

Some shrinkage

To get Bomarc units

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Bomarc-B missile program is to undergo another squeeze but it won't be eliminated altogether. In a congressional horse-trade on defence spending, a Senate-House conference Tuesday agreed to provide $244,000,000 for Bomarc production down $125,000,000 from the $369,000,000 the Senate had proposed. The amount is $50,000,000 less than the U.S. Air Force had requested in its latest air defence revisions last spring. But it is a partial victory over the House of Representatives which originally had voted to eliminate all Bomarc production except for a small development program. Conference chairmen, emerging from their meeting, said Canada will get her two Bomarc-B squadrons, but there likely will be some shrinkage in the U.S. program.

TWO BASES DROPPED

Two bases which the senate had approved for the Pacific northwest and which also might have helped protect southern British Columbia are to be eliminated. These are the Paine Air Force Base near Seattle and Camp Adair near Portland, Ore.

The eight bases which the air force had planned for the north-eastern U.S. may be reduced to seven or six. Alternatively, the air force may reduce the number of missiles at each base. Currently a Bomarc squadron has 3 missiles and 28 launchers.

In other significant bargaining, the conference agreed to provide $200,000,000—instead of the $250,000,000 suggested by the House—for the purchase of new cargo planes for the military air transport service. The language is so worded that the air force can buy either the Lockheed C-430E plane or the Canadian-made CL-44 made by Canadair Limited of Montreal. Air force officials previously had indicated they are interested in the CL-44 and may place some orders.

The over-all changes, including funds for another conventional aircraft carrier, nuclear-powered submarines, the B-70 bomber, a step-up in long-range missile and satellite production, add a burden to President Eisenhower's original budget for the fiscal year opening Friday.

Eisenhower had proposed $39,300,000,000 and the House hewed close to that over-all figure. But the Senate proposed jumping it by some $1,100,000,000. The final compromise indicates a budget of some $40,000,000,000.

The House will take up the revised measure Friday. Senate action is also required.

In the spirit for meeting

MONTREAL (CP)—Six United States businessmen Tuesday were fined $25 each for a drunken pillow fight aboard a New York to Montreal passenger liner May 20.

Judge Rene Therberge set the fines—with the option of a week in jail—after lawyer Myer Gross entered guilty pleas on behalf of the six.

They had originally pleaded not guilty. The charge was creating a disturbance aboard an aircraft.

Defence Counsel Myer Gross asked for a suspended sentence for the six who pleaded guilty. "They were in a jovial mood and I understand they were coming to Montreal to attend a religious meeting," he said.

Said Judge Therberge: "They were preparing themselves by getting into the spirit . . ."

MASS KILLER? — Melvin Davis Rees is shown in Memphis, Tenn., after his arrest. Federal authorities in Baltimore on June 27 indicted Rees for the mass murder of the Carroll Jackson family of Virginia 18 months ago on the basis of a detailed diary of the abduction and killing of two of the four victims and the disposal of their bodies. U. S. Commissioner Allen Metzger said the diary was in the handwriting of Rees.

Do-or-die Tibetan rebels march

NEW DELHI, India (Reuters) An army of nearly 200,000 Tibetan nomads was reported to be fighting its way across Tibet today in preparation for a do-or-die battle with the Himalayan country's Chinese Communist overlords.

The Times of India said the nomads had begun a mass migration from eastern to western Tibet, where they hoped to entrench themselves to fight the Communists. The Chinese were rushing in troop reinforcements to intercept them.

The government of Nepal disclosed Tuesday night that China had admitted for the first time that it was trying to put down a revolt in Tibet.

China informed Nepal that Communist troops have been moved into a demilitarized border zone between Nepal and Tibet to fight the revolt—indicating that the Chinese were trying to close all escape routes from the country.

EXPRESSED FEARS The Times of India expressed fears that the nomad army moving across Tibet might be forced across the western border into India by Chinese troops.

The nomads were armed only with rifles and other small arms, the front-page report said, and were unlikely to be able to withstand the Chinese attack for long.

The newspaper said the nomads had assembled in the Amdo Her and Chang areas of north-eastern and eastern Tibet and begun their march across hundreds of miles of perilous mountain trails and windswept plains.

They had clashed several times with Chinese troops en route and several hundred Communists had been killed in the fights.

RUSHING IN TROOPS The newspaper's correspondent in Siliguri, near the Tibetan border, said there were indications that the Tibetans are aiming to disrupt Chinese supply lines from Sinkiang to western Tibet.

"To counter this threat the Chinese are rushing all available troops to intercept this huge rebel force," the correspondent wrote.

Reports reaching towns near the Tibetan border in the last few weeks have said that almost the whole of Tibet was in revolt against the Chinese. Recent reports have stated that a pitched battle was going on between the Tibetans and the Chinese in an area about 40 to 70 miles from the border with Nepal, situated between Tibet and India.

Barrette fishing

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Antonio Barrette, an ardent angler, said Tuesday he is off on a fishing trip and will not be back at his government office till Monday. The premier made this known after the morning cabinet session during which ministers of the Union Nationale administration thrashed out election results Wednesday which showed 50 Liberals and 44 Union Nationale members elected to the 95-seat Legislative Assembly. One Independent member was also elected.

Mine death toll reaches 45

Congolese rioting continues

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo—(Reuters)—Tribal violence and frustrated political ambitions Tuesday continued to mar preparations for the Congo's independence celebrations Thursday.

More than a dozen Congolese were injured in fights as tribesmen staged demonstrations because their leaders were excluded from the country's first government.

The demonstrators are members of the Baluba tribe and followers of Albert Kalonji, a member of the tribe, who is a bitter political enemy of Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Police threw two tear gas bombs into a crowd of about 500 demonstrating Balubas near the Parliament buildings.

Meanwhile, trouble also was stirring up copper-rich Katanga province.

LOOKS FOR SOLUTION Belgian Resident Minister Ganshof van der Meersch flew there Monday in a bid to solve the problems, which are:

1. Dissatisfaction of the leading Conakat party in the province over the fact it was given only one post in Lumumba's national cabinet. It asked for three.

2. A dispute between Conakat party leader and Provincial Premier Moise Tshombe and Jason Sendwe, leader of the opposition Balubakat Party. Sendwe has set up a rival provincial government.

But preparations for the independence celebrations continued. Representatives of more than 80 countries are expected here by Thursday to attend the festivities.

Cuban diatribe

"Gringos," screams Castro

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro threatened today to seize American investments in Cuba "penny by penny until nothing is left" if the United States cuts its purchases of Cuban sugar.

Castro made this threat to a cheering, post-midnight rally of the giant Sugar Workers' Federation held in Artemisa, 60 miles southwest of Havana. It was his 10th major speech in 24 days and the bitterest anti-American diatribe he has yet delivered.

Stung by the bill now before the U.S. Congress to authorize the president to cut the U.S. quota of Cuban sugar at will, Castro shouted that for every

Shipyard fire

HOUSTON (AP) — Tugboats rescued 50 workmen Tuesday as a spectacular shipyard fire threatened the United States first nuclear service barge. Flames and smoke billowed furiously from a 700-foot dock and a $2,000,000 drydock at the Todd shipyards a half-hour before being brought under control. The $1,000,000 Atomic Servant was towed to safety, as was a tanker and a dredge under construction.

Denounced sugar bill

The prime minister denounced the new U.S. sugar bill—which was unanimously approved by the House of Representatives agriculture committee Monday—as "stupid and criminal" and called the U.S. government "decadent." He referred to Americans as "gringos," a term of scorn for North Americans.

Castro declared the sugar act was intended to submit Cuba to the "whim of a foreign ruler." "If he gets up in the morning with a bad humor, that day he can determine the destiny of our nation," Castro said.

"The formula they have invented is not only immoral but treacherous," he continued. "Traitorous because they did not say how much sugar they were taking away. They did it with characteristic Saxon cruelty . . . that is to say they do not point out our danger, they reserve the right to do us harm in the magnitude they desire. . ."

Convert land

But along with his threat of seizure, Castro indicated his government might turn sugar land to other uses if it cannot sell sugar to the United States at the premium price it now gets under the sugar quota act.

"If sugar cane is left over," he said, "we will devote that land to other purposes, to grains, vegetables and other products." "We will grow other foods—we won't be defeated," he declared.

Wouldn't budge

The Icelanders refused to budge until fresh orders came through from the Thor. Then they agreed to leave "under protest." They took to their boat and rowed back to the gunboat. The trawler then resumed fishing.

"We heard no reports of any fighting aboard the trawler which we understand was well outside the 12-mile limit," an admiralty spokesman said.

When the Geneva Law of the Sea Conference failed last April to settle the dispute, the British trawlers federation agreed to keep its ships outside the 12-mile limit for three months to allow for further negotiations.

Only four miners survive explosion

ABERTILLERY, Wales — (CP) — Rescue teams slowly moved to the surface today with the bodies of 45 miners killed in an explosion 1,000 feet below ground in a South Wales coal mine.

Miners hacked through a half-mile of debris to reach the last eight bodies. The dead lay in a mile-wide pocket of lethal carbon monoxide gas. Rescuers wore oxygen masks to reach the bodies.

The explosion came with a quick flash and a colossal roar, dumping down tons of rock as 700 men worked on the morning shift. Some men died in their tracks, victims of flash fire, while others crouched in refuge manholes only to suffocate from the deadly gas.

Four men escaped miraculously with severe burns. Said one of them, 43-year-old Harold Legge:

"There was a roar and a flash. I could not see for the cloud of thick, swirling dust. I couldn't breathe. I stumbled toward the pit bottom. I passed some lying dead."

The unexplained explosion Tuesday rocked a section of the nearby hamlet of Six Bells just on the Welsh border.

One rescuer said "it was like going through a waxworks." "Some had died in the positions they were in at the time of the explosion, without a mark on them. Some were leaning over the conveyor, and others were on the ground as if sleeping."

The rescuer said the miners had been overcome by gas or died from asphyxiation when thrown unconscious on the ground.

Six Bells tallied a heartbreaking list of personal tragedy: three fathers and three sons, twin brothers, the father of six children, two fathers of five children and several newlywed and engaged men.

The explosion 14 miles from the mine shaft swept dense clouds of smoke through the tunnels, blinding some men half-a-mile away. The mine employs 1,400 men.

In the fierce flash and roar of the blast great falls of roof barred the tunnels.

A special team of 90 trained rescue workers aided by 80 volunteers tunneled through a series of rock falls extending 800 yards in a desperate effort to reach the trapped men. They finally broke through to find the 45 dead.

Deadly carbon monoxide was the main enemy.

New approach to drinking and driving

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—If you drink, wait before you drive.

This twist on a familiar warning to drivers reflects a new approach to the problem of drunken driving taken by State Division on Alcoholism.

The new method is to provide a "driver wait meter," telling motorists how long to wait after certain drinks before taking to the road, instead of the old admonition: "If you drink don't drive."

For example: If you drink one cocktail or highball or two beers within 15 minutes, wait a half-hour after the last drink before driving.

Two cocktails or highballs or four beers within a half-hour—wait an hour.

Three cocktails or highballs or six beers within one hour—wait two hours.

Four cocktails or highballs or eight beers within two hours—wait three hours.

Five cocktails or highballs or 10 beers within three hours—wait five hours.

The State Division on Alcoholism said the novel approach was based on alcohol research at Yale University.

Cook to die for murder

EDMONTON (CP) — Robert Raymond Cook was convicted Tuesday of the murder of his 53-year-old father and was sentenced to be hanged Oct. 11. The jury was out for about 30 minutes.

It was his second trial on the charge. He had been sentenced to be hanged before, but a new trial was ordered by the appellate division of the Alberta Supreme Court.

The verdict was returned one year to the day after RCMP found the shot and bludgeoned bodies of Cook's father, Raymond, his stepmother and five children in a makeshift grease pit near their home at Stettler, Alta.

No obstacle to insurance plan claims Lesage

QUEBEC (CP) — Liberal Leader Jean Lesage sees no serious obstacle to the establishment of a hospital insurance plan in Quebec province and said Tuesday a plan will be proposed at the next session of the legislature.

Mr. Lesage made the statement during a brief talk to 1,000 delegates attending the annual meeting of the Provincial Hospitals Committee—a group which represents more than 80 per cent of Quebec province hospitals.

Senate ok's Canada-Russia trade papers

OTTAWA (CP) — The new trade agreement between Canada and Russia, under which the U.S.S.R. undertakes to buy $2 worth of Canadian goods for every $1 worth she sells to this country, was approved Tuesday by the Senate.

The agreement, signed in Moscow April 18 by Trade Minister Churchill, renews for three years a 1966 agreement between the two countries.

Free British trawler near Iceland

LONDON (AP) — The Royal Navy Tuesday night freed a British trawler boarded by Icelandic coastguards who claimed it was fishing within Iceland's disputed 12-mile limit.

The 67-ton Grimsby trawler Northern Queen was one mile outside the fishing limits when it ran into trouble.

Fourteen Icelanders from the gunboat Thor swarmed aboard to take charge of the British vessel.

But skipper Wally Nutten managed to get out a radio call for help and the British fishery protection frigate Duncan steamed to the rescue.

The Duncan put a naval party aboard the Northern Queen and insisted the Icelanders should leave.

WOULDN'T BUDGE The Icelanders refused to budge until fresh orders came through from the Thor. Then they agreed to leave "under protest." They took to their boat and rowed back to the gunboat. The trawler then resumed fishing.

"We heard no reports of any fighting aboard the trawler which we understand was well outside the 12-mile limit," an admiralty spokesman said.

When the Geneva Law of the Sea Conference failed last April to settle the dispute, the British trawlers federation agreed to keep its ships outside the 12-mile limit for three months to allow for further negotiations.

In spite of queries Logical decision by Barrette

The announcement by Premier Antonio Barrette that he does not intend to abandon the reins of government before the judicial recounts in a number of ridings are completed may cause eyebrow-raising in many quarters but it is the only logical decision he could take in view of the uncertainties which still dominate the Quebec political scene.

On the basis of unofficial returns, Hon. Jean Lesage and his Liberals hold a majority of six seats over Premier Barrette's Union Nationale forces. But a number of judicial recounts are underway that might easily change the entire picture. For instance, should the Union Nationale gain a net changeover of three seats, both parties would be on an even footing. With the support of the only Independent in the House, Frank Hanley, of Montreal-St. Anne's, long known as a sympathizer with the Union Nationale, Premier Barrette would be justified in facing the House. But if he should resign before the official result is known, he might find it difficult to convince Mr. Lesage to step down in the event of a final tie. Mr. Lesage could logically argue that Frank Hanley is an Independent and might give his support to a Liberal Government.

From the Liberal viewpoint, the recounts have an important bearing on future strategy plans. The present majority of six—cut to five with the naming of a Speaker—is uncomfortably small and some observers believe the Liberals may hold a fall session at which they will implement a number of their major projects such as hospitalization insurance, institution of a premium on hog, butter and cheese production and extension of old age pensions and family allowances.

After a suitable wait to assure that at least one round of the cheques get into the hands of the recipients, another general election might be called in the hope that the Liberal trend, apparent last week, may continue and give them a comfortable working majority.

If the Liberal membership is cut even by one seat, another election within a year seems inevitable.

But should the Liberals pick up one or two seats, giving them a majority of eight or even ten, it is unlikely they would make another appeal to the electorate.

FINANCES AND RECOUNTS — Actually neither party seems too anxious to make an early appeal to the electorate.

General elections are costly affairs in this province and it is believed that the Liberals were scraping the bottom of the barrel in the final week of the last election.

As a party on the advance, they will find it easier to raise funds in the future but it will take many months to amass a really substantial reserve.

Union Nationale elected members, on the other hand, have reservations about coming be-

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — America's most publicized industry also is its sickest.

The motion picture business is in a steady decline at a time when nearly all others are booming.

Twenty-five years ago, 80,000, 000 Americans went to see a movie every week. Today, less than half that number go.

Ten years ago, there were 20,000 movie houses operating in the United States. Today, there are 11,000 plus 4,700 drive-ins.

Even so, a few stars are making more money than ever before. But not the film companies.

TRYING YEARS

Many of them have been able to survive the trying years only by resorting to activities other than making films for theatres.

Universal-International got up off the canvas by selling its studio to the talent-TV film trust, MCA.

Twentieth Century - Fox sold much of its property for a real estate development, and also struck oil. But its studio operation lost $5,000,000 last year.

Warner Brothers and Columbia have become TV film factories that also turn out movies.

Paramount rents space to Have Gun, Will Travel, MGM to Peter Gunn. All studios make their own TV series and all have sold old films to TV. Thus the movie industry continues to be the chief supplier to its chief competitor for patronage.

NEW CRISIS

These things have been going on for some time. Recent events have brought a new crisis of the old order:

1. Two strikes. The month-long actors' strike was costly, but the 22-week walkout by writers will have a greater effect in hobbling future production.
2. Sale of more features to TV. The strike settlements left the studios virtually free to sell their post-1948 films to TV, meaning theatres will have new competition from recent topflight films on TV.
3. Scarcity of new films. Hollywood companies have started only 60 films in the first half of 1959 vs. 80 last year. And 1959 marked the lowest number of movies released by major firms

5. The moral revolution. Hollywood is coming under increasing attack as it tries to deal more frankly with once-censored subjects.

E.T. reports single polio case

Rest of Canada hard hit this year

While the incidence of paralytic poliomyelitis in Canada and in the Province of Quebec is higher so far this year than last, only one case has been reported in 1960 in the Eastern Townships, Dr. Emile Poisson, Director of the Sherbrooke Health Unit said yesterday.

Figures released by the Department of National Health and Welfare show that for the first five months of 1960, there were 103 reported cases of polio across Canada as opposed to 35 for the same period of time last year. Of these, 20 were in the province of Quebec as opposed to 18 for the same period of time last year and three the year before.

MOST IMMUNIZED

As far as Sherbrooke County and the Eastern Townships is concerned, however, Dr. Poisson feels that the great majority of residents in the age group which is most susceptible to the disease have been immunized.

"We can do a much better job of immunization here than they can in such large centers as Montreal," said Dr. Poisson. "We have a much smaller populace to contend with and we have been able to go into the schools and churches to set up clinics."

A noteworthy feature of the statistics released by the Department of National Health and Welfare is that out of the 35 cases reported last year, there were six deaths. Out of the 103 cases this year, there have been seven deaths.

This indicates a much lower mortality rate and that the form of poliomyelitis now prevalent is of a less serious nature.

Last year in Sherbrooke County there were nine cases of polio and two deaths. This year there may be just as many but not more, according to Dr. Poisson. The reason for this is that there are always people who feel they can never take the time to go to the Health Unit or that they live too far away.

Polio strikes hardest during the month of August but one case was reported here on February 8 of this year which caused a partial paralysis of one arm.

By MALCOLM DAIGNEAULT
(Record Staff Reporter)

Neither this individual nor the nine which were afflicted last year had received any of their polio shots.

A breakdown of Sherbrooke county statistics for 1959 shows that the majority of persons who received injections last year were children. Of 9,938 people immunized, 6,415 were in the 1-14 years age group.

Anyone wishing to receive immunization against polio may attend one of the parish clinics when they are held, or go to the Health Unit any day except Saturday between two and four o'clock in the afternoon. There is no charge for these injections.

Four-day convention

100 delegates attend national textile meet

The 25th annual Convention of the National Federation of Textile Workers opened at the Central Committee Hall here yesterday. Some 100 delegates are attending the four-day convention.

The convention is organized by the National Association of Employees of Paton Mills, Association of Sherbrooke Textile Workers and the Dornil Employees Syndicate.

The last National Convention held in Sherbrooke was in 1953. Yesterday, delegates registered while in the afternoon a meeting of the various committees was held.

The Convention officially opened this morning 9 a.m. followed by lunch at 12 p.m.

A special sitting of the board of directors of the convention is being held this afternoon at 2 p.m.

A Mass will be held at the St. Michael's Basilica today at 5 p.m. A general reunion of all members attending the convention will be held this evening at 7.30 p.m.

Tomorrow, activities will get underway at 9 a.m. when internal problems of the Association will be discussed. The meeting will adjourn at noon for dinner and reconvene at 2 p.m. A special civic reception has been scheduled for 5.30 p.m. at City Hall for those attending the Convention.

The two final meetings of the Association will be held at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Friday. The Convention will come to a close with the election of new officers for the coming year.

Exhibition plans are completed

The Directors of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association have completed plans for their 75th annual exhibition, Sherbrooke's Diamond Jubilee exhibition.

The prize list is now being distributed to all former exhibitors. The cover of the Prize List is in keeping with the 75th anniversary. Over $16,000 are offered in prizes.

Annual meeting

Install new president at local Rotary Club

Retiring president Lyman Tomkins handed over the chain of office to incoming president Fred Sangster last night at the annual meeting of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club.

Reports from the 24 committee chairmen on the clubs activities for the year, and the induction of four new members by the president were the main items of business.

The club was shown to be financially strong and greater in number with the addition of 17 new members during the year. Over $7,000 was spent in service work.

Some $4,000 were accounted for by the crippled children's committee which reported 58 cases helped with the supplying of artificial limbs, braces, glasses, hearing aids, crutches, wheelchairs, therapy treatment, drugs, shoes, clothing etc., as well as six children being sponsored at the Crippled Children's Camp.

Entertainment was also supplied at this camp in the form of pony and boat rides, square dancing and a band concert.

The Youth Committee report showed three boys sponsored at the Y's Men's Camp and 30 boys

FLYING SALESMEN — Making a brief stop in Sherbrooke while their plane was refueled yesterday were Noel Hutton, standing on the wharf, president of a Newfoundland fish-packaging materials firm, and his pilot, atop the plane, Clint Snell, who is also a salesman for the firm.

Refuel stop in Sherbrooke

Flying Newfoundland salesmen

Everybody else is flying these days, why not travelling salesmen?

At least that's the attitude of Noel Hutton, president of a Newfoundland fish-packaging materials firm. He and his pilot-salesman Clint Snell landed their plane on the Magog river near Esplanade Street yesterday for a brief refueling stop while en route to Toronto.

As he pumped fuel from a large drum into the wing tanks of his Cessna 180 airplane, Mr. Hutton discussed the advantages of using a plane in his business as opposed to other methods of transportation.

"Most of my clients are in Newfoundland and the Maritime Provinces and in order to see them, I had to travel by car, boat and train. This was not only time-consuming, but expensive. "With the plane, I can make in one day, a trip which used to take several days and cost several hundred dollars," he said.

Mr. Hutton claimed that the plane, which he purchased in April, was cheaper to run than a car and that the airways were safer than the highways anyway.

Maybe he has a point there?

Summer camping

The camping season is in full swing throughout the country, and the Eastern Townships has its full share of camps.

There are woods games and water games. There are canoe and boating trips, small exploratory expeditions to isolated, drift-wood choked inlets and reed-filled marshes where loons nest.

Food is being stoked away in record quantities. Somehow, it always tastes better prepared and eaten outdoors.

At night, the camp site takes on magical qualities as the mist starts to rise from the lake up to a moon which is always large and silver, or to stars always bright and twinkling.

Owls hoot, and deep in the forest, a bobcat may shriek.

Then the campers gather around the cheery glow of a campfire, singing songs that have been sung around brightly burning balsam logs since, it seems, camping began.

Bedtime comes early after a snack, perhaps of hot cocoa and biscuits, but everybody is always tired.

The owls still hoot, and out on the lakeside, a choir of croaking bullfrogs chorus a lullaby.

Starting from the bottom

The State of Nevada is using an intelligent approach in solving the problem of alcoholism. It is starting from the bottom.

The state personnel department began advertising this week for a reformed alcoholic to head a new alcoholism agency which goes in operation July 1.

The ad specifies that the successful applicant must be "an arrested alcoholic who has maintained continued sobriety for two years immediately preceding his appointment." He must also be an active member of Alcoholics Anonymous.

The principal purpose of the agency is to promote rehabilitation and it is evident that Nevada is getting off to a good start.

Research and experience have shown that an alcoholic can master the sickness of alcoholism and again assume a useful role in society.

And in placing a reformed alcoholic in this important job the State will be strengthening its position when it comes to ask other employers to cooperate in its rehabilitation program.

No one will be able to accuse Nevada of not practising what it preaches.

Accidents and insurance

Summer hazards are numerous enough without adding the figures of the traffic toll on the provinces highways and byways.

Every year in the Eastern Townships, and very likely in all parts of the Dominion, the traffic toll increases during the summer weather as the number of cars on the road increase.

Father and his family may feel wonderfully secure travelling along the road to their cottage or on their vacation. Father and his family are insured, their hospitalization in case of accident is covered; even if Father is wrong, the insurance company will help pay damages and costs to the other party.

Now, consider! Insurance does by no means make it safer on the road. It does however, help cover the cost to people hurt accidentally.

Take Mr. A! uninsured; is at fault in a collision injuring four people in the other car; is incapable of paying their hospital bills or the damage to the other car.

If A. makes a small salary, he will find it most difficult, if not impossible, to pay the mounting hospital bills of the injured people. If A. dies as a result of the crash, the injured people have no recourse. They can not possibly obtain payment for their injuries.

Who suffers from A's mistake? Others.

The answer is simple: automobile insurance, as low as $50 per year, or about $5 per month will help someone else — if not yourself.

days' retreat—for as little as $25 or $35.

"Even 48 hours of protection would be helpful," says Hoegh. "In an attack, 75 per cent of the land area might be radiated initially. In 48 hours, however, that radiation would be reduced to about 35 per cent; to seven per cent in two weeks and just one per cent in three months."

At Minneapolis, a civil defence director observed that before the shattered summit, "I couldn't give civil defence away." But after the collapse "I could sell our pamphlets at $10 a page."

While interest has increased, criticism remains, much of it aimed at the May 3-4 civil defence exercise. In New York when the alert sounded, 500 persons refused to take cover as required by New York regulations. Twenty-five were rounded up by police and hauled off to jail.

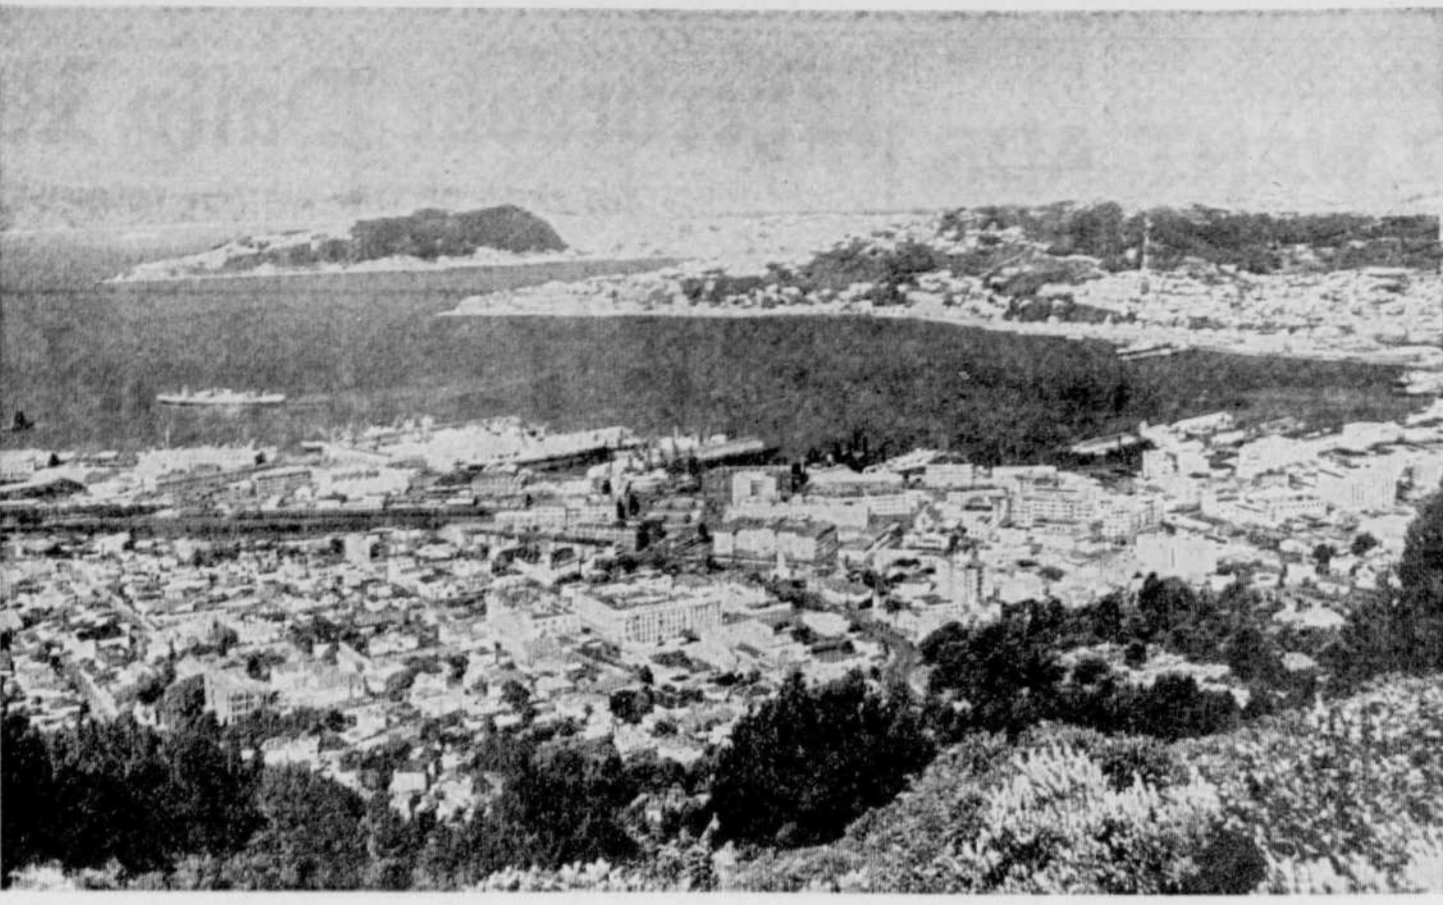

Here in Washington there were some reports that only one person—Hoegh himself—evacuated Washington for secret countryside shelters. Hoegh says that wasn't so. He disclosed that some 2,000 key government personnel went with him.

Within 15 seconds after the alarm sounded, 376 key points across the country were warned by radio and telephone. Hoegh says he got an acknowledgment from these points—all in 75 seconds.

This was a test of the civilian warning system where all normal broadcasting is suspended to confuse the enemy and listeners get alerting information from two points on the radio dial—640 and 1240. Hoegh says this part of the exercise worked perfectly.

Some 43 state governments also evacuated key personnel to underground shelters. The weakness, says Hoegh, was among some of the smaller cities.

WELLINGTON, NEW ZEALAND'S CAPITAL

New Zealanders rated insular, smug, lazy

Scathing new book sparks soul-searching

By RUSSELL ELMAN Canadian Press Staff Writer WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP) — A scathing condemnation of New Zealand in a new book by an American professor has probably aroused more soul-searching among New Zealanders than any other publication in recent years.

In his controversial Fern and the Tiki David Ausubel, a psychiatrist who spent a year here on a Fulbright fellowship, berates New Zealanders as being insular, smug, lazy, ill-disciplined and complacent. He finds the national character and attitudes moulded (for the worse) by the welfare state, juvenile delinquency rampant, and race relations between whites and Maoris less than perfect.

His sweeping criticisms, though ridiculed by some reviewers as unadulterated nonsense, have fired a hot national debate among many thinking people in government, business and education where the nation is heading.

In this election year many New Zealanders are asking themselves in a critical self-analysis whether the welfare state has run its full course, whether social security and full employment have bred inertia, and whether this is a young country grown prematurely old.

Today New Zealand's 2,400,000 inhabitants, predominantly of British stock, proudly boast one of the world's highest per capita incomes, no unemployment to speak of, excellent health standards, and a large measure of social security providing free hospital care, child allowances, universal superannuation. Life is leisurely and yet comfortable without the hypertension of North American society.

Whether Prime Minister Walter Nash's Labor party is returned for another three years or the opposition National party regains office, no fundamental alterations in the structure of the welfare state are envisaged. But some claim that under Labor rule New Zealand has suffered a loss of individual enterprise and initiative clearly evident in the country's daily living.

At work, tea breaks may seem to take precedence over getting a job done; in shops, assistants are frequently idle to a point of discourtesy to the prospective customer; beneath an outward atmosphere of friendliness, service in many hotels is notoriously bad; at weekends labor regulations appear to bring the country to a standstill except for rugby and horse racing, or more accurately betting at off-course government totalisator shops.

In a society where every man claims he's as good as his neighbor, where excessive wealth and abject poverty are unknown, where living is easy going, there seems a constant pressure for conformity.

Business circles complain of too much control vested in the hands of government officials mainly through their power to grant or withhold import permits, for without imported materials New Zealand's secondary industries could not survive. Management also tends to criticize some aspects of trade unionism such as compulsory overtime pay for Saturday and Sunday work, and featherbedding of jobs.

But progressive-minded companies have begun to institute incentive bonus schemes and executives say that given proper direction and work to do New Zealand employees compare favorably with workers in any country. Prosperity to some extent has tamed union militance, work stoppages are few and disputes often are settled without going to arbitration.

Teachers in the past resented a state-regulated wage scale in which their salaries were pegged to civil service pay rates. University salaries recently were raised following a royal commission report, but at one time a qualified schoolteacher might not earn much more than a lower-graded clerk.

Each year young doctors, scientists, junior executives migrate to Australia or Britain because they find insufficient scope for advancement at home.

Youngsters often travel around the world on so-called working holidays, picking up jobs where they can until they can move on to another country. But many young persons, particularly if married, prefer the security attainable at home. Stable jobs with regular pay increments and the benefits of the welfare state tend to attract the less adventurous to New Zealand's disproportionately large civil service, or such "safe" careers as teaching or white-collar clerical work. Commerce lately has begun to hold greater appeal as a career prospect.

Although New Zealand lives on its farms — through exports of butter, cheese, meat, wool — it's difficult for a young man to start out on his own farm without heavy financial backing. However, by a system of share-milking (or farming) youngsters can over a period of years hope to save enough eventually to purchase their own land.

Within New Zealand farmers receive the usual share of criticism for enjoying a supposedly easy living off the land without much effort. However, they probably put in as good a day's work as anyone else, and the sheep-shearers hold an enviable string of world records for speed and efficiency. More attention is being given to agricultural education, and today it is a common sight to see low-flying aircraft top-dressing the green fields.

Married couples find New Zealand's heavy income tax burdensome without high wages to provide additional purchasing power to meet relatively high living costs. A New Zealander, earning on the average about $45 a week, pays up to three times as much for an (imported) car as a Canadian or Briton; his house costs as much as in Canada, and imported manufactured goods are all expensive. Rents and foods are lower than in most countries.

Wives frequently work and husbands hold second jobs to supplement family incomes. But a 25-per-cent tax rate for secondary employment sometimes has the effect of placing a stamp of official discouragement on holding more than one job.

But in the final analysis few New Zealanders would probably wish to change their lot. Barring some unforeseen disaster, to them a country in which they can always be sure of a job, a roof over their heads, plenty to eat, care in sickness and old age, and a secure future for their children, with a maximum amount of leisure, is near enough to life's ideal.

New Zealanders have their share of material comforts with one in three families owning a car — not necessarily the latest model — and most homes are equipped with refrigerators, vacuum cleaners and washing machines. But as for keeping up with the North American Joneses across the Pacific ocean, or the Australian Joneses across the Tasman Sea, the New Zealander's rejoinder is "we don't die of heart attacks at the age of 40."

JACOBY On Bridge

PERFECT CASE FOR BLACKWOOD

The Blackwood convention is in almost universal use today and it is fully as valuable as its universal use would indicate. Still, it is abused almost as much as it is used.

In the next few articles I will attempt to show some of its pitfalls and also the way to use it.

In case anyone does not know the convention the basic bid is four no-trump to ask for aces. Partner responds five clubs to show no aces; five diamonds to show one; five hearts to show two; five spades to show three and five no-trump to show four. In advanced partnerships the five club response is used to show either no aces or four aces since it is assumed that the Blackwood bidder can tell which is being shown.

Today's hand is made up to show a perfect Blackwood situation. North opens with one diamond and after recovering from his astonishment South sees that he can make either 11, 12 or 13 tricks depending on how many aces North holds. South bids four no-trump; North bids five hearts to show two aces; and South goes to seven spades.

Bridge hand diagram showing North (D) 29, West, East, South, and North (D) 29 with various card counts and opening lead.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been: South West North East 1 Heart 1 Spade 2 Dmnds. Pass 2 N.T. Pass 3 Dmnds. Pass 7

You, South, hold: Spades A-Q, Hearts J-10-9-6-5, Diamonds K-3, Clubs K-J-7-6.

What do you do? A—Bid three no-trump. You are gambling some, but you will never get rich at bridge if you don't take chances and this chance is a good one.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Again West has overcalled your opening heart bid with a spade and your partner has bid two diamonds. You, South, hold: Spades A-Q, Hearts K-Q-10-8-7, Diamonds K-3, Clubs A-10-5-4. . . What do you do? Answer Tomorrow

India hopes to build 20 atomic power stations

By V. M. NAIR NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India hopes to build at least 20 atomic power stations in the next 15 years to meet the country's mounting demand for electric power.

Use of atomic energy to produce power is considered by Indian scientists to be the only solution to India's power shortage problem. Most of India's known deposits of coal are concentrated in central and northeastern India and its transport to other parts of the country is expensive.

India, on the other hand, had ample reserves of atomic minerals and atomic power stations using thorium, enriched on natural uranium can be economically located in regions where coal is not easily available.

In the next 15 years, India hopes to build at least 20 atomic power stations, their capacity ranging from a minimum of 215,000 horsepower to as much as 670,000 horsepower. By 1975, it is expected that at least 25 per cent of India's anticipated demand of 49,270,000 horsepower will be met from atomic power stations.

Plans for construction of the first atomic power station between Bombay and the textile town of Ahmedabad already are under way. The plant will have two reactors, each with a capacity of 150,000 kilowatts, and will use natural uranium as fuel.

Estimated to cost about $90,000,000, the plant will start generating electricity by 1964-65.

The Indian government has decided to seek outside assistance in building the plant, and world tenders are being invited.

Four of the world's leading atomic powers—Britain, France, the United States and the Soviet Union—already have shown interest in India's plans.

FRANKLY STATED

(Windsor Star) Employers have been missing a fine opportunity to find out what are their problems in employee relations, according to Mr. G. W. Woods, treasurer of the Trans-Canada Pipe Lines. He says an employee's views are undeniably frank when he has quit or been fired. If employers chatted with such men, they would ascertain what is wrong.

It is a common error to think employees quit mainly to get higher pay in another job. One survey made in one industry found that pay was well down on the list of reasons. Other more important factors were company policies, conditions of work, prospects of advancement, etc. Among those most mentioned was the very simple one that the employee didn't like his boss.

Firms often have a very substantial investment in employees training them and bringing them along until they become of maximum value. It is an economic waste to lose them, whether it be by their quitting or being fired.

QUICK SOLUTION

(Hamilton Spectator) Government held stocks of Cheddar cheese on June 1 totalled 44,324,000 pounds, an increase of more than nine million pounds over a year ago.

Quite a problem. But if every Canadian ate one more cheese sandwich a week it would be solved.

HALF AND HALF

ROME (AP)—The Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations reports plans for a $1,250,000 national fishery institute in Ecuador, half to be met by the UN special fund and half by Ecuador.

AID FOR CHILE

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslav youth organizations and the students' union have sent a shipment of drugs to help earthquake victims in Chile, and Chilean students are being offered a number of Yugoslav scholarships.

THE DANGER

(Fort William Times-Journal) A British member of parliament has suggested that Nikita Khrushchev should take up golf, that the world would be a happier place if he did. The idea may have merit, but we have a strong hunch that a week or so after the man started to play the game the Soviet propaganda machine would be heralding his feat of making a hole in one.

GREAT IDEA

(Cape Breton Post, Sydney, N.S.) An advertising executive in the United States has suggested getting rid of the "triple irritations" in TV commercials. 1. Interruption at an interesting point in a story. 2. The content of some commercials. 3. Repeating one commercial over and over and over.

The aforesaid executive had better watch out. Somebody might take him seriously and nominate him for the Nobel Peace Prize.

matter of FACT

Long before such innovations as "music to give a party by" or "music to dream by," George Frederick Handel was writing music for special occasions. He wrote the "Water Music" for a festival on the River Thames. Later, he composed music to watch fireworks by. This occasion was the celebration of an Anglo-French peace treaty. The treaty is a dim memory, but the fireworks music is still popular.

Mock raid showed U.S. could survive heavy nuclear attack

By HAROLD MORRISON Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — On the day the mythical enemy rained down its terror on the United States, the eight-hour, 200-bomb mock atomic raid left an estimated 40,000,000 casualties, dead and wounded.

Whole cities were devastated in the make-believe attack. Great mushroom clouds of killing atomic fallout spread over farm fields and streams, polluting and destroying the source of human food.

But when the 30-hour Operation Alert exercise was over, federal civil defence mobilizer Leo A. Hoegh surveyed the hypothetical damage and concluded that even in the present state of "non-military preparedness," the United States could survive a heavy nuclear attack.

Because of its wide dispersal, "our agriculture would suffer relatively little in reduced productive capacity," Hoegh says in reviewing the May 3-4 exercise. As for casualties, they could have been cut by as much as 75 per cent if there had been adequate fallout shelter across the country.

The trim, medium-sized Hoegh, a former Iowa governor, conceded in an interview that the civil defence exercise disclosed a number of weaknesses, "particularly at the local level" in the country's ability to protect itself. But he felt that on the whole the exercise was successful and that the future is encouraging.

Yet throughout the U.S., controversy over civil defence raises just as much as in Canada and other countries. Can in fact a country survive a nuclear devastation? Is civil defence really worthwhile?

"If a warning siren blew," says Republican Senator Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, "I would probably just lie down on the sidewalk and pray. I'd rather do that than go into a cellar. The building might collapse on me."

"Fallout shelters are not only feasible but could be an essential element of national defence, a major deterrent to nuclear blackmail or attack," says New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, head of a group of state governors seeking increased federal aid in shelter construction.

Less enthusiastic is General Curtis E. LeMay, air vice-chief of staff. Shelters for the U.S. population of some 180,000,000 would cost about $20,000,000,000. He favors "reasonable" shelter expenditures, but using the bulk of money for weapons.

Hoegh observed a change in the country's mood with a collapse of the summit. The public is demanding more information about civil defence; more shelters are being turned out.

Some can cost as much as $3,000 each but many do-it-yourself experts have erected adequate shelters at $150, using civil defence instructions. Dr. W. F. Libby, former U.S. atomic energy commissioner, is trying to work out a temporary shelter—one that might be good for a few fore the electorate too soon. They have unpleasant memories about developments in the federal field a few short years ago.

After all, they are assured of a reasonable indemnity for the next four years if they do not upset the appellation.

On the question of recounts. Generally, the Liberals should have more to gain from a judicial count of the votes. The Union Nationale machine was in charge of the last election and any "errors" in the admission of doubtful votes and the compiling of returns should have been in favour of the UN candidates.

has posed for photographs which indicate that he plans to use the Rideau river, which passes his residence and his new office building, as a means of avoiding congestion of the capital streets.

According to Hansard, R. H. Small, PC Member for Danforth and a leader in the Loyal Orange movement, has some doubts as to the wisdom of the idea.

Under the orders of the day, the following exchange appeared:

MR. R. H. SMALL (DANFORTH)—Mr. Speaker, will the Minister of Public Works be good enough to tell the House why he paddles a red-painted canoe.

MR. D. D. WALKER (MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS)—Would orange be more suitable to the hon. member or would he settle if I just painted it blue?

MR. SMALL—Why not try both?

MR. J. R. GARLAND (NIPISING)—I wish to direct a question to the Minister of Public Works. While he is out canoeing on the Rideau river, I wonder whether he fully realizes that he is up the creek on housing?

MR. WALKER—Mr. Speaker, I would sooner be going up the creek than be in the flood waters of Nipissing.

Before turning the gavel and chain of office over to the incoming president, he thanked the Board members and Rotarians for their cooperation and assistance in making it a good year.

Fred Sangster took the chair and expressed his intention of keeping the pace and maintaining the high standards set by the former executives.

Past President Ivan Saunders gave the thanks of the directors and board members to the retiring president and presented him with a past president's pin. Bart Holtham echoed his sentiments on behalf of the members.

Guests at the meeting included Rotarian Harold Budreau of Boston, Mass., and Dr. Melchior Spahn of Zurich, Switzerland.

Valdivia hit again

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Two earthquakes Tuesday shook southern Chile in the area of Valdivia, port city of 100,000 where 60 per cent of the buildings were destroyed by shocks and tidal waves in May. Valdivia has experienced daily tremors since the first devastating quakes, and Japanese seismologists surveying the area said it is likely that they will continue for two years. Tuesday's quakes caused no serious damage.

Vote total higher than population

FREDERICTON (CP) — The total number of votes in Monday's New Brunswick election outstripped the province's 1959-estimated population by 593,000 by more than 177,000.

The reason is that the voter in New Brunswick provincial elections has not one vote but anywhere from two to five.

A multiple - constituency system providing for each candidate to run on an at-large basis gives the voter the right to one choice for each seat representing his constituency.

This five - seat Gloucester County, the largest in the province, gives the voter in effect five votes. Others range from two to four.

For this reason, it is also impossible to tabulate the exact turnout at the polls. The system does not apply to federal elections here.

(bulimia), a progressive loss of appetite (anorexia) or the development of a strange desire to eat substances other than what is normally served at table (pica).

Attention of the housewife is directed to bulimia when there is an insistent demand for second helpings and a persistent tendency to raid icebox and larder between meals and at bedtime.

While it's quite normal for the growing child to "eat the family out of house and home" and for the pregnant woman to go through periods when she seems to be "eating for two," there are limits which merit consultation with the family doctor.

These limits are approached when the glutton gains an excessive amount of weight or, at the other extreme, fails to gain amount of weight that should result from the increased food intake.

Although bulimia is often and incorrectly attributed to "worm," it is more frequently an early sign of the sugar-sickness (diabetes mellitus) or of increased thyroid function (hyperthyroidism).

Through the alertness of the housewife, the physician may be enabled to diagnose and treat either condition when control is most easily accomplished.

It is neither unusual nor particularly alarming for very young children to develop pica in which they eat dirt, plaster, chalk, crayons, wallpaper or the enamel finish of their cribs. Even the casual observer of the infant notes how every object goes directly from hand to mouth.

However, lead poisoning (plumbism) may be a serious and even fatal hazard to the child who swallows the lead enamel paint of toys or crib, and a persistence of pica beyond school age is a definite call for medical investigation.

The most frequent disturbance in eating habits is anorexia. The housewife notes loss of appetite when most of the food she serves remains on the plate at the end of the meal.

Most often anorexia is due to some unimportant cause: The child who sneaked a candy bar just before the meal.

The teen-ager who stopped for a hot dog or a pizza on the way home.

The head of the house who filled up on cheese and crackers at the tavern where a pal "twisted his arm" to make him take a convivial drink.

The older whose dental "crockery" doesn't quite fit.

The unhappy patient who, with or without doctor's orders and consent, was dosing with appetite-killers, antihistamines, pain killers, tranquilizers or other drugs.

With or without obvious explanation, loss of appetite is not a symptom to be regarded lightly, particularly if it is associated with loss of weight and strength.

The wise housewife will not let more than a week or so go by before she takes her anorexia charge to the family doctor for a complete survey.

Sometimes, the return to the kitchen of a fairly full plate is an early sign of disease whose conquest is best assured by prompt recognition and skillful treatment

Three Villages Happenings

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Snyder, and family, Greg, Joyce, Margo and Christine, of Don Mills, Ont., are visiting Mrs. Snyder's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Greer, Rock Island, and other relatives and friends.

During the severe storm of June 17 the tool-shed on the Adrien Lefebvre farm in rural Stanstead was struck by lightning and burned. The shed contained farm machinery and tools, all of which were lost.

Misses Vicki and Darlene Beaver, of Montreal, are spending two weeks with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Tobin, Rock Island. Mrs. Gwen Beaver spent the week-end at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Bronson, Rock Island, were in Montreal to attend the closing exercises of the McKay Institute, where their daughter Beverly is a student. Miss Bronson returned home with her parents for the summer.

Mrs. Charles Bliss, Rock Island, was hostess for the June party of the Border Christmas Club. All twelve members attended and enjoyed playing games of 500. Prize winners were Mrs. Ida Haselton and Mrs. Lawrence Dewey. A door prize was won by Mrs. R. Gibson. Because of July being holiday month it was decided to have the party the evening of July 6 at the home of Mrs. Hattie Eryou. Mrs. M. B. Quillinan was present and as she was that day observing her birthday anniversary, she was surprised during the serving of refreshments to be presented with a prettily decorated cake aglow with lighted candles as her friends sang Happy Birthday and wished her many happy returns.

SWEPT AWAY
CAVALEIROS, Portugal (AP) A gypsy and her four children were drowned in a river near here when their donkey bogged down. As they stopped to free the donkey, a sudden rush of water swept all away.

Most often anorexia is due to some unimportant cause: The child who sneaked a candy bar just before the meal.

The teen-ager who stopped for a hot dog or a pizza on the way home.

The head of the house who filled up on cheese and crackers at the tavern where a pal "twisted his arm" to make him take a convivial drink.

The older whose dental "crockery" doesn't quite fit.

The unhappy patient who, with or without doctor's orders and consent, was dosing with appetite-killers, antihistamines, pain killers, tranquilizers or other drugs.

With or without obvious explanation, loss of appetite is not a symptom to be regarded lightly, particularly if it is associated with loss of weight and strength.

The wise housewife will not let more than a week or so go by before she takes her anorexia charge to the family doctor for a complete survey.

Sometimes, the return to the kitchen of a fairly full plate is an early sign of disease whose conquest is best assured by prompt recognition and skillful treatment

About Television

by Cynthia Lowry

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC doesn't do it often, but when it does it turns out the smartest, brightest musical variety shows in television. Monday night's special was a good example.

With Pat Boone acting as elder statesman and interpreter, we oldsters were introduced to some of the top young stars. One would have to have a closed mind about the 12-10-20 set not to have enjoyed the hour. They were fresh-faced, enthusiastic and each had his own style and personality.

All four of the male singing stars acquitted themselves stylishly — Boone, Bobby Darin, Ottawa - born Paul Anka and Frankie Avalon. Anita Bryant and a girl just called Annette were pretty and had their own skillful ways with tunes. The sets were simple and attractive, the orchestra arrangements and dance numbers tops. The show would have been even better if they could have silenced the squealing studio audience.

To Tell the Truth moves back to a later hour (10:30 p.m.) in CBS' Thursday night lineup starting July 7, but just through September. Bud Collyer, the moderator, has finally stopped throwing kisses to his panel members, and now it would be nice if he'd also stop trying to be a comedian. With the exception of Don Ameche, all the regulars on the basically entertaining show have a tendency to be too darned cute.

Vancouver Cliff Dwellers Go In For Luxury Suites

VANCOUVER (CP) — A new trend in apartment living is fast finding favor with Vancouver's mink and limousine set. It's the luxury suite. Although apartment living has been enjoying a boom here in recent years, only a handful of buildings carry the luxury tag. Most good-class buildings offer just one piece of deluxe living—the penthouse. Recently, however, designers have been turning more and more to the prestige type of building largely neglected since the 1920s. Typical of the new trend are tall new blocks on English Bay where you can rent a suite for up to $750 or buy one for up to $100,000.

RIGID STANDARDS
These are extreme examples, but luxury living is by no means cheap. Rental agents say an apartment must meet certain standards to be classed as a luxury suite. It's not enough to live in a penthouse for instance. The penthouse has to be situated in a prestige-type building, with the best location and view, the best services and facilities, and the biggest suites. A one-bedroom apartment should have at least 800 feet of floor space. A one-bedroom suite should earn around $150 to $200 a month, with rents rising to $500 for three bedrooms.

COSTLY CO-OPS
Many wealthier people prefer to buy their suites — at prices ranging from $10,000 to $15,000 for the popular type to twice the amount for a luxury suite. Suites in Ocean Towers, a new luxury block with 18 storeys plus penthouse, sell for $31,000 to $38,000. Their total value is about $2,500,000.

Apart from the original cost, owners pay up to $86 a month to cover taxes, insurance, window cleaning, gardening and all other types of services. Price tag for the penthouse: Close to $100,000. Probably the fanciest suite of-

Missisquoi Historical Society members tour interesting scenes of pioneer days

Birthplace of John Godfrey Saxe, 1816-1877

By RUBY MOORE
(Record Correspondent)

COWANSVILLE — A historic cavalcade met at the Pike River Church on Saturday, June 18, at 10 a.m. to start a trip which proved most interesting. Members of the Missisquoi County Historical Society, led by their president, Alfred Rousseau, started their tour by calling first at the John Godfrey Saxe homestead near Highgate, Vt. After arriving there the party took great delight in visiting the scene of the former Saxe's Mills, where John Saxe built a grist mill on Rock River, had a general store, a post office, a saw mill, a marble mill, carding machines and a potashery. The house was built in 1800, and re-modelled in 1838. It was in this house upstairs that dances were held, and the young people of the neighborhood had fun there. The first log-mill was built here in 1787, and the millstones now used as the front steps of this fine old home, are still in a good state of preservation.

The Vermont Historical Society erected a boulder from the shores of Lake Champlain in the yard of the home to honor the poet John Godfrey Saxe, who was born here and became a very famous man.

VISIT MISSION SITE

From this spot the cavalcade moved on to the site of the Indian mission built by the St. Francis Indians on the Missisquoi River, not far from Swanton, Vt. A fine monument is erected to mark the site of this chapel built by the Abenaki Indians. They lived here from 1700 to 1783, when they moved and took their chapel with them in their canoes to a spot about four miles from St. Hyacinthe, Father Lyons of Swanton gave an interesting historical sketch of these early settlers which was keenly enjoyed.

After leaving Swanton the party went directly to Alburg, and then on to Noyan to the lovely old historic stone house of Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacCallum on the Richelieu. This is a beauty spot within sight of old Fort Montgomery. Around 75 people gathered here and enjoyed their picnic lunch under the trees and were served coffee by their hosts. An interesting time was spent in viewing Mr. MacCallum's wonderful collection of old documents, letters, etc., dating back to very early days.

At the close of this meeting the tour continued under the direction of Mr. MacCallum, visiting the home of Reuben Vaughan, who had been a ferryman on the Richelieu for many years and just a short distance from his home on the banks of the river a stone cairn is erected to mark the grave of Remember Baker, a cousin of Ethan Allen's, who was killed while on a scouting expedition near this spot by the Indians. The site of the Caldwell Manor House was also pointed out.

This completed a wonderful day keenly enjoyed by all. Members are grateful to Mr. Rousseau for planning the meeting and to Mr. and Mrs. MacCallum and their family and friends for the warm hospitality extended by them to their eastern Missisquoi who hope to return this hospitality next year.

MEETING HELD

Mr. Rousseau called a short meeting and introduced Mrs. Arthur Wells, of Bakersfield, Vt., who gave an interesting talk on John Godfrey Saxe. She was accompanied by M. Gates, who had helped plan the Champlain Festival in 1959.

Mrs. Chester Adams, of Clarenceville, read a vivid paper on the Seigneurie of Noyan. Many interesting facts about this section of our county were gleaned from this paper. The bridge over the Richelieu at Noyan was built in 1884, the Anglican Church has been in existence there for 148 years.

Mr. MacCallum gave an informal talk which kept his listeners entranced with the story of early life in that section. Farms were 800 feet wide and one mile long in the seignory. The contract for building his stone house is among his papers, and the price was $284.

STORY OF OLD FORT

The story of the old fort named after Richard Montgomery was an interesting one. It was started in 1812 by the Americans and after the boundary line was drawn it was found to be two miles inside the Canadian border, but the Canadian Government exchanged this piece of property for one in Maine, so the Americans retained the fort and kept adding to it in 1842. It was not completed until 1890. A garrison was maintained there.

At one time 5,000 troops were there for the summer from Fort Ethan Allen. This fort was dismantled in 1910, and was sold in 1925 to a farmer who used the land for pasturing, as it had reverted to the State for back taxes. The contractor for the Rouse's Point Bridge bought the stones, crushed them and used them in the bridge. There were huge flagstones placed in yard of the fort weighing four and five tons. The stone from that section, of a nice grey shade, was used in the construction of the Empire State Building and the forts on Isle La Motte and Isle Aux Noix.

It was announced that a meeting is to be held on July 24, at 2 p.m., in Mr. Rousseau's office in Bedford, of the committee appointed to attend to the printing of a historical report. Members of the committee are to solicit advertisements for this book in the county.

At the close of this meeting the tour continued under the direction of Mr. MacCallum, visiting the home of Reuben Vaughan, who had been a ferryman on the Richelieu for many years and just a short distance from his home on the banks of the river a stone cairn is erected to mark the grave of Remember Baker, a cousin of Ethan Allen's, who was killed while on a scouting expedition near this spot by the Indians. The site of the Caldwell Manor House was also pointed out.

This completed a wonderful day keenly enjoyed by all. Members are grateful to Mr. Rousseau for planning the meeting and to Mr. and Mrs. MacCallum and their family and friends for the warm hospitality extended by them to their eastern Missisquoi who hope to return this hospitality next year.

Born in Dell in 1876, she has spent many years in the United ber of the Eastern Star. Mrs. MacLeod suffered a severe stroke a few years ago, which left her partially paralyzed for some time, but she is now quite active, helps about the house, walks to the neighbors, to church and attends various meetings. She spends many hours in knitting beautiful lace, is a keen reader and keeps abreast with world news.

She recalls the flood in 1927 and having to leave her home by canoe. One incident of her childhood remains clearly in her mind. She and her sister very innocently put earth in the quern, (grist mill), which was used to grind the grain for the family flour. It took many hours of cleaning before it was ready for use again. This old quern has been erected in Mr. Morrison's garden where it can still be operated, the main parts being two large stones.

Pay-As-You-Earn Plan

Things Look Up For UK's Aged

By STEWART MACLEOD
LONDON (CP)—Starting next year, things will look better for Britain's old-age pensioners, now faced with a fairly rough road to hoe.

But by Canadian standards, their lot will remain unattractive.

Under the government's new pay-as-you-earn plan, based on the earnings of workers, old-age pensioners will be able to qualify for state pensions of up to £4 11s 6d a week. For many, it will be a big jump from the existing flat rate of £2 10s.

And for those not qualifying for an increase—anyone earning less than £9 a week—contributions will be lowered.

APPEAR PALTRY
Unless the pensions are viewed in the context of Britain's comprehensive welfare state, they seem well below the existence level.

But only about 1,000,000 of Britain's 5,250,000 pensioners now require additional help—and there is lots of government help available.

The existing pensions, with minor variations, have been in effect for 15 years. Under the present plan, the rate is the same for all male workers, although weekly contributions vary for the self-employed, the non-employed and those employed by others. The last group, forming the vast majority, pay 9s 11d a week to the government for pensions, complete health coverage, maternity grants, burial and unemployment benefits.

CAN CHANGE JOBS
Government spokesmen have explained that the new system is designed as a foundation on which workers can build up private provisions for old age. Employees can transfer from one job to another and their pension plan goes with them at no extra cost.

It won't interfere with any private pensions companies may offer. But if the employee leaves a private scheme, his employer will be bound to buy him back into the state plan.

Opposition members of Parliament have criticized the government for not providing higher pensions for those earning more than £15 a week. Government spokesmen say that to impose a compulsory scheme on anyone earning more than £15 would infringe on personal liberty. Many private plans are available through insurance companies.

The average industrial weekly wage in Britain is £11 8s 6d.

When the new plan comes into effect next April, the contribution for those earning less than £9 will drop to 8s 4d.

EMPLOYERS PAY TOO
And those earning £15 a week—the highest salary specified under the plan—can get their £4 11s 6d weekly pension by paying 13s 5d.

In all cases, employers match the employees' contribution. If the pensioner is married he can collect an additional 20s for his wife. This won't change under the new scheme.

The new changes are designed to tighten up a long-recognized weak spot in Britain's welfare services. For years, members of Parliament have been campaign-

Carmen Basilio And Gene Fullmer Meet Tonight For NBA Title With Champ Favored, ABC To Carry Fight

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — The world middleweight title—National Boxing Association version—is the stake tonight when champion Gene Fullmer of Utah tangles with challenger Carmen Basilio of New York.

The fight, a rematch of their brawl in San Francisco last Aug. 28, is scheduled for 15 rounds in Derks Field. It will be televised by ABC starting at 10 p.m. EDT.

The NBA crown is recognized almost everywhere but in New York and Massachusetts. Paul Pender is the wo-state champion there.

Fullmer, at 28 a veteran of ring warfare since 1951, is favored at odds of about 12 to 5 in light betting here. He handed the gallant old Basilio, 33, his first knockout. Carmen was never counted out but the match was stopped in the 14th round and under California rules the result went as a kayo.

The promoters expect 13,000 fans to pay at least $100,000. TV rights went for another $100,000. Fullmer, from nearby West Jordan, gets 40 per cent of the gate and TV; Basilio 30 per cent.

A referee and two judges will score the match on the 10-point must system. The winner of a round is given 10 points, the loser nine or fewer.

Basilio made no pre-fight promises except to say this "will be a different fight." Fullmer never makes predictions.

Basilio worked out in secret at Ogden, 40 miles north of Salt Lake City. Only a privileged few have seen him.

Basilio is reported to weigh about 155, a pound less than in the first Fullmer match. Fullmer weighed 159½ for that one and figured to hit about the same figure at weigh-in time today.

Harold Gilchrist Scores Ace At Lennoxville Club

Harold Gilchrist, 17, of Lennoxville, scored a hole-in-one on the 126-yard 3rd hole of the Lennoxville Golf Club yesterday afternoon.

Accompanying him in the foursome were Mike Draper, Bill Bennett and Harold Sorensen. The hole-in-one was also witnessed by Vi Elliott and Mavis Desile.

The shot was played with a nine-iron.

Arnold Palmer Top Choice To Win British Open

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Arnold Palmer took a long hard look at the silver cup of the British Open golf championship today—but he will have to play better than he did on his first try.

Fresh from Ireland and his Canada Cup triumph, the American found the old course at the Royal and Ancient Club at its toughest and went round in 82—11 over par Tuesday. This is his first visit here.

To his credit, a gusty northerly wind buffeted the fairways throughout his practice spell.

He commented wryly afterwards: "I don't think I ever played in a wind like that but I was not hitting the ball properly. I had no practice before the round and I have been flying and motoring since I left Dublin."

But he was confident about his prospects in next week's Open. "The course seems in fine condition and I think I am going to like it," he said.

HOW HIGH IS UP? — It's a long way up — but better than riding horses, says 54-inch jockey David (Pee-Wee) Lawrence, 19, as he stands on chair to buss model Laurie Hinds, 23. Pee-Wee, who arrived aboard the SS Orsova from New Zealand, will ride in the United States. (CP Photo)

Pierre Lacaille Sets Merry Pace At Plate With Three Home Runs In Wide Open Slugging Fest, Game Tonight

Scoring at will Senators romped to a 31-15 win over the Tigers in a Little League game last night at the Parade Grounds. Tonight the Yankees visit the Indians at the Parade Grounds game time 6:30.

A big 21-run inning was enough for the Senators to take last night's game. Tigers in this one showed nothing at all. Loose play in the infield and sure outs missed by the outfield were a big factor in piling up the Senators' runs.

Feature of the game was the hitting of Pierre Lacaille. In five trips to the plate he hit three home runs and finished off with a single. Hamel, Martel and Cabana each hit safely three times for the winners.

Tigers big hitters were Chatain, Martin, Choquette and Giguere all coming up with two hits.

Sandra Reynolds Of South Africa Knocks Darlene Hard Out Of Tourney

LONDON (Reuters) — South Africa's Sandra Reynolds trounced Darlene Hard of the United States Tuesday and for the first time in decades no American was left in the semi-finals of the Wimbledon tennis championships.

The eighth-seeded Miss Reynolds upset second-seeded Miss Hard 6-1, 2-6, 6-1 in 47 minutes. Miss Hard was Wimbledon runner-up in 1957-58.

Her defeat killed the last American hope of Wimbledon glory as Karen Hantze, 17, earlier in the afternoon went down to defeat at the hands of Briton Christine Truman, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

The American men's singles hope were shattered Monday when Barry MacKay and Earl Buchholz both lost.

REYNOLDS MEETS HAYDON
Miss Reynolds now will play British southpaw Ann Haydon in the semi-finals. Miss Haydon beat South African Renee Schuurman 7-5, 1-6, 6-2.

Miss Truman will meet defending champion Maria Bueno of Brazil in the other semi-final. Miss Bueno had no trouble in blitzing Briton Angela Mortimer 6-1, 6-1.

In the men's singles, Australian Rod Laver and Indian Raman Krishnan fought through to semi-final berths.

Krishnan, seeded seventh, produced some of the best tennis of the tournament in ousting fourth-seeded Chilean Luis Ayala 7-5, 10-8, 6-2. Laver played patchy tennis in beating fellow Australian Roy Emerson 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4.

Krishnan now will play Fraser and Laver will meet Italian Nicola Pietrangeli.

Pirates And Giants Battle To Tie, Braves Post Win Over Cubs While Phillies Blank Los Angeles Dodgers

Either the Pittsburgh Pirates are running into trouble, or they're running in luck.

Manager Danny Murtaugh has gone with three of his top four starting pitchers in the last three games and hasn't won any of them. But the Bucs have lost only one game off their lead.

After Vern Law and Bob Friend were beaten in a double-header loss to Chicago's Cubs Sunday, southpaw Harvey Haddix was chased in a four-run first inning Tuesday night. But the Pirates three times battled from behind and came off with a 7-1 tie against San Francisco in a rain-interrupted game ended by curfew after nine innings.

Second place Milwaukee moved within 2½ games of the leaders with a comeback, 5-3 victory over the Cubs. Cincinnati jumped past St. Louis into fourth place by clobbering the Cards 10-4. And seventh place Philadelphia made it eight out of 10 with a 2-0 job on Los Angeles as Dallas Green allowed the Dodgers only three hits for his first victory and complete game in the majors.

GIANTS NEVER TRAIL
The third place Giants never trailed, but had to scrap for the tie in the ninth. The Pirates tied it on two walks and Roberto Clemente's RBI single against Stan Musial and Jack Sanford before Sanford retired three in a row with the bases loaded, fanning pinch-hitter Hal Smith in the final out.

The Giants, getting triples by Felipe Alou and Andre Rodgers in the first inning, also blew 5-3 leads. Rocky Nelson drove in four runs for Pittsburgh, tagging starter Sam Jones for a three-run homer in the first. The game will be replayed.

Wes Covington got the job done for the Braves. He drove in three runs, beating Glen Hobbie (6-10) with his solo sixth home run in the sixth inning after his two-run double had tied it 3-3 in the third. Warren Spahn (6-4), now 6-4 against the Cubs going back to June, 1958, gave up eight hits, but blanked Chicago over the last seven frames.

BIG FIRST INNING
A five-run first inning, capped by Ed Bailey's one-run homer, got the Reds rolling at St. Louis against loser Ron Kline (3-7). Jim O'Toole (6-7) was the winner, but needed relief help from Jim Brosnan and Bill Henry after giving up eight of the Cards' 13 hits. Alex Grammas and Curt Flood homered for St. Louis, while Stan Musial rapped a pair of doubles and a single.

Green, 24, a 6-foot-5 right-hander up from Buffalo, walked three and struck out three while allowing the Dodgers only a third-inning single by Don Demetre, a double by Charlie Neal in the fourth and a ninth-inning single by Norm Larker. Stan Williams (6-2) gave up a first-inning run on consecutive doubles by Tony Gonzalez and Tony Taylor Pancho Herrera then tagged the Dodger right-hander for his ninth homer.

Senators Are Assuming Spoilers' Role, Belt White Sox And Orioles In Row, Yanks Pad Lead With Win

The Washington Senators, winning when no one expected them to, suddenly are sixth-place spoilers in the American League pennant race with their longest success streak of the season.

Their two pitching aces, Camilo Pascual and Pedro Ramos, are nursing injuries, putting the pressure on second liners and relievers, and slugger Harmon Killebrew still is hobbled. But they've won five in a row.

After knocking Baltimore out of first place with a 3-2, 10-inning decision Monday night, the Senators stayed at it with a 2-1, 14-inning victory over Chicago's fourth place White Sox Tuesday night. Ray Moore and Chuck Stobbs, who won it, gave Washington's relief corps a string of 7-2-3 shutout innings in the streak.

The New York Yankees padded their lead to a half-game with a 5-3 victory over the Kansas City Athletics while Cleveland edged Baltimore 3-2 in 11 innings on Johnny Temple's home run. Detroit belted Boston 10-1.

A three-run inning, cracking a 2-2 tie, gave the Yankees their 18th victory in the last 20 decisions as Bob Turley (5-1) won his fifth in a row. Bob Cerv, batting for Turley, broke the tie with a checked-swing double off southpaw Bud Daley (10-4), who now has lost two straight after nine consecutive victories. Mickey Mantle hit his 17th home run for the Yanks and Norm Sieben tagged his ninth for the A's. It was Kansas City's ninth straight loss at Yankee Stadium.

The Tigers, after losing three in a row, swung for 15 hits at Boston against loser Ike Delock (1-3) and five relievers. Norm Cash homered in a four-run second. Don Mossi (5-5) was the winner, shutting out the Red Sox on four hits until the seventh, when Carroll Hardy hit a pinch double and scored on Ted Williams' single.

Brompton Wins Second Tilt Of Year

Downs Indians 9-7 In Junior League Last Night; Kist Drops First Of Season To Coaticook Canadians 5-2

Brompton Royals posted their second win of the Junior League season when they edged Indians 9-7 at Municipal Stadium last night. In other loop action, the league-leading Kist squad finally ended their winning streak when they dropped a close tilt to Coaticook Canadians 5-2 in Coaticook.

The league standings were not changed as regards positions by last evening's results however, club percentages, except Fuller underwent changes. A general leveling off among the loop's members is now underway and the results should be plenty of fine baseball in the near future.

In the Brompton-Indians fixture, pitching was the action highlight with Jean-Guy Mathieu starting on the mound for the hosting Redmen while Mike Raymond and Maurice Audet shared hurling chores for the Royals.

Pitcher Mathieu, playing his first game of the season, whiffed seven men, and walked five while his opponent for 5 2/3 innings, Mike Raymond, struck out eight men and gave two free passes to first. Relief hurler Maurice Audet whiffed one man and walked five.

In the first frame, both teams racked up single points. Audet scoring for Brompton and Desrochers tallying for the Indians. The Redmen posted three runs in the fifth inning when Lemire, Desrochers, and Mathieu scored while, in the top of the sixth, Brompton brought in the grand total of eight points. Indians tried desperately to take the tilt but could only rack up three runs in the bottom of the sixth and the game ended 9-7 in favor of Brompton Royals.

Brompton 100 008-9 5 4
Indians 100 033-7 8 6

Next Fight Will Be Last, Win, Lose Or Draw, Says Ingemar Johansson

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Win, lose or draw the next fight will be "my absolutely last one" for Sweden's Ingemar Johansson.

Sun-tanned and completely at ease, the dehorned heavyweight champion told newsmen at Kastrup Airport on his arrival from New York he thought he would have a fair chance to beat Floyd Patterson in their third fight "in October, maybe in November, maybe later."

The handsome 27-year-old boxer, said he was "not at all dissatisfied" with last week's bout in which he was knocked out by Patterson's left hook in the fifth round.

REMEMBER WHEN . . .

Heavyweight champion Joe Louis knocked out Two-Ton Tony Galento in the fourth round of a fierce title fight 21 years ago tonight at New York. Galento, weighing 233 pounds to the Brown Bomber's 200, had the champion down in the third round but Louis came back with a savage attack in the fourth.

Detroit—Henry Hank vs Victor Zolazar bout postponed to Thursday, rain.

"I won't say it was fun (to lose)," he said, "but next time I will know more about Patterson than the last two times. I'll have more to work with."

Johansson did not elaborate when he said his next fight would be "my last. . . my absolutely last one."

BACK TO HOME TOWN

Johansson said he did not plan to return to Sweden, his native country, in the near future. His fiancée, Birgit Lundgren, who accompanied him on the flight, will return to the old home town, Göteborg, Sweden, next week.

The former champ will make a movie about Denmark with singer Dinah Shore for American television consumption. Then he will go to Geneva, his adopted home.

Asked if he saw much improvement in Patterson, Johansson said he was "better, but not considerably so."

When reporters asked about his own fighting, Ingemar said, "As for me, I thought I was quite good in the beginning. But I was slow . . . too slow . . . during the entire match. And in the second round (when he hit Patterson with a stiff right hand) I didn't shake him enough. . . at least not so much as I wanted to."

Archie Moore Reveals His Special Diet

NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Moore, the venerable light heavyweight boxing champion who frequently puts on more than 30 pounds between title defenses and then makes the 175-pound limit by fight time, has revealed the secret of his diet.

Sports Illustrated, in an excerpt from his book, The Archie Moore Story, gives samples of Archie's weight-reducing eating program and fluid intake.

He starts each day with four ounces of sauerkraut juice with a teaspoon of lemon juice, and makes it a practice to chew meat thoroughly without swallowing it. This, he says, he discovered by watching the Australian aborigines, famed for their strength and vitality.

TWO SOLID POUNDS

The champion says that by following this meat procedure he could lose two "solid" pounds a week.

Here's a sample one-day diet: Breakfast—one cup kraut juice, one poached egg, one slice of thin whole wheat bread, one tablespoon honey, three strips crisp bacon, one cup black coffee or tea, eight-ounce glass of water.

Lunch—one slice whole wheat bread, plain or toasted; an apple or orange, eight-ounce glass of buttermilk, eight-ounce glass of water, one cup of black coffee or tea.

Dinner—one cup vegetable soup, large T-bone steak, rare to medium rare (follow chewing instructions); half head of lettuce, six raw carrot sticks, one cup spinach and broth, fresh fruit cup (avoid canned fruit because of sweetened syrup); eight ounce glass of water, one cup of coffee or tea.

Sherbrooke Posts 4-3 Victory Over Three Rivers In Provincial Inter-Play; Montreal Team Here Saturday

A tennis team, formed from members of the Sherbrooke Tennis Association, downed Three Rivers 4-3 in matches held at the Pavillon Mauricien, Cap-de-la-Madeleine, Sunday. The meeting of the two clubs was a regular Provincial inter-zone league match.

This was the second time that the Sherbrooke team has beaten Three Rivers, the first time being last June 4 when Sherbrooke was host to the Three Rivers club.

The next meeting of clubs in the Provincial inter-zone competition will be on July 2 when a team from Montreal visits Sherbrooke. The seven matches slated will be played on the Sherbrooke Tennis Association courts at the Sports Club on Fraser Street.

In the first match, Sherbrooke's Raymond Royer defeated Lionel Martineau 6-2, 6-1 while in the second, Three Rivers' Normand Trotter downed Fat Henri of Sherbrooke 2-6, 6-3. Claude Metras, acting captain of the Sherbrooke team, pushed Sherbrooke into the lead once again when he posted a 4-6, 6-2, 6-3 victory over Jocelyn Dumas.

In the ladies section, Betty Henri furthered Sherbrooke's lead when she defeated Jovette Girard 7-5, 6-4. The Royer brothers, Richard and Raymond, increased the visiting club's lead to 4-1 when they outpointed Jean-Claude Croteau and Guy St. Pierre 6-1, 6-0.

However, the Three Rivers club finished the day in fine style when they took the remaining two matches. The duet of Martineau-Trotter had a relatively easy time in defeating Sherbrooke's twosome formed of Pat Henri and Camille Charron 6-0, 6-2. In the final match of the event, Marie and Gilberte Martineau edged Betty Henri and Marylin Metras 6-8, 6-4, 6-3.

$2,500,000 Pipeline Envisaged In Water Supply Plan

Dotted Line Shows Proposed Pipeline from Lake Memphremagog to Sherbrooke

Memphremagog scheme said still very much alive

By PAT BOUGIE
(Record Staff Reporter)

Has the $2,500,000 Jeanson plan to draw the Sherbrooke water supply from Lake Memphremagog gone down the drain?

"No, it definitely has not," Alderman J. M. Jeanson says, "I will probably bring it up in City Council sometime during the late summer after the waterworks improvement loan by-law and Assumption parish slum clearance plans have been settled."

Besides being the city's waterworks committee chairman, Mr. Jeanson is also chairman of the Assumption parish slum clearance plan.

What is the Jeanson plan?

It consists of drawing Sherbrooke's water supply from Lake Memphremagog through a 19-mile long pipeline and the installation of several pumping stations between Sherbrooke and the lake instead of building a $3,000,000 filtration plant to improve the quality of city water.

SECOND PLAN

This system would make use of pipes 36 inches in diameter.

A second plan was submitted by public engineer Jacques Lemieux suggesting the use of a 42-inch pipe but the idea was discarded after learning of the cost — $3,154,750.

In his report, Mr. Lemieux said that the only alternative to the construction of a filtration system served by the Pare Street pumping station would be to draw the water from nearby lakes.

Because of pumping difficulties and quantity of water the only lakes from which water could be obtained would be Brompton and Memphremagog.

However, the water from Brompton lake is not considered as good as the water from the Magog river, which the city is using at present. Memphremagog water is better.

Brompton Lake water is not as clear as the present Sherbrooke water.

As regards to color and alkalinity Lake Memphremagog water is the best in the area, the Lemieux report showed.

Tests showed that this water was completely safe to drink without filtration, but would have to be chlorinated.

LESS CHLORINE

Less chlorine would have to be used in Memphremagog water than the city is now using in the water drawn from the Magog river. The city now uses up 8,500,000 gallons of water per day.

To take care of a population of 125,000 which the city may have within 25 years, the installation of a 36-inch pipe supplying 18,000,000 gallons per day would be ideal, the report stated.

The drop between the lake and the city of Sherbrooke is 117 feet. The supply main would be located near Georgeville.

The 42-inch diameter pipe could meet a daily demand of 22,500,000 gallons.

Sherbrooke water could not be drawn from Little Lake Magog because the water is extremely bad. Within the next few years, swimming could be prohibited in this lake, Mr. Lemieux said.

If any break in the system occurred between here and Magog, should the pipeline be built, water could be drawn temporarily from the present source of supply, the Magog River.

The pipe would be buried three feet underground.

Most business organizations throughout the city approved of the Jeanson plan. Two doctors in particular strongly favored it because obtaining water in this way would be "more sanitary" than a filtration plant, they said.

AIR FILTER

Dr. Leo Blais said, "a filter will clean the water but will not eliminate viruses and other germs. The ideal plan would be an air filter or to draw the water from great depths."

"The Jeanson project would be more sanitary than a filtration plant," he added.

"This is not the only solution but for the present time it is the ideal solution," he said.

Dr. Normand Breault supported Dr. Blais' views.

Dr. Breault also suggested a 'very expensive way' of cleaning water which would be to pass it through an ultraviolet ray system which would kill all viruses.

A suggestion by an unidentified official that the Jeanson project could supply most municipalities in this vicinity with water met with a mixed reaction.

The public engineer suggested that surrounding municipalities group themselves and form a water co-operative.

At the time, Alderman J. M. Jeanson said that it would be advantageous to the City of Sherbrooke to supply Rock Forest and Deauville with water.

Magog Mayor Maurice Theroux said that he would be willing to purchase water from Sherbrooke should the Jeanson project become a reality.

There has also been question of supplying Ste. Catherine and Omerville.

According to a second report submitted by engineer Lemieux, the 36-inch diameter pipe would be sufficient to supply all these municipalities along the line.

Total distance of the pipeline would be 19 miles.

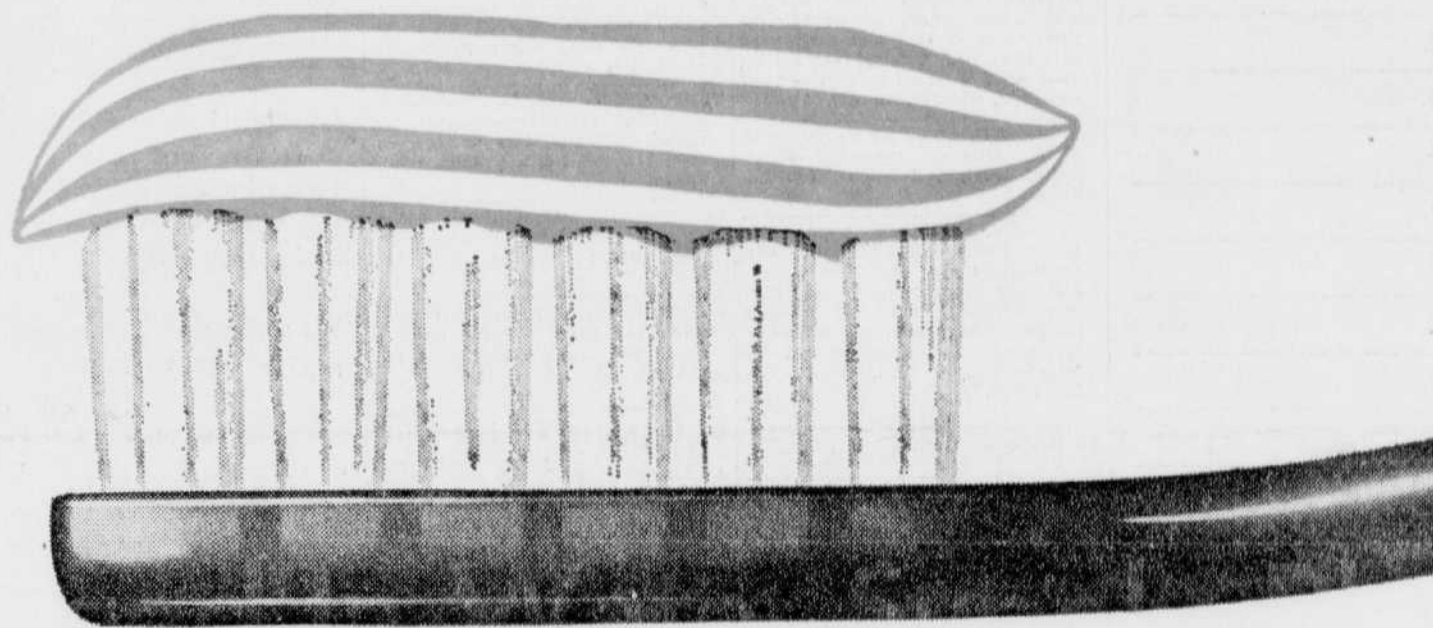

However, one municipality in particular, Rock Forest disapproved of tapping the pipeline.

According to the Jeanson plan, the pipeline would pass about one and a half miles from Rock Forest.

A special mile and a half diversion pipe would have to be built from the main line to the village.

According to the mayor of Rock Forest, Dr. Raymond Bellevance, the arrangement would cost the municipality too much to finance.

New STRIPE

gives you the benefits of toothpaste plus mouthwash

This is the remarkable story of new Stripe toothpaste, that gives you the benefits of toothpaste plus mouthwash.

Ever since scientists discovered that germs cause tooth decay and bad breath, they have been trying to develop a protective toothpaste. They know that ordinary toothpaste is not an effective germ-killer. It does wash some of the germs away. But those left behind soon multiply into millions.

The answer: hexachlorophene

The answer was discovered in an effective germ-killer called hexachlorophene. During World War II, surgeons found hexachlorophene far more effective than traditional methods of cleansing their hands before operations, yet so gentle it could be used with complete safety. They also learned that hexachlorophene clings to the skin, keeping germs away between washings.

Now in a toothpaste

Now Lever Brothers' scientists have developed a way to put hexachlorophene to work in a toothpaste—an effective new red-and-white toothpaste called Stripe. Rigorous testing shows that Stripe with hexachlorophene—

- kills tooth decay germs better than any plain white toothpaste.
- kills bad breath germs too, giving you mouthwash protection.

In this way, Stripe gives you the benefits of toothpaste plus mouthwash.

Clings to mouth surfaces

Moreover, Stripe's hexachlorophene clings to the surfaces inside your mouth for hours.

It keeps fighting germs between brushings... for hour after hour... as clearly proved in clinical tests.

And Stripe's hexachlorophene penetrates between the teeth... where tooth decay and bad breath often start... and where your brush can't reach.

Stripe is 100% sugar-free, and completely safe for children of all ages. In fact, children are so fascinated by the way Stripe comes out of the tube in red and white stripes that they brush longer and more often than ever before.

Remember, the exclusive red stripes identify Lever Brothers' hexachlorophene toothpaste. Get Stripe for your family today.

When you see these red stripes— you know you are getting germ-killing HEXACHLOROPHENE

The performance and quality of Stripe toothpaste are unconditionally guaranteed by Lever Brothers Limited.

Collapse of Vaudville mirrored in clippings

WINNIPEG (CP)—Bill Moore thumbs through his collection of yellowed newspaper clippings and souvenir programs and remembers with nostalgia when he was hailed as the man who brought vaudeville back to Winnipeg.

Now approaching 70, Bill hasn't had a job since 1945. "Nobody said goodbye, God bless you or anything. It broke my heart."

Bill was born in Lincoln, Neb., and after a background as props man, stage manager and musical director, moved to the footlights as a singer and piano player.

BUILD-UP MAN

In 1914, after organizing his own orchestra, he worked for Finkelstein and Ruben, an organization that owned a group of theatres in the upper mid-western United States.

"I was a build-up man. When a theatre was down they'd send me there for two or three weeks to build up business."

A Negro, Bill had trouble with the Ku Klux Klan when he was sent to build business at a dance pavilion in Detroit Lakes, Minn. Though warned that he would be tarred and feathered if he continued, Bill decided to fulfil the last six days of his engagement. Each night, he said, a cross was burned outside the pavilion. Bill's band—the London Serenaders—first played Winnipeg at the Alhambra Dance Gardens.

U.K. Teenagers

Eliminate Confusion Over Teds LONDON (CP)—To eliminate any confusion about teds, mods, beats and teds, this story is offered as a simple guide to the current crop of British teen-agers.

It will serve as a reference until a new variety emerges, probably in a week or two.

Introducing them briefly, they are:

The mods—They go for traditional jazz and all aspects of Edwardian dress except long jackets.

The mods—They go for modern jazz, Italian jackets and Perry Como haircuts.

The beats—Better known as beatniks. They wear identical clothes—long slippy sweaters, old jeans, well-worn sandals, long hair and beards. They are against conformity.

TEDS CHANGE CLOTHES The teds they began in Edwardian dress but now favor Wyatt Earp's clothes. They like rock 'n' roll, sideburns and flick-knives.

Other teen-agers, who form the great majority of Britain's youth, can't be classified into any particular group. They won't be discussed here.

Now each group in more detail: The mods can normally be found in London's many basement jazz clubs where Dixieland music blares through smoke-laden rooms. These clubs, incidentally, are quite respectable and free from boozing.

In unpressed stovepipe trousers, bright waistcoats, striped shirts and rounded white collars, the trad will bounce around all night jiving with his girl. The girl usually wears black stockings, baggy sweater and long hair.

They speak normal English

Mrs. Khrushchev Entertains Twenty American Visitors

By JEAN WILSON
MOSCOW (Reuters) — for 1 1/2 hours, Mrs. Nina Khrushchev recently made a rare public appearance playing hostess to 20 American women in the interests of her personal peace plan.
Mrs. Khrushchev had said while in the United States with her husband last fall that it would be good for American women to come to her country and Russian women to the U.S. so that we should really understand each other.
Suddenly 20 of us were here so she rolled out the red carpet for us. We gathered around the huge table stacked with pink soda pop, 60-cent oranges and apples at this 'conference' that covered subjects all mothers, grandmothers and wives talk about when they get together — children, schools, health, careers, food and a mutual hope for peace.
"I am not going to deliver a speech. I am not a chief. I am

Butter-Ball Coffee Cake

3 cups sifted enriched flour, 3/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon mace, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 small egg, well-beaten, 1/2 cup evaporated milk, 1/3 cup lukewarm water, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 2 pkgs. dry active yeast, 1/3 cup warm (not hot) water, 1/2 cup chopped walnuts, 1/4 cup golden seedless raisins, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1/2 cup mixed sugar and cinnamon.

Combine first four ingredients. Combine next four ingredients. Dissolve yeast in warm water, add to egg mixture and mix well. Stir in dry ingredients and mix well. Knead on lightly floured board until smooth and place in well-greased bowl, turning once to bring greased side up. Cover; let rise in warm place until double in bulk (about 1 hour). Punch down, cut dough into small pieces, and roll into 40 walnut-size balls. Roll each ball in melted butter, then in cinnamon-sugar. Place one layer of 20 balls in well-greased 8-inch spring-form pan, so balls barely touch, leaving a small space in the middle. Sprinkle with half the walnuts and raisins. Make top layer of remaining balls and sprinkle with rest of walnuts and raisins.

Husbands Can Help Greatly In Keeping Wives Girlish

Here is a postscript to a recent column on the importance of a woman's holding on to some of her girlishness instead of becoming all matron as soon as she settles down to being a wife and mother.

The P.S. is for husbands. You can help your wife retain some of the girlish qualities that first endeared her to you if —

You never stop paying her compliments — the kind that show you still notice when she is looking especially pretty, when she is wearing a new dress, when she changes her hair style and so on. You never stop flirting with her. You find her femininity appealing and amusing, instead of being irritated because she doesn't think like a man or react to situations in the same way that you do.

You tease her good-naturedly — especially when you feel she is getting too set in her ways or taking things too seriously.

You discourage her from wearing somber colors, dressing too old for her years, or being too practical in her choice of clothes.

You build her up to others instead of finding fault with her. You buy gifts that flatter her as a woman — such things as perfume, flowers, jewelry, things a little less practical and maybe a little more extravagant than she would buy for herself.

You encourage her to share your enthusiasms for such things as fishing, golf, hunting — the things that make you feel young and carefree.

When you take her out for a special evening you make it seem like a date.

You remember anniversaries, birthdays and other special dates without having to be reminded. You let her know she is loved, admired, and that you think you are a lucky man to have her for a wife.

Any man who will do these things for his wife is sure to have a wife who stays part "girl" as long as she lives.

NEW PRESIDENT—Helen M. Carpenter, assistant professor at the University of Toronto School of Nursing last week was elected president of the 57,000-member Canadian Nurses Association at the group's annual meeting in Halifax. Miss Carpenter will serve a two-year term in the post. She succeeds Alice Girard of Montreal. (CP Photo).

Full Program Planned For Bury Celebrations—Jean Beliveau Present

All roads lead to Bury on July 1st, Dominion Day.

This day of days for Canadian citizens is expected to be the best yet at Bury with everything from a softball game with National Hockey League star Jean Beliveau as umpire to a giant dance at night.

Rain or shine the show gets underway at 9:30 a.m. Friday with a softball game between East Angus and Bury.

Prizes amounting to $1,500 will be distributed throughout the day for winners in various events.

The main attraction of the Day will be a street parade at 12:30 p.m., with valuable cash prizes going to the winning entries.

This year again decorated cars, teams, tricycles, bicycles, clowns and bands will participate in the parade. Leading it will be the Pipes and Drums of the 24th Technical Squadron

RCEME, Sherbrooke.

The Women's Institute, famous for their fine meals, will be serving a hot turkey dinner and a cold plate supper in the Bury Town Hall. There will also be booths in the park.

Special brightly colored 'Welcome to Bury' signs have been posted along the road to Bury to attract as many people as possible to make the day a complete success.

Sports activities will begin at 2 p.m. Track and field meets together with horseshoe pitching competitions will cover the sporting angle.

An open air variety concert beginning at 7:30 p.m. will include songs, dances and local talent. Fire works will round out the evening's activities.

As an end to a perfect day, a big dance will be held at Batley's Pavilion to the music of Jerry Haseltine.

The celebrations are under the auspices of the Bury Athletic Association.

The Association was first known as the Bury Athletes Association and was organized in July 1927. The first president of the Association was Col. O. L. Pope with secretary G. A. Atkins.

In 1930 the association sponsored a mammoth street parade led by the Bury Band which has now ceased to exist.

Dominion Day celebrations were suspended during war years primitive tools or because they believed the body, after death, should be placed in the fetal position in which it entered the world.

Researchers say the skeletal remains, the lodging site and such artifacts as arrowheads and flint scrapers make the Saugeen diggings the greatest find to date of the Point Peninsula culture.

Work at the site is financed by the National Museum and by grants from the Canada Council and University of Toronto.

Old sanctuary discovered in Nicosia, Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—The remains of a sanctuary, dating back to the third century B.C. and believed to have been devoted to Aphrodite, the goddess of love, have been discovered by Cypriot workmen leveling a dry river bed in northwestern Cyprus.

Experts believe the most interesting find in this discovery is the remains of a statuette of Aphrodite and a fragment of relief, both in white marble. The head, arms and feet of the Aphrodite statuette, which belongs to Hellenistic times (third century B.C.), are missing.

The discoveries include a large piece of column, probably an altar, fragments of marble slabs, fragments of painted stucco and many tiles.

The municipality of Morphou since has bought the strip of ground on which the remains were discovered and excavations are expected to be resumed shortly to establish the extent and real identity of the remains.

Giant breed found near Saugeen river

SOUTHAMPTON, Ont. (CP)—Farmer Elmer Donaldson wasn't particularly excited last fall when his plow turned up human bones on his Saugeen River land.

But archaeologists and anthropologists were—and after further digging they staked out the site of the first Point Peninsula lodge ever unearthed in North America.

The Point Peninsula Indians, first evidence of whom was discovered at Point Peninsula, N.Y., across the St. Lawrence River from Kingston, Ont., are believed to have been the forerunners of the Iroquois.

They are believed to have become extinct about 2,500 years ago.

A team of anthropologists and university students is examining 13 human skeletons unearthed on the Donaldson farm where the Saugeen empties into Lake Huron near this community 20 miles west of Owen Sound.

From the bones, site workers conclude the Indians were a robust breed, giants by today's standards and with strong teeth and sturdy, jutting jaws.

They also seem to have been a people who lavished great attention upon their children. Many articles, probably worn as ornaments, came from infant graves.

J. V. Wright of the National Museum says the bones show the tribes were wanderers, living in one-family forest settlements during the winter and camping by the lakes and rivers during the spring, summer and fall when the fish were running.

BURIED SITTING

Articles of pottery have been found in the Saugeen diggings and Mr. Wright says line designs on the Point Peninsula work distinguish it from the clay pottery of the Iroquois who came along later.

Few details have been released about the lodge site. It was likely of bark, stretched around logs and poles sunk into the ground.

All skeletons unearthed show the Indians buried their dead with limbs drawn up tight in a sitting position. This, Mr. Wright says, may be because they could dig only small graves with their

In New Zealand
New culture interest for tourism revival

AUCKLAND (CP)—New Zealand travel interests have launched a scheme to stage festivals of arts and culture in the country's mid winter as backing for a year-round tourist season.

The move is recognition of the astonishing blooming of the arts in a country where culture has hitherto been looked at askance.

Until recent years, few New Zealanders had any faith in domestic writers, artists or musicians. Many were openly scornful of any intellectual pursuit.

For live theatre, opera, orchestral or concert music, and ballet of quality the country depended entirely on sporadic visits of performers from abroad.

New Zealand actors, singers, musicians or dancers could not hope to draw sizable audiences in their own country until they had first won recognition abroad.

The same uncertainty marked musical composition, poetry and other writing. New Zealanders either imitated established models, chiefly British, or self-consciously devoted themselves to producing New Zealand "atmosphere." In either case, they won little support among their countrymen.

All this has changed dramatically. Within a few years, the arts have gained confidence and in almost every field vigorous and enthusiastic experiments are under way.

Overseas imitations still exert a strong influence. But because New Zealand is so remote from other countries, a local atmosphere is appearing. In several of the arts a distinctive tradition is growing up and creating much interest in fields outside New Zealand.

A leader in the new trend was the National Orchestra, established after the war under the aegis of the state-operated broadcasting service.

It tours the country and gives performances in the main centres but does not attempt to pay its way. The annual loss of about $250,000 is met by the broadcasting service. In return, the orchestra provides the backbone of serious radio music.

Some of the most stimulating and exciting stage shows seen in the country now are presented by the New Zealand Players, a permanent professional company which tours the country. It receives a small government grant, but maintains itself largely by admission charges and public subscriptions.

A permanent New Zealand opera company is kept going by aid from the state and a leading brewery company which has appeared as patron of the arts. Its standards are rising rapidly.

Nuclear arms race check put off for year at least

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's action in breaking off disarmament negotiations at Geneva apparently postponed for at least a year any hope of checking the nuclear arms race.

The move had been foreseen by Allied officials although it came more quickly than they expected. It was in the pattern of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's blowup of the Paris summit conference.

It could mean a further intensification of the cold war.

President Eisenhower will have a chance to assess the results of the Geneva collapse when he makes his televised report tonight on his Far Eastern tour.

TACTICS OBVIOUS

The tactics of Valerian Zorin, the Russian disarmament negotiator, led to the belief here that Khrushchev intended to apply to Geneva negotiations the line he took at the summit conference — that it would not be possible to reach any agreement with the United States so long as Eisenhower remained president.

No resumption of negotiations, therefore, can be foreseen until after the change in administrations next January and until an additional few months during which a new U.S. executive and new secretary of state will figure out their policies — all together, at least a year from now.

Collapse of the disarmament talks, which had been deadlocked from the moment they began, raises a serious question as to whether negotiations among the U.S., Britain and the Soviet Union for a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests will not also be called off.

There is a strong pressure within the government here to start up testing again.

has been formed and is winning acclaim throughout New Zealand. Possibly even more important, the creative side of the arts is also flourishing. The work of New Zealand composers and playwrights is being performed and draws appreciative audiences.

Another highly significant trend is the boom in book publishing. Many New Zealand writers have attained prominence abroad but now New Zealanders are writing books which first are best sellers at home.

There is a whole school of New Zealand poets, aggressive and distinctive. No longer do they ape foreign models or make pretty rhymes about the local scenery. Their poetry accepts the local atmosphere as incidental to what they want to say.

RCMP, Black Watch Pipe Band In Border Festivities

For a great celebration of Canada's birthday on July 1st, make it a point to travel south and take in all or part of the activities planned by the Stanstead Frontier Branch of the Canadian Legion.

Since early in January the members have worked and planned to make this a celebration to go down in history.

It will begin with a long and interesting parade consisting of decorated floats, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in their colorful red uniforms, the third Battalion Black Watch pipe band from Montreal, show horses from various points of the Eastern Townships and Vermont, and the Richmond Harmony Band as well as several dignitaries.

The parade will start in Stanstead at 10 a.m. and proceed through Rock Island to the Beebe Memorial park where all events of the day will take place. At 12:15 the celebrations will be officially opened, Jacques Plante, famous Canadian hockey team goalie, will present autographed hockey sticks to the Minor Hockey League players.

During the afternoon there will be feature horse shows, a pie eating contest for all ages, of charge and adults ticket stugs water fight between Rock Island and Beebe fire departments, and at 3 p.m. Lloyd Bishop of Coaticook, will entertain with an interesting whip act. On the field there will be a "treasure hunt" for the small fry, games of various description and fun for everyone. Meals or snacks will be available throughout the day and evening on the grounds.

In the evening the Richmond Harmony Band will give a two hour concert after which a fine fireworks display will take place. At 10:30 p.m. a dance with a featured orchestra will take place in the Beebe Town Hall and Jacques Plante will crown the Dominion Day Queen.

Children will be admitted free of charge and adults ticket stugs are free passes for the evening's entertainment.

Mrs. G. Graham Feded At Shower In Stanstead

STANSTEAD — Mrs. Ruth Curtis, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. William Curtis, were hostesses at a shower held at the home of the latter on Wednesday evening, June 23, honoring the former Miss Frieda Vivian. The home was prettily decorated with peonies, a gift of Mrs. Mansel Gibson, of Montreal.

The guest of honor had been for a drive and stopped in to see an old neighbor. On entering the home she was pleasantly surprised to find 35 former neighbors and relatives awaiting her.

Amid salutations, the honored guest was escorted to a chair decorated in a color scheme of pink, blue and white with garlands and wedding bell, and she and Mrs. Byers and Mrs. Lyman Hill, were each presented with a corsage of baby's breath and pansies.

Before them was a table, on which were arranged the prettily-wrapped and ribboned gifts, which were open by the recipient assisted by her great-aunt, Mrs. Lyman Hill, and Mrs. Byers. The pretty and useful linens for her new home in the West were admired by all, and the recipient in her usual charming manner voiced her appreciation for the gifts, and said she was grateful in another way, that it was an opportunity to see old friends again after an absence of several years in Edmonton, Alta.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses and included a shower cake made in double ring design and featured tiny steps leading to the top, where there was a miniature bride and groom, the artistic work of Mrs. Henry Brock.

The guests were from the Curtis neighborhood, Dufferin Heights the Boundary Villages and Newport.

The colorful garb of the Mohawks will not be present this year at the Border celebrations but members of the R.C.M.P. in their full dress uniforms will more than make up for this lack. Don Whitehouse is shown above being made an honorary Mohawk Chief.

500 head bison herd presents difficulties

FORT GREELY, Alaska (Reuters)—A herd of about 500 bison is presenting some unusual difficulties to soldiers stationed at the United States Army's northernmost outpost here.

The trouble is that the bison cannot be shot and they are difficult to shoo away.

Although not native to Alaska, the bison have squatters' rights at Fort Greely, situated near the settlement of Delta Junction on the Alaska Highway about 200 miles north of the Canadian border.

For the fact is, the bison arrived first.

In 1928, Alaska imported 23 head from the U.S. national bison range in Montana and turned them loose near what today is Fort Greely.

The site, then, appeared ideal. The area was a wilderness and the human population almost nil.

Since then, the herd has increased from the original 23 head to about 500 today, and the human population of the area has multiplied even faster.

Census figures show that the district, which covers the highway area from Fairbanks to the Canadian border now has a human population, including the military, of nearly 30,000 persons.

If the bison were like smaller, shy animals, there would be no problem. There are still thousands of square miles of wilderness to either side of the settled areas. But the bison is anything but shy, and he certainly is not small. He not only lives where human beings live, but at times he appears not even to recognize that either human beings, their homes, highways or cars exist.

At the airfield, incoming aircraft sometimes have to circle the Greely field while trucks are used to drive wandering bison off the runways.

The 1960 Loony Season American Institution Is About To Start

WASHINGTON (CP)—The 1960 loony season is about to begin. It happens every four years—an American institution.

You can expect anything—from dancing girls to baby elephants; from fearless speeches and human uproar to fires, cowbells and fist-fights; from marching bands to Bikini-clad bathing beauties.

Out of this weird mixture of buffoonery and sobriety will come the two men—a Democrat and a Republican — to wage battle for the U.S. presidency, the most important job in the free world.

The antics may stun you, but they're merely part of the froth of the presidential nominating convention glitter. Delegates could become bored during the dull, plodding job of building campaign platforms. Crowds must be gathered to give the party a showing of strength and popularity. The glitter, the nonsense, is the bait.

The Democrats will lead off July 11 at the big Los Angeles Sports Arena with an initial crowd of some 15,000 that may grow—managers hope—to 100,000 by the time the presidential nominee is chosen.

In the convention warm-up will be Hollywood stars, dancing girls, choirs and bands. A fleet of 250 automobiles will speed governors, senators and other leaders from one appointment to another. A corps of 250 "golden girls" will act as escorts for the delegates.

Undoubtedly, the Republicans will try to outdraw the Democrats when they open at Chicago July 25. They may be at some disadvantage—not being so close to Hollywood and Disneyland. But party workers say they are working on a program and will put up an attractive show.

The delegates themselves may provide some of the unrehearsed show such as the famed 1956 nomination of a fictitious candidate named "Joe Smith" and the equally famous remark of the Republican chairman: "You take your Joe Smith and get out of here."

The incident became imbedded in convention history. Through television and radio and other media, the laughter was heard around the world.

Somewhat less historic was the Harold E. Stassen flop of 1948 when he tried to gain delegate voting strength by parading four strong men in the convention hall, holding aloft a canoe bearing a Bikini-clad beauty. No one was quite sure what she was to have symbolized.

Antics can be fun. They also can become vicious. In the 1924 Democratic convention, demonstrators for unsuccessful Senator William G. McAdoo paraded for 77 minutes, grabbed state standards and engaged in brawls.

In the 1940 Republican convention, Wendell Willkie's backers were accused of packing the hall with 3,000 persons who at the right moment began chanting "We want Willkie," to force a convention stampede in his favor.

NORTH HATLEY — The third annual Anglican church rally was held on Sunday afternoon June 26 at Quebec Lodge on Lake Massawippi, with the weather man providing a beautiful sunny day. More than 300 parishioners from nine churches attended.

Waterloo Town Council Adopts Holiday Ruling

WATERLOO — At the regular meeting of the Town Council, Gilbert Duval resigned as mayor, due to the pressure of other duties. Alderman J. M. Cardinal was elected to finish the term, which ends July 30.

A new ruling on holidays for town employees was adopted. Those under one year will receive two per cent of their pay; employees with one to five years service, one week's holidays or two per cent; five years service and over, two weeks' holidays or four per cent.

A survey will be made to determine if Victoria Street is incorporated in the municipality of Waterloo or not.

A final notice is to be sent to Lefebvre and Montigny that if their block is not repaired or cleaned up within five days the town will take action. The furniture store, formerly the George

Mrs. H. A. Cullins Derby Line, Mrs. Daniel Gibson, of New Jersey, and Mr. Howard Hinman, of Irving, Mass, were luncheon guests.

Church Group Holds Meeting At Stanstead

STANSTEAD — A cosy meeting of the Centenary United Church Allegro group was held on Tuesday evening, June 21, in the church's newly renovated kitchen with 21 members and two guests, Mrs. Bernard Dewey of Long Beach, Cal., and Miss Frieda Vivian, of Edmonton, Alta., welcomed.

After supper a short business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. George Hood, who was also in charge of devotions.

Members offered to place flowers in the church during the month of August and September. The church will be closed for the month of July, the congregation joining with Stanstead South Church congregation for worship service during the holiday month.

The next Allegro meeting will be in the church kitchen on September 13 and will be a supper at six o'clock. All members are asked to bring a guest, who will be a prospective member for the society.

Alberta Farmers Aid Study Of Farmers' Enemy - Hail

EDMONTON (CP) — For the fourth summer more than 20,000 central Alberta residents will assist the Alberta Research Council in compiling data on one of the farmer's worst enemies—hail storms.

People in the area from Wetaskiwin to High River and from Castor to the foothills of the Rockies will receive questionnaires from the council asking them to record the date and location of storms, what time of day they start and how long they last, the size of hail stones and whether the storms are accompanied by lightning, high winds or rain.

They will be asked to gather hail stones if possible, preserve them and take them to one of 200 collection centres.

In the last three years there have been 7,000 hail reports collected for correlation and with size of stones compared with peas, shot, grapes, walnuts and golf balls.

Radar will be used this year for the first time to make "high fidelity photographic recordings" of the storms. They will give scientists an opportunity for precise study of atmospheric disturbances associated with storms.

In addition, 45 barographs — instruments for determining pressure changes—will be set out at 18-mile intervals to record pressure changes that might be a factor in triggering the storms. But, with all the scientific apparatus, the council still believes the most important role will be the farmers who give firsthand reports.

All the information helps scientists in their research on what causes the storms and under what conditions they are likely to occur.

DRAPER'S CORNER

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Allison, of Grimsby Beach, Ont., were tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Dustin and Mrs. Gignac at their former home here and overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Draper. China steps up campaign to woo Latin Americans

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Red China is stepping up its campaign to win friends and influence people in Latin America. The move is meeting with partial success, especially in Cuba, a survey by correspondents of the Associated Press shows.

The Chinese Reds use claims of speedy economic growth to appeal to underdeveloped Latin American countries. You, too, can make the "big leap forward" they tell the Latin Americans.

Chief targets in the propaganda drive are Latin America's opinion makers: Students, writers, teachers, labor leaders, editors and some political figures.

More than 400 of them visited Red China in 1959—most of them with expenses paid, according to reliable reports.

10 1/2 hours in Portuguese

Soviet Russia beams 17 1/2 hours weekly in Portuguese to Latin America and 36 1/2 in Spanish. Communist China friendship societies or cultural institutes have been opened in Cuba, Venezuela, Mexico, Argentina and Chile. In Brazil the Society for Friends of Continental China fizzled out after it had shown some films and distributed pamphlets.

LIMITED SUCCESS

The Communist Chinese are having only limited success with printed propaganda. Books and pamphlets are sometimes sold in book stores; often, they are distributed free. Demand is limited.

Cuba now is the prime area of Red Chinese activity in Latin America.

Fidel Castro's regime may become the first Latin American government to establish diplomatic relations with Peking.

Unconfirmed reports say Maj. William Galvez, inspector-general of the Cuban Army who recently led a group of officers on a tour of Communist countries, invited Red China Premier Chou En-lai to visit Cuba.

A steadily increasing volume of cultural, commercial, labor and political Cuban groups have been visiting Red China. And in turn, the number of Red Chinese delegations in Cuba has been increasing.

Sugar freighter burns at Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Fire early today swept a sugar freighter, a 600-foot pier and sections of a warehouse at the Revere Sugar Refining Company plant in the Charlestown waterfront section.

Crew members of the Chalmar of Puerto Cortes, Honduras, cut the lines and moved the vessel away from the company's pier into open water.

A company spokesman said about 20,000 tons of sugar were consumed by the flames. He estimated the company's loss at about $500,000.

Fire Chief John A. Martin estimated damage to the pier alone at $100,000.

Cause of the fire could not be determined immediately.

OBITUARIES

MRS. RODERICK MACLEAY, OF CLARENCEVILLE

The Wackiness Has Gone Hollywood Loses Its Color

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Maybe it's death or taxes, brief-case juggling actors or press agents who now call themselves public relations counsellors—but something has robbed Hollywood of its color.

It's not the same old town. Actors who should never take themselves seriously are doing just that. Dignity has replaced wackiness.

The town frowns on the antics of Jayne Mansfield and Elvis Presley. A generation ago their behavior would have been commonplace.

Some people are colorful because they make themselves available to the press. Some, like Marlon Brando and Frank Sinatra, are colorful for the opposite reason.

Once Brando asked an associate how much it would cost him to keep his private life his own.

The associate, wise in the ways of publicity, estimated that it might cost $8,000,000 or $10,000,000 over the span of his career.

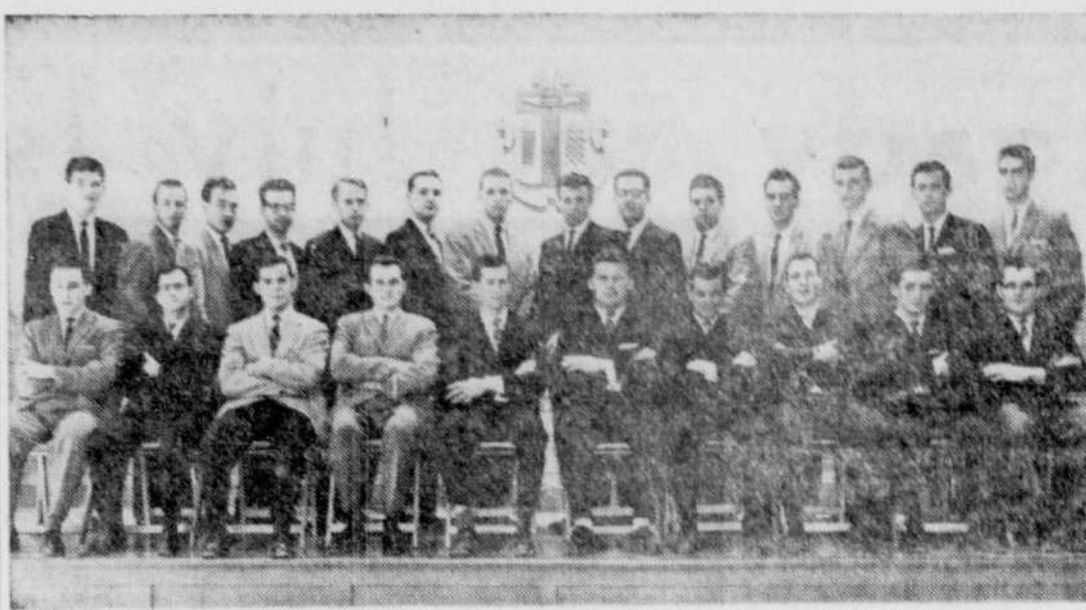

"It's worth it," said Marlon.

Sinatra, one of the more complex characters in Hollywood, has a knack for getting into scrapes that make headlines. But he has as many friends among the press as he has enemies. He's a man who rewards his friends and punishes his enemies—as though such acts were a solemn obligation.

Zsa Zsa Gabor has color because, in her own words, she was born in the wrong century.

"I would have made a bum out of Madame Dubarry," she once said.

Why are there no successors

press agents who try to venerate a phoney dignity on some people who don't even know how to spell the word.

Marilyn Monroe still can be classed as colorful but she has become so unattainable even the publicity man on her current picture has trouble getting on the set.

As one old friend observed: "Marilyn always takes the advice of the last person to talk to her. Whoever it is now is giving her some bad advice because basically she is a nice girl and not the difficult star her current publicity would make her."

Jerry Lewis and Red Skelton are the only colorful comics in a town that once had plenty of same. Both are big business out of stage they never take themselves seriously.

Garden Party At Rock Island Great Success

ROCK ISLAND — The third annual garden party of the St. Andrew South Church Helping Circle was held on the lovely lawns of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Smith on Thurs. afternoon, June 23 and attended by 154 persons.

The guests were received by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. T. W. Tyson, and visited the sales tables before having tea at small tables arranged with white linen covers and centered with seasonal flowers.

The food sales table was quickly sold out, and the handicrafts, aprons and greeting cards also found a ready sale. These were in charge of members of the society. Other members assisted in the kitchen and were in charge of serving tables with young ladies of the church acting as waitresses.

The summer project was a great success both socially and financially.

Mayor Boivin returns from Europe

GRANBY, Que. — Mayor Horace Boivin of this community 45 miles east of Montreal has returned from a trip to Europe with good news for the zoo and a local manufacturer.

Mayor Boivin spent 18 days visiting Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France and England.

Prime reason for his trip was to attend the international conference of mayors at Oslo. But he also signed up four overseas firms as producers of Canadian-developed floor finishing products.

The products, made by Granby Elastic and Textiles Ltd., are to be made and sold in overseas markets. The Granby firm will receive royalties from the producing companies.

For Granby's well-known zoo, Mayor Boivin was presented a giraffe, some white pelicans, several monkeys, a chimpanzee and some rare birds.

Resume Search For Swordfish

HALIFAX (CP) — The annual search for swordfish has begun in the deepsea banks off the coast of Nova Scotia and federal department of fisheries experts here predict the catch will be bigger than last year when 6,700-

000 pounds were landed.

One thing that makes the swordfish attractive economically is that 80 per cent of it is marketable in one form or another.

The broadbills are fished in six or seven large areas stretching from Nova Scotia south to Block Island off the New England coast.

Dominion Day celebrations at Hatley promise to be up to their usual high standard this year with entertainment from morning to night.

Arrangements have long been completed for this yearly event which has been a highlight in the community for decades.

The street parade in the morning will be the feature of the day and this year will be led by the Coaticook Harmony Band with their attractive majorettes.

The body of the parade will be made up of floats, horseback and pony riders, pedestrians in costumes, decorated automobiles. Judging will take place immediately after the parade.

At 11.30 the traditionally excellent dinner will be served by the Hatley women, and for those who are hungry later, there will be several refreshment booths located on the grounds.

Sports events will take the spotlight in the afternoon, with a feature being the tug-of-war between Ayer's Cliff and Hatley for the Sherbrooke Daily Record cup. This will be held at 2 p.m. There will be a ball game at 2.30 p.m.

In the evening there will be a band concert by the Ayer's Cliff Band at 7 p.m.

Carrie Biggers Highland Dancers direct from Montreal will perform at 8.30.

Fireworks will wind up the evening's events.

JUDGING ENTRIES IN THE DOMINION DAY PARADE

Long Record Of Patriotic Endeavours

(The following is an extract from "The Story Of Hatley" written by the late Maude Gage Pellerin.)

Around 1908 the band held a Celebration on May 24th on the Common, with a street parade, a ball game, dinner on long tables under the trees, a band concert, etc. This event proved so popular and profitable, that the Patriotic Society sponsored a similar gathering for a couple of years after the First Great War, to help in financing the erection of the Soldiers' Monument which now stands among the trees at the front of the Common...

On July 1st, 1947, the second tablet was unveiled. This was a feature of the Dominion Day Celebration. Mayor Ralph Whitcomb, who had shown great interest in the project, acted as master of ceremonies. A number of military men from Sherbrooke were present and made short speeches on this occasion.

The Patriotic Society, under the leadership of the President, Mrs. Fannie Bowen and the Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Elsie Boyes, was once more chiefly responsible for this undertaking.

For many years the two churches have joined together in putting on the July 1st Celebration on the Common, which follows the pattern of that first held by the Band in 1907. One year the leader is chosen from the Guild of St. James' Church and the next from the Women's Association of the United Church, and all the people of both churches and no church, join carrying out this really big undertaking, which yearly seems to grow more popular to judge from the crowds which throng the Common and sit down to dinner under the trees.

WINNER — The science fiction float was judged best in last year's entries in the Dominion Day parade at Hatley. Groups will be putting their best efforts into those competing in Friday's big event.

It's a case of preference, those who demand good dairy products buy from us, and those who look for a good time July first, GO TO HATLEY!
