World News In Brief

London, June 1.—(Reuters)—The British Overseas Airways Corporation strato-cruiser Caledonia took off from London airport at noon today with its second load of relief supplies for Winnipeg's flood victims.

The plane, due to arrive at Winnipeg at 11 a.m., CDT tomorrow, carried 11 tons of bedding, curtains, towels and other household equipment—believed to be the biggest single cargo of freight ever flown across the Atlantic.

Glasgow, June 1.—(CP)—Scotland will send top-quality livestock to help restock flooded agricultural lands around Winnipeg.

The decision was taken yesterday by the directors of the Royal Highland and Agricultural Society, which instructed a committee to work out details of the best way to aid distressed Canadian farmers.

The action followed a letter from the agriculture ministry in London urging that everything possible should be done to help restore Canadian homes and farms.

New York, June 1.—(AP)—The New York Times reported today that the newspaper's Prague correspondent, Dana Adams Schmidt, had left Czechoslovakia to avoid arrest.

Schmidt was among a score of westerners named in the treason trial of 13 Czechs as having aided in setting up an anti-Communist underground ring aimed at overthrowing the government. Before he left Prague Schmidt filed a story in which he denied knowing any of the underground plotters with whom he was accused of being in contact.

Pretoria, South Africa, June 1.—(Reuters)—Field Marshal Jan Smuts, 80, spent a comfortable night but his heart shows "some sign of embarrassment," his doctor said today.

Smuts, former Prime Minister of South Africa and among the world's great statesmen, celebrated his 80th birthday May 24. Three days later he was taken ill at his farm near here.

Nancy, France, June 1.—(AP)—Fire last night destroyed a fire paper and cardboard mill near here recently equipped with Marshall aid funds.

Damage at La Rochette paper and cardboard mill was estimated at about $60,000. The Rochette mill was the most up-to-date paper and cardboard factory in France. The new Marshall plan equipment had been put into service two days ago.

Prorogation Drive Starts; House Sits Thrice Daily

Ottawa, June 1.—(AP)—The Commons today is scheduled to begin an eight-hour working day in its drive towards prorogation.

Three sittings—11 a.m. to 1 p.m., 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. to 11 p.m.—replace the usual afternoon and evening sittings.

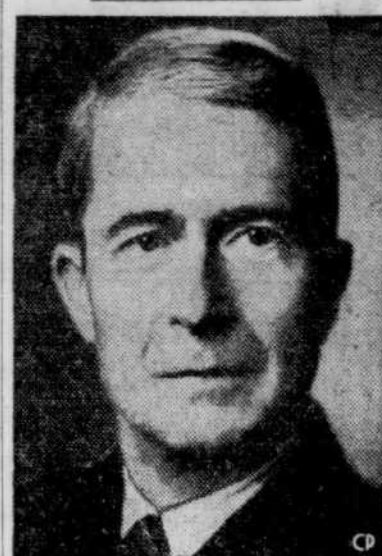

Still among the bulkiest items to be tackled are the estimates of expenditures of various departments. The sailing is expected to be a lot smoother once these items are cleared up.

Before prorogation—some expect it by the end of the month—members will probably be asked to adopt the report of several committees and deal with a half-dozen or more government bills, including a measure providing a new charter for Canada's Indians.

At an abbreviated sitting yesterday, members gave their reading to a bill extending provisions of the veterans allowance act to imperial veterans now resident in Canada. Also adopted was a bill making minor amendments to the Canadian grain act and a measure extending application of the criminal code to the new province of Newfoundland.

Prior to the 14th June sitting, members of the Senate and the Commons were addressed by Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan. He declared that Pakistan is resolved to safeguard her freedom "at all costs."

Guilty Plea To Be Made By H. Gold

Philadelphia, June 1.—(AP)—A federal judge will appoint counsel, perhaps today, for Harry Gold, who said yesterday he will plead guilty to being a courier in Russia's atom spy network.

But the small, chubby research chemist, 39 years old, asked the judge to find a lawyer who would back him in denying that he is guilty of intending to harm the United States. Gold said he wants a lawyer who will let him co-operate with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Looking worried and with his head held low, Gold was brought yesterday under heavy guard to the chambers of U.S. district judge James E. McGranery. It was McGranery who placed Gold under $100,000 bond on May 23, when F.B.I. agents arrested him as the link between the convicted British atomic spy, Klaus Fuchs, and Russian operatives.

The German-born Fuchs is serving a 14-year term in Britain after confessing that he passed on surplus of the 1949 catch of salted codfish.

Resource Minister Winters said houses owned by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation in the flooded areas of Winnipeg will be brought into good condition just as soon as possible.

During debate on amendments to the Canada grain act, which governs the handling of grains, H. O. White (P.C.—Middlesex East), asked Trade Minister Howe if soybean producers of southwestern Ontario could be brought under its protection. The producers feared that an over-production of soybeans in the United States might lead to dumping on the Canadian market.

Mr. Howe said he had put the question before the board of grain commissioners, which administers the act, and had just received a reply from them. However, the soybean problem could not be dealt with in the current amendments.

On the veterans bill, Veterans Minister Gregg said his department intends to set up permanent district authorities across the country with power to hear the appeals of veterans who feel they had not been dealt with fairly.

Col. A. J. Brooks (P.C.—Royal) said he did not favor such a plan. He had always obtained satisfaction from the board in Ottawa. Experience had shown that when such boards were put on a provincial basis they were inclined to look on allowances and the like as political patronage.

Mr. Gregg said the Ottawa board would keep in close touch with the activities of district boards. If a

Announcement Of Appointment Made Today At Annual Convocation At University.

John Bassett, president and publisher of The Montreal Gazette, and of the Sherbrooke Daily Record, has been appointed Chancellor of Bishop's University, George H. Montgomery, K.C., M.A., D.C.L., LL.D., retiring Chancellor, announced today at the annual convocation.

Mr. Bassett, who will be the 11th Chancellor of the 107-year-old Eastern Townships institution, will assume office on Monday, July 3.

He was offered the appointment by Mr. Montgomery, by the president and vice-president of the Corporation, by the Principal and by the chairman of the Executive Committee and last Monday, at the regular business meeting of convocation. Mr. Bassett's appointment to the highest post of the University was confirmed by that body, which includes all graduates holding Masters' and Doctors' degrees and all full professors.

Although he will assume office on July 3, the official installation of the new Chancellor will not be held until the autumn, when a special Convocation will be called for that purpose.

Mr. Montgomery, a noted Montreal lawyer, has been Chancellor since 1942, when he succeeded the late Chief Justice R. A. E. Green-shield.

Announcement of Mr. Bassett's appointment as Chancellor came at convocation exercises at which five honorary degrees were conferred. These were to Sir Basil Brooke, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, Hon. Angus L. Macdonald, Premier of Nova Scotia, George A. Walker, K.C., chairman of the Board of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Dr. R. S. K. Seely, provost and vice-chancellor of Trinity College, University of Toronto, and Dr. W. O. Raymond, professor of English at Bishop's since 1928.

Mr. Bassett's interest in the affairs of Bishop's University is one of long standing. He has been a member of the Corporation for many years and, in 1939, he was awarded the degree of Doctor of Civil Law, honoris causa, in recognition of his services to the University in particular and the community in general. He also holds an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from the University of New Brunswick.

Together with John Molson, M.B.E., D.C.L., the president of the Corporation, he was co-chairman of the 1948 financial campaign which was successful. The objective of $2,245,000 was raised and a large part of the money is being used for the construction of new buildings and the renovation of old ones. Today's convocation is being held in the new gymnasium, the first unit completed in the building program.

An active newspaperman since he first joined The Gazette in 1910, Mr. Bassett is a director of The Gazette Press.

For 15 years he served as The Gazette's parliamentary correspondent in Ottawa and in 1925-26 he was president of the Parliamentary Press Gallery. In 1913 he was appointed a director of The Gazette Printing Company, and seven years later, he was named a vice-president. In 1937, after the death of Senator Smeaton White, he became president and managing director of The Gazette. During his final year as parliamentary correspondent he acted as a Canadian delegate to the Third Imperial Press Conference, held in Australia.

A native of Omagh, County Tyrone, Northern Ireland, Mr. Bassett has been in Canada since 1909. During the First World War he served as staff officer with the rank of Major to Lt.-Gen. Hon. Sir Sam Hughes, K.C.B., Minister of Defence in Canada, England and France. In 1918, the Belgian government awarded him the Ordre de Reconnaissance.

He is a past president of the Canadian Forestry Association, a member of the Board of Governors of Welfare Federation and was chairman of the 1938 campaign. He belongs to the Mount Royal Club, the St. James' Club, the Rideau Club, Ottawa; St. George's Club, Sherbrooke; the Seigneurie Club, Montebello and the Forest and Stream Club at Dorval.

He is married to the former Marion Wright Avery of Ottawa and he has two children, a daughter, Mrs. Baldwin Smith of Buffalo, and a son John, Jr., director of advertising and a director of The Toronto Telegram, and vice-president of The Sherbrooke Daily Record. The latter is a graduate of Bishop's College School and of Bishop's University.

In a statement to the Record, Mr. Bassett said that he was "both proud and humble" that the administrators of the University have thought him worthy to occupy the Chancellorship.

Pakistan's Aim Is Peace Says Premier

Ottawa, June 1.—(AP)—Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan said today that his country is determined to throw all its weight into the struggle to maintain peace in the Asiatic continent.

Speaking before a Canadian Club audience, the Prime Minister reiterated a previous declaration that Pakistan, once at odds with its neighbor India, "has no aggressive designs and certainly no territorial ambitions."

"We do not aim to be among the athletes of the world," he said in a speech prepared for delivery. "We only wish to keep healthy and fit."

Pakistan was gradually developing its industries, Mr. Liaquat Ali said. It now produced 75 per cent of the world's raw jute, though it had no jute mills. It also was producing quantities of cotton, hides and skins, wool, sugar-cane and tobacco.

"Cheap electrical power is the basic need of our country and the work in progress in this field is aimed at giving us by 1957 sufficient energy for our industrial requirements, for modernizing our agriculture and for setting up a country-wide network of cottage and small-scale industries."

Although principally an agricultural country, Pakistan had "low productivity," the Prime Minister added. But it was going ahead with irrigation projects to bring more land under the plow and was purchasing tractors and modern implements as part of its development projects.

In a pledge of friendship to Canada, Mr. Liaquat Ali told the Canadian Club:

"We know that the people of Canada have faith in our democratic ideals. We bless your efforts as I hope you will bless ours."

Last night at a reception in his honor at the home of Pakistan's high commissioner to Canada, the Prime Minister donated $1,000 of his own funds to help the victims of flood and fire in Winnipeg and in the Quebec communities of Rimouski and Cabano.

Since they arrived in Ottawa Tuesday, the Prime Minister and the Begum have been guests of the Governor-General and Viscountess Alexander at Government House. Today they move to the residence of Mohammed Ali, Pakistan high commissioner in Canada, and Mrs. Ali, for the remainder of their stay in the capital.

Transport Report Being Prepared

Ottawa, June 1.—(AP)—After travelling 10,000 miles and listening to some 7,000,000 words of testimony, the Royal Commission on Transportation today settled down to frame a report expected to be one of the most momentous in Canadian transport history.

Aim of the commission is the solution of Canada's knotty transportation problem—of which the running freight-rate battle of the last three years is one phase.

Appointed to investigate and recommend on all angles of national transportation, the commission brought its inquiry to a close yesterday after 137 days of public hearings in every province. It was just a year less one day from the opening of sittings.

During the long investigation, it had looked into many aspects of transportation, though the inquiry

General Strike In Japan Is Called By Communists

By RUSSELL BRINES
Tokyo, June 1.—(AP)—Openly defiant Japan's communist party today ordered a general strike Saturday in reprisal for the occupation's rush trial of eight Japanese accused of kicking and stoning United States soldiers.

The strike call promised to bring to a head growing tension between Gen. MacArthur's occupation forces and the belligerent communists.

This tension, fueled by recent international communist charges that the Japanese Reds were too docile, erupted Tuesday—U.S. Memorial Day—in the first physical violence of the occupation against U.S. troops.

A captain and four soldiers, observers at a communist anti-American rally in downtown Imperial Plaza, were kicked, beaten and stoned. Only a few hours earlier, authorities had expelled the communists from the Plaza to permit Americans to hold Memorial Day services for their war dead.

MacArthur, in a May 2 speech, suggested the possibility of outlawing Japan's communist party. The communist party timed the reprisal strike to coincide with general strikes scheduled Saturday in the automobile, metal trades and heavy industry. The party's purpose in the latter is to influence the elections Sunday for the Upper House of Parliament.

There was no way of telling how effective the communists could make their general strike. Occupation estimates estimate the Reds control 60 per cent of Japan's 62,500,000 armed workers.

Leftist Japanese college student leaders also called a country-wide strike for Saturday. About 20,000 students from 50 universities are expected to join the protest.

Police all over Japan have been placed on the alert for new outbreaks of Red violence.

"Thank You, Britain"

In a letter to Prime Minister Attlee, Winnipeg's Mayor Grant Coulter says "thank you" for the load of relief supplies brought to Winnipeg May 27 by a British Strato-cruiser. The Bundles from Britain, destined for the relief of those made destitute by the flooding Red River, were the first of $310,000 worth of aid donated by British residents to Manitoba.

Palestine And China Are Troublesome U.N. Issues

By A. I. GOLDBERG
Lake Success, N.Y., June 1.—(AP)—The United Nations trusteeship council begins its regular session today, with the question of international control over Jerusalem high on its program and a new Russian walkout on the Chinese question looming.

Soviet delegate A. A. Soldatov was expected to show up for Russia when the council meets this morning. The Russians boycotted the Geneva winter meeting of the council.

This time they indicated they want to demand again the ouster of the Chinese nationalists and the seating of the Chinese communists. The council is expected to reject the demand on the grounds that the U.N. General Assembly has to decide on who sits in the trusteeship council.

Coupled with the Russian action, which has led them and their satellites to walk out of or boycott 28 U.N. organs since Jan. 10th, is a new demand by the Chinese communist government at Peking that its representatives be seated in the U.N.

T. F. Tsiang, Chinese nationalist chief delegate, said last night that his group "fight to the bitter end" to remain in the U.N., including the use of the big-power veto it claims it can employ to foil seating the communists.

Tsiang said Lie's "save-the-U.N." mission which took him recently to Moscow and western capitals "may hold the United Nations together as a piece of gigantic bureaucratic machinery for the time being but, I am sure, will not serve the cause of peace."

The newest flare-up of the Chinese dispute has little effect on the big work of the trusteeship council. It has to decide on a report to the U.N. Assembly in September what should be done about international control of Jerusalem.

The 1949 Assembly, presided by a Soviet-Latin American-Arab country bloc, ordered the trusteeship council to draft a statute based on 1947 decisions calling for international administration of the whole Holy City.

Israel and Hashemite Jordan, military victors each controlling a section of Jerusalem, said it wouldn't work. Britain and the United States led an unsuccessful fight against it.

Early this week Israel acknowledged that the U.N. should have the authority to supervise all the holy shrines of the Christian, Moslem and Jewish religions around Jerusalem, and guarantee the rights of pilgrims to get to them.

Triple Death Near Niagara Falls

Crowland, Ont., June 1.—(AP)—Three persons were found dead early today in their home here and police said it was a case of murder and suicide.

All former displaced persons, the dead were Joseph Skrynnyk, his wife Annie, and Leon Rozkowski. All were about 40 years of age.

Both the Skrynnyks had been beaten about the head with an ax and both died of skull fractures. The body of Rozkowski was found with the throat cut, and four razors lying nearby.

The Skrynnyks and Rozkowski lived in a two-family dwelling on Sauer Avenue on the outskirts of this town, 10 miles from Niagara Falls. The Skrynnyks had two children, and Rozkowski had his wife and one child. All three children were sleeping in the house when the slayings occurred.

The bodies were discovered by Mrs. Rozkowski. The Skrynnyks lived at the rear of the dwelling, and the Rozkowski's at the front. Police were called shortly after

Aviation Building Is Opened

By JAMES J. STREIBIG
Montreal, June 1.—(AP)—Representatives of 40 nations turned from routine work today for the formal opening of the International Aviation Building—Canada's $4,000,000 fulfillment of a promise made at Chicago six years ago.

The ten-storey building provides a home for the International Civil Aviation Organization (I.C.A.O.), representing 58 governments and the International Air Transport Association (I.A.T.A.), with a membership of 66 international airlines.

Bidding for location of I.C.A.O. in Montreal when the world group was conceived in 1944, Canada promised to provide suitable quarters. The promise was repeated before the present organization came into existence in April, 1947.

The opening was timed to coincide with the fourth annual assembly of I.C.A.O.

In addition to the two world organizations of commercial flying, the new building houses the headquarters of Trans-Canada Air Lines and offices of several other airlines.

The building rises beside the Canadian National Railway terminal and is linked with it at the lobby level. Canada proposes to develop its 25 acres of air rights over the terminal with a 27-storey home for the railroad's headquarters and a 700-room hotel.

(A C.N.R. official explained that "air rights," in this case, mean the right to build commercial and other establishments over railroad yards which now are open but which could be roofed over. He added that the railroad headquarters and the hotel are now in the planning stage but no construction will be started for some time. The spokesman explained that the 25 acres referred to involved extensive railway yards in the heart of Montreal's business and shopping district.)

Mexico gave strong support yesterday to a French plan on Tuesday for a multi-lateral or many-nation agreement to exchange commercial flying rights.

The U.S. and Great Britain favor a world-wide treaty on air rights but agree that there is no prospect of success. They suggested that the assembly table the issue in favor of more immediate problems.

British delegation chief Sir George Cribbitt made the first move yesterday toward revising the working plan of I.C.A.O. under which the council, with a membership of 21 nations, sits permanently in Montreal. Cribbitt said the time is approaching when a "part time" council, meeting for short periods, should be considered.

The proposal is unlikely to be happily received by Canada, however. The council members and their staffs now occupy the entire ninth floor of the new building and most of the 10th floor is devoted to meeting rooms equipped for simultaneous translation, which greatly speeds up committee work done in three languages.

Communist Youths Call Off Strike And Start For Home

Luebeck, Germany, June 1.—(AP)—Ten thousand sleepy communist youths, marooned for two nights just inside the Soviet zone, started moving toward their West German homes today after calling off their sidown strike.

The blue-shirted boys and girls accepted West German police demands that they give their names or submit to medical examinations before crossing the border.

They had been camping in the chilly border "no man's land," refusing to heed the police orders, started moving toward their West German homes today after calling off their sidown strike.

Hollywood—Exclusively Yours: Judy Garland's search for health has moved to San Francisco, where she's under the care of specialists. Judy's last session with the medics sent her into "Summer Stock" feeling — and looking—like a new gal. Three M-G-M musicals, including "Show Boat," now await the green light from her doctors.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Get Your Wild Cards On Base

"I was criticized the other night," laments a New Orleans reader, "for failing to make a base. I didn't talk back because I wouldn't have known a base if I fell over one. What was it, really, that I failed to make? Also, was this clever of me or was it a prize boner?"

A base is four or more natural cards in a single meld. You must have a base to make a canasta, because there must be at least four natural cards in any canasta.

Sometimes you have a wild card or two lying around loose in your hand, and your partner may also have an odd wild card that he doesn't need very much. If those wild cards are added to a base, a canasta can be made fairly quickly. If there is no base on the table, however, neither you nor your partner can be sure where to put the wild cards. You might, after all, make the mistake of putting the wild cards on a meld which could never become a canasta for lack of four natural cards.

It is usually a good idea to make one base at a fairly early stage of the play. It is sometimes good policy to make two different bases. However, it is not wise to try for several bases unless you have picked up a large discard pile.

The reasoning is very simple and direct. At the beginning of a hand you usually can't tell which side is going to win control of the discard pile. If the opponents do so, your side should make a canasta and meld out in a hurry. It is easier to do that if you have a base. Hence you try to get a base fairly early as a sort of insurance the claim that "Movies Are Better Than Ever." This is the best. President Truman has ordered the closing of Birmingham Hospital. "The Men" may change his mind.

Glenn Langan's wife has moved out of their home and the separation is official. She's now teaching in a children's school. Ida Lupino and Howard Duff have been pulling the wool over Hollywood's eyes by dating away from the guildier places. They were in a dark booth at the Villa Nova—their third date in one week. June Haver's grandmother is seriously ill in Las Vegas. Ed Gardner's pals say he's serious about that movie he'll produce in Puerto Rico. The picture is a murder mystery, "The Man With My Face," and will have a $300,000 budget.

Modesty
Red Skelton plays himself, his father and his grandfather in "Watch the Birdie" and explains: "When I'm in a three-way shot, I upstage papa and underplay grandpa so the bum in the middle can't steal the scene."

Jack Oakie and Victoria Horne, who have had Hollywood playing a guessing game about their long romance, will be married this year. Victoria denied the rumors that they were secretly hitched and told me:

"I can tell you that we'll be Mr. and Mrs. before the year is over. We had planned to marry this coming July 4 but decided to make it a little later."

Blonde Victoria plays a man-chaser in "Harvey." When she started her scenes, there was a little Jane Russell trouble. "Henry Koster, the director made me assume a different posture so that my — er — talent wouldn't be so prominent," Victoria said.

Jack Paar, who just landed a big airshow after three years on the shelf, quips: "I just turned 30. This is the year of comebacks—Gloria Swanson, Mae Murray and now me."

Well-Received
Wire to director Irving Rapper from Gertrude Lawrence following the preview of "The Glass Menagerie": "I'm still dazed by the reception of my performance." . . . John Carroll got a pained look in his face when I asked him about a possible reconciliation with his ex-wife Lucille Ryman. "If somebody can talk her into it, I'll re-marry her," he said. "Right now she won't have me." John is cutting his operatic baritone down to a crooner's whisper in "Hit Parade of 1951."

Producer Jack Cummings' crack after seeing rushes of Jane Powell's corset dance in "The Tender Hours": "No matter how you slice it, it's still Salome."

Leif Erikson jumped from "Stella" at Fox to "Dallies" at Warners. "Stella Dallas"? . . . Dorothy Dandridge says it this way at Larry Potter's: "Diamonds are a girl's best friend—but a mink coat is thicker than water." . . . Gale Storm, getting ready for a Broadway invasion, will take a play, "People Are Crazy," on the road for a series of one nighters. . . . Ann Dvorak and husband Igor Dega are denying divorce rumors.

Maureen O'Hara was ousting with wifely pride over the direction she took from hubby Will Price in "Tropoli."

"I didn't know whether I was going to get embarrassed, mad or just fearful when I started the picture," she said. "But I forgot that Will was my husband when we got going. I just had the feeling that I was working with a great talent and I sat there with my mouth open."

Even John Ford, Maureen's husband, has marked her husband down as Hollywood's coming director.

policy against a bad beating.

Two bases are quite enough for this purpose. If you try to make too many bases, you won't have enough cards left in your hand to put up a good fight. It's like spending your entire income on insurance—too much of a good thing.

It is sometimes a good idea to postpone making your base for a play or two. For example, suppose your partner makes the initial meld. You can add a card or two to one of his melds. Once in a while you should deliberately not add those cards.

This keeps the opponents guessing. They never know when you have cards that match your partner's melds. This uncertainty may make it very dangerous for them to freeze the pack.

Picking the right time to hold such cards in your hand instead of melding them is a matter of both good play and good psychology.

Q—When you pick up the discard pile to make a meld, must you make your discard from the cards that you held before you got the pile, or are you allowed to put the pile in your hand and then choose your discard as you like?

A—You may put the pile in your hand and make any discard at all. In other words, your discard may come from the pile or from the cards you had before you got the pile.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

ly greeting, a spray of flowers from God's beautiful earth, a motor ride that gives a view of lovely June in her floral robes, and the privilege when possible of attendance at divine service in God's temple of Love? And in the friendly endeavours during the year we might recall the lines taken from "A Prayer For The Aged":

Give them some task that only they can do,
The strength of mind to trade old things for new
And more important, Lord, than all of these Somebody who will love them dearly, please.

EASTMAN

A shadow of gloom was cast over this village when friends learned with profound regret of the tragic death of Master Howard Station. He was accidentally drowned here Saturday morning, in the Silver Lake. Only a lad of thirteen his sister had been drowned in the same lake hardly a year ago. Sincere sympathy is extended to the sorrowing parents and other relatives.

A reception was held for Mr. Marcel Dore, and Mrs. J. Doyon, Eastman, May 12. A party was held in the Silver Lake hotel, in honor of Mr. Doie, and Mrs. Doyon prior to their marriage. There was a very large attendance. The evening was spent in dancing. Music was provided by local musicians. Mr. Felix Lefebvre presented the guests of honor with a bedroom chair from their friends. Each one expressed their appreciation for the gift and the good time. The best wishes of the community go with these people.

June, the month of brides—and roses! I'm not going to concern myself with brides, but am greatly interested in discussing roses. This universally popular flower should be in every garden in at least one of its varied forms. It is wise to grow hybrid teas and hybrid perpetuals massed together in solid beds. Ramblers, pillar roses and climbers can be used to advantage on trellises or pergolas.

Plans for different types of supports abound. Two trellises and two arbours are shown. If you are not anxious to tackle the curved archway, then stick to a design which has straight lines.

For Outdoor Living

Nothing tastes so good as food cooked in the open over an outdoor fireplace. My teen-age daughter kept at me until I finally broke down and built a barbecue in a secluded corner of the garden. Ever since it was finished there has been a continual round of weiner roasts, picnics and impromptu gatherings in our back yard. I must admit its use has not been restricted to teenagers!

Refuse Burner

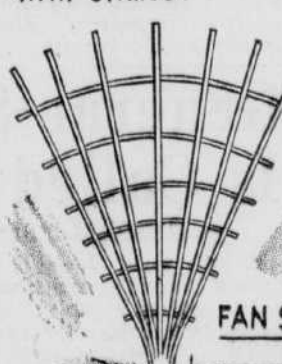

It was a toss-up whether I would include an incinerator with the brick barbecue or not. Over a year ago I saw a combination arrangement—barbecue on one side, incinerator at the other—which was very effective. Because of the layout of my garden I decided on two separate units and intend to follow the incinerator design shown. It should help keep debris about the place to a minimum.

This marks the halfway point of this present series. I'd be delighted to hear from you if you have any comments to make on any of the suggestions already presented here or in the booklet "Around the Home".

Importance Of Tourist Industry To Canada Stressed In Kiwanis Address

"The tourist industry—big business and everybody's business" was the subject of the talk given to members of the Kiwanis Club last evening by Alphonse Saumier, head of the local tourist bureau.

Pointing out the importance of American dollars to the Canadian economy, Mr. Saumier said that the tourist industry is in the million dollar class, second only to the pulp and paper business in bringing American dollars to the Federal treasury.

Sherbrooke and the Eastern Townships are ideally situated along the border of the New England States, he said, and last year close to half a million Americans passed through Sherbrooke en route to other points in the province.

It was estimated that the sum of $125,000,000 was spent in Quebec last year by tourists and in the breakdown of this amount, it is found that everyone benefits, whether directly or indirectly, from the tourist dollars.

By means of a chart, Mr. Saumier showed what the breakdown is and just why the tourist industry is so important to this province.

In conclusion he urges the citizens of Sherbrooke to do their share in attracting the American visitors, by showing them the utmost courtesy and politeness so that not only will they return to this province and specifically this city, but they will spread valuable propaganda about the district.

Mr. Saumier was introduced by Guy Blanchette and thanked by Joseph Faucher.

President Len Keeler, in the chair for the meeting, welcomed one guest, Max LeGuerrier, of Montreal.

The president announced that there would be an anniversary meeting of the North Troy Club on June 7 and urged the members to attend in as large a number as possible. He also read a letter from the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce, inviting the members of the Kiwanis Club to attend their meeting this evening, at which time a film on salesmanship will be shown.

Speaking on behalf of the Community Concert Association, Miss Margaret Doherty, joint publicity chairman for the campaign taking place this week, explained the manner in which the Association renders a community service through its slogan "A Carnegie Hall in every town" and urged the members, both as individuals and as a club, to support the campaign, and thus encourage the love of good music in Sherbrooke.

It was decided that, starting the middle of June, noon meetings would be held during the summer months.

Rev. John Comfort stated the June 4 is Shut-In Day and asked everyone to make a particular effort to bring cheer to some shut-ins on that day, by visits to hospitals, or by appropriate gifts.

Seated at the head table with president Keeler and the speaker were Clayton Conley, Mr. Comfort, Harry Blain, Guy Blanchette, Les Memory, D. Drummond, Jack Dunfield, Joseph Faucher, and Len Adam.

Final Tribute Is Paid To James Burnett

Final tribute was paid May 23 to James Chauncey Burnett, 72, former owner of Burnett Limited, cleaners and dyers, of Montreal who died May 21 at his home in the metropolis.

Mr. Burnett, born at Farnham Centre, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Burnett, moved to Montreal while a young man and in 1899 established the firm which became Burnett Limited in 1914.

Retired since 1947, Mr. Burnett, in his later years as a member of the Lions Club of Montreal, devoted his time to helping underprivileged boys.

His wife predeceased him. He is survived by a step-son, G. Cameron Guile of Montreal, and a brother, Arthur Burnett of Maple Creek, Sask.

Four young men who were graduated in dentistry from McGill University Monday set out Tuesday for the Eastern Townships on their first jobs after graduation. They have been employed by the Junior Red Cross to staff three dental clinics for the children of Bury, Cookshire and Sawyerville.

In Bury, Dr. R. McAllister will set up a clinic in the armory and treat children attending Bury High School.

Two Brothers Arrested For Lumber Theft

Two brothers admitted to Provincial Police that they had stolen two truck loads of lumber recently and they will appear in Magistrate's Court today.

The Champigny brothers, Marcel, 23, and Leo, 24, were arrested by Sgt. Detective Steno Brasseur and Traffic Officer Leon Gregoire early this morning at Orford Lake.

On the night of May 24-25 some 3,000 feet of lumber was stolen from C. M. MacRae's land in Cookshire and a few days ago another pile of lumber was removed from land at La Patrie.

Traffic Officer Leon Gregoire, en route to Montreal, noticed two youths riding in a truck carrying a load of lumber and was suspicious. He questioned the occupants of the truck and called Sgt. Det. Brasseur for further instructions. After a few minutes of questioning the boys finally broke down and admitted having stolen the lumber.

Golden Jubilee Convention Of I.O.D.E. Ends With Election Of Officers

Montreal, June 1. — The Golden Jubilee convention of the national chapter of Canada of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire concluded last night with election of officers and a declaration of the order's ideals and principles.

Some 1,000 members from across Canada attended the week-long sessions.

In the declaration, the Order reviewed its progress during the last 50 years and reiterated its purpose and policies.

Its purpose is to promote unity between the British Empire and its colonies, loyalty to the King and Queen, care for the widows, orphans and dependents of British soldiers and sailors who died at war or are incapable of caring for their kin, and to promote study of the Empire's history.

The order has a $601,000 fund for the caring of veterans' children of which $300,000 already has been distributed in bursaries and the remainder is to be awarded next September.

Until the federal government decrees otherwise, the Order said it will recognize the Union Jack as the official Canadian flag and the Standard to the Order.

The declaration said the order, a non-political organization, believed in democracy, condemned communism and other forms of dictatorship which destroy freedom by regimentation, and believed in the British Empire and Canada's full and loyal participation as a nation of the Commonwealth.

A recruiting drive — especially in Canada's newest province, Newfoundland — was planned for the current year.

Various reports were heard during the final day and officers were elected and installed late at night.

Mrs. John H. Chipman, M.B.E., of Toronto, was chosen president. Vice-president are Mrs. K. I. G. Drope, Mrs. L. B. Smart, Mrs. S. E. Wedd, Mrs. A. K. Richardson, Mrs. Fred W. Bates and Mrs. B. B. JOHN BASSETT NEW CHANCELLOR OF BISHOP'S

John Bassett, publisher of The Montreal Gazette and Sherbrooke Record, has been elected Chancellor of the University of Bishop's College. In electing Mr. Bassett the Corporation of the University has named a man whose roots are deeper in the Eastern Townships than any of his recent predecessors.

The new Chancellor's career in Canada is a saga of the country itself. Like so many others, he came as an eager immigrant youth, determined to make his mark in the land of his adoption. This he has done.

It was forty-one years ago this month that John Bassett, then in his early twenties, landed in Canada from his native County Tyrone, Ulster. Armed with a sound family background, a beautiful speaking voice trained by years of reading the London Times each evening to his scholarly father, and a keen mind developed by the classical old country education, he assaulted the bastion of Canadian journalism, and made it his own.

His career first as reporter, then for a year teacher in a French-language school to learn Canada's other tongue, as Parliamentary press correspondent, officer in the first World War, until in 1937 he became President and Managing Director of the Gazette, is well known. It is his deep and abiding love of the Eastern Townships and Bishop's University that is of particular interest.

His first glimpse of the Townships was in September, 1929, when he escorted an unwilling son to Bishop's College School. John Bassett fell in love with the rolling hills, wooded farms and sparkling lakes that reminded him so much of his boyhood home.

In 1937 he first started raising money for Bishop's and a year later obtained a grant of $350,000 for the University. A year before he had become publisher of the Sherbrooke Record, and acquired what is now his permanent home, Tyrone, on the shores of Brome Lake. In 1948 he was Co-Chairman with John Molson of the University Building Campaign which raised $2,250,000.

An honorary D.C.L. of Bishop's in 1939, he received an honorary LL.D. from the University of New Brunswick in 1948.

John Bassett will serve Bishop's as Chancellor with grace and distinction. His election is a particular matter of pride to the profession of journalism, for he is today still essentially a working newspaperman, the dean of his profession. He will bring to the office an alert brain, an understanding mind, and a spirit and heart as young and fresh as it was forty-one years ago when first he sighted Canada, the land of promise, and for him, the country of fulfillment.

RENDERED BISHOP'S A NOBLE SERVICE

To George H. Montgomery, K.C., M.A., D.C.L., LL.D., whose retirement as Chancellor of the University after eight years of service was announced today, Bishop's University owes a deep debt of gratitude.

One of the leading lawyers of the City of Montreal, the retiring Chancellor devoted to the service of Bishop's University that care and ability which has distinguished him in the legal field. It was not long before the energy he displayed had obvious effects on the progress of the University, which soon began a forward growth unprecedented in its history. The crowning event in the career of Mr. Montgomery as Chancellor of Bishop's was the great financial drive which assured the continued existence and expansion of the University for many years to come.

Coupled with this financial drive was the extensive building program which permits the University not only to expand its student body but to broaden its courses of study so that it can render even greater service to that district of the Province of Quebec which it is privileged to serve.

The appreciation of the services of Mr.

Montgomery is not confined to University circles alone but is generally endorsed by the people of the Eastern Townships who regard Bishop's University as their own institution.

THE BERLIN EPISODE

The long-talked-of and much-feared Communist demonstration in the Soviet zone of Berlin fizzled out like a wet fire-cracker in the rain over the week-end. The Red-inspired youth made a lot of noise but, apparently warned by the Soviet brain trust, created no incidents of importance and kept their noses out of the British, United States and French zones of the city.

This outcome supports the predictions of those who understand Communist psychology and strategy. When they do a lot of shouting about something in advance, usually little happens. When they are out to make major trouble, they work in silence and in secrecy, striking fast and unexpectedly. Their major coups have all been in this manner, not as a result of a surplus of loud talk, such as that which preceded the Berlin demonstrations.

It may also indicate that Russia does not wish to risk at this time going over the line between a cold war and a hot one. The Communists knew the United States, British and French troops in the Western zones were ready for trouble. They refrained from causing it.

The demonstration, however, affords another insight into German character. Give young Germans some uniforms, a parade and a slogan to shout, and there will always be enough of them to be found to "follow the leader," regardless of who the leader may be or what it is all about.

Press Comment

THE WEATHER

Lethbridge Herald

The backward spring remains a subject of conversation, and comparisons with other years and other places are offered. What is happening to the West is similar to what is taking place in the East. Spring is far behind down there. If there is one part of Ontario that is usually advanced over others, it is the much vaunted Niagara Peninsula. It is from that area we had a letter this week and this is a paragraph out of it:

"We are certainly late this year. We have had a lot of garden damage from high winds and frost. Mr. —, a market gardener, has had to replant nearly all of his whole farm and told me the wind has cost him a loss of $4,000."

Out here in the West we have had our strong winds, our early frosts and unseasonable snowstorms, and when we get them we think we are worse off than other parts of the world. It is for that reason we are telling about Ontario's unusual spring and the damage the elements are doing in that supposedly balmy part of Ontario between Toronto and Niagara Falls.

PROVINCIAL AIR SERVICE

Sudbury Star

Like a child with a new toy, the Saskatchewan government is using the channels of publicity to let Canada and the world know of its provincial airways system, which was inaugurated in 1947.

People in Northern Ontario, while lauding the prairie province government for its progress in aerial transport, fail to get excited about Saskatchewan's publicity releases on forest patrol work, prospecting flights, carrying of supplies and mercy flights.

This is old stuff in Northern Ontario, where Ontario government forestry aircraft have been in operation for some 30 years.

In the early days of the service there was much ado about flying the seriously ill or critically injured to the nearest hospital; ripples of excitement when prospectors "took to the air"; amazement at the vast quantities of supplies carried by this new "work horse" of the bush.

This type of aerial service is now accepted as "routine" as the forestry planes wing their way over vast areas of bushland on mercy flights, forest fire patrol and carrying supplies.

In view of the success which has marked the Ontario air service, it is surprising that some of the other provinces in the Dominion have no paid more attention to this type of public service.

SENATE DEFENDED

Kingston Whig-Standard

It cannot be too strongly emphasized that the Senate is as much a part of the Canadian Parliament as the House of Commons.

Indeed as Senator Ross pointed out, it is a much more carefully constituted Chamber than the House, for the Fathers of Confederation were most painstaking in setting up the Senate, but took little time over the Commons. Because of their care, the Senate has made, and is making, an invaluable contribution to government in Canada, as a guardian of the rights of provinces and minorities and to quote Senator Ross again—a body "less dependent on the fancies of the electorate", consequently with greater independence of action in dealing with legislation.

CARRIER BOY HERO

Winnipeg Tribune

The story of how a quick-thinking and plucky Tribune carrier boy saved the life of an eight-year-old West Kildonan girl cannot fail to thrill all who read it.

When the child's dress became ignited from a bonfire started in celebration of Victoria Day she became panicky, screamed and started to run away. The boy, Eugene Baron, 11, grabbed the child and with his bare hands ripped off her flaming clothing and rolled her in the mud. The prompt action not only saved her life but prevented bad disfigurement.

Value of Boy Scout training is emphasized by the incident. Young Baron says that he put his life-saving training into practice to rescue the girl. But apart from this the carrier boy evidently has all the qualifications for the making of a hero.

APPLE SALESMAN

Baltimore Sun

Joseph Sicker, a New York commission merchant whose stock in trade was fruits and vegetables found his great opportunity in 1930, when employment was in full swing and things had begun to get tough. He was named chairman of the unemployment committee of the International Apple Shippers Association.

Following Sicker's suggestion, the association raised a fund with which it bought apples and sold them below cost to unemployed persons at $2 a hundred. The unemployed dealers then offered the apples to the public at a nickel apiece. Soon 6,000 were selling in New York alone and some of them were netting $6 for an eight-hour day.

From New York the idea spread to other parts of the country. Baltimore was not excepted from the craze. It was estimated that in New York no less than 20,000,000 apples were sold in one six-week period. The unemployed apple dealers became so prosperous that they hired taxis to take them to work.

STEP RIGHT IN, SIR!

Shut-In's Day Association Will Observe 10th Anniversary Sunday

Written for the Sherbrooke Daily Record By BERTHA WESTON PRICE

Last year at this time citizens of Quebec Province were awakened to the fact that they had been a little lax in their efforts to stimulate activities in the young but fast growing Shut-In's Day Association of Canada—and now International. This organization has, in its own way, followed the steps of the American Society which is now 72 years old, and acting with the other international societies.

Today this association of good will to others stands out in its noble efforts in the United States, in Canada, England, Scotland, France, as something that rests upon the peoples of these countries, not entirely a duty, but a friendly gesture towards their fellowmen. The quick expansion of the Association with the decision to become international speaks for itself, and the Day—the first Sunday in June—is observed by all, a bond that encircles the globe.

The official organ of the American Society is "The Open Window," and in Scotland it is "The Heather Gate." Canada will soon grow up to hers, and will embody the same ideals and aims of the earlier organizations, but to do so must have the backing of the thinking people of the Dominion.

There is no charitable side to these bodies, else it is the time-honoured command to "Love Thy Neighbour." The chief object is to help the helpless and provide a link between the disabled shut-in and the outside world from which they have been set aside. It takes money to carry on such work, but there is no begging except for fair play in granting the disabled and crippled citizens who have certain rights. It must be that these societies put their trust in the Lord, for the work goes on and on.

Many people are not aware that no provision is made for incurables, as there are for old age, children's allowance, etc. Many incurables are young and middle aged and though many are able to do partial work, as war veterans do, more are not, so it results that they sit in their ivory towers with folded hands, shut in from the beautiful, friendly world, while awaiting the end.

There must come a change. This month a delegation from the incurables and kindred bodies, headed by Miss Eva Warden, President of the Crippled Civilians Society of Calgary, herself disabled, will go to Ottawa to present a petition signed by 20,000 Canadians, among them the writer of this article, to our Prime Minister and his ministers. When that delegation of wheel-chair citizens of Canada visits upon Prime Minister St. Laurent, and his guardians of Canada's helpless citizens, let us pray that God in His infinite wisdom and mercy may put it into their hearts to meet them on common ground and give them assurance of better times.

A sad occurrence in connection with the work to be done for success of the international Day, was the word received of the accident in which Ernest Barker, the founder of the Crippled Civilians Society, was badly injured. He is on a hospital bed in Goderich, with both legs broken and suffering from bruises and shock. His staff was disorganized, but shortly they were again at work, and are carrying on, Mr. Barker, once a member of the Canadian Cheerio Club, then later the founder of the S.I.D.A. to which he has devoted himself for ten years, has been hoping in his work and it is to be hoped that every one will rally around him to make this June 4th a memorable day. A friendly wish to him while he is directing his staff from his hospital bed would be in keeping with the work in hand.

May I appeal to our clergy to announce the Shut-In's Day; to the service Clubs; the florists, and all those interested, to remember there is nothing that can equal the friendly clasp of a hand, a friend.

PLAY PERCENTAGES WHEN MAKING LEAD

"Please tell us the percentage play in this hand," asked a Cincinnati reader. It has caused quite a stir in our bridge club.

"West opened the four of clubs, East played the jack, and South won with the king. South then finessed the queen of spades with the intention of finessing diamonds on the way back.

"This plan did not work. East took the king of spades and returned a club. The defenders therefore took three club tricks and their spade before South could get started towards his contract. Eventually West made his king of diamonds, which defeated the contract.

"North claimed that declarer should have made his contract. He said that South, after winning the first trick with the king of clubs, should lay down the ace of diamonds and continue with a low diamond. The opponents could take one diamond and three clubs, but South would easily win the rest.

"South said this analysis was fine if you could see the cards and could therefore tell that each opponent had only four clubs. He said that a 4-4 split in clubs was against the odds. Therefore his line of play was better.

"Who is right?" This is not the sort of question that should be answered on a "book" basis. The most important factor, which cannot be found in a mathematical text, is West's style as an opening leader. It seems clear that West has led from some clubs headed by the ace or by the ace-queen. Would West lead from a four-card suit of this type?

If South believes that the clubs are 4-4, he should go after the diamonds at once. If his belief is correct, he is sure to make the contract.

If South believes that West has more than four clubs, he must try to win nine tricks on the run. Risky though it may be, he must try to win finesses in spades and diamonds. If it turns out that the clubs actually are 4-4, South can afford to lose one of his two finesses.

We all know people who hate to lead from a four-card suit against a notrump contract. They're willing to lead from a really long suit. If they don't have a really long suit, they'll try a three-card suit, or even a doubleton.

We also all know people who always lead their longest suit. If it's only four cards long, that's too bad; but they lead it anyway.

The big question in such a hand is: What kind of leader is West? On a straight percentage basis, the two plays are almost equal. The odds are slightly in favor of going after the diamonds. But the situation is really a guess, and I wouldn't dream of criticizing a player who guessed wrong.

The Record Short Story

See How You Like It

By NORAH SMARIDGE

If she hadn't been feeling so frustrated—housekeeping, Fran had found after six months of marriage, wasn't half as simple as it seemed—she would only have laughed at Alan. But as it was, his yell scared her, and she rushed downstairs—to find him rubbing his posterior. "I sat down on your darling-needle," he said, aggrieved. "Honey, I wish you wouldn't use my chair as a garbage-pail. Last night it was an appallor."

"Your chair," Fran said. "Why should the only comfortable chair belong to you?"

"Because—well, you're one who calls it mine," Alan said patiently. He sighed. "When I roomed at Mrs. Thurber's, we never had any fuss about the living room chairs. We just naturally stuck to certain ones. A man gets attached to his own chair."

"You're not attached, you're obsessed," Fran said nastily. "It's positively neurotic the way you rave on about your old chair, and your old boarding-house, and your old landlady." She drew a sharp breath; she knew she was taunting Alan, but somehow she couldn't stop. "Sometimes I think you wish you were still living in a boarding-house."

She felt sorry, then; she loved Alan so, really. She would have flung her arms round his neck the next minute, if he hadn't said, calmly. "Sometimes I do. I was very comfortable and peaceful at Mrs. Thurber's."

"Oh," Fran said. Her red-head temper flared again. "Okay—if that's what you want, you can have it. I'll let the landlady and—I'll run our home like a boarding-house. And you can see how you like it!"

She stopped then—scared, a little shiver of apprehension running down her spine. But it was Alan who had the last word. "I'd like that—I'll look forward to it," he said. "And now, if you'll excuse me—"

"Where are you going?" "I'll grab a bite at the Tavern," Alan said. "And while I'm there, I'll play some sulkiness." He added, pointedly, "Mrs. Thurber never objected to staying home nights alone. She liked getting her feet up."

The house seemed very empty after he had gone. In the kitchen, Fran ate two sandwiches, and laid her plans. Alan had certainly called her bluff. She'd have to go through with it now. Frowning, she recalled memories of all the boarding-house she had ever heard of—and from then on the evening passed in a flash as she aired sheets, took blankets out of their wrappings, and chipped away at the dramp-stuck guest-room window.

When Alan returned, she met him at the head of the stairs. "Did you have a good time?" She smiled sweetly. "Your room's as nice as I guess you'll find it comfortable." Avoiding his eyes, she flung open the door of the guest-room. "Let me know if there's anything more you want."

She heard Alan draw in his breath, and almost laughed. But beyond giving her an enigmatic look, he said nothing, walking in to the guest-room, and shut the door. Her eyes sparkled. Fran returned to her dressing-table and began to set her hair.

Poor darling—he'd never stay there. Not when—well, he must have caught a glimpse of her blue nylon nightgown under the apricot robe. And caught a whiff of her perfume. He was probably prowling round the guest-room now, deciding to kiss and make up.

So she wasn't surprised when, five minutes later, he tapped at her door. "One moment!" She opened it to find him. "Oh—was there something?" Her heart beat fast; in another minute he'd take her in his arms, and they'd laugh together.

"An ashtray," Alan said. "And a bedlamp, if you don't mind. I'm very fond of reading in bed, and I haven't had much opportunity lately."

Fran woke early. She hadn't slept well; the bed had seemed unduly large and drafty, and she was certain she'd heard a mouse in the waste-basket. She'd tried not to think of Alan as she dressed—of how sweet he was, usually the first to get up and start the coffee. He was a long time in the bathroom, probably digesting the notice she'd pinned up. KEEP THIS BATHROOM TIDY. PLACE USED RAZOR BLADES IN RECEPTACLE PROVIDED. She had let him get away with murder in the bathroom. Tidying up after him, straightening towels, wiping steamed-up mirrors. No landlady would stand for that!

She'd think up some more notices during the day. Boarding-houses always had a lot, asking tenants to do this, do that, refrain from the other.

Alan was polite and pleasant at breakfast. He looked surprised at the oatmeal—but he ate it, and the prunes, too. Boarding houses, Fran reflected, must have ruined his palate.

"You might send my brown suit to the cleaner," he began—and stopped. Fran was shaking her head. "I'm a landlady now," she reminded him. "And I'm sure Mrs. Thurber never saw to your attire."

There was a dark silence after that—and he didn't kiss her goodbye. Instead he gave a curt nod and said, "I won't be home to dinner." Just like that—with no explanation.

When he had left, Fran went over to Gina Harris, next door, and told her all about it. But Gina, although she approved in principle, wasn't encouraging. "It's a good idea to put him in his place," she said, "but I wouldn't keep up this boarding-house stuff too long. I mean—well he might turn to another woman, or something."

On Gina's advice, Fran went out for the evening herself, and came home very late. To find Alan shut in his guest room, apparently quite content with his reading.

The situation deteriorated rapidly after that. Mostly there was strained politeness on both sides. But there was one tense moment when Fran thought Alan was going to throw things—and she rather wished he would. She had dredged up a whole collection of socks and underwear and dropped it at his feet in the living room.

"You'd better do something about this, Mr. Prescott," she said. "I'm tired of picking them off the door-knobs. Find a—laundry. And someone to do your mending."

Alan stared at her. Then he looked down at his feet, reddening; he felt foolish, probably, caught in a tide of linen. For a moment, she heard him grind his teeth.

But he had wonderful control. All he said was, "Okay—I'll attend to it."

Fran was lonely and disheartened by the end of the week—but too proud to be first to give in. She went over to Gina's for advice. Perhaps Gina could think of some way of bringing matters to a head.

But she stared at her. Then she looked down at her feet, reddening; he felt foolish, probably, caught in a tide of linen. For a moment, she heard him grind his teeth.

But he had wonderful control. All he said was, "Okay—I'll attend to it."

Fran turned it three times before she read blindly back into the house. Alan was leaving her. He no longer cared for her. How could he—if he'd leave because of a silly little disagreement?

But if she gave in? If she ran to him the minute he came in—and admitted that she was in the wrong; that she had a nasty temper; that she'd been frustrated and wretched—because she'd found she wasn't at all clever about the house—

Then surely Alan would make up. Tears welled in Fran's eyes. Maybe he wouldn't. Maybe he had had enough of her. She was always the one to pick a quarrel. Alan was really calm and sweet-tempered.

The tears spilled over. Burying her face in the cushion of Alan's chair, she wept on. She didn't even hear the key turn in the lock at four-thirty, or Alan's step in the hall.

"Fran," Alan said. He strode over. "Fran—what's the matter? You're crying—Fran—"

"Oh, Alan," Fran gulped, turning a tear-soaked face. "You can't really want to go back to Mrs. Thurber's. I know I've been horrible, but I—oh Alan, can't we forget this silly row?"

"Go back to Mrs. Thurber's?" Alan echoed, blankly. "I don't know what you're blavng about." He stopped, taking the crumpled postcard that Fran thrust at him. "Oh—this." He pulled Fran to her feet; gingerly, he lowered himself into the chair, and drew her on to his lap. "That's just for a guy at the office. New salesman—I promised I'd find if Mrs. Thurber had a room." He ruffled Fran's hair as she clung to him. "You're such a nitwit, honey. Actually, I came home early to take you out to dinner—and put a stop to this nonsense."

"Alan—darling," Fran said. In a glow of relief, she leaned against him, warm and happy and secure. "Alan—I—"

"Darling—please," she said, humbly. "Would you get up a minute. I—I'm afraid I left my knitting under the cushion on this chair. Your chair, darling," she added, in complete capitulation.

THE END.

St. Pat's Old Boys' Association Has Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Pat's Old Boys' Association was held on Monday evening last at St. Pat's Academy. Maurice Parsons, President of the Association, presided. At the beginning of the meeting the members observed a minute's silence in memory of the late Canon J. C. McGee who died last week. Canon McGee was for many years Chaplain of the Association.

Reports from the various committees of the Association were heard. Fred Wilson, vice-chairman of the sports committee, reported on the annual Sherbrooke Track Meet held last Saturday. Students of the Academy had entered a team in the meet. The advisability of having teams in the meet in future was discussed and it was decided that members of the sports committee meet with the organizers of the Track Meet to discuss the situation.

Reporting on the St. Pat's Old Boys' Camp at Stoke Lake, Henry Crocetti, chairman of the camp committee, told the meeting that permission had been granted for the electrification of the camp. A contract for electricity has been signed with the Shawinigan Water and Power Company and construction is due to begin the early part of June.

The main building has already been wired. After some discussion it was decided to go ahead with plans for the installation of a water system at the camp. Gilles Olivier was named in charge of making the necessary arrangements. Bids for the installation of toilet facilities were also received and this will be decided upon shortly. It was also decided to go ahead with the construction of a sleeping hut. Up to the present one hut has been donated to the camp and negotiations are underway for the donation of three others.

President Parsons, in commenting on the improvements being made to the camp stated that these were being made possible by the good response to the monthly Booster Club.

Permission was granted to the Paton Mfg. Co., the Sherbrooke Machineries and the St. Pat's Junior Sports Club, to hold picnics at the camp. The annual St. Patrick's Parish Picnic is scheduled to be held at the camp on June 17th. Mr. Parsons announced that the annual banquet of the Association which was scheduled for last Thursday had been postponed on account of the death of Rev. Canon McGee, but would be held on Saturday evening June 3rd, at the New Sherbrooke Hotel. He urged the members to make their reservations early. The banquet is open this year to members of the Association and their wives and friends of the Association.

information gained as a member of the British team which helped develop the atomic bomb in the United States.

After a 10-minute conference, the judge disclosed that Gold told him he would plead guilty "to acting as a courier for a Russian atom spy ring" and asked the court to appoint counsel for him.

Judge McGranery quoted Gold as saying, however, "he is not guilty of that part of the charge which says he intended to harm the United States government."

"I told him," the jurist said, "that was a matter he would have to take up with his counsel at the proper time."

Gold could be sentenced to death—the maximum penalty for treason in wartime. His alleged passing of secrets to a Soviet agent took place in 1945, when the U.S. still was actively at war.

After the brief talk with the jurist, Gold was hustled back to the hearing room.

Gold is held in prison in default of bail. He is scheduled for further hearing June 12, probably in New York, where the warrant for his arrest was issued. Extradition proceedings involving his transfer now are in progress.

After some discussion it was decided to go ahead with plans for the installation of a water system at the camp. Gilles Olivier was named in charge of making the necessary arrangements. Bids for the installation of toilet facilities were also received and this will be decided upon shortly. It was also decided to go ahead with the construction of a sleeping hut. Work On Soil In Quebec Is Delayed

Quebec, June 1.—(C)—Quebec Agriculture Department in its first crop report of the 1950 season said cold spring weather has delayed work on the soil in Quebec province by two weeks.

Recent hot weather helped speed up seeding and seeded acreage varies at present between 20 and 30 per cent of crop area in different parts of the province.

Vegetation in pastures has been slow and the general condition of meadows is described as "mediocre." Winter and spring frosts damaged some 40 per cent of Quebec pasture areas.

Apple trees in the Eastern Townships and in Richelieu, Montreal and Ottawa districts now are in blossom and the 1950 yield from orchards is expected to be about normal.

Hot weather in the past week has reduced moisture stored in the soil and rain is needed generally.

The department reported that seeding of grain crops is 60 per cent complete in the counties of Brome, Compton, Drummond, Frontenac, Wolfe, Richmond, Shefford, Sherbrooke and Stanstead and gardening is going ahead quickly.

Prairies and pasture lands are suffering from drought.

had gravitated largely into railway matters.

Freight rates developed into one of the major issues before the investigators, with seven provinces calling for a variety of changes in the rate set-up.

Another of the larger questions was that of the $1,000,000,000 recapitalization proposal of the Canadian National Railways, aimed at putting it on its financial feet and getting it out of its habitual deficit position.

Communist Youths

Those youths who lived in Hamburg or the refugee-crowded state of Schleswig-Holstein opposite the no man's land camp would have to give their names so they could be traced if an epidemic broke out.

Others would not have to be listed if they took a cursory medical examination.

Last night only a few took the chance to head for home. Luebeck's police chief, Karl Studier, said the rank and file wanted nothing more than to get under way but that a communist core of about 15 per cent "are making it difficult for the rest."

Exhibit Of Old Bibles Featured At Rock Island

Rock Island, June 1.—A very excellent set of posters, illustrated manuscript, and printed bibles have been sent to the Universalist Church at Derby Line by the Lion Research Library, Brookline, Mass. The exhibit was on display in the front of the church May 28, and will be on display at the Haskell Library until June 7.

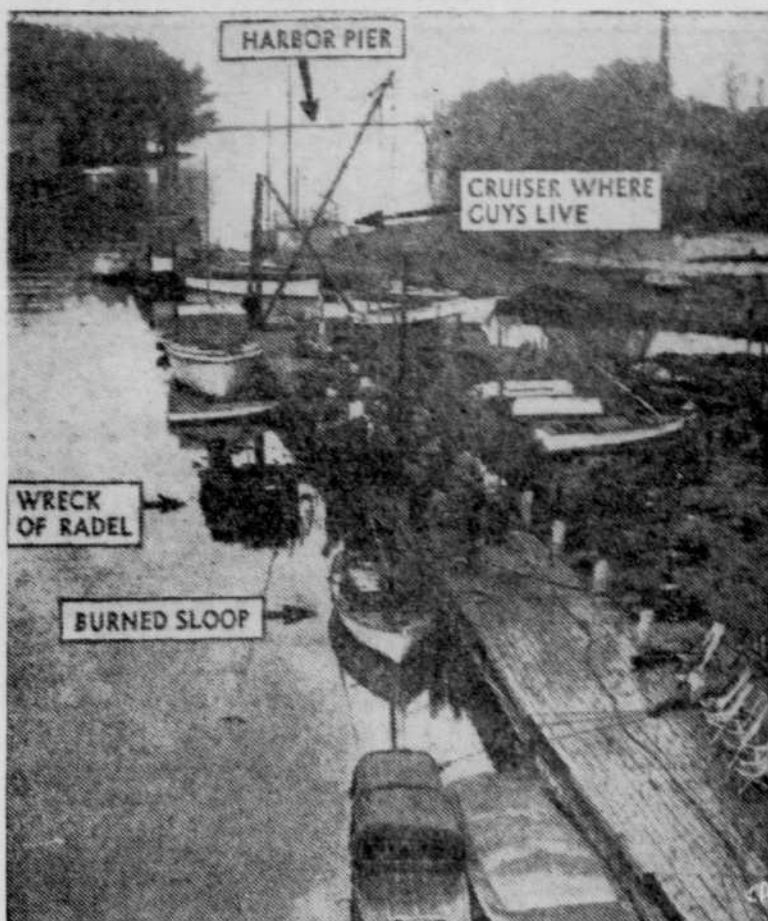

Before 1450 A.D. bibles were copied by hand. Hundreds of copies were made in monasteries in Europe between 529 and 1200. From 1200 to 1400 copies were also made up at universities.

Miss Smith at the Lion Research says, "Some of the larger monasteries had a large scriptorium where the copying was done. These had long rows of seats and desks where the monks copied to the dictation of one of their number."

There was no talking between copyists and if no reader was present, silence prevailed. Other monasteries had small cells in which a single monk copied by himself. The scriptoria and cells were usually the cloisters along the north and sunny side.

The cloisters were walks built usually in a square around a grass plot or garden with a well or fountain in the centre. As part of the monastery buildings, they were built with stone floors. In the middle ages, the inside walls were open to the garden but later these spaces were filled in with leaded panes of glass. Although the stone floor was covered with hay or straw the screens were placed to cut off the cold wind. It must have

Blast Kills Two

Two men were killed and four others injured when the former National Research Council radar experimental ship Radel exploded and burned in Oakville harbor, 20 miles west of Toronto, Thursday night. Dead are Garland Guy of Newfoundland, mechanic on the Radel, and John Pezce of Galt, Ont. The partially submerged wreck of the Radel, which was to start salvage operations in Lake Ontario this week, is shown in this photo. Also shown is the cruiser where Guy and his wife lived. Two crew members were hurled 50 feet from the ship onto the dock by the force of the explosion.

"Buzzie" Will Be Bridegroom

Curtis "Buzzie" Roosevelt, 20-year-old grandson of the late President Franklin Roosevelt, takes out a marriage license in Santa Monica, Calif., with Robin Edwards, 21. The youth, a student at Loyola University, signed the application "Curtis Roosevelt," also known as Curtis Roosevelt, explaining that he has been using the name Roosevelt since he was "quite small."

been very uncomfortable working there in cold weather.

One monk wrote at the end of his manuscript, "I pray you good reader who may use this book do not forget he who copied it. It was a poor brother named Louis who, while he copied the volume, endured the cold and was obliged to finish in the night what he could not write by day." Examples of this kind of work are included in the Bible exhibit.

Miss Smith gave the following picture of a monastic copyist. "The scribe is seated on a stool before a table or desk with the writing desk placed at a sharp angle so that the scribes write almost in a vertical plane. The stool furnished no support for his back. In his right hand he holds his reed or quill pen, in his left a knife, which he used to sharpen his pen, to smooth rough places on the parchment, to make erasures and to hold down the parchment. His ink pot, filled with black ink, is close at hand. Before him on the desk he has parchment or vellum, each sheet folded once to make 2 leaves or 4 pages. The parchment has been rubbed with pumice to smooth it, softened with crayon or chalk, covered with a metal instrument called a "plans" to cut the right size and ruled by the scribe himself. For the ruling, holes were pricked in the parchment at proper intervals, with an awl or a metal wheel having spikes on its circumference. The horizontal lines were drawn across the sheet with a dry metal stylus and perpendicular lines to mark the margin. If great speed in the reproduction of the book was necessary, the manuscript was separated into quires or sections and distributed among several scribes.

Through the kindness of Miss Jessie Colby, O.B.E. of Stanstead, added to this collection is one of the largest bibles in the world, designed by Bruce Rogers, and printed by A. Colish. There are only 9 copies of this book and this is a rare opportunity to view it. It is 15 inches wide and 19 inches high, 941 pages and weighs 25 pounds.

COUNCIL MEETING
A special meeting of the Rock Island Council was held at the municipal hall Saturday afternoon, May 27.

Attended by the Mayor, council men, secretary-treasurer and several business men of Rock Island and Derby Line, this meeting was called regarding the change of customs house and roads. Louis Roberge, M.P., presented the proposed sketch, and Ed. Struthers, collector of Canadian Customs, explained the plan.

A number of houses will have to be expropriated and also the Stanstead Journal building, and a wall will be built along the river bank. Some buildings on the American side will likewise be expropriated.

With one or two small changes the sketch looked favourable from the public's viewpoint, and a committee of Mayor Simmoneau, council men, R. E. Fregeau, and Lawrence Tilton were appointed to work on this project with Mr. Roberge.

It is hoped the work will begin for the site of the Rock Island Customs and Immigration on Church Street, late in October and that it will take two winter's work, thus giving work to the unemployed. Other buildings will include a "long room" and office and examining warehouse for the truck traffic. There will also have to be considerable rock excavation, building of roads, and probably one or two bridges.

COUPLES CLUB MEET

The Couples Club of Derby Line Universalist Church held the last meeting of this season at "Friendly House" home of Rev. H. R. Cole on Friday evening, May 26. The short business session was presided over by the president, Walter Campbell. It was followed by the showing of a very interesting film on Williamsburg. While the attendance was not large, a very pleasant evening of canasta and bridge was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hosts and hostesses, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Laythe, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Laford, Mrs. Ben. Holland and Mrs. Gertrude Walker. The next meeting will be held late in August.

THE MUSICAL CENTER OF THE EASTERN TOWNSHIPS

OUR OBLIGATION TO YOUTH

Every youngster loves music, but very few are willing to endure the drudgery of practice. Yet it is hard to find an adult who does not rue his or her lost opportunity, who plaintively says, "I wish I could play like that."

Fortunately today's teaching methods are exciting. You start on familiar melodies. Interest is stimulated.

There is no reason why the average youth cannot learn to play. And no parent will deny our children the joy that results from the ability to perform on some musical instrument.

Nylon Gloves Reveal Hands

The girl who wears sheer nylon gloves must keep her hands well-groomed.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

The inside story to every pair of sheer nylon gloves you wear this summer lies in your hands. Your gloves will tell the story if your polish is chipped and nails broken. If you allow your hands to become dried out from the summer sun, your sheer gloves will give you away. For real flattery in these gloves, you'll need to do a regular and careful buffing and shaping of nails, a nightly application of hand lotion and a weekly manicure without fail. If necessary, do a touch-up of your manicure in mid-week. While the sheerest nylon gloves are sturdier than your nylon stockings, it's still best to use care in handling them. Ease them on gently over rings and costume jewelry. Be very careful to avoid snagging the gloves on jewelry prongs. If you wear a large, bulky ring, turn it to the palm. There's more room for it there. Nylon gloves wash clean in a very few minutes, dry in a hurry and retain their shine. After they have been squeezed out, spread them on a fluffy towel and "iron" with your fingers. Press the gloves flat along the seams and crisp out any bows or frills. When the gloves are dry, they'll look like new.

Cubs Forced To Do Some High Financing

Drummondville, June 1.—(P)—Drummondville Cubs of the Provincial Baseball League have just completed a little high finance which left the management dizzy.

It started when the Cubs bought shortstop Stan Bread, former Montreal Royal, from San Diego Padres of the Pacific Coast League for $2,000. That was fine. The Cubs needed a shortstop.

Then Cub president Anatole Schaeffer found that he would have to pay Bread's $750-a-month salary because the infielder had signed for that amount last spring with San Diego. That would put Drummondville over the class "C" baseball salary limit.

Schaeffer then thought of releasing Cub manager Ray (Fido) Murphy. But in that case, he would have had to stand good Murphy's $8,000 salary.

Finally, Schaeffer appointed Bread playing manager (his salary won't be charged against the club payroll) and promoted Murphy to the front office as assistant to the president.

Frank Jelincick Joins Local Club; Colgan Released; Automobile To Be Drawn For Sunday Afternoon At Game

Sherbrooke Athletics last night moved back into sole possession of the Provincial Baseball League leadership when they smashed out a 12-5 verdict over Granby Red Sox, while St. Johns split a twin bill with Farnham and Drummondville Cubs defeated St. Hyacinthe 4-2 in the evening fixtures.

Tonight the A's will be hosts to Farnham, weather permitting, at the local park in the first game of the season booked for 8.30. From now on all evening games, with the exception of Saturday night, will be at 8.30.

New Catcher-Outfielder Arrives
 Frank Jelincick, of San Jose, Cal., reported in yesterday afternoon to the local club, and may see action in tonight's engagement. Jelincick plays the outfield and will also be used to help and share the catching duties with Laura Pascual. Colgan was given his release to make room for the new arrival.

Jelincick holds the record for hitting the longest ball in the Canadian American League and is coming to the locals with the reputation of being an extra long ball hitter. Red Teveli has been placed on the disability list and may not see action for quite sometime. Teveli was hit by a batted ball in St. Hyacinthe over a week ago and is suffering from a badly bruised leg.

Car To Be Drawn Sunday
 On Sunday afternoon, when the A's tangle with Drummondville at 2:00, the automobile, on which tickets were sold last year, will be drawn immediately following the game. Tickets are still on sale and may be obtained by contacting any director of the club.

Ladies Night To Be Held Tuesday
 The local baseball executive will hold their first Ladies Night of the season, Tuesday, June 6. Members of the female sex attending the game that evening will be given an opportunity of winning a new hat, a hand-bag and a perambulator at the expense of the team.

This is another of the local team's moves to try and build up good friendship with their fans, and is only one of the many new ideas which the executive will have during the coming season.

Weather Was Ideal
 The outing was blessed with the most ideal weather imaginable, the beginning of a week-long spell of warm sunny days and comfortable nights in that region, with practically no flies. (These pests only started to work that territory toward the end of that week). The wide and wind-swept open spaces around the Lodge itself reduces annoyance from this source to a minimum.

Some Unusual Features
 There were features on this party unusual to the average fishing excursion. For instance there was the christening of the new Chris Craft cruiser Mr. O'Connell has placed in commission on Lac des Loups. This tidy and comfortable craft became the "Pierre de la Verendrye" after the famous Canadian-born explorer for whom it is named the provincial park in which the Lodge is located. No champagne was used for this ceremony. Among the O'Connell guests were the Rev. Father Tremblay and Rev. Father Rivard of Maniwaki. The boat was christened and blessed by the clergy with all due solemnity.

Herb O'Connell Gets a Hat
 Then there was a Saturday evening cocktail party at the big O'Connell cottage up on the hillside, affording a beautiful view of the lake through picture windows and from spacious verandahs. For this function up from Desert Lake to the south came friend, Stuart MacLean, in his Widgeon resplendent in the denim of his straw hats direct from Louisville, Ky. Herb O'Connell's admiration of this sartorial item promptly made him his own, and I understand he has been wearing it ever since.

The arrival of Stuart for such a party would be inconceivable without a characteristic bag of tricks. Included in them was a rubber sore finger of such realistic and grisly appearance as to set successive groups of his friends solicitously urging him to make for the nearest hospital. A projected amputation in the press cottage nearly put Alan Randall out of business.

And Thus and So to Bed
 Dinner was followed by a conventional evening in the Red in straw hats direct from Louisville, Ky. Herb O'Connell's admiration of this sartorial item promptly made him his own, and I understand he has been wearing it ever since.

Canapes at Desert Lake Club
 The fish didn't hit quite as well as they did the day before but there were plenty of filets for the boys to take back home with them. From Rapid Lake we took off directly for the Desert Fish and Game Club there to accept an invitation from Stuart MacLean to nibble a few canapes and become acquainted with some nice people as well as a southern liquid speciality known as "bourbon". The boys were much impressed by the MacLean set-up which from time to time in my feeble manner I have been trying to describe in these columns. Gaetan Benoit is going back this summer to get a rotogravure feature on the place for La Patrie.

And there my Montreal companions left me to carry on for another week of fishing which naturally means another story. Tomorrow.

Baltimore Orioles To Build Own Ball Park
 Baltimore, June 1.—Jack Dunn, president of Baltimore Orioles, confirmed today the club is studying plans to build its own baseball park.

The Orioles have been tenants of the City's Memorial Stadium since fire destroyed old Oriole Park July 4th, 1944.

Dunn said: "The club cannot survive under the present rental set-off of seven cents a head without the concessions . . . It now costs the Orioles twice as much as any club in the International League."

Dunn said the yearly attendance now had to total 400,000 before the club could break even. With its own park, that figure could be cut by half. He said the Orioles have lost about $200,000 during the last two seasons.

By IZAAK HUNTER
 A BIG PARTY WHICH REALLY CLICKED

Large fishing parties as a rule don't attract me very strongly, but seldom in my fishing experience have I had more fun than on the weekend of the 20th when I started a week's expedition with two days out of O'Connell Lodge on Lac des Loups and Lac Rapide. There were plenty of fishermen and plenty who were not. There was plenty, in fact, of everything, including fish, and the whole worked out in a north country mosaic of extremely pleasant pattern.

Mr. H. J. O'Connell gave a group of Montreal newspapermen an opportunity to check up on what Izaak Hunter has been saying about the fishing and the atmosphere up there for some years now. He seized the occasion to come along himself with Mrs. O'Connell and a group of friends, perhaps to marvel at the woodland antics of the unleashed scribbles.

Well, folks, believe it or not, despite the fact that the press party was organized by Gerald J. Fitzgerald nothing of a weird or untoward nature happened on that trip. When Fitz goes fishing merely as a participant something is bound to happen, but with him in the role of M.C. all was as smooth as silk. Not once did the services of Yvon Robert, Canadian wrestling idol, have to be resorted to as a breaker-upper, and Mrs. Robert was along to keep an eye on Yvon as well as to brighten the eyes of the other male members of the party.

"Wild Bill" Kennedy Doing O.K. For Himself

"Is that the same Bill Kennedy who used to pitch for Cleveland and St. Louis in the American League?"

That's the question fans throughout the International League are asking today about Bill Kennedy, towering left-hander of the Baltimore Orioles.

The fans' amazement is easily understandable when the part of the box score which lists "bases on balls off Kennedy" is studied.

Kennedy was known as "Wild Bill" in his American League stay. With Baltimore the opposition is calling him "Radar Bill" when talking of his control.

The 29-year-old Kennedy, who walked 190 batters in 297 innings while in the American League in 1948 and 1949, has passed only 11 in 46 1-3 innings for the Orioles.

In his last three starts Kennedy walked only one batter in each game and struck out 27.

The southpaw, who set a minor league record when he fanned 456 batters for Rocky Mount, N.C., in 1946, turned in his third victory against one defeat last night as he pitched the Orioles to an 11-6 victory over Syracuse Chiefs.

The score is not a true indication of Kennedy's performance. Kennedy had the Chiefs beaten, 10-1 on six hits going into the eighth inning when he eased up and allowed five runs and seven hits.

Kennedy walked only one batter and fanned eight. He yielded his first run in 22 innings in the third when Claude Corbett homered.

The Orioles, who now have won 11 out of their last 13 starts, pounded four Syracuse pitchers for 16 hits with Butch Woyt leading the way with four singles. Ed Pellagrini chipped in with a homer, double and single to drive in five runs.

In the only other game, Toronto Maple Leafs upset the first-place Rochester Red Wings, 9-3. The Wings knocked Paul Stufel out with two runs in the first inning but Max Peterson came on and stopped the Wings on seven hits the rest of the way to pick up his second victory.

Dick Bokelmann opened for Rochester but departed under fire in the second when the Leafs scored five runs to clinch the game. The victory cut Rochester's lead over Montreal Royals to one game.

The Royals and Buffalo Bisons were not scheduled. The scheduled game between Springfield and Jersey City was rained out.

and do just about what anybody else would do—nothing. And this is just as the Villains would have it.

Chicago—Jim Sherrer, 151½, Milwaukee, outpointed Lafayette Drummond, 155 Chicago (8).

Jim O'Connor's Crew Takes Over Top Spot In Softball League; Three Teams Tied For Second

Jim O'Connor's men took over the league leadership of the Sherbrooke Industrial Softball League last night by their 13 to 8 win over Bruck Mills.

In the other games the up and coming young Regiment team sprung a surprise by over coming the strong Machinery crew by a 3 to 1 score. Fairbanks got their first point so far this season by their 10-10 tie with Railroaders. The early innings, were the big ones for both Superheater and Bruck in their game. Both teams getting five and six runs in the first two innings from then on it was a nip and tuck affair until the fifth inning. Superheater pushed four more runs across, and added three again in their half of the sixth. The Millmen came close on their seventh inning rally, scoring three times, but Superheater's home run was too much for them to overcome. Home runs by Deslonges and Maries featured the game.

The battle of the evening was the Machinery-Regiment clash, this was a thriller the whole way. The outfield defensive play by both teams was really the highlight of the game. Perk Johnson's home run for Machinery was the only time any player on that team got further than second base. Les Twenty-six hits featured the Railroaders connected for 15 and the Scalersmen 11. Harry Kouri made a welcome return to the mound for Bas McCormick's men. His pitching and hitting had a big say in his team's earning their first point. Bruneau, for Railroaders, Schofield and Drew for the Scalersmen hit homers in this game.

Cards, Smarting Under Fantastic 9-8 Loss To Brooklyn Recently, Out For Revenge This Evening

Memo to Brooklyn—beware of St. Louis Cards.
 Cheeks still burn on the Cardinal bench at the memory of the May 18 horror of Ebbets Field. This was the day St. Louis blew an 8-0 lead and lost to the Dodgers 9-8.

The experts wrote the Cards obit the next day.
 Next time the Cards played a game they rallied with six runs in the eighth inning to knock Warren Spahn and whip the Braves. The next victim was the Phillies' Robin Roberts.

And so on, down the line. Since the black day in Flatbush they have won nine of 11, hotter than any club in the National League. Now they're in second place, one game behind Brooklyn.

Tonight the cards get their chance to get even with Brooklyn. They open a three-game series with the Dodgers at Sportsman's Park. Don't say the Dodgers weren't warned. Old Cardinals don't forget.

Like the Dodgers, the New York Giants also begin their second Western tour. The trip is important for Leo Durocher's charges in a different sort of way. The Polo Grounds wolves are howling for Leo's scalp although his contract runs through 1951. Going into tonight's two-night doubleheader at Cincinnati, the Giants are running a dreary seventh, nine games off the pace.

Chicago, still two games over the .500 mark is the first stop for the defeated Phillies who were knocked from first to third Tuesday. After Chicago, The Phils bump smack into St. Louis for three important games.

Boston finds Pittsburgh, reeling under an eight-game losing streak. Ralph Kiner's home run production slowed down to a walk with only one in the last 10 days. If the Braves are to move in the race now is their time with Sid Gordon back in the line-up.

Here Comes the Bride

OF RICE, OLD SHOES and WEDDING CAKES

By VIRGINIA NELLE WILSON
Written for NEA Service

When we shower a newly married couple with rice we are saying we hope they will have many children.

Grain always has been the symbol of fruitfulness and the throwing of grain in wedding rites has been a universal custom, appearing in every age and every land throughout the world.

It is believed that some type of marriage has existed from the beginning of time. At first there was no ceremony to the taking of a mate. Gradually the tribal rites devised magical rituals such as the throwing of grain and the entwining of a rope about the waist of a woman by a man. It was believed that her spirit entered his body, joining them together.

Through the ages more religious and man-made rites and customs were added to those simple ones. The throwing of old shoes after the fleeing couple reflects the ancient Hebrew and Egyptian tradition of exchanging sandals while changing authority. The Anglo-Saxon wedding concluded with the father giving a shoe of the bride to the new husband as proof that he had relinquished all rights over her.

One of the simplest and most universal of all marriage ceremonies is that of eating and drinking together. Early Hebrew and Roman rituals finished in this manner. Today we follow that old custom when the bride and groom cut and share the first piece of wedding cake together as evidence that they wish to share from that day forth.

The wedding cake is a direct survival of the Roman ceremony during which all guests ate cake to insure plentifulness for the bride and groom. At the early Anglo-Saxon wedding the guests brought richly spiced buns and piled them in a huge mound on the table. If the bride and groom succeeded in kissing over this mound they were assured lifelong prosperity.

While stopping in London a French chef noticed the difficulty of piling hundreds of these small cakes together, so he conceived the idea of icing them into a solid mass. Thus our tiered wedding cake was born.

The giving of wedding gifts is a remnant of the days when bride purchase still prevailed. During the latter part of that period it was the custom for a father to give properties or goods to his daughters, with which to start housekeeping.

A lovely young girl in Holland was denied her dowry because a young miller could not pay the price demanded for her. The whole community loved this couple and showered them with fine gifts for their new home. Thus because a young miller could not pay the purchase price for his bride, the brides of this month, and all the months to come, will receive showers of lovely presents.
