NINETY-THIRD YEAR | HUNTINGDON, QUE., JUNE 27th, 1956 | FOURTEEN PAGES

Somerville, Laberge, Hebert, U.N. Candidates Re-elected in Beauharnois District

Mr. Maurice Duplessis' Union Nationale Party won a decided victory in the province of Quebec at the election on Wednesday, June 20th. It resulted in a gain of seats in the new Legislature, while the liberals lost some of theirs. There were some change overs in the various constituencies, the liberals getting in where a Union Nationale member had been before and vise-versa. In our own area, all former sitting members were returned with slightly increased majorities than in the previous election in 1952.

In the County of Huntingdon, the voting ran almost identical with that of the election in 1952. Hemmingford, Havelock area practically won the election for Mr. Somerville, given him very large majorities at each of the polls. When returns first started coming in to the Returning Officer, it look as if all the majorities were for the Liberal candidate, Mr. James F. Smythe. Later returns however changed this into a victory for Mr. Somerville.

The polls closed at 6.30 p.m. and by 7.30 p.m., Mr. Somerville was considered to have won the seat. At that time he was given a majority of 333 for 28 polls, at 8 p.m. he was considered to have a majority of 294 for 34 polls, final official results gave him a majority of 291, which is 36 votes better than in 1952

Figures for 1952 were Somerville, 3162 and Tillotson, Liberal, 2907, majority for Somerville, 255. In this election the figures were 3273 for Somerville, 2982 for Smythe, a majority or 291 for Somerville. It also shows that Mr. Smythe gained 75 more than Tillotson and Mr. Somerville picked up 111 more votes than in 1952. But for all of this, the totals run very close to one another in both elections. This is true also of the individual polls, might have been a slight gain or a loss for each candidate, but the averages were almost the same.

In the counties of Chateauguay and Beauharnois the majorities were much larger and gave the winners a sweep back into office. Mr. Arthur Laberge was re-elected in Chateauguay and Mr. Elgar Hebert was re-elected in Beauharnois. However the liberal canadidates in these three counties polled themselves a sizeable vote and none will lose their deposit.

Before the election who opinion was that the Liberals would gain themselves some seats and they might even win the election. The vote in Huntingdon was considered as being close one and that James Smythe would win. It was in some way a surprise that the vote was not closer than it was.

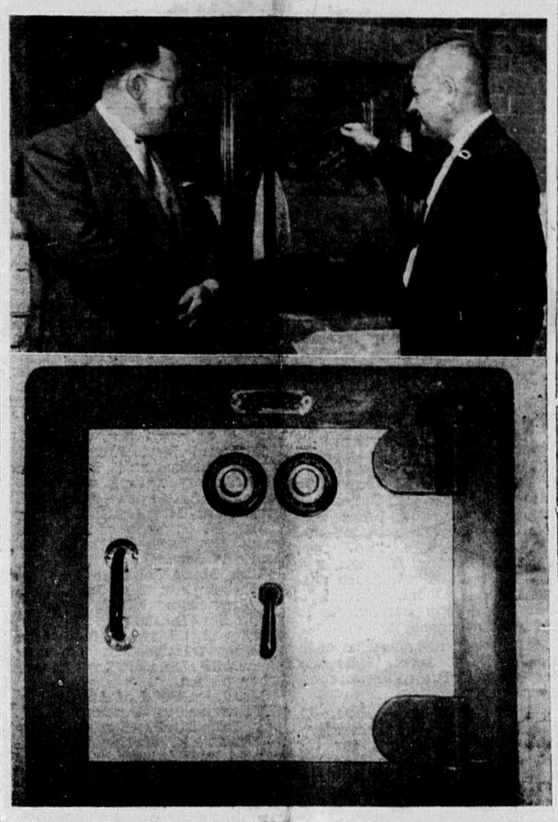
The trend of the voting toward the Union Nationale Party was not subject to any particular of the Province, it was province wide with a decided approval of that party according to the mandate.

While Mr. Duplessis was quite jubilant as would be expected, Mr. George Lapalme was despondent and there are rumours that he may resign as leader of the Liberal Party in Quebec. Certainly the Liberals have made some very poor showings in the last few elections, but the increase made in the last election in 1952 from 8 seats to 23 gave some hope that more gains would be made in the election of June 20th. Many excuses are being put forth for the poor showing, but nevertheless the fact remains that the Liberals will only have 20 seats in the next Provincial Legislature as compared to 72 Union Nationale.

Another rumour which is taking shape, although the actual enactment may be long way off, is that Major Drapeau of Montreal may form a new political party in Quebec to defeat the Union Nationale at the next election. The idea is based on his popularity in Montreal circles and the proposed plan would be to unite the opposition parties much the same as Mr. Duplessis did when he came to power. If this happened it may mean the disappearance of the identity of the Liberal Party in Quebec provincial polities.

The Liberals fought a vigorous campaign and had a candidate in every riding with a few exceptions, but evidently their platform did not catch the popular fancy of the electorate.

NIGHT DEPOSITORY AT CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE



Construction of the new vault and Night Safety Depository is quickly nearing completion at the Canadian Bank of Commerce Branch in Huntingdon. The Night Depository permits bank customers to make night deposits. Mr. Ivan Heath, merchant, demonstrates the placing of a wallet into the slot of the depository as Mr. Rod Morrison, bank manager, looks on. The wallet slides down a chute into the burglar proof safe in the basement of the bank as shown in the lower photograph. The heavy Chubb Safe is imbeded in reinforced concrete. Needless to say this banking service will afford the many merchants and others of this town the opportunity of banking without the thought of carrying large sums of money overnight.

Bible School to Open July 3rd For Period

The annual Bible School will be held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, from July 3rd. until July 11th, for children from 4 to 16 years of age. All children will be welcome. The school will be conducted between the hours of 9 and 11.45 each morning.

In past years this school has been very successful and the number attending has increased each year. This year should prove no exception and it is hoped that parents will encourage their children to attend during the peroid shown above.

Dominion Day Activities

Dominion Day which will be celebrated on July 2nd, will hold a choice of activities which may be selected as the whim wills.

The annual Farmers' Picnic will be held at Greig's Grove and a fine program has been arranged for this event. It is suggested that those attending bring along their picnic basket and plan to spend the day in the cool trees of the grove near Howick. There will be games of all kinds including a softball tournament and a program of speeches as well as band music. So take along the family for a day's outing.

The Huntingdon Branch of the Canadian Legion plans to hold the annual street dance in the square by the Canadian Bank of Commerce. There will be a good attendance and plenty of room for all. If it should rain the dance will be held in the Legion Hall, Fairview Road. The Legion Committee hopes to have a real good attendance.

Another out of town event will be the celebration being planned at Chateaugay, N.Y., which will give a day in the friendly town across the border.

A Committee of the Chateaugay Chamber of Commerce has completed details for holding a Dominion Day celebration in Chateaugay, on July 2nd.

An invitation has been extended to Canadians and to residents of nearby towns to visit Chateaugay during the day and evening. The streets will be attractively decorated for the occasion and many of the stores will feature bargains for the day.

The highlight of the evening will be a block dance on Main Street with Milt Faulkner and the St. Lawrence Valley Boys providing music. Mrs. Doris Pearl has generously donated the price of the orchestra, so dancing will be free.

At 9:00 P.M., in front of the Town Hall, a drawing for $50.00 will be held, under the direction of Charles Abbott. A stand will be placed in front of the Town Hall where people may register throughout the day for the prize. There are no chances being sold — you simply sign your name.

Body Exhumed As Probe Opens In Traffic Death

Body of Alfred Sambault, interred at Chateauguay, Monday, June 18th, has been exhumed and transferred to Montreal for an autopsy. Medico-legal experts will attempt to determine the cause of death.

Sgt. Gaston Archambault of the Provincial Police detective force said Sambault died in hospital a few days after he had been struck by a car driven by Police Chief Henri Dorais of Chateauguay.

Sgt. Archambault said the man was examined by a doctor following the accident but the next day he entered hospital for a thorough examination. He died while in hospital.

Provincial Police were not notified of the accident, Sgt. Archambault said, but were called in after relatives of the man notified the attorney-general's department of his death.

Last Exams Being Written At Huntingdon High Today

School is out. The last examination in the Huntingdon High School was written this morning. In spite of the end-of-the-year tests to check on the pupils' accomplishment and to keep on their toes until the last bell is rung, happy associations for most pupils. All classes up to and including Grade 9 had picnics or comparable events, thanks to parents or friends who have particularly pleasant grounds in or near Huntingdon. Grade 8 enjoyed a warm, sunny afternoon at the municipal park in Malone. Grade 9 took a long trip to the Granby Zoo.

The crowning social event of the year for Grades 10 and 11 will be the Graduation Dance to be held on Friday of this week. As last year, this dance will be semi-formal and marked by the beauty of the decorations and the graciousness of the proceedings.

Below is the 1956 list of promotions for each grade to the end of Grade 9. This year each class is listed separately and pupils who have attained outstanding results in the year's work are classed as honor pupils and listed alphabetically in their own distinctive groups. The other pupils who have completed successfully the work of the year are listed alphabetically in the second group for each grade.

Some pupils who have not attained the standard set by the Department of Education have been placed in the next higher grade at the discretion of the principal. This has occurred where the pupil's attainment is very close to the required standard and other considerations should be applied, where a pupil is significantly older than others in the class and is likely to derive more benefit from the succeeding grade, and where pupils have spent two years in the grade.

Examinations in Grades 10 and 11 are marked by the Quebec Department of Education and results will be announced about the end of July.

VETERAN SCHOOL TEACHER RETIRES

MRS. CHARLES CAMERON of Hemmingford, school teacher at St. Johns Quebec for the past eight years, has retired on pension.

Mrs. Cameron attended Huntingdon Academy, and graduated from the McGill Normal School in May, 1899. She taught at Shawville Que., for one year, and at Hemmingford until her marriage in 1904. As a farmers wife, full time attention to an eventual family of six children continued until the death of Mr. Cameron in 1936.

In 1941 she returned to teaching, and taught successively at Havelock, Rougemont, Terrebonne Heights, and St. Johns Que.

Mrs. Cameron sees quite a contrast between present and past teacher's salaries. In 1900 she received $7.00 a month, but paid only $6.00 a month for board and lodging. What teachers get now, is much more in dollars, as well as great improvement in equipment and working conditions.

A few years ago, at the age of 67, she went back to school as a pupil. This was MacDonald College, where she took a refresher course and passed with excellent marks.

A very interesting phase of her teaching career, was her evening classes for young Chinese boys for 5 years in St. Johns. These boys took a keen interest in the study of English and related subjects. Of course this worked both ways, and Mrs. Cameron has picked up quite a bit of Chinese. She was presented with several valuable presents by the School Board and pupils on leaving.

After a long life of teaching and other exacting duties, Mrs. Cameron will spend part of her time at the old homestead on the outskirts of Hemmingford, and part with relatives and friends in other sections of the country.

Rodeo Next Week At Ormstown

The Ormstown Exhibition Board is sponsoring The Cherokee Oklahoma Rodeo, at the Ormstown Fair Grounds, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, July 4th and 5th.

This show is a truly exciting wild west exhibition of skill in broncho bushing, steer wrestling, trick and fancy roping, Brahma bull riding, wild calf roping, trick and fancy riding. It is a type of enteralnment guaranteed to thrill and excite you with its mad daring. Keep the dates in the mind for an evening out for the family. Following the show there will be a dance in the Industrial Building on the grounds.

NEW BANK VAULT MORE BURGLAR PROOF

Besides building the Night Depository in the Canadian Bank of Commerce, a new vault has been built and is considerably enlarged. The vault in burglar proof and has the very finest of vault doors as seen in the top photograph. The lower photograph demonstrates that an oxy-acetylene torch cannot pierce the armour of the Chubb safe nor that of the Night Depository or the vault door. When the current building and modernization plan is completed, the Canadian Bank of Commerce will be able to offer the very best in banking and safekeeping of valuables and moneys.

Many Improvements Made At Somerville Park Beach

The teachers and pupils of the Dundee Consolidated School held a school closing picnic and outing at the Somerville Park on Friday, June 22nd. Several mothers of the pupils were invited to attend and as the day was ideal everyone enjoyed their trip to the Beach very much. The young fry as well as the teen agers swam and waded in the Lake to their hearts content. Races were held and prizes given to the winners of the events.

The Park and Beach area have been much improved during the past month. Due to high water conditions this spring some of the sand spread last year on the beach section was washed away and had to be renewed. The depth of the sand has been increased by several inches and everything about the place presents a much better appearance. People with small children find the area a wonderful place to take their young hopefuls, because of the safety factor of the shallow and gently sloping beach waters. A restaurant has made its appearance to cater to the needs of visitors who may want refreshments. The F. A. Tucker Construction Co. are busy at work constructing a high tension power line for the Shawinigan Water & Power Co. from their present line on the Sheard sideroad to the Park area and beyond to the Lakeshore. Several substantial summer homes have been erected on the Trepanier property already and more will be before the summer is over. All these will find the power line extension a great boon to their comfort and convenience. The Smellie and Hunter families have had camps for several years on the nearby lake front but depended on gas and engine power for their power household chores so will be much pleased to get all electric installations.

Time marches on and in keeping with the day and age at an increasing tempo but it is hard to realize as one stands at the Sheard hill and gazes towards the St. Lawrence that so much has taken place in the short space of one year. Across a boggy marsh more than a mile of roadway was built, a park and beach laid out and where once only a brushy knoll existed, a beautiful landscape has been created, the whole in such a short time as to be almost unbelievable. Now with the coming of the electric power the whole area will be a beehive of summer activity.

It is understood that in keeping with Mr. Somerville's promise last year when the park was laid out and constructed and after whom it was named the government intends to keep on making improvements to the beach facilities as time goes on. Those aaviling themselves of the use of the area find that it is without a doubt the only existing place where a lake outing may be taken at no cost and no questions asked as to the visitors intentions.

Graham Pitches No Hitter For Huntingdon

Bob Graham came up with the pitcher's dream on Sunday, at Cunningham's Field, when he set St. Regis Falls down without a hit or a run. The game was a 9 to 0 win for Huntingdon, but, all attention was on nineteen-year-old Bob Graham, who pitched the best game of his young career. Graham walked two men but was never in trouble at any time throughout the game. St. Regis Falls did not hit a ball that even came close to being a hit, and only 3 balls were hit out of the infield, all of which were short flys to right field.

Baldy Poupore led the team at bat, with 2 hits in 4 times at bat and 3 runs batted in. Jon Proudfoot batted in 2 runs, with a bases loaded single in the eighth inning.

Although Huntingdon only had 7 hits in the game, 8 St. Regis Falls errors gave them 6 unearned runs.

This Sunday, Huntingdon will travel to Lyon Mountain, where they will play the Miners who's only loss this season was their first game which was played in Huntingdon.

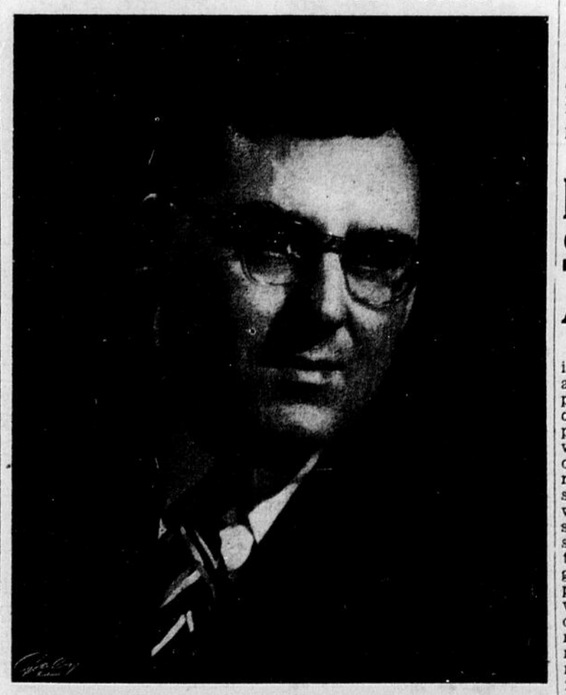
MANY UNSAFE

REGINA (CP) — Regina's "safety lane," where cars are stopped for spot checks on mechanical condition, in a single afternoon found 132 of 226 cars tested were defective. Twenty-eight returned after a few adjustments and were given "OK" stickers.

RE-ELECTED IN JUNE 20th VOTING



H. A. D. SOMERVILLE, M. P. P.

who was again the choice of the electors of Huntingdon County to represent this riding in the Quebec Provincial Legislature for the next four to five years. Mr. Somerville was the Union Nationale candidate and his party attained an even stronger representation than that formerly held.

Kindergarten Seems Assured

Plans for the Kindergarten in the Huntingdon High School are proceeding. Although the parents of several children see difficulties with conveyance, the parents of at least fifteen are very anxious that the class be organized and can make the necessary arrangements. They see the project as very well worth while in the knowledge, skills and habits which develop so rapidly among children of this age when they are in the group situation under kindly, professional supervision. Since very few more than twenty children can be easily accommodated and handled, the remaining four or five vacancies might well be filled in the near future.

All parents who have indicated that they would like to have their children in the kindergarten are being advised that the class will commence when other grades start in September.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor
Dear Sir:

I will commence my story by telling that my home is just across the street from the Protestant School in Lacolle. This morning, June 22nd., I sat at my window and watched the teachers and pupils hurrying around, getting everything ready before leaving for their school pic-nic, and what may be the last function in that old school house. A new school is being built, and may be ready for use in the autumn. I am reminded that it is 69 years since I left the same old school for the last time as its Principal Miss Featherston and I had no picnic; we just locked the door and left. I was quite happy; I had sent five of my girl pup'ls to Montreal, to write exams before the Protestant Board of Examiners. They had all passed and received Diplomas as teachers. Also, I was planning to be married during the coming winter. Two of those teachers are still with us; they are Mrs. Elizabeth Moore Cockburn, of Ottawa, and Mrs. Lilias Surprenant McGerrigle, of Montreal. Mrs. Nettie Van Vliet Allan, of Sherbrooke, passed away about a year ago. Another pupil was Miss Martha Moore of Lacolle. Because of being almost blind, she is living in a Home in Montreal. Three of my boy pupils too still remain. They are Dr. Charles Masten, of Thompson, Conn., Dr. John Schutt, of Bremerton, Washington, and Mr. Willie Elvidge, of Ormstown. Thirty-four names were on the school register, but they were not always all there at the same time.

The date of the building engraved in a stone over the doorway is 1853. It was built by an organization of men of the village and district, who were named "Sons of Temperance". They held their meetings there, and rented the building to the School Board. This was the procedure until only two of the original members were living. These two were, I think, Mr. George M. Van Vliet and Mr. Robert Outhet. They donated the building to the school board. It was originally an Academy, but is now an Elementary School. A few years ago a piece of land was purchased from Miss Daggett for a playground, swings and other things have been provided. Judging by the crowd which assemble, it is a popular place.

M. A. VAN VLIET.

Their many friends wish them the best of health and happiness in their well deserved retirement.

The Provincial Election Is Over

ONE more Provincial Election has come and gone and the position remains about the same. The Union Nationale Party of Mr. Maurice Duplessis has again won a sweeping victory and been returned to power with a larger number of seats that it had previously. The main opposition, the Liberal Party, has lost a few seats and thus is not in as good a position as it was in the last Legislature. The membership insofar as Chateauguay, Huntingdon and Beauharnois Counties goes, remains the same, all sitting members were returned by the electorates.

We do not attempt to predict the outcome of elections for they can be very misleading. For instance, according to the vigour put forth by the Liberal Party in this election, it would indicate that they would succeed in obtaining a few more of their candidates and thus gain a few more seats at least. However, as it turned out this was not so. Their strength had been overestimated and it is an evident disappointment to their Leader, Mr. George Lapalme, for he has hinted that he may resign the leadership. It looks very much as if, unless the Liberal Party in Quebec can find a very strong leader and a very attractive platform, that this Party will not succeed. Their opposition in the Legislature is going to be very weak and it is not likely it can fight many issues that may come up unless the public is aroused also. The Liberals, however, piled up a large vote despite the small number of candidates elected.

The Union Nationale Party while it has been in power as the Government has built up a strong and tangible list of accomplishments, the majority of which can be seen in most localities. Strong emphasis was made of these accomplishments during the election campaign and this no doubt helped to ensure its return to power.

There is probably much with which there is not complete agreement from time to time, but evidently the people of Quebec are not ready to make a change. This fact will give great confidence to the members of the Union Nationale Party who will form the Government. It should not cause over confidence, for this could lead to the undoing of the Party. The seat of any government in a democratic country is only secure as long as the people are truly satisfied. The public is quite fickle and easily displeased.

While the government will be very strong in the Legislature, it will be hoped that this will not lead to ignoring the opposition in matters of policy during the next four years. Despite the minority, the opposition may still be the restraining influence and rightly so.

The School Year Ends

ONCE again throughout this area and the Province, students at the various schools have completed that trying period of examinations and awaiting results. Some have already received their results and know the worst or whether success has attained their efforts. Others will have to wait patiently for at least another month until they get the results from the Quebec headquarters. For a few in each school, it means the end of their association with the school and they will either go out to higher education or will start out in some job which will be the beginning of their life's work.

For the latter it will be the beginning of a new experience, a new phase of life. It can be enjoyable or it can be otherwise, depending upon the attitude and the approach made. This applies both to those who may be going to college or university as well as to those who may be taking up any sort of position. This step is the one which is going to at least, partially decide which ladder will be taken toward success. The road leading toward the ladder and the upward climb will be arduous to say the least. Some may find the task too difficult, while others will forge ahead. Success does not come to all in great measure, but all should attain a certain measure of it. Success in college or university means at least attaining a sufficient mark to go ahead with a chosen pursuit. Success in a position means winning promotion by ability to overcome the difficulties in the path and being able to create confidence between person and employer. All means a job well and truly done. To some people, success is measured in how much money can be earned or accumulated in a given period, but this is not always the criterion. Success can sometimes be small and insignificant as far as others are concerned, but vitally important to the person involved. It can come about as the result of a task well and truly done, the aftermath of completing some very difficult assignment, or a number of various accomplishments. Success is oftentimes confused with fame, which is entirely different and something which only comes to the few. Success usually comes about through hard work and adherence to a program.

To those students everywhere in the Beauharnois District, who will be starting on this new phase of life, we extend best wishes for your success in whatever undertaking you have chosen. You have attained your graduation by years of work and patience, carry on in the same way by dint of perseverance, success will crown your efforts. To those who will be returning to their same schools in September, we say happy holiday.

Russia May Be Able to Surprise Us

OF late there have been occasions of surprise with regard to the equipment which Russia has been able to show off. On the occasion of the visit of Russians to Great Britain, two pieces of war equipment brought forth murmurs of surprise—the Jet-engined cabin plane and a new type of warship. Now Western officials have viewed an air display which has again brought forth surprises—this time a delta wing jet.

This latter could easily be the answer to those flying saucers we used to hear so much about. According to observers, the delta wing jet is still in the experimental stage and it could easily have been far different before it reached its present stage, or it may be a cover up for something which is still in the making. Russia has been very smug for the past while and it is certainly not because she has given up any of her ideas and is truly seeking peace. It is probably because she feels secure in the weapons she has and she may even feel superior to us in equipment. It was hinted that she may even have an atomic powered bomber in a very short while.

We have been wondering about this sudden change of attitude on the part of Russia for a long time now. In view of these recent happenings and the fact that she has allowed a view of this equipment, we feel that she wants the world to know that she has some outstanding equipment and that she may have more hidden out of sight. We should never lose sight of the fact that Russia captured some of Germany's top flight scientists and that she forced them to work in her interests. This new equipment is probably the results of the brains of these men and who knows how much more may be in the offing.

It would be a clever move on the part of Russia to take our minds off war machines by signs of peaceful gestures which cost her nothing. All the time she is secretly piling up more and more weapons against a time when she is ready to suddenly launch them. Such would be another occasion for surprise. All military strategists will agree that the element of surprise is more than half of any great battle. Suddenness of attack with something never before coped with, could cause disruption which would be very hard to recover from.

There is still need to seek deeper than face value where Russia is concerned. When there is change in attitude start looking underneath for the real reason, it may not be that which is offered on the surface. Let us therefore be prepared for what might happen and not leave any possibility to chance.

Fight Against Cancer

CANCER kills an average of 55 Canadians daily — almost seven time the rate of death in the country's auto accidents.

A group of Canadian scientists have been meeting at Honey Harbor, Ont., on Georgian Bay, to pool the knowledge they have gleaned in the war on cancer. The results of their meeting may speed up the unravelling of cancer's mystery — why it begins and how it may be destroyed.

Score of researchers are working in this country to add to the knowledge man has about the disease. They work sometimes thousands of miles apart in diverse fields. Some specialize in the chemistry of the body cells, some study the effect of radiation on cancer, others are looking for the possible role of viruses in cancer.

The Honey Harbor meeting brought these researchers together and enabled some of them to gain access to research material which they would have needed a year to obtain had they depended on medical literature.

The importance of their talks and panel discussion stems from the fact that some glimmer of light shed on the problem by one scientist may stimulate research by others along new lines.

It was the second such conference to be held under sponsorship of the National Cancer Institute of Canada. Chief function of the NCI is to sponsor cancer research in this country. This year, it is spending more than $500,000 in the war on cancer through research grants and fellowships.

So successful was the first cancer conference held at Honey Harbor in 1954, that the 415-page record of the discussions has become a standard work on cancer research throughout the world.

While the total amount spent in all Canada on cancer research is less than the expenditure of one of the big research institutes in the United States, the work of Canadians looms large in the world-wide research picture.

After two scientists from the University of Western Ontario, Dr. Murray L. Barr and Dr. Keith L. Moore, told the conference of their study of body cells, a prominent British scientist paid a tribute to them. Dr. A. Haddow, a leading specialist from the Royal Cancer Hospital in London, said their paper alone made his trip from Britain worth while.

The Problem of Cyprus

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

What do the people of Cyprus expect to gain by a withdrawal of the British from that island and their union with Greece?

That is a question to which I have yet to find a sensible answer. After studying the long history of Cyprus and particularly the recent history and present political, social and economic conditions of Greece, it seems to me that the Greek Cypriots have everything to lose by what they call "independence" and "union." In the first place, Greece itself has no real independence or national unity. Before the Second World War, Greece was in a constant state of political upheaval, and after that war the Greeks were engaged in a civil war while the British were trying to re-establish government and redeem the country from famine and bankruptcy.

Even when the United States assumed that job under the Truman Doctrine, guerrilla war continued in the mountains for three years until General Van Fleet took over military control and brought the civil war to an end. The rebels, who were communists, fled over the frontiers into Albania and Bulgaria where they had been encouraged and armed by Soviet Russia. Since then the United States has poured millions of dollars and goods into Greece and the country is still virtually under American occupation. To that extent Greece is no more independent than the island of Cyprus, so what have the Cypriots to gain by the desertion of their island by the British? If they had been united to Greece in the last world war they would have looked in vain to the mainland for protection. They should be grateful that they were and still are a fortified British colony, none of which suffered invasion in the two world wars. Greece itself owes its national independence to the British strongholds of Cyprus, Malta and Gibraltar, which are the guardians of the freedom of the Mediterranean.

As for the Greek claim to Cyprus, it is without foundation. Historically the island has never been a possession of any Greek state except for eight centuries when it was a part of the Byzanti Empire which covered all Mediterranean countries. The Byzanti period was followed by two centuries under the Lusignans, nearly a century under the Venetians (1489-1571), and from 1571-18878 the island was under Turkish rule.

Cyprus was transferred to British occupation and administration while part of the Ottoman Empire, under the Anglo- Turkish Convention of 1878. By this Convention Britain undertook to defend Turkey against Russian aggression. A careful examination had been made of all possible bases for defensive action, and it was decided than Cyprus was the best, not only for the defence of Turkey but also of British communications with India through the Suez Canal, which Russia was managing at that time. It was not until the declaration of war between Britain and Turkey in 1914 that Cyprus was formally annexed by Britain, and it did not become a crown colony till 1925.

The present agitation for union with Greece is an old story, and its recent revived additional strength as a result of a change in the policy of the Communist Party, which abandoned its demand for self-government and began to support union with Greece instead. This Russian interest in the question did not ease matters, and in reply to a parliamentary question on January 21, 1950, the British Colonial Office stated that "no charge in the sovereignty of the island was contemplated." In April of the same year Turkey submitted a memorandum to the United Nations demanding that if Britain "abandoned" Cyprus, it should be returned to Turkey. The Greek Cypriots themselves may well ask what would have to gain if Britain abandoned them to the Turks and an eventual occupation by Communist Russia.

Looking Back Along the Trail

Editor's note: The following is a continuation of excerpts taken from book "Transactions of the N.Y. State Agricultural Society" 1848. Much of what is contained here is part of Canadian early history.

First French war. Saratoga burnt and its inhabitants massacred. The first French war now (1744) commenced. It found the province quite unprepared for hostilities. At the north both fort Ann and fort Nicholson were wholly dilapidated, and although successive governors had repeatedly urged upon the assembly the erection of a new fort on the northern frontier their recommendations had been entirely unheeded. Some attention appears to have been given towards keeping the fort at Saratoga in repair, and on the first intelligence of the outbreak of hostilities, a detachment of troops was forwarded to garrison this post. In the following year colonel Philip Schuyler and major Collins were employed by the government to erect six block-houses here. This was a work of much peril, as Indians were constantly lurking in the woods, to cut off every person found apart from his comrades. The house of Colonel Lydius, at Fort Nicholson, was captured and burnt, and his son was taken prisoner and carried to Canada. Finally a descent was made upon Saratoga, on the 16th of November 1745. The artifice practiced upon the garrison at the fort, probably at this time, is thus related by Kalm:

"A party of French, with their Indians, concealed themselves by night in a thicket near the fort. In the morning, some of their Indians, as they had previously resolved, went to have a nearer view of the fort. The English fired upon them as soon as they saw them at a distance; the Indians pretended to be wounded, fell down, got up again, ran a little way and dropped again. About half the garrison rushed out to take them prisoners, but as soon as they were come up with them the French and the remaining Indians came out of the bushes betwixt, the fortress and the English, surrounded them and took them prisoners. Those who remained in the fort had hardly time to shut the gates, nor could they fire upon the enemy, because they equally exposed their countrymen to danger, and they were vexed to see their enemies take and carry them off in their sight and under their cannon." The saw mills and other buildings on the opposite side of the river, upon Fish creek, were also taken and burnt, as were other dwellings scattered along the river, below here. Of about thirty families residing here and in this vicinity, the most were massacred, (Hoyt'd Indian Wars) and others were carried into captivity. Among the slain was a brother of Colonel Schuyler.

After this foray, those engaged in erecting the block houses abandoned them, not daring to continue their labors amid such perils. And the garrison, disheartened and chagrined by the artful trick that had been so successfully played upon them, set fire to the fort, and withdrew to Albany. The place being thus abandoned the enemy soon after revisited it, and completed its destruction by burning the unfinished block houses. The settlements at Hoosic, Schaghticoke and Stillwater, were now so exposed and menaced with danger, that they were deserted by their inhabitants, and thus the whole country was open and unguarded, down to the very city of Albany. The celebrated Mohawk sachem, Hendrick, in one of his speeches at a council in Albany alludes in a caustic manner to these incidents, and the condition of the province at this time. After speaking of his having been discouraged by the English from an attempt to capture Crown Point, which the Indians were meditating, he says: "Instead of this you burn your own fort at Saraghtogee, and ran away from it, which was a shame and a scandal to you. Look about your country, and see you have no fortifications about you, no, not even to this city. 'Tis but one step from Canada hither, and the French may easily come and turn you out of doors."

Beyond these events, little of interest occurred in this vicinity during the remainder of this war. The old fort at Saratoga was never rebuilt, its site having been illy chosen. The mouth of Fish creek, and the island in the river furnished much more defensive situations for military works. Block-houses were accordingly here erected, and a garrison was maintained in them most of the time while the war continued. The building of the two forts at the great carrying place was also contemplated, but was not carried into execution till a later period.

Railway Straight Jacket

Whether we like it or not, warns The Financial Post, pretty soon we are going to be forced to take a new and a hard and a long look at this whole railway business. We're simply not going to be able to continue passing increased costs along.

Long ago, the railways discovered that there is a limit as to what the consumer will pay for moving freight by rail. Already a lot of stuff that used to be moved entirely by rail now goes by truck or ship or through a pipeline. And the higher rail freight rates are hoisted the more business will go to competitors.

The railways know all about this but under the present setup they can't do much about it. They are not free agents, not by any means. In effect they are told what they must pay for labor and their freight rates, minimum and maximum, are controlled by a government board. Some of them in fact, like gain, are controlled by a rigid agreement that goes back to our grandfathers' time, when wages were a fraction of those that must be paid today and when the cost of a whole train was little more what a good box car costs now.

Times have changed and changed greatly in the railway business. Once these carriers had almost an absolute monopoly of the transportation business. They haven't anything like a monopoly today. But we are still trying to run the railways in the same old straight-jacket of 25 or 50 years ago. We can't continued to much longer.

Constable Fear Warns Motorists

"Today there is an unfortunate lack of smypathetic understanding between the average motorist and the traffic officer," states Constable Ralph Fear in an article on safe driving written especially for the current issue of Health Magazine, official publication of the Health League of Canada.

"Every law and by-law enforced is passed with the protection of the majority in view. Consequently, when some member of the minority has his "toes stepped on," his right to express his views of any judicial body is immediately exercised." If this motorist had been made acquainted with the potential damage or injury his untoward action might have caused, he would be mollified, if not altogether reconciled.

"There is a tendency to view our own infractions with a very tolerant eye. Why, I was hardly moving when I went through that stop street!" When we are in charge of three thousand pounds of mental, and braking surface is limited to four rubber tires with road contact of less than six inches, it is criminal the chances we are apt to take.

The pedestrian feels a false sense of security while walking through an intersection "protected" by stop streets. Children are told to look both ways, etc., before crossing, but again they over-rely on protection afforded by the signs. It means that accidents and injuries are caused repeatedly by the "almost stops."

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's gross national product — the value of all goods and services — is mounting at a record annual rate of $28,332,000,000.

That figure, a rise of six per cent over the 1955 average of $26,769,000,000, was indicated in the first three months of the year as the country's economy continued to spiral.

Meanwhile, in the January-March period Canadians saved slightly less than in the corresponding period last year, but earned and spent more.

Higher Tax Yield

The swelling economy may mean a higher tax yield and consequently a larger budgetary surplus than the anticipated $113,000,000 forecast in Finance Minister Harris' budget for 1956-57.

In turn, a large surplus undoubtedly will mean tax cuts for 1957, generally regarded as a federal election year.

In the first three months of the year, labor income rose to an annual rate of $13,440,000,000, an increase from the 1955 average of $12,810,000,000 and the $12,240,000,000 in the first quarter of last year.

The net national income rose to $21,760,000,000 from last year's first quarter of $19,468,000,000. Personal direct taxes increased to an annual rate of $1,616,000,000, up from $1,464,000,000 in the first quarter of 1955.

Turn to Defence

The Commons turned to a debate on the government's defence policies.

Defence Minister Campney launched the debate on his 1956-57 estimates of about $1,775,000,000 with an announcement the RCAF will increase to 12 from nine the number of CF-100 jet interceptor squadrons in the home air defence command. There also is an air division of 12 squadrons serving with NATO forces in Europe.

To provide a reserve of jet fighters, six of the 10 auxiliary fighter squadrons — two each at Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver — will be equipped with Sabres. The other four will get new jobs.

Officials estimated it will take about a year to form the new jet fighter squadrons for the air defence command.

Outlines New Look

Mr. Campney also sketched a "new look" for the army to train and equip it more and more as an air-portable force. It was intended to form a third armored regiment, thus enabling the three infantry brigades of the 1st division to operate independently.

The navy was pushing ahead as rapidly as possible the fleet's anti-submarine capabilities, with the defence research board in the final stages of the development of new sub-detection equipment.

As the debate advanced, Opposition leader Drew demanded that the government establish immediately a Commons defence committee to investigate charges by Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, former army chief of staff, against the defence department.

The charges were in a recent magazine (Maclean's) article written by Gen. Simonds.

Library Open Again

The parliamentary library is open again for business, brighter than ever with a fresh scrubbed look.

It was re-opened by Governor-General Massey following a $2,400,000 renovation job to eliminate the scars left on its 80-year-old gothic frame in 1952 by a fire that damaged thousands of the 500,000 volumes.

The library, one of the original parliament buildings to survive the great fire of 1916 that destroyed the centre block, now has fluorescent lighting, air conditioning and an automatic fire alarm.

The inlaid floor of oak, cherry and walnut is brighter from refurbishing and doesn't creak anymore. The Ontario pine panelling around the circular walls remains unchanged.

Mr. Massey, in a brief ceremony leading up to the opening, said the library is not what modern architects would build. It was not streamlined or functional and had no new look, but it did have a "very good old look".

Butter For Sale

The government has placed on the retail market some 25,000,000 pounds of surplus storage butter from the 1955 production at two cents less a pound than the 58-cent support price it paid dairy farmers.

The disposal reduces the government-held surplus by about half at a cost to the federal treasury of $1,250,000, including the storage and handling costs incurred while the butter was in storage.

Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, said in the Commons the reduction in price was necessary to allow retailers to package the storage butter and still meet current competitive prices for 1956 butter.

He said he hopes the two-cent reduction will be passed on to consumers but gave no clear reply to questions as to whether 1955 butter will be so marked on retailers' packages. There was some difference between storage and fresh butter.

Freight Rates Up

Freight rates will rise by seven per cent July 3, a move that is to bring the railways an estimated $7,500,000 in the four months of July to October. There are indications that the railways may get another boost towards meeting their original request of a 15-per-cent increase.

The recent rates increase, authorized by the Board of Transport Commissioners, was described by the board as an "irreducible minimum" which still would not enable the railways to recoup all of the wages increases granted or under negotiation with their employees.

Obituary

THE LATE MABEL LECAIRE McNAUGHTON

The community mourns the death of a lifelong citizen in the passing of Mabel LeClaire McNaughton at the home of her sister, Mrs. James M. Harrison, in Montreal on Tuesday, June 12.

Mrs. McNaughton was born at Ormstown, where she was educated at the local Academy. She early became interested in music which proved to be one of her favorite avocations. Later she was appointed organist and choir director of St. James' Anglican Church, a position she held for some twenty-five years.

Always active in church organizations, she was for several years President of the St. James' Women's Auxiliary which honored her with a Life Membership several years ago. Possessing a warmly congenial personality, she made her home a centre of hospitality which will be missed by a host of friends.

The funeral was held at the William Wray Chapel in Montreal on Thursday, June 14. Interment was the family plot in the St. James' Anglican Cemetery at Ormstown.

Her husband, Malcolm Daniel McNaughton, pre-deceased her three years ago. A younger brothr, Dufferin LeClaire, was a recent tragic victim of a highway accident. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. James M. Harrison, and a brother, Dr. Gordon LeClaire, both of Montreal, as well as by several nieces and nephows to whom the sympathy of all is extended.

"Death is not extinguishing the flame of life, but merely putting out the lamp because the dawn has come".

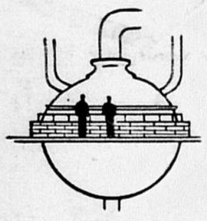
Announcing the NEW

CROWN & ANCHOR Lager Beer

Now milder, smoother, lighter to the taste...
sparkling clear and brilliant to the eye!



Here in the BREW KETTLE a difference is created

You've been looking for the ideal lager beer . . . one without a hint of bitterness, sting, or over-sweetness.

Take one sip of the new Crown & Anchor. After just that one sip you'll want to know why it tastes milder (not bitter), smoother (not sharp), lighter (not heavy-sweet). And as your pleased glance falls upon the glass, you'll want to know why the bubbles shine so brilliantly in this clear, sparkling brew.

Here are the why's . . . 1. Because a new pure yeast strain — imported from Copenhagen — has been introduced into the fermenter to make the beer more mellow. 2. Because the ageing period has been lengthened. 3. Because the Molson's brewmasters have developed just a slight variation in the proportions of malt, hops and other ingredients that go into the brew kettle — and it has made an important difference. 4. Because subtle changes — just a few vital minutes—have been made in the timing of the brewing processes. 5. Because this new brew is forced through thousands of layers of filtering material to remove any haze and impart a brilliance to the finished product.

All slight...all seemingly "un-world-shaking"—but together these refinements have produced Molson's new Crown & Anchor, a truly tasty lager beer.

Here in the FERMENTER a difference is created

Tested by trained palates and plain people... both say new Crown & Anchor tastes best!

The new Crown & Anchor was first submitted to a panel of trained beer tasters. These trained testers sipped from an unidentified glass of new Crown & Anchor . . . then from unidentified glasses of other popular lagers.

These trained palates gave the new Crown & Anchor higher marks than any other lager for mildness, smoothness and lightness of taste. And trained eyes gave new Crown & Anchor the highest marks for clarity and brilliance.

Then bottles of the new Crown & Anchor and bottles of the next most popular lager — both identified only by numbers — were left in thousands of homes throughout Quebec. Interviewers called later to get these ordinary consumers' opinions. Here's what they found . . .

Everywhere, new Crown & Anchor was preferred by a majority of all lager consumers.

Like the trained experts, these average consumers preferred Molson's new Crown & Anchor for its mildness, smoothness, lightness of taste . . . for its sparkling brilliance and clarity.

St. Lukes' W. A. met on Wednesday afternoon June 15th in the Forrest Figsby Memorial Hall. The President Mrs. Robert Hadley called the meeting to order and Rev. Andrew's opened with prayer. During the afternoon the ladies worked on a quilt and made several quilt blocks. Considerable discussion followed on the forthcoming street fair which was planned for the second Friday evening in July. It was decided to have a "bee" to clean the hall, before this event. As Rev. and Mrs. Andrew's are leaving this parish soon Mr. Andrew's gave a short farewell address. Mrs. Andrew's and her mother Mrs. Gibney were each presented with a gift from the members. Mrs. Denman and Mrs. Bartlett served refreshments and a social time was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Edwards and two small sons Gordon and Gregg of Covey Hill were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Aylmer Hadley and family.

Mrs. Jessie H. Cookman accompanied her brother and sister, Mr. W. C. Elvidge and Mrs. Geo. E. Cottingham of Ormstown to Waterbury, Vermont, where they spent the week-end.

On Friday evening June 15th the Young Peoples Society held a dance in Forrest Figsby Memorial Hall with Rufus Fisher's Orchestra supplying the music. Needless to say that the Young Peoples were disappointed that there was a very small crowd.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pelletier and three children, Carol, Freddie and Valerie spent the week-end with Mrs. Pelletier's parents Mr. and Mrs. W. Morgan in Merrickville, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Cambell and two children of N.D.G. spent the week-end with Mrs. Cambell's parents Mr. and Mrs. R. J. M. Reid.

Mr. Allan Brown has been a patient in the Barrie Memorial Hospital having an appendix operation last week. Pleased to report he is recovering nicely.

Grades 1-6 inclusive of the Hemmingford High School were treated by their teachers on Friday afternoon as it was the last day of school; they also received their reports. Grades 7-11 started their examinations on Monday morning. We wish the scholars every success.

The June Meeting of the St. Andrew's Women's Association was held in the Church Hall on Tuesday June 12th. There was a good attendance of members and guests from Champlain N.Y., Covey Hill and the Anglican W.A. Mrs. Harry Warner read the Scripture. Mrs. L. Cookman presided over the business meeting. Plans were discussed for the annual Strawberry Social. The Manse committee reported that the redecoration of the Manse was progressing favorably. The guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Watson of Champlain N.Y. Her theme of "Fellowship" was discussed most ably and presented a very interesting manner. Mrs. Fred Orr, thanked Mrs. Watson. The gathering was also favored with two duets "Whispering Hope" and "Jacob's Ladder" sung by Mrs. Keith Edwards and Mrs. Peter Pedersen. Later Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Peter Reid sang together "Now is the Hour". Mrs. Halton Kennedy was the accompanist for the musical selections. On behalf of the Association, Mrs. L. Cookman, presented Mrs. Ross Brown, a departing member with a gift of china.

A cow's best friend

Any self-respecting cow likes to know that the precious food product she supplies is handled with greatest care so it will reach her customers fresh and pure.

From the dairy farm to your doorstep, aluminum is aiding the hygienic handling and processing of dairy products. Milk pails, cans and churns . . . tank trucks and dairy equipment . . . hoods for milk bottles and foil for butter and cheese . . . all are of aluminum. This modern metal's smooth surface prevents contamination, is easily kept shiny-clean. And it does not "pick up" foreign flavors or odors. As one European authority has said, aluminum and milk are made for each other.

"Cinerama Holiday" Invites You On A Two Continent Tour

If you're one of those people — and who isn't — who glance yearningly at the cruise fashions in department store windows, and sigh over the travel ads in the Sunday papers, here's good news for you. You're going abroad.

When you see Louis de Rochemont's new production, "Cinerama Holiday" which is now showing at Montreal's Imperial Theatre, you will find yourself flown to Europe where you will take part in a breathless adventure that will open the four magic doors of Paris, the doors marked for Parisian, tourist, artist and lover. What's more, you will also take a ride in a jet plane, make a whirlwind tour of America's New Orleans, San Francisco, Arizona and New York.

This is only a smattering of the future in store for "Cinerama Holiday" audiences who, if they choose, can embark on the most unusual expeditions ever undertaken since Prince Housain sailed off on his legendary magic carpet. In this case the magic is supplied by Cinerama, the new movie medium that employs a three-eyed camera, a seven-voiced sound-track and a huge enveloping screen to achieve its embracing effect. The result is to put its audiences "in the picture", making them actual participants in the action on the screen.

Cinerama's second picture, titled "Cinerama Holiday", records the adventure of two young couples — one American, the Marshes, one Swiss, the Trellers — who change places and discover the beauty and excitement on each other's continent.

But the real star of "Cinerama Holiday" is none of these young people. It's you! Because of Cinerama's ability to make every member of its audience believe that what is happening on the screen is happening to them personally, the adventures that befall the Marshes and Trollers in the course of "Cinerama Holiday" will be experienced by everyone who sees the picture.

So get ready for the tour of your life. You don't need to worry about packing. You won't need a passport, visa or any immunization shots. Just set your eyes on the enormous, embracing screen, at the Imperial Theatre in Montreal — and "Cinerama Holiday" will take care of the rest, for you and for your entire family.

In other words, it's worth a trip to Montreal because it's every holiday you ever dreamed of . . . come true!

Canadian Garden Hints

Still Lots of Time

After the kind of winter we have had in most of Canada this year, there is a strong and natural temptation once the weather really turns warm to get out and garden too fast. This urge should be resisted. It is all very well to get some flowers and vegetables planted extra early and of course the sooner nursery stock and grass seed are in the better. But with a great many flowers and vegetables and in all but the farthest north parts of the country, one should plant gradually.

Experienced gardeners who want to get the most out of their vegetables and the longest display of bloom from their flowers make a regular practice of sowing at least two or three times. In vegetables for instance they will only use up a third or quarter of their seed and garden space the first week-end, then 10 days or two weeks later make another planting and 10 days later again another. With such quick growing things as beans, carrots, lettuce and beets, they make regular plantings right up to mid-July. In this way the harvest is spread over months instead of days.

Speeding A Late Start

Even if fishing, golf or other business, or perhaps the weather, have prevented us from getting a spade in the ground yet, there is still plenty of time to have a fine garden. The great bulk of the growth in Canada takes place in June anyhow and it is amazing how fast things will come along now that the days are longest.

Of course, for these late starts, one chooses quick growing and early maturing flowers and vegetables, and so hurry things along, one can use also well started plants in both lines.

To make sure of success, it is an excellent idea to cultivate thoroughly and often, water when necessary, and use a little quick acting fertilizer.

Thinning and Transplanting

It is good practice to plant enough seed to insure an abundance of plants, but it is very bad practice to allow all those plants to continue to grow in competition with each other. The more tightly crowded the plants the less vigor any one of them can maintain. Shortly after the seedlings have shown their first set of true leaves and before crowding becomes critical take out the excess plants in both the flower and vegetable garden. If you have need for them elsewhere in the garden these thinnings can be transplanted readily at this stage. For flowers that grow to a relatively low height like Alyssum, Dwarf Marigold, African Daisy, Wallflowers or Lobella you should leave only a few inches space between plants in the row. Three to six inches is enough, depending on whether you want a solid border or individually rounded plants. With larger flowers like Zinnias, Asters, tall Marigold, Petunias, Dahlias, Cosmos or Snapdragons there should be a minimum of a foot between plants. Really big annuals like Sunflowers and Tithonia should have at least two feet space between.

Don't Wait For Damage

The time to kill insect pests is when you first see them, not after they have severely injured the plants. Watch for abnormal growth, particularly at the tips of branches, or for partly eaten leaves. At the first sign of damage, spray or dust the whole area. Killing the insects prevents their multiplying into large populations and it keeps plants growing unchecked and unmarred.

IT'S TOUGH TO BE A VANCOUVER FIREMAN

VANCOUVER (CP) — It takes four years and a list of 20 personal rules to become a Vancouver fireman. But officials say when he is finished, he's the best there is.

The cardinal rule is the protection of lives and property. He must be strong physically and mentally. He must under no circumstances become nervous and he must abide by the regulations or pay the penalties.

One of the most important rules of all is that he must have no domestic troubles. Officials believe that a fireman cannot do his best if he is worried about his home life.

COST OF UPKEEP

VANCOUVER (CP) — Refurbishing schools for the new term in September will cost Vancouver school board a record total of more than $400,000. Painting alone is estimated at more than $100,000.

Round Byre AND Ring

By Frank Napier

A Poser

The above is part of the title of an article which appeared in the June 2 issue of Farming News and N.B.A. of Scotland. The full title being, in large type, "A Poser: Do Cows Sleep?" The sub- title being "Don't Answer Half-Awake! — Advises Eric Baird."

When we read the first part of the sub-title and the opening sentence we were of the opinion that it was just another humourous skit on the "auld-coo". That sentence reads: "The burning problem in dairy farming, dare I claim, is not the outcome of the Price Review, or whether we must have basic quotas of milk output, it is a searching question: Do Cows Sleep?"

Byreman says "No"

However as our reading advanced and despite the humourous interludes and asides, so to speak of the author, we learned that he was really discussing a subject about which a considerable number of outstanding Animal Husbandry Professors and others have varying views.

Says Eric Baird: "Ask any byreman and he will assure you that cows never sleep at nights — or during the day for that matter.

"After several years as an underpaid slave to the dairy cow, I must admit that I have never caught one napping even on the midnight round of the byre. Yet, it now seems that we might have been mismanaging things all these years — perhaps we've allowed them to suffer from insomnia quite unconsciously."

Not a New Question

"The question is probably not a new one, but admit it now— you've never thought about it before." Writes Eric Baird, and continues: "Now an American contemporary has started to probe the kye's (cow's) night life and it is mighty interesting too. The old yard and parlour system controversy might even be resolved because it is found that cows prefer liberty for sleep-walking which they can't very well do chained in the byre."

Cud-Chewers Never Sleep

Eric Baird then goes on to say: "Hear first what Melvin Scholl's views are on the matter. He says (writing in Hoard's Dairyman): 'All cud-chewing animals, including the cow, sheep, goat and camel, rest but never actually sleep'. That seems fairly conclusive but it appears he was immediately taken to task for it. Cows for instance are said to lie resting and even though their eyes are open they are, what might be called, in a sleep."

Eric Baird then quotes two others. One, whose opinion is that, "a cow actually sleeps for one or more periods in 24 hours. She has shorter alternating periods of rest and activity during the day-light hours, but one long rest period at night. It is not necessary for a cow to close her eyes while she is asleep".

The other, a man who shows cattle all over the country, suggests that, "saying cattle never sleep is a bit strong. He gets his beasts so tired in transit that they sprawl as if either in a trance or so sound asleep that it is sometimes difficult to arouse them for the next show — but they don't actually sleep the way a cow should normally do."

Does She Snore?

"Now one British Experimental Station has collected," says Eric Baird, "complete answers to all that a cow does during the daytime — even how many miles she walks — but does she snore at nights? Our research is seriously lacking in this important respect, Mr. Scholl reports that cows rest at noon and resume grazing for most of the afternoon until dusk. Very soon after dusk they bed down and appear to sleep. During this time you can approach an animal rather closely without its being aware of your presence — but not for many seconds."

Can All Agree

"We can all agree", continues Eric Baird, "that we have seen cows resting with their head down and eyes closed — as if they were asleep. But only for a minute and then they are suddenly chewing the cud again. And, come to think of it, even with modern mass production, shift work at all hours of day and night, three or even four times milking and so on, I've never seen anyone waken a cow to milk her. Even at dairy shows when two-legged visitors — and Pressmen — are fit to drop, the leading ladies in their stalls are still perky for their public."

Mr. Baird then goes on to quote other opinions, including Dr. M. E. Castle of the Hannah Dairy Research Institute: "I am of the firm opinion that cows don't sleep. We have spent hundreds of hours watching both lactating and dry cows and none were caught sleeping."

Professor D. S. Hendrie, Principal of the West of Scotland Agricultural College: "Undoubtedly it has been proven that they do sleep. But then of course there might be a difference between dozing and sleeping."

Robin Dunlop, Midkelton, Castle Douglas, a noted Ayrshire cattle breeder: "Yes certainly cows sleep and I have noticed them at all times of the day and night — but I can't tell you for sure whether they dream or not."

Sum Total

After quoting various other authorities, etc., pro and con, Eric Baird concludes with:

"The sum total of all evidence obtained so far suggests cows may sleep but if they don't actually comatose, then they undoubtedly doze with an uneasy conscience. To my mind that must be the reason for the somewhat melancholic expression on the bovine face. Queys (heifers) develop it after their first lactation due to insomnia — after all a lifetime with no real 'shuteye' must show up somewhere.

"Dairymen must in future become practising hypnotists, purely in the interest of animal welfare. If they could give the old coo a night off on a rota basis it might be the answer to the industry's prayer for a six-day week. And perhaps this will also be the most satisfactory of all solutions to the milk quota problem."

What About The Canadian Cow?

Mr. Baird has of course only quoted United States and Scottish authorities and with reference to the cows of these two countries. We are therefore now wondering whether Canadian livestockmen are of the same opinion as are those two countries. Whether the Canadian cow takes time off to sleep —from her food swallowing and subsequent cud-chewing. We will therefore be glad to hear from anyone who has definite opinions as to whether a Canadian cow sleeps, drowses or doesn't sleep at all.

Plans are now being completed for the addition of six new classrooms to Julius Richardson School, which will make it possible for the school to continue serving the rapidly expanding community.

Letter to the Editor

Huntingdon, Que.,
June 26th, 1956.

Huntingdon Gleaner Inc.,
Huntingdon, Que.

Dear Sir,

Do we need a Kindergarter in the Huntingdon High School as much as we need graduates from Grade XI?

Already we have many children in the Junior grades and nine teachers ably ministering to them.

In the higher grades we have an alarming dropping out of students, either quitting altogether or going elsewhere to finish school. What is wrong? Are the children of to-day less bright or ambitious than those of other years who became our doctors, dentists, lawyers teachers, farmers or tradesmen?

Are the teachers less patient with those who find certain subjects very difficult?

Is the high school from Grade VIII on adequately staffed?

One would feel the Board of Commissioners should be urged to study the problem there, than to be seeking a means to get children to school a year earlier.

The beginners are plentiful, but the graduates are few. Why?

Yours Truly,
Interested Parent

Canadian Legion Branch 108, Chateauguay

Legionnaires of Branch 108 held Open House on Saturday, June 23rd, to welcome 16 new members and prospective members into the Branch. About one hundred members and friends were present on this occasion, who greatly enjoyed the fun and entertainment provided. On the same day Caughnawaga Branch, 219, celebrated the official opening of their new Legion Hall. Guests from other branches in Chateauguay district were present.

St. George's Anglican Church

The Annual Sunday School picnic of St. George's Church, Chateauguay, and Holy Trinity Church, Beauharnois, took place on Saturday, June 23rd. The spot chosen this year was Bison's Point, and the participants from both churches travelled there in buses and private cars. After lunch, races were run, and games played, and thank to a cool, pleasant day, no one was too fatigued to have a very good time. The picnic was voted a great success by all attending.

Cars Collide on Tracks

An accident which could have had tragic consequences occurred on Saturday, June 16th on the Railway crossing at Chateauguay Basin. Two cars, one driven by Mr. Champion of Chateauguay Heights, and the other driven by Totunov Christo of Chateauguay Basin, collided on the tracks a few minutes before the Malone train was due. Fortunately, neither of the occupants was hurt, and the cars were manhandled off the tracks in time for the train to pass through. Damage to Mr. Christo's car amounted to $125, and that to Mr. Champion's car was in the region of $50.

The police were called at 1.15 a.m., on Saturday, June 23rd to the corner of Dupont and Caughnawaga Road where three boys aged between 14 and 16 years were noticed around a parked car. On the arrival of the police the boys ran away, and the car was found to be one that had been stolen in Montreal. Provincial Police were called in to help in the investigation.

The home of Mr. S. H. Moisam, on the Lakeshore Road, was broken into sometime between the 18th and the 21st of June. An entrance was forced, and doors and windows were wantonly smashed. Property to the value of $400 was stolen, including an antique cup of great value.

On Sunday, June 24th, William Montour, a resident of Caughnawaga was arrested in Chateauguay for driving his car without license plates, registration or license.

Election day was very quiet in Chateauguay, with no disturbances.

The numbers of voters exercising their franchise in Chateauguay Heights constituted a record — 90% of voters went to the polls.

Rosario Dubuc, 43, of Chateauguay, died in Verdun General Hospital on Sunday from injuries received June 20. The victim was working in a warehouse at Chateauguay when a bag of cement fell from a pile and struck his head.

Fifth Textile Seminar Tends To Improve Product Quality

KINGSTON, ONT. — More than 350 textile scientists from Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom, gathered at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., early this week for the fifth Canadian Textile Seminar.

Thirty-three learned papers, with topics ranging from "The Story of Lace" to Miscroscopical Studies With the High-Temperature Micro-dyeoscope," were presented at the two-day seminar, June 6 and 7.

The seminars are sponsored and organized at two-year intervals by the Textile Technical Federation of Canada. This organization is the central co-ordinating body for Canada's eight textile technical groups, which meet regularly during the year to further the knowledge of textile technology in Canada.

In the ten years that have elapsed since the first Canadian Textile Seminar, the advent of new textile fibres and changes in methods of processing them and the natural fibres have presented major problems of a scientific and technological nature.

The seminar series is designed to present a forum from which these problems may be discussed and solutions be announced by top authorities on every technical aspect of textile manufacturing.

The Fifth Seminar covered such topics as Fabric Manufacturing, Fibre Developing, Knitting, Mill Management, Mill Engineering, Quality Control, Canadian Research, Wet Processing and Yarn Preparation.

Although much of the material presented was highly technical and almost unintelligible to the layman, the results of the Fifth Seminar will become apparent to consumers in the improved quality of their textile purchases.

Chairman of the Fifth Canadian Textile Seminar was F. J. Knight, Montreal. Committee members were: Dr. C. E. Coke, H. C. Mersereau, J. W. Millichamp, R. W. Redston, all of Montreal; Dr. J. L. Sheps, Lachine, Que., and W. W. Metcalfe, Kingston.

Section chairmen were: Harold Fisher, Montreal; Dr. R. D. Bennett, Kingston; Roscoe Hill, Hamilton; V. S. B. Corbett, Cornwall, Ont.; K. F. Bews, Arnprior, Ont.; E. A. W. Boyce, Kingston; Colin H. Bayley, Ottawa; F. D. Wallace, Montreal; Francois E. Cleyn, Huntingdon; W. Ward, Granby, Que., and R. B. Weatherston, Toronto.

CINERAMA HOLIDAY

Redbook Magazine said: "The Picture of the Month! For excitement and out-of-the-ordinary entertainment, 'Cinerama Holiday' is hard to be beat!" There is a holiday indeed in Louis de Rochemont's newest production "Cinerama Holiday", not only for the young Swiss couple who came to see America via the three-eyed camera and the American couple who took a Cinerama tour of Europe, but for audiences, too! In our scene above, at the Lido on Paris' Champs Elysees, can-can girls perform for the fabulous Cinerama production, which is now showing to full capacity at the Imperial Theatre in Montreal. If you're there, do not miss it! It can't be shown in other theater in Canada, and it won't!

Beauharnois

Beauharnois — The annual summer piano recital presented by pupils of Miss Gwen Daville, was held Saturday afternoon, June 16, at the school auditorium. A profusion of beautiful flowers on stage and throughout the hall massive blooms of Iris and blossoms gracefully presided over the talented fingers at the piano in harmony with the musical offerings from the young pupils. Surely there is no more rewarding contribution to our cultural opportunities than that of music and Miss Danville's efforts, time and patience must have been gratifying as her pupils displayed quality and quantity of tone in their individual appeal and display of knowledge acquired. Mr. Robert Page as Master of Ceremonies was pleasing and delightful in manner with these junior artistes. The opening duet was played in complete harmony by two attractive young ladies, Heather Calhoun and Judy Turnbull. A very youthful Barry Mitchell contributed a solo Marché Slave. Two solos followed by Billy Hallan, Dreaming, Cockle Shells and Silver Bells. Carol Sonne played a lively Blue Bells of Scotland. Joanne Allen played effectively Parade of the Dwarfs. Two songs rendered by Miss Lena Gardner, Thou Whom my Heart Desireth, and Bird Songs at Eventide, two favorite pieces, they were well received. Sydney Smith a talented young local musician played a lilting melody Marche Antique. Sheila Allen gave a happy rendition of Country Gardens. Lynn Currie had two quite advanced pieces of music Russian Lullaby and Allegro, both of which she played well. Sheilah Allen and Joanna Allen had a very lovely duet Spring Flowers, to which they added their own youthful loveliness. Dougie Calhoun's contribution of Fun and Frolic with a lightness of touch and gaiety and good rhythmic quality. Judy Turnbull's Valse in A.A. added its harmony in an easy flow from the keys followed by a gay rustic dance by Heather Calhoun.

Robert Page sang My Ain Wee Hoose and I'll Walk Beside You. This afforded a great deal of listening pleasure. A young lady was next who might well be a concert pianist of note, an adorable junior in a crinoline dress of pale toned greens and pinks, Valerin Farr, played through valse bleue like a veteran. Her fingering a delight to the audience, Valerie Feltin brought the programme to a close with a beautifully played valse in D. Flat. Dougie Calhoun opened the concert with O Canada and Heather finished with God Save The Queen. Mrs. Farr thanked Miss Gwen Daville for her devotion to the pupils, the obvious pleasure derived by the music taught by her and spoke of the admiration of the parents and pupils for their teacher. Delicious refreshments were served by parents and friends.

Liquified Manure Supplies Fertilizer, Heat, Tractor Fuel

Barnyard manure liquified can make a farm almost self-sufficient. It can help grow crops, heat the farm buildings and provide fuel for the tractor.

This is the claim of Fritz Allmen who is probably one of Canada's foremost farmer authorities on manure. In a recent demonstration attended by leading Canadian agricultural scientists, he showed what has already been done to his own 480 acre farm near the historic Quebec village of Carillon on the banks of the Ottawa River, and revealed his future plans for the barnyard by-product.

Mr. Allmen, who emigrated from Switzerland many years ago, has 80 head of Holsteins. His manure liquifying equipment consists of a 3,000-gallon concrete tank beneath the barn floor, two upright concrete 35,000-gallon storage tanks, which he calls "silos", behind the barn, and a 30-horsepower gasoline motor which operates a speed pump.

Liquid and solid manure mixed up with cut straw bedding is shoveled daily into the receiving tank through manholes located in the middle of each concrete gutter. Gutters are sprinkled with C-I-L superphosphate at the rate of one and a half pounds of suerphosphate per cow per day. This absorbs ammonia, hastens the bacterial action during the decomposition process, increases the nutritive value of the manure and helps reduce manure odor.

Through rapid circulation in the first tank, the manure is liquified through bacterial action then pumped into the silos where it is allowed to "cure" for several days. When the curing process is complete, the liquid manure is pumped into the 1,000-gallon tank of a tractor-drawn sprayer. It requires only a minute and a half to fill the tank. The manure is sprayed on the fields in an even swath 12 feet wide on one side of the tractor. It takes only 10 minutes to apply 1,000 gallons. Application rate is about five tons per acre.

During winter, Mr. Allmen sprays the manure right on the snow, his tractor being equipped with special caterpillar chain treads to enable it to get around in the deep snow.

"This operation really reduces labor costs," Mr. Allmen said. "Where once it required 30 hours of manure handling per cow per year, it now takes me only five to six hours to handle the same amount."

But the greatest dividend in using liquified manure, Mr. Allan found, was the saving of the large amounts of plant nutrients which are lost through regular handling methods: up to 50 per cent is his estimate, the total value of which, he says is $170,000,000 a year in all of Canada. His method has resulted in a 25 per cent yield increase in forage and other crops.

Very soon this enterprising Quebec farmer proposes to collect the methane gas which is given off during decomposition of the organic matter in manure. He claims this will cook his meals, heat his home all year round, and provide fuel for his tractor. For the latter, the methane gas is compressed to six atmosphere in propane gas-type cylinders and fed into the carburetor through a special attachment. Manure from his 80 head of cattle can generate more methane gas than he would normally need. The extra profits from increased yields and the saving in labor, heating and tractor fuel costs, will pay back the investment on his installation in five years, he claims.

M. Anderson House Lost In Fire

A fire occurred at the farm of Mrs. Mary Anderson, on Route 4, about seven miles from Huntingdon, on Monday which resulted in the loss of the house and most of its contents.

The fire apparently started as a chimney fire about noon, on Monday, and it was thought that it had been put out. However, at about five o'clock smoke was seen around the roof and the fire had evidently started up again. At about 8.30 in the evening a call was sent to Huntingdon for help and a few firemen with a small service pump. While these men travelled as fast as they dared, when they arrived, about half the building had been consumed in the flames. Seeing that nothing could be done to save this building, concentration was made on a nearby garage building which was getting very hot by this time.

Water from a well and through the use of the service pump, was played on the garage and there is no doubt that this saved the fire from spreading to the barns. The distance from the river was too far to get water to the fire and water was a scarce commodity.

Some of the contents were removed from the house, but very little was actually saved and the house burned to the ground.

Had the call for the firemen been received earlier when the second out break was noticed, it might have been possible to have saved the house. The wind was favorable however and this helped a great deal.

Anniversary Service at Ormstown Presbyterian

The Ormstown Presbyterian Church celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone at Services Sunday morning at 11.30 and in the evening at 7.30. Rev. Clarke Hood, minister of the church, conducted the services and the guest minister was Rev. Robertson Millar of Martintown, Ont., Moderator of the Synod of Montreal and Ottawa. Mr. Millar's morning sermon was "Whence and Whither?" and the text was taken from Genesis 16, verse 8. He referred only briefly to the context but applied the words of the text to the present day Christian Church, acquired with great difficulty by our forefathers, and wondered if the ease with which Christians may worship today, tended to lower their faith and courage to attack the problems which face Christianity today.

Mr. Robert Eastwood was in charge of music and in addition to the choir service, a solo "Is your all, on the altar?" was sung by Dorothy Eastwood.

At the evening service Mr. Millar spoke on "The Higher Standard" and took the lesson from Matthew 5 verses 38-48 stressing the "extra mile" we should always be prepared to go for Christ.

The choir gave a special number, "Forward". Following service a social hour was spent in the church hall where refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation convened by Miss Annie Sangster, Mrs. William Greer, and Mrs. George Kilgour.

Following refreshments, Rev. James Grant brought greetings from the Huntingdon Presbyterian Church and addressed the group briefly. Rev. Allan S. Reid of Rockburn in his remarks paid special tribute to Rev. Walter Ross, now of Fort William, who was the first minister in this charge and who by his earnestness, humility and untiring effort had built up the congregation through a time of difficulty.

Mr. Millar spoke of the warm friendship which existed between himself and Mr. Ross while the latter was minister at Moose Creek. He then thanked those responsible for his invitation here, and for the opportunity to take part in this inspiring anniversary service. The evening came to a close with the singing of the Doxology and a benediction by Rev. J. C. Hood.

BEING INTERESTING NOTES OF NEWS IN COMMENT FORM

I am most reluctant to give contemporaries credit for being original. There seems to be a historic precedent for almost all our aspirations. Even the airplane, which we like to consider an invention of our age, was sketched by da Vinci more than 450 years ago.

Of course, we concede that Sir Edmund Hillary was the first to climb Mount Everest and that Roger Bannister was the first to break the four-minute mile. But even in this there is some reasonable doubt when we wonder if Mallory and Irvine might not have reached the summit in 1924, and indeed, if some fleet-footed Micmac might not have run faster than Bannister along some historic path of Canada's backwoods.

But this being as it may, I cannot think of a precedent for the accomplishments of Francoise Sagan, a French girl who took up writing because she flunked out of school. She has written two novels, "Bonjour Tristesse" in 1953 and now "A Certain Smile".

Mlle. Sagan is 18 years old. Her first novel might have been a fluke. After all, it took her one month to write it. But it sold 1,000,000 copies in a U.S. edition in a single month and it remained for long time on the best-seller list of The New York Times. So the current indications that A Certain Smile may even outsell Bonjour Tristesse satisfies me that Francoise Sagan is one by herself. She has accomplished something no woman of 18 has ever done before.

Nevertheless, success came at an early age to other writers in other years, through convention often impelled the woman to write anonymously. Jane Austen started on her "Pride and Prejudice" when she was only 21. Fanny Burney's first novel, "Evelina", was published in 1778 when she was 26. And the three Bronte sisters had made their indelible mark in literature and passed on before they were 40.

Winston Churchill wrote a novel called "Savrola" when he was a soldier in his early twenties. It was his only work of fiction and it is now back in print. Stephen Crane was only 29 when he died. His "Red Badge of Courage" was published in 1895, when he was 24. Lord Byron, who inherited his title at the age of 10, published his first poems when he was 19. Marcel Proust was writing lyrics at 21, and Joyce Kilmer, who wrote "trees", was dead at 32. Disraeli, the British prime minster, published his first novel under a pseudonym at the age of 20. Richard Sheridan wrote "The Rivals" at age 24. Peter Roget, the Frenchman who compiled a famous theaurus, was a graduate physician at 16. And George Bernard Shaw wrote five novels between the ages 20 and 29. They were all rejected.

There is no rule to be learned from all this. Though most of these people completed their life's work while they were still young, there are just as many literary names whose best work was not done until middle age, and others who are still creating through past age 80.

Thomas Costain is a good example of the group of writers who attained success late in life. His first novel was published when he was 55, and subsequent books (i.e. "The Black Rose", "The Silver Chalice") have made this former Canadian newspaperman one of the world's most outstanding historical novelists.

Look at some of the others, however.

These are the writers who started early and were still at it when they had reached 80—Somerset Maugham, Winston Churchill, who at 81 has just published the first in a series of four books dealing with history; Walter de la Mare, Lord Bertram Russell, George Meredith and Hilaire Belloc, who died at 82 in 1953 after writing 153 books. Thomas Hardy ("Return of the Native") died at 87, and Andre Gide, the most illustrious of French writers, died in 1951 at 82. Henry Wickham Steed died this year at 84, and George Santayana was 89 when he ended his career. H. L. Mencken was still going strong when he died a short time ago at 75, and Sir Harold Nicolson is in his prime at 70. Arnold Bennett ("How to Live on 24 Hours a Day") died at an earlier age (64), but he never stagnated. Just before he died he wrote in his diary that during that year he had written 353,250 words.

While some of us are still looking forward to the screen version of Herman Melville's whale story "Moby Dick", we can start anticipating Tolstoy's "War and Peace" in VistaVision.

It will run for three and one-half hours, just 15 minutes less than recordbreaking "Gone With the Wind", and will be presented for the first time on August 23. We may also be looking for a film of similar length about Mackinlay Kantor's "Andersonville".

If this is the movie-makers' answer to television, I hope they put more padding on the seats at the Bijou.

The great composer Tchaikovsky was married in 1877, but the match lasted only a few weeks. However, another woman—Frau Madejda von Meck—managed to get along very well with the temperamental Russian.

Their relationship was a most unusual one. For 14 years they wrote letters to each other, and the wealthy widow provided him with a liberal pension which permitted him to continue his immortal work. She preferred to know him only through his music, and Tchaikovsky's death from cholera in 1893 brought to an end any possibility of the patroness and artist ever meeting.
