McRae's Two-base Hit Wins Game

Clean wholesome sport is always a pleasure for the participants and spectators as well as Saturday's baseball game between Moira, N.Y. and Huntingdon measured up to these essentials. A good brand of ball, free from any undue number of errors and the players using their heads made the game a snappy and interesting game to watch.

The first two innings saw no runs, but the third inning opened up by Moira scoring one, but the local boys had the edge on them when they had their bat, for both Hunter and Reid scored. Reid knocked a two-bagger and Moira fumbled the ball in right field and as a result Reid was able to make it a home run. Until the 8th inning a tight game was played, and it appeared as though the game would end without further scoring. In this inning Moira had two men on bases, when a late hit brought one man to tie the game. It then looked as though extra innings might have to be played for in the 8th the local boys were put out with rapidity and in a like manner Huntingdon put out the Moira boys in the 9th. Lindsay Chambers was first up in the 9th and with a clean hit started the inning in a winning manner. Watson was next up and got his base on balls. Next came Reid, who was put out. Norman McRae, however, did the necessary thing when he launched a two-bagger and brought in both Chambers and Watson and so the game ended 4 to 2.

The players were: Moira—Rockwood, Enright, Sorrell, Black, McMillan, Kingston, Levine, Walsh and Garrow.

Huntingdon—Hunter, Fortune, Martin, Henderson, Chambers, Watson, Reid, McRae, Fallow, Ross.

An improvement is being made in the appearance of the lot used as a "Tom Thumb Golf Course" fronting the Chateau. Miniature golf has petered out, and the lot has been leveled and will be converted into a tennis court. The property is owned by the Chateau, so we have every reason to believe it will be kept in an attractive manner.

Mr. Francis Durnin of Montreal, spent the week-end at the T. W. Furey home.

FLOWERS IN THE PARK

Dear Editor:— I would deem it a privilege if you would allow me through the columns of your newspaper to draw attention to a condition which is most disgraceful. I refer to the flowers in the park, if such they might be called. At no time since my advent to Huntingdon have I ever seen the park in such a deplorable condition as it has been this year.

Quite true, plants were laid out in the spring but doubt whether or not any attention has been given them since then. At least, the length and profusion of the intermingled weeds are strong evidence of neglect. The park was always a thing of pride for Huntingdon's citizens but apparently these days are past.

On Thursday evening Chateaugay taking place next week when there will be a large number of strangers in town it is to be hoped that the town authorities will take the matter in hand and have the park cleaned of debris, the grass cut, weeds pulled, and the plants trimmed. Possibly, our town officials rarely take a walk by the park, but if they did the facts here submitted would present themselves plainly. "Shall we break faith."

A CITIZEN.

Soft Ball Activities.— On Thursday evening Huntingdon defeated Brynsville in a S. W. Q. Softball League fixture by a large score, 10 to 1. Although the score was very one-sided, the game was interesting with several spectacular plays on both sides. Umpires were Jas. Newman and Jas. Lorden.

On Monday evening Ormstown visited Huntingdon, the latter team being victorious by a score of 12 to 3. Huntingdon gained an early lead and held it throughout. Most pitched exceptionally well for Huntingdon, striking out several men at the plate. Umpires were J. Lorden and S. Millar.

Tomorrow night Huntingdon plays at Valleyfield, and Brynsville at Ormstown.

Young Boy Hurt.

Bowling Enthusiasm Still Grows.— The ladies and gentlemen of the Huntingdon Bowling Club now number collectively about 35 strong. The ladies and men have been challenging one another to games, and Friday evening saw five greens come into action. The ladies scored a tie game on one green and lost by a small margin on two other greens while the men had six strong. The winners of the evening were Art Hamilton, Chas. Robins, Paul Baldwin and Cecil Clark.

Holstein Exhibitors at Valleyfield.— The Valleyfield Exhibition opens on Tuesday next. The Valleyfield Exhibition is now a regional show and is open to six counties. From the Huntingdon area we are informed that the herds of H. T. Cunningham, W. S. Tannahill & Son and W. L. Carr are being entered.

Fallon Family Reunion.— A family reunion was held at the home of Mrs. Catherine Fallon on Sunday when all the members of her family with the exception of two, were home for the week-end. Those who were home for the week-end were Rev. Joseph Fallon, S. J., Rev. Sister Mary Beatrice and Rev. Sister Lucy, Montreal; Rev. Sister Ida, Valleyfield; Rev. James Fallon and Rev. Elmer Fallon, Rigaud; Mr. and Mrs. John Fallon, Westville, Rev. Father Herbert Fallon, of Melvin, Ont., was unable to reach home until Monday night.

"No, she's dead?"

"No, but she'll be here any minute now."

H'DON SPLITS TWIN BILL

Lost to Beavers 3-0 But Defeat Valleyfield 16-2

A double-header was played on the Huntingdon diamond on Sunday, the local boys losing the first game to Beavers 3-0 and winning the second from Valleyfield 16-2.

The game with Beavers was most interesting. Behind the efficient pitching of Geo. McIntyre, the boys fielded sensationally, circus catches robbing the local boys of several hits. For Huntingdon, St. Denis pitched winning ball, obtaining eleven strikeouts, and being found for eight hits, no earned runs being scored. Neither pitcher gave a base on balls and only 31 batters faced McIntyre. The local boys appeared too anxious, and did not play their usual steady game. These Beaver games are by far the most interesting baseball played locally and it is to be hoped that they will be seen at least once again this season on the Huntingdon diamond.

In the second encounter, the Valleyfield Stars failed to shine. Reid, who was in the box for Huntingdon, held them helpless for six innings, and then retired in favor of another pitcher who finished the game, which was by far too one sided to be interesting.

Kensington Play A Splendid Success

"The Price of Justice" presented by the Kensington Young People on Wednesday evening, August 3, held in Kensington Hall was an entire success.

The hall was packed to the doors. Cast of Characters: Mother Craig, Elsie Salter; Father Craig, Douglas Elder; Betsy Craig, Marjorie Salter; Jim Craig, Robert Elder; Sheriff Batt Allister Watson; Jake Peters, Nicol Stark; Mrs. McGee, Lizzy Elder; Rhodens Borg and Mr. Elmer; Bill Kerrigan, Watson Tannahill; Bull Terry, Wilfred Woodside.

The play is a fine story of ranch life in Wyoming, throbbing with life all through.

Each actor was finely fitted to his part and plainly showed professional training.

We feel deeply indebted to Mr. Audley Anderson, whose quiet, encouraging and confidential manner made every actor do his utmost. He has a powerful magnetic personality and played a fine dramatic part in the play.

Mr. Cecil McNeill played his bandle and sang between the first and second act and between the second and third act the Ladies' Institute soloists.

The players have been invited to Athelstan, Howick, Constable and Beauharnois.

Robson

CHILD DROWNED AT PORT LEWIS

Laurette Jennings, 21-Mos.-Old, of New York City, Met Death Sunday

Laurette Harriet Jennings, 21-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jennings, New York City, and a grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. Larche, Malone, N. Y., was drowned near Port Lewis, Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

The child was running toward the river and fell face downward into the water which at that point was only about a foot and a half in depth. Raymond Dubois, who was swimming nearby, noticed the accident. The child was taken from the water and rushed to St. Anicet, where a doctor made a vain effort to revive her. She was then taken to the hospital in the ambulance and died at 10:30 p.m. The child was born in New York City and was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Jennings.

Mrs. Jennings, the child's mother, was formerly Miss Laurette Larche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. Larche, Malone. The Jennings were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Larche and the two families were spending some time in camp at Port Lewis when the fatal accident occurred.

Huntingdon people remember Miss Larche as a fancy figure skater who took part in many exhibitions in the local arena. Gleaner readers extend heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

BEAUHARNOIS POWER NEWS

First Available Power 200-h.p. Ready For Delivery October 1

Those who dreamed of the day when the waters of Lake St. Francis would flow into Lake St. Louis by means of a great power development canal will see those aspirations realized in the course of the next few days when the first water from the upper river will be allowed to flow into the Beauharnois canal, and passing through the power house, flow into the St. Lawrence at Lake St. Louis.

The execution of the plans of the Beauharnois Power Company have been done so expeditiously that the determination of the company to commence delivering power by October 1st next are to be realized.

The power house at Melocheville, Lake St. Louis, has already been completed to the extent of a 200,000 horse power development. Naturally there is a period of experiment to be undergone, and by the end of the present week water will begin to flow into the canal from Lake St. Francis and gradually increase in volume until by the end of August the level of water within the canal will be sufficiently high to permit of the operation of the power house. The month of September will be devoted to testing out and "tuning up" the machinery, so that by October 1st, all going well, as is confidently expected, the company will have its first lot of power for delivery.

Ultimate Objective.— The present immediate project is for a development of 500,000 horse power, but ultimately the project is intended to provide 2,000,000 horse power, according to the plans even as conceived in the initial stage, and in the draft of treaty between Canada and the United States, mention is made of the 3,000,000 horse power from this Beauharnois development, though naturally it will be required that a larger flow of water be allowed the company than is at present permitted.

Ultimately, too, the Beauharnois development is to be one of the great links in the international waterway project, since through the canal, with its depth of 33 feet, are to sail the ocean boats pictured by those who favor this plan. From the shipping point of view the Beauharnois canal will be the complement of the Welland canal. However, the first steps in the huge Beauharnois development provides for power, with the plans so drawn, however, to provide a gate to enable the passage of the boats.

The fact that the Beauharnois company will be able to deliver its first allotment of power by October 1st stamps the enterprise as being one of the few cases on record in the world where such a project has been executed in the time in which planned, in this case by R. O. Sweezy.

From the financial point of view the treasury of the province of Quebec will benefit materially, since under the terms of the contract between the company and the Quebec Government a royalty of $1 per horse-power developed will go to the Government.

Ormstown Village

In the correction of an error, made on the part of the examiners, in checking the marks of the June examinations of Grade XI, Miss Helen C. Ross, of Stanstead College, obtained both a High School Leaving and a Matriculation in the Quebec examinations, with a total of 664.

Miss Ross is a daughter of Rev. Walter and Mrs. Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason Greig motored to Montreal on Saturday and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Cockran. Both are Donalds returning for a longer visit with the Cockran family.

SUMMER SCHOOL RESULTS LIST

Many District Students Successful in Macdonald College Courses

Students who were successful in the summer school for teachers, held at Macdonald College this year are listed in an announcement by Dr. W. P. Percival, Director of Protestant Education. This course was inaugurated in July, 1931. The session just ended is the second which teachers have had the opportunity of attending.

Those who attend the school will be much better prepared for teaching in the future than they have been in the past as the result of the establishing of this course," Dr. Percival states. "As a recognition of higher attainments, more advanced diplomas will be awarded to students upon the completion of their work. In order to be eligible for entrance, teachers must hold elementary or intermediate diplomas and must have taught successfully for at least one year. The average length of teaching experience for the students in this year's classes was nine years."

The list of successful students from the district is as follows:

Advanced Intermediate Class—Florence M. Farquhar, Athelstan.

HUNTER OPENS ELECTRIC SHOP

New Store Valuable Addition to Huntingdon's Business Places

A new Electrical Store and Specialty Shop has recently been opened by J. M. Hunter in the remodeled block next to A. E. Hunter's store.

This building has just been remodeled by its proprietor, Mr. A. E. Hunter and made into one of the most modern shops in Huntingdon. The front is of two-colored brick, artistically arranged. There are two show windows of considerable size, neatly designed. The store has two levels, chinaware and electrical appliances being shown on the lower level, paints and small hardware and counter on the upper level. There are a number of new showcases, well fitted and trimmed. As a whole the store presents a very dignified appearance and will be a great asset to Huntingdon's main street.

In the rear of the store is the electrical repair shop, as Mr. Hunter is a licensed electrician, and carries on a business of electrical installation. He is a graduate of the Coyne Electrical School in Chicago.

The store has been opened about a week and the management is very well satisfied with the patronage which has been accorded. We wish them continued success.

Doris Palmer McDonald Looks For Release

It was on July 17, 1927 that Adelard Bouchard, of Lachine was murdered by George McDonald, Doris Palmer McDonald and Ralph McMullen, now a fugitive. The three took Bouchard's auto after killing him and throwing him into a watery ditch along the highway at the Duhamel farm, three miles west of Huntingdon. The McDonalds were sentenced to hang but Doris McDonald was during the last 48 hours before the hanging committed to life imprisonment at Kingston. She has hardly served five years' time, and now hopes to be released. Her attorneys declare that the confession which she signed was improperly extorted from her. Believe it or not, no one in this community, acquainted with the facts about that Bouchard murder case will care to believe or honor such a statement.

If Canada is to have law and order, it is essential that its laws be obeyed. When Justice Walsh saw fit to commit her to the gallows, he weighed the evidence well before he made his judgment. When his judgment was reduced to a life imprisonment for her, it almost seemed an injustice to the descendants of Adelard Bouchard, who was murdered in such a foul manner by two men and a woman, all of whom had evil minds and should never be allowed to intermingle with society or the world at large. McMullen is a fugitive, but many here believe he was killed before McDonald was hanged. If such is the case, has Doris McDonald thrown any light on the subject of his whereabouts? It is to be hoped Canada's laws and judgments will not be allowed to slip into a meagre category as has been too often the case in the country to our south, and in this case may justice be accorded the people of this District. By Doris Palmer McDonald being obliged to serve her full term of twenty years. If our laws and sentences are belittled, our Dominion will suffer through an influx of undesirables from all parts of the globe. Canada needs no women the type of Doris Palmer McDonald, and while she is in safe keeping now, it is well for all that she so remain.

The Newspaper Convention

During the past two weeks the editor of this paper attended a convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers at Port Arthur, Ont. Some readers may just wonder why a weekly newspaper editor need attend a convention so far away from home. Distance makes it all the more reason why the editor should attend. As he travels afield he gathers information, and has a greater conception of what Canada really is. The Newspaper Association has met in Halifax, and it has met in every province in Canada as far as the Pacific coast. As the fraternity travels, so do they gain knowledge, which in turn they are able to impart to the readers of their respective journals. It is not our intention to write at length about the 1932 convention now, but in our anniversary issue we hope to reproduce a number of articles that will interest our readers.

The Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association has done more for the welfare of weekly newspapers than many weekly newspaper publishers are willing to acknowledge. But if more newspapers would take an interest in the association's work, and take heed to its advice, fewer papers would be suffering the hardships of 1932 to such a marked degree.

The presidential chair of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association for the year 1932-33 is being occupied by Arthur W. Marsh, of Amherstburg Echo, Amherstburg, Ont. Mr. Marsh is one who has manifested great interest in the Association work for many years and has prospered accordingly. The 1st vice-president is Chas. Clark of High River, Alta., where the Prince of Wales Ranch is to be found. That the Association is Dominion-wide is to be noted by the fact that the 2nd vice-president was selected from the Quebec membership, and fell to the editor of this paper. The Association is ably directed by its manager, E. Roy Sayles, of Renfrew. Directors are selected from each province, and in turn keep a close tab on all newspaper movements, and work towards the general welfare of the 400 odd newspapers that make up the Canadian Association, which is found to be in a flourishing financial position and doing yeoman work for its membership. Without this Association, Canada would certainly have poorer weekly newspapers, and coming home, we might acknowledge that our readers would not be reading such a newsy paper as is the Gleaner.

Encourage the Baseball Boys

A boy, or young man, must fight his own battles if he is to succeed, and we believe that in the past too often the sporting element has received support almost unduly easy. As a result the boys became almost too independent and felt they had to be paid for playing the sporting game of baseball. Professionalism is an impossible thing to support in a town the size of Huntingdon, therefore, we must not let the ball teams drift into the professional category in order to provide a really high class game of ball to attract crowds. This year the ball enthusiasts have made a fine diamond at the east end of the town. Without a question, it is the best ball park the town has ever had, and the fans have made it themselves without any calls from public funds. The boys deserve credit for their initiative in this respect, they are not only providing healthy recreation for themselves but are giving the general public some very interesting and snappy exhibition games of baseball.

Softball is making headway throughout our District and on this same diamond crowds of people flock to it regularly to see the twilight games.

It is all very well to have the boys manifest interest in promoting these sports and providing their own field, which might rightly be expected to be supplied by the town. It is good for them to shoulder such an obligation and responsibility, but it is fit and proper that they receive support from the townspeople in the form of cash admissions. If all will support the ball movement it will not be long before a better ball ground is made and probably bleacher erected.

Chautauqua Opens Friday

Opportunity comes but once, and so it is that Chautauqua comes to Huntingdon but once a year. Chautauqua has always provided excellent programmes and during its stay here each year we have heard fascinating addresses by gifted orators. This year's programme will measure up to past records and it is to be hoped the audiences will pack the tent at each performance. The programmes are varied in character and will appeal to men, women, young people and children alike.

Another Record For Canada

When it comes to boastful records, we usually think of the population that make up the United States, but it is now fit and proper to turn the tables when we think of the official opening of the fourth Welland Canal that took place on Saturday. The Welland Canal is indeed one of the greatest wonders of the world, and particularly so its locks which are so gigantic. On Saturday when the Governor-General, Lord Bessborough, officially declared the canal open the largest freighter afloat on the Great Lakes was in the Thorold lock. The freighter is the Lemoyne, built by the Canada Steamship Lines, at their shipyards at Midland, Ont. The Lemoyne is considered a triumph of Canadian achievement and is the boast of Canadian shipyards.

It was the pleasure of the writer to see the Lemoyne, when half loaded with grain at Port Arthur, just before sailing for the Welland Canal ceremony on Saturday last. It is hard for our readers to grasp the greatness of the Lemoyne, but the few figures here quote will assist in forming some conception of the freighter. She is 633 feet long, which is approximately the distance between Pringle & Co. store and that of E. C. McCoy's. Her beam is 70 feet wide, depth 29 feet and has carried 571,885 bushels of wheat in one shipment, and that amount of wheat represents the entire crop from 40,000 acres of land. In carrying coal, she has attained a record of transporting 16,538 tons at one time, or the equivalent to 300 car loads. Canada has every reason to be proud of such a ship, and to have canal locks such as are to be found in the Welland.

The Welland forms a very important link in transportation in the Great Lakes, and when the day comes that the deep waterways are completed, we may see such freighters passing through our district down through another of the world's wonders, the Beauharnois Power Corporation Canal.

Chronicled News Bits

Specially Written for The Huntingdon Gleaner

Long Arm For Law

Enid Hill wants to join the women police at Hunstanton, Norfolk, England, and has cited as her special qualification for membership what is believed to be the longest reach of any woman in the world. She is six feet five inches in height and with arms out-stretched exactly spans her heights. She can reach to a height of eight feet with one hand. She weighs 210, is well proportioned, and very strong.

Romance Finally Caught Up

Romance has finally caught up with an Evans-ton, Illinois, 70-year-old justice of the peace, Samuel Harrison, who has performed nearly 1,700 marriages. He announced he was going to marry a red-haired woman. The bride-to-be is Mrs. Emmy Christensen, 41, who apparently meets all the requirements of a "perfect woman" as described by the justice some months ago when he held public bids for a wife, asserting that none except red heads need apply. He received more than 250 responses from women in various parts of the country, but accepted none of them. The wedding took place Saturday.

Clever Sleuthing

Clever sleuthing was done by an Amsterdam girl, who entered a garage clad in a pearl-grey suit and announced that she wanted to buy a limousine to match the color of her clothes. The garage man expressed his regret at not being able to please her but on second thought left the building and shortly returned with just the kind of a car she wanted. The same day, however he was arrested on the charge of being the receiver of stolen goods. The pearl grey limousine was the property of the young lady, and it had been stolen. By going through every garage in Amsterdam she had done her own detective work.

Man Jailed For Brother's Crime

The story of a youth of 18 being sent to prison, his elder brother confessing to the crime, the Home Secretary releasing the first man and the second being sent to prison in his place, was related at Stratford, England. James William Middleton, 22, a boiler coverer, of no fixed address, was charged with being concerned with a man named Evans in breaking and entering a store at Creeksmouth Power Station, Braking, on February 27 and assaulting Police-Constable Pearce. Some months later a brother of the man, Walter Middleton, 18, was charged with the same offences, denied he was the man, but was sent to four months' hard labor. James Middleton thereupon called at Canning street police station and said he had just heard his brother had been committed to prison for an offence he himself had committed. Inquiries were made and the next day the younger brother was released from gaol. James Middleton was sent to four months' hard labor.

Spanked Her, She Wins $1235.

For the pain, embarrassment, and humiliation of being spanked over a comparative stranger's knee, Agnes Trafer, of Los Angeles, California, was awarded damages of $1,235 in Superior Court. Last Halloween the 15-year-old high school girl soaped the windows of Dr. Bernard G. Trauger's home. She said that he turned her over his knee and "beat" her, injuring her spine.

Find Lost Millions

A salvage company of Seattle has discovered the wreck of the ocean liner, Merida, sunk May 12, 1911, 65 miles off Cape Charles, Va. The ship is in 220 feet of water and is said to hold between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 in money and jewelry. Instead of sending divers down into the hold to bring up the treasure, this salvage company uses pontoons and other equipment by which it raises old wrecks to the surface and moves them to shore, where they are searched systematically. The Merida, bound for New York, from Mexico, had aboard many refugees from the Mexican revolution, some extremely wealthy. At least $1,000,000 in jewels went down in addition to $4,000,000 in gold and silver aboard.

Bone Built Into Spine

For eight years Jessie Exton, 17, of Workshop, England, could not walk, because of tuberculosis of the spine. Now, through one of the most remarkable operations ever performed in Britain, she is no longer crippled. Her case came to the attention of the Duchess of Portland, who had her removed to the Duchess' Orthopaedic hospital. Dr. Malkin, senior surgeon, removed a piece of bone from the girl's left foot and used it to build up her spine.

650 Miles to Fix Ticket

Paul F. Aswald, 25, is conscientious, if anything. He cut short a vacation, drove 650 miles to Detroit, Mich., from Warhead, Ky., and dashed into traffic court. "I got a parking tag," he explained to Judge John Maher, "but forgot about it until I reached Warhead on my vacation. I found it in my pocket and rushed back as quickly as I could." "In view of such conscientiousness," said the court, "I can hardly do less than dismiss the charge." So Aswald started back to Kentucky.

Cop Instead of Cash

Mrs. James M. Selden, wealthy Pittsburg widow, got a letter demanding that she send the writer $5,000. Instead she sent a policeman wrapped up in a blanket—and the result was the arrest of Anthony Barile of Jamestown, N. Y. The letter sent to Mrs. Selden's summer home at Bemuspoint directed her to send her chauffeur with the money to a country cross roads. A state police sergeant wrapped himself in a blanket and hid in the rear seat of the car. The chauffeur was given a dummy package and told to drive to the cross roads. The state trooper popped up at the crucial moment and said he saw Barile come to accept the package.

Killed in Bible Argument

An argument by two farmers over the meaning of a passage in the Bible led to the death of one at Lumberton, N. C. Houston Williams, 30, struck Frank Pridden, 70, with a brass knuckle during the argument, killing him instantly. The younger man fled and blood hounds were put on his trail. A coroner's jury charged Williams with second degree murder.

Butterflies Worth $4,000,000

James John Joicey, of The Hill, Witley, Surrey, England, one of the leading collectors in the world of butterflies and moths, and a generous donor to various English museums, who died on March 10, aged 61, left unsettled property of the gross value of £1,151. He gave to the British Museum his collection (reported to be worth £5,000) of Lepidoptera at Witley (if not already disposed of), and all other property, including any of the residue of the estate of his mother, Mary Joicey, of which he might have power of disposal, to Phoebe Allen, of Evergreen, Wych Hill, Woking. It has been stated that Mr. Joicey's entire butterfly collection was worth £1,000,000. In a lawsuit brought last month, the trustees of the will asked if, under power of appointment given to Mr. Joicey by his mother's will, they could assent to the butterfly collection going to the British Museum without, at the same time, asserting to the rest of the estate going to Phoebe Allen. Mr. Justice Eve held that the trustees had no discretion in the matter and said the effect would seem that the British Museum would lose the collection, but they might perhaps buy it.

Poultryman Tender-Hearted

Jimmy Potter of Yeager, Kentucky, is magnanimous. He crept up on two chicken thieves at work in the dark in his back yard. One robber fled. The other, up in a tree busily picking squawking hens off branches, handed five to Potter, remarking: "This is enough for one night." Potter forced him to come down then let him go.

War on Gate Crashers

Two attendants stood at the entrance of a golf club recently at Scarsdale, N. Y., and, as each couple entered for the first of a series of Friday night subscription dances, one attendant took the man's ticket and pulled up his sleeve while the other brought a rubber stamp down on his left wrist. Every man's left wrist bore a stamp "P. C." in indelible blue ink, about the size of a silver dollar. The letters signified "paid cash" and were stamped on the customers to prevent gate-crashing. Women escaped the stamping, the board of governors of the club having decided that no Scarsdale woman would try to crash a dance without an escort. The indelible ink is warranted to wear off before the next Friday dance comes along, so there can be no repeating on a single stamping. It would be possible, of course, for a professional gate-crasher to have his own stamp made and adorn his own wrist, but gate-crashing at Scarsdale is said to be done upon the spur of the moment and even the most flagrant offenders, it is said, never would take the trouble to have their own stamps made. The customers last week took the stamping in good humor.

Harnessing the Wind

The rotor ship having no engines, and propelled by revolving towers, which was tested a few years ago, did not become popular, even though it worked. Now, a new application of this remarkable principle has been found. Great rotors are likely to be erected to drive dynamos which will generate electricity. One of them is being put up as an experiment to determine the amount of energy that can be harnessed in this way. If it is successful, a great plant is to be built, consisting of forty rotor units, each of which can generate a thousand kilowatts when the wind is blowing at twenty-eight miles an hour. It may be that in the rotor science has at last discovered the real secret of harnessing the winds, which can provide mankind with almost unlimited power.

Crow Returns Like Fabled Cat

The crow that came back—as the cat of the fable did—resides at the home of Albert Brown at Winnipeg. The Browns had the bird about five weeks and finally it became more of a nuisance than a novelty. So two weeks ago, they took it for a long ride and placed it in a tree, and thought they were rid of it. But somehow, the crow found its way back. Unable to fly, it returned despite attacks by cats and dogs which maimed one of its toes.

Boy Swept Over Dam, Lives

A 14-year-old boy swimmer was carried over a 40-foot dam in the Saranac river at Plattsburg, N. Y., and lived to tell the tale. The current swept Aquila Stockdale, 14, toward what a dozen spectators on shore thought was certain destruction. Huge rocks lie at the foot of the falls. Somersaulting through the air, the youth landed feet first in a shallow pool. He was only bruised.

Smart Sea Gulls

Sea gulls on the coast near Vineyard Haven, Mass., have discovered the hard paved roads nearby make a good substitute for a rock on which to break scallops, clams, and other shellfish. The birds pick up the shells and fly over the roads, drop them from a height sufficient to shatter them, then alight to eat the contents. The gulls also are fond of rats and mice which are attracted to the bits of food remaining in broken shells. Passersby frequently have noticed the birds drop a shell on a rat, killing or stunning it, then swooping down and devouring their prey. This happens so often that observers declare the birds have learned by long practice to hit the rodents from the air. It sounds like a fish story, but may be true.

A Good Screamer

The bandits must like Herman Eppers, who punches the cash register at a Chicago, Illinois, restaurant. Twice they tried to hold him up, and each time he screamed with such vigor that they ran away footless. The other day he saw one of the bandits and started screaming for a cop. Half an hour afterward—the cop having arrested the man—two more bandits appeared and Eppers screamed some more, the police catching one robber. If Eppers should lose his voice, his efficacy may be retarded.

Having His Troubles

Sore feet or trouble are Charles Curran's alternatives. While he was engaged in a marathon dance at Philadelphia, police arrived to serve a warrant for non-payment of alimony. The dance manager said Curran had a good chance to win first prize and agreed to pay $10 weekly toward the alimony—as long as Curran kept dancing.

ADVERTISING for the MERCHANT of TO-DAY

Conducted by
HAROLD S. EDGAR

A series of weekly articles on advertising and merchandising prepared for the merchants of the Chateaugay Valley with the co-operation of the Huntingdon Gleaner.

Some Customer Types

The nervous irritable customer fusses all through the sale, chafes at delay, and is usually sharp in her attitude. Serve her quickly and quietly; slowness of motion will only make her nervousness worse. Keep your voice and manner calm and soothing and meet her arguments with smooth concurrence. When she indicates dislike for any article, remove it, for small details jar on her.

The uncertain customer takes long to decide, for she is afraid she is not getting one hundred percent value for her money. As soon as you realize her cautiousness stress quality and economy, but seldom style factors. You must use a firm convincing manner, and never complete a sale with such a customer unless she is fully sold on the merchandise, for she is likely to change her mind.

The aloof customer may be simply his or her attitude towards the merchandise so as not to be led into wrong buying. Keep on talking, present goods from different angles, and watch expression carefully for some display of interest. If customer begins to appear interested when you mention a certain point, let this be your talking point.

The snobbish customer indicates by her manner that she regards the counter as the dividing line between social classes. Appear not to notice her offensiveness. Your most commendable asset in dealing with this type is dignity. Serve her quietly, holding your head erect with a calm realization of the importance of your own position.

Often while you are presenting your merchandise the absentminded customer will look away. When you see her thoughts begin to wander, pause a moment. Or, if you pick up the article and hold it before her, looking directly at her as you talk, the combination of sight and sound will usually bring her back to the matter in hand.

When the "nosey" customer makes secretive inquiries concerning confidential merchandising questions, tell her regretfully that the information is considered confidential and that you are not at liberty to reveal it. Do not answer questions with coolness or hauteur, no matter how personal or inquisitive.

The timid customer is quiet and unassuming. A brisk business-like manner is likely to embarrass her. Set her at ease with friendly sympathy and endeavour to make her shopping as light an ordeal as possible. You will find your efforts rewarded with grateful patronage.

The unreasonable inconsiderate customer fumes and argues; she is unable to understand that customers are given preference in order of their arrival. Be patient and polite. Never argue or try to make her see the fairness of the rule, for she will never grant it.

The mind of the deliberate customer is slow-moving, slow-thinking and works logically. You must talk slowly and clearly for she needs time to digest facts. Take plenty of time to show your goods; showing two articles at once disturbs her.

Endeavour to win the confidence of the suspicious customer, who is sceptical about merchandise offered at reduced prices. Give clear, explicit reasons for reductions. Stress exchange, refund or guarantee privileges to disarm her suspicion.

No matter what you show the "Hard-to-please" customer she will sniff indifferently or find more fault. To deal with her you must have thorough knowledge of your goods, and be able to meet every objection with confidence and politeness.

Many customers like to make their purchases unassisted and their wish to be left alone must be respected. When a shopper tells you that she is "just looking around," smile pleasantly and assure her that you are glad to have her do so.

The talkative customer relates her family affairs, while she is making a purchase. Listen to her stories and try to lead her back to her purchases by polite questions. Yet never appear hurried, or give the slightest hint of impatience.

Even the well to do customer is often stingy. You must sell her on the idea of paying for good merchandise by stressing wearing qualities, and the saving of initial purchase of superior quality.

Again I state, never slight a child customer. She is the adult customer of tomorrow, and besides, whatever happens during the sale will be duly reported by the child to her parents.

The decisive customer appears to know definitely about everything. Never tell her anything; permit her to talk, and she will sell herself the merchandise.

Next Week—"PLANNED DRIVES."

Mr. Edgar will be glad to answer questions in this column, if readers will address their communications in care of this paper. Confidential replies can be arranged through the editor.—(Copyright)

Gayly Colored Moth

The tapestry moth is not so common in the United States as the case-making or the webbing clothes moth, and is larger than either of them, having a wing expanse of about three-fourths of an inch. It is more strikingly colored. The head and basal third of its forewings are black, while the outer two-thirds of the wings are creamy white, though more or less obscured on the middle with gray. The legs are uniformly pale gray.

"Is your husband economizing?"
"Yes. He threatens to smoke such inexpensive cigars that we are willing to cut down every other household expense rather than suffer."

MALONE FAIR ROUGH RIDERS

State Champion Troop "D" Horsemen to Appear During Fair

The most spectacular riding exhibition ever staged on the local fair ground, will be one of the big features of the annual Franklin County Fair which will open in Malone on August 23rd and continue until August 26th with full night and day performances.

The exhibition referred to is Captain Stephen McGrath and his rough riding state troopers of "D" Troop which has exhibited in practically every large city of the state and is a feature attraction of the State Fair at Syracuse every year on Governor's Day.

The team consists of a dozen gray riders which go through a series of trick and fancy riding that keeps its audience thrilled to an unprecedented degree. The mounts used by the troop are all beautiful cream colored animals with silver tails and manes, and in themselves well worth going miles to see.

The act will be staged on the track in front of the Grand Stand and takes about twenty minutes. Ten minutes of that time is consumed by tricks done by the team collectively. The other ten minutes is occupied by individual tricks of the riders. All stunts are executed while the horses are at a full gallop. What is considered as the most outstanding of all the stunts performed by the team is one where practically the entire personnel go from one side of their horses to the other under their mount's bellies. Troop "D" has the distinction of being the only rough riding team in the country that has performed this act collectively.

The exhibition is concluded by what is considered one of the most sensational tricks ever attempted, when six men ride three horses in a pyramid form through a hoop of fire. To appreciate the skill required to perform this feat is almost beyond human conjecture.

The team has won trophies in all the big meets of the state and is considered the best of its kind in the entire country. In competition for the state championship the Troop "D" team has won several times.

The above is just one of the many feature attractions that will greet visitors to the 1932 fair. Plan to be there and bring your friends. And another welcome feature to friends of the Franklin County Fair, is the fact that Canadian money will be accepted at the gate at par.

Molasses Doughnuts to Sell

1 cup sour milk, 1 cup molasses, mix together; add 1 teaspoon soda, then stir in egg which has been beaten, 1 teaspoon melted butter; sift 1 cup of flour, 1 teaspoon of ginger, ½ teaspoon salt; add this to the wet mixture and beat in well. Then sift in flour enough to roll without sticking to the board.

Wonder Clocks Evolved by Old-Time Mechanics

The first clock of the type we know today was made by a Milanese at the beginning of the Fourteenth century, and built in a church tower of his native city, to the great astonishment of the inhabitants. A few years later a wonder clock made its appearance at Padua.

Besides indicating the hours, this was provided with mechanism that showed the course of the sun, the revolutions of the planets, the varying phases of the moon, the months and the numerous fets of the year. In another hundred years people were marveling at a production which must have been the first alarm clock ever devised. At a stated hour this clock sounded a little bell, at the same moment lighting a little wax candle. How this was done is a secret that passed to the grave with its inventor, but it is worthy bearing in mind that until a century ago our only means of obtaining a light was with a tinder-box!

EGGS GAVE HER INDIGESTION

When this woman of 72 years found a remedy for her indigestion, it proved to be one her 70-year-old brother was already using to keep him "a perfect picture of health." She writes:

"For years I had suffered with indigestion, and simply could not eat an egg or a potato. I took an aperient regularly, but still I suffered. I began this year taking a small dose of Kruschen Salts. Now I can eat eggs and potatoes and enjoy them—without any after-trouble."

"My brother is a perfect picture of health, and a splendid advertisement for Kruschen Salts. He is always bright and happy. He never forgets his morning dose—neither do I, now that I know the value of it. My brother is 70 years of age, and I am 72 years. We have reason to bless these valuable salts. I recommend them to all my friends."—(Mrs.) M. E. M.

The six salts in Kruschen stimulate and tune up the bodily functions from a number of different angles. Your stomach, liver and kidneys all feel the immediate benefit. You forget indigestion, headaches and depression in a new feeling of physical and mental exhilaration.

"And Telephone us when you get there"

Like most mothers these days, Mrs. Clark is always worried when any of the family go on a motor trip. She can never get to sleep until she knows they are safe.

Your family probably have the same worries. When there is a trip this summer, why not arrange to telephone the comforting news of safe arrival? Telephoning is simple and inexpensive and may prevent a great deal of unnecessary distress.

A Long Distance call takes only two or three minutes and you can talk 100 miles or so for as little as 30 cents.

"NEW BROOMS"

Presented by the Canadian Players
"New Brooms" sweeps up a lot of laughs. Hilarious humor and keen, good-natured observation of human nature mark this realistic comedy. Critics proclaim it a vast entertainment.

The opening play of Chautauqua on Friday Evening, August 12th

NINE FINE ENTERTAINMENTS TO BE PRESENTED AT CHAUTAUQUA

First Entertainment in Form of a Play Takes Place Friday Evening—Advance Sale of Tickets Indicates People Desire Chautauqua in Huntingdon Yearly

Chautauqua opens again in Huntingdon this week with a splendid variety of programs. From "New Brooms," the opening play to "Merely Mary Ann," each day presents outstanding artists in widely varied entertainments.

"New Brooms," the comedy featuring Arthur McMurray and an all star cast is a rare combination of tenderness and humor. A story of family life, the conflict between father and son, it portrays their problems with fine understanding. "Merely Mary Ann," the closing play is the romantic love story of a little English servant.

Chautauqua sponsors are proud to present Dr. David D. Vaughan, the lecturer of the second day. Dr. Vaughan is one of outstanding authorities in social science on this continent and holds a position as post graduate lecturer at Boston university. In his lecture, "The Challenge of a New Day," Dr. Vaughan deals with the economic forces that have resulted in the present situation and discusses the problems, both economic and social which confront us. Of Welsh parentage, Dr. Vaughan has a forceful and interesting platform presentation.

The second lecturer, Attorney Ray Hansen has also a most interesting story to tell—a member of the Hoover Crime Commission, and ex-district attorney of Chicago, Attorney Hansen has an intimate knowledge of the gang system. His lecture is a frank exposure of its evils and dangers.

A most colorful musical program is that presented by the Italian Sorrentino and his Venetian Strollers. The group have all highly trained voices, appear in costume and their entertainment is typical of the gay music-loving Italian people.

Arousing wide-spread interest is the feature musical program on Monday night. It is "The Cotters' Saturday Night" based on Burns' poem and presented by a Scottish musical company. Into this play has been woven many of the old Scottish songs. The scene is laid in a small Scotch home on Saturday night when the bairns come home. It is notable for the sincerity with which the spirit of the nineteenth century Scottish home is depicted. A most exceptional production.

Lovers of classical music will welcome the coming of the artist trio featuring Hugo Brandt, Polish pianist, Vladimir Lenski, Russian violinist and Leola Aikman, coloratura soprano, from the Chicago Civic Opera Company. The larger cities have heretofore aided this as the finest concert program presented in years.

Appearing with the Artist Trio on Tuesday evening is John B. Ratto, internationally known humorist and impersonator. Mr. Ratto does impersonations of Clemenceau, Wilson, EVENING—Prelude: Sorrentino and His Venetian Strollers. Lecture: "The Challenge of the New Day." Dr. David D. Vaughan—gifted Welsh platformist and authority on Social Science, offers a challenge to thinking men and women. Admission 50c—(Tax included).

Lloyd George and Gladstone which as artistic triumphs have never been rivaled.

Last but by no means least beloved, the Marionettes. This year Sue Hastings is presenting Hansel and Gretel, Goldilocks and the Three Bears. Children will be glad to know that Jerry is coming back with the Marionettes again.

Monday evening Miss Mann, of Canadian Chautauqua Company, met with the guarantors of the Huntingdon Chautauqua. Miss Mann stated that this year's programme was being exceptionally well received wherever presented. This statement was corroborated by two members of the Chautauqua who had received similar reports from friends who had attended the Chautauqua held in different parts of Ontario.

The report received upon the ticket sales indicated that a very creditable sale had been made and that the prospects for a great many more sales before the opening performance will be made. The ticket sellers stated that the people approached to buy tickets had a warm feeling towards the Chautauqua and did not hesitate to buy the season tickets, for they now know from experience that the Canadian Chautauqua provided them with an excellent 5 days of entertainment to buy the season tickets. Adults admissions are $2.20, Students $1.50, and Children $1.00.

Valleyfield

Accident Victims Funerals.

Funeral of Mr. Vincent Burgess, aged 27 years, son of Mr. Frederic Burgess, of Drummondville, Que., was held on Friday morning, August 5th, at 2 p.m. from her home at 29 Dufferin Road, the Rev. W. J. H. Lummis officiating.
The body of the drowning victim was brought from the morgue at 8 a.m. in the morning. The room where the body lay was termed "a paradise," it being completely filled with wreaths and flowers from Miss Hartley's many friends. Pall-bearers were Messrs. J. Cantamessa, G. Potter, S. Yandley, C. Philbin, J. Wilson. The deceased leaves to mourn her loss her father, one sister Dorothy, and one brother, Eric. Mrs. S. Hartley passed away suddenly about two years ago. Interment was in Valleyfield cemetery.

Miss M. Hartley was drowned on Saturday afternoon, July 30th, while enjoying a sail with Mr. V. Burgess, on Lake St. Francis. She was attired in yachting costume. Her body was recovered Wednesday afternoon.

Inquest was held Friday morning, and Dr. Besner returned a verdict of accidental death by drowning. Our heartfelt sympathy is extended to the bereaved parents and friends.

Moco vs Lachine.—At Lachine on Saturday the local team met Lachine. It was an ideal day for the game. Moco had quite a good following of supporters, who travelled in cars. When the game started it was seen it was going to be a hard fight. Lachine had the wind in their favor in the first half. McCracken, Moco's goal-keeper giving a grand display, his saving at times was splendid. Half time result, no scoring. When the second half started Moco were determined to get a goal but Lachine defence was too strong for them. Lachine scored a goal after fifteen minutes of play, through a scrimmage at the goal. McCracken having no chance to save; after this it was anybody's game. Moco playing hard and Lachine defending at all costs. Result, Lachine 1, Moco 0.

After the game Lachine entertained the local club and friends, also their own players, with refreshments. The tables were nicely arranged and plenty of food for all. Dancing was carried on till about 12 o'clock, the proceedings then terminated, everybody there having thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Moco plays C. N. R. at Montreal on Saturday, Aug. 13th. It is hoped Moco players will put in some practice for this game.

Rev. W. J. H. Lummis left Valleyfield for Morin Heights, Que., where he will spend a month's vacation with his wife and children, early this week.

Mr. Lummis has arranged for Mr. R. Wilson, B.A., of St. John's, Que., to conduct the Sunday services during his absence, and also with the Rev. Hatcher, of Huntingdon, to attend to all persons needing ministrations of the church.

Rev. J. G. Greig is attending the Summer School for Clergy at Macdonald College. This school closes on Thursday.

$6,000,000 Damage in Chicago Blaze

Chicago, August 4. — Fire which caused damage estimated at $6,000,000, was brought under control tonight after burning through four industrial blocks on Chicago's southwest side. It was Chicago's largest conflagration in 30 years, veteran fire officials said, exceeding the $5,000,000 Burlington building fire several years ago. At the Omaha Packing Company plant, most of which was destroyed, officials placed their damage at not less than $5,000,000. The flames started about 3 p.m. in the elevator of the Quincy Elevator Company, consuming nearly 1,000,000 bushels of grain with a market value of more than $500,000 under present quotations. The fire spread to several coal piles at the Consumers Company and lumber at the plant of the W. B. Crane Company. A large yacht was also destroyed. More than a dozen firemen and spectators were injured or overcome by smoke, but the only serious casualty was a skull fracture suffered by Fire Lieut. William McDonald, who was struck by a falling pipe. Half the city's fire equipment was concentrated at the scene, at 22nd and Sangamon streets. The belated arrival of fire boats prevented further damage along the Chicago river front. Destruction of the packing plant, a subsidiary of Swift and Co. will throw 1,000 men out of work, officials said. The office building was still burning tonight. The cause was believed to have been a dust explosion or spontaneous combustion in the elevator. Included in the loss were: 736,000 bushels of wheat, 96,000 bushels of corn and oats, 806 hogs, 68 cattle, 150 calves, 300 sheep, 8,000,000 pounds of ham and 3,000,000 pounds of lard.

New Welland Canal Opened

Thorold, Ont., Aug. 6.—The Welland Ship Canal is "open to the commerce of the world." These simple words from His Excellency the Governor-General this afternoon, crowned a great achievement. Then he moved a control lever. Slowly, the huge red and white bulk of the steamship Lemoyne, world monarch of freshwater freighters, came to life. Pennants flying, almost imperceptibly she moved down the new canal towards the Governor-General, the Prime Minister of Canada, and the Empire statesmen and ladies gathered to receive her. Thousands watched her stately progress. At that moment she typified the water-borne commerce of Canada and of the world. The opening ceremonies were perhaps unparalleled in the history of the world. They brought to the flag-bedecked marquee erected at twin locks number six, statesmen from the four corners of the British Empire. One after another, distinguished representatives of the Mother Country and her remote Dominions voiced their congratulations that Canada's great water transportation dream was coming true. One after another they expressed sincere pleasure that the vision of 1913 had become the reality of 1932. The United Kingdom, Australia, New Zealand, India, the Irish Free State, Newfoundland, through

Verdict of Accidental Death in Case of Romeo Caron, 28, of Ste. Martine

Members of a jury under Dr. A. Benner, Valleyfield, coroner, rendered a verdict Monday, of natural death in the case of Romeo Caron, 28-year-old painter, native of Ste. Martine and recent resident of Howick, whose body was found at the intersection of the C.N.R. tracks and a farm roadway near Cecile Junction, two and a half miles east of Valleyfield. According to Dr. Armand Deguire, of Valleyfield, who examined the body before the inquest took place, the suspicious bruises about the neck and legs of the dead man were attributed to insular degradation. Bruises were only found about uncovered parts of the body.

Albert Poirier, owner of the farm on which the body was discovered, testified at the inquest that early on Saturday afternoon, while working on the farm accompanied by his two youthful sons, he had seen Caron lying in the embankment, but asleep then. Some two hours later Poirier returned testified while passing the same spot again, Caron was still there and apparently still asleep, although he had changed his position. It was on the following day, Sunday afternoon, that Poirier's two sons passed once more on their way to attend the cattle, and saw the dead man's body. They then notified their father about the discovery and the coroner in turn was summoned to the scene together with Deputy Chief Cullierier, of the Valleyfield police.

Senator Belcourt Dead

Ottawa, August 7.—Senator N. A. Belcourt, of Ottawa, died at four o'clock this afternoon at his summer home at Blue Sea Lake, Que. He had been in poor health for a year, but his condition was not considered critical until he suffered a seizure this morning. He was a barrister and was 71 years of age. During the last session of Parliament he was in delicate health although he was frequently in his seat in the Senate. As his condition did not improve he moved to his summer home in the Gatineau hills where it had been thought he was making a successful battle for his life until the turn today. A keen debater, a convincing bilingual speaker, a frequent contributor to magazine, a frequent lecturer on educational subjects, and a man of refinement and culture, Senator Belcourt for many years filled an important place in Ottawa public and social life. He was the counsel which guided the fight of the French-Canadian Educational Association of Ontario against Regulation 17. This regulation limited the time French could be taught in the bilingual schools of the province. He was minister plenipotentiary for Canada at the inter-allied conference and later at the international conference in London in 1924. He was an officer of the Legion of Honor.

With the death of Senator Belcourt, the party standing in the Senate is as follows:

|               |    |
|---------------|----|
| Conservatives | 47 |
| Liberals      | 44 |
| Vacancies     | 5  |

Brutal Murder of Farmer.

When it became known that Samuel Bradley, a farmer residing about a mile and a half from Cannon's Corners, had been murdered in the most cold-blooded manner imaginable a wave of horrified indignation filled the minds, not only of his neighbours in the district of Moore's Forks, but also of the people of Havelock Township, where a number of his relatives live. The crime was committed early Friday night and before midnight on Saturday, Elmer Robidoux, 19, living with his brother-in-law on the next farm, had confessed himself the slayer, claiming to have as his confederate one Quesnel, who had come from Massachusetts. Mr. Bradley was a quiet, industrious, and most peaceable man, without an enemy, but the few hundred dollars he kept in his home since the Champlain Bank failure, proved sufficient motive for his murder.

Mrs. Bradley attended camp meeting with her husband to stay over till next morning. Then about seven o'clock she reached home only to find his lifeless body on the floor of the dining-room, where he had been shot through from outside. Holes were seen through window screening and glass, and the former had been torn aside in order to raise the window, by which an entrance was effected. Burnt matches close to the body indicated that the victim had been searched, but fear of discovery hastened their exit by a door which Mrs. Bradley found unlocked. The money they sought was found still locked in a drawer. Two main clues led to the tracing of the criminals. A shell picked up outside the broken window was found to correspond with others left in the home of Robidoux's brother-in-law, and fitted his shot-gun. The second important clue was the burnt matches. The ends of these were chewed, and it was observed that Robidoux had a habit of chewing the ends of matches and returning them to his pockets. Persistent questioning brought about his confession, and he is now lodged in Clinton County Jail to await his trial for first degree murder. It is surmised that Quesnel may have returned to the Bay State.

CHAPTER V

The weeks wore on and soon it was June. A suddenly hot and breathless summer brooded over the city. The lake burned under a summer sun and girls began to wear their thinnest frocks and shadiest hats even in the downtown district.

To Susan, young and radiantly healthy, it was a pleasant enough time. She looked her best in the summer heat, her hair curled in little ringlets around her delicately flushed face. She had a new sweater suit of blue knitted stuff and felt very much the young business woman wearing it.

Still there seemed no chance of her securing a job. Calls came in, dribbled into the office, where a superior young woman in white linen received them and passed them along to the stenographers of Mr. Claude Block's upper class. Susan waited in vain to be called. At last there arrived a day when Mr. Block himself stood in the doorway and beckoned to her.

"You—Miss Carey. Will you come here, please?"

Trembling with pleasurable excitement, she complied. Mr. Block fingered a penciled slip on his desk. With deep-set black eyes he looked her over, head to foot, and seemed to find the results satisfactory.

He said, "We've a call for a secretary at the Melo Iron Manufacturing Company, West Lake street. Go up there and do your darndest."

Susan accepted the slip from his fingers. He rapped out after her, as she turned to leave. "Remember all I've been telling you these months. Chin up, walk like a soldier, smile!"

Susan gave a very feeble imitation of the military manner as she took leave of the school martinet but her knees were shaking under her.

She was not sure the autocratic Mr. Block of the super-super business methods would approve of her just then so she did not wait to find out.

Jostling through the State street crowds, through hordes of women shoppers on the trail of juicy bargains, the girl suddenly felt uplifted. Mr. Block's lectures, listened to so wearily for so many days, were jumbled together in her brain in a muddled fashion. One thing was certain, she must not seem timid. She must appear sure of herself at all costs.

The facade of the building housing the Melo company was anything but appealing. Huddled under the elevated tracks, smoke stained and weather worn, it seemed to the job seeker to have a slightly sinister air. Susan consulted the slip again. Yet, it was the right number. Mentally girding herself for battle, she swung the heavy, dirty glass door inward.

A red-headed office boy, chewing gum, sat behind an ancient partition near the door. Behind him loomed stores of all sizes and quality. Susan shuddered. After the heat of the street the place had a fetid coolness that reminded her of an unused cellar.

She advanced and said to the red-haired boy in what she hoped were the proper words to see Mr. Peterman. I am from Block's Institute.

With a cynical gaze the youth rose and shambled toward the rear of the store. Susan's eyes, gradually accustomed themselves to the gray light, could just make out in the far corner the figure of a man at a large, old-fashioned roll top desk. A single bulb shaded by a folded sheet of letter paper, burned above his head.

"Ugh, what a dismal place!" she murmured to herself. Somehow in her dreams of crisp, efficient offices there had been nothing like this.

The boy shuffled toward her and pointing vaguely in the direction of the swinging electric bulb mumbled, "Miss Peterman'll see ya."

Susan passed through the gate and entered the room. She was not sure the autocratic Mr. Block of the super-super business methods would approve of her just then so she did not wait to find out.

Jostling through the State street crowds, through hordes of women shoppers on the trail of juicy bar-

The man called Peterman had a long sharp nose and sawed skin. His dark suit was crumpled and spotted. He wore a high starched collar that should have gone to the laundry several days ago. His pale blue eyes, watering under sandy brows, repelled the shrinking girl. She reminded herself sternly of her obligation to Aunt Jessie. Of Mr. Block's probable disappointment if she failed, and only by the exercise of will power was she enabled to endure another moment of the man's company.

"Experience?" barked the man, suddenly harsh-voiced after the oiliness of his approach.

Susan shook her head. "I haven't any. I'm a beginner."

The man smiled and his smile was, curiously enough, uglier than his frown. He said unctuously, "Well, well, we can't all be experienced. We will teach you. You'll learn. You won't," here he smirked horribly again, "find me a hard taskmaster."

Susan stalked into the farthest corner of the oaken chair.

"I—I hope not," Peterman hitched his own chair several inches nearer.

"Salary's $18 to start and we work Saturday afternoons. No nonsense about us. Eight to 5.30. Expect punctuality."

The pale blue eyes bulged at her. The man seemed to be waiting for an answer. Susan murmured, "Of course."

Peterman nodded. "You'll do. You will do. How old are you?"

"I'll be 20 in October," Susan faltered. The answer seemed to please him. He leaned toward her and she caught the repellent odor of old cigars.

"You're no sin. It's a fault soon overcome," he mumbled, managing to come as close as possible to Susan. "We'll get along." Peterman's bony hand snapped out and closed over her round wrist.

"Mighty pretty little piece," he whispered hoarsely. Susan had great difficulty in repressing a scream. She got to her feet. There was a brief struggle in the course of which the swinging bulb was broken and the man received a shot but stinging slap on the cheek. Through the nightmare Susan was conscious of the red-haired boy staring at her. How she got past the wooden gate how she managed to pull open the heavy door and reach the street, she never knew. But suddenly she found herself, dazed and shaking, walking safely along under the L.

She had the utmost difficulty in winking back the tears. So this was what life downtown was like! This was the sort of thing you had to endure if you were to earn your living. She thought, almost with awe, of Aunt Jessie's prophecies about lecherous old men in the Loop district. Aunt Jessie had been right!

Managing by a herculean effort to wink back the stubborn tears she wended her way listlessly back to the commercial school. All the glory had gone out of the day. She wondered why she had ever imagined herself as a brisk and confident wage-earner.

As Susan joined the smart promenade on Michigan avenue she heard an agreeable masculine voice calling her name.

"Miss Carey. Ahoy there! Why the rush?"

She turned to meet the smiling eyes of Robert Dunbar, looking tall and well groomed in gray flannels.

His smile faded and, swinging along beside her, he inquired in a solicitous tone, "What's the matter? You look as though you'd had bad news."

Susan's forced calm threatened to desert her. Her under lip trembled. To the young man she appeared rather like a pitiful child.

"Here, now!" A firm arm steered her into the doorway of a sweet-palace on the avenue. She found herself seated at a tiny marble topped table.

"Tell uncle," said Robert Dunbar masterfully. "What's up? Who's been making you cry?"

She told the words tumbled forth tempestuously. She bit back a sob and described the monster of the stove works in all his spidery ugliness. A short, sharp epithet escaped the lips of her companion.

"I beg your pardon!" muttered Robert Dunbar. "I'll go up there and tear the shreds off that baby in a few minutes." The young man's jaw was set. He looked equal to the task.

Susan shuddered. "No, you mustn't. Please don't. Forget I told you! I got away and—" here she regarded her still tingling fingers with some pride—"I left the print of these on his face!"

"Atta girl!" Young Dunbar regarded her with admiration. "But I would like to leave a few prints myself."

Susan's great eyes implored him. "Don't please. It would only make trouble. You're awfully kind, though. And I appreciate it."

She straightened her hat, powdered her nose. "I must get back to school. I'll have to report to Mr. Block. By the way, where have you been the last few days?"

He shrugged. "Family's going up to Geneva and want me to come along. Father made a row and said I was to stay in town and slave this summer. We compromised and I'm going into his office."

"Then you're through at Block?" murmured Susan, her heart sinking at the thought.

"I guess I am," Dunbar admitted, paying the check. He grumbled, "Which you didn't have to go back this afternoon. We might play hooky—easy places and do things."

Susan regarded this prospect and rejected it with a sigh. "I mustn't. I've got to get a job and I mustn't do anything to spoil my chances."

He was a darling, she reflected as they walked along. Many an envious glance was cast her way. Why could not he be the sort of boy she might conceivably marry? There were dozens of girls in his own world. Why on earth should he bother with her?

They parted at the entrance to the school. Susan thought rather sadly, "This must mean anything to him but to me it's been a wonderful adventure." Then she set her teeth and prepared to face the terrifying Mr. Block with details of her failure as a job-hunter.

"He'll be furious," she told herself dully. "But it can't be helped."

Squaring her shoulders, Susan marched into Mr. Block's office.

Howick

Call to Rev. Morrison—

A congregational meeting was held in the United Church on Wednesday evening in regard to a call which Rev. Mr. Morrison had received from Halvill, Ont. This call is the second Mr. Morrison has received from this church since he came to Howick.

Rev. Mr. Morrison has been appointed by Presbytery to act as moderator and candidates will be heard during the month of August.

Rev. Hugh Cameron and his daughter Miss Alice of Deseronto, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. Arch. Cameron, Tullochgorum.

They are taking a three weeks motor trip through New Brunswick and were accompanied by Miss Florence Cameron.

The United Church Mission Band met at the home of Mrs. Robt. Templeton on Wednesday last with an attendance of twenty-five. An interesting and helpful program was carried out under the direction of Mrs. Jas. Bruce.

Miss Betty Ross has returned home after spending a pleasant holiday in Montreal, the guest of her aunt, Miss Beth Ross.

Mr. Geo. McRae and son of Massena, N. Y., were week-end visitors at the home of Mr. John McRae.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Martin of Montreal, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. J. W. Logan.

Mrs. Clarke of Montreal, has been a guest during the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Welch. Mr. Clark was also up for the week-end.

Dr. and Mrs. Percival took possession of their new home on Monday, Aug. 1st. We extend to them a cordial welcome to our community.

Mr. Roy Cameron, son of Mr. Arch. Cameron, returned on Monday night after an extended sojourn in South Africa.

Mrs. MacTeer and daughters Dorothy and Mildred, called on friends in town on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Roy of Bainsville, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Roy.

Mr. Ross Stewart spent the week-end at his home, "Rosebank Farm."

Dr. Hurst of Buckingham, Que., occupied the pulpit of the United Church last Sunday at both services. He was accompanied by his wife, also his son and daughter. They were entertained at the homes of Mr. Jas. Crawford and Mr. Wm. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith and two daughters of Model City, were Sunday guests at the home of the Misses Etta and Emily Stewart. Miss Ada Barrington of Montreal, was also their guest for a couple of days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. McCormack and son Archie, and Mr. and Mrs. R. R.

A general session of St. Anicet Council was held August 8th. Present Mr. Avila Caza, Mayor; F. E. Latrille, Aime Quenneville, Avila Robidoux and Alfred Primeau, Councilors.

On motion of Coun. F. E. Latrille, the following were approved: Georges Robidoux, $2.00; Ant. Castagner, $2.50; Jos. Durocher, $4.00; E. Leblanc, $4.00; Public Charities, $38.05; E. A. Quenneville, bailiff, $35.00.

On motion of Coun. Alfred Primeau the valuation roll of 1932 was homologated with the following amendment: A reduction of $2.00 per 100 on all taxable properties of said roll.

Birds That Cannot Walk

Humming birds, swifts, swallows and martins cannot walk or hop on a horizontal surface, says Pathfinder Magazine. Of these the humming birds are the most helpless on the ground. Swifts, swallows and martins have small, weak feet, which are adapted only to perching and to clinging to perpendicular surfaces.

These birds pass much of their time on the wing, and it has been suggested that some of the swifts may pass the entire night on the wing at great heights. They seldom, if ever, alight on the ground and they capture insects for food, scoop water from ponds and lakes for drink, and pluck twigs from trees and gather other material for their nests, all while on the wing.

(Continued from Huntingdon Page) men and women today—all have been benefited either directly or indirectly by your influence. Morally, socially, intellectually and spiritually, in all these lines, you have endeavored to elevate the people among whom your lot was cast. As a temperance promoter we remember your stand as a physician, and your strenuous efforts to uphold the cause. The Temperance Hall in our town owes its beginning in a great measure to you. In the Chamber of Commerce, at the Christmas entertainments, more especially in the early days, you were the moving spirit, towards making these gatherings a success. No Christmas tree in Howick was complete without the help of Dr. and Mrs. Shanks. As choir leader, and as an ardent lover of music, you have encouraged the youth of two generations to cultivate that art.
In the matter of education and as a member of the town council your support and advice from time to time, was much appreciated, and in the realm of sports you were not behind your associates, for many a good game was enjoyed in the Curling Rink. The Women's Institute has on several occasions been indebted to you for useful talks on First Aid, and we do not forget the long dreary drives through all kinds of weather and roads, when duty as a physician called you out. We shall miss you from amongst us, the church, the town and the community will have lost a sincere friend.
Our wish was to have seen you remain with us, but just as the home calls for the children to gather within its walls when evening draws on, so as the shadows lengthen over the years, it is natural to desire to spend the evening with one's own family wherever that home may be.
We ask you to accept this small gift with the best wishes of the community and we hope it may be of good service, for we expect to see you often back in Old Howick and do not forget Dear Dr. Shanks.
There's Open Homes For You.
Dr. Shanks in a very feeling manner expressed appreciation to the community in behalf of Mrs. Shanks and himself for the farewell party, which he proclaimed was to climax his history making in this community, where he came as a stranger. Dr. Shanks paid a high tribute to the life work of Mrs. Shanks who he claimed was his guide, inspiration and one blessed with tact. As the Doctor took his seat the audience arose and sang, "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow."
The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem brought the happy farewell evening to a close.

OBITUARY.
The Late Mrs. Leslie.
On Saturday morning, August 6th, the St. Amice community was saddened by the death of one of its most respected citizens in the person of Mrs. Martha Leslie, widow of Alexander McKenzie Leslie, Lake Shore Road.
She was born in Wales, Ont., on October 6th, 1854, married to Alexander McKenzie Leslie, April 11th, 1883 at Laguerre, Que.
She leaves 3 sons, James Alexander, John and Gregor, also two daughters, Elizabeth McGregor, and Margaret, to mourn her loss.
She was a devoted mother, a woman of broad sympathies and a fine Christian character, ever ready to lend a hand to those in need or distress.
She had been ailing for the past three months but death came suddenly.
The funeral was held on Monday at 10 a.m. in Laguerre church of which she was a member, service being conducted by the Rev. C. A. Houghton. The text was taken from Matthew 24 chapter 44th verse, "Be ye also ready." Mrs. Albert Armstrong led in the singing of hymns, "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Art Thou Weary, Art Thou Languid." There was a very large attendance at the funeral, showing the respect in which the deceased was held.

Matrimonial
Elder—Herdman
The marriage of Stella Burns Herdman, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Herdman, Huntingdon, Que. and Mr. Jno. Donald Elder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. P. Elder, Elgin, was quietly solemnized on Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 3rd, at three p.m. at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. T. F. Duncan officiating. The wedding march was played by Miss Stella Coulter.
The bride was given in marriage by her father and stood under a large white bell, and arch of white decorated with sweet peas, and was attended by her sister, Eileen Herdman, who acted as flower girl. The bride looked charming in a gown of white georgette and chantly lace, with hat, shoes and gloves to match, she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath, with satin ribbon streamers, with roses caught in loops, and wore a crystal pendant, the gift of the groom. The bride's gift to the groom was a pair of gold cuff links.
The flower girl's frock was of pale green georgette and carried a basket of sweet peas, she wore a gold pin the gift of the groom. Following the ceremony supper was served to the guests, relatives and friends. The house decorations were of summer flowers with streamers of blue and white.
Amid showers of confetti, and good wishes the happy couple left for a motor trip to Burlington, Stansand and Montreal. The bride travelling in a blue dress with coat, hat, gloves and purse to match. On their return Monday evening a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. P. Elder.
