A GOOD MAN GONE

Death of Hon. Alex.
Mackenzie.

HIS HONORABLE CAREER.

All Canada Will Mourn the Great Loss.

ONE OF NATURE'S NOBLEMEN

Endowed With Noble Aims and Impulses.

SOME GOOD LESSONS FROM HIS LIFE.

The Honored and Esteemed Ex-Premier of Canada Has Passed Away After a Long Struggle Which for Days Has Seemed the Last—He Died as He Lived Respected by His Fellow Countrymen.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.

TORONTO, April 17.—After a protracted illness of many weeks duration Hon.
Alexander Mackenzie, M.P. for East York and ex-Premier of the Dominion of Canada, died at his residence St. Albans-street between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning.

The venerable statesman had been in very feeble health nearly all through the winter, the result of a fall which he sustained early in February though it was not until about six weeks ago that his condition became very serious.
During those six weeks a desperate contest between life and death was sustained with wonderful vitality and it was marvellous that it was deferred so long. Only constitution of iron preserved by life of regularity could, have given to any man such tenacity of life.

From the beginning of the last long illness the condition of the illustrious patient was practically hopeless, for while at times there was slight rally, improvement was never at any time sufficient to warrant hope of permanent recovery. Dr. Thorburn, for many years friend and medical attendant of the late Premier, with unremitting attention used every device known to science to ward off the impending blow, but a few days ago he was compelled to announce that the end was fast approaching, and the family were fully prepared when death at length came.

Mr. Mackenzie's devoted wife and Chas. Mackenzie, M. P. for West Lambton, deceased leader's brother, were constantly at his bedside and with him at the moment of dissolution, as were also Rev. Dr. Thomson and wife, son-in-law and daughter of the deceased of Sarnia.
Mr. Mackenzie practically took no nourishment for some days past and was only at times partly conscious being however, comparatively free from pain.

His Last Political Utterance.

By the death of Hon. Alex. Mackenzie a vacancy is created in the representation of East York in the Dominion Commons. His sickness prevented his attendance at Ottawa at all this session, and even last session feebleness which was gradually overtaking him prevented regular attendance at the parliamentary duties, which up to that time had been a striking characteristic of his political career. It is of interest to remember at this time the occasion of his last recorded utterance in the National Council Halls. It occurred during the passing of the estimates and the item was under consideration for the payment of Mr.
Fabre, Canadian Immigration Agent in France. A government supporter remarked that Mr. Fabre was appointed by Mr. Mackenzie's Government to which the ex-Premier at once replied:
"I regret it." These were the last words he spoke in the chamber. The deceased gentleman led a busy life and to the last day that physical strength permitted, he was actively engaged in many duties demanding his personal attention. As president of the North American Life Insurance Company he was in daily attendance at the office directing and guiding its operations and here his marvellous memory, one of the striking traits of his many sided character was of inestimable value and his loss is irreparable.

The Funeral Arrangements.

Funeral arrangements are announced as follows: On Wednesday the body will be conveyed from the residence to Jarvis-street Baptist Church, where services will be held after which the cortege will proceed to Union Station from whence the remains will be conveyed to Sarnia arriving about 2 p. m. On Thursday services in Sarnia will take place at 2.30 p. m., when the interment will take place in the family lot in Lake View cemetery. The death, although so long expected, was not generally known throughout the city to-day, and consequently public references were few. At St. Andrew's, Rev. D. J. McDonnell spoke at length on the blameless life and noble record of the deceased statesman, and Rev. G. M. Milligan made touching allusion to the event in the course of his morning prayer. Mr. Mackenzie was a Baptist in religion and a member of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, though he had necessarily been unable to attend of late.
Rev. Dr. Thomas, pastor of the church, made lengthened reference to the death of the deceased ex-Premier at the close of the morning sermon.

found sorrow here in his old home and constituted which he represented for so many years and also when premier of the Dominion. Flays are at half mast on the public buildings and on many private residences and both Conservatives and Reformers join in speaking highly of the deceased as a public man.

The St. John Telegraph on the Many Eminent Qualities of the Deceased.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.

St. John, N.B., April 17.—The Telegraph will say to-morrow of the late Mr.
Mackenzie: "The builder, who in early life chose to work in solid granite, hews with patient labor and skill into beautiful and enduring forms set before him like ideal for the national structure. He had a hatred of shams, of daubing with untempered mortar. He felt that Canada could only grow and endure in proportion as her foundation stones were well and truly laid in justice and equity, broad based upon the people's will, the superstructure firmly joined and cemented by the love and reverence of citizens for their common country. Loyal to England he always was in every worthy sense, and yet as truly Canadian as the most devoted of those born upon the soil. There was not within the bosom of the dominion a public or private man, who new more either of its resources or requirements than he. Above all he was a man of integrity, one who stood up for truth and honesty. Where moral principles were at stake he stood as firm and unyielding as the granite of his native island. He refused knighthood, declining to wear any honors but such as were conferred by the people with whom he lived and for whom he worked out his life in arduous political toil. He had this reward in life that the people honored and venerated him and his political opponents were compelled to accord him respect above that given to their own chosen leaders. He leaves an undisputed name, a noble record, and the verdict of history will be that as a statesman, he has had few equals in Canada while in true patriotism and honest worth he has enriched Canadian annals and left a shining example for the years to come. His death is a national loss which can only be partly retrieved by applying in our national affairs the lessons taught by his life.

SERVED HIS COUNTRY.

Two Distinct Features in the Life of the Dead Statesman.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.

TORONTO, April 17.—Referring to the late Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, The Mail will say editorially that by his death Canada loses a statesman of whom it may truthfully be said that he served his country to the best of his abilities, and received for his labors, as in the case with too many good men, an altogether inadequate remedy. The career of the ex-Premier illustrates two distinct features of Canadian public life. In the first place like his contemporary and antagonist, the late Sir John A. Macdonald, he rose to the highest position in the State although his struggle upward was unassisted either by wealth or by such prestige as comes from exalted birth. He was a poor and unknown man when he reached his country. Friendless, he followed his calling as a stone-cutter, gradually rising, however, in influence and esteem until he found himself the leader of the Government. The attainment of the position of honor and authority in which he did his best work, must have unquestion-ably been the result of superior talents wisely and energetically employed. Mr. Mackenzie certainly spent many years, laboriously and earnestly, in equipping himself for the command of men and the Government of the country. His example points to the conclusion that, in Canada at least, humble origin need not be, to him who has the laudable ambition to rise among his fellow citizens, a bar to progress.
The article next refers to his poor circumstances in his old age and says while men who serve in the lower spheres are properly cared for while those who figure more prominently and are overtaken by disabilities result in as Mr. Mackenzie's did from overwork as a public man are altogether disregarded.

Summing up his character the article says: "His independence is indeed a characteristic of the nationality from which he sprung. As a Scotchman, however, he had other qualities which influenced his career materially. He was tenacious, cautious, industrious and honest. Brilliance and smartness formed no part of his character, but he possessed instead the application and mental strength necessary to the management of men and the conduct of public affairs."

THE EMPIRE'S EDITORIAL.

A Conservative Tribute to the Memory of the Once Liberal Chief.

TORONTO, April 17.—The Empire will say editorially: "During the recent years of his silent political service, and the weeks of his fatal illness, the minds of men have turned sympathetically to the career and character of the old statesman, and the verdict has been almost unanimous that in Alexander Mackenzie the qualities of steadfast devotion to principle, of shrewd judgment and practical sense of vigorous mental power, of sturdy national pride, were strongly and happily united. If Mr.
Mackenzie had passed away when he was the central figure in a keen political conflict, it might have been hard for many to do him the justice which he deserved, but the sad and weary years of his later life have softened asperities and dissociated him from the fierce contests of the last period. On one or two of the really great issues which have arisen since his retirement, he took a silent, though, naturally, a significant stand which heightened the respect of a majority of his countrymen for his judgment and his patriotism, and thus it comes about that to-day not a jarring note will be heard in the chorus of kindly tributes to his name and fame that will arise all over Canada.
One feature of his career is particularly noteworthy, and that is the fact that people who inhabit this country and who can always be depended on to admire and respect a man, who, from humble beginning, by dint of perseverance, self-help and honesty of purpose, educated and raised himself to the highest position in the land, and who discharges his onerous duties with diligence and capacity. It fell to Mackenzie's lot to administer the affairs of the country at a peculiarly trying time and no matter what criticism was levelled at the policy of his associates and himself, it was never denied that he was personally a slave to duty, and in the discharge of his public obligation gave his heart and mind to the tasks that fell upon him. It is not easy now to refer to those days. This is not the time to discuss the issues which were settled by the momentous election of 1878. We prefer to remember Mr. Mackenzie in these later years when he loyally stood by his party, even at inconvenience to himself, and showed that he could as faithfully and unselfishly serve him in defeat as he could lead them in the days of victory. We prefer to remember that when unhappy rebellion broke out in the land, Mr. Mackenzie stood firm as became a man of worth and loyalty for the what criticism and order, and how, even in his most recent discussions, when physical ly far from well, his strong and active mind grasped the hardest political problems and took a sounder, shrewder view of Canadian interests than many younger, bolder, but less sagacious men.
He has not been long in following to his grave his great antagonist, Sir John Macdonald, who, if he had been living, would, we may be sure, have thrown all narrow partisanship to the winds and paid, as we may well do now, a tribute of respect to the memory of one who earnestly and faithfully, and to the best of his abilities, filled a great office and discharged a great trust.

A NATIONAL CALAMITY.

Canada Has Reason to Wish for Another Administration Like Mackenzie's.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.

TORONTO, April 17.—The Globe will say to-morrow that Hon. Alex. Mackenzie was a good example of the result of a kind of training that makes for sturdy independence. From the age of 14 he had to fight the battle of life unaided. He had no following, no command, no 'voice', backed by no great interest. He worked his way into the front rank of Canadian Statesmen by sheer force of talent, unwearying industry and stainless honesty. When he had gained that high place he did not escape the shafts of slander and abuse which like the shafts of death love a shining mark. But the Voice of Calumny has long been silent and the sober judgment and conscience of the country now declare that he gave to Canada five years of exceptionally pure and honest government. His was a truly unpretentious administration, and its economy and quiet affectionate work made it stand out in strong contrast with the noisy and extravagant regime which followed it.

Referring to his refusal to compromise with protection it will say: "It would have been easy for Mr. Mackenzie and his colleagues to have cut the ground from under their opponents' feet by sacrificing their principles and their refusal to do so, however opportunists may regard it, will always stand to their credit.
It is also greatly to Mr. Mackenzie's honor that he made no attempt to entrench himself in power by any of those unfair means which have been so freely used in the last 13 years. He laid his principles and the record of his work before the people, and allowed them freely to pronounce judgment. The judgment was adverse but the loss was not Mr. Mackenzie's but the country's.
Harried by excessive taxation, burdened with debt, their money wasted in wild and extravagant schemes, their great resources lying almost idle and undeveloped, the air filled with scandal, the people have every hour cause to look back upon the five years of honest and rational government which they enjoyed under Mr. Mackenzie."

A HALIFAX TRIBUTE.

He gave Canada the only Five Years of Clean Administration.

HALIFAX, April 17.—The Halifax Chronicle will say: "His death removes from the political arena one of nature's nobles-men, a self made man, a statesman and a patriot in every sense of the word, a politician endowed with noble aims and impulses and withal possessed of incorruptible integrity. He gave Canada the only five years of clean administration she has had since the consummation of the Confederation." (The article refers to the villainous abuse heaped by the Tories on Mr. Mackenzie while he was Premier of Canada and expresses the opinion that even his political opponents will gladly admit that he was an honest man.)

The article concludes: "His example and the lessons of his public life should impress upon the young men of Canada the all important fact that true greatness is inseparable from honesty of purpose and nobility of aim and faithful adherence to correct principles of action. The Liberals of Canada will sincerely mourn the death of one whom they universally esteemed, one whom many of them admired and loved for the true nobility of character he exhibited in every relation of life, for the great services he rendered to Canada, and for the beneficent example he set of unswerving honesty and unimpeachable integrity in political life."

AT THE CAPITAL.

General Feeling of Sorrow and Sympathy at Mr. Mackenzie's Death.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.

OTTAWA, April 19.—The news of the death of the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie reached here in the grey dawn and was first announced to the city at large by the flying of the Russell House flag at half-mast. The flag on the Parliament tower was not hoisted till nearly one in the afternoon. Being Saturday and the House in session very few members were about and there was no noticeable effect produced by the announcement.
There was a general feeling of sorrow and sympathy, but since the stirring debates on the Jesuit estates in 1889 he has taken little active part in politics, and hence no difficulties meet the party.
It is probable that the House will adjourne for the day of the funeral.

THE NEWS IN THE CITY.

Tributes to Mr. Mackenzie by Public Men.

Although Mr. Mackenzie's death occurred at an early hour in the morning, it was not until quite late in the afternoon that the news spread in Montreal.
In front of the Herald office a bulletin announced the end of the great statesman and crowds of people surrounded it and talked of the many virtues of the deceased. Several of the city ministers referred to the sad occurrence, and when once the services were over the telegraph and newspaper offices were kept busy with enquiries for particulars. It is safe to say that very seldom has the death been recorded of a Canadian which has brought forth such universal expressions of sorrow. Many business men have given instructions to have flags on their buildings raised to the half mast this morning.

Hon. Peter Mitchell was first told the sad news by a Herald reporter, and was much affected. Although Mr. Mackenzie's death had been expected almost daily for some weeks past, the blow when it fell was just as severe as if it had come suddenly. Mr. Mitchell had nothing but praise for his old political opponent. "He was," said the ex-Minister of Marine and Fisheries, "as honest a man as ever took part in public life. His principles were sometimes, I think, too strict for the vicissitudes of party politics, yet in all he did he was guided alone by the desire to do the best that in him lay for Canada, his adopted country, which he loved as well as any native of the soil."

Mr. A. F. McIntyre, Q.C., of Ottawa, who was once a Liberal candidate at the Capital, arrived at the Windsor yesterday afternoon. He told the Herald that the sad news was known in Ottawa early in the day, and that flags were hoisted at "half mast on the public buildings. "Mr.

Mackenzie's death is a great loss to the Liberal party," said Mr. McIntyre, "but not so great as it would have been some years ago, before his mental energies became impaired. Throughout his life he was a keen-witted, level-headed Scotchman, characteristics which he maintained to the last. He and Sir John Macdonald had many characteristics in common. Both were Highland Scotchmen, and possessed many of the traits which give their countrymen so many prominent positions in this country.
Anyone who had seen the two a couple of years since would have said that Sir John would have long outlived his old-time rival, yet it proved to be the contrary. It is curious how much the death-struggles of those two great men were a par. Both were given up for days before the final summons came, and both exhibited wonderful vitality. Alexander Mackenzie was the purest statesman Canada ever had, too pure, indeed, to be appreciated by the country. His memory will long be cherished by the nation he served so well."

HIS LIFE AND LABOR.

A Sketch of the Career of the Dead Statesman.

About the end of the year 1842 three young men resided in the city of Kingston who were destined to act prominent parts in the public life of Canada. One of the three was a rising young lawyer of pleasing address and popular manners; who had won distinction by his defence of Von Schulz and other state prisoners connected with the troubles of 1837. The second had been a student in the office of this young lawyer and was in this year—1842—called to the bar.
The third was a Scottish youth of 20, who had landed in Kingston in April, and was beginning his Canadian life as a stonemason. The young lawyer was the Right Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald, now deceased. His student is now the Hon. Oliver Mowat, Premier of Ontario.
The youthful stonemason was the veteran statesman who has now gone to his long rest. He was a name respected and honored by every clean man in the Dominion of Canada.

Mr. Mackenzie was born on the 28th January, 1822, and was two years younger than the Hon. Oliver Mowat, and seven years younger than his late rival, Sir John A. Macdonald. He was born in the parish of Logierait, Perth-shire, Scotland. His parents had neither poverty nor riches, but they and their connections had what was better than either; they had brain power, intelligence, untiring industry, sterling integrity, and an honorable ambition to rise in the world. Along with these good qualities they had a strong liking for Whig politics.

Alexander was the third son in a large family. His school days were few. Two years in a private school in Perth; two more in the parish school of Montrose; and then a year in the grammar school of Dunkeld, and the education of the future Premier of Canada was finished so far as the schoolmaster was concerned.
At the early age of fourteen his father died, and like many another brave Scotch lad who has made his mark in the world, young Mackenzie began to earn his bread on the old Eden principle —"by the sweat of his brow." Like Hugh Miller, he earned the trade of stonemason, and like Hugh Miller, he was fond of reading. His spare hours were spent in diligent study, and the habits then formed clung to him all his days. When twitted with being a bookworm, Thos. D'Arcy McGee replied that he always preferred the society of good books to that of middling men. No doubt Mr. Mackenzie had ALWAYS CHERISHED THE SAME PREFERENCE, though perhaps he has never said anything about it. A worthy member of the House of Commons, whose reading days were over, felt longed for the same reading-habit with Mr. Mackenzie and David Mills, because, as he explained it, "the moment Mackenzie and Mills came in from the House, they sat down to their books."

In the following year, 1843, Mr. Mac-Kenzie was joined in Kingston by his brother, Hope F. MacKenzie, who afterward represented Lambton and North Oxford in Parliament. Hope MacKenzie was a man of fine spirit, great energy, and high attainments. He was rising rapidly as a public man when his career was suddenly ended by death. Had his life been spared, his ability, industry, and natural force of character would soon have placed him in the front rank of Canadian statesmen.

After laboring five years in Kingston, during which time he probably became familiar with the well-known forces of the man he afterward so often faced in Parliament, Mr. Mackenzie moved to the neighborhood of Sarnia. His mother and brothers came out from Scotland about the same time, and the whole family made their first Canadian home in that Western town. Here Mr.
MacKenzie resumed operations as a builder and contractor lines in which he had been successful before leaving Kingston. It is useless to speculate on what might have been; but had Alexander Mackenzie continued in the building and contracting business, he might perhaps have become the millionaire head of the syndicate that built the Canadian Pacific Railway. In a country where there was so much to be built, almost anything was possible to a man of his patient industry, economical habits, sterling integrity, sound judgment, and all but invincible energy.

But Alexander Mackenzie was not to be a millionaire contractor. Like many Scotchmen, he had a keen reliance for politics. Five years residence in Sir John's favorite city probably increased his eagerness to join in the fray. In Scotland he had been a Whig, and in Canada

HE JOINED THE LIBERAL PARTY

as a matter of course. Though a man of quiet, retiring habits, it was no secret that Alexander Mackenzie keenly enjoyed debate. To measure swords on the platform was to him a pleasant duty. The roar around the hustings never made him nervous. To his natural liking for public discussion and his intensely strong convictions, his love of Liberalism, his popular sympathies, his intense hatred of tyranny in all its forms, his love for the people and desire that they should have fair play—to these qualities and his undoubted capacity for public affairs, and one can easily see why it was impossible for Alexander Mackenzie to keep out of politics.

Keep out of politics he certainly did

THE COMING TRIAL

The McGreevy-Connolly Case Likely to be a Memorable One in Our History.

EVERYTHING IS NOW READY

The Principals in the Affair Have Already Arrived at Ottawa for the Opening of the Court To-day—Dr. Dawson, Behring, Sea Commissioner, Called to England, by Lord Salisbury.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.

OTTAWA, April 17.—Everything is in readiness for the opening to-morrow morning of the spring session for the County of Carleton, which promises to be one of the most memorable judicial terms ever held in the Dominion. His Honor Mr. Justice McMahon, who has been in town for several days, is understood to have prepared an elaborate charge to the Grand Jury in reference to the State prosecutions which will come up for trial this term. Hon. Thos. McGreevy, Mr. Nicholas Connolly, and Martin E.
Connolly (one of the chief witnesses) came up from Montreal this morning and are ready to face the ordeal which awaits them. Both of the accused are very indignant at the manner in which they have, as they state, been "tricked" by Sir John Thompson, and are loud in their complaints at the manner in which they are being persecuted.

Hon. S. H. Blake, Q.C., the counsel for the defence, who will arrive this morning, is stated to have laid out a plan of campaign which will result in some startling developments as to the method of Tory warfare in Quebec. Mr. Mc-Greevy now recognizes that his activist session in refusing to "pach" on his pals, was but a mistaken step of honor, and he is resolved to tell what he knows if the prosecution is unaided, as the Ontario Government have taken charge of the case there is every prospect that justice will be done. Mr. J. K. Kerr, Q.C., who will represent the Attorney General of Ontario, and Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., the counsel for the Federal Government, will arrive in the morning. Nearly all the witnesses are now here. Mr. Dan O'Connor, Q.C., the solicitor for the prosecution, is anthority for the statement that his application will be made to the court tomorrow that a day shall be fixed for the McGreevy-Connolly trial, and it is not unlikely that the case may not come up until Monday or Tuesday next.

Summoned to England.

Dr. G. M. Dawson, of the Geological Survey, who was the Canadian representative on the commission which visited Behring Sea last summer to investigate the condition of the seal industry, has been summoned to London to consult with Lord Salisbury and leaves from New York on the Atlantic a week from Wednesday next. It is probable that on his return he will be appointed chief of the Geological Survey, Dr. Selwyn being super-annuated.

Messrs. Robert Bickerdike, John Crowe, Cornelius Coghlin, Michael Green and William Cunningham have been incorporated as the Union Stock Yards Company of Montreal with a capital-stock of $200,000, in two thousand shares of $100 each.

Premier Abbott left for Montreal on Saturday after an all-day sitting of council.

LATE MR. ROBINSON'S FUNERAL.

In Accordance With His Own Request it is Simple in Its Nature.

WATERLOO, April 17.—The remains of the late H. Robinson, Esq., one of Waterloo's most useful and popular citizens, were laid to rest yesterday many hundreds joining in the last tribune of respect to his memory. The funeral at St. Luke's Church was conducted by Venerable Archdeacon Lindsay, assisted by Rev. Canon Robinson, Rev. Rural Dean Longhurst and Rev. J.
W. Garland. There were no pall-bearers or no Masonic ceremony, it having been the express wish of the deceased that his funeral should be as simple and unostentatious as possible.
There was a good turnout of Masons, however, and they walked in procession, each wearing a sprig of evergreen, which was reverently dropped into the grave at the conclusion of the burial service. The Grand Lodge was officially represented by R. W. Bro. S.
Lebourveau, deputy grand master. It is no empty phrase to say that the late lamented Mr. Robinson was universally esteemed. He numbered his friends, in the United States as well as Canada, by the thousand. The high offices he held at various times in the church, the masonic fraternity and the public life of his native town were unsought, but nevertheless he never occupied a public position the duties of which he failed to discharge with integrity and ability. His long commercial career was a model of simple and honorable dealing. In his private life and social relations he was a most charming man. Taking him all in all he was eminently a good man, and as useful as he was good. The people of Waterloo, with whom his lot was most intimately cast, will keep his memory green for long years to come.

The Weather.

TORONTO, April 17.—To-night pressure is about average and highest over the upper lakes, Manitoba and the Northwest Territories, and generally a little below average over Eastern Canada and the greater part of the United States, with the centre of depression in Kansas. The weather to-day is a beautiful shower in the Northwest Territories and fine and cool in other parts of the Dominion.

Probabilities.

Lakes—Winds mostly northerly; fine weather, not much change in temperature.
St. Lawrence and Gulf—Northerly to west-

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF THE LATE SENATOR STEVENS.

EASTERN TOWNSHIPS CENTENNIAL.

Probability that the Proposed Event Will Shimmer Down to a Local Affair at Sherbrooke—Items of Interest From the Limestone City—Death of Mrs. Shields at Quebec—Several Country Notes.

REGULAR STAFF CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO, April 16.—Hon. Senator Stevens died yesterday at the residence of Mr. S. E. Williams, known. He will be buried here on Monday. Senator Stevens had for the greater part of his life been identified with this town and there is great regret at his death. He had been ill a long time and a fatal termination of his sickness had been looked for.

Hon. Gardner Green Stevens was born on December 13, 1814 at Brompton, Que.
His father was born at New-fane, Windham County, Vermont, and his grandfather, Lemuel Stevens at Petersham, Worcester County, Mass. The family moved into Canada soon after the close of the struggle for independence of the colonies, they being strong adherents of the British Crown. His mother came from Brookfield, Vt. His father, Gardner Stevens, was one of the early settlers in Brompton, and was in his day an industrious, well-to-do farmer and a romantic citizen. The subject of this sketch received the ordinary education of farmers' sons in this locality 60 years ago, aided his father in cultivating the soil until age, then took charge of a farm, mill and store at Waterville, County of Compton, and was thus employed for 10 years, when in March 1851, he became agent for the British-American Loan Company, taking up his residence at Waterloo, and he afterwards devoted his attention almost entirely to that agency. Except four years spent at Roxton Falls he resided there henceforth, holding various positions of trust and honor, both at Roxton and Waterloo.
While at the former place he was municipal councillor and mayor of the town.
At Waterloo he has been justice of the peace for a long period; has been councillor, mayor of the township from 1870 to 1875, inclusive and warden of the county.

While warden he was ex-officio a director of the South Eastern Railway. He was a director, and at the time of his death, was president of the Stanstead Sheffield and Chamby Railway, and vice-president of the Eastern Townships Bank, of which company he was the first treasurer. He was one of those enterprising men who liked to have a hand in any movement calculated to benefit the county, its material interests, or for the improvement of the people. From February 19, 1876, he represented the constituency of Bedford in the Senate, taking the place of Hon. Asa B. Foster, who resigned that year.

In 1847, Senator Stevens married Relief Jane, daughter of Sidney Spafford, of Compton, and has issue five children—three sons and two daughters. The family attend the Methodist Church. It was during the first term of Senator Stevens' service in the mayor's chair that Prince Arthur visited Waterloo.
June 13, 1870, and he had the honor of presenting an address to His Royal Highness.

A prominent writer has said of him:
"Mr. Stevens is emphatically a self-made man and like all men of his class, his perceptive faculties, sharpened by cultivation, made him keenly cognizant of whatever affects his own interests, or anything committed to his trust. A man of extensive reading and retentive memory, with ready powers of conversation, he is eminently qualified to amuse or instruct. Accustomed to habits of industry he appreciates this quality in others and while he is ever ready to assist the young man who is bravely fighting the battle of life, he has no sympathy for one who shrinks from hardships, or who, with everything in his favor makes shipwreck of his possessions."

THE TOWNSHIPS' CENTENNIAL.

Probability that the Proposed Affair Will Not Materialize.

Judging from the remarks on the subject in last week's Sherbrooke Gazette, the Eastern Townships' Centennial Celebration is likely to shimmer down to a purely local affair. A meeting of the Central Committee was held in Sherbrooke last week, when it was decided, after considerable discussion, to ignore the elaborate program that had previously been suggested, and make the affair one in which Sherbrooke would practically do the honors, bear the expense, and reap the profits. The historical work, which was to have been published under the editorial management of Mr. W. E.
Jones, has been abandoned, and the marble monument that was to keep the event green in the memory of future generations is likely to meet with a similar fate. It is quite evident that the outlying municipalities were not responding to the calls of the Central Committee to a very encouraging degree, and no doubt our Sherbrooke friends are taking the only course left them in order to prevent an entire failure of the scheme. It is to be regretted that the plan as originally announced could not have been carried out but that could hardly be possible at this late hour, and no doubt Sherbrooke will arrange a demonstration that will be a credit to the city and to the event that it is intended to commemorate. The following named gentlemen were appointed a committee to prepare a program, and to solicit subscriptions:— Major Wood, Mr. Bourque, Judge Rioux, E. R. Johnson, W. Murray, E. B. Worthington, Judge Foster, W. E. Jones, and the presidents of all the National and Benevolent Societies in Sherbrooke.
The Gazette adds:—"No great outlay is necessary, and what there is the city ought to provide. A fete or picnic in Sherbrooke on the 1st of July will attract a great number of visitors here. Speeches can be made, for, whatever else we may be short of, we can always find talkers.
Some amusements should be provided, and when once enthusiasm is excited a monument or some lasting commemoration would naturally follow from the day's proceedings."—Bedford Times.

MRS. SHIELDS' DEATH.

Death Came After Her Return to Quebec From a Visit to Montreal.

QUEBEC, April 16.—Mrs. Michael Shields died last night at 8 o'clock in the Hotel Dieu Hospital. The deceased came to Quebec 30 years ago with Mr.
Michael Shields from the county of Galway, Ireland, and during her residence in this city she made a large circle of friends and was beloved by all who knew her for her amiable disposition, goodness of heart and Christian charity to all. She was the mother of twenty children, six of whom are living, and it was while on a visit to her third son, Francis, who is at present in the Mount de la Salle Christian Brothers College, Montreal, undergoing studies in order to enter the Brotherhood, that she suddenly fell ill on Wednesday afternoon last, which so sadly and suddenly resulted in her death. The deceased was also mother of the late Rev. Frater John Shields, C.S.S.R., who died in this city three years ago, before he took his final vows to be a Redemptorist Father.

This morning the body of deceased was removed from the Hotel Dieu Hospital to her late residence, Collins-street, whence the funeral will take place on Monday morning.

Mrs. Washer, widow of the late Rev.
M. Washer, of Portneuf, died suddenly in Quebec the other day. Deceased was a sister of the late Hon. Wm. Webb, sheriff of Sherbrooke, who died suddenly on the occasion of the execution of Lamontagne.

The banquet to the Hon. G. A. Nantel, Minister of Public Works, takes place tonight at St. Jerome. The local ministers who will be present are Hon. Messrs.
Casgrain, Taitton and Pelletier. Of the Federal Ministers, S. R. A. P. Caron, Hon.
J. A. Oulmet and possibly Hon. J. A.
Chapleau will take part.

Mr. James Wood, Secretary of the Quebec Harbor Commission, will leave for Ottawa Monday for the purpose of giving evidence in the McGreevy-Connelly case.

KINGSTON NEWS ITEMS.

People in Frontenac Want Fair Play in Canal Appointments.

KINGSTON, April 16.—At a meeting of farmers held in the township of Pittsburg to discuss recent Government appointments in Frontenac in connection with the Rideau Canal it was decided that in view of the great disproportion between the Roman Catholics and Protestants in the service, the Protestants must hereafter demand fair play.

The Grand Lodge of Prentice Boys for Ontario will meet here in June. There will be over 40 delegates present.

Rev. M. Pates, of Cataract, was thrown out of a wagon and had his leg broken.

A lacrosse team was organized here with the following officers: Hon. President, E. J. B. Pense; President, W. H.
Ried; Manager, D. Sparker.

Thomas Wisdom, of the International Moulders' Union, came to settle a lock-out of the moulders of Chawm & Cunningham's foundry, but failed in his mission.

The Exodus to the States.

The Richmond Times says: "The evening train from Montreal was delayed an hour and forty minutes Monday evening. Eighty-four French-Canadians, bound for the States, got on at Acleon. The exodus to the States is rapidly growing—the N.P. advocates to the contrary, notwithstanding. The population of Richmond county to-day is less than it was one year ago, and unless the burdens are removed from the shoulders of the farmers, there is reason to feel alarmed at the prospect for the future."

General Country Notes.

The Queen's Hotel at Belleville narrowly escaped destruction by fire Friday morning.

An attempt made to establish a Young Men's Christian Association in Napanee failed completely.

The trial of Thomas Champagne and Amedeo Valley for the burning of the Mayville Hotel comes up this week at L'Orignal.

The Missisquoi County Horse Breeders Association has decided to hold the annual exhibition and races on August 9 and 10 next at Bedford.

The Brockville Times says: "Bad" Rosen, a well-known Brockville acrobat, left for Montreal Friday afternoon to join a branch of the Kickapoo Indian Medicine Company travelling in the Province of Quebec."

The members of the Eastern Townships' Press Association will visit Quebec to attend the opening of Parliament on the 26th inst., the Quebec Central Railway having generously placed a car at their disposal for that purpose without charge.

The Cornwall Standard says: "Among the towns of Ontario, Cornwall stands without a rival at this season of the year for muddy streets and crossings.
The macadamized thoroughfares are in a fairly good condition, but the streets in the outlying portions of the town are almost impassable."

Dr. H. J. McDonald, son of Mr. Allan J.
McDonald, of Alexandria, has been elected physician of the different works and mines of the Boston & Montana company, of Montana. The salary allotted to the position is $200 per month, and aside from this it attracts a very extensive and lucrative family practice, which is a separate source of revenue.

Sad Accident at Valleyfield.

A sad accident is reported as happening in the cotton mill at Valleyfield. A young girl named Sauge, who will be remembered as escaping by almost a miracle the fate of her father, mother and two of her sisters and a brother who lost their lives in the terrible cyclone which devastated the district of Valley-field in 1838, was employed at one of the Mills. While engaged carding cotton on Wednesday last her hair became entangled in the Machinery. In an endeavor to save herself she placed her hand on the wheels, but hand and arm were also caught in the machinery and terribly crushed and mangled before the engine could be stopped. She was found to be so frightfully injured when extricated but little hope is entertained of her recovery.

O woman despairing and wretched, Hear the glad chorus that rises, Filling the dome of the sky:
"No longer be miserable, gloomy and sad; Lost health regain," rings out the refrain,
"For creatures be healthy and happy again."

How? By taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the world's greatest remedy for all kinds of diseases peculiar to women. It brings back tone and vigor to the system weakened by those distressing complaints known only to women, which make life such a burden. It restores relaxed organs to a normal condition. It fortifies the system against terminal untold misery, if not in death—which is preferable to the pain and torment of living in many instances.
It is the great gift of scientific skill and research to women, and for it she cannot be too grateful. It cures her ills when nothing else can. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or price ($1.00) returned. Absolutely sold on trial!

The undersigned offers for sale; at par and accrued interest, a special issue of Debentures of the Equitable Mortgage Company, amounting to $100,000.

These securities are in denominations of $200, $300, $500 and $1,000, and mature in ten years. They bear five per cent. interest, payable half-yearly (1st April and 1st October); and both principal and interest are payable in gold at the office of the Imperial Trusts Company of Canada, in Toronto, and by arrangement will be paid in Montreal.

These debentures are the direct obligation of the Equitable Mortgage Company, and are guaranteed by its paid-up capital and surplus, now amounting to nearly $3,000,000. The aggregate amount of mortgages held by the company exceeds ten millions of dollars; and, as showing the character of its mortgage investments, it may be stated that during the year commencing the 1st September, 1891, and ending the 1st September, 1892, a trying year, financially —borrowers representing only 20 per cent of the amount maturing applied for renewals or extensions, while 80 per cent of the amount due the company on account of loans was paid in cash.

The total assets of the Equitable Mortgage Company, including Government, Municipal and other high-class bonds, and stocks, and cash in Banks, are $14,074,813.56.

The Equitable Mortgage Company is under the supervision of the Banking Departments of New York, Connecticut, shire.

The issue of $100,000 debentures now offered is further secured by a deposit with the Imperial Trusts Company of Canada, as trustees, of an equal amount of first mortgages on improved properties, which are held especially for the sole benefit and protection of the holders of these debentures, are certified to be first lines on real estate worth at least two and one-half times the amount secured thereby.

The debentures can be registered in the name of the holders at the office of the trustees.

Applications for the above Debentures will be received by the undersigned up to WEDNESDAY, the 20th instant.

WOMEN AND HOME.

IN FASHION'S WORLD.

The Correct Thing in Dress for the Coming Season.

Every fashionable girl now has a silken petticoat, and the prettiest and most serviceable ones are made of Amour silk striped in contrasting colors, such as black and rose color. These petticoats are made with two ruffles, a narrow one at the extreme edge, and a wider one with a pink edge above it.

Many of the hanc some new gowns being made for visiting and carriage wear after Lent are accompanied by a soft sash of watered silk or satin bordered surah. For instance, a chemise with a cream ground figured in forest violets has a violet moire sash.

A passermenterie of white tinsel leaves is edged with gold tinsel and gemmed with big pearls.

Some pretty little novelties for spring are appearing. Among them is a small shoulder poke of short, curled black feathers with high collar. From the yoke falls a wide full berth of tinted heavy lace and a mass of lace hangs down the front.

The blouse is one of the features of the season's modes. A dainty imported French blouse is of white crepe de chine figured in little gilt baskets heaped and running over with red blossoms. This blouse is long enough to fall low on the hips, and is made full from a yoke of white point de gaze lace on a fitted lining of yellow silk. The mutton-leg sleeves are entirely of white lace over yellow silk.

There is a tendency toward wide collars, the cape effects being sought. Turn-over collars of linen, plain and lace-edged, and those of embroidery, are worn with tailor gowns, though the standing collar with turned points is not abandoned.

Lace girdles are supplanting the velvet peasant waists for summer wear.

Home. Home's not mere four square walls. Though with pictures hung and glided; Home is where affection calls; Home is where the heart hath builded. Home! Go watch the faithful dove, Sailing 'neath the leaves of love; Home is where there's one to love, Home is where there's one to love us.

Home's not merely roof and room. Needs it something to endear it; Home is where the heart can bloom; Where there's some kind lip to cheer it, What is home with none to meet? None to welcome—none to greet us? Home is sweet and only sweet Where there's one we love to meet us.

An Interrupted Sentiment. Mr. Blowhard, "I tell y. u what, I believe in a man being supreme in his own family. No woman could ever—" Telephone, "Ting-ling-ling br-r-r!"
Mr. Blowhard, "Excuse me a moment. Hello! Is that you my dear? Very well. I'll be home at 6. Where's that? Woman's suffrage meeting? All right. I'll mind the baby."
Telephone, "Ting-ling."

A WOMAN'S TICKET. A Female School Board May Be Elected In An Illinois Town.

A Robinson, Ill., despatch says: The school election in this city for two members and a President of the School Board is the all-absorbing topic of interest. The women were early in the field, holding the first meeting two weeks ago, when they nominated two of their number for members of the board. They started into the work with an intention to win, and with that object in view committees were appointed to make house-to-house visits and urge persons of their sex of legal age to come out and vote. The women's movement was engineered principally by persons who are opposed to the present management of the schools, and the School Board becoming fearful of defeat called a special meeting and decided that the votes of the women should not be received by the judges of the election.

This course of the board produced indignation not only among the women but among the people generally, who are in favor of fair play, or, more correctly, a "free ballot and a fair count," and indications now are that the ballots of the women will be received.

The leader in the movement on behalf of the women, and who is also at the head of their ticket, is Dr. Martha Trimble-Pearce, a physician having an extensive practice both in town and country. She is a married woman, the wife of the President of the State Sunday School Association, on 28 years of age, finely educated, deeply interested in schools as a taxpayer and for the good of the community in general and other people's children in particular. The women have arranged to be seated around the polls and work for their ticket with an earnestness, and they have full faith in the ultimate success of their candidates. The cause of the revolt of the women is the manner in which appointments to the teaching staff have been made.

WOMEN SUFFRAGE. A Bill Giving the Right May Become Law in New York State.

The Lower House of the New York Legislature on Friday passed a bill giving the suffrage to women. The bill states briefly that every citizen, irrespective of sex, shall hereafter be entitled to vote for all and every officer hereafter elected, and on any question submitted to the vote of the people, and that it shall be unlawful to discriminate between citizens on account of sex at elections if such citizens possess the other qualifications now required by law.

Almost every body spoke either for or against the bill. Mr. Conkling, of New York, wanted the question put off until the Constitutional Convention. Mr. Cole held it was unconstitutional, although he was willing to give the wives mothers and sisters of members the same rights possessed by the members themselves. Mr. Deys also objected on the constitutional ground. Mr. Sulzer scoffed at these legal objections, and said the proposed law simply removed a discrimination against women that is a disgrace to modern civilization.

"Right you are, Sulzer," added Mr. Keeler; "the bill is perfectly constitutional and a step in the right direction."

"And I want to say," put in Mr. Kennedy, "that women who pay taxes should of a right have a vote in our government. I confess that I have been seen by the lobby on this bill and I am unqualifiedly in favor of it."

Here Mr. Lagrange, of Albany, piped up an objection to "forcing on women a right which the majority of the sex don't want." He further said he feared that politics would alienate husbands and wives. To this Mr. McCormick retorted, "Nonsense. Besides, the presence of respectable women at the polls will purify our elections."

At this Colonel Quigley remarked that he was surprised to see a man who put in a bill to prevent women playing baseball willing to let them have the far more dangerous privilege of voting.

"The hand that holds the bayonet should hold the ballot," broke in Mr. Reed.

"If this bill passes the women will supplant us in the Legislature," argued Mr. Shields. "I wonder how the husbands of some of the women who have been hanging around the Legislature lobbying for this bill get along. I wonder what kind of homes they have. I oppose any such law."

"The bill is constitutional and gets my vote," said Mr. Stranahan.

It was at this point that several members tried to poke fun at the measure, and Mr. Wissig made his attack on it. Colonel Webster in his championship of the woman's cause berated the members for their lack of courtesy to the ladies. "Men are never more egotistical than when asserting their superiority to women," he said, "but the record is against them. When women come here and make a request of this Legislature I insist that they should be treated with the courtesy and respect that is their due."

The vote was then taken and the bill was passed by 69 yeas to 34 nays. Mr. Wissig's speech was then ordered removed from the record.

The bill has yet to pass the Senate, but it is doubtful whether it will go through that body.

About Women. Mr. Howells is by no manner of means apt to enhance his popularity among the women by his assertion that he is waiting for the Almighty to set him an example before he creates a grand, noble, and perfect woman.

Women have been admitted as students to the courses in Johns Hopkins university since 1879, and the first of them was Miss Christine Ladd, who, by a special vote of the faculty, was permitted to study mathematics.

Mrs. Sarah T. Bolton, who was famous 40 years ago as the pioneer poet of Indiana, still lives in Indianapolis, in her seventy-seventh year. Her most famous production perhaps is "Paddle Your Own Canoe," published in 1850.

What the Fingers Indicate.

As far as the fingers are concerned, experts in palmistry divide hands into three classes. Long, slender, tapering fingers determine the first, and denote delicate, trained perceptions. A subject with such fingers has an innate fondness for art, poetry, music, and the higher forms of literature. In the second class the fingers are shorter, are nearly equal in length, and have blunt ends. They denote a practical, material mind, thorough and reliable, rather than brilliant. A woman with such fingers would make a careful and efficient housekeeper, and a man with similar ones would be cautious and thorough in business. In the third class the fingers are short, thick and square, and have short, large nails, with cushions on each side of the nails. A subject having these fingers is active, athletic, opinionated, selfish, has strong appetites for the material things of life, and is liable to form strong prejudices.

AMELIA B. EDWARDS.

Death of the Famous English Lecturer and Novelist.

A cablegram in Saturday's Herald announced the death of Miss Amelia B. Edwards.

Amelia Blandford Edwards was the daughter of Thomas Edwards, formerly an officer in the British army, in which capacity he was present throughout the Peninsular campaign. By her mother's side she was related to the Welles. She was born in 1831, and early showed a taste for art and literature. Miss Edwards, who combined the somewhat incongruous characters of archaeologist and novelist, began when a child to compose poems and stories before she knew how to write. She first appeared in print at seven years old with a poem called the "Knights of Old." When she was fourteen she sent to a magazine, edited by George Cruikshank, a story on the back of which she had scribbled caricatures of the personages appearing therein. The drawings were so clever that Cruikshank went impulsively to call upon his unknown contributor, and finding to his astonishment that this contributor was a little girl, offered immediately to take her as an article pupil and train her up to his work. This offer was declined; and putting aside pen and pencil Miss Edwards devoted herself for seven years to music and became not only an accomplished performer but a composer.

In 1859 she visited New York and delivered her initial lecture in the Brooklyn Academy of Music. Her novel, "Lord Brackenbury," with its portrayal of scenes under Vesuvius, at Verona and in England, has passed through twenty editions since its appearance in the London Graphic as an illustrated serial. It is published in German, French and Russian. "Barbary's History," one of her earliest stories, has always been a favorite with many. "Debenham's Vow" introduces Charles and the perils of blockade running. Then there are "Half a Million of Money," "My Brother's Wife," "Miss Carew," "In the Days of My Youth," "Monsieur Maurice," "Hand and Glove," &c. &c.

As a traveller, Miss Edwards was at her best. Her "Thousand Miles up the Nile," richly embellished with her own sketches, is said to be one of the classics of the literature of Egypt.

MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 18.

THE LATE MR. MACKENZIE.

The loss, which every Canadian newspaper will record to-day, leaves the political life of our country poorer in a sense which is rarely implied in any obituary notice. Men of eminence often pass away and the silence of the awful mystery into which they have vanished, smashes every voice, but that of generous forbearance, while it is felt that only a very liberal application of the kindly principle, De mortuis nil nisi bonum, can prevent allusion to painful facts which will intrude into memory. But no such enforced reticence is demanded in reviewing the life of the statesman whose loss we now deplore. Men will indeed differ as to the wisdom of the political measures which he advocated; but opponents and supporters of these alike feel that no eulogistic measure need restrain the language in which his personal merits are recognized. Not that even his most ardent admirers claim for him a perfection which is not the lot of human nature. With his own deep faith in the lofty ideal of Christian morals, he would have been the last man to make any pretence of such a claim for himself. But his faults, every generous critic will allow, flowed rather from the natural limitations of our common humanity than from any defect that touched his moral disposition.

The Honorable Alexander Mackenzie was peculiarly fitted to be the type of statesman that Canada specially requires. He was not indeed a child of the soil in the narrower sense of the term. But if the unity of the empire is to remain more than an idle sentiment for insincere declamation, it is to be a fact controlling our national life, then every part of the imperial domain is the common fatherland of all born under the British flag, and all such must feel one in their ultimate political aims. Now is it without an advantage that some at least of our statesmen should be bound by natural ties to the ancient home of the empire, and should carry into colonial life some of the inspiration flowing from the glorious traditions of imperial history. But though Mr. Mackenzie was by birth connected with the Old World, no man born in Canada ever identified himself more completely with the interests of his country, or placed himself more unreservedly at its service.

Mr. Mackenzie was also a man of the people. He was never ashamed to acknowledge that in his earlier years he had wrought for his living at one of the common handicrafts of life. Once long ago, he was twitted, in a spirit of very contemptible snobbery, with the humble occupation of his younger days. Every true gentleman must have been touched with the simple nobleness of his reply, that, if his hands were soiled, it was with honest labor, not with the gold of political corruption. His origin placed him in thorough sympathy with the people, to whom, even when in his highest position, he always felt that he really belonged. And this fact illuminates the general spirit of his policy. Liberalism in politics was to him the cause of the people. He knew, as those brought up among the wealthier classes can never fully realize, the hardships of the struggle which, under the most favorable circumstances, the toilers of the world have to fight in order to procure even the necessities of life; and it stung him to the quick, when legislation, instead of representing the justice which protects the weak against the strong, adds to all the natural advantages of wealth an artificial protection which reduces laborers to the condition of mere slaves. This must explain also much of the moral earnestness by which his life was characterized, and which necessarily imparted a severity to his manner in dealing with proposals which seemed to point to an increase upon the burdens of the people. Those who sought him to confer special favors on individuals, or to create by legislation special privileges for certain classes, were taken aback, it is said, by the brusque decisiveness of his refusal, which probably enough at times stood in marked contrast with the dilatory and ambiguous evasions which are commonly associated with the methods of the politician. But it must be remembered in what aspect all such proposals appeared to a statesman of Mr. Mackenzie's views. For him every dollar of public money unnecessarily expended meant so much labor exacted from the workers among the people, and exacted without any return. It is a very pardonable indignation that is aroused by this injustice, and Government will never become faithful to the interests of the people governed till every public official is guided and inspired by a clear insight into the cruelty which administrative extravagance inflicts on those who have to bear the burden of the world's labor. The lessons of Mr. Mackenzie's life, therefore, come home with peculiar power at the present crisis in the political history of Canada. Is it too much to believe, at least to hope, that they may smite with silent reproach those who have recently brought disgrace upon his country by an unscrupulously selfish misappropriation of public funds, which stands out in dark relief against the singular purity of his disinterested career?

A SAFE CONSERVATIVE CHALLENGE.

The Conservative press, following in the wake of their parliamentary leader, seems tolerably unanimous in recommending the Liberal party to bring their charges against Sir Adolphe Caron before the courts. This counsel is given with an outward semblance of candor that is calculated to deceive their less informed partisans, who imagine that it is a bold challenge cast down to the Liberal party. Suppose, for one moment, that we conceded the extraordinary claim that parliament has no right to try charges seriously impeaching the integrity of one of its own members, how should we have to proceed to obtain justice before the courts.

Under the converted elections act, the charges have to be made within thirty days of the election, and brought to trial within six months. It is, therefore, out of the question that the rascally and corrupt bargain should be investigated in the ordinary way, consequently, Sir John's challenge is nothing but a bluff to deceive the ignorant. Even where enquiry is possible, these investigations, under the elections act, cannot be depended upon for more than a mere surface exposure, and past experience has shown that everything favors the covering up of corruption. The enquiry may be stopped at almost any time by resigning the seat in dispute, or upon proof of any one charge, however trivial, the judges may declare the seat vacated, and order the trial to cease. In fact it is well known that though election petitions are very efficacious in discovering mere surface corruption—finding out what is already known to every one in the constituency—they never bring to light any of those secret manipulations by which not only one seat, but half a province may be affected.

The criminal code may also be invoked to punish corrupt bargains. Its provisions are comprehensive enough to reach anyone who buys or sells influence with government. Theoretically it cuts so close that it would hardly be safe for an intending contractor to offer the shelter of his umbrella to a government minister caught in a thunderstorm, but it is more constructed to humbug the credulous portion of the public than for any desire to purify politics. The criminal courts take note only of bald facts. You may prove that, such a sum of money passed from one hand to another, but the motives, the set of facts behind the apparent ones cannot be arrived at under the formalities of the criminal law. If everything else proved favorable, proceedings under the criminal code would have one fatal defect in the Caron case. The crown prosecutor has the right to intervene. The Attorney-General might at the last moment step in and insist on conducting the prosecution himself. Imagine with what eagerness the Conservative Attorney-General would press the prosecution of the Conservative Postmaster-General. It is better to sit down under a gross injustice than to be mired by a pretence of redress. Sir John may well challenge Liberals to the courts. For him the glorious uncertainty of the law is eliminated. He plays with eggs, dice, or on the heads I win, tails you lose principle.

What a wide difference there is between proceedings in the Caron scandal and the now celebrated Baile des Chaleurs case. In the first the minister is alleged to have received the bribe direct, and in the latter through the hands of a tolltaker. In the former case half the Parliament and nearly all the country are vainly crying for justice; in the latter no one was particularly interested, but when rumors came of a side-wind by which his enemy might be brought to grief, Lieut. Gov. Angers at once seized on the pretext, and in defiance of constitutional procedure, at once proceeded to sift the matter. In the Caron case Liberals cry for a tribunal, of which the majority should be Tories, to try a Conservative chief; in the Mercier case the Liberal chief was handed over from one hostile tribunal to another until sufficient was established to work his ruin. In the Caron case, the House of Commons by juggling pretences refuses to interfere to protect its own honor, imperilled by the conduct of one of its own members, and throws off responsibility for funds provided by itself; in the Mercier case the Senate went deliberately out of its way to institute an enquiry into the proceedings of an elective parliament, in no way under its control, and unsked took charge of funds that really belonged to a separate and independent body. The two cases are so alike, and yet so dissimilar, that the future historian will find some difficulty in believing that both took place in the same country, and within so short a time of one another.

THE NEW DRILL BOOK gives no instructions for the placing of the supernumerary line, in cases where it is stronger than the rank and file, no very unlikely case in Montreal parades. In the multitude of officers the rank of full private is getting to be a distinguished one.

A Significant Despatch.

The following significant despatch appears in several Government organs on Saturday:

It is being brained to-day that the charges against Sir Adolphe Caron will be investigated after the Easter recess. The story goes that the precedent set by Sir John Macdonald in 1873, when Mr. Huntington made his charges to the Pacific Railway, will be followed. Mr. Edgar's motion will be voted down and then Sir Adolphe will demand an enquiry, which will be granted. This is given for what it is worth, but there is some probability of its being correct.

THE CARON CHARGES.

An Independent Journal Calls for their Investigation.

Toronto Week.—What would be thought of a trustee of a private estate who should first cause a portion of the trust funds to be placed in joint custody, to be appropriated for a certain purpose, and then by dint of improper and confidential relations with the persons to whom the money had been thus handed over receive a large part of it and apply it to personal and dishonorable uses? Yet this is the alleged transactions which Sir John Thompson and some of his colleagues would have the House of Commons pass by as an offence beyond its jurisdiction, though the accused is one of its members and a colleague of the honorable gentleman himself. If the Minister of Justice really believes that the charges ought not to be investigated by the House he surely ought, as the official embodiment of the spirit of righteousness in the Government, to feel sufficient indignation at such a charge to point out in what way it can, if proved, be punished. May we not hope that many of his own supporters will unite with Col. O'Brien in pressing this view of the case upon the Ministers? Nothing less surely is demanded in the interests of justice for the good name of the Dominion, already sadly compromised; above all, for the sake of the reputation of the accused Minister, if he be, as he solemnly avers, innocent. If the case is quashed by Government action, nine out of every ten honest Canadians will, in their hearts, believe him guilty.

TAXING CHURCH PROPERTY.

Archbishop Fabre's Organ Comes Out Strong on the Question.

Archbishop Fabre's organ, La Semaine Religieuse, came out with a strong article on Saturday last. It defends the Catholic benevolent institutions and their treatment of unfortunate and protesting strongly against their properties being taxed, holding that as the nuns have taken the vow of poverty the loss would not fall upon them but upon the unfortunate sinner, as their means of doing good would be curtailed to the amount of the tax imposed. "We are both surprised and angry," says the article, "to find in certain newspapers of this city repeated attacks against our benevolent institutions. They are blamed because they cannot receive all the sick, and succor all unfortunate, and taking this as an argument they are begrudging the amounts granted them by the city under the shape of exemption from tax. Nothing is so unjust, and it appears to us nothing more illogical. When the asylums and houses of refuge receive any sick or orphans, it is, unfortunately, because space is lacking and beds are wanting. Never have the nuns placed any limit to their devotion, and their charity knows no limit, but this charity cannot enlarge the space of their buildings or double the number of beds." Further the article says: "To those who without knowing them, speak as stated above, of our establishments and their pious servants, we will say: enter these hospitals and the houses of refuge, no matter which of them, visit the sick rooms, the dormitories, the orphan's quarters, and if there is a room where space is wanted, where there is any disadvantage, and you will be told that the room is occupied by the nuns, who have given up the best quarters to the sick and to poor children. This is the truth. It is well that it should be known. As to the tax exemption, nothing is more just; since these buildings are employed in the public service for those not favored by fortune, for all who cannot assist themselves, and to whom society has a duty and a moral obligation to fulfil."

Waterworks Investigation.

The Water Committee held another meeting of investigation into the McColl affair on Saturday afternoon, but all the efforts of the press representatives to gain admission were fruitless. The committee will meet again at half-past nine to-morrow morning, after which it is expected they will be ready with their report to council. From what is learned up to the present it is more than probable that they will recommend council to accept the resignation of Mr. McConnell. The investigation thus far has been conducted with the greatest secrecy.

A DREARY EASTER.

A Nipping Breeze Spoiled the Usual Display of Spring Attire.

It may have been the weather. Possibly it was. It is hard to feel spring-like and jocular under a cold grey sky with a keen north-east wind blowing that seemed to penetrate to the very bone. But certainly it did not look like Easter Sunday out-of-doors yesterday.

Indoors it was all right. The churches were one mass of flowers a d decorations. The music was superb, and the grand old Hallelujah Chorus brought up visions of Easter's past as well as the glorious possibilities of the future. But when once the warm comfortable interiors were left, the congregations were turned out upon what was emphatically a cold world. It was in vain that the ladies wore great bunches of Gloire de Dijon and Marechal real roses fastened in the fronts of their winter jackets, or that our young upstart-don had donned their lightest consumptive blotting-paper overcoats. The weather simply laughed at any attempt to force the season, and rude Boreas impressed upon everyone the fact that winter was still lingering in the lap of spring and was not particularly anxious to leave so comfortable a billet for some time to come.

On the street corners only the hardier varieties of loafers were able to appear, and even these had the collars of their overcoats turned up. As to the passers-by, they hurried along as fast as they could, and a glance at their faces showed that, for the present at all events, notes will be worn red at the end.

At the hotels the customary Easter menus were given, and the respective menu cards were quite pretty enough to be retained as souvenirs of the day. That for the Windsor was printed by the Benalack Lithographic Company, and was a dainty four-page card with a tastefully engraved outside. The St. Lawrence Hall's menu card was a heavy cream-colored panel bordered in gold, while the Balmoral's was printed in silver upon dead-white ground. It is needless to say that at all three hotels the dinner was a choice one, or that it was thoroughly appreciated by their guests. The big wind would have put a fresh spring upon a gored box-constructor, and the respective chefs must have felt fully satisfied at the way the viands disappeared.

Outside the streets were comparatively empty. It was too chilly for running, and most of those out were there on business. Even the fountain on Victoria square was without its usual fringe of loafers, and the passengers on the open cars looked as if they had recently lost dear friends. In fact, it was a day to stay in doors, and it was not until late in the evening, when the wind ceased from troubling, and the rays were arrested, that there was the slightest suspicion of balmy spring to be discovered in the atmosphere.

AN IRATE ALDERMAN.

Talks Loud at a Morning Meeting on City Insurance.

It is not often that the Finance Committee hold a morning session. It is proverbially the late committee and is usually summoned for 4 o'clock in the afternoon, an hour later than any of the other civic committees' meetings. Saturday morning, however, an exception being made, at 11 o'clock in the morning, Nor was this the usual gravity about the meeting. The usual gravity of the financiers was greatly upset by a storm of indignation emanating from Ald. Clendinning who declared in most emphatic language that he objected to the committee being called together at the instigation of a few insurance companies who had not been able to extort from the city their exorbitant demands for insuring the city's properties. "I am not going to be handled through the mud by a lot of dissatisfied insurance men, at 11 o'clock in the morning, and that on a Saturday too," said the irate Alderman. "There is no report from the sub-committee to deal with and I object to discuss the question of insurance in any shape whatever." And saying the above words Ald. Clendinning abruptly rose from his seat, dounced his Lincoln and Bennett and made for home. A little persuasion, on the part of the chairman, however, had the effect of recalling him and he again took his seat.

The cause of all the trouble was the presenting of a petition on behalf of seventeen Fire Insurance Companies who had not been favored with any share of the insurance of corporation property. The petition was read by Mr. Evans, representing the Etna and London, and was supported by Messrs. R. W. Tyre and E. D. Lacy. The petition complained that the sub-committee had arranged with the brokers in the city to effect the insurance which had been distributed amongst twelve companies instead of being distributed over the thirty-five companies doing business in the city according to the resolution passed in Council.

The chairman promised the deputation that their petition should receive due consideration and it was afterwards decided by the committee to leave the matter in abeyance until to-morrow by which time the report of the sub-committee is expected to be ready.

Ald. McBride objected to twelve companies being made favorites and given the whole of the city's insurance which it was distinctly understood should be divided amongst all the companies doing business in the city. The premium to be paid to these twelve companies was $1,324 per cent. for three years and they insisted upon the fire and police stations being included. This premium was as high as was charged for any ordinary property in the city and he maintained that it was too high altogether. The other 17 companies whose petition was before the committee would not doubt agree to better terms than had been made but it was evident they had never been asked about insurance at all. Ald. McBride said that the two brokers who had been entrusted with the matter had placed the insurance with those companies who gave them the biggest commission and this should not be tolerated by the Finance Committee.

Ald. Clendinning—"I protest against the business being done until we get the report of the sub-committee; we hear a lot of clap trap statements made that are not founded on fact."

This was followed by a sharp passage at arms between Ald. McBride and Clendinning, which resulted in the former proposing that the insurance be equally divided amongst all the companies doing business in the city."

Mr. Resher's account for the inspection of side-walks was presented to the committee, but Ald. Clendinning proposed to send it back to the Road Committee. He said the claim was excessive and should not be incurred at all, as the Finance had the matter in their own hands.

Ald. Cresse appeared before the committee and asked that witnesses be nominated in the Pontiac street expropriation cases.

The chairman then requested the representatives of the press to retire, as the presentatives of the press to retire, as the committee had some private business to transact. This turned out to be the question of the salaries of some civic officials.

Ald. Rolland was in the chair and there were also present Ald. Farrell, Clendinning, McBride, Boisseau, Perreault, Conroy, Cresse, Gauthier and Nolan.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

A Citizen Throttled and Deprived of His Cash.

Another daring highway robbery has been committed on the streets of Montreal. This time the victim is Mr. Stephen Casey, a United States Army pensioner, and a member of Hancock Post, G. A. R. Mr. Casey resides at the Post headquarters, and was on his way home about 7 o'clock Wednesday evening. He took a short cut through Roy lane, and at the corner of Pea lane he was stopped by two men, one of whom asked a loan of ten cents. Not liking the looks of the individuals, Mr. Casey put his hand in his pocket to give them the money, as the easiest way of getting rid of them. At the instant he was throttled by the taller of the two, thrown on his back and robbed of a gold watch and chain and a very considerable amount. By the time the victim of this daring outrage regained his feet both highwaymen had vanished.

The police were notified, and Chief Detective Cullen has since been quietly working on the case. The strangest part of the affair, he says, is that it happened in the vicinity of the rear of the Vendome restaurant on the identical spot where Mr. P. Harkin's was robbed in a similar way several weeks ago.

OTTAWA LACROSSE CLUBS ARE HOSTILE TO EACH OTHER.

EXCLUSION PREFERRED TO UNION.

A Spring Series of Football Matches May be Arranged—Changes Made in the Cycling Rules—Bowling in the City and at Ottawa—Lacrosse in the Townships.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.

OTTAWA, April 17.—As the day for the meeting of the lacrosse magnate draws nigh, greater interest is being manifested in the outcome. A feeling now prevails that both Ottawa clubs will be excluded at the last moment, because of the ill-feeling which the Shamrocks and Cornwalls have for the Ottawas. People here are beginning to think that the Shamrock and Cornwall delegates trip to Toronto may cause that club to do a little backsliding when the question of admitting the Ottawas to a league is brought up on Wednesday, and the vote which may be cast by the Queen City representative will practically settle whether or not Ottawa will have any championship lacrosse this season. Some friends of the Ottawas seem to think there will be a hitch so far as that club is concerned, and that they will be shelved along with the Capitals. Their action for resigning from the four club league is again being condemned on all sides, and all the present unpleasantness with the national game is attributed to them. Although a scheme has been proposed to have the teams amalgamate, there are no hopes of it ever amounting to anything at this late date. If the clubs would amalgamate the difficulty could be tidied over for this season, but under the present circumstances the executives of both teams would permit their exclusion sooner than unite.

Will Stay With Cornwall.

CORNWALL, April 16.—The rumor circulated by a Montreal evening newspaper to the effect that Turner and Danahar would if inducements were offered them settle in Montreal, is without foundation. Both players will this year be found defending the laurels they in common with other members of the team have brought to Cornwall.

Prospects in the Township.

SHERBROOKE, April 18th.—The lacrosse outlook is bright here and a good season is anticipated. The intermediate team expect to put a good twelve on the field, perhaps not up to former years but the best that can be had. Some of the older players are not over anxious to play, as at present the prospects for a Sherbrooke team to compete for senior honors is very poor considering that their old opponents, the Capitals stand a chance of being frozen out of the big league this year. The majority of players here conclude that the furthest plus that can be reached is intermediate, and they have figured in that rank for four years now. The action of the majority of the senior clubs in endeavoring to close out teams rightly entitled to play senior matches is not approved of among those who have the interests of the game at heart. An interest will be created in the junior ranks by the formation of a league composed of teams in the eastern townships.

Comments On The Situation.

Saturday's Empire says: Next Wednesday's meeting in Montreal will settle the lacrosse question for the coming season. This year the Toronto and Montreal clubs have been fit to handle their powers and existence into the hands of one representative. The utmost secrecy has been preserved over every move, and even the officers of the clubs themselves have not known what moves their plenipotentiaries have been making. What is gained by this chamber method of procedure is difficult to determine. In fact, the executives of the clubs concerned are commencing to see that a mistake has been made, and are now wishing that they had some voice in the negotiation. As far as can be gathered it looks as if the Ottawa were to be frozen out and a four club league formed. It is difficult to tell exactly how far Montreal and Toronto are bound to Ottawa. This much is certain, that the two clubs were glad enough when Ottawa a few weeks ago asked to throw in their fortunes with Montreal and Toronto and their overtures were accepted. Now it seems Ottawa is to be punished for her declaration of friendliness to the two clubs. She is to get a taste of the same medicine as she gave Toronto and Montreal last year and is being paid back in her own coin. Cornwall and Shamrock have made it their aim to knife Ottawa for that club's desertion, and now the Ottawas are also being abandoned by the two clubs in whom they placed reliance and faith. The poetic justice of their punishment may be emphasized, but to the outside public it looks as if neither Montreal nor Toronto was preserving a bona fides in the matter."

Drop Shots.

There is quite an exodus of Toronto lacrosse players to British Columbia this season. Bob Cheyne, Paul Carmichael, Tom Spaul, Frank Doherty and A. Belfry have already gone and this week Fred Grant and W. Hartley will follow.

The Cornwall Lacrosse club have elected A. F. Mulhern president, in place of Mr. Broderick, resigned.

The lacrosse season in the United States was opened Friday with a game between the College of New York City and Stevens Institute.

ROWING.

Landing of Montreal, Resumed Reinstatement by the Executive Committee of the A.A.O.

TORONTO, April 17.—The spring meeting of the Executive Committee of the Canadian Association of Amateur Rowmen was held at the Queen's Hotel on Saturday, Col. Sweeny, president of the association, was in the chair and held a proxy from 2nd vice-president, P. D. Ross, of Ottawa. The members present were: 1st Vice-Pres. Stuart, of the Leander of Hamilton; Treasurer, J. W. Hogg; Secretary, W. A. Littlejohn, and G. E. Galt, Winnipeg; R. W. Garmichael, Toronto; S. P. Grant, Bayshore; Frank Lloyd, Don; James Pearson, Argonaut; and J. A. Stewart, Grand Trunk. A resolution of regret at the death of Mr. E. E. Kittson, of the Leanders of Hamilton, was adopted as soon as the meeting opened. It is Toronto's turn this year to have the annual regatta of the association, and though it was proposed by Mr. Grant to hold it at Hamilton, the meeting decided to offer it to the Toronto clubs, who are expected to reply by the first of May. A regatta committee was appointed to consist of one representative from each of the clubs in Toronto, with the secretary of the association as a member and convener. Messrs. J. J. Stuart, James Pearson, S. P. Grant, Frank Lloyd and W. A. Littlejohn were selected as committee on entries and Mr. Joe Pearson was chosen as umpire for the regatta. The application of J. J. Donoghue, of Hamilton, for re-instatement as an amateur was then taken up. It was pointed out that all the former committee were satisfied that Donoghue was one of a party suspected of doing improper work at Pullman, Ill., two years ago. He was never guilty of purposely losing a race or of rowing for money and after two years' suspension was re-instated. Donoghue had a number of statements and a petition signed by the leading citizens of Hamilton, but the committee reinstated him before he had a chance to produce these. Joseph L. Ives, of Montreal was another applicant for reinstatement. His was a very different case and it was dealt with differently. Laing was never suspended or disqualified by the C.A.A.O., but after the refusal of the N.A.A.O. to receive his entry he voluntarily became a professional. The Committee held that while Laing had passed an honest course both as an amateur they had not the power to declare him an amateur so long as the definition was in its present form.

The committee passed a resolution endorsing the Grand Trunk Club to the extent of $100 on law costs, if the club proceeds with its suit against the owners of the steamer that destroyed a Grand Trunk four oared shell at Barrie last year. The association is now so well fixed financially that it was decided to reduce the membership fee for this year to $10 for clubs in Ontario and Quebec and $5 for clubs in Manitoba and British Columbia. The treasury is about $750 to the good. The admission of the James' Bay Athletic Association and the London Rowing Club to membership brings the number of clubs on the roll to 16. Turning races were discussed informally, and the committee were of opinion that it was not advisable to make any change in the rules. The regatta committee will meet in about 10 days. The date is not fixed, but it will be close to that of the National Association at Saratoga, which will probably take place the last week in July.

FOOTBALL.

A Spring Series may be arranged. On account of improvements being made on the M. A. A. grounds the football club will not be able to practise there this spring. This will not however, prevent them having a team on the field for a meeting of the committee of the McGill F. B. Club held Saturday, this state of affairs was made known when it was decided to invite the Montreal team to practise with the college team in the University grounds. It is expected that practices will begin about Tuesday morning, but on a i. a. will also put a team in the field, so lovers of Rugby football will be able to witness their favorite pastime this spring as a series of games will no doubt be arranged between these three clubs.

The annual meeting of the Quebec Rugby Union will be held early in May, when the advisability of returning to the series system of matches will come up. The only serious charge that can be brought against the challenge system, is that the club holding the championship has the advantage of having the matches played in its grounds. There is no doubt but that the series system is the better one if it can be arranged to suit all clubs. The McGill Club will make a strenuous kick against a series unless the other clubs agree to give them dates not before Oct. 15. In fact their last meeting it was decided that unless satisfactory dates were given them, it would not be in the interest of the club to keep up their connection with the Union. The reason advanced by them is that college does not open until Oct. 2 or 3, and it is impossible for a team to be got into shape by the first Saturday of October the date of the opening of the football season. It is more than likely that the other clubs will grant this concession.

BICYCLING.

Important Changes Made in Bicycle Racing Rules.

At the annual meeting of the Canadian Wheelman's Association held on Friday at Toronto the following important alterations were made in the racing rules. Clause B was amended to read "The Racing Board will receive and pass upon all claims for records, either competition or time. Competition records must be furnished a statement from the judges and timekeepers, together with a sworn statement from a competent surveyor, certifying the measurement of the track. When a claim for a record has been proved to the satisfaction of the board the record shall be published in the official organ, and stand as record on the books of the board. No claim for a record made at a meeting not governed by association rules will be considered. The board will not entertain a competition record on its books that is not made at an open meeting of which at least one week's notice has been given. The competition record must be made at a race between men. A time record may be made with or without pace-makers."

A novices race was defined as follows: "A novices race is open only to those who up to date of event have never won a first prize in a bicycle race at a race meeting, and shall be the first race of a meet. The term 'bicycle race' in this paragraph shall not apply to run and ride and obstacle races, or races without hands, but shall be deemed to apply only to races in which the contestants ride their bicycles throughout, and in which the winner is the first contestant to cross the finish line."

The Good Old Ordinary Goes.

In the Dominion championships the one and five-mile high wheel championships were struck out and one-half and five mile safety events substituted. The championship races now are one-half, one, three and five miles.

Hands-off and slow races were abolished.

In track rule 2 it was defined that a referee at a race must be an amateur wheelman.

To track rule 12 was added that, after a race had been started, none but competitors should be allowed on the track, and that coaching was prohibited.

Rule 14 was amended to define a racing costume as a covering from neck to knees.

In rule 17 the words "have and" "both feet on the ground" were struck out of the following sentence: "Attendants when pushing off competitors must have and keep both feet on the ground behind the mark from which the competitor actually starts."

Rule 31 was amended to read—"A class race is open only to those who up to date of the closing of entries have not won the first position in a public event in the same or better time than the class under consideration or in relative time judged from the other distances according to the appended table:

Qr.	One Mile.	Two Miles.	Five Miles.
34	1:10	2:25	5:03
34 1/2	1:14	2:30	5:10
35	1:15	2:35	5:20
35 1/2	1:17 1/2	2:40	5:30
36	1:20	2:45	5:40
37	1:23	2:50	5:50
38	1:25	2:55	6:00
39	1:27	3:00	6:10
40	1:30	3:05	6:20
41	1:31	3:10	6:30
42	1:33	3:15	6:40
43	1:35	3:20	6:50

A new rule was added as follows: "No person who has been expelled, or is under suspension by L. A. W. or N. C. U., shall be allowed to compete at any race meet given under the association rules; and any member of the association knowingly competing in a race at a race meeting in Canada where any entry of such an expelled or suspended person has been made will be liable to instant loss of his amateur standing."

A Long Run.

BELLEVILLE, April 16.—Messrs. Ed. Parker and Geo. Begg, of the Toronto Bicycle Club and Century Road Club, rode yesterday from Toronto to Trenton in 8 hours. The distance is 106 miles.

SHOOTING.

Successful Afternoon Spent by the St. Hubert's Gun Club.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE HERALD.
OTTAWA, April 17.—Members of the St. Hubert's Gun Club held their first competition for the Thompson silver cups at Rideau range yesterday afternoon, and had an excellent afternoon's sport notwithstanding that the weather was against them. The competitors shot at 25 birds each from "unknown" angles and the topscore was made by A. Thorpe who broke 210.

The following is a summary of the shoot:

A. Thorpe	210	S. Cunningham	14
J. S. Desjardins	19	W. H. White	11
R. J. Dalton	19	H. J. Lane	12
Lock	15	W. P. Let. Jr.	11
W. McNeil	15	J. A. Doyon	7
A. Stewart	15	J. Marshall	7
C. L. Panet	15	J. P. Nutting	8

The cups are to be shot for on five consecutive Saturdays, the best three scores to take first prize.

THE TURF.

Speculation on the Spring Handicaps.—Notes of the Turf.

Speculation on the spring handicaps is more lively now, according to the reports sent in, than at any time in several seasons past, says Black and Blue in the New York Mail and Express. Longstreet holds the post of favorite for the Brooklyn handicap, the figures quoted against him being 6 to 1. The great son of Longfellow gives very indication of training on, and now it looks to be simply a question of a good day and track to show him at his best in the great race set down for May 16. Tenny has been supported a little in the Suburban handicap during the week past. The impression prevails, and it is probably correct, that he will not start in the Brooklyn handicap, for which reason the price has lengthened to 25 to 1. Tenny is still the favorite for the Suburban, and reports from Monmouth county show that the horse is doing as well as could be desired.

It seems to be the general opinion that Nancy Hanks could beat Sunol in an actual race, but as Bonner will not start the latter, except in a contest against the watch, there seems to be no chance to prove the truth of the opinion.

The present year is likely to prove a sensational one in trotting circles. The stables of all the notable drivers are full of great trotters and horses to-t are destined to become great, and if Father Time is not banished before the leaves fall again, the old fellow will have to keep up a mighty hustling if he hopes to stay at the front.

The 4-year-old colt Bedouin, 2:28 1/4, that took his record over one of the Blue Grass circuit tracks last year, and has since been bought by Forbes, the Boston millionaire horseman, we see has been matched against the Aleyone colt Napoleon, dam Betty Bump. The race will be trotted at the New England breeders' meeting.

From Frox, 2:25 1/4, now 2 years old; has won more heats inside of 2:30 than any other trotter of her age. She is credited with five winning heats inside the standard mark Athalon, 2:27, in season, with Bird, 2:26 1/4, has two winning heats to her credit, and Freedom, 2:29 1/4, has one.

General Sporting News.

The latest curling matches of the season on record are reported from Orillia and Shelburne where games were played on Friday.

Jack McAniff has sent a telegram from Hot Springs denying that he is ill, adding that he never felt better in his life. He recently had a set with Bobby Burns.

The Onario Jockey Club, by the arrangement of Caldwell as starter for the May meeting, claim to have secured the king of starters. He can abuse and rear at half a dozen jockeys in a good disciplinarian, and one in whom the public have confidence.

The American Amateur Athletic Union has made an important change in its rules. It has been decided by a small vote of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen in dealing with questionable amateurs. In the future when an individual is suspected of receiving money for his athletic services charges will be made against him. From the time the charges are made he will be held as guilty until he can prove his innocence. A notification of the charges and of the time when his case will be considered will be sent to him. This decision will give the A. A. U. great power. The athlete will now have to prove his innocence, if suspected. It is likely that many suspensions will soon be made. Many of the athletes will have a difficult task in satisfying the A. A. U. that they are amateurs.

The Vacant City Clerkship.

The chairman of the Finance Committee says that all applications for the office of city clerk should be sent in by the 22nd inst when a report will be made to Council on the subject. The idea is prevalent that the committee will recommend the present acting city clerk Mr. Gosse for the position, who will in his own be succeeded by Mr. Bauset.

Douglas Church Bazaar.

Douglas Methodist Church held a very successful bazaar on Saturday in aid of the building fund. The tables were under the direction of Mrs. Jordan, Mrs. Hagar, Mrs. J. Gros, Mrs. Hopper and the Epworth League. The receipts will be from $400 to $500. The officers were: Mrs. Morton, president; Mrs. Hanson, vice-president; Mrs. Kimber, acting-treasurer.

Stolen Watch Recovered.

The Rev Mr. Hill's gold watch stolen some weeks ago from the Y. M. C. A., rooms has been found in the possession of a Brockville jeweller. Last week a stranger called on a minister in Oswego N. Y., and told him he had stolen the watch and pawned it for $5 in Brockville. The clergyman wrote to Mr. Budge of the Y. M. C. A. and he in turn to the secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Brockville who recovered the watch and returned it to Rev Mr. Hill.

THE SCORE STOLEN.

Notre Dame Church Choir Had to Fall Back on Old Music.

Considerable disappointment was expressed yesterday morning by several of the worshippers in the Notre Dame Church on account of the poor quality of the musical portion of the service. This was explained in the afternoon, when the curate announced that the scores of J. N. Lemman's Third Mass and the other music to have been used at yesterday morning's service, together with that to have been performed in the afternoon, having been left in the choir stalls after practice on Saturday evening, had been stolen. The choir had, therefore, been obliged to fall back on more familiar music, which had not, however, been practised by the whole choir.

"Beats All."

The great test of the most durable and most popular piano, is the auctioneer's hammer. That little tool knocks the bottom out of the shoddy piano. The N. Y. piano claim that without a single exception the "Weber" of New York lead all others in the price obtained at Spring sales. Last year the highest price got for any second-hand piano was for a Weber nine years in use, and on Saturday last a "Weber" was sold for the same price its owner paid for it five years ago. The original purchaser had 10 years use for $75, and the late owner had it five years free. We are ready to give the proofs of what we affirm, and we defy Steinway or any other piano to show such a record. For the genuine Weber apply to N. Y. Piano Co., 228 St. James street.

CHLORODYNE

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE

Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Pace Wood stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was literally untrue, and he regretted to say that it had been sworn to since, July 1, 1881.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S Chlorodyne is a certain cure for Cholera, Dysentery, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Consumption, N. uralgia, Rheumatism, &c. Communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy or any service in Cholera was Chlorodyne—See Lancet December 31, 1884.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S Chlorodyne is prescribed by scores of orthodox practitioners. Of course it would not be as suddenly popular did it not "supply a want and fill a place."—Medical Times, January 12 1885.

SHOT HIM DELIBERATELY

TRAGIC RESULT OF A FARMER'S QUREL OVER A FENCE.

THE MACDONALD MEMORIAL FUND.

An Order Given by the People of Hamilton for a Bronze Statue—Departure of Dr. Burns and Family for Scotland—Date Fixed for the Shelburne Election Case Trial—Other Notes.

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.

DRATON, Ont., April 16.—Early this morning two farmers, John S. George, and Daniel Eby, living in the township of Marlboro, about three miles southwest of Moorefield, quarreled over the removal of a line fence. George objected to its removal by Eby and warned him if he did so he would shoot him. Eby proceeded to tear down the fence, when George ran back to his house and brought out a double-barrelled shot gun, dropped on his knee, and took deliberate aim, and fired, the shot struck Eby in one eye, and the breast, making three dangerous wounds. Physicians are in attendance on the wounded man, and it is expected he will recover. A warra. has been issued for George's arrest. The shooting was witnessed by a number of neighbors, and is said by them to have been deliberately and coolly done.

Dr. Burns and Family Leave for England—Shelburne Election Case.

HALIFAX, April 16.—Rev. Dr. Burns, Mrs. Burns and daughter left this afternoon by the Parisian for Liverpool en route to Scotland. The executive committee of the Presbyterian Council (Western Division), representing the Presbyterianism of the world met yesterday in New York and sent a telegram to Dr. Burns, a brother member, signed by Chairman Dr. Talbot, W. H. Chambers, secretary, Prof. W. H. Roberts, D.D., L.L.D., Cincinnati, and Dr. Waters, New York, as follows: "The commission unites in heartfelt sympathy and earnest prayers for your speedy recovery and safe and prosperous voyage for you and yours." The marriage took place today at New Glasgow of Harry Strong, traveller for C. H. Harvey, of this city, and Miss Ellie Murray, of New Glasgow.

The bishops of Nova Scotia, Arthabaska and Toronto, were passengers by the mail steamer Mongolian which arrived from Liverpool this afternoon. The bishop of Toronto proceeds to Portland in the steamer. The steamer had 45 cabin, 110 intermediate and 768 passengers on board for Halifax. She has also on board for Portland 62 cabin, 125 intermediate, and 660 steerage making a total of 1615 passengers.

Judge Ritchie delivered judgment in the Supreme Court to-day fixing the date of trial of the Shelburne election case, Greenwood vs. White. Hearing is set down for June 29.

THE BUDGET FROM QUEBEC.

The Steamship Polino Coming Up the River—The Ice Bridge.

QUEBEC, April 16.—The steamship Polino from Cow Bay to Montreal passed Cape Rosier at 11 o'clock to-day. If the ice bridge at this city has not moved off on her arrival here the Polino will moor at Indian Cove and await there the ice shove.

The St. Charles river ice bridge started off to-day. The ice bridge at New Liverpool, a few miles above Quebec moved about a hundred feet to-day.

The ferry boats will try and cut their way out of the Louise Basin on Monday. It is generally believed that a straight cut from the basin to Levis would start the whole mass of ice. Such a move is considered practicable, as the ice in front of the basin entrance is quite soft, and in many places water covers the ice bridge. Much anxiety is felt here over the bridge, as it threatens to delay shipping most seriously.

THE MACDONALD MEMORIAL.

An Order Given for a Bronze Statue—Grand Opera House Improvements.

HAMILTON, April 16.—At a meeting of the Macdonald Monument Committee, held on Thursday, it was stated that returns of subscriptions of $5000 had been made, but $3000 is required, and the balance of $1000 will probably be raised this week. It was decided to give an order to Wade & Co., London, Eng., for a bronze statue, 7 feet high, with rough face granite pedestal in proportion. The order will be placed in St. Paul's Cathedral. This statue will cost about $30,000 and the cost of the pedestal will be about $3850.

Mr. C. J. Whitney and Mr. Garwood, of Detroit, lessees of the Grand Opera House, were here yesterday and consulted with the directors of the opera house in regard to proposed improvements to be made. The opera house will be enlarged and refitted at a cost of about $20,000, and when completed will be one of the finest in Canada. The plans were approved by Messrs. Whitney and Garwood, who will lease the house for a number of years. The work will be started almost at once.

THE MONGOLIAN'S PASSENGERS.

She Arrives at Halifax with a Lot of Immigrants.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 15th.—Royal mail steamer Mongolian arrived Saturday afternoon with the following cabin passengers on board: Bishop of Arthabaska, J. F. Barker, Mrs. Barker, Mrs. Brockfield, E. Blythe, G. Gorbouth, R. Bruce, Mr. Bullen, Capt. Burnes, Mrs. Burnes and infant, J. Colclaut, Capt. Doody, F. Doody, Rev. O. Edgewood, Mrs. Edgewood, child and infant, A. C. Edwards, Sister Elizabeth, F. Fowler, Mrs. Fowler, Master W. A. Fowler, Miss M. Garland, J. Hamilton, F. A. Hamilton, C. C. Hansen, F. Harrison, Miss Harrison, J. Hatley, Miss M. E. Hatley, J. C. Hawkins, Mrs. Hawkins, Miss Lawrence, M. J. Holland, W. H. H. J. Lawrence, F. Lawson, W. A. McGilvray, Miss C. M. C. J. Miller, Mr. Molesworth, Captain D. Murr, J. Mrs. Murray, Mr. Murray, Jr., H. C. Nixon, Bishop of Nova Scotia; H. Pearce, W. A. B. Rapsey, R. J. Sanderson, C. R. Scates, Mrs. Scates and child, Dudley Smith, H. S. Sweetman, J. H. Tee, Miss Thomson, Bishop of Toronto, M. Wood, and 125 intermediate and 660 steerage passengers.

FOR OVER FIFTY YEARS.

Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's" Soothing Syrup, and take no other.

"August Flower"

Mr. Lorenzo F. Sleeper is very well known to the citizens of Appleton, Me., and neighborhood. He says: "Eight years ago I was taken 'sick, and suffered as no one but a dyspeptic can. I then began taking 'August Flower. At that time 'I was a great sufferer. Every thing I ate distressed me so that I 'had to throw it up. Then in a 'few moments that horrid distress 'would come on and I would have 'to eat and suffer 'again. I took a 'little of your medicine, and felt much 'better, and after 'taking a little more 'August Flower my 'Dyspepsia disappeared, and since that time I 'have never had the first sign of it. 'I can eat anything without the 'least fear of distress. I wish all 'that are afflicted with that terrible 'disease or the troubles caused by 'it would try August Flower, as I 'am satisfied there is no medicine 'equal to it."
