At 35, Charlie Brown is more popular than ever

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Good grief, Charlie Brown! You're 35 years old!

It's been that long since the Peanuts gang first appeared in newspapers, and the comic strip's creator, Charles Schulz, doesn't understand all the fuss.

"Thirty-five years really isn't that long in the comic strip business," he said. "Comic strips are notorious for their longevity. They frequently last 40, 50, even 60 years. There's something wrong with a comic strip that doesn't last 10 years."

There's nothing wrong with Peanuts, though. Since it began Oct. 2, 1950, in seven newspapers, the strip has grown into a major industry.

The collection of round-headed kids, a beagle and a handful of birds now appears daily in 2,040 newspapers worldwide. The Guinness Book of World Records says that's the largest circulation for any strip in history.

"I can honestly say it's as much fun as it was 35 years ago," said Schulz. "It's more fun because now I know what I'm doing. I'm more fussy about what I draw and create now than I was in earlier days. I'm anxious that the strip not level off and become the same all the time."

CHANGED NAME

Schulz first sold the comic strip to United Features Syndicate when he was 26 years old and living in St. Paul, Minn. He called it Li'l Folks, but discovered another cartoonist had used that title. Schulz hated Peanuts, one of the 10 titles the syndicate devised, but went along with it.

Each of the characters contains a little slice of the cartoonist's personality: Charlie Brown, the sincere welcome mat; Lucy, the inconsiderate fussy-budget; Linus, the junior philosopher with a security blanket; Peppermint Patty, the sleepy anti-scholar; Snoopy, the beagle who lives in a fantasy world.

He is irretrievably intertwined with his characters. Spike lives in Needles, Calif., because Schulz did for a year once. Charlie Brown's dad is a barber because Schulz's father ran a barber shop for 40 years.

"I don't see how you can draw any group of characters without putting a little of yourself in each character," he said. "I was considerably like Charlie Brown when I was younger, an ordinary-type little kid who never did very much."

He says the most important factors for a comic strip's popularity are whether it's quotable and whether readers can see their lives reflected in the "little world" created in the strip.

Riunite on ice not quite so nice

"Riunite on ice!" So the ads say. Well, I've got news for you. It may be popular but it's not everyone's cup of tea, or glass of wine. Having seen and heard the Riunite advertisements on radio and TV, and seen them in a variety of magazines, I decided to forgo my immediate suspicions and give it a try. After all, how many times can Cold Duck repeat itself?

I must admit, the thought of a nice cold aperitif after a long day's work was in itself enticing, but should you choose to do it à la Riunite there are several things you should bear in mind.

First, it's not so cheap. I, once again being a little suspicious, chose to try the 200 ml bottle at $2.00 a crack. As any mathematical novice can figure out this works out to about $7.50 for an ordinary 750 ml bottle, which by anyone's standards is no great bargain.

Second, it is substantially sweeter than most wines popular today and lacks the acidity necessary to give it a really refreshing taste. I suppose for the novice, this may in fact be the best part of Riunite, but I suspect that anyone who continues to sample or experiment with wines will soon find this rather much of the same.

In short. Thanks but no thanks.

Much more to my liking, and not much more expensive at $7.85 a bottle, is the delightful Gutturino dei Colli Piacentini. A most beautiful shade of cherry red, the Gutturino is a mouth-warming, tummy-tingler that is worth every bit of its price and then some. Made from a combination of Barbera and Bonarda grapes, it hails from Emilia-Romagna and is a true bargain.

Another wine worth the look, if you happen to feel in an expansive mood, is the Chateau de Cruzeau 1981 which is presently available locally at $11.05 a bottle. (Perhaps I should have said expensive mood). Anyway, the Cruzeau hails from the Graces area of Bordeaux, which for North Americans usually means white wine. Only this time, like so many of the best Graves, this wine is red. Garnet in color and with a full, warm taste, the Cruzeau has, to quote Alex Lachine, "a pleasing earthiness".

Another wine available from Bordeaux, or near enough, is the Chateau Verdier 1984 from the Cotes de Duras. Although there are probably better buys for the money, depending upon your taste, the Verdier is an acceptable wine with a flowery bouquet and a grapey, full taste. Probably a white wine more suited as an aperitif than for meals, it is a combination of Semillon, Sauvignon, Muscadelle and Mauzet grapes that will run you $6.40 a crack.

Last, but not least, in last week's tasting, was the Celliers du Monde Bianco de Chile which is available at grocery stores everywhere. A light, inoffensive white wine, the Bianco de Chile won't win any awards but at $5.50 a bottle it sure beats most of its dèpanneur rivals. Cheers!

British winemakers gaining expertise

BIDDENDEN, England (Reuter) — You can buy it at Harrod's or drink it at the Ritz: English wine, once the butt of jokes, now wins international tasting competitions.

The cottage industry used to be the exclusive domain of gentlemen farmers dabbling in their favorite hobby.

But today's winemakers have greater expertise, the vines have matured and techniques are much more sophisticated.

This year's sodden English summer has not been kind to the winegrowers, but the last three seasons were — each produced a bumper crop and annual production reached three million bottles.

Typical of the new breed of English winegrower is Richard Barnes, a blunt-spoken former fruit farmer whose seven-hectare vineyard nestles in a shallow, sheltered valley in the picturesque southern county of Kent.

"English wine is very easy to sell now," he said in an interview at his prize-winning Biddenden vineyard. "People ask for the wines by variety. Quality is the reason for the breakthrough."

Continentalers like coming here to taste the wine."

Barnes, who sells over half his wine to customers who come to the farm gate, said: "This country will never have a wine-growing area like on the (European) continent. But there are a lot more vineyards being planted. Wine-making has improved every year."

The wine giants of France and West Germany certainly have no reason to be trembling in their grape-treading boots.

Less than 400 hectares of British farmland is being cultivated by vineyards compared to 1.2 million hectares each in France and West Germany.

Barnes, whose gentle slopes are sown with early ripening German grape varieties, argues that quality in England makes up for lack of quantity. "If you put our wines up against some German wines and cover the labels, we usually come out on top."

Last year the magazine What Wine pitted wines from 24 countries against each other in a blind tasting competition judged by wine experts. British wines finished first and second.

England's 300 vintners, deprived of the tax and quantity production advantages of their European rivals, realize how crucial it is to produce a high quality product.

Each bottle costs $1.30 more than the French or German equivalent.

Despite the great strides it has made in the past decade, Britain's fledgling wine industry is still in its infancy and is recognized as such by the European Community.

Uncommon duo produce musical treat in "Cycles"

By Laurel Sherrer

STANSTEAD — Piano and guitar are not a common instrumental combination. There's very little music written for that kind of duo.

But piano and guitar are what Stanstead residents Allyn Harris and Peter Mendieta play, and neither was about to change instruments in order to play music together.

So a few years ago they began writing some duets and arranging others for the two instruments, and Mendieta worked on a way to amplify his guitar and still have it sound like an acoustic guitar.

Now they've made a recording of some of their best, and "Cycles" is available in several stores in the Townships. Using a recording studio in their own home, the couple recorded some of their own compositions as well as familiar classical favorites.

"Cycles" is from beginning to end a tranquil, relaxing recording, flowing smoothly from one piece to the next. The different paces and rhythms gently complement one another, making the listening easy, but never dragging. From Bach's much-loved Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring to the hypnotic title track by Mendieta, "Cycles" is a refreshing experience, as organically unified and satisfying as a whole as any one of the individual compositions it features.

And this is no accident.

CAPTURE MOOD

"With the recording we were trying to capture a mood so that the piece was as good as we could play it, and also that all the pieces kind of fit together; so there's the thread of a mood throughout the tape," Mendieta explains.

"People seem to feel it goes from one end to the other and kind of just sails along, and that's what we were after."

To achieve this, the couple started recording last October, and didn't finish until New Year's. This was partly because they waited until they were in the right frame of mind when they recorded each song.

"Playing a concert you try and do that for the entire concert," says Mendieta. "When recording it's hard to keep that delicate thread going."

"A concert is much more spontaneous in a way," Harris adds. "You also have the vibes of the audience boosting you up. When you're recording it has almost like a practising feeling. You have to imagine you're performing to have that bit of adrenaline."

AVOID VIRTUOSITY

Although obviously masters of their instruments, they stress that technical expertise is not foremost in their minds.

"I don't think we're interested in producing a virtuosic experience, but something accessible to people," says Harris.

"If you get too far off into virtuosity sometimes feelings get left in the dust," Mendieta adds.

"Our aim is to keep the feelings there."

They have sold about 100 to date, given away 200 or so, and have now ordered 100 more. They've even started thinking about their next tape, but nothing's definite yet. It might be another Cycles, or it might be something totally different, and could include some singing.

One thing it's likely to include, however, is a recent composition called Crystal Creek. Inspired by the little stream that passes by their house, the piece will be recorded with the stream's gurgling and rushing sound as an intro and background. But even without the sound effects, the piece brings to mind a country creek, with its gentle rise and fall and the trickling effect created by the piano.

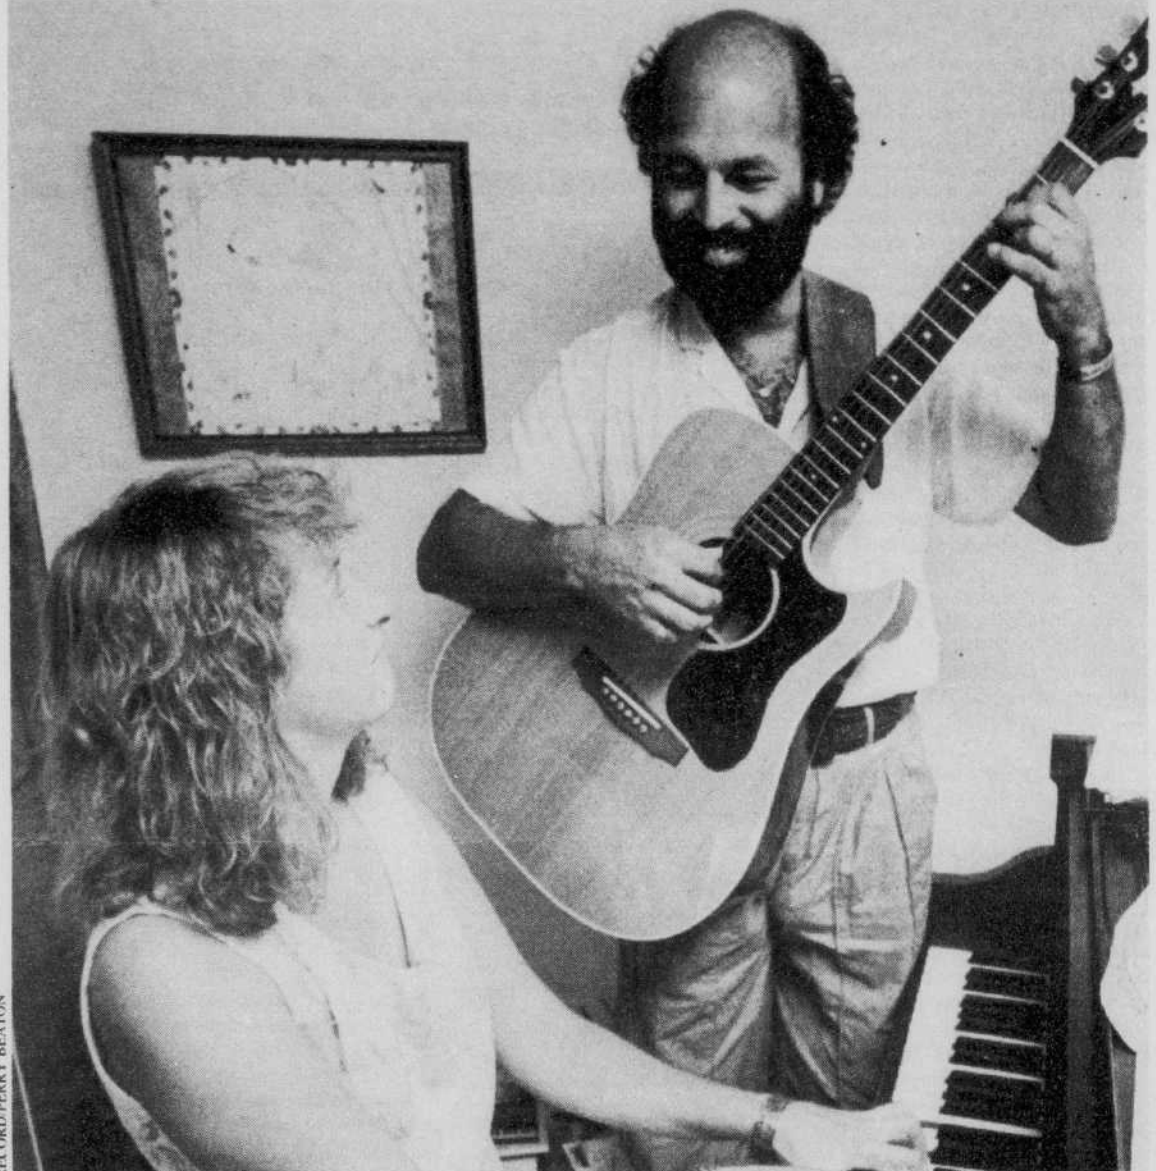

INFLUENCES

This piece is a concrete example of the influence the rural surroundings have on the musicians, but the influence is evident on a more subtle level in many other pieces. Living in the country is good for their creativity, they agree.

"There are less distractions," says Harris, who moved here from Montreal in 1980. "It's quiet; it's beautiful; it's inspiring." Mendieta tends to be reclusive and likes to spend a lot of time with his guitar.

"When I lived in Vancouver and I went outside the city to visit, I loved it so much and came back so fresh and inspired just by the trees and the birds," he says. "I felt really inspired by the surroundings and wrote more in a month than I had for five months before that."

Harris was born in Montreal, and graduated with a music degree from Concordia University where she studied piano with Laurette Milkman and composition with Allan Crossman. Mendieta was born in India and raised in Vancouver, where he began studying the guitar at age 14. Both now teach their instruments at Stanstead College, and Mendieta also writes background mu-

Forsyth novel has page-turning, nail-biting suspense

The Fourth Protocol by Frederick Forsyth (CORGI-BANTAM): $5.95, 435 pp.

As topical as today's headlines and as tautly written as the best spy dramas, Frederick Forsyth's The Fourth Protocol blends current attitudes to nuclear nightmares and the labyrinthian networks of foreign agents to score a huge thriller success.

When Forsyth writes a pure action opening such as the safe-cracking episode that inadvertently leads to the spy skullduggery in Protocol, he is without peer in his shaping of page-turning, nail-biting suspense. The only time that the author of Day of the Jackal and The Odessa File ever lets the quickpaced read falter is during the necessary, but slightly tedious background material about the political fortunes of Britain's Labour Party, or the delineation of the subtle territorial distinctions between Britain's M15, M16 with regard to national and external security.

Aside from the glimpses into the extensive British bureaucracy that controls spy networks there are some clever twists to Forsyth's novel. Harold "Kim" Philby, the celebrated traitor, surfaces as an element of a Soviet scam known as "Aurora", which involves the importation, piece by piece, of a compact atomic bomb, the detonation of which will scuttle Margaret Thatcher's Conservative government. With the Iron Lady removed from the British political spectrum, the Labour Party will be able to swoop into power—the implication in the book being that factions within Labour are in close concert with Moscow and this scenario will ensure that communism will have the "Emerald Isle" firmly in its grip.

An agent's internal jockeying for position in M15; an interesting sojourn to South Africa in pursuit of a well-buried "mole" being run by the Soviets; the clever tactics employed in the importation and citing novel make The Fourth Protocol an exceptional, up-to-the-minute spycatching treat.

KIDS' BOOKS

Mouse by Sara Bonnett Stein, illustrated by Manuel Garcia (HJB-ACADEMIC PRESS): $9.95.

The second of a pair of life cycle books by Sara Bonnett Stein (the first, Cats), Mouse is a vividly illustrated, fascinating introduction to science for the youngest readers. Mouse traces the life cycle of baby mice from one day old, when the litter of eight newborns adjust to the snug nest that the mother has constructed out of soft things found in a typical home, to full grown size at twenty-one days old.

Along the way, young children are introduced to the habits of mice, their careful, almost feline-like hygiene, their eternal search for food, and the startling way in which one family of mice can reproduce with Hamelin-like numerical proportions by factors of eight. Stein & Garcia's collaboration has just enough science to entice young readers into the world of mice with a colourful format that adds an easily understood narrative, ideal for kids in the 6-year-old range.

RECORD REVIEWS

Nick Lowe and His Cowboy Outfit THE ROSE OF ENGLAND (COLUMBIA)

The many laments about the demise of Nick Lowe and Dave Edmunds's wondrous pop experiment known as Rockpile may be quelled by the arrival of this album by Nick Lowe's Cowboy Outfit. Since Lowe teamed up with this current lineup known as the Cowboy Outfit, it hasn't exactly been platinum city for the Brinsley Schwartz alumnus, but THE ROSE OF ENGLAND should change that. Lowe's mates are the accomplished piano sensation Paul Carrack, the sure-fingered Martin Belmont on "guitar top to bottom", and Bobby Irwin on drums and pitching in on the harmonies aiding the duets by Nick & Paul.

ROSE is a fun album, right from the superb acapella voicings on "I Knew The Bride When She Used To Rock and Roll" with Huey Lewis producing, playing harmonica and vocalizing on a song that could become a classic. There's even a great instrumental track on ROSE, called "Long Walk Back", a reminder of the days when The Ventures or The Shadows always seemed to have a hit instrumental on the Top 40.

When Nick isn't the featured guitar on that track and one titled "Bobo Ski Diddle Diddle", he plays fat-string & six-string basses and sings all of the lead vocals from the nasal Chuck Berry influenced "7 Nights To Rock" to the smooth delivery on the title track. "7 Nights" proves what a musical Kismet was effected when ex-Rumour guitarist Martin Belmont and former-Ace/former-Squeeze keyboardist Carrack teamed with Nick Lowe on his 3rd solo LP in a group called Noise To Go — on THE ROSE OF ENGLAND, Carrack's keyboard noodling is vintage rock style in the Jerry Lee, Little Richard tradition.

Lowe's influences include the Everly Brothers, as evidenced in the close harmonies with Carrack, and the rockabilly roots spread beneath this whole album keeping the songs chugging along with big beat tempos and more genuine feel than a fistful of Prince cassettes. The Cowboy Outfit is an unqualified success, and it's great to have a musician of Lowe's talent back in a solid groove with a trio of exceptional sidemen having fun.

Koko Taylor QUEEN OF THE BLUES (ALLIGATOR—WEA)

With a voice that sounds like a female reply to James Brown's Godfather of Soul stance, Koko Taylor breaks out an album of the kind of blues singing that won her the 1984 Grammy for Best Blues Album. Koko "Queen of the Blues" Taylor has got a raw, energized voice that barks out the real gutbucket Chicago Blues on super tracks such as "Evil" and "Flamin' Mamie", or the X-Rated "Come To Mama". Speaking of ratings, if the Senate Committee to place ratings on rock albums and videos puts its ideas into legislation, the rockers will be able to direct the Senate's attentions to the raucous and licentious lyrics on many of the Chicago Blues shouters here — the innuendo and even outright suggestiveness of some of Koko Taylor's tunes, make Madonna indeed look like a virgin in comparison.

Koko Taylor has the kind of voice that Janis Joplin tried to develop quickly by inhaling large amounts of Southern Comfort — a guttural, rich, whiskey wheeze, punctuated with shrieks of emphasis and soulful Baptist whoops. When a voice such as Taylor's blends with the guitar of Criss Johnson and the keyboards of "Professor" Eddie Lusk, the result is a set of Chicago Blues that would make artificial flowers burst into fresh bloom.

Les 4-Temps celebrate 10 years in show business

By Laurel Sherrer

SHERBROOKE—The concert group Les 4-Temps de Sherbrooke is planning a major celebration for its tenth anniversary next Saturday (Oct. 12), and you're invited.

Les 4-Temps is a 90-member amateur group that performs throughout the summer in various locations around the Townships. Their professional quality music, combined with colourful costumes and lively skits, have earned them a reputation for great family entertainment.

Performing "everything from Mozart to Cyndi Lauper", according to singer, dancer and PR person Ann Louise Carson, the group will have something for everyone, "and a surprise for the kids" at the concert next week.

In addition to the 15 to 20 songs on their repertoire for the past summer's concerts, the gala at the Sherbrooke University's Salle Maurice O'Bready will feature a 20-minute medley of songs performed over the past ten years.

"It's going to be a very colorful medley," says Carson. Although the music is the main factor in the shows, there's always some kind of movement on stage, like a dance or a skit.

A LONG WAY

The group has come a long way since it started out in 1975 with a group of parishioners of the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church in Sherbrooke performing mainly religious music. They gradually expanded into folk and popular songs, and in about 1982 major changes started to take place. An artistic director had signed up with the group in 1981, and they began using more costumes, dance and comedy.

"It's the only show of its type you'll find in the Townships," said Carson. "There's nothing here you can compare it to. You just have to come and see it."

The group has had some difficulties attracting English-speaking people to their concerts, said Carson. They don't realize much of the repertoire is English, and besides "music is music", regardless of the language.

More changes are in the offing now that the group has made it though 10 years. It will likely become a much more demanding, semi-professional group, said

Carson, with roles a little more defined, (singers are singers, dancers are dancers), and more reliance on professional teachers. They already occasionally hire a dance teacher for a day.

REQUIRES DEDICATION

Belonging to the group requires an amazing amount of dedication. All year long the group practises once a week, and in the weeks prior to a concert there are two practices per week. In addition to whatever performing talent each member has, they are called upon for whatever else they can do in the way of costume and set design, acting as stage hands, doing public relations and various other tasks.

Part of the appeal of the group is the impression they give of having a great time while performing. And they generally are.

"Deep down in all of us there's a performer," said Carson. "Those of us with Les 4-Temps have been fortunate enough to let that performer out."

Tickets for next week's event are on sale at Ticketron outlets and at the Salle Maurice O'Bready box office for $9, $10 and $11.

Book examines town's "financial heritage"

SHERBROOKE (LS)—An economics professor from St-Venant-de-Hereford has just published a book which he hopes will put the little Eastern Townships town on the map.

Au-delà des Divergences: Histoire de la Caisse Populaire de Paquetteville 1907-1974 is a "business history", says author My-roslaw Smereka, but it does more than tell the story of a financial institution.

It's the history of a region, told with an emphasis on a particular economic development that took place there.

St-Venant, or Paquetteville, was the location of the first rural Caisse Populaire — the first place where the philosophy of the Caisse could be put to the test in a small rural community.

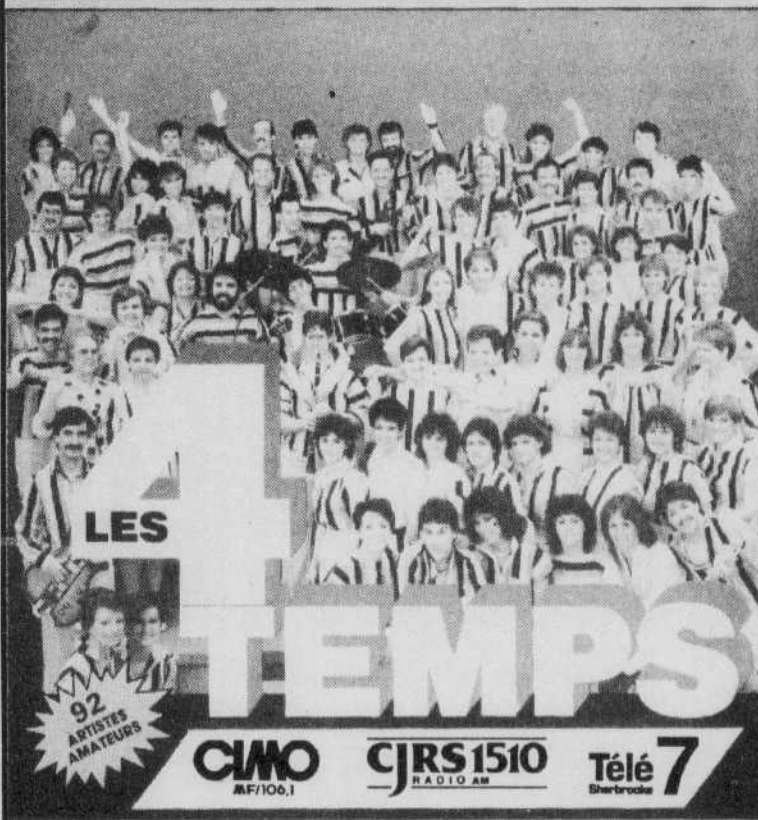

Alphonse Desjardins founded the Caisse Populaire in Lévis, Quebec, explains Smereka, with the idea of linking ethics and economics. The Caisse was meant to operate as a savings and loan establishment only within a small group of people who knew each other and were predisposed to help each other out. Desjardins saw the parish as the ideal social unit for the Caisse Populaire to function in.

The Caisse in St-Venant disappeared in 1974, when it was fused with the one in East Hereford, but Smereka believes its 57-year history is an important study in the significance of a financial institution in the development (or decline) of a community.

For the average reader, the most interesting part of the relatively slim book is the first chapter, providing a general history of the area around St-Venant and East Hereford. Smereka claims nothing of this nature has been done before, and he hopes this will encourage others to look into the history of the area.

For those who are interested in an economic case study, or the philosophy of the co-operative, there is extensive material that Smereka hopes may serve as a model for others to delve into the "financial heritage" of their regions, or to examine the development of their companies.

The book is available through the Service à l'édition et à la recherche, Faculté des arts, local A4-161, Université de Sherbrooke, Sherbrooke, Que., J1K 2R1.

Annual event aims to promote reading, writing

SHERBROOKE (LS) — The seventh annual Salon du Livre de l'Estrie takes place October 16 to 20, and this year organizers are doing more than ever to promote reading and writing in the Townships.

Eighty-eight organizations have signed up to present their projects or publications during the event, which will take place at the Centre Expo-Sherbrooke. They include publishing houses, newspapers, and heritage associations.

Last year 16,000 people visited the Salon, and organizers are hoping for 20,000 this year, said director Francine Côté.

There will be an emphasis on youth, in recognition of International Youth Year, she said.

"Reading and writing are means of promoting the development of young people within their milieu," she said. Earlier in the year the Salon held a writing contest for young people, and publicity for the event has been a little more youth-oriented than usual.

More specific goals of the event are to spotlight Eastern Townships authors and publications, to inform people about the publishing industry, and demystify the act of writing and the status of the writer.

An effort has been made to get a few English organizations involved, although the event remains primarily oriented to the French-speaking public. The Bishop's University Bookstore will be represented, as well as The Record, CKTS and CFIN radio.

The event is financed by the Ministère des Affaires Culturelles, Canada Works projects, the city of Sherbrooke, the Canada Council, Challenge '85, as well as through a fund-raising campaign.

Honorary president of the Salon is Aldée Cabana, rector of the University of Sherbrooke.

Over fifty authors will be on hand to sign their work and meet the public, and each day of the event a different author will preside over the activities.

Wednesday the 16th novelist and playwright Marceline Claudais will preside over the official opening. Claudais' most recent work is a novel, Un jour la jument va parler published this year.

Louise Pomminville, author of the "Pitout" series will preside over the Youth Day, October 17.

Eastern Townships Authors Day, October 18, will feature Ginette Bureau, author of "Mona" and "Je t'aime la vie" as MC.

Rachel Fontaine, who won the Prix Robert Cliche for her first novel "Black Magic" in 1984, will preside over the events of October 19.

Cartoonist Pierre Larouche will be MC Sunday, October 20.

Francine Côté... Emphasis on youth.

Canada's leaders all come from the same Barbie box

Jean Garon was clearly doomed from the start in the PQ leadership campaign. Although he parts his hair correctly, he lacks the flawless, doll-like qualities of the current set of provincial and federal leaders. He's obviously not from the same "Barbie box" — in fact has a little more in common with the Cabbage Patch variety.

Oh horrors of horrors! Good Prince Billy, first born of the Hanoverian usurper who goes by the name of Charles, Prince of Wales, is going to mix with the common folk. William, as his frightfully correct parents call him, is making history by attending a nursery school outside the confines of the Buckingham. Not only is he going to daycare outside the palace but the school, aptly called Mrs. Mynors' Nursery School, accepts students from all walks of life and is located in what the press calls a "racially and economically mixed area of London." I suppose that means it includes the Welsh and Irish as well as Dukes, Earls, Baronets and other lesser folk.

Rumors have it, along with The Record, that perennial Lennoxville mayoralty candidate Leo-Paul Valcourt is back on the trail again. With long-time nemesis Cecil Dougherty out of the running, Leo-Paul says he's a shoo-in. Should Leo-Paul win the race, something akin to the Cleveland Indians winning the World Series, look for Phil Taylor to receive a major job in the new administration.

Who's who

By TADEUSZ LETARTE

Speaking of major positions, Brian the Bold is finally making good on a campaign promise by creating new jobs. Unfortunately for the Regressive Preservatives, they are all in the PM's cabinet. The latest "leader of the people" to offer his resignation is Marcel 'Culture is my business' Masse who gave up the limousine, office staff and a free seat at the National Arts Centre because those nasty Mounties were investigating his election spending. It appears that some disgruntled person — probably a Liberal or some other welfare bum — complained that Marcel hadn't recorded all the campaign contributions sent his way. I don't believe a word of it.

Don't look now, but Canada has become the first nation on earth to develop "the interchangeable leader". With the election of Pierre-Marc "Let us build together" Johnson as Premier of Quebec, we have become the only nation that I know of where provincial and federal leaders all come out of the same Barbie box. Brian Baloney, Pierre-Marc, Bill Bennett, David Peterson, they're all the same. They all buy their suits at Dorion's and they all blow dry their hair left to right. Even their policies come out of the same Cracker Jacks — or should I say Wheat Thins — box. The only one with a spark of difference is Newfoundland's Brian Peckford and he's on his way out. There's not so much as a jowel, week chin or hooked nose among the bunch of them.

Rumour has it that Bishop's University is going to beat the rush and offer an Honorary degree to former premier René Lévesque at this May's convocation. Insiders say it will be the school's way of saying "No hard feelings". I understand that the principal's job is still available.

Thicke fares well with weak sitcom

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Let it never be said that Canadians aren't making significant contributions to the advancement of American television. Just last week, Alan Thicke dropped his pants and mooned his new situation comedy family on ABC's Growing Pains.

It's uncertain what other cultural breakthroughs are in the offing, but it would be well-advised that interested parties tune in Tuesdays soon, not later, for just about everyone is predicting Growing Pains won't even experience teething pains.

What may not be a smart series is still a smart career move for the native of Kirkland Lake, Ont., who learned one rather harsh 1984 day that both his talk show and 13-year marriage to actress-singer Gloria Loring of Days of Our Lives fame were going down the tubes.

Alan and Gloria were at that point the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation's international parents of the year.

Thicke, 38, who with typical Canadian modesty calls himself as a "fast-food renaissance man, a man of b-talents (now) faced with growing up," stars as Jason Seaver, a shrink who hangs his shingle at home so his wife (Joanna Kerns) can go back to work.

Their three children reflect the precociousness and obnoxiousness — but little of the mature appeal — of today's TV kid characters.

Before he even crossed the starting line, Thicke found Growing Pains was saddled with the "Cosby clone" tag and unflattering comparisons to Family Ties. Matters weren't helped by the show's producers acknowledging how The Cosby Show paved the way for new family comedies this season.

HEARS IT AGAIN

The accusation of imitation is something he's heard before — his Thicke of the Night talk show, which went from a big hit to a big miss in a few months, drew similarly nasty criticism.

"After being the Canadian Johnny Carson, I didn't need to be the white Cosby," says Thicke. "And I won't be."

An Emmy-winning comedy writer, who cut his teeth in television with CBC in Toronto, Thicke's adjoining songwriting career has spawned 35 TV theme songs, including those on Different Strokes and The Facts of Life.

He has also experienced moderate success as a musician.

Composing is what he most enjoys, but Thicke thought he needed a bit of a career departure right now. Somewhat surprisingly, he found he was much in demand following the demise of his chat program, which he dubbed Sick of the Hype.

He took a year off to develop his acting skills.

"I had to be careful about what I did next," he says.

Thicke personally fares well with Growing Pains. As an acting neophyte, he doesn't really embarrass himself, even though he has to carry the program.

Growing Pains may only be worthy in distancing himself from Thicke of the Night, but there is a slight chance it will survive. Most networks allow shows to finish second in their time slot and continue.

WHAT'S ON

Music

Knowlton's Fire Volunteers are sponsoring a big country dance at the Knowlton Legion Hall tomorrow evening. Music is supplied by Jimmy and the Sunset Boys, and all proceeds from the $4 per person admission go to support the fire department. The dance starts at 9 and will go on until 2 in the a.m.

They didn't say what the music would be, but I assume there will be some at a dance tomorrow night starting at 9 at the Legion Hall in Sutton (Curly Street). This is sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion, branch 158. Everyone's invited to join in what should be a fun evening.

Country Rhythm plays at the Motel Bretagne near Waterville this weekend, tonight and tomorrow starting at 9, and Sunday starting at 4. They play and country and western music, in case you hadn't guessed.

Effusion with Penny Doheny plays at the Hotel La Salle in Weedon tonight, tomorrow and Sunday from 9:30 to 2:30 a.m.

Everybody's welcome at the Salle Vieilleux in Sawyerville Saturday night when Rod Bray and the Countrymen play their music from 9:30 to 1:30.

The Massey-Vanier High School auditorium will ring with the sounds of barbershop harmony tomorrow night starting at 8, as the Yamaska Valley Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America (SPEBSQSA) presents its second barbershop gala. The main attraction will be The Green Mountain Chorus from Burlington, Vermont, division champions in the SPEBSQSA, but the Township Harmony Barbershoppers (another name for the Yamaska Valley Chapter) and other choruses and quartets will also be performing. Don't miss it!

Blueberry Jam featuring Ray Rabi opens at the Union Hotel in Magog tonight and tomorrow, playing from 9:30 to 2:30 a.m.

The Bar Dion in Asbestos has Just Us with James Todd for the month of October. This weekend they play tonight, tomorrow and Sunday starting at 9:30.

Whiteliner is coming to Hee Haw Country in Magog for the month of October, playing Friday and Saturday nights.

The Concordes begin a month-long stint at Station 88 in South Stukely this weekend, playing Friday and Saturday night. And next Sunday (the 13th) they're planning a Country Jamboree with six or seven popular bands from the area participating, including the Concordes, Whiteliner, and Moonshine. I'll have an update on this next week.

The Maples in Stanstead will feature Ramblin Fever throughout the month of October.

Moonshine continues to play Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at the Shady Crest in Ayer's Cliff until the end of the month.

The Rock Palace at 41 Wellington South in Sherbrooke is hosting "La Foire Rock" Power Rock 1985-'86 this weekend. This 'rock fair' is a touring group consist-ting of three rock bands, Search, Apocalypse, and Black Star, and they can be seen and heard tonight and tomorrow starting at 9:30.

Tonight, the long-awaited Musique Chez Nous series of the Bishop's University Department of Music begins with a concert of baroque chamber music played by flutist Eric Wilner and harpsichordist Gerald Wheeler. They will perform music by Bach, Handel and Telemann and others, starting at 8:30 p.m. in the Centennial Theatre.

Something to plan for next weekend, Saturday Oct. 12 to be exact, is the tenth anniversary concert of Les 4-Temps. This is an amateur concert group of about 90 voices that performs "everything from Mozart to Cyndi Lauper", to quote PR person, singer and dancer Ann Louise Carson. I say "perform", because although their main vehicle is music, there is always some movement on stage — dancing or skits or the like. And the costumes are something else. In this special concert, along with the programme that's been presented in various places all summer, Les 4-Temps has been practising a 20-minute medley of songs that have been done over the past ten years. Showtime is 8:30 p.m. Oct. 12 at the Salle Maurice O'Bready, University of Sherbrooke, tickets are $9, $10 and $11 and they're available through Ticketron outlets and at the Salle Maurice O'Bready box office.

Coming soon: Canadian recording artist Gowan is coming to Sherbrooke Saturday, October 19. Gowan is recognized internationally for his hits "Criminal Mind" and "Strange Animal". Tickets for his show are on sale now at all Ticketron outlets, including the one at the Palais des Sports at 360 Parc St. The price is $12.50, $13.50 if you wait until the day of the show.

Exhibitions/Events

The Galerie d'Art La Falaise, at 56 Wellington North in Sherbrooke, opens its fall-winter season tonight with a vernissage for an exhibition of paintings by Gilbert Breton. The vernissage, where you can meet the artist, is from 7 to midnight tonight, and the exhibition will continue until October 19.

Also tonight at the Horace Gallery, 906 King West in Sherbrooke, a conference on the recent paintings of Monique Régimbal-Zeiber begins at 8 p.m. after a the vernissage at 7. Art historian Françoise le Gris-Bergmann will lead a discussion on Régimbal-Zeiber's work, which will be exhibited until October 20. The drawings and paintings of Hélène Plourde go on display at the gallery at the same time.

An exhibition of recent textile work by Cercles de Fermières in the Coaticook region will take place at the Beaulne Museum in Coaticook starting Sunday at 2 p.m. This will continue until November 10. The hours are 1 to 4 p.m. Wednesday to Sunday, but different arrangements can be made for groups.

The Hall de l'Edifice gouvernemental, 77 Main St. in Granby is featuring local artist Karmen Dumas from now until October 11. Dumas paints in oil, specializing in people and faces, especially those of old people. She has been part of the Peintres Unis in Waterloo and Arts Sutton, and now teaches art in her studio in Granby. Her paintings can be seen in many area galleries, as well as in galleries in Alberta, Ontario, New Brunswick, the U.S. and Paris.

The Laurier Museum in Arthabaska is presenting an exhibition called Si l'opera m'était conté until the 20th. Each of the rooms in the Museum will feature a different theme having to do with the opera (e.g. opera in Quebec, costumes).

Coming up next weekend is the second Festival of Quebec Folklore in the Cultural Centre in Drummondville. 150 people will participate in violin, accordion, and harmonica contests among others, and there will be traditional dances, films, discussions and all that. I'll tell you more about it next week.

The Caisse Populaire de Sherbrooke-Est at King and Bowen in Sherbrooke is presently showing its own private collection of works by various artists who have shown there work there over the years. The gallery is open during regular banking hours.

At the Bishop's — Champlain Art Gallery starting next Wednesday, Gilles Larivière presents a multidisciplinary exhibition called Post-Spectrum. The gallery is located in the Marjorie Donald Building and the hours are Monday to Friday 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Theatre

The Lennoxville Players are looking for actors and singers to perform in their production of Gilbert and Sullivan's Iolanthe, being presented at the Centennial Theatre May 1, 2, and 3 next year. Auditions for the main parts take place next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. They need all sorts of voices, as well as a volunteer piano accompanist. See story on page 5.

I've mentioned a few French plays going on at the University of Sherbrooke and elsewhere in the past, although I really wonder just how many Record readers are interested. But this time there's something happening at the Salle Maurice O'Bready that should be of interest to those who don't understand French. It's called Steel Town, presented by the San Francisco Mime Troupe, which the press release hastens to explain, does not mean it's a silent play. Don't ask me why. But if they're from San Francisco I assume they speak English. Anyway, it's a musical comedy which follows a working-class American town from the triumph of post-war prosperity to the hardships of present day unemployment and plant closures.

Movies

This Sunday at 3 p.m. a movie called The Prodigal will be shown at the Alexander Galt High School Auditorium. This stars John Hammond, Hope Lange, John Cullum and Morgan Brittany and has to do with a family that has shut the doors of communication and tried to replace their relationships with everything life has to offer — work, education, sports, fast cars, hobbies and "surface" encounters with other people. Billy Graham makes a special screen appearance.

A very good film is playing at the Cinema Capitol in Sherbrooke for another week at least, and that's Agnes of God, starring Jane Fonda, Anne Bancroft, and Meg Tilly. This is the gripping story of a court psychiatrist (Fonda) assigned to the case of a young nun who is suspected of murdering her child immediately after its birth. It provides a thought-provoking look at the isolated, inward-looking life members of certain religious orders lead, and the psychological effects this kind of sheltered experience can have. The movie is rather hard on religion and the clergy, as many recent films have been, but doesn't come out completely anticlerical. I found there were a few unanswered questions — rather frustratingly — but all in all it's definitely something you should see. It plays nightly at 7 and 9, as well as at 1 and 3 weekends and Tuesday.

The Cinemas Carrefour have Code Name: Emerald, playing at approximately 7 and 9 p.m. It stars Ed Harris and Max Von Sydow, but I haven't heard anything more about it yet.

The Last Dragon, an action film with a good music soundtrack supposedly, plays at the Cinema Princess in Cowansville at 7:15 nightly, and at 9:00 it's Fright Night.

Fletch, starring Chevy Chase, plays at the Newport Cinema from Friday to Tuesday night at 7:30.

Across town at the Merrill's Showplace it's Pee-Wee's Big Adventure at 7:20 and 9:15 with bargain matinees Saturday and Sunday at 1:45. From the promos I saw, this one sounds like some weird cult film that will only appeal to a certain audience — but that might be you for all I know.

Still at Merrill's, Ron Howard's Cocoon plays at 7 and 9:15 with bargain matinees on the weekend at 1:55, and Beverly Hills Cop, with Eddie Murphy is on at 7:10 and 9:25 with bargain matinees Saturday and Sunday at 2:05.

Television

Some late night, light entertainment available Saturday is the 1973 comedy American Graffiti starring Ron Howard and Cindy Williams on CFCF 12 (CTV). Four friends get together on the last night before two of them depart for college, and each matures somewhat during these hectic 24 hours. This starts at midnight and is immediately followed at 2:15 by More American Graffiti, the sequel, which takes place on four consecutive New Year's Eves from 1964 to 1967.

For those of you who are really keen on Vermont ETV, this American public television station is inviting its Canadian viewers to its annual reception, which takes place Monday from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at Le Château Champlain in Montreal. This is the station's way of thanking its Canadian supporters, who provide about 45 per cent of its viewer contributions. The event is co-hosted by the National Film Board and the guest of honor is journalist Gwynne Dyer. War: A Commentary by Gwynne Dyer started telecasting on Vermont ETV last Tuesday. Guests at the reception will have a preview of the station's fall season.

On Vermont ETV Monday at 8, Ned Beatty, Huckleberry Fox, Polly Holliday and Max Wright launch the new season of Wonderworks. The popular family series begins with a two-part comedy about a factory-made "instant child" who is delivered to the eccentric Mrs.

Vermont ETV's Wonderworks begins a new season Monday at 8 with the story of a factory-made instant child.

Bartolotti by mistake. When the factory realizes its goof, Konrad is recalled, but to his new mother, Konrad is non-returnable.

Townships Magazine, a program on Cable 11 (Video-tron), will feature chef Serge Morin next week, with some cooking tips. Some of our friends from the Townships Sun will also be on. This program airs Tuesday at 9, Thursday at 7 and Friday at 8 p.m.

Tuesday at 9 p.m. on Vermont ETV Gwynne Dyer travels to the Parris Island Marine Recruit Training Camp in South Carolina on War: A Commentary by Gwynne Dyer. He observes the rituals that transform a motley group of teenagers into soldiers.

CBC television telecasts the three-hour movie Love and Larceny on Sunday at 8. Jennifer Dale stars in this movie which charts the daring career of Canada's notorious con woman of the 80s, Betsey Bigley, from the Ontario backwoods to the corridors of wealth and power in New York.

Radio

Sunday afternoons from 1 to 4 on CFLX-FM, (95.5 on your dial), a program that's also called Townships Magazine features Big Band music, hits from the 40s, 50s and 60s. The station's only English segment, this program also features a ten-minute interview with varying topics, and this week the special guest will be Sherbrooke MNA and Labour Minister Reynald Fréchette.

Starting Monday, Oct. 7, Mostly Music on CBC Stereo features the Tanglewood Festival. This is a summer concert series held 170 kilometres west of Boston every year since 1937, and in recent years has drawn over 300,000 visitors each year. Seiji Ozawa is artistic director of the festival, as well as music director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra which will be heard Monday at 9:05 a.m.

A concert called Heritages, live from the Harbourfront in Toronto, celebrates the 60th anniversary of the birth of one of Canada's foremost composers, Harry Somers on CBC Stereo's Two New Hours at 9:05 p.m. Sunday. His Chura-Churum is premiered by the Tapestry Singers and a chamber ensemble conducted by Wayne Strongman, then Somers narrates a segment featuring original works and Back arrangements by fellow composer Reginald Godden.

Canada's first nation-wide gospel program, A Joyful Sound, debuts Sunday afternoon at 3:08 with music from here and abroad covering virtually every style of contemporary inspirational music — popular, traditional Black gospel, country, folk and bluegrass, soul, funk and R & B, and various shades of rock — even touching on heavy metal.

Vanishing Point features its first musical next week (CBC Radio at 7:30 p.m. and CBC Stereo at 11:05 p.m. Monday). Nightmare in Rabbit City is a fantasy written and composed by Keith McNair and arranged John Roby, featuring Sweet Lips, a group of Toronto actors who bring theatricality to intricate vocal harmonies

Traces of famous author mark town in Denmark

Hans Christian Andersen, the renowned Danish writer, is best known for his fairy tales but he also wrote poems and plays and his travel books are among the best ever written.

During his lifetime, he visited over a dozen countries including Greece, Spain, Portugal, Rumania and Turkey. His travels inspired many of his tales and this year Denmark is commemorating his first novel — "THE IMPROVISATORE" — which was published in 1835 after a visit to Rome.

"THE IMPROVISATORE" a rag-to-riches story about a poor Italian boy who makes a fortune, heralded the life of the writer himself. Andersen who came from a poor family, always dreamed of becoming rich. His novel not only established him as an author, it allowed him to live as he wished.

H.C. (as Danes call him) was born in Odense, on the island of Funen, on April 2, 1805. His father died when he was 11 and his mother remarried. Andersen daydreamed for hours and his favorite occupation was listening to the village elders who taught him folk tales and legends.

RICH IMAGINATION

His childhood fuelled a rich imagination. By the time he was 14, he was ready to spread his wings and intent on joining the theatre, he left for Copenhagen. He trained for three years at the prestigious Royal Theatre but despite his best attempts, he couldn't make it as an actor. He did, however, start to write and with the help of influential patrons, who helped to pay for his education, he was well on his way by the time he was 24. By 1835 he was indeed rich and famous.

Every summer, visitors can enjoy learning more about this multi-talented man. From mid-July to mid-August, plays are staged at the Funen Village, a large open-air museum, which is one of the biggest in Denmark. This "living history" site is laid out like a 19th century settlement, with half-timbered houses, farm animals, a rectory and a small and the historic atmosphere helps set the scene for Andersen's plays.

The playwright's birthplace can be visited in Odense and the area where he grew up has been carefully restored. Colorful houses line the narrow, cobbled streets and each has been preserved and brightly painted — yellow and white with dazzling orange roofs. Andersen's house, which is on the corner of Hans Jensenstraede and Bangs Boder, is cramped and tiny — an indication of just how poor his parents were.

The house and an adjoining building has been made into a museum filled with Andersen memorabilia and as you walk around you can trace the author's life. Foreign versions of his fairytales abound. Tales such as THE TINDER BOX, THE LITTLE MATCH GIRL and THE UGLY DUCKLING have been published in over 80 languages and only the Bible has been translated more.

PROMINENT FRIENDS

During his travels H.C. met many prominent people and there are letters to Charles Dickens and Jenny Lind, the "Swedish Nightingale", with whom he fell in love. She saw him as a brother rather than a lover because, despite his success, Andersen was wracked by insecurity. His inferiority complex, born of his impoverished past never left him and he had some strangely neurotic habits, like carrying a rope and bucket in case there was a fire. Nevertheless he was popular and he had a warm, friendly personality.

He loved children and they adored him. He was much in demand as a storyteller and he patiently made scrapbooks and sketches for all his little friends. Once when he was ill, an American child sent him a dollar bill. Louise, the daughter of Jonas Collin, privy councillor of Copenhagen, prompted him to write THE LITTLE MERMAID.

It's hard to get away from the author because there are traces of him all over town. The house in which he spent his childhood is a three-minute walk from his birthplace and outside the cathedral of St. Knud's, a statue has been erected in his honor.

Closer to home, Canadians can take part in the commemorations. To mark the 150th anniversary, the Danish Tourist Board is running an international drawing competition. The contest is open only to 14-year-olds (the same age as the writer when he left home) and the prize — a one-week vacation in Denmark — promises to be a fairy tale trip, in the best Andersen tradition.

(For details about the competition and Hans Christian Andersen, contact the Danish Tourist Board, Box 115, Station "N", Toronto, Ontario, M8V 3S4; telephone 823-9620).

N.W.T. trips offer taste of Inuit life

ESKIMO POINT, N.W.T. (CP) — Dressing up in caribou-skin hunting clothing and camping in an igloo may not be everyone's dream vacation, but tourism outfitters here are banking on the adventurousness of a few.

Three outfitters are offering packages which promise to give the uninitiated a taste of traditional Inuit life and a glimpse of the tundra's spectacular beauty.

Menus include arctic char, caribou stew and muktuk, which is whale blubber. Regular southern Canadian fare, such as roast beef, is available for the timid.

The packages range from one-day excursions to several nights of camping. The outfitters will adapt the packages to suit different tastes and pocketbooks.

The day trips are popular with tourists visiting nearby Churchill, Man. More than 700 are expected to fly to Eskimo Point, a thriving Inuit community of about 1,000 on the west coast of Hudson Bay, for the day tour offered by local businessman Don Baker.

The tour, which usually costs about $65 a person depending on the size of the group, includes a traditional meal and a chance to try Inuit drum dancing.

Visitors are taken to the Inuit Cultural Institute, where they see a slide show and learn of Inuit customs, culture and language. Each person is taught how to write his name in Inuktitut syllabics.

FIND INTRIGUING

Eskimo Point is an intriguing place. A visitor walking through the community might stop and chat with a woman scraping a sealskin on her porch or an artist carving from a block of soapstone.

Baker and Kalluak, who work together, offer four different camping packages. On one fishing excursion guests fish for lake trout after chopping a hole through about two metres of ice using an Inuit snow-knife and spoon. If snow conditions are right they are shown how to build an igloo, which they may sleep in if they wish.

The most arduous trip takes in three nights of camping along the Maguse River by freighter canoe. Two guides — one stationed at the front of the boat to help navigate the rapids — take visitors through some of the most beautiful scenery in the region.

MOST EXPENSIVE

The Maguse River trip is also the most expensive. The six-day package costs $1,995 per person, not including airfare. The other packages cost $1,395.

Alikut, who charges a flat rate of $175 a day, will provide hunting clothing made of caribou fur or modern down-filled clothes.

They are all fairly new to the business. Alikut had his first customer this summer and Baker, after four years in the business, is just starting to attract visitors through word-of-mouth.

But they think enough people are curious about the North and the Inuit to make tourism thrive in the region.

As Alikut puts it: "We have a distinctive way of life that is freer than most places. We have a different culture, a different dialect, different everything. And it's an adventure too. The competition can't offer that."

ANSWERS

Sherbrooke Has Technical Expertise

Agence Québec Plus has been making the Asics Tiger and Pelican brands of sportswear for six years now. After just two years, I've taken over the job of production planner. The time and energy that must devote any worker if he wants to see his company grow does pay off. At Agence Québec Plus, we've done everything to make our business a source of pride for Sherbrooke. And as regards pride, I know what I'm talking about. We are designing and making here in Sherbrooke all the clothes for the Canadian delegation to the World Student Games in Kobe, Japan, and for all the athletes competing in the Canada Games hosted by New Brunswick."

"Not many cities provide so much room for new companies. And if the success of my company is so important to me, it's because I know it benefits all Sherbrookers. Involvement and determination are surely the dominant characteristics of workers who help make Sherbrooke more than a city."
