RED RETREAT FROM ODESSA STRATEGIC TRIUMPH

German Divisions Striking At City Are Beaten Back

200 Miles South of Capital—Fourteen German Planes Brought Down Near Moscow—Situation on Outer Approaches to Moscow Continue "Very Serious," Russians Reported to Have Recaptured Orel, Rail Centre However.

Moscow, Oct. 18.—(AP)—German divisions striking at Moscow's Western defences were declared officially to have been beaten back several times by the Russians yesterday and a Soviet withdrawal from Odessa was pictured as a strategic triumph.

(The Moscow radio, heard in London, acknowledged today that the situation on the outer approaches to Moscow and on the Southern front, continued "very serious.")

(The Exchange Telegraph in London quoted the Moscow radio as saying the Russians had recaptured Orel, rail centre 200 miles South of the capital.)

"Fighting was especially stubborn in the Western direction, where the Red army beat off several fierce enemy attacks," the Soviet Information Bureau said in an early morning communique.

It reported that "on October 17, fourteen German planes were brought down near Moscow."

(There still was no word from Moscow concerning reports in other capitals that Soviet Government leaders had left Moscow for Kazan, 450 miles East.)

(In Washington, however, the State Department said that high officials of the Soviet Foreign Office had left for a destination in the East.)

(All the United States Embassy staff except two secretaries and three clerks also left Moscow, with Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt, the State Department said.)

Conceding that Russian defences of Odessa had been withdrawn, the Information Bureau said this operation was according to plan—that the "transferred" by our fleet to other sectors of the front in a perfectly orderly manner and without any losses."

(The Rumanian High Command announced capture of Odessa Thursday, and the German planes that were "transferred" by our fleet to other sectors of the front in a perfectly orderly manner and without any losses."

(The Moscow radio reported last night that Russian forces had recaptured five important places about Mariupol, which the Germans have claimed in a drive east along the Sea of Azov coast toward Rostov, 100 miles away.)

"Rumors disseminated by the German radio to the effect that Soviet troops were forced to evacuate Odessa."

Roosevelt Asks Congress To Vote $50,000,000 To Aid In War Relief

Washington, Oct. 18.—(AP)—President Roosevelt has asked Congress to appropriate $50,000,000 for foreign war relief in a move interpreted in some quarters as an answer to Herbert Hoover's demand that the United States feed the starving peoples of Nazi-conquered nations.

The President sent the Senate Appropriations Committee a budgetary request to attach this amount to the pending Lend-Lease bill, to supplement $50,000,000 previously made available for relief expenditures in foreign countries by the American Red Cross.

While former President Hoover was urged that the American Government provide food for democratic peoples in German-occupied countries, some legislators said that if the supplemental appropriation was approved it was likely to be spent largely among war refugees in Un-occupied France and those who have fled to Britain.

However, the President asked for a revision of the language of the present law to make the proposed

CANADA STILL HAS POWERFUL LABOR RESERVE

Toronto, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Canada still has great reserves of labor to draw on despite warnings from statisticians that the supply of labor available to war industries has already been exhausted, Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, said here.

"Our present industrial programme is only about seventy per cent manned," he told a banquet meeting of the American Society of Tool Engineers here Friday. "I have every confidence that the thirty per cent will come forward when required."

In a review of part of the Dominion's war effort, Mr. Howe said that Canada now boasts an industrial strength capable of fully equipping a division of troops in "about five to six weeks," that "we are manufacturing... practically every type of weapon used by the British in this war" and that "great bulk of our production is for export to the theatres of war."

THREE PERISHED IN SERIOUS FIRE

Dighton, Mass., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Two severely-burned children fought for life today after a fire in their home took the lives of their father and two sisters while their mother was working in the night shift at a Taunton mill.

Dead are John Doehler, 40, and his daughters Gertrude, nine, and Jacqueline, two.

Taken to hospital in Taunton, where they were given a chance to survive although their names are on the danger list, were two sons, John, six, and Kenneth, five.

Sydney, N.S.W., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Australian port is planning to build 40,000 homes for sale to wage-earners, without deposit, on "repayment rates" of from 17s 6d to 25s weekly ($3.06 to $4.50).

JAPAN WARNED NOT TO SPREAD WAR IN PACIFIC

London, Oct. 18.—(AP)—London newspapers, commenting on the Tokyo Cabinet shakeup, warned Japan today that any attempt to spread the war in the Far East would be met by the combined powers of the British and United States fleets.

Hands-off signs with respect to embattled Russia were posted editorially in declarations such as the afternoon Red Star's assertion that any move against the Soviet would bring upon Japan "a punishing war."

"No Japanese should be left in any doubt," the Red Star said, "that if his government tries to carry the flame of war into the Pacific the fire will be put out by the combined force of the British and American navies."

The News Chronicle expressed belief "a single fleet action could decide the issue."

"If the Allies gained the day," it said, "an ever-present threat would have been finally removed from the Pacific."

The Mail said British imperial action must conform to United States leadership in the Pacific.

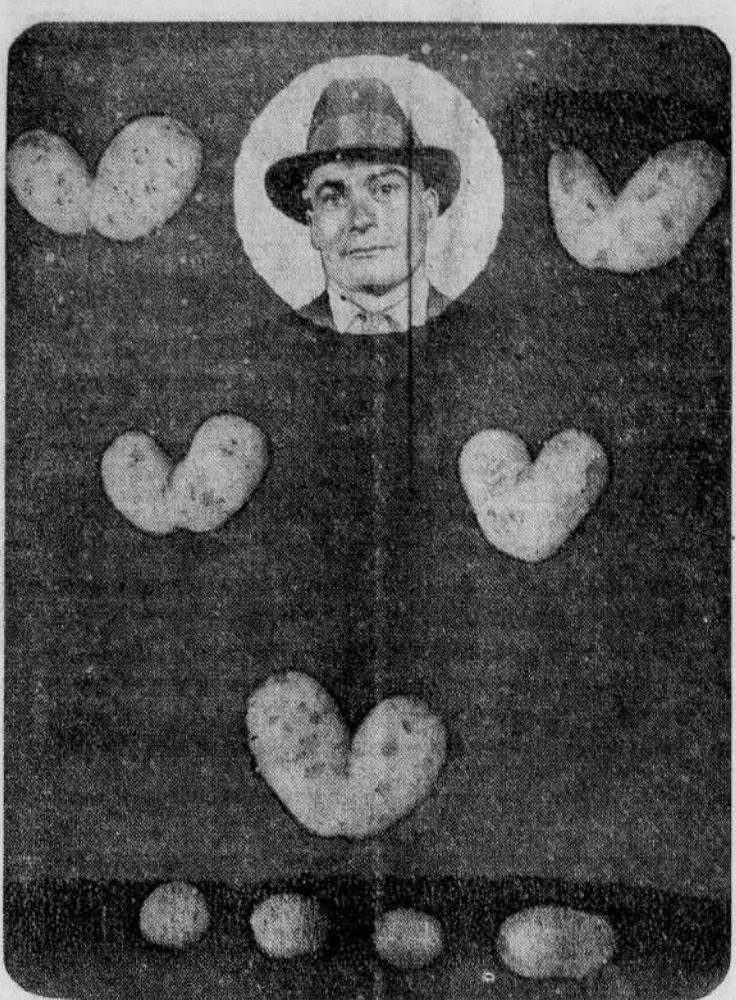

The Herald suggested also that the first step would be up to the United States and went on to say the "paths of duty and expediency" forced Britain to concentrate upon her current endeavors, "now more vital to the outcome of the war than any other factor."

Premier Lt.-Gen. Eiki Tojo was described as a "Germanophile" by the Telegraph, which said "nothing would please Hitler better than to see the United States embroiled with Japan."

The Times said a resolute and united front of the democracies was all that safeguarded peace in the Pacific.

"For Great Britain, as for the United States, the limits of compromise have long been passed," it said, "... an attack upon Russian territory in the Far East would be a direct assault on the cause to which both Britain and the United States are committed."

Drummondville Farmer Produces "V" Potatoes

WILFRID MARTEL, shown in centre, a farmer living in Range No. 7, Drummondville, was amazed to find an unusual number of potatoes growing on his farm in the shape of "V". Mr. Martel states that these "V" potatoes are being taken as an omen of good luck by housewives in the district who otherwise would have resented the difficulty in peeling the odd shapes.

Interdependence Of Free Nations Stressed By Prime Minister King At Queen's Centenary Observance

By C. R. BLACKBURN, (Canadian Press Staff Writer) Kingston, Ont., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A plea to the universities to "adhere to the humane ideals of the basic institutions of freedom" was voiced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King last night in reply to the toast to Canada at the civic banquet to Queen's University on the occasion of the University's centennial celebration.

"Unless the education institutions support the Government in the maintenance of those ideals I see little hope," Mr. King declared.

The Prime Minister coupled his appeal with a declaration that "today no foreign power, either from the Orient or from Europe, can enter Canada without encountering the armed forces of this Dominion."

In this connection Mr. King spoke also of the interdependence of free nations and the interdependence of Canada and the United States.

Mr. King recalled the German manifesto of 1914 supporting the invasion and conquest of Belgium—signed by more than 1,000 leading German educationists.

When a country, which up to that time, had held such an important position as a centre of education and culture could issue such a manifesto, Mr. King said he had "felt at once that there was no hope for Germany after that."

What has been the "undermining influence" that caused such action by the German educationists of that time could be answered only by the universities themselves.

"I think it was a substitution of the conception of human society based upon material philosophy rather than a conception of human society based upon humane, Christian ideals," he said.

"It was a substitution of something more damnable than we have ever known."

"I say earnestly that these days are days when every institution is being tested. None of us can realize too well the way the mind of our youth is being affected."

"Let us hold our faith in Parliament. If you have no faith in the Government, then change it as quickly as possible but do not let a minority of people substitute their views for the institutions of democracy which we now hold dear."

Mr. King recalled the declaration of President Roosevelt when he received an Honorary Degree from Queen's in August, 1938, that the United States would be at the Dominion's side if this country were threatened by domination by another empire.

"That declaration quickly came to have a greater significance than any that may have been envisioned at the time it was made," he said. Speaking of the "undermining influence" that caused such action by the German educationists of that time could be answered only by the universities themselves.

WAR BULLETINS

Rome — Four civilians were killed, twenty-four injured and buildings damaged last night in a British bombing raid on Syracuse, Sicily, the Italian High Command said today.

Rome — A Fascist spokesman claimed to have information today that foreign diplomatic staffs which left Moscow had gone to Kuibyshev, on the Volga River 550 miles East of the beleaguered Soviet capital and 200 miles South of Kazan.

London — The Netherlands Government in London announced today the loss of an escort vessel through Axis action. The vessel was not identified and no details of the incident were disclosed.

London — A Netherlands Foreign Office spokesman said today that every facility of the Netherlands East Indies would be placed at the disposal of the United States in the event of a war with Japan and implied that Indies bases for the United States fleet could be had for the asking.

SAYS TOO MUCH APATHY SLOWING UP WAR EFFORT

Peterborough, Ont., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Declaring that "We are going to be faced with a victorious Germany over Europe," Premier Mitchell Hepburn, of Ontario, last night appealed for a more realistic attitude to that war by Canadians.

A machine "more vicious than the one which has carried the German armies through Europe must be created if Hitler is to be beaten," he told the closing banquet session of the International plowing match. "That is your job," he told his audience.

"Public sentiment can sway governments and can control governments. We have had this apathy too long."

The Premier voiced a declaration, first made in an address at New York, that defeat of Russia by the Germans was inevitable. "If Hitler succeeds, as I think he will, he will have all the raw material to feed that military machine. He will be able to feel the Japanese oil, the lack of which at the present time is the only thing which prevents Japan from embarking on a war of conquest in the Pacific."

Canadians, he added, have "lived with our heads buried in the sand. We may find ourselves in the same condition of subjugation as the people of Europe because we won't face the facts..."

"We have every factor at our disposal, but we are not doing the job. We are going to be faced with a victorious Germany over Europe and a threatened Japanese invasion of the Pacific."

Mr. Hepburn said also that the United States is "not putting forth its best efforts."

He also deprecated the slow-down strike at Cape Breton, N.S., coal mines and walkout at the Arvida, Que., aluminum plant.

The Premier paid tribute to Prime Minister Churchill, expressing the hope that "sometime in the future, that generations who enjoy freedom because of him will pause and pay tribute where it is due."

FIVE CRITICALLY BURNED IN BLAST

Ventura, Calif., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Five men were burned critically as gasoline fumes ignited in a 200,000 gallon storage tank of the Shell Oil Co. just before last midnight. Ten other workmen escaped unhurt.

The crew of fifteen was preparing to dismantle the tank, in which there was only a foot of oil. Police theorized that a spark from a riveting machine ignited gasoline fumes, which blazed spectacularly into the early morning hours. The explosion shot the huge tank twelve feet into the air.

All rail and highway traffic in the vicinity was halted.

Neutrality Act Repeal To Be Speeded Through U.S. Senate

Washington, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The United States Senate, geared for final action within two weeks, received the House-approved Merchant Ship Arming Bill today while administration leaders were reported discouraging any amendments in the interest of speed.

The measure, a simple resolution repealing the Neutrality Act ban against cargo vessels carrying protective arms, passed the House 259 to 138 yesterday shortly after word was received of the torpedoing of the American destroyer Kearny off Iceland.

Although President Roosevelt had recommended that early attention be given also to removing the Neutrality Act prohibition against American merchant ships entering belligerent ports, Senate leaders were understood to favor pushing the armed ship bill through without injecting the other issue at this time.

Armed ship opponents conceded the House measure should reach a Senate vote by Nov. 1, but warned that any effort to expand it to permit travel through combat zones to ports of warring nations would prolong a decision indefinitely.

The Foreign Affairs Committee planned to start public hearings Tuesday and conclude them Friday. Administration witnesses are expected to include cabinet officers and others, while opponents tentatively have decided to call Gen. Robert E. Wood and John T. Flynn of the America First Committee and John Cudahy, former Ambassador to Belgium.

Plans call for beginning Senate debate the following Monday with a decision expected by November 1.

Proponents said they had no fear as to the outcome and Senator Lister Hill of Alabama, Democratic whip, predicted the torpedoing of the Kearny would win votes for the bill.

Senator Burton Wheeler (Democrat, Montana), a leader of the opposition, declared "the most honest thing to do, of course, would be to ask for a declaration of war."

"That would give a fair test on the question," he said, "and if a declaration of war were approved, then naturally everybody would get behind the Government."

APPOINTMENTS IN LICENSING PLAN ARE MADE

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The War-time Prices and Trade Board today announced appointment of nine provincial licensing directors to help put into effect its nation-wide plan for licensing manufacturers of and dealers in food, feeds, livestock, poultry, yarn, cloth, clothing and footwear.

The licensing plan, announced some weeks ago, takes effect December 1. It has been estimated well over 200,000 firms and individuals will come under its scope.

The Board said regional offices will be opened soon in Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, Saint John, N.B., Halifax and Charlottetown.

The provincial directors will deal with inquiries in respect to licensing in their respective provinces.

Following are the directors whose appointment was announced today: British Columbia: Arthur Wilfred Cowley of Vancouver, former importer and manufacturers' representative who was for several years on the staff of the British Columbia Retail Merchants' Association, and more recently has been in charge of Washington, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Three Senators demanded today that the United States adopt a hard-fisted policy toward Japan in what they viewed as an explosive situation in the Far East.

Senators George Norris (Ind., Nebraska), Claude Pepper (Dem., Florida), and Guy Gillette (Dem., Iowa), outlined their views on the subject to reporters after Navy Department officials here disclosed that some American merchant ships, presumably in Oriental waters, had been ordered to port for instructions.

"We can't appease Japan any more than we can appease Hitler," said the veteran Norris. "If Japan wants to attack us, she'll attack. All she is waiting for is to try and feel certain she is on the winning side."

Pepper said the "only way to deal with them is to draw a line and warn them that if they cross it there will be shooting. We should let Japan know that we have certain interests we will maintain even if they meet resistance and that the only way to get along with us is a clear-cut and definite understanding."

Gillette said he viewed the Navy announcement concerning merchant ship orders as an indication administration officials "have become pretty discouraged about our efforts to reach an understanding with Japan."

Gillette said he believed that for months Japan has been "bluffing and trying to avoid an open break with the United States in order to build up her oil reserves which may be used against us later."

A contrasting opinion came from Isolationist Senator Burton Wheeler (Democrat, Montana), who said he doubted that recent developments in the Far East "mean war for the United States."

"I cannot imagine anything more helpful for Hitler than us jumping into war with Japan," Wheeler said. "If there is any likelihood of our going to war with Japan, then we ought to concentrate efforts on building our own defences and keeping planes, tanks, and submarines at home rather than giving them to Russia, England, or any other country."

The burst of Senatorial comment came after published stories that American and British ships in the Far East had been ordered to ports for instructions. The Navy Department announcement said its action regarding United States vessels is not new or unusual because "for some time the movement of American merchant ships has been controlled and directed as seemed desirable."

"Any implication that they will not continue to ply their usual trade is entirely erroneous," the Navy said.

PRODUCTION OF TANKS IN U.S. IS SPEEDED UP

Peak Expected to Be Reached Late Next Spring When Hundreds Will Roll Off Assembly Line Daily.

By DAVID J. WILKIE (Associated Press Automotive Editor)

Detroit, Oct. 18.—(AP)—If present plans of the United States automotive industry do not miscarry, late next spring may see scores of army tanks rolling daily off specially-constructed production lines. They will be rumbling out under their own power in numbers undreamed of a little more than a year ago when K. T. Keller, President of Chrysler Corporation, first was asked whether he could make tanks.

A few weeks ago it was being predicted in automotive circles that between forty and fifty tanks a day would be delivered next spring. The number already has been boosted substantially, some estimates going as high as one hundred a day.

Chrysler Corporation, which initiated the industry to the job of building the mobile fortresses, already has three assembly lines turning them out steadily and, while exact production totals are a military secret, these lines are said to be well ahead of the original schedule of five of the huge vehicles for each eight-hour shift.

Chrysler soon will be joined in the production of the land battle ships by Ford and General Motors and each will be given the benefit of Chrysler's experience in getting into production on a job entirely

JAP CABINET "SMELLS OF POWDER," SAY CHINESE

Hong Kong, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The new Japanese Cabinet "smells of powder," Chinese papers in this British crown colony said today, emphasizing that Premier Eiki Tojo belongs to the Kwangtung army group which long has clamored for war with Russia.

Some newspapers expressed belief the new Tokyo Government probably would break off conversations looking to a settlement of differences with the United States.

OWNER OF CHICAGO PACKING FIRM DIES

Chicago, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Edward A. Cudahy, Sr., 81, a founder and the head of the Cudahy Packing Company died today of a heart ailment. He had spent 68 years in the packing business, starting as a lad of 13 employed in driving cattle from the pens to the slaughtering house.

new to the industry.

Thus the prediction of a possible hundred units a day by next spring does not seem extravagant.

To speed up its own tank production, the Chrysler Corporation announced today it will utilize the mass production facilities of its Plymouth factory and other auto plants for the manufacture of tank parts on a quantity basis.

General Motors and Ford already have surveyed the possibilities for similar programmes of tank parts manufacture in their various factories. Under present plans General Motors would produce the tanks in Flint, using the facilities of its Fisher body and Buick motors divisions.

Ford's tank manufacturing programme is understood to contemplate production of both medium or 30-ton vehicles and the heavier unit weighing around 60 tons. They would be produced at the company's River Rouge factory.

NAZIS CLAIM 10 SHIPS SUNK BY SUB ACTION

London Makes No Comment on German Assertion that Successful Attack Made on Convoy.

Berlin, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A special communique from Hitler's headquarters today claimed ten British merchant ships aggregating 60,000 tons and two escorting destroyers had been sunk by German submarines.

The communique said: "A strongly protected convoy en route to England from North America was attacked by German submarines after entering the blockade zone.

"In stubborn attacks the last several days the submarines sank ten enemy merchantmen, among them three fully-loaded tankers, totalling 60,000 tons.

"In a nocturnal fight with the protecting vessels two enemy destroyers were sunk."

(There was no immediate comment in London on these enemy claims.)

The German radio, quoting a special communique by the German high command, said today that Nazi submarines had attacked a strong convoy from North America and had sunk seven freighters and three tankers. The broadcast was heard here by NBC.

The clash was described as a "strong naval action" with the escorting warships in which "two enemy destroyers" were sunk.

The communique did not say specifically that the ships sunk were American.

Minister without Portfolio: Maj.-Gen. Teiichi Suzuki.

The last five held the same portfolios in the Cabinet of Prince Konoye, which resigned because of its acknowledged inability to solve grave problems of policy.

Tojo took a firm grasp on the internal situation through the Home Office and equally tight control of the army machine abroad through the War Ministry. Domei, news and propaganda agency, reported Tojo was assured the support of Gen. Gen Sugiyama, Commander-in-Chief of the home forces.

It was said the appointments of Admiral Shimada and Tojo presaged an active outlook both North and South because of their experience in those areas.

Tojo, as envoy to Moscow during settlement of the Nomonhan border incident, is familiar with the Manchurian-Soviet situation.

Finance Minister Kaya, a non-military man, is President of the North China development company and long has been a factor in financial circles. It was emphasized in highly-placed quarters he is well acquainted with affairs in Northern Asia.

Eiichi Mori was appointed Chief of the Legislative Bureau and Masayuki Tani, a career diplomat who has seen service in the United States, China, Germany and other countries, was named President of the Board of Information.

FREDERICK KEPPEL RETIRES NOVEMBER 18

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Frederick P. Keppel, President of the Carnegie Corporation of New York since 192, will retire November 18.

During his nineteen-year administration, Mr. Keppel has allotted $150,000,000 in funds for scientific and educational research, general education, and the improvements of colleges and universities throughout the United States and the British Commonwealth.

Projects sponsored by Mr. Keppel have been endowed in British Columbia, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, South Africa, Australia, and New Zealand.

SABOTAGE SEEN BY MEDIATOR IN STEEL INDUSTRY

James F. Dewey Says Strike at Great Lakes Steel Corporation Is Unauthorized.

Detroit, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Federal Mediator James F. Dewey, indicating his dissatisfaction, said today he had to "look for a more sinister purpose—sabotage" in the three-day-old strike at Great Lakes Steel Corporation.

Ignoring instructions from heads of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee (Congress of Industrial Organizations), a number of strikers have refused to return to work since their walkout Wednesday midnight. A total of 8,500 men are idle with the plant closed.

"This is a wildcat strike," Dewey said, "and the Government of the United States is going to support the company and the responsible union officials in their demand that the men return to work."

"It is the fourth illegal, unauthorized strike at Great Lakes Steel and I have to look for a more sinister purpose. This is sabotage."

Dewey said that if the strike were not settled soon "drastic action" would have to be taken in the interests of producing defence steel. He did not elaborate his statement. The strike has tied up production of high tensile steel for army tanks and other defence purposes.

The S.W.O.C. has a contract with Great Lakes. Spokesmen for the strikers charged that some workers failed to receive proper consideration in negotiated wage scales.

BRITISH SEAMEN RESCUED BY TRAWLER

Reykjavik, Iceland, Sept. 17.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Guided by a British patrol plane, the Icelandic trawler "Surpriser" today rescued twenty-nine British seamen who had spent fourteen days in a lifeboat after their merchant ship was torpedoed.

Of the ship's crew of sixty, one is known dead and thirty are missing. Six of the survivors are in a hospital and the others are at Patreksfjord, on Iceland's West Coast.

They said the missing men were in a boat better equipped than their own.

Today, no foreign power, either from the Orient or from Europe, can enter Canada without encountering the armed forces of this Dominion.

CHURCH NOTICE

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST SCIENTIST

Montreal and Island Sts. Sunday School, 10 a.m. 11 a.m.—Morning Service. "Doctrine of Atonement."

Testimonial meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Reading room open daily from 3 to 5 except Saturday, Sunday and Holidays, at His Majesty's Building.

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist on Sunday, October 19th.

The Golden Text is from I Timothy 2: 5, 6. "There is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus; who gave himself a ransom for all, to be testified in due time."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins." (I John 4:10).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Was it just for Jesus to suffer? No; but it was inevitable, for not otherwise could he show us the way and the power of Truth. If a career so great and good as that of Jesus could not avert a felon's fate, lesser apostles of Truth may endure human brutality without murmuring, rejoicing to enter into fellowship with him through the triumphal arch of Truth and Love." Godbout Promises Continued Support Of Fat Stock Event

Premier of Quebec Speaks at Opening of 6th Annual Provincial Fat Stock Sale Yesterday at Exhibition Arena—All Price Records for Top-Ranking Animals Shattered—Contributions to British Ministry of Food, Red Cross and Queen's Canadian Fund.

The observation of Premier Adélard Godbout, of Quebec, that the quality of market cattle and lambs and bacon hogs has improved greatly in this section of the Dominion during the last few years, made as the Prime Minister opened the sixth annual Provincial Fat Stock Sale yesterday afternoon at the Arena, was borne out in a convincing manner as new records for the outstanding head were established in all three of the livestock divisions.

The Grand Champion and Reserve Champion steers, the Grand Champion and Reserve Champion lambs and the prize-winning pen of three bacon hogs sold for prices far higher than in previous years, and a high level of prices was maintained throughout the list of 394 head that were sold by Auctioneer Ray Demers, of Sherbrooke.

Premier Godbout promised the officials of the show and sale that his Government would continue to support the event as it had in former years, and expressed the opinion that "nowhere could the Government's money be better spent than in support of this show and sale," which he pointed out, has as its chief objective the encouragement of Eastern Canadian farmers to raise high-grade market animals with a view to placing this section of the country on a par with any other in Canada.

Entered by Clayton E. Sharnan, of Canterbury, the Grand Champion pany of Montreal for $1,124 cents a pound, as compared to eighty-five cents a pound for last year's Grand Champion, while the Reserve Champion steer, entered by George R. Mooney, of Inverness, drew sixty cents a pound, against the price of forty-two cents in last year's sale, and was also bought by the T. Eaton Company.

The grand champion wether lamb, also purchased by the T. Eaton Company, and owned by Howard Murray, of Georgeville, went to the T. Eaton Company for $1.75 a pound, with Swifts Canadian buying the reserve champion lamb, entered by Willard Pope, of Tatlet, for eighty-one cents a pound, compared to forty cents last year.

Canada Packers, Ltd., bought the first prize pen of three hogs, entered by F. G. Bennett, of Bury, for thirty-six cents a pound, as against last year's selling price of twenty-six and a half cents, and will turn the hogs over to the British Ministry of Food as a gift.

Proceeds from the purchase by Steinberg's Wholesale Groceries of the champion Hereford steer, exhibited by C. D. French, of Cookshire, are to be turned over to the Queen's Canadian Fund by Mr. French, while the Morantz Beef Company bought a choice steer for thirty-one cents a pound and re-auctioned it in aid of the Canadian Red Cross Society. Classon and Quebec Rayon Director Interviews Mayor Labrecque Regarding New Location.

Samuel Reinhard, of New York, director of the Classon Knitting Mills and the Quebec Rayon Mills, interviewed Mayor Joseph Labrecque yesterday in connection with the problem of finding larger premises for the two factories and it was agreed that no action would be taken for the next six months.

The companies recently advised the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce that unless larger premises could be obtained they would be forced to move from Sherbrooke and the problem was brought before the Council by officials of the Chamber.

Following yesterday's interview, Mr. Reinhard said that the companies had decided to withhold any action for six months and in the meantime the city and the Chamber of Commerce will continue their efforts to find a new location for the plants.

WILLIE DUSSAULT SAYS:

Have you noticed how hard it is lately to get a man to put on your double windows? The labour market is like that — presently tied up because everyone seems to want things done at the same time! Well — human nature is like that, isn't it?

Still I try to keep my staff mobile — ready to take on any odd job that crops up, be it big or small. I can call on carpenters, brick-layers, plumbers or any kind of building experts that may be needed in a hurry. Our organization of master craftsmen is in business to serve you; we can do the whole job and do it just a little better than you would expect to have it done! A telephone call is all it takes to start our organization working for you.

Revision Of Civic Employees' Salary To Meet High Cost Of Living Favored By Thibault

Finance Committee Chairman Does Not Approve of Granting Cost-of-Living Bonus—Petition by Employees Now Being Studied by Councillors but No Action Is Expected Until Next January.

Ald. Eugene Thibault, Chairman of the City's Finance Committee, is opposed to the granting of a cost of living bonus to city employees but believes there should be a general revision of the existing scale next January.

Ald. Thibault made the statement when queried about what action the city authorities planned to take on the demand made by the city employees who recently forwarded a petition to the Council asking for a cost of living bonus.

When the request was made by the employees, City Treasurer Maurice Cormier was instructed to write to Ottawa to find out whether or not the granting of the cost of living bonus was obligatory. The Ottawa officials replied that the cost of living bonus was obligatory only in certain war industries covered by the law but that the Government hoped other companies and municipalities would fall in line.

Ald. Thibault said that as far as he was concerned the matter would not be discussed at the present time but he felt that the higher cost of living should be taken into consideration when salaries were revised next January.

In the meantime, however, the city employees are undecided as to whether to press their claim before the Councillors or to leave the matter in abeyance until January.

If any changes are made in the salary scale they will be confined primarily to employees in the lower brackets.

Following the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed when the entertainers were Miss Thelma Crawford, tenor soloist, of Lennoxville, and Mrs. Arthur Earnshaw, pianist and accompanist.

Miss Crawford delighted her audience with several solos including "The Old Refrain," "Barefoot Trail" and "Lovely Little Lady," the latter being dedicated by the author to Queen Elizabeth.

Bert Perry, conjurer, mystified all by his magic tricks, convincing even the most skeptical that the hand is quicker than the eye.

Coffee and biscuits furnished by members of the executives were served and the meeting closed with God Save the King. The next monthly meeting will be held on November 19th.

KNOWLTON'S NEW CHURCH

Too much credit cannot be given to the Rev. Albert E. Rollitt, M.A., to the Anglican community of Knowlton and their friends and supporters upon the splendid success achieved in the re-building of their parish church upon the site of the former edifice which was totally destroyed by fire in January of this year.

The history of the Anglican community of Knowlton dates back to the year 1843. This was the year in which the first church of that denomination was erected within the limits of the present village. The first church, a modest wooden building which bore the name of Saint Paul, served the community until 1891, when it was demolished. The construction of the second church, another Saint Paul's, was then begun. This edifice, more modern than its predecessor and more adequate to the needs of the congregation, was opened on December 1st, 1892, serving as a place of worship for all who entered its portals until its destruction by fire on January 18th of this year.

The loss of the beloved church was a severe blow to minister and congregation, but they were not defeated. Steps were taken immediately for the construction of a third church. This church, like its predecessors, was also to bear the name of Saint Paul.

The task was not an easy one, but it was tackled with a determination and a unity of purpose which could not be defeated. Now the story has been told. The task has been completed. Success has been achieved. Knowlton's third Saint Paul's Church has been completed and is now ready to fulfil its purpose to the community and to serve as a place of worship, a house of prayer and a retreat for meditation for all who enter within its walls.

Lift the strain of high thanksgiving,
Tread with songs the hallowed way,
Praise our fathers' God for mercies
New to us their sons today.
Here they built for Him a dwelling,
Served Him here in ages past,
Fixed it for His sure possession,
Holy ground, while time shall last.

And so today with reverent solemnity, Bishop, clergy and laity will meet within the new church for the act of consecration. Such an occasion cannot but be a proud and happy one. Recalling the glories of the past, the people of Saint Paul's, Knowlton, have reason to feel envious of their record of service.

The congregation of today is but continuing the work so splendidly begun in 1843 and carried on by succeeding generations. To this record of service to God and man the congregation of Saint Paul's are contributing a new chapter.

May the future be bright and happy. May this third Saint Paul's live and grow and may the years which lie ahead prove fruitful in the great work of furthering the Kingdom of God on earth.

WINTER ROADS PROBLEM

The decision adopted unanimously by the Eastern Townships Associated Boards of Trade at their annual meeting at Cowansville to petition the Provincial Government to maintain the winter roads in the Eastern Townships will receive wide-spread support from all classes of the population.

The winter roads are actually the "life-line" of the Townships during the winter months and the Government at Quebec will be literally "cutting its own throat" if the roads are closed under the pretext of saving gasoline.

Hon. L. A. Giroux, M.L.C., proposed the motion which was unanimously adopted by the meeting and a copy will be sent to the officials of the Quebec Roads Department. Hon. Mr. Giroux said he had read reports that the winter roads would be closed in order to save gasoline to help the Government's war effort, but he felt that such a decision would defeat its own ends.

Mr. Giroux said that the many war industries situated in the Eastern Townships needed the roads for supplies which were essential if they were to continue operations during the winter months and he found support from the majority of the delegates to the meeting.

If the maintenance of war industries is dependent on winter roads then they should be kept open at all costs, but if their maintenance is influenced solely by the needs of pleasure-seekers, they should be closed. In any case, it is a question which the Government must decide and it is time the authorities at Quebec assumed this responsibility.

FAILURES AS LESSONS

By Grenville Kleiser

There are the failures in life—those who never seem able to do well at anything whatever. They make endless mistakes in business and in the simpler details of life; they "never have time" to read, to walk for pleasure, to listen to music, to cultivate their minds, to talk intelligently, to listen sympathetically, even to relax fully.

They weary their friends with their endless recitations of disasters, great and small, their incessant mourning over their unhappy lives; they irritate their acquaintances, disappoint their employers, exasperate their fellow-workers.

They never blame themselves for their misfortunes. They never learn anything from their repeated mishaps. They attribute all their failures to their "ill-luck." "I never have any luck." "Nothing I do ever turns out well." "I just don't seem able to succeed, however hard I try." "Luck's always been against me."

These, and other similar complaints, are their constant cry. It never seems to occur to them that it is not luck but character that is at fault. They are incapable of learning from experience, of taking a new view, of seeing themselves clearly. No one who understands himself aright is a failure. It is by attempting things beyond one's powers, by giving false values to things and to people, by weakness of will and lack of proportion, that people fail.

We all fail sometimes; we would not be human if we didn't; but failures should be lessons.

A failure is never a total failure if we learn from it and turn its lesson to future account; it is only complete if we look at it despairingly, are unable to see why it happened, attribute it to "bad luck."

If the unhappy failures in life could only see this, they need not continue in their disconsolate misery. If they study their mistakes, learn to see clearly not only what went wrong, but why—they have taken the first step to success. The man who says gloomily that no one likes him, that he hasn't a friend in the world, has only to exercise his imagination to find out why it is that he should be so unpopular.

The invalid who moans, "I'll never be any better—I know I'm a nuisance to everybody—" and makes no effort to make the best of his mind, his enforced leisure, to be a cheery and sympathetic friend to others, is a failure, not because his health is bad, but because he is deliberately hampering his own possibilities of usefulness.

No one need be useless; no one should be useless. A helpless cripple may make a finer success of his life than the most vigorous athlete if he will only look at life straight—"see life steadily and see it whole."

Arthur Dorman and his young son, living near Bury, had a narrow escape from death, when their house caught fire about 4.30 a.m. and was completely destroyed.

One of the major problems expected to be tackled during the coming session of Parliament is the reorganization of the Canadian Defence system as proposed by Militia Minister Sam Hughes.

Among those making addresses at the formal dedication of the new parish hall for St. Anne's Church at Richmond were Rev. P. Roy, George Pye, W. Adecock and C. Fraser.

Considerable concern was felt in the Granby district as the result of huge fires raging in the timberland areas near there and in the vicinity of Fulford.

SHADOW AND BIRD

There on the golden-green sweep of hill
Beyond pear-blossom white and apple bloom
A shadow of cloud lay blue and still,
As blue and deep as thunder gloom.

And suddenly as I watched, a swallow
With wings exactly that shade of blue
From out of the barn and his nesting hollow
Sailed up into sunlight as fresh and new
As winds that blow between storm and light,
As welcome to hungry hearts as hope
That out of the winter cold takes flight.

The Companion Of St. Paul

Prof. the Rev. H. C. Burt, Lennoxville.

Isaiah LII, 7: "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings."

One charm about biography is its exhibition of great men's inner lives. It shows us the human heart behind the scenes of public life and genius. And this, surely, is the special charm of the Gospel. This is the power of Christianity. We are not like the followers of Buddha who contemplate a hidden Deity shrouded in metaphysical mysticism. God, for us, is not merely a transcendent "idea," but a "Life" presenting to man in concrete form the fullness of the Divine attributes. When one has seen Niagara one gets a new thought of power and grandeur; when one has come to know the Man of Nazareth he has a new thought of greatness and goodness; he can see "the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ."

Pre-eminent among those whose mission it was to make known to mankind this life of the Son of Man was that most excellent of biographers, St. Luke—poet, painter, physician, evangelist, author of the "Acts of the Apostles." Today the Church throughout the world commemorates the life and labors of this highly gifted man.

There seems to be something out of the ordinary in St. Luke's day; it occurs at a time when summer pays its last and most welcome visit, and favors us with a parting smile; in the Saint's own character there is something which speaks of healing of body and of mind—like the Good Samaritan, whose deed of kindness is recorded only in the third Gospel. This Gospel is a veritable treasure-house of consolation in both parable and precept; it is also the source of the earliest hymns—like the "Magnificat" and "Nunc Dimittis."

Of the personal history of this Saint we know but little. He is mentioned by name only three times, and only in the epistles of St. Paul. In the letter to the Colossians he is termed "The beloved physician"; in the second epistle to Timothy, the Great Apostle, writing from Rome, reports: "Only Luke is with me"; and in the letter to Philemon Paul says "send me Onesimus and Lucas, my fellow-laborers."

The name Lucas is an abbreviated form of Lucanus, apparently of Gentile extraction; if so, he is the only non-Jewish writer who took part in the composition of any of the books of Holy Scripture. Eusebius assigns to Syria Antioch the distinction of being his birthplace. From his intimate acquaintance with Jewish customs Luke would seem to have been at least an inquirer, if not an actual proselyte, before he was converted to Christianity.

It is interesting to trace Luke's connection with the labors and journeys of St. Paul. He appears first in association with the apostle at Troas, for the most natural interpretation of the sudden use of the pronoun "we" is that the author of the Acts is actually sharing in the history he records. His journeys with Paul as far as Philippi where he seems to have remained, as he takes no further part in the second missionary journey, and only resumes companionship with the apostle when the latter returns to that city; and they journey together through Miletus, Tyre, and Caesarea to Jerusalem, where the future Evangelist would have numerous opportunities of personal intercourse with many of the first witnesses of the life and death and resurrection of Christ.

During the Apostle's two years' imprisonment in Caesarea, Luke probably remained in Palestine, for he accompanied St. Paul on his last journey to prison and to death in Rome—a journey interrupted by shipwreck on the island of Malta. In the dungeon the beloved physician ministered to the aged apostle's necessities, and remained with him to the last!

Further information regarding St. Luke comes from obscure sources—and not too dependable. Epiphanius says that he preached the Gospel in Dalmatia, Gaul, Italy, and Macedonia. Nicephorus tells how, while ministering in Greece, he was condemned to death by the unbelievers without even the form of a trial, and was hanged upon an olive tree, at the age of four-score years! These traditions, however, are of slight value.

St. Paul, doubtless having in mind those whom it had been his privilege, as he neared his own journey's end, to send forth into the world to preach the Gospel—men like Timothy, and Titus, and Philemon, and Luke—applies the fulfillment of the text from Isaiah, for he says: "How shall they preach except they be sent, as it is written, 'How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the Gospel of peace!'"

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenney, America's Card Authority

WHY TAKE FINESSE RISK? "THROW-IN" PLAY IN SURE GAME

Today's hand is from a recent book on contract, "Standardized Contract Bridge Complete," by Dudley Courtenay. The book discusses play as well as bidding, and this hand is a neat example of an elementary throw-in play. I have supplied the bidding to reach the stipulated contract of five diamonds.

Two rounds of hearts are led. South ruffing the second. Two rounds of trumps are taken, then three rounds of spades. When the spades do not break, the question arises whether declarer should risk the club finesse, knowing that West probably has the king for his negative double.

But this risk need not be taken. A sure-fire throw-in lies in the cards. The fourth spade is led, South discards the three of clubs and West is stuck in. He must return a club into the major tenace or else give declarer a ruff and discard.

The hand would be better if East beautiful are the feet of them that preach the Gospel of peace!"

And surely in no part of Holy Writ are these words more truly fulfilled than in the Gospel according to St. Luke, which so emphatically declares peace to the penitent soul. St. John speaks of love, and St. Matthew of power, but St. Luke of healing and consolation and peace.

Such then is St. Luke's gospel and mission of good tidings; and how many in all the ages since he wrote his beautiful story of Him Who came not to call the righteous but sinners to repentance, have found solace and strength to fight the good fight of faith, and lay hold on eternal life, from inspiration derived from what St. Luke alone recorded of the Prodigal Son; of the woman that was a sinner; of the Penitent Thief; of the Lost Sheep; of the Publican in the Temple; of the Good Samaritan; yes, how many, from that day to this, in thinking and praying over these things have found Peace.

And this Peace "passeth all understanding," it transcends pain and sorrow, battle, murder, and sudden death; it survives even the crash of kingdoms and of empires. "Therefore we will not fear though the earth be shaken, and though the hills be carried into the midst of the sea."

The Lord of Hosts is with us;

The God of Jacob is our refuge."

HAVE A SMILE

The soldier had been out on a spree, and to finish with he hired a taxi. Unfortunately, when the taxi came to a stop, he found that he hadn't a cent left, and he explained to the driver, "That's the position, old man, and you can't get blood out of a stone," he added, cheerfully, "No," agreed the 6 foot 4 inch taxi-driver, rolling up his sleeves ominously, "but what makes you think you're a stone?"

The mighty engines of the liner thrashed ceaselessly. The chief engineer wiped a perspiring forehead as he scowled at the pale-faced young man with the oil can. "Look here," he growled, "you aren't helping me much with these engines, yet I understood you knew something about the game."

"So I do," stammered the other, "but on a smaller scale, you know."

"What's your usual job?"

"Watch repairing."

John was the son of parents who were sufficiently popular to receive more invitations than they could conveniently accept. In the course of a general knowledge lesson, the master said, "Any boy tell me the meaning of the letters R.S.V.P.?"

John's hand shot up. "Well?" said the teacher. "It means," explained John, "Rush in, Shake hands, and Vanish Pleasantly."

The club bore was boasting of his family's patriotism. "I'm joining the R.A.F. next week," he stated. "My father fought in the last war and my grandfather fought in the Boer war. My great-grandfather, I've been told, fought in the Zulu war."

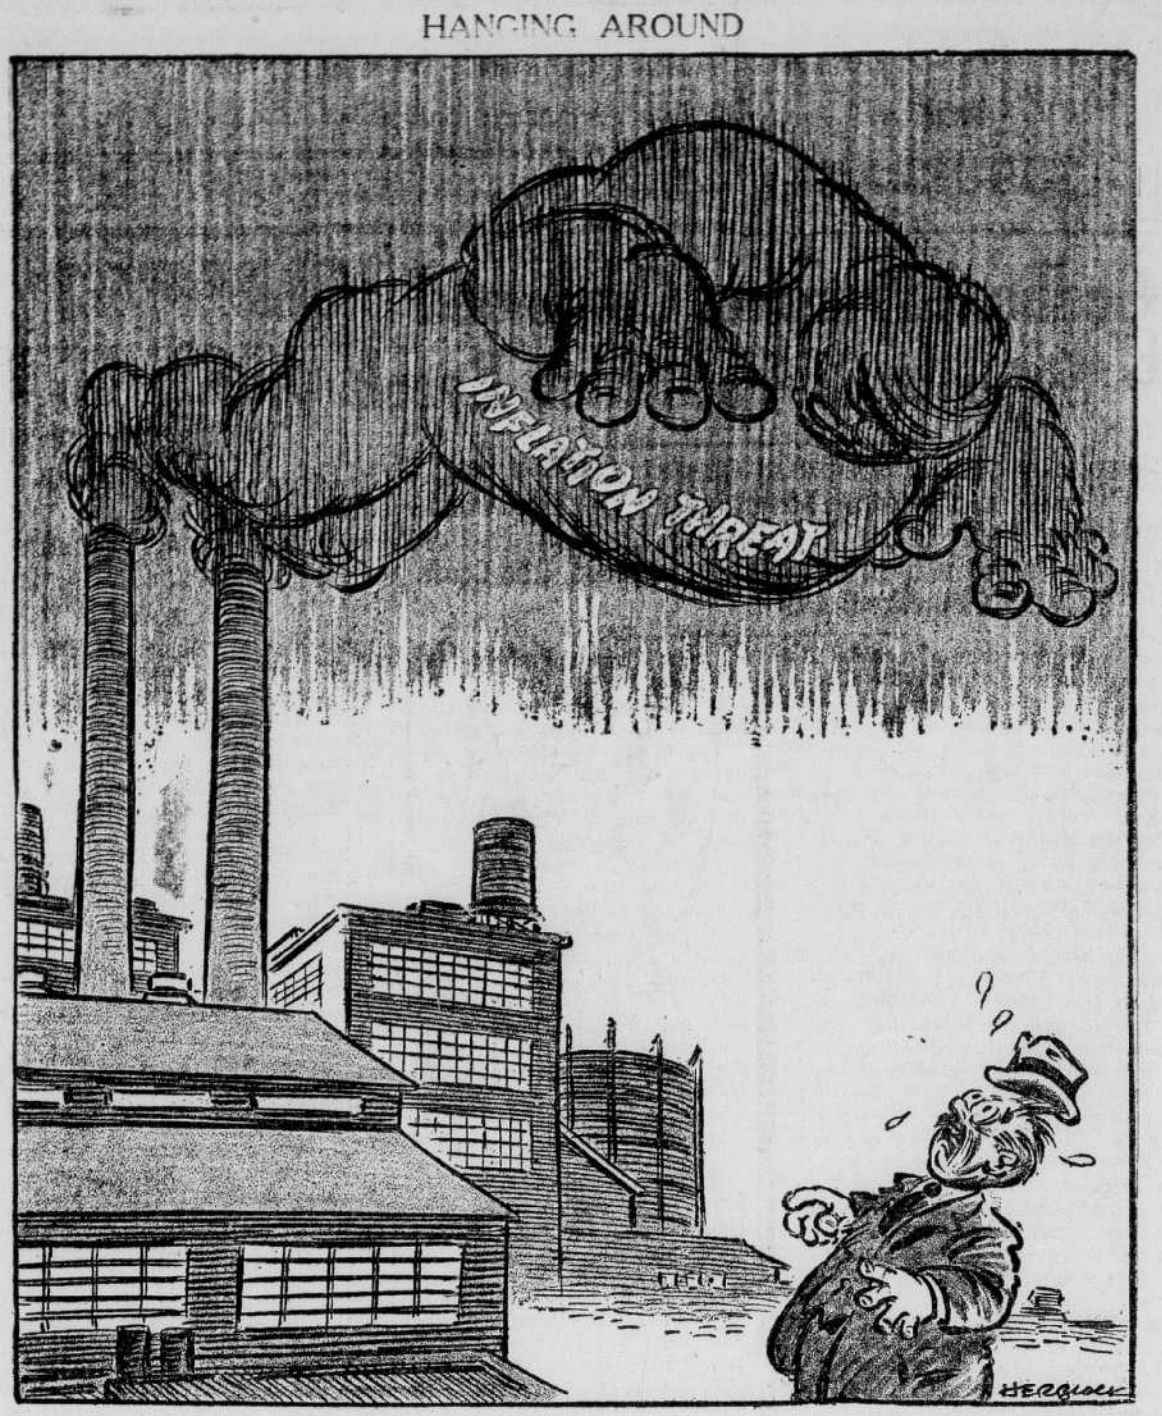

"Really," drawled a thoroughly bored listener. "On which side?"

Following upon Mr. King's speeches in London it is permitted to believe that if the Government deems it necessary to call upon the nation they will not exceed reasonable limits. The principle of Canadian contribution to the war has not changed. For the defence of Canada there is nothing that her people and free citizens are not ready to undertake. For material aid to Britain Canadians again do more than they were believed capable of assuming in 1939. For military service Overseas enrolment will remain free and voluntary. Have confidence in the proved wisdom of our leaders. They will demand nothing of Canadians that is beyond their productive capacity or their capacity for recuperation.

PRESS COMMENTS

AN "IMPOSTOR WORD"

Washington Post

Public opinion has changed sufficiently, indeed, to make the word neutrality an impostor word. We have never been neutral in thought toward the "crime without a name" which is Hitlerism. Now the American people, with the common sense which Theodore Roosevelt used to say should be the president's reliance, see it as a menace, too. And the recognition that Hitlerism is a menace to our continental security is written in all our activities.

We have had to turn our nation into an armed camp. In elementary self-interest we are pursuing a policy of succoring all those brave peoples who are holding Hitlerism at bay. And we have decided that prudence calls upon us to shoot in the same language with the British and clear the seas of the submarines and surface raiders which are intent upon extending Hitler's domination over the wide Atlantic. Yet the Neutrality Act has been allowed to remain on the statute books like a New Year resolution which has lost all reality except as a nostalgic reminder of idle castle building.

VICTORY WITH STERN JUSTICE

St. Catharines Standard

"A peace of victory but not of vengeance," says Prime Minister King. If he means by that, that Germans as Germans are to escape the misery they have put on millions of others, then the slogan is not good enough. Immunity of Germans and their territory from the rigors of war and devastation will only prime them to plan another war within a decade or two.

DEMOCRACY AT THE CROSS-ROADS

Edward Benes in The Nineteenth Century, London

"Democracy is at war with the totalitarianism of the Nazis and the Fascists. But for the past twenty years it has been in conflict also with the totalitarianism of the Communists. Democracy, if it is to escape the totalitarian danger of the Left as well as the Nazi and Fascist poison of the Right, must deal resolutely with its own social and economic problems. The destruction of Fascism and Nazism, so essential for the survival and salvation of Democracy, will create such grave disturbances that Democracy, if it wishes to prevent social upheavals and Communist revolutions from below, must have the courage to initiate and complete vitally important changes in social and economic structure. By this means alone real statehood, as in the past, will avoid social dangers and upheavals. To use a well considered slogan, political democracy must be completed by economic and social democracy."

BARBARIANS AT WORK

Saint John Telegraph Journal

In all occupied territory the Gestapo has been busy destroying books. Last summer they started raiding the bookshops, newsstands and libraries of Paris. They are still at it. Alsace and Lorraine have had to endure book "purges." So have the Netherlands, and this extends particularly to school text-books. Books have been confiscated wholesale. All reading matter objectionable from the Nazi standpoint has been forced out of circulation. This includes not only those concerning Nazism in particular and totalitarian government in general, but also those expressing views and dealings with subjects Nazi police do not want aired for the time being, such as those about the Russo-Finnish war.

THE MOUNTAINEER'S RETURN

It is dark of night and I am alone,
There's wind in the trees and rain on the roof.
The logs on the fire make a flickering light,
The lake rolls the shore to an edging of foam.
But listen a minute there's the pound of hoof!
A stout horse is running, running home tonight.

Stir the fire to cast the shadows away
And draw the door bolt with a clash of the steel.
The wanderer comes from the hedgeways and fern.
I'm glad and happy I'm no longer alone,
The candles are lighted for the evening meal.
My spirits are singing, singing your return.

IN THE WOMEN'S SPHERE

W.I. CONSIDERS EDUCATION AT AYER'S CLIFF

Article Entitled "The Status of Educational Privileges of Urban Children in Canada" Read at Meeting.

Ayer's Cliff, Oct. 18.—Mrs. A. F. Emberley and Mrs. H. P. Stone entertained the members of the Women's Institute at the home of Mrs. Emberley on Pleasant Street, when ten members and four visitors were present.

The President, Mrs. E. E. Crook, presided. A sum of money was donated to the Public Library and a report was given of the School Fair. Mrs. J. E. Bayley gave an interesting article on "The Status of Educational Privileges of Urban Children in Canada," which stressed the importance of higher salaries for teachers. Some received as low a salary as three hundred and fifty dollars, and of course with that it was impossible to attract efficient teachers. Mrs. Bayley brought to light many things that were of vital interest to the ladies.

Tea was served by the hostesses, with Mrs. Crook pouring tea, and a most enjoyable social hour was spent with Mrs. Emberley and Mrs. Stone.

BRIDE-TO-BE FETED
Miss Emma Goode, a bride-of-the-week, was given a surprise miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Alfred Goode. After the guests had assembled Mr. Grant McKinnon, who was a guest at the home of the hostess, called for the bride-elect to spend the evening with them, and to her surprise she found about twenty-five of her friends had arrived to spend the evening also.

The honor chair was decorated with pink and white bows and gladioli. Miss Goode was assisted in unwrapping her many pretty gifts by Mrs. Charles Brewer. They were much admired by all.

A very jolly evening was spent and refreshments were served by Mrs. Cooke, assisted by the Misses A. and M. Besette. The bride's cake, made and beautifully decorated in pink and white by the hostess, was the center of attraction.

Miss Goode thanked each and every one, and invited all to visit her in her new home in the near future.

SHIRTWAIST MODE HAS "V" NECKLINE

MARIAN MARTIN
Pattern 9767

Fashion turns to it again and again—the one-button "V" neckline, because it is so flattering and so feminine. Marian Martin makes it the chief feature of this smart shirtwaist mode—Pattern 9767.

The clever collar can be made of contrasting fabric for extra zest. Note how the fullness from the shoulder yokes (cut in-one with the back) and the darts at the waist create a soft bosom line. The set-in belt, too, gives you that made-to-order fitted look. The patterned skirt is easy to make; the whole dress is done in a few hours with the Sew Chart to guide you! Order it now as your new-season shirtwaist frock, and make the sleeves long or short instead of the three-quarter length.

Pattern 9767 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42. Size 16 requires 4 yards 39 inch.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address and style number.

Send your order to Sherbrooke Daily Record, Pattern Department, Sherbrooke, Quebec.

Lovelace as the officiating clergyman.

The church was decorated with autumn leaves, flowers, evergreens and lighted candles, the guest pews being marked with white satin bows.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her elder brother, Mr. William Rollins, of Beebe, to the strains of the bridal march played by Miss Hazel Wilson, church organist.

The bride wore a dusky rose crepe jacket dress, with navy trimming and accessories to match. She carried deep rose carnations.

New St. Paul's Church Rises From Ashes Of Old

New Church At Knowlton To Be Consecrated Today

Rt. Rev. Arthur Carlisle, Lord Bishop of Montreal, to Officiate at Ceremony at Knowlton this Afternoon—Church One of Most Picturesque and Modern Buildings in Eastern Townships.

To the Anglican community of Knowlton has fallen the responsibility of providing three different churches during the past one hundred years. Each church has borne the name of Saint Paul. Each has ably served the community during the course of its career.

The first church, a modest wooden structure, but imposing for its time, was built in 1843 and demolished in 1891. The second edifice, opened on December 1, 1892 was a modern building which ably served the needs of the congregation until it was razed by fire on January 18, 1941.

And now the third Saint Paul's Church stands ready for its consecration, which is taking place this afternoon, the Right Reverend Arthur Carlisle, B.A., D.D., D.C.L., LL.D., Bishop of Montreal, officiating.

The Anglican community of Knowlton now has one of the most picturesque and modern church buildings in the Eastern Townships. Attractive in its outward appearance, the interior of the building leaves nothing to be desired. The beautiful stained glass windows, the majority of them memorials, were rescued from the old church. The church proper presents a most peaceful atmosphere while the furnishings are all in perfect keeping with the general appearance. There is truly a reverent atmosphere permeating the house of prayer.

There can be no doubt as to the ability of the church to serve the congregational and social needs. A large church hall with an adjoining church parlor is located in the basement. Here also is to be found a thoroughly modern kitchen which cannot but induce the ladies of the congregation to use it to full advantage. The Rector's office, vestry and the rooms reserved for the use of the choir members are all thoroughly equipped and conveniently located.

The rebuilding of the church has proved a labor of love for the members of the congregation, and their efforts have been crowned with outstanding success.

The third Saint Paul's of Knowlton bears testimony to the determination of a people and to their desire to have within their midst a place of worship which shall in every way meet the needs of the community. This aim has been achieved.

Today, with the consecration of the church, the congregation begins a new chapter. A new future lies ahead. A new church stands ready to fulfill its purpose and to serve as the spiritual and social centre for those who are proud to form part of a church which can boast of such a successful record as can historic Saint Paul's of Knowlton.

Congratulations!

LORD BISHOP

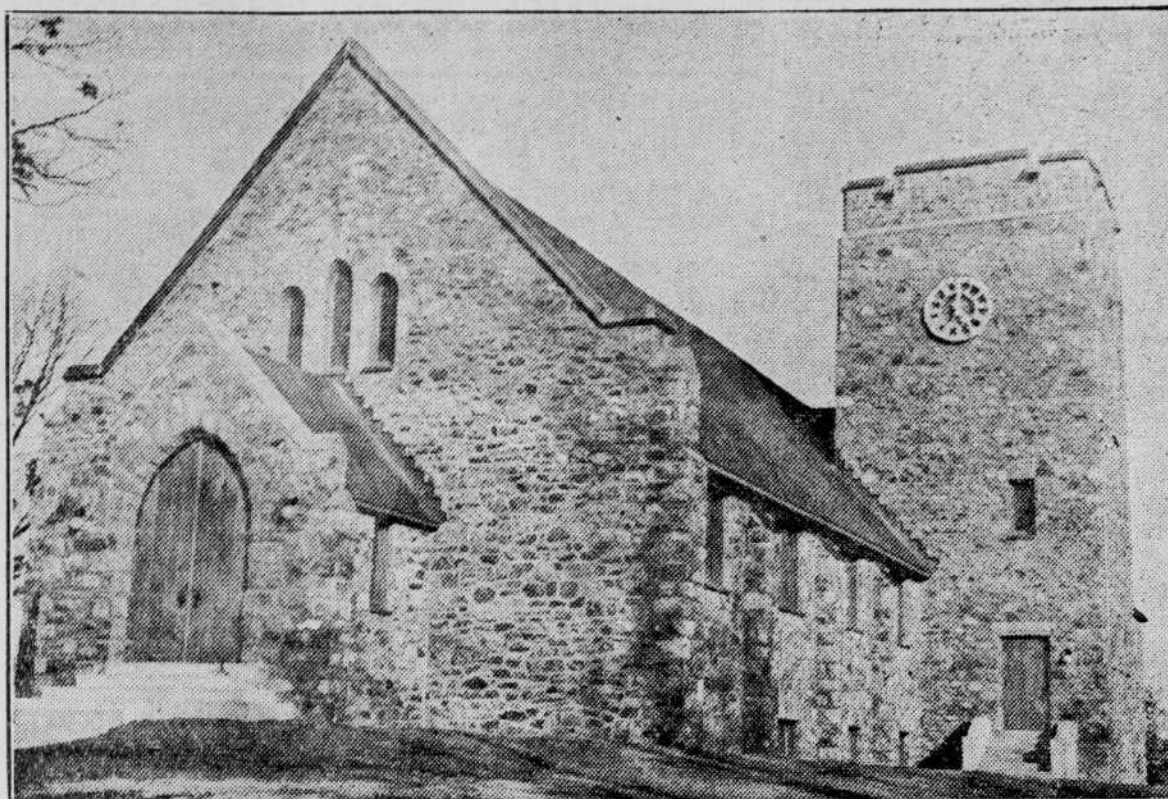

His Lordship the Right Rev. Arthur Carlisle, Lord Bishop of Montreal, who will dedicate Saint Paul's Church at Knowlton tomorrow.

RECTOR

REV. ALBERT E. ROLLIT, M.A., Rector of St. Paul's Church, Knowlton.

Knowlton's New Saint Paul's

A SALUTE TO SAINT PAUL'S CHURCH, KNOWLTON, By REV. B. S. MURRAY.

Today, Saturday, October 18th, 1941, a new chapter will be written in the religious life of Knowlton when the Lord Bishop of Montreal, the Right Rev. Arthur Carlisle, will dedicate the recently rebuilt Saint Paul's Church — the third church dedicated to Saint Paul.

For some time now our eyes have been focussed upon St. Paul's Cathedral, London, England, with the Cross of Christ atop its dome. That Cross, at the heart of the Empire, still speaks of the centrality, universality and invincibility of Christ. The lengthening shadow of St. Paul's falls today across the sea on the little stone church in the Bolton Valley named St. Paul. Because of its strategic position in a charming summer resort this little church also radiates a far-flung influence.

In the summertime many from Canada and the United States, who come to Knowlton for their annual vacation, wend their way to this church where the shadow of the Rock of Ages cools, shelters and renews them. To its font parents bring their children; at its altar lovers pledge their eternal vows; at the end of the day many are brought back for the final service. For ninety-eight years St. Paul's Church has been functioning. Upon a knoll overlooking the valley it stands like a sentinel on guard, and again from the steeple rings the old familiar bell.

St. Luke's Day, October 18th — the day for the blessing and "launching of this new ship." The members of St. Paul's Church, Knowlton, have been instrumental in building this new ship, designed by Christie L. Douglas, to replace the second St. Paul's which, after forty-nine years of distinguished service was destroyed by fire on January 18th, 1941. Bishop Carlisle will preside at the launching. In this diocese, the Lord Bishop of Montreal is proving a captain, beloved, deeply spiritual and a leader who is not only maintaining the great traditions of his illustrious predecessors, but is strengthening them. Co-operating with their bishop, under the guidance of their rector, Rev. Albert E. Rollit, M.A., the members of St. Paul's Church, Knowlton, will, at home and abroad, throw out the life-line across the dark, forbidding, bewildering seas of 1941—daring to share all perils with others in an effort to bring them into the Ark of Christ's Church, to the Pilot Who has life's chart and compass.

Voices of yesterday and today urge: "Launch out into the deep." I hear, as from yonder cemetery overlooking Brome Lake, the voices of those I knew and admired — Senator George Greene Foster, John Fay, Luther Pibus and Elson Irving Rexford, priest, educationalist, and Christian gentleman who yet speak and say: "Take up the torch. Carry on! Launch out into the deep."

Again I hear the voice of Mrs. Samuel W. Foster blend with that of Mrs. MacGowan and Mrs. Hiram Foster, together with the voices of many others bidding us to recapture faith, hope and love and express them in Christian service. This is the spirit of St. Paul's! Then and now! Wherefore seeing that we are compassed about by so great a cloud of witnesses, let us launch out, worthy of our great inheritance, determined to be creditors of the future even as we are debtors of the past.

Challenged to witness in word and deed; to win people by radiant living; to welcome all in the fellowship of Christ's Church; to work and give of their time, strength and funds gladly to the Cause and wait in Paul's which, after forty-nine years of distinguished service was destroyed by fire on January 18th, 1941. Knowlton, will sail on. Nothing, nobody will impede their spiritual progress. They will not fear to breast the uncharted sea. God is their Pilot! On they sail! Bon Voyage!

Prices Of Eggs Jumped From Two To Five Cents On Mart

Trading was quiet on the Lansdowne Market yesterday and a notable scarcity of medium and large eggs was registered with prices up from two to five cents. Formerly selling for forty-five cents, grade A-large were fifty cents and forty-eight cents for grade A-medium. Also jumped five cents to forty-eight cents. Pullets' eggs ranged in price from thirty for small to thirty-eight for large. This was an increase of two cents. With production of large and medium eggs low at this time of the year it is becoming increasingly difficult to meet the demand, but it is expected that shortly the pullets' eggs will be large enough to be categorized in the medium class and thus replenish the market.

No price changes were noted in the fruit and vegetable sections and vendors said that there was a lull in trading which is to be expected at this time of the season.

In the provision market the vendors were well stocked and the cooler weather kept the meat fresh. However, here, too, vendors expressed pessimism with the trade.

Sutton's First Commissioned Officer Is Honored

PILOT OFFICER HERSCHEL E. ASELTINE

The Sutton Baptist Young People's Union did honor to one of their most active members when, at their regular meeting held at the home of their Councilor, Miss Hazel E. R. Bates, Pilot Officer Herschel E. Aseltine was extended congratulations and best wishes and presented with gifts.

The President, Miss Violet Champion, presided and after a short programme of music and readings, Mr. Lloyd Hawley on behalf of the B.Y.P.U. of Sutton High School, and representatives of Sutton and Abercorn Knitting Club, as well as other friends, expressed in a few words, the affection and esteem in which Mr. Aseltine is held, and presented him with a camera and pen and pencil set. P/O Aseltine thanked the donors and, quoting Tennyson's "I am a part of all that I have met," stated that he owed his success in large part to his Sutton friends, who had helped to make him what he was. Refreshments were served by the B.Y.P.U.

P/O H. E. Aseltine, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Aseltine, graduated from Sutton High School, in 1931, and joined the R.C.A.F. on October 10, 1940. After training at Toronto, Trenton, where he spent some time on guard duty, St. Eugene, Ont., and Moncton, N.B., he received his wings late in June, becoming Sergeant Pilot. He was granted his commission on July 4, 1941, and has since been studying at No. 31 Reconnaissance School of the R.A.F. at Charlottetown, P.E.I., where he successfully finished a course in Navigation early this month, leading his class. He will take further training in Operational Air Activities at the Advanced R.A.F. School, Debert, N.S., where the good wishes and interest of many friends in Sutton and other places will follow him. Pilot Officer Aseltine is the first Sutton man to be given a commission in the present war.

ATTRACTIONS AT THE LOCAL THEATRES

At The Granada

From the great score of Johann Strauss' music comes "The Great Waltz," which begins tomorrow at the Granada Theatre as the principal attraction.

"The Blue Danube" was unanimously chosen by all concerned with the picture as Strauss' best-known work. From then on various favorites were suggested. A poll was taken in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer music department and its results submitted to Bernard Hyman, producer of the picture.

The musical score as it stands in the picture is the consensus of studio opinion of the cream of Strauss' music. The numbers are: "Artists' Life," played by the M-G-M grand orchestra conducted by Dr. Arthur Guttman; "At the Monastery," with mixed chorus and organ accompaniment; "Revolutionary March" with military band and mixed chorus; "One Day When We Were Young," sung by Miss Korjus and Fernand Gravel; "You and You," by Miss Korjus, principals and mixed chorus; "I'm in Love with Vienna," by principals and mixed chorus; "Tales of the Vienna Woods," sung by Miss Korjus with solo violin and full orchestral accompaniment; and "There'll Come a Time," sung by Miss Korjus, with piano music from Strauss' "Methusalem."

The other picture is "The Cowboy and the Blonde," featuring Mary Beth Hughes and George Montgomery. It is the unusual story of a handsome blonde buster and a beautiful blonde movie star, who can't (or won't) control her temper. In the midst of another of her tantrums, the blonde—Mary Hughes in her finest portrayal—spies the six-foot, 190-pound cow-puncher and immediately quiets down. Producers, directors—and even her "angel"—are mystified. The cowboy is unconcerned, but she's out to get him—and succeeds.

At The Premier

One of the sensational shockers to come out of Hollywood, "The Devil Commands," starring Boris Karloff, begins at the New Premier Theatre tomorrow.

The story assumes its most spine-chilling moments when Karloff accidentally kills a woman spiritualist with whom he has been working. Desperately eager to immediately resume his experiments, the mad scientist seizes his own daughter and straps her into the machine. He has just turned the current on when the people of the town, who have become enraged at Karloff's crimes in the name of science, begin storming the house. In a blood-curdling climax, Karloff turns on the full power of the machine for the first time in a desperate effort at success before the mob crashes into his laboratory!

Director Edward Langtry, handled the megaphone on the production and advance reports credit him with having turned in a fine job, maintaining suspense throughout the entire film. The William Sloane story was adapted to the screen by script writers, Robert D. Andrews and Milton S. Eisenhower. In addition to Karloff, Fiske and Miss Duff, other prominent members of the cast include Anne Revere and Ralph Penney.

The other picture is "In Old Cheyenne," which again brings Roy Rogers before the public. In this he plays the part of an energetic, affable reporter whose assignment to uncover and report upon the odious activities of a band of cattle thieves lands him in difficulties.

Repub's writers have done well with a plot that is always popular with the public. To the last foot it is packed with suspense, hilarity, tureful music, melodic lyrics, lots of action and an abundance of gunfire. Trigger, Roy Rogers' ever-present horse, does almost human feats, and instances, saves Roy and his buddies from some critical situations. There are hair-raising escapades between the heavies and Roy in ravines, on cliffs, in holocausts, during holdups—at banquets and on trains.

Fred's Housekeeping

I WISH I had a house of my own!" exclaimed Fred, as for the sixtieth time (more or less), his mother reminded him to tidy his shoes before walking on the fine rugs. "You just ought to see how I'd do! I'd never keep a thing clean and I'd never have anything to eat except what folks WANTED to eat and—"

"Whether it was good for 'em or not?" questioned Jack, Fred's younger brother, breathlessly. Jack had a great admiration for his bigger brother and he thought no one could plan such brave deeds or think up such wonderful plans.

"Whether it was good for them or not," repeated Fred firmly. "It's all foolishness about carrots and oatmeal. When you live in my house you don't have to eat such things, Jack. You can have crack-erjacks and jam every meal."

"Well, I wish you would hurry up and get your house, Fred," cried Jack, and Fred laughed good naturedly—he was old enough to know that such talk was mere talk and he didn't give another thought to what he had said.

But Jack took it all very seriously. If Fred could have things so very nice and comfortable, food folks liked and no shoes to clean or chores to do, what a pity not to begin that charming existence at once!

And that very night at the dinner table the idea, big and full grown in a minute, popped into little Jack's head.

"Miss Perkins is going away tomorrow," remarked the children's mother as she laded the whipped cream over the baked apples and passed them around the table.

"Seems a shame to shut up that lovely house for three whole months. Fred, you must remember to keep a watch out and if you see anyone around the place, tell me. I promised her I'd help keep an eye on things for her."

But Jack put his thinking cap on and made a plan. Such a beautiful house! Such a cupboard full of jam (hadn't he been there and feasted liberally on many occasions?). Could one find a more ideal place to go to housekeeping?

A great big yard with plenty of bushes to make privacy and a long hall with beautifully shining floors for sliding.

In the twinkling of an eye his plans were made. He wouldn't say a word to anybody until the house was his. Then he would take Fred to the place and tell him of the wonderful fun.

It would be hard to say just why Jack didn't tell his mother and ask Miss Perkins for the keys. He was so sure his plan was a good one and yet something seemed at the same time, to tell him that grown home from his neighbor's big yard, he crept up toward the house.

Just how to get into the house was something Jack hadn't thought about; in his plans he had always imagined the door was wide open. But this door was locked tight shut and, if the truth must be told, didn't look the least inviting.

"Why she didn't leave it open for me," he said to himself. "Now,

Fred Sang A Song About A Bold, Bad Pirate

Folks wouldn't understand—grown folks are queer sometimes, you know; at least that is what some folks think.

So he went to bed without saying a word to a soul about his plan; he dreamed all night of the fun they would have and he wakened early, his head full of bright ideas about the new scheme.

He waited fully fifteen minutes after he heard the sound of the automobile taking Miss Perkins to the station, then slipping through the hedge that separated his own isn't that funny. And I know she'd like to have me come in—she always does. I guess if she didn't leave it open she must have forgotten—and she'll be sorry for that. She won't mind if I break a glass—just a little bit of glass—and then I can get in."

Now Jack wasn't a bad boy, as you are thinking by now perhaps he was. Of course, he never liked to eat oatmeal or wash behind his ears or things like that. But lots of folks don't like to do some of the things they really have to do and still do them and are very nice after all. And it is sure that Jack never, never, never in the wide world ever thought of breaking into a house with a brick.

The trouble was that he had thought so hard about keeping house alone and he hadn't talked about it with anybody not even his mother; till he got all twisted up in his mind and thought he ought to do the very single thing that he ought not to do. It's risky that way, when a person doesn't talk to his mother about things.

So he broke into the house just that easy and took possession. Somehow the big long halls seemed fearfully lonesome, and Jack decided that he would get Fred at once instead of having a day's fun all by himself. So, since it was vacation and Fred was at home every morning, he slipped out of the back door, which was easy enough to open from the inside, and back through the hedge to get his brother.

"You've got into Miss Perkins' house!" exclaimed Fred in utter amazement when Jack whispered the invitation. "Why, Jack! Don't you know you'll get put in jail if you go into another person's house?"

"Well," said Jack, practically, "you know we won't risk now and anyway, you come and see what fun it is."

Now Fred hadn't any more idea of doing anything wrong than what he had; but he made the mistake of listening to what Jack said when he was certain sure that what his brother was saying was all wrong. And that means trouble every time.

"Mother told me to keep an eye on things over there," he said half to himself, "so I guess it won't do any harm if I go along with you and see if everything is all right."

So slipping back through the hedge with his little brother, Fred went over to the broken-in house. It was fun—at least a little fun—to slide down the long polished banisters that Miss Perkins would never let them touch; and it was fun—a great deal of fun—to go into the lovely big jam closet and sniff at all the luscious looking jars and glasses and try to decide which one to open. The boys had a feast that day and went home making eager plans for more fun they were to have. The next day baby sister Ann and Pete followed them through the hedge and to the back porch of Miss Perkins house before they saw them.

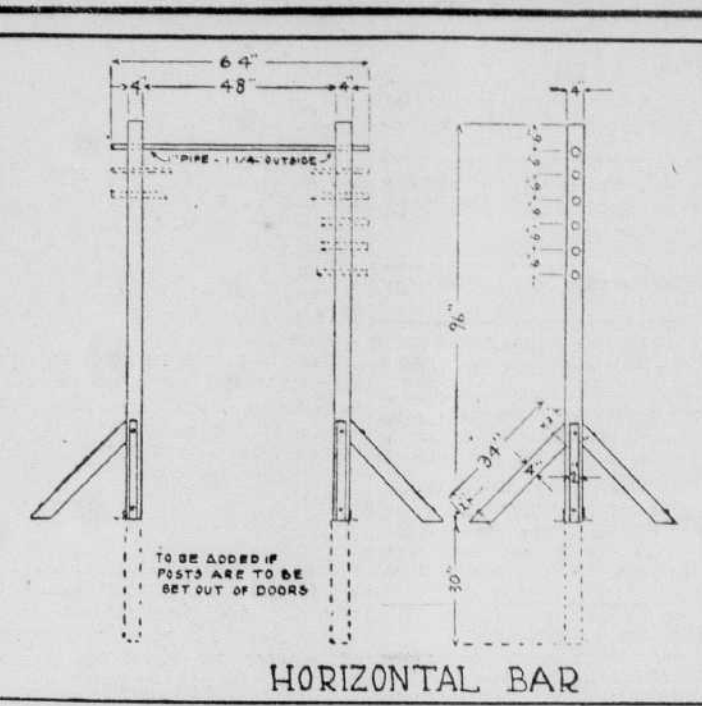

"You go back home, Ann," said Fred firmly, "I'm just a seeing if everything is all right here."

"Aw, let her stay," said generous little Jack. "She won't tell and she loves jam too." So Ann stayed and had a part of the feast.

HORIZONTAL BAR

THIS piece of gym equipment is suitable for adults but if desired the bar may be lowered and made suitable for youngsters of any height or age. The sketch anticipated a horizontal bar that will be set upon the floor of a gymnasium. Hold the base of the posts with stout angle iron but for rigidity we must depend upon braces as shown. The posts may be of any wood but the corners should be carefully rounded to reduce danger from splinters. If desired the posts may be set more than four feet apart.

Make the bar of iron pipe or of hickory; if made of hickory it should be a little larger to make it stiffer but in no case should it be larger than the hands can grasp with comfort and hold without slipping. If the horizontal bar is to be set up out of doors the posts should be set in holes at least 30" deep and made rigid by tamping it well with stones and earth. If permanent posts are to be set it would be wise to set them in concrete.

Bore holes large enough to allow the bar to be pushed through easily; be sure each pair of holes is an equal distance from the floor. Fasten the floor braces with $\frac{3}{4}$ " x $3\frac{1}{2}$ " lag screws placed 2" from the ends of the brace.

A HERO

Jimmy: She's allus wanted me to be a hero—but she don't know there ain't been no bees in this hive for ten years!

most of their play time in the big house. Their busy mother, thinking they were in their own play house in the back yard, never suspected they were doing anything they shouldn't and they were not discovered. Each day and each hour the three became more and more careless till Fred, as he climbed the step ladder for a certain jar of jam he thought he wanted, stopped atop to sing a song about a bold, bad pirate and—fell headlong to the pantry floor!

Now it was one thing to plan to keep house all by yourself and its quite another to give your head a terrible smash and have no mother near to look after the bump. Fred was no baby but that was a bad fall and anybody, even a grown-up man, would have wanted help. Jack shouted for his mother and Ann screamed at the top of her lungs and not one of the three of them thought a thing about where they were.

Mother heard the noise and following the sounds of distress, she came running straight to the pantry where Fred lay still and bleeding on the floor.

If she guessed what caused the trouble she didn't say so. She took Fred home and made him comfortable. But that afternoon, when the bump was better and Fred was feeling himself again she brought her mending basket out on the porch beside him and said: "Now Fred, tell me all about it." And Fred told. He told everything and he took all the blame like the little gentleman he really-truly was. Then, when he had finished, he said, "Now, mother, what can I do about it?"

His mother thought quietly a few minutes, then she replied, "You will be well in a day or two, Fred. Do you think that if I went over with you, you could clean up the pantry and polish the stair rail and make everything look exactly as it did when you went there? It would be lots of hard work."

Fred thought he could.

"And then, you know you have several promises to cut grass," continued his mother. "If you take that money, and Jack takes the money from his bank, I think you will just about have enough to pay Miss Perkins for the jam you ate or opened. 'What about it?'"

"We'll do it, that's fair," promised Fred. And he did. When he had earned the money, he wrote a letter to Miss Perkins and sent it every penny. That's the reason he had no new football that fall as he had planned.

PEAR JAM

Peel and quarter a dozen pears that are very ripe. Pears that are really too ripe for good eating or stewing are good for this jam as they cook quickly.

Add one cupful of water and cook slowly till tender.

Mash till well broken up with a potato masher.

Measure and add two-thirds as much sugar as there is pear pulp. Stir in the sugar and cook 20 minutes.

Put in jelly glasses and seal or serve at once with hot biscuits.

A Four Footed Comedian

ONE of the funniest animals in the world is a goat—even a monkey is not in it when it comes to real humor. He knows he is a clown, and he seems to like to show off before an audience, even if the audience is only a solitary spectator. There is something comical about the way he plants his feet, his movements are funny, and the shake of his head is simply a scream.

Did you ever notice that when a person smiles the corners of his mouth turn up, and when he is in a bad humor they turn down? Try it for yourself by drawing a face, and by just changing the corners of the mouth, you can make it smile or frown.

Stop the next goat you meet, and take a look at his mouth, and take a look at the corners of his mouth, and you will see that the corners of his mouth have a decided upward twist. In fact, he looks as if he were just about to giggle, and you could easily believe that if you tickled him under the chin he would laugh out loud. The merry twinkle of his eyes, taken with that everlasting smile that seems just ready to break into a grin, gives him a comical expression that even Charlie Chaplin would envy.

The goat is probably the most contented animal in all the world; he never fusses, he never finds fault, but just takes things as they come. It seems that he has learned the great secret of life—the secret of keeping light hearted and happy under all circumstances, and under all conditions. Who ever saw a goat that did not seem cheerful, and at peace with all the world?

He can put more expression in the shake of his tail than some people can squeeze in their faces. When it comes to eating, the goat's ideas are as wide as all creation, and there are very few things that he cannot snack his lips over and enjoy. If there is grass to be had, he eats it and is glad. He can banquet for a week on an old rubber shoe, and an inner tube and a discarded tire will keep him in provisions for a week. Turn him in a lot that is bare of grass, weeds, or he is blissfully happy, as the will be quietly munching something, nobody knows what, and his eyes will be twinkling, and the corners of his mouth pointing skyward, showing that as far as he is concerned, there is nothing wrong with the universe.

About the only thing that he cannot eat and digest is a bottle, but he has the time of his life scraping off the labels and rolling them under his tongue. If he can get to a freshly covered billboard, or he is blissfully happy, as the printed paper served with some flour paste is something he fairly dotes on. If there is absolutely nothing that can be chewed or nibbled, he is well content to climb up on a rock and fill up on the scenery.

He can somehow manage to pick up a square meal, where a grass-hopper would starve.

Next to eating, his greatest pleasure in life is to get on top of something, it matters not whether it is a low shed, pile of lumber, a big rock, or a fence, just so it lifts him above the common level; and once can walk as easily on the top plank of a fence as he can on the ground. He never grows too old to enjoy a romp with his fellows, and the rougher the fun, the better he likes it; and using his head as a battering-ram is his idea of a good time.

Goat children are called kids, and there are generally two in a family; they are as playful as kittens, and begin to rear up and butt each other when not more than a day old.

A curious thing about a goat is, that no matter how much or how little they have to eat, they always look about the same, neither too fat nor too lean. We could learn a lot from goats if we would—things up on an object, he loves to see how near the edge he can stand without falling off. Nature fixed him for climbing when she gave him hoofs hollowed out on the under side with sharp outside edges, that enable him to cling where a squirrel would hesitate about going.

He Knows He Is A Clown

If he can manage to get up, he

THE FISHERMAN

This is a game that can be played by all the guests. After the dining table is cleared off the players should be seated around it. One of the players carries a short stick to which a piece of twine is attached, the string being tied in a loop at the end.

The line is dropped so the loop lies in the middle of the table. When the player says "Whose Fish?" all the other players put the tips of the forefingers of the right hand inside the circle. Suddenly the player calls, "My Fish." This is a signal for all to withdraw the fingers, but of course, someone is always off their guard and gets caught in the loop. Every player costs three times and all "fish" caught are counted. The one getting the largest catch is the winner.

High Ambition

SEEMS that everyone that can always asks: "Well, little man, what do you think you're going to be when you're old and big like me?"

All my uncles and my aunts, Cousins (if they wear long pants), Mother's friends and daddy's, too. Asking it are never through.

But I never tell them, tho' What I want to be I know—Mother, if I did, would faint. Dad would yell, "Oh, no, you ain't!"

Huh, I guess when I am grown I'll have money all my own. And I'll buy—well, never mind, it will be the latest kind.

I won't have to walk or run. Like most people—that's no fun! With the clouds I mean to race; Maybe eagles, too, I'll chase.

And, as soon as I'm a "vet," I'll beat the birds you bet—When above the world so high I'm a birdman in the sky!

ARENA JAMMED FOR HORSE SHOW OPENING

Two Military Displays Lend Variety To First Night's Performance

Platoons from Lord Sherbrooke Training Centre and Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke Stage Demonstrations—Awards Presented Fat Stock Show Winners—Kirk, Entered by Domaine d'Estere, Outstanding in Jumping Events.

If the crowd tonight is anywhere near as large as last night's, this year's Horse Show of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association will be one of the most successful ever held at the Arena, from the point of attendance. There were more than 2,000 people at the Arena last night, and every seat was filled.

Size of the opening night crowd was increased appreciably by the large number of troops in attendance. The Saskatchewan Horse Regiment, the Lord Sherbrooke Training Centre and Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke were well represented.

Several features added effectiveness to the eleven-class card which was run off. Military demonstrations were given by a detachment from the training centre under the command of Lieutenant Hunt, and by a platoon from Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke, commanded by Second-Lieutenant Leonce Cote, and both groups were roundly applauded for their fine performance.

Following the demonstration by the Training Centre unit the Commanding Officer, Lt. Col. Roland Pothier, expressed his thanks to the E.T.A.A. for giving his men an opportunity to perform and to see the show. Short remarks were then made by Dr. F. H. Bradley and Dalma Landry, K.C., joint-chairmen of the local recruiting committee.

Awards from Canada Packers Ltd., were presented by C. Staples to C. E. Sharnan, of Canterbury, who entered the Grand Champion Steer in the afternoon Provincial Fat Stock Sale, to Howard Murray, of Georgetown, owner of the Grand Champion Lamb, and F. G. SPORT FLASHES

Notre Dame football coaches seem to have gone Hollywood in the best "oomph" tradition. . . . They rate their players by the amount of "thump" the boys put into their play.

Charles Grimm, who got his share of laughs as well as headaches when he had Lou Novikoff on his hands at Milwaukee last summer, relates how the Mad Russian tried to steal third one night when the bases were full. After the inning Cholly demanded an explanation and Novikoff replied: "Well, I had a swell lead."

Frank Barbaro, who's putting more than $50,000 into that Detroit heavyweight tournament, was breaking his back for peanuts in an auto plant a dozen years ago. . . . He took the dough out of night clubs and now he's putting it back into clubbing.

Braemar Stables, Cowansville; 2 Baby, E. W. G. Lennoxville; 3 Goldie L. O. Noel, Inc., Sherbrooke; 4 African, Earl Spafford, Knowlton.

BEAK BUSTING HITS NEW LOW AS ATTRACTION

Outside of Joe Louis and Billy Conn There Are No Fighters Around Capable of Stirring Up Excitement.

New York, Oct. 18.—With Joe Louis out of action, there is less interest in the beak busters than there has been since the Alabama-born Negro put the breath of life back into the dodge.

The Nova-Louis and Jenkins-Cochrane fiascos took care of that. And outside of Louis and Billy Conn, there are no fighters around capable of stirring up excitement.

Louis and Conn are the only master ring mechanics at this time. Where are the Kilbanes, Welchies, McFarlands, Leonards, Brittons and Pete Hermans?

The thought struck me that fighters are the moment seem to typify the times. Everybody is in such a hurry that nobody has time to learn the profession.

And just then in pops a letter from Jersey Jones, who publicized Lou Nova.

"That was the most gruesome assignment I ever accepted," he says, adding that he hasn't yet recovered from the sight of the Californian backpedaling in front of Louis.

Jones, who has managed and ballyhooed boxers for 20 years, also beats the drums for the New York Rangers and affiliated clubs. The Rangers train in Winnipeg, and Jersey seems just as well satisfied that hockey is obtaining anything but a smooth start because of the war and passport problems. Perhaps it will help him forget Nova.

Jones fears for the future of the sour science when Louis retires or is beaten by one of the bums who pass for heavyweights.

"No one pays the slightest attention to the flyweights nowadays," he points out. "The bantams and featherweights are worth a nickel. Loony Lew Jenkins, one lightweight champion, has two left feet. He's worse than Nova. Sammy Angott, the other claimant, is nothing more than a rough cut fighter. A good boxer would cut Red Cochran, the welterweight, into pieces."

The middleweights are muddle weights. Conn is the only light-heavyweight who can fight a lick, and he no longer can afford to waste time in the division in which he belongs."

Jones traces this sad case of apathy to lack of schooling.

"It used to be that when a boy got to be champion, you could bet he knew his business," explains Jersey. "The boy knew how to fight and shift and punch and defend himself. He knew how to change his style to fit the occasion. Then came the war department's plan to discharge 25-year-olds."

Greenberg, who is 30, was indicted May 7.

Second Army Headquarters has a tentative quota of 900 releases by January 1, it was pointed out, but Greenberg is last on that list. After January 1 he will be one of the first to be considered.

Notes From National Hockey League Clubs In Training

New York Rangers have "a-goal-a-game" rookie in their training camp at Winnipeg. He's Normie Burns, Sawyerville amateur. Playing with Washington Eagles in the Eastern United States League last year Burns punched in 67 goals in 61 games—a league record.

Manager Lester Patrick of the Rangers doesn't favor pre-season exhibition games ordinarily but at the moment he is planning a series of four with the Americans and Tulsa Oilers. Patrick says he wants to see how the regulars and rookies "look under fire."

If young Bunny Dame had any doubts about catching on with Canadiens he can just about forget them. The Trail, B.C., amateur has been selected to accompany the team which will play against Quebec Aces in an exhibition game Sunday. Coach Dick Irvin claims he is taking along only his "regulars" so that alone should help dispel Bunny's fears.

Meanwhile the Canadian rookies—minus Dame, of course—will clash with Montreal Royals in another exhibition game. Royals beat the budding pros 2-1 a week ago.

Johnny Holota and Jim Conacher were rivals a year ago as members of Guelph and Oshawa junior teams, respectively. Now as professionals they become teammates. Both youngsters were signed by Detroit Red Wings and their work against Cleveland Barons in a forthcoming series of exhibition games is to get the close scrutiny of James Norris, Sr., owner of the Detroit Club.

Coach Art Chapman of the New York Americans is quoted as saying that in the pre-season exhibition game with Springfield Indians to-night everything will be "like one big, scrappy family." Chapman says even player on the Springfield club has a chance of catching on with the N.H.L. club under an arrangement in effect between Red Dutton and Eddie Shore.

"So," adds Chapman, "the boys won't be loading on either club."

"Speed to burn." That's the way Manager Guy Patrick describes his Tulsa Oilers of the American Association. The Oilers are training with New York Rangers at Winnipeg.

To the railbirds they don't look much bigger than an average size junior squad. But, says Patrick, "Speed is the thing now. . . . and my Oilers will have plenty to spare. I expect to ice the fastest club in minor league competition."

GREENBERG HAS YEARNING FOR CIVILIAN LIFE

Former Detroit Tiger's Release Unlikely Before January 1, American Military Authorities Disclose.

Fort Custer, Mich., Oct. 18.—(P)—Cpl. Henry Greenberg has applied for discharge from the army under the revised selective service law, military authorities disclosed yesterday, but the former Detroit Tiger's release is unlikely before January 1.

Intelligence officers of the Fifth Division, of which the American League's most valuable player of 1940 is a member, said Greenberg was the last selectee in a group now being considered for release under the War Department's plan to discharge 25-year-olds.

Greenberg, who is 30, was indicted May 7.

Second Army Headquarters has a tentative quota of 900 releases by January 1, it was pointed out, but Greenberg is last on that list. After January 1 he will be one of the first to be considered.
