STEAMER PRESCOTT BURNED TO WATER AT VICTORIA PIER

Great Crowds Witness Spectacle as Old Boat is Destroyed—Fire Origin is Mystery.

Steamer Prescott—Burned.
Estimated value—$40,000.
Damage—Total loss.
Insurance—Fully covered.
Origin of fire—Unknown.
Fire started 10.30 p.m.; under control 11.30 p.m.; out 12.15 p.m.
One man overboard; no one was injured.

Felix Perreault, a carpenter of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company, and Chief Tremblay, the leader of the Montreal fire department, divided honors while the steamer Prescott was burning to the water's edge near midnight last night. Perreault rescued the only man who was in danger of losing his life when the conflagration started; Tremblay put out the fire.

Before the latter's deed was entirely accomplished, however, the Prescott had become a total loss, the Terrebonne's shed, close to where she was moored, with all its contents, had been eaten up by the flames, while the Victoria pier suffered considerable damage by being ripped up by the firemen, who suspected that the underpinning had also caught from the burning vessel. The damage is estimated at $40,000.

The crew of the steamship Trinidad, which was warped between the land and the Prescott, and which, when the flames were at their height, was thought to be in danger, were hastily piped on deck, steam raised and preparations made to work out into the stream, but the firemen did such good work in confining the blaze to the place where it started that it was not necessary to move her.

Crew Driven to Flight.

It developed from the story of the fire told to the Star by the unfortunate ship's crew of four, all of Sorel, that everything was shipshape on board the steamer, and examinations of the ship had been made before the crew had begun to talk of turning in. About 10.30 one of the men in passing the engine room saw a sheet of flame burst out of the trap. He rushed for the assistance of the other members of the crew. The pumps were manned, one fore and one aft, in order to get water to fight the flames. But the men thought that in this instance, discretion was the better part of valor, and retreated in various stages of dishabille to the wharf. One man clutching a shirt in one hand jumped off the upper deck to the wharf.

The others jumped from various parts of the ship attired very lightly and ran down the dock to shelter in the friendly forecastle of the "Rapids Queen." The men say that no steam was on previous to or during the fire. The exact origin of the fire is not known. The "Prescott" had been laid up for weeks at Longueuil, which led some people to think that the engines in the boat were in a very poor condition and were the cause of the fire.

All the crew escaped by the gang plank without difficulty, with the exception of one of the deck hands. He was alone, aft. When he saw the blaze first he made an effort to cope with it single handed. Then, realizing the danger, he ran forward, shouting as he ran. He seemed to be enveloped in flames. Once and twice around the upper deck he flew. The gang plank was blazing. The ship's side was a good fifteen feet from the wharf. He made one move as though to jump. Then, changing his mind he ran swiftly to the stern, let himself gently over the rail and dropped on to the edge of a small scow moored at the stern.

The scow tipped and Sailor Jack, with a shriek disappeared into the water and darkness.

CARPENTER SAVES SAILOR'S LIFE.

Felix Perreault, who with several other carpenters, was working on the steamer St. Laurent across the pier, had seen the blaze. Thinking that the tool house was on fire, he, with his mates, dashed across, just in time to hear Sailor Jack's last shriek. While the others were peering keenly into the water, now well lit up by the blaze from the steamer, Perreault grabbed a hand line and threw it carefully towards a black knot rising out of the water. The end held fast and the carpenters pulled. Sailor Jack, puffing and spouting, came to shore. A dripping trail along the pavement towards Commissioners street, soon showed that he had had quite enough of the fire.

By this time an alarm box on the pier had been pulled and the apparatus of the down town district, with Chief Tremblay and the newly appointed Sub-Chief Mann in command, commenced to clatter towards the water front. Hydrants there were none within a couple of city blocks, and the hose had to be laid from Common st. to the water's edge. Chief Tremblay, shouting hoarse orders, striding here and there, acting as fireman and policeman too, for the police were not to be found, was too busy for pleasantries.

Chief Tremblay is Busy.

"Now, follow your stream," he shouted to the branchmen, as the paddle-box collapsed under the water pressure; "and you, young fellow, clear out of here before I chuck you in the river," to one of many who by this time, despite the lateness of the hour, had been attracted like the moths to the flame.

About the same time that the Fire Department arrived the two fire-boats which guard the harbor put in an appearance with a couple of heavy streams. The St. Peter tied up alongside the wharf and began a competition with the Waterous engines as to which could throw in the most, while the M. Dupre lay in the offing and shot broadside on. Before the fire was extinguished completely the hold of the Prescott was filled to deck level with water, and the hull was rapidly sinking. The superstructure was completely burned away. Cabins, staterooms, engines, everything was completely destroyed, and the vessel now only rivals the Laprairie, burned a short time ago, for a total wreck.

Vessel is Total Loss.

E. Percy Smith, secretary of the Richelieu and Ontario Company, was on the scene early. He was approached by a Star reporter while he was endeavoring to get a first-hand account of the affair from the crew of the ill-starred craft.

"The Prescott was a spare boat, a substitute on the rapids division, and while the destruction of the Prescott is a loss, it will mean no loss in earnings, as the unlucky craft had no regular run," he said to the Star man.

"Merely an Excursion Boat."

"The total destruction of two of our fleet within a month is almost too much for any company's streak of ill-luck," he continued.

When it was seen that the boat could not be saved from entire destruction by fire, Secretary Smith, of the R. and O. Navigation Company, suggested to the fire chiefs that the burning boat be towed across to the island and beached where the company would not incur additional expenes to raise the vessel. The idea was given up as risky, as the boat sinking in mid-channel would seriously obstruct traffic.

Hundreds of spectators had crowded the piers in the neighborhood to watch the fire and until the arrival of the police, the work of the firemen was seriously handicapped. The crew of the Trinidad, which aided materially in the fight, eliminated part of this trouble by turning a hose on the crowd.

Sub-Chief Mann Initiated.

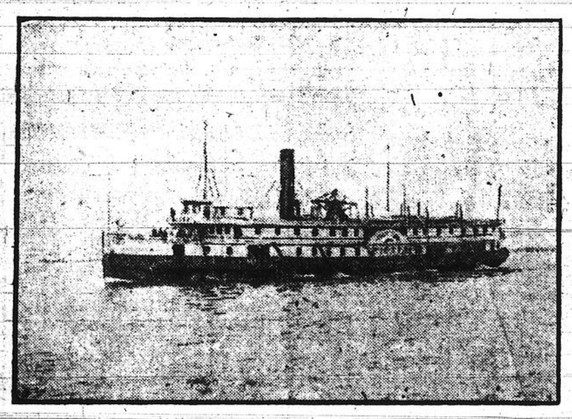
It was Sub-Chief Mann's initiation to his new position.

"One of the hottest yet," he said, wiping his eyes, tearful with smoke. "It's no kind of a place to give a fellow a show. Not a hydrant within a mile, and fine fuel."

Only Thursday the Prescott shot the rapids and toured the harbour with a party of the delegates attending the convention of the League of American Municipalities.

This has been a fateful pier for the Richelieu and Ontario Company. Eight years ago in the winter the steamer Montreal was in winter quarters at the exact place the Prescott was burned. She took fire and was burned to the water's edge. Great crowds went to see the fire and so many crowded on the shed to get a better view that the shed collapsed and about a dozen were hurt.

Among other fires that the company has had recently was the destruction of the Laprairie at the Laprairie wharf, three weeks ago, and the burning of a new steamer at the docks in Toronto five years ago, before she had been taken over from the builders, the Polson firm.



SPECTACULAR FIRE—The Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co.'s steamer Prescott burned at its wharf last evening.

SEARCHING INQUIRY FAILS TO REVEAL ANY CAUSE FOR THE FIRE

A searching investigation was made by the officials of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company this morning in an endeavor to discover, if possible, the causes of the fire on the Prescott. The inquiry was fruitless. There had been absolutely no lights below decks

Everything about the engine rooms was in good order and there was no waste material about. The Prescott being a "spare," the crew had plenty of time to keep her trim and well-cleaned up. Such is the statement of Mr. Percy Smith, secretary of the company to the Star.

The loss was fully covered by insurance, Mr. Smith declared, and the company would lose nothing in actual cash by the fire, but the effects would be felt in other ways.

There is no suspicion of incendiarism in spite of the coincidence of two boats burned at their docks within such short time.

More Auto Racing Carnage.

Brighton Beach Motordrome, August 28.—Louis Cole, mechanician of the Stearns car in the 24-hour automobile race, was killed, and the driver, Laurent Grosse was fatally injured in a collision with the Acme car shortly before midnight. Patcheke and Maynard, the crew of the Acme car, were only slightly injured. Both cars were wrecked. Cole was almost instantly killed; Grosse's spine was broken, and he cannot recover. The race was resumed in ten minutes.

FIFTEEN NEW YORK GRAIN ELEVATORS PRACTICALLY IDLE

Produce Exchange States That Grain Trade Is All Diverted to Canadian Ports.

Special to the Montreal Star.

New York, August 28.—As a last resource, members of the grain committee of the New York Produce Exchange, intend to appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission, on the ground of water competition, in their fight with railroads to get a reduced rate east of Buffalo, so that that port may again obtain its share of the export grain trade.

At present, right in the middle of the open season, when the grain should be moving outward heavily, steamships are going fully laden with grain from Montreal, while those from New York are said to be practically empty.

Canadian ship brokers are obtaining six cents a bushel freight to United Kingdom ports, while ships here cannot obtain cargoes of grain at three cents a bushel.

Members admit that the railroads are willing to give them a preferential rate east of Buffalo, to compete with the through rates on Canadian lines, but they are afraid of the Central and Western Traffic Associations diverting other freights from them in retaliation.

The loss of the grain trade from this port has been severely felt along the river front, where at least 15 big grain elevators are declared to be standing idle. With the exception of the business done by the Atlantic Transport line, the export cattle trade has practically disappeared from New York, and the cessation of the grain trade in addition will result in the big cargo steamships seeking business at other ports.

Information concerning church services on Sunday will be found on page 11 of The Star.

STILL DISCUSSING WHERE OUR SHIPS ARE TO BE BUILT

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, Ont., August 28.—While the Canadian Ministers at the conference on naval defence have kept the Government here advised of the different steps in the negotiations, the official account of what has been agreed to has not yet been received. No comment was forthcoming yesterday on Premier Asquith's announcement beyond the fact that it agrees with advices received from the delegates of the Canadian Government.

There seems to be a disagreement as to where the ships are to be built. The view that has most generally been expressed here and sent out to the Ministerial Press is that the building would be done in England, while the cables, on the contrary, say that British firms will establish themselves in Canada. As a matter of fact, nothing final has been decided, but the probability is that a part will be constructed in the old country, particularly the larger vessels first turned out, while the rest will be built in Canada, along with any subsequent additions.

There is a particular local interest in Government circles as to what department will administer to the navy. The Marine Department expects to do so, but the Militia Department also has claims. Even if a naval board is created, it will have to be responsible to some Minister. This aspect of the question is a matter of policy to be determined later with a great many other details.

STRIKERS WILL BUILD.

Mine Workers to Erect Houses for Evicted Families.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Glace Bay, N.S., August 28.—The United Mine Workers have chartered a three masted schooner to bring a cargo of lumber and building materials to Glace Bay for the construction of a number of temporary dwellings for the miners obliged to give up possession of the company houses. Arrangements were made some time ago for the leasing of a plot of land with the view of erecting shacks.

Twenty-seven eviction writs were served Thursday. Seven families moved out of company houses at Bridgeport yesterday.

McCullough Scents Victory.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Halifax, N.S., August 28.—International Vice-President McCullough is here from Glace Bay en route to Indianapolis. He expects the United Mine Workers to win out. He says: "The fact that the company is resorting to evicting convinces us that the strike is nearing the end. When eviction is resorted to it is usually a sign that the operators are beaten and are trying to bulldoze the men back to work. I don't think they will keep the fight up very much longer."

He says the Springhill strike is the most complete in the history of the United Mine Workers. He says the company cannot even get men to cut hay or haul coal to the officials' houses.

UNDERWRITERS' NEW MOVE.

Western and Eastern Provinces Will Be Under Different Boards.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, Ont., August 28.—The Canadian Underwriters' Association, which has just closed a three days' session here, came to the important decision to divide the association into two sections, one for Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, and the other for the four western provinces and the Yukon Territory, but the two associations will still form the Canadian association.

It is computed that more than two hundred millions of insurance is now in force in the four western provinces, and the Yukon Territory, and this vast business can be satisfactorily dealt with only on the spot.

THE EARL GREY IS FAST.

Trials of New Canadian Ice-breaker Were Great Success.

Canadian Associated Press.

London, August 28.—The six hours official trial of the new Canadian ice-breaker, Earl Grey, was held to-day and proved a great success. The mean speed in the measured mile was 17 3-4 knots, while the top speed was 18.4 knots.

IN THE REALM OF BOOKS

BY GEORGE MURRAY, B.A. OXON. F.R.C.O.

Books of the Week Reviewed

The Need Of Change.

By Julian Street. (New York: John Lane Co. 1909.)

The story which forms the basis of this charming little comedy originally appeared in "Everybody's Magazine," and is now reprinted as a novelette by permission of the Editor. The title of the story is a little equivocal or ambiguous—probably to whet the reader's curiosity—and is not explained until we reach the last line of the story.

Joseph Wooley and his wife, Janet, have come a long way from Canal Dover, Ohio, to enjoy for a few months an extended tour of Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Denbeigh, with whom they quickly become acquainted, were a tall, raw-boned pair, whose clothing was invariably black. As their costume was always the same, it was evident that the Denbeighs were in very modest circumstances, and the Americans liked them the more for the grace with which they accepted their condition. They invited them to visit them at Eastherst Hall, an hour's journey from London, on reaching that city at the end of the month, they wrote to their English friends, announcing their arrival, and received a telegram asking them to come and spend a week with them at Eastherst Hall. Janet ran over the pages of the guide-book, and read a grand account about Eastherst Castle, Eastherst Park, and Eastherst Hall. Then she said: "I wonder if we'll see the castle?" Suddenly she did, and, marking a place on the book, passed it to her husband. This was what he read to his astonishment: "Eastherst Castle—seat of the eighth and last Earl of Vibart (d. 1884) . . . occupied by his widow until his death, 1890. The title became extinct, and the estates reverted to Lady Vibart's niece, Miss Probyn, who married (1901) the Reverend John Arthur Frederick Denbeigh, second son of the Right Honorable Sir Richard Denbeigh, K.C.M.G., M.P., of Denbeigh Court, Stoke-Wetherington, Haversham, Herts." John Wooley had a quick impulse to leap from the carriage, and make a run for it—never minding his baggage. But he was now stopping before "the 'imposing facade' of the castle," and the footman was opening the door for the Americans, who felt like rats about to be shaken from a wire trap. With their "entree" into the castle, the fun begins for the reader, but "not for Joseph." A large, solemn man, in a dress suit, who approached with a slow, majestic tread, stepped within six feet of the Ohio guests, bowed splendidly, and made a proclamation: "The Rector and Mrs. Denbeigh's compliments, Sir and Madam, and tea will be served in the blue drawing-room at 5 o'clock, if you please." Then, turning to a footman, he said: "Tate, you will show Mr. and Mrs. Wooley to their apartments." At the head of a stair two deferential maids awaited them, and escorted them to their rooms. They came to Janet's sleeping-chamber. When at last they saw their host and hostess, they found them unchanged. Further experiences and the end of the visit will excite much interest.

Mrs. Grammercy-Park.

By A. Goring-Thomas. (London: John Lane.)

It was by a mere accident that Wooley and his wife had a brief glimpse of a certain phase of wealthy and idled English society, but it was with "malice prepense" that Mrs. Francis Grammercy-Park, whose husband had been killed in a "train-wreck," and had left her a "dolorsolatis" of £70,000 a year, left New York for—London with the full intention of purchasing perfect happiness with her money, and marrying some distinguished aristocrat. As she informs us in a letter to a friend, Mamie Johnston, she took over with her a Miss "Mouse" Turton, as a sort of body-guard and companion, in whose fortunes we soon become deeply interested. Of the passengers on board the steamer it will suffice to mention specially a Mr. Cyprian St. George and his son Robbie, about 14 years old, who is returning to school in England. "The father," Mrs. G. P. tells us, "is one of those stiff, don't-get-too-near-me sort of Englishman you read about, named St. George. I guess he's descended from their famous dragon. But it's kind of pathetic to watch the adoration the father has for his son." When Miss Turton first saw him, she whispered to her friend, Adele Grammercy-Park "It's Ethelbert, eight years ago, before the accident happened to him." This was her only brother, who had died a hopeless cripple, and his sister was at once attracted to Robin St. George by the resemblance between the two boys.

When the widow reached London she installed herself in the best hotel there, and put herself into the hands of a good dress maker. She wisely decided not to attempt to be English. The attempt would have been useless. She had come to England to inspect English society at first hand, and to marry a specimen aristocrat. She knew only one woman in London—a Mrs. De Courey Brown—but she was afraid to call on her, because she seemed different from the English people who had been on the steamer. However, she wrote to Mrs. Brown at Marlborough Lodge, Streatham Hill, and received from her a courteous invitation to dinner—"something quite small and informal." Accompanied by Miss Turton, she attended the dinner, and when it was all over she said to her companion in the cab: "They are a cute bright bunch! Real Bohemians! But there ain't no English society to be found in that house, I guess—and never will be. But I am glad I went, all the same. When Mrs. G. P. had been six weeks in London she had spent an immense sum of money, but she was as far off the English aristocrat as ever. The lady's ultimate experiences are interestingly told and cannot but prove amusing.

Fair Rosalind.

By J. E. Muddock. (London: John Long, 1909.)

The few recent historical novels that have made their appearance have failed to excite any public attention, and have fallen dead from the press. Here is an honorable exception, of which we feel bound to write in terms of the highest praise. It is almost worthy of being thought equal to a posthumous work by Sir Walter Scott. As we have no interest whatever in Mr. Muddock, except as a novelist, the admiration that we have confessed is genuine and unbiased. he scene opens on the afternoon of a brilliant day in the early part of the sixteenth century, and immense crowds are hurrying through the streets of London to Kensington Common to witness a great archery meeting, the most coveted prize of which was known as "The King's Prize," consisting of a tiny wreath of real gold bay leaves. The prize given in the tournament was invariably selected for her beauty and grace, and was styled for the day "The Archery Queen." On this particular day, Margaret Sheldrake, the second daughter of an honest London mercer, had been appointed Queen, and she was beloved by, and informally engaged to, her cousin, William Trenchard, a comely lad, in business with his father, a blacksmith in the city of Westminster. Her mother objects to the match, as she was an ambitious woman, anxious for her lovely daughter to marry above her station. The eldest daughter, Agnes, the true heroine of the tale, was not so attractive physically as Margaret, but in all other respects was infinitely her superior. William Trenchard, with bow and arrow was considered an excellent shot, and it was generally believed he would be the winner of the King's Prize, and receive it from the hands of his cousin, "The Archery Queen." Politics at the time were running high. After Cardinal Wolsey had fallen, and Thomas Cromwell had succeeded him as the Chief Minister of Henry VIII., the country had been groaning under the curse of despotism, and Henry Trenchard and his friend, "Ben the Bowman," were leaders among the most dissatisfied of the downtrodden "hatchers of treason," as they were called. Ben, who believed in the invincible skill of Trenchard, encouraged him to keep cool, and he would infallibly win. But the lovesick boy, seeing the crowds of admiring men in high office who encircled the Archery Queen's throne, and addressed the most obsequious compliments to her beauty, became distressingly nervous; and, after having at first shot remarkably well, failed in the end to carry off the coveted prize which he had hoped and expected to receive from the hands of his cousin. One man in particular, "Master Weaver, a goodly citizen of York," had guessed the love-secret of Margaret and Trenchard, and had sneered at his being a "blacksmith" the whole time of the contest. Disappointed and disgusted, the poor blacksmith, after his defeat, imbibed somewhat freely, and uttered some incautious words, for which, through the intrigues of Weaver, he was promptly arrested and conveyed to Newgate. The remainder of the book is taken up with the careers of Trenchard, Margaret, Agnes, Weaver and his numerous friends and opponents, and the terrible political condition of England.

The Greater Power.

By Harold Bindloss. (John Long, London. 1909.)

In "The Greater Power"—which, if we are not mistaken, means "love"—we have a most fascinating story, in which one impressive moral is inculcated, without anw didatic officiousness on the part of the author. It begins unhappily, but, after many changes of fortune in the case of the hero, Derrick Nasmyth, all ends happily for him owing to the untiring goodness and watchfulness of his life's preserver, Laura Waynefleet. In the first chapter, entitled "Overburdened," it is midwinter in British Columbia, and four loggers are at work in a redwood forest one January afternoon, rolling in a great log out of a chaos of fallen trunks. One of the four—a man of about 30, with a form and face that suggested true refinement—realized that at length he was beaten; and when the huge log had landed on the skids, which were laid like railway sleepers, down the slope of a deep declivity, Nasmyth gasped heavily and exclaimed: "Boys, I'm used up. I'll go along to the shanty and get my time." His clean English intonation was a little more noticeable than usual, and he announced that he would leave that night. Accordingly, he was paid off, and the chief logger said: "Jake will put you up great for four days." Nasmyth contrived to smile, as he shook hands with his "chums," and looked out of the door at the dimly shining snow. Some few days afterwards, when consciousness had almost deserted him, he found that there was a faint smell of burning firewood in the air, and he knew that there was a house somewhere in the vicinity. Then he came to a little slope, and fell down it headlong. While he lay in the slushy snow a girl came out from among the firs, and walked down the little trail that led to a well. "I heard the rails fall," she said. "What are you doing there?" "I think I upset the fence," he replied, "and must have fallen down." "Can you get up?" she asked. "I'll try," said Nasmyth. "You can rest on me," she said, laying a firm hand on his shoulder. The girl assisted him into a little log-house, and, when a mail-carrier passed, told him to inform the doctor that she had a very sick man in her shanty. When the doctor at last came he pronounced the case "pneumonia," Nasmyth pulled through by the grace of God, and when he was able to walk about without falling, did his best to help Laura Waynefleet for all the kindness she had shown him. She, like her guest, had gentle blood in her, though her father, now in some city, had brought disgrace on it in the old country, and she worked without complaint, morning, noon and night. But we must not reveal the future career of the pair, nor point out how the strong nature and strong common sense of the girl influenced the weak will of the too-pliable and irresolute Nasmyth.

Once Upon a Time.

By Carl Holliday. (Broadway Publishing Co., New York. 1909.)

This collection of unconnected stories is written by a southern author, who is evidently a close student of nature in her many phases of clouds, mountains, forests, brooks, rivers and oceans. Mr. Holliday is gifted with a playful fancy and poetical imagination, but it is difficult to mutilate his stories in order to make extracts that prove the fact. The volume contains twelve stories, and their titles will enable the reader to form some idea of the nature of the fantastic narratives. 1, "The Mountain with the Bald Head"; 2, "The Discontented Clouds"; 3, "The Mountain with the Backache"; 4, "The Happiest of All Beings"; 5, "The Quarrel of the Clouds"; 6, "The Selfish Chicken"; 7, "The Mountain and the Ocean"; 8, "The Star's Concert"; 9, "The Dance of the Raindrops"; 10, "How the Forest Came Back"; 11, "The Oak and the Brook," and, 12, "The Land of Dreams." The book is neatly bound

Dorothy of Angelwood.

By M. Y. T. H. (Broadway Publishing Co., New York.)

Truth compels me to state that I can extract no meaning whatever from this mystical and extravagant piece of romance. Why M. Y. T. H. gave into any printer's hand so many nebulous and transcendental pages of jargon can be revealed only by the lady who perpetrated them; and, accordingly, the secret will never be revealed. I know of no similar volume with which the book can possibly be compared. Judge for yourselves.

FROM A BARRACK.

Gone is the olden glory,
The sound of martial strain.
But the children's voices ringing
Make music once again.

Here, in past days of splendor,
Men buckled spur and sword,
To battle for their country,
For their country's sweet reward.

Now little children frolic
Throughout the summer's day,
And gain the strength to combat
The ills upon life's way.

The rousing note of bugle,
The sound of cannons roar
Re-echo through the ages
Along the listening shore.

Gone is the olden glory,
The lure of martial strain:
But the children's voices ringing
Make music once again.

NOTES AND QUERIES

Not Rare Coins.

"Lachine." — The coins you describe are: U.S. 1828, half cent; half franc, reign of Napoleon; 1811, Russian kopeck; 1814 Britannia, halfpenny, circulated in Canada. "In memory of the good old days"; imitation of spade guinea, brass; Austria, 1859, kreutzer. All very common coins.

An Irish Halfpenny.

"J. E. L.," Riv. Quelle Wharf, Que.—Your coin is of Ireland, Geo. III., 1766, halfpenny. Not rare. Others of the same type were issued in 1769; they are also common.

From "Locksley Hall."

E. L. Martin, Montreal, asks: "Can you inform me who wrote the following lines: 'Better fifty years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay.'?"

The lines appear in Tennyson's "Locksley Hall."

Not in vain the distance beacons. Forward, forward let us range;
Let the great world spin forever down the ringing grooves of change.

Through the shadow of the globe we sweep into the younger day:
Better fifty years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay.

Fiona Macleod and the Late William Sharp.

I have received two letters relating to the same subject. One is from J. H. Graham, M.D., Prescott, Ont.; and the other extract from a letter is from Mr. E. W. Thomson, who is summering at Pointe Fortune, Co. Vaudreuil, Que.:

Sir,—A year ago I wrote you asking for information through the Literary Dept. of The Star as to the authorship of a song which appears in Gilbert Parker's "The Right of Way," and a piece of verse in a recent volume of Richard Harding Davis's. The words of the latter I have now forgotten. My query did not appear to have been noticed.

My present object is to inquire in reference to a review of "The Dominion of Dreams" in last Saturday's Star. You speak of the author as an Irish lady. Is it not generally known and believed that "Fiona Macleod" was the nom de plum of William Sharp, a well-known writer who died a couple of years ago? I remember reading his reasons for adopting this name, published by his literary executor after his death.

If I am mistaken in this bit of literary history, kindly let me know in Saturady's Star.

J. H. GRAHAM.

I transcribe a short extract from Mr. E. W. Thomson's literary note. After some courteous remarks about the interest with which he reads my notices of books, etc., "even where I find you inclined to shatter certain shrines at which I myself worship," reads: "It is because of the interest, and from what I hope may be regarded as a pardonable desire that no 'snapper-up of unconsidered trifles' may find material for a 'drive' at you, that I venture to call your attention to a slip in your book notices of Saturday, August 14, and suggest that you might set the matter right. One cannot keep an eye on the whole enormous field of print. Hence it must come that you have overlooked the revelation of some years ago, that there never was anybody behind the name or pseudonym of Fiona Macleod. In point of fact, Mr. William Sharp was Fiona Macleod, as has been suspected before his death."

Finding much that was interesting in "The Dominion of Dreams," I wished to discover what "Fiona Macleod," as named on the title page, had done for English literature. Not unnaturally I thought I would find some trustworthy information about her in the English "Who's Who." I turned to one of its back volumes—that of 1900—and at p. 672 found the account of the supposed existing "author," her works, recreations, address, etc. It also did the same for William Sharp. This is the first time (so far as I know) that I have been led into error by quoting from English "Who's Who."

"Beau Brummel"—Fredrika Bremer.

L. M., Peel street, wishes to see a few words in "Notes and Queries" about the above-mentioned deceased people.

George Bryan Brummel was born in 1778 and died in 1840. After a useless career at the University of Oxford, the famous "Beau" launched himself on London society, and managed to acquire the reputation of a perfectly well-costumed man-about-town, who was possessed of exquisite taste. He was one of the most dissolute and intimate companions of George IV when he was only Prince of Wales. When the King came to the throne the two scamps had a quarrel, the cause of which has been variously related. Brummel is reported to have held his own with the King. When the latter cut him at some aristocratic ball, Brummell merely glanced at him, and asked the man with whom he himself was walking, "Who's your fat friend?" About the year 1815 (Waterloo year) he had dissipated his fortune, and was forced to retire from England for ever, where he died in abject poverty. 2. Fredrika Bremer, who was born in 1801 and died in 1865, was a Swedish novelist, who first saw the light near Abo, in Finland, her father being of ancient German origin. Shortly before the cession of Finland to Russia, the family removed to Stockholm (1804), and settled at Arsta, about twenty miles from the city. Driven to the study of literature by the monotony of her life, she early found relief for her wasting activity in the production of poems and short essays. Before she was thirty she had become known in Sweden as the authoress of some series of "Sketches of Every-Day Life" and of other tales, especially "The H—— Family" (1829). In 1842 English readers were enabled to recognize her merit through a translation by Mary Howitt of "The Neighbors." Several of her other tales were afterwards translated by the same hand, and became very popular in England and America. The novels or stories are generally minute accounts of simple Swedish life, described with original "naivete," and sometimes, as in "The H—— Family," with a peculiar sentimental humor that reminds us of Jean Paul. The influence of German literature, indeed, appears in much of Miss Bremer's work. At the same time—as in "Hertha" (1856)—there is often a distinct effort to deal with some of the great questions of social reform that so profoundly occupied her thoughts throughout life. Of her other works, I may mention "The Home" (1843), "Nina," "The Midnight Sun," and "The Diary." She also published accounts of her travels in Europe and America, which was visited in 1849, such as "The Homes of the New World," "England in 1851," and "Two Years in Switzerland and Italy" (1860). The "Life, Letters and Posthumous Works of Fredrika Bremer, Edited by Her Sister, Charlotte Bremer," were published in New York in 1868.

"Half a Dozen Grasshoppers."

H. A., Quebec, wishes to learn in what great English orator's speech a passage is found referring to the "unfortunate chink" of "half a dozen grasshoppers under a fern."

The passage referred to occurs in "Reflections on the Revolution in France," by Edmund Burke (1729-1797). It is as follows, and may be found in volume III, page 344, of "Burke's Works in Five Volumes": "Because half a dozen grasshoppers under a fern make the field ring with their unfortunate chink, whilst thousands of great cattle, reposed beneath the shadow of the British oak, chew the cud and are silent, pray do not imagine that those who make the noise are the only inhabitants of the field—that, of course, they are many in number—or that, after all they are other than the little, shrivelled, meagre, hopping, though loud and troublesome, insects of the hour."

S. with flying eagle, 1857. 9. A crown of George IV, dated 1821, St. George and dragon on back. Lud X. dated 1778. On obverse is Lud X I, D.G.F.R. et Nav Rex. On reverse is 1778. Sit nomen Domini L. ## LEGAL ENQUIRIES.

Question.—I have a piano and other furniture at the house where I room. Last month a seizure was made for rent, but settlement was made for same. In what way can I secure my belongings in case this should occur again. If I notified the landlord that they are mine will that exempt them?

Ans.—The landlord has a privilege upon the furniture for the payment of his rent and may seize in satisfaction thereof when rent is unpaid.

Question.—My flat sub-let to me by previous tenant for remainder of term, sitting-room, bedroom, bathroom, kitchen, more or less infested with species of cockroach, chiefly in china closet in kitchen. We are unable to keep our food in kitchen for this reason. I have notified landlord, but so far he has made no effort to try to put a stop to this nuisance. Previous to taking over our flat the then tenants informed us that there were only a few, in fact, one or two of these cockroaches, and that they were entirely in kitchen. 1. Can I vacate my flat or refuse payment of rent until some measures are taken by landlord to get rid of these pests. 2. Failing either of above courses, what remedy have I?

Ans.—Put your landlord in default to cause the disturbance to cease, and if he fails to do so, take action in damages or in recission of lease, if your enjoyment of the premises is seriously impaired.

Question.—I am the tenant of a lower flat in a two-story house. The persons in the upper flat have for some months past annoyed me by bumping on the floor, and causing their grown-up children to run across the rooms overhead of me, and up and down stairs making as much noise as possible. The woman on one occasion shook her mats right over my wife when the latter was standing on our gallery. They also have a dog which they allow to bark at night. Also they induce other children to throw stones at my windows. Some time ago I complained to the upper tenant. He claimed he was unaware of any bumping going on, but in front of him his wife admitted that it was done to me out of spite, because my wife practised scales on our piano some days for an hour. What course can I take?

Ans.—You had better consult your landlord, who is obliged to give peaceable possession to the lessee. If the disturbance is so serious as to gravely impair your enjoyment and you can prove it beyond a doubt, you have a right of action in damages against your landlord or to rescind the lease.

Question.—I rented a house two years ago at a monthly rental, which included heating, but the then landlord has sold the house to another, and informs me that the conditions of lease will be observed by the present owners. However, as I did not register the lease, I desire to know, if the present landlord should not heat the house, if I can compel him to do so or leave it?

Ans.—A lease for more than one year that is not registered cannot bind a subsequent purchaser in the absence of agreement.

Question.—Can I break my lease for a filthy bedroom, which I was unable to sleep in it? Even my two little children got so badly bitten by these reptiles (the bugs), that I was forced to remove to my front room, also to call for medical aid for my children. Cannot get any satisfaction from landlord.

Ans.—If the trouble is so serious as to impair the enjoyment of the premises, which the landlord is bound to give you, you have an action in damages or to rescind the lease. Be very sure of your proof, however.

Question.—If A lends B a pin, valued at $10.00, and B loses it through no fault of her own, can B be punished or made to pay the value of the pin?

Ans.—B is liable for value of pin.

Question.—I rented a house for a year beginning, May 1st, 1908, to May 1st, 1909, and signed a contract for same. Last February, three months before my time expired, the proprietor asked me if I was going to stay again. I told him I would, but I would not sign any more contracts. He said I would have to sign one for he had two or three parties who wanted to rent it, so I told him to rent it. Nothing more was said about the matter. Now, I want to move out. How much notice have I to give him. Is the old contract any good? Ans.—You must remain until end of year or pay rent for that period—until May 1st, 1910.

Ques.—There was something wrong with the sink in my house, so I called in a plumber and he said we need a new tap. This one is an old one. Who is responsible, me or the landlord?

Ans.—If repair due to old age, landlord is responsible.

Ques.—Can a person having lease, but owing to continuous annoyance, together with destruction of property caused by tenant's children and having made complaint to both parents and landlord with no satisfaction, break said lease?

Ans.—Cannot reply without further details.

Ques.—Boys playing ball in a lane broke a pane of glass in kitchen window. I know the boy who batted the ball is responsible, but not knowing who the boy is and having informed the landlord, who is supposed to repair the window, the landlord or tenant?

Ans.—Tenant.

Ques.—About six years ago I rented house and the proprietor never gave me a lease. As I intend to leave the country I gave one month's notice. Landlord said that it was all right as he thought that he could get some one to rent the house, but if he could not it would have to stand responsible for the house. Is one month's notice of leaving not enough?

Ans.—Month's notice is insufficient. You are responsible for the rent up till the end of the yearly lease—presumably May 1st, 1910.

Ques.—We rented room by the month; had been there six months and have now taken another room and paid in advance for it. Our month in old place is up but landlady says we must pay her two weeks rent or give two weeks notice before we leave. Must we do this?

Ans.—No. Having a monthly contract you could leave at the end of any month without notice.

Brockville, Ont., August 28.—It is said that the shock of the news of the death of Mrs. Harry Stephens, of Syracuse, N.Y., one of the victims of the recent double drowning at Irish Creek, Ont., has caused the utter collapse of Mr. Stephens. ## Village of Bay Shawinigan

At a regular meeting of the Council of Bay Shawinigan, held at the usual place of meeting of said Council, the second day of August, 1909 and continued by adjournment to the sixteenth of August, and again by adjournment to the thirteenth of August, 1909, in accordance with the law. At said meeting was present His Honor the Mayor and Councillors Arthur Bellefeuille, Thomas Bellemare and Ulderic Boisvert. All councillors forming a quorum.

The by-law bearing No. 12 of the said council's by-laws.

It was proposed by Mr. Thomas Bellemare, councillor, and seconded by Mr. Arthur Bellefeuille, resolved unanimously:

1. Whereas, it is in the interest and for the advantage of the population of the Village of Bay Shawinigan it became absolutely necessary to establish an aqueduct system of which the corporation of Bay Shawinigan will have the control, and to improve the one now existing and for that purpose, it is of great advantage to acquire and buy the aqueduct now existing in the said village, the property of J. E. Thibaudeau.

2. The said aqueduct is hereby sold by the said J. E. Thibaudeau to the corporation of the Village of Bay Shawinigan, with all privileges possessed by him in virtue of the law, or the Municipal by-law for supplying water in the Village of Bay Shawinigan and in the municipality of St. Boniface, especially the privileges accorded him by the corporation of St. Boniface and Shawinigan.

3. For the payment of the sum of ten thousand dollars, to the said J. E. Thibaudeau, for the cost of the said aqueduct, the corporation of the Village of Bay Shawinigan is authorised in virtue of this by-law to issue in the name of the said corporation of the Village of Bay Shawinigan ten debentures of the denomination of one thousand dollars each, which the said J. E. Thibaudeau will have to accept at par, payable to bearer in thirty years after the date of their issue at the National Bank at Shawinigan Falls. The said debentures carrying interest of five per cent. (5 per cent.) per year, the said interest will be payable semi-annually, the first of May and November of each year.

4. The said debentures will be signed by the Mayor and countersigned by the secretary-treasurer and sealed with the corporation stamp of the said corporation of the Village of Bay Shawinigan.

5. There will be annexed to each said debentures, coupons for the amount of the said payment semi-annually of the interest, such coupons will be signed by the Mayor and countersigned by the secretary-treasurer of the said corporation and the said coupons will be payable to the bearer of them at the Bank National at Shawinigan Falls, or banks or places designated by the Council.

6. To pay the interest on the said debentures and form a sinking fund of two per cent. per annum on the amount of the said debentures over and above the said interest the Council will have to raise on the revenues of the Municipality a sum sufficient for that purpose, the same to be deposited in the National Bank at Shawinigan Falls, or in any incorporated bank or at any other place that it will determine.

7. # BERESFORD WILL CONDUCT A NAVAL CAMPAIGN HERE

Received Cablegram Yesterday Announcing Elections for January So He Will Hurry Home.

Urged on by the prospect of an early general election in England, Admiral Lord Charles Beresford has, it is learned, determined to make the most of his time in Canada to arouse Canadians to what he believes to be the true naval situation of the British Empire.

On arrival at Quebec yesterday he received a private cablegram containing the information that the elections would surely take place in January. In conversation with friends on board the Virginian, Lord Charles declared that there could be no delay in his carrying out his intention of waging a campaign against the naval policy of the Asquith Government.

His argument will be along the lines of a demand for the building of more warships immediately and the adoption of an aggressive naval policy to offset the activity of Germany, whom he regards as the greatest menace to the integrity of the British Empire. He will also demand a concentration of authority in the Imperial navy, holding that the present grouping of squadrons under separate heads to be a weakness.

The speech which Lord Beresford will deliver at the opening of the Toronto Exhibition on Monday afternoon and which has already been the subject of most serious consideration, will deal with this matter of the naval forces of the Empire. It is possible also that he may speak in other cities than Toronto and Montreal on the same subject.

Lord Charles' stay in Montreal today was very brief. The Virginian after a good trip up the river from Quebec was tied up to her dock about eleven-thirty last night, but the passengers were not allowed to land until this morning. The Admiral came ashore about eight o'clock and was immediately whisked off to the Bonaventure Station, leaving shortly after in a private car placed at his disposal by the Grand Trunk Railway and attached to the fast train for Toronto. He is accompanied by Mr. W. K. George, a director of the Toronto Exhibition, and Captain R. M. Melville, of Toronto, an old friend, and neighbor of Lord Charles' in Waterford County., both of whom boarded the steamship at Quebec.

While in Toronto, the Admiral will be the personal guest of Mr. George H. Gooderham, M.L.A., until the Toronto Exhibition opens, and will probably take a trip to Niagara Falls and other points on Lake Ontario, on Mr. Gooderham's private yacht, the Oriole III.

Before leaving for home again, Lord Charles will take a flying trip to Mexico to settle up some matters in connection with the estate which his late brother held there.

In his trip up from Quebec, Lord Charles, travelling for the first time by the St. Lawrence route, saw the river at its best.

The Virginian made a splendid voyage till the time she arrived within the shelter of the gulf and river. From Rimouski to Quebec she made her way through the darkness. An extraordinary amount of Quebec freight delayed her there for some six hours, and it was 12.30 in the afternoon before she was under way for Montreal again.

ALD. FRASER, HOME FROM ENGLAND, SAYS CANADA IS DRAWING ALL EYES

Ald. A. D. Fraser arrived home this morning on the steamship Virginian after a short holiday trip to different parts of the Old World with his son, Mr. W.F. Fraser. In a little more than a month he visited England, Scotland, Germany, Holland and France.

His return means one more added to the strength of the low tender party in the City Council. The constant travelling had enabled Ald. Fraser to see but little of Montreal papers while away and he found much to interest him in those which he received at Rimouski and Quebec. He was much surprised to learn of the stormy meetings held during his absence, as he had gone away under the impression that the Council had adjourned for the usual summer vacation.

The Budget and Tariff Reform Ald. Fraser found to be the main topic of conversation in all circles in England.

Interest in Canadian affairs is taking a greater and greater place, Ald. Fraser declared. "You could scarcely take up an English paper without seeing something about Canada in it, either news items or leaders," he said.

JAPAN TO BUILD THREE NEW CRUISERS

Tokio, August 28.—The Government made its first departure from its recently adopted programme of naval curtailment to-day when it announced that three new cruisers would be constructed for the Japanese navy. Each of the cruisers will be 5,000 tons.

The residence of Mrs. G. A. Roberts, Granby, Que., was the scene of a pretty wedding, when Miss Marion H. Gill was married to Mr. W. H. Stevenson. The Rev. D. T. Cummings pperformed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives. Miss Marion L. Kimball, of Enosburg Falls, Vt., was bridesmaid, and Mr. Howard F. Kimball was best man.

LORD CHARLES BERESFORD ARRIVES—The Admiral and his friend, Captain Melville, of Toronto, leaving the dock for the Bonaventure Station to entrain for Toronto.

UNCLE SAM STARTS RETALIATION FOR OUR EXPORT DUTIES

Treasury Department Notifies Collector to Put in Force Provisions of New Tariff.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Washington, D.C., August 28.—The policy of tariff retaliation was initiated to-day by the Treasury Department for the first time in a letter to the collector of customs at Ogdensburg, N.Y., in which it directs the officer to begin levying upon printing paper imported from the provinces of Ontario and Quebec the countervailing rates provided for in the tariff law.

It is estimated at the treasury that the rates which are now ordered to be assessed upon printing paper would impose upon ordinary news print worth, say 2 1-2c per pound, a tariff duty equal to about $5.75 per ton from Ontario and about $6.10 per ton from Quebec.

These, of course, are minimum rates under the new tariff, and in case the maximum rates should go into operation there would be an addition of 25 per cent. ad valorem to the rates already mentioned. These maximum rates may not improbably go into operation next spring, inasmuch as the duties levied in the Canadian provinces may, in the view of the authorities, subject them to our maximum rates of duty.

The instructions of the Treasury Department say that an additional duty of 1-10th of a cent per pound, together with countervailing duty, amounting to about 35 cents a ton, equivalent to an export duty of 25 cents per cord imposed by the Province of Quebec upon pulp, shall be added to the regular duty on print paper which is manufactured from pulpwood out from Crown lands in the province. Chemical wood pulp imported from Quebec will be assessed with an additional countervailng duty equal to 25 cents per pound on wood, the equivalent of a cord of wood being 1,400 pounds of chemical wood pulp or sulphite.

Washington's Explanation.

Washington, August 28.— Several rulings on the administration of the retaliatory provisions of the Payne tariff law directed at the wood pulp and print paper industry of Canada were issued by the treasury department yesterday.

One of the provisions prescribes that if an province forbids the exportation of pulp wood for use in the manufacture of wood pulp and print paper an additional duty of one-tenth of one cent a pound should be levied on print paper valued at 3 cents per pound or less which comes from that province and that a duty of one-twelfth of a cent per pound should be assessed on mechanically ground wood pulp coming from such a province, and which would otherwise be admitted free of duty under the general provisions of the law. As the province of Ontario prohibits the exportation of pulp wood cut or, crown lands the higher rates will apply upon all print paper valued at 3 cents or less and all mechanically ground wood pulp cut from crown lands in that province.

The additional duty of one-tenth of a cent a pound together with a countervailing duty amounting to about 35 cents a ton, equivalent to the export duty of 25 cents imposed by the Province of Quebec upon pulp wood shall be added to the regular duty on print paper which is manufactured from pulp wood cut from the Crown lands in that province. The letter of instruction to the collectors of customs issued by Acting Secretary Reynolds states that the countervailing duty will equal 35 cents a ton on the print paper as it takes approximately 1 4-10 cords of pulp wood to produce a ton of paper.

The duty of one-twelfth of a cent per pound in addition to a countervailing duty of 25 cents a cord is placed on mechanically ground pulp wood produced from the wood cut on Crown land in Quebec. Chemical wood pulp imported from the Province of Quebec will be assessed with the additional countervailing duty equal to 25 cents per pound on the wood, the equivalent of a cord of wood being 1,400 pounds of chemical wood pulp or sulphite.

FIVE WENT DOWN WITH SHIP.

Wireless Operator Gave His Life to Save Passengers.

Seattle, Wash., August 28.—One man, a wireless telegraph operator, gave his life that more than 200 might be saved yesterday, when George E. Eccles, of Seattle, went down with the Alaska Steamship Company's steamer Ohio, while sounding "C.Q.D." calls for help as his vessel was sinking. These calls brought the steamers Kingfisher, Humboldt and Rupert City to the rock off Steep Point in Hiskish Narrows, British Columbia, and all but himself and four others were saved. Only one passenger lost his life. The Ohio went down within 30 minutes after it was struck.

Geo. Eccles lived for several years in Winnipeg.

The Ohio belonged to the Alaska Steamship Company, was valued at $300,000, and is a total loss.

SCIENTISTS SPEAK ON CANADIAN TOPICS AT THE CONVENTION

British Association Hears Paper Read on the St. Lawrence as a Winter Route.

Western Associated Press.

Winnipeg, Man., August 28.—Canadian problems continue to absorb a large portion of the time of the British scientists and at yesterday's sessions of the various sections many papers of vital interest to the Prairie Province were discussed.

The chief interest naturally centred in the agricultural section. Dominion Veterinary Surgeon Rutherford took up the question of "Economic Aspects of the Western Cattle Trade." He described the methods now followed in marketing cattle as wasteful, unbusinesslike and unprofitable to the producer. He advocated the development of a dressed meat market with the old land.

Some valuable pointers were also given by Staats Consulett Peter Aug. Merkeberg, of Denmark, who explained how his country had turned from crop raising to dairying. Since dairying has become such an important factor in their national life, they have devoted much attention to the development of two national milking breeds.

In the educational section yesterday afternoon there was a large attendance of Winnipeg men interested in the university problem. There were two papers one by Dean F. F. Westbrook, of Minnesota University, and one by Dr. W. A. McIntyre. They were followed by a lively discussion in which a number of leading educationists took part.

Dr. Murray, the principal of the new Saskatchewan University, was present, he told of some of the difficulties which are being encountered in that province. He pointed out the necessity of the business affairs of a university being left to the business men and the academic matters to the teachers. On the question of finances he expressed a regret that the tax levied for the support of the university is unfortunately not such as will yield a revenue that will expand as the country grows.

DELAY IN FILLING SENATE VACANCIES FROM NOVA SCOTIA

Special to the Montreal Star.

Ottawa, August 28. — It is not an easy matter to apportion two senatorships among three or more applicants, each of them with claims that cannot well be ignored. Thereon hangs the explanation of why for over two years Nova Scotia has lacked by two its senatorial representation.

The vacancies were caused by the deaths of Senator Black, who lived at Amherst, and of Senator Lovitt, of Yarmouth. H. J. Logan, ex-M.P. of Amherst, was supposed to be slated to succeed Senator Black, but there is evidently a hitch somewhere. William Roche, ex-M.P., for Halifax, has many supporters urging his claims to one of the senatorships while. Mr Fielding's nominee in place of Senator Lovitt is Speaker Farrell, of the Nova Scotia Legislature.

Members of Parliament from the province have been consulted, but they are divided as to a choice.

Meanwhile no steps have been taken though two years have elapsed, whereas an Ontario or Quebec vacancy is filled within a week or two after it occurs.

The appointments cannot be delayed much longer as the politicians are very restive and it will be up to Mr. Fielding to say who are to get the positions.

Body of Sailor Recovered.

The body of Patrick Eccles, a seaman on the Allan line SS. Ionian, who fell from the gangplank of that vessel Wednesday night and was drowned, was recovered this morning by a constable on duty on the pier. The body was removed to the morgue, where an inquest will be held this afternoon. The victim's home was in Glasgow.

G. T. P. Work.

Mr. Swanson, general manger for Messr. Foley, Welch and Stewart, in Ontario, says that the grade east of Cochrane for 100 miles will be finished this fall. Mr. Swanson has been over a survey for 150 miles and he says the fine clay lands have improved for that distance which takes them into the province of Quebec. He has 2,000 men and is advertising for more.

West of Cochrane another 2,000 men are busy building towards Superior Junction. When this gap is completed direct connection with Winnipeg and the West will be made.

THE FACILITIES AND DRAWBACKS OF ST. LAWRENCE ROUTE

Special to The Montreal Star.

Winnipeg, August 28. — A deputy yesterday read a paper by Major Stephens, of Montreal, before the British Association for the Advancement of Science, on "The St. Lawrence River, the Imperial Highway of Canadian Transportation," the paper dealt with the problems which had to be faced in the task of turning all the Canadian and a part of the Western American trade to the St. Lawrence, and the facilities at hand for the purpose.

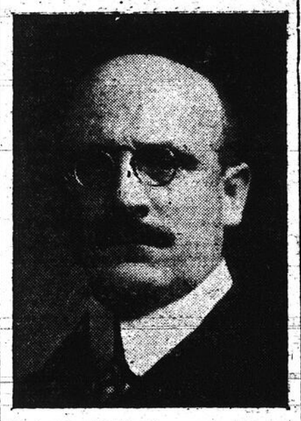
The lack of terminal facilities Major Stephens declared to be one of the greatest drawbacks. He pointed out the various routes from the Canadian West to the sea, the amount of grain to be carried and found that the Canadian water route had the following advantages over the water route:

1. That the St. Lawrence water route from the Great Lakes to Montreal is shorter than the American water route from the Great Lakes to New York by 110 miles.

2. That the number of miles of slow speed canal navigation by way of the Canadian route as compared with the American route is less by 242 miles.

3. That the Canadian water route furnishes more draft than the American by 8 feet.

4. That a boat using the Canadian water route can carry in cargo more than a boat using the American water route, each trip 72,000 bushels.



Major G. W. Stephens, whose paper before the British Association at Winnipeg on the St. Lawrence route is attracting much attention.

5. That the time consumed each trip by the Canadian route is less than that by the American route by 40 hours.

6. That the length of open navigation is identical in both cases.

7. That it takes a tow of ten boats on the American route to carry what may be carried by the Canadian route in one.

8. That one boat by the Canadian water route can carry more bushels of grain per season than can be carried by one on the American route by 3,544,000 bushels.

Americans Get Business.

"Yet," he said, "notwithstanding these overwhelming advantages in favor of the Canadian route, the American railways carry through Buffalo the business that ought to go through the Canadian canals, and they are able to do this only because no adequate terminal facilities have been supplied in Canada to take care of this business. When these facilities are provided Canada will control the grain export business of North America."

Attention was drawn to the expenditure that the United States Government proposed for the Erie Canal and the reduction of rail freight haul rates, Major Stephens continuing:

"But the point I desire to make in connection with these figures is this. If our American competitors deem it worth while to spend $110,000,000 to get a waterway of 12 ft. deep from Buffalo to the Hudson River, is it not about time that Canadians awakened to the fact that without the expenditure of another dollar on canals they are the owners to-day of a through water route of 14 ft. draught, and could, if they supply the terminals and the carrying power, be in an even better competitive position than the United States will be after it has spent the proposed $110,000,000 on its Erie Canal."

Montreal Port Development.

The tremendous development under way at the port of Montreal was referred to with pardonable pride by Major Stephens, who declared that it cost but four and a half millions, while development to give similar results in the port of New York was costing twenty-nine millions. One of the greatest savings was in the handling of freight between the railway sheds and ships.

"There have been handled by the Traffic Department of the Harbor Commission during the last season 1,500,000 tons of freight, carried in 75,000 cars, 400,000 tons of this freight were handled direct between the car, shed and ships, or vice versa," he said.

"On this 400,000 tons of freight there has been an estimated saving of 50 per cent. of $80,000 in the handling charges alone. In other words, this means that the port of Montreal has been able during the past season to handle 400,000 tons of freight for what it used to cost to handle 200,000 tons; and as almost the whole of this saving has been effected on through freight destined to all parts of Canada and all part sof the world, it is a matter of gratification that in the near future Canadians may possess the cheapest, shortest and safest trade avenue on this continent. The true national significance of the port of Montreal and the interest that every Canadian citizen should have in its expansion and development is evidenced by the following phase of the annual business.

Growth of Canada.

"Last year's crop of newcomers from all sources, on reliable authority, amounted to 400,000 people," he asserted, turning to the question of population. "Add 100,000 as the natural increase to our own population and you have an annual increase in 1907 of half a million people. If this yearly increase is not exceeded and we go on increasing at the rate of half a million a year, in 25 years the population of this country would be 18,000,000; and if at the end of 25 years all outside immigration should cease, we will then be adding to our population at the rate of two millions a year, which in 25 years more, or 50 years from 1907, would give to this country (Canada) a population of 60,000,000 people."

In a strong perroration, the Montreal Harbor Commissioners' president said: "The safety of this great future must be guarded by the aggregate individual integrity of her citizens. This wonderful panorama of development is almost unfolding itself without our realizing what is going on, and as the lines of our transportation are extending themselves to the outermost corners of this great Dominion, unconsciously is being established a bond of union under the folds of a common flag which has been the symbol of equal rights, justice and freedom to the to the least of her citizens since the British Empire began. We may not speak the same tongue nor worship at the same altar, yet as children of a common flag we are bound together by the thread of a common patriotism over whose strands —like the power of Niagara passing over wires to move in far distant places the wheels of mighty commerce—is passing a force of brotherhood, sympathy and power against which neither the voice of the demagogue nor the roar of hostile cannon can avail."

Bogus Cheque Men at Rigaud.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Rigaud, August 28.—Two men of French or Belgian extraction arrived here on Wednesday afternoon representing themselves as about to enter the employ of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Bogus cheques made payable to the defunct Bank of Ontario were exchanged with the hotelkeeper and a cab driver. At Bertrand's Hotel, in Lavigne, another cheque for $25 was also passed.

The fraud was discovered shortly afterwards, but both men left Vaudreuil during the night.

In a travelling bag, which was left behind, all the tools of the trade were discovered showing that the men had intended operating in Rigaud had they not thrown suspicion upon themselves.

THE DEMOLITION OF A CITY— HUNDREDS OF HOUSES AND WHOLE BLOCKS BEING RAPIDLY SWEPT AWAY

Old Montreal Being Razed to the Ground to Make a Railway Yard—Thousands of Population Moved Back—City Landmarks Fast Disappearing

The demolition of a city for local improvements and to afford yard room for the great railways. That is what is now going on in Montreal. When the "Old Boys" come next month they will be amazed at the changes which have been and are being made in this city. Old Montreal is rapidly disappearing, and this year it is going—to use that time-honored but tautological term—by leaps and bounds.

Old and well-known landmarks had been swept away to make more or less needed room for modern methods, as when the home of the founder of McGill was converted into a rubbish heap to make a cabbage garden, when the dwelling place of Montgomery, during the only time that Montreal was in the possession of the Revolting Colonies, was converted into a bar room. The remains of the old wall of Montreal have become so merged into the side of a house somewhere that it is difficult to place it. Old historic houses have been gutted and modernized into hay barns.

Wholesale Wrecking.

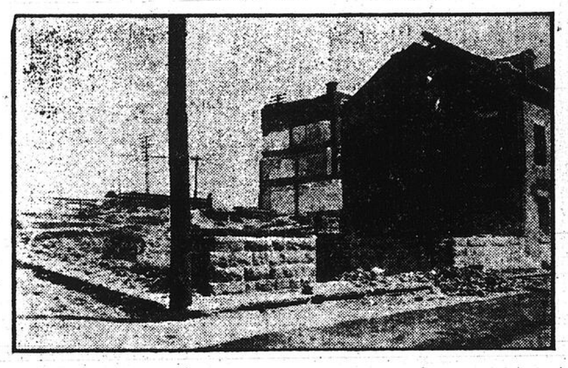
At the present time, however, this demolition is being done in a wholesale way. The very centre of Montreal is being torn up and thrown away. Not a few houses, but whole blocks are being torn down and streets closed. The district from Sohmer Park to Dalhousie Square and from the harbor front almost to Craig street is being reduced to a desert. Hundreds of dwellings, shops, factories, breweries, bar rooms, hotels, boarding houses—all are being converted into dust and debris and being carried away to the dump.

In places, buildings, and even portions of blocks still remain and look lonesome amid the clouds of white dust and the march of ruin.

A sufficient number of buildings of all kinds are being demolished, and a sufficient population moved out to furnish a good-sized city. In this east end demolition, as said, there are some places still standing, occupied and where all signs of life are to be seen, but they seem on the brink of a yawning gulf, and their end in sight.



DEMOLITION OF A CITY—Remains of Notre Dame street, Montreal's one-time main thoroughfare.

At the West End.

At the west end, the same work of demolition is in progress. From the Canadian Pacific Windsor Street Station to St. Antoine street and west on Osborne street, all is wreck and ruin. Stone and brick and mortar are being carried away, and men, women and children are helping themselves to kindling wood which was once the fittings and framework of houses, hotels, shops and factories.

The demolition so far referred to is occasioned by the necessities of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern for room to stretch themselves and handle their trains. A big union station at the east end, as well as an enormous passenger station at Windsor street from Osborne to St. Antoine streets will be among Montreal's new buildings in the near future.

Widening Streets.

In addition to the great leveling being wrought by the railways, the city authorities are continuing the widening of St. Antoine street west, and block after block is being converted into debris where hundreds lived and did business a year ago. Well may those who come to visit Montreal next month, after an absence of ten years or less, wonder where they are.

In the main, the buildings and blocks which have been removed had outgrown their usefulness and their removal must have come ere long any way. Yet Montreal to-day is paying large interest on the cost of widening and improving that very Notre Dame street east which, is now being converted into a lane through a railway yard, where it was once Montreal's great business thoroughfare.

Crichton School.

Mr. H. C. McAllister, A.B., has been appointed as assistant master in this school, with special charge of the French work. Mr. McAllister is a graduate, with classical honors, of Cambridge University, having been Bristol scholar and open exhibitioner of Corpus Christi College.

BADDECK, C.B.—Duncan J. MacKenzie, formerly of Beauly, Inverness-shire, Scotland, aged 28 years, is dead.

"SEEING MONTREAL" WITH TOURISTS ON THE "RUBBER NECK COACH"

"Right ahead you may see the trestle of the inclined railway under which we pass. It runs at an angle of sixty-five degrees. Perfectly safe to ride up and down, I assure you, unless—the cable breaks. If the cable breaks your future will depend upon your past."

That was the best joke of the trip and should go in the middle of the story instead of the first, but when one has been subjected to the excitement of a tally-ho trip around Mount Royal for two hours, one is apt to get things in the wrong place.

In reality the story should begin this way:

"It looks sort of shakey," said the motherly-looking old lady as she climbed painfully up the iron ladder to her seat in the tally-ho, in front of the Windsor yesterday afternoon.

"No fear. No fear at all madame," insisted the courteous attendants, as they assisted her to her seat. Encouraged by their mother's safe ascent, two daughters followed, with even greater care on the part of the attendants, and the coach being full the journey was on.

"Great Town For Churches."

"To the left is the American Presbyterian Church," announced the conductor in stentorian tones from his place of vantage on the rear seat.

"To the left is the American Presbyterian Church," echoed the driver.

The young ladies giggled, glanced hastily at their mother and lapsed into silence.

"This seems to be a great town for churches," volunteered the affable young man.

"Don't seem to be very busy outside of that. I tell you when you come from a lively town it seems funny to see so many churches. I come from Yonkers, N.Y."

Again the young ladies giggled, and at the appended statement, a smile appeared on one or two of the more serious faces. The young man looked pleased, the conductor sounded his trumpet and the tally-ho dashed around another corner.

"On your left you see one of the great city reservoirs," announced the guide.

"On your left you see one of the great city reservoirs," echoed the driver.

"It might make a fine swimmin' hole if it was a bit cleaner," added the guide in a lower tone.

Again the young ladies giggled, and the young man from the "lively" town on the Hudson river looked interested.

The rest of the party looked at the young man. When a young man from such a "lively" town as Yonkers looks interested at the sight of a reservoir he really deserves more attention than does the reservoir. But the four-in-hand was provided with blinders and no trouble resulted. Slowly the coach continued up the driveway.

The Second Joke.

"Ah," said the guide as the corner was turned. The change of conversation attracted immediate attention and all eyes turned to the rear seat. Under the gaze the tan-coated conductor immediately recovered his official air.

"On your left among the trees," he announced, "you may see a lady and gentleman spooning." All eyes left the guide's face; the young ladies smiled covertly, and the affable young man forgot to volunteer information as he dropped his hat, but the guide continued:

"High minded people must come to high altitudes for high minded purposes."

That was the second joke. Thereupon all present lapsed into moody silence.

At the Lookout the party clambered down and gazed, awe-inspired, at the panorama of city and river and distant mountains stretching out before them. For the moment "jokes" and "affable" young men were alike forgotten in the beauty and wonder of the scene. Points of interest in the city and surrounding country were pointed out by the guide, and even the "affable" one forgot for the moment to mention his travels and the similar sights which he had enjoyed. For half an hour the party strayed about the terrace; then returned to the waiting tally-ho.

Visiting Delegates.

"Oh, you St. Paul!" shouted a well-nourished looking cabby heading the procession of delegates to the League of American Municipalities, who had been invited to picnic on the mountain.

"Oh, you Kansas City!" returned the guide with chance recognition of the badges in the cab. Then came a gauntlet of carriages, cabs and shouting delegates until the famous joke of the inclined railway left the party breathless with surprise.

Slowly the tally-ho drew up at the curb before the Windsor.

"Ain't it the grand trip?" said the motherly-looking old lady as she descended carefully.

"It is," assented the "affable" young man, enthusiastically, and with the seal of travel and wisdom thus placed, the party joined in the assent.

HUNDRED AND SEVEN MILLION BUSHELS

Manitoba Grain Growers Estimate This as Total Western Wheat Crop.

Winnipeg, August 27.—From estimates received from 147 Manitoba townships, the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association has issued a report which places the yield of wheat of the province at over 35,000,000 bushels and the total of the three prairie provinces, over 107,000,000 bushels. Considerable damage resulted from shrinkage caused by hot winds since August 10. Average yields per acre are as follows:—

Wheat, 17½; oats, 40; barley, 30; flax, 13.

EX-HIGHLANDER MEETS DEATH AT CARDINAL.

The death occurred a short time ago at Cardinal, Ont., of Lawrence D. Belding, son of Mr. A. M. Belding, editor of the St. John Times. The young man was well known in Montreal, having been a member of the 5th Royal Highlanders, for some time, and was famous for his prowess as an athlete. He was a member of the regimental tug of war team and an expert swimmer. He, it appears, was about to leave one of the Inland Navigation Company's boats at Cardinal to go ashore by sliding down a slippery rope. In doing so he lost his grip, fell into the water, and was drowned. The body was brought to St. John for interment.

ST. ANTOINE WARD LEADS PROCESSION IN THE CAMPAIGN

Will Hold First Public Meeting Under Good Government Association's Auspices on Monday.

The Good Government Association of St. Antoine division will open the campaign for a reduction of aldermen and a board of control with an open air meeting, on Monday night, at the corner of Seigneurs and St. Antoine streets.

Both Ald. Nault and Ald. J. B. A. Martin are said to be opposed to the movement, and as a result, the chair will be occupied by Messrs. Patrick Wright, honorary president, and John E. Ewart, honorary vice-president of the Good Government Association.

Hon. Senator Dandurand will make the opening speech, and will be accompanied by several prominent French and English speakers who are interested in obtaining the two reforms the association are advocating, and who will speak on this occasion.

The association has already sent out the first of a series of circulars to the electors below the hill, and are making a thorough canvas of St. Joseph's ward, particularly because the two representatives are unfavorable to the reforms in question.

The Good Government Association of the St. Antoine division of Montreal has opened rooms at 271 St. Martin street, corner of St. Antoine street, for the official referendum headquarters for the electors below the hill, and early next week will have an uptown public office for the electors also.

OTTAWA BUSY WITH AMERICAN TARIFF

Star's Special Cable of Yesterday is Confirmed at Government Headquarters.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, August 28.—Enquiry in official circles here elicits confirmation of the Star's cable report that the effect of the United States tariff is the subject of communications between Ottawa, London and Washington.

The Government is understood to have had several of its customs experts carefully going into the tariff question, not only as regards lumber and pulp, but in all its aspects.

There are several phases of the question which are not just clear, particularly the application of minimum and maximum duties, and as these in some instances are not effective for some months yet, communications by way of definite interpretation are passing. There can be no doubt that the next Canadian budget will be framed with due reference to the altered conditions following the new American tariff, even though it has generally been interpreted here as not particularly interfering with the status quo save as regards lumber, coal and hides. It all depends on the maximum tariff application. If Canada comes largely under its operation retaliatory measures are highly probable along with a tendency to widen the preference.

NAVY WAS WELL ABLE TO PROTECT GREAT BRITAIN

Lord Charles Beresford's Charges Against the Admiralty Answered.

"In the opinion of the Committee the investigation has shown that during the time in question no danger to the country resulted from the Admiralty's arrangements for war, whether considered from the standpoint of the organisation and distribution of the fleets, the number of ships, or the preparation of war plans.

"They feel bound to add that arrangements quite defensible in themselves, though not ideally perfect, were in practice seriously hampered through the absence of cordial relations between the Board of Admiralty and the Commander-in-Chief of the Channel Fleet. The Board of Admiralty do not appear to have taken Lord Charles dia), Sir Edward Grey (Foreign Secretary), and Mr. Haldane (Secretary for War).

The Sub-Committee was constituted in consequence of a letter addressed by Admiral Lord Charles Beresford to the Prime Minister, dated 2 April, 1909, from which the following are extracts:

ADMIRAL'S LETTER.

"As you are aware, I have recently been relieved of my command of the Channel Fleet. That command carried with it the grave responsibility of assuming the command of the whole of the vessels in home waters (other than those appropriated to local defence) in case of war.

"During the whole of my tenure of the command of the Channel Fleet proper, that force, owing to the number of vessels constantly withdrawn from it for purposes of refit, has never, even for a day, been equal to the force which it might have to encounter in home waters. During that period the fleets in home waters have not been organized in readiness for war, and they are not organized in readiness for war now, to-day.

"This matter is of an importance so vital that I may be excused if at this point I pause to define the terms I employ in my attempt to make perfectly plain the condition of affairs.

"All organization for war on our part must involve a relation to the quote the Admiralty contention that, in comparing the relative strength of the British and foreign fleets, it was necessary to compare like with like, ships instantly ready, in full commission, or in reserve respectively, with those in the foreign country's similar categories.

"On this basis they produced figures to show that, thanks to the individual superiority of the vessels, the fighting power (measured by the heavy gun fire) of the British Channel Fleet, even after allowing for the absence of ships undergoing repairs and refits, had throughout Lord Charles Beresford's command been always superior to the nominal strength of the most formidable fleet maintained in full commission by any other nation, although the number of British battleships was less. Similarly, the total strength of British ships in full commission had been overwhelmingly superior to that of the ships maintained by any other nation in full commission, and the reserve strength of the British fleet had been immensely superior to that of any other Power.

"While admitting that vessels withdrawn from the Channel Fleet for routine purposes of annual refit had not been replaced," the Admiralty claimed that the fleet had always been maintained in superior fighting strength to that of any neighboring nation in full commission.

staff at the Admiralty, and indicated further advances in this direction which are in contemplation.

LORD BERESFORD'S REPLY.

Lord Charles Beresford has forwarded the following statement to the press for publication:—

"The report of the Committee appointed by the Prime Minister to investigate the statements made in my letter of April 2, 1909, is, in the main, a great satisfaction to me. Some of the reforms which in my belief are essential for our naval organization have now been accepted, and are part of the present Admiralty programmme. My position as an officer lately exercising high command, and anxious as to the naval situation, was one of extreme difficulty.

"It was my bounden duty to represent to the Prime Minister in the first instance the dangers that were apparent to me. The Sub-Committee formed by the Prime Minister from members of his own Cabinet was virtually called upon to investigate a policy for which the Cabinet is responsible. Unless they had committed themselves to the complete reorganization of the Admiralty it would hardly be possible for them to have produced a report more in accordance with my statements.

"My action during the past two years in respectfully submitting certain suggestions to the Admiralty, and my letter to the Prime Minister after dismissal, have been followed by these satisfactory results:—

1. A large homogeneous fleet has been formed.
2. It is stated that this fleet will be placed under a single supreme control.
3. There is to be combined training of units with their respective divisions.
4. Some combined training of fleets took place during the recent manoeuvres.
5. It is believed that the effective strength at sea will be maintained by the substitution of those vessels away for purposes of refit or of repair, by others.
6. The "nucleus crew" ships are now regarded as a reserve.
7. A Naval Strategical Bureau or War Staff at the Admiralty, to the necessity of which frequent attention has been called, is stated to be in process of formation.
8. A complete change has taken place in the organization and distribution of the fleet on the lines suggested.

"The manner of bringing about these reforms is quite immaterial provided that the reforms are accomplished.

"It cannot have been the intention of the Committee to imply that in any of my actions or communications with the Board during my tenure of command I was guilty of disloyalty to the spirit of the instructions of the Board, or that I ever failed to recognize their paramount authority. But the following paragraph in the report, considered apart from its context, might give rise to such an inference:

". . . and Lord Charles Beresford, on the other hand, appears to have failed to appreciate and carry out the spirit of the instructions of the Board, and to recognize their paramount authority.

"In the whole of the official communications which it was my duty to make to the constituted authority there was not one word which could be construed into disrespect, disloyalty and indiscipline, or which in the remotest degree reflected upon the paramount authority of the Admiralty.

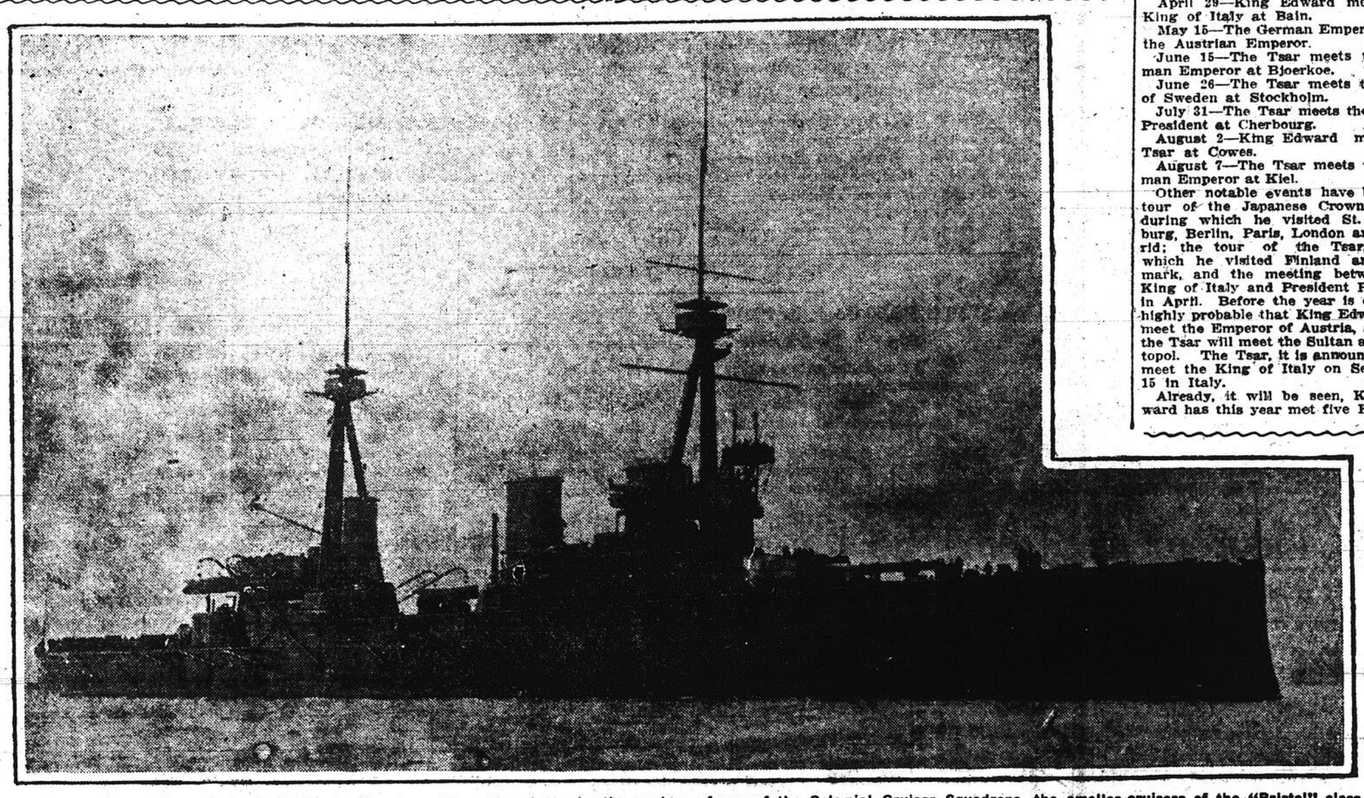
"The report itself says that 'the Board of Admiralty did not take Lord Charles Beresford into its confidence.' Under such conditions how was it possible for me to define what was in their lordships' minds and what their wishes were? Upon the Admiralty, and the Admiralty alone, must devolve all responsibility for strategic plans, allocation of fleets, and numbers of vessels employed. The authority of the Admiralty must be paramount. But it is the duty of the Commander-in-Chief, if he thinks plans, allocations and numbers of ships are inefficient, or are insufficient to enable him to carry out the orders he may receive from authority, to make respectful representations to that effect.

"Every Commander-in-Chief who undertakes to execute a plan which he thinks bad or injurious is criminal; he ought to make representations, to insist upon a change, finally to resign rather than be the instrument of the ruin of his own people.

"Such was Napoleon's view of the matter, and I was content to take it for my own guidance. On these lines I have done my duty. The committee expressly dissociate themselves from giving any opinion with regard to the grave deficiency of medium cruisers and destroyers, beyond stating that they believe no danger to the country is involved in that deficiency. Upon this point I cannot but maintain my conviction that there is a present and a serious danger.

"It is conclusively shown by the final paragraph of the report of the sub-committee that the holding of this inquiry has been of immense educational advantage to the members of the committee, and therefore to the Cabinet.

"The finding that there was no danger 'in fact' cannot be so much attributed to the excellence of the existing organization as to the good fortune of the country in not having been attacked during the period described by the committee as that of 'transitory and provisional character.'"



The Dreadnought cruiser "Indomitable," who like her sister ships, is to be the nucleus of one of the Colonial Cruiser Squadrons, the smaller cruisers of the "Bristol" class being furnished by Australia and Canada.

Beresford sufficiently into their confidence as to the reasons for dispositions to which he took exception; and Lord Charles Beresford, on the other hand, appears to have failed to appreciate and carry out the spirit of the instructions of the Board, and to recognise their paramount authority.

"The Committee have been impressed with the differences of opinion amongst officers of high rank and professional attainments regarding important principles of naval strategy and tactics, and they look forward with much confidence to the further development of a Naval War Staff, from which the Naval members of the Board and Flag Officers and their staffs at sea may be expected to derive common benefit.

The above are the general conclusions reached by the Sub-Committee of the Committee of Imperial Defence, which has inquired into the charges of unpreparedness for war made against the present Admiralty administration by Lord Charles Beresford. The report is signed by the Prime Minister, Lord Crewe (Colonial Secretary), Lord Morley (Secretary for In-organization for war of the potential enemy. In the case under consideration, the potential enemy organises his naval forces upon the only sound principle, that of concentration . . . . The equivalent to such an organization upon our part should be a similar organization, with a margin of superiority."

Lord Charles relates the circumstances in which he declined the command of the Channel Fleet in 1906. He says that he found the Home Fleet was to be constituted, and the Atlantic Fleet was to be constituted, and the Atlantic Fleet placed under separate command, while only a fifth of the Home Fleet was fully manned. Regarding these circumstances as creating a situation impracticable in peace and disastrous in war, he did not feel justified in accepting the command. In January, 1907, he was asked to reconsider his decision, and accepted, after laying down certain conditions, one of which was that the three fleets should be combined for fleet training under the Commander-in-Chief of the Channel Fleet, who should be responsible for the combined command in war.

This arrangement "has never been carried into execution, except upon one occasion, in October, 1907."

The order for the substitution of other ships for those withdrawn for repair was never carried into effect except in the cases of five vessels, and in August, 1908, the order was cancelled.

In consequence of the annulment of the order I was obliged, in September last, to proceed to sea with six battleships instead of 14.

"During the two years of my command the average number of vessels withdrawn for refit per week has been two to three battleships, one to two armored cruisers, nine to ten destroyers.

"It will thus be apparent that not one of the five principles essential to organization of the fleet for war, upon the condition of whose observance I accepted my command, has been observed."

"Highly Secret Matters."

To this letter the Prime Minister replied that "statements so grave upon matters vital to the national safety proceeding from an officer of your eminence and of your long and distinguished service clearly call for prompt and thorough examination. I propose, therefore, without any avoidable delay to institute an inquiry into the points you have laid before me. I shall myself preside over the inquiry, and I shall take steps to secure that those who are associated with me in conducting it are both impartial and competent."

The sub-committee held its first meeting on 27th April, 1909, and has held 16 meetings. Lord Charles Beresford attended the inquiry, accompanied by Admiral Sir Reginald Constance and a private secretary; and the Admiral was represented by Mr. McKenna and Sir John Fisher, with Commander Crease for secretarial purposes.

The committee preface their report with the remark:

"The investigation necessarily extended to matters of a highly secret nature, which could not be handled otherwise than with great reserve in a document intended for publication, without injury to the national interests. Although a general outline of the questions examined is contained in this report, it has consequently been found expedient to omit any reference to many important details, bearing on the issues involved. But, in the opinion of the committee, these reservations and omissions do not affect the validity of the conclusions which are hereinafter set forth."

Dealing point by point with Lord Charles's indictment, the committee

Upon this point "the committee are of opinion that the Admiralty made good their contentions."

Overwhelming Reserve.

"The Admiralty claimed therefore, first, that even when the extreme possibilities of sudden attack are considered, the safety of the country was in fact secured by the distribution and organization which existed during Lord Charles Beresford's two years of command; and, second, that behind the fully commissioned fleets we had such an overwhelming reserve of power that our predominance was secured in the event of any developed war. They pointed out that the organization in home waters during Lord Charles Beresford's period of command had been merely a necesary stage during a transitional period of exceptional difficulty in the development of the Home Fleet, and had not, they admitted, been from a strategical point of view an unimpeachable arrangement."

On the latter point the committee indicate a criticism. While they "are of opinion that the Admiralty would have been better advised in adhering throughout to the principle of placing the chief command in home waters in the hands of a single officer, they think that the exceptional difficulties which confronted the board during this transitional stage in the evolution of the Home Fleet justified the dispositions made. They are furthermore of opinion that no danger to the country in fact resulted from those dispositions."

On the point of the mobilization of "nucleus crew" ships "the evidence before the committee showed, in their opinion, that the nucleus crew ships were capable of very rapid mobilization, and had attained a satisfactory standard of efficiency."

As to the concentration of a homogeneous fleet under a single commander, the report says:

"There is, in the opinion of the committee, no difference in principle between the suggestions on this head made to them by Lord Charles Beresford and the plan recently adopted by the Admiralty, towards which the Board claimed that their previous dispositions had been directed."

In the opinion of the committee the present organization of fleets in home waters satisfies in substance all Lord Charles Beresford's requirements, the only important difference being that the Atlantic Fleet is retained for strategical reasons as an independent command, instead of becoming one of three fully-manned divisions of the Home Fleet. They concur with Sir Arthur Wilson in regarding the present organization as free from the objections which might, in their opinion, have been fairly urged against the arrangements which preceded it, upon any other view than that those arrangements were of a transitory and provisional character.

The committee also find:

That there is no such deficiency of small craft in home waters as to constitute a risk to the safety of the country;

That there is no sufficient foundation for Lord Charles Beresford's apprehensions as to the alleged dangerous shortage of cruisers;

That Lord Charles Beresford had no substantial grounds for complaint as to his inability to obtain any strategical scheme on assuming command.

Finally, they state that in connection with the question of war plans it should be mentioned that Lord Charles Beresford attributed many of the Admiralty's alleged shortcomings to the absence of a proper strategical department. The First Lord of the Admiralty furnished the committee with a resume of the steps which have recently been taken to develop a war

NOTABLE YEAR FOR ROYAL VISITS

Record So Far This Year—King Edward Likely to Create Fresh Record.

The year 1909 will be memorable for its numerous meetings of crowned heads. Already, although little more than half over, it has seen an exceptional number of kingly meetings, and more are in the immediate programme. King Edward is this year in person greeting a record number of monarchs, and the fact is universally hailed as a promise of peace. The meetings of monarchs up to the present date are shown in the following table:—

Feb. 9—King Edward's visit to the German Emperor at Berlin.
March 6—King Edward meets the French President in Paris.
March 31—King Edward meets the King of Spain at Biarritz.
April 17—The German Emperor meets the Austrian Emperor.
April 17—The German Emperor meets the King of Greece at Corfu.
April 29—King Edward meets the King of Italy at Bain.
May 15—The German Emperor meets the Austrian Emperor.
June 15—The Tsar meets the German Emperor at Bjoerkoe.
June 26—The Tsar meets the King of Sweden at Stockholm.
July 31—The Tsar meets the French President at Cherbourg.
August 2—King Edward meets the Tsar at Cowes.
August 7—The Tsar meets the German Emperor at Kiel.

Other notable events have been the tour of the Japanese Crown Prince, during which he visited St. Petersburg, Berlin, Paris, London and Madrid; the tour of the Tsar, during which he visited Finland and Denmark, and the meeting between the King of Italy and President Roosevelt in April. Before the year is out it is highly probable that King Edward will meet the Emperor of Austria, and that the Tsar will meet the Sultan at Sevastopol. The Tsar, it is announced, will meet the King of Italy on September 15 in Italy.

Already, it will be seen, King Edward has this year met five European monarchs. Since His Majesty's accession he has met more than six kings in any one year. The list is as follows:

1908—April—The Kings of Denmark, Sweden, and Norway.
June—The Tsar.
August—The Kaiser and the Austrian Emperor.
1907—February—The French President.
April—The Kings of Spain and Italy.
August—The Kaiser and the Austrian Emperor.
1906—March—The French President.
April—The Kings of Italy and Greece.
August—The Kaiser.
1905—April—The French President.
August—The Emperor of Austria.
1904—March—The King of Denmark.
June—The Kaiser.
1903—April—The Kings of Portugal and Italy and the Pope.
May—The French President.

Since his accession the King has visited France, Germany, Austria, Russia, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Greece, Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

LORD ELIOT A SUICIDE.

Despondent Because Marriage to Show Girl Was Prevented.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Plymouth, England, August 28.—Lord Eliot, only son and heir of the Earl of St. Germans, who was fatally shot yesterday at his father's residence, Port Eliot, in Cornwall, committed suicide. That was the verdict of the coroner's jury.

The gossips have it that Lord Eliot, who was only twenty-four years old, killed himself because his father would not let him marry Miss Estelle Christy, an American show girl, with whom he fell in love when she was playing in London two years ago in the "Nellie Nell" company with Edna May.

Most romantic stories are current about Lord Eliot's engagement to the beautiful American woman. His father, it is said, forced him to break his engagement to marry her and then got him an appointment in the army in Egypt. For, although Lord Eliot had been self-contained, he plunged into dissipation in London after his marriage was forbidden. In Egypt he became melancholy, despondent and he returned a couple of months ago enfeebled mentally and physically.

Miss Estelle Christy is a handsome young woman. When she returned from London in October, 1907, she had a small part in "The Great White Way" at the Casino here. She admitted—for publication—that she was engaged to marry Lord Eliot, but said she had promised his mother, the Countess of St. Germans, "a most delightful woman," not to marry him for a year.

Miss Christy divorced her first husband, Edward McDowell, of Baltimore, who was her guardian, she said, and married her when she was thirteen. She has a son about six years old.

Singularly enough she claimed that Lord Eliot and she were of the same descent.

Letters to the Editor.

South Africa's Problem.

To the Editor of The Montreal Star.

Sir,—As one who has recently arrived in this country for the first time from South Africa, where I have lived for several years, may I be permitted to express my opinion on the vexed question of the "Colored Franchise" on which you animadverted in your leading article of Saturday last?

You have apparently missed the real point at issue in heading your article "The Color Question in South Africa," because in South Africa, and more particularly in the Transvaal and the Orange River Colony, we differentiate between the color and the native questions.

The natives are with us, they are bred and born in the country, they are the original inhabitants of the country, whereas the colored people, such as the Indians, Chinese, Malays, etc., are more or less recent arrivals, who practically take no interest in its social and politicial developments, and in the nature of things could not possibly display that intelligent participation in its affairs conducive to its well-being as one of European birth imbbued with European civilization.

I hasten to say, however, that individual exceptions are always possible, and will happen, in view of the fact that the richer Indians are now affording to their children the most complete and up to date university education in the English universities, and that these graduates of English university life can, not only with profit to themselves, but in the general interests of the community at large, participate in the general blessings of ordinary civilized life of any European community.

The great majority, however, of these Indians, etc., are so far at present removed from the ordinary conceptions of every day life of any European, that the grant to them even of the ordinary franchise, however limited in itsh scope, may, and probably will, prove the greatest danger to the small white community inhabiting the enormous territory known to us generally as that of South Africa.

The natives are a necessary and unavoidable evil, and the practical and efficient solution of this question will no doubt occupy the brightest and best minds of the statesmen of South Africa for a long time to come.

To enable your readers to grasp the most elementary facts as well as the most simple, in the complex question that agitates the minds of the white population of South Africa, let me state that a million of white inhabitants, all told, from the Zambesi to Cape Town, are surrounded by ten millions of uncultivated, uncivilized and half savage tribes who even now do not feel the necessity of European clothes; whose notions of decency, morals, life and behavior are such as to be entirely repugnant to any European standard.

With the advance of the white settler, the slow and gradual development of European civilization in the outlying districts of the great expanse of South Africa, the natives are brought, daily and hourly, into contact with that strange life so incomprehensible to them, which they try to imitate and to imbibe in its worst possible forms.

Over there it is the question:—Shall European civilization prevail in the face of difficulties and insurmountable hardships, or shall it be submerged entirely without any hope of resuscitation among the wild black tribes inhabiting this large sub-continent?

It is a question of the most vital importance to the South Africans, which no one, who has not lived and studied the question on the spot, can fully appreciate in all its bearings.

The smaller question as to whether the small section of the colored inhabiting Cape Colony enjoying the franchise shall be disfranchised arises out of the very much larger question: "What to do and how to bring up and develop the millions of natives within the bounds of European life without any danger to the white population?

We may well leave this knotty point to the South Africans, Dutch and English, who are pre-eminently well acquainted with all the subtleties of the problem.

South Africa has now, with the passing through the House of Commons of the United Constitution, arrived at the starting point of its career, and the solution of all its various difficult problems and questions may be safely left in the hands of the future citizens of that country, however unpalatable such an idea may be to the home-bred politician and the so-called philanthropist.

Yours faithfully,
E. GUILAROFF.

A Common Abuse.

To the Editor of the Montreal Star

Sir,—Any one walking along either the Upper or Lower Lachine road on a Sunday afternoon will have most prominently brought before his notice an instance of the utter heartlessness shown by many drivers towards their horses. Sir, I refer in this instance to the gentlemen of the jobbing express business. Their horses have most likely had a severe week of it and not over-much food, and yet not a Sunday goes by without numbers of these jobbing expresses being seen on both the roads I have named, loaded down with men, women and children. "I am rather fond of walking, and one Sunday last summer I was going out the upper road and had just got up the hill that leads from—I think it is Cote St. Paul—when two jobbing expresses came along. One of these had eleven men and boys in it, while the other had eight men in a sort of baseball costume, but each of the expresses had but one one poor horse attached to it. And not only that, but when they got a little past me they made the poor beasts race. How far they lasted I do not know.

On the Lower Lachine road it is the same, Sunday after Sunday. Jobbing express waggons are there, some with half a dozen, others with nine, twelve, and even once we counted thirteen grown-ups and children. On Sunday one passed me containing eight, all women and children, chairs being arranged for all who couldn't squeeze on the front seat.

It may be the same on the other outskirts of the city; most likely so, but I have never been that way on a Sunday. It is an outrageous shame that between the S. P. C. A. and the police of the city and of the municipalities of Verdun and Lachine, a stop cannot be put to those who ill-use their hard-worked horses.

I think a campaign started now against this glaring blot on our fair city would make a very worthy autumn campaign.

HARVESTER STRUCK BY TRAIN

Killed on Journey to Western Wheat-fields.

Special to The Montreal Star.

North Bay, Ont., August 28.—The annual rush of farm laborers to the harvest fields of the West, while quiet and orderly this year, is not to pass without at least one tragic incident. Yesterday the mangled body of M. Busson, a prominent citizen of St. Constant, Que., was found on the railway near Ridout, two hundred and sixteen miles west of North Bay. His body was found yesterday morning. Considerable mystery is attached to the case, as no reason is apparent for Busson's actions in leaving the train. The supposition is that his mind became deranged and that he was struck by a westbound express.

Suffering children immediately relieved. Child and mother enjoy perfect rest.

WHAT BROUGHT CHINESE AND JAPS TO VERGE OF WAR

Antung-Mukden Railway Dispute — Both Sides of the Case Stated.

The Case For Japan.

The Japanese case is set forth in the following authoritative statement received from a Japanese source:—

During the late war, Japan built for military purposes a light railway between Antung and Mukden. The line was hastily and necessarily imperfectly constructed and was wholly unsuited and insufficient for ordinary commercial purposes. But, when the South Manchurian line passed into the hands of the Imperial Government, necessity for a connecting link between that line and the Korean system became apparent. Accordingly by Article 6 of the Arrangement complementary to the Treaty of Peking of 1905, it was agreed that Japan not only had the right to maintain the military line in question, but so to improve it as to make it fit for the conveyance of commercial and industrial goods of all nations, or, in other words, to convert a purely military line into a commercial railway. Objections of China to the fulfilment of treaty stipulations above-mentioned on what must be regarded as frivolous and inconsequential grounds make it compulsory for Japan to take an independent action in the matter.

To explain the situation which calls for such action the existing Antung-Mukden military railway has the total length of 188 miles and a gauge of 2 feet 6 inches. To avoid the construction of tunnels and bridges, for which there was no time, the line was given many wide detours and steep gradients and short and sharp curves. In consequence of these defects there are naturally frequent damages by derailments. Hauling capacity of engines is necessarily very small. Three or four small passenger or freight cars constitute a maximum train, and, on some portions of the line where the grades are steep, trains have to be divided into two or three separate hauls. Speed capacity of engines is also necessarily very low. Travel on the line by night is impracticable. Transit between Antung and Mukden requires two full days. It was in order to provide for removal of these imperfections and to make the road not only available, but also efficient, for the commercial requirement to which it was to be devoted after it had ceased to be necessary for military purposes, that the improvement stipulation was inserted in the Complementary Arrangement of 1905.

By the opening of the Antung, Mukden and Fusan line, another route will be established for inter-continental intercourse between Europe on the one hand and Japan and the Far East generally on the other. The route will have the advantage of reducing the sea voyage to ten hours. But in order to make the route effective and useful it is necessary that it shall have the same gauge and efficiency as the Korean and the South Manchurian Railway systems, of which the route under consideration will be a connecting link. The improvements which are absolutely essential include boring of tunnels, building of bridges, straightening and grading of the line, and the changing of the gauge to the standard used in the connecting Korean and South Manchurian systems. With these improvements, the distance will be shortened, time of transit between Antung and Mukden reduced from two full days to eight or nine hours, and the general efficiency of the line will be established. Without them the railway will remain, as at present, entirely useless for commercial purposes.

Accordingly informal negotiations were at the outset carried on with China with a view to make the Antung and Mukden Railway available as speedily as possible as a connecting link between the Korean and the South Manchurian systems in the great inter-continental trunk line. But this method of procedure having proved abortive, the Imperial Government in January last officially proposed to China that commissioners be despatched to survey the line. This proposal having been agreed to, Japanese and Chinese commissioners made and agreed upon a joint survey of the proposed route, with the exception of a small section some 20 miles in length between Mukden and Chenh-sian-tun. This work was completed early in April last, and steps were immediately taken to report the result to the Chinese Government. As the route between Mukden and Chenh-siang-tun remained to be discussed between the two Governments, the Imperial Government, in order to prevent an unnecessary delay, proposed to commence the work on that portion of the line east of Chenh-siang-tun which had been duly surveyed, leaving the Mukden-Chenh-siang-tun section for examination and adjustment; and they announced their desire to begin purchase of the land required for the railway purposes.

But China, having recourse to her well-known policy of obstruction and procrastination, evaded the just and reasonable demands of Japan and raised collateral questions regarding police authority in the railway zones and the withdrawal of railway guards. The Imperial Government, appealing to the principles of justice, repeatedly urged China to accede to their demands. Finally, on June 24 last, China sent a reply which, if concurred in, would wholly nullify provisions of the Arrangement of 1905 on the subject of the Antung-Mukden line and utterly destroy the value of the railway. Disregarding the survey agreed to by the commissioners of the two Governments, that reply, besides reviving the question of police authority and railway guard and raising other immaterial issues which would appropriately lend themselves to a separate and independent negotiation, declares that the work of improvement must be confined to the existing track and that no broadening of the gauge can be permitted. The Imperial Government, reluctant to take measures tending to impair good relations between the two countries, have up to this time limited their action to an endeavor to induce China to reconsider her untenable position and to adopt a course consistent with the manifest intention of the parties to the engagement of 1905.

The Chinese View.

There is a dispute over the reconstruction of the railway, both as to the method of reconstruction and as to the right of policing the railway zone. The railway, a Decauville line built during the war, is built upon land—often good corn land and occasionally village house property—for which no compensation was ever paid. An insignificant fraction of the millions spent upon the war, paid in equitable recompense for the land thus appropriated, would have made the owners as contented as they are now aggrieved. So in Antung, had the Japanese Government made just payment for the land instead of expropriating it from its Chinese owners at less than half its value, much of the present bitterness would have been avoided. Protest against this injustice is the real reason of China's opposition to the re-building along a new track of the Antung-Mukden Railway. Japan desires to re-build this railway on a standard gauge so that it may connect the Chinese Railways and the Japanese South Manchuria Railway with the railways in Korea. She bases her right upon Article VI. of the badly-drafted Peking Additional Agreement of December 22, 1905. China disputes her right. Japan contends that when negotiating the agreement she had in view the reconstruction of this railway on the standard gauge. China disclaims responsibility for what Japan had in view. The words of the Convention are: "China agrees that Japan has the right to improve the Antung-Mukden Railway so as to make it fit for the conveyance of commercial and industrial goods of all nations," and these words, China says, do not convey the right of rebuilding.

Japan's right to police the railway is also disputed. Japan claims that the railway is on the same footing as the South Manchuria Railway, therefore she has a right to maintain guards to protect it, the number of such guards not to exceed 15 per kilometre (4,000 for the distance of 160 miles). China contends that the agreement gives her no such right, even though in negotiating the agreement she had in view military guards for this railway. So disputes continue. Everything Japan does is wrong in Chinese eyes. Even the Japanese prohibition of likin on the South Manchuria Railway—a measure of great advantage to the Chinese producers in Manchuria—is condemned by theChinese as giving the railway an advantage over the Northern Chinese Railways, which are unhappily burdened with "likin" illegally and irregularly levied.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

IN DEADLY PERIL FORTY FEET BELOW THE SURFACE

A Diver Working In the Sunken Steamer Collingwood Rescued on Point of Death.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Detroit, Mich., August 28. — While working in the sunken steamer Collingwood, forty feet below the surface, yesterday, John Coffrey, a diver, had a very close escape from death. One of the couplings of the air tube parted and Coffrey was in a fair way of being asphyxiated when Captain Harris W. Baker, who was acting as his "tender," detected something wrong, and without stopping to call for assistance, exerted all his strength and succeeded in pulling the diver to the surface. When the copper helmet was removed, Coffrey had lost consciousness and the blood was gushing from his mouth and ears.

HAZEL ELOPES SECOND TIME

Romantic Couple Who Visited Here are Re-united.

Special to The Montreal Star.

New York, August 28.—Hazel Drew McGreal, the young Brooklyn heiress, has again changed her mind. She is again with her young husband and since August 17 has been living with him at the home of his father.

Hazel Drew McGreal's mother is very much puzzled over the re-elopment of her daughter. Mrs. Drew-Hall thought her daughter was going to the country and helped her pack up. She, however, went to Manhattan, where she met McGreal, and wrote that she was with Walter again and was madly in love with him. Hazel cannot get her fortune for two years. When this couple eloped some months ago they visited Montreal on their honeymoon journey.

GERMANY'S STAND ON LIMITATION OF ARMAMENTS

Necessity of British Naval Supremacy Is Not Recognized In Berlin.

German comment on the naval debate in the British House of Commons reveals very clearly—first, that Germans absolutely refuse to recognize the necessity of British naval supremacy, and second that Germans regard all British talk about the limitation of naval armaments as a cunning method of maintaining British naval supremacy without incurring additional expenditure. The leading Liberal organ, the "Vossische Zeitung," writes:

Yesterday's naval debate in the British House of Commons had nothing new about it. The thoughts and principles expounded during the debate prove quite clearly that the idea of disarmament, cherished by all reasonable persons in all countries, is not yet ripe for realization. If the idea of disarmament suddenly assumed definite proportions in England about three years ago, it was due to the fact that the British Government acted on the assumption that England must, under all circumstances, be superior in naval strength to any other two naval powers, so that the construction of new battleships necessary to maintain this standard was regarded as an enormous burden. The most elementary instincts of self-preservation caused other countries, including Germany, steadily to push forward their own naval armaments, although in our country especially the sacrifices which had to be made for this purpose cannot be reckoned as insignificant.

IMPRACTICABLE AGREEMENT.

Now England feels that the necessity of building new warships to maintain the two-power standard is uncommonly oppressive and almost insupportable, and, therefore, she proposes the disarmament or limitation of naval armaments, but, of course, on the basis of England's absolute superiority, which would thus be laid down as the axiom for all times. Nobody intends to become superior to England as a naval power, but every country must protect itself as well as it can, so long as there are no binding agreements on this matter. If, however, such agreements can ever be considered, the demand that England's superiority should be accepted as a matter of principle must first be abandoned. As a matter of principle, no country will thus like to be stamped as a weaker naval power for all time, and thus be pushed into the background. That would not be progress; it would be destruction to life itself.

But yesterday's debate in the British House of Commons showed clearly that the acceptance of British naval superiority as a fundamental principle is the basis of an agreement regarding the limitation of armaments which England would approve. Much as European countries, and especially Germany, repudiate every thought of attacking England, it must, nevertheless, be repeated again and again for the enlightment of our cousins on the other side of the North Sea that the hopes regarding a limitation of naval armaments can only have any prospect of success if they take place between equals. It is remarkable and regrettable that the English, who are generally so well informed, and have such clear judgment in political matters, cannot understand this simple fact.

Another influential Liberal organ, the "Borsen Courier," writes:—

In reviewing the debate in the British House of Commons, it is difficult not to write in a satirical spirit. We will, however, refrain from doing so, and can only express the hope that the result of the debate will be the diminution of the fear of German invasion. Mr. McKenna's words about "the serious desire to limit armaments," and so forth, are really nothing but empty words. Up to this hour no proposal in this sense has reached the German Government.

COMPETITION STIMULATED.

The Conservative "Berliner Neueste Nachrichten" displays keen pleasure at the part played in the debate by Mr. Dillon and Mr. Barnes, and remarks that the statements made yesterday in the House of Commons will stimulate those countries who refuse to recognize for all time the naval supremacy of one single power to keen exertions, whose aggregate result will be more formidable than the quartette of Dreadnoughts now to be laid down by Great Britain. The leading Conservative organ, the "Deutsche Tageszeitung," writes:—

It is part of the religion of the British to believe that they must maintain absolute naval supremacy in all seas for all time, and that France and other countries are only justified if they are tolerated by England. If the British, acting on this principle, consider it necessary to expand their naval programme into endless dimensions, we have no right and no desire to interfere in their affairs. There will come a time when not want of money, but impossibility of maintaining the two-power standard will render the realization of this principle impossible. We can never agree to the proposal put forward yesterday by Mr. Asquith and Mr. McKenna regarding the limitation of naval armaments. The desire for the limitation of naval armaments can be well understood when seen from the British point of view. When the weaker power promises the stronger power to do nothing to strengthen itself, the stronger power does not require to take any action to maintain its superiority.

If the other naval powers would agree to a limitation of naval armaments, England would retain her absolute naval supremacy without incurring any other burdens, and all other countries would be obliged to bow before her. We refrain from criticizing the British naval programme, but Great Britain has no reason to be suspicious because we have battleships, not to attack England, but merely to create naval armaments which would render it a formidable task for the most powerful enemy to make war on us. We shall not abandon this right by any international agreement.

Record Human Temperature.

At an inquest held recently in Belfast on the body of a boy of 14, named Abanethy, who died as the result of burns caused by the upsetting of a kettle of boiling water, the doctor who attended him gave evidence that the boy's temperature rose from 105 to 109.5, which he thought was a record temperature at which any person had lived. The boy died half an hour later.

BROTHER TOLD BROTHER

One Suffered for Fifteen Years, the Other for Thirteen.

The convincing powers of a testimonial were never more clearly shown than in the case of Mr. Hugh Brown. A brother, Lemuel Brown, of Avondale, N. B., read in the paper about Hon. John Costigan being cured by "Fruit-a-tives." Knowing the Senator would only endorse a medicine which had cured him, Mr. Lemuel Brown tried "Fruit-a-tives." They cured him of Chronic Indigestion and Constipation, so he urged his brother to try them.

Hartland, N.B., Oct. 28th, 1907.

"Three doctors told me that I had Liver Disease and serious Stomach Trouble. My stomach was very weak. I took their medicines for thirteen years and grew worse. My brother (who was cured of terrible Indigestion by "Fruit-a-tives" after suffering for 15 years), recommended me to try these wonderful tablets. I bought half a dozen boxes and have just finished the sixth. I eat all kinds of hearty foods without distress and am greatly improved in every way. "Fruit-a-tives" also cured the Chronic Constipation which was so distressing in my case."

(Signed) HUGH BROWN.

AMUSEMENTS.

AT LOCAL THEATRES.

His Majesty's

"King Dodo," the Pixley and Luders comedy opera, which has won much success ever since its first production, will be the attraction at His Majesty's for the opening of the season starting with the matinee Monday, September 6. For "King Dodo" a good cast, containing many metropolitan favorites, is promised, as well as an attractive chorus and fine scenic environment.

Academie

As Loie Fuller will not be seen at the Academy in conjunction with the new French Company until September 13th, the various members of the Stock Company will have ample opportunity to show their ability during the opening week of their season, which starts with a matinee on Labor Day. The play selected for the initial week is by De Caillavet and Robert de Flers, entitled "L'Amour Veille," and its four acts are said to be well constructed. The cast will include: Misses Ritter, Rousillon, Schuller, and Delauney, and Messrs. Leon Cassett, Emile Rouvier, and possibly Paul Marcel, although the latter has not decided as yet to place himself in the cast.

Bennett's Theatre.

Fred Lindsay will head the bill at Bennett's next week. While living in Australia he became expert with the short handle long lash whip, of the manipulation of which he gives an exhibition in his spectacular act. Lindsay carries several assistants, and lot of scenery and effects representing a camp in the Queensland bush. Others on the bill include Miss Vinie Daly, who is a niece of Margaret Daly Vokes, and is a well-known dancer; De Witt, Burns and Torrance, said to be clever pantomimists and acrobats, in "The Awakening of Toys;" Clifford & Burke, black face comedians; Foy and Clarke; John Gilbert, comedian; and Viviens, sharp shooters.

Theatre Francais.

The production of "Faust," which will be presented at the Francais next week, is said to include many fine electric and other effects, as well as attractive scenery, such as the garden with blossoms that turn to fairy lamps; the revel of the Demons on the Brocken when the lightning plays about the rocks; the cathedral lighted up inside and showing the choir, priest and congregation; and the Apotheosis, where Marguerite ascends to Heaven from her bed of straw. The cast includes Miss Edna Porter as "Marguerite," Mr. Geo. S. Trimble, as "Mephisto," Mr. Carlyle Shelley, as "Faust," and Miss Myra Brooks as "Martha."

Theatre Royal.

With "The Ducklings" at the Theatre Royal next week, will be Charles H. Boyle and Lillian George, Bulla Raymond, Frank Damsell, and Frances Far, the Sisters Hall, William Cullen, and Nugent and Nugent. The programme opens with what is called a mile-a-minute song and comedietta, "The Janitor." The olio follows, and the performance terminates with "A One-Night Opera," introducing the entire company, when it is said fun reigns supreme.

Stanley Hall.

Miss B. Genevieve Baird, a young Canadian actress, will appear shortly at Stanley Hall, in three one-act plays by W. A. Tremayne. Miss Baird is a native of St. John, N.B. She has only been a short time in the profession, but has done excellent work. Season before last she toured the West Indies and South America with W. S. Harkins's Co., playing the juvenile roles in "Mrs. Dane's Defence," "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," "The Lion and the Mouse," etc., and the following summer was leading lady for Daniel Ryan, and scored in the role of Parthenia. The plays will be given under the direction of the author, and with competent support.

What The Press Notice Said.

The art of the Press Agent "in advance of the show," sometimes makes a hit where the writer least expects, and causes all the laughs to happen in the wrong places. An example of the Press Agent's work received not long ago forms a case in point, and as it possesses unconscious humor for which either the typewriter or the man manipulating it must be held responsible, it's perhaps best to regard it merely as another instance of the general "cussedness" of inanimate objects, and blame the machine. The press notice, before it received attention from the editorial blue pencil, stated that the star who was being extolled, had been "fated" by society, and "caressed and pampered" by the people of the city in which she had last appeared. A young woman's "wrapturous" face was also referred to, and it was furthermore stated that this wonderful star had been regarded as the "real carnation" of something that existed long ago.

A Canadian Composer.

Mr. Grant-Schaeffer, a Canadian composer, who has spent the last half dozen years in Chicago, spent a few days in Montreal last week on his way from his summer home on Lake Memphremagog. No other Canadian of the younger generation has won such recognition for his song settings as has come to Mr. Grant-Schaeffer in the last two or three years, and some of the manuscripts representing his work this summer promise even better things, a setting for "The Eagle," of Tennyson's, for example, being wonderfully virile and appealing. Mr. Grant-Schaeffer was born and spent his boyhood in Glengarry County.

AT THE PARKS.

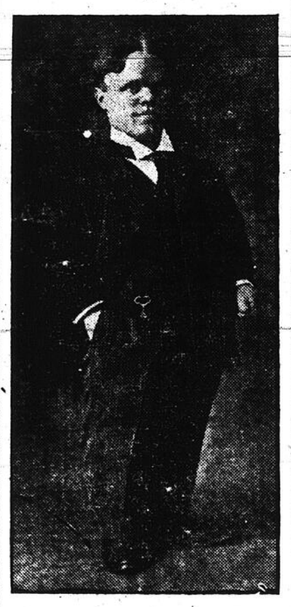
Dominion Park—Eugene Thibadeau, the strong man next week.

The climate of Montreal is a good climate as climates go, but there are times when it is far from being entirely comfortable. Sultry weather leads one to think of the cool breezes which are especially necessary for children, and to get them out of the heat, in view of its excellent facilities of every kind, there is no finer place for the purpose than Dominion Park.

The park is so situated that there is always a breeze; and the big promenade on the river looks right out over one of the finest bits of scenery near the city. There is no better place on the island to spend a warm summer afternoon, from the mere standpoint of situation. Dominion Park possesses other attractions as well in the different shows and entertainments which have proved so popular, and some of which are so well adapted for the patronage of women and children.

One of the principal outside free attractions next week will be Eugene Thibodeau, who is said to be the strongest man in the world. He will be the connecting link between two harnessed horses, pulling in opposite directions, and withstand the strain for several minutes. Vander Meerschen's band is putting in some excellent programmes and their efforts seem to be more appreciated all the time.



Sohmer Park—Billy Robinson, one of the midgets, next week.

Sohmer Park.

There is an exceedingly good programme arranged by the managers of Sohmer Park for the coming week. The Three Nevarros, English Equilibrists, will play Montreal as their first engagement on this continent. Their act is very well spoken of. On the same ship on which they came to this country came the midgets, Robinson and Grant, who have been making lots of fun for Londoners. The two atractions came over on the S.S. Corsican. The midgets have a comedy turn closing with a boxing exhibition. Deas, Reed, and Deas, are a trio of singers and dancers who have made a reputation for themselves. They are colored folks and they know how to dance. The Four Musical Winfields will be heard in a musical act that is said to be very clever. They play about one dozen instruments. There will be general satisfaction over the announcement that the Kohler trio have been re-engaged. They will add "The Holy City" and "Le Miserere," to their programme next week. Charles Herrera, known as the sailor on the pole acrobat, will be an added attraction. The park band has a new programme and there will be special features on gala nights, Wednesday and Friday. The park is to remain open later than usual this year in order to welcome the "Back to Montreal" visitors.

Miss Cartier in Toronto.

Miss Victoria Cartier, the well-known pianist and organist of this city, left to-day for a week's trip to Toronto, Niagara and Buffalo.

gets into jolly good humor with the audiences is a Bobby North, brought in from vaudeville to monkeyshine and cut up as a barber serving as a lieutenant. It is likely, however, that improving alterations will make "The Gay Hussars', win out.

If some handsome young actor of emotional lovers, who has also a tenor voice of uncommon excellence, and besides that can dance with the highest degree of pantomimic grace, reads this call for him, he has the chance of his life. The hero of "The Gay Hussars" is maddened by the conduct of its heroine. His pent-up emotions breaks out in a passionate song, and belches from that into a wild Hungarian dance. For that role, you see, a Sothern for speech, a Caruso for song, and a Vlarick for dance is needed. May be the adequate man is available in Vienna. He isn't in New York as yet. The management thought it had him in Orrin Johnson. What actor on our stage is handsomer than Orrin? Who is a more fervid wooer? His voice, too, sings up melodiously to the role's top notes. And he can dance most gracefully. So Orrin rehearsed the part. He even performed it in a fryout town. But he threw it up at the enfry to New York.

"I'll act it for $400 a week, sing it for $200 more, and dance it for $150 extra," I'm told he said; "but I won't mark down the $750 to $500."

A farce that skips along without singing or dancing is "Billy." The collegian of its name is his girl's football god; but he gets three front teeth kicked out. Lest that disenchant her, he runs off to Cuba on a plea of illness, but really to accustom himself to false teeth, and especially to learn pronounce his dear one's difficult name of Beatrice. Of course, Beatrice is on the boat, and again, of course, Billy butts into an accident resulting in the loss of his new teeth. That is all and that is enough. You wouldn't think 3 acts of laughter could be wrung from six teeth. The wringers are comedian Sidney of the Drews, and the author, the daughter of the McKee Rankins and married into Drew; Barrymore and Davenport relationship. Mrs. Drew uses none of the available names, but hides behind a "George Cameron" without any concealment. The merriment is due in about equal parts to the acting and the writing. Mrs. Drew seems to know that frothy bubbles can be blown up just so large but not one half inch larger, while the famous Mrs. John Drew's son is as deft as his brother John, whose first and last rule is that the greater the earnestness and gravity the more absurd the line or situation. All of "Billy" is placed on the upper deck amidship of an Atlantic coast-liner, the rail running along the footlights of the stage. In this the Drews follow the vaudeville frolic. "Billy's Tombstones."

The visit of King Manuel will be of more than ordinary interest to the King and Queen, as the late King of Portugal, besides being a relation, was also on terms of close friendship with King Edward, while Queen Alexandra has always been very fond of the daughters of the late Comte de Paris, of whom Queen Amelie of Portugal, Manuel's mother, is the eldest. King Manuel will, of course, be entertained at the Guildhall, and there will be a procession through London, probably on Wednesday, November 17th, when the Corporation will entertain his Majesty to luncheon. There will also be shooting parties at Windsor during the Royal visit, as well as a banquet in St. George's Hall and a command performance of one of the plays from a London theatre.

NEW YORK THEATRICAL LETTER

New York, August 28.—Get money. That is the moral taught by five of the seven new plays that start the theatrical season in Broadway. How to get money. That is the lesson given, one way or another, by these examples from sordid life in America. The special point of two dramas curiously alike seems to be: If Harriman, or Morgan, or Rockefeller, invite you to a short cruise on his yacht, don't go. The possible consequences are shown in the third act of "The Dollar Mark," and the second act of "The Ringmaster." George Broadhurst has more than once got in touch with popular taste in melodrama of crafty finance. He has not convinced me that Harriman, or Morgan, or Rockefeller has used his millions to revenge the cold hauteur of a proud beauty by juggling a railroad, or giving the stock market the razzle-dazzle, or putting the lid of monopoly on a tract of oil wells. But since the people who most like this type of play find the enjoyment enhanced by identifying characters as real men in the public eye, spotting the original of Broadhurst's villain is made easy by being narrowed down to a few dominant financiers. The quite angelic hero, possessing a mere half-dozen millions, may be almost anyone in this land of wealth. But the villain, figuring his holdings in the hundred millions, must be somebody in particular.

The fair one spurns the villain's proposal of marriage on a Saturday night at a house party on Long Island, and accepts the mere half-dozen-millions hero.

"Does H. M. R. show his cards?

No. He asks the week-end party to make the trip back to town on Monday in his yacht. Though the hero fears that the bank of which he is president may fail and knows he ought to take a train, he cannot decline the invitation when reminded by his lady love that the moonlight on the water will be very beautiful. So in the third act all are aboard the yacht, while banks totter, Wall Street is in a panic and the dickens is to pay generally. By orders the captain says the machinery has gone wrong. The villain interrupts all wireless messages that lodge on the craft. He has the hero in his clutches. But no! By accident, that splendid young man gets an inkling of the true state of affairs. He remembers the financier's abject fear of death. Indeed, whenever that great magnate hears death so much as mentioned he involuntarily shakes like a jellyfish. Covering him with a pistol concealed in a pocket, the hero makes him order the machinery to get busy. A stock company in Washington tested "The Son of his Father" last spring. Renamed "The Ringmaster" it was hurried into New York a week before "The Dollar Mark." It was a race for the Novelty Stakes. For a whole act of "The Ringmaster" is aboard a yacht, where the hero and heroine are guests of a multi-millionaire, where wireless messages are delayed, and where finally a good young fellow of a few millions discerns the plot of the bad old fellow of many millions in time to reach New York for a fight. Yet I don't believe there is any plagiarism. It is coincidence only.

The title of "Detective Sparkes" fooled me. The play contains neither a Sparkes nor a detective. The author, Martha Morton's brother Michael, in providing a comedy for advancing Hattie Williams from extravaganza to a Frohman legitimate star comedienne, has not reached back to the time of Lotta Crabtree and Maggie Mitchell to bring forward the protean role of a female sleuth. Hattie is made to become a bold liar with an amiable purpose, that of saving a weaker woman's reputation; and having called a mythical detective into the case, she is compelled to personate that creation of her own fancy. The novel conceit is used ingeniously and through it Hattie is enabled to astonish people who don't know that she was a straight actress before they saw her in the crimps and crooks of song-and-dance shows. I strive against becoming obsolete in taste; and I do believe that to lump 'em, the new things on the stage are better than the old; nor do I hesitate to laugh right out loud at tomfoolery in musical farces when it is funny; yet I am right gleeful when amused by a genuine comedy. Hence I toss my hat and halloo at Hattie Williams in "Detective Sparkes."

I can't tell you why, but I vow it is so, that Mike Morton's is the thousandth variant play after nine hundred and ninety-nine have held up newspaper reporters to ridicule if not opprobrium. Dramatists, ready to curry favor with journalists privately, like to flout them publicly. It is refreshingly not so in "Detective Sparkes." The wreck of a balloon is found on an English heath. The owner is guessed to be a certain nobleman. A brooch in the debris indicates that he had a woman companion in his air flight. Who was she? The mystery figures in the current news. London journals send correspondents to get the facts, and their strenuous efforts cause the play's complication; but they are not boors, chumps, nor any other sort of knaves; and they contrive to be polite in their inquisitive work. May be, as I said, this absence of ignorant or wilful libels on journalism disposes me to like the play anyway.

But I don't think so. I am sure that the heroine wins me all by herself. She is an American cousin of the English lady who went ballooning scandalously. To divert attention, confuse gossip, lead the newspapers and police astray, and thus hide the implicated lady, she invents a plot to burglarize the husband's country house, commits the bogus crime herself, assumes the character of Sparkes, a Sherlocka Holmesiana, and fills a comedy with her vicissitudes and final triumph. You have laughed at many masculine liars of good humor and laudable intention in plays. Well, such a personality feminized winsomely by an author and an actress is the making of "Detective Sparkes."

The big whoop of "The Merry Widow" last season has led to a grab for this season of all the Vienna comic operas in sight. The first of these performed here is "The Gay Hussars." The thing that it pokes fun at is the compulsory military service by young men in European countries. The tuneful music is suifficient to sing the play into American favor; but I wish that some speedy Yankee humorist could have transferred its mock-soldiering—its tactical war game—from the military investment of an Austrian city to the make-believe capture of Boston. Instead of that the Viennesee libretto has been translated merely, with its points of caste between the amateur militia and the professional army unexplained, and most of its satire left to lose itself in the unoriginative transfer. Its lovers sing their romance to bewitching airs, and they look well in the picturesque old castle where they meet; but the one performer who gets into jolly good humor with the audiences is a Bobby North, brought in from vaudeville to monkeyshine and cut up as a barber serving as a lieutenant. It is likely, however, that improving alterations will make "The Gay Hussars', win out.

Don't Worry About Fat During the Hot Weather

This is not the time to worry about your fat. The thing to do is to remove that fat without taking chances with the health of the rest of your body. There has been a great demand for several years for a convenient form of the famous Marmola prescription which has met with such success in the past few years in the reduction of flesh. This demand has been met in the shape of a small tablet that holds all the principles of the famous prescription and at the same time enables a fat person to always be able to take their fat-reducing formula, no matter where they may be. One of these little tablets taken after each meal and at bedtime will stop at once the production of all fat and will remove the fat you have at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces per day. They are perfectly harmless, contain no drugs that will tear down your system, but they do their work just as nature intends it should be done. They go into the stomach and stop that organ producing fat. They reach fat wherever it is located, and assist the body in throwing it off. They require no diet, no exercise, and they will not leave vast layers of loose skin to make large wrinkles like all fat reducers do. They are being sold in great quantities, and are used by all classes. Hundreds of physicians prescribe them. You may buy them at any drug store, price 75 cents per case, or you send direct to the Marmola Company, Dept. 847, Detroit, Mich.

DEATH OF THE DEAN OF NORWICH

Dr. Lefroy Was Well Known and Successful Worker of the Anglican Church.

Dean Lefroy, of Norwich, died recently at Riffel Alp, where he was taken ill while on a holiday.

William Lefroy, D.D., was born in Dublin in 1836, his father being Mr. Isaac Lefroy. He graduated at Trinity College, Dublin, in 1864, and was ordained in September of that year by the Bishop of Cork (Dr. Gregg) his title being to Christ Church, Cork. He read the Gospel at his ordination, showing that he had passed the best examination.

In early life he was on the Irish Times. He was always very proud of a gold watch which had been given him by his colleagues on that journal. During all his life he was friendly with journalists, and wrote more or less for the Press. In 1866 he was nominated by Mr. Robert Gladstone, the elder brother of Mr. W. E. Gladstone, to the incumbency of St. Andrew's, Renshaw street Liverpool, following the late Dean of Worcester in a proprietary chapel without house or endowment. There for 23 years he gathered together an immense congregation, in a structure, to use his own words, "of consummate ugliness," who gave him a suitable income, and supported with great liberality a number of Church and philanthropic objects. Dr. Lefroy was a born orator, but he was also a thorough scholar, as his Donellan lectures at the University of Dublin proved. He was a man of good means, entertained largely, and had the car of the Liverpool merchants, who were induced by him largely to open their purses. He was one of the earliest members of the Liverpool School Board, and had a great deal to do with the foundation of the See of Liverpool. In conjunction with the late Canon Rume he wrote a pamphlet in which the needs of Liverpool were vigorously and clearly stated. When the first Church Congress met in Liverpool in 1869, he was the only Evangelical incumbent who refused to sign an address to the Bishop of Chester (Dr. Jacobson), asking him not to allow Fathers Mackonochie and Lowder to speak. Though a decided Evangelical, he worked well with men of other schools of thought, as, e.g., the Bishop of Norwich, his former fellow vicar at Liverpool, and Prebendar Ingram, whose long labors for the Church he recently publicly recognized. His speech at the representative Church Council on the marriage law was one of his finest efforts.

As an honorary Canon of Liverpool he was, with the late rector, the chief subscriber to maintaining the cathedral services, and few speakers were more welcome on a Church Congress platform. Bishop Rye appointed him Archdeacon of Warrington in the first instance, and promoted him subsequently to the Archdeaconry of Liverpool. He was proctor for the clergy of Liverpool in the Convocation of York in which, as a representative and afterwards an official member, he took a leading part, as in later life in the Southern Convocation.

In 1889 Lord Salisbury appointed him to the Deanery of Norwich in succession to Dean Coulburn. He had been offered the important vicarage of Islington, which he declined saying "that he did not want to have another barn of a church." When he was found at Norwich Cathedral to be able to sing the service as well as any Precentor, people were astonished at his musical knowledge. He restored the choir, made the Sunday evening services in the cathedral very popular, and preached all over the diocese, while his services were sought for at all kinds of church meetings. The Church Missionary Society, and the Colonial Church School Society, had in him a warm supporter.

His love for Switzerland was unbounded. He was a splendid mountaineer, and was often accompanied by Archbishop Benson and Dr. Ellicott. The church he built at the Riffel Alp, and in which he constantly officiated, was only one of several he was instrumental in building in Switzerland.

He was a man of wide sympathies, warm enthusiasms, and unrivalled eloquence, whose loss will be felt throughout the Church. It is understood that his name was the second submitted to the Crown for the See of Truro when Dr. Gott was appointed. His works include "Pleadings for Christ," "The Christian's Start" "The Christian's Duties and Responsibilities," "Some Elements of Christian Doctrine," "Agoniae Christi," and "Echoes from the Choir of Norwich Cathedral," besides several charges and single sermons.

TAFT ORDERS ARMY REDUCED BY 8000

Cuts Down Fighting Force in Furtherance of his Plan for Economy.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Washington, August 28.—President Taft has ordered that the fighting strength of the standing army be reduced about 9 per cent. This order is in full accord with the regular plan of stringent economy Mr. Taft has mapped out for his administration, but it strikes a sad blow at the hopes of army officers and is a flat refusal of the direct request of the General Staf.

The necessary orders have been issued to the War Department, and in unenthusiastic fashion the officials of that department are preparing to get rid of about 8,000 men. The present full strength of the army is 88,000 men, and the President's order requires that this force shall be cut to a maximum of 80,000 men in all branches. That will put the fighting force of the nation just 20,000 men short of the statutory limit.

Even the 80,000 men who will be left nominally under arms will not all contribute to the available fighting strength of the nation in an emergency. Included in that force there are, for instance, 4,000 men of the hospital corps, while another 5,300 men go to fill up the ranks of the Philippine scouts, who, under no circumstances, could be withdrawn for service in this country.

LONG CAMPAIGN FOR INCREASE.

Steadily for several years the General Staff and officers everywhere connected with the army have been gathering information on which to base pleas to Congress for material increases in the standing army's normal, or peace strength. In some of their reports they have even said that the actual fortifications and strategic points on the coasts would be in danger of speedy capture with the standing army as weak as it is.

Until the President's present order was issued the hope of the army was that at the next Congress the statutory limit of the army's strength would be raised to 150,000 men—the lowest force, the officers asserted, by which the obvious points of attack presented on coasts and frontiers could be manned. The full limit of 100,000 men, it is pointed out, has never been reached since the close of the war with Spain, in spite of every effort on the part of the enlisting service.

The scope of the President's plan for economy in governmental administration is causing alarm in many quarters. It was thought at first that his programme meant little more than the pruning of building projects and the cutting of clerical forces to the exact line required for efficiency. The proposed cut in the army has opened up all sorts of possibilities, and nobody in the Government employ seems to feel safe.

NAVY IS UNEASY.

Particular uneasiness is felt in the navy, which, under the fostering care of President Roosevelt, has been growing steadily for seven years. Mr. Roosevelt was once assistant secretary of the navy, and he never ceased to regard that branch of the service as his favorite child. Mr. Taft has no such sentimental regard for the navy, and now that he has issued orders reducing the army, with which he was closely associated as Secretary of War, naval officers fear their forces also may be reduced.

What soothes them most is the idea that heavy reductions in any branch of the naval service will mean the putting of ships out of commission. They believe that the President—particularly in view of his warm interest in this country's outlying possessions—would hesitate to go that length, as putting a ship out of commission in these days of rapid deterioration and rapid development is practically consigning it to the junk heap.

Details as to what army corps will be reduced have not been determined.

THE COMING OF SIR JOHN FRENCH.

Speaking at a dinner at Bradford, Hon. R. Haldane, the Secretary for War, in announcing the coming to Canada of Sir John French, said:

I am glad to be able to tell you that we are within sight, and, indeed, something more than within sight, of common plans which will unify the forces of the Crown throughout the whole of the Empire. It is not for nothing that Lord Kitchener is going to represent the War Office in Australia and New Zealand, and then coming to the command in the Mediterranean with the duty of organizing the troops throughout South Africa, and the still larger duty of working out the plans and necessary concentrations in case the Empire should be attacked.

The Empire for defence is one and indivisible, and wherever the theatre of war may be—be it Australia, be it Africa, be it India, be it our own islands, we should have the forces of the Empire organized that they can be concentrated wherever the field may be, and that plans for our mutual defence may be worked out by one Empire, one whole. If we could obtain these things it would be a step up, and we could not have made that step or a single movement towards it had it not been for the experience we had got with the organization of the Territorial Forces and the wonderful response there was in the country. It has taken hold, and I believe the example you have set your own people is an example set the British Empire.

Lord Kitchener is going to Australia and New Zealand, and Sir John French is going to Canada to work out the details with our children overseas, and my hope is that the effect of that common plan and common organization will be to draw attention away from such topics as the invasion f these islands. If we cease to discuss that we shall have some chance of realising the advantages of peace prospects, and the reduction of armaments will become a thing of practical possibility.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Symonds. The bride, who was given away by her father, was unattended. She wore a travelling costume of navy blue cloth with a hat to match and carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Mr. Frank Sloan, of Toronto, acted as best man. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley left for Quebec en route to the Lower Provinces, where they will spend two months. ## STREET RAILWAY MEN DO A HUSTLING JOB.

The work of laying new paving blocks between the street car tracks along St. James street has been completed by the Street Railway, the job having been finished in a remarkably short period of time. For the past ten days gangs of men have been at work along the street, taking up the old blocks and replacing them after the roadway had been repaired. In order that this work might be impeded as little as possible the majority of cars usually passing down St. James st., were switched on to the Craig street route. Only during the rush hours of the day was the St. James street route used. The work was hurried along day and night and now the Street Railway schedule is the same as before the repairs were commenced.

FALL APPLES ARE A VERY SLIM CROP THIS YEAR.

That the crop of Canadian fall apples would be considerably shorter than last year, and that they would be practically all needed for home consumption, was the statement made by Mr. W. Coates, apple shipper, today. In fact the crop of early apples would not be one-fifth of last year's supply.

The Winter fruit, he said, showed signs of being plentiful, and the export trade would benefit by it. Mr. Coates paid a compliment to the Canadian Government for subsidizing cold storage chambers on four steamers, enabling fruit shipper to compete on the British markets.

WHAT DAME FASHION HAS DECREED IN FASHIONS FOR WOMEN'S HATS FOR THE COMING FALL AND WINTER

While Showing Some Differences, the Styles are Decidedly Reminiscent of the Spring and Summer—Some Characteristic Designs

Fashionable hats for the coming season, while showing many marked differences, are yet decidedly reminiscent of the styles that prevailed during the summer. Many modifications have of course been made, and a variety of new shapes introduced, yet, if one except the extreme novelties, there is little that is positively startling in the new modes. In shapes, large and medium hats are to be worn, and practically no provision has been made for the woman to whom a small hat is essential if she is to look her best. The newest departure is the hat with the upstanding brim which rises very high in the back, and dips decidedly over the face, making a return to the recently discarded band under the brim necessary in order to keep the hat from entirely shielding the eyes. The tricorne hat is being largely shown, while modifications of this attractive shape are plentiful. There is a new walking hat much broader than of old, and turned up rather sharply at both sides. The majority of the hats roll slightly at one side, and are very graceful if not of too exaggerated a size. Broad brimmed, rather low-crowned sailor hats are also among the autumn offerings and promise to be very popular.

Materials are rich and many. There is to be a great vogue of velvet; and moire silk, which always takes well when introduced, is to be a feature of autumn millinery. Satins and faille silks will also be much in demand, and some of the smartest walking hats will be covered with dressed leather, while chamois is to play an important part in hat coverings. Plenty of felt will be worn as well as beaver, and the beaver cloth strips will be made up into very chic toques in every color. Fur toques are already being shown, and touches of fur will be seen on many of the best hats. Braids, too, will be seen forming some of the large flat sailors, while patent leather, alone, or combined with cloth, will also be shown. Some of the most striking of the imported shapes are of beaver faced with satin or velvet in a contrasting shade.

It is apparently to be largely a black and white season, and combinations of black and white are to be found in many forms. Another new range of colors are the canteloupe greens, which are on the bronze green tones. The chamois shades shading into golden browns will also be much in evidence, as will also the mustard shades ranging to a decided old gold, the latter being seen carried out in satin and combined with black in a variety of imported models. Greys, and tones of prunelle, the latter being the new shade of purple, are also in great favor. The new sphynx shade is to have a great vogue, and so apparently is vendange.

Trimmings show a wide range, but feathers and wings lead in popularity. Splendid ostrich feathers are shown on many of the dress hats, including willow plumes and the new sword willow plumes. Many new varieties of plumage are shown, and birds of paradise, paradise plumes, large sweep ospreys and aigrettes are placed on many of the best hats. Ribbons are to be much used, even whole hats being made of them, the most popular varieties being Duchess, moires and failles. Some of the new fancy ribbons are very pretty and range from moire effects in silk or velvet to two-toned ribbons of rich quality, and pressed velvet. There will be a great deal of trimming in bugle effect, worn on the handsomest hats, especially in the form of black bugle bandeau around the fashionable turbans. Steel and rhinestone ornaments in both pin and cabochon effects will be good, and ornaments in claire de lune effect will be among the most popular. Long haired fur will also be much used, and will be seen in ermine, white fox and lynx especially.

The wholesale millinery openings take place on Monday in Montreal, lasting over Tuesday and Wednesday. In preparation for the openings, some beautiful hats have been imported, a few of them being as follows:

MESSRS. JOHN B. CAVERHILL & CO.

At Messrs. J. B. Caverhill and Co., 91 St. Peter street, there is a very wide selection of beautiful hats. One of the most unique is a turban covered smoothly with chamois in the natural shade, the crown having a rounded effect. The facing of the brim is formed of a rich shade of brown satin, the trimming (consisting of a brown bird of paradise which sweeps to one side. This smart hat is by Germaine.

A Bernheim military turban is of large size and decidedly high in effect. It is made with a tucked side band of brown satin which also forms the "tam" crown. Between the tucked band an the crown is placed a strip of sable which tones beautifully with the satin, and also with an edging of velvet which is a distinctive touch to the hat. The trimming consists entirely of four beautifully shaded brown ostrich tips.

An attractive black velvet model (Louise). is very high in the back of the brim, the hat coming down well over the face, being raised by a small band. The crown is entirely of white fox which contrasts prettily with the black velvet. The trimming is of black and natural paradise plumes.

A silk beaver of large size has a slightly rolling brim on the left side. The top of the hat is white beaver, the facing being of black velvet. A large sword willow plume of shaded greys is caught in place with a knot of peach velvet and a steel and rhinestone ornament.

A smart little tricorne hat has the upper part of the brim and the rounded crown of old gold satin. The under brim is of black velvet and the trimming consists of a flat chou of the old gold satin and a high bunch of black ospreys.

A toque of green velvet in one of the new tones, has bandeau of jet bugles and a crown of shaded grey and black tucked net, the effect being very pretty if somewhat unusual. The trimming consists of black paradise plumes, and an ermine skin.

A very handsome hat of large shape is of black velvet with a crown of Irish crochet over pale yellow satin, trimmed in front with a large bunch of white ospreys caught with a pair of baby wings.

A big tailored hat is rolled front and back, the facing being of bronze green satin, while the crown and top of the brim are of tan dressed kid. The trimming consists of two French folds of green velvet around the crown, and a bunch of green and tan hackle feathers.

Among the many ready to wear hats shown at Caverhill's is a smart patent leather sailor with large crown and wide brim rolling slightly at the side, and trimmed with a velvet band and bow. Broad sailors are also shown in much the same shape. Untrimmed hats come in combinations of moire, and like the felts are al two piece hats The high bee-hive crown is also shown on many of the silk covered hats; as well as in the pressed plush which closely resemble beaver; in the camel's hair hats which are something quite new, and in the beavers. The tendency in children's hats is largely towards mushroom effects and a popular trimming for ready-to-wear hats for little girls is a silk cord and tassel.

MESSRS. FARRELL, BELISLE & CO.

At Messrs. Farrell, Belisle and Co., 257 Notre Dame west, imported hats from Paris and New York may be found in all the latest styles. Some of the Paris shapes shown by them are quite unique and very effective. One of the prettiest hats is a turban shape draped with an electric green beaver plaque, quite high at the left side, the trimming being formed of folds of green velvet in the same shade, and a large pompon of coque feathers in which the green tones predominate.

A medium sized hat with the unmistakeable touch of Paris upon it, has a small brim and is rather high as to crown, and turns up sharply at the back. It is made of a deep shade of taupe velvet trimmed with several plumes in the same tones, a large ornament in bugles of a taupe tinge being placed in the centre of the back.

A beautiful set consisting of hat and muff is carried out in London smoke velvet relieved with touches of green. The large oblong shaped muff owes its distinction to the manner in which corded tucks are placed at intervals radiating from points towards the centre. The only trimming is formed of tassels in London smoke, the lining of the muff being of soft green silk. The hat to match is carried out in watered silk in the same tone as the velvet. The silk forming the upper part of the brim and facing the edge of the under part of the brim, the rest of the facing being of green velvet. The crown of the hat is formed of the shirred tucked velvet which rises in soft folds towards the high back, the only trimming being two small pins.

An original black hat is carried out in corded silk which forms the crown and the upper part of the brim, the facing being of a shade of chamois colored satin. The shape has a drooping brim turned up at the back with a big jet pin. The trimming which is decidedly novel is formed of a wreath of black ospreys twisted around the crown, the effect being striking in the extreme.

A charming grey beaver hat is large in shape and turned up slightly at the left, the crown being encircled in swathed motifs of rich grey corded ribbon, and finished with chenille wings in two shades of the new greens.

A hat in the new prunelle shade is of velvet with upstanding brim quite high at the back. The crown of the hat is of draped prunelle moire silk, the trimming consisting of five ostrich plumes in shades of prunelle.

An amethyst moire hat is trimmed high at the back, and is turned up in a sharp little peak in front. The facing is of velvet in a blending tone, the crown, and the binding of the brim being of the moire. The trimming is formed of a sweep of ospreys which match in tone.

The assortment of ready-to-wear and untrimmed shapes at Messrs. Farrell Belisle and Company, is very large and includes a number of big shapes imported from Paris, and made of lovely moires, beavers and silks. There are also innumerable varieties of felt hats shown. In ornaments they are showing many novelties in pins and cabochon effects ornamented with pearls, classic heads, and rhinestones, as well in the new gun metal effects. They have also a large selection of the popular jet bandeaux, and bugle trimmings. Among the many novelties in plumage are ostrich mounts in beautiful quality, soft plumage trimmings and countless wings. One of the prettiest untrimmed hats is faced with black velvet, the crown and upper brim being formed of plaited narrow ribbons in black and white, the shape being of the modified walking variety.

Charming model shown at Debenham's, Ltd., of black and white beaver strips artistically draped, the trimming being of black wings placed at one side.

MESSRS. DEBENHAMS (CANADA), LTD.

At Debenhams, Ltd., 18 St. Helen street, the choice in autumn millinery is very wide and includes all the newest fashions from both Paris and New York. A charming model designed by Germaine is a skilful combination of bronze green and purple. The hat which is of bronze green beaver is turned up very high at the back, and is faced for part of the under brim, with purple velvet, the trimming being of purple coque feathers.

A draped velvet hat in a shade of London smoke has a bandeau of fancy braid, and is faced with shirred silk in the same tone and trimmed with three feathers in tones of London smoke and vandange, the latter being something on the order of what was formerly known as ashes of roses.

A Lambert-Bernheim model is a

beaver in a prune shade slightly rolled at the left of the brim, with round crown. The trimming consists of moire ribbon in a lighter tone and a wing formed of quills on the left side.

A big black velvet toque has a bandeau and ornament handsomely carried out in jet and chenille, the trimming being formed of a white osprey and a fancy pompon of ostrich and marabout.

A taupe velvet model has the brim rolled at the left, and is trimmed with moire of the same shade combined with cinnamon velvet. The hat is finished with wings made of soft plumage and heron feathers held in place with a knot of ribbon and velvet.

A black velvet model by Fleury is turned up very high at the back and has a high crown, the trimming consisting of pleated moire ribbon and a handsome feather mount in a chamois shade, the finishing touch being a severely plain small bow of black satin placed directly in front.

At Debenhams many of the fashionable beaver cloth strips are being used this season, as well as the popular velvets, moires and beavers. Some of the most popular color combinations at this house are black with Royal blue; cinnamon with taupe, and black in combination with cinnamon, the mustard tones, or with old gold. Other new shades are vandage and sphynx. In trimmings, the sphynx tone is found in the majority of the ornaments and the bandeaus carried out in the Bohemian effects, the latter not only new but very artistic. Quills, wings, and ostrich feather mounts, as well as ospreys are much used, but ribbons are good, and some of the latter are of the most beautiful designs and colorings. In ready-to-wear and untrimmed hats, the newest shapes are to be seen at Debenhams, including chic little marabout turbans in two colors, and round turbans in clipped ostrich.

MESSRS. G. GOULDING & SONS.

At Messrs. G. Goulding & Sons, 230 McGill street, where there is always a large display of tailored as well as dress and other hats, some very attractive imported models are shown. One large pale blue hat with a very wide brim turned sharply up at one side is faced with pale blue beaver cloth which also forms the draped crown. The upper part of the brim is of pale blue chiffon drawn smoothly over pale blue silk. The trimming consists of a narrow bandeau effect in clair de lune beads, and cabuchons, and a pale blue willow plume to give the finishing touch.

A beautiful black moire velvet sailor with a rolled brim and large flat crown is a model by Lichtenstein (New York.) The only trimming on this particularly handsome model is a large bunch of black ostrich plumes placed directly at the back.

A large flat beaver in a wisteria shade is turned up in front and is trimmed with fancy ribbon in shades of wisteria and rose, with velvet flowers and grapes in softly blending shades placed at the back.

A taupe beaver of modified tri-corner shape is draped with a beaver strip and trimmed at the right side with wings caught with cabochons in gun metal.

A handsome green miroir velvet turban has the crown of the velvet, the material being softly swathed around the crown above a deep band of black lambskin which forms the upstanding brim. For trimming there is a bunch of black ospreys caught with a jet ornament.

An ash brown moire hat of large size is faced with brown beaver velvet, the shape being sharply upturned at the back. The crown of the moire is of the "tam" variety, and the trimming consists of mink draping and touches of geranium velvet.

A big black hat with very wide brim is of heavy black satin, having the facing and the draped crown of the material. The upper part of the brim is covered with interlaced bands of black velvet ribbon, and the trimming is of uncurled and cut ostrich in black and white.

Among the many novelties displayed at Goulding's are the large bunches of ospreys, feather pompons, ostrich quills, bandeaus and pompons of tied ostrich feathers, and the ostrich wreaths. For turbans they are showing the swansdown skins for crowns to be combined with velvet rims; and feather bandeaus and Alsatian bows formed of feathers, some bandeaus being finished with wings instead of bows. They also have a number oi novelties in the popular bugles, as well as in other ornaments in clair de lune effect.

Model shown by the John D. Ivey Co., Ltd., in wisteria beaver, turned up on the left and trimmed with panne velvet bandeau, and finished with coque feathers in shades of green.

J. GREEN & CO.

Messrs. J. Green & Co., 230 McGill street, are rather proud of the fact that the very attractive autumn hats they are displaying have been altogether designed in their own work rooms in Toronto and Montreal. The materials most used in these hats are the new corded cotelle silks, moire, and beaver cloth, which comes in convenient-sized strips. Panne velvet is also abundantly used in facing the large flat-topped hats, with crown sloping abruptly from the brim. The colors most in vogue with this firm are the new mustard shade, Marjolaine, which is a variation of amethyst the Olive and Emerald greens, ladis—which is somewhat like the old-time marine blue,—and taupe and suede shades. In most of the hats the brim is looped up at the back and they are little trimmed, save for plumage of some description. Much attention has been bestowed on the contour of brim and crown and very graceful and becoming are the curves and dips shown in the larger hats.

An immense beaver skin toque in shades of brown, turned up abruptly off the hair, at the back, is trimmed with three very lovely brown breasts.

A large black velvet hat with dome crown, rolled up at the back, has a drape of crepe-like, blue-grey ribbon drawn half way towards the front, and a large black mount of plumes and ospreys is arranged at the side back.

A lovely cavalier hat, also in black velvet, trimmed about the bandeau with a Sphinx metal chain ornament

Draped toque in prunelle velvet, trimmed with a grey feather bandeau, finished with grey wings, and a small brilliant buckle.

J. M. ORKIN & CO.

Very expensive and very elaborate are the fur toques shown by Messrs. Orkin, 214 Notre Dame street west. These toques or turbans are mostly of the Hussar type, with very gorgeous mounts, and are made up in the soft, long furs, such as lynx and fox, in different shades.

Among the imported models from the well-known Parisian houses, Maugin-Maurice, Borocco, Pouyanne, Suzanne Blum and Charlotte Reboux, are: a Bourgogne beaver flop, with a satin drape about the crown, finished at the side with a large bow and shirred knot of satin ribbon, in the same shade, held by a brilliant buckle.

A large black velvet hat, faced with moire and rolled up at the back, is trimmed with a long white willow plume caught by a jet buckle.

On a huge tricorne, velvet-topped hat, faced with tinsel moire, the only trimming is a graceful, cerise-colored paradise plume.

A large black velvet hat, turned up on the left side and faced with terra cotta, is trimmed with a large bird and paradise plume of shaded brown.

Another all-black hat is a beaver with draped velvet crown, heavily shirred, the only trimming being a large black bird.

A beaver strip toque with bandeau of colored pearls with jewelled pendants is trimmed with a puff of velvet and large cabochon carried out in the tan suede tones.

A large-crowned amethyst-colored beaver hat is trimmed with two immense wings of pleated ribbon, which form the bandeau, and a couple of jet cabochons.

A most effective hat, also in amethyst tones, of moire, faced with velvet, is trimmed with a spray of velvet foliage and plumes in rich purple tones, and a nine-looped, shirred bow of satin ribbon in the same shade.

A velvet hat in the lovely new moss-green shade, with rolling brim is trimmed across the front with handsome wings of a paler shade and a ribbon drape about the crown.

A moss green beaver shape with velvet top, rolled off the face on the left side, is also trimmed with wings of a pale, dull green shade.

A close-fitting turban, faced with sequins, has an osprey mount in black and white caught by a knot of moire ribbon to one side.

Seal toques of moderate size are also shown. Messrs. Orkin are using a good deal of the gold and silver tinsel in bows and fans and many colored pearl ornaments. Every variety of paradise plumage is seen on the hats in this establishment.

S. F. McKINNON & CO., LTD.

A charming display of French, English and American hats, will be shown by Messrs. McKinnon and Co., 87 St. Peter street, at their fall opening Among their later season models a specialty has been made of the plush-topped hats, faced with panne, Passiflore, which is one of the amethyst shades, areoplane, chanticleer—a darker shade of old rose and rhubard are among the fashionable colors carried out in all fabrics, feathers and trimmings shown by this firm.

One of the very most attractive hats here is a large flat moire-covered sailor shape in the rhubarb shade, which is trimmed across the front by a pair of spreading bronze willow wings.

Another very striking imported hat is of black velvet, with an extremely high crown and close fitting, rolled brim, faced with moire, which has a high jet bandeau and is trimmed with a sheaf of black lancer plumes.

Another chic hat is covered in white plush, the under-brim being of black panne, the brim sloping well down over the hair and turned up off the face in a most becoming manner. The crown is surrounded by a wreath of lovely roses in the vendange shade and at the left is a high ostrich osprey mount.

A large, drooping picture hat of Marjolaine velvet is wreathed with immense roses in the amethyst tints, caught in front by a large irridescent buckle.

A picture flop of moss green plush, with a poke bonnet droop on either side, is finished with immense rosettes of moire velvet ribbon in the same shade on each side and across the front is a gracefully drooping willow-ed plume in white.

A handsome, flat-topped white moire hat, faced in black, is encircled by a bandeau of soft black and white ospreys.

A most attractive beaver shape in the popular dark rose or chanticleer shade, which rolls up somewhat abruptly off the hair, with a corresponding droop on the right side has the crown entirely hidden by a graceful aigrette of mist gray ostrich plumes. Loops of velvet in pink tones are caught at the right side of the nat.

Another truly poke shape in amethyst tones is trimmed with a soft drape of satin, brought to the back of the hat, from which depend satin streamers which are tied under the chin at the left. A knot of white plumes is arranged at the extreme back of the hat.

JOHN D. IVEY & CO., LTD.

Pheasant wings, owls' breasts and coque feathers are lavishly displayed on the hats shown by Messrs. Ivey and Co., 240 Notre Dame street west.

Among the most picturesque of the hats displayed here is a large, three-cornered Napoleon shape in black panne, faced about the brim with narrow gold braid and trimmed with a mount of black plumes.

A dull blue moire turban shape with dome crown, had a bandeau of gold braid, and a large wing on the left front held in place with a fold of gold.

Another turban shape, a peacock blue moire, has a bandeau of beaver and is finished by a large bronze pheasant's wing.

A large moire covered hat in the rich marjolaine shade, with tinselled crown, the brim rolling slightly off the face, is trimmed with a large wing of the same shade.

A smart moss green velvet toque, with a shirred satin drape, is trimmed on the left side with a shirred bow of the same shade, and a sheaf of coque feathers.

Another particularly attractive hat is a pleated green beaver walking shape, three long green quills caught to the side by a jet cabochon.

A plum-colored beaver toque is trimmed with a band of colored beads and gray owls' breasts.

An immense cream chamois-topped flop, faced with black panne is trimmed with a large flat bow of black velvet, held in place by a chamois-covered buckle.

A flat, broad ?brimmed, green velvet hat is finished with a bandeau embroidered in gold and pronounced floral design and a mount of coque feathers.

Another of these large, flat hats of gray corded silk, has a bandeau of black moire ribbon and jet encircling the crown, a knot of the ribbon catching the rolled up brim on the left to the crown.

SPANIARDS ARE FLAT FAILURES AS COLONIZERS

Recent Troubles in Morocco Only Another Evidence of Their Incapacity.

Because the Spanish people are prepared to go to any length rather than permit their Government to undertake a campaign in North-Eastern Morocco, and because they have not hesitated to use the most violent means to hinder that campaign, there is a general impression that they must have sunk to a depth of disloyalty and indifference to national honor which is a disgrace to a European people.

They have suffered their troops to be defeated and driven back by a horde of ill-disciplined savages; and instead of burning to avenge the insult, they are clamoring for a stoppage of hostilities. Instead of demanding that further troops be sent out, and that the possessions wrested from Spain be won back, they are actually opposing any such course as vehemently as they possibly can. The Spaniard of to-day apparently cares less than nothing for the prestige of the white man, for the traditions of the conquistadors who, in the face of overwhelming odds won new worlds for Spain. He has received a blow from a people whom his ancestors defeated and drove before them. He is being driven from a territory which has belonged to Spain for over four hundred years; and now, when by all the traditions of the Aryan race he should return the blow with interest, drive out the invader and win back his lands, he is actually saying, "Let the Moors keep what they have taken; we will not fight."

Self-Abnegation or Cowardice?

It looks, on the face of it, as though this were either the most supreme and unheard-of self-abnegation, or else cowardice of the most degraded nature. Yet, of all people on this earth, the Spaniard has least claim to be considered lenient, or even merciful, to the subject races. On the other hand, with all his faults, he has never been fairly charged with cowardice of this kind.

The truth is, the attitude of the Spanish people is due neither to a belated attempt at philanthropy nor yet to fear of the Moors. It is very easy to charge them with indifference to their national honor, but their determination not to prosecute a war with the Riff tribes for the purpose of winning back the Melilla territory is a matter of purse and pocket.

In a long history of conquest and colonization, rivalled only in the annals of Britain, Spain has almost invariably found her foreign possessions a curse and a drain upon the money of the nation. The colonies and dependencies of England, instead of draining money from the Mother country, have prospered. The British people have the knack of colonization. They are, to a supreme degree, capable of developing the resources of the countries in which they settle or administer, and of turning those resources to practical account.

FAILURE AS COLONISTS.

The Spaniard, on the other hand, has proved himself a failure at this kind of business from first to last. In winning foreign possessions at the point of the sword he has frequently outshone even the Briton himself. But as soon as he settles down to colonise, to take possession of the land he has acquired, maladministration, oppression, and a total incapacity in the matter of legislating for a conquered people have borne their inevitable fruit. Instead of developing a new country, the Spanish official has almost always proved himself a hindrance to its development by its own natives.

South America, Cuba, the Philippine Islands, all told the same tale. Revolt followed upon the want and oppression to which the people were subjected. The jails were filled to overcrowding with political prisoners, expeditions to put down native risings were continually necessary, and the result was that her foreign possessions were a source of incessant and heavy expense to Spain.

Until the war with the United States, the people of Spain seem not to have realized this. Then came the deprivation of Cuba, Porto Rico, and the Philippines. Looked upon at first as a cruel wrong, this speedily showed itself as a blessing in disguise. To be free of these costly dependencies was no loss, but a great gain. The industries of Spain revived, her commerce took a new lease of life, and prosperity, unknown to the country for centuries, is already well over the threshold.

Barcelona, always the most business-like of Spanish towns, as well as the most violent, has made great strides of recent years. Her people are to-day in the forefront of the battle against war. Paradoxical as it may sound, they are convinced that it would pay them better to fight the authorities to the last, sooner than permit them to regain a foreign possession which they believe Spain has happily lost.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES WAS BORN A CENTURY AGO

Medical Man and Poet Who Took Up Literature Late in Life.

Oliver Wendell Holmes, the third American of the great group of 1800, whose birthday centenaries occur this year, was born on August 29 beneath the classic shades of Harvard, at Cambridge, Mass. Two different classes of persons can celebrate his birth with special interest. They are the practitioners of medicine, who owe him something for his essay on a medical subject which had not received proper attention before his time, and the guild of authors, for his contributions of poems and essays. The graceful conversationalist, "The Autocrat," died on October 7, 1894, in Boston, in his eighty-sixth year, almost the last of his great generation.

Most of Holmes' literary work was done late in life. When the Atlantic Monthly was established in 1857, and James Russell Lowell was asked to become its editor, he accepted with the stipulation that Holmes be secured as one of the contributors. The sparkling "Autocrat" papers were the result, a species of dramatized essay which first established Holmes as one of our literary luminaries and made the Atlantic a success. He was approaching the age of 50 when he was formally launched upon literature, and abandoned the practice of medicine.

He had written a couple of papers in 1831, just after leaving college, for the New England Magazine, under the title of "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," and he revived this idea in his riper years, working it out in most delightful fashion. Although a bit erudite at times for the average reader of to-day, who feeds upon Ade and Dooley, booksellers can testify that the Autocrat is still a steady seller.

"Elsie Venner," the best known of his novels, was a somewhat remarkable story of a girl who had imbibed the nature of a serpent from her mother's being bitten by a rattlesnake. Another of his stories, "The Guardian Angel," cost the Atlantic many subscribers who scented agnosticism in the author.

Of course, these timid souls were wrong, for Dr. Holmes, with all his rationalist and scientific trend, was of a deeply religious nature. "As often as he spoke of religion," said Howells, his old neighbor, "and his talk tended to it very often, I never heard an irreligious word from him, far less a scoff or sneer at religion." Howells has given us a very attractive glimpse of the poet's lovable personality.

When he died on October 7, 1894, and was buried from King's Chapel two days later, thousands of tongues and pens united in praising him, and nearly all used the epithets "genial" and "kindly."

On of the most heartfelt tributes was a poem in London Punch, with these stanzas:

"The Last Leaf" Canit be true,
We have turned it, and on you,
Friend of all?
That the years at last have power?
That life's foliage and its flowers
Fade and fall?

Was there one who ever took
From its shelf, by chance, a book
Penned by you,
But was fast your friend for life,
With one refuge from its strife
Safe and true?

Even gentle Elia's self
Might be proud to share that shelf,
Leaf to leaf,
With a soul of kindred sort,
Who could bind strong sense and sport
In one sheaf.

He shared with Lamb a taste for atrocious puns. The very first paper of the "Autocrat" is full of them, although it likens punsters to people who put coppers on a railroad track. "They amuse themselves and other children, but their little trick may upset a freight train of conversation for the sake of a battered witticism."

It may serve to excuse Dr. Holmes that Shakespeare was just as fond of punning, and even the grave philosopher, Bacon, declared himself to be descended from 'Og, king of Bashan—an argument the Baconians have overlooked hitherto in their efforts to show that Bacon whote Shakespeare. Dr. Holmes, as we have seen, could be serious enough upon occasion, and his first famous poem was an appeal to patriotic pride.

Few people who read the merry meters of the "One-Hoss Shay" suspect that there is anything more to it than appears on the surface. Yet, if credible critics are to be believed, Dr. Holmes has delved deeply into theological controversy with this comic poem. His antipathy to Calvinist doctrine is apparent throughout his works, although his father had been an orthodox Congregational clergyman, and the "One-Hoss Shay" was a symbolic presentation of how the impregnable logic of Jonathan Edwards would come to smash.

As Thomas Wentworth Higginson has said, "He is likely to stand as one of the few great humorists of the world."

CHEAPENING OF DIVORCE IN ENGLAND.

Before 1857 divorces in England were only granted by special acts of Parliament. It was the custom to pass these acts only when a separation "from bed and board" had been first decreed by an ecclesiastical court and when an action for damages had been brought in the civil court against the offending party. The absurdities and injustice of such a system were admirably brought out by Justice Maule, in a case which was tried before him in 1845. The culprit was a poor man who had committed bigamy. The defence was that when the prisoner married his second wife he had in reality no wife, for his former wife had first robbed and then deserted him, and was now living with another man. The judge imposed a merely nominal penalty, but he prefixed it by some ironical remarks, which made a deep and lasting impression. Having described the gross provocation under which the prisoner had acted he continued: "But, prisoner, you have committed a grave offence in taking the law into your own hands and marrying again. I will now tell you what you should have done. You should have brought an action into the civil court and obtained damages, which the other side would probably have been unable to pay, and you would have had to pay your own costs—perhaps £100 or £150. You should then have gone to the ecclesiastical court and obtained a divorce a mensa et thoro, and then to the House of Lords, where, having proved that these preliminaries had been complied with, you would have been enabled to marry again. The expenses might amount to £800 or £600, or perhaps £1,000. You say you are a poor man, and you probably do not possess as many pence. But, prisoner, you must know that in England there is not one law for the rich and another for the poor."

Just as it was Justice Maule's scathing pronouncement from the Bench in 1845 that roused England to the necessity of remodelling her law of divorce, so now it is the judges and the lawyers who, to their great credit, are foremost in pointing out the defects disclosed by time and experience in the act of 1857.

Thus incurable insanity, chronic alcoholism, permanent desertion, and imprisonment for life are wholly insufficient, either alone or in conjunction, to dissolve an English marriage. There are, roughly speaking, some 80,000 married men and women in England at this moment living a life of enforced celibacy under separation orders. There are about 60,000 more who are tied to partners who have been certified as insane. There must also be many thousands, many tens of thousands more, whose husbands or wives are habitual inebriates or have long since deserted them. Probably one would not be far wrong in saying that there are 200,000 men and women in England, who, if the English laws were less expensive and more liberal, would be and ought to be divorced.—Sydney Brooks, in Harper's Weekly.

An automatic stoker has been tested on the Chicago and Alton. In a recent test one of the engines so equipped hauled fifty loaded cars from Chicago to St. Louis, breaking all records for long distance firing without the firebox being cleaned en route. Ten tons less coal were consumed than usual for the same number of cars on such a trip.

STILL ELIMINATING ALCOHOL.

According to the Fuller law, signed last week in Alabama, buildings in that state shall not be let for the sale of intoxicating liquors, leases are forfeit if the tenant sells liquors, liquors may not be advertised in newspapers, delivery to any public place is an evidence of sale, shipping liquors from one point in the state to another is prohibited, prohibited liquors are contraband, the presence of a federal license is prima facie evidence of guilt, and intoxicants may not be drunk on railroad trains.

Surely the new law comes as near to putting a padlock on the gullets of the Alabama as a law can come. And in South Carolina, last week, the dispensaries closed for the two weeks before the election, on August 17, to determine whether the twenty-one wet counties shall join the twenty-one dry counties in the prohibition fold. And in Georgia there was a bill introduced last month to kill off "near beer," which prohibited the sale of all beverages containing even a trace of alcohol, and which, it was rumored, would close the soda-fountains which use fruit syrup with a trace of alcohol in them. And in Minnesota the law prohibiting the sale of cigarettes became operative on August 1st.

Let the good work go on. Apparently it must pass through this excessive prohibitory stage so that folks may learn in the dear school of experience, "and scarce in that," what kind of liquor laws are wise. The current prohibitory laws do prohibit appreciably, appears in the falling off of six million dollars in the internal revenue receipts last year from whiskey, and of two millions from beer. As we see it, the stable temperance reform which this and every country needs is likely to come in the age of wisdom by the diffusion and wide use of beverages of very low alcoholic intensity. But it is much easier to pass laws forbidding folks to drink at all than to provide that they shall drink wisely. It seems to take a fairly wise and civilized being to drink with sense, even when proper drinks are handy.—Harper's Weekly.

THE TORONTO GLOBE AND ITS NAVAL POLICY.

The Toronto Globe objects in superheated language to some references made to its astonishing gyrations in connection with Canada's naval policy which we ventured upon in the course of a recent article dealing with "The Dreadnought Twins Again." It may be remembered that one of the "Twins"—the Toronto Star—owned up. It said frankly enough that it had been influenced at the time by Mr. McKenna's speech in the British Commons. But the other "Twin," feeling, the facetious pin-prick yells lustily.

It says that the "statement by The Montreal Star is wholly and absolutely untrue, alike in what it asserts and in all its implications which are developed throughout the rest of the article." The "statement" to which it objects was that the Globe was "hot for a gift of one or two Dreadnoughts to the British Admiralty when the matter first came up," but that it "rapidly cooled off" when the Federal Government "took another tack."

On the twenty-third of March last, the Toronto Globe printed an article suggestively headed "The Wearied Titan's Sons." After insisting that Britain must maintain her title to be mistress of the seas, and formally accepting the statement of "the leading men of both parties in Britain, that the danger is a real one," the Globe went on to argue that "the Motherland should not be left to bear the tremendous burden of the defence of the Empire alone." Later in the article it came down to "brass tacks" and talked in this fashion:—

"The Canadian people do not indulge an exaggerated opinion of what they can do to augment the mighty naval instrument which guards the integrity of the King's possessions. But if any rival nation is disposed to dispute the capacity of Britain to hold her supremacy at sea, we should make it clear that in such a competition CANADA IS PREPARED TO FLING THE SMUG MAXIMS OF FINANCIAL PRUDENCE TO THE WINDS AND DO MORE THAN HER SHARE IN THE GAME OF TURNING DREADNOUGHTS FROM THE STOCKS. If the 65,000,000 of Germans have concluded that they can build more monsters of the deep than the 42,000,000 of Britishers, it is time that it should be brought to their attention that there are more Britishers than those in the British Isles. Plucky little New Zealand has had the honor of uttering the first reminder. THE DOMINION OF CANADA OUGHT NOT TO LEAVE NEW ZEALAND LONG ALONE IN THAT RESPECT. WITHIN THE NEXT TWO YEARS the Colonies of Britain should be able to place THREE DREADNOUGHTS at the disposal of the Motherland—AND THEY SHOULD DO IT. So far as Canada is concerned, such vessels would be under the control of the Canadian Government, but that is only another way of saying that they would always be at the call of the Empire in every worthy cause and in every time of danger."

When the Globe talked the other day, in the article which prompted our own, of the Imperial Defence Conference not being "stampeded by the wild and whirling words of the 'war-scare' jingoes," was it any wonder that its captivating phrase carried the mind back to the above paragraph? No stronger words were written in Canada at the time; and it is doubtful whether they were exceeded as specimens of the "wild and whirling" in the United Kingdom. But this was by no means the end of it. The very next day, the Globe let loose some further "whirling" words under the Scriptural caption—"It Is The Appointed Time." Talking of the new German navy and Great Britain's relation to it, the Globe said: "There is not another nation in Europe which would impotently stand by and see an instrument forged for its destruction. They would seize the reptile while it was still weak and strangle it." Now that was a fairly good "whirl." If it meant anything—which is not always certain in the case of the Globe in its exalted moods—it meant that Britain was to be praised for not ruthlessly attacking Germany at once, simply because she was building a fleet, and savagely sending her warships to the bottom of the sea.

Farther along, it disposed of those timid people who dread war. It said: "War is deprecated; but, as a matter of fact, war is in progress. The contest in ship-building is war. If the Mother Country were engaged in a deadly conflict, Canadians could not get across the ocean fast enough to the aid of the Motherland. The Canadian exchequer would be open to the last dollar in such a cause. But we must recognize that our aid is as much needed now as if a physical war instead of a war of ship-building were on." Then the Globe proceeded to put emphasis on the need for immediate action. No thrifty borrowing of third-class cruisers, and finally "making a start" at some future time with cruisers of the Bristol type when we get ready to build them in Canada, for the impassioned Globe. Nothing but immediate action would satisfy its patriotic zeal—before Ottawa spoke. Listen to it!

"Germany appreciates that if ever she is to challenge British supremacy and break up the British Empire, NOW IS THE TIME. Every year is adding to the might of the British possessions, and TEN YEARS HENCE WOULD BE TOO LATE. The Colonies can show by PROMPT AND DECISIVE ACTION that it is already too late. They have it in their power to proclaim to all the world that the Empire is one and indissoluble. It will be a stroke for peace, for the moment Germany perceives that the strength and resources of every colony have been cast into the scale, from that moment she will see that she has lost the game. She began her programme too late. It is Canada's duty from every point of view, from our affection for the land of our fathers and for our own self-interest, to take PROMPT and practical action."

Other quotations might be made of the same warlike character; but these are enough to remind our readers where the Globe stood when it suddenly blazed forth upon an amazed country as one of the Dreadnought Twins. We were not expecting so strong a lead from such a quarter. The bulk of the subjects of His Majesty—especially those whom the sea separated from close contact with the men at the centre of information—hesitated to advise too confidently. But not the Dreadnought Twins. They could not have spoken up sooner if they had been moved by the same spring. There were suspicious people at the time who thought that the Twins were trying to convince the Conservative press that the Dreadnought cry was already pre-empted. Before long, however, Ottawa spoke. And then the Globe's words ceased to "whirl." The Globe itself began to do all the "whirling" that was necessary. It stopped talking of Dreadnoughts except to deprecate those "Dominions which on the impulse of the moment offered Dreadnoughts as a gift to the Admiralty." Its Dreadnought offer passed into a category which made the good Globe look like one of the Gold-Brick Twins.

Our readers are now in a position to judge whether our statement was "wholly and absolutely untrue." The only ground upon which we can imagine the Globe making such a charge is the contention that it did not propose that its Dreadnoughts should be a "gift to the British Admiralty." We have quoted above the phrase in which it cautiously remarked that "such vessels would be under the control of the Canadian Government." The Globe is great on saving clauses. But what did its Dreadnought policy "within the next two years" mean if it did not mean placing these Dreadnoughts practically under the control of the Admiralty?

They must have been built in British shipyards. They must have been built with British money borrowed by us. They must have been built by British workmen. They must have been manned by British officers and sailors. They must have been under the command of British Admirals; for we could hardly produce an Admiral of our own "within two years." If they were to be of any use as against this "danger" which was "a real one," they must have been kept in British waters. Now how much Canadian control would there be over Dreadnoughts—a type of ship which would be absurd for Canadian coast defence—manned by British Admiralty men from top to bottom, a part of the British Home Fleet in the North Sea, and moved constantly by orders from the British Admiralty?

Unless the Globe was talking dishonest nonsense, it meant that Canada's Dreadnoughts, to be ready "within the next two years," would be in precisely the position we have outlined above; and to argue that such ships would not be a practical gift to the British Admiralty, is to try to escape public scorn for a thoroughly contemptible course by raising an empty quibble.

DO WE WANT GREENLAND?

Should Canada buy Greenland? This is a timely question for the sultry season; and it is not only put, but answered in the affirmative, by Mr. Robert Stein, of the American Bureau of Commercial and Labor Statistics, writing in the current number of the Canadian Magazine. There seems to be no particular connection between Mr. Stein's occupation and his interest in Greenland; but it may be that he comforts his leisure hours during the super-heated months in Washington by dreaming of "Greenland's icy mountains." They take his mind off miles of dry figures and armies of interfering politicians — if they have that sort across the line. A prisoner will keep a tame mouse or encourage the visits of a spider; a financier will cultivate a rose garden; a politician will play golf. Why should not a statistician concern himself with the future of that section of the hemisphere which probably possesses fewer statistics to the square mile than any other?

Just why this American figurer should want to "tag" Canada with his beloved Greenland is not so clear. What is the matter with Uncle Sam? Your Uncle has been collecting territory and trouble in out of the way places of late; and it would be very like the spirit that sent him adventuring in the Philippines to lead him off into the Arctic Sea where Commander Peary is already planting food stations and—gathering statistics. Mr. Stein tempts us by pointing out that, if we had Greenland, we would be larger than the United States with all her new possessions added. But we are larger than the United States now; and all the comfort we get from it out of our neighbors is to be told that a distressing percentage of our super-numerous acres are sub-arctic. Would they forget this jibe if we annexed Greenland?

A more convincing reason is that Canada will soon have a procession of grain steamers running each autumn from Hudson Bay to the British Isles, and that it will only be friendly for these carriers of the output of the Canadian and American West to call in at Cape Farewell, the southern tip of Greenland. It is true that our St. Lawrence grain ships do not always stop off and pass the time of day with the inhabitants of Newfoundland; but the Hudson Bay freighters will probably be a more friendly lot. Moreover, a cable will run some day from Ireland to York Factory, and it will be very apt to make a stepping stone of Greenland; and, as Mr. Stein remarks, Canada might then prefer to have this point of land in her own hands.

As for Greenland itself, it would be a mine of many sorts of wealth for enterprising Canadians. Any notion that its chief use would be to break up the ice combine in this city, is erroneous. Mr. Stein tells us that the ice-free portion of Greenland would make two Irelands—in area, not in political warmth—and tries to attract our Cobalt and Gowganda experts by talking of mineral resources. Then there are reindeer—the sort that Santa Claus drives—and he thinks that we might start a veritable arctic menagerie in the country, protected as it is from the carnivora of the mainland. Chiefly, however, he argues that if we owned Greenland, we could close both Baffin Bay and Hudson Bay to outside ships, and so conserve and revive the great whale industry. It would be interesting to know what the present and prospective whalers of New England would have to say to this; and our statistical adviser might skip over to the Secretary of State's office and ascertain what his colleague there would think of such a step. The treatment accorded our sealers in Behring Sea does not lead us to anticipate any ready surrender of rights to us on the other side of the Continent.

As for the "how" of the crucial part of the enterprise—the getting of Greenland — Mr. Stein thinks that Canada could get it for nothing. Today, it belongs to Denmark; but his impression is that Denmark is not sitting up nights for fear somebody will steal it. What Denmark wants is North Schleswig which is now in the possession of that "easy mark," Germany. Mr. Stein's idea is that Britain might trade something with Germany for Schleswig on the understanding that Denmark would get Schleswig in exchange for Greenland which would be given to Canada. Thus Canada would perform once more her famous, if not filial, feat of "working the old man;" and, while Britain would be out some such inconsiderable trifle as Walfish Bay or Zanzibar, Canada would be all to the good. Thrifty Canada!

But Mr. Stein suggests a less selfish motive which might prompt such action on the part of Canada. He tells us that Germany is building a fleet because she is convinced that Britain will not allow her to get colonies for her surplus population unless she can at least challenge the control of the sea. Now this little "deal" would convince her that Britain occupies no such dog-in-the-manger attitude; for would not Britain be giving her some of her own African colonies. Deeds would speak louder than the most promising words. Thus Canada would have the credit of having suggested a step which made for peace, and would promptly be rewarded for her good action by receiving a new Territory which, in fact, had been pledged to her as the price of her goodness before she displayed it. We have a number of people to whom so profitable a piece of pharisaism would be likely to appeal.

Against this proposal, the only objections we can think of at the moment are the difficulty of getting the British people to make Germany a present of territory with the hope of stopping her "Dreadnought" programme — it might look as if they were "scared" and endeavoring to buy safety—the difficulty of persuading Germany to part with Schleswig, the difficulty of keeping the United States from objecting to the closing of Baffin Bay, the doubt whether Canada needs any more arctic territory just now, and the absurdity of our owning Greenland, but neither the Labrador Coast nor Newfoundland.

FROM THE STAR FILES THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

"London.—At a meeting of the British Association at Sheffield yesterday, a paper by Lieut. Wyse was read, setting forth the advantages of the canal route proposed by De Lesseps. Wyse stated that a convention was agreed upon between the Panama Railroad Company and himself whereby the company was permitted and agreed to aid the proposed canal. Some discussion followed, and opinions adverse to De Lesseps' route were expressed by Captain Rixton and Captain Cameron, African explorers."—From the Montreal Star, August 28, 1879.

OBJECTIONS were raised in various countries against this proposed route for connecting the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, and the Nicaragua route was brought forward as being better and more easily constructed. However, so great was the fame of De Lesseps, owing to his construction of the Suez Canal, that in the end his plan was adopted, and subscriptions poured in liberally, chiefly in Paris. When too late it was discovered that vast as the funds provided were, they fell far short of what would ultimately be required owing to the gross mismanagement prevailing. When the crash came De Lesseps was an utterly discredited man, though it was believed that he was made the scapegoat to cover the delinquencies of others. De Lesseps never recovered from this blow to his prestige, which was the immediate cause of his death. The United States Government are now undertaking the building of this canal, but the completion of the same seems yet a long way off.

A large audience was present, among whom were Mr. Coursol, M.P., Acting Mayor Thibault, and others." From the Montreal Star of August 28, 1879.

Iced Drinks Dangerous

The American people consume during the hot weather a very large quantity of iced drinks of various kinds and colors and pay dearly for it with disordered stomachs that refuse to perform their work; bowel complaints, exhaustion, congestion, sunstroke and many other ills follow, and from these causes the loss of life is great. Doctors say all danger can be prevented by the proper use of a teaspoonful of Duffy's Malt Whiskey in each glass.

It has been recommended and used by ministers of the gospel and temperance advocates and prescribed by doctors of every school as an effectual preventive and cure of consumption, bronchitis, indigestion, stomach trouble, and all diseases of the throat and lungs.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain, great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus producing a liquid food requiring no digestion in the form of a pharmaceutical whiskey, which is one of the most effective tonic stimulants and invigorators known to science. Its palatability and freedom from injurious substances fender it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

If weak and run down, take a teaspoonful four times a day in half a glass of milk or water.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky is sold everywhere by druggists, grocers and dealers, or shipped on order for $1.25 a bottle.

Our Consulting Physician will send to every reader of The Montreal Star advice, and an interesting illustrated medical booklet free of charge. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, N. Y.

PENITENTIARIES LETTING LOOSE 400 MEN A YEAR

Is the Ticket-of-Leave Executive Clemency a Success or Failure?

Special to the Montreal Star.

Ottawa, August 28.—At the rate of about four hundred a year convicts are being released from the penal institutions of Canada by the exercise of executive clemency commonly known as the ticket-of-leave. Since 1899 when the act went into force there has been a gradual increase in the number of cases to which it has been applied and sometimes the question is asked as to whether the system is not being overworked. The best answer, perhaps, is afforded by the statistics of cancellation and forfeiture of parole licenses for non-compliance with the conditions. Since 1899 a total of 2,515 prisoners have been released on parole. The figures, just completed for the last fiscal year ending March 31st, show 469 paroles granted as compared with 401 in 1908. About thirteen hundred convicts have finished their sentences on parole while some nine hundred are still reporting. According to the last figures available the number of licenses cancelled for non-compliance was slightly under 5 per cent., while licenses forfeited by subsequent conviction was below 2 per cent.

There are diverse views as to the effect of the parole system. On one side it is said that the too extensive application of it operates as an encouragement to the criminal class to take a chance at crime in the hope of escaping without detection or, if caught, and convicted, of getting released after a short time on ticket-of-leave. The victim of crime and the officers of the Crown responsible for securing conviction have little satisfaction if their efforts are nullified through the pardon of the convict. On the other hand, the parole officers point out, while it is a source of regret that any receiving a license should lapse into crime, it is almost unreasonable to hope that not one should yield to the temptations of their former life. There is no very convincing evidence in past statistics that had those released have remained in custody to the last day of their sentence they would have been better for further incarceration. The records show that a larger percentage of prisoners return to the penitentiaries for offences committed after their discharge on expiration of sentence than under the parole system. The great plague to society, says Parole Officer Archibald, is the recidivist criminal. He it is who serves a life sentence on the instalment plan, going to prison half a dozen times for as many repeated offences. He is generally the best behaved while in custody and the most unsafe to release. The basis of all reformation, say the officers, is the ability of the convict when released to earn an honest living. If he has learned a trade while in penitentiary it is not a difficult matter to place him in suitable employment outside. But if he comes out of detention without the fundamental principles of industry inculcated into his life, it is hard to tell which is the more helpless—the prisoner who asks for work or the man who would befriend him by giving him employment. Where these conditions are met, advocates of parole say the system proves potent, as it stands by the man in his uphill struggle to rehabilitate himself, having regard to the fact that in his effort to regain lost social status he is meeting with an apathetic and sometimes hostile society, quick to note his weaknesses, but seldom ready to give credit for good intentions.

Paroles are secured usually on petition. Some people have a weakness for signing such documents without giving a thought and there is no doubt that in many cases release of prisoners has taken place with little to justify it. Particularly is this the case where people in high places, not likely to repeat the offence, have been convicted and afterwards got off with a few months of incarceration. In its general application to the lower classes, however, the parole system is claimed to work well, and in support of that contention are the low percentages of those returning to prison for violation of conditions or subsequent conviction. "The greatest need of the hour," states the parole officer, "is not so much the devising of means or methods to help the paroled prisoner, but to improve and educate the public sentiment in its attitude towards the man on parole, making it a possibility for the one who has fallen to have a fair chance to earn his way without the pauperizing effect of assistance by doles, institutional or professional. Employment with a helpful environment is the key to the whole situation."

STEAMER BROKE DOWN.

"America" in Danger in "The Narrows" and Caused Anxiety.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Brockville, Ont., August 28.—For a short time Saturday afternoon grave anxiety was felt in Brockville for the safety of the side-wheel steamer America, which broke down in the "The Narrows," a few miles west of here, with four hundred Kingston excursionists bound for Ogdensburg. Eventually the craft pulled into there slowly nearly one hour late. It appears she was forced to stop the engines entering the narrows owing to the break of an eccentric strap. For twenty minutes the boat floated around while repairs were being made.

Dominion Steel Scares English Makers--Report on Dominion Textile Co.

A DIRECTOR ON THE SITUATION AT SPRINGHILL MINES

He Explains the Fight Against the American Mining Union.

The directors of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company, have held several meetings in Montreal this week consulting with Mr. J. R. Cowans, the general manager and Mr. Hector McInnes, K.C., the company's legal adviser.

At the conclusion of yesterday's meeting one of the directors said:—

"In view of the situation at Springhill, the Directors have taken the only course open to them as business men, and have resolved to allow the mine to remain closed till such time as the miners recognize that, like every other business, coal mining must pay if it is to be carried on.

"They are firmly of the opinion that the rule of the U. M. W. means the practical extinction of the coal trade of Nova Scotia, and will fight by every means in their power for the preservation of their property, not only for the shareholders, but in the interest of the men themselves.

"The public generally is vitally interested in the question whether Canada shall manage her own affairs or allow a rival in the same line of business in a foreign country to dictate to her; and the directors believe in the stand they have taken they have the approval of the vast majority of the people of Canada.

"If, as is beyond all question, a stoppage of mining in Canada means a corresponding benefit to the United States, it would seem reasonable that the coal owners of Nova Scotia should be a unit in opposing anything that would tend to that end, as the domination of the U. M. W. surely would do.

"In order to demonstrate their strength, the foreign officials of the U. M. W. called a sympathetic strike at Spring Hill, and this in the teeth of a judgment of an independent board of arbitrators.

"In an attempt to coerce the company, and in defiance of the titular head of the order they called out all the pumpmen and firemen of the company, and left the mine to its fate.

"What this means is perhaps not clear to an outsider, but what would be thought of the crew of a ship which had sprung a leak, who, in order to get a rise in wages, refused to pump out the water till their demands were granted, knowing that the inevitable result of such action would be the sinking of the ship with all hands, themselves included?

"The case of a mine, where five tons of water are pumped out for every ton of coal, is precisely similar, and if the mine is ruined, as appears to be the object of the Union, the men and the town will be ruined with it.

"The native miners may well consider how such a suicidal course can possibly benefit them, the foreign officials will not suffer, they will still draw their fat salaries.

"It is in order to give the sober opinion of the native miners time to assert itself, after calm consideration, that the directors have reluctantly been forced to decide on so serious a step as the indefinite closing of the mine.

"The Boar has no hard feeling towards its own men; it knows they have been misled by selfish agitators. It has dependable information that the strike is unpopular with the actual workers, and that if a secret ballot had been taken, which the constitution of the U. M. W. calls for, it is more than likely that there would never have been such a foolish thing as a strike at this moment.

"It appeals to the sober steady element among its men, who can rule once they decide to do so, and to the common sense of the merchants of Springhill, not to support a strike which must prove disastrous to them, but to join with it and help to put Springhill with its magnificent property on the highway to prosperity once more.

"The U. M. W. leaders talk big of strike pay, and their unlimited resources, what they actually offer is two dollars a week to men who usually make twenty dollars in that time; is it worth those men's while to accept a dole of charity from a foreign source, for that is what it comes to, of one-tenth of what they can make by honest work?

"Till they realize that their interests are bound up with the interests of the mine and that unless the property pays no company can continue to operate it indefinitely and cease chasing the Will o' the Wisp dangled before them by unscrupulous and irresponsible foreign agitators, which will surely lead them to destruction, it is the firm, unalterable determination of the directors to allow the mine to remain closed."

John D. Knew When to Quit

So Did Others—Morgan and Hill are Keeping Up Well.

A comment not infrequently heard in Wall Street runs thus: "John D. Rockefeller was the wisest of them all. He knew when to quit." So did Andrew Carnegie. So, more recently, did James Stillman. H. H. Rogers was trying to throw off his harness when struck down.

The two Grand Old Men in the financial world whose health never seems to trouble them are J. P. Morgan and James J. Hill.

Neither is ever reported as suffering from nervous breakdown or as being compelled to visit the spas of Europe.

These two old friends and associates jog along quietly but very effectively year after year, doing big things without permitting these big things to undo them.

Mr. Morgan does not believe in retiring altogether from business, as in many cases that have come under his observation retirement has been followed by the tortures of ennui and a speedy end.

Mr. Hill a few years ago turned over many of his duties to his son, Louis, but he still retains enough offices to keep his mind from becoming rusty, yet not enough to prevent him from taking an enlightened part in the discussion and solution of large public problems, agricultural, economic, political and financial.

DOMINION STEEL AND ITS INROADS ON JOHN BULL

English Steel Makers Don't Like Our Rails in Their Markets.

Evidently the English steel men do not like to see the Dominion Steel Co. getting a foothold in their market. The Sheffield correspondent of the London Financial Times says in part:

"It seems that the British members of the International Steel Rail Syndicate, or rail pool as it is called, are in a somewhat unenviable position. It may be recalled that this syndicate, or combine, or agreement, or whatever it is was formed in 1904, for a term of three years, and was renewed in 1907 for a term of five years ending 31st March, 1912. Considering the conflict of interests involved, this concern has proved at least a moderate success until quite recent months. Prices were fixed by international agreement, and maintained at a fairly profitable level; trading 'zones' were mapped out, and the world's orders shared by mutual arrangement. So far, so good; but almost immediately after the renewal of the syndicate in May, 1907, both Russian and Canadian steel rail makers began to make a bold bid for export trade. Efforts to bring these new competitors within the fold failed. Recently the efforts have been renewed, and again failed.

"But the Russian competition is not the only trouble. A well-known Canadian firm has just sent a big consignment of steel rails into this country—to the very gates of our own idle mills! Last November, the loyalty of the British members was almost at breaking point, and a meeting was held to discuss the question of severance. In view of what has happened since—the failure of all efforts to bring the Russian and Canadian firms into line, coupled with increasingly keen and galling competition from those quarters—I should be much less surprised to see the collapse of the International Rail Pool than I was a few years ago to witness the dissolution of the British Galvanisers' Combine.

"It appears that the order from the Transvaal Government, which the Russians have secured, is, according to a statement made to the Transvaal Assembly by the Colonial Treasurer, on the authority of the Agent-General in London, who placed the order for 22,500 tons of rails at £5 13s. and 14,000 tons at £5 14s per ton c.i.f Lourenco Marques. Tenders were not even invited from the rail makers of the United Kingdom, because it was found that they were members of a 'ring,' and the 'ring's' prices were from £5 5s to £5 7s 6d per ton f.o.b., which meant £5 2s 6d to £6 5s per ton to Delagoa Bay. 'Representation to the British manufacturers, with whom the Administration were naturally most desirous of placing the contract,' says the Colonial Treasurer, 'failed to give any promise of a reduced quotation, and as time was of moment, the Russian firm being about to join the 'ring,' there was no alternative but to close the transaction with the firm. A quotation was invited from the Dominion Iron and Steel Company of Canada, the only manufacturers of steel rails in the Empire not in the 'ring,' and the lowest quotation received was £5 18s 1d per ton c.i.f. East London, Durban or Delagoa Bay.

"These new competitors in the steel rail business, both Russian and Canadian, are rendering the position of the International Syndicate very insecure in this country, for they are getting a considerable amount of trade in home, foreign and colonial markets, while our rail makers are standing by helpless."

FARMERS EXPECT 125,000,000 CROP

Winnipeg reports to Bradstreets say the general outlook for trade continues of the brightest description. Farmers are busy harvesting and indications point to a total wheat crop of about a hundred and twenty-five to a hundred and thirty million bushels. Wholesalers report some demand for sorting lines.

A FAIR CHANCE OF AN INCREASE IN THE DIVIDEND

Northern Ohio Traction is Making An Excellent Showing Now.

If the six months' report, covering operations for the period ended July 31 last, of the Northern Ohio Traction & Light Company, may be taken as a criterion, that company will show the largest earnings in its history for the current fiscal period to end December 31 next. In June last gross revenues expanded over 13 per cent., while the net was greater by about 17 per cent., and, as a result of somewhat curtailed charges, surplus earnings for the period rose more than 33 1-4 per cent., as compared with the corresponding month of the year previous. Gains shown in the items mentioned above for the half-year ended June 30 last were even more gratifying than those for June, the gross having risen over 15 1-2 per cent.; net approximately 28 per cent., and surplus in the neighborhood of 110 per cent.

Following are the changes and per cent. of change for each item of income for June and the half-year ended with the close of that month:

| | June— | Inc. | P.C. | Six mos.— | Inc. | P.C. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Gross | $26,620 | 13.28 | | $162,817 | 15.88 | |
| Expenses | 10,273 | 9.74 | | 45,980 | 7.37 | |
| Net | $16,347 | 17.29 | | $116,837 | 28.14 | |
| Charges | *660 | 1.49 | | *1,239 | 0.40 | |
| Surplus | $17,007 | 33.37 | | $118,076 | 110.19 | |

*Decrease.

General Figures.

Should earnings of the company maintain an average increase of the same proportions for the remaining six months yet to be reported, as it did in June, its gross would total in the neighborhood of $2,200,000 for the fiscal year, its net a little over $1,000,000, and surplus well above $400,000. Such a showing, as will be noted in the following table, would be a distinct improvement over the 1908 fiscal period.

Although the Northern Ohio Traction & Light's revenues suffered somewhat in 1908, losses having been sustained in both gross and net, as compared with the year previous, a review of operations prior to that time indicates that up to the beginning of 1908 a pronounced yearly expansion in both gross and net had been enjoyed. It will be noted that, notwithstanding the unfavorable business and general conditions existing during a greater part of 1908, the losses mentioned above were only trivial. That there has been so pronounced a recovery during the first half of 1909, therefore, indicates an element of strength and conservative management. Friends of the company are free to express the opinion that the last half of 1909 will produce even more gratifying results in the matter of expanded earnings than has been manifested during the six months already reported.

Five Years' Results.

Below are given the principal operations of the company for the past four fiscal periods, together with the 1909 fiscal years estimated on the assumption that the last six months' returns will show increases approximately the same monthly as those for June:

| | Net earnings. | Int. and taxes. | Surp. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1909* | $1,018,968 | $521,333 | $497,635 |
| 1908 | 804,049 | 526,532 | 277,517 |
| 1907 | 813,205 | 513,241 | 300,064 |
| 1906 | 696,198 | 483,174 | 213,324 |
| 1905 | 654,140 | 471,503 | 182,637 |

*Estimated.

The Franchises.

In 1912 the company's franchise with the city of Akron for the lighting of streets expires, although the balance of franchises for its street railway properties, etc., will not terminate for a number of years to come. Therefore, it is fair to assume that the property's future is pretty free from incumberances and if it is conservatively managed there is every reason for believing that the future will prove as productive of good results as has the past. It is even rumored in some circles that the next dividend declaration will be at a higher rate than the current prevailing one.

At the beginning of the current year the company operated about 214 miles of track, while at the same time its holdings of city parks and coal lands are quite extensive, both of which factors are decidedly favorable elements in current and future operations. On December 31 last the bonded debt of the company stood at $16,426,000; collateral trust notes $600,000, and profit and loss surplus $782,941.

PRICE, WATERHOUSE MAKE REPORT ON DOMINION TEXTILE

Show Company to Be in An Extremely Strong Position.

Under date of January 27th, 1909, Messrs. Price, Waterhouse and Company made an extensive and exhaustive report on the books and accounts of the Dominion Textile Company; also on the separate books kept for two of the subsidiary companies, namely: The Dominion Cotton Mills Company, Limited, and the Merchants Cotton Company. The report covers three years ending March 31st, 1908, and was made for the English interests. It is very exhaustive but a synopsis may prove of value.

The Textile Company was organized under the laws of the Dominion of Canada in January, 1905, with an authorized capital of $7,500,000 common and $2,500,000 preferred stock, to acquire the following companies which at that time were operating independently with such competition that the results were extremely unsatisfactory.

The Dominion Cotton Mills Company, Limited, with a capital of $3,033,600 for which the Textile Company offered in exchange 25 per cent. new preferred stock amounting to $758,400, and 25 per cent. new bonds known as "series A" amounting to $758,400.

The Merchants Cotton Company with a capital of $1,500,000 for which the Textile Company offered in exchange 18 1-3 per cent. new preferred, amounting to $275,000, and 66 2-3 new bonds known as "series B" amounting to $1,000,000.

The Montmorency Cotton Mills Co. with a capital of $1,000,000, for which the Textile Company offered in exchange 20 per cent. of new preferred stock amounting to $200,000 and 100 per cent. new bonds known as "series C," amounting to $1,000,000.

The Colonial Bleaching and Printing Company with a capital stock of $304,200, for which the Textile Company offered in exchange 66 2-3 per cent. new preferred stock, amounting to $207,000, and 100 per cent. new bonds known as "series D," amounting to $347,000.

Additional "D" bonds to the value of $47,000 were issued in exchange for Colonial Bleaching and Printing bonds.

On March 31st, 1908, the whole of the capital stocks of the foregoing companies had been acquired excepting 2,582 shares of the Dominion Cotton Mills Company, Limited, and 227 shares of the Merchants Cotton Company which were still in the hands of the public at that time.

The companies are now all operated by the Dominion Textile Company, Limited, the Montmorency Cotton Mills Company, and the Colonial Bleaching and Printing Company being entirely merged. The Dominion Cotton Mills Company, Limited, and the Merchants Cotton Company are leased to the Dominion Textile Company for a term of twenty-one (21) years from April 1st, 1905, the consideration being a yearly rental of $305,738.70, and $67,290 respectively. After providing for bond interest dividends are declared, and thus the Textile Company as holder of practically all of the capital stocks of these subsidiary companies receives the greater part of the net profit.

Separate books are kept for the Dominion Cotton Mills Company, and the Merchants Cotton Company, showing their respective assets and liabilities, but the transactions are confined to the rent received, dividends paid, etc., all trading operations being merged in the general books of the Textile Company.

The consolidated balance sheet of the various companies on March 31st, 1908, showed capital assets at book value to be $10,925,323.35. The sum of $1,594,245, being the difference between the par value of the capital stocks of the Dominion Cotton Mills Company and the Merchants Cotton Company and the values at which they were acquired; the sum of $862,956.72 being the net surplus of the subsidiary companies as of March 31st, 1908, and the sum of $72,875 being the sundry reserve accounts as of March 31st, 1908, make a loss in assets of $2,530,076.72. Take from this the sum of $153,992.39 being sundry adjustments as of March 31st, 1908, and there is an amount of $2,376,084.33 which, taken from the capital assets at book values ($10,925,323.35) makes the actual cost to the Textile Company $8,549,239.02.

The report shows "good-will" figured at $4,902,800.

The investments of the Textile Company at cost show $1,066,646.23. They include 8,311 shares of the Montreal Cotton Company, and $47,000 "A" bonds held in the treasury.

Current assets are shown to be $4,413,923.65, and unexpired insurance $54,000, making the total assets as of March 31st, 1908, $18,986,608.90.

The liabilities on March 31st, 1908, show capital stock outstanding: Common, $5,000,000 (amount authorized $7,500,000, $2,500,000 unissued); preferred $1,858,088.33 (amount authorized $2,500,000, $641,911.67 unissued).

Of the $3,370,500 authorized 6 per cent. bonds, $358,583.33 are unissued, leaving a liability item of $3,011,916.67, while the outstanding bonds of the subsidiary companies are $3,966,660.

There are shares of the subsidiary companies held by the public to the value of $311,000.

Current liabilities are $3,288,620.98. The company's reserves are $623,730.41, leaving the surplus of the Dominion Textile Company and subsidiary companies as of March 31st, 1908, $926,592.51.

Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Company state that they have thoroughly tested the profit and loss account for the three years ending March 31st, 1908. They draw especial attention to the fact that all inventories have been carefully examined from March 31st, 1905 to March 31st, 1908, and that they have thoroughly tested their clerical accuracy.

A summary of the inventory as of March 31st, 1908, showed raw cotton on hand to the value of $795,421.99; good in process of manufacture to the value of $608,468.17; finished product valued at $1,295,016.27; supplies to the value of $257,937.14, making a total of $2,956,843.57. The report goes on to state: "The net result of our adjustments in respect to inventory valuations is to increase the inventory at March 31st, 1908 by $398,000.00." This amount added to the total above makes the company's net inventory March 31st, 1908, $3,354,843.57.

During the three years in question operating expenses were charged with a sum of $267,343.31 which, according to the report, might properly be regarded as a provision for depreciation. In addition to this there is a profit of $398,000 arising from the readjustment of inventory prices so that altogether there has been during the period an apparent under-statement of profits amounting to approximately $665,000.00. (As no depreciation has been written off since the companies were merged, this amount of $665,000.00, which has in effect been charged to operating, would be sufficient to provide for depreciation. The sum of $850,472.78 has, during the three years, been charged to Trading which amount being fairly heavy would be in line with the company's property to keep its property up to a high standard.

Mention is made in the report that since March 31st, 1908, the company has suffered on account of the general decline in business. Recently, however, it is understood that business in their line is improving along with the general improvement.

Many interesting figures are contained in the company's Trading Account. It shows that for the year ending March 31st, 1906, the company had $861,257.69 worth of raw cotton and $2,283,658.22 worth of stock manufactured and in process of manufacture, making a total of $3,144,915.91 stock on hand. This compared with $3,284,596.79 for the same date 1907, and $3,327,539.52 for the same date 1908.

During the year ending March 31st, 1906, the Textile Company purchased raw cotton to the value of $3,915,951.55 and cloth and yarn to the value of $99,677.14, a total of $4,015,628.69, as compared with $4,358,007.58 the following year and $3,476,001.60 in 1908.

Working Expenses were $2,505,648.71 for the year ending March 31, 1906, and they compare with $2,536,960.23 for 1907 and $2,847,324.63 in 1908.

Selling and General Expenses for the same period were $556,411.36 for 1906, $574,798.99 in 1907 and $512,285.45 in 1908.

The balance carried from Trading Account to Profit and Loss Account in 1906 was $1,269,597.71 as compared with $1,178,476.29 the following year and $1,047,604.21 last year.

The sales of goods in 1906 amounted to $8,131,004.95 which amount is swelled by the sales of waste and sales and transfers of merchandise to $8,207,605.59. This compared with $8,605,300.36 in 1907 and $8,129,976.01 in 1908.

COPPER AT A STANDSTILL.

For nearly a month now the New York copper market has stood in its tracks with prices of electrolytic showing not greater fluctuations than 3-8 of a cent a pound, ranging from 13 1-8 to 13 1-2 cents. From present indications the buying movement, due for some time, will not materialize until September.

Union Erratic Again To-day

STOCKS ERRATIC; STILL GUESSING ON HARRIMAN'S HEALTH

Local Market Was Very Quiet at the Opening.

Wall Street was all at sea about Harriman's condition this morning.

The cancer report was still in evidence and he was said to be a dangerously sick man. On the other hand his son-in-law said that the current reports about the magnate were greatly exaggerated.

Southern early in the session was 126 3-4, Reading was 157 1-8, Steel 75 3-4, and then 74 3-4. Erie was 34 3-4, and Northern Pacific 153.

Illinois Traction To Increase Capital

The Illinois Traction Co. has notified the Secretary of State of an increase in its capital stock from $13,000,000 to $16,000,000 by adding to the number of shares already authorized 20,000 shares of common stock and 16,000 shares of preferred stock.

The increase is to pay for the Des Moines companies recently acquired, which will add nearly 1 per cent. to the Illinois Traction earnings.

OLD COAL MINE TO START.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Sydney, August 28.—The Colonial Coal Company, which have re-opened the old Toronto mine at Little Bras D'Or, which has been closed down for over thirty lears, announce that they will be shipping coal by the middle of September.

OUR BIG ASBESTOS MINES.

Canada produces from 80 to 90 per cent. of the world's supply of asbestos, and by far the greater portion of this comes from Black Lake and Thetford, the greatest properties in which, in the Province of Quebec, are controlled by the Amalgamated Asbestos Corporation, the Johnson Company, and the new merger known as the Black Lake Consolidated Asbestos Company, which controls more than 5000 acres surrounding the richest properties in the Black Lake district.

ITEMS OF THE COBALT BOOM

Crown Reserve August shipments total $190,000.

It is estimated that the low grade ore from La Rose is worth $200,000 yearly.

Kerr Lake is said to be making a very fine showing.

The Ophir property is looking up.

Asbestos Bonds Are Going Well

Some $400,000 of the $1,000,000 Were Taken Last Evening.

An indication of the large amount of money available for investment throughout Canada was afforded to-day, when the interests behind the flotation of the Black Lake Consolidated Asbestos Company announced that up to last evening subscriptions had been received for over $400,000 of the total of $1,000,000 of bonds the company is offering for public subscription.

As the subscription lists have been open for only two days, this would indicate that the entire issue will be oversubscribed.

TOPICS OF THE STREET

With many people interested in cement stocks just now the following from a magazine is interesting in connection with cement itself:

"One of the curiosities in cement structure is a sailing vessel of concrete, a 'stone boat.' This is owned by a gentleman in Baltimore and has been in commission eleven years. It is a two-masted schooner yacht, sixty-five feet long, sixteen-foot beam, and draws fourteen feet of water.

"It has accommodation for a dozen persons and will carry all that can be loaded on her. She is easy riding by reason of her weight, and, though she is of only moderate speed in a light wind, she outstrips everything in sight in a stiff breeze or heavy sea.

"Says the owner: 'I knew that concrete would be just as bouyant as steel, so I had a framework built of hundreds of light steel rods for reinforcement, exactly as such buildings are constructed. My 'stone boat' has been as far north as the Hudson Bay Country, and she goes out to sea in winter without apprehension.'

"Six years ago this boat was driven on the rocks off Cape Charles, and though a steel boat would have had a hole stove in her, this concrete boat did not show even a scratch."

With all solemnity the Wall Street news purveyors told a breathless public that Mr. Harriman wore black clothes when he was seen at his lunch on the Kaiser Wilhelm II.'s His head and shoulders rested against a pillow. He looked sallow and thin, that Bad Gastein cure having devoured his avoirdupois.

But the picture had one bright tint; the Czar of the financial universe "spoke with a strong voice."

Evidently the hand was that of Esau, but the voice was that of Jacob. The gaping world will learn these momentous facts with bated breath. Unfortunately no record seems to have been obtained of how often he breathed per minute or even how often his pulse beat—this latter a serious omission. What's worth doing is worth doing to death once Wall Street's imagination goes off at a tangent.

The moon must be at a dangerous angle these nights.

Cheese Easier In Country

A Good Deal Left Unsold at the Country Boards.

The Huntingdon Dairymen's Exchange met yesterday. White and colored cheese sold at 11 5-16c.

Napanee, August 27.—At the board 1900 white and colored boarded; 1700 sold at 11 7-16c.

Cornwall, August 27.—Cheese offered, 837 white and 658 colored. The highest price offered was 11 7-16c. Salesmen held out for 11½c, but this was not forthcoming. No sales were made.

Perth, August 27.—There were 1400 boxes cheese boarded; 1200 white and 200 colored. 11¼c was bid, but there were no sales.

Picton, August 27.—Sixteen factories boarded 1340 boxes, all colored; highest bid, 11¼c; 640 sold at 11¼c; 560 sold at 11 7-16c; balance, unsold.

Ottawa, August 27.—Some 300 white and 928 colored cheese boarded, and 534 sold at 11 7-16c.

Listowell, August 27.—Eleven factories boarded 2445 white and 100 colored. The ruling bid on the board was 11 7-16c. No sales.

Iroquois, August 27.—Some 690 colored and 80 white cheese offered; 11 7-16c bid on board; none sold here, but all sold in the street at that price.

Collections Slow.

Ottawa reports say there is a fairly good trade moving there for this time of the year. The prospects for fall trade continue bright and some lines of fall goods are already being shown. Local industries continue busy. Country trade is quiet but produce comes forward well and prices are steady. Collections are rather slow.

'SCOTIA' TO SELL PIG IRON TO DOMINION STEEL

N. S. Steel Co.'s Furnaces are to Start Up on September First.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Sydney, August 28.—The open hearth furnaces of the Nova Scotia Steel & Coal Company, after being closed down for relining and repairs during the present month, will probably resume on September 1st in full blast.

The product of the blast furnace department during the month has been in the form of foundry pig-iron, for which the company has a steady market throughout Canada.

It is understood that the Nova Scotia Company will commence operations at the open hearth by turning out steel for the Dominion Iron & Steel Company, the inference being that the demand for the finished product of the latter company is so active as to exhaust their capacity in the matter of the raw material, viz., pig-iron.

Problems of this character will naturally be solved by the Dominion Company in the erection of the proposed new blast furnace and the installation of new bessemer converters.

A BIG FELLOWS' MARKET.

(N. Y. Journal of Commerce.)

The market is one of 1,000-share not 100-share lots. Small traders are standing from under.

TRAVELLERS ARE BUSY AND ORDERS COMING IN FREELY

Montreal reports to Bradstreets say a good normal tone for this time of the year continues to show forth in all lines of business here. Hot weather and holidays are keeping things a little quiet, although there has been a very satisfactory run of light sorting orders for some lines of popular summer wear.

General fall goods continue to move forward and from now until the close of navigation cargoes will be heavy. The tendency in drygoods prices generally is upwards. Cottons hold very firm. Fall business in men's clothing has not yet opened, but expectations favor a good season. It is reported that, despite late opening, the season in men's straw hats has been quite satisfactory, business in the better grades of goods having been excellent.

Fall and winter lines of hardware are beginning to move.

The business in sporting goods promises well, but the outlook for lumber supplies does not indicate a large demand, as great activity is not expected this winter in the lumber trade. Manufacturers of boots and shoes are busy with the demand for fall lines. Leather prices are well maintained. Country trade is quiet. Collections are generally about fair.

Rushing Shipments.

Toronto reports say while general business continues of a holiday nature, wholesalers are busy rushing out shipments of goods for the coming season by boat and rail. Shipments have been large and there has been nothing to weaken the expectations for a big fall trade in all lines of business. Ontario crops have generally turned out fair and in some cases they are good. The western harvest is now in full swing and the quality of grain is generally excellent. The greatest total yield of wheat in the history of the country seems to be assured. Hot weather is keeping the retail trade in summer goods brisk.

Many retailers are clearing up summer lines and it is likely that stocks carried over will be light. The trade in hardware and metals keeps quite active. All lines of building material are in good demand and this is likely to continue until late in the fall. Business in general groceries is about normal. The demand for sugar is exceedingly active and tea is firm.

The outlook is for a large crop of peaches which will still further increase the demand for sugar. Country trade is moderate in volume. Collections are generally satisfactory. Produce comes forward well and prices hold firm.

Coast Shipping Heavy.

Vancouver and Victoria reports say trade all along the coast continues active and the outlook for the coming season continues bright. Stocks are moving well and the quantity of summer goods left with the retailers at the end of the season is not expected to be heavy. Provincial industries are actively engaged and retail trade has a good tone. The export and coast shipping trade is heavy. It is expected that this fall and winter a big business will be done in the shipment of Alberta grain to the Far East. Collections continue generally good.

Hay Crop Looks Better.

Quebec.—The holidays are still being felt amongst the trade. The latter in wholesale circles shows little improvement over the preceding week. Reports from country points are favorable as to crops, roots have shown up well and the hay cut has exceeded last season's in some districts. Shoe manufacturers are fairly busy and the price of leather is reported firm. City trade is still on the quiet side, although an early improvement is expected owing to the close of the holidays.

TRANSFER AGENTS, The National Trust Co., Montreal. REGISTRAR, The Montreal Trust Co., Limited. BANKERS, The Molsons Bank.

The first payment to the sinking fund must be made during the month of September, 1915, which payment shall not be less than the sum of Twenty Thousand ($20,000) dollars. In the month of January of each succeeding year a similar payment of Twenty Thousand ($20,000) dollars must be paid.

The sinking fund must be invested in bonds of The Black Lake Consolidated Asbestos Co., Limited, purchased in the open market at lowest price obtainable, but not higher than a price to return 5 per cent. per annum on the investment.

A charter has been granted to The Black Lake Consolidated Asbestos Company under the laws of the Dominion of Canada, which will acquire, control and operate various asbestos producing properties situated on the line of the Quebec Central Railway, in the Province of Quebec, and about 160 miles from Montreal, which are as follows:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| The Union Asbestos Mines | about | 110 acres |
| The Southwark or Bells Mines | " | 117 " |
| The Imperial Asbestos Co. (The controlling interest in) | " | 158 " |
| The Black Lake Chrome & Asbestos | " | 5000 " |
| Total | | 5385 acres |

These properties are in the serpentine belt in the Black Lake and Thetford Mines district, in which the most important asbestos mines in the world are located. They have an area of about 5,385 acres and partially surround some of the most profitable companies in the district.

The properties included in the merger have been carefully examined and reported upon by the following engineers:

The Union Mines by H. C. Riehle, M.E., and T. H. Crabtree.

The Southwark Mines by H. C. Riehle, M.E., Professor John A. Dresser, M.A., F.G.S.A., Dept. of Geology, McGill University, and John J. Penhale, M.E.

The Imperial Asbestos Mines by Mr. Fritz Cirkel, M.E. (Dipl. Engineer of the Royal Technical High School, Aachen, Germany, author of the Monograph "Asbestos, its Occurrence, Mining, Refining and Uses," issued by the Dominion of Canada).

The Black Lake Chrome & Asbestos Company by H. C. Riehle, M.E.

Full copies of these reports can be obtained on application.

The Union Asbestos Mines are among the oldest and best known in the district, adjoining the British Canadian of the Amalgamated Asbestos Corporation, and the rich Black Lake properties of the Johnson's Company.

The Union Company, in addition to its mine buildings and equipment, owns the entire village of Calmon. The property is well developed. Eight pits have been opened up, several of which are of large dimensions, and all of which show asbestos of the same character as that found on the adjoining properties. The mines of the company have been worked for a number of years for crude asbestos, and are equipped with a small mill, which is out of date and entirely inadequate. Consequently, in accordance with the recommendation of the engineers, a modern mill of large capacity will be immediately erected, which Mr. Riehle estimates will earn, when completed, $125,000 net per annum.

Mr. Riehle in speaking of the quality of asbestos in this property, says:—"It is of the best that Canada produces," and that "the area of practically undeveloped ground would alone form reserves for several generations to come."

The Southwark Mine adjoins the Union and Johnson's. It was worked some years ago for crude asbestos only, at a time when the milling of short fibre had not reached its present stage of development, and some 600 and 700 tons of crude are said to have been shipped from the property, of which 50 per cent. was No. 1 grade.

Mr. John J. Penhale, in his report, says:—"With the amount of development done on this property it is easy to see that, with a well equipped mill of good tonnage capacity, this property could soon be made a good paying producer, and the quality of the product would equal that of any mine in the district."

Mr. Riehle, in his report, estimates that net profits from this mine, when equipped with a 500 ton mill, will be $143,000 per annum, or deducting administration and depreciation charges, $130,000.

The Imperial Asbestos Mines, the controlling interest in which has been acquired by this company, will be worked independently under the management of the Black Lake Company. Mr. Fritz Cirkel has made an extensive report on this property, and in conclusion states:—"I have no hesitation in saying that amongst the many properties which I have examined all through the asbestos region, this one appears to me as having the best surface showings I ever came across." He estimates that this property, when equipped with a 500 ton mill, will earn $146,000 net per annum.

The Black Lake Chrome and Asbestos Company. Owing to the vast area of this property, over 5,000 acres, and the inability of Mr. Riehle on account of the limited time at his disposal, to examine the whole of it at the present time, attention is called to the fact that his report is limited to certain areas, which, however, demonstrate the great possibilities of this property. Speaking of these, he says:—

"These workings all show veins of asbestos of good value, quite evenly distributed through the rock. Owing to the contour of the land here, it would be an easy matter to feed a 500 ton mill in a very short time, as the working faces will almost immediately become so extensive that the cost of mining will be extremely low." In conclusion he says:—"The value of this property is very great, and, in the writer's opinion, it should by all means be developed on a large scale immediately, as, considering the many outcroppings of asbestos, the workings, which have produced good asbestos, and also the general trend of the asbestiferous formation through the property, you cannot help but develop a very large mine. It would then be only a question whether to build one large centrally located mill or operate several smaller mills of say 300 tons capacity each.

Chrome Iron:—Although the deposits of high grade chrome iron ores of the Black Lake Chrome & Asbestos Company are believed to be the largest known on the American continent, they have not been taken into consideration, though undoubtedly of great value.

The policy of the company will be aggressive. In accordance with the recommendations of Messrs. Cirkel and Riehle, two mills will be erected immediately the revenue from which as estimated by them, after deducting administration and maintenance charges should be ..... $251,000

To be applied as follows:—

|---|---|---|
| Interest on $1,000,000 Bonds to be presently issued | $60,000 | |
| Interest on outstanding Imperial Bonds | 6,000 | |
| Dividend on $1,000,000 Preferred Stock | 70,000 | 136,000 |
| Surplus | | $115,000 |

at the rate of over 3½ per cent. on $3,000,000 Common Stock.

The erection of a third mill, after making allowance for depreciation and contingencies, should add to the surplus available for dividends on common stock, about 130,000 at the rate of about 8 per cent. on $3,000,000 Common Stock.

Making a surplus of ..... $245,000

The Black Lake Chrome & Asbestos Company will in due course be equipped with one large mill or several smaller ones, in accordance with the recommendation of Mr. Riehle, the earnings of which, together with the profits from the chromic iron mill, which is fully equipped, will materially increase the revenue.

The Black Lake Chrome & Asbestos Company, when the full amount of the present bond issue is paid in, will have all of its properties paid for and more than $500,000 available for their equipment and development, etc.

The remarkable growth of the asbestos industry in Canada is demonstrated by the fact that all grades have doubled in value during the past eight years, in spite of the enormous increase in the output from 24,000 tons in 1901 to 68,000 tons in 1908, proving that the demand has kept ahead of the supply.

Power is furnished in the form of electricity from the Shawinigan Power Company and the St. Francis Power Company, both of which have transmission lines to the Black Lake district.

It is intended that application will be made to list all securities of the Company on the Stock Exchanges of Montreal and Toronto.

We offer for each $1,000 subscribed—

$1,000 par value First Mortgage Bonds
250 par value preferred stock
500 par value common stock.

payable 5 per cent. on subscription, 15 per cent. on allotment, 10 per cent. on the first day of October next, and 10 per cent. on the first day of each and every month thereafter until fully paid, as per Subscription Agreement. # MADMAN EQUALS THE TRACK RECORD AT FORT ERIE TRACK

Two Jockeys Were Badly Hurt In a Jam.

Fort Erie, August 28.—The feature of the racing here was the performance of H. G. Bedwell's Madman in the fourth race, a handicap of six furlongs. The Hastings colt, carrying 112 pounds, and coupled in the betting with Richard Reed, always ruled favorite. He went to the front at the rise of the barrier, made all his own pace, and won ridden out from Merrick in 1.11 4-5, equalling the track record made by Charlie Eastman here four years ago.

Just as the horses were passing the stand in the fifth race there was a jam close to the rail. Elder, with Jockey Flynn riding, went down, with Teddy Hodge. Ramsey who was directly behind him, escaped with his left ankle sprained, but Flynn had to be carried from the track apparently badly hurt. Summary.

First race, maiden fillies, 2 year olds, 5 furlongs—Kyle, 107, Harty, 5 to 1, won; La Toupee, 110, Ross, 8 to 1, 2; Miss Mapleton 105, Mentry, 25 to 1, 3. Time, 1.01 1-5. Dolly Maddis, Locust Bud, Olivia Mickle, Deer Foot, Eleanor Robson, Winter Day, Tortuous and Polly Lee also ran.

Second race, selling, for colts and geldings, 2 year olds, 5 1-2 furlongs—Jack Straw, 100 Rice, 6 to 1, won; Banives, 107, Burns, 3 to 5, 2; Fearnaught, II., 100, Burton, 5 to 1, 5. Time, 1.07. Robert Powell, Colonel Jot, Lumen and Dorando D. also ran.

Third race, for fillies, 3 year olds, 5 1-2 furlongs—Arionette, 107, Howard, 9 to 10, won; Anna L. Daley, 107, Kennedy, 3 to 1, 2; Right Easy, 107, Taplin, 7 to 1, 3. Time, 1.07 1-5. Gatien Lass, Anne McGee, Minnie Bright, Merry Gift also ran.

Fourth race, 6 furlongs, purse $600, handicap, for 3-year-olds, and upward—Madman, 102, Burns, 6 to 5, won by half a length; Merrick, 115, Howard, 5 to 2, 2; Little Osage, 109, C. Ross, 13 to 5, 3. Time—1.11 4-5. Madman and Richard Reed coupled. Richard Reed and Sir Edward also ran.

Fifth race, selling, for 4-year-olds and upward, 1 3-16 miles—Adoration, 98, Hammond, 50 to 1, won; Golconda, 106, Reid, 6 to 5, 2; Woolstone, 105, Howard, 15 to 1, 3. Time—1.45 2-5. San Primo and Keep Moving also ran. Toddy Hodge and Elder, lost riders. Keep Moving finished second, but was disqualified.

Sixth race, selling, for 3-year-olds, 1 mile—Injury, 107, Howard, 3 to 5, won; Joe Rose, 110, Taplin, 6 to 1, 2; Wineberry, 107, Mentry, 10 to 1, 3. Time—1.38 2-5. Odin, Gerrymander, Lucky Ford, Ned Carmack, Leamenie and Harkaway also ran.

Seventh race, selling, for 3-year-olds and up, 1 1-16 miles—Beau Brummel, 110, Kennedy, 2 to 1, won; Cruche D'Or, 102, Burns, 2 to1, 2; Dunvegan, 98, Reid, 6 to 1, 3. Time—1.45 2-5. Sahado, Imboden, Mamie Gallagher, Orlandot, Lillie Turner, also ran.

MONTREAL 4, JERSEY CITY 0; GOOD PITCHING BY KEEFE AND TIMELY LONG DISTANCE HITTING BY CORCORAN

Rather Slow Game Won by the Locals—A Valuable Tip for the Finely Trained Management

No matter how hard you try, you can't lose all the time. At the combat yesterday Dr. J. Casey's gifted athletes aroused the vast throng to wild flights of enthusiasm by trimming Jersey City 4 to 0.

A month ago it looked as if this Jersey City team had obtain an unbreakable mortgage on the tail-end position, but Mr. J. Ryan, the noted octogenarian at the head of the outfit, awakened the sleeping members on his payroll, and told them to sit up and take note of their beautiful surroundings.

The subsequent spurt was terrific to behold. The Jersey City team lambasted all comers to a frazzle, and shot up, through the "Standing of the Teams" like a sky-rocket.

The spurt seems to be over, and just now the Ryan layout is coming back to terra firma regardless of expense. It pays to lay on an occasional spurt, however, for seeing a vision of the pennant for about 7 seconds no less than 12,000 of the elite or bon ton of Jersey City gave up their good money at recent Saturday and Sunday combats with Providence.

It was through reason of his ill-gotten gains in this series that H. Duffy, of Providence, came here, flashed his great wealth in the shape of a $2,000 cheque on S. Lichtenheim's susceptible nature, and persuaded him to exchange the $2,000 for Bumpus Jones, the sterling heaver. S. Lichtenhein put the $2,000 through the acid test, and as it was really truly money, he passed Bumpus over without a pang of remorse.

Interviewed yesterday at great length by the author of this piece, S. Lichtenhein declined to state what had happened to the $2,000, although he denied the rumor that he was using it to ignite cigarettes.

The Game Was Quiet.

Yesterday's game was quiet and orderly, only one kick being registered by the athletes.

This was on a play at third base, Mr. Esmond, of Jersey City rushing in to announce in clarion tones that he had nipped Dr. J. Casey, the demon leader off the bag by no less than 7 feet.

As it happened, both of the talented Umps present were looking the other way when the play was made, but they declared Dr. J. Casey safe on general principals.

The decision was correct, but the Jersey City athletes, taking advantage of the fact that the Umps missed the play, gave vent to great outbursts of oratory. Mr. Esmond making several yards of oral affidavits before his voice gave out. Mr. Merritt, of Jersey City, who is an eloquent conversationalist, was also present with a few touching appeals that would melt any heart but an Ump's. It is suspected by competent suspectors that Umps haven't got any hearts to melt.

Mr. Kritchell, who tried to melt Mr. Byron's heart with a few well chosen words, last Sunday, was on deck again after his three days' suspension, and clutched Mr. B. Keefe's inshoots, and fade away drops in his happiest vein.

Mr. B. Keefe seemed to be in good shape yesterday, and although large clusters of Jersey City gents got on bases from time to time he prevented any of them from completing the circuit.

Mr. Walker of Jersey City, also heaved in a manner to elicit applause, and it was only in the sixth and eighth innings that the domestic athletes became en rapport with his various benders.

Corcoran Hit Well.

Mr. M. Corcoran's exploits with the stick were worthy of honorable mention. Our experienced second baseman faced Mr. Walker four times and compiled a single and two doubles.

The two doubles were of large dimensions and were responsible for no less than three runs. J. Yeager also exploded a duet of singles where they would do the most good.

In the eighth when three runs were amassed, Dr. J. Casey laid down a superior looking bunt out of the reach of all and was advanced to second when B. Keefe sacrificed.

A scratch hit by Mr. G. Cockill followed, then came a single by J. Yeager and a two base blow by Mr. Corcoran.

Mr. Corcoran toured the bases with great skill, but in attempting to stretch the double into a three base affair he was nipped at the bag. This time the Umps, much to Mr. Esmond's relief, happened to be looking in his direction and called Mr. Corcoran out.

Mr. Esmond distinguished himself in the seventh by peeling off a long harrowing drive down the first base line that bounded into the tall grass and gave him three bases.

The finely trained management should have the hay crop cut in right field as Mr. O'Neil seemed to have trouble locating the ball when it got in amongst the foliage.

Hay is now $21.50 a ton and as there is about a quarter of a ton of luxuriant No. 1 Timothy growing in right field here is a grand opportunity to swell the club's bank account by $5.62 of honest wealth.

This tip on the hay market is given to S. Lichtenhein free, gratis, for nothing by the benevolent author of this piece.

BASEBALL NOTES

Gardner, the Jersey City second baseman, is one of the most graceful handlers of batted balls in the league.

Hanford peeled off three singles.

In the ninth Casey made Wicker warm up. As it happened Keefe had no trouble, but this is always a wise precaution.

In the seventh, with a man on third, Ford peeled off what looked like a safe drive, but Cockill reached up and got it.

Moran, of Providence, is the slickest base stealer seen here this year.

Cobb, the Detroit star, has spiked five players this season. All accidents, says Cobb, but the spiked players say nix.

Ump. Stafford hustled the players along in commendable fashion.

Two games with Jersey City today. First game at 2.00 p.m. To-morrow's will be called at 3.30.

Chicago and New York will have to travel if they intend to head off Pittsburg.

It's a cinch that the world's championship will go to the National League again this year.

Strong Rugby Team at Kingston.

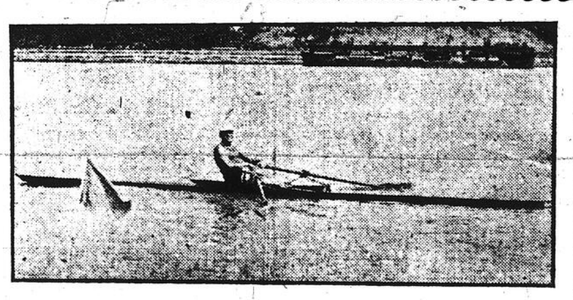
Kingston, Ont., August 28.—Football prospects are bright at the Military College. A number of the members of last year's team, including Rogers, Boswell, Green, Gwynn, Smith, Arnold, Goldie, Young, Wheeler, Meredith and Peters are back giving the team eleven men to start on. The college invariably gets some fine raw material and this season is no exception. Stuart Robertson is a football player of sterling qualities. He guarded centre half for the collegiate team two seasons, when this team was the pride of the country. Colin Carruthers also comes to the red and white, with a reputation. He captained Upper Canada College and also was half back and has played the position for some years.



Mr. Jimmy Cosgrove, Canada's Champion Amateur Single Sculler, who will try for the Diamond Sculls at Henley next year.

THE CENTRAL IDEA UPON WHICH IT IS HOPED ATHLETIC PEACE WILL BE BUILT NEXT LABOR DAY IN OTTAWA

Various Details Suggested as a Sort of Trimming to this Idea—The Most Practicable Plan That Has Been Suggested so far

The moment for which all athletic Canada is waiting, is close at hand.

The moment, when it is hoped, general peace will be proclaimed.

Eight days from to-day the National Peace Conference will sit in Ottawa.

The idea is to have three delegates from each rival body, and Dr. Tees, of the Y. M. C. A., M. A. A. A., C.A. A. U., who, on account of his connection with the three bodies was selected as a sort of a courier extraordinary to carry proposal from the C. A. A. U. to the M. A. A. A. and Federation and back again at a time when direct communication was desired.

The C. A. A. U representatives will, in all probability, be Messrs Merrick, Crow and Macdonald; those of the Federation, Messrs. Mercier, Brown and Spriggings.

The Central Idea.

The Star is in position to state that unless matters change much during the coming week, one central idea is to govern the discussion, and that is, THE FORMATION OF A NEW GOVERNING BODY OF ATHLETICS.

The main subject of discussion will be as to the details.

How far the jurisdiction of this body should go, what branches of sport they should govern directly.

Many of these are now under independent control of a body of representatives selected from the various clubs that follow them, but there seems to be a desire on the part of some to hang on to the control of lacrosse and hockey, the two sports that have created more trouble for the C. A. A. U. when it stood alone, and have done more to cause the trouble which ended in the Federation being started than all the other branches of sport combined.

Most Sensible Suggestion.

The suggestion which seems most sensible of all is, that a new governing body shall be formed, which shall govern all sport, but shall only directly govern track and field athletics.

At the same time it will allow autonomy to every responsible body now governing other branches of sport.

Rugby football has that now, and both Federation and C. A. A. U. accept its rulings.

Anyone certified as an amateur by these bodies will be accepted as an amateur by the governing body, but no man who ever becomes professional will be permitted to return to the amateur ranks.

Save a Lot of Worry.

This will do away with a great deal of vexatious worry for the officers of the controlling body, and it will at the same time compel the other bodies to come in if they desire competition outside of their own body.

All interested agree that peace should come at once, as for runners particularly the situation is becoming more and more unbearable.

The athletes in Ontario are complaining of the little chance they have for outside competition, since the situation prevents them from participating in the United States. Both the Federation and the C. A. A. U. can compete in England the way things stand now, but the Federation alliance with Sullivan is as strong as ever, and besides with the Harrier Leagues joining hands there is no lack of competition in this part of the country.

TECUMSEHS LEFT FOR OTTAWA WITHOUT FRED ROWNTREE, WHOSE FAILURE TO APPEAR WAS A DISAGREEABLE SURPRISE

Eastern Players Doing Well in the West, Says Manager Welch—Cornwall Very Anxious to Give Tecumsehs a Real Good Beating

Montreal is not sending out any news just now, either official or unofficial, but it is said that they are quietly preparing to wind up the season in a blaze of glory.

The match in the East End to-day ought to be a pretty one. The teams ought to be well matched.

In Ottawa, Barney Quinn will play goal, with Dude Marsh point, and Herb Goodwin, cover point; Bobby Pringle, Jack Shea and "Chic" Watts will comprise the defence field with Billy Starrs at centre and Shiner Eastwood, Ernie Butterworth and Tommy Gorman on the home field. Harry Lavelles will play outside and Jack Powers will be next to the net. Jimmie Dooley, Ab. Murphy and Art Matthews will act as spares and Matthews may figure in the game before it comes to an end. Dooley will also be held in readiness should any of the fielders give in. The team on paper looks to be the strongest that the Caps have had this year. Several familiar faces will be missing, but the new men are local favorites and should make good with a vengeance.

Graziadi's orchestra will render music before the game and during the quarter rests and the scores in the other matches will be announced. Tecumsehs are the big magnets of attraction in Ottawa and a great crowd is expected out to witness the battle.

The Tecumsehs left last night for Ottawa for their N. L. U. match to-day minus Fred Rowntree. Rowntree was fully expected to take the trip, and his non-appearance at the depot was the cause of much surprise. Greene will fill the vacancy. Messrs. L. Solman, P. Small and J. Stormont, the last named of whom has assumed the vice-presidency as a result of the resignation of J. J. McCaffery, also went along. The line-up of the team this afternoon at Ottawa will be: Goal, Kinsman; point, Griffith; cover, Graydon; defence, Pickering, Greene, Murton; centre, Felker; home, Querrie, Hearn, Gilbert; outside, Durkin; inside, Adamson.

Joe Lally says: "I have nothing particular to predict about the match to-day, but I can assure you we will do our best to defeat Tecumsehs. We have a little bone to pick with them, and that in addition to the fact that we have never yet laid down to anyone for either friendship or money, will make the boys work hard to beat the Indians.

Manager Welch, of the New Westminster lacrosse team, before he started for the train last night said:

"You can tell the friends of Spike Hennessy that he has made a name for himself up our way. And, as for Lalonde, he is the whole thing there."

SHIPMENT TO BLUE BONNETS

Stanley Fay, Orcagna, Earl Rogers, Osorine and Jack Parker.

Special to Montreal Star.

Toronto, August 28.—The string of horses owned by William Walker were given their full work this morning in preparation for their shipment to the Blue Bonnets meeting, which opens a week from Saturday. Stanley Fay, who is probably one of the best horses that has ever raced on this circuit, was worked six furlongs well in hand in 1.17, with one hundred and twenty pounds on his back. Edwin Gum was sent a mile in 1.46 1-5, with good weight up. Orcagna, another that won several races at the coast last season, but has not been asked to work here this summer, has been picked up, and was worked three-quarters in 1.17 3-5, with something left at the end. Earl Rogers and Osorine were both worked half miles, going that distance in better than fifty seconds. This string will be shipped on Monday to Montreal. Mr. Walker will arrange for a rider before leaving Toronto. Stanley Fay is entered in all of the stakes at Blue Bonnets, and will be hard to beat, as he won his last three starts. With the Walker horses will be shipped Jack Parker, the horse owned by Hon. Adam Beck. This horse won at Blue Bonnets in the spring, and has been rested ever since the Hamilton meeting. He worked with Stanley Fay on Friday. Two car-loads of horses shipped to Quebec to-day and will race at Blue Bonnets after the Quebec Club meeting.

KERR FOR OTTAWA.

Will Run at Labor Day Games There.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Ottawa, Ont., August 28.—The assurance that has been received here that Bobby Kerr will most likely visit the Capital to run at the Eastern C. A. A. U. meet on Labor Day; has caused renewed interest in the report that Kerr will shortly become a resident of the capital to run under the O. A. A. C. colors. Whether Bobby will come or not is as yet a matter of conjecture. One thing, however is certain, unusual efforts are being made to bring him here. The matter is in the hands of one of Ottawa's most influential sporting men, who has seldom failed in what he has undertaken. Kerr is believed to be dissatisfied with his present position in Hamilton and there is no doubt that offers have already been sent to the great runner. The one that will satisfy his requirements may be made at any time now. President Merrick, of the C.A.A.U., has written that Toronto runners will come in force to the eastern meet.

CRICKETERS HAVE STARTED.

Team From Ireland Coming to Montreal—Several Changes in Personnel.

Owing to the inability of seven of the original number of gentlemen selected to play for the coming tour in Canada and the States, there was a setback in the arrangements, and a second meeting of the committee controlling Irish cricket had to come together and pick a revised team. One of the reasons making this necessary is that Zingari I. are making a tour of Ireland, and as their matches are reckoned more or less as international, many of the first selected players elected to remain for those games.

The revised team picked was:

O. Andrews (North of Ireland).
J. G. Aston (Clontarf).
F. H. Browning (Phoenix).
W. L. Coffey (Pembroke).
W. Harrington (Co. Kildare and Leinster).
W. P. Hone (Dublin University).
J. Lynch (Phoenix).
J. M. Magee (Pembroke).
L. A. Meldon (Leinster).
W. Mooney (Phoenix).
G. A. Morrow (Phoenix).
W. H. Napper (Dublin University).
H. M. Read (Dublin University).

It is understood that Mr. Browning, who was here last year, will captain the team, which will be in charge of Mr. D. F. Gillman (sec., Phoenix C. C.) Lynch, the former Dublin University player, who played against the Australians on their last visit, is the fast bowler of the team.

The cricketers sailed for Montreal on the Megantic, and should arrive here on Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

BAIRD IN SEMI-FINALS.

Miss Sutton Met a Brilliant Player From England.

Niagara-on-the Lake Ont. August 27.—In one of the best tennis matches ever seen in the Queen's Royal Courts Miss May Sutton, of California, defeated Mrs. Hannam, of England, today. Fully two thousand people witnessed the game the largest crowd ever on the courts. Mrs. Hannam seemed to be very nervous, but after a few sets were played, settled down and gave the Californian a stubborn battle, but Miss Sutton played a very steady and safe game, and finally won out in two straight games.

Good progress was made in the men's doubles and mixed doubles. The surprise of the day was the defeat of Forbes, of Long Island, by Baird, of Toronto, the Ontario champion Baird meets James, of California, to-morrow and the winner then plays the international champion.

FORM PLAYERS GET HARD BLOWS AT THE SARATOGA TRACK

Norbitt and Seismic Only Two In the Handicap.

Saratoga, August 28.—Long shots had an inning at Saratoga, and form players received a hard blow. Chief interest centred in the handicap at 1 1-8 miles, in which only two horses faced the starter. Norbitt was 8 to 5 favorite, and after trailing Seismic, the Ontario King's Plate winner, to the stretch, took the lead and won easily by five lengths. Summary:

NEW PHYSICAL DIRECTOR FOR R.R.Y.M.C.A.

The Railroad Y. M. C. A. at Point St. Charles has secured a new physical director in the person of Mr. O. C. Johnstone of the West End Y. M. C. A., Toronto. He is said to be one of the finest experts in apparatus work and greatly interested in basketball.

He takes the place of Mr. H. B. Anderson, who resigned, owing to some difference of opinion with the management, and who has returned to Louisville, Kentucky, his home.

MISS THOMSON LOSES TITLE.

Mrs. Handsomebody New Maritime Golf Champion.

Halifax, N. S., August 28.—Mrs. Handsomebody, Windsor, won the Maritime golf championship yesterday, defeating Miss Thompson, St. John, the former champion, by 3 up, 1 to play. Although the Windsor lady has been playing splendid golf since the competition started, still it was hardly expected that she would capture the championship, and her victory was a great surprise, not only to the New Brunswick players, but also to the Nova Scotians. Victory was not on the side of the players from the sister province yesterday, for the New Brunswick team was defeated in the interprovincial match by the Nova Scotia players.

At Shamrock Grounds To-morrow.

Royals vs. Harmonie, at 1.30, in the City Championship series, and Valleyfield vs. Chenier, in an Eastern Canadian League fixture, is the bill at the Mile End to-morrow. A record crowd is expected to witness the two contests.

A "Champagne Piper-Heidsieck" Cup is offered by Messrs. Laporte, Martin & Co., Limited, of Montreal, to be contested for in the races of the Quebec Hunt Club in the first days of September.

A NEW HOCKEY TEAM IS BEING FORMED TO TAKE THE PLACE OF THE WANDERERS ON ARENA ICE

The Principal Players of the Old Wanderers to Belong to it—Registered Wanderer Team to Play in East End—New League Possible.

Arrangements are being made for the formation of a new senior hockey club in Montreal.

This is to take the place of the old Wanderers, the club which from the time it was the backbone of the Federal Hockey League, formed by a number of enthusiastic insurrectionists from the old hockey association and ever since, even after the abandonment of the Federal was one of the most celebrated semi-professional and professional teams in Canada.

Last year when through internal discord or otherwise the club was sorely in need of financial backers, Mr. Doran, of the Jubilee Rink, came to its assistance on the understanding that the club this coming season would play in the East End rink.

Copyrighted the Name.

To make sure of this, it is said he copyrighted or registered the name, which would prevent another club of that name from playing in the Arena.

Some of the principal players of the old Wanderers, it seems, however, have refused to play in the Jubilee Rink, while at the same time the other Montreal clubs in the Eastern Canada Hockey League are rather scary about being compelled to go to the East End to play some of their matches.

Therefore the outlook is that no Wanderers will play in the Arena this year except as champions of another league, which may be formed in the East End.

The Old Wanderer Team.

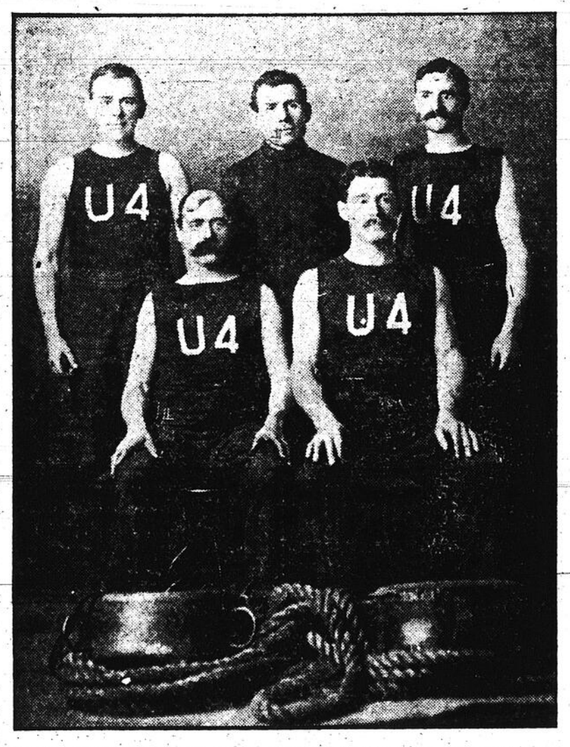
In the meantime a team is being collected which will virtually be the old Wanderer team, but which will play under a new name, and be the nucleus of a new club.

As far as is arranged the business management and five of the old Wanderer team are said to be in the new combination.



THESE MEN WANT TO PULL IN DOMINION PARK—The United Four of Medford, Mass.

The United Four of Medford, Mass., claim the championship of the world for four men tug-of-war team. 700 pounds and under, and believe that they can also add to their laurels the scalps of the best known Canadian teams.

With this idea strong in their minds they issued a challenge through The Star to any team in Canada, and particularly to the winner of the recent tournament at Dominion Park, or the Grand Trunk four. They are willing to wager from $500 to $1,000 that they can win from any four in the country.

THE BIG AUTUMN RACES IN BRITAIN

Bayardo, Minoru and Others for the St. Leger.

London, August 21.—Sigma, in the Observer, says:—Last week's racing and the one before us cannot claim to be regarded as particularly eventful epochs in the annals of the season; but, on the other hand, the weather has, and doubtless will be, the means of attracting large crowds to the courses. At the same time the future has monopolized quite as great a share of attention as have current events, and needless to add that the St. Leger has been productive of a great deal of speculation probably more oral than substantial in its composition, the market being very limited.

For the time being Bayardo is established as favorite at even money, but good horse though Mr. Fairie's colt most undoubtedly is, I should not be surprised to see him deposed from his position at any moment, as the hardness of the going on the training ground is always a potential source of danger to a horse which is liable to fever in the feet. Consequently, although were the last of the classics to be run to-morrow and Bayardo was all right, I should expect him to win it, his backers in my humble opinion are taking big risks, and undoubtedly the more cautious investors, are holding off or trying to get on Minoru for a place at as near even money as they can.

The King's horse is perfectly well and undergoing a special preparation for the race. He has beaten Bayardo twice this year, but over shorter distances than the one and three-quarter miles at Doncaster, which some people think will be found to be too far for him. Perhaps Minoru may not be a great stayer, but neither is White Eagle, and he fairly hunted Your Majesty home last year, though, judged by recent performances, the latter is not anything like the horse his admirers claimed him to be. Consequently more depends upon the pace at which a race is run and the strength of the opposition than the possession of staying powers, and therefore let us hope that Minoru will win for His Majesty King Edward the triple crown.

OLDEST CRICKETER IS IN OTTAWA.

The Ottawa Free Press says:

Sixty-four years in the game and still playing.

That's the record of Rev. T. D. Phillips, the oldest cricketer in the world, who twenty-eight years ago left Ottawa to take charge of a parish in Chicago.

Though a "mere matter of 77," as he styles it, Mr. Phillips is still active, and last year played in an inter-city match between Chicago and Milwaukee. He introduced cricket in the State of Arkansas, a district in which the great English game was unknown.

From 1853 till 1859, Mr. Phillips played on the Canadian International Eleven against the United States. He was on the Toronto Eleven at 14 years of age.

When shown the record of international matches, he said—

"Ah, they make more runs now than in the fifties, and I'll tell you the reason why. The grounds are much faster at present, and in my palmy days there was no boundary. We had to run out everything. Nowadays the batsman hits to the boundary and never moves."

Mr. Phillips attributes his activity to cricket, and looks good for several more years.

The Quebec Races.

The Quebec meeting is to be run off after all on its original dates—the 2nd and 4th of September. The club giving this meeting is the oldest racing body in America, dating back to the 17th century.

There are a number of horses now at the track and others are arriving daily from points in the Dominion and the United States, and unquestionably the meet will be a successful one. Montreal will be liberally represented in the attendance.

MANY HORSES OUT AT THE TRACK AT BLUE BONNETS

Review of the Runners That Will Take Part in Next Meeting.

The nice cool weather brought most of the trainers' horses out on the track this morning. Mr. Hugh J. Hack had Royal Tourist, Westbury, Jacobite and Plantlands out for a turn around the track. Royal Tourist was let down for the last six furlongs in 1.18. Has all his speed, and now ready to race.

Booger Red went five furlongs in 1.03 fighting for his head. This little horse is nicknamed the pony express on account of his size, but he carried 112 lbs. to Rose Queen's 108 and beat her at the Coast.

Michael Angelo, Nicotine, Desperado and Loyal Maid galloped with stable boys up. Jockey Stone was up on the jumper, Long Service, and showed a fine turn of speed.

Geo. Ham had part of his string, composed of Handbridge, Colloquy, Donan, Fulford and Minot out breezing. Jockey F. Herbert was up on Colloquy and F. Slater was on the jumper, Harrington.

W. H. Niven breezed Aphrodite six furlongs in 1.18 this morning.

Trainer J. H. Lamb sent his good 2-year-old, Bedminster, three furlongs in :37, a first class work-out.

Green Seal, St. Elwood, Alfred The Great, Woolwinder and the two-year-old Star Over, were sent along at a good clip, and all look ready to race. L. Marion, trainer.

W. Jennings had Cave Adsum and the two-year-olds Kyrot, out for a turn around the course.

Howard Shean was sent a mile and an eighth in 1.58, and is at his best. O. J. Decker, trainer.

Jockey E. Truman, who got such a bad fall in the St. Cecilia Stakes last year, is in good shape again and will ride for John Shields here. He was up on that fast sprinter Halifax for a slow gallop.

High Dance went one mile and an eighth in 1.57 easily. John Mulky, trainer.

The arrivals today were L. J. Wells from Brandon, Manitoba, with Cosmopolitan. He reports that W. L. McCracken is on his way here with Lexington Lady and Prince Rupert and will be in Sunday morning from the same city.

Jockey J. Brooks arrived to ride for R. D. Powell. He showed excellent form last winter at California.

Jockey B. Nelson arrived this morning to ride for Jack Brennan, the trainer of Booger Red.

J. J. Brannon arrived with Azo, Vanen and Acolin.

Fred. Fox, trainer for T. F. Borman, arrived with Detroit Chicosa and Kitchen Tanaka.

Mr. G. M. Miller arrived with his good horse, G. M. Miller.

Geo. Little also got in with his fast horse, Sight.

J. Beason brought with him the horses Slow Foot, C. A. Lyman, Landlord, Tommy Woods and Bonnie B.

H. G. Bedwell, the owner of Prince Ahmed, Hans, Bellview, Richard Reed, The Wrestler and others has arrived at Fort Erie from Saratoga with his string of thoroughbreds. Mr. Bedwell's friends tried to induce him to take his great horse Prince Ahmed to race at New York, but that gentleman prefered to come to the Canadian circuit. He will be here for the opening day, and with the class of horses he has racing he will be sure to be a big winner at the end of the meet. Mr. Bedwell is a young man of 35 and spent most of his life in Colorado. Mr. Bedwell is a member of the Gentleman's Driving Club of Denver and a famous reinsman. He has lived out of doors all his life and his knowledge of horses and how to train and manage them is instinctive. He does all of his own training assisted by William Spence, the Eastern horseman. The Oregonian has had a deal of experience at racing in the far west and it was beyond the Rockies that he picked up Jockey Taplin, who has been riding with such success at Saratoga. Taplin is a lad of eighteen years with a good education and considerable skill. Taplin is alert and intelligent with a good seat and light hands and will be a great help to make the meet a success at Blue Bonnets.

PILGRIMS IN STRENGTH.

Will Play Ottawa With Exceptionally Strong Team.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, Ont., August 28.—It is believed that the Pilgrim Cricket team of Philadelphia, which plays the Ottawa team here on Monday and Tuesday next is coming in exceptional strength prepared to do something to atone for the defeat of the Americans in the recent international match played in Montreal.

The local cricketers have been preparing for some time for the game. This will be the third time the Philadelphians have visited the Capital, and they have been victorious upon both previous occasions. The Pilgrim Club resembles the M. C. C. of London, England, as it is composed of men who have proven themselves more than ordinarily proficient at the game.

The team that will play here Saturday is reported to be the strongest the Americans have yet sent over the border. Capt. H. J. Heygate, of the Ottawas, will pick a strong eleven to face them and may be depended upon for a fine total himself. The Ottawa team will be picked to-night. The make-up of the eleven is uncertain, although Heygate H. Ackland and W. Johnston, Ottawa's International representatives, are sure to play.

A Constant Succession of New Arrivals

NEW SUITS

Hundreds of them, bringing the fashion—the approved fashion—fresh from the mint.

Much plainer, much more severe, the suits are plain tailor-made for this fall. The lengthening effect is a feature—the deep yoke effect—the coat below the knees—the long, tapering revere—all are significant of the altered mode.

The most successful color will probably be dark plum. The most successful weave will probably be rough-finished serges. These and others will be demonstrated Monday. Price $15.00, $20.00, $22.50, $25.00, $30.00, $35.00, $40.00, $45.00, $50.00, and right up to $150.

FOUR DESPERADOES PASS THROUGH CITY TO PENITENTIARY

Men Who Assaulted Aged Turnkey at Sweetsburg get Sentences Aggregating 28 Years.

Four prisoners with sentences aggregating a total of twenty years to face passed through Montreal early this morning, handcuffed and shackled, on their way to St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary. They are the men who were confined in the little county jail at Sweetsburg, and who, last week, made a murderous assault upon the aged turnkey, Mr. M. Scott, and who then attempted to break for freedom. They were sentenced by District Magistrate Mulvena, after having been overpowered and safely put away by a posse of citizens who heard the old man's cries for help.

From the evidence given at the preliminary enquiry, which was held in the jailer's apartments shortly before the trial, it would appear that only four of the prisoners confined in the jail had anything to do with the assault and attempted escape. Their names are Horace Campbell, Frank Provencher, Gustave French and Thos. Staggs.

Thomas Staggs admitted his guilt from the very moment of his attempted escape. The other prisoners pleaded not guilty at the preliminary enquiry, but in the presence of the overwhelming testimony which was adduced against them, changed their pleas to one of guilty at their trial, which was held a few moments later, and were each sentenced to five years in the penitentiary at St. Vincent de Paul.

Horace Campbell also pleaded guilty to a charge of having stolen clothing, money and a watch belonging to a man named Roy while the latter was in bathing in Missisquoi Bay in July last. He received an additional sentence of two years upon this charge.

Frank Provencher, alias Church, pleaded guilty to having broken into the Post Office at Dunkin, Que., and was sentenced upon this charge to an additional five years in the penitentiary.

Gustave French, who had already been convicted of house-breaking at Farnham, Que., owing to his past record, condemned to serve an additional term of two years.

Thomas Staggs, the ringleader, whose proper name is Julius Freese, and who comes from Milwaukee, Wis., received only the five years' sentence. It is rumored that this man Freese, who gave a false name at the time he was arrested for vagrancy, is wanted by the American authorities, and will undoubtedly be turned over to them upon the expiry of his five-year sentence.

Three charges were laid against the prisoners who took part in the assault, viz., attempting to break jail; assault causing grievous bodily harm, and assault upon an officer in the performance of his duties. The judge warned them that the five-year sentence was imposed upon the first charge only, and that they might at any future time be sentenced for a further term of five years upon the other charges, if they were ever again brought before a court of justice.

The victim of the assault is progressing as favorably as can be expected, and although unable to be present in court this afternoon, was able to leave his room long enough to give his testimony at the preliminary enquiry, which was held in the jailer's private apartments.

INDIAN MUTINY HERO IS DEAD

One of the Few Who Reached the Old Cashmere Gates.

Halifax, August 28.—James Dalziel, who was buried here yesterday, was a hero of the Indian Mutiny. He was attached to the third column that advanced towards the Cashmere Gates, and was with the party who were to blow in the gates. Covered by the fire of the 60th Rifles, this party advanced at double towards the Cashmere Gates, Lieutenant Home, with Sergeants John Smith and Carmichael, and Haveldar Madhoo, all of them Sappers, leading and carrying the powder bags, followed by Lieutenant Salkeld, Corporal Burgess, and a section of the engineers, among whom was Private Dalziel. The advance party reached the gateway unhurt, and found that part of the drawbridge had been destroyed, but passing across the precious footing supplied by the remaining beams, they proceeded to lodge their powder against the gate.

The wicket was open and through it the enemy kept up a heavy fire upon them. Sergeant Carmichael was killed while laying his powder. Haveldar Madhoo being at the same time wounded. The powder being laid, the advance party slipped down into the ditch to allow the firing party to do their duty.

The powder was fired by Corporal Burgess, who fell mortally wounded just as he had successfully performed his duty. The demolition having been successful, the 52nd regiment advanced in column and carried the gateway.

Mr. Dalziel, for service at the Cashmer Gates, received a special pension, and was awarded a medal and three clasps for Delhi and Lucknow.

POINT PETRE, Ont.—Isobel Chambers, widow of the late Thos. Wall, is dead, in her 76th year.

BIG CONTRACTORS HERE ON BUSINESS

D. D. Mann Says C. N. R. Plans No More Extensions at Present.—F. H. McGuigan is Reticent.

Two of the men who are doing some of the biggest things in the building line in Canada were in Montreal last evening. They were D. D. Mann, of the Canadian Northern system, who looks the part of railway builder to the life, and F. H. McGuigan, who is even bigger and burlier and equally capable of commanding men.

Mr. Mann, who came to the city to meet his wife and son off the Virginian, spoke enthusiastically of the new C. N. R. line from Quebec, which is built for many miles along below the cliffs and on the river. "It was expensive construction," he said, "but it is a beautiful grade.

The Star enquired of the railway magnate whether the Canadian Northern had any new construction in contemplation. "No," replied Mr. Mann, "we are just going along quietly operating the lines we have."

"When do you think of connecting your eastern and western lines?"

"Oh, we will have to think of that some of these days," was his cautious reply.

Mr. McGuigan is the man who is building the much-fought-over transmission line for the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission. He reports that it is progressing very satisfactorily.

"There has been much opposition to the work?" was suggested.

"That is a matter of politics," replied Mr. McGuigan, "and I am the contractor, so I do not care to discuss politics."

Both Mr. Mann and Mr. McGuigan were registered at the Windsor Hotel.

On Monday we place on sale 200 new American Colored Tailored Waists, made in heavy chambray, decidedly smart and the correct style for early Fall wear, at a figure that practically only represents the cost of material only. Of course, there is a reason behind this; during the process of pressing these waists some were very slightly blemished; so slightly, in fact, as to be hardly discernible, but we would not classify as perfect. The colors are plain navy, champagne, china blue, plain grey and helio, all have linen collars, one inch tucks back and front and soft cuffs. In the regular way these waists would realize $1.25. To-morrow we offer all at 59c

FARMAN'S VICTORY WAS BIG SURPRISE

Anglo-French Aviator's Great Feat at Rheims Was Totally Unexpected.

Betheny Aviation Field, Rheims, August 28.—Henry Farman, the Anglo-French aviator, a dark horse in the aviation contests, in a biplane of his own design, yesterday broke the world's record for duration of flight and distance in a heavier-than-air machine, and won the Grand Prix de la Champagne, the endurance test, by a remarkable flight officially recorded as 180 kilometres (111.78 miles), in 3 hours 4 minutes 26 2-5 seconds, although he actually covered an extra ten kilometres and remained in the air ten minutes after 7.30 o'clock, the hour that the timekeepers under the rules ceased to keep a record of the flight. The other contestants finished in the order named: Hubert Latham, in monoplane No. 29, 154 kilometres 500 metres, time 2 hours 18 minutes 9 3-5 seconds; Louis Paulhan, in a Voisin biplane, 131 kilometres; Count de Lambert, biplane, 116 kilometres; Hubert Latham, in monoplane 13, 111 kilometres; T. Tissandier, biplane; Roger Sommer, biplane; M. Delagrange, monoplane; M. Blériot, monoplane; Glenn H. Curtiss, biplane, 30 kilometres; M. Lefebvre, biplane.

Farman's victory came as a complete surprise. He had been preparing the machine secretly and had not appeared on the field until yesterday except for a practice flight, and had been almost forgoten. Indeed he attracted no attention until he had flown 80 kilometres. Then suddenly the watchers discovered he had gone out carrying petrol enough for a five-hour flight.

The other aviators ended their efforts early. Only Farman continued. Round after round he went as regularly as clockwork, always hugging the ground. Record after record fell before his methodical flight. Darkness fell, and lanterns were hung on the towers marking the limits of the course. The searchlight from the grand stand could not pierce the gloom. A dozen automobiles raced to strategic points to make sure Farman still was in the air. Finally at 7.30 o'clock the announcement was made that the timing of the aeroplanist had ceased under the rules. Ten minutes more and suddenly in the darkness a ghostly thing appeared in front of the tribune and came to earth on the starting line.

A great cheer arose. Millerand, in the name of the French Government, congratulated Mr. Farman.

HAY EXPORTERS SUE THE UNITED STATES

Special to The Montreal Star.

New York, N.Y., August 28.—Customs attorneys here are much interested in a suit that a number of Canadian hay exporters will bring against the United States Government for a refund of $1,200,000 in duties alleged to have been illegally collected. Eighty Canadian dealers have claims which run over twelve years prior to 1882 and it is charged that the United States customs officials doubled the duty on the hay, classifying it as a manufactured article.

According to the statements of the lawyers who have the matter in hand, during all this period, Canadian hay exported to the United States was charged duty at the rate of 20 per cent. ad valorem, as a manufactured article, the customs officials arguing that since hay had been sun-dried and then baled for shipment it was manufactured as raw material hay, would only be charged duty at the rate of 10 per cent.

Crown Attorney Slaght has been granted a week's remand on the ground that the Crown requires further time to obtain evidence. The request was granted. It is understood that while the Crown has no intention of proceeding with the murder charge Shelley will be proceeded against upon charge of criminal negligence.

In November the Thomson line will inaugurate their Naples-Montreal passenger and freight service with the new steamship Tortona, the first sketch of which was published in yesterday's Star. She is now having her superstructure added to the hull at the shipbuilding yards of Swan, Hunter & Wigham, Richardson, Newcastle-on-Tyne, where she was launched last week. The Tortona will be one of a fleet of new steamers that will make Montreal their western terminus for the transatlantic trade next year, including a 9,000 ton steamer for the Donaldson line's Glasgow service, and probably two Cunard vessels. R. Reford & Co., Ltd., are Montreal agents for both lines. This will mean that practically every shipping concern of any note is interested in the St. Lawrence, as the Continental interests are bound up in the Canada line.

The Tortona, with another vessel of her type, which is now being built at the same yards, will maintain a winter service to sunny Italy, which will be much appreciated here. It may mean that the Reford Company will make some changes in their Mediterranean fleet, as the company is finding the trade to the East rather a heavy load for their old vessels, Jacona, Fremona and Bellona.

Seven Departures To-day.

By the sailing of seven ocean steamships from port this morning, Montreal was left but four vessels at the piers, only three of which were of heavy tonnage. The steamers to leave were the Laurentic, Pomeranian, Ionian, Turcoman, Cairnrona, Manchester Importer and Montreal.

This week-end the Grampian, Dominion and Lake Erie will arrive.

The Allan line steamship Virginian, with Lord Charles Beresford on board, drew into port late last night. She landed her passengers this morning. The Virginian had an especially heavy consignment of cargo for Quebec, and did not leave that port until shortly after noon yesterday.

TO BLESS CORNER STONE OF NEW CATHOLIC CHURCH

To-morrow afternoon His Grace Mgr. Bruchesi will preside at the benediction of the corner-stone of the new Ste. Clothide parish church at the corner of Notre Dame street and Cote St. Paul road. The church is to be built entirely of Montreal lime stone and fireproofed throughout with terra-cotta. The dimensions are 212 by 82. The height of the main vault will be 70 feet, while the height of the building will be 110 feet. The feature of the new construction will be that there will not be any columns in the interior of the church. An elegant campanille of 220 feet high will complete the monument, which will be one of the best of Renaissance style in the city. The basement of the church will be completed this fall at a cost of $38,000, while the upper part will be constructed only in a couple of years. Mr. Eugene Payette has been the architect of the new church.

ALD. COUTURE ADMITS RECEIVING REAL MONEY FOR HIS TROUBLE WHILE ACTING AS BOARD OF CONCILIATION IN DEAL

Proposed St. Helen's Island Railway Brings Out Some Interesting Facts Before the Royal Commission —Alderman Lesperance Calls Justus Burritt Either a Perjurer or a Fool

An alderman has admitted before the Royal Commission that he received money, handed from hand to hand in the ordinary way, and not done up in an envelope filled with mystery as well as money. Ald. Couture admits having been paid $30 or $40 for his trouble in conciliating contending parties regarding a little railway on St. Helen's Island. The extraordinary thing about this admission is that it is contradicted by one of Ald. Couture's own colleagues, Ald. Major. Ald. Major swears that Ald. Couture got the whole of $100, and he is corroborated by two other witnesses, and the very men who handed the $100 to Ald. Major to give to Ald. Couture. The names of these witnesses were Henri Dubois and Dino Falcon, and their testimony was given in an absolutely straightforward manner. The charge against Ald. Emery Lesperance elicited from Justus Burritt a few days ago was again brought up, when Ald. Lesperance was put in the box. He declared that he had not received $500 from Burritt and the only conclusion he could come to was that Burritt was either a perjurer or a fool. Another accusation of a man named Jacob against the witness was then brought up, and Ald. Lesperance treated it with the same sang froid and disdain as he had done with the Burritt charge.

Six more aldermen out of the twenty-three who voted for the Giroux reports were called and asked the same questions as their predecessors of the morning. None of them would admit that their vote was in any way influenced by Mr. Brunet. They were satisfied with the reports and voted for them. The aldermen called were David, Couture, Dagenais, Lesperance, Prud'homme and J. B. A. Martin.

Dr. Charles Lafleur was the first witness put in the box yesterday afternoon in regard to his own accusation against Ald. Nault. He produced a cheque for $300, and swore that he had paid Ald. Nault in that way, and that he had taken back the cheque when it was seen that he had not got the position.

The matter of the Parks and Ferries which was set for this afternoon was then commenced. Mr. Jules Crepeau, of the City Hall, was called and produced three documents referring to a little railway which was to be erected on St. Helen's Island.

Ald. Major was then called by Mr. McAvoy. The alderman admitted that he formed part of a sub-committee which was to study the matter of the above railway. The witness said that he did not remember ever having had any conversation with Mr. Dubois, who was interested in this little railway. He swore that it was Mr. Lamarre who asked the sub-committee to grant the permit for the railway.

"Is it not so that Mr. Lamarre asked for 33 per cent. of the gross receipts?"

"I never had any knowledge of that."

"Was there never a question of your receiving money for the use of your influence over Mr. Lamarre to get him to grant the permit?"

"No. There was no such question at the time."

"Is it not true that you received from Mr. Dubois $1002"

Mr. Labrecque.

Alderman Major.

that he had seen both Ald. Couture and Ald. Major on the island. Mr. Henri Dubois was then called and swore that he had desired to make a small railway on St. Helen's Island.

"Who did you speak to in the matter?"

"I spoke first to Ald. Major, then to Mr. Crepeau, and later to Ald. Couture."

"Did Ald. Couture say you had to pay for the thing?"

"Yes, he asked for $200."

"Later did he say he would bring down the price to $100 if he did not succeed in bring down the 33 per cent. to be paid to Lamarre to 20 per cent.?"

"I don't remember that."

"What did he say when you gave him the $100 cheque?"

"He said, 'Do you want to have me hung?' Before this I said I couldn't give him the money, and he gave me to understand that there wouldn't be any business done without it. Next day I offered him the cheque, but he wouldn't take it, and told me he was going out of town, and that I should see Major. I saw Ald. Major and finally gave him the money. He did not speak to me about what he was going to do with the money. Couture said to me once, 'I don't work for nothing.' The elections cost a lot.'"

Mr. Dino Falcon, the partner of the former witness, was then called. "Did you see your partner, Dubois, give the $100 to Ald. Major?" "Well, the door was part way open and I saw him hand some money over." This witness told the same story as his partner regarding Ald. Couture.

The examination of the aldermen was then recommenced by the calling into the box of Ald. David, who had been an alderman since 1906, and a member of the Roads Committee since February, 1909. He swore that he had never had any relations with any contractors regarding his support to their tenders. He had not assisted at the caucuses regarding the formation of the Roads Committee last February, and thus had not seen Mr. Brunet there.

"Did you know that Brunet had himself represented by Chartrand and Belque as his prete-nom, before the Roads Committee?"

"No, I did not know that."

The witness knew nothing of the amounts paid by Mr. Brunet to have the work done, for which he charged the city so much greater prices.

Middlemen Should Go.

"Do you think that the middlemen ought to be done away with?"

"Yes, generally, but in special cases it might not be best."

"If you had known when you voted for the Giroux contracts that Brunet was making gross receipts of 60 cents a yard, what would you have done?"

"This is hard to answer. They might be agents."

Alderman Couture, who had created excitement earlier in the session, was then called again and admitted that he knew things now he had not known at the time he voted for the Giroux contracts. He was asked the same questions regarding Brunet's profits as the other aldermen, and swore that he knew nothing about them.

"If you had known at the time, what would you have done?" "I would have thought about it."

"Did you ever receive any money in any way in consideration of your vote for the Giroux reports?"

"No. I did not. I have never received any money."

"What about the money on St. Helen's Island?"

"That's different. That was a business matter."

Alderman Dagenais was then called and said that he knew what he was voting for, because he knew that the reports would give his district about $110,000 worth of paving and sidewalks. He did not know anything about the other districts of the city. The fact that so much paving was to be done for him was his only motive in voting for the reports. The witness did not know at the time he voted that there were any sub-contractors. He thought that Brunet was doing the work himself. He wanted to suppress the middlemen if possible, and thus get the work done cheaper.

"What would you do if Brunet came in the same way before the Council?"

"I don't know. If Brunet was the only tenderer I think we would still have to give him the contract."

Alderman Emery Lesperance was then called. He said he was chairman of the City Hall Committee and knew Mr. Burritt quite well.

"When he said that he gave you $500, is that true?"

"Well, I suppose he is lying and perjuring himself."

"Why should he go in such a round about way to perjure himself as he did?"

"I don't know why he should do that."

A Perjurer or a Fool.

"Then he is a perjurer of a fool?"

"Yes one or the other."

"What about this other man Jacob, who says he gave you $500 or $600?"

"Well, I think he would be a perjurer if he swore that."

William Emond.

"Why did you vote for the Giroux reports?"

"Well, I was to have a large amount of paving done in my district. I have no other reason."

The witness swore he knew nothing about the profits that Mr. Brunet was making by sub-letting his contracts.

"If you had known, what would you have done?"

"I would have inquired into the matter."

Ald. Prudhomme was the next alderman called. He had been in the Council since May, 1907.

"Did anyone ever try to influence your vote?"

"It would have been useless. What made me vote was that in former years I had been duped by the members of the Roads Committee, and I thought that the new Roads Committee would be better, for I had confidence in Alderman Giroux."

Alderman J. B. A. Martin was the next witness. He admitted that Mr. Brunet had subscribed to his electors but he did not remember how much. He knew that he had enough for he had refused other subscriptions.

"Whose subscription did you refuse?"

"Well, Ald. Lariviere came to me with $50 from Drysdale, of the Sicily Asphalt Company. I refused as $50 was no good to me, and I refused $100 later from the same person and later still $250."

The witness admitted that the system of asking for tenders without specifying the place where the work was to be done was a bad system.

"Was that system not introduced so that the aldermen could exercise more patronage?"

"No, no, no."

The witness swore that when he voted for the Giroux contracts he did not know the profits which Mr. Brunet was making.

"If you had known, what would you have done?"

At first the witness said that the amount was a perfectly legitimate commission, and he would have done the same thing as he did. If the work could be got cheaper he would be willing to get it cheaper.

Alderman Lariviere was then called and questioned regarding the $250 he was supposed to have offered to Ald. J. B. A. Martin. He swore that he had only offered about $100, at least, he did not think it was more.

The Commission adjourned at 4.30 with the understanding that the remainder of the twenty-three who had voted for the Giroux reports would be called on Tuesday morning.

Alderman Guay.

"Yes, he gave it to me to give to Mr. Couture."

"Why did he give it for Mr. Couture?"

"It was to pay for his trouble in bringing into accord the two parties regarding that railway."

"Did you give the money to Mr. Couture?"

"Yes."

"Did you tell him why you gave it?"

"No."

"Do you remember that that money was given in the form of a cheque, and that it was refused because it was compromising?"

"No, I don't remember that."

Ald. Couture.

Ald. Joseph Couture was then called and admitted that he belonged to the sub-committee after a certain amount of hesitancy. The witness then asked that Mr. McAvoy question him quietly. After a few questions he said he would tell the story quite simply without any evasion and without questioning. He then said: "A couple of men came to me in my office and spoke to me about this little railway on St. Helen's Island. I told them it would be a hard business, and I got $30 or $40 for my trouble." He would not admit that he had ever been offered a cheque of $100, and that he had refused it because it would be compromising.

Mr. Lamarre was then called. He had the privileges on St. Helen's island, and was the one that the aldermen had to conciliate, and he said

THREE DELEGATIONS WAIT ON HON. MR. DECARIE.

Hon. J. L. Decarie was at the Government Offices yesterday and received three delegations, one from the Ice dealers of Montreal, one from the Agricultural Society of Two Mountains, and a third to invite the Government to be represented at the inauguration of a new bridge at Chambly County.

The ice dealers of Montreal represented to the Government that the exclusive right granted to Mr. J. T. Ewart to cut the ice on a certain portion of the St. Lawrence River constituted a privilege which was disastrous for the other ice merchants. Before this year all the ice dealers used to have an understanding according to which every one of them was entitled to take his provision of ice on a certain portion of the river. The Association of the Ice Dealers now ask the Government to reconsider its decision on that question and to let things go as they used to for the last twenty years. Mr. Decarie announced that Hon. Mr. Allard, Minister of Lands and Forests, was studying the question and a settlement would be arrived at before long.

The delegation of the Agricultural Society of Two Mountains, was composed of Mr. J. A. O. Ethier, M.P., Hon. Hector Champagne, M.L.C., Messrs. J. A. Beauchamp, ex-M.L.A., J. Morin and J. Bigras. The delegation asked the Government for a special bonus for the county exposition September 22 and 23. It will be for the four counties of Two Mountains, Argenteuil, Terrebonne and Laval and at the same time a provincial poultry exhibition. The demand was taken under consideration

Mr. J. A. Robert, the local member for Rouville, and Dr. Desaulniers, the future government candidate in Chambly, paid a visit to Hon. Mr. Decarie to invite him and the other ministers to be present at the official inauguration of the new steel bridge erected between Chambly and Rouville on the sit of the old Yule bridge. As it is the first government bridge erected in the district of Montreal since Sir Lomer Gouin has been Prime Minister, it is expected that there will be a very large meeting. The new bridge will be ready by the 15th of next month and the date of the inauguration will be decided upon as soon as a reply of the ministers has been received by the members of the committee.
