Ismailia, Egypt, April 22.—(Reuters)—Lt. Gen. F. W. Festing arrived here by air today from England to take over command of British troops in Egypt.

He succeeds Lt. Gen. Sir George Erskine, who is due to leave for Britain on Thursday after more than three years in the Suez canal zone during which the zone saw some of its bloodiest fighting.

Erskine is to be general officer commanding northern command, England.

Tel Aviv, April 22.—(AP)—The night curfew imposed on Nazareth for the past week was lifted yesterday. It was ordered after an Easter Monday clash between Greek orthodox Boy Scouts and Moslem youths. A government spokesman said members of the two religious communities in the town where Jesus was reared had signed a peace pact.

Budapest, April 22.—(AP)—Hungary today drastically limited the number of gift parcels a person may receive from abroad. The order also prescribed what goods such parcels may contain. One person can receive no more than 88 pounds in gift parcels a year hereafter, and the parcels are limited to 49 kinds of goods.

Boston, April 22.—(AP)—The hazard of forest fires in the tinder-dry woodlands of New England and New York state grew today with continued warm, sunny weather. Weather forecasters said no rain is in sight.

Rhode Island and Connecticut closed their forests last night because of the danger.

In Maine, Massachusetts and New York state, forestry officials warned that the woods are so dry the least carelessness in disposing of a lighted cigarette or match could set them aflame.

Los Angeles, April 22.—(AP)—Judy Garland, who left a broken career in Hollywood a year ago, returned in triumph last night and was greeted by a cheering, star-filled audience.

The actress opened the civic light opera season with her vaudeville show, which set records at New York's Palace. The movie crowd, decked out in mink and ermine, packed into the Philharmonic auditorium for the sentimental occasion. There was scarcely a dry eye when Judy, in a tramp costume, sat on the rim of the stage and wistfully sang "Over the Rainbow."

When the show was over, the audience applauded wildly for minutes and Judy was presented with 20 large bouquets. She stepped to the footlights and murmured "this is the nicest night of my life."

Judy left Hollywood after she cut her throat with a water glass during an emotional upset over "career troubles."

Lynhurst, England, April 22.—(Reuters)—Britain's foot-and-mouth epidemic has spread to Hampshire where nearly 4,000 animals will be rounded up because of an outbreak at Harbridge, it was announced today.

They included all cattle, sheep and swine in the new forest area in the southwest of the country.

Since foot-and-mouth first showed itself last November about 150 outbreaks have been reported, mostly in Suffolk in the east but also in Surrey, Sussex and Kent, in the south.

About 7,500 cattle, 4,500 sheep and 4,500 pigs have been destroyed.

Agricultural experts place the blame on migratory birds from France, Germany and adjacent European countries.

Round-The-Clock Flood Fighters Keep Control Over Rampaging Rivers

New Disease Outbreak Investigated

Ottawa, April 22.—(AP)—Government veterinarians are checking symptoms of foot-and-mouth disease in a herd of twelve cattle in southern Saskatchewan, agricultural minister Gardiner disclosed yesterday.

The herd is near Ormiston, 50 miles south of Moose Jaw and at the southern tip of the buffer zone set up in Saskatchewan to prevent the spread of the disease.

Existence of the suspected case was reported by Mr. Gardiner in an address to the Ottawa Rotary club. He said he could give farmers no assurance when the United States market would be re-opened to Canadian cattle. It was possible that it might be done this fall.

Mr. Gardiner said he hoped to be able to report that the investigation of the Ormiston herd was negative when results of the test are available in the next few days.

Mr. Gardiner dealt mainly with the economic effects of foot-and-mouth disease which has been confined to southern Saskatchewan where it broke out.

He said beef prices dropped about 10 cents a pound or more in the last few months but they wouldn't "go down much further."

Beef and pork prices now were supported by the government—beef at 25 cents a pound at Toronto and Montreal and canned pork at 64 cents a pound.

He said Canada would not likely find a market for the 20,000,000 pounds of canned pork at that price but officials were in the United Kingdom to find a market that would yield "some return to the government and the taxpayer."

He urged farmers to keep as much of their cattle off the market as possible. The provinces were co-operating in the development of a national livestock marketing policy but the government wasn't anxious to go into the beef business.

Rain May Raise Levels But Dikes And Dams Are Still Holding.

Swift Current, Sask., April 22.—(CP)—A battle to build a dam-within-a-dam continues today at Duncan reservoir, 25 miles upstream from Swift Current.

Workmen and five large earth-moving machines are working round-the-clock on a buffer dam to protect the threatened main Duncan dam. A break would release a wall of water down the Swift Current creek.

Battling against time, the workmen hope to get the buffer dam across a narrow neck in the main dam structure. The neck leads to flood control gates and an eroded concrete spillway.

The spillway began to break up Friday under the pressure of flood waters. Once the buffer dam is across the neck, and widened, it is expected to relieve pressure on the threatened spillway.

The situation at the dam was still considered critical. George Munro, acting chief engineer of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration, builders of the dam, cautioned late last night against false optimism.

Outflow from the reservoir through an emergency spillway built last week and a pipe in the bottom of the dam now is equaling inflow. The emergency spillway is holding up well.

Many of the 490 families in Swift Current who could be affected if the dam failed to hold have moved to higher ground. Others are prepared to do so on short notice.

Meanwhile, a provincial order-in-council yesterday declared the southwest corner of Saskatchewan a disaster area. The area is roughly bounded on the north by the South Saskatchewan river, on the east by a line about 25 miles east of Swift Current, and on the west and south by the Alberta and United States boundaries.

Elsewhere in the area, hit by floods when a heat wave melted snow faster than usual in the Cypress hills, the situation was unchanged.

A heavy flow of water continues down the Frenchman creek, which forced the evacuation of Eastend, 70 miles west, a week ago. Two dams at Val Marie, further downstream, were reported holding well under the brunt of the water.

A continuous heavy flow is predicted for another three or four days, with little danger of the water flowing higher.

Kansas City, April 22.—(AP)—New rain, some of it heavy, sharpened the fears of flood fighters along the raging Missouri river today.

Major dikes held at critical spots. And the experts clung to their prediction that Kansas City, Kas., and Kansas City, Mo., would be safe.

The muddy sea broadened to the lowlands. Missouri Governor Forrest Smith proclaimed a flood emergency and asked President Truman—for the second time in a year—to allot emergency federal funds to his home state.

Along the upper Mississippi another record flood boiled seaward. At La Crosse, Wis., weatherman A. D. Sanial said "the worst of it is over now." A little rain fell there but not enough to affect the river.

Downstream along the eastern Iowa border, expected flood crests were revised downward for the second time but Governor William Beardsley ordered three more National Guard units to flood duty anyway.

The focus of the rainfall jitters was at Kansas City, where prolonged downpours turned the Kaw river into a monster last July.

This time, army engineers say the levees have been rebuilt to withstand a flood of 40.8 feet. The expected crest was 29 feet but heavy general rain would force that upward.

E. C. Correll, weather bureau river forecaster, said one-inch rains were possible in a wide area around the flood zone. That might send the river at Kansas City up to 31 feet.

More showers were forecast for tomorrow and if they, too, should average an inch, the crest might reach 33 or 34 feet by Friday.

Upstream at Leavenworth, Kas., a small army of men toiled through the night at beleaguered Sherman air force field. As the imperilled dikes continued to hold, Feil called it "an eye-opener on what men can do."

Juliana Begins Canadian Visit

Ottawa, April 22.—(AP)—Queen Juliana of the Netherlands today began a round of visits to points of interest here, some of them remembered from her wartime stay in the capital.

The Queen, accompanied by her foreign minister, Dirk U. Stikker, and Canada's external affairs minister Pearson, arrived last night by plane from Detroit after a visit to the United States.

A small crowd was on hand for the arrival of the R.C.A.F. C-54 at suburban Rockville. The people

Chinese Clad In White Puzzle U.N.

Seoul, Korea, April 22.—(AP)—A report of white-clad Chinese communist cavalrymen on the central Korean war front puzzled U.S. Eighth Army officers today.

Front-line units said they spotted 200 raiders in white moving toward Kumsong Monday afternoon. They said heavy artillery ripped the column to pieces.

Two other white-clad bands of 50 and 60 men were reported sighted in the area.

"We can't attack any significance to the report at this time," said an Eighth Army staff officer. "Intelligence officers are studying the details. All we have now are fragmentary reports."

He said the white uniforms possibly could be explained by the probability of snow in the mountains northeast of Kumsong.

Communist cavalrymen were last reported on the front shortly after the entry of Red China into the war in the fall of 1950.

The western and central fronts were generally quiet today. There was a flurry of Red probing and patrol action in the mountainous east.

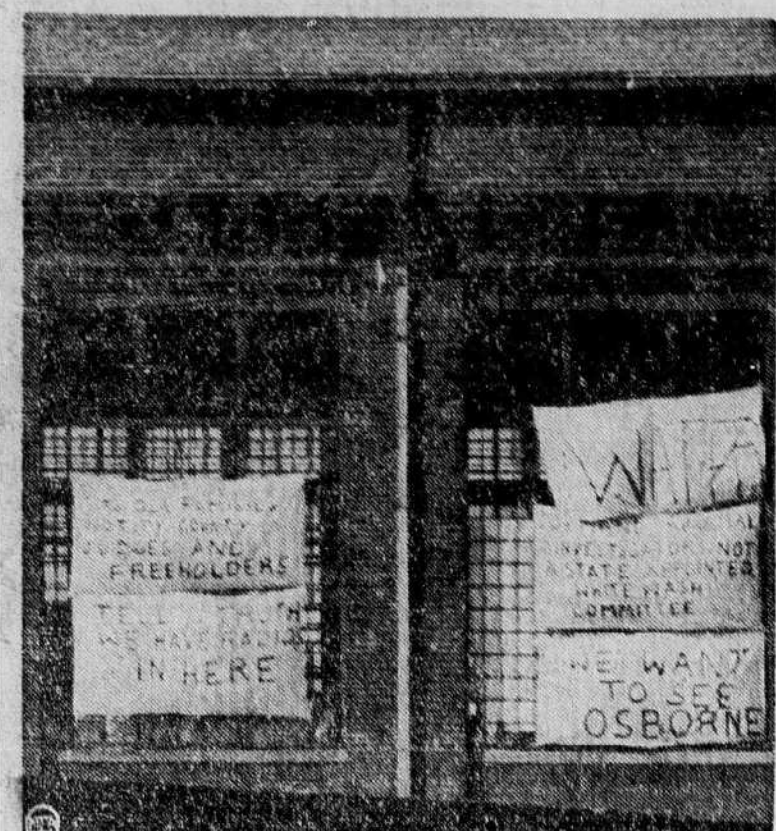

U.S. navy headquarters in Tokyo said five U.S. ships have been sunk by mines and 46 U.S. and 11 Commonwealth warships have been damaged in the Korean war.

The navy said all the damaged Commonwealth ships and 40 of the U.S. vessels were hit by Red shore batteries. Five U.S. ships were damaged by mines and one by an aerial bomb.

The navy said also that Red shore batteries lately have been firing with increased accuracy and greater range, and have shelled American warships nearly 10 miles at sea.

Navy authorities said this almost certainly means the Reds are using radar-directed heavy guns.

Four Russian-made MIG-15 jets ventured from Manchuria into North Korea at dawn today. One

Redistribution Problem Is Given To Committee

Cease Fire Not Far Off Boss States

Ottawa, April 22.—(AP)—The Commons, returning from a 12-day Easter recess, got right down to the controversial subject of redistribution of its seats yesterday and set up a 37-man, all-party committee to consider the matter.

The debate occupied most of the afternoon and night sitting and all parties expressed their views on the basis of a motion sponsored by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The motion recommended establishment of the committee and suggested members considered whether the constitutional formula should be changed so that no province would lose more than 15 per cent of its seats at any one time.

This would mean that Saskatchewan would lose only three instead of five seats under the present representation-by-population formula, based on the 1951 census.

A number of speakers thought Mr. St. Laurent's motion did not go far enough and George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, suggested a federal-provincial conference to obtain the views of the provinces. This was rejected by the Prime Minister.

The motion was approved at the night sitting and members of the committee were named immediately.

Earlier, Mr. St. Laurent said that Red Chinese neglect or maltreatment may have caused the death at Chefoo Feb. 8 of Father Joseph Leon Arcand of Champlain County, Que. He said Canada has joined in a new note to Peiping regarding five westerners held in prison, including seven Canadian missionaries.

Defence Minister Claxton announced the appointment of George S. Currie, Montreal chartered accountant and one-time deputy minister of national defence, to make a special investigation of thefts, security and accounting procedures at the Petawawa, Ont., army camp "and elsewhere."

Thefts brought to light at Petawawa have resulted in the arrest of four civilians and an army captain.

Redistribution of Commons seats will become effective with the next federal election, which must be called by June 1954.

Acceptance of the Prime Minister's motion by the committee would mean that representation in the Commons would be increased to 265 from 262 seats. Under the proposals this is how the seats would be divided, with the existing representation in brackets:

Newfoundland seven (seven); Nova Scotia 12 (13); New Brunswick 10 (10); Quebec 75 (73); Ontario 85 (83); Manitoba 14 (16); Saskatchewan 17 (20); Alberta 17 (17); British Columbia 22 (18); Yukon-MacKenzie river two (one); total 265 (262).

Early in the debate Mr. St. Laurent rejected Mr. Drew's suggestion for a federal-provincial conference on the question of redistribution.

Mr. Drew said a federal-provincial conference should be called to obtain the province's views before the decennial redistribution is made on the basis of the 1951 census. He made a motion to this effect, but it was ruled out of order after some discussion.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said the question of redistribution was one for an independent commission and such a commission should be appointed without delay. He also believed Prime Minister St. Laurent should consider a proposal that no province's representation should be cut by more than 10 per cent at one time.

Mr. St. Laurent said representation in the Commons was something for parliament alone. Referring to Mr. Drew's proposal for a federal-provincial conference on the matter, he said it was always

Sir Stafford Cripps Dies At Zurich, Switzerland; Fathered Austerity Program

Zurich, Switzerland, April 22.—Sir Stafford Cripps, socialist statesman who tried to plot Britain's post-war course to economic recovery with less beef, more sweat and higher taxes, died last night. He would have been 63 next Thursday.

Cripps' economic policies were on the verge of success until Russia's expansionist policies forced the governments of Britain and her western allies to turn much of their output to rearmament.

The lean, thin-faced six-footer whose gaunt appearance perfectly fitted his nickname, "Mr. Austerity," died in the Living Strength clinic here after 35 years of chronic suffering from colitis contracted during the world war and 18 months of acute illness from spondylitis, a progressively crippling spine inflammation.

His wife, Isabel, was at his bedside. A simple statement announced:

"Sir Stafford Cripps passed away peacefully at 11 o'clock tonight. His health forced him to quit his double cabinet job—Chancellor of the Exchequer and Economics Minister—in October, 1950. His health improved and he went home after six months in the clinic here. But last January he was forced to return after months of increasingly acute pain, cheerfully borne. He lapsed into a coma last week-end.

A man of great mental power and incredible energy, Cripps had worked 20 hours a day at the almost impossible task of wresting permanent progress toward economic recovery from repeated critical setbacks.

When ill health forced him to quit Clement Attlee's cabinet, he was praised on all sides except by the communists.

Cripps won his nickname, "Mr. Austerity," as the author of high taxes, tight-belted living and harder work—his solution to Britain's overwhelming economic difficulties.

For three years, from 1947 to 1950, he held almost dictatorial power over Britain's economy, but preferred to use persuasion and voluntary methods to win compliance with his policies.

Cripps had been one of the stormiest figures in British politics. But he was also one of the most universally respected.

His father, Lord Parmoor, had been a Conservative and turned to socialism and became Labor party leader in the House of Lords. Sir Stafford won a seat in Parliament in 1931 and held the seat through every election until he resigned a year-and-a-half ago.

His politics and profession were something of a paradox. He earned as much as $200,000 a year by applying his legal brilliance to lawsuits on behalf of capitalist corporations. At the same time, he was one of the farthest left of British socialists—so far left he was expelled from the Labor party in 1939 because he defied party policy and advocated alliance with communists and Liberals against Neville Chamberlain's appeasement of Hitler.

Winston Churchill used this "man without a party" in his wartime coalition cabinet. He first made Cripps ambassador to Russia where the austere leftist outlasted a Soviet cold shoulder and negotiated an alliance following Hitler's attack on the Soviet.

He returned to London to become Lord Privy Seal, floor leader of the House of Commons, and finally Minister of Aircraft Production.

Later in the war Churchill chose him as an emissary to offer India post-war Dominion status in return for loyalty against Japan. He failed to bring off the trade but in a post-war socialist mission he helped negotiate independence under terms which kept India in the Commonwealth.

The Labor party re-admitted him to the 1945 election. When the Socialists were swept into power, Cripps became president of the Board of Trade, a position controlling foreign trade and all consumer rationing and price control except for food.

Early in 1947 he was handed the new post of Minister of Economic Affairs to work out policies of production, trade and industrial rebuilding. A few months later Cripps became Chancellor of the Exchequer.

He insisted on higher production and industrial changes to speed output. He taxed away 40 per cent of Britain's earnings to curb off rampant inflation. He ordered immense amounts of goods diverted from home consumption to foreign sales to pay for food and material Britain had to buy abroad.

He imposed a stiff capital levy on private fortunes and spent large amount of tax money for capital equipment to fresh the production machine.

Canadians knew Cripps for his support of increased Anglo-Canadian trade. At the height of Britain's economic plight in 1948-49 he made two trips to Canada and the United States.

In September, 1948, he addressed Canadians from Ottawa and emphasized the need for the "greatest possible flow of mutual trade between Canada and the United Kingdom."

The following year, after trips to Canada and the U.S. for monetary talks, he returned home and announced devaluation of the pound by 30 per cent. This was a

Eleven Guards Still Held By Convicts As Hostages

Jackson, Mich., April 22.—(AP)—Grim-faced and fearful, authorities waited today for 179 tough convicts in Southern Michigan prison to decide the fate of 11 guards they hold as hostages.

Hundreds of other convicts who rioted in this—the world's largest—prison were back under control, one of their number killed by police gunfire and nine wounded.

State troopers counted four injured in their ranks. Convicts set fires and wrecking during the wild rioting did damage estimated up to $2,000,000.

The rebellious convicts were holed up with their hostages in cell block No. 15, a disciplinary section where they were sent for violating prison rules. Last word from them during the night was a renewal of their threat to cut off a guard's head if any prisoners were hurt.

While there are radios in the convict-controlled building, broadcasting stations in the area apparently were complying with a request from State Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard to keep word of the one prisoner death off the air.

At midnight the mutineers had not heard of it, so far as authorities could tell. Warden Julian N. Frisbie said he talked by telephone with one of the mutiny leaders then and was informed "the guards are being treated well," and added: "The situation looks better."

Leaders of the uprising told authorities immediately after the mutiny started at 7:20 p.m. Sunday that they were protecting "brutality" in the prison. They demanded a newspaper man be brought to them.

But still the mutiny group hasn't named its terms for releasing the guards and surrendering.

Authorities deny there has been

Giant A-Bomb Explosion Is Scheduled For Today

By BILL BECKER
Atom Bomb Site, Nev., April 22.—(AP)—Fifteen hundred tail army troops today take up close positions for a test of fire from one of the biggest atom bombs ever exploded.

Exercise Desert Rock IV—or operation big shot—called for an air force B-50 to drop the bomb from 30,000 feet at 9:30 A.M. PST (12:30 PM EST).

The bomb, perhaps the biggest ever tested in the United States, will flash with the brilliance of 150 suns toward the troops dug in deep from three to five miles from the point of explosion.

Television cameras were set up to carry the fireball into the millions of homes across the country. The forecast called for clear weather, with low winds and only some high cloudiness; conditions favorable to the manoeuvres.

The closest troops have been previously seven miles in exercise Desert Rock I Nov. 1. Scientists have been as close as six miles.

Brig.-Gen. Harry P. Storke, Desert Rock commander, expected the 4½-foot-deep foxholes to keep him and his combat battalion from harm. They also counted on the height of the blast—3,000 to 3,500 feet—to reduce ground radiation and heat.

Most spectacular role was given to 120 para-troopers of the 504th regiment, 82nd airborne regiment. When radiation is safely reduced, they will jump from four C-46s to complete a pincer movement on the "enemy" stronghold at ground zero—the point on the ground directly below the explosion.

Atom Bomb Site, Nev., April 22.—(AP)—The United States has ready A-bombs and also near-nuclears, and in great variety. That is the explanation of the many A-bombs that have been exploded here in a little more than

ED GARDNER SAYS HE'S A
HAM SO 'DUFFY'S
TAVERN' GOES TO TV

Hollywood—Exclusively Yours: Ed Gardner is ready to bring "Archie" and his "Duffy's Tavern" characters to television from Hollywood.

But he's not moving to Flickerville from Puerto Rico, the U.S. island possession where he's worked and made his home for the last three years to enjoy a more favorable income-tax bracket.

In Hollywood to film the first Duffy's Tavern show for NBC's hour-long All Star Revue on May 31, Ed told me:

"We're not moving back to Hollywood. We plan to live in Puerto Rico for the rest of our lives. My wife loves it and so do the boys. We pay servants $50 a month and Simone (Mrs. G.) doesn't need any furs. It's wonderful even if my kids (age 4 and 8) do speak Spanish and I don't know what they're talking about."

If the filmed video format works out, Ed will drop his radio show and do from six to 10 telefilms for NBC next season, commuting to Hollywood from Puerto Rico.

But there will be no income tax break for him on his video salary. He'll be paying tax to both the U.S. and Puerto Rico.

Ed on reports he's become a millionaire since leaving Hollywood: A grinning "No comment."

"Why his sudden leap into TV?"

"I went to New York a couple of weeks ago and had dinner with Abe Burrows. A guy came up and asked for his autograph but didn't recognize me. That did it. I'm a big ham."

Greatest Show
On Earth
At Granada

When Cecil B. DeMille determined to film scenes for his production of "The Greatest Show On Earth" during actual performances of the Ringling Brothers Circus, his purpose was to capture authentic Big Top thrills. What he captured along with them was some feminine circus glamour that favorably compares with Hollywood's best.

Though it's hard to tell from an arena seat exactly how the babes of the Big Top stack up, under the close scrutiny of a Technicolor lens many of them are happily revealed as ultra-comely and splendidly molded misses. One feminine daredevil with allure to match her daring and skill is La Norma, a steely-eyed evelyn seen in the DeMille spectacle recklessly soaring from one trapeze to another. Apollonia Aben, a 19-year-old Dutch dish whose juggling seems to defy most of the laws of gravity, is also no slouch in the beauty department.

Among the skillful equestriennes, plucky elephant girls and swivel-jointed acrobats seen performing their exciting specialties in the Paramount epic now showing at the Granada Theatre, there are scores of gals trim enough to make a Hollywood chorus line and winsome enough to make the Technicolor photography really glorious. And such well-known movie dazzlers as Betty Hutton, Dorothy Lamour and Gloria Grahame notably enhance DeMille's panoramas of beauty and danger under Big Top.

Lives Eskimo Style
On 15-Month Trip,
Enjoys Arctic Life

Ottawa—Many of civilization's so-called necessities aren't really necessary. That's the word from a 30-year-old housewife who spent 15 months in the Arctic.

The former Vivian Jean Latremouille of the National Film Board, companions were her 32-year-old husband, Douglas, and Jean Roy, 23, of Montreal, cameraman.

The former Vivian Jean Latremouille of Toronto says she is one of the few white women to live, act, talk and think like an Eskimo.

The trio joined an Eskimo camp headed by Idlook and composed of four families. The women of the camp taught Mrs. Wilkinson to cook "iwnut"—Eskimo style. Idlook, father of eight children, disclosed the secrets of seal hunting and camp lore.

Scenes shot in the igloo included the birth of a baby boy early in the spring. He was called Aliak. From Chesterfield they went to Pond Inlet, on the north shore of Baffin land, with Idlook. It was on this trip that Mrs. Wilkinson lived Eskimo-style.

"I really got to know the Eskimo and was astounded by their intelligence, warmth and terrific sense of humor," she said.

"Dressed in two layers of clothing, one outfit with the fur inside and the other with the fur facing outward, we were as warm as toast. Our faces got cold, but a frozen nose is nothing in the Arctic."

The expedition started at Chesterfield Inlet, an R.C.M.P. post of the hundred miles south of the Arctic circle on the west coast of Hudson Bay.

At the end of the trip the team had shot more than 30,000 feet of sound and silent film. The film is being divided into two 30-minute shorts. Tentative titles are "Eskimo Hunter" and "The Life of an Eskimo."

Mrs. Wilkinson set up house at Chesterfield in an old wooden home abandoned years ago. She fashioned furniture from packing cases and tasted Eskimo food for the first time. That was late summer of 1950.

The life of an Eskimo was filmed there. They built a huge igloo to hold elaborate film and lighting equipment. Around it was constructed four smaller igloos opening into the main house. These were used as working bays, from which they could take shots in the big igloo.

The next job was to find actors. Mrs. Wilkinson held a "tea party" at her husband mingled with the guests, studying them in their natural habitat.

"I picked out the ones I thought best for the job and they turned out to be wonderful," he recalled. "They weren't in the least temperamental and did their best all the time we were shooting."

At Pond Inlet we moved into a double-walled tent. Doug followed the Eskimos' example and built a snow sleeping platform covered with furs. I took care of the kitchen—all I had was a small oil stove and some canned vegetables.

"The four families of the camp lived as one. We didn't have modern conveniences, but the Eskimos didn't miss them and I eventually forgot all about them."

"The boys are well. I couldn't roast anything, but I had plenty of meat to fry over my little oil stove. It's surprising how good fried seal liver and onions with canned vegetables can be."

"Narwhal, a small whale, was one of our favorites. We never touched the meat. The Eskimos fed that to the dogs. But the skin was wonderful boiled or fried. For fish we had Arctic char. It was just like salmon when fried. We didn't have any bread but I made bannock from flour, lard, baking powder and raisins."

The Quebec Copper Company has started to move its equipment to the mine in Bolton Centre, to start shaft sinking. The first shaft is to go down one thousand feet.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Cousins and Miss Betty Cousins were guests of Mrs. Cousins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jewett, at Vale Perkins. Miss Betty is staying with her grandparents, for the week.

Drift Of Church
In Latin America
Worries Jesuits

Rome—(Reuters)—The powerful Society of Jesus—better known as the Jesuits—has issued a call for the "rescue" of Roman Catholicism in South and central America.

The society is the most militant and highly-disciplined of the Catholic church's religious orders.

"Catholicism in Latin America has passed through so formidable a crisis, lasting more than a century, that it is a miracle if that vast territory can still call itself Catholic," says Gentes, the missionary organ of the Jesuits.

In an issue entitled "Latin America—S.O.S.," it says the three main points of the situation are:

1. "A world of 154,000,000 so-called Catholics must be re-Christianized."

2. "The Catholic forces available are extraordinarily insufficient for the task."

3. "Every delay in this undertaking of religious reconstruction marks a progress in the methodical advance of Protestantism, if not of communist materialism."

The publication says the advance of Protestantism in the last few decades has been considerable.

In 1925 there were in all 708,000 Protestants in Latin America. Today there are 4,700,000. Official statistics show that there are: 19,428 Protestant places of worship; 3,655 ordained Protestant ministers; and 48 Protestant theological colleges.

"It cannot be claimed that the Protestants 'buy' converts. Often, it is a question of souls who, experiencing a strong religious aspiration and finding no Catholic community near them, give themselves to the first pastor who invites them to come and sing hymns, in an undeniably religious atmosphere, and who reads to them, perhaps for the first time in their lives, the holy scriptures."

The review says that, adding to their other powerful means of propaganda, "the Protestants are now planning to flood Latin America with 10,000 preachers who have had to leave the Far East."

The basic problem in Latin America "is the grave lack of clergy," Gentes says.

"Latin America, which has 33 per cent of the world's Catholics, disposes of only seven per cent of the world's priests."

"It has been established that the proportion of Catholics to priests should be at least one priest to every 1,000 Catholics.

"While in the United States the average is 622 Catholics to one priest, and in Canada 479, the 25,000 priests of Latin America furnish the miserable average of one priest to every 7,000 of the faithful."

Gentes estimated that less than 20 per cent of city dwellers in Latin America and less than five per cent of country people attend mass.

Large Extension To American Biltrite Rubber Company Plant Planned Soon

The Sherbrooke aldermen had much to talk about at their regular session last evening, especially under the head of new business, but for the most part the discussions seemed designed to "get it off the chest," so that few, if any, decisions actually emerged from the arguments and exchanges which lasted for over two hours.

Of course, the lengthy gathering did accomplish something, but the solid fare was all provided in the opening few minutes of the session when the committee reports were adopted.

The highlight of the accomplishments was the conclusion of an agreement with the American Biltrite Rubber Co. (Canada), Ltd., which plans a large extension to their local plant. This company, which operated for many years as the Panther Rubber Company, Ltd., proposes a new building which eventually will cover some 72,000 square feet of floor space and cost in the vicinity of $600,000.

It intends to proceed with the first stage immediately at an estimated price of $250,000. Taking advantage of a clause in the charter which permits the city to erect new buildings for industrial purposes, the city will advance the company $125,000 towards the cost, the sum to be repayable over fifteen years with interest at five per cent. In addition, the city will improve the roads leading to the new building at an estimated outlay of $10,000.

In return, the company guarantees to give employment to a minimum of 100 more employees than it has on its payroll at the present time.

In explaining the resolution, Ald. Leo Cadorette, chairman of the Industrial Relations Committee, said that the new plant would provide diversification of employment in Sherbrooke and provide additional opportunities for the employment of male labor and heads of families, easing one of the weaknesses in the local industrial structure in which the demand for female labor predominates.

Ald. Eugene Thibault, who has long opposed municipal aid to the construction of new industrial plants, registered his dissent to the proposals.

He insisted he was not opposed to industrial expansion and believed in encouraging new industries, but he felt the city was pursuing an unwise course by borrowing large sums to finance new plants.

Sherbrooke had much to offer industries, he continued — low cost power, low cost water and lower municipal and school taxes — and he felt that responsible industries would locate here without financial assistance from the city.

Maintaining a consistent stand on this issue, he also registered his opposition to awarding of the contract for the construction of a new plant for the Picot-Knit Company to J. M. Jeanson, Ltd., at a tender price of $39,800.

Ald. Cadorette stated that fifteen tenders had been received for this plant and the Jeanson tender had been accepted at the suggestion of the proprietors of Picot-Knit who would ultimately reimburse the city for the costs. One tender had been some $400 lower than the Jeanson bid. In the future, to avoid dissatisfaction, it was proposed to have the company which intended to buy the building call for the tenders and award the contract, he continued.

Also in the field of industrial expansion, the mayor and city clerk were authorized to sign an agreement with the Canadian National Railways whereby Stanislas Grondin, the contractor erecting the new Sherbrooke Paper Products Co. plant on the Brompton road, could use the asphalt plant siding for unloading his material.

The transfer of two taxi permits was also approved.

The mayor was authorized to attend the Congress of the United States Conference of Mayors being held in New York from May 14 to May 17.

Over the registered dissent of Ald. Eugene Thibault, the city agreed to pay one-quarter of the premiums for the employees' sickness and accident group insurance.

All committee chairmen had routine reports covering the payment of current bills, approved without dissent.

Having disposed of these items in comparatively short order, the aldermen started on their pet projects.

Ald. Paul Leclerc, as chairman of the Illuminated Cross Committee, offered to deed the land on which the cross is situated to the city, which has become responsible for its maintenance. The committee made certain suggestions for the future operation of the project and on motion of Ald. Henri Labonne, chairman of the General Administration committee, the matter was referred to the committee of the whole for an early decision.

Ald. Eugene Thibault then let loose a blast against the situation at the Eustis power station. Over $25,000 had been spent on repairs to the dam and the station but the plant had been out of operation since April 13, 1951, and the city had been deprived the power it should have received from the plant. Much of the delay had been due to the damage to the machinery caused by negligence on the part of the municipal employees and he felt that some disciplinary action should be taken.

The electric committee chairman, Ald. Paul Hamel, admitted that everything was not satisfactory at Eustis and invited the Council to join him on a tour of inspection on Wednesday afternoon when the situation could be reviewed.

Ald. Paul Leclerc and Ald. Conrad Cayer have been interviewing the officials of the Laramee Service Inc., and announced that certain changes were planned in the autobus circuits.

Ald. Leclerc said that King west circuit No. 24 would be re-routed to give a direct service up and down King Hill and that Lennoxville No. 40 and City Limits No. 22 would be combined into a single route to cut down the need for

Optimism's Objectives Outlined

"Optimism International is an association of chartered Optimist Clubs located in the U.S.A., Canada, Mexico and Puerto Rico," Paul Delorme, a club member, told members of the local Optimist Club at their regular weekly dinner meeting held in the La Salle Hotel last evening.

"The object of the association is to internationally develop optimism as a philosophy of life. To promote an actual interest in good government, civil affairs, to inspire respect for law, to promote patriotism and work for international accord and friendship among people. To aid and encourage the development of youth throughout the world," he continued.

The members were reminded by President Eric Marquardt of the convention to be held in Plattsburg, N.Y., on May 16, 17, 18.

Peter Blais reported that $1,175 had been collected by ads for the Sport Guide. Benefits from this go towards boys' work.

Paul Nadeau showed a film and the members were reminded of the Erskine Hawkins dance.

A Chinese auction proved a success. Three members, Frank Edward, Maurice Sirois and Gilles Blais, received their club pins from the president.

Seated at the head table with the president, Eric Marquardt, were: Henry Crochetiere, Henry Blais, Paul Nadeau, Fred Bean and Maurice Sirois.

Illegal Possession Is Charged

Pouliot pleaded not guilty and had previously been ordered to stand trial at the next criminal assizes. He asked for a speedy trial and his request was granted. He is represented by Paul-Emile Brazeau while Benoit Turmel is representing the R.C.M.P. and the Crown.

Cpl. Jean Ouimet, R.C.M.P., detachment of Rock Island, made the arrest.

Problems Of Dairy Farmers Outlined By National President At Richmond

By ARNOLD BARON
Richmond, April 22.—More than seventy-five farmers, business and industrial leaders last night attended the annual "Farmers' Night" of the Richmond and Mel-bourne Senior Board of Trade, held in the Brunswick Hotel.

They heard some praiseworthy things about farmers, in an attempt to have the town dwellers better understand the difficulties of his fellow citizens in rural areas and so clear up some of the hard feeling that has developed among urban people toward food producers during the last few years.

But for the most part, since many in the gathering were district farmers, they heard things which they didn't want to hear.

Guest speaker was Gilbert MacMillan, of Huntingdon, president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, and he predicted that by summer the floor price on butter would revert to fifty-eight cents per pound and between $2 and $2.25 a hundredweight for milk.

"According to information received today," he said, "the Government is willing to let the floor price on butter go down to fifty-eight cents. So far, no information is forthcoming on cheese, but this likely won't be more than twenty-eight."

"This means a net return for milk of between $2 and $2.25 per hundred."

"Compare this with wages, at their present level, in other industries. In an hour and a quarter, a bricklayer earns as much as a dairy farmer receives for a hundredweight of milk. And if the artisan is unemployed, you will keep him anyway."

Mr. MacMillan said that a very great deal of the hard feeling on the part of city dwellers toward their friends in the country had developed because of high living costs and a lack of knowledge of urban problems on the part of the farm citizen.

"With our modern way of living, the food producers are nearly as badly hurt by high food costs as the urban dweller, because the great majority of them consume only very little of what they actually produce. They are also very much harder hit by the significant greater increase in the cost of industrial goods. In addition, the farmer has to spend very large amounts to maintain the necessary equipment to operate his business."

"Due to the fact that his returns are seldom great enough to allow him to compete with industry in the labor market, he must invest in machinery to save labor and this investment has more than trebled in the last ten years."

Mr. MacMillan stated that much of the misunderstanding has been caused because of "our" system of releasing figures on overall farm income.

"If these figures had any true value," he stated, "would you be able to go out and buy some of the best land in Eastern Canada for no more than it would have cost you thirty years ago? Many farms can be purchased for less than the value of the buildings and improvements on them," he said in referring to the misleading effect produced by the overall farm income figures which have now "reached almost astronomical proportions."

"Until we can get these farm income figures broken down by commodities, with operating costs shown in parallel columns, we would be a good deal better off, from a public relations standpoint, if they were never published. To the farmer, they are a source of exasperation and are absolutely misleading to the average urban dweller."

"I would point out that the increase in the price of all dairy foods is nearly thirty per cent less than the average of all foods. One logical but very unhealthy result of this lower price for dairy products was the sharp decline we were experiencing in milk production, which in 1951 dropped about half a billion pounds. Figured on a per capita basis, our milk production was the lowest it had been for twenty years."

Mr. MacMillan said that the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease may create a surplus of dairy products. Without any large export markets, a surplus may force a sharp decline in prices for dairy products on our domestic market.

"Coming on top of discouraging conditions in the dairy industry in recent years this will, in the end, force a still further decline in milk production."

"We find it rather amazing that our Government is willing to put a floor under beef prices that will practically sustain them at existing levels and, according to press reports of a speech made by the Minister of Agriculture, is willing to shoulder a loss of six million dollars to support hog prices, yet it still makes no move to do anything that will stabilize the dairy industry."

"The dairy industry will not expire for its existence is too vital to our way of life. Those supplying the preferred markets will carry on. The group that will be hardest hit, however, and this group is not unknown in the Eastern Townships, are the families on your outlying farms. From the settlement of this section, they have carried on, helped maintain your rural life, raised families that have made a great contribution to Canada. They were enabled to do this mainly from the product of the dairy cow."

"If the returns from this type of farming become too low for them to carry on, you will have a further increase in the number of abandoned farms."

In the face of these obstacles, Mr. MacMillan advised dairy farmers to: do everything they can to cut costs of production, even if this means changing a lot of operations — producing the greatest amount of feed that the land is capable of, and buying less, hard-to-raise crops so that there is the least possible waste of the valuable nutrients they have drawn from the soil.

"This may mean abandoning practices that have been carried on for generations, but, remember, there is nothing absolutely static in this world and we must change our methods with our scientific findings."

"To you, who are not farmers: Do not bear any resentment when you pay your next bill for dairy foods. The producer has his worries just as you have and his lot, especially during the past two or three years, has not been an easy one. I am not asking you to think of the dairy producers only as big operators but rather of the little fellow with only moderate build-

Karen Rich Is Tucker's Vocalist

Karen Rich, vivacious, flame-tressed young songstress featured with Tommy Tucker's orchestra, appearing on Thursday at the Arena, has aptly been described as "everybody's sister."

With a deep, rich voice that can do justice to torchy numbers as well as jump tunes and ballads Karen is still the type of girl who keeps a cute little apartment and sews her own clothes. Her wholesome charm and terrific singing ability have carried her through a number of successful band spots, club dates and television shows.

Karen could have started band singing when she was 15 but her parents turned thumbs down on their only daughter's first chance to leave the Hartford homestead. Two years later, while she was singing in a local club, Glenn Miller's brother, Herb, performing at the State Theatre, Hartford, was persuaded to drop in and see what the youngster could do. While he said nothing at the time, three days later a call came to Karen from Boston, where she joined the band for a month of one-nighters. She was released then for a reason no longer valid (as any fool can plainly see). She was "too fat."

Now, with the adolescent avoirdupois very pleasingly redistributed, Karen is a sure eye-stopper as well as ear-charmer.

She has appeared with Johnny Richards, Dizzy Gillespie, Buddy Rich, Shep Fields, Bobby Byrne, has sung with the Sapphires at Bernie Mann's Long Island "Riviera," and was featured on Alan Dale's TV show. Since joining Tommy, Karen has recorded "Whatta Ya Got?" with Don Brown.

Lions Club Hears About Competition

Competition's advantages and disadvantages were outlined to members of the Sherbrooke Lions Club last night by Professor Robert McIntosh, of Bishop's University.

Prof. McIntosh spoke out in favor of price competition and said that from an economic point of view the government was correct in its retail price maintenance legislation.

Price competition brings down prices whereas retail price maintenance promotes monopoly among manufacturers.

Much of today's competition is service competition, Prof. McIntosh said, and this results in a heavy overcharge that is passed on to the consumer.

He mentioned certain soft drink lines where up to 75 per cent of the product's cost goes to advertising.

Stores which are selling trade name goods are competing not on a price basis but on an advertising and promotion basis.

Heavy advertising means that competition is not perfect and results in a heavy load of charges being passed on to the consumer.

Prof. McIntosh contended that in some retail lines there are too many people engaged. The overhead of the small merchants is high and the charges to the consumer are correspondingly high.

If there were fewer, but larger, stores, overhead costs would be smaller and the consumer would benefit from lower prices.

Prof. McIntosh, who was introduced by Neil Tracy and thanked by Theodore Dion, answered many questions asked by the Lions following his address.

Club President Alberie Julien presided at the meeting at which announcement was made by Edgar Strachino of plans by the Lions to hold a broom sale in the city in mid-May. This will coincide with cleanup week. Further details about this will be announced later.

Secretary Alphonse Saumier reported on a zone meeting held at Quebec on Easter Monday and attended by himself, Leopold Chevalier, deputy district governor, and Mr. Julien.

Mr. Saumier also announced that six club members had 100 per cent attendance during the recent attendance contest period. They were Joseph Begin, Eddie Caron, Lucien Desrosiers, Mr. Strachino, Mr. Julien and Mr. Saumier.

Mr. Begin, Mr. Strachino, Mr. Saumier and Cecil Dunn had 100 per cent attendance during the 1951 contest period, and 12 members had perfect attendance in 1950.

One minute's silence was observed as a tribute to Philippe Juneau, charter president of the Sherbrooke Lions, who died in Montreal last week.

At the head table with Mr. Julien and the guest speaker were Mr. Tracy, Mr. Dion, Rene Robert and two guests, R. Lindsou and Roland Laliberté.

The speaker was introduced by V. R. Beattie, chairman of the Board's Agricultural Committee.

Bury Nun Listed Among Canadians Held In Jail By Chinese Reds

Ottawa, April 22.—Prime Minister St. Laurent said yesterday Red Chinese neglect or maltreatment may have caused the death of a Canadian missionary for the first time and disclosed that Canada has joined in a new note of protest to Peking.

Mr. St. Laurent expressed shock and regret as he told the Commons of the death Feb. 8 of Father Joseph Leon Arcand of Champlain County, Que. Father Arcand, who had been serving a six months' jail sentence, was brought in a "deplorable condition" to the hospital at Chefoo where he died shortly after admission.

This was the "first case which has come to our attention in which there is some reason to believe that the death of a Canadian missionary has been caused or at least hastened by serious neglect or maltreatment on the part of the Chinese communist authorities."

Father Arcand's death was prominently mentioned in a new note delivered to Red China by Canada, the United States, United Kingdom and Australia. It asked information about 55 imprisoned westerners, including seven Canadian missionaries, their alleged offences, their whereabouts and their welfare.

The Prime Minister listed the seven jailed Roman Catholic Canadians as:

Bishop Cuthbert O'Hara of Ottawa, Bishop Gustave Prevost of St. Eustache, Que., Father Eugene Lauzon of Castlemont, Ont., Father Arsenius Mullin of Montreal and Hawkesbury, Ont., Sister Ste. Alphonse de Redempteur of Saint Dorothy, Que., Sister Ste. Marie-Germaine of St. Prosper and St. Pastour, Que., and Sister Raymond Marie of Bury, Compton County, Que.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, joined the Prime Minister in expressing shock at the death of Father Arcand. He hoped that something could be done to improve the situation.

Before Father Arcand's death, Mr. St. Laurent said, there had been no reports of physical maltreatment, although some had been subjected to imprisonment and the humiliation and indignities of mock "trials."

He said it appears Red China is bent on driving all western missionaries from the country. The Canadian government would do all possible to help the 100 Canadian missionaries still there "until they can get out."

Mr. St. Laurent said he had received a first-hand account of the trial of five Canadian nuns at Canton last December and it had profoundly shocked him. Three of the nuns have since returned home.

In the trial he said there was "deliberately callous treatment meted out to the Sisters apparently for the purpose of discrediting western humanitarian institutions."

PITT'S ANSWER SERVES TODAY

It is interesting to recall a fiery speech of Pitt, Prime Minister of England many, many years ago, who, like Winston Churchill of today, was the genius directing affairs at home, when the nation was fighting Napoleon.

As recalled by the Sarnia Observer, the occasion of Pitt's speech was a query — one that came from a man whose chief desire seemed to be that he might have something to say at a critical time.

Tierney was the man who asked the question. He asked Pitt to state in one sentence what the country was fighting for. The absurdity of this question was painfully apparent, but Pitt was ready, not with a carefully prepared speech, but with an impromptu deliverance that has never been forgotten in history. His reply to Tierney, strange as it might seem, would be a reply to anyone asking the same question today.

It was: "The honorable member," said Pitt, bending angry blows upon his interlocutor, "defines me to state in one sentence the object of the war. I know not whether I can do it in one sentence; but in one word I can tell him that it is security; security against danger, the greatest evil that ever threatened the world. It is security against a danger that never existed in any past period of society. It is security against a danger which in degree and extent was never equalled; against a danger which threatens all the nations of Europe and resisted by none with so much success as by this nation, because by none has it been resisted so uniformly and with so much energy."

There is an analogy between this interchange between Pitt and Tierney with similar questions asked today by those friends of totalitarianism who cast aspersions on the preparedness program of the Western nations.

Canada, in co-operation with other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the United Nations, is building a defensive force in Europe and fighting communism in Korea.

The reason for all this is to be found in Pitt's answer to Tierney — security.

U.S. ALSO COMPLAINS OF MAIL SERVICE

Residents of the United States are often pictured as people in a hurry. They are said to be more addicted to speed than any other nation, whether on foot or by car, railroad or plane. Creating speed records is something of a mania with them and they obviously do not like it if they are beaten by anybody.

But there is one form of transport in which they are behind any other large country — with the possible exception of Canada. And that is in the postal service.

It takes an average of 29.6 hours, according to a series of tests by the New York World Telegram and Sun, to deliver a letter from one address in New York to another. According to a parallel test made by the London Daily Telegraph, it takes only six hours on an average to deliver a letter within London. A Cleveland man reports that he received a letter from a town thirty miles distant which from the time of postmark to delivery, took 144 hours. The Louisville Times recently pointed out that in 1830, when mail went by stage coach, it took eight hours for a letter mailed in Frankfort, Ky., to reach a Louisville address. It now takes about 24 hours.

The trouble began about two years ago when Congress reduced the financial aid it gave the Post Office department and Postmaster-General James M. Donaldson reduced the number of deliveries, shortened the time when post offices were open, cut the staffs and reduced the mail train service by 65 per cent. Letters mailed early in the evening lie all night in the boxes and not picked up until next morning. Carriers making one delivery a day have to carry twice as much and take much longer time on the job.

Doubtless the citizens of the great Republic are dissatisfied with this condition of affairs as are Canadians who are protesting the steady deterioration of the mail service in this country but apparently their complaints are meeting with exactly the same response as ours.

WHERE EXPERTS ERR

The people of Newfoundland have reason to doubt the infallibility of Canada's finance experts, the St. John's News indicates in commenting on the report that Premier Smallwood gave in the Legislative Assembly to the effect that federal receipts from income, corporation, succession and sales taxes collected in Newfoundland amounted to about $20 million. The paper says:

These, of course, are the taxes directly collected in Newfoundland by the Federal Government. They do not include excise and customs duties on tobacco, liquor and a great variety of imported goods, and the sales and excise taxes on the vast quantity of goods bought from Canadian manufacturers.

What these collections amount to must to some extent be a subject for speculation since there is no way in which they can be segregated for classification as to source. A recent guess made in these columns was that they would amount to about $17½ million at the very least.

In other words, the direct and indirect taxes received by Ottawa from Newfoundland must come very near $40 million or twice as much as the Canadian fiscal experts estimated during the negotiation of the terms of union.

FLOOD WATERS REFLOAT PLANS FOR MISSOURI BASIN PROJECT

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Flood waters swirling down the Missouri River have torn a few things loose in Washington, too. They have refloated the long-stranded plans for Missouri basin development.

The Hoover Commission recommendations on reorganization of the Federal government's water resources agencies are at last going to get some consideration in Congress.

President Truman's latest Missouri Basin Survey Commission held its first organization meeting early in April. The President announced he was appointing this new group in January. He named it in February. Its chairman, James E. Lawrence, is editor of the Lincoln (Neb.) Star. It will set up headquarters in the area and submit its report within the year. The billion-dollar damage anticipated from the present floods will give the commission plenty to write about.

This is the fifth planning group to tackle the Big Muddy problem. The first idea was for an MVA — a Missouri Valley Authority for this one-sixth of the nation, modeled on the Tennessee Valley plan.

MVA was opposed by many special interests in the area. Corps of Engineers in the Army and Bureau of Reclamation in the Department of Interior then came up with the famous Pick-Sloan plan.

It called for some 300 dams and reservoirs for flood control, navigation, irrigation and electric power development. Total cost has been estimated as high as $4.5 billion — $1.8 billion for Corps of Engineers, $2.7 billion for Bureau of Reclamation.

Dams Can't Handle Snow-Water

The $137 million Fort Peck dam was completed in 1936 before the Pick-Sloan plan was born. Aside from this, Army Engineers are spending $200 million on building a nine-foot navigation channel up to Sioux City, Iowa, and eight other dams to cost $800 million.

Bureau of Reclamation has completed nine smaller upstream dams out of 89 authorized, to cost another $800 million. All dams built are reported holding back millions of acre-feet of water. But they aren't enough to hold back last winter's heavy snow-water run-off of the plains and the thaw in the mountains still to come. Since the start of the Korean war, there has been a freeze on funds to start new projects in this vast undertaking.

While the Pick-Sloan plan has its critics, it is today the only complete plan in existence. Any new MVA or other flood control plans thought up later will have to be based on Pick-Sloan surveys.

When ex-President Herbert Hoover's Commission on Reorganization of the Federal Government came to study the rivalry and duplication of effort between Corps of Engineers and Bureau of Reclamation, it recommended that all this river development and flood control work be transferred to Department of Interior. But the Hoover Commission experts split seven ways on their power recommendations and three ways on water policy recommendations.

In an effort to resolve some of this conflict, President Truman in 1950 appointed a Water Resources Policy Commission. Its chairman was Morris L. Cooke.

Commission Went Out of Commission
The Cooke Commission report, in three big volumes, weighed eight and a half pounds. It recommended that Congress set up a separate commission to develop each major river basin, designating which Federal agencies should participate in each project.

The Cooke report was completed a year ago and then this commission itself went out of commission. Nothing much happened. The report went to the Budget Bureau for condensation and drafting into authorizing legislation. The 17-page Cooke summary emerged as an 87-page draft bill, but instead of going to Congress it appeared principally in literature of the Farmers' Union, which supported it.

Further compounding the confusion, President Truman then appointed the Missouri Basin Survey Commission under James Lawrence. Its other members include Senators Jim Murray of Montana, Milton Young of North Dakota, Congressmen Aspinwall of Colorado, Hope of Kansas, Trimble of Arkansas, and four other prominent citizens of the area.

The general impression is that the commission is loaded in favor of a Missouri Valley Authority. Hoover Commission recommendations were out in bill form and introduced in Congress a year ago. Again nothing happened. Corps of Engineers has built up so many friends in the flood areas and in Congress that the chances of putting it out of business are slim.

But now President Truman is submitting to Congress a new reorganization plan which would put all flood control work in Department of Interior.

Sudbury Corporal Known As Man The Chinese Couldn't Kill

By BILL BOSS

Canadian Press Staff Writer
With The Canadians in Korea
April 22. — (CP) — Cpl. Ken V. McCormand of Sudbury, Ont., is known hereabouts as "the man the Chinese couldn't kill."

They tried hard enough. Details of their attempt, the night of March 26, was released by United Nations censorship which until now has restricted reports of the engagement to mention of "U.N. troops."

That was the night the Chinese made a "pincer raid" on a spur held by the 1st battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry and left 34 bodies for their trouble. They also suffered uncounted wounded who were carried off the next morning by a 70-man stretcher party.

The same night the communists attacked an outpost position held by the 2nd battalion Royal Canadian Regiment.

After shooting 500 shells into the R.C.R.'s forward locations, the Chinese sent a 30-man party onto the outpost, which was commanded by Cpl. James Gilmore of Brookline, Que.

The company commander, Maj. Fred Vine of Petawawa, Ont., ordered the little group back into the main defences.

The outpost's communications had gone out and the orders weren't received. But Gilmore, appreciating the situation, acted on his own initiative and led his men back.

They were almost within the wire when a shell landed in the middle of the party killing Gilmore and Pte. J. P. Williams of Verona, Ont.

A party under Lieut. Russ Gardner of Annapolis, Ont., went out to search for wounded but the enemy's artillery and mortar fire were so intense that the plan was cancelled. Gardner was hit by shrapnel and Pte. A. G. Mitchell of Toronto was killed.

R.C.R. heavy mortars concentrated their fire onto the forward slopes of both outposts and the main position. Their fire broke up the attack.

Meanwhile, out among the Chinese was Cpl. McCormand. He had been wounded slightly in the original mauling, and when the enemy assaulted he played dead.

Communists who first swept over the positions came upon him, rifled his body for his personal belongings, and two of them dived to fight over which would keep his rifle.

Then one of them bayoneted him. McCormand was still wearing his winter parka. The plunging blade snagged on one of the folds, was diverted in mid-course and grazed his ribs.

Exercising almost superhuman control, McCormand didn't utter a sound.

Enjoying their play, one of the two men then rolled the Canadian over and butted him on the head with the rifle, inflicted a nasty gash but not quite knocking his out.

The other followed through by

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY

THIS HAND BECAME A REAL HEADACHE

When the Southern Regional Tournament is held in Birmingham, the first week-end in May, many of the players will be thinking of a much-discussed hand that was played in that same tournament last year. Some of the players will recall it with pleasure, but others put it in a class with the toothache and the income tax.

Practically everybody who held the South cards got to six spades. If West opened the deuce of diamonds there was no problem; South could make sure of his small slam without abandoning his play for an extra trick. But if West opened the deuce of hearts, as was the case at a few tables, South had a problem on his hands.

At rubber bridge there would be no problem, of course. South would play the four of hearts from the dummy at the first trick. (Shame on you if you weren't planning to make that play.)

East would win the first trick, of course, but no matter what East returned South could win in his own hand, draw three trumps, cash the top clubs and ruff a club, enter dummy with a diamond to ruff another club, and enter dummy again with the ace of hearts to get a discard on dummy's last club.

Since the hand was actually played in a match-point tournament, life was not so simple for South. If he made the safe play at the first trick, he could be sure of the small slam but would have no chance at all for the extra trick. In a tournament, the extra trick is often just as important as the contract itself.

So at most of these tables South hopefully finessed the queen of hearts at the first trick. This play gave them the best chance for the extra trick, but it turned out disastrously.

East won with the king of hearts and returned the suit, knocking out dummy's ace. Now

South could draw trumps, cash the top clubs and ruff a club but then his hope for the slam faded away. There was only one entry left in dummy (the king of diamonds), and South needed two entries there to set up the last club and then get back to cash it. The early removal of the ace of hearts had proven fatal.

The Record Short Story

TWIST OF THE WRIST

By LEORA WALTERS

Gwen Hilton was uncomfortably aware that her younger sister Maxine, endowed with eyes as hazel, abundant hair as auburn and figure as well-filled out in the right places as her own, was playing with dynamite. Gwen realized the dynamite could explode any time now, causing repercussions which well might precipitate an avalanche of unhappiness in years to come.

The older sister, who maintained the small but expensive apartment they shared, and with money she earned as a free lance interior decorator, had warned Maxine time and again of the impending danger. She had asked — begged — Maxine to wait for Hugh Prescott, young mining engineer to whom she was engaged, to finish his work contract with the Blair Mining Company and return from Mexico; an oft repeated admonition which dreamy-eyed Maxine parried with, "I promised to wait for Hugh two years, not three."

Gwen said, the last time, "Are you admitting you're more concerned with the calendar than you are about the man whose ring you're wearing? What real difference does a year make when —"

Lovely Maxine interrupted. "That's the trouble, Gwendolene girl. The passing years mean nothing to you. After having seen twenty-six of them, you're still single. And with no prospects. Eventually you're going to be the most beautiful spinster in this great big city."

"Rubbish!" Gwen said. "And don't change the subject. Keep away from the Chateau Chanson and your sly, almost daily trysts with Alex Blair. Get a job, and time will slip by. Before you know it, Hugh will be home."

"The same old record, scratchy and worn thin from constant playing," the younger sister said wearily.

Maxine was right, Gwen admitted to herself. The same old words, over and over, to no avail. So Gwen chose another course. She made it a point to be alone at the apartment when the telephone rang, when that deep, vibrant and altogether charming voice at the other end said, "Max dear? I've found that I can make it this afternoon after all—if you'll pardon the after... About four. Are you glad?"

"Yes, Alex dear, glad!" Gwen sounded enthusiastically like Maxine. "The Chanson, of course?" "Where else?" said Alex Blair, junior executive of the J. D. Blair Mining Corporation, Limited.

Gwen had no liking for the task at hand, but she did have a chin as firm as it was pretty. Grimly she drove her new car through downtown traffic. At four o'clock she entered the portals of the Chateau Chanson, a softly-lighted cosmopolitan castle surprisingly well patronized at this time of day. And by prosperous looking customers recruited from nearby offices where, Gwen suspected, they were probably supposed to be in conference. An attendant, an elderly man wearing thick spectacles, approached her, smiling, and said, "You'll find Mr. Blair in the accustomed—er—retreat, Miss Hilton." He led the way.

This would be "Spees" Spaulding about whom Maxine had joked, Gwen thought. Apparently he saw no better than his extremely thick glasses would indicate—mistaking her for Maxine. Then Gwen was looking at the man who had risen within the horseshoe shaped niche, a niche where a beautiful, leather upholstered seat curved around a small cocktail table of chrome and glass.

He was tall, romantically dark and very handsome. But the too-soft lights were playing tricks. Gwen reasoned, because his lean, strong face suggested far more strength of character than his actions indicated. Shunning formalities, Gwen said a bit belligerently, "You're Mr. Blair?"

When he nodded, appraising her slowly, thoroughly, she launched the business at hand by saying, "You won't have to tell me you're surprised at seeing me instead of my sister. Or make the customary remarks about my striking resemblance. With your permission—or without it—I'll do the talking."

"Please proceed," he said, smiling ever so slightly. "Maxine is engaged to Hugh Prescott," Gwen said. "He's a fine clean, honest young man, Mr."

"I thought perhaps Alex hadn't told you about Janet," Steve answered. "Or about bailing Hugh into remaining in Mexico, a contract I didn't know about till I visited Mexico last week. And after a long sojourn at our South American property, Hugh was so happy when I told him he was coming home that tears came to his eyes."

"I'll be waiting for him," Maxine said. She looked at Gwen. "Thanks for meddling, guardian sister. You, too, Mr. Blair... Good bye, now."

"Gosh!" Gwen said, watching her sister depart. Then she added, "Maybe I should sock you yet, Steve Blair. Letting me spout like a drain pipe and... who made this date today?"

"Alex did," he said, smiling. "I was listening in on one of the office extension phones. But he couldn't keep it. I don't think he wanted to after his wife appeared. You see he loves the blonde beauty."

"I'm glad... glad," Gwen said, and wanted to say, "Glad for Maxine for him. Everybody!"

"But you still haven't answered my demands," Steve Blair said. "That I be permitted to keep on seeing you. You see, I don't have a wife, or any prospects. And I'm over 30."

There was more conversation between the elder Hilton sister and the elder Blair brother. They ate dinner together that evening. It was late when Gwen returned to the apartment. Maxine, writing a long letter to Hugh Prescott, looked up from her desk and said, "Poor astronomer that I am, I do recognize stars in my sister's eyes. I don't think she's going to be the city's most beautiful spinster, after all."

"Now, don't jump at conclusions," Gwen admonished, embarrassed but somehow very happy. Happier than she had ever been.

"... saved me days, perhaps weeks, of work"

After returning from his first trip to the West, a business man wrote his bank:

"I arrived having no idea where to start in to make the connections I required. The thought occurred to me that perhaps the bank, which has been very helpful to me on numerous occasions, would give me some guidance. Mr. W. proved to be of tremendous help. He introduced me to the people I should have met and saved me days, perhaps weeks, of work."

Every chartered bank works this way. Whether you walk into your neighborhood branch or one a thousand miles away, you will find the same full range of banking service—and the same readiness to help.

Mission Circle Tea Held At St. Patrick's

Colorful "spring teas" are in vogue just now and that of the St. Patrick Mission Circle, held on Saturday afternoon in St. Patrick's Church hall, was no exception to the rule of bright spring flowers and pastel shades for decoration.

Very effective were the apple trees complete with delicate blossoms, which adorned the stage, forming a setting for the merry-go-round of bunnies and chicks. Simulated baskets on pillars contained a profusion of spring blossoms in variegated colors.

All decorations were in charge of Miss Margaret Fitzgerald and her assistants, Miss Lucille Crochetiere, Miss Arlene Hand and Mrs. Marguerite Gillis.

The guests were received by the president, Mrs. Frank Wielgus and the first vice-president, Miss Owenie McKeon.

Mrs. Brownlow was floor hostess and directed her capable corps of assistants, who were Mrs. Maurice Parsons, Mrs. Edgar Martin, Mrs. F. Prince, Mrs. George Kingsley, Mrs. Marguerite Gillis, Misses Maud Stewart, Patricia Gillis, Stella Galvin, Lucille Crochetiere and Sylvia Lacharite.

The tea table, covered with a lace banquet cloth and lighted with yellow candles, was centred with a gaily painted cart filled with daffodils, narcissi and mauve stocks. Pouring were Miss Eva McConnell, Mrs. P. Slattery, Mrs. W. Wilcox and Mrs. Stewart Hansford.

The individual tea tables also bore yellow candles and were filled all afternoon by the many guests who came to partake of the delicious salads served from two salad bars. In charge of the tea table were Misses Mary and Eva McConnell and Elizabeth McKeon. Officiating at the salad bars were Mrs. Don Clowery, Mrs. E. Langevin, Mrs. Raymond Provencher, Mrs. Dan Towne, Mrs. Hector Bolduc and Mrs. C. Nicholls.

The efficient kitchen staff comprised Misses Elizabeth Roy, Verna Dundin, Helen Slattery, Gertrude O'Boyle, Florence Sheridan and Mrs. Ewart Davies.

The apron table featuring gay kitchen aprons and holders all hand made, was sold out in no time, under the management of Mrs. Jack Owens and Mrs. Bertha Dowling, while Mrs. Fred Wilson's plant department reported equal success and the stock of many varieties of house plants in original containers was in demand all afternoon.

Mrs. C. L. Mullins assisted in this department and Miss Sally Owens sold tickets on a beautiful hydrangea, the gift of McKenna's Florist Shop. This drawing realized a good amount and the plant was won by Mrs. singing of God Save the Queen and refreshments were served by the Sir John Sherbrooke Chapter.

DETROIT DOMINATES 1951-52 DREAM TEAM WITH FOUR PLAYERS

Elmer Lach And Doug Harvey Are Picked On N. H. L. All-Star Squad; Sawchuk, Kelly And Howe Unanimous

Montreal, April 22.—For the second year in a row the National Hockey League All-Star Team is dominated by members of the Detroit Red Wings with no less than four players from this season's Stanley Cup champions holding down positions on the 1951-52 N.H.L. All-Star sextette. The other two posts are occupied by members of the Montreal Canadiens, Stanley Cup finalists.

The four Detroit players on this year's All-Star Team are same four who made the team a year ago. Goalie Terry Sawchuk, Defense-man Red Kelly, Right wing Gordie Howe and Left-winger Ted Lindsay are the four Wings on the First All-Star Team while Defense-man Doug Harvey and Center Elmer Lach are the two Canadiens.

The team was picked by hockey writers and broadcasters in the six League cities and points were awarded on the basis of five for a first choice, three for a second and one for a third. Three ballots were sent in from each city. A unanimous choice would poll 90 points—18 first-place votes. Three Red Wings, Terry Sawchuk in goal, Leonard Patrick (Red) Kelly on defense and big Gordie Howe at right wing were all unanimous choices. It was the second year in succession that Kelly was a unanimous selection.

Each member of the First All-Star Team is the recipient of $1,000 from the National Hockey League while players making the Second Team pocket $500 apiece from the League.

Following is the 1951-52 Official National Hockey League First and Second All-Star Teams with the number of points compiled by each player:

First Team

Goal: Terry Sawchuk, Detroit (90).
Defense: Red Kelly, Detroit (90).
Defense: Doug Harvey, Canadiens (71).
Center: Elmer Lach, Canadiens (72).
Right Wing: Gordie Howe, Detroit (90).
Left Wing: Ted Lindsay, Detroit (80).

Second Team

Goal: Jim Henry, Boston (23).
Defense: Hy Buller, Rangers (47).
Defense: Jim Thomson, Toronto (38).
Center: Milt Schmidt, Boston (40).
Right Wing: Maurice Richard, Canadiens (42).

With the exception of Doug Harvey, every member of this year's All-Star Team has been a member of previous All-Star aggregations. Harvey made the select six after five years in the League. It was the fourth All-Star Team for Detroit's Ted Lindsay and his third in a row. He also made the Second Team in 1948-49.

Elmer Lach was named to the center position on two previous All-Star squads. The veteran Montreal center was on the 1944-45 and 1947-48 First All-Star Teams. He held down the pivot position on the Second Team in 1943-44 and 1945-46. It was the second year in a row that Gordie Howe was selected as the league's top right wingman. He made the second squad in 1948-49 and 1949-50.

It was also the second All-Star Team in succession for Red Kelly. Kelly made the Second Team in 1949-50 while on the way up to the premier six. Terry Sawchuk boasts the best record of any player on this mythical club. Two years in the N.H.L. and All-Star goalkeeper both years.

Sugar Jim Henry of Boston was runner-up to Sawchuk for goal-keeping honors with 23 points. While Terrific Terry was first choice of all 18 selectors, Henry was the second pick of seven and the third choice of two.

Kelly and Harvey placed well ahead of the other defensemen in the League. Red was first choice of every selector while Harvey garnered 12 first-place votes, three seconds and two thirds for his point total of 71. Hy Buller, rookie defenseman of the New York Rangers, did extremely well in his first season in the National Hockey League by finishing third in the balloting among the defensemen. Buller polled one first-place vote, 13 second-place votes and three third-place votes for a total of 47 points. Sharing honors with Buller on the Second All-Star Team is Jimmy Thomson of Toronto. The steady-playing rear-guard had two first-place votes, six seconds and 10 thirds for 38 points. Thomson was a member of the Second Team last year.

Elmer Lach made the First Team with a 32-point lead over Boston's Milt Schmidt. In accumulating his 72 points, Lach had 11 first-place votes, five seconds and two thirds. Schmidt was the first choice of four selectors, the second pick of five and the third selection of five. Schmidt was center on the First All-Star Team last year.

It was Howe all the way for the right wing spot with a perfect total of 90 points. Maurice Richard polled 42 points in finishing second among the circuit's

Leo Lebrun Earns Draw With Gagnon

Quebec, April 22.—(P)—Leo Lebrun, Brooklyn, N. Y., featherweight, and Fernando Gagnon, Canadian bantamweight champion, last night fought to a 10-round stalemate in the main bout of a boxing card here.

Lebrun weighed 122½ and the Quebec battler 117½. The fast-stepping Lebrun won a split decision over the French-speaking Canadian three weeks ago.

Lebrun used his regular quick jabs, dancing away from Gagnon's attacks. Gagnon landed several good blows and the judges were unable to reach a decision.

In a six-round special, Emile Lamarche of Montreal, 121½, defeated over Claud Meunier of Three Rivers, 121½.

The only knockout of the card was a Leo Morency of Quebec, 119½, floor a fellow townsman, Richard DeVarennes, 124, at 2:51 of the first round in a scheduled four-rounder.

Fort Frances Canadians And Stratford Indians Clash Tonight In First Game Of Allan Cup Final

Fort William, April 22.—(P)—Fort Francis Canadians tangle with Stratford Indians here tonight in the first game of the Allan Cup hockey final after taking a trimming yesterday.

But this time their opponent was a barber.

All players will be sporting brush cuts when they meet the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey champions.

The game tonight will mark the second time the Flying Forts have entered the final. Last year they got as far as seven games with Owen Sound Mercuries.

Stratford is gunning for its first Cup.

The Indians gained the finals by downing Pembroke Lumber Kings 4-1 in the best-of-seven Eastern Canada series.

"We'd like to take this series in four games," said playing-coach Pat Wilson. "We're in good shape and the morale is high."

Play-for-keeps Canadians will be living up to their old motto when they hit the ice tonight.

"We're still playing them one at a time, no matter what the opposition," coach Joe Balzan said. "As far as we're concerned, they (Indians) are just another hockey club."

Early in the season, Canadians, unsponsored, operating on a shoestring and without serious competition, were slow and ragged. With good polishing and fortified by a few good holdovers from last year's Western Canada Champions, they managed to claim the Western final, defeating Edmonton Pats 4-1 in a best-of-seven series. One game was tied.

One outstanding factor is in their favor at face-off time tonight. Canadians are noted for their home-ice wins, lacking last year when the final was played at Owen Sound.

This year the first two games of the final are at Fort William with the rest to be played at Fort Frances.

Charlie Humez Earns Nod Over Dauthille

Paris, April 22.—(P)—Charles Humez, 24-year-old rising French middleweight, last night hammered out a 10-round decision over Laurent Dauthille in a bloody battle before 15,000 fans at the Palais des Sports.

Humez weighed 156, Dauthille 158½. The victory gave the battling Frenchman a big boost towards a possible encounter this summer with Sugar Ray Robinson, world middleweight champion.

Quebec Aces Favored As Alexander Trophy Final Series Resumed; Meet Tonight In Third And Crucial Tilt

Quebec April 22.—(CP)—"Tonight's game will tell the tale," said Coach Punch Imlach last night after putting his Quebec Aces through a light practice session.

"I don't like to make predictions, but if we win tonight, I think it will be four straight for us. We aim to win all the games we can."

Fourth game will be played here Thursday.

Imlach left the ringside at a boxing match here to chat about the "Crucial" game in the Alexander Cup final with Saint John, N.B., Beavers, Maritimes Major Hockey League Champions.

Aces held a four-point lead after trouncing Beavers in the first two games of the point series.

They won 4-1 Thursday and 5-3 Saturday. Two more wins will give them the trophy.

"Everything considered, I think Beavers remain a big threat. . . . They're a fast-skating bunch. Two things may go against them:

"Tiredness after a long train ride. (Beavers will arrive here today).

"They'll be playing on a bigger rink."

The trip may have some effect on the Beavers. "I hope so," said Imlach. But then, he added, Beavers played 108 games this season, including their 90-game season. That season is 30 games more than the Quebec Senior Loop's regular schedule, won this year by Aces.

"They've done a lot of traveling. And anyway, we won our first game Thursday, although we got off to a train only two hours before game time."

Another big factor will be the rink size. Imlach said the Saint John rink is smaller than Quebec's "ours is 200 feet by 85, about 15 feet longer and five wider than theirs."

"If they can stay with us on this larger rink, we'll have to work hard."

Some of Imlach's charges were with him at the fights, while the others were taking it easy at home. "We're in top shape," said the coach.

If goalie Jack Gelineau continues to perform in the Quebec nets as he did in the first two games, Imlach said Beavers will have a problem on their hands. Gelineau, former Boston goaltender, made sensational stops in the New Brunswick city when Beavers had the edge in play.

Another boost for Aces is Jean Beliveau, Q.S.H.L. top scorer and

Davey Must Meet Vejar First Or Be Suspended

Chicago, April 22.—(P)—The Illinois State Athletic Commission yesterday ruled that welterweight Chuck Davey's Chicago Stadium bout with Chico Vejar May 7 has precedence over Davey's scheduled match with Carmen Basilio at Syracuse Thursday night.

Davey, who suffered two eye gashes in training last week, was warned by the New York State Athletic Commission last week-end he must fight in Syracuse Thursday night or be suspended. Davey's manager said he will be unable to fight Thursday.

Illinois and New York recently signed a reciprocal agreement to concur in suspensions.

Chairman Joe Triner reported that Davey officially had signed March 28 to face Vejar, while he had signed April 7 to box Basilio.

Triner said that because injury made it impossible for Davey to fight Thursday night, the Illinois Commission deemed it proper to recognize the May 7 bout with Vejar as having precedence.

The Illinois group, however, emphasized that Davey is bound to fulfill the Syracuse bout with Basilio within 30 days of the Vejar match and cannot fight anybody else during that time.

Ray Famechon Stops Ronnie Clayton Again

Nottingham, England, April 22.—(P)—Ray Famechon, French holder of the European Featherweight Championship, successfully defended his title last night by stopping Britain's Ronnie Clayton in the fifth round of a 15-round bout. Clayton retired in the fifth because of a badly cut left eye.

Famechon weighed 125 to Clayton's 126.

It was Famechon's fourth victory over Clayton.

Toronto To Be Scene Of Tennis Championships

Toronto, April 22.—(P)—The Canadian Lawn Tennis Championships will be held at the Toronto Tennis Club Aug. 16-23, it was announced yesterday.

For the first time in the history of the tournament, a committee of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association will manage the meet under the chairmanship of Jim Duff of Toronto. Previously the tournaments were run by host clubs.

NBA To Hold Saddler's Title While In Army

New York, April 22.—(P)—Featherweight boxing champion Sandy Saddler was inducted into the U.S. Army yesterday.

The lanky, 25-year-old New York negro will serve two years. If precedent is followed, Saddler will be permitted to retain his title until he leaves the Army.

Abe Greene, National Boxing Association Commissioner, said in Paterson, N.J., that Saddler's title will be held for him in all N.B.A. States while he is in the Army.

Olympic Cycling Trials Go To Victoriaville

Montreal, April 22.—(P)—Canadian Olympic cycling trials and Quebec Provincial Championships will be staged at Victoriaville, Que., May 3 and 4, it was announced last night.

The trials are expected to produce at least two riders for the Olympics. The Provincial Championships, open to riders across the country, will see seven champions crowned.

The Olympic Trials, originally scheduled to be held in Winnipeg but later switched to Victoriaville when the Winnipeg track was not completed in time, consist of two 1,000-metre races, the 1,000-metre time trial and the 1,000-metre scratch race.

British Champs Entered In Los Angeles Meet

London, April 22.—(P)—British sprint champion, E. MacDonald Bailey, and Len Eyre, the Empire Games three mile champion, will participate in the Coliseum Relay meet at Los Angeles May 16, the Alexander Cup final series.

Chicago Cubs, Picked For Cellar, May Make Trouble For Contenders; Tied With Cincinnati For Second

Phil Cavarretta is mixing a "Mickey" for the contenders who expect to fatten up on his Chicago Cubs.

Nobody gave the Cubs a tumble in the pre-season picks. One Brave soul gave them fifth place. But 93 of the 124 baseball writers stuck them in the cellar, a position they may yet merit.

In the first week of the season the Cubs didn't go down to visit their old basement quarters once. With a 4-2 record they're traipsing along in a second-place tie with Cincinnati — of all people.

Maybe the Cubs and Reds will find their level when the boys nit their stride. In the meantime they deserve the "much improved" label.

The Brooklyn Dodger surplus, gleefully unloaded on the Cubs in the last few years, is doing a big share of the job. Paul Minner, Turk Lown, Bob Ramzotti, Toby Atwell and the rest.

Minner threw a three-hitter at Pittsburgh last night for a 7-1 victory while the Cubs racked rookie Ronnie Kline and three successes. One of the hits off Minner was Jack Merson's second homer of the season.

Minner's double and Ramzotti's single chased Kline in the second. The Cubs added the rest off Forrester Main.

Bobby Thomson found the home-run range for the first time since his dramatic pennant-clincher in the 1951 playoffs as the New York Giants walloped the Phillies, 10-4. Don Mueller also homered and added a triple and single to British Amateur Athletic Board announced yesterday.

Raschi racked up the Philadelphia A's for the eighth straight time, running his lifetime record against them to 22-2, with the New York Yankees' 5-1 triumph.

Little Bobby Shantz gave only five hits, including Mickey Mantle's homer. But the boys didn't back him up. The A's left 10 on base and hit into four double plays.
