Was It the Regular Thing?

Taupin found himself alone in a compartment with a very pretty young lady. From the time the train started, her attention was deeply absorbed in reading the newspaper. Suddenly he got up, gave a kiss to her fair forehead, and then sat down again, read his paper. The lady, intensely shocked, said in a voice half stifled with indignation: "What is this? This is abominable! Taupin looked up, gazed at the lady in blank amazement, then, putting his hand out of the window, he glanced backwards along the line, and at last said to himself: 'I beg your pardon, madam, I thought there was a tunnel!'"

A Retort From the Fair.

An impertinent youth had been amusing himself by exhibiting the following lines to a young lady:—
"Men seem to kiss among themselves,
And scarce would kiss a brother;
But women want to be kissed,
They kiss and kiss each other."
Whereupon a young lady, who on pencil had just replied on the back of an envelope and left it for his inspection, said:—
"Men do not kiss among themselves,
And it's well that they refrain;
The bitter dose would vex them so,
They would never kiss again.
As sometimes on poor woman's lip
Is applied this nauseous lotion,
We have to kiss among ourselves
As a counteracting potion."
