THE FERRY COMPANY.

On purely personal grounds, an attempt is being made in the Legislature of this Province, to infringe the rights of an institution which tried and tried to overcome a most heroic nature, to serve the people of Quebec faithfully and well. The Quebec and Lewis Ferry Company is a local enterprise. It is successful because it is well managed. The officials are civil and obliging. In the summer time, the trips are made with great promptness. In the winter time, owing to natural causes, it is not always in the power of the Company to meet the wishes of the travelling public.

Still, every effort is made, day by day, to oblige and accommodate the people who use the boats plying between the south shore and the north shore of Quebec. The Company by its contract with the city, is not bound to await the arrival of the Intercolonial Railway. Yet in twenty cases out of twenty-four, it has been able, even in the stormy season of the year, to carry passengers arriving by the Intercolonial to Quebec. The risk to do this is very great. The amount of remuneration is very small. As a rule, there are seldom more than half a dozen or a dozen passengers arriving by the evening train who wish to cross the river. When practicable the company goes to all the risk of crossing the St. Lawrence in the dark, for the paltry receipts, rarely more than one dollar in amount. In vain has the Ferry Company asked the railway companies interested, to come to an arrangement. No attempt has been made to arrive at a mutual understanding, whereby, in case of accident occurring, the Ferry Company would be indemnified by the railway company. It seems to be imagined by some persons that the Ferry Company is bound, by its contract with the city, to oblige the railway companies. Nothing of the sort appears in the contract at all. But, the Ferry Company is willing to meet the railway companies on a fair business basis, but thus far, the railways declined to come to terms. For their apathy in a matter which so nearly concerns themselves, the Ferry Company is not to blame.

Such privileges as the Ferry Company enjoys are amply paid for. The city taxes it six thousand dollars per annum. Certain obligations were imposed on the Company. These it has kept to the very letter, and more, it has exceeded the demands made upon it. It has reconstructed its fleet, so that in the matter of equipment, it may be said to rank A1. It has constructed pontoons, and entered upon other obligations, not provided for in the contract, the single object in view being to accommodate the public. It has, of its own accord, reduced the winter fares from 15 cents to 10 cents, and on tickets purchased in quantities, a discount of ten per cent has been granted.

To children attending schools and colleges, and to workmen of a certain grade, large reductions in the tariff have been made.

In this way alone, the company has given the public more than twelve hundred dollars a year. Through a regular price has been provided for in the by-laws, the company has never hesitated to grant special rates in favour of such commodities as bark, birch, stone, &c., thus enabling those purchasing certain industries, giving large employment to the people, to receive their supplies of raw material, on advantageous terms. Whenever practicable, without, of course, endangering its property, the company has always met the desires and wishes of the public, by affording special trips, for those attending concerts and other amusements. At all times, moreover, the use of its vessels has been granted by the company, at nominal figures, when requested by the clergy and superiors of convents and schools. We mention these matters, just to show how liberally the company has interpreted its side of its contract with the city. The fact that during the last twelve years, no complaint has been lodged with the company, ought also to count for much in the company's favour, as a useful and obliging corporation. It is emphatically a house institution, all the supplies being bought in Quebec and in Lévis, and all the employees being residents of the two towns.

Some seventy hands are regularly employed, though often as many as a hundred are engaged by the company. In the summer season, about 30,000 trips are made.

In winter, 5,000 trips. The winter service of the present season has averaged 38 trips daily.

Our readers will see, at once, that the company has been doing its best to serve the public. Its contract provides for but one boat, whereas two powerful steamers are employed. Dr. Grosbois is a fair-minded man, but in this case he has apparently, allowed his feelings to get the better of his judgment. He has evidently the idea that by wrecking the company he will destroy a grasping and unaccommodating monopoly. This conclusion, he has arrived at, because, on a particularly stormy evening, he had to cross the river in a canoe. His bill is destructive, it is wrong in principle, and not calculated to give the people of Quebec a better service than they have now. The very fact that the people most interested are satisfied, ought to be sufficient proof to Dr. Grosbois, that no change is desired here, either by the public or by the corporation.

Mr. OWEN MURPHY, who took a business view of the situation, characterized the proposed legislation as
