SOVIET RUSSIA IS REBUFFED BY CONFERENCE

World News In Brief

Washington, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The government today stiffened its inflation control policies in the United States by refusing to sanction a second round of reconversion pay boost in a major industry.

Reconversion Director John R. Steelman made the ruling in a case affecting only Pacific Northwest lumber workers. But his decision implied that the administration wants to keep wages in line for the time being.

The government's only remaining control over wages is a requirement of federal approval before any increased costs can be submitted to the office of price administration as a basis for higher price ceilings.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—(CP)—An official here of the Steel Company of Canada Limited said yesterday that the company is entering appeal to the National War Labor Board from recent decisions of the Quebec Regional Board granting an eight-cent-an-hour general wage increase, retroactive to Aug. 15, 1945, to employees in one Montreal plant and another in suburban Lachine.

The regional board's decision in the case of the Montreal plant, employing about 260 workers on a 55-hour week basis, was announced Wednesday about a week following a similar award for the Lachine plant which employs a like number of men.

Washington, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Two scientists said today they could see no possible hook-up between Bikini's subsurface atom bomb blast and the current series of earthquakes in the Caribbean.

"Some of the shock from the bomb blast was transmitted to the earth's surface," geologist Howard Meyerhoff said, "but it wouldn't be sufficient to touch off an earthquake, particularly a quake occurring in the Caribbean, almost on the other side of the earth from Bikini."

And Dr. J. H. Rush, an atomic physicist, commented: "Even if all the energy of the bomb were set off below the surface of the earth, it would be a pin-prick compared with the forces involved in an earthquake."

U.S. Will Not Be Dictated To By Russia, Says Byrnes

New Tremors Devastating West Indies

More Supplies Rushed to Stricken Areas—Shift In Ocean Bed of Atlantic Deep Held Responsible.

Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Planes today rushed help to stricken areas of Haiti, the Dominican Republic and Puerto Rico, shaken anew yesterday by earth tremors described as worse in some regions than those which cost at least 30 lives last Sunday.

The fresh shocks—believed to come from a shift in the bed of the Atlantic Ocean at its deepest point, 28,880 feet, about 50 miles northeast of the Dominican Republic—sent another tidal wave smashing across leveled towns of the Dominican Republic and spread panic among residents of many sections. No casualty figures were available.

Towns along Mona Passage—the rough stretch of the sea separating the Dominican Republic and Puerto Rico—appeared to be hardest hit by the tidal wave. Matanzas, on the Dominican northeast coast, felt the full force of the wave, but many residents of that town already had fled to the interior. Earlier reports said 424 houses were destroyed in Matanzas Sunday.

Many buildings which withstood the previous shocks—the Guaymas Observatory in San Juan, Puerto Rico, said there had been 158 since Sunday—crumbled during a 40-second tremor yesterday morning and reports from the Dominican Republic said panic-stricken people jumped from balconies to the street.

In Haiti, which jointly occupied Hispaniola Island with the Dominican Republic, the tremors knocked pedestrians off their feet, while in the Puerto Rican town of Aguadilla and Mayaguez panic developed.

In Ciudad Trujillo, capital of the Dominican Republic, the United States Embassy sent a request to District Naval Headquarters at San Juan for doctors and nurses, while 15 doctors were reported to have arrived at Ciudad Trujillo from Curacao, Netherlands West Indies. Food was being dropped to refugees in the interior and the Red Cross was setting up emergency camps.

Conference Votes Down Russian Move to Require Two-Thirds Vote For Adoption of All Recommendations—Byrnes Regrets "Intermittent Struggle" Over Right of Nations Which Won War to Participate In the Peace.

By LYNN HEINZERLING

Paris, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The Peace Conference today rebuffed Soviet Russia's efforts to apply the two-thirds rule, after a plain-speaking address in which State Secretary Byrnes declared the United States would not be dictated to.

The conference voted down 15 to 6 the Russian move to require a two-thirds vote for adoption of all conference recommendations. The rules committee had rejected the two-thirds proposal by the same vote, but Russia yesterday reopened the issue before the full conference.

The conference adopted, 15 to 4, the rules as a whole as proposed by the rules committee. Poland and Czechoslovakia abstained. The rule on voting as adopted is the British compromise under which both two-thirds votes and simple majority decisions would be considered by the Foreign Ministers Council, but with the two-thirds decision carrying the greater weight.

The conference postponed until later a Yugoslav proposal to invite Albania to attend "with a consultative voice."

The countries voting for the Russian move to reopen the voting question were Russia, Byelorussia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, the Ukraine and Yugoslavia.

Mr. Byrnes told the delegates: "The people want us to get on with the peace."

"I think," he continued, "that those nations which sent their sons overseas to fight the war should have a right to participate in the peace. I take exception to the charge that those who want to recognize these rights are forming a Third World War."

"It is more than a year since our fighting men won the war," Mr. Byrnes went on. "They worked together, fighting together and dying together."

"We of the Allied countries should show that we are worthy of our sons and daughters. To make peace one must be inspired by the will to make peace."

"Why should we have this intermittent struggle over the right of nations which won the war to participate in the peace?"

"All of us agree that the final texts of treaties are to be drawn by the Foreign Ministers Council, and to be effective they must be ratified by the states which are members of the council," Mr. Byrnes continued, as he took up again the argument on Russia's insistence that recommendations for peace treaties should be made to the Foreign Ministers Council only by two-thirds of the countries present.

The rules committee of the 21-power conference adopted and recommended to the conference the adoption of a modified two-thirds rule suggested by Britain, under which recommendations made by either two-thirds of the delegates or by a simple majority of them would be sent to the Foreign Ministers for consideration, but with varying weight.

Mr. Byrnes said: "Now we come to this question of blocs. By what right do those who vote with Soviet Russia call those who vote against them a bloc?"

"On the 11 to 9 vote (on which a Netherlands amendment for a simple majority was defeated) no one suggested that it was defeated by a Soviet bloc."

"But on a 15 to 6 vote the charge is made that it was defeated by an Anglo-Saxon bloc."

"What loose and wicked talk this is."

As Mr. Byrnes spoke, Mr. Molotov's personal interpreter poured a rapid translation into the Foreign Ministers' ear.

In his castigation of talk about "blocs" Mr. Byrnes pointed out that France and Norway voted with the so-called "Anglo-Saxon bloc," and said that they with China and Brazil "are being attacked."

"The United States, which wants to be friends with all peaceful nations, is accused of being the leader of a bloc," Mr. Byrnes said. "We want to work with all nations. We are not going to gang up against any nation."

"We will make concessions—but we will not make all the concessions."

"We haven't fought to dictate to a free world or to have one of our Allies dictate to us."

Would Resist Iran Threats To U.K. Lives

Britain to Take 'Unilateral Action' If Troop Movement In Persian Gulf Results In Any Unpleasantness.

London, Aug. 9.—(AP)—A Foreign Office spokesman said today that if any "violent or sudden" threat to British lives or property took place in Iran, Britain would not be obliged to consult the United Nations Security Council but would feel justified in taking "unilateral action."

The government of Iran announced yesterday that it had protested the movement of Indian troops to Basra, a port in Iraq at the head of the Persian Gulf, and had requested their removal.

The British Government previously had explained that the troops were sent from India for replacement of other troops stationed near the Anglo-Iranian oil fields in adjoining southern Iran. The first announcement of the troop movement, which came from the Indian Government, said the troops were being sent in case of any disturbance. Labor difficulties recently had plagued operation of the British-owned installations.

The spokesman told a press conference a state of "law and order" did not disappear gradually and "there may not be time to consult the United Nations."

When a questioner remarked that the United Nations Security Council was permanently in session, the spokesman replied, "The Security Council has no troops."

Sweden To Ask U.N. Status Following Cabinet Meeting

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH
New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Advices from Stockholm indicated Sweden's application for membership in the United Nations would be forwarded to New York after a cabinet meeting today in the Swedish capital.

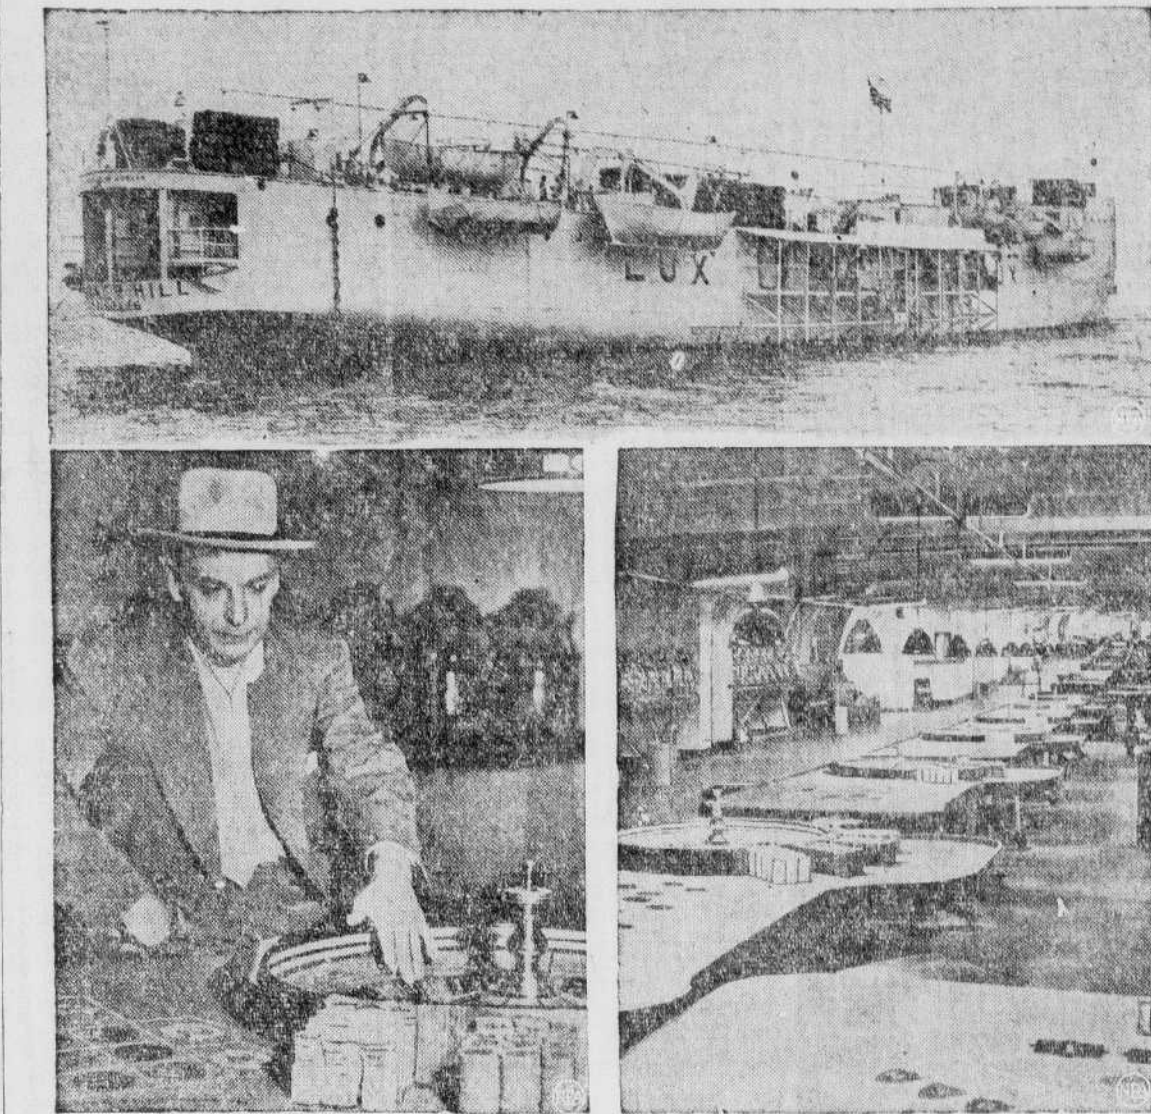

These reports said the move would not be announced in Stockholm until the United Nations secretariat acknowledged receipt of the application.

The Swedish application, the ninth to be considered by the security council's membership committee now in session, appeared unlikely to receive opposition, for the Swedish Government had canvassed the major powers in Sweden to learn what reception the Swedish bid might receive.

The membership committee meanwhile resumed drafting of questions to be submitted to Albania over her hotly contested application, which has the support of Soviet Russia and Poland and the bitter opposition of neighboring Greece.

The questions approved yesterday by the committee would ask Albania whether she considered a state of war still exists with Greece and if so what steps should be taken to end it.

Floating Casino Cut Off From Shore

Some 800 patrons were today reported stranded aboard Tony Corneo's floating gambling casino, the Bunker Hill or Lux, as it is also known. When authorities stopped water taxis carrying patrons from shore to the converted seaplane tender and back, Police authorities acted 48 hours after the gaming ship, anchored in the Pacific, five miles off Long Beach, Calif., was opened for business. Top picture shows the Bunker Hill, lower left Corneo checking a roulette wheel, and lower right the main salon filled with gaming tables.

UK Prepares For Blockade Of Palestine

Will Endeavor to Halt Illegal Immigration of Jews Into Holy Land—Co-Operation Sought.

London, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The British Government apparently was busy today arranging land, air and sea forces for imposition of a blockade on unauthorized Jewish immigration into Palestine.

A Foreign Office spokesman said Britain had requested the Russian and Romanian governments to do everything possible to stop the embarkation of immigrants from Constantinople and other Romanian ports. Similar representations have been made to France, Italy, Czechoslovakia and Poland urging them to stop the movement of Palestine-bound Jews at the source. The spokesman said one ship was now in Romanian waters waiting for a load of immigrants.

The cruiser Ajax arrived at Haifa Harbor, Palestine, where the fate of 1,500 immigrants aboard ships was still undecided.

Dispatches from the island fortress of Malta said the British Mediterranean fleet was preparing to rendezvous in Grecian waters for a "summer cruise," a maneuver.

Gaming Ship Closes Brief Ocean Career

800 Patrons of West Coast Gaming Hell Stranded Offshore On Bunker Hill—Owner Tony Corners Arrested.

Los Angeles, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Approximately 800 weary patrons of chance were stranded aboard the floating gambling casino Bunker Hill at an early hour today, caught in the legal fracas between operator Tony Corneo and law enforcement officers.

Operation of most of the water taxi fleet serving the Bunker Hill was stopped by officers last night. A throng of persons was lined up on the Bunker Hill's landing platform. Others continued to gamble. There was plenty of food and the bar was fairly busy. There was a lack of chairs on board and some dozen standing up.

Corneo, arrested earlier and released on bond, told officials: "You've impounded the boats (water taxis). You get the patrons off."

City Prosecutor Albert C. S. Ramsey, of Long Beach, asked the United States Coast Guard for assistance in removing the persons. Coast Guard 11th district headquarters said a cutter would be dispatched to remove any persons who were ill or who had to leave for other emergency reasons.

Ramsey said he asked Corneo to permit ten water taxis to remove the patrons, promising there would be no arrests of the operators. The prosecutor said Corneo refused.

Just 48 hours after craps, roulette, slot machines, poker and other games of chance began operating on the converted Seaplane Tender, the District Attorney and Sheriff stopped Corneo at the source: They arrested all the pilots of the water taxi fleet that was plying between Long Beach and the Bunker Hill, anchored off Los Angeles harbor lighthouse.

There were about 1,000 patrons aboard the Bunker Hill when the taxi pilots were arrested on violating a Long Beach city ordinance of soliciting gambling patronage.

Meanwhile, Corneo and four of his associates surrendered to the Sheriff on charges of conspiracy to conduct gambling games, keeping slot machines and card games, bookmaking, conducting a lottery, prevailing upon persons to visit a gambling place and 14 other acts, including moving the Bunker Hill from Seattle to Los Angeles for the purpose of preparing it as a gambling ship.

Corneo and his associates were released on $2,000 bail each.

3 Of Lynch Mob Said Identified

Washington, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The Washington Post said today it has learned that the Federal Bureau of Investigation has identified some of the members of the mob which lynched four Negroes at Monroe, La.

The Post story said: "Evidence leading to a complete round-up of the mob which participated in the lynching will soon be laid before Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia and Attorney General Tom Clark in Washington."

A state official in Georgia, who asked not to be quoted, said that the F. B. I. had put its finger on at least three of the gang and is tying up the threads of other evidence before making arrests of the entire lynch mob."

Heads Of Striking Unions Undergo Questioning Today

Ottawa, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Members of the Commons Industrial Relations Committee today took time out to read briefs by three labor unions involved in strikes. The members will meet later today to question leaders of the unions.

L. W. Brockington, mediator in the steel dispute, meanwhile continued his conferences with officers of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.), the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, Sydney, N.S.; Algoma Steel Corporation, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Steel Company of Canada, Hamilton, Ont.

He remained silent on reports that he was certain to fail in his efforts to end the 24-day strike which affects 15,000 workers. He stuck to his original decision to make his report only to the Commons committee which appointed him. It was considered likely he would make that report early next week.

The briefs of the three other unions were filed with the committee late yesterday. The briefs came from the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.); United Electrical Workers (C.I.O.) and United Rubber Workers (C.I.O.).

All dealt with wage demands which are the issue in the strikes. The rubber workers have had 10,000 members on strike in Ontario rubber plants since June 23 in an effort to get wage increases of 20 cents an hour. The electrical workers have 6,700 workers out in Ontario plants seeking a 25-cent increase. The automobile workers are engaged in strikes involving 4,000 workers at the Windsor and Chatham, Ont., plants of Chrysler Corporation for an 18 1/2 cent increase.

The three unions gave general support to arguments put before the committee earlier by Pat Conroy, chairman of the Canadian

Mob Storms City Council At Hamilton

Striking Steelworkers Voice Angry Disapproval of Sentiments Expressed At Special Meeting of Solons.

Hamilton, Aug. 9.—(AP)—There were angry scenes inside and outside Hamilton City Hall last night at 4,000 labor supporters stormed a special council meeting on the strike situation, voiced loud disapproval of strike sentiments expressed by aldermen and controllers and surged about the entrance, necessitating police protection for council members as they emerged.

Inside the Council Chamber, there appeared a wide difference of opinion as to the causes of the present strike situation. Two of the chief speakers were the women council members—Councilor Nora Frances Henderson and Alderman Helen Anderson—and they opposed each other with determination. Councilor Henderson was apparently chief target for angry shouts and denunciations from the surging mob. Earlier, she had expressed belief that a state of lawlessness existed in the Hamilton district and placed the blame squarely on the shoulders of the striking workers of the Steel Company of Canada.

As she emerged from City Hall last night, she was flanked by eight policemen and the crowd serenaded her with "We'll hang Nora Henderson from a sour apple tree."

The first two council members to come out of the building—Councilor Clark and Alderman Heddie—were shoved back in by the mob. Thereafter, as each one emerged, policemen walked on either side. The crowd dispersed quietly before midnight.

Focal point of debate during the meeting was a motion to ask the Minister of Justice whether Order-in-Council No. 2591, providing penalties for workers who did not obey the Government-appointed steel controller, would be enforced. It was carried by a vote of 10-6.

Another motion, however, was rejected by a vote of 9-7. It called for action on the part of the council in seeking assistance from the Ontario Attorney-General to maintain law and order.

Long before the council meeting was to begin, crowds jammed the City Hall steps, surged into corridors and crowded stairs outside the Council Chamber. They greeted some speakers with applause, others with derisive remarks until warned the room would be cleared unless order was maintained.

Controller Henderson said citizens should not be misled by the "subtle and cynical assurances" of union leaders that no one is pre-

Canadian Blitz Fighters Create Argument In House

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

Canadian Press Staff Writer
Ottawa, Aug. 9.—The Commons, handling more legislation than on any single day this session, yesterday completed study of bills that will form part of the Veterans Charter and then resumed debate on a measure extending Foreign Exchange Control regulations.

Members adopted the remaining nine of 12 bills recommended by the Commons Committee on Veterans Affairs, with most of them being passed after only minor debate. An exception was the bill extending to the 405 members of the Canadian Firefighting Corps that went to London during the blitz the benefits given veterans under rehabilitation and unemployment insurance legislation.

Opposition members contended that Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, now Ambassador to Greece and former Deputy Minister of National War Services, had made a definite promise to the firefighters that they would be given the same treatment as members of the forces.

This was denied by members of the Government and Walter Tucker, parliamentary assistant to Veterans Minister Mackenzie, read into the record a cable in which Gen. LaFleche denied he had ever made such a promise.

Before bogging down on the debate which has been heard on several occasions before, the members adopted:

1. Bills dealing with the allowances and grants to universities to defray costs arising from the rehabilitation program.

2. A bill extending veterans benefits to Canadians recruited to Britain and the United States to serve behind enemy lines.

3. A bill extending veterans legislation to persons living in Canada who served in the armed forces of Allied Nations and returned to Canada within two years after their discharge.

4. A bill extending pensions and allowances to merchant seamen and civilian groups who served during the war.

5. Bill permitting veterans to borrow up to $3,000 to invest in a business partnership.

6. A bill extending certain benefits to supervisors in auxiliary services.

Indicative of the desire to speed up the work of the session was the adoption of a motion authorizing the House to sit on Saturdays.

The afternoon sitting was interrupted by acting Health Minister McCann who warned in a statement there is "great danger of a sharp increase in the number of infantile paralysis cases in Canada, already in the epidemic stage, as a result of widespread outbreaks in the United States. To date this year, 155 cases had been reported to the Health Department."

(Figures supported by health authorities across the country last night gave an unofficial total of 215.)

In the Senate, meantime, a number of bills already passed by the Commons were given second reading and referred to Senate committees. Given final approval was a bill amending the combines investigation legislation to simplify the machinery through which the government hopes to deal with combines.

In the debate on veterans bills, Maj. E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) and Howard Green (PC—Vancouver South) urged increased allowances be paid to veterans attending university because of the "grave danger" many would not be able to complete their courses because

STAN LEONARD
BLISTERS PAR
AT WINNIPEG

Niakwa Golf and Country Club, Winnipeg, Aug. 9.—Stan Leonard, 31-year-old Canadian golfer, who could be in the opinion of one who is in the right spot to know—high among the game's greatest, today stands at an ideal point to begin proving just that.

As the $10,000 Canadian Professional Golfers' Association open tournament went into its third round today the 145-pound, west coast links master was two strokes off the 136-stroke pace set by Ellsworth Vines of Chicago who took the lead after the first 18 holes and maintained it on his second playoff hole.

Leonard, standing only five feet, eight inches, fired a five-under-par 67 in the second round to close in on the former tennis-playing Vines who could only do a one-under 71 after his par-shattering and record-breaking seven-under first round 65. The bespectacled Vines' 71 was the same figure that the Canadian star picked up on his first 18.

As nearly pleased with Stan's performance as any of the Vancouver player's friends was Dick Metz, golfing-farmer from Arkansas City.

"He could without a doubt become one of the top eight players on this continent if he only toured the American top-notchers," said Metz. "I sincerely mean that and I should know, for I've played against the best."

In getting his 67 yesterday, Leonard travelled at a fast clip as he went out in 33 and back in 34. He snuffed an eagle double on the first hole and afterwards picked up four birdies, getting two in a row on the back nine, the first on the 15th. He was never in serious difficulty and on no hole did he yield to par.

Vine's putter wasn't behaving as it did on his first 18. He three-putted on the 14th, 15th and 18th to go one over on each and wipe out the three birdies he snared starting on the ninth.

Vancouver's other bright light of the links, Freddie Wood, shot a 71 which with his 69 of yesterday gave him 140 and a third-place tie with Freddie Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, La., who had a 70 on both rounds. One stroke behind these two was Jimmy Thomson of Los Angeles and New York with 141 from a 69 and 72.

Jim Ferrier of Chicago held third place with 42 fashioned from two 71s and for the seventh position there was a three-way tie with 143. Sharing the spot were Lawson Little of Monterey, Calif., Sammy Sneed and Dick Metz, all with scores of 71-72.

Two players, Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and Henry Ransom of Houston, Texas, came up with 144.

Bob Feller, Indians—Pitched his eighth one-hit victory in his major league career in hurling Cleveland to 5-0 conquest of Chicago in first game of doubleheader.

Pete Reiser, Dodgers—Smashed homer and two-run triple to bat in all of Brooklyn's runs in Dodgers' 3-1 10-inning victory over New York.

Jim Tabor, Phillies—Belted three-run four-bagger to lead Philadelphia to 3-8 first game triumph over Boston.

Tommy Henrich, Yankees—Drove in five runs as New York trounced Washington, 13-1 in second game of doubleheader.

Earl Caldwell, White Sox—Won his own game when he singled in winning run in the 10th inning to give the Sox a 7-6 victory over the Indians in second game of twin bill.

VETERAN SLAB
ARTIST KEEPS
BEARS IN RACE

By The Associated Press
Al Mustakis' six won none lost record is a small indication of the value the veteran righthander has been to Newark Bears in their battle for an International League playoff berth.

The 34-year-old hurler, used entirely in relief roles by Manager George Selkirk of the Bears, has many games as he had gained credit for winning.

Summons from the bull pen last night when starter Walt Dabiel weakened in the ninth inning and allowed Rochester Red Wings to put two runners on base with one out, Mustakis retired the next two batters to preserve a 7-4 triumph for Dabiel.

The victory enabled the Bears to move into a fourth-place deadlock with Syracuse Chiefs who divided a doubleheader with Toronto Maple Leafs.

After Bill McCahan blanked the Chiefs, 2-0 in the seven inning opener, Syracuse came back to take the nightcap, 5-4.

Montreal's front-running Royals scored a 2-2 10-inning triumph over the tail-end Jersey City Giants. Jackie Robinson counted the winning marker from third base with a brilliant slide after Lew Riggs flied to Nick Solomon.

The third-place Buffalo Bisons advanced to within half a game of Baltimore's runner-up Orioles by nosing out the Orioles, 8-7.

Young Art Houtteman started for the Bisons and was nursing a 3-3 lead going into the seventh inning but the Orioles drove him to cover by scoring four times in the seventh. Zeb Eaton came to his rescue and put out the fire and Houtteman gained the decision, his 15th of the year.

The Bisons also pulled the Circuit's third triple play of the campaign in the third frame.

Howie Moss of the Orioles, the club's leading home run hitter, clouted his 29th round-tripper of the campaign.

of financial embarrassment.

E. B. McKay (CCF—Weyburn) and Victor Quetch (SC—Acadia) urged an interest rate lower than five per cent be charged on business loans. Percy Wright (CCF—Melford) urged the Government pay the differences between five per cent and 3½ per cent, the rate charged for loans under the Veterans Land Act.

These suggestions were turned back on grounds the government did not have the facilities to handle such loans and the banks said five per cent was the rate they would have to charge to make a fair return on the loans.

J. F. Pouliot (Ind. L.—Temiscouata) opposed the bill extending benefits to the men recruited by Britain and the United States for service behind enemy lines. He also opposed the measure extending veterans benefits to men who, domiciled in Canada prior to the war, fought with allied armies other than the Canadian Army and who returned to Canada within two years after discharge. The firefighters bill was another to draw his criticism.

His objections were on the ground that benefits should be paid for by the governments of the countries for which the men served.

Little progress was made on the Foreign Exchange Control Bill. H. H. Hatfield (PC—Victoria-Charlotteville) saw members turn down by a vote of 57-18 an amendment which would have meant that farmers and fishermen at border points would have been allowed to export up to $100 worth of produce a month without a permit from the board. All that would be necessary would be a declaration to a customs officer.

Acting Finance Minister Abbott promised to take the suggestion under consideration and, if it could be accepted, it would be put in a regulation rather than in a statute.

Five Steel Workers Admitted to Bail After Hearing On Charges of Intimidation and Assault.

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 9.—Judgment will be passed August 13 on five striking steelworkers charged with assault, intimidation and besetting. Magistrate Harry Burville said late last night after a hearing which lasted more than 12 hours with only brief adjournments.

The men were admitted to bail by Magistrate Burville who took the bench at the outset of the hearing after defence counsel John Sullivan produced a notice of motion for a Supreme Court order prohibiting Magistrate James McKay from proceeding. Earlier this week, Magistrate McKay had refused bail.

The five men are James (Shaky) Robertson, international representative of the union, which has been on strike since July 15 at the Steel Company of Canada plant here; John Sullivan, plant foreman; George Griese and Giuseppe Vinciguerra, all striking steelworkers.

They were arrested after a clash at La Salle Park last Saturday between strikers and Stelco employees who have remained at work despite the strike. Near the La Salle docks at the time of the fracas were the Stelco boat Jodo and the union boat Whisper.

Crown witnesses testified the Stelco launch was at the La Salle docks to pick up Vern Newcombe, a foreman who had been flown out of the strike-beleaguered plant to obtain dental treatment. The launch also was to have taken medical supplies to the plant.

The court was told that Thomas Walsh, a Stelco employee, was upon and kicked when he tried to board medical supplies aboard the company boat. Newcombe said he was dazed by a blow and grabbed by Fawcett and a companion. He identified Griese, Fawcett and Vinciguerra as the men around Walsh.

Harold Reid, of Brantford, and his companion, Mrs. Frances C. Reid, said they saw the set-to as they awaited a ferry. Both said they had seen no violence.

All five accused testified in their own defence and denied having assaulted anyone.

vented from coming out of the plant. She produced a petition signed by 2,500 workers inside the Stelco plant and said to have been flown out shortly before the meeting. The petition called on the Council to urge removal of "the illegal picket line around the plant" and enforcement of law and order.

Alderman Anderson charged that the steel controlship was "one of the most vicious pieces of legislation ever passed."

Larry Sefton, international representative of the United Steelworkers of America (U.S.I.O.), later said "any violence that occurs is initiated by the company."

Canadian's Death
Labelled Murder

Chicago, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The state's first witness in the trial of Donald Murray, 41-year-old salesman charged with murdering a Canadian Army officer found with Murray's wife in a Chicago hotel last May 26, yesterday in criminal court related events immediately after the shooting.

The witness was Francis W. O'Malley, hotel detective, who was called after the defence in opening arguments, contended that Murray shot and killed Lt.-Col. John P. Fletcher, 46-year-old former Elgin, Ill., school teacher and his friend of 20 years, in self defence when Fletcher attacked him.

Samuel Freedman, assistant state attorney, who is demanding the death penalty, contended that the slaying was premeditated and that Murray had a revolver in his hand when he entered the hotel room.

O'Malley testified that when he entered the room, "I saw a man on the bed with bullet wounds in him." Murray was nearby, O'Malley said, and he asked: "Who shot this man?" Murray said, "I did."

O'Malley said that Murray pointed to his wife, Doris, 36, standing in the bathroom doorway. The detective said she was scantily attired and that Fletcher was wearing a bathrobe.

Jerusalem, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Jamal Bey Hussein, deputy chairman of the Palestine Arab Executive, said today that the bombing of the consulate in Beirut Sunday night was the result of spontaneous Arab resentment there against United States interference in Palestine.

Hussein, who yesterday rejected a British invitation to talks on the Anglo-American committee proposal for dividing Palestine into Jewish and Arab provinces, told a press conference that the "Arabs never expected the United States to sponsor such a cause as the open invasion and oppression of the Palestine Arabs."

Report Drop In Aluminium Profit

Aluminium, Limited, estimates 1946 first half consolidated profit at $4,800,000 equivalent after preferred dividends to $5.45 per common share, as against $5,600,000 or $7.20 per common share in 1945. This 1946 profit does not include $1,500,000 net U.K. excess profits tax post-war refund received in June. It is after allowing for $500,000 exchange loss on net current assets in respect of the recent revaluation of the Canadian dollar, which amount, it is estimated, will also be indicative of the net effect such revaluation will have on second half operations.

As compared with Canadian ingot output in the first half of last year, at 46% of the peak war rate, ingot operations in the first half of this year were 30% of the peak rate and are currently 40%.

Reflecting the reduction in ingot prices, exports for commercial use in the United Kingdom, the United States and other important markets are being resumed in volume.

Expansion or erection of fabricating facilities by subsidiaries to provide a further increase in ingot output is proceeding at Arvida, Shawinigan Falls and Kingston in Canada, as well as in Mexico, South Africa, India, and particularly in the United Kingdom, where a modern sheet mill of the continuous type is being installed.

Prolonged Drought Harmful To Crops In E.T. District—Now 25 Percent Below Normal

A prolonged drought accompanied with the usual bad effects is noted in the current telegraphic reports on crop conditions and agricultural pests issued by the Agricultural Branch of the Bureau of Statistics at Quebec.

A summary of crop conditions shows that hay is nearing completion with the crop twenty-five per cent below normal. Cereals are short in the straw and are now heading out; a rather light crop is expected. Pastures and aftermath in meadows have suffered from lack of moisture until the last week-end when good rainfalls have somewhat brought relief to general crop conditions and give to a relative moisture supply.

However rains were not sufficient to assure lasting effects. Vegetables are backward but present prospects are for satisfactory crops. All of the hoe crops, sugar beets are promising the highest yields. Livestock are in mediocre condition and milk flow is gradually decreasing.

The severe drought that has prevailed the last three weeks has provoked the development of numerous insects and also that of some vegetable diseases. However, the situation is about normal and no alarming infestation is reported. Apple fly has been just captured in a couple of places in Quebec district and will necessitate some supplementary sprays that could be omitted until now. Lack of moisture at this period is affecting crops more than any of the reported insects.

A detailed report on agricultural pests and crop reports for the districts of the Eastern Townships follows:

Insects.—Flea beetles and Colorado potato beetles are very common in potatoes. Leaf hoppers and tarnish plant bugs have caused yellowing of foliage in a way that it looks like mildew in certain fields. Striped cucumber beetles have produced bacterial blight in many gardens. Fruit trees are visited by all ordinary insects but especially by aphids. Farmers should give a special attention to the raspberry cane borer. In ornamental plants, there are quite a lot of caterpillars, miners and aphids. Apple maggot has appeared in Quebec district; many specimens have been captured in St. Nicolas and Neuville and control sprays should be done right now in orchards.

Diseases.—Cereals are not much affected by diseases, except in oat fields where rust is seen but not in abundance. Early blight, black leg, blight, leaf rolling and mosaic have shown up in potato fields. Due to drought, late blight has appeared in western part of the Province and blossom-end-rot on many industrial crops. Cucumber blight is developing owing to the presence of striped cucumber beetles. Apple scab infestation is quite serious in neglected orchards; apple bacterial blight, although abundant, is not very severe. Raspberry plants not closely watched, are showing an

RAIN ASSISTS FIGHT AGAINST FOREST FIRES

By The Canadian Press

Wet men who for days have battled forest fires in many parts of central and eastern Canada increased their efforts today and looked anxiously for signs of more of the long-awaited rain which yesterday helped improve the situation in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

At Moncton, N.B., Chief Forester G. L. Miller said a half-inch rainfall yesterday was the first break in a three-week battle with flames which have blackened 50 square miles of eastern New Brunswick and crept to within five miles of that city. He warned that a heavier rain was needed to remove the fire menace completely.

In the Apple River area 50 miles southwest of Amherst, N.S., a blaze which destroyed more than 7,000 acres of valuable timberland in five days was all but extinguished by a heavy rain. Firefighters took up where the rain left off and brought the stubborn fire under control.

In Ontario where bush fires are burning in many sections, rain was still badly needed. In the sprawling Sudbury forest division, 34 fires were raging over an estimated 700 acres of scrub land. Sixteen were reported since Wednesday but none was considered a menace to valuable timber or to settlements.

Officials of the Sudbury division warned, however, that the hazard remained in all wooded areas because there has been no "good" rain for 20 days.

In Toronto, officials of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests estimated that almost 1,000 men were battling blazes throughout the province. Most of the fires, some of which have been under way for two weeks, have been confined to slash and scrub stands of poplar and birch.

A 5,000-acre blaze in the Mississauga area north of Blind River was being "held" by some 200 men but the potential danger to adjoining valuable timber holdings had not been erased.

Collective Labor Agreement Signed Between Paton Firm And Employees' Association

Signing of a collective agreement regulating wages and working conditions for one year between the Paton Manufacturing Company, Ltd., and their local association of workers known as the National Association of Paton Employees, was announced jointly today by Walter L. Goddard, Paton manager here, and Rene Harnegies, organizer for the employees' group.

The agreement terminates several months' labor trouble at the Belvidere Street plant in which two strikes occurred and legal charges and injunctions were taken out before actual negotiations concerning working conditions and salaries were undertaken.

Signed by Mr. Goddard and Frank Milne for the company, and Charles A. Laliberte, president, and Joseph Gervais, secretary of the Employees' Association, the agreement calls for a general raise in wages for the year 1946-47 equivalent to about $160,000. For example, the average wage for a weaver has risen from fifty-five cents per hour to seventy-five cents per hour.

The agreement also calls for recognition of the Association as the sole bargaining agent, has a union security clause and establishes a grievance procedure with arbitration to solve peacefully minor disputes which might arise during the application of the agreement.

Mr. Goddard, commenting on the agreement, expressed the opinion that it would produce harmonious dealings between labor and management and bring about an increase in production, and, on behalf of the employees, Mr. Harnegies congratulated the company for the manner in which the negotiations were conducted, and voiced the belief that the year 1946-47 would be one of prosperity and industrial peace for the two parties.

Sherbrooke District Is Still Free Of Polio Cases But Total For Canada Continues Climb

With reports of infantile paralysis cases in the last twenty-four hours bringing the total for the Dominion to 215, Sherbrooke continues with a clean slate. The Municipal Department of Health stated this morning that they had received no reports of any cases of the disease here.

Montreal, hardest hit of all Canadian communities, now has 121 polio cases, and in Windsor, Ont., Shawinigan Falls, and throughout Alberta there is increased incidence of the dreaded disease.

The situation brought from Acting Health Minister McCann the opinion that this might be a "cycle year" for polio. In Windsor, four new cases brought the total to 20 yesterday.

Shawinigan Falls authorities reported 10 cases and government officials put the Alberta figure at 20.

The country's total of 215 includes four in Sarnia, Ont.; 16 in Toronto, three in Nova Scotia, five in New Brunswick, one in Quebec City, five in the Ottawa area, five in Manitoba, five in Saskatchewan, Complete totals for Quebec, Ontario, British Columbia and Prince Edward Island were not available.

Opinion varied as to whether or not segregation of children would help to curb the spread of polio.

In Toronto, a Canadian Medical Association report on a United States polio survey suggested that raw fruits and vegetables contaminated by virus-bearing flies might be important in transmission of the disease.

BEEBE FACTORY DEMOLISHED BY FLAMES TODAY

Beebe, Aug. 9.—Fire completely demolished the property of the D. F.N. Wood Products Company here early this morning with no part of the machinery or stock saved in the building which housed a bobbin mill.

The $15,000 fire was first noticed in the adjacent boiler room at about 3.30 a. m. by William Bronson, of Beebe, who immediately called the Fire Department. The fire had gained headway by the time that the one-horse wagon arrived, however, and it was impossible to put out the blaze. At nine this morning the ruins were still smouldering.

The property which was formerly owned by the Rough and Ready Wood Products Company consists of a one and one-half storey frame building, with a boiler room attached. Employing six men, it is managed by George Norton, formerly of Bromptonville.

Cause of the fire is unknown and no one was injured.

It is undecided whether or not the building, which was partially covered by insurance, will be rebuilt.

Two Youths Hurt When Auto Crashed Into Ditch And Tree

Two youths were taken to Asbestos Hospital when a ride in a rented automobile culminated in a bad smash-up on the highway between Melbourn and Greenley late yesterday afternoon.

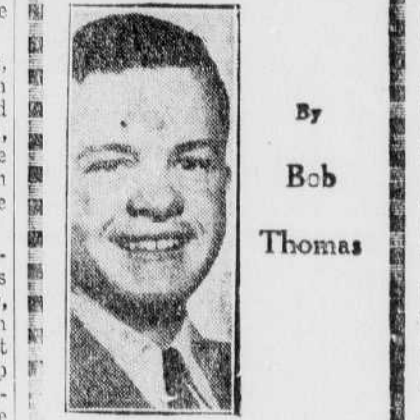

Roger Therrien, 22, of Asbestos, hired a "drive-yourself" car from Marcel Caron, it is alleged, and accompanied by Conrad Croteau, 25, also of the mining town, where both young men are employed in the mine, set out for a pleasure jaunt.

Somewhere between the two centres mentioned, Therrien, who was driving, lost control of the vehicle, careened into the ditch along which the car skidded some eighty feet until it crashed into a tree stump. The car was hurled back onto the centre of the road, where it came to rest upside down.

Fleury's ambulance of Richmond was summoned and rushed the two gravely injured youths to the hospital. It was at first feared that Croteau had sustained a broken skull. Therrien suffered broken ribs and bad contusions.

Traffic Officer Conrad Lacharite and Detective Edgar Anderson, of the Provincial Police—the latter recently transferred from Montreal to Sherbrooke—are conducting an investigation.

Hollywood Highlights

Bob Thomas

Hollywood, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Here's how a star arrives in Hollywood after a three-year absence in Europe.

A score of newspapermen, almost outnumbered by press agents, stood in the waiting sun while an airplane taxied up and emitted its everyday passengers. Then out stepped Marlene Dietrich, looking entirely like Marlene Dietrich.

While shutters clicked, Marlene accepted bouquets of red and yellow roses from four wounded veterans, kissed them, her director, Mitchell Leisen, her press agent and several other people, some of whom she knew.

How did it feel to be back in Hollywood? She didn't know yet. How long would she stay? She didn't know; she had only one picture, "Golden Earrings," to do. Why did she refuse to kiss Jean Gabin while photographers were in the background when she left Paris?

"I didn't even know photographers were there," she said wondrously. By this time she resumed kissing people, but was whisked away in a black studio limousine before she got around to everybody.

Now look who's acting in the movie, Quentin Reynolds. The ponderous correspondent is also emoting in "Golden Earrings" and explained to me he had been in pictures before, but they were British documentaries. I asked if he considered this type of work difficult.

"Are you kidding? That's the kind of business we should have gotten into."

Then he thinks writing is tough work?

"Certainly. It's among the toughest work there is. But I'll say one thing for it—you can do it sitting down."

Worst blowup of a picture since the first "Forever Amber" was cancelled is Warners' "Possessed," starring Joan Crawford and Van Heflin. Most of the footage will be reshot . . . Wonder how the French will go for "Life With Father."

. . . Victor Francen plans to direct and star in the play in Paris next April. . . Elizabeth Taylor cancelled her trip to England because she would have to sail with a boatload of German prisoners. . . Peter Lore is nearing a deal to direct, which is the reason he left Warners.

Defence Dept. Will Not Name Guilty In Wastage Of Footwear

(Special to the Record)

Montreal, Aug. 9.—War Assets Corporation today claimed it was not responsible for the dumping of thousands of new and usable shoes at Point St. Charles, as reported in an exclusive Record story some weeks ago, and further stated that it cannot find out who is responsible. In Ottawa the Department of National Defence has refused to reveal the names of those guilty of the wastage.

The National Defence does not want to tell. It received the information from eyewitnesses during a drawn-out military investigation here.

J. H. Berry claimed W.A.C. conducted an exhaustive inquiry into the affair. He said he did not know who was responsible.

What moves—if any—will now be taken by Ottawa to affirm responsibility and prevent any repetition is not known. Apparently the Government is satisfied to let the matter rest.

Mr. Berry stated yesterday it was possible that corporation workers had cut one or two good articles "in a moment of mental aberration." However, it was possible they were responsible for wholesale mutilation, he said.

Mr. Berry asserted the corporation had found only a few serviceable shoes during its inquiry at Point St. Charles.

In the course of an interview Mr. Berry issued a detailed statement clearing W.A.C. in the matter.

"We know, after a most thorough inquiry, it was not done by the corporation. We cannot go outside the corporation to determine whose fault it is."

Mr. Berry continued: "Cutting by the corporation has always been confined to footwear (or other clothing) which was considered unusable and not repairable and if it is true, as has been stated, that there were several hundred pairs of new shoes placed on the dump in a cut condition, I can find no trace of this cutting having been done by the corporation inspectors."

As a concession to public opinion, W.A.C. has now ceased cutting all canvas shoes, "even when they are categorized as unrepairable and of no value in their present form as a shoe." Mr. Berry feared they would be "some difficulty" finding a market for them in other than scrap form.

Mr. Berry was certain no unspooled shirts had been dumped. Where half a shirt was found in good condition, he felt, the other half had "undoubtedly" been ruined during use, and the good portion therefore had to be scrapped.

MORE WASTED EFFORT

Canada's Elder Statesmen have done little to enhance their reputation for deep wisdom and commonsense by the manner in which they have handled the bill changing the name of Dominion Day to Canada Day. The bill as it came from the House of Commons was ill-advised and indicated that many of the members of the lower chamber were more interested in satisfying some petty and perhaps personal prejudice than they were in dealing with the serious problems facing the country today. But the august decision of the Senate that the day should now be called 'The National Holiday of Canada' indicates that they have lost their contacts with the real will of the people.

First and foremost, the Senate name satisfies nobody and means nothing. Secondly it is too long. The average man discussing any particular holiday soon adopts a nomenclature which can be pronounced quickly and easily, something impossible when a four-word name is assigned to the day.

The hubbub created by the bill to change the name of Dominion Day is hard to understand, for it is doubtful that any outside small group will use the new name any more than they did Dominion Day. For a large proportion of the population this day was better known as Confederation Day, but to the vast majority of the twelve million Canadians it was simply July First—and a general holiday.

And to the majority it will so remain.

It would seem that the lawmakers of Canada could find something better to do with their time than raise issues which have no importance and whose only result is the raising of passions and hatreds among persons who otherwise would be good friends.

POLICE TOO QUICK ON THE TRIGGER

A series of incidents in several Canadian cities during the past few weeks emphasizes that in too many cases the police officers are "trigger-happy," preferring to use their revolvers in cases where their own safety or that of the public is by no means involved. The latest occasion was in Montreal, where according to a newspaper report: "The usually quiet morning air of Mount Royal Avenue was shattered by five revolver shots yesterday, fired by a police constable at a fleeing teen-age boy who was escaping from the scene of a robbery. Two bullets felled the youngster, one in the leg, the other in the arm."

This follows the killing by a guard of an eighteen-year-old youth attempting to escape from Guelph Reformatory and the fatal shooting by a Toronto policeman of a fourteen-year-old boy who was trying to steal a suitcase from a parked automobile. Fortunately in the Montreal case the youth's wounds were superficial and he will shortly appear in court to answer the charges against him.

One important fact must be remembered, however. That his arm was pierced by a bullet as well as his leg is rather convincing evidence that the pursuing policeman who fired five shots in all took aim "above the waist. In reality it was more good luck than good management that the youth ended up in the hospital instead of the morgue.

Something may be said for the policemen, who especially in the larger cities have had to work long hours to hunt down criminals responsible for the recent crime wave. Then, often after long hours of hard work, he finds that the accused has been liberated by the courts on a technicality or a skillful plea by counsel so that the officer has his work to do all over again. However, this is no excuse for an officer to get jittery or "trigger-happy" and blaze away at a minor thief or a juvenile headless of whether or not the bullets kill or maim.

The rule of "Shoot first and do the talking afterwards" has no place in the Canadian system of law enforcement. The police are issued with revolvers as a means of self-defence or for use in a case of real emergency to prevent crime. But they are not to be used as a substitute for study and hard work.

CANADIAN BACON ON THE BRITISH MARKET

The conclusion of an agreement whereby Great Britain will purchase ninety per cent of Denmark's bacon exports during the next three years offers a definite challenge to the Canadian hog raiser. True, the existing contract between Canada and Great Britain extends through 1948 and thus Canadian exports are protected for that period of time at least. But it must be remembered that Danish bacon before the war dominated the British market and was generally regarded as being far superior to the Canadian product.

Wartime conditions permitted the Canadian producer to enter the British market and in fact monopolize it for a time. With the advent of competition it is the duty of the Dominion farmer to market a product that meets the wishes of the British consumer. Given this product it should be the object of the Dominion Government to assure adequate shipping facilities to permit the orderly marketing of the Canadian bacon. Prompt delivery and regularity of supplies are essential if the Dominion is to retain its position in a highly competitive market in the years ahead.

The maintenance of the British market will require substantial changes in Canadian production habits. During the war years, Canadian bacon was raised with the purpose of providing the greatest amount of food value rather than to meet the somewhat epicurean tastes of the British householder. With the increasing flow of supplies, however, the Canadian farmer must adapt himself to the wishes of his purchasers.

GERMANY ITSELF HAS CONSTITUTED WORST BARRIER TO POTSDAM POLICY

The biggest stumbling-block to the Big Four Foreign Ministers in their efforts to carry out the Potsdam agreement of a year ago has been Germany itself.

The general purposes of the agreement were to wipe out Nazism, punish the guilty war-criminals, democratize Germany during the period of military occupation, and, finally, make sure that the Germans would be so completely disarmed they could never again threaten the peace of the world.

To carry out these provisions, Germany was divided into four Zones of Occupation—Russian in the east, U. S. in the south, French in the west, and British in the north. The Potsdam declaration provided that, "So far as practicable, there shall be uniformity of treatment of the German population throughout Germany." This there admittedly has not been.

The control machinery for the occupation of Germany under the Potsdam agreement has been set up as planned, and it has functioned. At the top is the Control Council, made up of the commanding generals of the four zones.

The Control Council has passed a considerable number of laws and orders applicable to all zones. Also, it has laid the basis for technical discussions on many proposals for the uniform treatment of Germany.

Frequently the experts get the ground worked out in subordinate committees, only to have final agreement deferred by the emergence of political differences in the Control Council proper or at higher levels in London, Moscow, Paris, or Washington.

POLICIES DIFFER FROM ZONE TO ZONE

Within each zone there are differences in administration of the laws and orders common to all of Germany. There are differences in the degree of denazification, the degree of self-government, the attitude towards German political parties.

For instance, U. S. policy has been to weed out Nazis and bar them from public office. The Russians have barred the top ones, but they try to convert the little fellows and make them into good communists.

The U. S. has encouraged the development of a number of different political parties with divergent views. The Russians have worked towards unification of the workers' parties in their zone through a single Socialist Unity party embracing the Social Democrats and the Communists.

On disarmament, charges have been hurled thick and fast across the zonal boundaries. The United States proposed a disarmament inspection committee, but when the Russians objected to inclusion of industrial plants in the inspection the idea was dropped. Now there are reports that the Russians are manufacturing munitions for the Red Army in the ex-German war-plants in the Russian zone.

All Nazi discriminatory laws have been abolished in all four zones.

Trials of the leading war-criminals are about concluded. There will probably be no more international trials like that in Nuremberg. Trials of the lesser criminals will be conducted by each country in its own zone.

EDUCATIONAL REORGANIZATION HAS BEEN HARD

Reorganizing the German educational system so as to weed out Nazi and militarist doctrines has been difficult. Schools of all levels are now going, but it has been difficult to find competent anti-Nazi teachers.

The German judicial system has been reorganized by a Control Council law applicable to all four zones. The basis of the new German court system is the old German constitution of 1877.

Local self-government is functioning in the U. S. and British zones, but it's hard to say what the situation is in the Russian zone.

Three elections have been held in the U. S. zone, and local governments have been organized from the bottom up to the Laender, or state, level. Other zones have not made this rapid advance.

In the Soviet zone, there has been only one election, in Saxony. That was a referendum on whether or not industry should be nationalized, and the alternatives offered were so worded that only one answer was possible. The Russian zone has, however, scheduled local elections in the towns and cities for this fall.

The formation of trade unions has been encouraged, and religious freedom has been restored. Civil liberties have been restored, too, except that Germans are not permitted to criticize the Allies.

The Potsdam agreement stated: "For the time being, no central German government shall be established." This has been a great "out" for the Russians in opposing centralization.

The Potsdam agreement went on to declare that there should be central administrative departments on finance, transport, communications, and trade. This has met with opposition from the French, who want to hold off centralization until the western boundaries of Germany have been set.

It's Over Here!

Montreal's flamboyant Mayor Camillien Houde graces the cover of last week's issue of News-Magazine. In a picture which does not do justice to his magnificent nose. Inside, the magazine votes three pages to the Province of Quebec, and in its usual catchy, but none too accurate manner, offers a readable story based on as many popular misconceptions as facts.

The second part of the story as it appeared in Time follows. The first part was published in yesterday's Record.

Joke Book.—A ruthless political free-booter, Mayor Houde played nationalism for all it was worth—just as he had turned everything else to account in politics, even his enormous nose. He made the nose as famous in Canada as Jimmy Durante's in the U. S., proudly called it once "worthy of Cyrano," in combination with his foxy, small eyes and his vast expressive jaw, he looks like a cross between W. C. Fields and Fiorello LaGuardia.

Like both of them, he is a shrewd buffoon, clowns as naturally as others converse. He likes to slump in a chair so he can waggle his feet in the air, much furiously. He has always been willing to do anything for a laugh—and his Montrealers have loved him for it.

When Britain's King George VI and Queen Elizabeth visited Montreal, he entertained them with a stream of jokes, persuaded the King to sing the rollicking song of the cordeur de bois, Alouette. He defined it as God save the King (which the French Canadians stubbornly refuse to sing) and added slyly, "after midnight."

People's Heart.—Yet he works hard at his job. He is up early in his modest grey stone home at St. Hubert Street, where he lives quietly with his wife (his second) and daughter. Usually he walks the three miles to the mayoral office at 110 Notre Dame Street East, in the old part of Montreal, arriving about 9:30 a.m.

There, surrounded by a platoon of aides and his tools of office—a brass spittoon, a silver shovel for sod turning, and three telephones (one gold-plated)—he talks to a steady stream of people in his fast French and slow, accented English, ducks out frequently for stumpy speeches. (He spoke at 65 gatherings last June.)

Mayor Houde usually wears striped trousers, a pale grey waistcoat, an ascot tie, a black coat. Sometimes his exuberant blossoms out in color: pale green pants, bright green tie, green and white herringbone tweed jacket with orange flecks. For ice skating, his favorite sport, he prefers a natty centurion fleecy (a colorful belt). A heavy smoker (two packs a day) and chain coffee drinker (ten cups), he is a semi-vegetarian, eats no red meat, never takes a drink—and is never at a loss for an answer, or a cynical quip.

Once when a visitor seriously asked him about the atom bomb, he replied: "Yes, because of the bomb, decentralization is essential for cities like Montreal." Then, after a pause, he added: "Particularly if we can decentralize the debt at the same time."

He did more than anyone else to pile up that debt. But it has had no political effect for Houde. Why? Answered Houde: "Because I've got the heart of the people."

Butcher Boy.—He is one of them. What a tourist spent in a day would have kept the Houde family for weeks.

Camillien was born on August 13th, 1889, in a two-room tenement flat on the Rue St. Thomee, the only one of ten children to live beyond his second year. He went to work part time for a butcher at $1 a week when he was nine, got a job in a bank at 16, was branch manager at 23. But at 33, he was earning only $40 a week. Then a fortune-telling friend read his hand; she saw him "talking triumphantly on a street corner and shaking thousands of hands."

Camillien, who had an itch for politics anyway, joined the Conservative Club in Montreal's St. Mary constituency, was elected to the provincial legislature, won a name with his quick tongue.

When Alexandre Taschereau, carded the five of clubs, ruffing in dummy.

He took another round of trumps, then let East ruff another diamond. Thus East won only three trump tricks.

It may be that East could have defeated the contract by returning either a club or a trump, but it is always interesting to follow a declarer's line of play on unusual hands when he takes advantage of a situation to make the greatest possible number of tricks.

then Quebec premier and son of one of Quebec's old families, invited Houde for his lack of culture, he retorted: "I may not have everything that was given to the honorable Prime Minister. (But) if he had started where I started he would not be where he is today, nor would he be where I am. I am the beginning. He is the end of a race."

In Again, Out Again.—He fought with his party, but in 1928 was elected Mayor of Montreal anyway—chiefly because his friends outdid the opposition in voting the names of non-voting oldsters and invalids.

Houde lost out in 1932, but the depression brought the "man of the people" back in 1934. He pleased the people by spending $40,000,000 on public works in Montreal in two years. Comfort stations, called "Camillienettes," burgeoned the length and breadth of the city.

He went out but was in again when war came, and this time he made his big mistake: he publicly advised citizens not to register for conscription. Three days later, a squad of Mounties drove him off to the internment camp at Petawawa, where he stayed for four years.

Characteristically, he made the most of his time by turning up on world history and becoming the champion at Chinese checkers, ice skating, long distance walking, woodcutting. He bore the Federal Government no rancor. Said he: "I am enraged." But he added: "I am coolly enraged." He knew he still had the heart of the people.

Blue Populism.—On his release he was met at Montreal's Windsor station by 10,000 wildly cheering citizens. They escorted him to his home in triumph. Four months later they elected him mayor by a thumping majority.

In Houde's absence Montreal's city father had clipped his wings. They had supplemented his one-man rule with a 99-man City Council, which had cleaned up the city. At least, it had pulled down the shades on its more flamboyant sights.

Gone was Madame Baby's; gone was Lillian Russell (whose sleekly groomed and strategically bulging figure was not unlike her namesake's); her menage at 92 Cadieux Street would entertain whole conventions of tourists at once. Gone also was Madame Cesar's where employees and customers alike had been required to wear evening dress.

Less important to tourists but more so for Camillien Houde were other changes. His strident French-Canadian nationalism, with its emphasis on "racism," big families and close ties of church and state, seemed to have lost some of its appeal. Nevertheless, he joined the Bloc Populaire, a catch-all of all nationalist slogans, to extend his power beyond Montreal. In two election tests, the second last month, the Bloc was soundly trounced. For the time being, at least, the Bloc was a dead political duck.

Old Sights.—Camillien Houde had adjusted his ideas to a new generation of French Canadians. But to tourists' eyes, at least, the country of the seigneurs still looked the same.

Down the St. Lawrence, 150 miles from the doorway metropolis, lay Quebec City; its great grey stone citadel, whose guns had once guarded the New World for France, still frowned down on the narrow twisting streets of the Old Town. The habitation women in their dusty-black Sunday clothes still knelt to pray in ancient Chapelle des Augustines. With devout Americans they still trudged the 21 miles to the shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre on pilgrimage.

Out on the Gaspé the fishing boats still put out from the coves for cod and halibut. Tourists could also put out from the little bays

In the Baie de Chaleur, tourist fishermen could still catch salmon, measured in feet, not inches. At Murray Bay's swank Manoir Richelieu, the service was still superb, and there was more than enough fun to go around.

New Sounds.—But there had been a change in the picturesque land. In old Quebec Province, the conservative, independent, devoutly Catholic habitant had developed his own culture on his farms. His cornerstones were the church and the big family, an economic necessity in the rural economy.

Never forgetting that they were a defeated group, they had fanatically defended their right for 200 years to speak their own language, to keep from being absorbed by English Canada. They felt no ties for either France (the France they remembered was that of the 18th Century) or Britain. And when English Canada, feeling these ties in the war, had tried to conscript the French Canadians to fight abroad there had been riots and bitterness.

But the habitant's world had not been able to keep the world out. World War II brought new factories and industries to Quebec. The tourist, his eyes out only for the quaint, would miss them—the high new power plant on the Saguenay, the new plywood plant at St. Therese, the new plastic plant at Brownsburg.

These new industries have caused a profound change in old Quebec's 17th Century culture. As the world came in, much of the old, fanatical nationalism and isolationism with its distrust of English Canada has gone out. Now, there is a greater feeling of co-operation between French and English Canada than ever before.

The 3,000,000 French Canadians, over one-third of Canada's population, can afford to take the long view. The best protection for their culture lies in something no tourist can miss—the swarms of children that play about the old outdoor ovens and the creaking, great-winged windmills. Quebec's birthrate, which has long outstripped the rest of Canada's, may some day make the French Canadians the majority in the Dominion. The habitant calls it the "victory in the cradle." Time, and the long winter nights, are on French Canada's side.

DDT Proves Effective

In experimental work and in actual field practice, DDT has proved so effective against potato insects that growers are advised to use this insecticide on their potato crop in preference to any other, states W. G. Matthewsman, Division of Entomology, Science Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture. DDT has given excellent control of the Colorado potato beetle, the potato flea beetle, and the potato leafhopper, while, particularly in spray form, it has given good results against potato aphids.

DDT should be mixed with a fungicide to control potato blight. As a spray, DDT may be combined with Bordeaux mixture, with any of the fixed coppers, or with the newer organic fungicides at the rate of one pound of actual DDT to each 100 gallons liquid. As a dust, DDT is used in three per cent strength combined with a fixed copper and a suitable filler. DDT should not be used in the old copper-time dust because the lime in this combination greatly reduces the toxicity of the poison.

DDT is available on the market in dust form, with or without fixed copper, completely mixed and ready for use. It may be obtained also in spray form, either as a spray powder or as an emulsifiable liquid, the percentage of the insecticide being indicated on the container.

With DDT preparations, follow the same directions as for calcium arsenate, applying the insecticide as soon as the yellow egg masses of the Colorado potato beetle start hatching. Three applications probably will be sufficient for the Colorado beetle, but to control leafhoppers, flea beetles, and blight, the plants should be sprayed or dusted with DDT and a fungicide throughout the summer until the tops die naturally. This will require six to eight applications at 10-day intervals. Best results will be secured only if a determined effort is made to cover the lower as well as the upper surfaces of the leaves.

Agricultural Methods In Quebec Equal Those In Eastern States

Quebec has nothing to learn from Vermont or New Hampshire as to cultural methods and the topography of the two states can be compared to the most hilly part of the Eastern Townships. However, probably due to the higher prices paid for milk the farmer has more returns and can feed more and thus the general care of the herd is superior to ours.

This comment of Provincial Agricultural Minister Laurent Barre, made on his return from a survey of the New England states was stressed by agronomist L. A. Beaudin, Richmond, in an address last Monday over Radio Station CKTS.

Mr. Beaudin also pointed to a recent statement of Dr. L. H. Newman, Dominion cerealist of New Brunswick, that "Canada's oat crop will become one of the greatest natural resources of the country by becoming a safer and more profitable industry." The speaker endorsed the contention of Dr. George Smith, Provincial Chemist of the Nova Scotia Agricultural College, who states that "the crude protein of young grass is now generally recognized as an indication of its feeding value. Many tests have shown that as the growing season advances and clovers mature, the protein content falls and the fibre and lignin content rises with a corresponding reduction in feeding value. It is easy to understand why a pasture should be grazed so that the grasses and clovers do not get ripe and are kept growing green and fresh."

He urged those competing in various contests in local fairs to make their entries early pointing out that "if you wish your fair to go over with success it is your duty to make your entry before the final date."

Finishing Broilers

A well finished, deeply fleshed broiler is a delicacy few people can resist, says Prof. E. S. Snyder, Poultry Department, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Its juicy, mild flavored meat, when well cooked, is really delicious. However, a thin unfinished bird has little to commend it. It is a disappointment to the palate and uneconomical to the purse. In fact, unfinished birds of any size are entirely unwanted by anyone. They repel the consumer, as one purchase of such a bird may cause sufficient disappointment to remove chicken from the bill of fare for some time. One experience of picking the bones of a thin, unfinished broiler is often enough. Unfinished chicks are therefore a drug on the market. Not only do they fail to satisfy the consumer, and bring a low price to the producer, but they help depress both sale and price of even good poultry, therefore injuring the whole poultry industry.

No bird intended for market should be allowed to lose flesh at any time during its growth. It is much more difficult to replace lost weight and to finish such a bird, than to keep the bird in good flesh from the start. Heredity is a factor in securing a well fleshed carcass. Correct feeding and management are, however, also very important factors. Broilers should be grown rapidly, using enough protein to produce a well muscled breast, thighs and drumsticks. Confinement to relatively close quarters is an aid in this. Most broiler growers allow one square foot of house room per bird up to 13 to 15 weeks of age. A small run may, however, be made available during the last two to four weeks.

At a time when protein is in short supply, suitable rations both for growth and finishing may be a problem, continues Prof. Snyder. In spite of this, a real attempt should be made to properly finish the birds before marketing. This is particularly true where birds have been reared on range. Several methods may be employed.

Broilers may be finished on broiler mash and pellets. If a two to two and one-half pound bird is desired, chick starter is sometimes continued until marketing occurs. Moistened growing mash, supplemented with semi-solid buttermilk and a feed of wheat at night, gives fair results. Even wheat and oat groats soaked in skim milk or buttermilk is helpful.

A thin chicken is never attractive. It pays to finish chickens before marketing.

Need For Flax Seed Is Urgent

Canada produces an excellent quality of flaxseed for all purposes, but history shows that its production in the Dominion has been more or less a spasmodic undertaking. Production dates back to pioneer days, when 54,600 pounds of flaxseed were produced in New France in 1720. In 1864 production was stimulated at Baden, Ontario, by the preparation of flax products; and about 1875 flaxseed was first introduced into Western Canada. An area of over two million acres was grown in 1912 which, declining sharply during the First World War and post-war period, had fallen to a low level in the Thirties. In 1933 the flaxseed acreage and production dropped to the lowest level in over 20 years, the area sown amounting to 243,600 acres and the production to 632,000 bushels. At the outbreak of the Second World War Canada was still on an import basis as regards flaxseed.

Soon after 1939, a shortage of oils developed and supplies of linseed oil were diverted to uses not practical in normal periods. In order to stimulate production, the government set a fixed price of $2.25 per bushel with no quotas restricting the delivery of flaxseed. Production reached a new peak in 1943 when 2,947,000 acres were seeded to flax. In view of the urgent need, the fixed price was advanced to $2.75 per bushel for the 1944 crop and $3.25 for the 1945 crop. However, the 1944 crop was reduced to 9,668,000 bushels and in 1945 dropped further to a little over 7 million bushels.

This history appears incidentally in "The Production of Flaxseed in Canada," by W. G. McGregor, Cereal Division, Experimental Farms Service and is published by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. In this publication (No. 545) important information is given about all phases of flaxseed production, including linseed flax as compared with other crops, where flax may be grown, seeding flax, harvesting, weed control, varieties, disease control, and insect pests. The market and the encouraging outlook for flax is also dealt with. A copy of the publication may be obtained by writing to Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Corn On The Cob Selling At 55 Cents Per Dozen On Mart

Fresh corn on the cob stole the show at the Lansdowne Market today. Selling at fifty-five cents a dozen, many of the stalls were displaying the vegetable for the first time this season.

Also in good supply were fresh fruits of all kinds, at prices unchanged from last week. The vegetable market, too, was full.

There were a few bananas today selling at the usual price. Eggs have gone up a few more cents, with the balance of prices on the dairy division firm.

There were no changes in prices in the meat market. Ham is yet very scarce.

Daughter Of Mine

THE STORY: With Pearl Harbor, Stevie Ralston comes back to town before being drafted. Mrs. Ralston offers no further opposition to his romance with Cecily. Val wants to volunteer but Robert feels he could be more valuable to his country if he finishes his chemistry studies first. Stevie, however, is aiming for the Air Corps and I'm afraid Val won't have a chance against him with Cecily unless he, too, is in uniform.

CHAPTER XVII.

Val's on the trail of something new," Robert informed me. "With chemicals assuming more importance every day he can't lose. In a couple of years—"

"A couple of years!" I cried. "Cecily will be holding a christening before then!"

"No, she won't," Corinna looked up from her homework to add her bit. "She's promised Val not to be engaged to anyone until she's old enough to vote. And she means it."

"How on earth did Val manage that?" I gasped.

Robert grinned at me. "You underestimate my shadow. He learned young how to get what he wanted without any assistance from his pocketbook."

"But, Cecily! Della wouldn't let him in the house! He can't date her!"

"Gosh, they go to the same junior college," Corinna said enviously. "High school was still her speed. They see each other, all right."

"Doesn't her sorority police her?"

"Well, good night!" Corinna said. "There's a man shortage on in this town. Val can have dates with anybody he wants even if he hasn't any money. He's super!"

"I know that," I said. "But Cecily only values the things Val doesn't possess."

"He has enough," Corinna said, and rolled her eyes and shrilled. "Wool! Wool!"

"You mean Cecily's willing to have dates with Val?"

Corinna giggled. "Yes, only he won't ask her. He hasn't a car and he won't ride in Cecily's and she won't go on the bus and he knows it, so he doesn't stick his neck out."

"Not much," I said. "Just leaves the field clear for Stevie."

"Oh, Stevie will only be here a few days longer. He's going into the Air Force."

Helplessness goaded me into a senseless outburst. "Val's a fool! Stevie will come back all covered with glamor and walk off with Cecily. Val is smarter than Stevie—"

he could make the Air Force!"

"Mavis!" It was the first time Robert had ever spoken sternly to me. We were both startled and he altered his tone apologetically. "Don't, please, make any such statement about Val. Let him work things out in his own way."

"I just can't bear to see Stevie get Cecily just because Val hasn't money. In the Air Force he'd have a commission—a good salary, and a chance to go higher."

Robert patted my shoulder. "I don't think things would work out for you as you hope even if Cecily married Val," he said. "There's nothing to indicate—"

His perception was like a blow to me. I cried out, pretending not to know what he meant. "There's good stuff in Cecily. You refuse to see it, but there is! She'd love Val if she had half a chance. You think Val can be happy with his smelly chemicals instead of Cecily—I know he can't—he'll never be happy without her—never—"

Although Robert refused to honor my prediction that Val could not be happy without Cecily, Val himself supported me by coming in to announce that he had enlisted in the Air Force.

"Mr. Wynne—you're not angry with me," he pleaded with Robert. I saw Robert swallow hard. Val was as dear to him as Corinna.

We accompanied Val and Mercedes to the city the day Val left, and stood soberly with the little huddle of future airmen and their tearful mothers and sweethearts near the train gates.

"Gee, I always wanted to be a bombardier," Corinna mourned. "I'll move over for you any day," Val laughed, but it wasn't funny. I knew he was speaking the truth—and so did Robert. Val really wanted to finish college, to spend long hours in the laboratory, tracking down the elusive of physics. He had volunteered for one reason—Cecily—and Robert's drawn face told me that this was the hardest blow dealt him yet on her behalf.

We had lunch and after dessert Robert suggested that I take Mercedes and Corinna to a play we had all wanted to see. He had some business to attend to, he said.

I knew it was only an excuse to get off by himself. We all walked together to the theatre. Robert handed Corinna $5.00.

"Just buy two tickets—I'll meet you later," and ran after him. "I feel like a hike," I said. He smiled wanly, but he tucked my hand under his arm as if he were glad that I had come with him.

We marched along in silence for an hour, ignoring the bright window displays, the well-dressed, preoccupied women.

At last Robert sighed, and looked down at me. "We'd better go in somewhere and have tea—you must be tired out."

"I'm all right," I said, comforted that he should still care how I fared.

"I've been selfish," Robert told me. "No one has any right to hold a man back when his country needs him. I wasn't big enough."

"Robert!" I choked.

He squeezed my hand. "Come on—we'll go to some nice place and cheer each other up."

I trudged along beside him to the tearoom, wondering how I could ever make up to Robert for all that marriage to me had cost him.

GIVES ADDRESS TO ROTARIANS ON ENTOMOLOGY

Rock Island, Aug. 9.—Donald Campbell of Beebe, was the speaker at the regular Monday evening meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary at Del Monty Hotel, speaking on some features of entomology, with special reference to ants and their life.

It was an unusual and different talk, very informative and interesting. In his talk, Mr. Campbell spoke of the similarity of the way ants lived as compared to humans, stating that they had a variety of occupations within their ant-hills that were very like the occupations of humans.

For instance, there were ant doctors with specially developed jaws that enabled them to do surgical work when needed; there were ant cowboys who looked after the small aphids from whom the ants got their equivalent of milk; ant soldiers who guard the hill; ants with specially developed combs on their front legs, whose job it was to keep the other ants in perfect condition.

Mr. Campbell said, you attempt to explore an ant-hill the ants will fight back, but if you get the queen ant, the fighting stops and the ants seem at a loss as to what to do. He said that many naturalists believe that ants "broadcast" through their antennae, but that as yet no one had been able to head them, as there were no sets sufficiently delicate.

In speaking of other life, the speaker said that there were no dangerous snakes in this part of the world, but that on the other hand the snakes in this section did a great deal of good in eating bugs and other life that injure plants and crops.

In answer to a question, he said that the expression "Arts in your pants" was not at all humorous, as they would bite until your legs were a mass of bites and you were more than a little uncomfortable!

Donald Campbell was introduced by L. F. Tilton and thanked by Claude Willard.

A report on the cost of the recent children's camp conducted by the Rotary Club of the Boundary was given by H. A. Rice, who expressed his and the club's thanks to all who aided in any way in making the camp so successful. The cost to the club for the two weeks the camp operated was $746.80, making the cost of each of the 110 children who enjoyed a week at Lake Salem, about $6.80. This was one of the most successful ventures of the club, and letters of thanks from grateful parents and children are still coming in. The money for this camp was raised at the Rotary Fair last fall, and it is hoped that the Fair this September 19, 20 and 21 will be even more successful so that the club will be able to continue such ventures.

It was announced that a seven-inning baseball game had been arranged between the Newport Rotary Club and the Rotary Club of the Boundary for next Tuesday, August 13th at six o'clock, to be played at Newport. Dr. Frank Pierroni is captain of the Boundary team.

Visiting Rotarians included T. E. Ball, of Sherbrooke, and Duncan Shanahan, of Westmount.

The next meeting Monday evening will feature a visit and talk by District Governor Earl Goetz, of Franklin, N.H.

"Should 'auld acquaintance be forgot,
And never brought to mind,
Yours truly's leaving his old spot,
Forsaking the sports grind."

Announcement of the impending departure from the Record staff of the perpetrator of this tri-weekly attack on the English language and the usual sports jargon—from which both have suffered irreparable damage—will probably be greeted with loud and lengthy cheers.

Nevertheless, it is not without considerable regret that your Sports Editor takes a swan dive out of the newspaper game. It has seemed good to be back in sports circles, and to be able to bat off a series of disjointed observations on the local athletic scene.

In leaving, it is fitting to express best wishes to the ball club and express the hope that they make the playoffs. Failing this, let's hope they have a better row to hoe in the Provincial League next summer.

Sherbrooke needs a senior hockey team. To those concerned with its organization goes another expression of good cheer.

To the good old Sherbrooke Athletics an especial greeting. Keep in there punching and win that championship.

To those who have been forced to read this effusion since its post-reappearance early in June, a very fond adieu.

To my successor, Leonard O'Donnell, who has a sports background second to none, both as participant, instructor and official, I do hereby leave and bequeath ONE BATTERED typewriter, diverse and sundry league schedules, one baseball score book and all good wishes for the days that lie ahead.

First Practice For Athletics Is Called For Y.M.C.A. Monday Night

Coach Freddie Hobbs will crack his whip over a perspiring group of athletes Monday night at the first practice session of the Sherbrooke Athletics Football Club, called for seven o'clock at the Y.M.C.A.

Because of the inability to obtain the Parade Grounds, which is all booked up by softball teams, the drillers will spend the first week of drilling in the "X" gymnasium, but this won't hold up the progress of the aggregation, since physical condition is one of the prime requisites of a winning club, and the players will have to work off the excess flesh put on during months of idleness.

Arrangements have been made with officials of the Y.M.C.A. for membership privileges to be issued to the football players free of charge, and this gesture on the part of the "Y" is appreciated by the Athletics.

Candidates for berths on the team are advised to turn up Monday night with running shoes, old pants and heavy sweaters, ready for a session of limbering up and slimming exercises, followed by a brief plunge in the tank.

Probably within a week or two the team will go to work on the Parade Grounds, toeing the ball around and practising running and pass receiving. Serious workouts cannot be started until the new equipment arrives.

BOB FELLER CHALKS UP EIGHTH ONE-HITTER

Hurling Of Richardson And Stick Work Of Proechel And Long Stand Out As Locals Top Maples 7-4, 8-4

When the Canadians come up with brilliant performances now and again, as they did last night, a wave of enthusiasm runs through the Park Avenue Stadium and the fans shake their heads and wonder why the club is in the basement of the Border League.

But last night the Proechelmen were "on the beam," and topped Ogdensburg Maples 7-3 and 8-4 for a clean sweep of the double bill, with some 1,000 supporters roaring their approval.

Sherbrooke now trails the fifth-place Maples by 2½ games, and stands five games out of the fourth and last place in the playoff setup, presently held by Kingston Ponies. It's not too late for a sustained winning streak to put the locals up there in the running, but the sands of time are starting to drift plenty fast.

Three of the Canadians in particular stood out in last night's sweep. They were "Dutch" Proechel, the boss man, who clubbed a home run out of the park with two

CRACK RIDERS HAVE ENTERED 5-MILE EVENT

Ovide Pazzi, George Davis, Pen Nuech, Walter Scott and Romeo Masse are among the crack motorcycle riders who will participate in the five-mile race for the championship of the province which is to be held as the feature of Sunday afternoon's program of races under the auspices of the Verdun Motorcycle Club.

Also on the card, which will be started at two o'clock at the Exhibition Grounds race track, will be an obstacle race open to all amateur riders in Sherbrooke and the Eastern Townships.

In addition, there will be three regular races for novice, junior and senior riders, with three heats in each race, two of two miles and one of three miles.

LADIES REACH LAST ROUND IN CITY TOURNEY

Mrs. Jeanne Ferguson and Mrs. Russ Macrols reached the finals in the ladies' doubles last night in the city tennis tournament when they defeated Gizele Royer and Florence Dauplaise, 6-2, 6-4.

In other matches played Pauline Joyal and Jean Panneton defeated Suzanne Allard and Bill Jones, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2, and Simone Chevalier and Andre Panneton won from Francoise Joyal and Gaston Blais, 8-6, 6-1.

Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Macrols dropped only six games in their bid for the finals and were never in danger. They proved their ability to be able to capitalize on their opponents' mistakes.

Pauline Joyal and Jean Panneton were forced to go three sets before they could eliminate Suzanne Allard and Bill Jones. It was a nice game to watch with good rallies on both sides, but the edge was in favor of Joyal and Panneton.

Francoise Joyal and Gaston Blais put up a hard fight in the first set against Simone Chevalier and Andre Panneton before they admitted defeat but seemed to fall apart in the second set and dropped the second set and match 6-1.

Only one game scheduled for tonight.

6:00—Andre Panneton vs. Laurent Turmel (semi-final).

of his hirelings aboard in the first game.

Gerry "Red" Long, youthful first sacker, who socked one over the left-field barrier with a mate ahead of him, also in the first game.

Vern Richardson, new right-handed hurler, who turned in a brilliant five-hit pitching job in the second game, facing only 33 batters and retiring the opposition in order in all but the third and sixth frames.

Richardson, with a deceptively easy motion, sent the Ogdensburg hitters down in order and whiffed three in the first two innings. He gave up a single to Lee and a triple to English for a run in the second, then collected three more strike-outs as he sent the Maples down one, two, three in the third and fourth.

His only two bases on balls of the game got him in hot water in the sixth, when he walked the first two men to face him. Three singles in a row brought in three Ogdensburg tallies.

The "twelves" were howling for Richardson to be derailed, but after a conference, Proechel left him in there, and his judgment was vindicated in the last three boxes as Vern polished the Maples off in apple pie order.

Credits should also be handed out to Augie Zande for a smart seven-hit pitching job in the opening game, Normie Dussault, for a clever catch in the opener, and Gene Horney, for a line drive double for Sherbrooke's first two runs in the second inning of the nightcap.

E. T. NET TOURNEY OPENS AUGUST 16.

Entries for the Eastern Townships Tennis Tournament, which gets under way August 16th, may now be forwarded to Gilles Regia at Codere's Ltd. Matches to be played are, ladies' and men's singles and men's doubles, the committee announced last night.

RED CROSS TO BENEFIT FROM GOLF TOURNEY

With proceeds to be turned over to the Red Cross Society, an invitation has been extended to all golfers of the Eastern Townships to participate in an eighteen-hole handicap match to be played at the Sherbrooke Country Club tomorrow afternoon.

Prizes will be awarded for low gross and low net, the first three winners of each. It is expected that many golfers will compete in this field as it will serve as a tune-up for the Eastern Townships championship that takes place on August 17th and 18th.

This being a worthy cause it is hoped a large field will participate. Entries will be received up to the starting time by Gerard McManis, chairman of the match committee.

Indians' Fireballer Polishes Off White Sox By 5-0 Count To Solidify Bid For Hall Of Fame

It is still too early to compare Bob Feller, Cleveland's great righthander, with such pitching immortals as Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson, Cy Young and Grover Cleveland Alexander, but at the rate he is moving along, the former boy wonder appears a cinch to be voted a place in Baseball's Hall of Fame just as soon as his pitching days are over.

The Indians' mound master shattered a 36-year-old standard yesterday when he racked up his eighth one-hitter as he blanked Chicago White Sox 5-0 in the first game of an American League doubleheader.

With just eight big league years behind him—only five of them complete—Rapid Robert has two no-hit masterpieces to his credit and although never on a pennant winner, has won 24 or more games three times and appears a cinch to make it four this season with 21 victories already under his belt.

Were it not for a 3½-year hitch in the United States Navy, Feller, barring injury, would have an outside chance of bettering Johnson's American League record of 414 triumphs. Bob owns 133 victories against only 63 defeats and has struck out 1,543 batters in 1,769 innings, including 251 this season. Despite Feller's masterpiece, the Indians could do no better than gain an even split as the White Sox nipped the Tribe 7-6 in the 10-inning nightcap.

The Red Sox prepared for their four-game series with the second-place Yankees beginning today by whipping the lowly Philadelphia Athletics twice 4-3 and 10-4 despite being out in each game.

In the opener, Phil Marchildon allowed only six hits but three of them included homers by Johnny Pesky and Jim Russell plus a triple by Pesky.

The Yankees remained 13 games behind the Red Sox by sweeping a twin bill from Washington Senators 9-3 and 13-1 as rookie hurlers Bill Wright and Randy Gumpert each limited the Nats to six hits.

Pete Reiser celebrated his return to Brooklyn Dodgers' lineup by bashing out a home run and triple to drive in all the Brooks' runs in their 3-1 10-inning victory over New York Giants. The triumph increased the National League leaders margin over the idle St. Louis Cardinals to two full games.

Five Cincinnati errors, two in the 10th inning, enabled the Chicago Cubs to eke out a 2-1 win over the Reds as Hank Borowy registered his sixth victory as against five defeats.

Philadelphia Phillies and Boston Braves divided a free-hitting twin bill with the Phils winning the opener, 9-8 and the Braves the nightcap, 7-6.

Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Browns in the American League and Pittsburgh Pirates in the National joined the Cards in an off day.

OWEN TO MAKE REINSTATEMENT APPEAL TODAY

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 9.—(P)—Mickey Owen had an appointment today in the office of baseball's High Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler which he hoped would pave the way for his return to America's major league baseball.

Owen, former Brooklyn Dodger catcher, who deserted the National League for the golden lure of Mexican baseball but then left the south-of-the-border ranks, was scheduled to appear in Chandler's office at noon E.D.T.

But there was doubt that Chandler would be on hand to hear the 30-year-old former major league backstop's plea.

Owen said he couldn't say exactly why he decided to leave Mexico but "guesses it was just an accumulation of disgust." He said he was sorry he had heeded the call when Jorge Pasquel, Mexican loop leader and financier, offered him "a lot of cash and an attractive setup" shortly after Owen was discharged from the United States Navy last April 1.

He described all the other former major league players now playing in Mexico as "an unhappy bunch of guys."

Owen disclosed that Pasquel paid him $12,500 for signing a five-year contract for $15,000 a year, with the final year also paid in advance. He said the pact also provided for room and board, but that he and his wife, Gloria, who accompanied him here, finally ended up purchasing their own food and renting their own apartment.

Brooklyn — Pete Mead, 156, Grand Rapids, Mich., outpointed Herbie Kronitz, 157, Brooklyn (10).

FORCED TO K.O. WAR BRIDE YOUTH MAKES GALLANT RESCUE

DONALD BROWNRIGG Wins Dow Award

At Dow's Lake, near Ottawa, night was falling. All the swimmers were back on shore except the young English war bride who hesitated on a log boom, 75 yards out. She felt dizzy and had a headache. But she started to swim in just the same.

18-year-old Donald Brownrigg was the first to notice her floundering. He plunged in immediately... but by the time he reached her she had gone down twice. She was sinking for the third time when he grabbed her arm. Panic-stricken, she began to struggle, endangering both their lives.

Thinking and acting quickly, Brownrigg struck her sharply on the jaw. Her struggles ceased... and the rescuer managed to pull her unconscious body back to the boom to safety.

For his cool courage we are proud to present The Dow Award to Donald Brownrigg of Ottawa.
