ernest Sutton and John Poaps. Both emphasized that it would be necessary for all the members of the club to work together to assure the fair's success.

The chairman of the fair will be John Poaps, who handed out tentative lists of the various departments with the names of those selected to head the tasks.

Plans will be made to have industrial exhibits at the fair again this year, and it is hoped to have even more than in 1955. This was a new departure for the event and proved very successful for the exhibitors and highly interesting to the many who attended.

Mr. Poaps announced that all the old favorite games will be present this year and that plans are being made for a number of new features, which should appeal to the public.

Those engaged in the advance work: Advertising, Earl Heath; Equipment, Roland Roy; personnel, Maurice Moore; treasurer, E. Greaves; Booth erection, Lawrence Tilton; industrial exhibits, Earl Heath; decorations, Fred Gilman; lighting, Arch Grady.

Chairmen for the various booths were tentatively announced as follows: Charcut, E. J. Struthers; Hams and Chickens, Norman Somerville; Fruit and Groceries, Arch Grady; Cat Game, Lawrence Tilton, Jr.; China, Lloyd McKeen; Ball Game, Beverly Haselton; Blankets, Harold Bean; Knife Game, George Carruthers; Lloyd Bliss and Roland Roy are to select and look after two new games.

Admission will be in charge of Leon Seguin. That Corny Game will be headed by C. R. MacLean. The Rotary drawings will be handled by Earl Bushnell.

Further announcements of plans will be made from time to time.

Visiting Rotarians present at the meeting were, Lyman Haselton, Earl Kinne and Don Thurston of Newport.

Don Thurston requested the co-operation of the local club in presenting a special Salute to Education program on June 11th with the Newport Rotary Club, and the two clubs will meet jointly on that date.

The next meeting will feature reports on the Model United Nations Assembly by the local students who attend that event in Plymouth, N.H.

ROTARY NOTES

Boundary Rotarians, with their wives attended the Rotary conference at Sherbrooke, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Heath attended the Friday sessions where Mr. Heath delivered a report on International Service.

E. J. Struthers was present at the Saturday morning sessions, and with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Heath and their daughters, Marilyn and Carolyn, attended the closing session Saturday noon.

A check for $200 was dispatched to Ceylon to endow another bed in the children's Tuberculosis hospital in Colombo. This represented donations of $50 each from Rotary Clubs in Littleton, N.H., and Woodsville-Wells River, plus $100 from Rotary District No. 287.

This makes a total of five beds endowed by Rotary Clubs in this District, and about one dozen beds have been endowed by clubs in the United States and Canada. The project in this district has been under the direction of Earl Heath.

Three students will be in Plymouth, N.H., this week to attend the Sixth Annual Model United Nations Assembly at Plymouth Teachers College. These students are sponsored by the Rotary Club of the Boundary, and will be accompanied to Plymouth by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Heath.

Indians Roll Into Second Place With 7-2 Victory Over Yankees

Royals Sweep Double From Havana 10-0, 3-2 As Fred Kipp Tosses Neat Four-Hitter; Red Wings, Leafs Win

Montreal Royals combined stingy pitching and power at the plate Thursday to take an International League doubleheader from Havana Sugar Kings by scores of 10-0 and 3-2.

An Ascension Thursday crowd of 6,009 saw scouthpaw Fred Kipp go the route for the Royals in the opener by scattering four hits and righthander Billy Harris take the seven-inning nightcap on three safeties.

Meanwhile, John Mackinson's strong right arm kept Rochester Red Wings in first place.

The veteran righthander came to the rescue with his sixth straight victory in the second game of a doubleheader with Richmond as he pitched a complete game of a doubleheader with Richmond to preserve Red Wings' sledger lead over the challenging Toronto Maple Leafs and Royals.

With Gene Green and Joe Cunningham accounting for three runs with homers, Mackinson and Wings came back with a 4-2 decision after Joe Tesoro's 10th-inning homer had won the first game for Virginians, 2-1.

Maple Leafs won a single game from Miami, 2-1 and Columbus held fourth place with a 7-1 victory over Buffalo.

Catcher John Roseboro paced the Montreal attack in the opener with five RBIs on a two-run homer, a double and a single. George Shuba's homer helped Harris win the seven-inning nightcap.

Former American Leaguer Don Johnson was the winner in Toronto's victory over Miami, thanks to Bill Wilson's two-run homer and Tony Jacobs' relief pitching. Jacobs bailed Johnson out of a ninth-inning jam by throwing a doubleplay ball to Ben Tompkins with the potential tying and winning runs on base.

At Buffalo, Ray Herbert, former Detroit righthander kept 11 hits well scattered in pitching Columbus to its romp over Bisons, Frank Verdi, Russ Sullivan and Bill Stewart led an attack that chased loser Karl Drews in the fifth inning.

John Landy And Two Other World Record Holders Clash Tomorrow At Fresno Before Another Sellout

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—Miracle miler John Landy and two other world record holders will lead a talented cast of 1,450 track and field athletes into the 30th West Coast Relays here Saturday.

Ratcliffe Stadium has been sold out for the big day-night carnival that will bring together nearly every prominent track man in California. Records are jeopardized in several events.

Landy, sensational Australian who has run the mile in 3:58, is billed as the headliner.

The Melbourne schoolteacher arrived in Fresno Thursday and took his first workout on the hard-baked Ratcliffe track, regarded as one of the world's best. The clay running surface is in superb condition for the meet.

Landy is confident of victory and has predicted he may approach his record.

Chief opposition will come from Ireland's Ron Delaney, who finished third behind Jim Bailey and Landy in an historic race at Los Angeles last week.

Bailey, University of Oregon student, has passed up the relay for the Pacific coast conference northern division meet the same day.

Vermont State To Hold Annual Meeting May 16

The Vermont State Golf Association will hold its annual meeting at Barre on Wednesday, May 16. An informal golf tournament at the Country Club of Barre will be the first order of the day.

An Italian dinner will be served at the Club at 7 P.M. Immediately following dinner, President Leslie Mercer will call the meeting to order. The president of each club in the association delegates two members from his club to attend, and they have a vote at this meeting. Delegates from each of the twenty-four clubs in the association will elect officers and make policy to govern the golf events of the coming year.

The tournament, dinner and meeting are open to all members of member clubs of the association, and to all interested sports writers and announcers. However, reservations are necessary for the dinner and should be sent to Leonard Quintin, Secretary, 6 Beverly Court, St. Albans, Vermont, prior to Sunday, May 13.

Fun Comes First Golf Second In Bourbon Open; 268 Entered In Unique Event Played At Bardstovon

BARDSTOWN, Ky. (AP)—It really doesn't make much difference who wins the Bourbon Open golf tournament.

Fun comes first and golf is second in this unique fairway frolic which has its 11th renewal Saturday and Sunday.

It's a fact, say the sponsors, that some so-called golfers (a few know only vaguely the object of the game) pay their entry fee and stay in the clubhouse.

For those who wish to play, a half-pint of sour mash bourbon is collected on the first tee.

For those who wish to get serious about playing, large quantities of bourbon and some country hams are used for prizes.

Bardstown is a seat of the sour mash industry. It is surrounded by a dozen bourbon factories.

The Bourbon Open was dreamed up during the war years when 100 proof whisky was almost impossible to find. By offering such valuable prizes, the tournament got off, naturally, to a flying start.

Then 100-proof bourbon became plentiful again. But instead of losing its popularity, the open became even more attractive. This year's field adds up to 268, the absolute maximum to satisfy the limited number of starting times.

The Kentucky Open, one of the State's biggest annual golf tournaments, is being played off this weekend at nearby Lexington. It drew 100.

Carmen Basilio Receives Belt

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Carmen Basilio, former world welterweight champion, Thursday was given a championship belt "for justice and for the good of boxing."

The publisher of the Police Gazette, Henry Roswell, said the magazine selected Basilio for the award because it still considers him welterweight champion although he lost a hotly-disputed title fight decision to Johnny Saxton in Chicago on March 14. There is talk of a rematch soon.

New Minnow Bait Law Is Revoked

QUEBEC — Mr. Gerard Lajoie, President of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations announced today that, following representations by Federation and other sportsmen of the Province, the Department of Fish and Game has decided to revoke the new law concerning the use of minnows as bait.

This regulation prohibited fishing with live fish, including minnows, in any territory north of the St. Lawrence and Mille lles Rivers and north of the St. Lawrence east of Montreal and also forbid possession, selling and transport of such live fish in this territory.

This law was imposed by the Minister following recommendations by Federation, by biologists and sport fishermen, because of the damage done to trout lakes through the use of live fish for bait. However, the extension of the minnow ban to all lakes in the district came as a surprise to a great number of fishermen and it is felt that it will be difficult to enforce this law at the moment.

Mr. Lajoie said that the Department of Fish and Game advises that the regulation which prohibits using minnows as bait in waters frequented by Speckled Trout, Grey Trout and Quebec Red Trout, "save when such minnows were taken in these same waters," remains in force. The Federation President added: "The Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations congratulates the Department for taking this wider view and for its prompt action in clearing up a delicate situation."

Dow Finsterwald Shoots Seven-Under 65 To Take Two Stroke Lead Over Field In $25,000 St. Louis Open

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dow Finsterwald, considered one of pro golf's up-and-coming stars, held a slim two-stroke lead today as a field of par-busting players moved into the second round of the $25,000 St. Louis Open.

The 26-year-old Bedford Heights, Ohio, pro smashed through Sunnyside Country Club's hilly, wind-swept course Thursday in 32:33—65, seven strokes under par.

This didn't phase Jack Burke, Jr., Masters champion who missed practice sessions here because of a cold and hadn't toured the layout since the Western Open a decade ago.

Burke came through with a 32:35—67 to pull within easy striking distance of the red hot Finsterwald.

Finsterwald, who won $5,400 in three weeks last May by taking the Ft. Wayne Open and placing second in the Colonial Invitational, turned pro in 1952 and is the ninth-ranking money winner this year.

Razor sharp on the greens, he rammed home a 25-foot putt on No. 15 in the first round Thursday and also sank two 18-footers.

Just one stroke back of Burke stood George Bayer.

Master Your Game...No. 3 Hold, Don't Grip Club

By JACKIE BURKE
Master of the Masters

Getting into the mechanics of golf, the first basic thing to learn is the grip.

This and hand action are the basis of all fine shots.

The average golfer works on the mistaken assumption that, held properly, the club should feel as light as a matchstick. He squeezes it. By definition, a grip is a strong grasp. It implies tension. Nobody enjoys golf playing under tension.

The hands maintain possession of and authority over the club, nothing more. According to Webster, that's a hold. When held properly, the full weight of the clubhead is felt in the hands.

Hold the club no tighter than you do when the caddy hands it to you.

All the squeezing necessary in hitting the ball forms instinctively as the hands enter the hitting area, slowly and uniformly, and never any more than is necessary.

Squeezing the club beforehand prevents the clubhead from gaining maximum speed, costs distance. I have seen good golfers with a bad hand position, but never a bad golfer with a good hand position. As I remind in my book, "The Natural Way to Better Golf" (Hanover House), the hands are the only parts of the body attached to the club.

In order that the last three fingers of the left hand can carry their key role, choke the shaft as much as an inch from the top, holding the club where the shaft is slender.

Most golfers mistakenly believe that choking the club will cost them power. On the contrary, this prevents you from losing hold of the club, particularly at the top. (NEA).

NEXT: Addressing the ball.

Art King Hurts Knee; Looking For Replacement

TORONTO (AP)—Matchmaker Deacon Allen said Thursday night a knee injury to boxer Arthur King of Toronto has forced a postponement of next Tuesday's scheduled 10-rounder against Johnny Gonslaves, fifth-ranking welterweight.

Bob Lemon Finally Gets A Win After Six Unsuccessful Attempts Last Year; White Sox Edge By Red Sox To Win 2-1

This was supposed to be Black Friday in the American League — the day the New York Yankees were supposed to have wrapped up the pennant at the earliest date yet.

That's the way the talk in New York was going. Those Yankees had smacked the Boston Red Sox four-out-of-five and spanked the Chicago White Sox two-out-of-two. All they had to do was fast-shuffle the Injuns and ol' Casey Stengel had the deck stacked again.

But Al Lopez and his Cleveland Indians put a stop to all that nonsense. The Yankees huffed and puffed and Cleveland clipped 'em two-out-of-three. The Tribe won the rubber game going away Thursday at Yankee Stadium 7-2 to climb past Boston into second place, two games behind New York.

Boston went down 2-1 to Chicago, which snapped a White Sox five-game losing streak.

Those were the only two games played in the majors. All the other scheduled contests were rained out.

Bob Lemon, who couldn't get the job done in six tries against the Yanks last season, went the route with ease Thursday on an eight-hitter. His only mistakes were home run balls to Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra. A lot of guys have made that mistake this season. It was Mantle's 11th, Berra's 10th.

While the 35-year-old righthander was getting his point across, the Indians were giving Maury McDermott a fit. The veteran southpaw, who beat Cleveland three times for Washington last season, was rapped for five of the Tribe's eight hits and four runs in five innings.

It was all over in the third. Chico Carrasquel doubled, Jim Hegan—who had four straight walks—scored him with a single and took second on the throw to the plate. Then Jim Busby singled Hegan home and Al Rosen cracked a 450-foot triple.

George Kell and Minnie Minoso homered to end the White Sox slump, but it was the nifty relief job of Bob Keegan, who took over from Connie Johnson with one out and the bases loaded in the first inning, that clinched it.

Keegan got Jim Piersall on a doubleplay ball on his first pitch and then scattering seven hits the rest of the way.

In the eighth Piersall doubled with one out. But Keegan got pinchhitter Ted Williams and Sammy White on routine flies.

Mel Parnell, the hard-luck guy who's been jinxed by injuries, was the loser. Kell tagged him for the winning homer on a 3-0 pitch in the seventh. Minoso banged a 3-1 pitch in the first. It was Parnell's first complete game since 1954.

Sam Snead Jumps Into Lead In Second Round Of White Sulphur Springs Open

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—As long as Sam Snead isn't called on to make long putts he undoubtedly is going to be the golfer to beat in the White Sulphur Springs Open, which he entered as the second-round leader today.

Snead showed Thursday he still is, although 44 and an infrequent competitor, a deadly shooter from off the tee and far away. His approach to the cup were so close that only once did he have to make a long putt for a birdie, although he bagged five.

That was the last hole where he rolled in a 15-footer for a five-under-par 65 and the first-round lead. His other birdies were from one foot on the 17th, eight inches on the 14th, three feet on the seventh and four feet on the third.

By contrast, the 33-year-old Mike Fetchik of Yonkers, N.Y., had to hold a hot putter to get the same number of birdies and a one over par to come in one stroke behind Snead.

Fetchik had a one-stroke edge on Jack Isaacs, veteran middle Atlantic pro from Langley Field, Va.

Belgium, Germany And France Take Lead In Second Round Of Davis Cup

LONDON (AP)—Belgium, Germany and France moved out ahead Thursday as play began in the second round of European zone Davis Cup tennis competition.

Belgium took a 2-0 lead over Spain and Germany led Ireland 2-0 as they swept the opening singles matches in their series. France took the first singles match from Switzerland but the second was halted by darkness after four sets.

At Barcelona, Belgium's Jackie Brichant overcame searing heat and a stubborn younger opponent as he defeated Juan Manuel Couder 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1. Gino Mezzi then whipped Melio Martinez, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4 for Belgium's second point.

Rupert Huber of Germany beat Ireland's Guy Jackson 8-6, 6-4, 9-7 and Franz Feldbausch outlasted Joe Hackett 6-0, 5-7, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1 at Dublin.

At Lausanne, Robert Haillet of France breezed past Switzerland's Paul Blondel 6-2, 6-4, 6-1 in a rain-interrupted match. Darkness caught Pierre Darmon of France and Martin Froesch of Switzerland all even at two sets each. Darmon won the first 11-9 and the third 6-2. Froesch won the second 6-1 and the fourth 8-6.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on "nerves"—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better. 136
