FRANCO SAYS HIS POLIGY WAS WISEST

Former Premier Nearing Spanish Frontier on Way to Germany.

SEEMED VERY NERVOUS AT RAILWAY STATION

King Manuel Will Recognize Rights of Parliament—King Carlos Died a Poor Man.

Madrid, February 7. [illegible] Franco and the [illegible] who left [illegible] o'clock on the South [illegible] tickets only to the [illegible] they are bound is not [illegible] say Paris, where [illegible] night, but others [illegible] eventual destination [illegible] in Germany, where [illegible] Fe sent to an address [illegible] accompanied by [illegible] Senator Novas, an Infanta's friend.

The former premier's [illegible] nervousness at the railway station. On arrival there accompanied by several policemen and entered by a side door. While paying for the tickets for his party, his hands trembled so that the money he held fell to the floor. These arrangements finally completed, the travellers quickly entered a sleeping car which had been switched to a side track and which later was attached to the regular Paris train. Policemen surrounded the car to keep back the curious crowd. There was no hostile demonstration. The Spanish Government detailed a detective to accompany Franco to the frontier.

Senhor Franco, when approached for an interview, explained that under the circumstances he preferred not to talk, but authorized a member of his party to converse with a representative of the Associated Press and say for him that he suffered no remorse for his conduct as a statesman.

SAYS HIS POLICY WAS BEST

On the contrary, he was firmly convinced that the policy he had pursued was the wisest one possible. "Portugal was in a state of demoralization," said the spokesman for Senhor Franco, "and every excess of liberty, to-day, while having an apparent effect of tranquility, will in reality only add to the violent passions of the people which later will explode with greater violence."

Senhor Franco does not believe that the murders of the King and Crown Prince, resulted from an elaborate political plot; they were the acts of madmen instigated by a money bribe. The best proof of this is found in the fact that after the assassinations, when the monarchy was passing through its critical hours, and the nation was without a government, no serious attempt was made to proclaim a republic.

"Senhor Franco is now leaving Portugal, but he does not take this step because he is trying to forget his acts and policies, but because he desires to avoid the occasion for further political discussion which would only inflame the passions of the people."

In conclusion, the spokesman for the ex-premier said he thought it probable that Senhor Franco eventually would go to Switzerland.

KING CARLOS DIED POOR

Lisbon, February 7.—King Carlos died a poor man. His entire fortune consisted of insurance policies held by the King of Portugal as securities for advances made. After these repayments have been made, it is declared there will not remain more than $50,000 to be distributed to the heirs of the King.

Senhor Machado, the leader of the Republican party, in an interview today, denied indignantly that there was any connection between his party and the assassinations, which the party deeply regretted. Machado explained that the Republicans were an oppositional group, that their course had been perfectly legal and that nothing was further from their minds that a propaganda of force. He said he was certain the Monarchical regime in Portugal was doomed, and that it would die out peacefully within a few years. There would, however, be no violence. The days of the barricade are gone forever, Machado said, and in this age ballots are mightier than bullets.

It is announced to-day that Captain Azevedo Coutinho has been appointed civil governor of Lisbon. This is the first time in eighteen years that a military officer has been named to fill this post.

THE NEW KING'S POLICY

The first [illegible] the new Cabinet has produced a [illegible] impression here, as has also the [illegible] of the letter addressed by King Manuel to Premier Ferreira, in which [illegible]

"My dear [illegible] According to Article 86 of [illegible] Council [illegible] the Cortes [illegible] each reign [illegible] King's civil [illegible] the Cortes to leave the Parliament [illegible] this matter, I [illegible] that the royal treasury [illegible] any resources [illegible] have been sanctioned by Parliament."

PREMIER FERREIRA'S PLANS

The Government's [illegible] as enunciated by Premier Ferreira in his declaration that he intended to enforce respect for the laws and public order, for which the present constitution is amply sufficient, but that he would not be afraid to face the danger, wherever it might take him, is characteristic of a man trained to obey orders and shows that he is the master mind of the Cabinet. Nothing apparently could be simpler or more direct than his plan for restoring normal conditions. The Government, in making an appeal to the country to obey the law, sets an example by removing [illegible] possible all traces of [illegible] regime. Further, [illegible] the power concentrated in the hands of the Cabinet, restoring the liberty of the press and [illegible] voking the [illegible] by the former Premier, and [illegible] ing the exceptional powers conferred upon police tribunals. It does not grant the amnesty but political prisoners may now go before the courts to be tried in accordance with the law. The elections will be held as soon as possible.

CANADA'S ACTION SUBJECT OF ENQUIRY

Recent Changes In Coastal Laws Brought Up In British Parliament.

By Special Cable from Our Own Correspondent

London, February 7.—Mr. Evelyn Cecil, who was chairman of the Parliamentary committee on foreign shipping subsidies, is raising the question of Canadian coasting trade. He wishes the Colonial Office to inform Parliament of the character of the charges under the new Canadian Government regulations and their effect on British and foreign shipping, also what advice if any, the law officers of the Crown gave as to the bearing of foreign treaties upon Canada's freedom of action respecting coasting trade generally. The point derives especial interest because of the use Australia is making of her freedom of action respecting the coasting trade by imposing upon British owners Australian standards of wages, food, accommodation, etc.

The question also raises the whole navigation policy of the Empire. If the United States' interpretation of coastwise trade were adopted, the coasting trade between every port of the Empire would presumably be reserved for the Empire's ships.

LOST HEIR TO ANCIENT BARONETCY HAS TURNED UP IN NEW YORK CITY

Sir Genille Cave-Browne-Cave Is Going to Claim His English Estates.

Special to The Montreal Star.

New York, N.Y., February 7.—Sir Genille Cave-Browne-Cave, the lost Baronet for whom English lawyers have been searching for over a year, arrived up yesterday morning on board the White Star line steamship Celtic, sailing for Southampton. Although he would not divulge his intentions, it is understood that he has travelled [illegible] to take up the [illegible] to which he is [illegible] heir when his father, Sir Miles Cave-Browne-Cave, died on [illegible] 1907. Although [illegible] to [illegible] of the oldest baronetcies in the [illegible] Sir Genille early developed [illegible] tendencies, and has been roving about the world pretty much all his life. He went to India, served in the Boer war, was known on the [illegible] crossed the Pacific to San Francisco and finally drifted into the cattle belt, and it is said has given up ranching for a livelihood. Recently, with the idea that he was in the West Mr. James Bryce, H. Beech Amba sador, asked the local authorities to look for him, but the search was in vain. The Cave Browne baronetcy dates from the time of Charles I., by whom it was conferred on the family in the year 1641 for special service rendered to Mary, Queen of Scotts, his grandmother, when imprisoned. Sir Myles Cave-Browne-Cave died at the aged of eighty-four years, and his widow, the mother of Sir Genille, survives him. Sir Genille is the twelfth baronet, and was born in 1883. The family seat is at King Sey, near Warrington, Lancashire.

TWO FOUND FROZEN ON THE ROADSIDE

A St. Jovite Couple Exposed to the Elements for Two Days and Two Nights.

A terrible case of suffering was brought to light early Sunday, when Mr. and Mrs. Rodolphe Robidoux were found lying in eight feet of snow almost frozen to death.

The couple are now in the Notre Dame Hospital, but no hope whatever is entertained for Mrs. Robidoux, who is frozen from the top of her head down to her feet. Dr. St. Pierre, medical superintendent of the Notre Dame Hospital, informed The Star that there were slight hopes for the recovery of Mr. Robidoux, notwithstanding the fact that he is 76 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Robidoux left their home at St. Jovite, a pretty little village 2½ miles north of Ste. Agathe, last Thursday evening to visit friends, who lived about a mile distant from their home. It was cold when they left home, but no storm was then raging. Before they were out long, however, a fierce storm blew up, and the couple lost their way and were compelled to battle with the elements for two nights and two days. The old gentleman put forth a most heroic effort to save his wife, who is but 48 years of age, but the couple became exhausted and in each other's arms they fell exhausted in eight feet of snow.

When they did not return home on Wednesday as was expected a search party was organized, and after hours of seeking the couple were found buried in the snow.

They were removed to their home and medical aid was summoned. Both Mr. and Mrs. Robidoux were unconscious, and everything possible was done to relieve their suffering. They were brought into Montreal on the morning train to-day, and taken to the Notre Dame Hospital.

Mr. Rodolphe Robidoux is a well known settler and game warden, and has lived at St. Jovite the greater part of his life. He has been married twice and is the father of several children.

CRUELTY TO HORSES.

Snow Carters Were Fined and Lectured by the Recorder.

Some of the badly used horses engaged in the business of carting the snow from the streets, and which were specially referred to in the Star yesterday, have been examined by Mr. Recorder Weir. The animals were shown to the Recorder by Inspector Kenley, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

In all eight drivers were arrested, and they appeared in the Recorder's Court this morning and were charged with having driven horses which were in an unfit condition. They pleaded guilty.

Mr. Recorder Weir stated that he had examined the horses and had been shocked to see the way in which these poor animals had been treated. The sight of their sores and wounds was enough to make any person sick. Under every collar the skin had been worn off and the raw flesh was exposed to the rubbing of the harness and the cold. He was determined to put a stop to this sort of thing. In cases of this kind the proprietor was chiefly to blame, and if the fines he was to impose upon the accused were not paid by the proprietors, he would give instructions that action be taken by the court against them. He was not going to send the accused to jail for what was, in the main, the fault of the owners of the horses. He had had no idea that cruelty to horses existed to such an extent in the city. It was his duty to impose a fine upon the accused, as, after all, they had not been forced to drive the horses. The penalty upon each of them would be $5 and costs, and if he found that was not sufficient to stop this practice the sentences in future would be far more severe.

SNOW CARTERS GO ON A STRIKE

Their Contentions were Sound and an Increase was Granted.

SNOW REMOVAL HAMPERED

Hopeful That Contract for Removal Can Be Made With Montreal Street Railway.

There was a miniature strike in St. Henri Ward yesterday of teamsters, who are removing snow from the streets. The strikers numbered twenty. Their complaint was that they had to haul the snow such a long distance that they were entitled to more money. They demanded an increase of five cents a load.

A member of the Road Committee stated to-day that so soon as Council got down to work again the outlook was that an agreement would be reached with the M.S.R., so it could take over the work.

DEATH OF A FORMER MONTREALER.

Mr. James C. McCormick Passed Away Suddenly in New York.

Mr. James C. McCormick, a former resident of this city, died yesterday afternoon in New York, after an illness of scarcely a week's duration.

Deceased was a native of Montreal and was at one time well known in business circles here. He removed to New York quite a number of years ago and embarked in business there, at the time of his death being a member of the firm of A. Silz.

Mr. McCormick was taken suddenly ill about a week ago, and was brought to the French Hospital. There a operation for appendicitis was performed on him, when it was also found that peritonitis had set in. After the operation he was attacked with pneumonia and he passed away yesterday afternoon. A wife and five children survive him, one of whom is Mr. J. F. Cahill, of 347 Selby street, Westmount.

The burial will take place in New York.

DEATH OF MR. GEO. C. NICHOLSON.

The friends of Mr. Geo. C. Nicholson will be grieved to learn of his death, which occurred yesterday at the Royal Victoria Hospital, after a lingering illness.

Mr. Nicholson was well known in shipping circles, having done business for more than a quarter of a century with all the steamship lines entering this port, and Nicholson's market has been a well-known landmark for over 50 years, his father, the late Robert Nicholson, having been the founder.

Mr. Nicholson was of a very benevolent disposition, and no worthy object was ever refused a donation from him. He leaves a family of sons and one daughter to mourn his loss, his wife having predeceased him a few months ago.

The late Mr. George C. Nicholson.

Mr. Nicholson was prominent in Masonic circles and was one of the oldest past masters of St. George's Lodge. He was also governor of both the Montreal General and Western Hospitals.

GEORGE SUTTON SAYS HE WAS JOBBED

Claims Room Was Made Cold Purposely in Morningstar Billiard Match.

Chicago, February 7.—George Sutton, champion 18.2 billiardist, is still sore over the conditions under which his recent championship match with Ora Morningstar was played in New York. Sutton is making no charges, but from several remarks which have been dropped by his friends it is evident that the count believes that the chilly atmosphere in which the mach was decided was not an oversight.

In a letter to J. D. Mathews, manager of Sutton's billiard hall on Adams street, the champion says that the hall in New York was so cold that spectators in overcoats could not keep warm, and that it was utterly impossible to make a draw or follow shot after the balls had been knocked around on the ice cold table for a few minutes.

Such conditions were almost fatal to Sutton's style of play. With the ivories behaving properly he rarely has to indulge in open table work, as his control is so perfect that he keeps the balls as close to the rail as the rules will permit. But when the spheres were as lifeless as stones he could do nothing at all, and it is no wonder that his average was little better than seven.

GIVES MORNINGSTAR A CHANCE.

With Sutton unable to play his game it is declared that Morningstar had a chance to defeat the Count by playing a daring open game, and there are a number of Sutton's friends who are ready to ease their minds of a suspicion that the steam was turned off in the New York hall with the hope that Sutton would be beaten.

SHE PATIENTLY BORE DISGRACE

A Sad letter from a lady whose Husband was Dissipated.

How She Cured Him with a Secret Remedy.

"I had for years patiently borne the disgrace, suffering, misery and privations due to my husband's drinking habits. Hearing of your marvellous remedy for the cure of drunkenness, which I could give my husband secretly, I decided to try it. I procured a package and mixed it in his food and coffee, and, as the remedy was odorless and tasteless, he did not know what it was that so quickly relieved his craving for liquor. He soon began to pick up flesh, his appetite for solid food returned, he stuck to his work regularly, and we now have a happy home. After he was completely cured I told him what I had done, when he acknowledged that it had been his saving, as he had not the resolution to break off of his own accord. I hereby advise all women afflicted as I was to give your remedy a trial." ✉

SIFTON'S POWER.

The solid Government vote this morning against an investigation into the timber limit "insinuations" of the Opposition speakers, is about the most sincere tribute which the Ministerial party could pay to the still potent influence of Siftonism. Not a Minister could pluck up the courage to utter a syllable in defence of the astonishing condition of affairs which had been exposed, with the solitary exception of Mr. Oliver, who is locum tenens in the Interior Department during the eclipse of the head of the Siftonian clan. And Mr. Oliver said amazingly little to the point for so outspoken a talker.

That the Ministers would stand up to be counted for a policy which they dare not defend by word of mouth, is about as discreditable a performance as the country has seen. For three days the debate raged, but the Ministers sat dumb. Private members of the Tariff stamp vapored irrelevantly, and tried to defend themselves on the ground that the party, which the country turned out of office in 1896, was no better. Mr. Sifton—perhaps the ablest debater on the Ministerial benches—did his best yesterday; and it was a best which leaves the suspicions aroused by the three cases exposed by Mr. Ames wholly unquieted. He told us that we had plenty of timber land left, as if that were any reason for letting loose a horde of speculators on the public domain. He said that he would assume no responsibility either for the men who tendered or the men who now own the limits; as if that were not one of the very complaints made against his administration.

Very deft was Mr. Sifton's contention that so much was now known that there is nothing left for a committee to investigate. But the fact is that what is known already is precisely the reason why we want to know more. We know that insufficient time was given between the advertisement of these limits and the date of sale for any one to undertake an independent investigation, but that knowledge does not lull us to sleep. We still want to know why these limits were sold in that way—why the men who asked to have them put up were so outrageously favored.

It is utter tosh—it is contended—that there is nothing to be learned by putting Mr. Fraser and Mr. Nolan in the box and examining how they came to be engaged in this business of tendering for timber limits—why Mr. Fraser put in a second tender so much higher than his own and yet just high enough to get the limit, why Mr. Nolan was willing to have his name used for a Winnipeg company. The examination of the officials of the Interior Department might reveal something, and Mr. Tarriff's own testimony under oath would be worth hearing.

If, however, there is nothing to investigate, why does so shrewd a politician as Mr. Sifton compel his colleagues to equip the Opposition with so damaging a weapon against them as this refusal will prepare? An investigation which would discover nothing would be a great card in the hands of the Government. It would serve to discredit many another set of charges against them which might possibly be true. But they voluntarily throw away this advantage, and bear in the face of the country the stigma of having choked off enquiry into a most suspicious set of circumstances. That would be poor tactics, and neither Mr. Sifton nor the members of the Federal Government are poor tacticians.

There is one thing, however, which may be said for Sir Wilfrid and his Ministers. Mr. Sifton could not make them open their lips in his defence. They did vote for him, and his Tariffs and his Burrows, but they would not speak. Probably no other debate of this importance in the history of the Canadian Parliament, raised over the gravest insinuations against the administration of a Government department, was ever concluded before with but one single speech from the Ministers themselves.

AN OPPOSITION WEAKNESS.

One of the weaknesses of the present opposition at Ottawa has been illustrated during the debate on the timber limit scandal. The in quoque argument of the Ministerial defenders was an argument which they had no right to use, and which did not to the slightest degree excuse either the conduct which the Opposition charges had alleged of their own conduct in voting down an enquiry. But it nevertheless weakened the force of the attack. It was disheartening to those who desired to see the case for an enquiry pressed upon the Government with irresistible force, to be compelled to listen patiently while member of the opposition after member arose to explain his personal connection with timber limit deals in the past.

An Opposition with a clean record would be in far more effective check upon a plundering Government department, and an immensely better fighting organization from a party point of view than an Opposition whose members must constantly "explain." The rank and file of the Conservative party are little responsible for this state of affairs. Their chief sin is that they were not sufficiently vigilant and stern in the past toward their own representatives in Parliament. The great body of independent voters who look to an Opposition to restrict and, if possible, destroy the malign influence of "camp-followers" upon any party in power, are certainly not in the slightest degree to blame for the weakened condition of this instrument, upon which they must now depend.

But the voters of the country will be to blame, and more especially the Conservative voters, acting in their party conventions, if they do not seize the next opportunity to remove all "wounded" soldiers from the firing line of their attacking party. It will be no more than common prudence from the point of view of party tactics, and will be moreover only the doing of their plain duty as that section of the people who propose to give to the country an effective constitutional opposition.

TWO SENATORIAL MISTAKES.

The Senate seems determined to create in the public mind the impression that it is a corporation ridden body. After having voted down the other day a proposal that committees declaring any works to be "for the general advantage of Canada" must report their reasons in full to the whole House, it again on Wednesday rejected a motion intended to balk the "lobby" at another point by requiring all private bills coming from a standing committee to be passed upon by the committee of the whole. The way in which this would work out is clear. When a private bill is accepted without much question from a standing committee, all the lobby which is working for it need do is to capture the small standing committee, but if it had then to go before the committee of the whole House, the "lobby" would have before it the much greater task of winning over a majority of the entire Senate.

But the Senate has voted down both these proposals intended to clip the claws of the "lobby." It does not want its railway committee to be compelled to report to the full Senate a summary of the arguments pro and con which it heard when it decided to lift a local railway out of the jurisdiction of the provinces and their laws. It apparently prefers that its members shall vote in the dark on such a question. The effect of this is, of course, that the committee really decides the matter and the Senate merely gives a formal assent. And now again it votes down a suggested change in procedure which would take from a small standing committee the power to settle the fate of often very important and far reaching private bills.

If the Senate permits the idea to grow up in the country that it is like the American Senate in its devotion to the corporations and wealthy interests, the day of its "reform" is closer than the most ardent reformers now to name. Our people may good naturedly tolerate a House which is generally regarded as largely useless, and chiefly valuable as an attractive addition to the Ministerial "patronage," but they will not tolerate a House which is suspected of being the tool of the corporations. That the Senate is such to-day, we do not believe, but the Senators must take sterner steps to be rid of the insinuating "lobby" and show less kindness to a system which gives the "lobby" its deadliest object lesson. The Senate is always complaining that it is not given work enough to do, and here it has twice refused a chance to do a little additional work which the public will desire very greatly to see done.

The Ways of the Chinese Laundry Ticket.

(Harper's Weekly.)

It is not generally known that the Chinese have a system of hearing a bundle of soiled clothes is based on the deity gods and goddesses of the laundry. Thong, it is suggested, the laundryman soiled clothes a bundle of washed clothes to the wrong person. Further upset if this be so, the chances are that one will get his linen, unless he is a particular friend of the proprietor. It is a case of to-and-whom as Artemus Ward would say, for the Chinese to find up the washing but the judge was not convinced that the case of the plaintiff was a good one.

The Chinese laundryman, at the beginning of each week makes out a batch of checks in duplicate to be used as wash tickets. He selects the name of some god or goddess or of some object he sees in the room or the sign on the door. In this name he prefixes a number, as "Number No. 1" "Number No. 2" and so on. In the space between the two legends he has his own name, as for instance, Wong Lee.

When a customer takes a bundle of washing to the laundry the latter, after placing a ticket in two in a ragged fashion, puts one half on the packet for reference, the other half he gives as a receipt to the person who brought the package of laundry.

It must be presented when the laundry is demanded, and no fears need be entertained that the bundle of clean clothes will not be forthcoming, for they are scrupulously exact in these matters.

No Need of a Fire.

"Wasn't it awful" exclaimed the apartment house girl. "The furnace was entirely out last night."

THIS DATE 30 YEARS AGO.

February 7, 1878.

At the yearly meeting of the Citizens' Insurance Company of Canada yesterday afternoon there was a large attendance of shareholders. The report read by the president was accepted unanimously, and was unanimously adopted by the meeting at large the company having had a very successful year. Four others, suffered very severely from the St. John, N.B., conflagration, and a few others. The board of directors was re-elected, with Sir Hugh Allan again president.

The Late Sir Hugh Allan.

THE late Sir Hugh Allan was president of the above insurance company up to December 1, 1882, at Edinburgh, Scotland, where he was a large stockholder in this and other financial concerns of the Dominion.

The Lieutenant-Governor of the province and Mlle. Letellier de St. Just have accepted the invitation of the Citizens' Committee to be present at the ball to be given to Lord and Lady Dufferin.

THE late Hon. Rene Edouard Letellier de St. Just was holding the office of Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec at the time he was appointed in December, 1878, on the death of Hon. Rene E. Caron.

Messrs. James A. Mathewson and R. C. Jamieson will be the visiting governs to the Montreal General Hospital for the ensuing week.

THE two gentlemen named above have since passed to their rest. They were on all occasions most generous contributors towards all charities and institutions for the care of the sick. Both were well - known wholesale merchants and among the foremost traders in developing the vast commerce of the country.

The Late R. C. Jamieson.

The intense cold weather during the past week has put a strain on the good good work of the Protestant House of Refuge, the attendance of inmates having considerably increased. Over 1500 meals were distributed, 420 casual poor received shelter at night, and in the Refuge for the week were 133 inmates.

THE above institution is one of the noblest charities in the city, and since its foundation has relieved thousands of unfortunate poor people. The ladies and gentlemen who look closely after the affairs and running of the house and home for the aged are deserving of the highest praise of their fellow-citizens and a generous support from all charitable hearts.

The Zabian system of teaching history was explained before a fair audience by Dr. Loverin and Mr. Edward Colfax at the St. Patrick's Academy last evening.

THE late Dr. Loverin was eminent not only in the medical profession, but as an advocate of increasing the spread of education among the youth of the Dominion in the simplest manner. The Zabian system of charts is a great help to the memory in acquiring and retaining dates and important events. Dr. Loverin served as a surgeon with the Northern armies during the civil war. He died many years ago.

It appears that while the city can get plenty of men to shovel snow, they are badly hampered in getting enough carters. This is one reason why the Street Railway Company is urging the city to make an arrangement whereby it (the company) can take over the work of removing snow where there are car tracks. If the company did the work the cost would be much less, while the "beautiful" would be got rid of in much quicker time.

City Surveyor Barlow, speaking of the strike to-day said that the teamsters had justice on their side, as they had to haul the snow a much greater distance than was the case in other wards. For some days past the intention had been to give the St. Henri carters more pay. This being the case the small body of strikers were informed to-day that their demands would be complied with and they started work again.

Mrs. Neil Stewart Dunlop, Claudelaye avenue, gave an enjoyable tea yesterday afternoon in honor of her niece, Mrs. Douglas Ravenscl, of Toronto. The hostess, who wore an Empire gown of rose silk with chiffon and silver sequin trimming, was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. Raymond, wearing a cream Duchess satin gown with garniture of real lace and pearl trimming. The tea table, prettily arranged with red roses, was in charge of Mrs. Edward Maxwell and Mrs. D. McNichol, assisted by Miss B. Bonner, Miss Maxwell, Miss McNichol and Miss K. Treleaven.

LAW REFORM FOR ONTARIO PROPOSED

Proposals of a Radical Nature Will Be Introduced by the Attorney-General.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Toronto, February 7.—More sweeping than any measure of law reform suggested since 1881, are the proposals embodied in a resolution which Attorney-General Foy will move in the Legislature next Tuesday. The principal purpose of the resolution is to establish a single court of appeal and thereby prevent the prolongation of litigation. The resolution reads:

"That in the opinion of this House, with a view to the more prompt and satisfactory administration of justice in civil matters and the assessing of the cost thereof, it is expedient that there should be but one appellate court for the province.

"That all the judges of the supreme court of judicature for Ontario should constitute the appellate court.

"That the appellate court should sit in divisions, the members of which should be permanently assigned to them or chosen from time to time by the judges from among themselves.

"That the divisions should consist of five members, four of whom should be a quorum.

"That the decision of the court of appeal should be final in all cases except where tai constitutional questions arise, or the questions in which the construction or application of a statute of Canada are involved or on the action between a resident of Ontario and a person residing out of the province.

"That the appeal of right to the judicial committee of the Imperial Privy Council should be abolished, and the prerogative right of granting leave to appeal to that tribunal of crowned should be limited to cases in which large amounts are involved or important questions of general interest are.

LEADERS ADDRESS PARTY MEETINGS

Mr. Hazen Spoke at Fredericton and Premier Robinson at Campbellton.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Fredericton, N.B., February 7.—At Fredericton Junction last evening a meeting was held by Messrs. Hazen and Glasier. The chairman was Mr. David W. Merserean, a leading citizen and Liberal, who formerly supported the Government, but who declared that they had by their lack of administrative ability and their extravagance forfeited the right to govern.

Mr. Hazen asked if the Government had done right; was the Premier now promising to repeal the highway act; appoint a school book commission, and engage financial experts? He declared the report of the experts would be of no value unless it covered the transaction of a series of years, including the Central Railway, and showed what moneys had been paid out since the close of the fiscal year, which should have been accounted for before.

Mr. Glasier spoke briefly, and Mr. Lewis H. Bliss delivered a vigorous attack upon the Government.

The Government party convention in Restigouche met in Campbellton yesterday and renominated Hon. Mr. Labillois and Mr. William Currie. Addresses were delivered by Premier Robinson, and the candidates, and a public meeting was held in the evening. Resolutions were adopted endorsing the action of the Government in co-operating with the Federal and Quebec Governments to construct an Interprovincial bridge across the Metapedia; endorsing the Government's policy of promoting the construction of the International Railway, which traverses the northern part of the county, and will open up a large area of Crown lands; endorsing the general policy and administration of the Government, and especially its guarantee of the bonds of the International Railway.

Premier Robinson denounced with great vigor the arguments of the opposition, and predicted the triumphant return of the Government to power.

RAISULI RELEASED SIR HARRY MACLEAN

Britain Granted Him Immunity from Arrest and Also Sum of $100.000.

Tangier, February 7.—Caid Sir Harry MacLean, commander of the Sultan's bodyguard, and next to the Sultan, the most influential man in Morocco, has arrived here under an escort from the bandit Raisuli, who has had him under bondage for the past seven months. He was brought here in accordance with an agreement, which the British Government finally succeeded in making with Raisuli for his release, in return for which Great Britain will pay $70,000 to Raisuli and guarantee him protection and immunity from arrest.

The capture of Caid MacLean was carefully planned. He was sent out to ... to visit alone, and against the advice of his companions, in order to get into the bandit chief's confidence. ... a romantic mode of life and other traits of the country. Later Raisuli sent a message to the Sultan announcing the capture of the commander of his body guard and informing His Majesty that he would hold the general prisoner until terms that are described in the Sultan were granted. These terms included the payment of a large ... sum and his reappointment to the governorship of Tangier and other official offices. Subsequently the British Government took the negotiations out of its shoulders, and finally succeeded in bringing Raisuli to terms.

SENSATION AT HAMILTON.

Alleged Attempt on Life of Prominent Business Man.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Hamilton, Ont., February 7.—Mrs. Charles Campbell, 142 York street, caused a sensation yesterday, when, it is alleged, she attempted to shoot Charles Laing. Mr. Laing, who is a member of the commission firm which bears his name, was walking on MacNab street, when he met Mrs. Campbell. He spoke to the woman, but the latter did not return the salutation. After he had passed her, Mr. Laing turned and was surprised to see Mrs. Campbell following him with a revolver in her hand. He grabbed the weapon and tore it from the woman's grasp. Mrs. Campbell became hysterical as soon as he did this and fainted away, and a doctor was called. Mr. Laing is entirely at a loss to account for Mrs. Campbell's action.

The Wrong Way

Many Physicians Try to Cure Dyspepsia by Having Their Patients Starve Out the Disease.

This Method May Ruin the Stomach.

To become a physician one must study medical literature for a long time and attend several years at a medical college, dissect at least one human body, pass many quizzes and examinations, and at last receive the diploma, which entitles him to the M.D. degree.

Yet all this does not necessarily make a doctor.

We have known many graduates, with their sheepskins, who could not apply the knowledge they had acquired to relieving and curing a patient of dyspepsia.

They were floored by their first attempt to cure such a patient.

They were not to blame for this, for all the knowledge they acquired from medical works was wholly experimental. They were told to try the following:

Aromatic Ammonia,
Bicarbonate of Soda,
Bicarbonate of Pota
Blue Mass,
Camphor Water,
Catechu,
Charcoal,
Creosote,
Hot Water,
Lime Water,
Magnesia,
Mineral Waters,
Nitric Acid,
Nitro-Muriatic Acid,
Nux Vomica,
Oil of Amber,
Oil of Cajuput,
Rhubarb,
Senna,
Spirits of Lavender,
Starvation,
Strychnine,
Sulphur,
Sulphate of Lime,
Tincture Cardamon,
Taraxacum,
Tincture Ginger,
Tincture of Iron,
Tonics,
Vegetable Bitters.

In fact hot water is the only remedy that will not do more harm than good, and as use is still an unsolved problem.

If the professor who coaches the graduate would hand him a package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and tell him that it was a specific for dyspepsia, indigestion, all stomach ailments, and should be his mainstay in such cases, that one grain of their active principle would digest one grains of food in the bottle, and that aided by this remedy the patient would soon regain its normal condition, he would do the public more good than sending him forth with a lot of uncertain knowledge about the cure of these diseased conditions.

The young doctor would earn a reputation by curing his first case of dyspepsia.

The patient cured would send his praises far and near, and thousands upon thousands who praise Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Instead of experimenting with the mass of medicine in the above list and doing his patients more harm than good, he would always be gaining reputation by always curing his patient.

When he met any indication of a diseased organ, he should discover what hundreds of other doctors have, that the whole trouble started with imperfect digestion and assimilation, then take out of his pocket medicine case a few of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and tell the patient how to use them.

The result would be considered by the patient almost miraculous, and success after success would be achieved by him.

Many blood diseases, skin eruptions and heart troubles yield readily to Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because they cure the incubating cause—dyspepsia. If the stomach is wrong you are wrong all over.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold everywhere at druggists' 50 cents per package.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

LAY FOR TWO DAYS IN SNOW AND COLD

Mr. Thomas Crawford, of Reid's Mills, Had Terrible Experience in Recent Storm.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Kemptville, Ont., February 7.—As the result of the recent storm and severe cold snap, Thomas Crawford of Reid's Mills, had his feet frozen solid to the ankles, and his fingers frozen to the knuckles. Mr. Crawford left the home of his son William on Wednesday for Greely. He then started for home, going by way of North Gower, Kars and Osgoode. About three miles south of Osgoode village, at a turn in the road leading to Reid's Mills, his horse got down in the snow. Mr. Crawford unharnessed his horse and tried to get to Mr. Wm. Hicks' house, which was only about thirty rods away, but found that he was unable to reach it. A fierce storm was blowing. Mr. Crawford lay down beside the cutter and there remained until Monday morning, at 9 o'clock, when Messrs. James, Moses and William Hicks found him. They had started to open the roads on Monday after the storm, and seeing the horse and cutter ahead hurried to investigate, finding Mr. Crawford badly frozen, but still alive. They took the unfortunate man to Mr. Hicks's house, and did all in their power to relieve the sufferer. Dr. Rubo of Kars, was summoned, and it is not yet known whether the feet will have to be amputated or not.

Thaw is sane, it will be within the province of the hospital authorities to certify to the court, and recommend his release.

A commission in lunacy, or other proceedings, would not be necessary, he declared.

The physicians and the institution are not making observations of Thaw as yet, as they feel that he has not recovered from the excitement caused by his recent trial for the murder of Stanford White. He is considered a model prisoner by the physicians, and on account of his good behaviour has been allowed certain special privileges.

Dr. Britton D. Evans, the alienist, and A. Russell Peabody, of the counsel for Thaw, yesterday visited the patient. Before seeing Thaw the visitors had a half hour's conference with Dr. Lamb. Dr. Evans said he had not come to Matteawan to make an examination of Thaw, but merely because the patient appeared to be cheered up by his visits.

The object of these proceedings is to attempt to break the deadlock existing in the City Council.

JUDGE HARGIS SHOT BY HIS OWN SON

Notorious Kentuckian Met With a Shocking Death.

WAS IN MANY FEUDS

Young Hargis Had Been Drinking, and Fired Five Times at His Father.

Jackson, Ky., February 7.—Former County Judge James Hargis, for many years a member of the state Democratic executive committee, accused of complicity in many bushwhacking and a prominent figure in the feuds which have disrupted Breathitt County for several years, was shot and instantly killed in the general store here yesterday afternoon by his son, Beach Hargis. The son fired five shots in rapid succession at his father, who fell dead, while his clerks were waiting on customers.

The exact cause of the murder has not been learned, but it is supposed to have been the result of differences which have existed between father and son for some time. The two men are reported to have had a quarrel several nights ago, when the father, it is alleged, was compelled to resort to violence to restrain his son. Young Hargis, it is said, had been drinking heavily of late. He came into the store yesterday afternoon, apparently under the influence of liquor. Judge Hargis, it is said, spoke to his son about drinking, and a quarrel resulted. Father and son stepped behind a counter in the store, when the son, after only a few minutes' conversation, drew a revolver and fired five shots. Four took effect, and Judge Hargis fell dead. Young Hargis was placed in jail. He was raving like a maniac, and the officers were compelled to drag him to prison.

Judge Hargis had long been prominent in Kentucky political circles, and has figured in the courts in the mountains for years on account of the murders of Tol. Cox, Attorney James B. Marcum and "Dad" Tackett. Judge Hargis was the political leader of the Democrats in the tenth district, and was the "boss" of Breathitt County. For years his sway was not opposed, but some years ago Attorney Marcum had the temerity to oppose Hargis in a law case. From that date Marcum was a marked man.

Hargis had been on trial at various times for complicity in the murder of Marcum, Cockrill and Cox, but in each case he was released on all the charges. He was at one time forced to pay a court judgment of $5,000 to Mrs. Marcum in connection with the death of her husband.

The Hargis-Cockrill feud, out of which grew the numerous tragedies with which Judge Hargis' name is linked, had its inception in a political contest. The Hargises had long been politically dominant in Breathitt County, where they had large business interests.

The trouble with the Cockrills arose when they opposed the Hargises at the polls. Benjamin Hargis, a younger brother of Judge Hargis, was killed in a pistol fight with one of the Cockrill boys.

In the fall of 1902 came the first murder in the feud. Tol. Cox, the grandson of the Cockrill boys, was the victim. As he was entering his gate one night he was killed by assassins. Afterwards John Smith, John Abney and others of the alleged Hargis band were accused of the crime, and one of them confessed that Judge Hargis had hired them to kill Dr. Cox.

The next to fall was Jim Cockrill, the town marshal. Not shortly after the murder of Cox Cockrill was informed he had been employed, James B. Marcum, the attorney for the Cockrills, created a tremendous sensation by going to Lexington and publicly declaring that he was a marked man, and that he had been hired to murder if the Hargis clan, who, by the way, Marcum was standing at the door of the court house in Jackson, within shot rang out. Marcum fell dead, but the assassin stepped up, and, to make sure, shot him again through the back of the head. The assassin was "Curt" Jett, the "wild dog" who has since confessed his part in this tragedy, and who was accused of the others. Jett and "Tom" White are now serving life sentences in the penitentiary.

Judge Hargis will be buried in a casket which he himself purchased. Last month he went to a casket company in Louisville and asked to be shown the most elaborate coffins the company had in stock. Nothing suited him, and he finally ordered one along his own ideas, costing $150.

Captain George Milden Dead.

Cornwall, Ont., February 7.—An old Cornwallite, Captain George Milden, is dead, aged 70. He was a native of London, England, and a graduate of Dublin University. He spent forty years in Canada, being principal of the public schools at Cosscorn and afterwards Cornwall. He retired both from the teaching profession and the militia over twenty years ago. He was a past master of Cornwall Lodge A. F. and A. M., and was a Royal Arch Mason. Funeral on Sunday. Besides wife and daughter, he leaves four sons, Dr. Alfred Milden, Professor of Classics at Emory Henry College, Virginia; James Milden, barrister, Saskatoon, George A. Milden, Division Court Clerk, and Thomas Milden, C.E., of Cornwall.

A Pessimist on Canada.

London, February 7.—The Daily Mail publishes a letter from "Ex-Canada," stating that things there are rotten, and financial conditions chaotic. He expects Canadas will be below par a duennium hence. Never before was such a state of things known. The only bull point in the situation is that the people are not discouraged.

The Mail says the influences in state affairs are described as quite temporary, and Canadas below par would present to the speculative investor a golden opportunity, the like whereof was never seen in the history of the Stock Exchange.

ROOSEVELT TAKES UNUSUAL STEP

Appeals to Democrats to Support Big Naval Programme

AS A PATRIOTIC DUTY

Negotiations With Japan are Declared to Be Still Unsettled and Causing Anxiety.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Washington, February 7.—President Roosevelt yesterday received the Democratic members of the house committee on naval affairs, and asked them as a patriotic duty to support the entire naval programme of the administration. The President told the members that the international relations of the country at this time demanded naval preparedness. Negotiations with Japan were specifically mentioned, and declared to be still unsettled, and a new significance was given the withdrawal of Ambassador Aoki from Washington.

As a matter of patriotic duty the Democrats were asked by the President to support the programme for four new battleships, four scout cruisers, ten torpedo boat destroyers, four submarines, one ammunition and one repair ship and two mine ships. The Democrats came away from White House impressed by the talk of the President, but declared there was nothing sensational in what had been said. After their visit to the President there was a manifest disposition among the Democrats to change their previous position toward naval programme, and it is believed the estimates will have the backing of several Democratic votes.

MUST KEEP HER SEA POWER.

Sir Edward Grey Against Reduction of Navy Expenses.

London, February 7.—In connection with recent reports of a cave-in among the Government's supporters in Parliament on the question of reducing naval expenditures, much importance is attached to a strong speech which Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, made in the House of Commons last night in reply to a suggestion from the Unionist side that it was to Great Britain's interest, as the greatest sea carrier in the world, that private property at sea should be immune from capture, and that it was England's refusal to assent to the principle of immunity which hindered the disarmament proposal at The Hague conference. Sir Edward said that the Government could not consistently and with safety to the country take the risk proposed.

Will Oppose Aldrich Bill.

New York, February 7.—The Merchants' Association of New York, representing the wholesale and retail commercial interests of the city yesterday announced its decision to oppose the Aldrich financial bill, which has been presented in Congress. Hours of Work Reduced.

Notices were issued by all spinning firms in Belfast, giving notification to the workers that owing to the present slump in the linen trade it will be necessary to reduce the daily hours of work. No less than 30,000 workers will be affected. The firms recognise that this step will involve severe hardships at this season of the year, but there was no alternative between the course and that of turning out a large number of workers altogether. In the country mills a reduction by one-tenth of the output will take place, and the total sum lost to the workers in wages in Belfast will be, in round figures, $3,000 weekly.

OPPOSITION'S DEMAND FOR ENQUIRY INTO ALLEGED ALIENATION OF TIMBER LANDS REFUSED ON PARTY DIVISION

Vote was Taken After Discussion Which Lasted Until Three o'Clock Mr. Sifton and Mr. Foster Were Chief Speakers—Latter Calls on Premier for Statement—Mr. Bergeron and Colonel Ward Explain.

Special Staff Correspondence

Press Gallery, House of Commons, Ottawa, February 7. At 2.45 o'clock this morning ended the debate on the timber policy of the Government which began a week ago and which has since held up the voting of supply in His Majesty.

The debate closed in a division which resulted in the rejection of the Opposition demand for the enquiry [illegible] formulate charges [illegible] asked why the straight party vote of 111 to 55. Mr. Turriff did not vote, while Messrs. Edmonton, Adamson and Burrows did.

The features of the last day's discussion was the speech by Hon. Clifford Sifton, who was the Minister of the Interior, when the irregularities complained of by the Opposition occurred. He reinforced the Government argument by citing a number of particulars in which the Conservative Liberal timber policies were the same. He declared the Government would be responsible for the personnel of successful tenderers so long as the berth goes to the highest tender. He charged that Conservatives had set limits from 1891 to 1896 on short leases giving instances varying from 24 days to 50 days.

The speculative values claimed by the Conservatives for the berths allotted are unfounded. The limits are now a drag on the country.

The average prices received during the past 11 years by the Province per square mile are almost exactly the same as those received by the Quebec Government, the only province where the timber is of the same character as in the Northwest. It would take 250 years at the Liberal rate of alienation of timber lands to exhaust the western timber supply.

The debate closed without a statement from the Premier and in spite of a determined and direct effort by Hon. Geo. E. Foster to draw him towards the close.

THE OPPOSITION CHARGES

The whole case as revealed during the debate may be summarized thus:

Opposition arraignment: 1. Total limits under lease 6,440 square miles.

2. That part controlled by speculators constitutes practically the entire reserve supply of the West.

3. This condition of affairs is due to the policy of the Government which has confined competition for the limits almost entirely to speculators and especially to those having inside information.

4. The Government has now revised the timber regulation so as to render this system impossible for the future, but the stable doors has not been locked until after the horse has been stolen.

5. T. A. Burrows, M.P., has secured extensive holdings.

6. So has Senator Davis, of Prince Albert.

7. A. W. Fraser, an Ottawa Liberal lawyer, has been awarded a large [illegible] tenders for one [illegible] the same hand [illegible] been totally inade- [illegible] cattles took place [illegible] Tarriff, M.P., was Com- [illegible] Mr. Turriff's char- [illegible] asked why the Op- [illegible] formulate charges [illegible] boys of the Government [illegible] of Mr. Turriff will be in [illegible]

GOVERNMENT'S DEFENCE.

[illegible] cated by the Conserva- [illegible] low do not take account [illegible] dues of 20 cents per [illegible] broad measure, or [illegible] limits of 3,000,000 square feet [illegible] to the square mile, $2,500 for [illegible] acres.

A. W. Fraser was quite justified in [illegible] tender for a client, as [illegible] for himself.

The Government has not alienated more than a small part of the timber [illegible] of the West. In all there have been alienated 9,440 square miles. There still remains 70,000 square miles in the Government's possession.

The Government has given ample opportunity for the entering of tenders or if not, the Conservatives sold berths at even less notice.

The Government does its duty if it sells to the highest tenderer, it cannot look into the personnel of companies.

The present Minister of the Interior proclaimed responsibility regarding the Fraser Nolan tender. Mr. Tarriff, he said, had acted on the tenders in the ordinary way, and had in the debate already challenged the opposition to make charges, a challenge which they had not accepted.

9. Mr. Oliver also gave to the House an explanation given him by Mr. A. W. Fraser. Mr. Fraser stated that he had put in the $1,000 bid for himself and associates, he had later been asked to tender for a Winnipeg client, and had signed Mr. Nolan's name to that client's bid in accordance with an understanding he had with Mr. Nolan.

10. The Liberal policy has been the same as the Conservative; it was designed to secure the development of the timber land not to raise a revenue from it, therefore, the criticism that the prices received were too low was inapplicable.

11. Mr. J. G. Turriff accepted responsibility for the administration of the lands branch, declared the Opposition attacks were nothing but insinuations and challenged them to make charges.

MR. SIFTON'S DEFENCE.

Hon. Clifford Sifton who was greeted with a full house, and enthusiastic cheering from the Government benches plunged at once into his subject with the directness of a skilled debater which he undoubtedly is.

He set out by correcting what he thought was a misunderstanding of Hon. Frank Oliver on the part of the Opposition leader. It was in reference to Mr. Oliver's attitude regarding the Conservative timber policy. Mr. Oliver had not held the Conservative policy of 1883-3 justifiable, but justifiable only, if not carried to excess.

Mr. Sifton went on to compare the Conservative and Liberal timber policies, especially to analyze the reasons for the giving up by the friends of the Conservative Government of the timber limits granted to them in 1887.

1. These limits had been granted, not to practical lumber men, but to those who, in the records of the Departments of Public Works and Railways had access to information which no private lumberman could possibly have. When the guarantees have found berths valueless they had surrendered them, a virtue which anyone was likely to emulate in the same circumstances. But why had they surrendered them, because the route of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which, it was thought, when the grants were made would follow the Mackenzie route, had been deflected south, and side tracked the limits which they held. He contrasted the result of the Conservative policy, and of the Liberal. The Liberals since 1896 had granted 6,440 square miles, for a population of 300,000, the Conservatives had granted 21,000 square miles for 100,000 people. The Opposition had charged Liberals with selecting the ancarine increment of timber, the Conservatives during the administration had not thought of it.

There was one feature of the Conservative policy which the Liberals had not followed. I have," said Mr. Sifton, defended people on the police court section of Dominion forest rangers, who arrested them on a charge of cutting firewood for their homes. The Conservative [illegible] the police court to the critics.

POLICY OF THE GOVERNMENT

Opposition members, on the back to his record, had [illegible] of making [illegible] timber berths but he expected. He did not see what they had to do with the policy he thought it ought to be a very kind of election and [illegible] and every of that question by [illegible] to discuss [illegible] policy of the Government in the connection.

It was for the duty of the Government to see that in the main the [illegible] and that the land of operating [illegible] Each Opposition ar- [illegible] was [illegible] that feature [illegible] was [illegible] compiled [illegible]

LEGAL WIT AT THE FESTIVE BOARD

Annual Dinner of McGill Law Students Last Night—Reform Urged In Work of Students.

At [illegible] the present [illegible] of the theoretical and practical [illegible] of the law students of this province were [illegible] by Dean Walton, Dean of the McGill Faculty of Law, at the annual [illegible] dinner held last night at the Place Viger Hotel. Dean Walton believed that [illegible] law was [illegible] to [illegible] of the [illegible] and [illegible] Principal Peterson, [illegible] Dean Walton, [illegible] Mr. Justice Archibald, [illegible] Mr. Justice Lafontaine, [illegible] Mr. Justice Curran, [illegible] Mr. Justice Lafontaine as well as [illegible] Mr. Justice Meredith, K.C., Hon. [illegible] the Speaker, Hon. R. C. Smith, President of the Montreal Bar Association, C. P. Sicotte, K.C., [illegible] K.C., R. T. Heneker, K.C., C. Hodson, and a number of junior members of the Bar. Mr. R. C. Smith, President of the Undergraduate Society, presided and acted as [illegible] with marked success.

[illegible] the [illegible] was proposed [illegible] Mr. Warren and responded to [illegible] Prof. Perrault, of the Law School of Montreal and J. B. Mercier, of Laval.

DEAN WALTON'S SPEECH.

Mr. Justice Hyde proposed The Faculty. Dean Walton, ex-[illegible] Mr. Surveyor responded. Dean Walton immediately came [illegible] part of his address, [illegible] present system of indentures. [illegible] At present there was [illegible] work and too little. [illegible] spent a good deal of [illegible] work and learned [illegible] He was kept so busy [illegible] Lasks that he could not [illegible] college work. If a [illegible] student could devote [illegible] to college work wholly [illegible] and then give [illegible] to practical work in [illegible] it would be a great improvement for this he bespoke the co-operation of Laval and of the Bar. Dean Walton spoke strongly on the necessity of gaining a knowledge of both languages and of the good work done in this regard by the Cercle Demosthenique at McGill.

SPEECHES BY JUDGES.

"The Bench" was proposed by Mr. T. Hackett and Messrs. Justices Archibald, Girouard, Curran and Lafontaine replied. Judge Archibald spoke gravely of the duties of a member of the Bench and especially of the dangers of being led astray by what was misnamed public opinion. He declared that the Bench of Canada held a high place and seemed to be in no danger of losing it.

"For a man with knowledge of both French and English, with good health and average ability, there is no city on the continent which offers such prospects of success as Montreal," declared Mr. F. E. Meredith, in responding with Mr. R. C. Smith, to the toast of the Bar, proposed by Mr. Gregor Barclay, and he went on to point out the necessity for cohesion in this district, where he had not found the interest in the Bar at all what he had expected and he exhorted the students to uphold the interests of the Bar without regard to political considerations. Else they would find themselves a negligible quantity. "I do not wish to say anything against my friend Mr. Gouin, who has done much for us," he said, but this much was only a shade more than had been done before, which was nothing.

"We ask at Ottawa for more judges and our requests are turned down as though we were schoolboys. There is too little consideration shown. Even now there is a proposal on foot to abolish the Admiralty Courts and throwing their work on the Superior Court judges and this without the proper publicity."

THE NEED OF REFORM.

Mr. Williams, in proposing the toast to the Alma Mater, which was responded to by Principal Peterson, who had hastened from the McGill Medical dinner at the Windsor Hotel to be present and to speak, also emphasized the necessity of reforming the indentures system. He declared that office work had now assumed such a character that it was not worth the time devoted to it by students. They were ousted, he said, of every position which was likely to teach them something. In fact, office work now amounted to a nonentity as far as the acquisition of legal knowledge was concerned, whereas the work at college had increased over 50 per cent. during the last few years. Without wishing to make any definite suggestion, Mr. Williams thought that unless the disadvantage could be otherwise overcome it would be preferable to lengthen the law course from three to four years and have the students devote their attention exclusively to college work in the first three, and to office work in the last or final year.

The final toast of the Ladies was handled by Messrs. Papineau Mathieu, B.C.L., and G. V. Cousins.

FIRE AT THE STEEL PLANT.

Big Crane Injured—Two Miraculous Escapes.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Sydney, N.S., February 7.—Fire at the Steel plant yesterday afternoon occasioned considerable damage to the big crane used in the billet yard from the finishing mill to the centre of transportation. The damage includes three motors which are part of the crane equipment. A locomotive at the Steel plant going at the rate of forty-five miles an hour ran foul of the big ladle of the pig metal plant yesterday and was instantly demolished. The accident was caused by a large piece of ice crashing through the roof of the cab, breaking the throttle off short; the engineer and fireman jumping for their lives and escaping miraculously. The accident did not interfere at all with the operation of the plant.

RUSSIA SCENTS TROUBLE.

She Takes Precautionary Measures Against Turkey.

St. Petersburg, February 7. — The reports of a Turkish mobilization in Armenia and the threatened movements of troops on the Russian-Persian frontier are admitted by the general staff. It is not known yet whether this action on the part of Turkey is directed against Russia, and measures so far taken by this country are confined to certain precautionary dispositions of units within the Caucasus.

The Foulkes Case Adjourned.

Emerson, Man., February 7.—Georges Foulkes, the American customs officer, run in by the Canadian police just as he was going over the border on Wednesday night on his return trip from Winnipeg, appeared in the police court here yesterday to answer a charge of the kidnapping of the two Canadians who were arrested and hustled over the border a few weeks ago. The case has a distinct opera bouffe characteristic, which are heightened by the truculent attitude of the defendant, who claims that the Canadian magistrate has no jurisdiction, and that he himself is well liked by President Roosevelt.

The case was adjourned till next Monday.

PART II.
WHAT OCCURRED IN GLENCAID.

CHAPTER III.—Continued.

As Brant emerged from the underbush he suddenly beheld a fair vision of young womanhood resting on the grassy bank just before him. She was partially reclining, as if startled by his unannounced approach, her face turned toward him, one hand grasped an open book, the other shading her eyes from the glare of the sun. Something in the graceful poise, the piquant, spirited face, the dark gloss of heavy hair, and the unfrightened gaze held him speechless until the picture had been impressed forever upon his memory. He beheld a girl on the verge of womanhood, fair of skin, the red glow of health flushing her cheeks, the lips parted in surprise, the eyes fallen back from the white, rounded arm, the eyes hazel, mysterious. She recognized him with a glance, and her lips closed as the remembered low and when they had met before. But there was no answering recollection nothing clung about the Naiad to remind him of a neglected waif of the garrison. She read all this in his face, and the lines about her mouth changed quickly into a slight, quizzical smile, her eyes brightening.

"You should have knocked, sir," she continued, sitting up on the grass bank, "before coming to confront him, before intruding thus uninvited."

He lifted his somewhat dingy scouting hat and bowed humbly.

"I supposed no door giving warning that I approached on a presence, and the first [illegible] of surprise was per[illegible] a shock to me as to you. Yet, now that I have blundered thus far, I beseech that I be permitted to venture upon yet another step."

She sat looking at him, a trim, soldierly figure, [illegible] young and pleasant to gaze upon, and her dark eyes sensibly [illegible]

"What [illegible]"

"To tarry for a moment beside the divinity of [illegible] loveliness."

She laughed [illegible] frankness, her white [illegible] showing behind the red, parted lip.

"Perhaps [illegible] of you will first consent [illegible]" he said, with returning [illegible] and I receive the right to [illegible] away whenever you begin to [illegible] wish. If you accept [illegible] you may sit down."

He seated [illegible] the soft grass ledge, retaining [illegible] in his hands.

"You must be a [illegible] girl," he commented, soberly, "to welcome an [illegible] expression of admiration so."

"Oh, was that it? Then I only how my acknowledgment. I was [illegible] words for [illegible] compliments by which men believe they honor women."

He glanced curiously at her half-averted face. "At first sight I had supposed you scarcely more than a mere girl, but now you speak like a woman wearied of the world, utterly condemning all complimentary phrases."

"Indeed, no; [illegible] they be sincere," expressed as between man and man."

"How is it as between man and woman?"

"Men generally address women as you started to address me, as if there existed no common ground of serious thought between them. They condescend, they flatter, they indulge in fulsome compliment, they whisper soft nonsense which they would be sincerely ashamed to utter in the presence of their own sex, but as if they were amusing babies, rather than conversing with intelligent human beings. Their own notion seems to be to shake the rattle box, and awaken a laugh. I am not a baby, nor am I seeking amusement."

He glanced curiously at her cheek. "And yet you condescend to read love stories," he said, smiling. "I expected to discover a treatise on philosophy."

"I read whatever I chance to get my hands on, here in Glencaid," she retorted, "just as I converse with whoever comes along. I am hopeful of some day discovering a rare gem hidden in the midst of the trash. I am yet young."

"You are indeed young," he said, quietly, "and with some of life's lessons still to learn. One is that frankness is not necessarily flippancy, nor honesty harshness. Beyond doubt much of what you said regarding ordinary social conversation is true, yet the man is no more to be blamed than the woman. Both seek to be entertaining, and are to be praised for the effort rather than censured. A stranger cannot instinctively know the likes and dislikes of one he has just met; he can feel his way only by commonplaces. However, if you will offer me a topic worthy the occasion, in either philosophy, science or literature, I will endeavor to feed your mind."

She uplifted her innocent eyes demurely to his face. "You are so kind. I am deeply interested just now in the Japanese conception of the transmigration of souls."

"How extremely fortunate! It chances to be my favorite theme, but my mental processes are peculiar, and you must permit me to work up toward it somewhat gradually. For instance, as a question leading that way now, in the incarnation of this world, do you manage to exist in such a hole of a place?—that is, provided you really reside here."

"Why, I consider this a most delightful nook."

"My reference was to Glencaid."

"Oh! Why, I live from within, not without. Mind and heart, not environment, make life, and my time is occupied most congenially. I am being faithfully nurtured on the Presbyterian catechism, and also trained in the graces of earthly society. These alternate things preparing me for whatever may happen in this world or the next."

His face pictured bewilderment, but also a determination to persevere. "An interesting combination, I admit. But from your appearance this cannot always have been your home?"

"Oh, thank you, I believe not always. But I wonder at your being able to discern my superiority to these surroundings. And do you know your questioning is becoming quite personal? Does that yield me an equal privilege?"

He bowed, perhaps relieved at thus permitting her to assume the initiative, and rested lazily back upon the grass, his eyes intently studying her face.

"I suppose from your clothes you must be a soldier. What is that figure 7 on your hat for?"

"The number of my regiment, the Seventh Cavalry."

Her glance was a bit disdainful as she coolly surveyed him from head to foot. "I should imagine that a strong, capable-appearing fellow like you might do much better than that. There is much work in the world being done, and so much better pay."

"What do you mean? Isn't a soldier a worthy [illegible]"

"Oh, yes, of course, in a way. We have (to have soldiers, I suppose, but if I were a man I'd hate to waste all my life tramping around at sixteen dollars a month."

He smothered what sounded like a rough ejaculation, gazing into her dancing eyes as if he strongly suspected a joke hid in their depths. "Do—do you mistake me for an enlisted man?"

"Oh, I didn't know; you said you were a soldier, and that's what I always heard they got. I am so glad if they give you more. I was on the point of going to say that I believed I could get you a good place in McCarthy's store if you wanted it. He pays sixty-five dollars, and his cook has just left."

Brant stared at her with open mouth, totally unable for the moment to decide whether or not that innocent, [illegible] pathetic face masked [illegible] Before he succeeded in regaining confidence and speech, she had risen to her feet, holding back her skirt with one hand.

"Really, I must go," she announced calmly, drawing back toward the elliptic opening between the bushes. "No doubt you have done fully as well as you could, considering your position in life, but this has proved another disappointment. You have fallen, far, very far, below my ideal. Good-bye."

He sprang instantly erect, his cheeks flushed. "Please don't go without a further word. We seem predestined to misunderstand. I am even willing to confess myself a fool in the hope of some time being able to convince you otherwise. You have not even told me that you live here, nor do I know your name."

She shook her head positively, repressed merriment darkening her eyes and wrinkling the corners of her mouth. "It would be highly improper to introduce myself to a stranger—we Presbyterians never do that."

"But do you feel no curiosity as to who I may be?"

"Why, not in the least; the thought is ridiculous. How very conceited you must be to imagine such a thing!"

He was not a man easily daunted, nor did he recall any previous embarrassment in the presence of a young woman. But now he confronted something utterly unique; those quiet eyes seemed to look straight through him. His voice faltered sadly, yet succeeded in asking, "Are we, then, never to meet again? Am I to understand this to be your wish?"

She laughed. "Really, sir, I am not aware that I have the slightest desire in the matter. I have given it no thought, but I presume the possibility of our meeting again depends largely upon yourself, and the sort of society you keep. Surely you cannot expect that I would seek such an opportunity?"

He bowed humbly. "You mistake my purpose. I merely meant to ask if there was not some possibility of our again coming together socially in the presence of mutual friends."

"Oh, I scarcely thing so; I do not remember ever having met any soldiers at the social functions here—excepting officers. We are extremely exclusive in Glencaid," she dropped him a mocking courtesy, "and I have always moved in the most exclusive set."

Piqued by her tantalizing manner, he asked, "What particular social functions are about to occur that may possibly open a passage into your guarded presence?"

She seemed immersed in thought, her face turned partially aside. "Unfortunately, I have not my list of engagements here," and she glanced about at him shyly, "I can recall only one at present, and I am not even certain—that is, I do not promise—to attend that. However, I may do so. The Miners' Bachelor Club gives a reception and ball to-morrow evening in honor of the new school mistress."

"What is her name?" with responsive eagerness.

She hesitated, as if doubtful of the strict propriety of mentioning it to a stranger.

"Miss Phoebe Spencer," she said, her eyes cast demurely down.

"Ah!" he exclaimed, in open triumph, "and have I, then, at last made fair capture of your secret? You are Miss Phoebe Spencer."

She drew back till further within the recesses of the bushes, at his single victorious step forward.

"I? Why, certainly not. I am merely Miss Spencer's 'star' pupil, so you may easily judge something of what her superior attainments must necessarily be. But I am really going now, and I sincerely trust you will be able to secure a ticket for to-morrow night; for if you once meet this Miss Spencer you will never yield another single thought to me, Mr. Mr.—" her eyes dancing with laughter — "First Lieutenant Donald Brant."

CHAPTER IV.
SILENT MURPHY.

Brant sprang forward, all doubt regarding this young woman instantly dissipated by those final words of mischievous mockery. She had been playing with him as unconcernedly as if he were a mere toy sent for her amusement, and his pride was stung.

But pursuit proved useless. Like a phantom she had slipped away amid the underbrush, leaving him to flounder blindly in the labyrinth. Once she laughed outright, a clear burst of girlish merriment ringing through the silence, and he leaped desperately forward, hoping to intercept her flight. His incautious foot slipped along the steep edge of the shelving bank, and he went down, half stumbling, half sliding, until he came to a sudden pause on the brink of the little stream. The chase was ended, and he sat up, confused for the moment, and half questioning the evidence of his own eyes.

A small tent, dirty and patched, stood with its back against the slope of earth down which he had plunged. Its flap flung aside revealed within a pile of disarranged blankets; together with some scattered articles of wearing apparel, while just before the opening, his back pressed against the supporting pole, an inverted pipe between his yellow, irregular teeth, sat a hideous looking man. He was a withered, dried up fellow, whose age was not to be guessed, having a skin as yellow as parchment, drawn in tight to the bones like that of a mummy, his eyes deep sunken like wells, and his head totally devoid of hair, although about his lean throat there was a copious fringe of iron-gray beard, untrimmed and scraggy. Down the entire side of one cheek ran a livid scar, while his nose was turned awry.

He sat staring at the new-comer, unwinking, his facial expression devoid of interest, but his fingers opening and closing in apparent nervousness. Twice his lips opened, but nothing except a peculiar gurgling sound issued from the throat, and Brant, who by this time had attained his feet and his self possession, ventured to address him.

"Nice quiet spot for a camp," he remarked, pleasantly, "but a bad place for a tumble."

The sunken eyes expressed nothing, but the throat gurgled again painfully, and finally the parted lips dropped a detached word or two. "Blame—pretty girl—that."

The lieutenant wondered how much of their conversation this old mummy had overheard, but he hesitated to question him. One inquiry, however, sprang to his surprised lips. "Do you know her?"

"Darned sight—better—than any one around here—know her—real name."

Brant stared incredulously. "Do you mean to insinuate that that young woman is living in this community under an assumed one? Why, she is scarcely more than a child! What do you mean, man?"

About Our Red Ticket Sale

Surprise is frequently expressed when people realize that our discounts are actually bona fide.

This is especially true of our Red Ticket discounts.

The only marking the Red Ticket contains is the actual discount allowed, nothing else.

The original price ticket is left on the article, and you can see for yourself what the selling price actually is.

Where there are thousands of articles of furniture, it would be impossible to raise the price on the cards just to allow for the Red Ticket discounts and then change them back after the sale.

WAS A TOTAL WRECK FROM HEART FAILURE.

Heart disease is characterized by its stealthy approach and its variety of forms, yet in all its forms nature gives unmistakable signals which warn us of its presence.

One of the first danger signals announcing something wrong with the heart is the irregular beat or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or, again there may be the most violent beating, with flushings of the skin and visible pulsations of the arteries. You may experience a smothering sensation, gasp for breath and feel as though about to die. In such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart, restoring its normal beat and imparting tone to the nerve centres, is beyond all question, marvellous. They give such prompt relief, such speedy restoration to health that no one need suffer.

Mr. Darius Carr, Geary, N.B., writes: "It is with the greatest of pleasure I write you a few lines to let you know the great blessing your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have been to me. I was a total wreck from heart failure, my wife advised me to take your pills, and, after using two boxes I was restored to perfect health. I am now sixty two years old and feel almost as well as I did at twenty."

Price 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25 at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

RAILWAYS GETTING THEIR LINES CLEAR

Through Trains are Still Far Behind Their Scheduled.

CANADIAN PACIFIC STRUGGLE

Lines Kept Open and Trains Moving by Dint of Herculean Efforts.

For the most part the railways were getting along all right. The C. P. R. has had more trouble than the other roads, owing to the fact that this time the storm seemed to strike the country through which the C. P. R. ran with much greater severity than before, and they have been kept busy trying to keep up the service. The line from Toronto to Montreal was the worst affected and proceeding to the west or going to the Queen City have been a hard time to get through. Reports received at the Windsor Street office this morning, however, indicate that the road is now fairly clear, and that the trains are starting from that city on time.

Word at the company's command at noon seemed to indicate that there is every reason to believe that they will get through.

The Soo train due at 8 o'clock arrived between one and two, while the New York Central got in about one. The Vancouver train, which has by far the longest distance to come, has made good time, taking everything into consideration, and is expected to arrive before 4 p.m. The lines to Ottawa are in fairly good shape, and the trains on both lines are coming through all right.

THE EMPRESS DELAYED.

The Maritime Provinces seem to have escaped any serious storm, for all the trains from that direction have been coming over since the trouble started pretty nearly on time.

The Empress of Ireland, which was due to leave from St. John, N.B., tonight, will be delayed until the next sailing, as there are a large number of passengers from Toronto and points west that have not yet reached Montreal. There are several hundred of them all together, and they left Toronto this morning, and it is thought will get here by night and will immediately start for St. John. The Empress has a large passenger list this trip, including a full score of cabin passengers and one Halifax passenger, who was to have come on the Empress of Britain. The Empress of Britain was to have left Liverpool on Saturday, but her departure was delayed on account of the storm.

The chief difficulty that the roads are now contending with is the drifts, and it has been found that all the offices of both roads seem to think that the trouble is practically over, and that they will now be able to keep the lines open to traffic.

MUNROE OFFICES HERE ARE CLOSED

Frenzied Finance Man was Last Seen in Montreal Three Weeks Ago.

BANK WANTS FURNITURE

Some Interesting Details of the Young Dry Goods Clerk Who "Washed" Millions of Stock.

George H. Munroe, erstwhile the senior and active member of the firm of Munroe & Munroe, ex-lumberjacker, ex-mining brokers and later the sellers of Marconi Wireless stock still undeveloped, was here three weeks ago on business to parts at the present time unknown.

The avenging furnish of offices of Munroe & Munroe in the Ottawa Bank Building are closed. The bailiffs who secured them said today so far as one of the clients in Mr. Munroe's case made a fellow feel like never getting up again. Such is also the opinion of the officials of the Ottawa Bank, which owns the building in which the offices are and will have a claim upon the Munroe effects for rent meanwhile hooding the expensive furniture as security.

Those who have had a peep during the last few months into the offices of George H. Munroe, in Montreal saw what may be justly regarded as an evidence of the remarkable character of Munroe in connection with financial matters. For instance, he had a set of harness which was a duplicate of that worn by the horses which he bought for the purpose of making an entry in the New York Horse Show. The harness was of the most costly material and included German silver mountings with patents that were so new that an old horseman who saw them declared they were the finest thing of the kind that he had ever seen in his life.

The harness disappeared a little more than three weeks ago and with it went other valuables, which, judging by Munroe's New York career, were soon turned into cash for no other purpose than to use the proceeds to pay bills for high living.

MAKING MONEY ON NOTHING

His latter day extravagance is not, however, anything new, for it will be remembered that during the time that he was booming the Montreal and Boston Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's stock he gave a dinner to a number of men and a railroad trip which it was estimated cost in the neighborhood of ten thousand dollars. Whether or not this was a successful move in a scheme which for a time kept Munroe on the very acme of a life of luxury, is hard to say, but certain it is that he continued that style of policy right through his checkered career.

One of Thackeray's books contains a chapter that tells, or rather does not tell, "how to live on nothing a year." Were the novelist now living he could write a volume on the text, "How to make money without money," for certainly the axiom that says, "It takes money to make money" no longer holds good of George H. Munroe's record to be taken as evidence. When Mr. Lawson, of Boston, coined the phrase that so soon became famous, "Frenzied Finance," he quickly became obsolete, but he must have had in mind any specific incidents other than those he named, but George H. Munroe's record emphasizes his argument even better than the ones he cited. There is much in the dealings of Munroe & Munroe during the past few months to suggest the operations of Montague T. ——, of precious memory, because the company to quote Dickens's tale, was a figment of the promoter's opulent imagination.

From the evidence which has reached Montreal it would appear that the case of Munroe & Munroe has been one of transferring stock from the right hand to the left hand, and thus creating a fictitious price which was designed eventually to make the public the victim of prestidigation.

One of the astonishing features of the career of Munroe & Munroe is that according to financial authorities, if they had gone into Wall street in the ordinary fashion of the outsider they would have been called lambs. They started operations originally with a little more than one thousand dollars, but were able, as shown in the evidence at the time of their first New York trouble, to borrow from the National County Bank, one of the strongest institutions of its kind in the land sixty thousand dollars a day on unindorsed demand notes for eight days preceding their first failure, making a total of four hundred and eighty thousand dollars. Where this money went to was at that time a mystery unsolved by those most interested. Later day developments, however, tend to show that even at that time George Munroe was living at a rate that only a man with a yearly earning of millions could hope to continue.

THEIR START IN MONTREAL

George and Alexander Munroe kept a little gents' furnishing store on St. Catherine street some six or seven years ago. There was much speculation at that time as to whether or not they were making a success, but one day they sold out, and the next thing they were in the limelight of the financial centres of Montreal and known as Munroe & Munroe, mining brokers.

Although they dealt in a few other stocks on commission, it was generally conceded that their chief business was the handling of mining stocks, but they soon failed to attract any attention from the more substantial investors, and suddenly they left town and established themselves at 25 Broad street New York, the very heart of the financial district of that city.

While in Montreal they had become connected with the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of Canada, and as it was understood that the stock was valuable they began to advertise it extensively on their arrival in New York. In New York they succeeded in working up in a short time a remarkable trade among Italians, who were attracted in part no doubt because of their kinship of nationality with the wireless inventor. Meantime they had become interested in the Boston Consolidated Copper Company, which was really at the bottom of their first big smash-up. Throughout the liquidation which followed they kept the Marconi proposition well to the front.

THE BIG COPPER COUP.

Gradually there came about a revival of the demand abroad for copper, and the Montreal and Boston branches, which, of course, had been practically closed, were reorganized, and they got some properties together which eventually led to plans that ended in one of the biggest coups in the history of the curb.

A scheme was formed to have the stock of the company underwritten with the special provision that the work should be done by Stock Exchange firms, as Munroe & Munroe were not members of the Exchange. The stock was of a par value of five dollars a share, and a contract was entered into by which those who were to underwrite it were to get the stock at one dollar per share.

Brokers who were members of the exchange were readily found who were willing to dispose of a certain number of shares a month, and what they received was to go sixty per cent. to them and forty per cent. to those who had underwritten the stock in the beginning. It was then decided that in order to sell the stock at a price above one dollar a share it would be necessary to resort to a process known as "washing."

In other words, they agreed to themselves purchasing the stock at a high figure in order to set that as the market rate, par being five dollars, and they having obtained it at a dollar they arranged for a street sale for two-fifty and three dollars, themselves buying at that rate in order to show that the stock was active and to induce the public to buy at the same rate. It is a matter of record that in disposing of the stock Munroe and Munroe "washed" about three million shares or more in the process of getting rid of about one hundred and thirty thousand shares, for which they did not more than one hundred and thirty thousand dollars in all.

TEN MEN KILLED IN MINE EXPLOSION

Cause of Disaster at Port Hood is as Yet Unknown.

FOUR WERE BULGARIANS

Mine Was Supposed to Be One of the Safest in the Whole Coal Country.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Port Hood, C.B., February 7.—Ten men were killed in an explosion in the south level of Port Hood coal mine this morning, about 7.30 o'clock. The bodies of the victims of the disaster have since been recovered. The cause of the explosion is unknown, but it is believed to have been powder or dynamite.

The names of the victims follow:

Miner John Campbell
Miner Duncan R. McDonald
Miner Malcolm Beaton
Miner Lauchlin Gillis
Miner William McKenzie
Miner A. R. McDonald

The four other victims were loaders, all Bulgarians, whose names have not yet been ascertained.

The Port Hood coal mine is supposed to be one of the safest in the country, and is said to be free of firedamp. Manager H. A. Morine, who went down the mine after the explosion, says that no damage whatever was done to the mine, but cannot say how the explosion occurred. The level was inspected not half an hour before the explosion, and there were then no signs of anything wrong. There is no afterdamp in the mine now.

The rescuing party had no difficulty whatever in securing the bodies. Mine Manager McLellan was in charge of the rescue work. Everything possible was done by the rescue party, which worked willingly and well. The miners will be at work to-morrow as usual.

BRAKEMAN EXONERATED.

Coroner's Jury Satisfied That Munroe Did All He Could to Prevent Turcot Collision.

At the inquest today in the case of Engineer Arthur Mills and Fireman Robert Scott, who were killed in a collision at Turcot Village last Saturday night, the jury, after hearing all the evidence, decided to exonerate Brakeman Donald Munroe from criminal responsibility.

Munroe swore positively that he did all he could to stop the Ottawa express. When he saw the engineer was not going to stop he threw his lamp through the window.

John Schetzle, the yardmaster, gave expert evidence regarding the operating of trains within the terminal. He said the operator at Turcot had nothing to do with the locomotives that were standing in front of his station. It was the duty of the rear end brakeman to protect the locomotives by going back a distance of fifteen telegraph poles to flag the trains.

James A. Montgomery, the operator, deposed that he did not know that the locomotives in question were standing at his office. He had not been asked for orders by either of the engineers.

After Mr. Norman W. Jordan, train despatcher, had explained the duties of the various officials, the jury decided to excuse Munroe from criminal responsibility.

HIS INCOME DECLINES $53,000 A YEAR

Mr. Cockburn Gives Figures Concerning His Financial Standing in Court.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, Ont., February 7.—The defendant in the case of Arnoldi vs. Cockburn spent the morning in the witness stand, giving his opinion of the lawyer's services on his behalf. He threw a new light on Mr. Arnoldi by saying that he only employed him to look after his affairs if events made it necessary. After the trial of Mr. McGill, he thought that the charges against himself had collapsed, so he did not consider it necessary to employ another lawyer.

Mr. Cockburn contradicted a number of the assertions made by the complainant.

"Did you call up Mr. Arnoldi to keep the matter out of the newspapers, as he asserted?" asked Mr. Hoighs.

"I think I have had sufficient experience in public to know that you cannot keep the press quiet no matter how much you may desire to do so," replied the witness.

The counsel for the defence next enquired regarding the truth of Mr. Arnoldi's claim that part of his work was to cultivate friendships on behalf of Mr. Cockburn.

"I don't think that any person who knows Mr. Arnoldi will think that I would retain him to make friendships for me," said the defendant.

The witness said that Mr. Arnoldi knew his financial standing, and it would be difficult for him to pay a large bill. He lost $6,000 in the Ontario Bank, and the falling off of value in Western Assurance Company shares represented another loss of $2,000. His annual income had also fallen off to the extent of $53,000.

When Mr. Cockburn received the account for $5,000, he saw Mr. Arnoldi and they had warm words. The complainant raised the amount later.

Colonel G. T. Denison, Police Magistrate, went into the box regarding the adjournments which Mr. Arnoldi claimed that he planned and schemed to secure. The magistrate said that he knew the delay as a matter of form, as he did not intend to try Cockburn until the McGill case closed and the presence of a lawyer made no difference to him.

Colonel Denison could not speak with authority on the facts charged in his court, but he said that they should not be enormous.

PREAMBLE OF BILL IS STILL UNPASSED

Hamilton Radial Bill Makes No Progress in Railway Committee.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Ottawa, Ont., February 7.—For the fourth consecutive day the Railway Committee took up the case of the Hamilton Radial Railway. At the outset Mr. Blain asked Col. Gibson if the statement attributed to him that Mr. Whitney had not replied to his letters was correct.

Col. Gibson replied that it was. He would not say that what Mr. Whitney said was false and untrue, but he was in a position to say that he had not received it, nor had any one in his office, so that the onus lay on the post office.

Mr. Blain thereupon read Mr. Whitney's two answers to Col. Gibson, of March 11 and March 28, respectively, acknowledging the receipt of letters and a legal opinion.

Mr. Armand Lavergne, who had the floor when the committee broke up yesterday, resumed with a strong provincial rights argument.

Mr. F. D. Smith, of Wentworth, said that he was in general in favor of the bill, but that he did not like that preamble. He disagreed with the argument that the crossing of the Grand Trunk made the railway a "dominion line." As for the traffic aspect of the case, these electric railways really were the chief feeders of the steam railways and were taking freight for inter-provincial business.

As a result, all such lines are works for the general advantage of Canada. Much as he would like to vote for this bill, he could not see why this bill could not accept the usual formula. To say that a mere crossing would suffice to make a work for the general advantage of Canada, was, however, absurd.

Mr. Lancaster in the course of his remarks, protested against the lobby, saying that if he could he would pass some rule or enactment forbidding lobbyists to send printed opinions, etc., to members of Parliament any more than they would be allowed to send affidavits to a jury.

One o'clock came and the preamble was still unpassed. The committee will meet on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grisewood, of London, Eng., are guests at the Windsor Hotel.

ROYAL BODIES WERE REMOVED TO CHAPEL

(See also page one.)

Lisbon, February 7.—The body of King Carlos was placed in its coffin yesterday, after which the Queen mother Maria Pia, Queen Amelie, his wife and Manuel, his son, were admitted to view the remains. The two Queens and the young King broke down and wept bitterly. Maria Pia knelt in prayer beside the body of the late King. Suddenly, a victim to uncontrollable emotion, she grasped the dead man's hands in hers and kissed them repeatedly. Her face was streaming with tears. Friends were obliged to remove her gently from the side of the bier. When the wife and son of the dead monarch were admitted to the mortuary chamber they also knelt in prayer, tears flowing from their eyes, and their voices choked with emotion.

It was midnight when the body, in its coffin, was solemnly transported to the Royal Chapel. All the doctors and high officials of the palace were in attendance. The head priest attached to the palace led the procession carrying in his hands the palace cross. He was followed by the palace major domo, and then came a group of courtiers and other officials. Behind the coffin marched the Duke of Oporto, the King's brother, and Vice-Admiral Capello, the latter bearing the King's plumed helmet and his sword. The troops presented arms as the cortege passed. On the breast of the dead King were various insignia and orders, and his hands were encased in white gloves. In his fingers he held a rosary of black pearl beads. As the procession moved slowly along, priests recited the prayers for the dead, while from afar could be heard the boom of the cannon on board the warships. When the final prayers were said, the palace church bells broke out in a cadenced dirge. A similar ceremony marked the transfer of the body of the Crown Prince to the Royal Chapel. The face of the young man was covered with a Portuguese flag to hide his wound.

DEBATE ON ADDRESS IN ONTARIO HOUSE

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, Ont., February 7.—The Representation Act of 1908," the much heralded "redistribution bill," was introduced in the Legislature yesterday afternoon by Hon. Mr. Whitney, seconded by Hon. Mr. Foy. The measure, however, as presented, consisted only of the preamble while the schedules remained blank. The Prime Minister said the bill dealt with the representation of the province in the Legislature and included as it stood the enacting portion without the schedules. He proposed that it be printed and said he would consult the leader of the Opposition, Mr. McKay, as to the manner in which the questions involved should be dealt with.

The legislation will repeal chapter six of the Revised Statutes of Ontario for 1887. It also will wipe out the amendments to that measure passed in 1898, 1900 and 1902. These deal with various individual constituencies.

In moving and seconding the address in reply to the speech from the Throne, Mr. C. P. R. McKeown (Dufferin) and A. E. Donovan (Brockville) made their initial bows as members of the Legislature. Mr. McKeown dwelt principally on the fact that there would be a substantial surplus, probably $500,000, on the subject of immigration from the old country, and rural school grants, while Mr. Donovan referred to the statements made prior to the last election that the Conservative party had no material from which to choose a Cabinet. The member for Brockville declared that the work done in every department could not be performed better, and said the people would certainly not depose the government when it again appealed to them.

An interim appropriation of $695,000 was voted after the usual message had been received from Sir Mortimer Clark.

Ottawa, Ont., February 7.—George Sarson, Mikesa Somolo, Kika Vera and George Haidebeny, Russian Poles, will be deported, as they will not work, though they have had the opportunity. They were charged with vagrancy this morning in the police court.

TWO CONVENTIONS HELD IN SAME HALL

Free Fights Marked Convention of Republicans in Florida.

TURN DOWN FOR TAFT

Large Number of Delegates Will Go to National Convention to Vote Against Him.

Special to the Montreal Star.

St. Augustine, Fla., February 7.—The wildest scene of all the contentions of the proceedings of the Republican Convention here occurred when it elected two complete sets of delegates to the National Convention, one in favor of Taft and the other against him. For several weeks there had been a threatened departure from the Cross Lawless of the old machine, but now it had been long the open endorsement of Taft by Administration and sending to the Convention a meeting of a delegation favorable to Taft. At first opposition had existed, but Conductor Joe Crosby, a few days ago, declared himself a Taft man. Then arrived here he at once took up the task of undoing the work of the Republican administrating office holders in his race. In this he had the assistance of a great many white Republicans, including J. N. Stripling, who asserts that they have not had fair treatment from the Administration and that office-holding Republicans were running things to perpetuate themselves in office.

There were three presiding officers in less than an hour after the convention had been called to order, and H. S. Chubb, chairman of the State Republican committee, had been dethroned. The Administration forces recovered and two conventions were held in the hall at the same time. Speakers were dragged from the platform and beaten while free fights were frequent throughout the hall. The entire police force of the city was necessary to preserve order and at one time it appeared as though there would be a wholesale riot.

The Administration convention adopted resolutions approving the policy of Mr. Roosevelt, and the opposition convention passed resolutions denouncing the flagrant use of federal patronage to influence the election of delegates.

TRANSATLANTIC RATE WAR IS NOW GLOSED

Rates Now to Be Higher Than Ever and Will Go Into Effect at Once.

The Transatlantic steamship passenger rate war is over with a vengeance.

The expected outcome of the Liverpool conference of the shipping representatives was a return to the old winter and summer rates, instead of this, however, the rates will jump from their present rock bottom position, right to the old summer figures. The old winter special rate, which was some ten dollars below the summer schedule, is eliminated, and after March 30, the late summer and winter will be seven dollars and a half higher than the summer rate which has prevailed.

These rates will be higher than ever before on the Canadian service. They will go into effect immediately on all British American and continental lines. On the Canadian lines the difference is regarded as a rebate, which is granted in consideration of the longer journey to reach the winter port by rail.

The local passenger managers were in conference for a considerable time this morning, but did not come to a full understanding. While the main points were settled satisfactorily there were some minor details on which additional information was desired from the Liverpool conference, and so the full detail of rates is withheld, pending inquiry by cable. It is understood, however, that the following will hold until March 30, when there will be the other jump of $7.50.

Minimum first class on the Empresses of the Canadian Pacific and the turbiners of the Allan line, $80; on boats of the next class, such as the Canada, Dominion, Corsican, Grampian and the Lake Manitoba, $70, an increase of $25 per ticket.

Second class, a minimum of $45 and $47.50 on all steamships, a jump of $15 and $17.50.

Third class, a minimum of $27.50, on all vessels, an increase of $11.25.

This increase, however, does not cover the whole change. Henceforth, no rebate will be granted on return tickets. Instead of the reduction of ten per cent. on the return portion the flat rate will now prevail. The return portion will, however, be good for return on any vessel of any line running to a Canadian or United States port.

"What is the reason for this general increase?" was asked the local steamship men this morning, and the answer was given briefly:

"The company couldn't pay dividends."

The arrangement would give an appearance of throwing all the vast shipping interests on the North Atlantic into one combine, for the arrangement and retention of rates, and for convenience of transfer of passengers.

Immediately on the receipt of the cables announcing the settlement of this part of the conference, Messrs. G. McL. Brown, of the Canadian Pacific; R. G. MacFarlane, of the Dominion, and McClure, of the Donaldson lines, gathered in the office of Mr. George Hannah, of the Allan line, and in two had most of the details arranged for the issuance of the new schedule, which will go into effect on Monday.

This re-arrangement of prices marks the close of one of the bitterest rate wars the North Atlantic has known. It was early in September that the trouble began. Then the Russian Volunteer Fleet running out of New York, to Libau, cut their steerage rates below $25 and the "bluff was called" by the German lines and shortly after by the French line. These and the other lines running from New York were infected with the fighting spirit. About the middle of October the American lines reduced their cabin rates and the war was on in full earnest. For some considerable time the Canadian lines held aloof, but about the end of November the Montreal offices reported a cut in steerage rates. This was followed by successive announcements until the minimum first cabin rate of $80 on the Empresses and the Turbiners had dropped to $55, second cabin rates from $45 to $30, and third class from $27.50 to $18.25. Westward as well as eastward the battle raged.

It is understood that the results of the Atlantic steamship conference will insure a harmonious working of the British and continental lines for the next three years, that the Cunard Company will re-enter the North Atlantic conference, which now, for the first time, also will include four Canadian companies, the Allan, Canadian Pacific, Dominion and Donaldson, and that an understanding will be arranged between the Cunard and the German companies respecting the Mediterranean trade. Herr Ballin, director general of the Hamburg American line, is in London at present, but will remain in England for a few days to rest.

FRICTION AS TO THE COMMITTEES

Ald. Clearihue May Not Retain Water Chairmanship—Ald. Gallery and the Roads.

There is considerable trouble among the English speaking members of the City Council in regard to agreeing what is to be the Eighteen representations on the various civic committees. Ald. Clearihue stated today that it was not certain he would continue to hold his chairmanship on the Water committee. While Ald. Clearihue did not state his reasons definitely it is known that the reason he feels like retiring from his committee is because he has a feeling that he will not be able to work in the harmonious manner he would like with the personnel of the Council as it is present constituted. Should he persist in his determination the committee it is expected will take a seat on the Board of Control. This might necessitate Ald. Robinson, Stearn, Fraser and Ald. TRADES UNIONISM SUBJECT OF INTER-COLLEGIATE DEBATE

Students of Four Colleges Participated and Discussion Was An Interesting One.

The annual inter-collegiate debate, held last evening in David Morrice Hall of the Presbyterian College, on the question that trade unions are a vital factor for the social uplifting of the working classes, and therefore beneficial to the community at large, was won by the affirmative representatives of the questions by a unanimous vote of the judges.

The winning side was argued by Mr. C. W. Stirling of the Presbyterian College, and Mr. F. W. Bates of the Wesleyan College, while those who took the negative view, and were defeated were Mr. R. D. Harris of the Diocesan College, and Mr. A. Peters of the Congregational. The judges were Professor Williams, Cadieux, Dean Moyse, Mr. A. R. Oughtred, K.C., Mr. D. McCuaig and Alderman Murphy. The Rev. W. J. Clarke presided.

Among the points brought out by Mr. Sterling, who led the affirmative, were: That any organization which benefited a section benefited the community of its work was a natural one; that unions had helped to bring higher wages; that Great Britain had not suffered because of trade unions; were of advantage from an educational standpoint, and had raised the moral tone of those classes; that unionism had brought benefits of social assistance, and that they were the means of protection and prevention.

IRISH DRAMA. A reproduction of a stirring old Irish drama, "The Knockers Lakes and Falls," will be presented by the St. Gabriel Juvenile Total Abstinence and Benefit Society on Monday evening next in the basement of St. Gabriel's Church, corner of Centre and Lagauchetiere streets. The play is to be given in aid of St. Joseph's Home.

Let Common Sense decide.

If the little sharp aches, the shortness of breath, the dull mental condition, disappear when coffee is discontinued, there's no need of any argument.

Then when all the functions begin to run smoothly, nerves steady, brain clear, appetite natural as a result of drinking Postum in place of the drug-bearing coffee, common sense will decide where one is.

ANNUAL MEETING OF MOUNT ROYAL CEMETERY COMPANY

Interments Last Year Numbered 1639, the Largest in the History of the Cemetery.

The shareholders of the Mount Royal Cemetery Company held their annual meeting yesterday. The president, Mr. S. H. Ewing, presiding.

The report of the superintendent, Mr. W. Cruickshank Roy, stated that the number of interments during the past year was the largest in the history of the cemetery, being 1,639 as compared with 1,487 in the previous year.

Attention was called to the necessity of making improvements to make room for visitors, keeping their appointments punctually. It was also stated that no improvements had as yet been made in the new Riverside property at Bout de l'Ile.

The fifth annual report of the trustees showed the revenue for the past year, consisting of money borrowed for the purchase of the new cemetery, was $15,684 and the working expenditure $13,540, leaving a surplus of $2,143 on the year's work, to which is added the balance brought forward from the previous year $920, and the amount advanced for the purchase of Riverview, $5,000, farm produce sold $2,400, stock purchased for Riverview, implements, horses, etc., and the amount paid later from Riverview $1954, leaving as the surplus on the year's work a total of $1,109. Taking credit for the Riverview expenditure as an asset, the purchase of the property at Bout de l'Ile was completed at a cost, including all expenses, of $20,741. $18,000 was raised from the Royal Trust Company in respect of the new cemetery, and $ was paid into the perpetual maintenance fund. In the near future it is expected that when the trustees are in a position to dispose of lots and bring the property into use, the new Riverview grounds will show an excess of income over expenditure, enabling them to repay any advance on it. Arrangements are now being made for reaching Riverview by rail.

Reference was made in the report to the election of Mr. R. Wilson-Smith to replace Mr. R. R. Stevenson on the board, and to the donation of a plot in the cemetery for the interment of those who lost their lives in the Hochelaga School fire.

The shareholders entitled to representation now number 4,029, and hold 8,361 [illegible] distributed as follows:

Proprietors	5,990
Presbyterians	2,785
Methodist	586

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE HOMEOPATHIC

Good Work Done by Hospital Shown in Reports Presented—Election of Officers.

The reports presented at the annual meeting of the Homeopathic Hospital, held Thursday afternoon in the Board Room at the hospital revealed a very satisfactory condition of affairs.

The president, Mr. John Torrance, presided and there was a fair attendance of governors.

The report of the committee of management showed that during the past season nearly $10,000 had been spent in enlargements and improvements, and in the language of the report, making it "the best equipped small hospital in the Dominion."

The report of the Medical Superintendent showed that over 500 patients had been treated during the past year with a low death rate.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the report of Miss Ethel O. Broadie, superintendent of the Phillips training School for Nurses, in connection with the hospital. This indicated that young ladies of good education are finding the profession of trained nursing both pleasant and lucrative, and that there is a demand for the services of graduates of the school which is quite greater than the supply. The Homeopathic has a splendid training school, with a lecture course by physicians and practical instruction by the lady superintendent and her assistants. Another class will soon graduate, when several vacancies will occur.

The report of the treasurer disclosed the fact that the hospital now has assets including real estate, exceeding $[illegible].

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, John Torrance; Vice presidents, E. G. O'Connor, S. M. Bayley; secretary, E. M. Morgan, M.D.; treasurer, Geo. Durnford. Committee of management, Mrs. J. T. Hagar, Miss A. P. Moodie, Mrs. C. Attending Doctors A. R. Griffith, E. M. Morgan, O. W. Bradley, J. T. Novinger, and W. M. Patton.

Dispensary staff, Doctors H. M. Patton, A. D. Patton, A. R. Griffith, E. M. Morgan, J. A. Novinger, O. W. Bradley, C. J. Patton, Laura Muller, W. M. Patton.

IN LABOR CIRCLES.

There will be a special meeting of the Shirtmakers' Union next Tuesday evening. The officials are anxious that all the members should be present.

The furniture workers, cabinetmakers and upholsterers say trade conditions are very quiet. Cartagemakers are also very slack. The coopers are fairly well employed, but the plano-workers find trade dull, with a number unemployed.

The Socialists have decided to hold their annual May Day parade. The procession will take place in the morning instead of in the evening as has been the custom. Every effort will be made to avoid trouble. The city will be asked to supply a platoon of police to lead the parade. Eugene A. Debs, the well known American Socialist, will be invited, and all the other societies in the city will be invited to take part in the celebration.

L. Bourdon, business agent of the Machinists' Union, defeated E. Carbonneau, of the Plasterers' Union, for the presidency of the Montreal Trades and Labor Council at the annual meeting last night. The office was keenly contested for, Mr. Bourdon winning out by the small majority of 7. The other officers were elected as follows: Vice-president, H. Friedlander; French recording secretary, T. Bertrand; English recording secretary, J. Marchand; corresponding secretary, J. B. Brunet, who was elected for the third term; financial secretary, Louis Lafleche; treasurer, E. Tremblay; guide, N. Lamarre; sergeant-at-arms, J. Girard. All the standing committees were elected by acclamation. The sum of $40 was voted to assist the Kaufmann men in their fight against Alexandra Hermann & Co. The delegates representing the Cigarmakers' Union said the strike was in full swing, and that the fight would be continued. A resolution was passed regretting the action of the Stonemasons' Union in connection with the municipal elections. It appears the Stonemasons endorsed the candidature of Mr. Daverne, while the Trades and Labor Council was fighting him. New delegates were admitted from Victoria Lodge, No. 721, International Association of Machinists; Mount Royal Lodge, No. 711, Machinists; Painters, No. 549; Teamsters and Flint Glass Workers. It was decided to elect the Labor Day Committee at the next meeting of the council.

The Crushing Power of the Jaws is about 500 Pounds.

Nature placed the power there for a purpose.

Food should be thoroughly crushed—"chewed"—in the mouth before swallowing, because the stomach has only a limited amount of muscular energy.

Besides, the chewing is intended to bring down from the glands of the mouth certain liquids needed to start the digestion of food.

Grape-Nuts

food requires "crushing," and this brings out the flavour as well as the food value—it also restores the good habit of making the teeth do their legitimate work instead of putting it onto the stomach, and brings out the needed liquids of the mouth.

In this way Grape-Nuts starts the good work of digestion and still further helps it along by the predigested condition of the food itself. It helps digest other food.

MORTGAGE BURNED AT CALVIN CHURCH

Members and Their Friends Turned Out in Great Numbers Last Night.

Calvin Presbyterian Church was crowded to the the doors last night, when congregation and friends assembled to see the ceremony of the burning of the mortgage on the property, and to hear the church a last declared free of debt. The chairman of the evening, Mr. Drumm, acting pastor, called upon Rev. Dr. Scrimger to open the meeting. Dr. Scrimger spoke feelingly about the church pastor, Rev. J. L. George, M.A., who is absent in Nova Scotia through illness. He said the gathering was to give thanks to kind friends who had assisted in the good work. He felt sure that Calvin Church would go forward now with new enthusiasm on the part of its people.

Dr. Scrimger said he rejoiced with and congratulated the congregation, and with Mr. Drumm and Mr. Oborne on the successful issue of the task they undertook.

Rev. W. R. Cruikshank congratulated the church on being able to clear off the debt, and felt sure that all connected with the church will now work with new enthusiasm. Rev. Canon Dixon, of St. Jude's Church, and Rev. J. G. Clark, M.A., of St. Andrew's Church, Westmount, spoke in a similar strain.

Mr. Bradwood, a member of Old St. Joseph Street Church, spoke for a few minutes, and was followed by Mr. D. McCormick, who said his first connection with the church was in 1866, when he was principal of their school.

Rev. Mr. Radley, of West End Methodist Church, brought greetings and congratulations from his people.

The mortgage was burned by Mrs. H. E. Hardisty, while the congregation sang "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

Mr. John Oborne was presented with a clock by Mr. R. H. Brown on behalf of the congregation, as a token of appreciation of the work he had done. He replied appropriately.

Refreshments were supplied by the ladies and Miss L. George entertained the audience with solos.

Favored a Board of Control.

The members of Emmanuel Congregational Church Men's Association decided last night that the City of Montreal would be better administered if a Board of Control were added to the civic administration. The debate was interesting, and, on the whole, the speakers, on the negative as well as on the affirmative, expressed their disapproval of the existing methods as seen in poorly paved streets, etc.; but while the speakers on the affirmative blamed the aldermen for not providing good streets, the negative contended that the aldermen were not wholly to blame, but that poorly paved streets existed largely owing to low taxation.

The affirmative was taken by Mr. R. B. Stevenson and Dr. F. A. Stevenson, and the negative by Messrs. L. Band and C. A. Bennett.

The Defence of Zarossi.

L. Zarossi, the Italian banker, against whom twenty one of his fellow-countrymen have lodged charges of theft, appeared in the Enquete Court yesterday afternoon, when evidence was submitted. The defence put up on behalf of the accused was that he had been made the victim of a conspiracy, which had resulted in a run on the bank. After one of the bondsmen had stated that he desired to withdraw his bond, as he wanted to return to Italy, the enquete was adjourned till next week.

Thanks From Brave Peter McNamee.

Mr. Peter McNamee, the employe of the Montreal Steel Works, who a short time ago saved the life of a little boy by plunging into the canal where he had fallen and bringing him safely to the shore, and who was afterwards presented with a purse of gold by the company, and a medal by his fellow employes, has written the Star a letter expressing his thanks to those who participated in these presentations. He also wishes to thank another friend who sent him a cheque for five dollars.

Ordered Back to Hospital.

The man Gosselin, who was shot in the stomach by a C. P. R. watchman, named Symonds, was able to leave the hospital yesterday afternoon and appeared before Judge Lafontaine. The charge against him was that in company with others whom he had attempted to break into a C. P. R. car Gosselin was in such a feeble condition that he was scarcely able to walk, and the Judge observing this delayed the enquete, and ordered his removal back to the hospital.

NEEDS OF STUDENT BODY AT M'GILL

Centralization of Organization Recommended by Special Committee in Report Just Issued.

Centralization of organization and control of funds are recommendations made by a special committee which had been investigating the requirements of the student body at McGill University. These and other recommendations are embodied in a report which was made public yesterday. A month ago there was a mass meeting of students to discuss the question of better organization, and at that meeting a committee was appointed to study the matter and make a report.

This committee considered that the most important needs were University spirit, a centralization of interests under one head; an authoritative body to act as a court of honor, a control of all the funds contributed by the students; a greater publicity of accounts and of all business in connection with the various clubs of general interest, a paid secretary to attend to the details of business for the various clubs.

The effects of the lack of university spirit were pointed out in the failure of many college enterprises.

To meet the need of a greater centralization and a more efficient control of funds, it is proposed that there should be an executive council of the students' society, which should conduct all student business and act as a court of honor whenever necessary.

It is proposed that the executive consist of the president of the students' society, who shall be chairman, the four presidents of the undergraduate societies, the president of the union and the three presidents of the football, hockey and track clubs.

It is proposed that each member of the students' society shall be required to pay an annual fee of $2. This sum shall be collected by the bursar with the regular tuition fees, and shall be used by the executive council in maintenance work on grounds for athletics, in grants to different athletic clubs, in salary of a paid secretary, and in all other student enterprises.

The committee recommend that the salaried secretary should be a graduate thoroughly acquainted with student life.

STORM STILL FELT THROUGH ONTARIO

Kingston Street Railway May Stop Running for Winter—Many Blockades.

Kingston, Ont., February 7.—After the Street Railway Company had succeeded in opening its lines subsequent to the big snowstorm of Saturday, and the city had expended much money in the removal of the snow, came the snow of Tuesday, leaving the blockade nearly as it was on Sunday morning. The officials of the railway company then wrote the city stating they would be willing to cease operating the cars till spring, provided the city was willing. Both parties would be saved a big expense in snow removal. The city engineer, who was the judge in the matter, decided that it was impracticable to run the cars unless the city expended $1,500 additional in the removal of the snow. A special meeting of the Council will decide the matter.

TRAINS CANCELLED.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Galt, Ont., February 7.—This town and district have been in the grasp of the severest mid-winter storm experienced in forty years. The country roads are impassable. The last train on the Grand Trunk reached Galt Wednesday morning, when the 9.30 going north, went through at Hall's Store. That train all trains have been cancelled. There is no traffic on the Berlin branch, and the line south of the Great Western Branch is also tied up. The Canadian Pacific has been more fortunate, the passenger trains, though hours late, succeeding in getting through.

MILK FAMINE IN BERLIN.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Berlin, Ont., February 7.—Only one train reached Berlin yesterday. Due at 2.30 a.m., it did not arrive until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The lines from the West, Galt and Elmira are still blocked. The steam heating power plant is forced to shut down owing to coal shortage. Milk dealers, being unable to get through, somewhat of a famine has resulted.

FOOD STUFFS SCARCE.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Clinton, Ont., February 7.—The storm conditions here are the worst for many years. It is impossible to get a mile out of town many direction, and many streets in the corporation are impassable. As no trains have been in or out for three days, products such as butter and eggs, are very scarce. There are many snowbound travellers here, unable to get away.

CAN'T CLEAR LINE.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Guelph, Ont., February 7.—There are eleven engines and two snow ploughs in the snow blockade on the Guelph and Goderich branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and they, with the gang of relief men are tied up. It may be some weeks before the men at Wroton and other stations get out.

COUNTRY ROADS BLOCKED.

Lindsay, Ont., February 7.—One of the worst storms for many years has visited this section of the province during the past week. The amount of snow accumulated has caused a blockade of the country roads. The worst effect of the storm is felt by the railways.

NO TRAINS RUNNING.

Owen Sound, Ont., February 7.—The storm raged all day yesterday. No trains have arrived by either railroad since Tuesday night.

OGDENSBURG SNOWBOUND.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., February 7.—This city is completely snowbound. Not a train arrived or departed yesterday. All the snow ploughs and shovellers that can be worked are battling hard to reopen the lines. The snowfall on the level this week has been 32 inches.

The ice has jammed the St. Lawrence river at Cornwall, Ontario, setting back the water about 25 feet, the highest level it has reached since the disastrous flood 21 years ago. The water is pouring over the river bank and has flooded the cotton mills, causing their suspension and throwing 500 hands out of work.

STAGES TIED UP.

London, Ont., February 7.—The storms of the past few days have demoralized the stage service in and around London. There are seven stage lines coming into London daily, and only two were able to get through yesterday, and they were several hours late. In many places the roads are completely blocked and farmers are driving over the tops of fences.

ASK FOR ABOLITION OF NIGHT RATE

Before the Railway Commission, composed of Chief Commissioner Killam, Hon. M. E. Bernier and Prof. Mills, is being heard to-day, the application of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for the abolition of the night rate on through business between Canada and the United States.

Mr. Joseph L. VanMeter, superintendent of service of the American Telegraph and Telephone Company, New York, testified that while the load of business carried at night was larger than the morning load and equal to the afternoon load, the work involved in the night messages was fully double that of the day, and the congestion of the lines was such that it was impossible to accommodate it all. This was due to the nature of the night business. Whereas the ordinary business of the lines was covered by an average of four minutes per message, the night messages were much longer. Besides, the difficulty of getting people at night was much greater than in day time.

Mr. Charles F. Sise, jr., gave similar evidence, illustrating his points by a map showing the telephone system. The only way to fix a rate, he declared, was for the central office, in New York, to fix a rate for business for all subsidiary lines, including the Bell Telephone Company of Canada. The through rate for day business was less than the rates of both lines to the border. Rates were quoted to every station in the United States and Canada, but the bulk of the business was done with the large cities in both countries. Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Quebec and Sherbrooke supplied the bulk of work of the Canadian side, while New York, Boston, Baltimore and St. Louis were the chief American points reached. Mr. Sise explained that there was no analogy between the telegraph night rate and the telephone rate. Telegrams sent night rate were delivered next day, but telephone calls had to be got at once.

The hearing will be continued at the afternoon sitting.

MR. BORDEN BEFORE THE DISRAELI CLUB

Officers Installed by the Conservative Leader Last Night.

THE GOVERNMENT ARRAIGNED

Rights of the Minority in Parliament—Canada as a Land of Freedom and Opportunity.

A political and social function combined brought out a big crowd last evening at Stanley Hall to take part in the annual installation and ball of the Disraeli Conservative Club. Mr.

Mr. Manuel Levitt, President of Disraeli Conservative Club.

R. L. Borden, M.P., the Conservative leader, came down from Ottawa, to take part in the ceremonial. He was to have been accompanied by several other members, but the probability of a division last evening prevented their coming.

The installation of the officers was marked by addresses from several of the new officers, while Mr. R. L. Borden made a patriotic and vigorous address on political grounds. It was also announced that the club would in the near future secure a home of its own, where social functions would alternate with political events. The formation of a Primrose League was also mooted, and may be an accomplished fact within a short time.

The delay in the arrival of the Ottawa train caused some waiting for the opening ceremony, but the large attendance of handsome, tastefully gowned women attended by their brothers and sweethearts spent the time in lively conversation and the excellent orchestra under the leadership of Professor Herr Jacobson rendered a few pleasing selections to while away the time.

Mr. R. L. Borden, M.P., was escorted to the platform by Mr. Manuel Levitt, president of the club, and Mr. Abraham Blumenthal, the honorary president. Mr. C. E. Gault, M.L.A., president of the Junior Conservative Club; Mr. W. H. D. Miller, honorary secretary; Mr. F. E. Jones, honorary treasurer; Mr. F. J. Curran, vice-president; Mr. Campbell Lane, K.C., past president of the same organization with Messrs. R. Stanley Rigg, Joseph Horsfall, A. J. Whimby, and the officers of the Disraeli Club also took their places on the platform.

After Mr. Manuel Levitt, the president, had welcomed the many guests, and especially the leader of the party, Mr. R. L. Borden, he called upon Miss Anna Wolfe, who, in excellent artistic style, rendered a song which called for an enthusiastic encore.

THE OFFICERS INSTALLED.

Mr. R. L. Borden, M.P., then proceeded to the installation of officers, as follows:—Mr. Abraham Blumenthal, the founder of the club, honorary president; Mr. Manuel Levitt, president; Mr. H. Bloomfield, first vice-president; Mr. D. Eisner, second vice-president; honorary secretary, Mr. H. H. Rose; honorary treasurer, Mr. H. Weiner, and sergeant at arms, Mr. H. Kronenberg. The reception committee for last evening's entertainment was: Messrs. I. Lande, M. Rittenberg, J. Rosenthal, D. Sharpiro, M. Fair and J. Romanoff, while the entertainment committee was composed of Messrs. S. Bloomfield, M. Weiner, S. Z. Fels, and A. Blumenthal.

Each of the officers, on his installation, offered his thanks to the members of the club for the honor done him, and expressed his views on the political situation. Mr. A. Blumenthal explained that he was a Conservative because on looking back over the history of the country he had found the Conservatives a party of nation builders.

Mr. Manuel Levitt, the president, declared that though still young, he was a fighting man. He recalled that the presence of Mr. R. L. Borden who had, at great inconvenience, left Ottawa to show his regard for the members of the Jewish community, was in keeping with the general policy of the Conservatives, to respect all races and creeds in the country. Mr. Levitt declared that they fondly hoped that the next installation would take place in a permanent home of their own, where social functions would alternate with political affairs. He was confident that the next installation would be conducted by Mr. R. L. Borden, but on that occasion that he would be Premier of Canada.

The other officers installed also expressed their appreciation of the situation, after which Mr. Levitt called upon Mr. R. L. Borden to address the gathering.

SPEECH BY MR. BORDEN.

Mr. Borden at the outset assured the ladies present that he was too much of a politician to detain them at any length with an address on the serious affairs of politics. He appreciated the fact that they were eagerly looking forward to the second portion of the programme, and only regretted that the passing years had rendered it impracticable for him to join in the terpsichorean throng.

It was in the best interests of the Conservative party, and of the country as well, that the young men, and the young women, too—for as the young women's wishes went so would the young men vote—should gather together under the auspices of a club like this to consider the affairs of the country, and to have a little pleasant amusement together. While this country was not the country of the birth of many of those present, it was the country of their adoption, and they loved it as much as those who were Canadian born. Those who had seen the light in some other countries realized, even more, than did native Canadians, the liberty which the people of Canada enjoy under the British flag.

Mr. Borden dwelt upon the greatness of the country, and, though it was not the land of the citron, of which a German poet wrote in lines which Mr. Boroden quoted in German, to the intense delight of the audience, it was the land of the pine and the maple, of the golden grain and of the sturdy sons and daughters and of the liberty-loving people who were born on these shores or had made their homes here.

THE PRICE OF LIBERTY.

That the true government of the people for the people by the people should be carried out, it was necessary that eternal vigilance should be observed. It had been said by people of other nations that in the free countries under the British flag, the people would become so occupied with their business or their professions, that they would leave the government of the country to a band who would make the government a business, and would share with their camp followers the spoils of office.

The genius for liberty had been implanted by the Saxon people, who, at the first, loved liberty for themselves, but later extended that liberty to all persons of whatever race or creed. Those of foreign birth who became citizens of Canada assumed the same responsibility for the preservation of those liberties as did those whose fathers had secured those liberties. They were, therefore, bound to band together, to see that the liberties which they enjoyed were not abused by the party in power, and that the rulers of the country should respect those liberties.

He was proud to owe allegiance to the Liberal-Conservative party, because he found that that party had been one of broad outlook and great accomplishment, of broad views towards the peoples of all races and creeds, and especially towards minorities.

GOVERNMENT CRITICISED.

Speaking of minorities brought him to refer to an incident of the present session at Ottawa. He continued: "If there is one thing that has aroused the people of Canada of late it is the fact that the present Government, swollen and intoxicated with the sense of power, should have attempted to withhold from the representatives of the people in Parliament information to which they were absolutely entitled, as much entitled as members of a company would be entitled to facts as to the way in which the business was carried on."

The Government, in view of the persistent attitude of the opposition and the expressed views of the people, had receded from that position. There had been enunciated in the House, however, a view which he regretted to say had been voiced by a man from his own province of Nova Scotia, which must meet with the disapproval of the people of Canada. For five hundred years the rights of the people, through Parliament had been recognized in the British Empire, yet Mr. Fielding made the astounding declaration that the minority in Parliament were entitled only to what the majority would give them.

"I think that declaration startled the people of Canada," said Mr. Borden. "I know that it startled Parliament, and I must say that up to the present time we have had no retraction from Mr. Fielding.

PROBLEMS OF TO DAY.

After reviewing some of the great works of the Liberal-Conservative party, Mr. Borden concluded as follows:

"The great problems facing the Canadian people to-day," concluded Mr. Borden, "are mainly the relations between capital and labor, and the public control of great public utilities, such as railways. The problem is to so arrange things that the present uneven conditions should not be made more uneven, that the inequalities of wealth and poverty should not be magnified by the laws under which we live.

"Without going into details," continued Mr. Borden, "I venture to say that the policy of the Conservative party as announced during the past ten months is one for the benefit and advantage of the people as a whole, and one that will recommend itself to the people of the country when they come to record their votes at the next general election." (Applause.)

THE OTHER SPEECHES.

Mr. C. Ernest Gault, M.L.A., for St. Antoine, after gracefully complimenting the club upon the numbers and especially the quality of the attendance, dwelt for a few minutes upon the similarity in the attitude of the Quebec administration to that at Ottawa. As at Ottawa, so at Quebec, the minority of the representatives found it well nigh impossible to get documents needed for the information of the people brought down, and the timber limits were being sacrificed to friends of the Government. This indicated the need of a solid and well-manned opposition in the interests of the country.

Messrs. Campbell Lane, K.C., and Frank J. Curran also addressed the gathering, after which Mr. Bernard Rose announced that the Disraeli Club was ready to take up the establishment of a ladies' branch of the institution, and following the suggestion of Mr. Campbell Lane, K.C., regarding the establishment of the Primrose League in Great Britain, he though this would be a good name for the association it was proposed to establish here.

Dancing was indulged in to a late hour, and during the intermission a violin solo was rendered in splendid style by Prof. Herr Jacobson. Refreshments were served and a general good time enjoyed by all present.

DIFFICULTIES OVERCOME.

The above table only shows the French personnel of the various committees; blanks are left in the list in order that the English speaking members may appoint their men to fill the vacant places.

On all committees there are seven members. On the Finance Committee there are four French and three English-speaking aldermen. On the other committees there are five French and two English-speaking members.

At the French caucus the great difficulty met with was the chairmanship of the Roads Committee. The former chairman, Ald. Lariviere, finally agreed to take a seat on the Finance Committee and allow Ald. Giroux to get the chairmanship of the roads.

The caucus decided to do justice to Ald. Lavallee and again to appoint him to a seat on the Finance Committee.

Ald. Levy was reinstated chairman of the Market Committee. These two acts of justice gave general satisfaction to all.

THE ENGLISH CAUCUS.

There was also a caucus of English speaking members to decide who should be chairmen of the Water and Fire Committees, and also to consider what English-speaking members should be appointed on the various other committees.

It was practically agreed that Ald. Clearihue should retain his position as chairman of the Water Committee, and that Ald. Tatse should continue in the position of Chairman of the Fire Committee. Ald. Clearihue presided at the meeting. It was agreed that Ald. Fraser should get a seat on the Finance Committee. The position was offered to Ald. Stearns, who is an old member of Council, but he was generous enough to give the seat to Ald. Fraser.

The English-speaking members decided to hold another meeting in order to further discuss their positions on committees.

THE HUNGRY FED AND MADE GLAD

Good Work of the New Five Cent Eating House—Some Interesting Incidents.

One hundred and forty-one men and three women took supper at the Workingmen's Circle five-cent meal house on Ontario street last night. There were many interesting little incidents in connection with the day's work and the hundreds of bowls of soup handed out made many a heart glad—to say nothing of the stomachs.

"Come in, boys," said the cheery voice as the owner of it ushered in four big fellows about noon. They had the regulation dinner, soup, cabbage, beef, bread and butter and tea—and how they did eat! Then the host told them how he had made twenty-five cents in the morning and he intended to buy a snow shovel so that he could add to his wealth. "But you fellows had to eat the same as me," he added and he rose from his seat and advanced to the man who is chef, waiter and cashier. The twenty-five cents was tendered, but it so happened that one of the Circle Committee was in the room at the moment and overheard the conversation. "Go on down the street," he said, "and buy your snow shovel, and when you make another twenty-five cents you can come around and pay."

"There was a tear in that chap's eye," said the committee man later on, "as he put the coin back in his pocket and, would you believe it, he came back for his supper at night and told our men here that he had made sixty cents. He had his shovel with him and after he ate his bread and butter and tea, for three cents, he handed over twenty-eight cents. In our short experience at this work we find few men who do not pay when they have the money."

Twenty-five pounds of wholesome looking mutton was delivered this morning. That means mutton and turnips for to-night. There will be no caper sauce or choice brown gravy, but there will be mutton broth, with rice, with boiled meat, turnips and bread and tea for five cents.

"Can you keep on doing it?" asked the Star representative to-day. "The deficit will be considerable," was the answer, "but our members, many of them earning only a dollar a day, are determined to give a trifle from their savings to keep the little enterprise alive."

Apropos of the financial end of the five cent room a lady wrote the following letter to the Star last night:

"The work of the men who are responsible for this eating house for the poor is most commendable, and it is to be hoped that some of our citizens who have enough and to spare will send in a few dollars to meet any deficit there may be. I send you one dollar, which you will please give to the right person, and if the good work continues I shall send in some more."

THREE HIGHWAYMEN TERRORIZED TOWN

Two Were Captured by Police Officer—Both Proved to Be Italians.

Arlington, Mass., February 7.—Two of the three suspected highwaymen, who, it is alleged, terrorized the citizens in the towns of Woburn, Lexington and vicinity last night, shot two police officers, the driver of a police waggon, and a small boy, and who were responsible for the calling out of a local squad of militia, in Woburn, by Captain Blodgett, of that town, were captured on an electric car near the centre of this town early to-day.

When brought to the local police station, the men could not be induced to speak English, but their names were learned to be Peter Rosi, aged 22 years, and Reinslow Kanelowy, 20 years.

The arrest was made by Officer Daniel M. Hooley, of the Arlington force, unassisted. Officer Hooley entered the car alone, caught the highwaymen unawares, and had them so well covered that no resistance was offered.

Fire at St. Anne de Bellevue.

A resident of St. Anne de Bellevue states that the fire which broke out on Wednesday afternoon in the poultry building of the Macdonald Agricultural College, was at no time likely to spread to the other buildings, being removed a considerable distance from the main body of buildings. The fire originated in a wooden extension of the poultry building and the total damage will not exceed $8,000.
