PRICE—THREE CENTS

Youngsters' Field Day Coming Next Week, Turn Out And Watch The Fun!

Final plans have been completed for the Field Day for school children of Westmount.

Preliminary trials are taking place now at the schools in the district, and Mr. Anderson, of the Parks Department, states that enthusiasm and interest in the big event is being shown by pupils and school officials.

Next Thursday at Westmount Park, the finalists in the Girls' Section will be ready to start their events at 10 a.m., and their last event is scheduled to have been completed by noon. The Boys' Section will take over in the afternoon, from 2 to 4 o'clock.

Many prizes, 356 of them, will be given to lucky winners. A beautiful cup, donated by a local jeweller, will be given to the school team of girls having the highest aggregate of points, to be held for one year. A grand trophy is to be won by the school team of boys having the most points, and is likewise for yearly competition.

This Field Day is sponsored by local merchants who are members of the Business Association of Westmount. They have given much of their time, effort and money to make this event a gala occasion for the children of Westmount. Do your part by turning out to help make this occasion a success, a day to remember.

Westmount Young Liberals Ass'n Meet Next Week

The Westmount Young Liberals' Association will hold their first meeting of the 1947-48 season on Monday, October 6 at 7.45 in the evening at the Montreal Reform Club, 82 Sherbrooke Street West. Guest speaker for the occasion will be the young Member of Parliament for the constituency of James, Roland Beaudry. Mr. Beaudry, who before his election in 1945 was very active in Young Liberal circles, was formerly editor of the well-known French publication, La Revue Moderne. He was also widely known in Montreal as a radio announcer and sports commentator.

His address will be particularly significant, as he is one of a number of the promising young M.P.'s who received their political training in Young Liberal organizations.

At this meeting, the program of activities will be discussed and decided upon by the members of the organization, and the necessary committees set up to carry out the club's program.

Vice-President John Pepper, in announcing the opening meeting, pointed out that any young Liberals between the ages of eighteen and thirty who hadn't yet attended any of the association's meetings, would be more than welcome.

FORGET ME NOT TAG DAY

Tomorrow morning you will see young voluntary workers out collecting funds for the annual Forget Me Not tag day. This campaign for funds is sponsored by the Province of Quebec Society for Crippled Children. All money collected tomorrow will aid the society in its worthy efforts to help as many crippled children as possible to overcome their disabilities and lead normal lives.

Two Youths Caught In Big Housebreaking

Two big robberies were nipped in the bud on Monday of this week, when Constable Chesmer, of the Westmount Police Force, noticed two youths walking on Sunnyside avenue near Roslyn avenue, and that one of them was carrying an expensive radio.

He questioned them, and took both of them to the police station, where an investigation was conducted by Sgt. Detective Belec.

It was found that the homes of Joseph Simard, 775 Lexington avenue, and C. M. Sommer, 757 Lexington avenue had been entered.

Through the arrest, articles valued at $6,638, stolen from the two homes, were recovered.

The two youths were taken to court before Deputy Recorder A. E. Laverty, and sentenced to two years each at the Boys' Farm.

Boys' Brigade Fall Activities Begin Well

The 1st Company have now commenced their Fall activities and look forward to one of the most successful seasons. Lieut. Alex G. Anderson has been giving a series of courses for N.C.O.s and those who desire advancement in the ranks. This has proven to be one of the highlights of the fall programme, for it has enabled the Company to get off to a flying start.

The Company deeply regret the loss of their Chaplain, Rev. Andrew J. Mowatt, who has accepted a call to Wesley United Church, Calgary, and extend their best wishes to him in his new charge.

They shall long remember the many hours of fellowship with him during the past year, as well as the numerous ways he assisted in the work.

Recruits will be interviewed by Captain Richardson each Tuesday evening until the campaign closes, by mid-October. All new recruits will have an opportunity of playing in the band once they have completed their entrance requirements.

Special instruction in handicraft will be featured this year and as plastics proved most popular at camp, this will be carried on each week throughout the winter months, along with leathercraft.

National Immunization Week Aims At Bettering Childhood Health

Canada's fifth annual "National Immunization Week" is being sponsored next week by the Health League of Canada, in co-operation with health departments and other authorities across the country. This campaign is part of the public health programme, and it is designed to impress on everyone the importance of taking protective measures against two diseases which threaten the children of Canada. These two killers of children are diphtheria and whooping cough.

These diseases have taken a terrible toll of life in the past. They can do so again, unless we establish and maintain our defences against them.

Immunization Is The Answer

The most important defence against the ravages of these two killers—and other diseases, e.g. smallpox—is immunization. The means to wipe them out exists. All that is needed is the co-operation of the public. Parents and guardians throughout the nation should realize that diphtheria and whooping cough are preventable—and that their public health officers and their family physicians have the means to protect them and their children from the menace of these twin scourges.

Disease prevention measures in the past have accomplished so much that the present generation, generally speaking, is not sufficiently aware of the unceasing need for disease prevention if we are to keep killing epidemics from raising their ugly heads among our population.

For example, there were over 7,000 deaths in Montreal from smallpox in 1885—and that with a much smaller population than our metropolis has today. Since that time, vaccination against smallpox has been made obligatory by law, with the result that this disease has disappeared from the province.

Since smallpox has disappeared, why bother with vaccination? The answer is that we must maintain our protection against the disease by vaccination to prevent a recurrence of this scourge. Seattle, Washington found out the hard way. Two years ago, smallpox was introduced, and spread throughout the city like wildfire, attacking hundreds, and killing

Investiture To Be Held At R.M.R. On Sunday

An investiture will be held by His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada, Viscount Alexander, on Sunday afternoon in the armory of the Royal Montreal Regiment, (M.G.), 4625 St. Catherine Street, Westmount.

This will be the third occasion since last year that the Governor-General has held investitures in Montreal in line with the policy of arranging for veterans of the services to be decorated for gallantry overseas, to make a limited journey from their homes. A total of 130 former members of the Navy, Army and Air Force are to be honored on this occasion, the larger proportion of whom are residents of Montreal and district.

The event will be held on the eve of His Excellency's visit to McGill University, where he is to take part in the graduation ceremony and also attend the Founder's Day dinner. Among the distinguished guests on this occasion will be Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Secretary of State.

Claude Root Named B.B.B. Vice-President

Claude Root, general manager of the Montreal bureau, Association of the Canadian Better Business Bureaux, Inc., was elected vice-president of the Association at its first meeting held in Montreal on Saturday. George S. Piers, secretary-manager of the B.B.B. of Ottawa and Hull Inc. was elected as first president of the organization and Arthur R. Haskell, general manager of the Toronto bureau, as secretary-treasurer.

A federal charter, granted to the Association, was put into operation, and a 12 man board of governors was named to carry out its objectives.

Following the meeting, presided over by John F. Taylor of Ottawa, it was announced that one of the immediate major aims of the organization is to engage in a nation-wide educational campaign dealing with the role of private enterprise in the Canadian business system.

This campaign would be started by the distribution of a booklet giving facts about Canada's business system under private enterprise, so that the public might learn as much about the Canadian system as they are now being told about other systems of business. The booklet will be non-technical and non-political and will be widely distributed through various organizations.

City Manager Attends Convention

P. E. Jarman, General Manager and City Engineer of the City of Westmount, entrained on Wednesday for Coronado, California, where he will attend the annual convention of the International City Managers' Association, being held there, it was announced from the office of the City Manager this week. It is expected that Mr. Jarman will be away for about a month.

Jean Van Patter Wins Duggan Scholarship

Miss Jean M. Van Patter, of 612 Belmont avenue, has been awarded one of the two George Herick Duggan Memorial Scholarships, valued at $750 each, it was announced on Monday, by Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University, on behalf of the Board of Governors.

These scholarships are awarded annually by the Dominion Engineering Works Limited, to employees, or their sons and daughters, of this company, its wholly owned subsidiary companies, and the Dominion Hoist and Shovel Company, Ltd.

The purpose of the scholarships is to provide an incentive to eligible candidates to qualify themselves for a university education in engineering or scientific work or allied subjects, and to afford them financial assistance while pursuing university studies.

The scholarships are awarded primarily on the intellectual attainment and academic record of the applicants, although the characters of the candidates and other circumstances are also taken into consideration. They may be granted for any period, from one to five years inclusive.

Scouts & Cubs

BY REG GROOME

The October Badge Schedule should be in the hands of all Scoutmasters by next Monday night, and we hope all Scouts will make a sincere effort to make use of the instruction courses offered. Meetings of the Scouters' Club of Montreal will start this month, and will be announced next week. The Wolf Cub Pow-Wow, for Cubmasters and their Assistants, and the Anchorage, for all Sea Scouters, will also start their fall meetings this month. Watch this column next week for further information about these clubs.

The Eleventh International Scout Conference held last month in France recommended that the occasion of the Sunday following the anniversary of the birthday of the Report from John Bertram, Room 18 — A practice track and field day was held in King George Park. It was under the leadership of Miss MacMillan. First of all there was a running race. After that we had a wheelbarrow race. It was a very funny one. The three-legged race was the very last one. Some of the boys could go very fast and others were left far behind. The second three-legged race that they had was very hard to start. The boys who were to run in the race had belts that they could use and others hadn't. So the boys who had been running in the first race had to give their belts to those who hadn't any to use. But the boys didn't want to do that. So there was quite a bustle to start it. Then there was a broad jumping contest which was much fun. The winner was John Pratt.

Lately our teacher has been asking us to write some French signs. So far they all seem to be very good ones. Some are copied from the streets and some are from the streetcars.

Report from Room 15 — Miss Jamieson, the singing teacher, has been kind enough to devote some of her time so that the school may have a choir.

On the evening of October 27th, a home and school meeting will be held in the gymnasium. Mr. Penrose will be the speaker.

Grade four, Room 15, took an intelligence test last Friday morning which they found very interesting.

In their gym classes their chart shows that in the four teams the scores are very close and competition is keen — Room 15.

Report from Room 19 — On Tuesday, Mr. Pitcairn's class moved from Room 19 to the new Room 24. The following account of the move has been received from one of our correspondents, Dennis Dwyer:

"I woke up this morning and got dressed and did all the rest of the ordinary routine. But when I came to school something happened differently from the routine. We changed classrooms and everybody was so excited. We hurried and rushed and hurried and rushed and soon it was recess and so far we had done only a few things such as moving all our books and taking a few others such as French, Spelling, Arithmetic, Health text books and then our mascot, a little brown puppy stuffed with straw and with one ear off. Then our copies of Black Beauty, Tom Brown's School Days and Christmas Carol. Then came our posters and a big sheet of beaver board which we put our posters on. Then the book shelf with all the books it contained, the Books of Knowledge, History and ordinary reading books. Then there were maps of all descriptions. Maps of the United States, Canada and South America. All this soon amounted to quite a lot. But still more things kept coming down. Mr. Pitcairn's odds and ends in his desk, little paper weights and all the curious things such as little bottles of sugar, coffee, cocoa and other various things. But still they kept coming down. After recess was over, the time went by quickly and soon the move was over."

The St. Neot's "Quads" (England) are to open a "Scout Jamboree" at Biggleswade, Bedfordshire, next Saturday. The three boys, Ernest, Paul and Michael recently became Boy Scouts and Ann is a Girl Guide. At three o'clock, the "Quads" will be greeted by the assembled Scouts at a Grand Opening Ceremony. The programme, which lasts up to eight o'clock, includes a display by the Wolf Cubs and a special combined display by the Scouts, "Safety First and First Aid."

The very young are not neglected for they can take part in the "Tiny Tots Grand Parade", a fancy dress competition for boys and girls under six years of age. For young and old, there are the sports and a visit to Funland with its sideshows and donkey rides. In the evening, there is a Grand Variety Concert followed by a Camp Fire. The Jamboree is being organized by the Biggleswade Boy Scouts' District Association in aid of their funds.

Two hundred New Zealand Scouts waved farewell to the shores of England last week as they left Southampton aboard the "Atlantis" bound for home. They had been nearly three months in Great Britain with two weeks in France at the World Jamboree where they represented the Dominion.

While in England they made their headquarters in camp at Gilwell Park, Chingford. Many of the boys visited relatives and friends in different parts of England and Scotland and some of them hitchhiked their way round the country on sight-seeing tours. During the whole of their stay the weather was glorious and they will take back to New Zealand a very kind report of our English weather. On their return they will have completed a round-the-world trip as they came via Panama and are returning via Suez. They are looking forward to meeting brother Scouts at Port Said, Aden, Colombo and Freemantle.

How About Diphtheria?

In 1927, when toxoid for diphtheria was first introduced, Canada became one of the leading countries in widespread use of this immunizing agent. The result is that the number of deaths caused by this killer of children is now but a fraction of what it was before toxoid was developed, and where immunization has been complete, elimination of the disease has been complete. The very scarcity of the disease, due to the benefits from immunization, make us prone to forget the dangers, and to put off having our children immunized against diphtheria. The inevitable result is that deaths from diphtheria have been increasing in the last few years.

Incidentally, for complete protection against diphtheria, the first course is not enough. One Collecting can be a very enjoyable pastime—expensive or not, depending on you. Outside of well-known collections, such as stamps, paintings, antiques, etc., are millions of other things.

For instance, people interested in plays, shows, concerts, sports, etc., collect programs as souvenirs — others, book reviews or amusing or tragic or educational incidents publicized in everyday papers.

Interested in biographies or history? Articles on great men or outstanding citizens are for you; and how about postcards? One man I know had a whole wall of his study occupied by postcards from all over the world.

Keep a scrapbook on modern politics, world events, quotations of today's famous writers and spokesmen. Keep a library of books such as: The Green Years, Going My Way, A Tree Grows In Brooklyn, The Yearling, etc., masterpieces of our time.

Twenty years from now, you'll like to compare ultra-modern styles with those of today. A scrapbook will do it. It will also record modern architecture — or discussions and predictions regarding the atom, robot, jet-propelled planes, television, etc., etc. — Progress in things that interest you is much clearer when put before you than if you trust your memory.

Nothing will help you keep up with the times quite as much as such a hobby. It will take all the time you can spare — give you countless topics of conversation — and who, at one time or another hasn't yearned to talk of something besides the weather or what's playing at the Avenue? Try collecting — you'll be surprised at how much enjoyment you get out of it.

Social Notes

It was on, it was off, now it's strictly on again. Jo Ann Sutcliffe and HE (three guesses) are together once more... Fun for all at Bob Mace's party — Audrey Connolly, after looking around quite a bit, came up with what will be, when finished, a bee-oo-ti-ful yellow formal for the Lachine Grad. Her escort will be Leonard Kent... Those clowns you've been seeing on the bus this week were freshmen from Marianopolis — they were being initiated — and did they look cute... Our apologies for that mean crack in last week's paper about Thelma Cassidy. Psychic or not (and maybe she is) we'll settle for her any day — when Mickey's not around, that is...

You figure it out — we insist that positively everybody that is anybody was at the game last Friday. However we've been argued that everybody was also at the "Y" and at the High for the first dance — You puzzle it out, it's too much for us — so we'll leave till next week.

reinforcing dose, at least, should be given three years after the original immunization in order to provide complete protection.

Whooping Cough Killer

Whooping cough is "one of the deadliest killers among the communicable diseases of childhood," declares Dr. J. R. Wilson, Research Associate, Connaught Medical Research Laboratories, Toronto, and Associate in Hygiene and Preventive Medicine, University of Toronto. Dr. Wilson states that for years whooping cough in Canada caused more deaths in children under two years of age than diphtheria, scarlet fever and measles combined, and that among children who contracted whooping cough, but who did not die, many suffered serious complications.

Despite the fact that children can be successfully immunized against whooping cough, it still

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

Faithful Couples

"What a shame it is that so many happy Birdland families should break up in autumn!" Alice sighed. "A few months ago parents and children all seemed so fond of one another. But most of the adult perchers soon neglected their own offspring, allowing them to start on the southern trek without guidance!"

"Mother ducks are more thoughtful," Edith said. "They take the ducklings with them. But their husbands don't assist. Imagine, Mr. Mallard didn't even give Mrs. Mallard any help in rearing the family—he just went to the club and enjoyed himself."

"That's like Mr. Hummingbird who left his poor wife to incubate the two eggs and never allowed up to feed his children. Most bird fathers share the responsibility; and the male Phalarope does all the work. He sits on the eggs for three weeks while the female goes off on a spree!" laughed Alice.

The lower animals vary in showing affection and in faithfulness just as much as human beings. Perhaps you have watched one of the jewel-like Warblers fly home with the favourite green worm—not for a nestling, but for the mother bird who sits tight to keep the babies warm rather than forage for herself. The male Blue Jay and some Woodpeckers feed their wives thus. One of the cutest sights is a pair of Cedar Waxwings perching side by side on a branch passing each other choke cherries.

Mr. Wren is a noted bigamist. Before the children of his early-summer wife are old enough to fend for themselves he starts a new home with a second spouse. The number of wives he manages to attract in his lifetime must be pretty large. On the other hand the Red-shouldered Hawk certainly keeps one wife for a year and probably forever. Some species, as Ospreys, are known to occupy the identical site year after year; and we can guess that the pair often return together.

In Birdland Screech Owls and Canada Geese are the best examples of constancy. This can be proved at a banding station, and the Jack Miner Bird Sanctuary offers this opportunity. Pairs arrive together each spring or fall, and there are many instances of the utter dejection shown by the remaining bird when its mate has been killed. Mr. Cleveland Grant, photographer and lecturer, tells of one couple that had been mated for at least 25 years.

Are many birds green?

Apathy Tragic

The fact that hundreds of children die annually from whooping cough and diphtheria, diseases which are preventable, is due in part to apathy and indifference. Health departments, private physicians and the Health League have been advocating immunization against these twin killers of children for years. Yet vital statistics each year show needless waste of lives of young Canadian children.

Immunization is the answer!

NOTES AND JOTTINGS

William Atwood Macdonald, the lawyer-to-be, all set for the opening of the 1947-48 year of the Westmount Young Liberals Association. The Young Libs are scheduled to resume operations Monday evening with dinner meeting at the Reform Club... Joan Brown, the Windsor avenue lass who graduated from Westmount High last year, now studying arts at Mount Allison, situated in good old Sackville, N.B. ... John Joseph Junior Pepper back at Loyola for the third year of his degree course. The Pepper lad has decided to give up his drumming and cherchez les femmes this winter... Arthur Aurel Voronka, the theatrical man, planning to attend Sir George... Joe Duffin has quit his science course at McGill to devote full time to the Canadian High School News... Sandy Edmison, the ginger-thatched McGillian, lending a helping hand to Westmount High's cheerleaders at last Friday's pigskinning... Enid French, the Upper Lansdowne lass, now a working girl and enjoying it... James Henderson, the chartered accountant to be, looking bright and chipper at Stade Molson the other Friday... Little Peter Hall, the tennis, burning the lamps of knowledge in WHS's grade 12...

Jerry Wright, president of the Westmount Boys' Hi-Y Club last year, now a McGill student — and proud of it... Tod Andrews slipped up in his high school Herald on Wednesday when he wrote that the youthful marshalls, who attempted to preserve law and order at Molson Stadium Friday evening, deserted their posts at the end of the first game. The marshalls were on hand when the real trouble started. Two of them can prove it with visible and painful injuries.

FASHION NOTE

Miss Margo Murray, the ravishing redhead of The Examiner's classified advertising department, comes forward this week from her cubicle with a heated defence of long skirts.

Quoth the Margo: "Long skirts are much more flattering to the female figure. By long I mean half-way between the knee and the tootsies for evening wear and just two or three inches below the knee for office wear."

Reginald Groome, our paunchy advertising tycoon with the low-lying chest and commanding voice, entered the discussion at this point.

"Ah, you're crazy," said he. "These long skirts are a throw-back to the Victorian age. They are delaying progress. They are unfair to men — young and old. They waste cloth. They waste time. They may cause accidents. They are, in fact, inexcusable." From which it may be deduced that our Mr. Groome, a lad with a sharp pair of eyes, is opposed to the longer skirt. Which would be a very correct assumption. But our Margo Murray is equally in favor of them.

So, with matters standing deadlocked, there was nothing else to do but phone the Russian delegation to the U.N. The gentleman who answered the phone, obviously a graduate of the Russkys' modern school of diplomacy, interrupted our question, to shriek: "VETO."

But our Margo Murray, didn't hear him.

Sadig Dyal Chand, Of Lahore, India, Tells Rotary About His Country

That India is making rapid strides in her development as a modern world power was indicated in the informative address delivered by Sadig Dyal Chand, of Lahore, India, to the Rotary Club of Westmount at its luncheon in Victoria Hall this week.

He was introduced by Rotarian Wilf. Spearman, who told the assembly that the guest speaker was Programme Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. of Lahore, India, and that he is now in Canada studying the administration and operation of different branches of the Y.M.C.A. in Canada.

In his brief, but highly interesting talk, Mr. Chand outlined for his listeners some of the major factors in the history of the country which had a bearing on conditions there as they are today.

History Ancient

The history of India reaches back to antiquity. Some 5,000 years B.C., Aryans invaded India from Central Asia, he said, bringing their religious Vedas, the ancient religious scriptures of the Hindus which are the oldest scriptures on earth. Since then, they have been the basis of the major religion of India, since some three quarters of the population is of the Hindu faith. The speaker recited a hymn from one of the Vedas, which, he pointed out, compares well with certain hymns of the Christian faith.

The notorious caste system began shortly after the Aryans invaded India, he said. They found two peoples living in the country—one with a relatively well-developed and powerful society, and the other more primitive. So society was classified into four groups: i, priests—Brahmins; ii, kings and warriors; iii, dealers in trade and commerce; and iv, menial workers and labourers—

Youth Appeal To Organize Social Events

Young People Hope To Form New Group For Entertainment

To young people of West End Montreal from a group of other young people interested in having something to do in a social way around the community on Saturday evenings comes an appeal for membership and the group referred to, now twelve in number, includes young business people and students all in their late teens or early twenties.

The desire is for companionship and recreation in the organizing of reasonable social activities and dances as they consider the present situation, from a social outlook, for this age group a dismal picture and have decided to originate their own fun.

To accomplish this and to spread its benefits is the group's objective so to all young people the request goes out for ideas and views on just such a project, which can be made successful by co-operative effort.

All enquiries or suggestions should either be mailed or telephoned to Miss Norma Campbell, 4426 Wilson Avenue, DE 5563 between 6.30 and 7.30 p.m., writes Secretary Jack St. Amour, 4248 Girouard Ave., DE 5692.

Appointments To Westmount Y. M. C. A. Staff

Miss Mary Dakin, graduate of McGill University in Physical Education, will conduct the Women's Health Club this year. Miss Dakin served as Physical Instructress at the Sydney, Nova Scotia Y. M. C. A. for two years, and has had considerable experience in conducted classes for women.

Gordon Clarke has been taken on the staff in charge of Adult Programme, other than Physical work. Mr. Clarke has just returned from the Christian Youth Conference held in Oslo, Norway this summer. He is attending Sir George Williams College.

President Of Harrison Brothers Limited Died Suddenly This Week

Will H. Harrison, president of Harrison Brothers Limited, died suddenly at his home Monday evening, following a heart attack in his office. He was in his 53rd year.

The funeral service was held at the Dominion Douglas Church, Lansdowns Avenue and Westmount Boulevard yesterday, Rev. A. Lloyd Smith officiating.

Mr. Harrison was born in Montreal on February 8, 1895, the son of the late Dent Harrison and Mrs. (Ellen Wylie) Harrison, and was educated in the old Westmount Academy. He joined the old bakery firm of Dent Harrison Limited, which his father had founded and continued with that firm until it was sold, and the Pom Bakery was established by which position he held up to his death.

WILL H. HARRISON

Harrison Brothers, Ltd., in 1930, with Will Harrison as president,

In 1918 he married Gladys Lee, and she survives him together with one son, William Dent Harrison, who was a pilot overseas during the World War II and one daughter, Mrs. Trevor Robertson of Moulton, Mass., who also served overseas as a nurse during the war. Two brothers, Gordon and Dent Harrison, and three sisters, Mrs. John T. Rowe, Mrs. E. Percy Roberts and Mrs. Andrew W.D. Swan, all of Montreal, also survive.

Mr. Harrison served through the first Great War as a commissioned officer in the Royal Montreal Regiment, and when World War II broke out he joined the Reserve Army and sought to get overseas, but was not accepted.

In December, 1941, he was appointed administrator of bakery products by the Wartime Prices the outcasts. This system was quite satisfactory for some centuries, but in the course of time, the castes became very rigid, and the outcasts suffered.

To improve the situation, certain measures have been taken in recent years. For example, by the new constitution, recently adapted, the caste system is declared illegal. Moreover, the progress of modern education is changing things.

Education Poor

Mr. Chand stated that education, by our standards, is very poor in India, only about 25 per cent of the population being literate. In his opinion, the chief cause is that roughly 90 per cent of a population of some 400,000,000 lives in outlying districts. Progress in education is being made, however, he said, and the populace is being educated in three ways, at present: i, schools have been set up for parents and their adults; ii, members of police forces are receiving education, with promotion as a stimulus; iii, prisoners are being educated, with time off their sentences in proportion to their progress as a stimulus.

Early marriage in India is slowly disappearing with the advance of education, especially in the larger centres, he declared. In certain instances, marriages are arranged and formalized at a very early age, but the parties to the marriage do not even see one another, in most instances, until maturity. Marriages in India are usually quite stable, he said.

Industry in his country got off to a late start, but developed rapidly, and is good, now, he declared. The country has wide natural resources, and has built up powerful iron and steel and textile industries, and others are progressing. At present a schism exists between Nehru and his followers who are for the building of an industrialized India, and Gandhi, and his followers who believe that industrialization is an evil influence. However, considerable modern development is taking place, especially in transportation, with the development of canal systems, and in dams, for irrigation, and power. What will be perhaps the biggest dam in the world is now under construction on the Ganges river.

The political situation in India is involved, but is ironing itself out. Recently, said Mr. Chand, a general uprising against the British was feared. However, due to the wise counsel of Gandhi, the people of India came to recognize the fact that they were much better under British rule than that of Russia, or Japan. Incidentally, he added, the communistic faction in India is almost totally discredited.

He concluded by saying that the people of India were eager for the friendship and trade with Canada and urged his listeners to take advantage of their opportunity.

He added, incidentally, that Rotary Clubs were active and performing valuable service in India.

Rotarian Walter Murray thanked the speaker for his interesting address, and extended to the people of India the friendship and good wishes of the Rotary Club

Dine in Damask

The rule that appears in standard etiquette books, "We dine or breakfast on damask but we lunch on lace," does not mean that only lace is correct for luncheon. It is merely a catchy little sentence to express the idea that the lunch table is "bare", according to correct social tradition; that is, one does not use a white damask cloth with a felt pad underneath for luncheon but that is reserved for dinner, and mats or a lighter type of cloth are used for luncheon.

And 40 homes in the Nova Scotia fishing village of Pleasant Bay had been destroyed by fire.

Song Poem Appealing For Music

Words That Haunt In Lifting Style Worth Attention

Rose Marie is a romantic name, and Rose Marie is pretty, we know because she works for this newspaper. But Rose Marie has ambitions also—she longs to be a poetess and her work is certainly above average. But she hits print with words and refrain for a popular song which we admit we find have a haunting lilt, and mayhap this is the way the music to the words that will make it a popular hit of the day may be found. Who knows? Stranger things have happened. So we inflict on readers "I'm A Little French Girl From Mo'real":

By Rose Marie

(1) I'm tired of zeas single life,
Full weez noth-eeng else but strife.
My mind I make to marry,
tout-suite, I'll find him but soon,
my chérie, my sweet.

Chorus: I'm a little French girl from Mo'real, look-eeng for a husban', that's all. I'm good to look at, not thin, not too fat; I can keep 'ouse, raise fam'ly, an'
that. Now zeas husban' that I'm look-eeng for, must nice fellow be, wiz monee, no more. If some garcon look for marriage by Fall, ask this little French girl, from Mo'real.

(2) All of ze day I work for bit pay, I'm tired of living zeas way; I look for good man who look for good wife, I'll hap-ee him make for his life.

(3) Alone in my room while I sing, I dream of zeas one man for me. The chanson I sing an' wish it will bring, zis fellow who seems to not be.

Nine Traffic Accidents This Week

Police report that nine traffic accidents occurred in Westmount in the week ending Wednesday. Fortunately, they were minor mix-ups, and no one was severely injured.

FINE FIT FOR FANCY FEET

No, little Wayne Giacalone, 3 1/2-year-old Chicago lad, hasn't got feet that big. He's trying on a pair of clown shoes for size, and finds he's got a little room for toe-wiggling purposes. You can rent a pair of these for $10 or $15 a week, but why bother?

Come to Church

Your Church is the Bulwark of Democracy — There Does Freedom Flourish

Attend the Church of Your Choice Regularly

Stanley Presbyterian

Rev. J. D. Wilkie will conduct both services of worship in Stanley Church on Sunday next. His sermon text in the morning will be: "The Captain of our Salvation He was no mailed champion facing toy arrows." In the evening he will speak on "What the Church believes! What is man's chief end?"

The regular meeting of the Kirk Session will be held on Monday at 8 p.m.

The Fall Communion will be held on October 19, with preparatory service preceding Friday evening, Oct. 17.

Anniversary services will be held on October 26. The Guest Preacher on this occasion will be Rev. Prof. Hay of Knox College, Toronto.

The Women's Association are holding a tea and shower on Tuesday at 3 p.m., in aid of the forthcoming bazaar.

The Women's Prayer meeting is held every Friday at 11 a.m.

St. Luke's United

World-Wide Communion Sunday will be observed Sunday in St. Luke's. It is hoped that every member of St. Luke's will endeavor to be present at either the morning or evening service. The minister will preach in the morning on the subject, "That They All May Be One." The subject of the evening sermon will be, "The Man Who Came Home".

November 14 is the date set for the Fall Supper and Sale. Ladies of the Congregation are urged to generously co-operate with the W. A. and make this event an outstanding success. Contributions of plain and fancy sewing, knitted articles, jams, jellies and pickles will be appreciated by the Committee. The general convener is Mrs. J. Harry Spence.

The next meeting of the Half-Way Club is tomorrow at 8.15 p.m. There will be sound movies through the courtesy of W. S. Blanchard.

St. Andrew's Church

Sunday will be World-Wide Communion Sunday, and in St. Andrew's, Westmount, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be celebrated at the morning worship, when it is expected that all members of the Church who can possibly be present will be in attendance. Mr. Grant will take as the subject of the sermon, "Every man to his Task"—the third in the series, "In a World like Ours."

Following the evening Service there will be an Organ Recital presented by Warner Norman, organist of St. James Church. This is the third of a series arranged by Mr. Whiteley—Dean Collingwood of the University of Saskatchewan, and Phillips Motley, of the First Baptist Church, being Guest-Organists on the two previous occasions. Those particularly interested in Church music are looking forward with much expectation to the time in the near future when Mr. Whiteley, with an augmented choir, will offer Handel's Dettingen "Te Deum".

On Tuesday afternoon the McGillivray Auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society will hold its first meeting for the season, with the ladies of the Lansdowne district in charge.

The Church School made a good beginning last Sunday. The continued and consistent co-operation of parents and children is earnestly solicited. The Girl Guides, Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs are meeting regularly; and very soon the Alpha Omega Society and the Junior Young People's Union will resume their weekly meetings.

The High School Bible Class will meet at 10 a.m. under the leadership of W. Maxwell Ford. All departments of the Church School meet at 11 a.m.

Rev. Mr. Grant will conduct the Communion Service in the morning and will also preach in the evening.

Following the evening service, Warner Norman will present the third in a series of four organ recitals.

Westmount Baptist

Almost 100 young people gathered for the opening session of the Westmount Christian Youth Fellowship. Delegates of young people attended the Meeting from Madison and Oliver Baptist Churches. A most enjoyable Song Service was led by George Ward. Mrs. Dr. Wm. Weaver and Miss Audrey Hunter supplied delightful music, piano and violin. The Speaker was A. E. Smith, who served with the Canadian Navy during the war. He fascinated the company with an address, entitled, "Memories of England." George Fisher presided. Dr. Johnston spoke briefly. Refreshments were served by a group of young ladies. The next Youth Fellowship will be held on October 12th.

"The Master of the Vineyard" will be the title of the morning sermon in Westmount Baptist Church on Sunday. Communion and Reception of Members will take place at noon. The Bible School meets at 9.45 a.m. and is splendidly staffed by a group of enthusiastic Officers and Teachers.

"The Seats of the Mighty", the title of the evening sermon. It will tell the fascinating story of Christ and two young men, whom he playfully called "The Sons of Thunder." This ancient story will be brought forward and applied to everyday life. Congregations are gathering splendidly. Visitors are invited most cordially to all services.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. F. Canning, of Glendale, California, are the guests of Mrs. W. J. S. McCormick, Sherbrooke Street.

Miss Pauline Beattie was the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Daley at their summer home, Dalmar Lodge, in the Laurentians.

Miss Norma Power, of Quebec City, has arrived in Montreal to take up her nursing studies at the Children's Memorial Hospital. Mrs. A. M. Murphy, of Westmount, is an aunt of Miss Power.

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Jarman, of 78 Chesterfield Avenue, entrained Wednesday for Coronado, California, where Mr. Jarman will attend the international City Managers' Convention. He and his wife will be away one month.

Miss Joan Pettit and Miss Miriam Peterson gave a bathroom shower on Tuesday evening last at the latter's home, in honor of Miss Joyce F. Lee, whose marriage to Mr. Milton Douglas McLean is taking place at Wesley United Church on October 18th. A miniature bride and her attendants formed the centrepiece of the tea table, at which Mrs. W. J. Lee, mother of the bride presided. She was assisted by Mrs. Gordon Lee, sister-in-law of the bride.

WEDDINGS

KANELAKOS - McFADDEN

The marriage of Lillian Geraldine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. McFadden of Westmount, to Mr. James Kanelakos, son of Mr. Peter Kanelakos, of Smiths Falls, Ont., and the late Mrs. Kanelakos (Christine Thornton) took place on Saturday afternoon, September 27th at two o'clock in Trinity Memorial Church, the Rev. Canon R. Kenneth Naylor officiating. Masses of Picardy gladioli were arranged in decoration and "Ave Maria" was sung during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an imported gown of heavy ivory satin with long sleeves ending in points over the hands, and a sweetheart neckline. The very full skirt curved out over hidden side bustles where it met the fitted bodice, and swept back into a full length circular train. A deep, fitted waistband was embroidered in leaf design with gold sequins and encrusted with brilliants and pearls, and two front panels of the same leaf design adorned the slightly hooped skirt. Her full length veil of tulle illusion was held by a Juliet cap to match the panels and waistbelt, and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli and pink roses.

Mrs. Louis Geoffrion

Pictured above after the wedding ceremony at the Basilica, Dorchester Street, is Mrs. Louis Geoffrion, the former Miss Magdeleine Tetrault, daughter of Mrs. A. Tetrault, McGregor Street. Her marriage to Mr. Louis Geoffrion, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Geoffrion, took place on September 20th, the Rev. Mgr. Harbour officiating. A reception was held at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

Miss Phyllis McFadden, as her sister's maid of honor, was wearing a pale rose satin gown with draped lace trim at hips and neck, Dutch cap of matching satin and carried a bouquet of pink roses and blue delphinium. The bridesmaids were Miss Mildred McFadden, sister of the bride, and Miss Rhona Bates, cousin of the groom, who were in pale blue satin dresses, similar in style to the maid of honor's, with Dutch caps and bouquets of light pink gladioli and deep pink roses. The bride's little sister, Barbara, was in a floor length frock of pale pink net over taffeta, with small peplum and wide bertha collar of net attached to the dress and lifted over her curls, snood fashion. She carried a small bouquet of delphinium and pink roses.

Mr. Ron Code acted as best man for the groom and the ushers were the bride's brother, Mr. Bob McFadden, and Mr. Bruce Baker.

The bride's mother, Mrs. S. McFadden, was wearing a dress of crimson-leaf wool crepe draped on both sides, silver fox jacket and crimson-leaf feather hat. Her accessories were to match and she wore a corsage of tea roses.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where the bride's table was centered with a four-tier wedding cake and arranged with tall white tapers and pink roses. Pink and white gladioli formed the decorations throughout the rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Kanelakos are taking a wedding trip touring through the States and will reside in Perth, Ont. For going away the bride wore a black suit with fine white pin stripe, made with peplum; black accessories and corsage of gardenias.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kanelakos, Smith Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bates, Mr. John Thornton, Mr. Carl Percy, Mr. Burns Wilson, Mrs. Ann Brankin, and Mr. John Brankin, Miss Isobel Griffith, Mrs. Frank Byrnes, Mr. and Mrs. Pat McManus, Mr. Aylmer Paterson, Mr. Neil Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Code, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pablow, Miss Rhona Bates, all of Perth, Ont., and Mr. Peter Carson, of Ottawa.

FORTIER-HALL

The marriage of Margaret Lucy, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hall, of Beaufort, Que., to Mr. Jules Maurice Fortier, son of the late J. N. Fortier and of Mrs. J. N. Fortier, took place on Monday morning, September 22nd, at the Church of Our Lady of Nativity, Beaufort. Pink gladioli and ferns were used to decorate.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin trimmed with seed pearls, the fitted bodice having long sleeves and a full skirt with tiered bustle, extending into a long flowing train. Her fingertip length veil of tulle illusion was held by a crown of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses.

The reception was held at the beautiful Kent House overlooking Montmorency Falls, and later Mr. and Mrs. Fortier left by motor for various points of interest in the Eastern Townships, the bride travelling in a suit of lime green wool faille, with dark brown accessories.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Rhodes Hall, of Notre Dame de Grace, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hall and their daughter Ruth, of Montreal West.

JONES-SEATON

White gladioli and white chrysanthemums adorned the altar and were arranged as floral pillars at the chancel steps when St. Luke's Anglican Church was the scene of the marriage on Saturday afternoon, September 27th, of Phyllis Evelyn, only daughter of Mr. Walter Seaton, Greene Avenue, Westmount, and the late Mrs. Seaton, and Mr. Clifford Frank Jones, younger son of Mrs. Violet Jones and the late Mr. Ernest Jones, of Rosemount. The Rev. Canon J. D. Ellis officiated at the three o'clock ceremony. Miss K. Harris presided at the organ and the service was fully choral and included the selections "O Perfect Love" which was sung by the boys' choir as the bride reached the chancel before the service, and "The Lord's Prayer" sung during the signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was wearing a gown of heavy white satin made with long sleeves ending in points at the wrist, a sweetheart neckline and a full skirt with peplum waist ending in a long train. Her floor length veil of tulle illusion was gathered and held by a crown of orange blossoms and she carried an arm bouquet of Calla lilies.

Miss Joyce Casement, bridesmaid, was her cousin's only attendant, and was wearing a floor length dress of peacock blue taffeta in off-the-shoulder style and

St. George's Scene Of Baby Bothwell's Christening Ceremony

The christening of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bothwell, 4643 Sherbrooke Street, took place on Sunday afternoon half-past two o'clock at St. George's Church, Montreal, the Venerable Archdeacon Gower officiating. The baby was given the names of Craig Martin and wore a christening robe which had been sent from London, England by his paternal grandmother, Mrs. D. M. Bothwell, for the occasion.

The baby's godparents are Mr. Marguerite MacLauchlan, Woodstock, N.B.; Mr. Martin Pierson-Jones, of Melbourne, Australia; and Mr. Robert Culbert, Cornwall, Ont.

Following the christening Mr. and Mrs. Bothwell entertained tea.

Veterans' Designs In Legion Contest To Follow Show

A fashion show is being sponsored by the Edith Cavell, Dunver, A.N.A. and General Price Branches of the Canadian Legion on Thursday October 9th at 8.15 p.m. at 1191 Mountain Street. Miss Eileen Murphy, Fashion Co-ordinator of Bruck Silk Mills Ltd., will be commentator and after-noon and evening dresses produced by many Canadian manufacturers will be shown, but will all have one thing in common — each one will be made from Bruck fabrics. Furs by L. P. Lazare & Co. Ltd., and hats by Roderick-Douglas Regd., will also be shown.

The dress designing contest immediately following the fashion show will consist of afternoon dresses created by the ten young veterans whose entries were chosen by the Committee of Judges recently. Prizes will be awarded at this time.

The girls veterans are all hard at work in this 'combined operation' and promise a really good show, at the completion of which there will be dancing until 1.00 a.m. to the music of Tony Pascale's Orchestra.

Tickets for this Thanksgiving Fashion Show and Dance are on sale at Willis & Co., corner of Drummond and St. Catherine Streets or may be purchased at the door on the evening of the show.

SPECIAL LAUNDRY USES

Synthetic detergents, without alkaline additions, are especially good for woollens and delicate fabrics. Since the dirt is loosened quickly and the water need not be hot, the risk of shrinkage or fading is greatly reduced. Rinsing is easily and completely accomplished, leaving the fabric soft and clean.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Calero Rodrigues

Mr. and Mrs. Rodrigues pictured after their wedding on Saturday morning, September 20th, in the Church of the Ascension. Mrs. Rodrigues, who, prior to her marriage, was Miss Lillie Sette Camara, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Sette Camara, of Rio de Janeiro. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Calero Rodrigues, also of Rio de Janeiro.

The bride is a sister of the Secretary of the Vice-Consul of Brazil in Montreal; the groom being Secretary of Brazilian Embassy in Washington, D.C.

After the wedding reception which was held at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. J. Sette Camara, Mount Pleasant Avenue, Westmount, the bride couple left to spend their honeymoon in Quebec. They will reside in Washington, D.C.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. Jayme Rodrigues, Brazilian Consul, Boston; Mr. L. Escoré, Vice-Consul, Boston; Mr. L. Muller Neto, Vice-Consul, New York; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Sette Camara, parents of the bride, of Belo Horizonte, Brazil; Mr. B. Calero Rodrigues, Rio de Janeiro; and Mr. Alfredo T. Vallader, Acting General Consul of Brazil, Montreal, and his family. Rev. A. J. and Mrs. Mowatt Honored On Eve Of Departure

A farewell reception was tendered the Rev. Andrew J. Mowatt B.D. and Mrs. Mowatt in St. Andrew's United Church Hall, Westmount following the Evening Service on Sunday, September 28th.

Mr. Mowatt, who has been the Assistant Minister at St. Andrew's for the past twenty months, has been appointed Pastor of Wesley United Church in Calgary, Alberta.

The Minister, Rev. D. M. Grant, B.A., representing the Congregation, and Mrs. Lemuel Cushing, representing the women of St. Andrew's, received with Mr. and Mrs. Mowatt, the very large number of friends of the young people who had gathered to express their best wishes and bid them farewell.

Mr. W. R. Chenoweth voiced the regret of the Congregation on the loss of their companionships but said that all the good wishes would go with them in their new field in the West.

Mr. Dick Huston, on behalf of the Alpha Omega Club of St. Andrew's, presented Mr. Mowatt with a radio, and Mr. W. H. Spearman, as Clerk of Session offered a small token of the esteem in which the young couple are held, in the form of a cheque.

A small gift was also presented to Mrs. Mowatt by Mrs. J. N. Poole on behalf of the Women of St. Andrew's, from whose meetings and social gatherings she will be greatly missed.

Several solos were rendered by Mrs. Harold Mills. The tea table, centred with a beautiful bowl of vari-colored flowers and lighted by green tapers in silver candelabra, was presided over by Mrs. F. W. Kerr and Mrs. Geo. Cross, and light refreshments were served by the Social Committee.

Rests On The Fence Re Leadership Claims

Who rules the post-war fashion world—New York or Paris? Last month New York put forth its claim, and turned back the style clock with longer skirts, padded hips, minimized waists. Now Paris makes its bid with its fall collections, a style show that always catches the eye of the fashion-minded.

In a front row seat as the up was Rosette Hargrove, whose cabled dispatches cover the highlights of the autumn bid by the "Ville Lumiere" for style leadership. What she finds seems to leave the powder puff war between fashion cities at a tie score.

Miss Halpin Feted By Bell Employees

Prior to her leaving the Bell Telephone Company service for her marriage on October 11th, to Mr. R. Oxley, M.M., Miss Florence (Lala) Halpin was feted by her co-workers of the Bell on Tuesday afternoon when she was presented with a chest of silver. Afterwards, Mrs. G. Murphy entertained a few of the bride-elect's friends and co-workers at the Queen's Hotel when she was presented with a breakfast set.

Among others who have entertained for the bride-elect are Mrs. T. McEcheron and Mrs. M. Dugan who gave a crystal shower, and Mrs. G. Rowe and Mrs. R. Figueroa who entertained at a tea.

HOME EDUCATION

When In Doubt—Investigate

THEODORA BROWNFIELD

Paul Bender was just five, and like the "bigger boys" he was now going to school. He came home each day, thrilled to tell what happened and what he had done in kindergarten.

At lunch one day, he spoke of spending time in the cloakroom. His father looked surprised, and his mother asked, "Why was that, Paul?"

"Oh, only one other boy—Donald—and I stay out in the cloakroom," he answered, continuing to eat his lunch.

"Where are the other pupils?" his father asked.

"Oh, they stay in the schoolroom with the teacher. Just we two stay out there."

Now, in the days when Paul's parents went to school, being sent to the cloakroom was a sign of disgrace. Pupils obliged to remain there usually had misbehaved in some way, perhaps caused some disorder in the classroom.

So Mr. Bender said, "What did you do, Son, to deserve the cloakroom?"

"Nothing," Paul continued to eat his pudding placidly. "Nothing, Daddy," he repeated. "Just Donald and I go out in the cloakroom and stay."

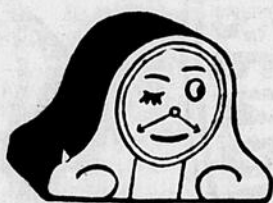

"When do you go out there?" Mrs. Bender questioned.

"Oh, every morning, just about in the middle," was the rather vague reply. "We just get good and rested," he finished, apparently quite pleased.

His father looked doubtful. "Paul," he began, "what have you been doing? You might as well tell us if you have been naughty."

Paul had always been truthful. In fact, it was one of his strongest points that when he had done anything wrong he would always admit it. But this time he looked at his father and repeated, "I just get a chance to go out there and stay for a little while."

"I don't think it looks very well," his father commented. "I shouldn't want to stay in the cloakroom if all the other children stayed in the classroom."

Mrs. Bender smiled as she noticed a gleam of disagreement in Paul's eyes. She said nothing however, but she decided to stop in to see the teacher when she called for Paul some noontime. This she did two days later.

The teacher spoke highly of Paul. Then his mother remarked casually. "He tells me he's been staying in the cloakroom."

"Yes, he and Donald. You see all the pupils take a rest in mid-morning; they have cots and lie down. I'd noticed that both Paul and Donald relaxed unusually well so I'd had their cots put in the cloakroom; and often they've fallen soundly asleep."

"That's the explanation!" Paul's mother broke in. "We have been wondering—and doubting Paul."

"Yes, he came to me yesterday and pleaded to stay in the classroom," the teacher said. "He told me he didn't want to stay out there any more."

Teacher and parent exchanged significant glances. Both realized that the wrongdoing had been on the parents' side this time. The boy had been innocent of any misbehavior, but both his father and mother had doubted him.

"We shall explain to Paul and ask him to excuse us," said his mother repentantly.

"That will help," said his teacher. "But remember Paul is very young. May I suggest that you make the explanation brief and the apology very simple?" — as

New Ideas Shown In Future Exports

Interesting new productions, shown at the British Industries Fair for export, are promised shortly.

Use of fluorescent paint for spraying designs on plastic sheets had produced nursery curtains which glowed at night. These were printed in "water baby," "willow," "swan" and other patterns which would reassure the infant who woke to find himself alone in the nursery.

A device to lengthen the life of women's blouses and men's sports shirts has been worked out by a Yorkshire textile firm. They showed a spare-collar shirt or blouse, the collar of which can easily be replaced by a new one as soon as the original collar becomes worn out.

In these new shirts and blouses, a loop has been inserted at the back under the collar. By pulling the loop the worn collar detaches itself from the garment. Underneath is a grooved neckband into which the new collar is inserted, tacked into position and sewn up with a single seam. This is a much easier proposition than taking the tail of a shirt to make a new collar—a practice at which some needlewomen became quite skilled during the war.

you would had you accidentally knocked down the blockhouse he was building."

"Thank you," said Mrs. Bender. And that is what they did.

Red Cross Calls For Helpers To Make 800 Layettes, Woolies

The need in Great Britain and Europe for knitting and sewn garments made by Red Cross workers in Canada is still great, as revealed in reports of principal welfare organizations to the Overseas Commission of the Canadian Red Cross, in London, said Mrs. Frank L. Packard and Mrs. Honore Parent, joint chairmen of Red Cross Women's Work in the Province of Quebec, in a recent talk.

Anglican Guild Hears Addresses

Members of St. Michael's Chapter of The Guild of the Servants of the Sanctuary from ten Anglican churches of the city held their first meeting of the season this week at the Church of St. John the Divine in Verdun. Guest speaker was Rev. J. C. Kirby, rector of St. Stephen's Church, Lachine.

Churches represented were St. John the Evangelist; St. John the Divine, Verdun; St. Clement's Verdun; St. Aidan's Ville Emard; Church of the Advent, Westmount; Christ Church Cathedral; St. Peter's Town of Mount Royal; St. Phillip's, Montreal West; St. Columba's N.D.G.; and St. Stephen's Lachine.

The Guild of the Servants of the Sanctuary is a world organization of the Church of England for Servants of every parish church with headquarters in the Hospital of the Blessed Trinity, Guilford, Surrey, England. St. Michael's Chapter is the Montreal Diocesan branch of the organization.

The meeting... the chapter's patronal festival (St. Michael and all Angels) opened with the singing of the Guild Office, or service, by Chapter Warden, Rev. E. M. Dann. Following the service and the Guild procession, the members heard Mr. Kirby speak in the first of two addresses on Baptism and Confirmation. Refreshments, provided by the Altar Guild of the Church of St. John the Divine were served following the meeting.

Next meeting of the organization will be held on November 3.

Several cases of garments and other articles are now en route overseas, they stated, and added that provincial headquarters for the work has been moved to 442 Sherbrooke street west, Montreal, though cutting of materials to be sewn by women in a hundred Red Cross branches throughout the province will continue at 1626 St. Catherine street west.

In mid-October there will be a meeting in Montreal of leaders in this work from Red Cross branches all over the province, to discuss Quebec's share in Canada's contribution to this Red Cross relief for Britain, France and other European countries. Meantime the Society needed more women to knit and sew and help with hospital supplies. Some of the articles they produce go to Red Cross nursing outposts in this province, some to the Veteran's Welfare Department and some are stored against possibility of local disasters.

Chiefly needed are layettes—800 to be made in the Province of Quebec by Red Cross volunteers; clothing for children from two to 10 years of age; women's nightgowns, blouses, skirts; knitted articles etc., and also overcoats for children, breeches for boys, woven underwear in all sizes, shoes for children and women. Some will have to be purchased.

Mrs. Packard and Mrs. Parent urged women who could sew or knit or otherwise help—even for only a few hours a week—to get in touch with their local Red Cross branch, or to contact provincial headquarters of the work at the Sherbrooke street address.

Yes — the wonderful, 'workfree' Bendix Automatic Washer has given complete leisure on washdays to one million happy women. In ten years, this famous miracle machine has proven itself in actual use.

The Bendix turns out the most amazing of washday performances. No hard work of any kind. No hands in the water... Set a dial... add soap. The Bendix does everything else from start to finish at maximum efficiency, leaving clothes beautifully clean, damp dried and ready for line or dryer. And only Bendix has four famous features: gentle tumble-action, water-saver cylinder, extra-clean triple rinsing, and basket-level porthole.

No more laundry bills with a Bendix... no more laundress wages... And you save wear and tear on your clothes too (25 to 75%), and water, soap, bluing.

New Accessories For Home Claim Pretty Practicality

BY KAY SHERWOOD

New accessories of the home, aimed to dispel a household's end-of-summer doldrums, camouflage their functional uses with graceful decorative effects in plastic, rubber and glass.

Distinctive clear plastic trays, for example, in a Chippendale design make removable table tops for curved lucite luggage racks. When twinned, the tray and rack underscore party service in handsome style. Separated, the tray's light weight insures easy portage of dishes.

The rack, in clear plastic or rich jewel tones, belies its delicate look with a sturdy construction that is well able to take the weight of a guest's heavily laden suitcase. Off duty, it folds flat for space-hoarding storage.

A new manufacturing process makes it possible to apply pebbled, crinkled or diamond-shaped designs to acrylic resin surfaces. One salad bowl in clear crinkled lucite catches light like a sun-dappled mountain brook and adds fetching eye-appeal to crisp salad greens. Other accessories to benefit from this new development in plastic are boxes, trays and bathroom sets.

Capitalizing on the cool beauty of green foliage are new synthetic rubber coasters, precision molded in exact duplication of delicate galax leaves. The rubber leaves, which can keynote table decorations, trap glass moisture in the ridged veins that criss-cross their surfaces.

On the practical side, these coasters are promised not to oxidize, slide or mar furniture. And they take to soap and water dunkings without losing any of their verdant coloring.

Another festive note for a dinner party table is supplied by cube-shaped plastic place-card holders with full-blown roses ingeniously carved inside. These sparkling inch-square midgets come in sets with matching rose-decorated cards.

New doorknobs in brilliant crystal-clear plastic imprison carved flowers which take their color cues from nature. Interchangeable with standard doorknobs; these modern counterparts of Antique French glass doorknobs, can be teamed with drawer pulls in matching designs.

Also worth noting for a household pick-me-up are French-imported trays and pictures which boast three dimensional designs of flowers, birds or fish. The unusual effect is created by painting overlapping parts of the design on separate sheets of glass and fitting glass layers together within a wooden frame.

FOR MODELING

If modelling clay is not readily available, do not deprive little children of the pleasure of making beads, marbles, balls, fruits, flowers or animals from a plastic substance so well suited to the purpose. Make a substitute for modelling clay by mixing together one cup of flour and one-half cup of salt, moistening the mixture with enough water to make a "workable" dough. Children will find this as usable, and as interesting as the traditional product.

Clear plastic tray teams with lucite luggage rack to make handy service table. Rack folds flat for storage.

Crinkled lucite salad bowl and diamond-patterned tray are decorative examples of new applied design for plastics.

Graceful galax leaf is duplicated in synthetic rubber to make new coasters. Ridged veins trap moisture from glass.

Maggy Rouff Favors Swinging Bell Skirt

The highlight of the Maggy Rouff fashion collection in the introduction of the swinging bell skirt as the motif of all her daytime costumes except strictly functional sports togs. She contends that ultra long skirts tend to make one look older, and hems in her Paris exhibit are seldom longer than 12 inches from the ground for informal daytime costumes.

Gay nineties flavor is evident in the use of graduated bands of velvet or deep hems of contrasting fabric, ball fringe trimming,

Ulster Is Centre Of Linen Industry

Northern Ireland has the same problems of rationing in food and clothing that England and Scotland have, according to Mrs. Dehra Parker, first woman to be elected to the Ulster Parliament. The same regulations apply, except that large quantities of milk are produced in North Ireland and therefore milk is available there.

The Irish linen which is gradually coming back into our market after a wartime absence, is all produced in Northern Ireland, Mrs. Parker said. Although some flax is grown in Southern Ireland the manufacture of the linen is in Ulster. Fine Irish tweeds are made there, too. Shipbuilding and agriculture are the other chief industries. No linen, household utensils or china are available to the people of Ulster, however—like products elsewhere in the British Isles, they are all for export.

"Perhaps it is because we are still quite conservative when it comes to women," she said.

Household Hints

Four to six people may be served from 1 pound of haddock with the recipe I'm giving you today. That means that the fish is "stretched" with dressing. You can use dressing with other fish, too, to make it go further, because fish, like other meats, is by no means low-priced unless you do your own fishing or have friends or relatives to do it for you.

Spanish Rice would be nice to serve with the fish, and raw tomatoes would be excellent to serve as salad with both.

Baked Haddock With Dressing

- 1 lb. fillet of haddock
- Juice ½ lemon
- Salt and pepper
- 2 c. coarsely-crushed corn flakes
- ¼ C. chopped onion.
- ½ c. chopped celery
- 2 tbsy. chopped parsley
- 1 egg, well-beaten
- 3 tbsy melted butter
- 2 to 4 tsp. boiling water
- Paprika

Arrange fish in greased baking dish, sprinkle on lemon juice, salt and pepper. Combine corn flakes with remaining ingredients adding just enough boiling water for dressing to hold together. Spread over fish and sprinkle with paprika. Bake in oven (375 F.) 35 minutes. Serve garnished with lemon and parsley.

Spanish Rice

- 3 onions, sliced
- 2 green peppers, sliced
- 2 tbsy. butter
- 3 c. fresh or canned tomatoes
- 2 c. cooked rice
- 1 tsp. salt
- Pepper

Heat butter in skillet and cook onions and green pepper in the fat for 5 minutes, add tomatoes and simmer for 10 minutes. Stir in the cooked rice carefully so as not to break the grains, and when heated through, serve at once. Serves 6.

dust ruffles, and pleated or gathered berthas in formal daytime or evening outfits.

Even tailleurs and redingotes are essentially soft and feminine, the former having jackets trimmed with luscious fur collars and rippling basques, the latter also featuring the new bell skirt.

Important in this collection is a group of youthful formal afternoon costumes. Interest is focused on the skirts, expressed in a variety of fabrics including satin, wool and silk jerseys, crepes, and velvet. Godet pleats massed at the front and sides alternate with bell-cut to contrast with simple, highnecked bodices, some discreetly draped.

Average Woman Shopper Walks 8 Miles A Day

According to the Shoe Manufacturers' Association of Canada, the average woman shopper walks eight and a half miles per day; during the Christmas shopping season she steps it up to eleven. The salesgirl who waits on her walks eight miles and the average schoolgirl puts in a good eleven and a half.

The natural lustre of flax fiber is increased by hydration—that is, by the entrance of water molecules into the substance of the fiber during bleaching. This effect of hydration is permanent. The lustre of linen fabric, as every woman who treasures her Irish linen knows, is actually improved by many washings.

STREET FIGHT! Well — what of it?

Montreal doesn't seem much of a place to them — overcrowded houses, back alleys, sweltering, traffic-jammed streets — and a path that goes steadily downward until they become a menace to the community.

Yet, given a chance, such boys have the stuff to be a credit and an asset to Montreal and Canada. They deserve better than the gutter — and Red Feather services give them the breaks that make the difference.

Red Feather Boys' Clubs and Settlements give them recreational facilities in decent surroundings plus an education in group living and citizenship that will pay off in dividends to the community in the future.

Welfare Federation's eight camps enable thousands of children to enjoy fresh air, sunshine and the healthy living of a camping holiday. They deserve it; you can help make sure they get it.

Betty Speirs Opens School Of Modelling

Today there is a great demand for Models, as Photography has revolutionized advertising.

A photograph dramatizes a product more effectively than columns of words, dresses worn by an attractive girl are much more interesting than the same dress hanging on a wax figure.

A successful model must have more than good looks. Poise, grace, good carriage, imagination, advertising instinct and the ability to strike the correct pose, all are essential, and that is where training is vital to the success of anyone who wishes to become a Model.

Startling beauty is not essential, frequently it is not as effective before a camera as a slighter degree of good looks which happen to be photogenic.

A fine carriage is absolutely necessary.

The Betty Speirs Course provides all the answers for any ambitious girl who is desirous of improving herself.

Miss Speirs who is personally in charge of these Modelling Classes, recently directed the Models in the making of a commercial movie for one of Montreal's most prominent commercial houses.

Probe For Natural Gas In Alberta

Unnamed U. S. interests are inquiring into Alberta's natural gas resources, says John Harvie, deputy minister of mines and resources.

Figures on gas reserves were asked, but such information was unobtainable, he says. The government has no ideas of the possibilities since only about half the province has been drilled for gas.

Canadian Art Theatre Plans On Adult Plays

In spite of, or rather because of, the large and varied program facing the Canadian Art Theatre during the coming season, Joy Thomson, director, announces one further activity to be pursued by the company this season. This addition is an adult play series, to commence with a production at Victoria Hall at the end of November. There will be four plays in the production series, the first to be directed by Jean de Savoye, well-known in local theatre circles for her excellent contribution to Montreal theatre during the past seasons.

Mrs. de Savoye will be remembered for her excellent play "Uncle Harry," which she directed for MRT last year. Another feature of this series is the fact that they will be open to local actors and actresses who are not necessarily students of the School of Theatre Arts. Interested people are invited to leave their names at the CAT for future calling.

Other activities at the CAT centre around the opening evening this Friday, 3rd October, when His Worship, Mayor Camille Houde, will honour the Canadian Art Theatre with his presence at the proceedings. As classes in all schools commence next week, interested students are invited to enrol as soon as possible, in order not to miss the first lectures in each class.

Elocution At Mary Beetles New Classes

Mary Beetles announces the appointment of Olive Sanborn Lead, B. A. as Director of Dramatic Art at the Mary Beetles School. Classes are being arranged for children, young people and adults. For all three of these groups Mrs. Lead is eminently qualified to give instruction in elocution and enunciation of speech. She has taught elsewhere in Montreal and for three years was lecturer in English Composition (oral and written) at Sir George Williams' College.

Students are being allocated according to age and ability and careful attention is being given to individual talent and aptitude. The classes include instruction in elocution, diction and public speaking, and the primary purpose of each course is the cultivation and development of that most musical of all instruments the human voice.

Olive Sanborn Lead is known not only as a teacher and lecturer, but as a gifted actress. Her monologues have entertained many members of Women's Clubs in the Montreal area and her exquisite voice has been heard over C. B. C. international service and on the stages of Trinity Players and Montreal Repertory Theatre. Classes and private lessons are being formed and information with respect thereto may be obtained by telephoning Miss Beetles, EL5170, or by visiting the studio at 4956 Decarie Boulevard near Snowdon Junction.

The Heckler

The Scot is frequently the goat when jokes are on tap, but not always. Listen to this: In an English political oration: "I was born an Englishman, I have lived an Englishman, I hope I shall die an Englishman."

From the back of the hall in an unmistakable accent, came the question, "Mon, hae ye no ambition?"

GODDARD, CAREY TO CO-STAR IN "HAZARD"

HOLLYWOOD—Paramount recently set "Hazard" for early production and announced that Paulette Goddard and Macdonald Carey will be starred in the romantic comedy and that George Marshall will direct the important film from Roy Chanslor's best-selling novel.

"Hazard" will be Miss Goddard's first film on returning from Europe. She is expected in Hollywood soon after several months abroad.

The film reunites Miss Goddard with Carey for the first time since their highly successful teaming in "Suddenly It's Spring." Miss Goddard will play the role of a wealthy girl with gambling fever.

Grable And Haymes Star In Fine Technicolor Hit

Score another sensational musical hit for Betty Grable and 20th Century-Fox. In fact, "Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe," which opens Saturday at the Avenue Theatre with glamorous Grable at her best and 20th Century-Fox going all-out with a spectacularly eye-thrilling Technicolor production.

Packed with wonderful songs, high hilarity, dazzling dance routines and gorgeous girls—and with Dick Haymes co-starred with Betty in the enthralling romance—"Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe" makes for exciting film fare from start to finish.

As its title indicates, the picture is set against the background of Billy Rose's world-

AT THE AVENUE THEATRE SATURDAY

Glittering with Betty Grable at her best, packed with scintillating songs, dazzling dance and eye-thrilling spectacle, "Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe," the 20th Century-Fox musical, filmed in gorgeous Technicolor, opens Saturday at the Avenue Theatre. Dick Haymes is starred with Betty in the enthralling romance, set against the gay background of one of the world's most famous restaurant-night clubs.

famous "Diamond Horseshoe" just off New York's Times Square. It takes movie audiences behind the scenes of this fabulous night spot and into the lives of the people who make Broadway entertainment history.

Direct From Hollywood

By Jack Hirshberg

NAMES MEAN DOUGH

HOLLYWOOD, October 1 — What's in a name?

Plenty, pal.

Yesterday some of us were discussing ways and means of getting down the high cost of movie making. Currently doing a good job of talking itself into a depression, the film industry is trying to economize by firing workers who earn $50 and $100 a week. The four-figure salaried folk remain on the payroll.

Somebody around our luncheon table suggested a good way really cut production costs would be to slice star salaries to something within reason. Say, a top of $2,500 a week. Certainly anyone should be able to live on that.

However, it's not that simple.

In the first place, the star doesn't get his $500,000 a year—or $250,000—or even $100,000. He gets only a small portion after paying agency fees, incidental expenses and income tax.

Secondly, if Paramount won't pay him a huge salary, Warner Brothers or RKO or 20th Century will. They don't buy his talent so much as they buy his name. Which brings us back to the first question: What's in a name?

Well, let's have an example.

"Annie Get Your Gun" is currently a top Broadway hit. Ethel Merman is the star. Recently she took a two-week vacation, and a highly talented singer named Jane Walsh substituted for her in the musical extravaganza. Merman sings as well as Ethel, and she's a lot prettier. You'd think customers would be happy.

They weren't.

They stayed away in droves until Miss Merman returned to the box-office receipts dropped almost $8,000 a week during her absence. It was Miss Merman's name that drew them as much as Irving Berlin's sparkling score.

It's the same with films, only more so. The star system is established and it's here to stay. You can't break it down. You can't challenge it and make money—except on rare occasions.

Metro years ago had a story called "Test Pilot." They planned to produce it as a "B" budget film, a filler for double bills. As such, it would have made a small profit. Then somebody got an idea. Put Clarke Gable in it.

Metro did just that, and "Test Pilot" made several million bucks. It would have been just as good a film with a lesser known but equally talented actor. It was Gable's name that did the trick.

Just so long as a gullible public pays to see a star instead of a story, just so long will studios continue to put big names in disappointing films. And so long as studios continue to outbid one another for the stars' services—so

Gene Kelly Returns Again In "Living In A Big Way"

Heading the supporting cast is veteran Broadway and screen actor, Charles Winninger, famous for his Captain Andy role in "Show Boat." Phyllis Thaxter, who recently played Katharine Hepburn's daughter in "The Sea of Grass," and Spring Byington, last seen as the zany mother in "My Brother Talks to Horses." Another top role is played by Jean Adair, the murderess of "Arsenic and Old Lace," this time seen as a "modern" grandmother who dances a gay waltz with Kelly.

"Living in a Big Way" is based on an original story by Gregory LaCava, who was also directed by LaCava, who got a laugh out of the depression with the memorable comedy, "My Man Godfrey." As the earlier success was a comment on those panic days, the new picture is a comment on the post-war period.

Lizabeth Scott starring in Hal Wallis' "Desert Fury," new Paramount release, has a collection of several hundred tiny animal figurines which she began assembling years ago.

The romancing, dancing attraction on the Snowdon screen starting Saturday is "Living in a Big Way," which brings popular Gene Kelly back to pictures after three years in the U. S. Navy. His last picture before entering the services was "Anchors Aweigh," which won him an Academy Award nomination as top dancer-actor.

The new picture unfolds a fast-moving, mirthful angle on the post-war troubles of a guy who marries in haste but cannot repent at leisure because he is thrown into a whirlpool of complications.

Teamed with Kelly is curvaceous Marie McDonald who recently scored in "Getting Gertie's Garter" and "Guest in the House." In her new role Miss McDonald wears thirty-eight outstanding Irene creations, mixes glamour with dramatic fireworks, allure with dancing, pertness with pathos.

famous "Diamond Horseshoe" shoe" show, fiercely jealous of her position, and hardened to everything but her own success. When fate spins a romantic web over which Betty trips and falls head-over-heels in love with Dick Haymes, son of her bitterest rival (William Gaxton) for spotlight honors, Betty is faced with a challenge that serves as a basis for one of the most intriguing love stories of the year.

In more than the immediate, obvious sense, her current film shows Betty Grable off to better advantage than ever before. Betty (complete, of course, with her justly celebrated underpinnings) sings and dances in the style that has made her America's undisputed Pin-Up Queen. Her handling of scintillating song hits by Mack Gordon and Harry Warren plus her dancing in the spectacular "Acapulco" number are brilliant highlights in the film, and are treat enough in themselves. But more than that, the exciting and moving story reveals her as a really top dramatic actress.

Dick Haymes garners new honors in this, his most important picture to date. The young singing sensation's easy charm, high acting ability and terrific way with a song make him a sure-fire bet in any picture.

"Ghost And Mrs. Muir", Also "Stallion Road" At Westmount

"The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," which starts Sunday at the Westmount Theatre, finds Gene Tierney and Rex Harrison busily engaged in doin' what comes supernaturally, and from the reaction of opening day audiences, the activities of this wonderful screen team are bound to keep local moviegoers in a high-spirited mood for some time to come.

There have been many wraiths in the cinema who have dropped in to give us their versions of what after-life is like, but we personally lean to the Rex Harrison version, which seems to be as gay and satisfying a non-material existence as we've ever seen.

First of all, Rex, as Captain Gregg, a lusty sea captain, has been jealously haunting a lonely old house for many years, chasing prospective tenants away until a young and beautiful widow comes along. She is Mrs. Muir, played by Gene Tierney. She falls in love with the house, and ghost or no ghost, decides to stick it out.

When Rex appears, the battle is on, with Gene matching grit and feminine intuition against the startling attentions of her unwelcome boarder. Before long, Rex is completely captivated by his adversary, and an understanding is reached and kept — until, that is, a rakish novelist, George Sanders, arrives on the scene. His sworn mission in life is to fill Gene's lonely existence with heaven-sent, though earth-bound, romance.

Here, the story takes a delightfully unusual turn which this reviewer won't reveal. Suffice it to say, however, that what follows leads to the surprise climax of one of the most enthralling and satisfying entertainment hits of the film year.

New MRT Production Similar To Going My Way

"The Two Shepherds" by G. Martinez-Sierra, playing at MRT, 16th to 25th October, tells the story of two priests. One who has served the village for thirty years, has become out-moded; the other, his successor, is young, up-to-date, polished, and able to answer any question on "dogmatic theology." The atmosphere throughout the play is reminiscent of the movie "Going My Way."

The play opens with Don Antonio, the older priest discussing a crisis, taking place in the village, with his close friend, Don Francisco, the doctor. Both realize that a change must inevitably take place in the interests of progress. The doctor, who finds lemon juice and water an excellent cure for almost any ailment, is to be taught a thing or two about serums by the young medico, fresh from the University of Madrid. These two old cronies would like to talk undisturbed, but they are not allowed to do so. The priest's house boy, Juanillo, continually interrupts them with bits of gossip; then they are interrupted by a girl who finds she must be married; a neighbour is about to produce a child; the mayor arrives to welcome the new priest. Throughout the whole play, the magnificent character, of strong peasant type, Dona Paquita, interjects her orders to the various persons helping with the ordinary jobs in the household as well as duties connected with the church. Villagers from every walk of life come sooner or later to the priest's garden, each with a definite purpose, and so the action of the play progresses.

Alfred Gallagher plays the role of Don Antonio, the older priest while Maude Whitmore will be seen as his sister and housekeeper, Dona Paquita. Kenneth Culley will be the doctor. Griffith Brewer will act as the young priest. Edward Wilson will be seen as Don Juan de Dios another friend of the old priest. Juanillo, Don Antonio's houseboy will be played by Neil O'Keefe. Isobel Weinrauch makes her debut at MRT in this production as Lucina, the girl. Others in the cast are Bertha Merovitz, Henry Gamer, Gwyn

Musical Sharps Flats and Naturals

FILM BIOGRAPHIES OF MUSICIANS

Lately, there have been many film biographies of musicians but people all over the country are deploring the fact that the screen versions of the lives of these great composers are more often so changed that there is very little which is authentic from their true biography. The movie moguls do not seem to care so long as Mr. and Mrs. Public attend and with much fanfare and publicity it is not hard to entice people to see a film that is supposed to show the events in the life of one of their favourite masters.

However, aside from the fact that they are altered completely in some instances, the story is oftentimes very entertaining and to those who do not know the true facts it does not make much or any difference. But supposing you know the facts and find them completely altered, what then? Many biographies have been made of other great personalities, statesmen, authors, inventors and even their screen lives have caused much comment. Woodrow Wilson, Benjamin Disraeli, Emile, Zola, House of Rothschild, Eve Curie, Alexander Graham Bell, Louis Pasteur and Rembrandt are a few which come to mind. Each one of these movie stories was exciting entertainment and enjoyed a wide sale to movie houses all over the country and most people will agree that each was of good educational value. But the stories of the musicians have somewhat suffered in comparison as their authenticity is often lacking.

Among the musical biographies that appealed to movie producers were Richard Strauss, Frederic Chopin, Ludvig Von Beethoven, George Frederick Handel, Nicolo Paganini, George Gershwin and Cole Porter. All of these celebrities have many changes in their screen biographies, however, as we mentioned before, that did not stop the public from attending. We think they did a tremendous amount of good, since thousands became acquainted with music unfamiliar to their ears who would not be anxious to attend concerts where these works are performed frequently.

Why don't producers bring the exciting biographies of Franz

Williams, John Colicos, Peggy Norton, Harry Mitchell, Geoffrey Ardenne, Marie Brewer, Lola Malen, Barney Bloom, and Eileen Newton.

It is interesting to note that "The Two Shepherds" was done this past summer at Fordham University as their major production.

Liszt, Richard Wagner, and Gilbert and Sullivan to the screen. There is a wealth of material to select from these and how about that dynamic contemporary, Sir Thomas Beecham? What a film his life would make!

Ricardo Montalban Now Hailed As New Big Star

In Hollywood today there's a handsome, dark-haired Mexican, named Ricardo Montalban, who has gained a liberal education in a manner slightly different from the routine. He simply became a movie star.

Montalban, who makes his American screen debut with Esther Williams in the spectacular M-G-M Technicolor musical romance, "Fiesta," starting Saturday at the Seville Theatre, spends one hour each morning strumming on the guitar. Another half-hour is devoted to the piano. Still another is taken up with a dancing lesson. Evenings are devoted to perfecting bullfighting technique. In between, whenever there's a spare moment, he practices singing and continues his extensive training in the dramatic arts.

All these admirable accomplishments — musician, bullfighter, dancer, actor — were requisites for his role in "Fiesta." And M-G-M footed the bill.

Studios, having learned from experience that the public likes to discover its own stars, might go to elaborate lengths to keep a newcomer under wraps. But moviedom's wisecracks are quick to spot a potential celebrity. Somehow the ubiquitous grapevine carries the word that so and so studio has a new million dollar personality.

It is said Hollywood knew Robert Walker had clicked even before that actor was aware of the fact himself. And they still recall how everybody at Hollywood and Vine knew Greer Garson was a star long before "Goodbye Mr. Chips" was released. The bets are on Senor Montalban now.

Although he has attained success on the Mexican screen, this earnest young actor (he's twenty-five), considers himself very much an American. Hollywood had its chance at him once before.

"I was born in Mexico City but moved to Los Angeles when I was sixteen to live with my brother," he recalls.

"As a student at Fairfax High School, I acted in school plays and was offered a screen test."

His brother, who had moved to New York, insisted Ricardo pass up the test and try his luck on Broadway. That great street, however, showed not the slightest inclination to nurture the budding Montalban talent.

Finally he landed a few jobs along New England's summer theatre circuit. In this great school of experience he acted with Anna Sten and Tallulah Bankhead. Then, in 1942, came a role in a Broadway revival of "Our Betters."

"Soon after the show opened I learned my mother was ill in Mexico. I went there intending to stay two weeks," he says.

He remained two years. During this period he appeared in nine Mexican films.

Then his postgraduate education began. A perfectionist, he refused the use of a double. When assigned to a film about bullfighting he insisted on learning the art of the matador. For another he had to learn to ride. For still another he studied voice so he could remain on key during singing sequences.

The lessons paid off. When Producer Jack Cummings began casting about for a Latin type for the important role in "Fiesta," which is set in Mexico, his practiced eye settled on Montalban.

Result: a new M-G-M star was born!

Joan Caulfield, now co-starring with William Holden in Paramount's "Dear Ruth," takes lessons regularly in tap dancing.

Try a few chopped marachino cherries in bread pudding, or rice pudding. This makes a very attractive dessert.

Steel subsidies in Canada during the coming year will cost the taxpayers about $10 millions.

Montreal Drama Guild Announces Winterset Cast

Montreal Drama Guild announce the cast for Winterset by Maxwell Anderson to be presented at Victoria Hall, Westmount, October 14, 15, 16.

In order of their appearance the characters in the play will be enacted as follows: Trock — Douglas Peterson; Shadow — Sol Lerner; Garth — Peter Golick; Miranne — Sondra Gibson; Esdras — Charles Lewis; Hobo — Roy Maccouronne; 1st Girl — Lee Williamson; 2nd Girl — Shirley Elkin; Judge Grant — Thomas McBride; Mio — Arthur Garmaise; Carr — Fred Devlin; Herman — Tije Little; Lucia — Saul Cohen; Piny — Lillian Petroff; Policeman — Ray Hawn; Radican — Michael Shane and Sergeant — Sol Cohen.

The production is being directed by Norman Taviss, with settings designed and painted by Hans Berends.

The Kiwanis Club of St. George of Montreal are sponsoring this presentation, and will use the money raised for underprivileged children's activities.

Children's Theatre Returns To The Air On October 11

The Children's Theatre, Montreal's talented juveniles directed by Dorothy Davis and Violet Walters, whose stage and radio performances have delighted Montreal audiences for the past few years, have an active season ahead of them. On October 11th, they return to their popular "Calling All Children" Programme which will take place every Saturday morning from 11.30 a.m. to noon over station C.F.C.F. Miss Davis and Miss Walters have received hundreds of letters, fan mail from their large listening audience.

At present, the Children's Theatre are rehearsing that delightful play "Anne of Green Gables," which is the first children's play to open the season at Victoria Hall on Oct. 25th. This will be followed by performances of "Rumpelstiltskin" and "Little Women".

The North and West-end studios of the Children's Theatre open the week of October 6th., and as registrations are very heavy in the kindergarten, junior, inter-

Speaking of Lana Turner's romance with Tyrone, one gossip remarked: "More Power to her!" . . . Rudy Vallee wants to return to the ether, but not as a variety star. He'd like to be a commentator.

REVIEWS OF PREVIEWS — "Bury Me Dead" — (PRC) — 60% — This one is interesting only because it has June Lockhart in the cast. It's a mystery without suspense, a whodunit without mystery. June deserves much better fare than this. . . . "Comedy Carnival" — (Hal Roach) — 70% — This is Bebe Daniels' first chore as a producer in Hollywood, and it rolls merrily along at a satisfactory clip. Paramount's "Calcutta" Ladd's New Thrill-Film

In an unusual and exciting setting, with his enemies more sinister and much more deadlier than ever before, Alan Ladd is, advance notices say, at his fighting best in his latest "love 'em, slug 'em" thriller for Paramount, "Calcutta." Co-starring Gail Russell, for romance, and William Bendix, for laughs, the film arrives Saturday at the Monkland.

"Calcutta" places Ladd in India, where he finds murder added to that country's much vaunted lures of amour and mystery. Pitted against the unerring accuracy and telling effect of his bullets and fists are the devious methods of the Orient, such as the first murder weapon, a strangler's noose. By this method, Ladd's buddy is done in, and Alan and Bendix go into action to find the killer.

They are a pair of adventurous, devil-may-care pilots who fly the dangerous "hump" from Calcutta to China, John Whitney, a pugnacious pilot, makes up the third of this happy, scrappy trio, and when he suddenly announces his impending wedding to Gail Russell, Ladd and Bendix are flabbergasted.

On the eve of the wedding, however, death overtakes Whitney, who is found strangled. His two buddies, impatient with slow police methods, set out after his murderer. They become involved with jewel smugglers, a suave night club owner, an insidious-looking Indian merchant, and Ladd, in between scraps, romances with the lovely Miss Russell, even though he suspects her. Before the unpredictable and stirring climax is unfolded, there are more murders and many thrill-packed episodes.

June Duprez, as a night club singer in love with Ladd, heads the supporting cast which also features Lowell Gilmore and Edith King. John Farrow directed "Calcutta," reported to be a worthy successor to his recent hits, "California," "Two Years Before the Mast" and "Blaze of Noon," and typically Farrow in its thrilling and violent realism.

Second Feature
Paramount's new romantic melodrama, "The Imperfect Lady," starring Ray Milland and Teresa Wright, with Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Virginia Field, Anthony Quinn and Reginald Owen in the cast, tells the story of a woman with a past, and deals with the conflict which arises within her when she must make a choice between revealing her secret or keeping silent.

"The Imperfect Lady" is set in Victorian England, but its story could just as easily happen today. Today, as then, a woman's reputation is a fragile thing and when, as in "The Imperfect Lady," it is caught in an embarrassing net of circumstantial evidence against her, the chances are she would stand just as much condemned. How "The Imperfect Lady" solves her problems is told excitedly.

Westmount VS Loyola Tonight

Locals Out For First Grid Win

By GEORGE COCHRANE

Westmount High's Senior A gridgers have high hopes of chalking up their first win of this young 1947 season up at Molson Stadium tonight when they meet Loyola in the night-cap of a school double bill which will see the league-leading West Hill aggregation run up against Montreal High in the opener. The first game has been called for 7.00 o'clock, the second for 8.30.

Westmount has gone winless to date, having been blanked by West Hill and Montreal High, while Loyola has a one and one record.

MHS BLANK WESTMOUNT

Montreal High just couldn't do anything wrong at the Molson Bowl last Friday night as they ripped through Westmount for a smashing, one-sided 42-0 win. But this did not look like the same Westmount team that had meekly and listlessly bowed 37-0 to West Hill only a week before. This was a team that was in there fighting every second, that made the heavier and older Montrealers battle for every inch, a team that brought to mind that 1945 Westmount team which, while it won only a pair of games all season, had as much fight as any team in the league.

Westmount deserved to crash the scoring column last week but Lady Luck just wasn't having anything to do with the lads in the Purple and White sweaters. But the starry performance of Captain Johnny Waterston and fighting Richard Lord, as well as the determined battling of every man on the team, gave Westmount fans something to cheer about.

Montreal had a bit too much on the pigskin for Jimmy Patrick's boys, however, as time and again big Manny Barnoff, preceded by three and four-man interference, bulldozed his way through the line for big gains, and Ray Skerrett, the University street lads' lightning-footed, swivel-hipped backfielder, sped around the ends for plenty of yardage.

The coloured backfield ace pulled off the most sensational run of the game in the dying moments of the last quarter when he received a Westmount kick behind his own goal line and sped down the sidelines to the Westmount five before being downed by Forrest-er.

Skerrett was shaken up on the play and limped off the field. His teammates rushed from the bench to carry the chocolate-coloured football warrior on their shoulders and both Westmount's and Montreal's cheering sections paid vocal homage to the fast-moving star.

Long First Half

Ten-minute quarters were supposed to have been inaugurated at last Friday's game but the first half of the Westmount-Montreal fray began at 7.15 and wasn't over until 18 minutes past eight. At the half the Blue and White led 13-0 but in the second part of the contest the Westmounters, considerably outweighed but never outfought, were just about played out and Montreal ripped through the line and swept around the ends for big gains.

It was too one-sided to be much of a football game but Westmount showed that the old G. P. Smith spirit is still alive in the little school below the police station by putting up as game a fight as you could see anywhere.

Virgil Wagner Leads Scorers

Virgil Wagner of the Montreal Alouettes took over the scoring leadership of the Big Four over the week-end as he picked up two touchdowns Sunday to jack his total to 30 points.

Following closely in second place is Joe Krol of the Toronto Argonauts who was comparatively quiet in the Argo's single game with the Rough Riders on Saturday and only managed to pick up two points. He now has 25.

In third place was Ches McCance of Alouettes who kicked three field goals over the week-end and two converts for an 18 point total.

The following are the four scoring leaders in the I.R.F.U.

Canada State Flowers Listed

The most Canadians know the maple is the tree symbolic of the country, not so many are aware of the floral or other emblems of the provinces. The fleur-de-lis, which is pretty if a little showy. The blue iris represents New Brunswick. The yellow flower is Nova Scotia's. The autumn crocus is symbolic of Manitoba.

For its many uses, the value of the maple is not solely material. Canadian cities would be without the spreading maple lining so many of their streets and avenues.

Orchids For P. E. I.

The mayflower's honey colored form tiny clusters, look like nosegays, encircled by short, dark, oval leaves. The first flower which the Fathers saw after their winter spent in the New World, so it has become the emblem of the State of Maine as well as of Nova Scotia.

The lady's slipper, a wild orchid, is the emblem of Prince Edward Island, while that of Quebec is the emblem of the French.

Stucco Painting So Hard

Stucco may be satisfactorily finished by the use of either cement base water mixed paints or regulation oil base paints, but the procedure differs according to the type of paint which is used.

When cement base water mixed paints are used, the surface of the stucco should be first dampened in accordance with the instructions of the manufacturer of the cement base paint, which are printed on the container.

When a regular oil base paint is used, the stucco should be first dampened and then be seasoned for several days to get rid of any free water which might burn the paint. The surface should be thoroughly dry at the time when the paint is applied.

kings of old, the fleur-de-lis, or wild iris which flowers in summer.

The white trillium, emblem of Ontario, is peculiar to North America, although similar species grow in the Himalayas and in Japan. It has three large, white, pointed petals. Below them three very broad leaves spring from the same point on the stem.

The emblem of Saskatchewan is the prairie lily. Its blossom is orange with brownish-purple spots.

The emblem of Alberta is the prairie rose.

Many Wild Flowers

The emblem of British Columbia is a dogwood, a tall bush whose greenish-white blossoms form clusters.

Canada has many wild flowers

TIGERS HAVE POTENTIAL POWER

The rejuvenated Hamilton Tigers pulled something of a surprise last weekend in displaying a brand of football absent from a Hamilton team since the days of Mike Hedgewick and Bob Isbister before the Big Four disbanded during the war years.

In turning in their first win of the past two campaigns, and their initial success since they knocked over the Montreal Hornets, the Alouettes' predecessors back in 1945, the Tigers unveiled a smart forward passing attack, and while they still rest on the bottom of the heap, their lookout for the future is considerably brighter.

That win over Alouettes is made all the more sweet by the fact that the Tigers' biggest star, Flinging Frankie Filchock, the storm centre of the Big Four thus far this year, was on the sidelines when it all happened, an infected arm keeping him out of uniform.

* * *

For a while here on Sunday it looked as if the Tigers would overcome an early Al lead and when, after creeping up to only a five point disadvantage, the Tigers took over on their own twenty with their plays clicking it looked as if the visitors might be off to the races. Alouettes had slowed down, but Wagner made a great diving interception of a pass and a couple of plays later he ran it over to clinch it for Als.

ALOUETTES SHOWED IMPROVEMENT

The Alouettes showed up better against Ottawa and the passing and running of Cates was a pleasant surprise and also a significant factor in their win. In Cates they may have that very needed passing power they have so long sought and at times he even outshone Wagner with his plunging dashes into the rock-ribbed centre of the Hamilton line. Gaudaur played a great game on defense as he continually knocked down the Tiger passes some of which seemed to be thrown more in a blind hope than through any preconceived plan.

* * *

The Tigers showed little of a ground offense except one great extension play that they shook loose for first down five or six times in the second half. They also unveiled a great kicker, an American named Stephenes from the University of Tennessee, who continually matched or exceeded the fine long punts of Kljek, the Als' fine hooper.

STEPHENES WAS STAR AT TENNESSEE

Stephenes was a great running back at Tennessee, but like the other imports he experiences quite a bit of trouble in running back kicks and in dodging outside the ten-yard interference limit. These imports from force of habit, fall behind their backfield mates, expecting them to block, which function they cannot of course perform, whereas the Canuck backs keep ahead of their mates so as to keep eligible for the lateral pass. Anyway, the Tigers looked like a solid team, and with a star in there like Filchock they could still be a threat.

SATURDAY'S BATTLE SHOULD BE TERRIFIC

That white-washing that the Argos handed Ottawa in Toronto comes as a bit of a surprise but also shows that the Torontonians are over that lethargy that they suffered at the beginning of the season. It indicates that the Scullers are back in their 1947 form, and in Pyzer, who scored their touchdown, they have picked up a good running back who has thus far overshadowed Copeland.

The win was the third in a row for the Argos and once again it was Joe Krol, whose kicking and passing led the way to the Toronto victory. That Argo line must be plenty tough also, for they haven't been scored on in 120 minutes, or two full games of football, both of their last two wins being shutout victories, by 2-0 over Hamilton, and by 8-0 over the mighty Rough Riders.

It should be a terrific battle here on Saturday when Krol and Company come to town for the first time this year, but with them they are sure to bring memories of that great game when they edged Als 12-6 in the Big Four playoff last year.

Krol will again be a marked man, but they'd better watch Copeland too, for the lean half is far overdue for one of those great days of his that leave the fans comparing him to Bummer Sterling and other old-time greats.

Schwiedler will be back with the Als after missing last Sunday's encounter and he should help swing the scales over to the Als' favour. Third and second place are at stake in this ball game with the Argos currently leading Alouettes by one game in that coveted spot behind the high-flying Rough Riders, now only one game up on Toronto.

Learning to Live
Instead of the "three Rs", children should be taught at least four — adding "Right Living" to the traditional reading, 'ritin' and 'rithmetic, — declare national health leaders.

It is suggested at Ottawa that educational courses should include instruction in all the sound principles of hygiene, not overlooking the science of nutrition about which so many adults of this generation know little. Health authorities believe that our future generations will be healthier and happier if children are given basic instruction in living habits as well as in the many subjects now taught.

WHS FOREVER

Be there any Examiner advertisers who doubt the oft-made claim that this journal of enlightenment is thoroughly pursued by the citizens of the suburb city, their doubts, apprehensions and fears would have been completely dissipated had they followed this reporter around last Friday night.

It will be remembered that in last week's issue of your favorite newspaper, I made the statement that the vast majority of Westmount High's Senior A pigskin toters had as much pep in them as a group of emaciated pallbearers, or words to that effect. Last Friday evening, accompanied by that fine drummer and well-known man about town, John Joseph Junior Pepper, I entered Molson Stadium and sat down behind the Westmount bench. Crawford Johnson, the boss man of WHS's much improved cheerleaders, gave vent to remarks the gist of which was that I shouldn't have written what I did write — even if it was half-true.

Phil Everson, another cheerleader, supported the Johnson lad's opinion so vehemently that Junior Pepper remarked, "If I had known you needed protection I wouldn't have come here with you."

Eventually, Montreal High made their belated appearance on the field and the game was underway. Westmount put up a game fight but ended up on the zephyrous end of a 42-0 count.

Mr. Pepper and I wended our way to WHS to take a peek at the dancing and the dancers. No sooner were we in the establishment than little Peter Hall accosted me and complained at the sight of his name in last week's Pillar.

The Pepper lad and I managed to shake the mob loose long enough to shed our coats and then a diminutive former ball boy, who didn't even last out the opening day of the Australia-Czechoslovakia Davis Cup tie, the lad with the mouth several sizes too large for his muscle-less frame, snarled from the

Chaplain Hides Gestapo Woman

A Belgian army chaplain sheltered the black-haired mistress of a Gestapo chief, in return for the life of his brother.

The story was told by Col. Robert E. Van Goethem, senior Protestant chaplain of the Belgian army, at a meeting of the international missionary council in Whitby, Ont.

Col. Van Goethem told how he made a deal with the Gestapo officer to hide the woman from her shadows, "What are you doing here, Cochrane? Don't you know when you're not welcome?"

Then Claude Root, the sage of Victoria Avenue, ambled by and remarked in passing, sarcasm dripping from every vowel, "Thanks for the write-up."

Harold Bud Emo, the insurance man whose brother Wally is on the WHS line-up this season, halted his merry-making long enough to inform me that he expected to see more complimentary write-ups for future games.

Now, I have run through all this before. But, just for the sake of repetition, leave me run through it again briefly; the newspapermen's job is to call them as he sees them. That, gentle reader, is all I am trying to do. If there are some whose sensitivities are hurt by what I write, I am sorry. And if there are some of this WHS football team who pay more attention to their press notices than they do to their football then I feel sorry for them.

But, Mr. Advertiser, one thing I can assure you. The Examiner is read from first page to last.

fellow Belgians after the mans quit Brussels.

A pass liberating his brother was issued.

The chaplain hid the woman's home for two months. Belgians combed the city for laborers. "It was a ticklish to be in," he said. "If the or the Belgians found her, would have accused me of being a collaborator... My brother and I went to Belgian security officers and them the whole story. They to continue to hide her until excitement in Brussels died a bit."

But the authorities stuck on her hiding place while chaplain was away from and placed her in jail.

Col. Van Goethem testified the woman's behalf at her on collaboration charges and the court's leniency.

Asked whether the woman turned over a new leaf, Col. Goethem replied: "I don't know. The last I heard of her she employed by the British service."
