St. Paul's Guild Holds Annual Meeting

The ladies of St. Paul's Church Guild were the guests of Miss Iva Cowan at her home on Thursday last for their annual meeting.

The rector presided with Mrs. W. E. Shaw, treasurer of the Guild, giving the financial report. The statement showed an active year on the part of the ladies, with a substantial balance after $200.00 had been devoted to the parochial work of the parish, and the purchasing of three new windows for the church.

The ladies decided to hold their regular meetings during the winter months at the homes of the members and in the Spring to resume meetings in the guild room.

Mrs. G. A. Howard, the retiring president expressed appreciation to the ladies for their co-operation and support during the past year, and asked for the continued support to the officers who were to be elected for the present year.

The officers for the new year were then selected with the following being appointed:—President, Mrs. T. E. R. Nurse; vice president, Mrs. C. F. C. Powles; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. E. Shaw; purchasing committee, Mrs. M. Hodgins, Mrs. G. G. McDowell, Mrs. L. Strutt, Mrs. G. A. Howard and Mrs. O. Eades; visiting committee, Mrs. A. Hodgins and Mrs. G. G. McDowell; auditors Mrs. G. Brownlee and Mrs. C. J. Caldwell.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

St. Andrew's W.M.S.

The W. M. S. of St. Andrew's United, Bristol, met at the Manse, on Wednesday, Jan. 18th, with thirteen ladies present.

The meeting opened with the singing of hymn. After a brief business period the roll was called and answered by all present with a verse containing either "praise" or "prayer." The scripture, Luke 15: 1-10, was read by Mrs. Sales.

Mrs. Andrew Russell and Mrs. Sales led in prayer. The third chapter of the study book, "The Church Reaches Out" was given; Mrs. Bailey asking the questions and Mrs. W. J. Murray replying. This chapter told of, was to serve, to train, to interpret, to relieve, to enlist. It was a very interesting and helpful study.

Mrs. Sales thanked the members for their kindness in presenting her with a life membership before Christmas.

Miss Grace McKechnie read a most interesting letter she had received from a friend in the war area in China, telling of the work, heroism, and loving care given by the nurses and doctors to the patients in the hospitals.

The meeting closed with the hymn "We give Thee but Thine own," and the Benediction.

A cup of tea and a social hour brought a pleasant afternoon to a close.

News Parade

By Elizabeth Eedy

THE LAST SESSION: Eyes focus on Ottawa this week as the 1939 session of Parliament opens. It may be the last session before the next general election — and important things are happening in Canada. There are sure to be fireworks in the House when the Dominion's attitude toward the Empire during the Czecho-slovak crisis comes up for discussion; and when C.C.F. members start asking questions of the government. Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion will appear for the first time as Conservative leader. The session may have to adjourn, if work is not completed in time, to make way for the Royal visit in May.

SOCIETY NOTE: From a Canadian Press dispatch we learn that an Ottawa debutante can be launched for a top cost of about $1,500 compared with the $50,000 spent on some New York debbies' coming-out parties. And you can't tell us that the New York girls have $48,500 worth more fun! On the contrary. This year Canadian debbs may even be presented to royalty, a privilege that their American cousins can't buy.

EUROPE, 1939: One British official in London this week looking forward to another critical year in international politics said: "If we can get through 1939 without war, I think the danger will be over for several years."

Right you are, sir. The whole thing in a nutshell. But how to get through 1939, that is the question, without a major war breaking out in Europe.

There are two ways to stop a war (brewed by Hitler, Mussolini). One way is to give them all they ask for and let them go ahead (that's been the method followed to date). The other is for the "have" countries (Great Britain, France, the U.S., etc.) who hold the money-bags to refuse financial aid to Germany, Italy. We know the regimes of Hitler and Mussolini are perennially near collapse. A little less support from the democracies would cause them to topple over.

THE YEAR JUST PAST: Interest taken by Canadians in Canadian politics rose to its peak in 1938 with the international crisis, fell with the approach of Christmas and the New Year festive season. Now we're looking about us again to see what is happening in the Dominion.

It's worthwhile, however, to check up what has gone before. During the year just past, the chief interest on the Canadian political front was furnished by activity in the Conservative Party (retirement of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, choice of his successor, selection of a new Conservative leader in Ontario); the controversy between Prime Minister King and Ontario's Mitchell F. Hepburn came to a head at year's end; the visit of President Roosevelt to Canada during the summer was a milestone in the history of Canadian-American relations ("the United States will not stand idly by"); during 1938 Canada decided to go in for defense (army, navy, air) in a bigger way; the Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial relations completed its investigations, early in the spring to make its report.

In the foregoing events of the past year are contained the seeds of political happenings, trends in Canada during 1939.

THE WEEK'S QUESTION: Why is Poland important at the present moment? Answer: German ambitions to penetrate the Ukraine—repeated of late in Nazi newspapers—would have a grave effect on Poland, which includes 3,000,000 Ukrainians in the region adjoining the Soviet Ukraine. Poland is beginning to believe that co-operation with Russia is the best safeguard of her interests, and is turning a cold shoulder on Germany (who needs Poland's aid if further expansion eastward is to be made). Last week Poland and Russia signed a trade treaty which is expected to multiply thirty-fold the trade between the two nations.

Bottled History

Workmen engaged in excavations for a new building in South Melbourne came across a bottle of Dublin stout, believed to be eighty years old. How it got there is a mystery. The River Yarra once flowed over the area. Its historical value is greater if left unopened.

The British territorial army will make its anti-aircraft units 90,000 strong within a year.

Because no wolves are known to exist in South Africa, the game authorities are investigating reports that the animals have appeared in the Nambi Desert.

Ontario's "Main Street" Looked Like This

Scores of Ontario towns were completely isolated following the worst blizzard to hit the province in recent years. Hundreds of citizens began digging themselves out from under the blanket of snow which, driven by heavy gales formed drifts similar to these in the main street of Orangeville. In isolated sections of the province highways were impassable and train service disrupted.

More Canadians Use Electricity

It Plays An Important Part in Our Home Life — Towns and Cities Enjoy Most Benefit

Low-cost electricity, developed principally from abundant water-power, plays an important part in Canadian home life. Apart from bringing relief and convenience to the housewife, this widespread and substantial use of electricity has created a large and comparatively stable market for electrical power and appliances which is of marked benefit to producer and consumer alike. The domestic service consumption of the electricity used in residences in Canada has increased steadily, even during the worst years of the depression.

Our Water-Power Resources
This general use of electricity is not confined to urban areas, as electric transmission lines now range far and wide bringing current to the farms of rural districts where water pumps, feed choppers, cream separators, and other such machinery is electrically operated.

Electric power is cheaper in some parts of Canada than elsewhere in North America, as the Dominion is richly endowed with water-power resources which supply about 98 per cent. of the electrical energy produced.

Less Music Being Played on Radio

Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Test Shows 45.12 Per Cent. of Programs Are of Other Types

Time devoted to broadcasting music is diminishing, and "popular" music is also giving way before the classical productions, Brooke Claxton, Montreal lawyer and counsel for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, told the Copyright Appeal Board at Ottawa last week.

A test undertaken during the first week of November by the eight stations of the CBC showed that of the total broadcasting time 55.88 per cent. was devoted to music. This represented 7,425 hours out of a 13.7 hour broadcasting day.

Holland's partial mobilization in the recent war crisis cost $55,000,000.

A London expert estimates that there are more than 32,000 different coins in the world.

Start Northern Highways Soon

Construction Projects To Be Carried Out With Aid of Dominion and Provincial Governments

A tenth of the $2,000,000 recently appropriated by the Dominion and Ontario Governments for highway construction in Northern Ontario will be spent in the Sudbury area, James M. Cooper, Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature for Sudbury, says.

Cooper paid a visit last month to Toronto, where a tentative list of the projects was discussed by officials of the Ontario Department of Highways. He said most of the money would be spent on the section of the Trans-Canada highway between Sudbury and Hagar, about 20 miles east of Sudbury.

Conserving The Trumpeter Swan

Canada Maintains A Special Winter Garden Service for the Protection of North America's Largest Waterfowl

OTTAWA.—Canada maintains a special winter garden service for the protection of the trumpeter swan, the largest waterfowl in North America. Sometimes, when the wintering grounds are frozen over, the duties of these officers include the feeding of the swans. To prevent the starvation of the birds in severe weather, it is necessary to supply them with barley or other grain, and at one wintering ground in British Columbia a supply of grain is taken in by pack-horse from the nearest settlement, a distance of seventy-five miles.

Mostly In B.C.
At one time this magnificent bird was common from the Pacific Coast to the Middle West, but it now has disappeared from all except the most westerly part of its former range in Canada. At present most of the trumpeter swans in existence in Canada are found in British Columbia, and the number which assemble on the more important wintering grounds is estimated to be about five hundred.

Provided Swansdown
In the early days the trumpeter swan was hunted for its plumage, which helped provide the valuable swansdown of commerce, but now both the trumpeter and the whistling swan are protected at all times by the Migratory Birds Treaty.

VOICE OF THE PRESS

ONCE IN A LIFETIME
Something's wrong! Hogs went up 60 cents just when taxes were due. — Farmer's Advocate.

OUR FAVORITE ROBBER
A snooty bandit refused to take $100 from his intended victim, declaring that it wasn't enough to bother with. If this thing keeps up, most of us will be quite safe. — Chatham News.

LET THE MOTHS HAVE IT
James Brown, a weather prophet of Port Stanley, says we will have nothing more than ten below this winter, so it's hardly worth dusting off the heavy underwear. — Peterborough Examiner.

SHEPHERDS AND THEIR CROOKS
Quoth the Woodstock Sentinel-Review: "It had nothing to do with the festive season that political shepherds in Ontario are watching their flocks by night." But keeping one eye on the falling stars. — Stratford Beacon-Herald.

WHY NOT BAN THEM?
Has it occurred to the Dominion Government that some good might be done by prohibiting the importation or manufacture of pistols and revolvers except by special permit and for certain specified purposes? There would, admittedly, be some smuggling and some "bootlegging" done; but close watch at border customs offices and strict inspection of manufacturing plants would keep breaches of the law to a minimum. — Owen Sound Sun-Times.

SPORT — AND SPORT
Is sport sport any more? This is a question that not a few Soothies who have interested themselves in the promotion of sport are beginning to ask themselves.

What is the use of providing playing fields and rinks, they ask, if in order to get teams to use them it is necessary for a business concern or a few private individuals to put up the money to outfit them?

There is growing feeling that the youthful players in a variety of sports, not only in the Sault, but elsewhere, are being spoiled by the attention that is being lavished on them and that all too often sport for sport's sake is being lost in sport for advertising's sake. There are even stories of a Toronto amateur football team whose members would not turn out for practise unless a motor car was sent around to pick them up. — Sault Ste. Marie Star.

Indians May Make King Their Chief

Six Nations Indians Plan to Confer Chieftainship on King George V During His Visit Here

King George VI may be initiated into a lineage of rulers older even than the monarchy of England when he visits Canada next summer. Plans to confer a chieftainship in Canada's Six Nations Indian tribe upon the King are being considered by the Toronto Indian Council.

Dr. J. J. Sussmuth, assistant sashem of the council, said the honor will be conferred upon King George if the royal itinerary permits. If possible, the ceremony will be held on the Six Nations Reserve at Ohsweken, near Brantford. If not, the Indians will come to Toronto and go through the ancient ritual.

The ceremony will be identical with that by which the Indians honored their rulers long before white man ever set foot in Canada. The procedure was almost universal among them, and varied but little among the different tribes, Dr. Sussmuth said.

Says Five Basic Elements Make Up Personality

Physique, Intelligence, Emotion and Instinct, Also Habit — First Four Inherited, Declares British Columbia Psychiatrist

In these days when so many people place responsibility for character on other things than the home, it is interesting to read the opinion of a British Columbia psychiatrist on "Personality Development of the Pre-School Child." Writing in the December issue of the Canadian Nurse, Dr. Arthur M. Gee of the Provincial Mental Hospital, Essondale, says that personality is derived from five basic elements — physique, intelligence, emotion, instinct and habit. The first four are inherited, the fifth acquired.

As to habit, he says: "We are born without habits and we spend the greater part of our lives acquiring habits, good or bad. The baby spends his first years learning habits of nursing, habits of hygiene, walking and talking. Slowly the personality begins to unfold as the child begins to feel his security and realizes he is an individual within the family constellation. With increasing emotional maturity, he is gradually weaned away from his complete physical and emotional dependence upon his mother. The day comes when he must step out from his home and its security to enter a new world at school, where he is thrown more or less on his own resources. Here he learns new habit patterns. The foundation that he has received during his pre-school life will to a great extent form the pattern to which his later life will conform.

Give Opportunity For Learning
"The problem of personality formation and character building is not a matter of specific teaching but of offering children at each level of their development

Marmora Factory 100 Per Cent. No. 1

A provincial record is believed to have been established by Cook's cheese factory, Marmora, Ontario, this season as records reveal that every cheese made by the factory during the past year received a No. 1 grade.

Hugh Moloney is president and Roy Colby is cheesemaker.

Average Price 13.9c A Pound
The amount of milk received and the number of cheeses produced this year is lower than many of the other factories of Hastings county, but records of the grading office at Belleville show that grading percentage is believed unequalled by any other county factory.

Average price for cheese last season was 13.9 cents; 11.4 pounds of milk were required to make one pound of cheese.

Ignorance Still Rampant Today

There is a boy in Great Britain who thinks Queen Victoria is still on the Throne; boys who cannot tell the time, name more than two or three months in the year, or even give the year in which they live. The Governor of Feltham Borstal Institution says: "The abysmal depth of ignorance from which 7 or 8 years of State education has failed to rescue many of the lads received here—or to which they have reverted after two or three years of complete mental vacuity—would be inconceivable and probably incredible to anyone not in touch with this problem."

appropriate opportunity for learning, through direct participation and experience. Parents cannot hope to live one way and instruct their children in another. Children, in their personality formation, will reflect their home and their parents in spite of every effort to teach them better."

WONDERLAND OF OZ

"So little," Dorothy said. "Why that sneeze was as bad as a Kansas cyclone," and then she helped Miss Cuttenclip rescue the paper folk and stand them on their feet again. Two of the cardboard houses had also had their porches damaged and the little queen said she would have to repair them and paste them together before they could be lived in again. And now fearing they might do more damage to the flimsy people, they decided to go away.

But first they thanked Miss Cuttenclip for her courtesy. "Any friend of Princess Ozma is welcome here unless he sneezes," said the queen with a severe look at Uncle Henry. "I like to have visitors admire my village and I hope you will call on us again." Miss Cuttenclip herself led them to the door in the wall, and as they passed along the street the paper dolls peeped at them half fearfully from the doors and windows. Perhaps they will never forget Uncle Henry's powerful sneeze.

On leaving the Growleywoogs, General Guph had to recross the Ripple Land, and he did not find it a pleasant thing to do. Perhaps having his whiskers pulled out one by one and being used as a pin cushion for the innocent amusement of a good-natured jailer had not improved the collection of the wrongs he had suffered and vowed to take vengeance upon the Growleywoogs after he had used them for his purpose and Oz had been conquered.

He went on his way until he was half across Ripple Land, when he became seasick and the rest of the way this naughty gnome was almost as miserable as he deserved to be. But when he reached the plains again and the ground was firm under his feet, he felt better and instead of going home he turned directly to the west. A squirrel perched in a tree saw him take this road and called to him "Look out!" but he paid no attention. A bird paused in its flight to look at him wonderingly and say "Look out!" but on he went.

What Science Is Doing

SEE THROUGH STEEL

Six inches of steel or two or three feet of aluminum alloy are as transparent as plate glass to the new X-ray equipment developed at the National Research Council laboratories, Ottawa.

The new X-ray apparatus takes an electric current at 600,000 volts through the biggest X-ray tube used for industrial radiography in North America.

MAKING GLASS INVISIBLE

Discovery of a coating that makes glass invisible is announced by Dr. Katharine B. Blodgett, noted woman scientist in Schenectady, N.Y.

The glass never reflects light from any angle whatever. Clock, dial face and show case glass and windows appear not to exist. An incredibly thin film on both surfaces of glass is the secret of this scientific miracle. The film is about 1/100,000th of an inch, or one-quarter the wave length of light, in thickness.

COBRA VENOM A TONIC

Cobra venom is a mental tonic. The venom is injected into the muscles, once a day or less. Its effects are slower than morphine, but last longer and are not habit-forming.

Direct mental stimulation is also shown, that is, not merely psychic effects due to relief from pain. In addition two other improved facilities were noted: Wider angle vision and better muscular co-ordination.

GAS QUICKLY LIQUEFIED

Professor Peter Kapitza, former director of the Royal Society's Mond Laboratory at Cambridge, now head of the Soviet Government's new laboratory at Moscow, has perfected a new method of liquefying gases. It is announced that this discovery will have great scientific and industrial importance.

Only a few details have been made known, but a vital part of the invention is said to be a turbine of completely original design. It is no larger than a match-box and weighs about half a pound, but has far greater efficiency than the machines heretofore used.

HAVE YOU HEARD

A woman entered the butcher's shop and asked him to cut off ten pounds of beef. He did so. "Shall I send it, madam?" he asked.

"Oh, no, thanks," she replied. "I've been reducing and have lost ten pounds, and I wanted to see what it looked like."

There was an old man of Colquhoun Who built an enormous balquhoun. To his utter surprise It rose to the skies And nearly bumped into the mquhoun.

The golf novice had not made much progress, but he was a man of iron determination.

"I'll move heaven and earth to play this game properly," he said, as for the fifth stroke in succession he pulled up the turf.

The caddy smiled. "Well," he said, "you haven't much farther to go. You've only heaven to move now."

"Have you much room in your new flat?" "Heavens, no. My kitchen and living room are so small that I have to live on condensed milk and shortbread."

A Negro boy was taking a stroll through a cemetery and reading the inscriptions on the tombstones. He came to one which declared: "Not dead, but sleeping".

After contemplating the phrase for a moment, and scratching his head, the Negro exclaimed: "He sure ain't feelin' no one body but himself."

"What would the girl of today do if she suddenly found herself in the Middle Ages?" wonders an essayist. Go on pretending that she was only about twenty-one.

"Hair cut, sir?" inquired a barber of a customer whose head was almost bereft of hair. "No," was the sarcastic retort. "I want it done up in a bun and fastened with a pink ribbon."

New High-Altitude Land Plane Passes First Tests

Officially known as model-307, Boeing Aircraft Company's 33-passenger "stratoliner" is shown after being wheeled out into the open at Seattle, Wash., for the first time to be prepared for a series of engine tests. The silver four-engine craft is 74-feet long with a 107-foot wing spread, weighs 42,000 pounds and is designed to cruise at 300-miles per hour at a sub-stratosphere altitude of 20,000 feet. Two superchargers maintain a cabin pressure greater than that of the rarified air outside at that altitude, allowing the passengers perfect breathing comfort at all times. The dirigible-like fuselage is perfectly streamlined without a break even for the windows of the control compartment.

How Can I?

BY ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I detect a leak in a gas pipe?

A.—At the point where a leak in the gas pipe is suspected, apply a paste of soap and water. If there is a leak, bubbles will appear. Never use matches or a flame of any kind when looking for a gas leak.

Q.—How can I remove hot pans from the oven easily and without danger of burning the hands?

A.—A small, short, tin shovel can be purchased for about ten cents. Flatten out the sides of the shovel and it will make an excellent utensil for removing hot pans from the oven.

Q.—What is a home remedy for neuralgia?

A.—The eating of a good quantity of celery is often an effective remedy.

Q.—How can I add just the right amount of stiffening to organdie trimmings, such as collar and cuff sets?

A.—Try dipping them into water in which rice has been boiled.

Q.—How can I give fingernail polish a higher gloss?

A.—When polishing the fingernails, put on the pink or red polish, but leave the tips uncovered, and whiten underneath. Then go over the whole fingernail with a coat of colorless polish. It will give a higher gloss, a neater finish, and will last longer.

English Know Little About Empire Life

Canadian Woman Complains That People of England Are Ignorant of the Geography, Politics, Economics of the Countries in the Empire

A letter to the editor of the Daily Telegraph (Conservative) one of London's leading papers, from an unnamed Canadian woman who complained that the people of England know too little about the Empire drew an editorial admission from the newspaper last week that her allegation is well founded.

The editorial follows: "There is still too much justification for the friendly remonstrance which a correspondent from Canada makes in our columns today that the English people do not know the countries of the Empire and they should.

Characteristics of Nationhood "She is not the only visitor from the Dominions who has found us ill-informed about their geography, their politics, and economics, and—the worst defect of all—about the distinctive characteristics of their nationhood.

"Our educational system is still guilty of neglect of the significance of the Empire. Fortunately, however, there are now expanding efforts to send young people of all classes on Empire tours, and interchanges are arranged which may well progressively increase."

When Knives Were Used For Eating

Before the advent of table forks, eating with one's knife was the vogue among society people. Before this it was quite proper to eat with one's fingers. The table knife came into general popularity some time after the seventeenth century and was the correct thing for eating as well as for cutting.

Flying Mail-Van

A "flying mail-van" that picks up and delivers mail at 90 miles an hour is to start operation in Pennsylvania.

Watching a demonstration of the new service post office officials saw a pilot cut down his plane's speed to 90 m.p.h. as he flew towards two 23 ft. poles linked with a rope. Attached to the rope was a dummy sack of mail. The pilot manoeuvred the plane downward, picked up the mail sack and dropped another.

The route to be covered by the new "flying mail-van" includes 27 towns and cities.

Important Year In History of Aviation Here

Trans-Canada Airlines Are Expected to Carry Passengers Early This Spring — Significance of 1939 in Transoceanic Flights

The most important year in the history of the aviation industry in Toronto and Canada as a whole is indicated with the beginning of 1939.

During 1938, tremendous strides were made in Canadian aviation and it is during 1939 that these steps are expected to bring the industry in this country to a destination that will be the culmination of much planning and effort.

Experiments Completed

Before the last leaf of 1939 has dropped from the calendar, great liners of the sky are expected to be shuttling back and forth between this country and Europe, winging passengers and mail across the Atlantic. The long process of experiment is practically completed and the whims of wind and the weather above the restless Atlantic are now well known to the men who will pilot the air-giants on their long journeys.

Groundwork Laid

From present signs, it is indicated that 1939 will be no more than nicely on its way before the big metal ships of Trans Canada Airlines will be opening their doors to passengers. The groundwork has been laid, beacons flash along the air routes, radio beams are at this moment beeping away across Canada's bushland, landing fields have been made ready and, last but not least, T. C. A. pilots have become familiar with their routes.

World's Shortest Railway's Here

Between Huntsville, Ont., and Lake of Bays — One Mile, Narrow-Gauge Road — Closed for Winter Months

Ice and snow cover the North Muskoka lakes and the two dinky engines and other rolling stock of the Huntsville and Lake of Bays Railway Company, the shortest railroad in the world, are laid up in the roundhouse awaiting the opening of the 1939 navigation and tourist season.

The automobile has wrought great changes in the transportation picture of Ontario's playground. Passengers no longer travel in large number over the steep portage from Lake of Bays to Peninsula Lake. But the little train, once known as the "corkscrew limited," makes daily trips each summer over the one-mile, narrow-gauge road.

Built in 1906 at a cost of $40,000, the road winds around huge rocks and hills, skirts a small lake and climbs an elevation of 130 ft. in a half-mile from Peninsula Lake to Lake of Bays. It runs over an Indian trail that for 100 years was used by the Algonquin Indians in trading throughout the area.

Says New World Was "Civilized" Before Old One

Scientist Claims Plants Were Domesticated and Cultivated in America Before Dawn of European Civilization

Human civilization, as measured by agricultural development, is older in the "new world" than in the "old world," Dr. Donald D. Brand, the University of New Mexico, anthropologist, contended this week.

Evidence Found by Botanists "If the beginnings of agriculture mark the dawn of civilization, then evidence collected by botanists and anthropologists indicates an earlier civilization in the new world than in the old," he said.

Dr. Brand said that "unlike the wheat, and most other domesticated plants, maize (Indian corn) requires cultivation for its propagation and scarcely an old world species of plant can compare with the maize, field pumpkins and kidney beans in the area of its spread at the time of Columbus."

In Mexico and Central America "The greater variety of squashes, maize, kidney beans, manioc, potatoes and other cultivated plants cannot be matched in Eurasia or in Africa."

"The prehistoric inhabitants of Mexico and Central America domesticated more plants than the inhabitants of any comparable area in the world," he said.

Of the 620 drug addicts in the United Kingdom known to the government, 132 are members of the medical profession, a report to the League of Nations shows.

Canada's Mud May Have Great Value

Southern Lakes expected to Yield Pure Silica, Worth Millions of Dollars

Mud worth millions of dollars has been discovered in the northern United States by Paul Conger, of the U. S. National Museum.

The mud looks like ordinary muck, but really is made mostly of diatoms, microscopic marine animal shells which are pure silica.

Dr. Conger said he found this kind of mud in 64 lake bottoms and bogs in Northern Wisconsin. When the mud was dried and the organic matter burned off, the residue was commercially valuable "diatomaceous earth." This earth is used for fine filters, such as sugars and fruits, for heat insulation, tile-making and many other purposes.

Study of the Wisconsin lakes, Mr. Conger said, shows that similar diatomaceous muds will be found in lakes of Southern Canada as well as Minnesota, Michigan, New York and New England.

Hydro System In Northland

Will Be Extended With Help from Ottawa Government in Patricia District

Hon. W. L. Houck, acting chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, announced last week the Ontario Government had approved by order-in-council the construction of a new 113-mile power transmission line in the Pickle Lake district of Northern Ontario.

Work For Unemployed The line is being built particularly to meet increasing requirements of the Pickle Crow and Central Patricia gold mines. It will be extension of a line being built from Earl Falls to supply power to the Uchi gold mines. Estimated cost is placed at $937,000 and the line will be constructed to operate at 68,000 volts.

The project will be undertaken under an agreement reached between the Ontario government and the federal government in respect to aid of Northern Ontario unemployment. Federal government will contribute 50 percent of labor costs and approximately 500 men will be engaged in cutting the right-of-way for the line.

The first official estimate of the gross value of the principal field crops grown in Canada in 1938 is $527,149,000, which is $30,968,000 or 6 per cent. below the estimated value of the 1937 production, and $84,881,400 below that of 1936. The value of the 1936 harvest was the highest since 1930 when the value was $662,040,900. Low yields in 1937 and sharply reduced prices in 1938 have resulted in successive reductions in value for the past two years.

1938 Field Crops

First Official Estimate Places Gross Value of Canadian Output of 6 Per Cent. Lower Than 1937

These estimates are subject to revision and do not represent cash income received from sales, but are gross values of farm production. Several of the crops, such as mixed grains, turnips, and fodder corn, are almost wholly utilized on the farms on which they were grown.

While the 1938 wheat production is nearly double that of 1937, the average farm price is only 57 cents as compared with $1.02 in 1937. Thus the value of the crop is only about twelve million dollars greater. Increases in the production of oats, barley and rye in 1938 failed to offset declines in prices and the combined value of these crops is $35,694,000 less than in 1937.

These estimates are subject to revision and do not represent cash income received from sales, but are gross values of farm production. Several of the crops, such as mixed grains, turnips, and fodder corn, are almost wholly utilized on the farms on which they were grown.

Trapping Goes "Streamlined"

Canada's Oldest Business Has Been Transformed By Plane and Radio

Canada's oldest business — trapping — has been "streamlined" through use of the aeroplane and wireless. The swift drama of modern methods has replaced the picturesqueness of the canoe and the portage.

The majority of the estimated 300 to 400 trappers operating in the Northwest Territories and remote Northern regions of British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan now take full advantage of commercial aviation and widespread radio facilities of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals.

To Civilization in Few Hours

Each fall Edmonton commercial aviation firms carry north nearly 150 trappers, their dogs, canoes, traps and provisions. Throughout the winter aeroplanes call at the trappers' cabins or the nearest post and freight the furs to market. In the spring the modern Coureur de Bois are whisked from the loneliness of their trap lines to civilization in a few hours.

Besides eliminating many weeks on the trail to and from the trapping ground, the aeroplane enables trappers to locate new ground quickly after old lines have been "trapped out."

Parliament Opening

Canada's Parliament was launched upon its 1939 session on Thursday, 12th inst., with all the customary pomp and display and with a Government program packed with promise of long and interesting debate.

For the fourth time since he was appointed Governor General of Canada, Lord Tweedsmuir was the centre of a brilliantly clad assembly as he read the Speech from the Throne officially opening Parliament and outlining in brief the work of the Government facing members of the Senate and House of Commons during the months ahead.

Few sessions of recent years have opened with more important developments before it and seldom have there been so many members present on the first day or so many spectators.

In the House of Commons after the colourful opening ceremonies, there was a brief but interesting session when four new members were introduced, including Hon. R. J. Manion, successor to Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett as Conservative Chief and Leader of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Manion, who was a member of the House for nearly 20 years before being defeated in 1935 general elections, was returned in a by-election in London last November. A basket of roses from his constituents waited him on his desk, lending almost the only note of colour to the Commons chamber.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King crossed the floor of the chamber to congratulate the new leader as soon as he took his seat and a little later paid Dr. Manion a warm tribute in welcoming him back to the House as Leader of the Opposition.

The Prime Minister said it was a pleasure to all members of all parties to welcome Dr. Manion back to the House of Commons. He assured him he would have "the understanding and goodwill of all members of the House of Commons" in his responsible task as leader of his party and of the Official Opposition.

Dr. Manion brought a rich experience and high ability to his new duties, Mr. King said.

Dr. Manion expressed his "very sincere and deep appreciation" of the welcome extended to him by Mr. King and his thanks to the House for its kind reception.

Mr. King's actions were always courteous in the amenities of parliamentary life. Although he had crossed swords often with the Prime Minister in debate they had remained good friends. He felt Mr. King might have more to forgive than he. For the future he hoped to live up to the traditions of courtesy and fair play established in Parliament.

Quebec Safety League

All chiefs of municipal provincial and federal police departments in the Province of Quebec have been made advisory members of the Province of Quebec Safety League, it was announced last week.

Safety work has always received the greatest help from all police officers, and it is to achieve a still closer co-operation, that police chiefs have been named to the advisory board of the League.

The recent announcement from Col. E. A. Pizze of the Provincial Police that all his men would this year follow courses in First Aid to the injured under instructors of the St. John Ambulance Association, well proves, the League feels, that the police are eager to do their best for the welfare of the public, and their new participation in the League will afford them greater opportunity to help towards the prevention of accidents.

Book Stands as Tribute to Late Father W. L. Murray

Rev. E. J. McCorkell, C.S.E., M.A., superior of St. Michael's College, Toronto, has given a further proof of his lasting affection for the late Captain the Rev. William Leo Murray, B.A., M.C., by editing a memoir sketching the life of Father Murray, beloved pastor of St. John the Evangelist church, Campbell's Bay, Que., from 1919 until his death on March 17, 1937. With the assistance of Rev. J. L. Enright, Calumet Island, Que., Rev. A. J. Hurley, Oxnard, California, Capt. the Rev. J. R. O'Gorman, Timmins, Right Rev. Michael O'Gorman, Edmonton and the Murray family, Father McCorkell has very feelingly portrayed the fine traits of character which won for Father Murray the love and respect of all who knew him.

Mrs. M. J. Mulvihill of Pembroke and Mrs. J. L. Murray of Renfrew have distributed copies of the book to Rev. Father Murray's friends.

Octagon House at Washington
Octagon house, a fine example of late Georgian architecture, was the Washington home of Col. John Tayloe, wealthy Virginia planter and friend of George Washington. Dr. William Thornton, original designer of the United States capitol, made the plans for the house in 1790. Built of English brick, it is, in spite of the name, actually hexagonal in form. After the burning of the Executive Mansion in 1814, President Madison established the temporary White House there and with Dolly Madison as hostess Octagon house reached its height of social power. The proclamation giving the terms of the treaty of Ghent was signed by President Madison in one of the upper rooms. The house was purchased and restored by the American Institute of Architects in 1902 and is occupied by that organization.

All Teas Classified in Three General Divisions

All teas are classified into three general divisions—the black or fully fermented; the green or unfermented; and the oolong or semi-fermented. Usually the tea drinker prefers one of these kinds. There is a noticeable difference in the flavor and aroma of each.

Some black teas are graded according to leaf sizes. After picking, the leaves are separated into five grades: Flowery Orange Pekoe, Orange Pekoe, Pekoe, Pekoe Souchong, and Souchong. Flower Orange Pekow is made up of the most tender leaves taken from the tip of the tea plant. Souchong represents the coarsest leaf used for tea. These terms do not have any specific reference to the cup quality of tea, nor do they indicate that the scent or flavor of oranges is present.

Next to black teas, observes an authority in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, the green or unfermented teas are most numerous in the United States. These come to us chiefly from China and Japan. Green teas have a sharper, more astringent taste than black ones.

Oolong tea, or the semi-fermented type resembles a blend of black and green tea. It comes mostly from the island of Formosa and from China. Oologs are in-betweens in flavor as well as color.

Tannin, caffeine, and the volatile oils are the most important constituents of tea.

Tannin gives to tea a brisk, pungent flavor. Caffeine provides mild stimulation. And many persons think that the volatile oils make the most difference in tea flavor. The "body" of a cup of tea depends upon the soluble materials that come out into the liquid as the tea steeps.

Expression "O. K." Said to Be Traced to Haiti

Among the explanations for the expression "O. K.," meaning "all right," one is that it is derived from a seaport on the southern coast of Haiti, which was a famous source of superior rum and tobacco shipped to the American colonies. The name of the port was Aux Cayes (pronounced "oh cay"). The colonists buying rum or tobacco would ask, "Is it Aux Cayes?" If it was, they knew it was good. The words soon became a symbol for good quality, but the letters O. K. naturally took the place of the words when written by persons not familiar with the real meaning, it is said.

Another theory is that the initials O. R., meaning "ordered recorded," being carelessly written on documents, were misread as O. K. and so came to stand for a symbol of correctness. It is also asserted that O. K., as an abbreviation for Artemus Ward's spelling of "all correct," first gained currency among oldtime telegraph operators.

As a verb, an authority says; the expression should be written O. K.'d or O. K.'ing.
Snowflake Real Entity of Art
"A snowflake," recites a book on "Weather" by Free and Hoke, "is not merely a feathery piece of ice that melts into water on the cheek; it is a miniature design as truly ruled, as symmetrically assembled, as conscientiously ornamented as though a skilled draftsman with more than a touch of genius had worked on it for days. It is no unit of another design, but is a real entity of art in itself. One flake never duplicates exactly another's pattern. There may be billions of billions of patterns made day after day in the heavens!"

Sicily Filled With Ruins

At the very tip of Italy lies Sicily which at one time or another since 1500 B. C. was ruled over by Phoenicians, Greeks, Carthaginians, Romans, Saracens, Norman, Spaniards, and finally the people of Italy. Sicily is filled with the ruins of old temples, lying in state, in fields of multi-colored flowers. At Syracuse the tragedies of the Greeks are presented in an open-air theater, while ancient baths draw the ailing to Acireale. Palermo is the capital and chief port of the island, while Taormina is its most famous resort.

Snook Is Fish Caught With Smooth Shark-Skin Bait

The unfamiliar name, snook, is that of a fish found off the west coast of Africa in the vicinity of Walvis bay. It is a delicacy among the colored people of South Africa, and large consignments are also sent to Mauritius, says London Tit-Bits Magazine.

Snook-fishing is rather remarkable. Not even the most experienced fishermen know for certain where they will find the snook shoals or if or when they will bite when found. Thousands of snook may be seen passing beneath the ship, but unless they rise to the surface it is futile to try to catch any of them. So the fishermen just wait—and when at last the snook do rise, unbarbed hooks, with shark-skin bait, are dropped overboard.

The sharkskin must be put on the hook in such a way that the grain is smooth between the teeth of the snook, which will not take rough bait.

The snook weighs, often enough, seven pounds, and he fights to the bitter end.

The snook fishers know but a few things about the habits of the snook. They know that the first shoals are seen off Walvis bay; that they migrate down coast and by late summer have disappeared off the Cape of Good Hope; that the snook hates cold water and that sunrise is the best time for fishing. For the rest, it is largely a matter of luck.

Indian Head and Liberty on the Early Gold Coins

For several years gold half dollars and quarter dollars were issued. The half dollar of the first issue was round, the obverse showing a head of Liberty surrounded by a circle of 13 stars and the reverse showing the date "1852" with a wreath of laurel and the legend, "Half Dol. California Gold." Some have on the reverse the date and the legend "California Gold Half D." Later issues, says a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, show various numbers of stars as well as change in design, some portraying an Indian head instead of Liberty and octagonal in shape.

These half and quarter dollars were issued by private companies or individuals connected with the gold-mining interests and in nearly every case reached the standard of value, weight and fineness claimed for them. While not considered legal coinage or legal tender, they were accepted at a time when there was a pressing need for money with which to transact the business of the country. Such coinage, however, were later prevented by laws.

Souvenir pieces resembling the gold half dollars were also issued during this period. They were made of composition metal, gold plated, and, of course, are not worth anything.

Origin of "Red Tape"

Red tape, as the popular name for official and legal formality and delay, originated in England during the Eighteenth century and arose from the custom of tying documents in red tape. The custom of tying up papers in such tape dates back several centuries, reference being made to it in an advertisement printed in a London paper published in 1685. Sidney Smith did much to popularize it in the satirical sense. Such a word was just what the common people wanted with which to ridicule the delay of government business. It was natural that the ordinary man, impatient for action on his particular case, should ridicule the tying and untying of red tape which bound the dispatch and document cases.

Grasshoppers and Locusts

Grasshopper plagues are often associated with vegetation destruction by the insect commonly referred to as the 17-year locust, a name that is incorrect in at least two particulars, according to an authority in the Washington Star: (1) It is not a locust at all, that name being applied only to members of the grasshopper family, and (2) while it has a 17-year period, it also has a 13-year period. It has been so long mis-called by the name of locust, however, that there is no hope of divesting it of that incorrect appellation, and in the regions where there is the longer period of recurrence it will continue to be known as the 17-year locust, and in the areas of the shorter recurrence period as the 13-year locust. The scientifically accepted name of periodical cicada, however, is the only one that exactly fits.

Nansen, the Explorer

Fridtjof Nansen, Norwegian explorer, statesman and humanitarian, was the first scientist successfully to exploit the idea of a floating observation station amid the Polar ice; and his station—that immortal ship, the Fram—drifted three years in the great ice-pack, deliberately driven into a region which no rescue vessel could ever hope to reach. Nansen was the first polar explorer to ignore the old axiom that an expedition must not advance without securing its "line of retreat." Fram (meaning "forward") was his motto and his method. He knew that once he entered the ice no question of retreat could arise.

How Savages Elongated the Ear

A barbarous custom practiced among some savage Indian tribes in the very early days was ear-splitting. To elongate the ear the rim was sliced around from the top to the bottom, leaving the sliced portion attached at the lobe. Then a weight was fastened onto the end of the rim, as it hung down, so as to stretch it while the ear healed. This was supposed to beautify the ears, just as lip stretching among the Ubangia of Africa is supposed to beautify the lips.

Elements Little Known

Of the 87 known elements, 17 or nearly one-fifth are rare earths, says a report to the American Chemical Society. Sixteen of the 17 rare earths have been isolated and their atomic weights determined, yet very little is known about this group of elements.

Narrow Escape for Family at Kisbey, Sask.

Kisbey, Sask., Jan. 4.—Four people, all members of Joseph H. Lynch family here, narrowly escaped death New Year's morning when escaping coal gas overcame Mr. Lynch, his son, Lloyd, and partially overcame the mother and daughter.

J. S. Davidson, C.P.R. agent, was the first to notice the absence of any activity around the Lynch home. However, he made no attempt to arouse anyone until he returned from church an hour later.

On his return, with the assistance of a neighbour, W. R. Irwin, the door was forced open and the father and son found lying unconscious and the mother and daughter showing signs of suffocation.

Nurse Audrey Reid, who was summoned, worked over the family until the arrival of Dr. Frazier of Arcola. Dr. Frazier said later that the four were out of danger but would be in bed for some days.—Regina Daily Star.
Mr. Lynch is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lynch, former residents of Stark's Corners.

How Birds and Animals Were Given Their Names

If an animal, or any phenomenon new to us, attracts our attention, we immediately wonder whether other persons have seen and labeled it, and if so we seek to know what it has been called by those well-informed on the subject; meanwhile we invent a name for ourselves as an aid to memory and conversation, observes a writer in the Montreal Herald.

Now that seems to be precisely the way in which the more common kinds of birds in all parts of the inhabited world got their names. In prehistoric ages as primitive men scattered and explored new regions they met strange animals, gave each a name, and later, taught it to newcomers. The words of these pioneers are wholly lost, of course; but we may well believe that the process of adding such nouns to their limited speech was much the same wherever primitive men settled. Not only would the most familiar or more numerous species encountered in any locality be first noted and named by the primitive adventurer, but in each case the name given it would indicate its most striking feature, such as its predominant color, or a distinctive voice, or some noticeable manner of flight, or peculiarity in feeding, nesting and other habits. In all countries, and expressed in various languages, you may hear of red-birds, blackbirds, bluebirds. Likewise in every country birds seem to the people to be pronouncing their own names as if for the listeners' benefit, or to repeat singing notes that may easily be turned into human words in the language of their listeners.

In Memoriam

SMITH—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. James Smith, who entered into rest January 21st, 1938. THE FAMILY.

THOMPSON—In loving memory of my dear husband, Thomas Thompson, who died January 11th, 1938. Gone but not forgotten WIFE.

HARRIS—In loving memory of my parents, Mr. Wm. J. Harris, who died Feb'y 11, 1937, and his wife who died Jan'y 16, 1938. "Fondly remembered" By daughter, Mrs. AMOS ARMITAGE

MORRISON—In fond and loving memory of James Morrison, who died Jan'y 17th, 1937. What would we give to clasp his hand, His happy face to see; To hear his voice and see his smile, That meant so much to us. Daughter and son-in-law, Margaret and Tom

SMILEY—In loving memory of our dear son, Merline Smiley, who entered into rest, January 20th, 1937. When the evening shades are drawn, And we are sitting all alone, In our hearts there comes a longing, If he could only come home. Oft and oft our thoughts do wonder, To a grave not far away, Where we laid our dear Merline, Just two years ago today. Sadly missed by parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Smiley

MORRISON—In loving memory of our dear father, James Morrison, who departed this life January 17th, 1937. The blow was great, the shock severe, We little thought the end was near, And only those who have lost can tell. The pain of parting without farewell. You are not forgotten father dear, Nor ever shall you be; As long as life shall last, We shall remember you. Lovingly remembered by Mary and Jack, South Porcupine, Ont.

MORRISON—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, James Morrison, who died January 17th, 1937. If only the skies could open, And his dear face I could see, Oh what a wonderful feeling, I know would come over me. But he is with the Saviour, Far from sin and pain, And Jesus says believe in me, And you shall see him again. Ever remembered by Wife and family,

HARRIS—In fond and loving memory of Mr. Wm. Jas. Harris who died Feb'y 10th, 1937, and Mrs. Wm. Jas. Harris who died Jan'y 16th, 1938. When a father and mother breathe their last farewell, The stroke means more than words can tell, The world seems quite another place, Without the smile of a father and mother. What would we give their hands to clasp, Their patient faces to see, To hear their voices and see their smiles, As in the days that used to be, But some sweet day we'll meet again, Beyond the toil and strife, And clasp each other's hands once more, In heaven that happy home above. Son and daughter-in-law, Sam and Myrtle and grandson, Wilmer.

Language of the Chefs

in Culinary Department
Here's a cook's dictionary of words in culinary usage:
Aspic—savory meat jelly. Bouquet Garni—herbs of different kinds usually put into a muslin bag to season stews, etc.; Baine-Marie—an open vessel with a loose bottom for hot water, to keep sauces, etc., very hot without reduction. Canadians call it a double boiler, observes a writer in the Montreal Herald. Consomme—strong, clear gravy obtained by stewing meat a long time. Also used to mean soup. Croquettes—mince of fish, fowl, or meat, seasoned, rolled in egg and bread-crumbs and fried crisp. Croustades—fried forms of bread toasted or fried, used as a garnish or dropped into soup just before serving. Chaudfroid—a cold entree or a sauce for masking cold meats. Caramel—sugar boiled with a little water to a deep brown, or burnt. Espagnole—a rich, brown Spanish sauce. Flan—a French custard, or a fruit-open-tart with "jellied" juice. Fritter—fruit encased in batter and fried. Farce—a forcemeat or stuffing. Glaze—stock boiled down to jelly thickness, made brown, and used to improve appearance of cold boiled meats, tongues, etc. Lard—to fasten pieces of bacon over anything for basting purposes. Mask—to cover with any rich sauces or cream. Purée—anything reduced to pulp by cooking, and passed through a sieve.

Budgerigar, Bird Clown,

Imitator, Like a Parrot
"Budgerigar" is the Australian bushman's name for the naturalist's Melopsittacus undulatus, an Australian ground parakeet which is sometimes called the shell parakeet, and also the undulated grass parakeet, though it does not belong to the group of typical Australian grass parakeets, which are all much larger birds, writes J. I. Lawrence in the New York Sun.

The "budgie," as it is affectionately known in London, is one of the monkeys of the bird world; a clown, an acrobat, a droll humorist, and a creature of exceptional intelligence and personality—when it has room for the expansion and development of personality. Though it is smaller than some canaries it acquires impressive vocal accomplishments and often imitates the human voice and speech like the large parrots.

The orthodox aviculturist usually holds all domestic cage birds in contempt, as of doubtful scientific value, but the breeders of canaries, budgerigars, white Java sparrows, Bengalese mannikins, and some other domesticated birds find comfort in the assurance that their pets are happy and contented in confinement. No one can question the blithe spirit of a budgerigar, as it frolics and performs outlandish antics in its cage the whole day long.

Visitors Walk Safely on

Island of Trinidad Lake
All lakes aren't filled with water. On the island of Trinidad, off the coast of South America, there is an asphalt lake covering more than a hundred acres. The surface is brownish-black and wrinkled, like an old piece of leather. People can walk on the lake without sinking, their feet leaving only faint prints. Men work on the lake digging out the asphalt to ship to all parts of the world. A railroad track is laid across the surface to the place where the digging is going on. Each morning the hole made the day before is filled up, and the railroad track sunken and twisted from the movement of the asphalt during the night.

For a long time, says a writer in the Washington Star, it was thought that there was no end to the supply of asphalt, but during the last 50 years, when 5,000,000 tons of asphalt have been removed, the surface of the lake has dropped 50 feet. It will take many, many years to use up the supply, but some day in the far distant future mankind may have to think up some new substance with which to surface his streets.

Ambassador, Minister

An ambassador is head of an embassy and a minister is head of a legation. Under international law and usage an ambassador is the personal representative of the sovereign or head of a state and is accredited directly to the sovereign or head of another state. A minister is, under international law and usage, the representative of the government (as distinct from the head of the state) and is accredited to the government as distinct from the head. An ambassador has the right to converse directly with the sovereign or the head of the state to which he is accredited, and likewise may correspond directly with the sovereign or head of his own country. A minister, on the other hand, in theory, carries on his correspondence with the minister of foreign affairs of the state to which he is accredited, and similarly corresponds with his own government through the minister of foreign affairs of his own country. In practice the duties of an ambassador and a minister are the same.

SERIAL STORY
HIT-RUN LOVE
BY MARGUERITE GAHAGAN

COPYRIGHT, 1939
NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER I

The hot spring sun slid suddenly behind the oncoming gray clouds, throwing the traffic court into too-early shadows.

Not even the threat of rain could dampen the spirits of Patricia McGraw. While her pencil raced over the whiteness of her pad, covering it with her curlicues of shorthand notes, and the voices of witnesses, judge, and attorneys occupied one side of her mind, the real Pat continued dreaming of the evening's date with Larry Kent.

For many weeks now life had been something vivid, magical, and quickened with the glamour of love. Before Larry had come with his blond hair so smooth and clean-lined over his broad brow, the days had been a succession of routine tasks familiar to any court stenographer.

Even now, the ordinary run of events continued, but overshadowing them was the knowledge that Larry loved her, that soon they would be married, that soon all the linens she was buying, the china she had but yesterday selected, the bargains her alert eyes found during lunch time, would take their rightful places in an apartment all hers and Larry's.

When Pat realized the nearness of that marriage the scene around her took on a strangeness. For over a year it had been her work-a-day world; now she saw it as a stranger: loving it, yet eager to be away to that still drearier world of her own home.

A flush crept into her cheeks when she found she had lost part of a testimony. She thrust her day dreams back into their secret place and concentrated on the work before her.

"I didn't get that. Was it your right fender or the defendant's, that was hit?" she asked mechanically. The case continued. Up on the wall over Judge Michael Kelly's bench the hands of the old clock moved slowly. Sergt. Herman Lewski switched on the lights chasing the shadows. Desk Officer Tim O'Shea sought frantically over the desk for a mislaid file. Pat sighed and looked at the clock again.

Drunken Driver
It was a heavy docket for Saturday. A drunken driving case was on with a woman as the defendant. It was being held up until the reporters got there. Drunken drivers were no rarity, but this was a blond—pretty despite her tear-redened eyes, and disheveled hair. Photographers and reporters from the Journal, Bee and Gazette went into a huddle with court attendants. Cameras were focused over Pat's shoulder on the blond. Bulbs flashed as the woman raised her hand to swear the truth, the whole truth, and nothing else, so help me.

The arresting officer, with his eyes heavy with need for sleep after a night's patrol duty, told in terse sentences the facts of the case. Speeding on a main thoroughfare, cutting in and out of traffic, a man's car hit, the odor of intoxicants on the woman's breath, admission of drinking, and a none-too-steady walking of the line at the precinct station. Familiar routine, yet fascinating as the pulse of a big city.

"Only two bottles of beer, your honour," the woman declared. "The lights at night bother me. I didn't see the car."

Worn alibis, weak excuses, objections by the defense attorney, and catch questions by young Tom Sweeney, the assistant prosecutor, newly assigned to the court in an effort to check reckless and dangerous driving.

The woman waived a jury trial to be tried by the judge. Pat smiled a little. The judge was having a hard time trying to give the case his undivided attention. She watched his gaze waver over the court and then focus on the scene outside. Thinking of a possible golf game that afternoon, she knew.

A New Meaning to Life

Her own eyes followed the line of the river while the case was held up for a moment. Not so many months ago it had been locked in ice, the ferries, blunt nosed and puffing heavy black smoke, breaking a path between the shores. So, too, had her heart been locked in ice, she thought. And then Larry had come: Larry with his eyes like blue, clear ice, his mouth twisting in that lop-sided grin, his blond hair like sunshine. And so, too, had he broken a path to her heart freeing it of ice, making it beat with a new rhythm.

Life had been so empty before that, she told herself again. Not that it had seemed so at the time. There had been the happy, care-free years of high school with life at home a casual, comfortable affair. With Bill and Joe filling the house with their young friends, their balls, and bats, bicycles, books, marbles. With her mother, easygoing, busy keeping the house running smoothly and pleasantly for big Dennis McGraw, an officer in the police department.

Things had changed swiftly then—had assumed a kaleidoscopic aspect. Her father's death in the line of duty, a rearranged life to fit a widow's pension, her own plans for college changed to a business course.

Meeting With Larry

Somehow, though, as time went on, a new pattern was formed. She took a job in a lawyer's office. The boys went into high school. In two more years they would be finished. Last year she herself, aided by her father's old friends, had secured a position as court stenographer with an opportunity to make a little money on the side typing testimony for attorneys.

Her days had not been drab or unpleasant. Only she had drifted along too settled for her years, too serious, too conscious of responsibilities. Now the burdens were also lightened, and Larry had come.

There was nothing about Larry that she had forgotten. She could close her eyes now and remember their first meeting. It had been just after Christmas on a day filled with huge, feathery snow flakes that slipped gently past her cheeks and clung on her thick lashes.

Judge Kelly had asked her to deliver a paper over to the Paramount Auto Sales during the afternoon. Before going in the big impressive salesrooms, she had stood outside in the frosty cold, pressing her nose against the big glistening pane of glass to look at the limousines, glistening and elaborate, at the sporty little roadster. She snuggled closer in her coat, pulling the big soft collar up around her soft cheeks, holding the absurdly tiny muff against her face to stop the wind, wiggling her toes in the new high-heeled pumps, sensibly protected by the velvet fur-topped carriage boots the boys had given her at Christmas.

There was a Christmas tree in the big salon; a modernistic tree all white and blue. Beside it stood Larry, his yellow hair shining in the dim light like a burnished cap of gold. And then he had looked at her, at the eager face pressed up against the glass, at the curling dark hair escaping from the silly peaked hat that made her look like an Alpine maid. His mouth had broken into that twisted smile, his blue eyes absorbing the blue from the Christmas tree lights.

After a long second she broke the spell, and drawing up in all her dignity entered through the heavy grill doors.

"I would like to see Mr. Abbot," she had said with as much composure as she could gather. "I'm from Judge Kelly's office."

But not even that dignified name could erase the smile from his lips.

"Mr. Abbot's out," he said, his eyes still on hers. "Can't you give me the message? I might fill the bill."

The Spell Unbroken

She had hesitated a second and then her own lips broke into a smile. He had that infectious quality of making others at ease. "It was just to deliver this paper," she said. "If you'll see that he gets it, please."

That should have been all, but the warmth, the luxury of the big room, Larry's smile, his nearness, his poise and sophistication held her. His voice went on uttering the trite nonsense of a young man who wants to continue a meeting with a pretty girl, and she hadn't tried to break the spell.

"Better stay and thaw out a bit. Too cold to go out in that snow at once." He maneuvered her over to the big cars. "Let's pretend that you're Mrs. Ipswitch from New York and I'm selling you a car. And must the color scheme be orchid, madam? Wouldn't this hyacinth do just as well? What you should have is a coach and four—white and gold for a princess; a snow princess with diamond flakes melting on her eyelashes and roses in her cheeks." Her breath caught in her throat, and she clasped her hands tighter in her muff to stop a little tremble of happiness that went over her.

"Silly!" she said. "A coach and four, imagine. If I stay much longer, I'll miss my coach; the green and yellow one that collects people over on that corner. And then I'll have to wait for the next one and stand up all the way home. The crowds will be on the street in another five minutes." But the look in her eyes belied her words. She did not want to hurry, and yet she couldn't stand there indulging in a passing flirtation with a strange man.

The presence of others had broken the magic of the moment. She tucked her hair in place and then turned to the door. He was beside her.

There goes the bus and I'm to blame. That means I'm in luck, I'll put the paper in Mr. Abbot's office, and turn Boy Scout. Never let it be said that Larry Kent wasn't a gentleman. The first rule of salesmanship around here is service. And so I'll drive you home."

The World's Only Woman Dictator

She Rules on Sark, A Feudal Isle Close to the French Coast—No Unemployment There, Movies or Cars

The world's only women dictator, acknowledged chief of a tiny feudal state which is part of the British Empire and remains immersed in the atmosphere of the 16th century, is a visitor to this Continent this month.

Gray-haired and very gentle-looking for an autocrat, the Dame de Sark, interviewed on her arrival here, said there never has been a murder or a divorce among her people, who number 600. Nor is there any sign of poverty or unemployment. What is more, on the Island of Sark there are no movies, politics, paved roads, billboards, motor cars, local newspapers, or labor unions.

Queen Elizabeth Gave It Away

The island is 22 miles from France and 75 miles from England. William the Conqueror fled it from Normandy for the British. For a collection of pirate's heads in 1565 Queen Elizabeth gave it to Sir Helier de Carteret as an independent feudal state with its lordship invested in Sir Helier and the first-born among his descendants for all time.

Attractive Ways to Serve Canned Tomatoes and Corn
By Katharine Baker

Canned vegetables have to form a large part of our diet during the winter months. No matter how good they are, they can't, of course, compare in flavor and color with fresh ones. That often makes one hesitate to use them except as a necessity. However, they need not be a hardship—are a treat in fact—if new and interesting ways to serve them are employed.

Tomatoes and corn are more appetizing when fixed up in the following ways than right out of the can.

CORN PUDDING

1-3 cup quick-cooking tapioca
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of Cayenne
2 cups milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups canned yellow corn
1 teaspoon onion, finely chopped
2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
Combine quick cooking tapioca, salt, Cayenne and milk in top of double boiler. Place over rapidly boiling water, bring to scalding point (allow 3 to 5 minutes) and cook 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from boiling water. Pour slowly over eggs, stirring vigorously. Add corn, onion, and parsley, and mix well. Pour into greased baking dish. Place in pan of hot water; bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour and 15 minutes. Serves 5.

ESCALLOPED CELERY AND TOMATOES

2 tablespoons onion, finely chopped
2 tablespoons butter
2 cups canned tomatoes
2 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
1 tablespoon sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup celery, sliced
½ cup buttered crumbs
Brown onion in butter. Place tomatoes in top of double boiler and bring to a boil. Combine dry ingredients; add gradually to tomatoes and bring to a brisk boil, stirring constantly. Place immediately over rapidly boiling water and cook 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add onion. Place ½ of tapioca mixture in greased baking dish and cover with layer of celery and celery. Cover with crumbs. Bake, covered, in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes, or until celery is tender. Uncover and bake 5 minutes longer, or until crumbs are browned. Serves 6.

Seven Ways To Bore A Husband

How to Get Him Yawning—Fair Play Should Be Conversation Slogan

Seven sure ways for wives to bore husbands, or any other man, conversationally, have been compiled by Margaret Devereux, author of "Your Life as a Woman and How to Make the Most of It."

The seven guaranteed methods of making a man yawn instead of "hanging on your every word," she says, are:

Be ever alert to trip up your male conversational partner and thus be classified as a checker-upper.

Pounce on the topic a man starts to talk about and "run away with the ball." If you employ this tactic you are a topic-snatcher.

Always insist on having the last words, which puts you in the bitter-end class.

Convince yourself, (if you are not convinced already) that other people never have nice things happen to them. This definitely makes you a boaster.

Pattern your conversation along the lines of a lecturer and become a one-man-audience lecturer.

Talk on and on and on—in other words, be a self-winder.

But the deadly egoist is the very worst of the seven bores—or perhaps he is just all seven at once.

Are you Weak? Thin?

WOMEN who are weak, thin, nervous, have no appetite, need Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This tonic stimulates the appetite, improves nutrition, calms the nerves, tones the female organs. Mrs. C. Parkins, 292 Queen St., Stratford, Ont., says: "I am very little, always was 'on edge' and was so weak and upset. I was just about skin and bones. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription helped to build me up, seemed to quiet my nerves and made me feel better in every way. My appetite increased, I gradually gained weight, my normal strength returned, and I felt like a new woman." Buy it in liquid or tablets at your drug store today.

Curing Yourself Of Sleeplessness

Learn to Relax and Give Up Fear of Insomnia

The value of muscular relaxation in health and sickness was stressed in a recent address by a physician.

People should prepare for sleep by ridding themselves as far as possible of all contractions and tensions. Rest is more important than sleep. If we have to have one or the other it is better to rest without sleep than to sleep without rest.

"Insomnia is largely due to the fear of not sleeping," said the authority, "whereas if you make up your mind to rest and give up the idea of sleep, you will be asleep in a short while."

Get Rid of Tension

The excess tension from which we suffer so much today results in frayed nerves, fatigue, loss of confidence and self-respect.

Regarding the practical application of relaxation, the most difficult areas to relax are the neck, spine and eyes. For curative relaxation, just lying back in a chair with a book is not considered sufficient, but one has to lie flat on one's back with the eyes shut and a complete "let go" of every muscle in the body.

Mental relaxation is obtained through physical relaxation. It is impossible to make one's mind a blank, but after a considerable amount of muscular relaxation a sense of ease will pervade the entire mind.

Women Voters' Apathy Scored

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt Says Women Waste Their Energies on Other Things Than Politics

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt blames general apathy of women for the numerical decrease in women legislators and congresswomen, in the U. S. The same holds true of the Canadian political picture.

There are plenty of capable women to hold legislative positions, Mrs. Roosevelt told her press conference one day last week. The big trouble is, she said, women as a whole do not back feminine candidates.

Should Support Own Candidates

As soon as women generally demand representation of their point of view, Mrs. Roosevelt said, they will find plenty of women to run for office.

Spider Spins Web Inside Light Bulb

Edmund Sollows, manager of the Western Nova Scotia Electric Company, at Yarmouth, N.S., came out last week with an electric light bulb with a spider—now dead—and part of his web inside.

The bulb is in perfect condition and still lights. The filament is unbroken. Sollows said he would send it on to the manufacturers with a view to solving the mystery.

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON III

PETER SEES CHRIST'S GLORY
Matt. 17: 1-18; 2 Peter 1: 16-18
Golden Text. — We beheld his glory, glory as of the only begotten from the Father. John 1: 14.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING
Time.—Autumn, A.D. 29. The Second Epistle of Peter was written somewhere near A.D. 65.
Place.—Almost certainly on Mt. Hermon, in the northern part of Palestine. We do not know where the Second Epistle was written.

1. And after six days. This means six days after the great confession of Peter, and the rebuke that Peter received immediately afterward. Jesus taketh with him Peter, and James, and John his brother. Those three of his disciples who were most closely linked to him in heart and thought. And bringeth them up into a high mountain apart. That the transfiguration took place at night is the opinion of most students.

The Transfiguration

2. And he was transfigured before them. No one can say exactly what the word here translated "transfigured" meant in the life of Christ, figuratively or spiritually. And his face did shine as the sun, and his garments became white as the light. The light around was more than a robe put on from the outside. It was an emanation from the fountain of light within. These were rays that streamed forth from his own nature; and herein is the difference. In the case of Moses and the dying Stephen.

3. And behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elijah talking with him. These two men were the representative leaders of the Hebrew theocracy. Moses was the embodiment of the law, Elijah of the prophets.

4. And Peter answered, and said unto Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, I will make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elijah. Peter makes the great mistake here in, as it were, classifying the Lord Jesus among the great characters of Israel, as if the Lord was to have no more glory on that mount than Moses and Elijah were to have. He certainly does not give any pre-eminent place to Christ.

Words From Heaven

5. While he was yet speaking, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them. And behold, a voice out of the cloud, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. On two other occasions a supernatural voice brought testimony to the Lord Jesus: at his baptism (Matt. 3: 17), and toward the close of his life, on Sunday before the passover (John 12: 28). Three apostles could never agree that they heard certain words, at the same time, and in the same place, unless such words were actually uttered. Thirty years after this Simon Peter still remembers that he heard a voice on the mountain. The voice was none other than the voice of God the Father. The voice added, Hear ye him.

6. And when the disciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were sore afraid. 7. And Jesus came and touched them and said, Arise, and be not afraid. 8. And lifting up their eyes, they saw no one, save Jesus only.
The disciples needed to learn that Christ's true glory was in suffering. They saw nothing in the cross but shame and defeat. This vision was to teach them that the cross was his throne.

Back To The Multitude

Matt. 17: 9-13. 9. And as they were coming down from the mountain, Jesus commanded them, saying, Tell the vision to no man, until the Son of man be risen from the dead. Any report on the part of these three disciples of what they had seen, Christ transfigured, would at that time have been rejected on the part of those to whom the story was told, and would not in any way enhance the name of Christ, or convince anyone of his Messiahship.

14. And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a man, kneeling to him, and saying, 15. Lord, have mercy on my son; for he is epileptic, and suffering grievously; for oft-times he falleth into the fire, and oft-times into the water. 16. And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him. 17. And Jesus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I bear with you? bring him hither to me. The disciples had little faith; the father believed, and did not believe. This prevalence of perverse unbelief made it painful to live amid such a generation, and to suffer or bear with them. 18.2 And Jesus rebuked him; and the demon went out of him; and the boy was cured from that hour. No sinner can ever sincerely come to Christ but his sin

Propaganda Minister Rumored A "Love Thief"

Chancellor Hitler, his Propaganda Minister Goebbels and Frau Goebbels, who acts as Hitler's official hostess, were pictured here in happier days. Goebbels is reported under a cloud as the result of a horse-whipping given him by friends of Actor Gustav Froelich, who objected to him forcing his attention on Froelich's beautiful wife, Actress Lida Baarova. Hitler is reported to be angered by the scandal. Frau Goebbels is perhaps Germany's most influential woman.

People Nowadays Harder To Please

Winnipeg Barber Claims That Old-Time Customers Were More Easily Satisfied

Edgar Doerr, barber in Winnipeg for 50 years, claims customers of the early days were more easily satisfied than those of the present day—excepting of course, the old-timer with the handle-bar moustache, which had to be trimmed just so—or else.

Back in 1888, when he came from Perryville, Missouri, where he was born in 1870, it was just ordinary hand-clippers for a haircut and a straight razor for a shave. Now the customer has to be swathed in hot towels before and after a shave. The speedy electric clippers have made the old-time hand clippers almost obsolete.

Most notable of his customers around the turn of the century included the late Sir Hugh John Macdonald, Sid Rodmond, P. Roblin, Hon. Thomas Greenway, all former premiers of Manitoba, and Henry M. Stanley, explorer who searched for Doctor David Livingstone, lost in South Africa.

will be forgiven, he will receive God's gift of eternal life, and he will be made a child of God at once.

2 Pet. 1: 16-18. 16. For we did not follow cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but we were eyewitnesses of his majesty. 17. For he received from God the Father honor and glory, when there was borne such a voice to him by the Majestic Glory. This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased: 18. and this voice we ourselves heard borne out of heaven, when we were with him in the holy mount. The apostle Peter, after having preached Christ for more than thirty years, is writing this second letter to other Christians, presumably Hebrew Christians, scattered throughout the world, to encourage and strengthen them in the faith, and to convince those possibly in danger of departing from the faith, through persecution, that there is no life, no hope, no power, and no future glory, outside of Christ. Peter is now an old man. The remembrance of the transfiguration was one of those things which helped Peter in every hour of temptation and trial to keep him unwaveringly persuaded that Christ was the true Redeemer and the Son of God.

14. And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a man, kneeling to him, and saying, 15. Lord, have mercy on my son; for he is epileptic, and suffering grievously; for oft-times he falleth into the fire, and oft-times into the water. 16. And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him. 17. And Jesus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I bear with you? bring him hither to me. The disciples had little faith; the father believed, and did not believe. This prevalence of perverse unbelief made it painful to live amid such a generation, and to suffer or bear with them. 18.2 And Jesus rebuked him; and the demon went out of him; and the boy was cured from that hour. No sinner can ever sincerely come to Christ but his sin will be forgiven, he will receive God's gift of eternal life, and he will be made a child of God at once.

POP—The Extremity of Sobriety

His Hobby Was To Hoard Steel

"Bruce Steel King's" 30 Tons of Steel Blocks Have Gone Under the Hammer

More than 30 tons of steel in blocks and bars offered for sale near Walkerton recently at the auction of the effects of the late Joseph Schmidt, known as the "Bruce Steel King" through his eccentricities in buying this commodity in large quantities remains unsold as a result of bids ranging no higher than $7 per ton.

Refused High Price

One block of steel, purchased by Schmidt two years ago, weighing it is estimated, eight tons and for which the deceased paid, it is stated, $2,000, was put up for sale and drew a bid of only $25. In all it is believed that Schmidt had purchased more than $5,000 worth of steel, including saws, hammers, sledges, bars and blocks from earnings accumulated from his labors as a farm helper and bushman.

The amount received by the estate apart from the blocks unsold would amount possibly to $100. Schmidt, who died less than a year ago at the age of 75, had made a hobby of buying steel and in war time refused a high figure for what he then had on hand.

Handling Cream After Separation

Remove to Clean, Sweet-Smelling, Well-Ventilated Place, And Cool Thoroughly

The fact that the separator is kept clean and runs properly, does not necessarily prove that good cream will be on hand at churning time or that good butter can be made from it. The proper care and handling of the cream is an important phase of the question. The milk must have been produced from clean cows, in a clean barn, into clean pails and by clean and careful milkers. It must have been removed from the barn immediately after milking to the separator. Remove cream immediately after separation to a clean, sweet smelling, well ventilated place and cool thoroughly. The cooling prevents the growth of bacteria that are in the milk and therefore keeps its flavor and condition good. It should be cooled to below 50 degrees Fahrenheit and held at that temperature until ripening time or delivery.

Japan's search for war-time substitutes has led to 4,000 inventions, ranging from porcelain telephones to waterproof pens and buckets. Celluloid razor blades and summer hats were among articles displayed at a Tokio exhibit.

Like many other present-day announcers, King's career started as a vocalist. He made his professional debut over KMBC, Kansas City, after winning three A. Water Kent auditions for vocalists. Before that he sang with the Kansas City Light Opera Company.

The annual congregational supper preceded the Vestry meeting of Holy Trinity Church, Radford, on Friday evening in the parish hall.

Following the supper the rector called the meeting to order and the regular business of the parish was discussed.

Following the general business, arrangements were made to point the outside of the church this year. Mr. Ira Hanna was appointed in charge of this work. Plans were also made for the erection of a kitchen to the parish hall, with the men of the congregation arranging to take out sufficient lumber this winter for this purpose.

Officers were then elected as follows: People's warden, Mr. J. E. Horner; Rector's warden, Mr. Wm. Hanna.

Delegates to the Diocesan Synod, Messrs. Lauris Brownlee and Ira Hanna.
