$200,000,000 Loan Made As West Will Help Egypt With Dam

CAIRO — (AP) — The West and not the Soviet Union is going to help Egypt build its vast high dam on the upper Nile river, the biggest construction project in Egyptian history.

Egypt agreed Thursday to accept a $200,000,000 loan from the World Bank to help finance the huge construction three miles wide and 300 feet high. With that, the way was eased for the United States and Britain to supply an equivalent amount in direct grants for the project, expected to cost a total of $1,300,000,000. Egypt will put up the rest.

Western diplomats hailed the agreement as an important victory over the Russians in the battle for influence in the strategic Middle East. The Russians also had offered to help build the big dam at Aswan, 600 miles up the Nile from Cairo.

Some Egyptian officials saw the agreement as evidence of their government's determination to remain neutral in the East-West cold war.

"We bought our big arms consignment from the Communist bloc last fall," one said. "To balance that we prefer having the West build the high dam."

A joint communique announcing the preliminary agreement was issued by Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and Eugene Black, American president of the World Bank, after a series of conferences.

Russia, which is not a member of the World Bank, was believed to have offered Egypt a loan at two per cent interest payable over a 30-year period in agricultural production. Western diplomats said acceptance of that offer would have meant a close tie between Egyptian economy and the Communist bloc.

Officials in Washington saw the agreement as a step toward improving prospects for avoiding war between Egypt and Israel. They said Egypt would not be able to assume the big economic burden of the dam and carry on a major military effort at the same time.

Construction of the dam is expected to expand Egypt's cultivated land more than 25 per cent through irrigation. It also is to provide electric power for the industrialization of the whole Nile valley.

Trapped For 15 Hours

Virginiatown, Ont. — (P) — A 33-year-old hard-rock miner was rescued early today after being trapped for 15 hours in a rock slide half a mile down the Kerr-Addison gold mine.

Kalman Suess suffered a broken leg in the rockslide that trapped him 2,300 feet underground. He was taken to hospital in nearby Kirkland Lake. His condition was reported satisfactory.

Suess, father of three children, was jammed in a narrow cement-lined shaft at noon Thursday when staking collapsed at the 2,300-foot level of the mine, Canada's largest gold producer and the only mine in this community.

World News In Brief

St. Louis (P) — Three members of one family, including a policeman, were slain and two were wounded Thursday in a shooting at the home of a retired police sergeant. Police reported Henry G. Sieckhaus, 71-year-old retired detective sergeant of the St. Louis police, fired at four members of the family and then seriously wounded himself in an apparent suicide effort. No motive was immediately established.

Kenora, Ont. — (P) — Mike Timocenko, the railway worker who held off police with gunfire Jan. 9 while using his wife as hostage in a barricaded cabin at Niddrie, Ont., has been committed indefinitely to the Ontario Mental Hospital, at Port Arthur, lawyer T. A. O'Flaherty said Thursday. The 35-year-old Russian immigrant kept police at bay for more than 24 hours with a wild barrage of gunfire. He was caught with his pregnant wife, Annie, 24, while trying to escape in the night.

San Francisco — (P) — Indiana officers were coming to San Francisco today to return Leslie "Mad Dog" Irvin, quiet-voiced slayer of six who was captured quietly in a pawn shop on Market street Thursday. Irvin, 31-year-old Evansville pipe insulator sought through out the United States, was picked up quietly when he tried to unload two diamond rings he admittedly took from a home at Redondo Beach, near Los Angeles.

Edmonton — (P) — Jesse Jones Jr., 14-year-old junior high school student, became a page boy Thursday at the opening of the Alberta legislature, the first Negro to work on the floor of the House. Son of a city parking lot attendant who came to Canada from Texas when a child, Jesse is a grade nine student at Spruce avenue junior high school in Edmonton.

Vancouver — (P) — Donald Keith Cathro, 26, convicted of manslaughter in his second trial late last month in connection with the death of an elderly storekeeper in Vancouver, Thursday was sentenced in assize court to life imprisonment.

Parliament Debates Federal Grain Stand

Ottawa — (P) — The government's two-part legislative program for prairie grain growers now is before Parliament after opposition expressions of strong dissatisfaction with the first part and general approval of the second.

Part one: A bill to ratify government action last November in guaranteeing bank loans on farm-stored grain.

It was introduced Thursday after 3½ days of often bitter debate on a preliminary resolution capped by a vote of 130 to 18 in which the CCF group expressed its outright opposition to the plan.

Part two: A bill to pay storage charges—some $32,000,000 this year—on Canadian wheat board carryovers of wheat exceeding 178,000,000 bushels. All storage costs now are borne by the producers.

Today the Commons keeps to the farming theme by beginning consideration of the agriculture department's spending estimates for the coming 1955-57 fiscal year.

Progressive Conservative and Social Credit members joined with the CCF in criticizing the guaranteed bank loans plan of maximum loans of $1,500 at five per cent interest.

All three groups said the prairie farmer is in financial straits and should get cash advances from the wheat board on farm-stored grain he can't deliver to brim-full elevators.

Trade Minister Howe said the guaranteed loans are intended to help small farmers who have not established bank credit.

Thursday the Commons also adopted a resolution permitting introduction of another government bill. It would provide for maximum loans under the Canadian Farm Loan Act of $15,000 on a first mortgage in place of the present maximums of $10,000 on first mortgage and $2,000 on second mortgage.

Coffin Hanged This Morning

Montreal — (P) — Wilbert Coffin, a backwoods handyman convicted in the slaying that touched off one of the most sensational murder investigations in Quebec history, plunged to his death early today from the gallows of Bordeaux jail.

The 43-year-old Gaspé prospector, cook and jack-of-all-trades—the last of his seven appeals turned down—walked silently to his death for the murder of a young American hunter whose bear-gnawed remains were found beside those of two hunting companions in the Gaspé bush.

With his last words, he repeated that he was innocent of the murder of 17-year-old Richard Lindsey, his father, Eugene Lindsey, 47, and Frederick Clair, 20, in the summer of 1953. Coffin was convicted of killing Richard Lindsey.

The case ended on a note of pathos when Coffin was denied permission to marry Marion Petrie, his common-law wife and mother of his eight-year-old son. Miss Petrie was one of the principal crown witnesses at Coffin's trial in the picturesque tourist community of Perce, Que.

Coffin did not speak during the last two hours of his life. Protestant chaplain S. L. Pollard conducted a brief service in his cell at midnight and from there he was escorted to the gallows.

Before the hood was placed over his head, Coffin shook hands with two guards who watched over him since he was transferred to Bordeaux after breaking out, and then returning voluntarily to the Quebec City jail. He said nothing.

"He was very brave," said sheriff Paul Hureteau. "He made no last requests."

Hureteau said Coffin's only visitor Thursday was his lawyer, Francois Gravel, who came to tell him that the federal cabinet had turned down his last request for clemency. In the evening, Coffin ordered a last meal of ham and eggs and about 10 p.m. EST, lapsed into silence.

Meanwhile, Gravel was making a final attempt to win permission for the marriage of Coffin and Miss Petrie. He sent a telegram to Justice Minister Garson but Garson replied that he had "neither authority nor influence in the matter."

Gravel had been told earlier in the week that such a request should be directed to provincial authorities. Premier Duplessis refused, however.

The trap was sprung at 12:19 a.m. and Coffin was pronounced dead 14 minutes later. His family was to claim the body later today and take it by train to Gaspé for burial.

Among the officials present at the execution was Captain J.

WILBERT COFFIN
I'm Innocent

Alphonse Matte of the provincial police homicide squad who directed the investigation that led to Coffin's conviction.

From the outset, it was called one of Quebec's most brutal and gruesome crimes.

The crown built a strong case of circumstantial evidence against Coffin, exhibiting items that belonged to the trio and later was found in Coffin's possession.

One of their principal witnesses was Miss Petrie, whom police also credited with the tip that led to Coffin's arrest. The murder weapon was never found.

Coffin later admitted that he had robbed the men but his statement came after the 19-day trial.

Coffin appealed for a new trial to the Quebec Court of Appeals and was turned down. Then, Mr. Justice Douglas Abbott turned down a request for permission to appeal the verdict to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Today's Chuckle

The bridge-playing husband was beaming. He had just made a grand slam. But across the table his wife was scowling at him.

"What's the matter?" he demanded. "I made it, didn't I?"
"Yes," she conceded, "but if you'd played it the way you should you wouldn't have."

Hardly had his decision been announced when Coffin, brandishing a gun made of soap and painted with shoe polish, broke out of the Quebec jail. He commandeered a taxi and had the driver drive him to Quebec bridge, which links the city with the road leading to Gaspé.

Then, he changed his mind and told the driver to take him to the home of one of his lawyer's, Raymond Maher. Maher advised him to go back to jail and he did.

Coffin was transferred to Bordeaux, and in an unprecedented action the federal cabinet asked the Supreme Court to give its opinion on the conviction. The court voted by a 5-2 majority that it would have turned down the appeal if it had come before it.

Thursday, 15 hours before the execution time, the cabinet turned down Coffin's appeal for clemency.

"There's no hope left," conceded lawyer Gravel. He went to the jail to tell Coffin.

"He took it like a man; he didn't breakdown," Gravel said later.

"Two things were paramount in his mind—that he might be allowed to get married after all, and that his sentence would be commuted to life imprisonment."

"His first comment after I broke the news to him was 'if I were guilty, I would never have returned after breaking out of Quebec jail.'"

Hollidaysburg, Pa.—(P)—Clarance E. Clair said Thursday

he felt sorry for the parents of Wilbert Coffin who was hanged in Montreal early today for the murder of Richard Lindsey, 17.

Slain at the same time in the rugged Gaspé bush country of Quebec were Clair's son, Frederick, 20, and Richard's father, Eugene, all of Hollidaysburg.

"I pity the parents," Clair told a reporter. "They seem like nice people. I wouldn't trade shoes with them at all."

Bodies of the three were found in June, 1953.

"I hate to see anyone go to the gallows," Clair said. "But if he is guilty that's what they have to do. If he were living, would be 22 now. He was my only boy and I miss him every day."

Clair said he chatted with Coffin's parents during the trial.

"They said they were sorry about the trouble we had," Clair related.

"I told them I felt sorry for them, too. They said they couldn't believe their son would do anything so cruel and they hoped the jury would find him not guilty."

Asked what he thought about the outcome of the trial, Clair said:

"Well the jury brought in the verdict. I think the jury brought in the right verdict."

Mrs. Mary L. Lindsey, wife and mother of the other two victims, had nothing to say beyond: "You couldn't begin to tell anyone what it was like because they wouldn't understand."

Call Demonstrations To Protest Mollet's Efforts In Algeria

ALGIERS — (AP) — Angry French colonialists in Algeria neared another showdown with the French government today as Premier Guy Mollet's foes defied an official ban and ordered a giant rally against his efforts to settle the burning Algerian dispute.

As Moslems flocked to their mosques to observe their sabbath, French settlers were summoned to the main-city square for a demonstration aimed at discouraging both government peace efforts and native nationalist aspirations.

Officials had prohibited any parades or demonstrations in the tense area, but a meeting of inflamed French war veterans, students and local mayors voted to march on the centre of the divided city.

The rebellious unofficial "Committee of Public Safety," main-spring behind the anti-Mollet movement, also called for a five-hour protest strike this afternoon.

Officials prepared to call out Foreign Legionnaires and mobile guardsmen to prevent a repetition of last Monday's rioting which forced Mollet to pull back his appointment of Gen. Georges Catroux as resident minister even before he took office.

Catroux's substitute, Robert Lacoste, was due here today for a try at the seemingly impossible job of uniting the nationalists and French colonialists. Authorities feared trouble might break out when Lacoste appeared to place a wreath at the foot of Algeria's war memorial. The mob hurled stones, eggs and garbage at Mollet when he performed the ceremony Monday.

Behind the Algerian demonstrations is a movement obviously aimed at unseating Mollet's new Paris regime.

Jean Baptiste Biaggi, Paris lawyer who leads a group of Algerian war veterans, took over two public meetings here Thursday and turned them into political rallies.

Mollet, taken aback by the violent opposition he has encountered since his arrival Monday, already has modified sharply the plans he announced in France's National Assembly for reforms beneficial to the Moslems.

These changes in promises, together with the forced replacement of Catroux, are bound to cause him political embarrassment when he returns to face the assembly next week.

Teachers Halt Supervision Of School Activities

Montreal — (P) — Athletes and budding thespians walked moodily to school today as the result of a decision Thursday night by the 400-member Protestant Men's Teachers Association to stop supervising extra-curricular activities.

The decision of the teachers, in protest against what they considered inadequate pay increases offered them Wednesday, means that all extra-curricular activities in Montreal Protestant high schools cease immediately.

The teachers were offered yearly wage increases ranging from $50 to $400.

Hockey, basketball, curling and skiing will be the first sports to suffer by the decision. Drama, arts and other activities will also end.

The Fishing Industry Calls On Government To Meet Competition

Ottawa — (P) — Canada's fishing industry called on the government today to aid on a number of fronts to help expand markets and meet quickening competition from Japan and other fish exporters.

It asked for more immigrants to fill ranks of trawler crews in Nova Scotia, elimination of federal restrictions on imports of fishing vessels, assurances that fish streams will not be wrecked by power dams, more federal aid in fish research and ways of stabilizing the vital United States market for Canadian fish products.

In a brief to the Gordon economic commission, the Fisheries Council of Canada predicted that the industry's heavy dependence on foreign markets will decline as the Canadian population increases but that about one-half of Canada's catch will still have to be exported in 25 years time. Fish is still big business in Canada. The industry employs about 92,000 workers, lands about 2,900,000,000 pounds of fish a year and sells the catch for about $200,000,000. About two-thirds are exported with about $90,000,000 worth going to the U.S.

In its brief, filled with the commission in advance of public hearings, the council predicted that Canada's consumption of its catch, about 35 per cent, will increase to 50 per cent in the next quarter-century.

East coast oyster and lobster yields will be increased and, on the west coast, salmon production will be doubled, herring landings increased by 40 per cent and greater halibut production will increase market values by 50 per cent, the council predicted.

And while the Canadian market will expand, the U.S. market looked particularly enticing with indications that it may increase by 50 per cent over the 25 years. Of paramount importance to the industry, said the council, is free access to the American market.

But the U.S. has all kinds of "discriminations," the council said. It encouraged imports of raw fish but imposed high tariffs on the finished product. Canadian export embargoes were necessary to restrict shipments of some salmon species to keep enough for the Canadian industry, the council added.

"This embargo procedure may have to be considered soon for sardines as well."

The American market vacillated so that Canadian exporters could not be sure from year to year whether they will be in or out of the market. Exporters feared increasing U.S. pressure for higher tariffs may have a serious impact on Canadian marketings. They believed stability of the U.S. market was a great essential.

But there were "some Canadian tariffs" and "a restrictive policy on vessel importations" which also had a bearing on the industry's competitive position, the council said.

The government restricted imports of fishing vessels to protect the domestic shipbuilding industry. But to remain competitive the industry had to get its tools of trade as cheaply as possible. The restrictions should be abolished.

In Nova Scotia, young fishermen were getting scarce. Hands for trawlers were difficult to recruit. More immigrant fishermen had to be brought or segments of the industry might dry up.

Federal curbs on east coast trawlers should be lifted, the council said. Canadian trawlers cannot come in closer than 12 miles off the east coast mainland to do their fishing while foreign trawlers can up to the three-mile limit. Canadian vessels should get the same privileges as foreign ships.

St. Paul's Church
Congregational
Supper At Magog
Magog — The annual congregational supper meeting of St.
Paul's United Church was held in the Church Hall when approximately 80 members of the congregation enjoyed a supper prepared and served by the three senior women's organizations of the church.
Following supper, Mr. C. Force, choir director, conducted a sing-song, followed by the business meeting with Rev. C. Gustafson in the chair.
Mr. Gustafson welcomed those present and opened the meeting with prayer. A few minutes of silence was observed in memory of those of the congregation who had passed away during the year.
These are: Ralph Bowen, Henry
Chamberlain, Miss Ethel Mary
Cartwright, John Moffat, Mrs.
Florence Nichol, B. L. Sager, Mrs. E. T. Sager and Mrs. Candace L. Turner.
The reports of all groups and societies showed excellent attendance at meetings and reported an active and useful year.
The financial reports were gratifying also.
Mrs. G. Hall and Mr. G. Mc-Elroy were appointed to replace the retiring members in the Session.
In the Board of Stewards, E.
Fields, G. Hall and B. Shonyo

Donaldson were elected to replace retiring members.
Wesley McLaughlan expressed a vote of thanks to all officers of the church, and organizations, who had worked together to especially J. Connor, the church treasurer; Mrs. F. Wilson, the recording steward; Mrs. A. Sw-ger, secretary of the building Fund; and Mrs. G. Smiley the envelope steward.

Mr. McLaughlan said the success of the past year and the increase in the church attendance were due to three factors, namely, people were more church-minded, that our local church was more friendly, and lastly, much was due to the devotion of the pastor, Rev. C. Gustafson, to the work of the pastoral charge.
He also thanked the ladies for the delicious supper.
Mr. Gustafson expressed his appreciation that all groups were working as a team. He felt that the year 1956 would be one of further achievement.

Banks As Fine Collectors

The instalment payment of court fines, to make such punishments less of a hardship for the poorer offenders and especially their families, is gaining wider application each year, but those who are seeking to reform the system of fine payments do not propose to end there.

In many areas it has been suggested that some fines be payable at the banks, just like electrical, water and other service bills. Indeed, it is reported that some United States communities have already adopted this system and others are awaiting the outcome of the experiments to determine whether the idea is worthy of wider application.

Overtime parking fines, which are growing in number with the widespread extension of the parking meter systems, provide one opportunity for taking some of the sting out of the payment. In many cases, especially for visitors in town, the trip to the police station to clear the record only adds to the penalty itself. If the offender could make settlement at the most convenient bank, his feelings would be somewhat assuaged.

The attitude of the banks toward acting as fine-collectors has not yet been determined but they might look on it with a degree of favor if they were entitled to an adequate commission on every traffic ticket processed. And the municipalities could save the fee paid the banks by the elimination of the book work required in keeping track of the payments.

Duty And Conscience

What should a doctor do when by a patient's own request he must stand by and helplessly watch her die?

That was the problem facing an Ontario doctor recently.

His patient, a Jehovah's Witness, had been severely injured in an automobile accident and steadfastly refused, because of her religious principles, to allow a blood transfusion to be administered. Her husband and brother, as well as the head of her religious sect, also refused to allow it.

But must a doctor stand by and watch the life slowly drain away? According to law, he must.

This is a very deep and delicate problem. But, there would seem to be a parallel in the case of attempted suicide. There is nothing to prevent law enforcement officers or ordinary citizens for that matter from stepping in to prevent a suicide. The party attempting it, in fact, is usually charged under law.

What is the difference here? This was suicide; a strange type of suicide, perhaps, but suicide nonetheless. This woman killed herself, just as surely as if she had shot herself in the head or turned on the gas jets in the kitchen.

Surely there should be a revision of our laws to prevent a recurrence of this incident. Many of our laws are designed to protect us from ourselves. Even if one might take the view that there could be something admirable in such religious fervour, think for the moment of the doctor.

What a terrible position for a man to be put in. Against every principle he has learned, he must not save this life. To him it must seem like murder.

Mixed Trend In Prices

While rising prices and inflation have been very much in evidence in some parts of the world during the past year or so, this has clearly not been the case on this continent, says the current issue of The Bank of Nova Scotia Monthly Review. Here the price trend continues to contrast sharply with the increases which occurred in 1946-48 and 1950-51; and, though there were upward pressures in certain parts of the economy, 1955 turned out to be the third consecutive year of comparative stability in the general level of prices.

For Canada, it is true that the general index of wholesale prices crept steadily upward during the year and in December was about 3 per cent higher than a year earlier. However, this rise no more than offset the small decline of the preceding 18 months and the index, currently some 120 per cent above the pre-war average, is just about the same as it was throughout the prosperous year of 1953. The consumer price index has been even more stable over the past three years at a point about 87 per cent above pre-war.

The Review points out that the upsurge in Canadian business in 1955 drew its first impetus from the expansion in world demand for Canadian export products, especially minerals and wood products, and was enhanced as the year went on by a rapid increase in construction activity. The year 1955, as a result, was the first year since 1951 in which prices in these two important parts of the economy moved upward at the same time. Meanwhile, however, the price average for consumer goods and services continued to show a notable stability, and this did much to offset the effect of higher export and construction prices on the general price level.

The stability of average consumer prices, in turn, has been the net result of rising prices for shelter, health care and various other services, and of steady or declining prices for food, clothing and consumer durable goods. Demand for housing accommodation is quite evidently still in excess of supply, and service prices in general reflect the continued rise in wages and salaries. Food prices, on the other hand, show the effects of plentiful supplies, and consumer demand for clothing has been lagging for a number of years.

The most interesting trend of all has been that for consumer durable goods. In a year when demand for passenger cars and TV sets rose to new record heights and sales of furniture and appliances were also high, the average price of such goods dropped to a point some 6 per cent below a year earlier and about 8 per cent below the 1952 level. Some of this decline is attributable to the reduction or removal of special excise taxes on cars and appliances, but the greater part reflects the improvement of productivity on the assembly line and, still more important, the intensity of competition for the consumer's dollar.

National Service And Quebec

(The Telegram)

Five years ago this month the Prime Minister of Canada told the House of Commons something that has been interpreted as acceptance in principle of compulsory military service. Nothing had come to his attention, Mr. St. Laurent said, to indicate the need of selective service "at this time." Today, Lt. Gen. Guy Simonds finds Canadian political leaders still unwilling to face this problem. In a speech in Sherbrooke, Que., last week, the former chief of the general staff renewed his advocacy of compulsory service. He said: "We are living in an emergency now and we are going to live in an emergency for the rest of our lives. A crisis could come at great speed."

Gen. Simonds has not been without distinguished company in this cause. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, a former wartime commander, speaking in Toronto in 1954, called upon the Government to adopt compulsory training. The Canadian Legion for years has been demanding it. But in Gen. Simonds' latest appeal something new has been added. Mentioning "unhappy history" in connection with national service measures in Quebec, he attributes the trouble to English-speaking Canadians "who feel that the French-speaking Canadian should be changed and that national service is a means of changing him."

Few now will deny that compulsory service in World War I was applied in Quebec by stupid and tactless methods, which even a little discernment on the part of those responsible would have ruled out. When Gen. Simonds in Montreal a year ago spoke in favor of two years' military training, he said that a government decision to adopt this could hardly be made without "overwhelming backing of the country." That necessarily includes

Quebec, and there can be no doubt that a change of attitude has taken place there. It is encouraging to find so eminent an authority as the former chief of staff saying: "I believe that, given the right to follow their own cultural and religious habits as they wish, French-Canadian resistance would quickly disappear."

William Henry Dennis

William Henry Dennis was born, of English-Scottish ancestry, on a farm in Nova Scotia's Stewiacke Valley on March 31, 1887. He died at Ottawa on January 18, 1954, a member of the Senate of Canada and one of this country's most successful and influential newspaper publishers.

Young William Dennis did not remain on the farm; he left it at the age of twelve to find work in the city. In Halifax, his uncle was publishing The Halifax Herald and The Halifax Mail, and with this expanding organization the nephew got his first job.

No form of nepotism contributed to the success of W. H. Dennis' career; he became a newspaperman the hard way. He started literally "at the bottom" as an elevator operator, moved up to be a galley-boy, worked ahead in the composing room, added to his newspaper experience in the news and editorial offices, and finally entered upon the rounding-out stages of his career in the business departments. By the time his uncle passed away in 1920, W. H. Dennis, as managing director, was conducting the whole organization, and became its proprietor through his uncle's will.

This man's success as a newspaper publisher was striking; and when he in turn passed away, control of the organization passed to a member of the third generation of this newspaper family, his son, Graham W. Dennis, who holds today the post his father held, that of managing director.

W. H. Dennis was known personally to thousands, and his name was a familiar one in the homes of Maritime Canada. The farmer on the land, the fisherman in his boat, the lumberman in the forest, the miner in the pit, the steel-worker at the furnace, the countless "little people" in shops and factories and offices—these were his own people, these were his friends. For these he labored unsparringly, unceasingly.

A great many of them did not know it; the majority of them did not know it, perhaps, but that was, in reality, W. H. Dennis' life-work and life-mission. Every campaign he launched or in which he would participate had the public interest as its objective. The real public interest. And in his most active years his industry and initiative in the interests of the people and the community were boundless. Where he found the time and energy he consumed in his indefatigable drive for results was something beyond average understanding. But he found them; and in consuming them, he consumed his own health and strength; he literally "burned himself out" before he had reached the years of a man's prime.

Would Expand Traffic Over Hudson Bay Railroad

Winnipeg.—Thirty-three years ago a group of Prairie businessmen and citizens set out on a mission—to complete the Hudson Bay railroad.

That mission was fulfilled. Now, Prairie men waving the banners of their forebears are bent on a new crusade. Through the Hudson Bay Route Association they are beating the drums to awaken western industry to the advantages of doing business through Manitoba's sub-Arctic port of Churchill.

Their latest move is the publication of a booklet, "Imports Pay For Exports." Its 32 pages are filled with statistics, comparative tables, facts and photographs on the port located 610 miles north of Winnipeg.

Mileage is one of the chief selling points. The booklet notes that the distance from Churchill to Liverpool, is 2,936 miles. From Montreal through the Cabot Strait it is 3,007 miles.

By shipping from the Prairies direct to the Churchill dock the time and cost of transshipping from the Lakehead to Montreal is eliminated. Freight rates are also lower.

Publication of the booklet was well-timed; the port last fall ended its busiest season in history. During the season from July 23 to Oct. 20 a total of 13,007,845 bushels of wheat was shipped to the United Kingdom. The 38 incoming vessels—a record number—unloaded 3,745 tons of general cargo, ranging from automobiles to candy, for delivery to western centres.

But the ships returned home with only wheat and flour in their holds. The Hudson Bay Route Association wants ships to sail away with goods manufactured on the Prairies.

Quebec, and there can be no doubt that a change of attitude has taken place there. It is encouraging to find so eminent an authority as the former chief of staff saying: "I believe that, given the right to follow their own cultural and religious habits as they wish, French-Canadian resistance would quickly disappear."

Would Expand Traffic Over Hudson Bay Railroad

The Hudson Bay Route Association began its mission in 1923 when, as the "On-to-the-Bay" Association it appealed to the government to finish the railroad. In 1917, the partially-constructed road had been left to rust and sink in the northern Manitoba muskeg, victim of waste, politics and a steel shortage.

By 1929 the Association saw its mission completed. Steel spanned the barren lands to reach Churchill. That same year the first shipload of grain moved from the new grain terminal dock to England.

With Billy Graham

By GEORGE BURNHAM

Palamcottah, India—"This is frightening."

Dr. Robert Pierce, noted American missionary leader who has seen many strange sights in the Orient, breathed these words a few minutes after Billy Graham had given 40,000 Indians an invitation to become Christians. It was clear it was frightening in a wonderful way.

An estimated 5,000 surged toward the platform. There was not enough space to hold them. The average response from a crowd like this is 1,000. Many believing Christians in the packed throng expected God to do something big, but none were prepared for the thousands who moved forward to accept this new way of life.

There was something in the faces of the people as they came. Many were weeping. Others had a look of joy. Both reactions had been produced by the same message they had heard in a language they could understand about a God who loved them and gave His son, Jesus Christ for them.

Men and women who had been sitting on straw mats in different sections of the huge outdoor meeting site moved down the aisles and quickly filled the space around the platform. Still they rushed forward.

A blind man was led by his daughter. A worker had told the daughter she would have to send the father along with the men but Dr. Paul Maddox, Billy Graham's aide, intervened and told the daughter she could take him to the women's section.

A woman, sobbing quietly, left her seat and moved forward. She had gone only a short way when her angry husband rushed up and grabbed her roughly and pulled her from the stream of people.

The people were of all types— young and vigorous, old and ugly, deformed and diseased. There were only 400 counselors to talk with the thousands.

When it became clearly dangerous for more people to come forward, Billy asked them to remain where they were in the aisles. Many of them waited for hours until counselors had a chance to get their names, and say a few words to them.

Church leaders said they should have expected something unusual at the end because "the devil did everything he could to break it up at the beginning."

The public address system failed and the spirited choir almost sang itself to death. Killing time, a little boy was brought to the platform whose mother was lost. Then Billy began his address. A few minutes later he had to stop when a great clamor went up from a section of the crowd. They couldn't hear the choir sing. As the people were moved to another section Billy began again. He spoke simply — carefully explaining the way to God through faith in Christ. Then came the invitation and unexpected surge of people.

A missionary who had served in India for 25 years stood off to one side and looked on with shocked emotions. He said: "Our eyes have never seen anything like this." His prayers had been answered. He said he had started the day by reading in Joshua 3:4, "... ye have not passed this way heretofore."

Sidelights:
During Billy's visit to Germany last year he tried many times to see Lutheran Bishop Hans Lilje of Hannover, one of the world's most influential church figures. But he was never successful because of conflicting dates. As Billy was walking into the lobby of the Connemara Hotel in southern India, he bumped into a man. It was Bishop Lilje. "Gods works his wonders in mysterious ways," said the bishop.

One of the most sacred gods of the Hindu is a cow. Any steak you get in India will come from a Daisy that dies of old age. Several Hindus were spotted here one day with one of their cow gods, giving her a bath out in a stream of water. They scrubbed her from stem to stern for about 45 minutes. The cow would try to break away but they would haul her back and scrub some more. Old Betsy appeared to be about the most miserable god that ever lived. There is no doubt this particular one would have given up all her glory for a quiet pasture away from the icy fingers.

BOLD JUMP PAYS POINTS

When the Vanderbilt Cup tournament begins in New York a week from today, the rubber bridge players will come into their own. There is a difference between rubber bridge and the experts at one game don't always fare well at the other. The Vanderbilt is scored at total points, like rubber bridge, so this is one tournament that the rubber bridge experts enjoy.

Curiously enough, one small bridge club in the Bronx consistently turns out players who do well at both games. Perhaps the reason is that the Paradise Bridge Club holds total-point team contests every weekend. Today's hand is taken from one of these team matches.

Admire the hold but quite reasonable jump to six spades. Give North any good club suit for his bid of two clubs, and the hand is a cinch for six spades.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued with the ace, whereupon Sydney Hecht, playing the South hand, ruffed. It looked as though the hand would depend on a club finesse, but there was a chance to develop dummy's hearts.

Which finesse—the heart or the club?
As it turned out, South took neither. Hecht drew trumps, discarding low clubs from the dummy, and then led out the ace and king of hearts. When the queen of hearts dropped, luckily, no finesse was needed. South could get rid of two clubs on dummy's ten and nine of hearts.

If the queen of hearts hadn't dropped, Hecht would have tried the club finesse later on. His line of play gave him two chances, therefore, while either finesse

QUICK VEGETABLE DISH
For a quick vegetable, and tasty, too, mix together a can of tomatoes, cooked rice some grated onion, salt, pepper and sugar. Place in a baking dish and bake at 350° F. until hot through. Add more water if mixture becomes too dry. Top with crumbs or grated cheese, if desired.

COOKING WITH SOUR CREAM
Sour cream is a neglected food in many kitchens. Yet it can add really superb flavor to otherwise commonplace foods. For instance, meat balls, served in a sour cream and dill sauce, are elevated to the gourmet class of foods. And for the perfect party refreshment, try serving pancakes that have been spread with caviar and sour cream and rolled. This is a fancy and glamorous evening refreshment.

Princess' Shoes Become Issue
London.—(P)—Princess Margaret has come in for some sharp fashion scrutiny—from the top of her curly head to the tip of her peep-toe shoes.

Whether she wears safe and sane shoes became an issue in a court case in Kenya, according to reports reaching here. The princess' shoes were cited as an exhibit when a woman, suing a Nairobi hotel after tripping on a stairway, emphasized that she wore the same style.

An orthopedic expert called by the hotel testified: "It seems the princess has considered safety and beauty and has decided that beauty is more desirable."

London shoe stylists rose to her defence. The petite five-foot princess shows a preference for high, narrow heels. For evenings she has a penchant for open sandals with straps.

Clubwoman's Guide

Food Poisoning Menace

(Final instalment in a series of four articles designed to help the clubwoman in her task of preparing refreshments in large or small quantity.)

Unfortunately, meals or refreshments prepared in large quantities—often by inexperienced helpers in unfamiliar surroundings—may be more susceptible to food poisoning bacteria than home cooked or professionally prepared food. That's why you've heard of cases of food poisoning where a number of people are stricken after a church picnic, a wedding reception or a banquet.

The most common cases of food poisoning are of two types: food infections and food intoxications. Food infections are caused by bacteria carried into the mouth on the food when it is eaten. Food intoxications and resultant illness are caused by poisons or toxins usually in the form of bacterial growth in the food when it is eaten.

Few people realize that the common food poisoning bacteria (staphylococci, salmonellae and streptococci) may be present in foods even though working surfaces and storage space is scrupulously clean. They may be in food when you buy it or may be introduced by any person handling the food (usually from an open cut or sore.)

Although there is no red warning light to flash on and off when these uninvited "guests" lurk in your kitchen or community dining hall, there are sensible precautions and danger signals which, if heeded, prevent or discourage bacterial growth.

1. Usually, the guilty food does not look or smell or taste spoiled. If you're in doubt, boil the suspicious food rapidly for several minutes before tasting it. Better still, discard it and serve something else.

2. Cleanliness is probably the most important single factor in prevention of food poisoning. Buy your food in a clean, tidy store. Wash all food even though you plan to cook it. Prepare, cook, store and eat food in clean surroundings. Cuts or open sores should be covered. All food should be well protected from flies, insects and animals.

3. Most bacteria can be destroyed by very high temperatures. But, the average hot, humid summer day merely provides ideal growing weather for the food poisoning species. Foods cooked quickly, at high temperatures, are more likely to be safe than uncooked foods or those cooked slowly at low temperatures. Commercially canned foods, because they are scientifically processed at controlled temperatures are almost sure to be free from contamination.

4. Most bacteria grow more quickly in foods or atmosphere of high moisture content. Ample and continuous refrigeration of all foods is desirable.

5. Take advantage of the fact that bacteria don't like an acid atmosphere. Protect your sandwich fillings, salads and meats with extra amounts of acid ingredients like vinegar, lemon juice, salad dressing, pickles and catsup.

6. No matter how favorable or unfavorable the other conditions, the longer the time between preparing and eating the food, the greater the danger of food poisoning bacteria developing. Even minutes count, so prepare your foods as near to mealtime as possible and keep them covered and cold until serving time.

7. Foods which are least susceptible to food poisoning bacteria include bread; cheese (except cream and cottage cheese); cured or pickled meats; peanut butter; washed raw or cooked fruits; washed raw or cooked vegetables; most commercially canned foods; and sweet foods like jams, jellies, etc.

8. Foods which are most susceptible because of their perishable nature and because they are more favorable media for growth of bacteria include, milk and cream; cream-filled pies; cakes and pastries; fresh meat, especially when minced; fish and poultry; and bread stuffings, especially when prepared ahead of cooking time.

At Stanstead Council Meeting

First Woman Member Welcomed

Miss Catherine I. MacKenzie, who was recently elected to seat No. 4 of the Stanstead Municipal Council, was presented with a corsage of carnations, a gift of the Stratton family, of Stanstead, when she arrived at the municipal hall to attend the first general council meeting held since her election.

Mayor Carroll Labonte, on behalf of the other five councillors and the secretary-treasurer, presented Miss MacKenzie with a bouquet of spring flowers, saying "that at this time history was being recorded by Miss MacKenzie's election to the council, the first woman in the County of Stanstead to serve in this capacity. However," stated Mr. Labonte, "it is only right that a woman should serve Stanstead Municipality, as one-third of the property owners and taxpayers are women."

In response, Miss MacKenzie expressed appreciation for the flowers, and said, "I did not seek election because I have an axe to grind, but to be a help to the other councillors and the mayor of this council." The opening prayer was given in English and French by Miss MacKenzie, at the request of the Mayor.

Mayor Labonte appointed the following chairmen of committees: Miss MacKenzie, poor and relief; Eugene Beasse, finance; Joseph Mayheux, Town Hall, parks and police; Howard Wells, health; Lawrence Winter, fire and lighting; Eugene Beasse, Sewers; Roland Major, roads. These chairmen then proceeded to make up their committees from the board. Miss MacKenzie will act with Mr. Beasse on finance, Lawrence Winter was re-appointed as pro-mayor to act in the absence of Mayor Labonte. Bills were presented and voted paid. It was interesting to note that so far the snow removal program has cost the municipality a total of $1,025.90. Mr. Major said he felt confident that by spring the costs would be within the amount allotted for this purpose in the budget.

Reports of the various committee chairmen were given, with considerable discussion regarding poor and relief, chiefly to acquaint Miss MacKenzie of her new duties.

Mr. Winter, chairman of fire and lighting, called upon Warren Soutiere, fire chief for the municipality, who demonstrated a

Ed Chadwick Turns In Another Outstanding Performance As Leafs And Bruins Battle To 1-1 Draw

In three days Ed Chadwick travelled from the minors to the big time and back to the minors. But don't wager a cent that he'll stay there.

Ed's stay with the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs was short. But it was also sensational.

Chadwick turned in another great game as substitute goaltender for Leafs Thursday night as they battled to a 1-1 tie against Bruins at Boston.

After the game, it was reported that Harry Lumley would be back in the nets for Leafs against New York Rangers Saturday, Chadwick headed for his regular job with Winnipeg Warriors in the Western Hockey League.

The 22-year-old native of Toronto showed the poise of a veteran as he stopped all but one of 36 Bruins shots.

It was the only game of the night and the result lifted Leafs back into fourth place with 43 points, one ahead of Boston and Chicago Black Hawks, who share fifth spot.

Chadwick was called up to Leafs Wednesday to replace Gil Mayer, who in turn was substituting for the injured Lumley.

Chadwick responded with a spectacular effort that night as Leafs held the league-leading Montreal Canadiens to a 1-1 deadlock at Toronto.

When Lumley received a thigh injury three weeks ago, Leafs held a comfortable lead in fourth place. Mayer lasted for six games but Toronto dropped into the fifth position and Chadwick was called in.

Rookie centre Billy Harris gave Toronto a 1-0 lead in the first period and Real Chevrefils scored the tying marker five minutes later.

With Bruins buzzing about him, Chadwick patrolled his beat like the policeman he is in the off-season at Keswick, Ont. He seldom went down and appeared much cooler than Lumley, who fidgeted and yelled from his press-box seat.

"I'd rather play," Lumley said at one point. "I'm going nuts." Canadiens, who have 74 points, 15 more than second-place Rangers and 16 points more than Detroit Red Wings, travel to Chicago for tonight's only game.

Bishop's Cagers Face Tough Weekend Against Macdonald College Here And In St. Johns Tomorrow Afternoon

Bishop's University's basketball Gaitors, winless in their last nine starts, will be up against their toughest weekend of the current season when they tangle with Macdonald College here this afternoon and then travel to St. Johns to play College Militaire Royale tomorrow in two Ottawa-St. Lawrence Valley "B" Section Intercollegiate basketball games.

The game against Macdonald will be played in the University's Memorial Gymnasium this afternoon at 4.30. According to the game reports received Macdonald College has won one game and lost one so far this season. The Aggies have beaten Loyola but lost their game with C.M.R. Since Loyola hold a 69-63 victory over Bishop's it seems likely that the Gaitors will have a battle on their hands if they are to snap their current losing streak.

Coach Kemp Clarke is optimistic about the Macdonald game, however. He feels that the Purple and Whites are "up" for this contest and is anxious that they should go all out for their first win of the new year.

The game against College Militaire Royale is a return match. Previously this season the Cadets downed the Gaitors 50-41 in a closely-fought contest. This was Bishop's third game of the season and their club was not at full strength. While C.M.R. have won two contests this year, both have been over Macdonald College. The Cadets have lost three other games to R.M.C., Loyale and Laval.

This weekend looms as the Gaitors last chance to break their losing jinx. There is only one game remaining in the schedule after these tilts. Gaitors see this doubleheader as Bishop's opportunity to post their first double victory in three years of intercollegiate play.

Bishop's Hockey Squad Faces Two Hard Opponents In Sir George Today And RMC Tomorrow At Arena

Bishop's University Gaitors face their heaviest action of the season this weekend when they tangle with Sir George Williams College in Montreal today and return home for a game against the Royal Military College Cadets tomorrow night in the Sherbrooke Arena at 7.00. Both games are regular Ottawa-St. Lawrence Valley "B" Section intercollegiate affairs.

The Gaitors snapped a three-game losing streak last week with a 6-2 win over the University of Sherbrooke in the Skinner-Nadeau Trophy game. Now the Purple and White team is hungry for their first win in intercollegiate play.

Their first opposition have a better season's record with two wins and one loss. They have beaten College Militaire Royal and Royal Military College but dropped their contest with Loyola. Both C.M.R. and R.M.C. own victories over Bishop's so Sir George Williams are favorites in today's clash.

The Sir George team boast great depth in player reserves. With three well balanced lines the Trojans should be more than a match for the Gaitors. Duffey and Gariepy have been standouts all year for the Orange and Yellow on offense while John Foulkes, a freshman rearguard, has bulwarked the defence. The Gaitors will be weakened by the loss of three or possibly four of their regulars. Glyn Edwards, Stu Clarke and Bob Boomer will definitely not make the trip. Nick Powell, the left-intercollegiate play, is also a doubtful starter. Without these players coach Lynn McDougall will be frantically shuffling his lines in an attempt to take up the slack. The one position about which there is no doubt is that of goalkeeper. Stan Alexander, who has starred for the Gaitors since he returned to action after Christmas, will definitely be in the nets.

Game time for Saturday night's contest against Royal Military College is 7.00. The Gaitors will be out to avenge a previous 6-3 defeat at the hands of the Cadets sustained Jan. 28 in Kingston. Brian McClure was the soldiers' big gun that evening with two goals and an assist. He will be closely watched by the Purple and White defenders on Saturday.

Powell and Clarke will both be back in action for the home game and McDougall will probably give them extensive action.

Europe Shocked At Canada's Defeat In Olympic Hockey; Prestige Will Suffer Badly, Says Charles Ritz

London. — (AP) — European opinion is shocked at Canada's defeat in the Olympic hockey championships—and Canadian observers are still groping for an answer. Witnesses of Russia's 2-0 victory over Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen at Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy, say there is no easy way to restore Canada's hockey halo. Too great a gulf separates the rival styles of play.

"Sure, we could send Montreal Canadiens over," said Len Taylor, sports editor of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record. "Suppose we did—we'd murder a few Russians and wind up with our whole team in the penalty box."

Milt Dunnell, sports editor of the Toronto Star, said differences are so great he would oppose inviting the Soviets to play in Canada. "They'd have it just as rough in Canada as we do in Europe."

Taylor and Dunnell covered all the Canadian games at Cortina. Their Olympic post-mortems were designed to soothe the outraged feelings of Charles Ritz, the well-known Swiss hotel proprietor, who says he loves hockey above all sports.

Ritz used to handle Canadian teams in Paris when Herbie and Ozzie Carnegie, the Toronto Negro stars, were in their prime. His reaction to Canada's failure at Cortina is probably typical of the way many Europeans feel.

Everett Nicol To Head Local Equestrian Club

Alderman Everett Nicol was elected president of the Sherbrooke Saddle and Bridle Club at the annual meeting and dinner held at the Hillcrest Lodge.

A total of sixty members attended the annual fixture which was highlighted by a very interesting talk by J. W. Dillingham, of Montreal, on the forming of a "Pony Club" and presented a film showing the various stages of the work.

President Nicol thanked all the members for their wonderful turnout and also congratulated the winners during the shows last year. Frank Gravel was elected vice-president, while Mrs. S. Allatt was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the club. Mrs. C. Parkins was re-named in charge of publicity.

The directors named were, Ed Smith, Rene Blouin, Jay Joslin, Sterling Allatt, C. Parkin and Alex Charland, of Magog. Dr. L. A. Gendreau was named honorary president of the club.

Ivan Irwin Is Recalled By Rangers

New York. — (AP) — New York Rangers of the National Hockey League have recalled defenseman Ivan Irwin from their Providence farm club of the American League.

Irwin was sent down to Providence in mid-December. He is expected to rejoin the Rangers early next week.

Youth Takes Over In Tucson Open

Tucson, Ariz. — (AP) — Youth was in command today as the $10,000 Tucson open golf tournament went into the second round. Gardiner Dickenson, Jr., of Panama City Beach, Fla., and Bob Harris of Chicago — neither with a win in a major tourney — shared the first-round lead with 32-31—63s for the 6,434-yard, par-70 El Rio course.

Another Canadian entered came nowhere near Kesselring's performance. Bill Mahwinney of Vancouver scored a 37-37—74.

Two Teams Tie For Top Honors In Textile Loop

Hecklers and Has-Beens are staging a close battle for the honors in the Dominion Textile Bowling League but the cellar-dwelling Hunters have rolled the high team single and triple.

R. Castonguay has posted the top single and triple with 200 and 516 while J. Burton holds a slight bulge over Castonguay in the individual race. He has compiled an average of 141 compared to 139 for the runner-up.

In this week's games the Has-Beens dropped the first string with the Hunters but they bounced back to take the other two. The Hecklers made a clean sweep of their fixture with the Hoboes to maintain their one-point advantage on top of the league.

Jean-Guy Houde Tallies Both Goals For Winners; Third Period Rally Pays Off For Unpredictable Maroons

Windsor Paper Makers eked out a close 2-1 decision over the Sherbrooke Beavers last night and moved into sole possession of third place in the Massawippi Valley Hockey League. In the other tilt the Waterloo Maroons posted a 4-2 victory over the second-place Magog Aces.

Jean-Guy Houde paced the Paper Makers to victory with the two goals. The winner was tallied in the third frame just a minute and a half before the end of the session, while each side had a man in the cooler. Bob Bedard got the lone tally for the Beavers in the first frame.

At Waterloo the Maroons came up with another of their surprising performances by taking the highly rated Aces. They were minus the services of their star forward, Frankie Reid, and Onil Martel, who failed to put in an appearance.

The Aces had built up what looked like a comfortable lead, 2-0, on goals by Pee Wee Theriault, in the first period, and by Vasilancourt at the start of the middle session. However, the Maroons rallied with Bazinet notching the first in the second to put them within hailing distance.

In the third frame it was all Maroons as Ab Norris' clan really went to town and batted three goals by Paul Duchesne, Auger, Brodeur and Joe Moore were the marksmen. Only four penalties were handed out, two minors in the second and majors in the third.

At Windsor it was a hard-hitting contest with a grand total of 17 penalties being doled out, including two majors to Guillemette and Gosselin for fighting in the third frame.

Bedard opened the scoring when he finished off a passing play with Morin and Planche but a minute later Houde evened the count which remained until the closing minutes of the game when Houde got his second tally of the evening to give his team the decision.

Sherbrooke: Jacques, Dubois, Dumas, Gagnon, Ricard, Morin, Cote, Proteau, Coates, Hinse, Planche, Bedard, Williams, Gosselin.

Windsor: Dubois, Bachand, Abnan, Bergeron, Desrosiers, Spendar, Guillemette, Leblanc, Laporte, Cloutier, Parr, Lapierre, Houde, Parker.

Waterloo: Duval, Moore, Messier, Auger, Brodeur, Bazinet, Menard, Fausse, Smith, Dufresne, Cote, Nantel.
