House applauds courage

DOUGLAS HARKNESS
Raps 'mass of rumors'

OTTAWA (CP) — Thunderous applause rolled through the Commons Thursday night when Defence Minister Harkness rose to take part in an emergency debate on nuclear weapons policy.

Fellow MPs sensed the strain he had been under in recent days and the applause was a tribute to his courage in facing the House.

The view of the Canadian military is that Canada requires defensive nuclear weapons for military reasons.

The government has purchased $700,000,000 worth of nuclear carriers but so far has not announced acceptance or rejection of the nuclear warheads for them.

As minister of national defence, Mr. Harkness, 59, has been caught squarely in the middle.

Last week, Prime Minister Diefenbaker made a speech in which he discussed the pros and cons of the nuclear issue.

Mr. Harkness felt some newspaper reports wrongly emphasized the anti-nuclear parts of Mr. Diefenbaker's speech and on Monday he put out a press statement stressing the pro-nuclear portions.

This statement appeared to go farther down the nuclear road than the prime minister had and the Liberals immediately jumped in with suggestions that Mr. Harkness resign.

On top of that, the U.S. state department issued a statement Wednesday night which took issue with many points made by Mr. Diefenbaker and, by implication, took sides with Mr. Harkness.

The defence minister obviously couldn't support the U.S. statement, condemned by Mr. Diefenbaker and the three opposition leaders as an unprecedented intrusion into Canadian domestic affairs. Neither could he renounce the position of his own department.

It was in these politically cruel circumstances that Mr. Harkness took the floor Thursday night.

The minister is no orator. He finds speaking difficult at the best of times and his voice nearly cracked several times.

He referred to the "terrific mass of rumors" that he was prepared to resign and scorned one report that he was "close to collapse."

Banda takes over in Nyasaland

ZOMBA, Nyasaland (Reuters) Dr. Hastings Banda, 57, took office today as the British protectorate of Nyasaland's first prime minister.

At the same time, Nyasaland became a self-governing country—the last step before attaining full independence—after 60 years of British rule. The new government is almost all Negro.

This was a day of triumph for fiery Dr. Banda, a Negro physician. He returned to his home in this central African territory of nearly 3,000,000 population 4½ years ago, after 40 years of self-imposed exile, to lead the struggle for "liberation."

As a boy of 13 he left home in Nyasaland and set out to walk barefoot 1,000 miles to Johannesburg, South Africa, to gain an education.

He found a job in a gold mine and eventually managed to get to the United States where he went to high school in Ohio. He enrolled at the University of Chicago, graduating as a bachelor of philosophy in 1931 and then studied at Meharry Medical College in Nashville, Tenn.

Vermont, Maine legislators

Urge Canada-US conference to restore harmony

WASHINGTON (CP) — A Vermont senator and a congressman from Maine have called for an urgent meeting of Canada-U.S. parliamentarians to restore harmony between the two countries over the current nuclear arms controversy.

Meanwhile, U.S. diplomats pondered whether they made some tactical error in their bombshell attempt to clarify the public record on the history of Canada-U.S. nuclear weapons negotiations.

Senator George Aiken, Vermont Republican, and Representative Stanley Tupper, Maine Republican, urged the two-country meeting.

Aiken, member of the Senate foreign relations committee, suggested the state department should not have made any public criticism of the Canadian government. Tupper disagreed. He said the criticism was warranted, but that it should have come from President Kennedy and not the state department.

Today, Charles Ritchie, 62, Canadian ambassador to the United States, flew to Ottawa, recalled for consultations as a Canadian rebuke to the U.S. government. But the cross-border nuclear weapons crisis that stirred the rebuke was no nearer solution.

Friends anticipated the Halifax-born diplomat would be back at his job in a few days, his trip being more of a diplomatic gesture than for any deep consultations. An authoritative view is that Ritchie bears no new advice but will remain at Ottawa at Prime Minister Diefenbaker's disposition.

It was a hectic day for the Canadian embassy. Telephone calls poured in all day as U.S. reporters sought more information on reasons for all the sudden fuss along what has always been called the world's friendliest border. Ritchie shunned reporters as he stepped into the limelight as the first ambassador to be recalled for consultations during a period of Canada-U.S. strain.

The climax came when Diefenbaker charged in the Canadian Parliament that the state department's Wednesday statement, contradicting the prime minister's version of nuclear negotiations, was an unwarranted intrusion in Canada affairs. He said the department's statement had been given to Canadian officials just 30 minutes before it was made public.

U.S. officials countered that Diefenbaker's original nuclear statement, casting doubt on the need of a Canadian nuclear role, had been delivered last Friday without any advance notice.

Two days of talks

Macmillan meeting with Fanfani to discuss French Market veto

ROME (CP-Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan arrived here by air today for two days of talks with Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani probably centering on the French veto of Britain's bid to join the European Common Market.

Informed sources said Macmillan will assure the Italian government, which actively championed the British cause, that Britain does not want to see the European economic community disrupted.

Britain to assign V-bombers to NATO

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today prepared to press ahead with its plan to assign its nuclear V-bombers to NATO as a start toward the multilateral Atlantic pact nuclear force following Parliament's approval Thursday night of the Anglo-American Polaris agreement.

The Commons approved President Kennedy's offer of submarine-carried Polaris missiles to Britain to replace the abandoned air-to-ground Skybolt missile after a crucial two-day debate on defence policy.

At the same time, Defence Minister Peter Thorneycroft said Britain's entire force of 175 Vulcan bombers and about 200 H-bombs are available to NATO.

Talks could start now with the supreme Western commander in Europe, U.S. Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, on the targeting and planning of the force.

But Thorneycroft said any bombers assigned to strengthen NATO forces should be kept under British control.

NEED FOR EFFICIENCY "We should keep the V-bombers in British Bomber Command," he said. "That is important for its morale, for its discipline, and above all for its fighting efficiency."

The changeover to the Polaris deterrent—worked out by President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan in the Bahamas in December—was approved by a vote of 330 to 236—a Conservative margin of 94.

A Labor opposition amendment declaring "no confidence" in the government defence policy, which it said had "collapsed," was defeated 337 to 234—a government majority of 103.

Harold Wilson, Labor foreign affairs spokesman, in a stinging attack on the government, said the Labor party supported neither the Polaris nor the now-defunct Skybolt.

CANADIAN FIGHTERS FOR EUROPE — This partly dismantled CF-100 Starfighter being eased from the hold of a transport plane at a NATO station in Europe, and others like it are part of the defence hassle between Canada and United States. The CF-104s, capable of carrying nuclear armaments, are being used to re-equip the RCAF's air divisions. So far, Canada has not accepted nuclear ammunition for them.

A day of drama in Commons

Denies any contradiction

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Harkness rose in a tense Commons chamber Thursday night and firmly denied that he had contradicted his leader, Prime Minister Diefenbaker, on the nuclear arms issue.

The minister's statement, with public galleries jammed and attentive MPs hanging on every word, was one of the highlights of a day of high drama in Parliament.

Another was Prime Minister Diefenbaker's blunt assertion that the United States had made an "unwarranted intrusion" in Canadian affairs with its statement Wednesday night blistering Canada for stalling on nuclear defence.

Leaders of all three opposition parties also rebuked the U.S., but said the U.S. move had been provoked by Ottawa's indecision on whether Canada is to play a nuclear role in NORAD and NATO.

ENDS RARE DEBATE

Mr. Harkness' statement culminated a rare emergency debate which was forced by the opposition parties and tied to Wednesday's bombshell declaration by the U.S. state department.

The declaration said Canada had failed to propose a practical arrangement that would effectively contribute to continental defence, and took direct issue with statements made by Mr. Diefenbaker in a Commons speech last Friday.

Mr. Harkness put out a statement Monday giving his interpretation of what the prime minister had said.

Opposition leaders alleged that this statement, in which Mr. Harkness represented Mr. Diefenbaker as having clearly enunciated a pro-nuclear policy, actually contradicted the prime minister's remarks.

Thursday night, in a speech that was often interrupted by opposition jeers and applauded by desk-thumping government supporters, Mr. Harkness rejected the allegation.

"It is simply not true," said the defence minister.

SEES NO CHANGE Paul Martin, Liberal foreign affairs critic, said the minister did not dispel the appearance of a deep cleavage between himself and Mr. Diefenbaker.

He challenged the defence minister to deny rumors that he had threatened to resign last weekend. Mr. Harkness did not reply; he sat chatting in whispers with his deskmate, External Affairs Minister Green.

Heavy toll as plane falls into Ankara

ISTANBUL (AP) — A Middle East Airlines passenger plane crashed in the centre of Ankara today causing hundreds of casualties on the ground.

Turkish civil air officials and the fire department of Ankara said the number of dead had not yet been established. They said about 150 were injured.

Radio Ankara called for blood donors. In Ankara, the MEA Airlines office confirmed that their plane which left Nicosia, Cyprus, and was scheduled to land at Ankara this afternoon crashed at Ulus Square, the centre of the Turkish capital.

Police reported plane fragments were scattered over the square.

There were reports that the plane exploded in the air. There also were conflicting reports that the plane collided in flight with a military transport plane.

U.S. authorities in Ankara said they presumed the passenger plane might have collided with a Turkish Air Force jet.

The MEA plane was believed to have had 15 persons aboard—11 passengers and four crew.

Value up

QUEBEC (CP) — Value of mineral production in Quebec rose to approximately $519,145,596 in 1962, up from $455,522,933 during 1961, the natural resources department said Thursday.

Thus, on the record, the reaction of the U.S. government was neither optimistic nor pessimistic. But behind the scenes, the surprise at this sudden turn of events set in motion by the Soviet Union was coupled with a sharply critical attitude toward de Gaulle.

SEES HIS CHANCE

The reason is that officials believe Khrushchev may see an opportunity opening up to exploit the rift in the Western alliance and he does not want to limit his future range of action in any way by pushing forward a policy of agreement at this time.

HAULS HIMSELF ALONG

He slid another 30 yards toward the next pylon. Past that pylon, he hooked his knees over the cable and hauled himself along by his hands.

He had a rope round his chest. He uncoiled it and threw it across the cable.

But he failed to catch the end of the rope in his frozen hands and plunged to the canal towpath in the West—only a few feet from bushes marking the border.

He came to three hours later and shouted for help. A woman called West police. A fire brigade hauled him across the canal by rubber boat.

much indecision that the jet would return to Edmonton.

A Canadian Pacific Airlines Britannia—a four-engine turbo-prop—was loaded with the food which was to have gone aboard the jet here. Included was a shipment of fresh strawberries flown from Mexico.

The Britannia, with a fresh crew for the 707 aboard, flew to Edmonton.

The jet, with 47 passengers and crew of 12, landed in Edmonton at 12:54 MST (2:45 p.m. EST). Delayed due to starter trouble on one engine it was 5:37 p.m. MST when the plane took off again. The royal couple remained inside the plane in Edmonton, making only one brief appearance.

Loaded with 17,700 gallons of fuel, the jet was scheduled to refuel at Honolulu before proceeding to Fiji.

When it passed over Vancouver heading southwest, it was 4,700 miles from its point of origin in London.

It was 8 p.m. PST when Capt. J. T. Percy radioed he was turning the aircraft around 900 miles out to sea and heading back for Vancouver.

Ron Evans, BOAC district sales manager, said the crew reported winds "so bad" in Hawaii "they reached 65 to 75 miles an hour and they had to evacuate the airport tower."

Officials here had an hour and 55 minutes to prepare for the unexpected arrival.

Bad weather causes unprecedented delays

Queen forced back to Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—A routine refuelling stop that turned into an impromptu royal visit ends today—maybe.

They spent an unscheduled night in Hotel Vancouver after an enforced double delay believed unprecedented for a royal visit.

The Queen said as she was greeted at Vancouver International Airport:

"I'm pleased that we are down for a rest for the evening."

Their British Overseas Airways Corporation jet, a Boeing 707, was diverted twice Thursday. The first time, over Enderby in interior British Columbia, the plane turned around and landed in Edmonton.

The second diversion came Thursday night when the jet—by then on its way again and 900 miles out over the Pacific—turned around and came to Vancouver.

The Queen and Prince Philip were scheduled to take off today at 10 a.m. PST (1 p.m. EST).

TAKES 13 HOURS

G. S. McDougall, superintendent of North American operations for BOAC, said the departure time, while tentative, was "fairly solid."

"From whatever time the flight gets away it's 13 hours to Fiji," he said.

The couple is flying from London to Fiji, to transfer to the yacht Britannia and cruise to Australia and New Zealand, where they will tour.

Thursday was a day of confusion and frustration.

Said Cmdr. Richard Colville, royal press secretary:

"The Queen and Prince Philip had a short, three-hour sleep and that's all."

Including the time the aircraft was on the ground in Edmonton, they had been aboard for more than 19 hours.

PREPARE WELCOME

After the jet had been reported past Edmonton en route from London to its scheduled Vancouver refuelling stop, Lieutenant Governor George Pearkes, Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Mayor Bill Rathie gathered at the airport to lead the welcoming committee.

Then it was reported after

TRUCK OVERTURNS — Wilfrid Bonneville, 60, of Bedford, steps from the cab of a truck which went out of control on the St. Elie Road about 8:30 a.m. today and plowed into a roadside ditch near the Montreal highway. Bonneville a passenger in the truck driven by J. Brault, of Bedford, and owned by J. O. Levesque, said the only thing he didn't like about the mishap was having to crawl back into the truck to get his belongings which fell from his pocket when the truck overturned.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—It is getting harder and harder to find suitable occupations for television's villains.

Furious, complaining—even threatening—letters pour in every time a member of a profession or trade is painted in less than a heroic light. Today few programs dare present a quack doctor, a shady lawyer, a crooked cop, a forgetful plumber, a heavy-handed dentist, a swindling broker or a hard-hearted banker.

Now another, less well-organized group is being played on the alert to the perils of the tarnished image. In the current issue of Sales Management, a trade magazine, the editor writes angrily about the television picture of a salesman:

"The editorial described the television salesman—a heavy as polished, poised, suave and well-dressed."

"He has become the prototype of the modern villain. It is always a good gamble that it was a salesman who done the girl wrong, as they used to say, a salesman who pawns the worthless stock on the unsuspecting widow, a salesman who is responsible for the needless death because he sold the worthless drug."

The remedy? Editor Philip Salisbury suggests the one that other offended groups have used: Write complaining letters—to managers of stations that show the programs, with carbons to program sponsors who may just have some salesmen of their own.

It has worked often enough before. It probably will again.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Much has been said lately about Hollywood lifting itself by its bootstraps—not the movie industry, but Hollywood proper: The boulevard, the gay white way, that geographical curiosity from which sprang a world of glamor.

It had been a decade or more since I had taken a walk along the mile of Hollywood heartland. My impression then had been of a clutter of hock shops, juice stands, close-out sales and curiosities, in shops and walking along the sidewalk.

The place has changed. If you're looking up, the best vantage point is at Vine Street, which shows signs of reaching for the sky. North of the boulevard is the circular capitol tower, which looks like a stack of records looking for a juke box.

At Sunset and Vine they're building a 22-story office tower which will be the tallest thing around.

Good for Vine Street. Let's continue the stroll down Hollywood Boulevard.

Here the changes are more noticeable. A new terrace sidewalk stretches the length of the boulevard, studded with brass stars bearing the names of 1,700 personalities. The merchants still haven't seen fit to include Charlie Chaplin, ostracized for his leftist views.

Did the shopkeepers outsmart themselves with the expensive sidewalk? The tendency is for tourists to stare down at the names instead of looking at the gaudies in the store windows. I fought that tendency in order to inspect the boulevard's other changes. What did I see? A cleaner, neater, fresher as-

Annual meeting of St. James Church at Bedford shows successful year

BEDFORD—The annual vestry meeting of St. James Church, held on Jan. 22, in the parish hall, was opened with prayer by Rev. W. J. White. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read by the vestry clerk, J. Davidson.

M. S. McCaw, secretary-treasurer, in the financial statement, showed that the past year had been most successful with a balance for the coming year of $2,001.70. The missionary apportionment of $1,231 was oversubscribed, the apportionment of $1,283 for the present year was accepted.

The building fund received $1,000 from the Church Women's Year and has a present balance of $4,162.14. Raymond Whitcomb, rector's warden, spoke of needed repairs to be made to both the church and church hall and the renovation of the rectory, which will be done when a new rector is appointed.

The Morgan Fund had disbursements of $113.57 and a bank balance of $426.83.

REPORTS HEARD
The Church Women's Year report was given by Miss Margaret Cokerline, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Harold Deming, showing collections for the year of $882.53 and a bank balance of $105.52.

Mrs. Alfred Nicholson, president of St. James Women's Auxiliary, reported proceeds of $562.15 from two rummage sales, gifts were sent to Rev. Mr. Aizawa, in Japan and Rev. John Bonnard, in Ontario, totalling $78, an increase of $50 was voted to the diocesan apportionment making a total of $352. The pect to the street. Most of the 10 theatres along the stretch have glittering new fronts. Stores have been remodelled, painted attractive pastels, given new signs.

Nearly all the tourist traps have been obliterated.

HIGHWATER—Mr. Gordon Barnett spent the weekend in Montreal, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Brown.

Mr. Norman Minor, of Magog spent the weekend with Mr. Cedric Bailey.

Mrs. Alex Harvison has returned home after spending several days in Montreal.

Branch also sent a girl to summer camp.

The report of Mrs. Harry Jones, organist, showed that $61.11 was realized from the carol singing. New cassocks and new music had been purchased for the choir, also hymn books.

Mrs. R. W. Craighead, Sunday School principal, reported an enrollment of 93 children, and that a new course of study, the David C. Cook Sunday School course, had been inaugurated this year, proving successful. This course was supplemented with a study of Anglican Church robes, furnishings and the meaning of the various seasons in the church calendar.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

Mr. White reported that there were 15 baptisms, five burials and three marriages during the year. The rector, stated that in view of a new rector coming here, it was deemed advisable that all officers remain in office for 1963, they are as follows: Raymond Whitcomb, rector's warden; W. H. Baglow, people's warden; Mrs. George Harland, envelope secretary; J. Davidson, vestry clerk; the only new officer appointed was George Harland as head sidesman, replacing Austin Campbell. The sidesmen and the member of the advisory board remain the same. Mr. White commended the young people of the parish for their interest as shown in all departments of church work.

Mrs. Adolphus Greenwood was thanked for her work in looking after the church linen. Mr. Whitcomb thanked Mrs. White for her work as flower convener over the years.

PRESENTATION MADE

Following the close of the vestry meeting Mr. Whitcomb, on behalf of the congregation, presented Mr. White with a purse of money and Mrs. White received a bouquet of flowers from Mrs. Percy Terrill. Mr. White, on behalf of himself and family, expressed thanks for the gift and spoke of happy memories that he and his family would carry with them of the 12 years spent here. Of the 20 years in the ministry, 16 had been spent in this district, four years as rector of St. James Church, at Stanbridge East. He spoke of the great privilege that it had been to be the rector of St. James Church, and to participate in the social life of the community, apart from the life of the church.

Rev. T. F. Duncan, who was for ten years pastor of the Bedford United Church, told of the work that he and Mr. White had done in the community and expressed all good wishes for his work in his new parish, and that Mr. White would be as helpful in his new parish of St. Philip's, Montreal West as he had been in Bedford.

A social hour concluded the evening, over 100 persons attending. Coffee was poured by Mrs. Ralph Van Horn and Mrs. F. E. Draper. The table being centered with a bowl of flowers and white tapers in silver candlesticks.

At Phillipsburg, Mr. White was tendered a farewell party, at which he was presented with a gift and a purse of money by the rector's warden, Kenneth Maxwell.

Mr. Raymond Milaenais has returned from the Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital and is convalescing satisfactorily.

Mr. Ovil Dufresne, who fell in his home and severely injured his back, is hospitalized in Sherbrooke. His address is Room 313, Sherbrooke Hospital.

Mrs. George Durelleau, of Pierrefonds, was guest of her mother, Mrs. William Hooper, when in town to attend the wedding of Miss Lise Roy to Mr. Jacques Duhamel on Jan. 26.

Mrs. Lloyd Padner, St. Joseph Street, was in Foster during the week, owing to the illness and death of her father, Roy Bostwick. The funeral was held on Jan. 24. Among those from Waterloo attending were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wing.

My adversary knows, or should know, but is loath to speak, that the Provincial Parliament approved Bill 155 in January 1961, authorizing the City of Danville to constitute an industrial fund of $100,000. This bill was sanctioned by the Lieutenant Governor in council January 20th, 1961. In other words Danville was authorized to the extent of $100,000, but availed themselves of the lower sum of $80,000, namely $73,562.37.

Mr. Nadeau repudiated the Municipal Council for spending the sum of $4,000, to purchase land owned by Mr. Clovis Thibault, when this land had been offered free. It is true that for a long time, my brother, the M.L.A. for Richmond, had put at the disposal of the Municipal authorities, a vast amount of land, but the members of the council were forced to bend to the will of the proprietors of the new industry who refused to locate on any land but that of Mr. Thibault's.

The more contrary this industry became, the more my adversary realized that the council had known for some time that the population had for 25 years needed and wanted an industry of which they could be proud.

Again, according to the quotations in the paper, Mr. Nadeau spoke out against the increase of the Municipal debt. A brief investigation showed that is absolutely contrary to the facts that the municipal debt in Danville is any higher than in neighboring municipalities. In Windsor, the debt is $1,203,000 with a population of 6,200. In Richmond, the established debt is $1,414,490.00 with only a population of 4,000. Whereas in Danville, the municipality only owes on two temporary loans to the amount of $30,000 and $5,000. We know the city also owes $24,000 on the purchase of a water works system. Is Mr. Nadeau against the municipally-owned water works system? Would Mr. Nadeau oppose the construction of the new industrial building at the above mentioned cost which was unanimously approved by the people of Danville? I believe the electors of Danville would be interested in the attitude taken by Mr. Nadeau about this subject.

When Mr. Nadeau talks about debts and taxes, then we see how lightly and with what poor grace he takes this matter. How can he on one hand, take such a stand against debts and taxes, and then on the other hand say that they could be diminished with the construction of a sewage system which would raise the cost to approximately $300,000, estimated by the engineers? How can we raise the expenditures and lower the taxes at the same time? Here lies the secret of our pseudo-experts who are trying to exploit the good will of our people. Mr. Nadeau takes his usual pleasure in accusing everyone, the members of the council, and those that qualify as "know-it-alls" and others that judged and condemned on all sort of grounds. But what about Mr. Nadeau's qualifications... Here is the most important issue that must be clarified to the citizens before election day.

Mr. Nadeau was disqualified on June 17th, 1960, from occupying any public office for a period of five years, that is not before January 8th, 1964, in the terms laid down in the enquiry presented to the Hon. Judge.

How is it that he is in spite of the magistrate's court judgment he presents himself for public office? Did he get his pardon from Ottawa? Here is an important point on which the electors have every right to be enlightened if they do not wish once again the day after the election for history to repeat itself.

Personally, I am very proud of the tremendous progress realized during 1960 in Danville, thanks to the excellent collaboration of all my colleagues in the municipal council and the close cooperation of the Provincial Government.

During this 3 year period, the city of Danville has benefitted from municipal works grants totalling more than $175,000, for the construction of a viaduct on the CNR railway, construction of new streets, paving of a dozen or more streets and public places, grant to the Fire Fighting Service, winter works, etc., etc.

These projects were made possible thanks to the honest efforts and splendid understanding which prevailed during this period between municipal council members, the present Provincial Government, and last but not least, between the two races that constitute the population of our town. Also, I do not believe that our town would wish to revive the unhappy regime of chicanery, law suits, lawyers' letters, the firing of the Chief of Police and the disqualifications while Mr. Nadeau occupied the Mayor's seat at the City Hall.

In reality, we know that the citizens of Danville will, on Monday next, February 4th, again elect a proven administration, not one of investigations, accusations and law suits.

Knowing the population of Danville, as I do, I am confident they will vote for a progressive, honest and peaceable Municipal Council and for the Ex-Mayor, Bertrand Vermette, to seat No. 3, who can once again help the City through his vast experience in City matters.

As for the pseudo-message from my brother, the Minister of Family & Social Welfare, of which Mr. Nadeau spoke, I do not believe that my brother needs Mr. Nadeau to tell him what to say, and he has always made it a point not to intervene in any Municipal or School Board elections in his county.

SOUTH BIDS SELF TO SET

A New York reader wants to know how he and his partner should have bid today's hand. His letter reads:

"With 14 points and 4-3-3 distribution I had a perfect two-no-trump response. When my partner rebid three clubs it seemed that it would be much easier to make nine tricks at no-trump than 11 at clubs so I went on to three no-trump. I don't think that he should have that the response should be made and while I would almost surely have responded one diamond I am going to accept two no-trump. Then, when North bid three clubs South should have said to himself, 'My partner must have a long suit and also must be afraid of one other suit. I had better bid three diamonds just to see what he will do next.'

This three diamond rebid would have made it easy for the bidding to continue with three hearts by North, three spades by South, four clubs by North and six clubs by South.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:

South West North East

1 Dmd. Pass 2 Clubs Pass

3 N.T. Pass 4 Dmds. Pass

You, South, hold:

Spades A-K-10-9-7, Hearts A-9-7-6, Diamonds K-Q-10-4, Clubs

What do you do?

A—I favor an overbid of four no-trump at this point. Diamond support has made your hand look much better.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid four no-trump and your partner bids five hearts to pass with a singleton spade and, of course, if he had gone to four clubs I would have raised him. I will appreciate your comments since six clubs was a laydown and I went down one trick at three no-trump when both clubs and hearts failed to break."

The answer to his question is that he is entirely to blame for the debacle. The fact that a hand warrants a two no-trump response does not mean

Census in 1962

Scouting has 1,837 area members

According to a provincial census taken as of June 30, 1962, here are 1,837 Cuns, Scouts, Rovers and Scouters in a total of 39 groups in the St. Francis Valley, Sherbrooke, Stanstead and Yamaska Valley regions.

The figures, released in an issue of the 52 annual report of the Quebec Provincial Council and Montreal Regional Council of Boy Scouts of Canada, show a grand total of 21,601 Cubs, Scouts, Rovers and Scouters in 336 groups in the province and Montreal region.

A breakdown of figures shows six groups in the St. Francis Valley. There are 187 Cubs, 165 Scouts, 3 Rovers and 40 Scouters, making a total of 395 boys.

Sherbrooke has 14 groups made up of 267 Cubs, 214 Scouts and 60 Scouters. There are no Rovers in Sherbrooke. Total is 541 boys.

Stanstead has seven groups. There are 103 Cubs, 95 Scouts and 23 Scouters, for a total of 221 boys. There are no Rovers at Stanstead.

The Yamaska Valley has 12 groups with 300 Cubs, 300 Scouts, four Rovers and 76 Scouters, making a total of 676 boys.

A total of 828 boys enjoyed 3,201 camping days this year in the St. Francis Valley, Sherbrooke, Stanstead and Yamaska Valley regions. Eighty-nine boys in the Francis Valley camped a total of 616 days and a total of 135 boys in Sherbrooke camped a total of 704 days.

Seventy-two boys camped 199 days in the Stanstead area and 532 boys camped a total of 1,682 days in the Yamaska Valley district. Grand totals showed 5,353 boys in the province camping a grand total of 37,443 days.

Water filtration project

Mayor Nadeau, Ald. A. Roy claim public not properly informed

Mayor Armand Nadeau and Alderman Amedee Roy said Thursday afternoon that the population of the City of Sherbrooke was insufficiently informed on the filtration project that has been mentioned as a possible solution to this city's drinking water problem.

Both the mayor and Alderman Roy said at a meeting of the waterworks commission Thursday afternoon that the experts have, up until now, expended much of their time speaking about the Lake Memphremagog project.

Aldermen J. M. Jeanson, Gerard Berard, Roy and the mayor attended the meeting.

In reply to the remarks of the mayor and Mr. Roy, Alderman Jeanson said that the engineer from the Quebec department of health had told him that the day that a filter would be necessary for the water from the Magog River source that the water from the Magog River would no longer be filterable.

Alderman Roy added that the 38 per cent of the property owners who had replied to the card questionnaire did not justify such expenditures.

The mayor said that he believed that the council had pushed the matter long enough and now it was up to the aldermen to await the reply of public to see if they wanted the city to continue to work on the matter.

city should decide to take its water via the pipeline. Tenders should not be called on the basis of the recent population poll, said Alderman Roy.

Mr. Jeanson said that he was convinced that the people had been adequately informed on the matter.

But the mayor persisted that they had not been given enough detail on the filtration project. Furthermore, the mayor said that it was up to the city council to choose between the two projects rather than let the people make the choice.

If the real cost figures had been given to the public previous to the poll, the mayor said that perhaps the results would have been different.

It would be a simple matter to obtain the true costs of such a project, said the mayor, since all that was necessary was to consult the officials at Trois Rivières where such a system has recently been installed.

Alderman Roy added that the 38 per cent of the property owners who had replied to the card questionnaire did not justify such expenditures. The mayor said that he believed that the council had pushed the matter long enough and now it was up to the aldermen to await the reply of public to see if they wanted the city to continue to work on the matter.

"I brought the subject up at the insistence of the public demand and Mr. Nicol had also introduced the subject for the same reason in the year 1954," said Alderman Jeanson.

"For the past 30 years we have been making an attempt to improve the water supply in the City of Sherbrooke," he continued.

"That is why we have taken steps to study the matter," he said.

"The filtration project has been brought before the public on four occasions and on all four," said Mr. Jeanson, "they beat it down."

That is why we decided to study the Lake Memphremagog project continued Alderman Jeanson.

The time to do something about the matter is now, he said, otherwise "we will have done all this work for nothing." Alderman Gerard Berard said that it would be useless to attempt to obtain better results from our present source of water, because, he added, with the development along the Magog River, at Ormerville and Rock Forest, that the water will become more polluted and far more difficult to filter.

Furthermore the cost of filtration is very high he said. "If we install a pipeline from Lake Memphremagog, then we will be assured of good water," he concluded.

Launchings are illegal

School rocket club is grounded

The St. Patrick High School Rocket Club will continue to build rockets and make fuel for them, but it won't be able to carry out launchings, Father Guy Morin, club moderator, told The Record Friday morning.

He said the explosives division of the federal department of mines and technical surveys has warned the club that it is against the law to launch rockets.

Father Morin, who is also vice-president of the Canadian Rocket Society and a Quebec provincial director of the society said, "We will still build our rockets and we still hold our meetings every Monday night. There is no law that says we can't build the rockets. Just one that says we can't fire them."

A letter from the department of Mines and technical surveys to the 23-member Rocket Club, states that the launching of the rockets is a direct violation of the Explosive Act.

The RCMP carried out an investigation at the school last week and confirmed the letter from the department. RCMP members questioned Father Morin as to the extent of the work done on the rockets. They advised him to send a letter to the department asking for permission to carry out the experiments in the laboratory and the launchings.

Father Morin, on behalf of the Sherbrooke Club sent the letter seeking permission. No answer has been received as yet.

Father Morin is optimistic that the rockets will be fired in the near future "under the direction and supervision of department men."

He said the board of directors of the Canadian Rocket Society also sent a petition to Ottawa January 14 asking that rocket clubs across Canada be legally recognized.

Father Morin said he knew of about 12 rocket clubs already established across Canada "working under cover" until such times as Ottawa recognized the Society.

"I have been told by our president that our petition is progressing well," he said. "The C.R.C. has carried a program on our rocket clubs January 22 and another program including panel discussions, films and slides will be shown shortly. The publicity is bringing about some pressure," he said.

He did not know the date and time of the television broadcast.

"If we are recognized as a legal club we will be able to launch our rockets, under the supervision and direction of department men," he said.

The St. Patrick High School Rocket Club was formed last October, "as a place where boys could gain experience in the application of principals that are taught in chemistry and physics classes."

The rockets are made of copper tubing and burn a solid fuel containing zinc and sulphur. To ignite the fuel, an electrical current must be transmitted to the rocket via lengths of copper wire.

Little Lake Magog. The attempt failed. The failure was caused by an electrical problem. The students were counting on a station wagon to power the nine foot-long rockets but connections failed.

Since then the members have been carrying out experiments at their meetings in hopes of making a second attempt in the near future.

Tax rate same at 60c on $100 valuation; Campeau re-elected head of association

By WM. H. LUNAN (Special to The Record)

ASBESTOS — The municipal tax will remain at the same rate for 1963 as in year 62, at 60 cents per $100, property valuation, as adopted at the council meeting, this week.

Twenty-nine per cent of the rate will cover loans and interest charges; 31 per cent is to cover the administration expenses.

A five per cent discount will be allowed the ratepayers who pay their bills before February 28. Accounts are net as of March 31 and a five per cent interest charge will be made after this date.

Aurelien Campeau was re-elected president of the local Merchants and Retailers Association, for the eighth consecutive term. Others on the committee are: Bruno Dubois, 1st vice-president; Elie Elias, 2nd vice-president; Paul Emile Daigle, secretary; Gustav Parenteau, treasurer; Fernand Therrien, J. T. Fontaine, Gerard Piche, Gerard Veronneau, and Louis Houle, directors.

The association will hold its meetings, the last Monday of each month.

A vehicle stolen Friday evening in Asbestos, the property of George Coupland, was found Tuesday, in a snow bank, on the 6th. Range near St. George de Windsor.

Chief Adrien Larivee has several clues as to the culprit, and an early arrest is expected.

A shovel operator, Paul Delude, age 40, working for a contractor, was injured when he fell down a steep embankment, some 16 feet.

Mr. Delude went to the aid of a fellow trucker who had accidentally backed his truck into the gully.

The victim was taken to the St. Vincent Hospital in Sherbrooke where he was reported to have an injured pelvis.

A fire which broke out between the walls, in the home of Jean LaFrance, 212 Pantheon Street, Monday, was quickly brought under control by firemen who answered the call. An over-heated stove pipe was given as the cause of the outbreak by firemen.

Town council approved an amount of $4,700, to defray the cost of new uniforms for the Asbestos Harmony Band. The uniforms will be the same style and color as the present ones, red and blue, with gold accessories.

The band which was formed 33 years ago and is composed of 45 musicians, under the leadership of Roger Girard and directed by Leo Boucher, has brought a number of honors to the town, on various occasions. The group is at present instructing 100 junior cadets whom they expect to eventually join the ranks of the senior band.

St. Pat's Old Boys S. Parker is elected for tenth term as president

Sylvester Parker was re-elected for a tenth term as president of the St. Patrick's Academy Old Boys Association, at the annual general meeting of the association held on Wednesday evening at the New Sherbrooke Hotel.

Reports on the year's activities were given by the committee chairmen. Henry Crochetiere, secretary-treasurer, reported that the association had enjoyed another successful year. Cost of operation and improvements to the St. Pat's Camp, amounted to $5,500.00. Income from campers attending the camp during the six weeks camping period and donations amounted to $2,600.00. The balance of operating deficit was made up from the Booster Club.

In his report on the activities of the association's sports during the year, Len O'Donnell, sports committee chairman stated that the association had operated a team in the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville Little League.

A team was sponsored in the Sherbrooke Juvenile Hockey League. This team won the district championship. A team was also operated in the Sherbrooke Independent Basketball League. In addition to this hockey sweaters were supplied to several Pee-Wee teams.

Reporting on the activities at the camp during the year, Mr. Crochetiere, camp manager, reported that the number of youngsters who have benefited from three weeks camping period totalled 95.

This was an increase over the previous year. About 4,000 pine trees were planted at the camp last spring.

Other improvements effected at the camp included the construction of an additional tool shed, the installation of additional kitchen facilities along with the installation of a hot water system.

The only thing which marred a successful year at the camp was the break-in which occurred last November. Vandals broke windows, stole equipment and left several of the huts in shambles.

The matter was placed in the hands of the Quebec Provincial Police but to date nothing has been heard from them.

Groups who used the camp during the year included the St. Patrick's Society for its annual picnic, a group of youngsters from the Sacred Heart Hospital, the Optimist Club for its annual picnic and the choir from the Notre Dame de l'Assomption Parish.

During the year the association helped eight needy students desiring to continue their studies. In conjunction with the Social Welfare Court, several youngsters were clothed and suitable living quarters found for them.

Following the committee reports, President Parker gave a brief report on the various activities carried on by the association. In summing up his remarks the president paid tribute to the excellent work done by Mr. Crochetiere.

He expressed thanks to Msgr. Moisan and Father Clark, of St. Patrick's Church, for their help and cooperation.

Prior to the election of officers, Rev. Father Quenneville and Judge Redmond Hayes, both patrons of the association, spoke briefly.

The following were elected officers: Honorary president, Judge Emmett J. McManamy; honorary patrons, Rev. Brother Philip, Provincial Presentation Brothers, Rev. Brother Benedict, Rev. Father Quenneville, Judge Redmond Hayes; Chaplain, Msgr. J. R. Moisan, P.D.

President, H. Sylvester Parker; vice-president, John Galvin; vice-president, Gerry Daniels; secretary-treasurer, Henry J. Crochetiere; recording secretary, Ralph McVeigh; sgt-at-arms, Harry Kouri; immediate past president, Maurice Parsons.

Directors: Len O'Donnell, Charlie Clark, Frank Plamondon, Ken Mills, Bert Lacasse.

More commonsense needed by MPs

Certain of the proposals advanced by Sherbrooke M. P. Gerard Chapdelaine for speeding up operations of Parliament undoubtedly merit the closest scrutiny of Canada's lawmakers but others would strike at the very root of the democratic processes of parliament built up painfully over the centuries.

Termed by the Sherbrooke MP as a childish throwback to King Louis XIV of France and a waste of time and the taxpayers' money, the comparatively brief opening day ceremonies recall the basic rights of parliament over the privileges of the Crown. A brief explanation of each step in the proceedings would do more to impress upon the watcher the story of the growth of parliamentary autonomy than hours of lectures on constitutional law and development.

Similarly, the private members' hour, if properly applied, is the one opportunity granted the ordinary Member of Parliament of advancing legislation he believes in the public interest.

The question period, which Mr. Chapdelaine would curtail drastically, also represents the chief means whereby the ordinary member can demand the government give out information on matters of public interest.

Unfortunately both the private members' hour and the question period have been seriously abused by the MP's themselves, and in the case of the question period the abuse has come mainly from the members of the party supported by Mr. Chapdelaine.

Each session sees the same group of private members introducing the same set of bills which are designed more to make political capital for their sponsors than to serve the public good. When he introduces the bill, the MP knows it will never be enacted, but he can go home and tell his electors what valiant efforts he made on their behalf.

The present sessions has seen a rash of questions by Quebec Social Credit Members which have no bearing on the affairs of state. But the time of the House is consumed in listening to the question and to the Speaker's reasons for declaring the question out of order.

Parliamentary business needs speeding up but more could be accomplished by restraint on the part of individual MP's than by the scrapping of a system which has proved its usefulness over the years.

With ice being produced in colors how do they handle the warmer tones?

Diplomacy by pressure and sensation

A few weeks ago, President Kennedy said that the United States should become more concerned with exercising its influence than with trying to be popular.

He apparently meant what he said. The extraordinary statement given to the press just half an hour after it was officially in the hands of the Canadian government on Wednesday will not endear Mr. Kennedy or his country to anyone on this side of that long, friendly, undefended border.

The statement, highly critical of the Canadian government's position regarding nuclear ammunition for Canadian continental and European defence forces appears to have been an extension of General Norstad's remarks made during a press conference at Ottawa earlier in the month. It represents that kind of international diplomacy by pressure and public sensation for which the United States is too often notorious. Mr. Diefenbaker has, with justice, called the State Department statement an unwarranted intrusion in Canadian affairs. All parties, including Mr. Pearson, have agreed with him.

The statement itself is, unfortunately, a typical American State Department missive. Of late, communiques, from that department have often come to serve more the purpose of propaganda than of information. The Bay of Pigs fiasco was the best previous example of this kind of "news."

And even though Wednesday's statement is an official pronouncement of the United States government, there is room to question some of its implications.

At one point, for example the statement supports the arming of Canadian-based Bomarc by saying: "The Soviet bomber fleet will remain at least throughout this decade a significant element in the Soviet strike force. An effective continental defence against this common threat is necessary." Yet, just hours before the statement was released on Wednesday, U.S. Secretary of Defence McNamara was saying that missiles like the Bomarc are fast approaching obsolescence. He set as the useful life-span of the Bomarc not more than "several years," and intimated that estimate was a generous one.

We would not go so far as to suggest that the State Department, when it speaks through anonymous releases meant for mass consumption, is not to be trusted. But we would strongly suggest that this kind of conduct constitutes no basis upon which to formulate Canadian policy. Rather it re-enforces the conviction that we must make our own decisions in our own time in the light of our own best interests.

An ostrich came to a circus on a plane, but the stork still comes as it pleases.

Union hits novel court sentence

The practise by many magistrates of imposing unusual sentences in an effort to make the punishment fit the crime frequently brings protests from various groups. Sometimes the protesters are members of groups who feel that almost any sentence is degrading to the recipients. Other feel that the long-established custom of fine or imprisonment or both sufficiently serves the needs of justice. But now the labor unions have entered the picture.

Recently in Toronto a magistrate tried the case of a man who carried away a twelve-foot blue spruce from the grounds of the Canadian National Exhibition. The individual was found guilty and was sentenced to two weeks of hard labor—planting trees at the Exhibition next spring.

Apparently the guilty man offered little protest against the sentence but there was a loud outcry from the civic employees union, whose business agent declared:

"I don't care what the magistrate said.

This man is not a member of the union and he cannot work."

The actual course of action to be taken by the union to prevent the carrying out of the sentence cannot be determined until spring.

One probable course of action would be for the union to finance the cost of an appeal against the sentence. This might not be to the liking of the guilty man who probably favors two weeks of outdoor work as an amateur woodsman as preferable to a similar term behind prison or a heavy fine and an order to pay for the cost of replacing the tree.

Or the union might wait until spring and then go on strike when the man appears at the CNE grounds to carry out his sentence.

Then the court would be faced with the alternative of ignoring the strike, permitting the man to work alone for two weeks until the sentence had been executed or of charging the union and its members with contempt of court by seeking to interfere with the application of a court order.

Estrie, Cantons de l'Est both fine

Differences of opinion have been noticeable for quite a few years over the name to designate our region, known in English as the Eastern Townships. For an expression established by long use, with origins which can be traced as far back as the beginning of the eighteenth century, some want to substitute another. The "Cantons de l'Est" would become "l'Estrie."

The public debate over this question was revived a few days ago by a resolution of the Chamber of Commerce asking the provincial Tourist office to continue calling our region the Cantons de l'Est

Methodists, Anglicans

Merger of two British churches could end 170-year controversy

The eyes of church leaders around the world are on Britain's Anglican and Methodist churches.

The proposals could settle the thorny issues which for 170 years have divided the two churches. The Methodist movement was started by John Wesley in an effort to combat stagnation he found within the established Church of England. The movement soon spread across the Atlantic.

The proposal to unify the British Anglican and Methodist churches, drafted by 12 clergymen from each church, would concern only the churches in Britain, not overseas.

It would not, for example, bind the Anglican Church of Canada with the United Church (which is made up of Methodists and a large part of Presbyterians.)

The clergymen who drafted the plan are understood to have hit on a compromise over the key dispute — the ordination of the clergy.

Anglicans insist on retaining the apostolic succession, with a "laying on of hands" that goes back to the Apostles.

The compromise would retain this Anglican ceremony, with a supplemental service at which an Anglican bishop would place hands on Methodist clergy and a Methodist on Anglican clergy, thus retaining Methodist tradition.

Church customs are another major issue. Leaders on both sides are frank to admit that "stuffy" parishioners will question any departure from their own ways. These ways cover everything from liturgical practices to church management.

The sponsors think that in bigger towns the individual churches can continue side by side as members of the same denomination. In villages they may be physically combined.

Church observers emphasize that Wesley sought no break with the Church of England, in which he remained a priest all his life. A separate denomination grew up when the established church did not recognize the men he ordained to carry on his work, many of them in America, since he was not a bishop and thus lacked Apostolic authority.

PARIS REACTIONS

Talks between the two British churches have been going on for five years. The new proposals will be laid before churchgoers in parish councils to get reaction. The 24-clergyman committee that drafted them was headed by the Rt. Rev. Harry Carpenter, Bishop of Oxford, and the Rev. Dr. Harold Roberts, former president of the World Methodist Council.

LONDON (CP)—The suspension of negotiations for British membership in the European Economic Community is a matter of personal concern to six other European countries.

They, along with Britain, are members of the European Free Trade Association. And they have been waiting quietly in the wings watching the Common Market talks.

All seven EFTA countries had made applications to the Common Market. Denmark and Norway wanted to go in with Britain as full members. The neutrals, Sweden, Switzerland and Austria, sought associate membership. Portugal had not specified what form of membership it wanted.

and to ban the word Estrie to avoid granting it official acceptance.

As was to be expected, the St. Jean Baptiste Society of the diocese was not long in responding in favor of the expression Estrie. The reply of the president, Mr. Richard Bergeron, recalls the arguments in favor of the change and claims support from various organizations.

Caught, so to speak, between the devil and the deep blue sea, the director of the Tourist Office declares he doesn't want to take one side or the other, respects the preferences of each group involved, and leaves it to them to sort out what he calls a "parochial quarrel."

It should be said that the partisans of both expressions exhibit the greatest sincerity. Those who favor the keeping of the name Canton de l'Est rest their case on serious reasoning which cannot be lightly brushed aside. On the other hand, those who hold for the Estrie designation bring strong arguments to bear for their point of view.

But who in fact has the right to determine what our region should be called in future? It seems clear that this responsibility belongs to the citizens of the region themselves, not to outside British policy, often reiterated in the House of Commons, was that the EFTA countries would merge with the Common Market as one unit. If that had happened, then presumably the association would have agreed to dissolve itself.

A foreign office spokesman here emphasized that each EFTA country had agreed to be responsible for its own negotiations with the Common Market.

"But much is contingent on Britain's application succeeding," the spokesman said a few days before the collapse of negotiations in Brussels. "If the Brussels door is slammed in our face I think it highly unlikely groups, and still less to a government agency. We could even go further and say that the preference of the citizens will be expressed not through local or regional organizations, but by the use they themselves make of one name or the other. On this point, we are in complete agreement with Msgr. Maurice O'Bready.

What we should avoid is exaggerating the importance of the question and wasting in debate energy which could be put to better uses. It need hardly be said that strong convictions do not excuse the nasty insinuations or the insults. Each person is free to feel as he wishes and we refuse to believe that the partisans of the name Estrie are sowers of trouble just as we refuse to believe that those who favor Cantons de l'Est are poor French-Canadians.

For our own part, we shall continue to respect all opinions, as we have always done, and we will leave to the people, as must be done, the problem of making the decision they see fit. In this spirit we will continue to employ the expressions Estrie and Cantons de l'Est indifferently, according to the wording of the people whose remarks we report.

our EFTA partners would continue negotiations with the six on their own."

And now that talks have been suspended, Britain's six EFTA partners will have to reassess their position. They're faced with the question of whether to stick with Britain in the hopes that Common Market negotiations will eventually be reopened, abandon hope and concentrate on strengthening their own association, or choose to apply for admission on their own.

One factor that may influence their thinking is that some Common Market experts weren't sure they wanted the Outer Seven—as the EFTA is known—to come in.

"We're having enough trouble getting the six to work together," said one. "If the nations of the European Free Trade Association join it will be administrative chaos."

This view was not shared by everyone in the Common Market civil service. Some experienced Euromarists thought an enlarged community would encourage the bureaucratic "mill" in Brussels to churn faster, ignoring some of the more petty issues now causing delays.

"After all the United States of America grew from 13 colonies to 50 states without taxing its strength," said an agricultural counsellor. "Surely the six are strong enough to expand their membership without faltering."

The European Free Trade Association was established at Stockholm in 1960, mainly as a British-inspired alternative to the six after the collapse of protracted negotiations for a general free trade area in Europe.

In 1961, Greenland signed the Stockholm Convention and Finland later became an associate under roughly similar economic terms but steering clear of any political implications.

6-Rise of the Afro-Asians

By FLETCHER REYNOLDS

The Western nations at the UN awoke with a start last year — they suddenly discovered they no longer controlled the world organization.

Until 1962, the General Assembly and consequently the UN itself had been controlled by a coalition of NATO and Latin American countries. But as once colonial territories gained independence, the balance was upset.

Finally, UN membership rose to 110 in 1962 and the Afro-Asians were in majority control.

Thirty-two members are from Africa. Although many have not the economic power of a single large Canadian city, each African state has a vote equal to Canada or the U.S.

CLEAR MAJORITY

Independent Asian and Middle East countries number 22, to which must be added Jamaica and Trinidad-Tobago in this hemisphere, plus the 12-nation Communist bloc which usually backs the Afro-Asians.

The West, while sympathetic to the Afro-Asians, has found the change disconcerting, especially during such incidents as Goa and West New Guinea affairs.

'COLONIAL' LAW

The Afro-Asians applauded India's take-over of Goa. They also applauded when former Indian UN ambassador Jha (now Indian High Commissioner in Ottawa) declared that if India broke international law, it was breaking a law made by colonialists to be used against the peoples of Africa and Asia.

It was in the UN, using the support of other Afro-Asians, that Indonesia's President Sukarno was able to win control of West New Guinea from Holland without the Papuan natives of the island ever being consulted.

More recently, the Afro-Asians voted UN sanctions against racist South Africa despite Western warnings concern industrial goods—chemicals, steel, textiles, ships, agricultural machinery and vehicles. Britain spends about $450,000,000 a year in EFTA countries and earns slightly less with her exports to them.

The few agricultural agreements are all of a bilateral nature between individual countries. The most important is a treaty on dairy products between Britain and Denmark.

Under the original convention, basic import duties were to be reduced to 50 per cent by 1965 and abolished completely by 1970. At the ninth council meeting in Oslo last October it was decided to accelerate reductions by scaling down to 50 per cent before April.

A communique issued after the Oslo meeting said the principles of the free trade area were "working well in practice and giving satisfaction both to governments and traders in their countries."

matter of fact

The derivation of words, particularly strange-sounding ones, fascinates many people. For example, from where does the word "cadet" come? The term, which describes a messenger boy or one who carries golf clubs, is derived from "cadet," meaning younger son, through the Scots' form "cadde." The same is true of the origin of the word "cad" a vulgar, ill-bred person.

Annual congregational meeting held at Sangster United Church

On January 28th, 1963, a representative number of members and friends of Sangster United Church attended the fifteenth annual congregational meeting held in the church hall on Denault St. The meeting took the form of a buffet supper sponsored by the ladies of the congregation.

The chairman and minister, Dr. C. M. Currie expressed enthusiasm over the favorable reports from the various organizations within the church, paying a special tribute to the achievements of the United Church Women's group and the work of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Howland in conjunction with the success of the choir. He also expressed the pleasure he and Mrs. Currie had derived from their visits with members of the church in Sherbrooke and Minton.

The clerk of session reported the total membership at the end of the year to be 184 with the total persons under pastoral oversight numbering 286.

Charles Shepard, chairman of the board of stewards, presented the group's financial statement which again showed a favorable balance. He also presented the budget for the coming year. The annual statement for the board of trustees was presented by their chairman, Albert Noble. Mrs. Albert Noble submitted the activity report from the United Church Women.

The report from the teen age group, the Hi-C was submitted by its president, Miss Margaret Gelinas. The choir report was given by the director, Ernest Howland and a very favorable report on the Sunday school was given by Dr. Currie on behalf of the superintendent, Russell Gillam.

New members elected to the board of stewards were: Norman Nichol re-elected, D. Bresee, L. Pariseau, R. Gillam. The auditors appointed for the coming year were F. Doyle and J. Hosking. S. MacLean was elected to be a delegate to the Canadian Bible Society and Francis Doyle was elected recording steward.

On behalf of the congregation Albert Noble moved a vote of thanks to Dr. and Mrs. Currie and members of the various executives within the church organization.

At the conclusion of the business meeting an enjoyable social hour was spent featuring a duet composed of Ernest Howland and Mrs. Currie with Mrs. Ernest Howland at the piano. The singing of the national anthem brought the evening to a close.

Probe deaths

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—The RAF and Cyprus police were investigating Thursday night stranglings of two British women here. The first, a British airman's wife, was found dead Tuesday. The second, Joan King, about 30, was found dead in bed in her apartment Thursday. She was wearing a nightdress and police said she had been strangled, then her throat was cut.

Vestry meeting elects officers at Richmond's St. Ann's Church

RICHMOND — (Special) — Elections took place Monday evening at St. Ann's Anglican Church in the parish hall where the annual vestry meeting was held.

Rev. Hugh I. Apps presided over the meeting and elections which brought about reports by the various parish organizations including people's warden; rector's warden; treasurer; cemetery warden; Afternoon Guild and W.A.; Evening Guild; Sanctuary Guild, King's Daughters; St. Mary's Guild; Girl's Auxiliary (GA); Junior Auxiliary (JA); Little Helpers; Sunday School and Choir report by the Rector.

Gordon McMorine was re-elected vestry clerk for another term, having served in this capacity for a good many years. J. H. Coles, people's warden for another term as well as L. F. Somerville, rector's warden; K. A. Dixon, treasurer, G. M. Alexander, cemetery warden and Miss E. Salway, envelope secretary.

In the rector's report, Mr. Apps brought out some 'vital statistics' regarding the church here and noted the following:

Fourteen baptisms; 11 marriages; 19 burials; 22 confirmations, 15 female and seven male, which included one adult; one server was gained by the parish with two having left for university and a school in Quebec City.

It was interesting to note, Mr. Apps said, that St. Ann's is the third largest parish in the Diocese of Quebec. The largest is St. Peter's in Sherbrooke with St. George's, Lennoxville following. Rev. Apps is in his fifth year as rural dean of Richmond, which deanery covers a circuit of 250 miles.

Reporting on the Wales Home, he noted the many services rendered the staff and residents of this institution where there are 96 Anglicans in residence.

Asked if he had anything further to report as rector's warden, Mr. Somerville replied that it was amply covered by what was reported by Mr. Coles and the Rev. Apps.

He moved a vote of thanks to the ladies for their help; the ladies of the Evening Guild for the fine supper served and to all who served the church.

A DAY OF DRAMA

When Mr. Pearson attempted to appeal the ruling, Speaker Lambert held that it was not subject to appeal. This in turn set off a long procedural discussion, with Mr. Martin, member for Essex East, appealing against the ruling that there could be no appeal.

OVERTURN RULING — Only the Conservatives stood behind the Speaker in the ensuing vote, with the Liberals, Social Credit and New Democratic parties out voting them 122 to 104.

The debate itself took place against a background of mounting speculation on whether Mr. Diefenbaker would dissolve Parliament for a general election on the nuclear arms issue.

The speculation reached its height during the supper adjournment, fed by reports that Mr. Diefenbaker had indicated he would view a vote against the Speaker as a vote of no-confidence in the government.

Mr. Diefenbaker was an attentive listener at the night sitting, but he made no statement.

Mr. Harkness at the outset of his speech all in line behind the prime minister, terming the U.S. state department release "an unwarranted interference in our national affairs."

It could only cause a "needless obstacle to our efforts to reach an agreement on matters vital to the national security of both our countries."

SAYS HE'S HEALTHY — Mr. Harkness denied published reports that he was on the verge of collapse from the strain of the nuclear controversy, saying, "I find it hard to understand why so much credence should be given to rumors, speculation and things of that kind."

As in his statement of last Monday, he categorically denied any suggestion that Canada's $700,000,000 worth of nuclear-capable weapons carriers may be headed for the scrap heap.

It was to "deny as soon as possible" suggestions to that effect growing out of Mr. Diefenbaker's Friday speech that he had put out his own statement.

There was nothing in his statement that was not contained in the prime minister's speech.

Mr. Martin, in his reply, said Associate Defence Minister Sevigny apparently does not agree with Mr. Harkness, and that Mr. Sevigny should declare his views in the Commons.

Mr. Sevigny said he had never complained to anyone about the statement issued by his colleague.

Reporting on the Wales Home, he noted the many services rendered the staff and residents of this institution where there are 96 Anglicans in residence.

Asked if he had anything further to report as rector's warden, Mr. Somerville replied that it was amply covered by what was reported by Mr. Coles and the Rev. Apps.

He moved a vote of thanks to the ladies for their help; the ladies of the Evening Guild for the fine supper served and to all who served the church.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Boivin have moved into the Dyson house and are getting settled here, having sold their farm on the River road, a few weeks ago.

Blizzards cut across Europe

LONDON (CP) — Blizzards cut across southern Europe with renewed fury today. Snow blanketed most of the continent.

February came in with fresh snowfalls in London and the surrounding countryside.

The Automobile Association said snow up to three inches had fallen during the night on roads already covered with ice.

Apart from a brief thaw last week Britain has been in the grip of freezing weather since Christmas.

The second straight night of heavy snow left Rome covered with two inches. It was the Italian capital's biggest snowfall since the Second World War.

More than 300 communities in the Apennines were isolated.

The known European death toll rose to 443.

Snowstorms also continued to hit Japan's northwest coast, stricken by blizzards for the last three weeks. For the first time in Japanese history the government applied the Disaster Relief Act to a snow disaster. The death toll in Japan rose to 83.

At all to U.S. authorities. Diefenbaker said he saw no reason to change his Friday utterances and the state department said it had no reason to change what it had said. But there was some private diplomatic questioning whether the language of the U.S. statement might not better have been toned down and the Canadian officials given more time to digest its contents before they were made public.

The U.S. statement was reported to have been drafted in the department but that President Kennedy had been acquainted with its contents before it was issued. The White House made clear Thursday it is being kept abreast of all developments but Kennedy himself made no comment.

OPEN NIGHTLY TILL 10 P.M.

When Mr. Pearson attempted to appeal the ruling, Speaker Lambert held that it was not subject to appeal. This in turn set off a long procedural discussion, with Mr. Martin, member for Essex East, appealing against the ruling that there could be no appeal.

OVERTURN RULING — Only the Conservatives stood behind the Speaker in the ensuing vote, with the Liberals, Social Credit and New Democratic parties out voting them 122 to 104.

The debate itself took place against a background of mounting speculation on whether Mr. Diefenbaker would dissolve Parliament for a general election on the nuclear arms issue.

The speculation reached its height during the supper adjournment, fed by reports that Mr. Diefenbaker had indicated he would view a vote against the Speaker as a vote of no-confidence in the government.

Mr. Diefenbaker was an attentive listener at the night sitting, but he made no statement.

Mr. Harkness at the outset of his speech all in line behind the prime minister, terming the U.S. state department release "an unwarranted interference in our national affairs."

It could only cause a "needless obstacle to our efforts to reach an agreement on matters vital to the national security of both our countries."

For and about Women

Polly's pointers

DEAR POLLY — Here is what I do when my windows rattle. I silence them by driving two large rubber-headed tacks against the bottom edges of the lower sash. When the window is closed and locked, these will take up the slack and prevent vibration. There is no noise.

U.H.

DEAR POLLY — Most of us hate to see the Christmas poinsettia plants fade. I found a way to save them for another year. After the blossoms are faded, cut down the stalk and put in a semi-dark, dry place. About the middle of April, repot the poinsettia in fresh, rich soil and place it in a window where there is plenty of sun. Water regularly and you soon will have vigorous new growth. During the summer, you may sink the plant (pot and all) in the garden but do not disturb the roots. Bring the pot back in the house as soon as the nights get cool again. Next Christmas you will once more have a beautiful blooming poinsettia.

MRS. R. T.

DEAR POLLY — When sending a letter to a friend who is away from home, give her (or his) name and address for the return in the corner, instead of your own. Then if the letter is not delivered because of lateness of arrival, it will be forwarded to the proper person at the proper place instead of being returned to you.

MRS. T. E.

GIRLS — This is particularly good for letters sent to people travelling from place to place or on vacation. Whether or not the news in the letter is world-shaking, at least the friend knows you remembered and wrote.

POLLY

Share your favorite home-making ideas . . . send them to Polly in care of this paper. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your ideas in Polly's Pointers.

A Union Label fashion for Spring, as it will appear in the National Collection taking place in Montreal today. Frosted pink herringbone tweed deftly tailored into a junior-size coat with matchbox pleating. Designed in pure wool, the coat is detailed with white leather buttons.

Oxtails

For chilly wintry days, you can't beat this dish

Oxtails are full of rich flavor, a worthy reward for long patient cooking. They can be bought fresh or frozen, whole or disjointed.

The meat makes a delicious ragout but proper seasoning is necessary to bring out the best in flavor. A measured amount of that spicy liquid red pepper provides the spark for this combination of meat and vegetables. For chilly wintry days you can't beat this dish of oxtails and vegetables plus a measure of dry red wine.

OXTAILS

- LOUISIANA STYLE
- 1 tsp salt
 - 2 tbs. flour
 - 2 oxtails cut in 2-inch lengths
 - 1 tbs. butter
 - 2 bouillon cubes
 - 1 cup hot water
 - 1 tsp. tabasco
 - 1 cup red wine
 - 1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
 - 4 small carrots finely diced
 - 1 medium onion finely chopped
 - 2 sticks celery chopped
 - 1/2 bay leaf
 - 3 medium potatoes peeled and quartered
- Blend together salt and flour; roll oxtails in mixture. Brown oxtails in butter in heavy kettle. Add bouillon cubes dissolved in water, tabasco, wine, tomatoes, carrots, onion, celery, bay leaf and bottled brown gravy sauce (1/2 tsp.). Add additional water is necessary to cover meat.

Cover and simmer about 4 hours or until meat is tender. But DO cook it at a gentle simmer or meat will become stringy. Skim off fat; add potatoes.

Cover and cook 30 minutes longer. And there is your whole main course with last minute preparation.

Baked apples or an apple pie or crisp goes well with this main dish.

OXTAILS AND BEEF

Incidentally a favorite dish of mine, an economical one I have told you about some time ago, is made with a round of oxtails, 3/4 to 1 lb. of shin beef and a good sized onion.

Do not brown the meats but simmer gently in water to cover until tender, seasoning with salt, pepper and a dash of tabasco. When done thicken the gravy with flour and water paste, simmer for a few moments longer and serve over mashed potatoes for a delicious low cost dinner.

Can't find a gentleman

Be more feminine, advice to German girls

EAST BERLIN (Reuters) — "Put a bit more femininity under your overalls" is the advice an East German pin-up magazine has given to girls here who complain they can't find any "gentlemen."

The popular illustrated monthly Das Magazin, with pin-ups which even Western connoisseurs consider daring, recently conducted a survey to find out whether there were any gentlemen left in East Germany.

They concluded any man would still behave like a gentleman if the girls gave him an incentive by behaving like ladies.

A 32-year-old draftsman from Leipzig named Guenther summed it up: "Women here destroy the last traces of chivalry in any man. They should follow the example of the Parisian girl and cultivate more charm."

ASK THE DESIGNER

by gaile dugas

Question: This spring I plan to take a cruise either to the Mediterranean or to the Caribbean, and I wonder if you would help solve some of my wardrobe problems. What basic clothes will I need for daytime and evening, and how many pairs of shoes should I take along.—M. R.

Because her expert advice has helped many women with a wardrobe problem similar to yours, Simonetta, famous for her Rome and Paris designs, was asked to help. She says:

"You will have to make up your mind about which cruise you will take before you purchase that travel wardrobe. It will be cooler in the Mediterranean than in the Caribbean in the spring, and naturally your clothes should be warmer for that area."

"Generally, a basic wardrobe for shipboard should include easy casual clothes for daytime. You will want co-ordinated skirts, shirts, shorts, sweaters and interesting little jackets that can be worn with any of these. (Or pants—but only if your figure is right for this type of costume.) I like shift dresses for slim figures, too."

"Be sure to keep a basic color in mind so that you can mix and match various pieces, and let your clothes do double duty whenever possible."

Your coat, for example, might be a raincoat that will look attractive evenings on shipboard, and could also be worn ashore on a cool afternoon.

"Take a few cocktail dresses for evening dining and dancing. You won't need full-length formals. Choose light colors, such as bone or beige, and accent them with bright shades of coral or turquoise. Avoid wintry looking colors (black, brown)."

"For shipboard, I suggest rubber-soled casual shoes. The little fabric ones that I design are excellent for deck wear and for trips ashore when you shop. You won't often find paved streets waiting

ALDRSHOT CHAPTER I.O.D.E.

The January meeting of the Aldershot Chapter I.O.D.E. was held at the I.O.D.E. House, Moore Street, with the regent, Mrs. S. K. Barnes in the chair.

Mrs. Barnes, reported that the annual provincial meetings will be held in Sherbrooke on April 17 and 18.

The dance was the main topic of interest and all conveners were chosen, with Mrs. A. Wright, decorations; Mrs. J. Davey, publicity and Mrs. M. Salvas and Mrs. B. Wallace, reservations.

The name Spinners' Spree was abandoned and a new name was chosen, the dance being held on March 30, will now be called "The Spring Dance, (Aldershot Chapter I.O.D.E.)."

The secretaries and conveners were asked to come to the report meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. R. Gittel.

After a short recess nominations for the new slate of officers ensued and the meeting adjourned.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. M. Salvas and Mrs. C. Hillard.

MAPLE COPSE CHAPTER, I.O.D.E.

At the January meeting of Maple Copse Chapter, I.O.D.E., plans were made to celebrate Founder's Day on Thursday, February 16, by a luncheon to be held in Douglas Hall.

The Regent, Mrs. Austin Scott, announced that she was providing the luncheon and that she had invited the Provincial President as well as several of the officers of the Provincial Chapter, and that her invitation had been accepted.

She hoped that all the chapter members would make arrangements to attend and mention that anyone interested in the work of the Order would be welcome, as it was expected that Mrs. Donald MacRae, Provincial President, would give an address. The members felt that a small charge should be made for the meal, in view of present state of chapter funds, and this was agreed upon.

The business of the meeting was taken up. The financial statement presented by the treasurer, Mrs. Darby Bennett, showed that all commitments had been met, leaving a small balance to carry forward into the new year.

Letters of thanks for Christmas gifts and flowers were read, and the report of Mrs. R. C. McFadden, services sec-tary mentioned 50 gifts for forgotten mental patients forwarded to the Verdun Protestant Hospital before Christmas.

Miss Molony reported having heard the broadcast by the National president, on which Mrs. Robinson spoke about the community halls built by the I.O.D.E. in the Arctic for the native residents.

Mrs. C. G. Skinner, convener of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers for the coming year and the list was posted as required by the constitution.

At the conclusion of business the meeting closed with the usual ceremony, following which refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Edward Perry and Mrs. Darby Bennett.

LENNOXVILLE WING SHERBROOKE HOSPITAL AUX.

Lennoxville Wing of the Sherbrooke Hospital Auxiliary held their annual meeting and elected officers for 1963, at the home of Mrs. Robert Bedard, Bishop's College School.

Those elected to office are as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. Austin H. Scott; honorary vice-president, Mrs. Ralph H. Fletcher; president, Mrs. John T. Stewart; first vice-president, Mrs. Joseph K. Rafal; second vice-president, Mrs. Thomas W. Saunders; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert Bedard; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. Lyman Tomkins; treasurer, Mrs. J. W. McCubbin.

Conveners named were: Mrs.

William Varney, knitting and telephone; Mrs. W. Lyman Tomkins, sewing; Mrs. H. S. Horsfall, social.

Four new members were welcomed, Mrs. J. Daly, Mrs. E. Fitzgerald, Mrs. John Lunderville and Mrs. A. Campbell. Reports showed that the main activities during the year was the sponsorship of a play produced by the Lennoxville player's in January. A garden tea in June, members took charge of the hospitalary cart for the month of May and acted as car-vassers in Lennoxville for the annual campaign.

The Wing made a donation to the campaign and gave the annual cheque to the physiotherapy department and did knitting and sewing for the hospitality shop. The treasurer's report showed a very successful year financially.

It was announced that the Wing bursary had been awarded, and the necessary amount transferred to the account.

It was decided that the regular meeting be held the 3rd Wednesday in the month, instead of the 2nd Wednesday as in the past.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. John T. Stewart, 39 Church Street, on March 20.

KEEP THEIR BLOOM Poinsettias will flower about six weeks if kept at a temperature of 65 degrees, in a bright sunny location and free from drafts.

Rock Island Jets increase lead with 8-2 win over Paper Makers, Ellis and Yates tally two each WINDSOR — (Special) — The Rock Island Jets trounced the Windsor Paper Makers 8-2 here last night and increased their league lead to nine points over the second-place Richmond Braves.

Pierce Ellis and P. Yates each scored two goals apiece for Rock Island. Windsor's two goals both came off the stick of Raymond St. Cyr. Sunday the Paper Makers travel to Richmond and the Jets play host to the Magog Aces.

Windsor outplayed and outshot Rock Island in the opening period but the visitors carried a 3-1 lead to the dressing room between periods.

Raymond St. Cyr cruised in alone on Provencher in the opening minute but the sprawling netminder deflected the puck with his stick. Seconds later Bibeau came in alone and his sliding shot went wide. Within the next five minutes, Lapierre, Champagne, Audet and Cournoyer all had fine chances to score but were stopped by fine goaling.

Pierce Ellis broke the scoreless deadlock seconds after one of his teammates stepped out of the penalty box. He broke up a Windsor powerplay at centre ice and skated in, 2 on 1. He faked the pass then slid the puck to the near corner. St. Laurent looked weak on the play.

A Bease made it 2-0 at the 12 minute mark after his intended pass deflected into the net off a skate.

Wayne Crack gave the Jets a 3-0 lead less than two minutes later, after left uncovered in front of the net he picked up a stray pass and slid it under the falling St. Laurent.

Raymond St. Cyr cut the lead to 3-1 at 16:34. Raymond Champagne, Windsor's 16-year-old forward, slid a pass from the corner and St. Cyr caught the upper corner with a 20-foot backhand.

The Ellis - Yates - Parsons line clicked for two goals in the middle period and strengthened the Jets lead to 5-1. Ellis scored at the four minute mark after he broke in alone on St. Laurent. Again he faked the pass and slid the puck to the near corner.

Mid-way through the period,

Ben Lapierre and W. Bibeau broke in alone on Provencher. Lapierre carried the puck, faked the shot and slid the short pass to Bibeau but the shifty netminder read the play and made a sliding save.

Maurice Bachand and Wellie Bibeau were tagged for back-to-back penalties mid-way through the period and Yates cashed in on what was probably the nicest goal of the night. Luc Gregoire carried the puck in, slid a pass to Ellis who sucked the defense and fed Yates standing at the open corner.

Rock Island outshot the Paper Makers 11-6 in the middle period after being outshot 12-5 in the opening period.

Rock Island continued to dominate play in the third period and outscored the local 3-1. Gerry Menard scored the Jet's sixth and his first of the game after tapping in a Benoit rebound at the two minute mark. Jean Guy Dion made it 7-1 five minutes later after taking passes from Goodsell and Menard.

Ray St. Cyr scored Windsor's second goal at the nine minute mark after a neat passing play with Houghton and Audet. P. Yates finished the scoring at 16:15 as he backhanded Ellis' rebound between St. Laurent's pads.

First Period
1 Rock Island: P. Ellis, 8:38 (P. Yates, R. Beaudoin) 8:38
2 Rock Island: A. Bease, (G. Menard) 12:45

Hotel Albert extends lead in bowling loop

Hotel Albert, paced by the veteran bowler, Romeo Ainslie, swept their weekly match with Brunelle to extend their lead to 11 points over Dow, who hold down the runner-up spot in the City Bowling League.

Levesque swept their series with L. O. Noel while Dow and Manoir posted 3-1 wins over Molson's and O'Keefe's. P.V.M. and Lemieux finished deadlocked with Bergeron and Elks splitting their four games.

Tony Lafontaine was the best with a single of 237 and a triple of 575 while Norman Ainslie and Maurice Rheume rolled singles of 235 and 233. R. Provencher, moved into second spot in the race for individual honors with 166 compared to 169 for the pace-setter, R. Ainslie. J. P. Dussault is third with 163 followed by N. Ainslie with 162. The difference between G. Gaudreau and E. Gagnon is only percentage points 160.21 to 160.12.

Rene Pepin registers hat-trick in hard-hitting battle before 1,400, travel to Drumville Sunday

Rene Pepin of the Sherbrooke Beavers came up with another of his spectacular puck-control performances and the Dube crew posted a 7-5 win over the Granby Vics last night at the Arena before 1,400 fans. It was the first game of the playoffs.

On Sunday the Beavers travel to Drummondville to tangle with the Rockets in their second fixture of the eight-game series. Last night's duel was a real hard-hitting affair with both clubs going all out in an effort to earn the victory.

Poor defensive work by the Vics' veteran rearwards played a big part in the outcome of the battle. Sherbrooke hit quick when they had the chances and the goals which got by Andy Payette were no fault of the lanky net-minder.

Rene Pepin opened the scoring in the first frame when he batted home a back-hander from 15 feet out. He picked up a pass-out from the corner and let go with a terrific shot which caught Payette off balance.

The Beavers came right back and within two minutes made the score board read 2-0. Leon Bouchard was the payoff boy on Sherbrooke's second tally. He was left uncovered and slid the loose disc by Payette with Granby's defense standing by. He got behind them.

Leon Bouchard extended the lead at the start of the middle session on a beautiful passing play with Black and Rejean Hamelin. Picard and Charbonneau staged a fist-swing battle and drew majors for their share. Nothing happened during their absence.

Leon Bouchard set up Gilles Dube when he slipped the disc behind the Granby team at centre ice and the local pilot waltzed in to deke Payette out of position before lifting the "dub" into the net. Again the defense looked bad when they allowed the Sherbrooke player in behind.

Bergeron went off for high-sticking but the Vics held their fire. Rene Pepin came up with one of the nicest goals of the evening when he checked a Granby player in his own zone to walk in on Payette. He made a beautiful deke and the red light flashed on.

Jacques Deslauriers rifled a hard shot through Lacoursiere's legs in the final minute of the period. In the third frame

Don Clark of Port Arthur, Ont., to make the finals of the Omega Trophy event, going against Hugh Little of Halifax Mayflower.

CHALMERS IN OMEGA

In the Francois Jobin Trophy competition, the third major prize, Fredericton's Dr. Robert H. Chalmers meets Paul Murphy of Midland, Ont.

Little crushed Sam Weinmaster's Gravenhurst, Ont., rink 13-5 in the battle for a final spot in the Omega.

However, Little is out of the playoff competition for the Lieutenant-Governor's trophy where he was beaten 9-8 in a bitter fight by Rainford, whose Kirkland Lake curlers look like the strongest rink in the bonspiel.

Dr. Chalmers pounded Mel Stonehouse of Ottawa 9-6 while Murphy downed Jake Creighton of Dartmouth, N.S., 11-10.

DOW MAKES IT BETTER... BETTER MAKE IT DOW

By ANNE HEGGVEIT

You have undoubtedly noticed the difference between the former skiing posture and the modern one that is being taught everywhere these days.

The idea now is to keep the body approximately perpendicular to the hill. Previously the body was very bent over.

Why did this change in skiing technique come about? With the bent-over posture, which some beginners even today make the mistake of assuming, the skier could encounter some difficulty that might set him back on his heels.

Why? The upper body is already thrust forward as far as it can go, and straightening up would be extremely difficult as this would put the skier even farther back on his heels.

LIMITING
It is obvious that the bent-over position limits a person's agility because the entire weight of the upper body must be moved around when it is necessary to counter-balance a movement.

Kelly pots three, Leafs beat Canadiens

IT'S IN — Gilles Tremblay (21) of Montreal lifts his stick in the air as he skates away from the Toronto net after beating goalie Don Simmons with a shot in National Hockey League play at Montreal Thursday night. The Toronto player, Dave Keon (14) looks on glumly. (CP Wirephoto)

Chicago's Bobby Hull and Montreal's Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrin, the two players who have scored more goals in one season than any one else playing in the National Hockey League, returned from injuries Thursday night.

The results were spectacular. Hull scored three goals and assisted on two others as the league-leading Black Hawks drubbed last-place Boston Bruins 9-2. The blond ace didn't appear much troubled by the thigh injury suffered last Saturday, when he crashed into a goal post while scoring.

Czech-born centre Stan Mikita also scored three goals for the Hawks.

Toronto centre Red Kelly also fired three in the night's other game, a 6-3 win by Leafs over Montreal Canadiens.

There had only been four three-goal scorers this season in the league before Thursday night.

BOOMER, BREWER BUMP
In the hotly-contested Toronto-Montreal game, Geoffrin had barely stepped on the ice after a 12-game absence when he and Carl Brewer, the Leafs' hardrock defenceman, attempted to square off in front of the Toronto net.

The would-be combatants, hurling insults and clawing at referee Eddie Powers and the linesmen, kept trying to get at each other near the penalty box. He added a misconduct to each player's minor, and tacked a game misconduct on Geoffrin for his unruliness. This automatically levies a $75 fine on the fiery right winger, compared with $25 for Brewer.

Trail Smoke Eaters boasts six natives on club who leave next month for World Hockey Tourney

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Trail Smoke Eaters, a team bristling with hometown talent yet hardened by international experience, leave next month for the 1963 world hockey championships in Stockholm.

The team boasts six natives of this mining town. It has twice won the world championship, in 1938 and 1961.

The nucleus of the 1961 champions is intact, an accomplishment in itself because this season the Smoke Eaters have been a team without a league.

The Western International League, in which Trail had played 40 years, collapsed last fall. Coach Bobby Kromm had to substitute grueling practices and a string of exhibition games.

Kromm was brimming with enthusiasm on the eve of the team's departure for an eastern Canada exhibition tour prior to a Feb. 13 flight to Europe.

"We have about 30 to 35 games to play in the next month and a half," he said in an interview. "This should get us into the razor's edge condition we'll need to win the title."

"The last time we went to Europe we played too many games. The smaller guys were past their peak and in a slump. This year I hope we will all be just right."

Trail won six games and tied one in capturing the 1961 championship at Geneva.

Last year's Canadian entry, Galt Terriers of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A league, took over sole possession of second place, two points behind Hawks and two points ahead of Canadiens. Detroit is three points behind Montreal. The Wings have a fat 16-point edge over the fifth-place Rangers.

Kelly scored the first two leaf goals, after Canadiens had taken a 2-0 lead midway through the first period on goals by Gilles Tremblay and Dickie Moore.

SCORES PENALTY GOAL
Kelly's third goal was scored late in the third period on a penalty shot, the first successful penalty shot of the season.

But it was the playing MP's second goal that turned the 15,334 fans, largest Montreal crowd of the season, against Powers. From then on, Powers was given showers of abuse by the crowd.

Kelly flicked in a rebound of a close-in shot by linemate Bob Nevin at 10:20 of the second period. Canadiens claimed Nevin was illegally in the goal crease.

Montreal goalie Jacques Plante skated out to centre ice and broke his stick on the ice in protest. Coach Toe Blake of Canadiens caused his team a bench penalty on the play through his heated arguments with Powers at the scorer's box.

Leafs scored four straight goals in the third period to take a 6-2 edge before Bobby Rousseau scored Montreal's third goal with little more than a minute left.

Kelly, linemate Frank Mahovlich, captain George Armstrong and Dick Duff scored the third-period Toronto goals. Mahov-

You'll make the wisest choice whichever Chevrolet you choose!

These four different cars are alike in one very important way. Each is a Chevrolet. That means any one will give you more for your money in performance, beauty and comfort . . . plus far greater worth at trade-in time. However, each of these fine cars has its own way of being distinctive, too, because each is tailored to the interest of a certain kind of buyer. There's our big Chevrolet with its Jet-smooth ride, luxury and styling. Chevy II with its parkable size, sparkling performance and outstanding fuel economy. Corvair with rear engine manoeuvrability and the instincts of a sports car. And the new Corvette Sting Ray, North America's most exciting car. So, whichever your choice, you can be sure it's a wise one.

Too few farmers realize

Bookkeeping is essential for successful farming

It has always been a well known fact that a relatively large sum of money has been always needed to buy a good farm, but nowadays, the amount has risen considerably. On figuring the average capital invested in a farm, we quickly realize that financing is a preponderous role affecting the success or the failure of a farming enterprise.

According to Nazaire Parent, chief of the provincial food crops division, it is regrettable that too great a number of farmers who all year, without realizing either their farm revenue or their farm expenses. It is a big error that only bookkeeping can correct.

The many excuses given are fatigue, lack of education, fear of encountering deficits, but they do not constitute a serious reason for whoever wants to make a success of his undertaking. On the contrary, many are those who have directed their enterprise in the right direction by putting their finger on the "bug" through bookkeeping.

Isn't bookkeeping one of the creditable factors based on a complete annual inventory? The term inventory is used to list the various immovable properties, machinery, tractors, animals, crops and other produce. All together, the inventory is the guide that tells the proprietor just where he stands from one year to another. It is impossible to understand a financial report of an enterprise without an inventory.

St. Matthew's vestry officers all re-elected

SOUTH STUKELY — The annual vestry meeting of St. Matthew's Church was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Savage, opening with prayer by Rev. G. Norris.

The Ladies Guild minutes and the treasurer's report, given by Mrs. J. J. Savage, showed a successful year.

The officers were all re-elected as follows: President, Mrs. H. Bowering; Mrs. H. Savage; secretary, Mrs. C. McLellan; treasurer, Mrs. J. J. Savage.

The minutes of the last vestry meeting were read by the vestry clerk, Mrs. H. Bowering. The financial report of the church, church hall and parsonage was given by J. J. Savage.

Mr. Norris appointed Mr. Savage as his warden. L. Wright was re-elected people's warden, Mrs. H. Bowering re-elected vestry clerk, and Miss Marjorie Sweet re-elected envelope clerk.

Sidesmen are Gordon Honey, Bruce Berwick, R. Savage and C. McLellan.

Refreshments were served by the Guild Ladies.

By D. J. MacMILLAN (Agronomist)

After having established his worth, a farmer arms himself with a pencil, obtains from the Quebec Department of Agriculture, a book entitled Farm Bookkeeping and commences to make his entries. The double entry system is ideal to keep track of what money he pays out and of what money he takes in.

By entering each transaction as it occurs, it is easy to enter in the proper column, the nature, the quantity and the amount of his receipts and his expenses.

Now that we are beginning a new year, would it not be suitable to make the resolution to adopt, without delay, the good habit of bookkeeping. Let us not forget the old Dutch proverb "A man that keeps regular books, cannot be ruined."

BREEDING PROGRAM

Dairy cattle farming is a profitable enterprise when it is well run, but it is submitted to numerous risks which require constant attention from the self represents very important capital which is ordinarily the principal source of revenue in farming.

It is evident an affair of this size cannot go on alone, states

Armand Ouellet, Agronomist, assistant chief of the provincial livestock branch, and whether it is a beginner's herd or an excellent purebred herd, it is absolutely necessary to have a solid breeding program to which the farmer must adhere very strictly if he wishes to reduce the risks of his enterprise to a minimum.

This program can vary considerably from one farm to another but it must always be centered on the improvement of the quality of the livestock and on the constant practice of balanced rations. As it is impossible to work with sick animals, it is necessary to watch the state of health of the herd.

For this, the program must comprise well-known tests in view of controlling contagious diseases and maintaining the herd free from tuberculosis, brucellosis and mastitis.

One must not forget the elementary practices of hygiene in connection with the cleanliness of the stable and its good ventilation.

As to a suitable breeding program, it goes without saying that it is always based on a rigorous selection of dairy cows and on the most careful choice of herd sires.

The practiced eye of a good farmer who sees his cattle every day of the year can, without doubt, make a suitable choice but nothing can replace the weighing of milk to give the information required in view of a serious selection.

Dairy control must then be a permanent item in the progress of the breeder who truly desires to maintain his herd at the highest level of production. A well-kept herd register is the most certain instrument to conduct a breeding program with the true knowledge of all facts.

It must be remembered that it is the choice of the herd sires which will determine to a large degree the quality of the herd of tomorrow. This is another item on the first plan of the breeding program and it is an item on which it is never permitted to trade.

Also there must be a good feeding program, which will be, at the same time, the most economical. It is the crop plan which must provide all the required roughages in volume and in quality and at least a good part of the meal required.

The several points upon which we have touched sufficiently show the varied problem which are posed in the exploitation of a dairy herd and in conclusion, point out the necessity of a good breeding program.

YOUR GARDEN HEADQUARTERS

Trees provide garden outline

By MARGARET E DOVE

To plan and achieve a garden having a pictorial effect the year around, it is necessary to first consider the permanent plant material that gives the garden a well-defined linear or skeleton outline.

Structural material consists of trees and shrubs. These woody plants can be subdivided into three groups — coniferous evergreen, broad-leaved evergreen, and deciduous.

Coniferous evergreens are the needle-leaved, cone-bearing trees and shrubs, evergreen throughout the year.

Broad-leaved evergreens have foliage often similar to that of deciduous plants, but the foliage is evergreen, staying on the plants summer and winter.

Deciduous trees and shrubs drop their foliage each winter.

EACH IMPORTANT

Each of these groups plays an important and definite part in the garden design. There are, however, several things to remember when planning a garden structure. For example, needle evergreens absorb the light and consequently produce a very strong and rather dark note of color.

Too great an area of such strong color may produce a sombre rather overpowering effect in the garden. They are therefore best used sparingly.

On the other hand the surface of broad-leaved evergreens is usually glossy and reflects more light. These evergreens with their higher light reflectivity have never a sombre appearance and can be used in greater quantity than the needed evergreens.

INVALUABLE

The wide variations in shape and foliage size of broad-leaved evergreens make them invaluable in any garden picture. A generous and understanding use of this attractive group plays an important part in structural planting.

A display of our hardy broad-leaved evergreens, from tiniest heather leaf to large-leaved rhododendrons, along with their cultural requirements, will be featured in the horticultural section when the Garden Club of Toronto presents its annual spring flower show next May.

SEASONAL COLOR

Deciduous trees and shrubs have seasonal color changes which add greatly to the garden picture. Displays of attractive bloom throughout the growing season also makes this group practically indispensable.

On a small property one tree provides an accent point in the garden. It should be planted far enough from the house to allow space for its proper development. (NEA)

The Record's Farm Report

CFA ASSURED EAST WILL GET NEW HELP

Agriculture minister Hamilton sees 1963 as a good year for farmers, he told the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture last week. He emphasized also that he was giving priority now to measures to help farm income in Eastern Canada. By charts he showed that realized net income per farm in Quebec ($1,946 in 1961), Maritimes ($1,094), and Ontario ($2,629) was substantially below that of the Prairies ($3,412).

Because 25 per cent of total farm costs in Eastern Canada were feed costs, Mr. Hamilton felt his new Feed Grain and Assistance Bill, soon to be introduced in the House, would play a major role in helping Eastern Canada. The four principles of the bill were, he announced, stability of supply, equalization of price, protection of the interests of Eastern producers of feed grain and stability of price.

Dr. Hudson, an economist, has been in public service since 1930 and most recently served in London as executive secretary to the International Wheat Council.

HOG PRICE DROP FORECAST FOR LATE SPRING

The number of hogs on farms on December 1, 1962 was down by almost three per cent from a year earlier according to the DBS hog survey report released recently. The decline of 22.6 per cent in Western Canada more than offset the 15.5 per cent increase in the East. But the changes were not uniform. Big decrease in numbers was in Alberta, down 310 thousand hogs (21 per cent) from last year and Saskatchewan down nearly 200 thousand (32 per cent). The main increase in the East was in Ontario, up to 360 thousand hogs (22 per cent).

In spite of the more favorable feed situation since last fall, Western farmers have not returned to producing hogs as expected. High feed-beef prices over the past few months has also been an influence. The December 1 survey indicates that spring (Dec. '62 to May '63) farrowing are expected to be up nearly 10 per cent in the East but only about 6 per cent in the West. The recent downturn in price outlook for feed beef may influence farmers to change toward more hogs in the West before the end of the year.

Outlook for hogs in the U.S. has dimmed as hog marketings have increased more than usual for the first part of January.

But the real pressure is expected on U.S. meat prices in the March-June period when a big increase in Corn Belt fed cattle is expected to hit markets at about the same time as record number of hogs. With Canadian prices now tied so closely again to U.S. prices there is strong indication that hog prices here will move sharply downward by spring or early summer.

Farm Forum Activities

CREEK

FOSTER — The regular meeting of the Creek Farm Forum was held on Jan. 21, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Claude White. George Allen acted as discussion leader. The topic was, Organized Action, by Farmers doing the job.

The findings were as follows:

Q. How do you account for indifference in farm organization in Canada?

A. The indifference is caused by the fact that there are two languages in this province, and secondly, many will not stand behind farm organization.

Q. What can be done about it?

A. We cannot see what can be done to remedy this situation, as it is very difficult to change peoples' ways.

Q. The Canadian Federation of Agriculture and the National Farmers' Union will be meeting in February, to discuss the work of farm organization in Canada. What recommendation would you make concerning Membership in a National Farm Organization?

A. We feel that membership should be on a voluntary basis.

Q. Re financing a national farm organization?

A. This should be financed the way Dairy advertising is at the present time.

Q. Do you have any specific suggestions for improvement of your provincial farm organization structure?

A. We have no suggestions for improvement of our provincial farm organizations as we feel they are fine, but need more farmers who will support them.

Do-it-yourself

Give a man proper tools and he will keep the home looking like a castle

BY MR. FIX

What tools does the average homeowner need? Should he buy a full assortment right from the beginning or should he start out with nothing at all?

While both positions are extreme, the latter is closer to being more practical. No one should move into a home completely without tools. But if you are about to do so, you will discover that you need fewer than you think and perhaps not the items you thought of getting.

A hammer, a few screw drivers, a pair of pliers and an adjustable wrench will take care of most of your needs—disassembling and putting furniture together (such as beds), assembling toys, changing faucet washers, tightening hinges, replacing doorknobs and a host of other small maintenance jobs.

MORE TOOLS

Plan to acquire other tools as they are needed. (Word to the wise: A cheap tool wears out quickly, does the job poorly and costs additional money when you replace it.)

You will find that you will need additional wrenches, a hand drill for starting holes, special pliers, sandpaper and emery cloth, files, a rule and a plumber's (friend), assorted washers, a plumber's snake and packing material for plumbing (generally graphite string).
