

Ulbricht:

Summit accord claimed

BERLIN (Reuters)—East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht said Friday night a Moscow summit conference of Communist leaders agreed the East-West balance of forces has "changed so much that it is possible to avoid war."

Ulbricht's statement at East Berlin airport upon his return from the conference was the first public mention of agreement being reached at the three-week talks.

The conference ended Thursday night with a communique saying only that the delegates of 81 countries had "exchanged experience and familiarized themselves with each other's views and positions." A fuller statement was promised later.

The East German news agency ADN quoted Ulbricht as saying the Moscow conference reached complete agreement on the "struggle for peace and peaceful coexistence."

He added that although developments in different countries were "many-sided and complicated," the conference reached "unity of view."

INDICATES WIN FOR K

Political quarters in West Berlin said Ulbricht's remarks indicated a victory for Premier Nikita Khrushchev's line that war can be avoided.

Chinese Communists are reported pessimistic about the possibility of avoiding world war.

LONDON (Reuters)—Western experts said Friday night a Moscow communique from world Communist leaders indicates Russia and Communist China have not resolved their differences.

They pointed out that the communique, issued Thursday night, did not say the 81 Communist parties represented at the three-week conference had reached agreement.

Significantly, the Polish news agency PAP announced Friday Soviet Premier Khrushchev has thanked Polish leaders for their support of Russia's "peace policy."

All Peking morning newspapers carried stories about the Moscow communique but refrained from comment.

Outlaw rail strike at 11th hour Bank loot is $17,000

OTTAWA (CP) — By Parliament's edict, the trains are running today across Canada.

At the 11th hour Friday night, Parliament outlawed a nation-wide walkout threatened for early today by 111,000 non-operating railwaymen.

In the face of fierce criticism from the opposition, Prime Minister Diefenbaker called on Parliament to invoke an emergency law to postpone any strike action until after May 15.

It went into effect just half a day before the national strike was to start in Newfoundland and work its way westward by time zone.

The emergency law, Mr. Diefenbaker said, saves the nation from the chaos and catastrophe of a transcontinental tie-up of the major railways.

OPPOSITION CONTENTION

But opposition critics contend it also destroys the right of railwaymen to strike for better wages, discredits the conciliation process and merely shunts the rail crisis ahead to May 15.

The government had to fight fast-ebbing time and the delaying tactics of the opposition to get its special law through the Commons and senate in time to prevent the walkout, which had been set for 8 a.m. local time today.

The stop-the-strike bill was proclaimed law at 6:30 p.m. EST after a three-day emergency debate.

It postpones any strike action by "non-op" rail workers until after May 15, by which time the government hopes a more favorable atmosphere will exist for settling Canada's biggest labor scrap.

Faced with the ban, chief union spokesman Frank H. Hall suspended the strike order and told the members of the 15-union "non-op" group to remain on their jobs.

"We would have beaten the ways in a strike if the government hadn't come to their aid," he told reporters.

NO WORD FROM RAILWAYS

There was no immediate comment from the two major railways, the privately owned CPR and the publicly owned CNR.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the Commons that he will summon the disputants to regular meetings to try to resolve the dispute over a 14-cent hourly pay increase proposed by a federal conciliation board — accepted by the unions but rejected by the railways.

Provinces to hold periodic parleys

By ARCH MacKENZIE (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

QUEBEC (CP) — The 10 provinces Friday launched a new co-operative enterprise with the establishment of periodic conferences dedicated to discussing policy matters solely within provincial jurisdiction.

Charlottetown, site in 1864 of a Maritime meeting that led to Confederation three years later, was picked as the site of the next meetings in August.

A standing invitation was extended to federal ministers to attend.

"We now have established interprovincial relations on a permanent footing — and unanimously," said Premier Lesage of Quebec, who arranged the two-day conference here in fulfillment of a long-standing Quebec Liberal party suggestion.

Said Premier Frost of Ontario, conference chairman who read a statement prepared at the conclusion of the closed sessions:

"It is the feeling that there is very much to be gained from periodic meetings and exchanges of views and discussions of interprovincial and provincial problems."

a great factor," he told reporters. "There will come a time as our experience deepens and our needs change when a secretariat will be necessary."

Mr. Lesage had invited Prime Minister Diefenbaker to attend but Mr. Diefenbaker contented himself with sending a senior civil service observer.

Premier Manning of Alberta, out of the country, and Premier Shaw of Prince Edward Island, ill, were the only absent premiers. Each was represented by cabinet colleagues.

Hospital care plan to provoke debate

By CUTHBERT JONES (Record Staff Writer)

With the Throne Speech debate out of the way, the Quebec Legislature this week turned to one of the most controversial bills to come before the provincial parliament in recent years. This is the act providing for the establishment of a hospital insurance scheme in this province — the last of the ten provinces to hold out against the federally-sponsored project.

There are no indications that the Union Nationale Opposition, although giving lip service to the idea of a provincial hospitalization insurance plan, will facilitate the passage of the Liberal Government measure. The Opposition regards the proposed scheme as unsuitable to the needs of Quebec and believes that an insurance plan should be introduced only after the problem of financing hospitals has been dealt with.

And apparently the Government believes that the debate may last for several days, even up to two weeks, as no other administration measure has been prepared in printed form.

One of the points, not mentioned in the draft bill, which interests the Opposition and the public at large is how the $90,000,000 estimated Quebec share is to be financed. Premier Lesage at one time indicated no special premium would be imposed, leaving the impression that the cost would be met out of the general revenues of the province.

The cost will be offset partially by payments now made under

Rail strike threat week's top news

By DAVID ROWNTREE (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Summary of the week: Canadian rail strike called off. Kennedy begins choosing his administration. Alberta school bus tragedy claims 17 lives.

STRIKE AVERTED

Royal assent was given to emergency legislation Friday and union leader Frank all issued instructions that all railway employees "must remain in service," staying off a country-wide rail strike until May 15. Royal assent was given after the bill forbidding the strike was passed by the House of Commons and the Senate.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said after talks between the railroads and their non-operating units broke down Monday that a strike over wages would result in economic chaos.

The bill to keep the railways operating became law less than 14 hours before today's 8 a.m. strike deadline.

The government introduced the measure Tuesday night. Second reading dragged on into the early hours of Friday morning.

Tension rose at midday when the CCF-New Party refused to accept a suggestion by the prime minister that the House sit into the lunch period to dispose of the legislation. Third and final reading of the bill, usually a formality, was delayed until afternoon by a CCF procedural amendment.

After this obstacle was surmounted, the waiting senate passed it after a two-hour debate.

VERONA, Ont. (CP) — Two young men were charged Friday night with armed robbery in the holdup of a Bank of Montreal branch here in which two women were taken hostage.

Charged were Arnold Brent Mavety, 21, and Stanley Peter Davis, 17, both of Lansdowne, Ont. They are due to appear for formal remand at Kingston magistrate's court today.

The bank was robbed of about $17,000 when a man, his face masked in bandages "like a mummy," walked in with a rifle or shotgun in his hand Friday morning.

The gunman lined up manager V. M. Pyette, six customers and the staff of four and ordered teller Shirley Akey, 20, to scoop money into a paper bag. When the masked man left, he took Miss Akey with him.

The two suspects were arrested when a provincial police constable forced their car off the road about 30 miles from Verona near Perth, Ont.

In the trunk of a car abandoned earlier, police found Miss Akey, unharmed, and another woman, Mrs. W. F. Cronin, wife of a manager of the Bank of Montreal branch in Kingston.

Mrs. Cronin was taken hostage when the car used in the hold-up was stolen from a parking lot.

Verona is 35 miles north of Kingston.

Fire destroys Granby house

GRANBY—(Special)—A two-storey house was burned to the ground early Friday afternoon in Granby. The house is situated on the West Shefford Road near the Mount Pleasant School.

Stanley Shanks, owner of the property was away working in Montreal at the time of the fire. His wife was at the Granby High School where she works and their three children were also in school.

The cause of the fire is unknown and damage is estimated at $10,000.

Caracas students give up

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) —

The last of the holdout students surrendered before a government showing of tanks Friday and abandoned their rebel fortress at Caracas University.

With machine-guns and other arms, they had held out against the troops of President Romulo Betancourt for a week.

Government troops reinforcements had been flown in all day from bases in the interior for the final cleanup of resistance.

The university council in an announcement to the presidential palace said the youths gave up the entrenched position they had dubbed their "Stalingrad," thus ending the last knot of die-hard resistance after seven days of bloody rioting.

The surrender came soon after army tanks rumbled to the gates of the University of Caracas where the students had taken up positions behind brick piles in an unfinished pharmacy school.

The deaths of a woman doctor and a soldier by snipers' bullets Friday brought to 11 the number of persons killed in the disturbances which the government charges were fomented by Communists seeking to replace the Betancourt administration with a regime like Fidel Castro's in Cuba. Demonstrators during the riots carried anti-American and pro-Cuban signs and shouted Cuban revolutionary slogans.

Toll collector fined $1,000

MONTREAL — (AP) — Joseph Michel Savoie, a former Jacques Cartier bridge toll collector, was fined $1,000 and sentenced to one day in jail Friday when he was found guilty on two counts of failing to collect the full amount of bridge tariffs.

Savoie is the first of 27 former toll collectors to be found guilty in criminal court proceedings. One pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six months in jail. The other 25 await trial.

Savoie was a toll collector for 12 years before an automatic toll system was introduced more than a year ago.

Savoie was told to pay the fine within 30 days or go to jail for three months.

Commute death penalty

OTTAWA — (AP) — Milton Frank Sullivan, 29, of Foley, Ont., scheduled to be hanged next Friday for the slaying of Jeorgina Gardipie at Foley last March 6. Elmer McAuley, with whom the victim had been living, also died after being shot by Sullivan with a .22 calibre rifle.

Evidence at the trial indicated that Sullivan had drunk a considerable amount of alcohol in the course of several hours prior to the crime, the solicitor-general's department said Friday in announcing the commutation.

There had been no recommendation for mercy by the jury. Sullivan's appeal to the Ontario Appeal Court was dismissed.

Of 46 death sentences handed down in Canada since June, 1957, when the Conservative government took office, 36 have been commuted — including 12 in which the jury recommended mercy. There have been 10 executions.

To face trial

Lumumba is thrown in jail

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Pa-

trice Lumumba, the Congo's first-brand former premier, today faced trial on charges of inciting the army to rebellion and other crimes as he became the centre of another international diplomatic clash.

Manacled and jeered by on-lookers, Lumumba was returned to Leopoldville late Friday and jailed after being captured in remote Kasai province by the soldiers of army chief Col. Joseph Mobutu.

(The Soviet delegation at the United Nations in New York demanded Friday night that Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold make an immediate report on steps being taken by the UN command to ensure the safety of Lumumba.)

(The Russians said in a statement the arrest of Lumumba, who accepted Soviet military aid outside UN channels when he was premier, was an "arbitrary and illegal act against the lawful Congolese government committed by an illegal, dictatorial regime.")

DAG ASKS FAIR TRIAL

(Hammarskjold sent two messages to Congo President Joseph Kasavubu asking him to see that Lumumba gets a fair trial. One message was sent after a committee from Afro-Asian nations had expressed concern for Lumumba's safety.)

Lumumba made his bid to get out of reach of Mobutu five days ago.

Mobutu had sworn out a warrant for Lumumba's arrest after he was dismissed by Kasavubu last September but a United Nations guard around the official premier's residence in Leopoldville, where Lumumba stayed, prevented serving the warrant.

Last Sunday Lumumba slipped past guards assigned by Mobutu to keep watch on him. UN officials said then that Lumumba could not expect UN protection outside Leopoldville.

Glamour Is a Lonesome Thing-- (2)

Married happiness has eluded Marilyn. Her first marriage, at 16, was to James Dougherty, above. It lasted four years. During that time she became a photographer's model. In '46, a screen test led her to change her name, Norma Jean Baker, to "Marilyn Monroe." A part in "The Asphalt Jungle" (1950) touched off rocket to stardom.

Marilyn met Yankee baseball great, Joe DiMaggio, in 1952. Marriage did not come until 1954. Perhaps Marilyn feared his fame and her movie career might not click. If so, she was right.

Nine months after her marriage to Joe DiMaggio, newsmen crowded close in Beverly Hills, Calif., to hear Marilyn say that it was over. Her explanation: "We had nothing to say to each other."

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Mary Margaret Mc Bride, who is credited with inventing the broadcast interview and who certainly turned electronic interviewing into a fine art, has written an anecdote-stuffed book about the great years of radio. It is called Out of the Air, and it makes this listener long for the good old days.

Through more than 20 years, Mary Margaret introduced the most interesting people in the world to her huge daytime audience, presidents and kings, celebrities and non-entities, preachers and adventurers, but story-tellers and conversationalists all.

Men and woman, urged on by her skilful questions and so lulled by her easy manner that they forgot the unobtrusive microphone, poured forth fascinating tales, even confessions: Madame Pandit remembered the first time she met Gandhi;

Eleanor Wilson McAdoo recalled the deathbed statement of her father, Woodrow Wilson, that it was probably better that the United States had not joined the League of Nations; Jimmy Durante wept softly at memories of his childhood.

Radio still is with us, healthy according to all reports, but no longer the glamor girl of broadcasting. There are many talk sessions on television but few of the interviewers have Mary Margaret's subtle skills, more's the pity, and nobody yet has found a way to make the story-tellers forget the cameras.

It's a fine, nostalgic one-woman history Mary Margaret has turned out, crammed with intimate glimpses and recollections of hundreds of well-known people.

Family Classics' two-part version of The Three Musketeers was a sharp disappointment—it seemed almost a burlesque of the beloved Dumas story. Mrs. C. Daintrey presents program at W.I. meeting

NORTH HATLEY — The Women's Institute held its regular meeting in the Community Hall. The president, Mrs. Frank Woodward was in the chair.

The program was in charge of the convener of citizenship, Mrs. Daintrey. Each member was asked to give her definition of a good citizen. The consensus of opinion seemed to indicate that one who had a neighborly concern for the needs and problems of others, and a sense of his own responsibility in the affairs of his community and his country, is a good citizen.

Mrs. Daintrey continued her program with a study of the Canadian Indian. She gave a brief history of the Indians in Canada up to the present time; and their present-day problems and progress were presented by Mrs. C. Smith and Mrs. E. Hatch.

Mrs. J. R. MacKay, convener of home economics, listed the articles required for the W.I. exhibit of handicrafts at the County Fair, and members will be provided with copies of the list.

Mrs. Daintrey and Mrs. Hatch who represented the branch at Stanstead Co. W.I. quarterly meeting, gave reports of the morning and afternoon sessions. The president of the County W.I., Mrs. R. G. McHarg, of Ayer's Cliff, brought greetings from the County and her home branch.

Mrs. B. Holmes, of Way's Mills, Provincial Convener of Health and Welfare, discussed with the branch a questionnaire it had received on water pollution. She also spoke briefly of her recent visit to the Home for Retarded Children in Dixville, and explained what some of their needs were in the line of bedding, clothing and equipment, that might be sent as Christmas gifts.

At the close of the program, the hostesses, Mrs. G. Bennett and Mrs. G. LeBaron, served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed. The members were happy to welcome a guest, Mrs. Lamb, who accompanied Mrs. J. R. MacKay to the meeting.

Photography with 35 mm camera can produce excellent pictures

It seems that Santas are becoming larger by the year, as demonstrated in this week's picture taken by one of the Sher-Bell Camera Club members Mr. Peter Sauer.

Huge Santas are a very prominent part of regional Christmas decorations. This one in particular, located in Sherbrooke on King Street East near Second Avenue, stands some twenty feet tall.

Last week I discussed the merits of twin-lens reflex cameras. Today my subject will be the popular 35mm camera. Incidentally, 35 mm denotes film width, which is approximately 1 and 7/16 by 1 5/16 inch. The lens on most higher priced 35mm cameras range from f-2.8 to f-1.5. Faster lens are made for technical work, and range down to 0.5. Now speeds down to 1:1 are becoming fairly common. At extreme apertures, problems of size, cost the popular 35mm camera. In more serious, then too there is a higher degree of image contrast loss and sharpness with wider openings. Consequently, the larger aperture is less desirable for standard use.

Focal-plane shutters are required for these great hunks of glass, as three is no room for the "between-the-lens" type shutter.

Various focal lengths, which is one of the likeable features of the 35mm, vary from 35 to 400 millimeters, or even to 2,000, giving this format greater versatility. Of course, with the longer lens, a tripod is necessary for steadiness. These lenses are mostly the telephoto types. Other mountings, include the gun-grip, which replaces the tripod. Both rests facilities taking pictures at great distances without movement.

For 400 millimeter lens and larger, you literally screw the camera on the lens.

Just a word about the focal-plane shutter, which is best described as a curtain which moves horizontally with a vertical slot over the film. This slot varies in size with the change in speeds. As the slot passes over the film, the exposure is registered. With this type of shutter, you can have speeds from one second to 1/1,200, and even more on some cameras.

The lens, lens-mountings and focusing devices are very important to 35mm cameras. They increase in precision and perfection with camera quality, you might say, "with the cost of equipment." For example, glass separation must be accurate to within .0001 in, centering the elements must be within .004 of an inch. The mount must hold the lens within close depth of focus tolerance, also measured within thousandths of an inch. All these close tolerances give you a precision instrument and the better the camera, better the work turned out.

For those of you who like the idea of 35mm slides, there are many fine low priced cameras within the $40 to $75 range, backed by reliable manufacturers. Talk your camera needs and wishes over with the authority in your favorite camera shop. Listen carefully to his description of the finer points in the cameras he shows you, and ask for a pamphlet on the model that appeals most to you. Study the literature first, to make certain of your choice. My last bit of advice is, remember, your camera dealer will want to sell you a camera, but he should also be interested in equipping you with a piece of equipment that will give you the best results. So, consider doing business with a reliable camera dealer on a consistent basis. He wishes to build customer-confidence, and will become a valued friend in aiding you with your hobby.

If you are wondering about the ability of the 35mm camera to produce good results, consider the fact that many large circulation national magazines and many daily newspapers use 35mm cameras.

3,000 families receive seals Christmas Seals support urged in Stanstead county

MAGOG — This year 3,100 families in Stanstead County have received Christmas Seals.

The contributions already returned, from 520 families, will only serve to cover the cost of this year's Christmas Seal campaign. The Stanstead County Antituberculosis League must receive at least 1,000 more contributions if it is to continue its work of free X-ray clinics, financial aid to T.B. patients and their families, rehabilitation programs and other projects, a League spokesman points out.

Since 1949 when the Magog Antituberculosis League was formed the amount of money collected has increased each year by eight to ten per cent.

In 1950 the entire township of Magog was included in the Magog Antituberculosis League's campaign. Last year Ayer's Cliff and North Hatley were added to the league's jurisdiction and the league then became the Stanstead County Antituberculosis League.

Anyone who has received seals should send their contribution to the Stanstead Antituberculosis League, P.O. Box 159, Magog. A receipt for income tax purposes will be returned on request.

Court cases Man's artificial leg causes court debate

A man's artificial leg caused a vehement debate in Court of Sessions Friday morning, the defence alleging that he had lost his leg following a hunting accident while the Crown claimed that he had had his foot amputated because it froze when he tried to escape from a police manhunt.

Gilles Pelletier, 22, of Montreal, pleaded guilty to a series of automobile thefts and of breaking and entering. Judge Joseph Marier sentenced him to two months in Winter street Jail.

Defence counsel Jean-Guy Fretche asked the court to sentence the accused to the time already spent in prison alleging that he had an artificial leg and that he would find it difficult to find a job at this time of the year.

The Crown maintained that the accused could easily find work and that he had lost his foot when it froze after he escaped from the police.

The Court nonetheless sentenced the accused to two months in prison, the time he was first jailed.

Clude Letourneau, of Sherbrooke, was fined $50 and costs in Court of Sessions Friday afternoon when he pleaded guilty to a charge of criminal negligence at the wheel of his car.

Defence counsel Paul-M. Gervais alleged that there were different degrees of responsibility. He said that his client was going to mass and that he tried to pass another car while entering a curve and that he should have been charged under the Highway Act.

Crown Attorney Benoit Turmel said however that the accused was travelling at more than 70 miles per hour.

A father of five children was fined $50 and costs Friday afternoon after he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving his car while he was under the influence of alcohol.

Robert Lemay, of Victoriaville, asked the Court's clemency alleging that his driving permit was necessary to earn his living.

Judge Joseph Marier agreed, notwithstanding the Crown's objections.

Judge Joseph Marier dismissed a charge against a Richmond man alleging that the man wasn't a member of the Electrician's Union and that he had done work as an electrician.

The accused, Francois Valieres, was represented by Jacques O'Bready, of Sherbrooke.

Politics and the railway problem

By an act of Parliament, the Government has postponed the threatened railway strike in Canada for five months, but no piece of legislation has yet been conceived that will solve the problems which led up to the crisis.

Stated simply, the Canadian railways are suffering from a declining volume of business coupled with a steady rise in costs. But here again, many factors, economic and political, enter the picture.

Under normal circumstances, rising costs are generally passed on to the consumer but the railways are not in this happy position. First, their freight rates have been frozen for several months to come, a temporary condition that has been partially offset by the anti-strike legislation of the federal government.

But when the freight-rate freeze is removed, it is doubtful if they can obtain great relief through rate increases. Already competitive forms of transportation are taking away much of the railways' high revenue traffic and any drastic boost in freight rates would accentuate the diversion. Political considerations force a continuation of excessively low rates on the bulk commodity traffic which is left to the railways.

Then there is the outmoded fear of what a railway monopoly might do to the economic life of the country which has resulted in a government strait-jacket being placed about the operations of the roads which often prevents them from taking some logical and effective action to improve their position.

Actually, the competitive problem today is to keep the railways in a position to continue in competition with other forms of transport rather than in competition with each other.

The Royal Commission at present investigating the railways industry may come forward with effective proposals but it is doubtful if political considerations will permit the implementation of many of these suggestions.

Saving for Christmas

Saving up one's pennies and nickels to buy Christmas presents used to be something every child did.

Usually, the saving up process would start about September after school got going again. Once the fund was started, every penny gleaned was pounced upon and put away with the rest. The slowly growing little horde was counted over and over again.

Dad was usually good for sporadic but generous contributions, once the purpose of the savings was explained.

The great moment when the money was spent usually came about a week before Christmas. One store, usually a large variety store, was chosen for the gift-purchasing expedition.

Generally, it was all over in one glorious session. And more than one Christmas there were pennies and nickels left over to spend on oneself so discrimination had been the shopping.

Many children probably still enjoy this tradition. But more and more, it seems, Dad is replacing the piggy bank. And instead of having money left over, children more and more seem to be asking for "just another coupla bucks."

Forgotten mental patients

The 1960 Christmas Gift Campaign for forgotten mental patients was launched recently in Montreal by the Quebec Division of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

The campaign is not a fund raising appeal but a request for gifts of clothing, toiletries, toys, and smoking supplies, to be given through the Association to twenty mental institutions throughout the province.

The shocking fact that 15,000 of the 25,000 hospitalized mental patients in this province have been completely forgotten by their parents and friends underlines the importance of the efforts of the Mental Health Association to help these people.

The objectives of the Association are twofold: To make the public aware of the enormous mental health problem which confronts them and to brighten the Christmas of the forgotten mental patients.

It is untrue that mental patients cannot appreciate gifts. In fact they may be the determining factor in a patient's rehabilitation.

One addition to a lengthy Christmas list is not a great deal to ask of anyone, when this small gift may be the turning point in a patient's desperate effort to return to normalcy, to his home and community.

Gifts may be sent to the Quebec Division of the Canadian Mental Health Association, 5757 Decelles, Montreal 26, Que.

"Let Me Get My Pants On, Will You?"

Uneasy peace reigns over Little Rock

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

An uneasy peace reigns over Little Rock while some of the mob action displayed there three years ago is enacted in New Orleans, new focal point of the white man's war against entry of Negroes in all-white schools of the deep south.

Similarities and differences abound in contrasting the violence and bloodshed in the Louisiana city against that which scarred the Arkansas community in 1957. Eruptions at Little Rock, that forced President Eisenhower to use federal troops, were far more impassioned and more difficult to contain.

To that extent it would seem that despite the rioting and demonstrations in New Orleans, the Negro is slowly making progress in his plea and fight for equal rights, an end to discrimination in seeking jobs and homes and the right of his children to enter public schools occupied by whites.

Little Rock is symbolic of the struggle. In 1957 Governor Orval Faubus, who still is in office, called out state troops to block nine Negroes from entering Little Rock Central High School, thus opposing the 1954 U.S. Supreme Court ruling ending segregation in schools.

When finally his troops were called off and the nine slipped into a school side door, a mass of some 2,000 whites spewed their wrath on the Negroes by storming police barriers and attempting to smash their way into the school.

Scores of white and Negro on-lookers were hurt. In the chaos, Negroes were kicked and beaten. Police battered their way through mobs with clubs. Women wept.

President Eisenhower finally ordered 1,000 paratroopers into Little Rock as Faubus refused to co-operate and seemed instead eager to inflame the whites to new mutiny. Paratroopers marched with the Negro students on the campus and in school corridors and to and from their homes.

In 1958, Faubus tried to discourage integration by closing the high schools and establishing private schools for whites. It didn't work. In 1959 the situation seemed to lose its bitterness.

This year, 12 Negroes walked into Little Rock's two biggest high schools along with hundreds of white students. There was no violence.

But Little Rock is far from fully integrated. Only a handful of Negroes attended the white schools. Court action by the Negroes to speed integration is dragging on. Jurists seem to be moving slowly and warily.

A mass movement of Negroes into the white schools could stir new emotional outbursts.

FAITH WORKS WONDERS

(St. Catharines Standard)

If some of the writers who predict that doom is just around the corner had their way we would be living in burrows awaiting the inevitable incineration.

Fortunately, however, humans in the majority have greater ingenuity than given credit for by the predictors of doom. The majority have adopted the code of changing those things which can be changed and leaving alone those problems they cannot remedy. And it is knowing the difference which counts.

All this does not mean that there is no danger from nuclear destruction. It has always been said that anything could happen in this age in which we are living. And yet, the situation is little different than it has been throughout the years. "Man", as notes the Wall Street Journal, "has always lived under the threat of annihilation, amid repeated predictions of imminent doom, and has so far survived and even managed to retain some humor about his predicament."

Sit-ins active in South Africa

CAPE TOWN (AP)—The sit-in tactics employed by Negroes in the United States to fight discrimination at lunch counters now is being attempted in this legislative capital of racially segregated South Africa. Non-whites here are invading restaurants or stores which do a large non-white business. They are accompanied by sympathetic whites, chiefly members of the small anti-segregation Liberal party, one of whose leading members is author Alan Paton.

Twice in five days a big department on Adderley Street, Cape Town's main shopping street, was the scene of an incident.

There has been no violence, but one sit-in party, including some whites was taken to a police station so their names could be booked.

Under South Africa's Group Areas Act it is an offence for people of different races to sit and take meals together in restaurants, tea rooms or eating houses.

MUST BE SEATED
Oddly, it is not an offence for non-whites in a white area to take a cold drink in a cafe and drink it while standing. Members of different racial groups must sit together for the act to be infringed.

The maximum penalty for such infringement is the equivalent of a $500 fine or two years in jail.

A leading Liberal party member told the Cape Times: "We want to put the onus on storekeepers who have a large non-white clientele to provide equal facilities for all groups."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

LONG MAJOR SUITS AREN'T EVERYTHING

They tell the story about a wicked bridge player who was condemned to play throughout eternity with nothing but nine and ten card heart suits and a partner who would insist on spades.

Of course, after a few eons he might learn to give up and let his partner play the hand at a reasonable contract, but I doubt it. Most bridge players feel that a seven card suit should be bid in definitely, so that there is no stopping them when they hold a nine carder.

Today's hand looks as if it is stacked for East and West. With 18 points between them they can make three no-trump, but needless to say they drop out of the bidding after West's opening diamond bid.

From then on it is a question of just how far North and South will go in bidding their seven card suits against one another and if they get beyond the two level whether or not East and West will go into the doubling business.

When the hand was actually played in the Desert Empire Regionals those North-South pairs who stopped at the three level and went down one undoubted came close to top, but one pair actually managed to stop at two spades and wound up with a plus score.

It wasn't any great skill. South had his ace of clubs stuck in back of the queen and North just didn't feel like bidding.

Around the campus at Bishop's

By NORMAN WEBSTER

There was blood let in the gym at last Friday's clinic, sweat is on tap at this week-end's basketball game - and the tears come next Wednesday when Christmas examinations begin.

As the term heads into the homestretch, the number of bleary-eyed visages, at nine o'clock lectures is on the upswing, as students pore through the dusty pages of textbooks into the wee hours of the morn. Only four more studying days till the fun starts!

Is it just imagination, or do university professors really smile more at exam time?

One of the least known but most effective organizations in promoting goodwill for Bishop's is the 15-member Samaritan Society, which this Christmas is collecting gifts from Bishop's students to turn over to the Sherbrooke area Welfare Society for distribution to needy families.

Canned foods, toys, clothing and so on are being vigorously solicited around the campus. Samsoc also carries on a year-around program consisting mainly of visits to old people's homes and shut-ins - including those in the local jail.

The football season officially ended last Saturday with the Football Formal, held in the men's dining hall. Principal Ogden Glass presented rugged guard Lloyd Rheume with his second straight Most Valuable Player Award, while Cliff MacLean was named most improved player. Six other men received football major awards (equivalent to college "letters").

Paced by Al Johnson's two goals, one in the final minute of play, the hockey Gaiters edged the league-leading Maroons of the Sherbrooke junior circuit 3-2 Thursday.

The win, the pucksters first of the season, followed successive losses to College Militaire Royale and the Sherbrooke Junior Beavers on Saturday and Monday. The cadets won 5-0 in a game closer than the score would indicate, while a disappointing performance at

Education in South Africa seems to aim to protect and maintain existing conditions - there may even be an element of fear in it, said Dr. D. C. Munroe Tuesday at Bishop's in a talk sponsored jointly by the Literary and Debating Society, the World University Service Committee and the Humanities Association. Dr. Munroe, director of McGill University's Institute of Education, was speaking on "Education in Africa."

He took his audience on a tour of a number of educational institutions on the Dark Continent, pointing out the great differences in conditions at schools that may exist but a few miles from each other. He discussed the problems created in South African schools by the country's two languages, English and Afrikaans; he also touched on that Government's discriminatory Apartheid policy.

The first issue of this year's Mitre, the student literary publication, is about to roll off the presses. It is reviewed favorably in The Campus last week by Bishop's Librarian, A. D. Banfill.

Mr. Banfill, who found this Mitre "interesting, readable," was pleased by the large amount of competent verse in it. Singled out for special mention was Eve Norton, one of the University's leading literary lights. Her poem on the Montreal Van Gogh exhibition was highly praised by Mr. Banfill: "Miss Norton, then, is a poet; what more can one say?"

The ubiquitous Paul Jones also turned up in The Mitre, rating mention for having written the magazine's best prose selection. A total of 243 points of blood were given at Bishop's Blood Clinic last Friday, November 25 - including one each from Principal and Mrs. Glass. Science was the winner in the inter-faculty competition.

Some idea of the revenue problem may be revealed by Premier Lesage during the debate. It is a safe bet that questions will be asked.

REVISING PARLIAMENTARY TERMS - Although Quebec legislators operate under the British parliamentary system, most of their debates are carried on in French which may bring a revision of traditional and time-honored renditions of historical parliamentary terms.

One change involves the title of the presiding officer in either House. In the past, he has been addressed as "Monsieur l'Orateur," the literal but not too correct translation of the English "Mr. Speaker." In future he is to be addressed as "Monsieur le president."

And the habit of using "Honorable" when referring to members of the life-appointed Legislative Council may be dropped, the feeling in Quebec circles being that the use of the word "Honorable" has been carried to absurd lengths.

These and many other proposed changes were discussed at a conference between Premier Lesage, Opposition Leader Antonio Talbot and members of the Quebec Legislature Press Gallery.

UN ORGANIZER QUITS - The resignation this week of J. D. Begin, MPP for Dorchester and former Minister of Colonization, as chief organizer for the Union Nationale party has been expected ever since the party's defeat in the June 22 elections.

It was no secret that Mr. Begin and many of his colleagues did not see eye-to-eye on major questions and the UN defeat only served to make his position more difficult.

But court actions contesting his election made it virtually impossible for him to step down from office - almost like running away from a duel. However, these actions have been disposed of and Mr. Begin's election confirmed.

Some observers believe that his resignation as organizer-in-chief may be followed by his withdrawal from the Legislative Assembly.

AT OTTAWA - Some surprise is being expressed at the virulent criticism launched by the Liberals against the action taken by the Progressive Conservative Government to avert a nationwide railway strike.

Mr. Pearson offered a lengthy list of suggestions as to how to settle the strike without compulsory legislation. But a backward look will show that everything he proposed was rejected by a Liberal Government of which he was a member in 1950. Similarly, everything he criticized the Government for this week was done by the same Liberal Government in 1950. Therefore, Mr. Diefenbaker acted before the strike took place. The Liberals in 1950 waited until the strike was ten days old.

the Public Charities Act, which approximate $35,000,000 annually. But even the $55,000,000 net increase in the provincial outlay will place the provincial treasury in difficulties. Certain economies may be effected in general administration but it is doubtful if they can possibly total $55,000,000 plus the increased social welfare benefits the Government has promised.

BAHA'IS

BELIEVE . . .
... THE BAHAI WORLD HAS AN ANSWER.

Today all over the world some two million people called "Baha'is" are engaged in the greatest adventure of our times. They come from every possible religious and economic background; they represent every race on earth, they live in 250 different countries or islands of the globe . . . yet they are united in one common faith.

Their success in overcoming the age-old religious antagonisms and racial prejudices which divide men has proven beyond doubt that human nature can change. In the Baha'i Faith they feel they have found the source of that unity and spiritual life for which a whole world is seeking.

Beauty Tips

For daily wear, teen-agers should reserve the youthful, dewy appearance of their skin and eyes. This means avoiding mascara. An oil-rich eye pomade can be used instead, followed with the use of an eye-liner.

LASSENBA — FIROBIN
OTTAWA — The marriage of Lois Selma Fiobin, of Ottawa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mano E. Fiobin of Ladysmith, Quebec, to Ronald Lassenba of Ottawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Lassenba of Sawyerville, took place recently in St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Ottawa.

Rev. Arthur Conrad officiated at the double ring ceremony. The organist was Mrs. V. T. Pownall and the soloist, Robert McGee, who sang "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register. The church was decorated with baskets of shasta daisies, and the guest pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over satin, fashioned with a Sabrina neckline trimmed with pearls and sequins, having long sleeves and a bouffant skirt styled in tiers of scalloped lace and pleated tulle ending in a cathedral train. A tiara of seed pearls and rhinestones held her four tier veil of tulle illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of sweetheart roses. Her necklace and earrings of cultured pearls were a gift of the groom.

Miss Margaret McCagg as maid of honor, Mrs. Clifford Fiobin and Miss Doreen Stevenson as bridesmaids wore frocks of gold silk organza. Miss Cathy Wickens as flower girl wore a pale green frock. The attendants carried identical bouquets of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums.

Mr. Herbert Lassenba acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Clifford Fiobin, brother of the bride, and David Hodge. The mother of the bride wore a dress of pale blue lace with matching accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses.

After the reading of the minutes, the treasurer gave a report and final plans were made for the Tea and Sale to be held in the church hall, December 6. Following the business meeting refreshments were served by the members.

St. George's Guild

Kiddies corner highlight of gala annual Christmas tea and sale

Garlands of greenery and gay Christmas decorations enhanced St. George's Parish Hall, Lennoxville, on Thursday, when members of St. George's Guild sponsored an exceptionally successful tea and sale.

A highlight of the sales tables in the upper hall was the Children's Corner on the stage, which proved a most popular spot during the afternoon. Here, the kiddies were able to purchase a special gift for mum and dad or little brother, and at times it was impossible to get anywhere near the tables. This popular spot was under the supervision of Mrs. Sidney Taylor, assisted by Mrs. D. Forth, Miss M. Fry and Mrs. L. Evans. Other sales tables that drew the attention of the large crowd present were of course, the table of home cooking, which in the early hours of the afternoon was completely sold out, the work table, with its large variety of gift suggestions and Christmas decorations, a table of the sweetest dolls clothes, dainty knitted articles, aprons, and the parcel post table, giving a thrill of suspense to the buyer.

The various tables were in charge of Mrs. C. Waite, convener of the food table, assisted by Mrs. H. M. McLaughlin, Mrs. G. Giroux, Miss Ethel Taylor and Mrs. T. Freestone; Mrs. R. McFadden and Mrs. E. Paice, parcel post; Mrs. H. Bennett and Mrs. C. Cornish, aprons; Mrs. Lee Watson and Mrs. Leigh Bladon, dolls; Mrs. K. B. Jenckes and Mrs. D. Melton convened the work table, assisted by Mrs. O. Glass, Mrs. B. Hunt, Mrs. J. H. Cranford and Mrs. G. Moffat. Knitted articles were sold by Mrs. A. Baker and Mrs. J. Morrison.

The guests were received by Mrs. R. S. Pearson, president of St. George's Guild, and Mrs. T. J. Matthews. The cashier was Mrs. J. Jefferis.

In the lower hall where tea was served, the linen covered tea table was attractively arranged with a gay Christmas centerpiece flanked by lighted red tapers in silver candelabra. Garlands of greenery and colorful Christmas balls were arranged around the room and the small guest tables were centered with lighted red tapers in green stands and glittering Yuletide decorations.

Pourers during the afternoon were Mrs. G. S. Thomson, Mrs. Chas. Herring, Mrs. Willard Johnston and Mrs. T. J. Matthews. General convener of the tea was Mrs. E. L. Atto with Mrs. W. H. Fisher convening duties in the kitchen.

Preparation of the food was in charge of Mrs. R. Blake, Mrs. C. L. Hall, Mrs. H. O. Burt and Mrs. E. D. Cote.

The dining room was in charge of Mrs. Rupert Atto, assisted in serving by Mrs. R. Bul-titude, Mrs. H. Blachford, Mrs. J. Anido, Mrs. W. J. Howe, Mrs. R. Boright, Mrs. F. Pattison, Mrs. B. Couston and Mrs. A. Preston.

During the afternoon Mrs. E. B. Pilgrim sold tickets on a doll's outfit and a quilt. Mrs. Willard Johnston was the winner of the doll's outfit and Mrs. William Fuller the quilt.

Library anniversary tea held in setting of by-gone days

Shades of the 1880s prevailed in Plymouth Church Hall on Thursday afternoon where tea was served by lamplight in commemoration of the 80th anniversary of the Sherbrooke Library.

Ladies of the Library Committee had collected a variety of coal-oil lamps, which were the only means of lighting in those days, and with the flicker of candlelight in old fashioned brass candlesticks, and a display of lovely antiques, gave authenticity to the theme of the "Good Old Days."

In keeping with the occasion, Miss Winifred Farmer, librarian, received the guests wearing a beautiful black lace shawl, 100 years old, and long crochet mitts in keeping with the times. The president of the Library Committee, Mrs. Neil Tracy also welcomed the guests. The cashier for the afternoon was the treasurer, Mrs. Daniel Heilig.

Beautiful potted geraniums, loaned from the City Green-houses, were arranged on the stage, and the tea table was lighted with white tapers in antique brass candlesticks. Pourers during the afternoon were Mrs. Lewis Rosenbloom, Mrs. G. LeBaron, Miss Margaret Haight and Miss Bessie Milford.

General convener of this delightful event was Mrs. Edna Markey, who was assisted in the kitchen by Mrs. Viola Somerset and Miss Evelyn Bradley.

Salads were prepared by Mrs. E. Belanger, Miss Evelyn Gunning and Mrs. Ken Mills and cakes were cut by Mrs. D. W. Ward.

Servers during the afternoon were Miss Bessie Bryce, Miss Marion Tomlinson, Mrs. Percy Rawlings and Mrs. Clarence Foley.

The display of antiques supervised by Miss M. Sayer, drew admiring comments from those who viewed them.

The table of home cooking was in charge of Mrs. A. Ross and Mrs. Gordon Shaw.

Christmas is in December—why not keep it there?

First off, I want to say I love Christmas. It is, I think, the happiest season of the year.

But I do think we are stretching the Christmas season a bit too far. I began to think so when stores started decorating for Christmas before Thanksgiving.

This year I noticed that some stores were displaying Christmas doodads along with Halloween and Thanksgiving knicknacks.

Christmas glitter put on display in October, as it was this year seems somehow out of place . . . and long before Christmas comes around it has lost a little of its magic.

Christmas gifts bought early "to avoid the last-minute rush" often seem uninspired by the time they are wrapped for giving.

In contrast, there is something about the excitement and wonder of the real Christmas season that makes gifts chosen then seem exactly right. Perhaps it is because the Christmas season so lifts our spirits that we suddenly seem to know exactly what will please Aunt Liza or just what will be a small child's favorite present.

Besides, what are we supposed to do in the few weeks before Christmas if our presents are bought and wrapped, our cards addressed and ready for mailing, our houses decorated, and our Christmas baking all done and waiting in the freezer?

That's efficiency, I guess—but it doesn't leave us much of the pleasure of getting ready for Christmas after we get the Christmas spirit. But perhaps we have stretched Christmas out as far as it will go and will soon go back to the old-fashioned way of leaving Christmas to December.

Jottings

By GLADYS TAYLOR
A recent issue of the NEW STATESMAN devotes a good deal of space to "Commonwealth Literature — A Survey of Writing in Canada, India, Australia, etc..."

Speaking for Canada was Mordecai Richler. "I come from a country... where a sale of 1,000 copies of a serious Canadian novel is considered very good indeed... A lot has already been written about how isolated and misunderstood the writer is in Canada but the danger it seems to me has always lain in the other direction. Because of the paucity of good writing in Canada, there is an unquestionable tendency among people of goodwill to overpraise, even lionize the still only promising young writer... However there are, I must say, undercurrents of artistic activity in Canada that were not evident ten years ago when I last lived there. McClelland & Stewart, the most intrepid of Canadian publishers, have already brought out close to 20 titles in their new paperback series, New Canadian Library... There are also two highly professional, if occasionally dull, new quarterlies being published in Canada. CANADIAN LITERATURE, edited by George Woodcock, offers us a tougher standard of criticism than we have been used to and THE TAMARACK REVIEW, edited by Robert Weaver, who has through the CBC, the newlyformed Readers' Club of Canada and elsewhere — been enormously helpful to writers spread thinly across a huge country... But, all the same, it is fanciful to talk of Canadian writing. There's no such thing. Writing from Canada, at its best, is regional North American writing."

Run for your life
Run For Your Life, Fred Swayze, the Ryerson Press. 147 pages, $3.50. — During the early wars between the English and Indians for control of North America, more than one white boy was captured and adopted by the Indians. Fred Swayze has based this story on the actual accounts of one such boy, John Rutherford.

At 16, Rutherford came from Scotland to work for a trading company. Accompanying an army survey party up the St. Clair River, Rutherford was captured by a group of Chippewa braves who had attacked the party. The boy became the slave of a Chippewa chief and later was adopted by the tribe. Continuous battles between Indians and whites often placed Rutherford in an ambiguous position — should he remain with his Indian captors or return to a life continually more alien to him?

The story is generally exciting — though somewhat slow moving at times. Younger readers will enjoy hearing the first hand experiences of a youth living in an Indian camp. It will also bring 18th century history of North America much closer to modern day readers.

Cook's Journal sold at auction
LONDON (Reuters) — A log book and journal of the first and second voyages of 18th-century explorer Captain James Cook were sold for $53,000 $148,400 at Christie's auction rooms Monday.

The manuscripts were offered for sale by a retired naval officer, Commander P. A. Hudson, a descendant of Sir Hugh Palliser, Cook's naval commander. A London publisher bought them.

'A highly independent personality'

SPEECHES OF ANGUS L. MACDONALD $5.50 Longmans, Green & Co. 227 pp. Those who peruse this collection of twenty addresses, delivered from 1934 to 1952 by the Nova Scotian who is already a legend in his native province, will carry in their hearts the image of a gallant man and the spell of a great soul.

As Chief Justice Hiesley states in his enthusiastic foreword, "all these speeches bear the imprint of a highly independent personality. Each reveals in its distinctive way the unmistakable mark of a poet, despite Hon. Mr. Crerar's rejection of that description of "Angus L." noted in the senator's well-documented introductory biographical sketch.

It may be assumed from the record of his administrative successes that "Angus L." had his practical side as well.

But essentially he was a man in love with words and the magic they hold. His spiritual approach to life enabled him to transform plain prose into sheer poetry, without loss of vital truth.

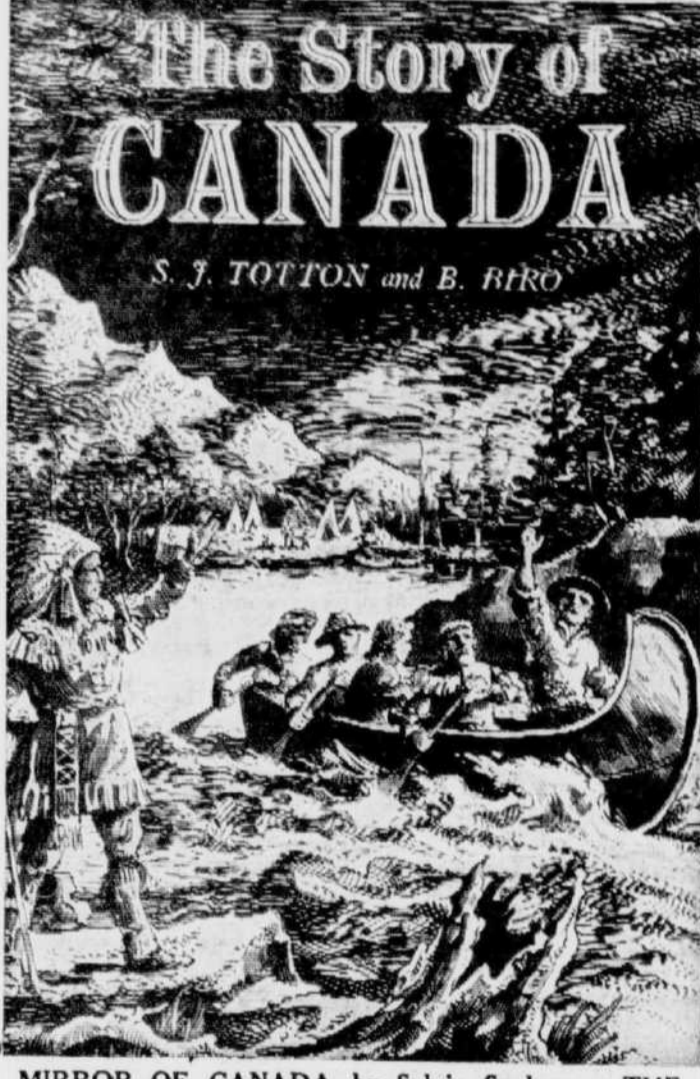

As one who heard the brilliant mariner speak in the Commons at Ottawa I must confess that his type of eloquence appeared to possess little appeal or solid impact in that strangely insensitive assembly of his day. His style of delivery and choice of language seemed rather to belong to an age long since gone by.

Oratory in which occurs such gleaming phrases as "a noble river on whose bosom the greatest ships may sail" and, again, "ever pushing on and on with the restless fire that flames in the Scottish blood" managed in the mid-20th century to leave politicians relatively cold and unmoved.

Also Angus L. shunned any public display of a sense of humor and the almost total absence of this saving grace is notably evident in this selection of his discourses.

Angus L. Macdonald was obviously never fully at home in the Ottawa setting. His deepest attachments were for "the lone shelling of the misty island," his native Cape Breton and for such haunting voices as are heard near the eversounding sea. Leaders like him leave an example of sincerity and appreciation of the supreme values of life that will "outlast the shadow of the sun" — a shining memorial of their brief voyaging between the mysterious eternities.

DON W. THOMSON

MIRROR OF CANADA by Sylvia Seelye — THE RYERSON PRESS — $8.50; — THE STORY OF CANADA by S. J. Totton and B. Biro — 64 pages — McCLELLAND & STEWART — $3.00 — These two books have at least three things in common; they deal, historically and geographically, with Canada; their illustrations are superb and they'd both make excellent Christmas gifts — particularly for the student in the family.

MIRROR OF CANADA is a richly detailed book of pictures most of which have appeared in the CANADIAN GEOGRAPHICAL JOURNAL. This book, of which the foreword is written by Governor-General Vanier and the introduction by Wilfred Eggleston, is a sequel to IMAGE OF CANADA published in 1953. It is a comprehensive and beautiful book to which you can return again and again with increasing interest and pleasure.

THE STORY OF CANADA is a new addition to the STORIES OF THE COMMONWEALTH series. In addition to its delightful illustrations, it contains a virile and concise account of Canada's history plus interestingly anecdotal accounts of how Canadians live — or have lived throughout the centuries.

Both books recommended as splendid additions to any library.

Hilarious 'autothinkography'

THE SNAKE HAS ALL THE LINES by Jean Kerr 168 pgs Doubleday & Company Inc. $3.50 — This is Jean Kerr's dynamic and hilarious answer to the many requests for a successor to her popular PLEASE DON'T EAT THE DAISIES.

It is not an autobiography: "I'm never going to write my autobiography and it's all my mother's fault. I didn't hate her, so I have practically no material... She can arrive any old day in July and suddenly it seems to be Christmas Eve," says Mrs. Kerr, introducing her delightful "wild Irish mother" to her readers. She gives a gentle slap on the wrist to a number of writers with a less happy parent-child relationship and a penchant for being brutally frank about it.

THE SNAKE HAS ALL THE LINES is, perhaps, an autothinkography, a series of commentaries, — funny, affectionate, revealing, but never cynical or cruel — on men, women, children, the theatre, suburbia.

It would make a fine gift for parents who want a new approach to discipline, for men who need to understand women or for anybody in the doldrums.

Always room for one more

ALWAYS ROOM FOR ONE MORE... Virginia Jullier... $3.95, Ambassador Books Ltd. — This book could have been subtitled DIARY OF A NINTH PREGNANCY, or How a Mother of Eight Boys Made an Old Mansion Habitable and Simultaneously Produced Her First Daughter.

There are a few genuine chuckles in the book, but too often the attempts at light-hearted laughter are forced and fall embarrassing flat.
Jean Kerr of PLEASE DON'T EAT THE DAISIES fame can write this sort of book and make it seem spontaneously funny, but in this case where there is no great talent to justify an extensive treatment of a frivolous subject the result is less hilarious than irritating.

Complete dissection

THE WASTE MAKERS — By Vance Packard — The Musson Book Company — 340 pages — $4.50.

Vance Packard must have a great deal of faith in the American people to continue living in the country he has dissected so completely.

First, The Hidden Persuaders, then The Status Seekers and now The Waste Makers have painted a picture of a society so artificial and so hag-ridden by the almighty dollar and the frothy slogans of Madison Avenue that it seems an insubstantial, almost amoral way of life indeed.

If Mr. Packard was trying to bury the United States as a country of enduring values, then The Waste Makers would be the last nail in the coffin.

The situation (and a lot of it applies to Canada): "The people of the United States are in a sense becoming a nation on a tiger. They must learn to consume more and more, or they are warned, their magnificent economic machine may turn and devour them. They must be induced to step up their individual consumption higher and higher, whether they have any pressing need for the goods or not."

This has resulted in an economy based on, among other things, planned obsolescence (cars are the best example) the "short, sweet life of home products," so-called durable goods that break down almost immediately, helping to create the "repairman's paradise," selling on the "never-never plan, and eventually, the idealizing of hedonism for the masses.

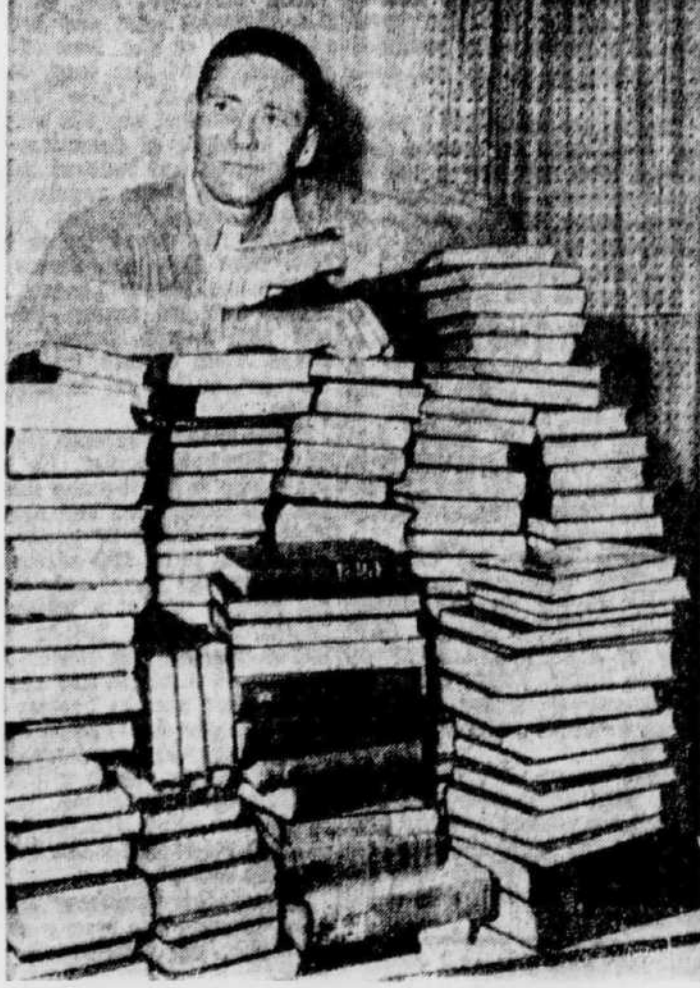

Mr. Packard says this cannot go on unless the United States is prepared to pay with increasing depletion of its natural resources, complete commercialization of American life, and the leading of the American character in the paths of materialism, softness and decadence.

The author suggests remedies. Restoring price in prudence, quality and challenges successfully met to achieve "an Enduring Style of Life."

But Mr. Packard's remedies lack convictions. He writes as though he really doesn't believe much can be done about things.

The chief fascination of this book, as in Mr. Packard's other volumes on similar themes is the clarity with which he lays bare the basic ills all of us recognize and most of us are party to.

The Wastemakers, taken with the other two books, may some day stand out as the most vivid and at the same time, the sorriest commentaries on our tinselled times.
HUGH DOHERTY.

THE LIBRARY GETS ITS MAN — The San Francisco Public Library caught up with its most wanted patron — John Kennedy, 26. Ardent reader Kennedy had 175 overdue books on which he owes fines totalling $350. Police reported that Kennedy had been taking books out under three names.

Whether Your Nickel dated 1926 has a "near" or "far" six means the difference of between $8 to $100, depending, as usual, on the condition of the coin.

Although a magnifying glass is necessary to spot the minute difference in distance from the top of the six to the maple leaf, this is one of the die varieties brought to light in the last few years. Simply because this variety is listed in the standard catalogue, it is taken to mean a Canadian collection is incomplete without it; so the price has more than doubled in the last year.

Most controversial subject among collectors is whether die varieties and die breaks should be included in a Canadian collection.

There are now 48 varieties included in a complete list of each coin for each year, including 1891 large date, small date and large leaves, small leaves, down to the 1956 dot, dime. Most of these varieties even have a space marked for them in the coin holders now available.

Also recognized by some collectors but not all listed in catalogues are the tiniest dots and lines on coins, caused by pits and cracks on inferior or worn dies, such as the "bug tail nickel" and the 1958 half dollar with a dot, smaller than a pinhead under the A in Canada. Is it not an insult to our Canadian mint to mix such trivial errors (mostly from years following the last war) with a collection of our customarily magnificent coins?

On the other hand, if pleasure is to be derived by viewing imperfections or other people's mistakes, by all means have a collection of die breaks — and varieties! But don't intermingle these poor orphans with a Canadian collection; they don't mix.

There is no question that a collector strives for material in the finest possible condition. A rim nick or surface abrasion immediately lowers a coin's value. It is illogical, then, to deliberately pay a premium for a coin that is inherently imperfect.

Ontario panel approves book Valuable coin

TORONTO (CP) — Lady Chatterley's Lover has a clean bill of health from a government-appointed panel on indecent literature, but six other paperback books and six girls magazines were found to be objectionable.

The four-man panel was appointed by Attorney-General Kelso Roberts' advisory committee on indecent literature.

The panel said Lady Chatterley's Lover, written by the late D. H. Lawrence, is not obscene within the meaning of the Criminal Code.

Panelist David A. Coon, a Stouffville, Ont., lawyer, did not release the names of the books. He said the panel believed they were out of print and publicity could lead to resumption of publication.

STAMP CHAT

by Milton Cronenberg

After many years of frustration, collectors interested in the unusual stamps of the Maldivian Islands will now be able to obtain them as issued.

The sultan of the islands has authorized a Maldivian Philatelic Agency in New York to handle the stamps of his country. A new definite issue of 11 stamps is to appear.

The new stamps, valued from two lares to 10 rupees, will feature buildings and scenes in Male, the capital. Of special interest is the 10-lares value featuring the minaret of Juma Mosque in Male, which was also on a 1909 stamp.

The first provisional Maldivian stamps appeared in 1906 by the overprinting of Ceylon stamps. After six months these stamps were withdrawn, mostly because collectors abroad had bought up practically all supplies. A few denominations were introduced again starting in 1909 and sporadically Maldivian stamps appeared in 1933, 1960 and 1964. In all cases, these stamps were extremely hard to get — the 1954 issue was not catalogued until 1956.

Most of the difficulty was due to the isolation of the islands, connected with Ceylon only by a ship sailing once a month. The thousands of islands of the Maldivian archipelago, covering 450 miles in length and 70 miles at the widest point, were first inhabited by Singhalese colonists from Ceylon about 150 AD.

The next meeting of the Eastern Townships Stamp Club will be held Thursday, December 8 at 357 King Street West, Sherbrooke.

The guest speaker will be I. Whitehouse of Dixville, Quebec, who will speak on the Pleasure of Stamp Collecting.

The fourth meeting of the Stamp Club for this year was held on Thursday, November 24 under the chairmanship of the president, Abbe LaFrance.

Members enjoyed a most interesting and informative talk by J. M. White of Coaticook on Early Canadian Stamps. Mr. White supported his speech on early Canadian postmarks, cancellations, stampless covers and early stamp issues by showing several framed specimens.

The speaker was thanked by E. B. Pilgrim, and the members carried on the more informal parts of the meeting with the customary trading of stamps and discussions.

DVORAK — SYMPHONY NO. 4 in G Major, London Symphony Orch., Antal Dorati cond. (MERCURY mono MG-50236, stereo SR-90236 - This symphony, actually Dvorak's eighth in order of composition, is not one of the most-played of his works, but it has the vivacity and charm of a concert favorite.

This particular recording of the symphony contains an excellent demonstration of just how accurate modern sound reproduction techniques can be. Near the beginning of the first movement, during a particularly spirited and vigorous passage, several explosive mutters of exhortation can be heard, presumably those of conductor Dorati. Mercury engineers had the good sense to leave them in the finished recording. They give the orchestra's buoyant playing a "you are there" quality, and heighten the excitement that exists throughout the symphony.

THE MUSIC of this symphony ranges far and wide. For the most part it is bright and gay, sparkling with dance themes, but it contains too, passages of wistfulness as poignant as Dvorak's famous "Going Home" largo in his "New World" symphony.

There is such an astonishing variety of mood and emphasis throughout the work that the orchestra must shift direction and pace suddenly, wheeling, drifting, galloping, stopping with all the nimbleness of a quarter horse. The London Symphony is more than up to the job.

ANGEL RECORDS has announced the forthcoming release of a two-disc album commemorating the 75th anniversary of Otto Klemperer. It will be awaited with interest by record collectors. The same company is preparing, too, to release five more discs in its "Great Recordings of the Century" series, which should add stature to this recording project.

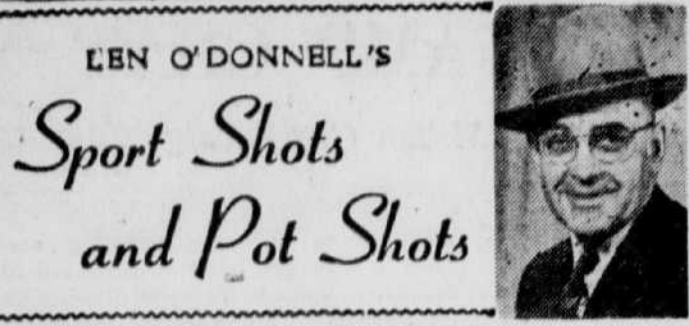

CAPITOL has a stereo premier coming up in Vaughan Williams Mass in G minor. It will also be available on a mono-record.

Plastic money is suggested

LONDON (AP) — The Royal Mint today came out for plastic money that would be cheap to make, light to carry, brightly colored and easier on the pocket.

The idea is not a retreat from hard currency but a serious suggestion, insisted John Hastings James, deputy master and comptroller of the Royal Mint, in his annual report.

The mint turned out a record 707,000,000 coins last year, most of them big and heavy enough to wear holes in the poorest pocket.

LENN O'DONNELL'S Sport Shots and Pot Shots

WHO HAS THE BEST PRO FOOTBALL TEAM IN CANADA? This question was certainly answered in no uncertain terms last Saturday when the Ottawa Rough Riders came through with a 16-6 win over Edmonton Eskis to bring the old Grey Cup back East.

Some may say that the fumbles decided the issue but that all goes in a football game. We still think that the best team won last Saturday and they deserved it. The Rough Riders came up with a strong two-way game which took the Eskis by surprise.

The defensive unit from the East had Parker's number on the option-plays and smothered him before he could get away. We think that was the big difference in the outcome. The Eskis figured they could push the Riders all over the lot but they ran into a stone wall.

Jackie Parker admitted that they stepped them on the ground where they figured they were going to shine, where they picked up only a few yards. In the air when they decided to throw the Riders had a wonderful defense to toss at them. This again was a surprise which goes to prove that a diversified attack is the thing today.

The Riders played a strong game and everybody did his share. They proved they were a much better team than the majority of the fans figured. Prior to the game the Western fans were claiming that the best team in the East was still back home. Jack Simpson took exception to this and blew his top about the experts claiming they were lucky to beat the Argos.

After watching the game one must admit that the Rough Riders were the better club last Saturday and the merits of their play deserved to win the Grey Cup. They outplayed the Eskis and were right on their toes at all times so more power to them. They won it fair and square.

See where Merrill Smith's Royal Hotel Darts team is leading the Sherbrooke Darts League. They went through the first half of the schedule without dropping a game. They posted ten straight victories which seems to be quite an impressive string. Keep it up boys in the second half.

The Stanstead County Fish and Game Club walked off with the honors in Molson's Fishing Club winning the gold trophy for finishing first in the Provincial Tournament. Just to make it complete the Memphremagog Club copped second and the silver trophy. Not bad for the Townships.

Stanstead amassed a total of 905 points while Memphremagog had 780 to nose out the Lake St. John-Roberval Club who had 730. They won the bronze trophy.

So it seems that fishermen in the Townships really support their clubs and the members register their fish. This plays a big part in deciding the winners of the various districts and the Provincial champions. It is nice to see the Townships walk off with two of the three top trophies.

We attended the meeting of the Molson's Fishing Club in Montreal Thursday when the final tabulations were released and it was nice to see two clubs from the Townships on top. Congratulations to both clubs for their fine showing.

Richmond Pelletier, Director of Molson's Fishing Club, and his assistants did a wonderful job in compiling the results. When you figure that a total of 2,158 entries were received and had to be checked to see that everything was in order that is quite a job.

Molson's distributed $10,590 to the various clubs throughout the Province which will certainly help the members and the clubs. This will come in handy. The main trophies will be presented next Saturday in Chicoutimi at the annual meeting of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations.

Speckled trout headed the list with a total of 329 entries while the pike was next with 293 and grey trout 271 which goes to show the number of fish landed. Lake Megantic Fish and Game Club won the district honors as the trophy winners are not eligible. Yamaska was next with Sutton following in line.

It might be hard to keep the honors next year as it seems that the clubs from Northern Quebec are commencing to get interested and are beginning to register their fish and form clubs. Anyway they can't take it away this year. The honors are yours gentlemen. Congratulations for your fine work.

MOUNT ORFORD SKI CLUB

BY MARIAN ALAIN

ORFORD SKI CLUB TO RAISE JUNIOR FUNDS The Mount Orford Ski Club is very proud of their junior skiers, a group of boys and girls who have become well known in the Eastern Townships and parts of Quebec for their competitive skiing. This year the juniors have been working hard training on Mount Orford, although there is no snow, have already climbed Mount Orford to get their "ski legs". Last Saturday the juniors were hard at work with pick and shovel widening the Three Creeks Trail.

This year Mount Orford has started to raise a fund solely for the juniors. The purpose of this fund is to train and send the junior competitors to other resorts for competition, especially to the seeding races such as the Ryan Cup, Mt. Tremblant, Tascheron, Quebec Division Races. This fund would pay complete expenses for all juniors and help to promote competitive skiing among them, and perhaps some day send some of them to the Olympics.

The Mount Orford Ski Club started the fund by holding a raffle among the members at the opening dance, November 26th. The juniors themselves will hold a box-lunch party, and a fashion show.

This fund is very important to the juniors. They are working hard, training for the approaching ski season with the hopes of winning top honors for the Mount Orford Ski Club. In any organization it is important to have sufficient funds to promote these things and the juniors are counting a great deal on skiing enthusiasts and the citizens of Magog for help in raising this fund.

SKIS AND POLES FLYING The opening dance of the Season was held November 26, at the New Magog Hotel, and proved to be a great success. Pierre Alain, president of the Ski Club introduced Aime Choquette, Jacques Audette and Bob Richardson to those present. Bob Richardson, pro and manager of the Mount Orford Ski Club, presented flowers, compliments of the Magog Flower Shop, to Miss Ginette Charland and Miss Jeannine Langlois, candidates for the "Miss Textiles of Canada" contest. A film on Mount Orford was shown and proved to be a success.

An executive meeting of the Ski Club will be held on Tuesday December 6, at the New Magog Hotel.

Sugar Ray And Gene Fullmer Meet Tonight For NBA Version Of World Middleweight Title, Third Meeting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For Sugar Ray Robinson, tonight may be the end of the line—or a new lease on life in a ring career that has been long, brilliant and often tumultuous. The answer will come when Robinson, 39 at least, goes against Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, in a nationally televised fight. Fullmer, the champion, is recognized almost everywhere except New York and Massachusetts as the world middleweight champion.

Robinson has held the title five times. He will be seeking the crown for an unprecedented sixth time. Fullmer is a 3-to-1 favorite to retain his National Boxing Association version of the world title. This will be the third Fullmer-Robinson meeting. Fullmer won the then undisputed title with an upset 15-round decision in New York Jan. 2, 1957. The following May 1, in Chicago, Robinson won it back with a patented one-punch, left hook knockout in the fifth round.

Fullmer is still angered because Robinson would not give him a return match. Subsequently, in 1959, the NBA withdrew its recognition of Robinson as champion for failure to defend the title. In a match to fill the vacant throne, Fullmer knocked out Carmen Basilio in San Francisco in 14 rounds Aug. 28, 1959. Last June 29 in Salt Lake City Gene stopped Carmen in 12.

Sugar Ray, a man who has fascinated his admirers while reciting a small army of bitter critics, annexed the middleweight title the first time when he knocked out Jake LaMotta Feb. 14, 1951, in Chicago in 13 cruel rounds. He had been fighting since 1940. Tonight, 20 years and 154 fights later, Robinson reaches another crossroad.

Glenn Hall, Hawk's Agile Netminder Hasn't Missed Game In Six Seasons

By W. R. WHEATLEY Don Simmons of the sagging Boston Bruins refused to go to the minors at behest of the harassed Boston management, who called up farmhand Bruce Gamble. Jack McCartan, star of the U.S. Olympics team and hailed as saviour of the New York Rangers, didn't last long. He's in the minors. Little Lorne (Gump) Worsley, who has weathered a couple of demotions in past seasons and bounced back, is doing the chores regularly. Hall's durability has been amazing. He moved up to the NHL from Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League. He played two full seasons—1955-56 and 1956-57—with Detroit Red Wings. Then he was traded to Chicago and has yet to miss a game.

Plante is in his seventh season as a Montreal regular. He has yet to play a full 70-game schedule. His closest was last season when he played in 69 games. Sawchuk, in his 11th season as a regular, has played only three full seasons without a miss—with Detroit in 1950-51, 1951-52 and 1957-58. He was with Boston two seasons, 68 games in one and 34 in the other when he became ill. Bower, who has played most of one full 70-game season with New York Rangers, in 1953-54. He is in his third season with the Leafs and has yet to play a full schedule with them.

Disregarding temporary demotions, Worsley has been a regular with the Rangers seven seasons. He played one season, 1955-56, without a miss. Simmons' closest to 70 games was 58. He had four part-time seasons with the Bruins, much of the time sharing duties as a "regular with veteran Harry Lumley.

Lions Visit Beavers Tomorrow While Rockets Journey To Granby; Third Place At Stake For Local Club

Sherbrooke Beavers and Three Rivers Lions will clash here tomorrow afternoon at the Arena with third position in the Eastern Townships Intermediate Hockey League at stake. The Dube squad holds a slim one-point advantage over the up-and-coming Lions, who will be battling to move ahead of the locals.

In the other tilt Drummondville Rockets will move over to take on the Vics of Granby and this should be a very interesting battle. The Roger Bedard club will be trying to maintain their home record perfect over the Polignou squad. In their first encounter the Vics posted a 7-4 victory on Nov. 10 and will be out to make it two in a row.

The Rockets have a total of 18 points for their nine victories and two losses to give them a five-point spread over the second-place Vics. The Rockets' other loss was to Three Rivers Lions and no doubt the Vics will be out and make it two over the visitors.

The Beavers showed up better Thursday evening but were obliged to take a 4-2 overtime loss in Drummondville. The Rockets rallied in the extra stanza to register two goals and ensure themselves of the victory. The Beavers were leading 2-1 after two periods but in the third Gilles Boivin tallied the equalizer and then in the overtime he potted another to break the deadlock while Aubry came through with the insurance marker.

The Beavers seem to have more trouble with the Rockets than they do with any other club. Tomorrow the Lions will be paying their second visit to Sherbrooke. In the first journey they dropped a 7-2 decision on Nov. 10.

The Lions will present a revamped lineup since their last trip here. Manager Del Dugre and playing coach Gilles Thibault have been trying to rebuild their squad as they started from scratch this year. They picked up some of the players cut loose by Asbestos and Victoriaville and are molding them into a solid aggregation.

Since their last trip they knocked over the powerful Rockets of Drummondville to the tune of 10-4. It was one of two losses suffered by the leaders. Coach Dube has been on the look-out for more help and may present a few new faces for tomorrow's duel.

Earl Buchholz and Barry MacKay Clash For Victorian Tennis Crown, Meet Italy Next Weekend In Zone

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — An uphill struggle against an old jinx faced Earl (Butch) Buchholz today as he met teammate Barry MacKay in the first all-American final of the Victorian tennis championships.

The two Davis cup stars have met four times previously this year and on each occasion hard-serving MacKay, of Dayton, Ohio, has won in a close match. "We have had some whinging battles but Barry has had my number up to now," said Buchholz, the 24-year-old St. Louis stylist who might have won the Wimbledon and U.S. titles except for leg cramps.

The Americans go to Perth Sunday to prepare for a meeting with the Italians in the Davis Cup interzone finals, Dec. 9-11. MacKay and Buchholz will carry the singles load in an attempt to qualify for the challenge round against the Australians Dec. 26-28 at Sydney.

The 25-year-old MacKay, runner-up to Neale Fraser of Australia in the New South Wales tournament a couple weeks ago at Sydney, is playing at the peak of efficiency.

TORONTO (CP) — Centre Ron Stewart of Toronto Maple Leafs suffered a broken right ankle in Thursday night's game at Montreal and will be out "indefinitely," club officials said Friday.

Stewart crashed into the boards in the final minute of play and his skate sliced into the wooden planking as he fell.

Joe Kuharich Gets Contract From Notre Dame

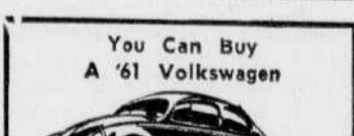

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame gave head football coach Joe Kuharich a three-year contract extension Friday, ending speculation it might replace the former pro coach after one of the worst Irish gridiron seasons in modern times.

Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, vice-president and chairman of the faculty board in charge of athletics, said the action was unanimous.

Kuharich's 2-8 record this season tied Notre Dame's previous worst in 74 years of football.

Just before Christmas 1958, Notre Dame dismissed coach Terry Brennan after a 6-4 season and hired Kuharich, a South Bend native and former Notre Dame guard who had coached the pro San Francisco 49ers, Chicago Cardinals and Washington Redskins.

Kuharich's original four-year agreement would have expired Feb. 1, 1963. The new contract runs to Feb. 1, 1966. Salary terms were not disclosed.
