North Hatley and the Giant Peach

By Matthew McCully

North Hatley's Grade 5/6 class presented a production of James and the Giant Peach yesterday, complete with life-sized creepy crawlies, one larger-than-life peach, and a talented cast of young thespians.

The Record received an invitation to attend the play from Marjorie Ross, a volunteer at the school.

"He really goes all out," Ross said, referring to North Hatley teacher Richard Williams, who directed the play.

"I used to work at the piggery," commented Ross. "This is really something," she said, explaining that the effort put into the North Hatley Elementary play each year is impressive.

The set had several different backdrops including a country landscape with the tree from which the peach originates, as well as a New York skyline. There were decorated rotating panels on the side of the stage, and of course, a giant peach.

Every inch of the stage was used for the play. There were even moments where the players were up in the rafters during scenes they were meant to be on top of the giant peach.

When the actors were supposed to be inside the peach, the scenes took place on the floor in front of the stage.

The story follows James Trotter, who lived a miserable life until he happened upon an enormous magical peach. James then sets off on an adventure over land and sea accompanied by some big but friendly insects.

Yesterday's afternoon staging was for North Hatley and visiting schools. A second performance took place in the evening for parents and the community.

25th and final edition of the Ayer's Cliff Music Fest

This weekend the 25th and final edition of the Ayer's Cliff Music Fest benefiting the Children's Wish Foundation will take place at the Ayer's Cliff fairgrounds.

Over the years founders Peter Mackey and his wife Chrissie Wiley along with the help of countless volunteers have brought the local community together for a weekend of good music, good company, and a good cause.

Each year, thanks to the funds raised, a wish has been granted to a local child to help raise their spirits.

Below are a few pictures of the festival throughout the years.

PICTURES FROM RECORD ARCHIVES

A Record file photo of Peter and Chrissie Mackey before the upcoming Music Fest of 1998 to benefit the Children's Wish Foundation.

Peter and Chrissie Mackey this year

From The Record archives

In 2003, Peter Mackey was asked about the wish ceremony, held on the last day of the festival each year.

This is what he had to say:

"I usually am able to keep my composure, but there was one time about two years ago we had spent the weekend raising funds for this little four-year-old girl so that her wish could come true. During the presentation, the little one came forward and gave representatives from the Wish Foundation her donation to the cause of helping other kids in her situation. Witnessing something like this can really 'turn a big man into butter'! All I could manage to say was, 'this is what it is all about!'"

For the love of the steel guitar

COUNTRY CONNECTION

JESSIE PELLETIER

Réginal Paquin is a very clever and sensitive man. His kindness towards his peers, family and friends is well known by many. By the sheer force of his character, he learned to play the steel guitar, an instrument that fascinated him. There is truly a special connection between the sound of the steel guitar and his soul.

Paquin was born in Arthabaska. His dream as a young child was to become a helicopter pilot, but he was never able to make this dream a reality because of his eyesight. However as a teenager, he became captivated by American Country music.

“Back then, I watched Buck Owens’s television show Hee Haw and I was fascinated by the sound of the steel guitar. I was sitting about five inches away from the screen just to see the instrument better,” said the musician in an interview.

At the time, he was living in a foster home (according to Social Services, he was an orphan). This family was the cradle of his youth and teenage years and Paquin contemplates these people with gratitude.

“To me, they were my mom and dad, and I had two older brothers and four older sisters. Life couldn’t have gotten me a better family than this one. With them, I was able to find happiness, learn to respect nature and animals as they were farmers (I grew up on a farm). I was lucky enough that they always considered me as a part of their family, I was the youngest of seven kids and they’ve always given me love and protection,” said Paquin gratefully.

As an adult he embraced a career as an electronics technician. At first, he had a small audio/video repair business. Later he would get involved in the research and design of a new device used to help people take better care of themselves and to prevent some pathologies and illnesses.

“This device I’m working on right now is the crowning achievement of my career. It is the facet of my job that has brought me the most satisfaction. Now, my name is engraved on all FlexIon PCB sold worldwide! I am leaving a trace of my work in and around the world.”

Even though he loved his work, he still had that secret flame burning inside. An evening that he went to the Union Hotel to see and hear the band Big Foot, that flame was reignited to a point that he had to do something about it.

“The moment I laid eyes on the steel guitar, I knew I still wanted to learn the instrument. Back then Mike Goodsell was the band’s steel guitar player, what a musician. I had a burning desire to possess a steel guitar and learn how to play it,” recalled Paquin.

At the time he was the technician who repaired the sound equipment for the duo Jerry and Jo’Ann. He ended up buying an Emmons steel guitar from Jerry Robitaille. All he had left to do was to learn how to play the instrument.

“Several musicians told me that if I had never played the guitar, it would be impossible for me to learn to play steel guitar. Jerry Robitaille told me: “Reginald, teach yourself and develop your own style, but most importantly in the beginning do less but do it well”. I put his advice to good use and I never made the band look bad because I didn’t play well,” he stressed.

Eight months after the purchase of his beloved instrument, Julie Poulin from The Carrousel Country Riders heard that the owner of Demitry Electronics had bought a steel guitar and she invited Paquin to meet her band. This is how he got onto the local country music scene always continuing to hone his skills.

“I’ve played with the band Les Carrousel Country Riders during 6 years, then moved on to play with a band from Lac St-Jean, Les Amis du Country, for a couple years. I also played in Montreal with the 3 C’s band as well as other Montreal area artists. I played quite a few years with a great friend of mine, Steve Aulis.

Today, Paquin plays with different musicians and more recently got to realise another dream. For a long time he wished for the chance to experiment playing in a television studio.

drought, floods and climatic or social disturbances.

Through his work, Desjardins, mixes colour and innuendo to raise awareness through dramatic visual storytelling. Here, art mixes with politics and transmits a social message of an undeniable urgency.

Gilbert Desjardins has pursued University studies in geography and political science as well as in the visual arts. He has engaged in photography of art, wildlife and reporting with a passion since 1975 and has traveled in Africa and Quebec for over 40 years. His work is based on digital photography combined with acrylic, wood ash, paper and clay. In 1990, he began to process his images differently using software to create a total, striking and unique finished effect.

“Migrations climatiques” opens this Sunday June 2, from 2 - 4 p.m. and will be on display until July 7.

Steel guitar

“We recorded three television shows in Victoriaville during which I played back-up steel guitar for various singers. The shows will air in the Drummondville region. It’s really impressive to play in a studio, you have to be precise and know when to lead and when to be led. It was quite stressful at the beginning but my stress faded away quickly.”

Country classics is the music that Reginald Paquin loves because it allows him to express himself through his instrument. He doesn’t have the same reverence for today’s Country music as he does for traditional country.

“We used to be able to differentiate country music as well as the uniqueness of the voices who were singing. Merle Haggard, George Jones, Buck Owen and Porter Wagoner, you could tell them apart. Their songs were infused with emotions that could be carried through the steel guitar as well and get into people’s heart and soul,” explained Paquin.

He also stressed that several steel guitarists fascinate him with the way they perform, but that he wouldn’t change his own style of playing because it is the expression of his soul. He insisted that steel guitar makes the emotional beauty of a country songs surface for everyone to feel.

Paquin takes his music very seriously but it doesn’t change the fact that during a career some pretty comical incidents did happen. The musician remembered a few of those that make him laugh today, but were weird at the time.

“Once, a young lady wanted to distract me and she put her finger between the first pedal and my foot and I accidentally hurt her pinky finger. Another time, I was concentrated on my steel guitar and a lady took my face in her hands and French-kissed me. She smelled like sweat and it wasn’t nice! Jean Guy Beauchêne bass player and singer in the band had a hard time to finish his song, he thought it was so funny. But not me at the time,” he said.

“I have fond memories of when I was playing with the Carrousel Country Riders. I also have great memories of the years I played with Steve Aulis, he was really funny and an amazing singer of great country songs, prompting me to give my best. Playing at the Country Music Appreciation Jam with Bobbi Dee at the Burrough’s Falls dance hall as well as all the musicians I got to meet, was a treat,” he said about his career.

You can see Reginald Paquin perform at The Country Music Appreciation Jam on Saturday June 8, music starts at 1 p.m.

Sherbrooke Relay for life tonight

Record Staff

The Canadian Cancer Society's relay for life will be taking place at Sherbrooke's Jacques-Cartier Park today, May 31, with ceremonies starting at 6:30 p.m. With roughly 800 people expected to show up and participate, the relay takes place each year with the goal of helping to create a world where no one need fear cancer.

The workings of the relay have become well known over its 20 year history. Over the course of six to 12 hours (depending on the location) relay team members take turns walking around a track or designated path lit by luminaries; small paper lanterns dedicated to loved ones who have been diagnosed with or died as a result of cancer. In Sherbrooke the Relay will last from 7 p.m. tonight to 7 a.m. tomorrow morning, with closing ceremonies taking place at 6:40 a.m.

Other Relay for life events are scheduled in communities across the Townships over the coming summer, including Magog, Coaticook, and Granby. More information on the relay, its history and mission, and the timing of other events is available at relayforlife.ca

EXHIBITS

June 2

The Uplands Cultural and Heritage Centre invites you to discover "Pont des arts - Art Bridge: Our Townships," our new contemporary exhibition featuring the works of 12 artists from the English-speaking community of the Eastern Townships. In addition, visitors will be able to discover twenty large-format photographic works by artist and ecologist Karl F. Ehrlich in the wooded area near Uplands, at any time throughout the season. The exhibit is part of a broader project which combines art and cultural mediation. Please stay tuned for a range of cultural events, activities and conferences related to the exhibition which will be announced this summer. The public is invited to visit the exhibit, meet the artists and buy artwork during the opening vernissage, which will take place this Sunday, June 2 from 2 to 4 p.m., at 9 Speid St., Sherbrooke (Borough of Lennoxville). The exhibition will run until September 1, 2019.
