Says Russia Will Outstrip U.S.

BUDAPEST — (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev has claimed once more that Russia soon will outstrip the United States in the contest for world economy supremacy.

Britain, France, Germany and other "so-called advanced capitalistic countries" have been left far behind in the race, the Soviet chief declared Monday in a pep talk at a collective farm southeast of Budapest.

"Now there are only two countries that compete with one another economically — the Soviet Union and the United States of America," Khrushchev declared. The Americans were "good people" but in a short time would be forced into second place in the world.

Khrushchev admitted Hungary's 1956 revolt was caused by the misuse of its former Red leaders. Part of the blame he placed on Matyas Rakosi, former Stalinist party chief now in the Soviet Union. Khrushchev expressed hope that a just rule would prevent any recurrence of the 1956 uprising.

REACTION FROM CROWD

There was muttered dissent when Khrushchev denied that the Soviet Union is exploiting Eastern Europe. When he spoke of Hungarian wine, a middle-aged woman grumbled "We don't get any."

And when Khrushchev said "We do not need anything in Russia, we have everything," a man in the crowd piped up with the words "uranium ore."

Hungary has considerable ore deposits, and they are earmarked for export to the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev had some criticisms to make about present-day Hungary. He said workers should do better work in their factories and farmers should produce better crops.

Turning to the future, he said the Soviet Union is willing to withdraw its troops from Hungary, East Germany, Poland and Romania as soon as the Western powers withdraw their armies from Europe.

END OF POLICE SIEGE — Taxi driver Jean Leblanc is taken in custody after he was forced out of his home by tear gas where he held his father Rene at rifle-point for four hours. Top shows taxi padre Father Paul Aquin who helped coax Leblanc out of the house which took fire when a police tear gas grenade blew up. Lower is Detective Sergeant Francois Lizotte.

Tear Gas Ends Gun Battle With Taxi Driver In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Tear gas, smoke and fire Monday night flushed a red-eyed taxi driver out of a tenement flat in suburban Verdun from which rifle shots blazed at policemen during a four-hour siege.

Police said Johnny Leblanc, 27-year-old taxi driver, stumbled down from the second-storey flat to surrender to a Roman Catholic priest after bullets and tear gas from detectives failed. They said six shots were fired, and Leblanc threw out a .303-calibre rifle into the yard behind the squat brick building before surrendering.

He gave up to Rev. Paul Aquin, one of three priests who minister to taxi drivers from a chapel hauled about in a trailer. The man's father, Rene Leblanc, was pinned down in his small print shop in the yard throughout the battle, unable to get past the shower of bullets.

Telephoned in the shop during the fracas, he said: "One man is upset. He's getting over his drunk, that's all."

The elder Leblanc got out when exploding tear gas bombs set fire to the flat and finally forced the gunman to come out onto a near balcony to surrender.

Railway Firemen's Union Asks C.P.R. For 18% Wage Increase

CHICAGO (CP)—The firemen's union has served notice on the Canadian Pacific Railway of a demand for an 18-per-cent wage increase. It was learned today as top union officers of Canada and the United States met here on the union-CPR diesel issue.

Union officials said the demand was made on the CPR April 2. It was a counter-move to the railway's announcement that it is to start laying off diesel firemen May 11.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, it is understood, asked that negotiations on the proposed wage increase start around mid-April. As far as is known, no answer has been received.

The firemen, battling to prevent layoffs of their membership by the two Canadian transcontinental railroads, already had made an 18-per-cent wage increase demand on the Canadian National Railway.

The CPR also proposes to reduce the number of its firemen in diesel service, but has not gone as far as the CPR in announcing proposed layoffs. The CPR-union issue is still under negotiation.

Many Causes Of Cancer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A prominent "smog" researcher says lung cancer is the product of several factors operating together, and cigarette smoking is only one of these.

He says polluted air is the dominant factor, but there are things other than cancer agents in the atmosphere which play a part. An increasing susceptibility in the population also is seen as part of the picture.

"If cigarettes were abolished there would be a reduction in the number of deaths from lung cancer, but this reduction would be a very minor one so far as the whole population is concerned," Dr. Paul Kotin told science writers on a tour sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Dr. Kotin, a pathologist at the University of Southern California, said less than 10 per cent of the two-pack-a-day smokers get lung cancer, and that no matter how many cigarettes they use they do not die any earlier than light smokers.

On the other hand, he said, other kinds of cancer have increased in proportion to the time people have been exposed to the causative agents. In the case of workers handling certain aniline dyes, which are cancer agents, malignancy developed in as high as 70 per cent of their ranks. Among English chimney sweeps, who develop an occupational type of cancer from soot, the figure was 40 per cent.

Strange Light

TORONTO (CP) — Officials at Dunlop Observatory in nearby Richmond Hill Monday night were flooded with calls reporting a flashing light in the northwestern sky at about 7:17 p.m. EST. The light, said to have a greenish tinge, was reported to have streaked earthwards, leaving a vapor trail behind it. The object was not seen by the observatory staff and a spokesman said they could offer no immediate explanation.

Highlights Of The Gordon Report

OTTAWA (CP)—Highlights of forecasts and recommendations made by the Gordon royal commission in its final report on Canada's prospects:

Federal tax cuts, higher spending, should be used in times of serious unemployment.

Greatest share of Canada's trade increase likely will go towards the United States.

Prospects of large, new free-trade moves are unlikely; Canada should hold the line on present tariff level.

Canadian vulnerability to U.S. economic recessions likely will decrease.

Canadian agriculture should avoid measures that would stimulate over-production and reduce average farm incomes.

Competing transport services should be helped to pay their own way, avoiding waste and duplication.

Government "might well" open the Montreal market to Prairie oil if wider access to the U.S. market is not achieved.

Atlantic region residents should be helped to move elsewhere if economic development there is inadequate.

"Unreasonable" demands for domestic processing of mineral resources could lose foreign markets.

Defence spending likely will remain high, but will become a smaller part of total national expenditure.

Only the "ruthlessness of a Peter the Great" could plant any large centres of population in the Canadian Arctic; many resources remain to be developed within the provinces' northern areas.

Anti-combines law should be modified to allow more large-scale, lower-cost production.

Municipalities could obtain added revenue through a charge for sewer service and a municipal vehicle tax on an assured proportion of provincial motor vehicle revenue.

With a greater concentration of population in urban areas, more community planning is needed.

Near Fatal Spot

VANCOUVER (CP) — A knife-wielding thug threatened a woman only eight blocks from where a mother of two was stabbed to death in Vancouver's east end 33 hours earlier. The woman threatened was 42-year-old Mrs. Evelyn Dorothy Roach. Thirty-three hours earlier Mrs. Evelyn Marilyn Roche, 39, was slashed to death in a lane half a block from her home.

Modernize Airport

OTTAWA (CP) — Work on the new multi-million-dollar terminal project for Toronto's Malton Airport is expected to start this year, the transport department announced Monday. Initial stage of construction on the modern airport facilities — designed to meet the needs of the jet age of air transportation—is estimated at $20,000,000.

Tremendous Berg

LONDON (Reuters) — Soviet airmen in Antarctica have discovered an iceberg measuring 56 miles by 18 miles and towering 130 feet high near the Shackleton glacier, in the Ross dependency area, Moscow radio reported Monday. The radio said it probably is the largest iceberg encountered this century.

Visits Poland

WARSAW (Reuters) — Russian President Kliment Voroshilov will visit Poland in the second half of April, the Polish news agency PAP announced Monday.

Promoted

MONTREAL — (CP) — Denis Healy, who began working his way up in the CNR's finance department in 1923, Monday was named assistant treasurer general of the railway.

His promotion was announced by the CNR.

Cuba Rebels Defiant

HAVANA (AP)—President Fulgencio Batista's police today claimed new successes in stamping out rebel nests in this Cuban capital to prevent a threatened general strike and street fighting.

The Cuban Army said 13 rebels surrendered near Banes, 65 miles north of Santiago, and claimed the rebels said the people of that eastern area were not friendly to them.

But rebel leader Fidel Castro circulated bulletins in Santiago claiming wide support and saying "the revolution is a question of hours." The mimeographed messages smuggled into the capital of Oriente province—Castro's chief theatre of operations—did not specify just how many hours.

Raiding squads arrested 26 men Monday, police claimed, and seized arms, explosives, radio equipment, a print shop, rebel and Communist propaganda and medical supplies.

AWAIT "TOTAL WAR"

Police have been searching around the clock for rebel arsenals since Castro declared "total, implacable war" on Batista Saturday and claimed that 50,000 armed young Cubans would rise up at his signal. So far neither the uprising nor the general strike Castro also threatened has developed.

However, dock workers stayed

Next Twenty-Five Years Will Show Gordon Report Warns

By HAROLD MORRISON
 Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA — (CP) — Canada, in expanding and amassing great wealth in the next quarter-century, may find her economy bound more tightly with the United States than ever before.

So concludes the Gordon royal commission on Canada's economic prospects in its 300,000-word final report made public Monday. It is a document warning of dangers of unemployment, inflation, shrinking overseas markets and foreign control, but building hopes of rising incomes and population and a possible tripling of national production.

The commission kept to its original 25-year forecasts made in the preliminary report of January, 1957—of a population increasing by some 10,000,000 to 27,000,000; of national production of goods and services tripling to $75,000,000,000; of Canadians swarming to cities so that only about 20 per cent of the population would be left in rural areas.

And it added to the sweep of its studies, encompassing prospects for world trade and the use of fiscal machinery to avoid economic bumps and recommending that Canada hold her tariff line. Efforts of the U.S. to reduce tariffs had slowed almost to a halt and Canada should not look for any big new free-trade moves.

MAIN HOPE IN U.S.

"If the U.S. finds it almost impossible to further liberalize its commercial policy, we doubt whether much progress can be expected from other countries."

Yet it was in the U.S.—and not in Britain—that Canada's main hopes lay for expanding her exports, the commission said. Because of American deficiencies and shortages, it predicted a growing market there for Canadian industrial raw materials, adding impetus for expansion of Canadian mines and exploration for new minerals and metals.

But it warned also of growing American control over Canadian industry and proposed ways of lessening this growth. It urged that steps be taken to keep Canada's chartered banks and life insurance companies out of foreign hands.

"... There seems little reason to expect that the current trend towards greater U.S. control of some of our fastest growing industries is likely to be reversed unless there is a change in present corporate practices or government policies."

In sketching the possible shape of Canada's economic future, the five-man commission suggested the labor force may well double and reach 10,000,000 by 1980. National income in 1980 may be three times as large as in 1955, the base forecast year.

MORE IN CITIES

"In 1951, 62 per cent of the population lived in metropolitan areas or in other cities, towns or villages with more than 1,000 people. By 1980, that proportion may rise to 80 per cent.

"Over the same period the proportion of the population living in metropolitan and urban areas of more than 100,000 may rise from 36 per cent to 56 per cent. Not only will population grow faster in urban than in rural areas, it will also be increasingly concentrated in the larger metropolitan centres.

"By 1980 both Montreal and Toronto may have grown to be cities of between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 and Vancouver may be a city of almost 1,500,000.

"The process of urbanization will call for heavy expenditures on housing, streets and highways, schools, hospitals and other facilities of that kind. Expenditures on the various forms of social capital may well total $100,000,000,000 or more over the period, without making allowance for price changes."

Canada's increased wealth would be reflected in higher average disposable incomes, rising by some 70 per cent during the 25 years. More of the country's economic expansion would be financed by Canadian savings but the main outside capital would still come from the U.S., adding to American control over Canadian industry.

CLOSER RELATIONS

"Our trade, though it will be a smaller part of our total economic activity, will also be increasingly focused on the U.S.; and in general, the economic relations between the two countries will become even more closely intertwined."

Some of the fruits of increased Canadian productivity would be taken in forms other than money.

"Average weekly hours of work will decline and there will be more leisure. Retirement will ordinarily come earlier than it does today; and at the other end of the age scale, a higher proportion of young people will defer starting work until they have taken further training at universities and elsewhere."

There will be need for more teachers and schools. University professors will have to be given more pay to attract top-calibre teachers, especially those trained to handle post-graduate courses.

"The problem of providing the teachers and educational facilities that will be required is among the most pressing that we face."

The commission's work was the most ambitious of its kind ever undertaken in Canada. The huge forecasting job, ordered by the former Liberal administration, took 2 1/2 years to complete.

SUPPORTED PEARSON

Chairman Walter L. Gordon of Toronto, an accountant who openly supported Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson in the last election campaign, had with him these commission members:

A. E. Grauer of Vancouver, president of British Columbia Power Corporation; Omer Lusier, Quebec forestry authority; Dr. Ray Gushue, head of Newfoundland's Memorial University; and Dr. Andrew Stewart, president of the University of Alberta.

Dr. Stewart now is chairman of the royal commission on price spreads set up by the Progressive Conservative government.

At a press conference, Mr. Gordon emphasized the relationship between his forecasts and sound government policies. If the current recession deepened into a depression, he said, all of his forecasts would be thrown out of joint.

away from work today at Guantanamo, a port city east of Santiago where a United States Navy base is located. They asked army protection, saying they feared rebel attacks.

Rebels blew up a string of Oriente railroad bridges, again halting rail traffic into the easternmost province, but only minor clashes were reported.

Batista is believed to have thrown 10,000 men into action in Oriente, where 1,600 rebels were reported on the march last week. The army subsequently said it had forced the rebels back in two groups into the mountains of Oriente, where apparently they split up again into Guerrilla bands.

G. J. Nathan Dies At 76

NEW YORK (AP) — George Jean Nathan, American drama critic, died this morning at a Manhattan hotel at the age of 76. He had been ailing for several years.

Nathan was the author of 30 or more books, most of which were devoted to the theatre. He was co-editor with the late H.L. Mencken of the Smart Set magazine and in 1924 helped Mencken found and edit the American Mercury.

He began his dramatic criticism on the staff of the New York Herald in 1905. The long list of papers and magazines with which he was connected includes Harper's Weekly, Puck, Judge, Life, The New Freeman, The Saturday Review of Literature, Vanity Fair, Scribner's, Esquire and Newsweek.

He was a master at lampooning, and had been credited with encouraging native playwrights like Eugene O'Neill and William Saroyan.

In 1955, at the age of 73, he married actress Julie Haydon, then 45.

Juvenile Crime

MONTREAL (CP) — Crimes committed by juveniles are increasing in number and gradually becoming more serious, says lawyer Marcel Trahan, an official of the Montreal social welfare court. He said the number of dossiers handled before the several judges of the court which deals with offenders up to 18 years of age has more than doubled during the last four years.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Susan Hayward, who has had more than her share of sorrow in Hollywood, says she has found happiness in the Georgia hills—so much so that she intends to quit films at the end of her present contracts.

Retirement reports from film stars are suspect, so I questioned her further.
 "It's absolutely true," she replied. "I'd quit today if I hadn't made some contracts before I was married."

She's here to enact The Barbara Graham Story for her old boss, Walter Wanger. Then she'll do a western with Jeff Chandler. She still has six pictures to make for 20th Century-Fox in the next five years.

"I'd like to make them all at once and get them over with," said red-haired Susan. "Then I want to get back to the good life and stay there."
 She has found the good life in Carrollton, Ga., 50 miles from Atlanta. Her husband, Washington lawyer Eaton Chalkley, settled in Carrollton four years ago and took her there as his bride. She has been delighted with southern life.

"Miss Hollywood? Not on your life!" she said. "There are no agents, no phone calls telling you there's a great script you should read. You'd be surprised how unimportant the movie world seems when you get away from it."
 "There are all kinds of things to do. We ride over our 200 acres. We have hills and streams and pine forests and pools. We have a change of seasons, which I love."

"There's no one to talk show business to, but I'm not complaining. There's a college (West Georgia) in the town, so we don't lack for intellectual stimulus. Atlanta is only 50 miles away, and it's a shorter ride than from the Beverly Hills hotel to Los Angeles International Airport (about 12 miles) because we have no traffic."

25th. Although in poor health Mr. Burgess was up and around as usual when he suffered a heart attack from which he did not recover.

There was a good attendance at the Palm Sunday service in the United Church, Rev. E. Brecken preached an inspiring sermon on, "Behold Your King." The hymns and readings were in keeping with the day and the choir rendered a special anthem. Mr. G. Boynton accompanying the organ, with his violin.
 The members of the United Church choir were delightfully entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lebourveau in Brookbury. After their usual choir practice a social hour was spent, followed by a treat of sugar-snow and doughnuts to which all did justice.

Final Of Weekly Lenten Services At Rock Island

ROCK ISLAND — The final of the weekly Lenten services held in various churches of the Boundary Villages, took place on Wednesday evening, March 26, in Stanstead South Church. Well over 100 persons from the Border towns and the ministers of the churches attended the corporate communion service, the theme of which was "The Christian Concept of Love".

On Good Friday all churches, Stanstead South, Stanstead Centenary and Wesley Church, Beebe, will observe special services.

Following the service, the Helping Circle Society met in the church hall, with several of the participating clergy and members of the choir remaining. Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Ames showed some interesting slides taken by their son, Lieut. Paul Ames, while he was with the American service in Germany.

The hostesses, Mrs. Ames and Mrs. Bruce Lafoe, served refreshments from a table arranged with a white linen cover and centred with a golden circlet of lighted tapers.

Following the departure of the guests the business meeting of the Circle was held, with the vice-president, Mrs. T. W. Tyson, in the chair.

It was voted to renew membership with the Dominion Women's Association Presbytery and the treasurer was authorized to send the required membership amount. Several Presbytery projects will be discussed and decided upon at a future meeting.

WINDSOR STUDENT PLAYS HOST — The Fourth Annual High School Speech Festival was held recently on the campus of the University of Dubuque, Dubuque, Iowa. Fourteen schools from Iowa and Illinois participated in the two-day program. Pictured above with one of their hosts from the University, Alex Philip, from Windsor, Quebec, are three students from the Decorah, Iowa, High School, (left to right) Mary Pat Rowan, Kay Pfister, and Shyrlee Underbakke.

Mrs. Wayland Ladd reported sending a box weighing 54 pounds, containing good used clothing, to the Friendly Service Missions in the United States.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Carroll Smith, on April 9 and will be a work meeting. All attending were asked to bring sewing needles, thread and thimble.
 Redecoration of the church hall by the Couplies Club was discussed and the matter will be more fully dealt with following a meeting of the church board.

A joint meeting of the Ladies Aid, Helping Circle and 35 Club is to be held in the church hall on April 23, Mrs. Merton Davis and Mrs. Daisy Platti to act on a refreshment committee with members of the other two groups.

Sharp Reduction Noted In Funded Debt

Road Maintainer Rescues 4 Youths

ST. LAMBERT-DE-LEVIS, Que. — (CP) — Four youths unconscious from gas fumes were found Monday in a snow-covered automobile by a roads maintenance man attracted by the noise of their car's motor.

Apparently the four youths decided to spend the night in the car when it bogged down in heavy snow during Sunday night's blizzard. They left the motor turned on to keep warm.

A decrease in the net funded debt of the Town of Lennoxville was reported last night by Ald. E. A. Lunderville, highlighting the financial report at the regular meeting of the Town Council. Ald. Lunderville, Chairman of Finance Committee reported a decrease to $194,900 from $211,100 in 1956 in the net funded debt for both the General and Water Departments. The 1957 figure, he pointed out, was a cut of more than $16,000—a strong step in the direction for maintaining a balanced budget.

Under the General Department are grouped all those services which are not directly concerned with the water system of the town, such as police, maintenance and general administration of the municipality.

Also contained in the report were comparable figures for the years 1957 and 1956.

Total revenue for 1957 was $88,571 as compared with $83,204 in 1956. The expenditures for 1957 were $78,899, a decline of almost $6,000 from $84,580 in 1956.

These figures include the redemption of bonds and the interest on the funded debt of the municipality.

The excess of revenue over expenditures for the General Department for 1957 amounted to $7,672 while the figures for the previous year showed a deficit of slightly more than $1,300. However, a sum of more than $4,500 was added to capital works during the year, taken out of the revenue of the town. This compares favourably with the 1956 sum of only $906.

The Water Department showed a slight increase in revenue for 1957 to $31,944 from $30,683 in 1956. Expenditures dropped for the year 1957 to $29,107 from $30,200 in 1956, leaving a surplus of $2,800 in 1957 compared with $483 in 1956.

The redemption of bonds and the interest on the funded debt in the Water department was a little lower in 1957, at $15,147 compared with $15,272 in 1956.

Mayor E. W. Gilbey expressed his satisfaction with the report by Ald. Lunderville but warned the Council that there would be heavy expenditures in the foreseeable future in the Water department and the aldermen might find it difficult to stay within the limits of their budgets. He pointed out that the water system of the municipality warranted considerable augmentation in power and capacity.

Gordon Report

Municipal Sewer Service And Car Taxes Proposed

OTTAWA (CP) — A charge for sewer service is one method suggested by the royal commission on Canada's economic prospects by which municipalities might obtain more revenue.

The commission's final report, made public today, also suggests a municipal vehicle tax or an assured proportion of provincial motor vehicle revenue as in Alberta. In the western province, municipalities receive each year 50 per cent of the Alberta government's revenue for gasoline tax in the previous year.

"The commission proposes that the municipal real property tax be given rather less work to do" and that it be made payable in monthly instalments instead of in an annual lump sum.

The commission notes that many Canadian municipalities now charge for water on a cost-of-service basis, with individual bills determined by meters.

"What the citizen pays is no longer a tax, but an economic price for a particular service. There seems no real reason why sewer service should not be similarly charged for, with the amount of service provided being determined by the amount of water consumption."

The commission says a "very substantial" percentage of municipal expenditure is caused by motor vehicles.

SHOULD BE REMUNERATED
"It seems to us both logical and just that municipalities should be enabled to recover some considerable proportion of this expenditure from the owners and operators of motor vehicles."

The commission at another point says: "Undoubtedly, the debt position of some municipalities gives good grounds for concern. But provided no major recession lies ahead, the total municipal debt burden does not as yet appear alarming."

Between 1939 and 1956, total taxation as a percentage of national income rose to 30.1 from 21.8. The federal percentage rose to 21.4 from 10.7, the provincial percentage to 4.7 from 4.6 while the municipal percentage dropped to 4 from 6.5.

The commission says that often the assessed value of property is only a small fraction of the price which that property would command in the open market. And, generally speaking, personal income has increased at a much greater rate than assessed values of real property.

A policy of fairly frequent property reassessment has some advantages.

Cancer Topic Of Address Before Local Kiwanis

Dr. John Taylor delivered an informative address on cancer at the regular meeting of the Sherbrooke Kiwanis club last night in the New Sherbrooke Hotel.

Dr. Taylor explained briefly that cancer was an abnormal growth of cells that serve no useful purpose and may even kill their host. The body influences normal cell-growth but this does not apply to cancer cells, with which there is no direction. An early diagnosis therefore is important, before the cancer cells have a chance to progress in their uncontrolled growth. Steps can be taken to restrict and even stop this growth. The use of radiation from the cobalt bomb is increasing and is especially effective for people who cannot tolerate X-rays.

The speaker was introduced by Herb Plow and thanked by Harry Grundy.

Les Memory introduced the head table which included Burt Hill, Herb Plow, the guest speaker Dr. Taylor, president Sam Gillman, Harry Grundy and George Faucher.

A directors' meeting followed the dinner.

HATLEY —

Mr. Harry Pitman, of Barrie, party for the children recently in Vt., was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Brown.

At the regular afternoon service in the United Church, the following people joined the church by profession of faith: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McClary, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McClary, Mr. Lester Drew, Mr. Gary Drew, Miss Sandra Smith, Miss Gail Smith, Miss May Morse, and Miss Phyllis Morse.

Public Works By-Law Approval By Council Scheduled Tonight

The by-law authorizing a loan of $1,594,000 to finance the recently approved 1958 public works program is expected to receive all three readings at tonight's session of the City Council. The meeting was postponed from last night owing to the Easter Monday holiday.

The program was adopted in principle at a special session last Wednesday night but only after a group of aldermen had expressed strong opposition to the size of the appropriations. They maintained that a loan such as suggested would increase debt service charges to the point where a tax increase would be necessary.

No details of the projects to be included in the 1958 public works schedule were available at last Wednesday's meeting but from decisions taken at earlier meetings, the enlargement of Galt Street West from Belvedere street to the Ste. Catherine road will probably head the list.

An expenditure of approximately $150,000 is envisioned to carry out the first stage this summer—widening the section from Belvedere street to Fairmount street. This includes expropriation costs as well as the work itself.

A sum of $100,000 probably will be included in the by-law for the construction of a municipal store and a further $20,000 is earmarked for the extension of the garage annexed to the old incinerator on the Brompton road.

The municipal store is expected to cost $250,000, but $150,000 is already available for the work under a previous loan by-law and only the extra $100,000 will be sought.

The enlarged garage at the incinerator will be used to house the heavy equipment of the Public Works Department.

Some extended debate has been waged among the aldermen over the division of the money. One group has been clamoring that the money available be used for the most urgent works, while others have been demanding that it be divided evenly among the five wards.

According to gossip around the City Hall corridors, the latter have won their point.

Sharp Drop In Housing Starts Seen

The quarterly report of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, gives the following statistics relating to housing in Sherbrooke.

Homes started during the year 1955 under the National Housing Act, 79, others, 294. In 1957, the figures show a considerable drop to 56 under the N.H.A. and 154 for other housing projects. This compares with the 1956 figures of 48 and 231 respectively.

These figures demonstrate a drop in two years of more than 120 lodgings, though, in 1957, the homes built under the N.H.A. showed a slight gain over the number of those built under the same plan in 1956.

However the number of lodgings, both occupied and vacant, shows an increase during the period from 1951 to 1956, with a total of 11,822 lodgings in 1951 and 14,057 in 1956. The main difference lies in the number of occupied lodgings: 11,609 in 1951 and 13,646 in 1956.

However, statistics for the population of the Eastern Townships metropolis shows a considerable gain in the five-year period from 1951 to 1956.

Population figures for 1951 show a total of 50,000 while in 1956 the figure had risen by at least 9,000. Similarly, the number of family householders increased to 12,131 from 10,429, while those families not occupying their own homes decreased appreciably to 464 in 1956 from 605 in 1951.

There was however, over the five-year period, an increase in the number of single householders, or those who were living away from home. The total for this facet of the population increased to 1,530 from 1,147.

To Demand Bursaries Repayment

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec government plans to crack down on "thousands" of persons who have failed to refund provincial loans they received as students to pursue their education, Hon. J. Paul Sauve, minister of social welfare and youth, said Monday.

Most of the debts involve professionals, and some have been outstanding for many years, he said. The loans were given by his department in the form of scholarships. Fifty per cent of each scholarship was a straight government grant while the other 50 per cent was to be refunded one year after completion of studies. Mr. Sauve declined to say what steps the government planned to recoup the loans.

Police Station Is Refuge For Panicky Child

It happened last night in Sherbrooke! A frightened young girl, about 16, ran into the Provincial Police office in her stocking feet. There was snow on the ground, but she didn't notice.

She ran to the police for protection. From whom? Her father!

"Does your father drink?" asked the officer on duty. "Yes, he drinks all the time," she sobbed.

"Are there other children at home?" the officer asked. "Yes, ten of us," she answered.

The reporter who was hanging around waiting for news was touched.

"Anything I can do? Can I telephone your mother and let her know you are alright?" he asked.

"No, I guess not," the girl replied.

The officer dialled a number, explaining: "This is a matter for the municipal police. They'll send a car for you."

The reporter had to leave to cover a story elsewhere, but police indicated today the child was returned to her parents.

Lack Of Witnesses Likely To Prevent Wreck Inquest

COWANSVILLE (Special)— District Coroner Dr. Paul Roy said today that no inquest would be held into the deaths of 11 people at a level crossing on Sunday night because there were no witnesses.

The 11 people, members of two families, died when their car was struck by a CPR dayliner at a crossing near Eastway in a blinding snowstorm.

Dr. Roy said that without witnesses or survivors in the accident, there was little point in opening an inquest.

Killed in the accident were Mr. and Mrs. Helodore Larose of Waterloo and their five children, and Mr. and Mrs. Jean Claude Roy of Joliette and their two children. Mrs. Roy was the sister of Mr. Larose. The two families were returning from a sugaring-off party at the farm of Exeas Larose, the grandfather, when the accident occurred.

The accident happened at 6:45 p.m. Sunday when heavy, wet snow piling across the crossing had cut visibility down to a few yards. The car was jammed under the front coach of the two-car commuter train which had left Montreal for Sherbrooke at 5:30 p.m. The line was blocked for more than five hours.

Funeral for the Larose family will be at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday from St. Bernard Church, Waterville. Funeral for the Roy family will be Thursday at 9:30 a.m. from St. Jean Bosco Church, Magog.

Local University Not Represented On Student Body

MONTREAL (CP) — Representatives of students at five of Quebec's six universities Monday formed an organization charged with bringing before authorities and the public the needs and demands of university students.

The organization is to be known as the Association of Universities of Quebec. Its formation follows a one-day boycott of classes by students at the five universities — the University of Montreal, McGill and Sir George Williams, College of Montreal, Laval University of Quebec City and Bishop's of Lennoxville — to back up demands for more financial aid from the provincial government for higher education.

Absent from the meeting that saw the new student association formed was a representative of the University of Sherbrooke.

"This, however, did not signify the University of Sherbrooke's reluctance to join the association," a spokesman said. The new association will meet some time in May to draw up a tentative program for next year.

Set Date For Inquest Into Asbestos Death

ASBESTOS (Special) — A coroner's inquest into the death of Conrad Guimont, 35, of Asbestos, has tentatively been set for Friday, Asbestos Police Chief Andre Larive said this morning.

An autopsy was made by a Montreal Provincial Police medicolegal expert yesterday but the results of his findings will only be revealed at the inquest, Chief Larive said.

Guimont, the owner of a du Roi St. poolroom, died in the Canadian Johns-Manville Hospital Saturday morning while being treated for injuries suffered in a brawl with a youthful customer over money Friday evening.

He suffered a blackened eye and broken nose.

To date no charges have been laid.

Ominous Signs In Arabia

The change in authority in Saudi Arabia may not be as harmless a development for the West as the State Department evidently wants us to believe.

Dulles' version is that in virtually yielding power to Crown Prince Faisal, King Saud is simply putting formal seal on an arrangement that already exists. Faisal is said to have held this power as premier and foreign minister. It is contended further that Saud planned this move as part of an effort to give the Arabian government a broader base. He is said to feel the time has come to end his one-man rule.

For these reasons, Washington officially voices no alarm. Yet there is a possibility that diplomats are taking this stand more as an expression of hope than anything else.

Faisal is known to have little fondness for the West. There are signs he would like to draw his country closer to the new United Arab Republic headed by Egypt's President Nasser. Faisal and Saud are reported to have divided bitterly over Nasser, with Saud much opposed.

Still another danger signal: Faisal by some accounts wants Saudi Arabia's oil royalties boosted from a present 50 per cent to roughly 57 per cent. The big Arabian American Oil Co. pays Saud $300 million a year now for oil considered vital to Western defense.

Every Western capital will be watching sharply for Faisal's first key moves. If he turns toward Nasser and away from the Iraq-Jordan Arab Federation which Saud favors, the West will be in for more trouble. So, conceivably, will be those critical oil supplies and possibly even Western bomber base at Dhahran.

Strict Cost Control For Railways

Current demands by Canadian railway workers for pay increases ranging up to 25 per cent, shorter hours and other changes in working conditions, all designed to increase the operating costs of the railways, focus attention on the 1957 report of the Canadian Pacific Railway. During the second best year in its history from a rail revenue viewpoint, the company's net earnings from railway operations declined some $3.1 millions, providing a net return on investment in rail property of only 2.8 per cent.

In former years, other income, which included returns from land sales, mining and oil companies, hotels, steamships, etc., combined with the railway profits to give a substantial return to the shareholders. But last year, other income declined by $6.6 million to $23.4 million to cut the overall amount available for dividends to $46.8 million.

The report certainly suggests that the CPR, like all other North American railways, is having no easy time in its rail enterprise, but it points out that through effective budget control and the benefits arising from continued modernization, the ratio of net earnings to railway revenues has been kept close to that of the previous year.

With only limited additional revenues being available from increased rates, it is obvious that only by eliminating all unnecessary work and steadily modernizing its equipment can the railway hope to save itself from the squeeze of stationary income and rising costs.

One Year

If a Canadian politician, any politician, had been told in the comfortable Liberal April of 1957, that within a year the Progressive Conservatives would elect more members from the Province of Quebec than the Liberals would return from all of Canada what would he have said?

If the same politician were asked to believe that the number of PCs returned from Prince Edward Island alone would be four times as large within a year as the total Liberal representation west of Ontario, including the Northwest Territories and the Yukon, what would he have said?

He might not have said much but he would have had to be an exceptional politician if he failed to entertain doubts about the sanity, or the balance, to put it more mildly, of the man to whom he was speaking.

One might talk for hours about fickle fortune and the inscrutable future and still not overdo it where the results of the last election were concerned.

Letters To The Editor

The Editor, Sherbrooke Daily Record.

Dear Sir: I noted that picture story in a recent issue headlined "Farming Is 80 Centuries Old", and indicating that "Farmers were growing food crops in Mexico 8,000 years ago, according to discoveries made by a Canadian-United States scientific expedition."

The above conclusion was thought-provoking, especially in its geographic setting; but is, after all, not so surprising when calipered against the conclusion of one of the wise men: "The first farmer was the first man" (Sage of Concord, in 1848).

There is not much room for doubt concerning what one of the farm economists terms "the green revolution" as the 20th century's opposite number to "the industrial revolution" of the 18th century, in the following line—and between them—which I ran across in the text of the recent "Farm Message to Congress" by President Eisenhower:

"Research efforts, aimed at increasing industrial uses of farm products, should be expanded. Our farms are a major source of our raw materials. To a greater degree than at present, these raw materials can be used in industry—thereby broadening demand and deepening markets for our abundant farm products. . . . To bring this about, increased utilization research is needed and is proposed in the Budget Message." (N.Y. Times, Jan. 17, 1958).

My reading guides me in the assertion that, every third industrial plant in these two productive lands—U.S., and Canada—wouldn't turn a wheel, if any enduring interruption occurred in that raw-material stream, between the farms and the pavements.

"RURAL-URBAN." Wroxeter, Ont.

The Editor, Sherbrooke Daily Record.

Dear Sir: The people and government of our province have, and are, showing a decided and appreciable interest in education. This interest and concern has become more manifest as a result of the financial difficulties of our higher institutions of learning. They cannot balance their budgets and consequently must look to outside sources for additional revenues. Private philanthropy does no longer make the contributions that would be a welcome addition to their revenues from student fees and endowments. They look therefore to governments for substantial grants or subsidies.

No one of the several universities in Quebec is government owned or controlled. McGill, Laval, The University of Montreal, The University of Sherbrooke, Bishop's University and Sir George Williams are administered by non-government regulatory bodies. Their curriculums are their own, and their teaching staff is appointed in accordance with their statutes or practices. Yet they expect to receive aid from the government which has no authority to supervise their expenditures or in any way interfere with their management.

Each of the institutions mentioned has a high standing and will no doubt do its utmost to become still more useful to the community and the nation. The tendency in recent years has been for a larger number of youth to seek a higher education. This has had the effect of taxing the facilities of the colleges and universities to the utmost.

All of course, in this age of Sputniks, ballistics and atomic weapons realize that we in Canada must not fall behind in scientific progress, but I think that on the whole we have done remarkably well if a comparison is to be made. We have promoted a high degree of culture and an equally high standard of comfort. Our living standard is the second highest in the world. The relation of government to universities has been a topic of heated discussion within the past two years, due largely to the needs of the university and the attitude of the government headed by the Hon. Maurice Duplessis. No one, not only in Quebec but in Canada, appreciates the contribution universities can make to human welfare and progress more than our own devoted Premier. He has been unfairly and in some cases bitterly criticised following his declaration that education comes squarely and constitutionally within provincial jurisdiction. Why therefore should he be subjected to this criticism? Because he will not tolerate any invasion of limitation of provincial rights. He is not the type of legislator or statesman that will be coerced. He is ready to help in the measure that the finances of the province permits deserving institution, but will not be intimidated by infantile gestures on the part of those who, knowing very little of our constitutional rights would have ignored us in the educational field.

Millions of dollars have been given to universities but it cannot be expected that their financial needs will be fully met by public grants over which has already been asked the government, who has no control. Those people forget that education is completely controlled in Russia. Surely we do not want a like situation in this country. Very few of the great universities in the United States are state owned or directed, yet, they have given the world great leaders in science, medicine, art and humanities. The brave armies of the United States, Canada, Britain and other commonwealths saved Russia from defeat from the infamous Hitler. If the Prime Minister objects to Quebec universities accepting federal grants, thereby establishing a precedent, these moneys should, and properly can be given to the government to be allocated as it sees fit under the B.N.A. Act. We are entitled to subsidies out of Federal revenues hence, these grants which a national organization is prepared to give can, and should go through provincial channels. Wherever possible higher centers of learning should be endowed by wealthy citizens of whom there is no lack in this province or country. Two very wealthy citizens from whose estates the federal government collected millions in succession duties, could, if they been so inclined, have made the universities the recipients of their benefactions.

We must beware of making our educational institutions too dependent upon the state. Mr. Duplessis has frequently come close to dangers of statism in other fields.

Instead of criticizing the Premier he should be warmly commended for what his government has done to aid universities. It is quite likely that his good intentions towards them will continue. Our schools are maintained by levies upon property owners regardless of whether they have children who attend schools or not. Our universities rely more upon private givers or donations and bequests rather than government grants. As private non-profit enterprises they can do better work than organs of the state.

Canadian Dollar

Does Middleman Get Fair Share?

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Is the middleman's share of the Canadian consumer's food dollar fair or excessive?

That is the question facing a royal commission of six men and a housewife which is investigating price spreads of food products.

Price spreads are the difference between what the producer gets for his food products and what the consumer pays the corner grocer or the chain supermarket.

The difference goes, in varying degrees, to such middlemen as processors, distributors, packagers, wholesalers, transporters and labor.

The royal commission, headed by Dr. Andrew Stewart, president of the University of Alberta, already has started collecting available statistical and background information. Beginning this month it will hear what farmers, processors, wholesalers, retailers and others have to say on the matter.

Public hearings are scheduled for Vancouver April 9-11, Edmonton April 14-15, Winnipeg April 17, Regina April 21, Fredericton April 28-29, Charlottetown April 30, Halifax May 1-2, and St. John's, Nfld., May 5-6.

Tentative autumn dates for further hearings are the second half of September in Ontario, mid-October in Quebec and mid-November in Ottawa.

Apart from gathering statistical information, the commission's researchers are planning two separate studies.

One involves the marketing of a number of commodities selected from six main groups: meats, fruits and vegetables, dairy products, eggs and poultry, miscellaneous agricultural products and fish.

The particular commodities to be studied in detail:

Wheat (bread, flour); beef cattle (beef); hogs (pork, bacon); chicken (fowl, broilers); eggs; milk and cream (fluid milk, butter, cheese, milk powder, evaporated milk); potatoes; tomatoes (canned, fresh, tomato juice); corn (canned); peas (canned, frozen); carrots (fresh); peaches (canned, fresh); strawberries (canned, fresh); apples (fresh); maple syrup and maple sugar; sugar beets (beet sugar); various products of agriculture (soups, baby foods); sockeye salmon (canned); halibut (fresh, frozen); whitefish (fillets); lobster (boiled, canned); cod (fillets); haddock (fillets).

The commission plans to concentrate on this limited number of foods because they are big consumer items or form a large part of the incomes of producers. The study will cover a commodity's marketing system and the sometimes-numerous processes from producer to consumer.

The other study will delve into the various functions common to the marketing of agricultural and fisheries products, including storing, transportation, packaging, advertising, grading, processing, wholesaling and retailing. For this study the commission hopes to hire university specialists this summer.

The commission, set up Dec. 10, hopes to have its report ready for the federal government in 1½ years.

The commission's terms of reference ordered it to:

1. Inquire into the extent and the causes of the spread between the prices received by producers of food products of agricultural and fisheries origin, and the prices paid by consumers.
2. Determine whether such price spreads, in general or in particular cases, are fair and reasonable, or are excessive, in relation to the services rendered.
3. Make such recommendations as it deems appropriate if any such price spreads are found to be excessive.
4. Examine the adequacy of price information currently available.

This is not the first time prices have come under the scrutiny of a royal commission.

In 1934-35, a Commons committee was set up to inquire into price spreads, marketing and monopolies of many commodities and the relationship between the flour milling and baking industries.

Parliament was dissolved before it could report and the committee, headed by H. H. Stevens, then Conservative trade minister, was made a royal commission. However, political differences between Mr. Stevens and Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, followed by the minister's resignation, upset the efficiency of the commission's work.

Mr. Stevens succeeded as commission chairman by William M. Kennedy, former Conservative MP for Winnipeg South Centre, who submitted a report but which has become known as the "Stevens report."

It said many of the grievances raised "were manifestations of one fundamental and far-reaching social change, the concentration of economic power." However, no practical and fundamental recommendations were made.

Secretary of the commission was Lester B. Pearson, now Liberal party leader.

Dr. Stewart, 53, a leading Canadian economist, comes to the price spreads inquiry directly from the Gordon economic commission of which he was a member.

Mrs. Dorothy Walton, 47, a Toronto housewife, is a director of the Canadian Association of Consumers, and was chairman of the speakers, panel of the consumer branch of the wartime prices and trade board.

Howard MacKighan, of Halifax is general manager of the United Maritime Fishermen Limited and a member of the Fisheries Council of Canada.

Romeo Martin, 47, of Quebec City, an agronomist, is secretary-general of the Co-operative Federation of Quebec, a big and all-embracing farm marketing co-operative.

Dr. W. M. Drummond, 60, professor of agricultural economics at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont., was a member of the Newfoundland royal commission on agriculture and worked for the Gordon economic commission on farm problems.

Cleve Kidd, 48, of Toronto, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor, is an economist.

Bernard Couvrette, 50, of Montreal, is president of a wholesale grocers' firm and is a past president of the Canadian Wholesale Grocers Association.

JACOBY On Bridge

GERBER BID AIDS TO SLAM

The Gerber convention is named after its inventor, John Gerber of Houston. It is similar to the Blackwood convention, except that it uses the bid of four clubs to ask for aces.

It has one great advantage. You can ask for aces without getting past game. Its disadvantage is that four clubs is likely to be valuable as a normal bid. Most experts get around this by playing Blackwood normally and Gerber when it is obvious.

Take today's North hand. You open one diamond and your partner responds one heart. If he has two blank aces you have a slam. If he has no aces you can only make four hearts. Blackwood jeopardizes game. Gerber doesn't.

Charles Solomon, president of the A.C.B.L. sat North at the Mid-South Regionals in Jackson. His partner was Bernard Tighe, president of the Mid-South Conference.

They were playing for the first time and had not agreed to play Gerber but Charlie took a chance that his partner would recognize four clubs as a Gerber bid.

Bernard got the message and did bid four spades to show his two aces. (In Gerber four diamonds shows no aces, etc.)

Now Charlie had no qualms about bidding six hearts and they were one of the few teams in the room to reach the lay-down slam.

UNOFFICIAL POLICE

(Lethbridge Herald) Something new in traffic safety campaigns is currently being conducted in Lethbridge. It involves the issuing of "tickets" for minor traffic violations.

Those commenting the offences for which the "tickets" are issued with not be fined, but will be urged to attend traffic school sessions at which common offences will be discussed and the proper procedures outlined by qualified instructors.

In addition, an intense program of traffic safety education will be carried on.

Matter of FACT

The common expression, "vain as a peacock" or "proud as a peacock" is an injustice, since the peacock is no more vain than many other birds during the mating season. The male's display of gorgeous plumage is for the sake of the hen-bird and for her alone.

Minister Diefenbaker's proposed 15-per-cent switch in Canadian imports from the U.S. to Britain with the commission's predictions that foreign trade will grow mainly with the U.S. Mr. Gordon said most people would like to see an increase in Anglo-Canadian trade.

He himself had been a member of the Dollar - Sterling Trade Board, designed to expand Canadian trade with Britain. But he would be "unrealistic," he said, to not recognize the great difficulties in achieving such a switch.

As to whether Mr. Diefenbaker's proposal would harm Canada's export chances in the U.S., the question had been "answered" by the March 31 election results, Mr. Gordon said.

EMPTY COUNTRY

While predicting population growth and economic expansion, the commission anticipated that Canada in 1980 will still be a relatively empty country, particularly in the north.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (iron-free) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath." Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere.

actively empty country, particularly in the north. The north would be the scene of "important economic developments" but it would take "the ruthlessness of a Peter the Great to plant any large centres of population there."

"Even much further south the population is very thinly spread. The farming areas in Saskatchewan, for example, have been losing population steadily and in many districts it now is so far between one farm home and another that it is difficult to provide all the services and amenities that are required."

"... Because of the difficulty of the country there is still no good road across Canada and almost all Canadians motoring from Eastern Canada to the Prairies have to dip down through the U.S."

The north was important but Canada would reap greater profits from industrial and technological changes than from trying to deliberately "press the physical frontier further north."

showed by what they did that they believed its economic future was not entirely beyond their power to control. The nation now is much wealthier than it was then and can perhaps afford to concern itself more than they could with the proper distribution of wealth rather than with its creation.

COUNTRY'S GUIDE

The guide for Canada's future, the commission believed, was a spirit which expressed confidence in being able to mould the country's future to the desires and purposes of Canadians within economic reason.

"The general prosperity also often conceals the fact that, both in the cities and in the country, there are many Canadians with incomes insufficient for their needs. In spite of higher wages, there are still families with too little money to bring up their children decently. In spite of social security measures and the efforts of charity, there are still old people slowly dying in back bedrooms on which the rent is long overdue."

The 500-page report predicted that in the field of general production, agriculture will grow more slowly than most other economic fields and probably the main problem of farming will be to avoid over-production. It warned against "any and every measure that might stimulate the tendency toward over-production and in consequence, depress average incomes of Canadian farmers."

It expected also that forestry industries will not fully match growth of the economy generally though the future for mining would tell a different story.

50-PER-CENT INCREASE

Bigger export markets, particularly in the U.S., would lead to a "more than a 50-per-cent increase in the production of lead and copper; almost a doubling in the production of nickel and zinc; a fourfold increase in the production of aluminum; and more than a fivefold increase in the production of iron ore."

The service industries—shops, laundries, entertainment, insurance, real estate—would absorb 45 per cent of the country's labor force. Automatic processing machines would do away with much of the country's tedious office work but would create a demand for new types of workers.

Mr. Burns went to CNR in 1949 as a clerk in the finance department at Montreal and became office there in 1956.

So the Canadian moves are being watched keenly, and among delegates to this 300-member top-level meeting there are suggestions of American support for a possible strike on the Canadian side.

One competent official said there is a possibility the U.S. membership of the union would be called on at the meetings here to boycott in the U.S. trains of the company against which the Canadian side. But there has been no union action yet on a strike, which would have to include a vote of the Canadian membership.

Who's Wearing It?

Mystery Of The Missing Chemise

By GALE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK — (NEA) —
This is the mystery of the missing chemise.

For, although everyone is talking about it, who's actually wearing it?

In its extreme form, mighty few women; it is too drastic. In its modified form, when it's the first cousin to the sheath, there are many versions being worn.

Will it last? All signs point to another drastic change for fall. This time, it will be full, wide skirts coupled with the Directorate waistline. It will be, in fact, the exact opposite of the chemise.

But the point right now is, which is chemise and which is sheath? Unless it hangs from the shoulders and is waistless, it isn't a true chemise. And it's the true chemise that the girls have not squeezed into thus far.

The sack dress, as it's often called, came from Paris, of course. And at least one French designer who's had a hand in it told the press that he was not interested in designing clothes for a woman's body. He was, he said, much more interested in designing fashions around abstract art.

It may have been this which moved Raymond Barbas, president of Jean Patou and of the Chambre Syndicate in Paris, to say that he thought it was high time that clothes for women were designed by women.

At a meeting of the fashion press held in Dallas this spring, Lawrence Marcus of Neimans-Marcus said:

"When the better dress houses turn out chemises and offer them to the public in versions to suit a variety of figures, we'll be able to judge this fashion better."

He also asked the women present who were wearing the chemise to stand. In a gathering of about 150 women, all of them working in the field of fashion, exactly six women stood up.

Actually, there is everything to be said for the concept of something really new in the field of fashion. But to prove successful,

TRUE CHEMISE falls in straight line from shoulders to a short hem, as exemplified here by Paris' De Givenchy.

MODIFIED chemise, lightly fitted and with an easy line as done by New York designer Mr. Mort, is closer to sheath.

it has to be something flattering. Christian Dior succeeded, at the beginning of his career, in turning fashion upside-down with his New Look. But the fashion climate was different then. The wartime restrictive order on fabric, L25, had limited fashion so that women were almost wearing uniforms. They were ready for a change and when the New Look burst upon them, they went for it. Meanwhile, who's wearing the chemise?

Well, it's the darling of some slim young things who would look good in a potato sack anyway. It is not the darling of chic women past 40 no matter how slim they may be.

It does not turn up in strength at the chic Colony Restaurant in New York. It is not seen at the theater or at cocktail parties or in other smart gatherings with exception of one or two cases. And these always draw sufficient attention to set everyone whispering.

While some New York stores are showing it at $300, Ohrbach's on Thirty-Fourth Street has it for $8.95 in cotton. It will probably move at this price, for such copies are always modifications of the extreme. But by and large, it has yet to show signs of raging success.

Wise Mom Knows Maturing Boy Needs Dad's Counsel

The mother of four boys told me that when her oldest boy entered junior high school she told him: "From now on, when you want advice on any important question or want permission to do something you've never done before, you are to go to your father."

"My guidance and advice were fine when you were a little boy. But from now on, your best advice will come from your father—simply because he is a man and can see things from a man's viewpoint."

When you come to me for advice now, you are getting second best, because though I know how I feel, I can't possibly know how a man feels.

"First-rate advice you can get only from your dad."

She confessed it took her a while to get her son to start going to his father with his troubles and problems and questions and demands, but she finally made her point. And, she says, she intends to do the same thing with her other boys.

Dad Should Handle Them

I have an idea that if more women took this attitude toward their husbands and their sons, they would have less trouble with their teen-age boys.

Instead, a lot of women want their children always to believe that Mother Knows Best. And many of them enter into conspiracies with their children to keep something from Dad—if there is any chance he might be disappointed.

These mothers are also "fixers." "Go ahead—and I'll fix it up with your father," they say, as they deliberately encourage a child to do something his father doesn't want him to do.

There is only one person who can make father the head of the household. And that's a mother who refuses to usurp his place.

My Cleaners

NOTEBOOK

By William S. Richardson

Remember me writing a column not too long ago, where I said that it pays to try and look ahead so that if you're going to be needing certain clothes for a special occasion, you'll be able to get them dry cleaned in plenty of time?

Well, it occurred to me later that some of my readers might have said to themselves, "Well, looking ahead doesn't solve the problems I have when some special occasion suddenly crops up, and I find the clothes I want to wear need cleaning."

No, of course it doesn't solve that sort of problem. But I've got a suggestion that will:

Why not pick up the phone today and call us so you can arrange for one of our drivers to make regular pickups and deliveries right at your door?

Just name the day of the week when you'd like him to call regularly, and from then on you can relax. No more worries about getting things done on time.

With a driver calling regularly, you'll get into the habit of thinking ahead a day or so about which of your clothes are due for some expert cleaning treatment.

And if you find now and then that there are none of your garments in need of cleaning at the moment, you are certainly under no obligation to make work for us. What's that? It sounds expensive? Not at all, for aside from the convenience of having your clothes ready when you need them you'll find that they wear better, look smarter and last longer. What more could you ask for a few cents a week? Speaking of a few cents and a lot of worry why not save a few more cents, and save a lot of worry by taking advantage of Crown's Special this week on all children's garments. You will save 20% — Watch for weekly specials. Ask our salesman or Service Store Clerk.

SIR JOHN SHERBROOKE CHAPTER I. O. D. E.

The regular monthly meeting of the Sir John Sherbrooke Chapter, I. O. D. E., on April first was presided over by the Regent, Mrs. G. B. Loomis.

Mrs. John Blue, membership convener, presented to the Chapter as new members: Mrs. Arnold Agnew, Mrs. W. P. Charlebois, Mrs. Janice Bondurant, Miss Margaret Haight, Mrs. David Green, Mrs. Joseph Gilbert, Mrs. Arthur H. Hall, Mrs. Howard L. Leslie, Mrs. George McClintock, Mrs. Lorne Thompson and Mrs. Douglas Ward.

Mrs. Loomis warmly welcomed these new members. After repeating the I. O. D. E. affirmation, they were presented with their pins and signed the Chapter Roll.

Mrs. W. L. McNeil gave a short talk on educational work for the benefit of the incoming members. She then requested support for the Agricultural Scholarship, and the Domestic Science and North Shore Bursaries.

Mrs. F. W. McCrea, Secretary, asked that the "Echoes" subscriptions be sent in.

Welfare at home and abroad secretary, Mrs. E. W. L. Arnold, gave a brief resume of this chapter's activity. On her recommendation, the Chapter voted daily milk for a needy family, $35 to send a girl to Y. W. C. A. Camp for two weeks and the chapter's share to municipal chapter to pay for groceries sent in a case of need. Mrs. Arnold gave out wool for Korean socks and for local welfare. Volunteers were reminded that the chapter's day to make cancer dressings is April 16th.

Mrs. H. S. Horsfall and Mrs. Lyman Tomkins, library conveners, stated that the Hospital free lending library had been taken to all patients each week and asked for volunteers to staff it for the coming month.

The customary sum was voted to help defray expenses for our delegate to the 34th annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter of Quebec in Montreal, April 17th and 18th.

Money raising projects were then discussed. The rummage sale, in which all chapters participate, is being held in the William St. Armoury on April 25th.

Mrs. D. F. Watson, who is convening it for the Chapter, asked for helpers, and stated that through the kindness of Mrs. Jan Pick, rummage could be stored in her garage on the corner of Dominion and Victoria Streets.

Mrs. Eric Webster has graciously offered the use of her home for the annual spring tea. Mrs. Webster and Mrs. Jan Pick will convene this event. Mrs. R. I. McCabe has offered to look after the floral arrangements.

Mrs. W. L. McNeil and Mrs. E. W. L. Arnold are looking after the annual Tag Day in May. The Sherry Party in the fall will be convened by Mrs. Beatrice Bishop.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Sanford Carter and Mrs. A. Timmouh.

If you are so easily bored you can't listen quietly while another person talks, you can always stay at home.

Foot Ailments Often Traced To Ill-Fitting Shoes

OTTAWA (CP) — Those "barking dogs" may be your own—too often neglected feet that were built to last a lifetime if properly maintained.

Experts in the federal health department's occupational health division say the human foot has 26 separate bones, intricately interconnected and each with its own important function.

But feet are small in proportion to the weight they must support. And they come without spare parts, should anything go wrong.

Things often do go wrong with an individual's underpinning. Apart from the congenital disorders a person may be born with, many foot ailments are acquired. COMMON TROUBLES

The most common acquired ailments include fallen arches or "flat feet," calluses, corns and bunions.

Experts say the majority of foot ailments may be traced to ill-fitting or improper footwear, particularly when it's worn during childhood and early teens while the foot is still growing.

Proper fitting for children's shoes is extremely important. It is a time when emphasis should be placed on comfort, adequate support, durability and pliability. Because children's feet grow quickly, shoes should be changed frequently.

Adults also should carefully choose footwear. The experts say the foot will increase in length almost a full size during a day's walking and is likely to swell considerably during hot, humid weather. Also, feet are larger when you're standing on them.

The shoe should fit the foot without forcing. It should be one-quarter to one-half an inch longer than the foot, depending on the type of shoe and what it will be worn for.

Healthy feet, which can make a difference at work, at home or at play, demand attention to a few simple rules.

The rules include wearing properly designed, well-fitted footwear with the proper size of sock or stocking, correct posture and personal cleanliness which applies to both feet and stockings.

The best foot exercise, say the experts, is walking—in properly fitted, suitable footwear.

Australia Gets Blast Instead Of Canada Now

By ED SIMON

LONDON (CP) — We never knew it would be like this. . . We can't find a home. . . My husband had only 10 days' work in six weeks. . .

Statements like these from disillusioned British emigrants have cropped up in United Kingdom newspapers with increasing frequency in recent months. The majority have come from Canada, where current unemployment has magnified the problems of the newcomers and heightened the bitterness of their complaints.

But this particular flock of chickens has come home to roost, not among the pigeons of Trafalgar Square, where Canada House is located, but on the roof of Australia House at the other end of the Strand.

Writing from Sydney, a correspondent of The Scotsman paints a picture in which only the place names and the local background vary from the all-too-familiar accounts of Britons wrestling with adversity in Toronto or Vancouver.

As in Canada, housing and unemployment are the big problems and some disappointed settlers are blaming immigration authorities in London for not giving them adequate warning. And in one respect the Australian immigrants are worse off. It isn't as easy to raise passage money if they want to go home.

A big cause of discontent among new arrivals is the accommodation awaiting the newcomer, who is billeted in a big encampment of drab military huts known as a "Commonwealth hostel" until he finds more permanent shelter.

"We thought there would be large blocks of modern flats to live in," was the comment of one disconsolate housewife.

Another feared that her husband, a bricklayer, would have to work for two years before they could afford to move into their own house.

But The Scotsman correspondent adds that, even among the most discouraged immigrants, most are determined to stick it out and are contemptuous of the minority who throw in the towel.

"A lot of them are ignorant," said one hostel resident. "All they can think of is that it is unpleasant now, not what it will be like in a few years when they have settled down."

Another recent arrival offered a different reason:

"It is the British birthright to complain and some of us here in Australia carry it to extremes. Our conversation is interspersed with 'Over there we . . . ' and 'Back home we . . . '"

Meanwhile, government officials remain determined to keep up the flow of immigrants.

"To preserve our families ties, it is essential that we should give preference to migrants from Britain," says Immigration Minister Athol Townley. "To strengthen Australia's economic position and to maintain her defence capacity at the desired level, we shall continue to need migrants from the United Kingdom."

Sherbrooke Tennis Association Protests Suspension Of Henri Rochon By PQLTA, Asks For Lifting Of Ban

The Sherbrooke Tennis Association has protested to the Province of Quebec Lawn Tennis Association for the decision handed down suspending Henri Rochon indefinitely and have forwarded a motion to that effect following a meeting held by the local club.

Rochon's suspension was the main topic on the agenda with president Majella Charest presiding. The general feeling of the meeting was that Rochon deserved a severe reprimand but not indefinite suspension for something which happened a few years ago.

After considerable discussion it was the general opinion of the meeting that they objected with the decision handed down and asked for the immediate lifting of the suspension. Three important reasons were given in asking the PQLTA to reconsider their action.

It was pointed out that Henri Rochon had done considerable in helping to promote tennis throughout the Province and was for years one of the top racket players in Canada. The local Association agreed that he was one of the big factors in getting the game back in the public eye.

His past record should have been taken into consideration, but it seems that it was overlooked. Rochon was for nine years one of the mainstays of the Canadian Davis Cup squad and always gave his best despite the strong opposition.

The local group came to the conclusion that the CLTA and the PQLTA failed to give Rochon the support he needed when he was playing in the various tournaments across the country. Despite this Rochon still continued to help the various clubs throughout the Province, at anytime, and it was felt that the PQLTA had rendered a decision without taking everything into consideration.

The local club went on record asking for the immediate lifting of the suspension and hoped that various Associations throughout the Province would follow in their footsteps.

Zora Folley Out To Cash In At Expense Of Eddie Machen Tomorrow Night In San Francisco Cow Palace

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Heavyweight Zora Folley, after earning the No. 2 contender's ranking but not much money in five years of boxing, aims to cash in at the expense of favored Eddie Machen here Wednesday night.

The guarantee of $15,000 or 25 per cent of the net gate will bring the biggest payday to date for Folley but he and manager Bill Swift see bigger things ahead.

Folley and Machen, the No. 1 contender from Redding, Calif., signed for this fight in hopes the winner can get a crack at champion Floyd Patterson.

Whether this comes off is problematical since the champ's manager, Gus D'Amato has turned down Machen as a foe and has taken no firm stand on Folley from Chandler, Ariz.

Swift, a grand grandson of the man who founded the meat packing firm bearing that name, estimated that handling Folley, his first managerial endeavor, has cost him about $7,000.

DESERVED OPPORTUNITY

"I decided to take over active management because I thought Folley deserved an opportunity and had the ability," Swift declares. He says he thinks the odds for the 10-round bout with Machen are out of line. The 25-year-old Machen is about 2-10-1 for the televised bout.

Machen is undefeated in 24 bouts including 16 knockouts. Folley, 26, has a 38-2-1 record, is unbeaten in his last 17 outings and Swift notes that he has stopped 25 foes—one more than Machen has fought.

Physically, the two boxers bear a marked similarity. Both will weigh in the 195-pound neighborhood with Folley, at six feet, about an inch taller than Machen. Each has a reach of 75 inches and a normal chest measurement of 42 inches.

Blind War Veteran Is Standout At Darts, Taking Up Other Sports; Despite Loss Of Eyesight Is Fine

VICTORIA (CP)—Charlie McFarlane, 68-year-old blind war veteran, has astonished many with his ability in sports and games of skill.

The First World War veteran, who lost his sight suddenly in 1932 is a bowler and has trounced some of the best dart players. He can hold his own against any domino player in Victoria.

Just now he is learning to swim and spends a great deal of time at the Crystal Garden pool.

When he lost his sight he quickly readjusted his life, aided by his wife and friends. In a short time he proved he could overcome his handicap and began winning dart tournaments.

"He lives in a psychic world," said Mrs. McFarlane, a former singer. "His memory helps him to overcome obstacles and he can picture things in detail."

During blackouts in the Second World War he acted as guide for people in the dark streets. Last year Mr. McFarlane gave the good cornea of one eye to a woman in England to help restore her eyesight. The cornea was healthy even though he was unable to see with it.

He attends parties and dances and enjoys himself generally.

"I am a happy man," he said, "but I sometimes miss one thing—an old English pub."

Tony DiBiase Gains Second Nod Over Schmidt

NEW YORK (AP)—Tony DiBiase made it two straight over Peter Schmidt by gaining another split decision over his fellow New Yorker in a television 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night. DiBiase, the 8 to 5 favorite, weighed 150 to Schmidt's 145.

The stocky, 22-year-old DiBiase edged his 24-year-old rival, who formerly fought out of Toronto, in the same arena March 10.

Lucile Wheeler Named To C.A.A. Hall Of Fame

MONTREAL (CP)—Lucile Wheeler, winner of two world ski championships Saturday was named to the Canadian Amateur Athletic Hall of Fame, along with two skating pairs and two rowing teams.

At a meeting here Miss Wheeler became the third Canadian skier so honored. Twins Rhoda and Rhona Wurtell were named members several years ago.

Skating partners Frances D'Amore and Norris Bowden, and pairs Barbara Wagner and Robert Paul, all of Toronto, winners of Canadian, North American and world gold medals, were given honorary memberships in the hall.

Also honored were the Canadian four of Vancouver, gold medal winners at the Olympic Games in Melbourne, Australia, and the eight-oared crew of Vancouver, winners of the British Empire Games title.

Ron Delaney Named Top Track Athlete

NEW YORK (CP)—Ron Delaney, winner of 24 straight mile races, Monday was named the outstanding track athlete of the indoor season by the Track Writers Association of New York.

The Irish star, who competes for Villanova University broke the world indoor record with a 4:03.4 mile at Chicago March 14. He has won 29 straight races.

Yanks' Simpson Fractures Right Wrist When Hit

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Outfielder Harry Simpson of New York Yankees suffered a fractured right wrist when hit by a pitched ball in the fourth inning of his club's 20-1 exhibition victory over Philadelphia Phillies Monday.

Simpson will be out from three to four weeks.

Simpson was hit by a pitch thrown by lefthander Curt Simmons.

Arnold Palmer To Play In Canadian Open

EDMONTON (CP)—Arnold Palmer, winner of the Masters tournament, says he will play in the $25,000 Canadian open golf championship over Edmonton's Mayfair course Aug. 20-23.

Ed Thomas, Mayfair Golf and Country Club president, announced Monday that Palmer said in a telephone conversation Sunday that he wants to compete in the Canadian open, which he won in Toronto in 1955.

Moose Skowron Leads Yankees To 20-1 Win Over Phillies; Henry Aaron Belts Homer As Braves Edge Dodgers 3-2

Whatever happened to the trade that was supposed to send New York Yankee second baseman Bobby Richardson to Cleveland in return for relief ace Ray Narleski?

Just before spring training opened, there were stories quoting Frank Lane, general manager of the Indians, to the effect that the Yanks probably would make the deal, tossing in a young pitcher with Richardson, as just as soon as they got word of Tony Kubek's draft status.

Now, on the way north for their American League opener a week from today, Kubek is the Yankee shortstop, and Narleski is getting belted in exhibition shots with the Tribe.

"If Lane said that about the trade before," said Yankee manager Casey Stengel, "tell him I don't want to make the deal."

Narleski was smacked hard Monday while Johnny Antonelli and Paul Giel shut out the Indians on six hits in a 7-0 exhibition victory for San Francisco Giants. Rookie Willie Kirkland's eighth home run and Jim King's 400-foot bell roughed Narleski up in his six-inning stay.

OUTFIELDER INJURED

The Yankees got some bad news when outfielder-first baseman Harry Simpson suffered a broken wrist. He will be out from three to four weeks. Simpson was struck by a pitch by southpaw Curt Simmons as the Yanks belted Philadelphia Phillies 20-1.

Bill Skowron socked a pair of home runs and drove in five runs. The Moose leads the Yanks with 10 homers, 27 RBIs and a .406 batting average.

Mickey Mantle, Elston Howard, Bobby Del Greco and Don Larsen also homered. Don Larsen, set to pitch the opener at Boston, held the Phils to four hits in seven innings.

Henry Aaron homered and drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly as Milwaukee Braves defeated Los Angeles 3-2. Warren Spahn, long a patsy for Dodger bats, blanked them in his five frames, with Ernie Johnson getting the decision after relieving Bob Rush in the seventh.

WHITE SOX BLANKED

A three-run homer by Ray Katt, late of the Giants, backed up a three-way shutout job by Lindy and Von McDaniel and Herm Wehmeier in an 8-0 St. Louis victory over Chicago White Sox.

Ron Kline joined Bob Friend and Vern Law with a nine-inning job for Pittsburgh Pirates, allowing only four hits in a 4-2 decision over Boston. Frank Thomas homered for the Bucs.

Jim Lemon drove in three runs, two with a homer, as Washington defeated Cincinnati 7-3. Vada Pinson and Frank Robinson homered for the Reds.

Gene Woodling's homer gave Baltimore a 2-0 lead over Chicago Cubs, but a second-inning downpour cancelled the game.

Eighty-Four English Soccer Teams Clashed Monday But Results Fail To Change Race For Championships

LONDON (Reuters)—Eighty-four English soccer teams clashed Monday in the windup of a heavy schedule of Easter weekend games which brought no major shift in the home-stretch race for league honors.

Wolverhampton Wanderers, powerful Midlands squad leading the First Divisions, notched another win in London, shutting out Arsenal 2-0.

With only five league games left, the Wolves are in front with 59 points from 37 games - 26 wins, seven ties and four losses.

Preston North End, in second place with 54 points, downed Blackpool 2-1 Tuesday in its 38th game.

But whatever Preston does in its remaining four games, the Wolves need only two more wins to clinch the league championship.

The battle at the bottom of the First Division also remained unchanged, with all four cellar teams losing Tuesday. The two teams at the end of the list when the schedule is played out are demoted to the Second Division next season.

The top two in the Second Division got promoted and the same shifts take place between the Second and Third Divisions of the league.

Joe Devlin Gets Decision Over Armand Savoie

BOSTON (AP)—Blood-soaked Joe Devlin battered veteran fighter Armand Savoie of Montreal Monday night to gain a unanimous 10-round decision. Devlin weighed 150 1/2, Savoie 146 1/2.

Despite a broken nose and a cut under his right eye, Devlin repeatedly had the clever Savoie in trouble but couldn't finish him.

It was the 13th victory in as many professional fights for the young Boston battler.

Judge Harry Sundberg voted 98-95 for Devlin and Judge John Savko had it 97-92. Referee Jimmy McCarron voted 96-93 for the winner.

Both boxers were on the canvas once but the story of the bout was Devlin's savage attack after he'd been cut in the sixth round.

Bob Hazle May Be Traded By Milwaukee Braves

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—There was speculation in the barnstorming Milwaukee Braves' entourage Monday that Bob Hazle might become trading bait in a deal for a centre fielder.

Hazle, whose .403 batting average sparked the Braves' pennant drive last year, was replaced in right field against the Los Angeles Dodgers Sunday by Harry Henebrink, a third baseman.

Manager Fred Haney labelled the move an experiment to develop outfield protection. But fuel was added to the rumor when reporters heard that Ben Geraghty, manager of the Braves' Wichita, Kan., farm club, was reported to have told the management that Hanebrink could do the Braves' more good than Hazle.

Manchester Gets Permission To Postpone Event

LUXEMBOURG (Reuters)—The European Soccer Union Monday night decided to postpone the Milan-Manchester United semi-final of the European Soccer Cup series, as requested by United.

Manchester asked for the postponement because of the Munich air crash Feb. 6 which killed eight of their first-string players and injured others.

The organizing committee of the European Union decided Monday the first leg of the two-game, total-goal series will be played in Manchester May 14 and the second in Milan May 21. Originally the union ruled semi-finals should be completed by April 30.

United, defending English League champion, is set for the final of the English Football Association Cup May 3 against Bolton Wanderers.

Anderson Is Committed On Extortion Charge

CALGARY (CP)—Ezrett Sugarfoot Anderson, Calgary football player from 1949 to 1955, has been committed to trial on a charge of extorting $375 from a 30-year-old Calgary mother of two children whom he knew during the 1949 football season.

Anderson was committed last week after three hours of testimony before a Supreme Court judge.

Aim To Break Up Early Rushes As Teams Prepare For Opener Tonight; Doug Mohns May Miss First Battle

MONTREAL (CP)—Coach Toe Blake's No. 1 problem when the Stanley Cup final opens tonight is to prevent Boston Bruins from getting the first-period jump on his Montreal Canadiens.

"It's definitely something I'm going to talk over with our boys," said Blake, well aware that those early big pushes by the Bruins were a big factor in Boston's win over New York Rangers in the cup semi-final.

The Boston record shows that in the six games against New York the Bruins missed scoring in the first period only once. In the five other games they scored at least two goals in the opening period. The high was four in the opening final game, an 8-2 win.

Correlated with Blake's No. 1 problem is the business of trying to hobble Boston's high-scoring trio of Jerry Toppazzini, Don McKenney and Fleming Mackell. This line accounted for 17 of Boston's 28 goals against New York.

HABS HEAVY FAVORITES

Blake wasn't saying which of his three lines will get the assignment. It's a good guess the job will be turned over to Bert Olmstead, Don Marshall and Jean Beliveau, highly effective in halting Detroit Red Wings' Gordie Howe in Montreal's four-straight sweep of the semi-final.

Meanwhile, Canadiens have been made heavy favorites to take the first game and the best-of-seven series. Betting circles Monday night had Montreal 14 to 5 to win tonight's game and 5 to 1 to win the series.

On defence Canadiens appear in better shape than the Bruins despite the continued absence, because of injury, of Tom Johnson. Indications early today were that defenceman Doug Mohns will be missing from the Boston lineup because of a slipped pelvic bone. He was due to report today, 24 hours after his teammates arrived in Montreal.

Mohns, one-time forward, accounted for three goals and eight assists against New York, getting five assists in the last game to tie the single-game record for playoffs.

OFFENCE SET

Offensively, Blake is all set with his three regular combinations. The high scorer against Detroit was veteran Maurice (Rocket) Richard with seven goals in four games. He will work again with his brother, Henri, and Dickie Moore.

Both coaches declared they're trying to guard against over-confidence on the part of their players.

Schmidt said his Bruins should have learned a lesson from last year. They polished off the favored Detroit team in a semi-final, "then came here all talking and chesky." Canadiens took the final 4-1.

Canadiens had long practices Thursday and Saturday, tapering off with a 30-minute workout Monday.

The Bruins worked out shortly after their arrival Monday. They then left for an inn 50 miles north of Montreal in the Laurentians.

During regular-season play Canadiens, who won the National Hockey League title handily, had a big battle on the Bruins. They won nine games from Boston, lost three and tied two.

OHA Junior "A" Wants To Discontinue Inter-Locking Schedule With Ottawa Jr. Canadiens, Protest Player Gamble

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A council Monday voted to discontinue an inter-locking schedule with Ottawa-Hull Canadiens and to protest Canadiens' use of goalie Bruce Gamble in a Memorial Cup semi-final series with the OHA champions.

The council voted 6 to 0 with Peterborough abstaining, to refuse any move towards an inter-locking schedule next season. The seven Junior A teams and the Canadiens have had such a set-up for the last two seasons since Ottawa has no junior league to participate in.

The protest against the use of Gamble, who played for the OHA Junior A Guelph Biltmores during the regular season, was made by Staff Smythe, whose Toronto Marlboros meet Canadiens Friday in the Eastern Canadian junior final and the right to advance into the Memorial Cup final against the Western champions.

Ottawa was granted Gamble as an emergency replacement after two of their netminders were injured during the season. Smythe objected that the replacement deal had passed before the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association gave its permission for the move.

The council also supported a proposal to have the OHA Junior A champions move directly into Memorial Cup play without a series involving either Canadiens, refugees from the disbanded Quebec Junior League, or the Maritime champions.

This year, as in 1957, the CAHA called off a best-of-five series between Ottawa and the Maritime winners after Canadiens won the first two games by overwhelming margins.

Maritime Hockey Picture Resumes As Teams Iron Out Difficulties And Settle Down To Playing Once Again

The key word in the Maritime hockey picture today is "resume." That's what two playoff series leading to the Maritime Senior championship will do tonight after days of bickering and disagreements.

Sixth game of the Nova Scotia-Prince Edward Island semi-final between Charlottetown Royals and Northside Combines resumes at the P.E.I. capital. Combines lead the best-of-seven set 3-2.

Financially embarrassed, Combines balked at continuing last week after winning all three games at home before meagre crowds. Northside decided Saturday to make the trip to Charlottetown for the remaining games after getting a guarantee from the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association of $250 to help meet expenses.

At Bathurst, the hometown Papermakers and Campbellton Tigers resume their best-of-seven New Brunswick final after a week's delay. The teams couldn't agree on playing dates.

COME TO TERMS

New disagreements have been settled and the series, tied 1-1, will continue until a winner is decided to play the Nova Scotia-P.E.I.

The Maritime Juvenile final opens at Chatham Wednesday. The two-game, total-goal series pits Notre Dame Athletic Club of Sydney Mines against Chatham. Second game will be played at Sydney, probably this weekend.

At Truro, Rockingham Eagles won the Nova Scotia Rural championship Saturday with a 6-5 win over Brierley Brook Aces in a sudden-death game. Aces are Antigonish County champions. The Eagles won the Halifax Suburban League title.

Lew Hoad And Pancho Gonzales To Clash In Regular Fixture Of Pro Tennis Tour At Montreal Forum

MONTREAL — Never in tennis has the issue been more clearly defined than in the head-on collision between Pancho Gonzales professional champion of the world, and the Australian strongboy, Lew Hoad, who gave up his top amateur spot to seek the pro title and a probable $125,000, or more over the next two years from promoter Jack Kramer. Hoad and Gonzales, now engaged in a transcontinental tour will meet at the Forum in what should be a most interesting match on Friday evening, April 25.

from the amateur ranks. However, Gonzales won every tournament in sight to keep his crown. In 1956, Big Pancho overwhelmed Tony Trabert, 74 matches to 27, to retain his title. Last year, little Ken Rosewall loomed up to challenge Pancho but he was not equal to the task and was beaten 50 to 26. Now Lew Hoad steps up to throw his version of the big game at Gonzales in an effort to succeed where Rosewall failed and so far, in close to 40 matches, Hoad has managed to keep ahead of Pancho, as he was leading 20-18 earlier this week. Hoad and Gonzales will thus appear at the Forum for a very important match, Friday evening April 25 in an Australia vs America duel which also features the former amateur champion of the world, Tony Trabert, and the "people's choice", Pancho Segura. It should easily be a program of the finest tennis in the world.

ON HOCKEY WARPATH — An odd mixture of hockey equipment and Indian regalia was introduced at the Peewee hockey tournament at Goderich, Ont., when the Sour Springs team became the first from the Six Nations reserve to compete in the annual classic. # Biologist Gustave Prevost Claims British May Have Answer Soon To Famous Question Of "Polluted Water"

MONTREAL (CP) — Biologist Gustave Prevost says an answer to polluted waters—one of today's top problems for wildlife officials and industrialists—may soon be found in England. A lot of British time and talent now is harnessed against the problem, which has become critical there, says Dr. Prevost, director of the biological bureau of the Quebec fish and game department.

temperature may be too warm for the factory farther down. "Now they're taking the means to do something, and we'll probably get lots of new knowledge on pollution from England, because they are in a critical state. "It could lead to better use of our own water when we see what's happening there."

He returned recently after 2 1/2 months in Europe, six weeks with a Quebec exhibition in a Paris department store and the other four weeks spent touring hatcheries and fisheries research stations in England, France, Switzerland, Belgium and Italy.

During Dr. Prevost's stay overseas it was reported here that the institute of biology was to supervise stocking of lakes in the Paris area by the Canadian government.

CRITICAL PROBLEM

In England, he says, manufacturing plants are stacked alongside each other on the banks of rivers. "The life of the industries itself is in danger because they need clear water. The one at the top of the river is all right."

Dr. Prevost said however that he expected no changes. At present the federal government and the Quebec fish and game department, acting separately, send salmon eggs to France for hatching and rearing. "We've been doing that for quite a few years, perhaps three or four times altogether," he said.

Eilers Rally To Edge Tillsonburg In Cage Final
VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Eilers roared back from a 13-point half-time deficit to overwhelm Tillsonburg Livingstons 66-60 Monday night in the opening game of the Canadian senior basketball final.

Tillsonburg, the young fast-moving eastern champions, mastered the Eilers in the first half, taking a 35-22 lead. Eilers caught fire in the second half and stunned both the Livingstons and the crowd of 1,050. After 4 1/2 minutes, Eilers trailed by only five points, 40-35, and with eight minutes left, they overhauled Tillsonburg for a 51-50 lead. Tillsonburg never caught up.

Patterson May Defend Title In US Soon

Senators Have Problems But Despite Everything Manager Lavagetto Thinks They're Improved 70% Defensively

By JOE REICHLER
ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Cookie Lavagetto, manager of Washington Senators, looks like a man beset by problems. Looks, in this case, are not deceiving. The Senators have so many problems it is difficult to find a starting point.

Washington pitching was the poorest in the league last year. The team was seventh in batting, sixth in fielding and last in the standings, 43 games out of first place. The team stole 13 bases, the lowest total in major league history.

"We couldn't run, we couldn't field and we couldn't throw," said Lavagetto. "But these deficiencies were overshadowed by our weakness at the plate and our weakness at the mound. But I got rid of a lot of those guys. Things will be different."

Lavagetto thinks this year's crew is 70 per cent improved defensively with the acquisition of little Albie Pearson in centre field, Bob Malkmus at second base, Neil Chrissy in right field and Norm Zauchin at first base.

Ralph Toohy Serves Notice He Hopes To Be Back In Action With Ticats Once Again At His Favorite Spot

By JACK SULLIVAN
Ralph Toohy wants all charter members of the "we hate Toohy" club in Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto to renew their subscriptions. He'll be his usual ever-loving self next football season, which means one thing: he'll belt anyone who gets in his way on the field.

Football's bad man with the Grey Cup champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats gave advance warning last week that he figures "trying out for football again." That's fine for Ticat fans who delight in his battering tactics but spectators in the other Big Four cities simply don't like him. He plays too rough. He's the dirtiest player in the game in Canada, they claim.

Senators have problems but despite everything manager Lavagetto thinks they're improved 70% defensively. 300 baseball. Washington is a have-not club in every department except catching and in the outfield where Roy Sievers reigns. Clint Courtney, Lew Berberet and a rookie who may beat out both of them for the No. 1 spot, Steve Korcheck, give the Nats the deepest catching staff in the league.

Sievers, who led the American League last year in homers—42—and RBIs—114—while batting .301, is a fixture in left. Jim Lemon, who had 17 home runs with a .284 batting average, must fight off a determined bid by Chrissy to hold on to right field. Chrissy, who hit .343 at Indianapolis last year, has outdistanced Lemon this spring.

The key to the outfield, however, is Pearson, who batted .297 at San Francisco last year and cut down 28 runners trying for the extra base.

The Senator infield is three-quarters new and may be completely new before the season progresses too far. Zauchin, a six-foot-four slugger, is at first base. Malkmus (.291), drafted from Wichita, may get the big chance at second although so far he has been overshadowed by Herb Plews. Rocky Bridges is set at short. A Chattanooga graduate, Harmon Killebrew, who drove in 101 runs last year, is challenging veteran Eddie Yost for the third base job.

in playing football, we're certainly interested in offering him a contract. It would have been a shame if Ticats decided that their eight-year veteran with the big "77" on his back didn't figure in their plans. Where would they—or, for that matter, any other team—get another color guy such as terrible Toohy? He can enliven proceedings more than somewhat.

FATHER OF FIVE
Off the field in Hamilton, truck salesman Toohy is a pleasant, easy-going, soft-spoken chap and the doting father of five who is trying to make a living. On the field, particularly at his specialties of running downfield under punts or on kickoffs, he has one idea in mind: To hit, and hit hard, anyone who happens to be between him and before he can get in position to cream the ball-carrier.

Every club in the Big Four has assigned men to look after Toohy, to batter him around after some particularly hard charging by the six-foot 200-pound Ticat. Four years ago Montreal Alouettes sent four players and designed special play to get Toohy.

Lucan Edges Mildmay To Win "D" Series Title
GODERICH, Ont. (CP) — A goal by Roger Black with just 40 seconds left in regulation time gave Lucan's Leprechauns a 5-4 victory here Monday night over Mildmay and the D series title of the Young Canada Week Pee Wee Hockey tournament.

Goderich sent the home town fans home happy earlier in the day by whipping Walkerton 11-0 to send them in to Friday's B semi-final against Georgetown. Goderich flashed a powerful attack in scoring their second straight shutout of the day. Earlier the Lions had blanked Strathroy 7-0.

Boston Red Sox Picked To Finish Ahead Of New York Yankees In All Pennant Race; Have Three Big Factors

NEW YORK (AP)—The vastly improved Boston Red Sox, who finished higher last season than in any year since 1951, are rated a "sleeper" in this corner and the prediction here is that the Ted Williams-led crew will end New York Yankees' three-year reign and capture their first flag since 1916.

The Yankees haven't looked good this spring but, more than that—with the exception of Mickey Mantle, Gil McDougald, Bill Skowron and one or two others—the players have gone about their work with an indifferent, almost lethargic air bordering on boredom. One other thing: It is almost certain the Yankees will open the season without having completed a single trade or purchase of any consequence. That's standing pat, which the Yankees have never done before. In 1957 the Yankees won their eighth flag in nine years.

The Yankees shouldn't finish lower than second with Chicago White Sox wrestling third from Detroit Tigers because of their superior pitching, tighter defence and greater speed. The order of finish is picked this way: 1. Boston, 2. New York, 3. Chicago, 4. Detroit, 5. Baltimore, 6. Cleveland, 7. Kansas City, 8. Washington. The Red Sox are not a solid team by any means but they possess the three ingredients necessary to win. They have good pitching, sufficient power and, for the first time in years, a formidable infield and bench. Now they have the best third baseman in the league in Frank Malzone, shortstop Don Buddin who has shown great promise and they figure to be strengthened at second whether the job goes to Billy Conzolo or Ken Aspromonte.

The outfield of Williams in left, Jimmy Piersall in centre and Jackie Jensen in right is generally regarded as the best in the league. Williams, naturally, must have another good year in his system. The 39-year-old star, who hit .388 last season, has been retarded by injuries. While he hasn't played in a single exhibition game, the big fellow insists he will be ready by opening day. The Yankees will be a threat throughout. Any team that boasts of such stars as Mantle, McDougald, Skowron, Yogi Berra, Hank Bauer and young Tony Kubek must be regarded highly.

Maple Leafs Sell Babe To Seattle Club

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (CP) — Third-baseman Loren Babe of Toronto Maple Leafs in baseball's International League Monday night was sold to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League. Babe, 30-year-old lefthander, had been with the Leafs four seasons. He was replaced by Stan Jok at the start of last season, but returned to third when Jok had an off-form spell. He also played in the outfield late in the season when Leafs were hit by injuries. Babe hit .259 in 101 games with the Leafs last year. Before joining the club he had brief trials with New York Yankees and Philadelphia Phillies.

Ottawa Travel Bureau Gets Some Odd Ones

OTTAWA (CP) — As warmer weather rolls up towards Canada letters begin to pour into the Canadian government travel bureau, and there are some strange samples.

An English couple wanted assurance there were reputable nudist camps at which they could stay, or they would not visit Canada.

Two young men asked for a holiday spot with good fishing "and near college girls."

A prisoner in a penitentiary wanted travel folders — he was going to visit Canada when he got out.

Two young United States girls had heard of a place called Neck of the Woods and asked directions how to get there, because it sounded romantic.

BIG BUSINESS
These are just a few taken from the mountain of mail received at the travel bureau here in response to advertising of Canada as a superb holiday land.

This year Canada is spending $1,360,000 on tourist advertising, almost all in the United States. This is $100,000 more than it spent last year.

But the expenditure is small compared to the $362,000,000 that tourists spent in Canada last year, a record figure.

Canadians however spent more abroad, for the seventh consecutive year, than tourists spent in Canada. The deficit was $161,000,000.

The travel bureau does not expect this deficit to disappear suddenly, but it does see indications that the tourist business will be good in 1958, perhaps the best ever.

than they were at the same time. Inquiries are 20 per cent higher last year.

FEW COMPLAINTS
In 1957 there were a record 28,000,000 border crossings by visitors entering Canada from the United States. Americans spent $328,000,000 in Canada, the remaining $34,000,000 being spent by visitors from other countries.

Travel is the country's third-ranking "export" commodity, after the $718,000,000 for newsprint exports and $513,000,000 for wheat.

Americans who have already visited Canada sometimes write the travel bureau. They do not complain often. A few did not like seeing United States flags flying over Canadian tourist establishments because they thought it a commercialization of their national emblem.

Some were surprised at provincial liquor laws that prevent them in some areas from buying a drink whenever they want one.

Among oddities received in bureau mail was a monkey "kin from India. The sender wanted a Canadian typewriter in exchange.

A West African asked for a Santa Claus bear to wear at a Christmas party.

An American matron wanted a

"mountie" in uniform to give color to her garden party.

STRESS COURTESY
Another American wanted to know where he could buy fresh-caught fish. He wanted to show them to his wife on returning from a "fishing trip" after spending his time in Canada at the racetracks.

But most writers want to know where to find reasonable accommodation in Canada, food at moderate prices, sights to see and places to fish, play golf or just relax.

Magazine and newspaper advertising in the U.S. is valuable but travel bureau director Alan Field believes Canada's best advertising is the word passed around by an American on returning home after being treated well here.

Courtesy and hospitality shown by Canadians to visitors is considered pure gold by the tourist industry.

LIFE EXPECTANCY
Australia's figures on life expectancy now are 72 years compared with 41 years in 1910.
