Unusual And Unique Gathering Of Lefebvre Family

A most unusual and unique family gathering was held at The Chateau, Huntingdon, on Sunday afternoon, when some 60 members of the late Ferdinand Lefebvre family met for the first time in the history of this well-known name in Beauharnois District.

Host and hostess were Dr. and Mrs. Leo Lefebvre, of Canton, Illinois, U. S. A., and their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Jack Lefebvre, of the same place.

As the guests were seated, Dr. Leo Lefebvre, who presided at this family affair, asked that a minute's silence be observed for those who were unable to attend and for the deceased members of the Lefebvre families.

At the conclusion of the banquet, the host, Dr. Lefebvre, thanked the members of his family, including his brothers and sisters, his in-laws, his nephews and nieces and his cousins for responding in such large numbers to his last minute invitation. He said that it was certainly a comforting thought to see so many relatives at one gathering and hoped that the event would be repeated regularly in years to come.

Dr. Lefebvre then presented bouquets of flowers to his sister, Mrs. Normand Allard, née Jeanne Lefebvre, of Windsor Mills, P.Q.

and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Phil. J. Lefebvre, née Bernadette Hebert of Huntingdon, stating that "this first reunion of the Lefebvre families is held today in their honor because the first had given birth to 17 children, the other 13. They have every right to be proud of their large families."

Acting as spokesman for the assembled relatives, Mr. J.-C. Lefebvre recalled that his grandfather, the late Ferdinand Lefebvre, would certainly be proud to note that, today, he counts about 160 immediate descendants scattered here and here in Canada and the United States.

After relating some humorous incidents which are bound to occur in such large families, the Editor of La Gazette de Valleyfield, said that such family reunions contribute in cementing closer together the natural ties which exist in such large families. He thanked Dr. and Mrs. Leo Lefebvre for their fine gesture and hoped that this would become an annual affair.

Dr. and Mrs. Leo Lefebvre and Dr. and Mrs. Jack Lefebvre, who had been spending the past weeks visiting with relatives and friends in the Huntingdon area, returned home to Canton, Ill., on Monday morning.

Rotarians Hear Talk On Diseases Of Animals And Effects On Humans

J. D. Sweet, D. Vs., Chateaugay, N.Y., told the Huntingdon Rotarians on Monday that there were 82 diseases that were kindred to man and beast. "Anthrax" a malignant disease in cattle is communicable to people. This disease was literally rampant in all parts of the world until 1878 when the organism was discovered that caused anthrax. In 1881 Pasteur discovered vaccine and such being the case it became possible to vaccinate animals as well as humans. To-day Anthrax is no longer looked upon as a serious disease in America, but is still a serious disease in some parts of the world.

Tuberculosis is a disease that not so many years ago was not treated in the animal kingdom. When it was discovered that an animal had tuberculosis it was slaughtered and hauled away.

Dr. and Mrs. Leo Lefebvre and Dr. and Mrs. Jack Lefebvre, who had been spending the past weeks visiting with relatives and friends in the Huntingdon area, returned home to Canton, Ill., on Monday morning.

Parakeets have become very popular in recent years and with their parts of North America have seen inroads of what is generally known as "parrot fever". The Canadian Customs regulation as to admitting such birds to Canada is much superior to that which prevails in the United States. The Canadian Customs House officials do the right thing when they refuse admittance of such birds to Canada. At one time a great number of such birds were awarded as prizes in a game at Malone Fair. Canadians who won such birds were refused the right to bring them into Canada. Several of the parakeets were returned from the Herdman Custom House to our care at Chateaugay, N.Y., where Trout River office had the birds entering at that point returned, I do not know. One of the common symptoms of Parrot Fever is, that the household is afflicted with one cold after another. If a parakeet dies, the proper thing to do is to have your veterinarian take the dead bird, and he in turn would send it to the Hull Laboratory where it would be examined to determine as to whether it was infected with this parrot fever disease. Whilst Dr. Sweet did not say so, we have been given to understand 80% of the people who develop parrot fever die.

The Veterinary-Medical Association formed comparatively recently in New York State is doing a great research work for the good of man and beast. The veterinarians and the medical doctors are sharing their problems and knowledge to the mutual advantage of all.

Rotaries is a disease that is found most prevalent amongst foxes. When does have rabies it is most likely due to their having come into contact directly or indirectly with a so infected fox. Anytime a wild animal is found in an area outside of its accustomed surroundings, treat such animal with care because it

Housewives Will Lose Family Cars When Train Service Ceases

CHATEAUGUAY — The Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada issued an Order on September 17th, letting it be known that the New York Central Railroad is authorized to discontinue its passenger train service, hitherto provided between Malone, N.Y. and Montreal, P.Q. and all intermediate points.

The question of the necessity of this service was brought before the Board by the railway company last year and discussed again at an official hearing September 11th in Montreal. The decision of the Board following this most recent meeting proved to be in sympathy with the railway company.

Needless to say, this decision to become effective 30 days after N.Y.C. posts its first public notice—presents a new problem to many a Chateaugay commuter. And, no doubt, to suburbanites living at the other intermediate stops. We made the effort, but we lost. One thing you can be certain of: a lot of housewives are going to miss the family car come the finale sometime, as yet undetermined, in October!

Notes From The Police Blotter

The following are reports of accidents which have taken place in the area covered by The Gleaner in recent weeks.

On September 14th, on Route 14 about two miles south of Ormstown, a collision occurred about 2:15 a.m. and two persons were seriously injured. Two cars one owned by Donat Arcoite and driven by Claude Arcoite of Ormstown and the other by Raymond Lefebvre of Melocheville, were being driven in the direction of Ormstown, when the collision occurred. How it happened is not known. In the Arcoite car were Gerald Schneck, Oscar Hebert and Myrel Useareu, all of Ormstown. In the other car was Jacques Lefebvre. Besides both drivers who were seriously injured, Oscar Hebert and Gerald Schneck were also taken to Barrie Memorial Hospital for treatment. Both cars were total wrecks.

On September 14th at 7:45 a.m. an accident occurred on the St. Antoine Road, when one car rammed into the rear of a stationary car. Rene Matheu of Franklin Centre, was on his way to church at St. Antoine and stopped to pick up some passengers. Ulduguel Tremblay of Franklin Centre, driving another car along the same road, hit the back of the Matheu car. Damage to the Matheu car amounted to $150 and to the Tremblay car, $500.

$250 damage was done to a car driven by Rodu Duquette when it ran under a stationary truck driven by George Demers of Ormstown, on September 18th at about 8:20 p.m. The truck was proceeding along Route 14 when it stopped to let a person cross the road. Duquette who was following in the same direction, was unable to stop due to the road being wet and slippery and

GOES TO ROME TO CONTINUE STUDIES

Anthony Pease, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil E. Pease of Trout River, also nephew of Mary and Chester Pease of Trout River, sailed on September 23rd, from New York on the Caesar Augusta, to study theology for four years at the North American College, Vatican City, Rome, after which he will be ordained to the priesthood.

He graduated from Franklin Academy, Malone, N.Y., in 1954, was Class Moderator, attended Wadhams' Hall College at Ogdensburg, N.Y. where he took his minor seminary.

ran his car under the truck. No damage was done to the truck. Wallace L. Martin of Malone, N.Y., was proceeding along Route 4 from Howick to Ormstown, when his car was struck in the side by one driven by Denis Fournier. Fournier was coming out of a sideroad onto the Highway and did not stop. Both cars went into the ditch. Damage to Martin's car amounted to $125 and to Fournier's car the damage was $450.

An accident occurred on September 21st at 2:45 a.m., on Route 14 near Ormstown which involved three cars. The drivers of the three cars were Dorea Poulin, St. Christosoma; Andre Dumort, Ormstown; and Mrs. (Continued on page 6)

Small Son Of Cameron Bryson Loses Life - Knocked Down By Car

Jamie Alex Bryson

Tragedy struck in Dewittville, on Thursday evening, when the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Bryson received fatal injuries after being knocked down by a car.

The accident happened right in the driveway of his father's property at Dewittville and can only be termed purely accidental. Gaston Marcoux of Montreal, a salesman for the Maple Leaf Milling Company, had his car parked in the driveway awaiting the return of Mr. Bryson. The time was about 5:30 p.m. He started to back up the car to go out of the yard, when he noticed Mr. Bryson coming in his car. In order to allow him to come into the yard, he started the car ahead, as he did so, he felt he had hit something, but had not noticed anything in the way. He investigated and found the Bryson child, Jamie Alex, beneath the car. The child was immediately taken to Barrie Memorial Hospital, but died shortly after admission.

It is thought the child was awaiting near a cedar hedge and saw his father coming and started out to meet him, just about the time the salesman's car backed up and that is why he was not seen by the driver of the car.

Dr. George Lefebvre, Coroner, was called and held an inquest into the accident and a verdict of accidental death was returned. Det. F. Wilmot of the Provincial Police investigated the accident.

The funeral of the little victim was held in Ormstown and interment followed in the Ormstown Protestant Cemetery.

Travelling Cart For Patients H. C. Hospital Introduced

A General Meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary took place in the St. Joseph's Parochial Hall, on Tuesday evening, September 23rd, Mrs. K. G. Cameron presiding.

Mrs. Harper, Sewing Convener, reported that 180 hours had been spent sewing, when 170 articles had been mended, 220 new articles made. At the moment, sewing on hand is all work that must be done at the hospital. A sewing group from any of the surrounding communities would be welcomed on Tuesday afternoons at the hospital. Volunteers may call Mrs. Harper at CO. 4-5872.

A letter will be sent to the chairman of the Hospital Board to enquire if the heating system can be corrected to heat the Board Room more efficiently in the coming winter. Sewing is done and meetings are held there and the room is often uncomfortably cool.

Mrs. W. U. Hughes reported that approximately 1000 parcels were received for the "Parcel Post" and the sale was most successful.

Mrs. J. Boisseau reported that there are almost 500 paid memberships and when all books are returned it is hoped that this number and more will be reached.

A joint meeting of the Executives of the Auxiliaries of the Barrie Memorial and the Huntingdon County Hospital will be held soon to plan for a visit from the President of the Association of Hospital Auxiliaries.

The Treasure Chest is almost filled with knitted and hand-sewn baby clothing. It was suggested that sweaters could be knitted for older children and also aprons be made to sell at any time a Sale is held for Hospital Benefit.

The Travelling Cart for patients has been successfully introduced in the past week. Volunteers are sought to take the Cart to the patients two days a week. Anyone wishing to serve in this way is asked to call Mrs. W. U. Hughes at CO. 4-5488. $10. was voted to replenish the supplies, and donations of toilet articles, combs, gum, small candles, cigarettes, stationery, stamps, etc. will be welcomed. ## Man Is Wounded By Hunters Bullet

Police said the bullet was fired by Bruce Cookman, 34, of LaColle, Que. Cookman said he fired his rifle when he saw something move in the bush on the outskirts of a heavily wooded area.

In the first five months of this year retail sales in Canada totalled $9,943 million, compared to $5,777 million in the same period of 1957.

School Board Wants Signs Erected On School Bus Routes To Warn Motorists

Members of all Protestant and Catholic School Boards, and drivers of school buses of all the school districts in the area of Chateaugay and Huntingdon Counties gathered at a meeting at the Ormstown High School, on Tuesday evening, September 23rd for a discussion on hazards of traffic.

It had been arranged at a meeting in the early part of the summer of the Protestant School Boards Association, held at Franklin, to call such a meeting. The Tuesday meeting was well attended, although full representation from all school boards was not on hand.

Attending the meeting were two sergeants of the Quebec Provincial Police, who addressed the gathering on the traffic rules and laws. Also attending was Mr. Maurice Laberge, M. P. P. for Chateaugay County, but Mr. H. A. D. Somerville, M. P. P. for Huntingdon was unable to be present.

Nothing very concrete came of the meeting because on most matters discussed the police representatives said there were laws to govern the subjects. The main reason the meeting was called was because of complaints that the motoring public is still not obeying the law of stopping both ways when a school bus has stopped and is either unloading or taking on passengers. Bus drivers reported that motorists were passing them and they felt that this would lead to accidents.

What the school boards really want is stricter enforcement of the laws and they want the Provincial Government to have signs erected about the district

Opening Of War Memorial Fund Campaign Sees Children Spending Glorious Afternoon Of Fun

It was big-time for the boys and girls who attend school in Huntingdon last Thursday afternoon, for the Huntingdon Rotary Club sponsored an afternoon of fun and treats on the occasion of the opening of the campaign to raise additional funds for the Huntingdon County War Memorial Arena. In the first photograph two shots of the parade of the school children from the schools to the arena can be seen. It was probably one of the largest parades ever seen here. The second photograph shows two views inside the arena with children sitting in the grandstand seats and fully occupying them. They are enjoying themselves by a look at the different actions. In the last photograph, the top two scenes are the finishing lines of the boys and girls races. The lower scene shows the tug-of-war between two teams of girls and they are really putting "beef" into it. It was a great time for them all and a big send-off for the campaign.

Last Thursday afternoon was a gala time for the pupils of St. Joseph's, Notre Dame and Huntingdon High Schools, when they were paraded to the Huntingdon County War Memorial Arena for fun and treats. The Huntingdon Rotary Club supplied a large amount of cash for expenses of the event and several firms were responsible for prizes and other gifts which were handed out to the children.

The children of St. Joseph's and Notre Dame Schools started out from their respective schools on York Street and proceeded to Dalhousie and the Huntingdon High School, where pupils of the latter school joined them in the march to the arena. A truck announcing the opening of the War Memorial Campaign for Funds, led the parade. This was followed by the Air Cadets of St. Joseph's School, pupils of St. Joseph's School, pupils of Notre Dame School, the pupils of that school followed in the parade between the two other schools and it proceeded to the War Memorial Arena. While going along the route, the boys and girls were singing and whistling and giving their school yells.

Upon arrival at the arena, each child was given a soft drink from the Coca-Cola truck of Messrs. Tougas & Nicholson of Valleyfield. They then filed into the arena and promptly filled every available seat—it is estimated there were 1362 children. After the singing of O'Canada, Mayor Cappiello welcomed the children and also the adults present, and asked support for the campaign for additional funds for the War Memorial project. He also told the children to enjoy a good time during the afternoon, which would have to be terminated in time for the children to leave for their homes on the school buses. Mr. Hector Prevost, who was in charge of organizing the program also said a few words and urged all to have a jolly afternoon.

Mr. Norbert Bourgon was Master of Ceremonies and kept the various events going off at a fast pace. The races were supervised by Mr. Stan Liversidge and Mr. J. D. McGerrigle.

Having such a large gathering present, the entries in the various events were very large and some of them had to be run off in relays.

Following the completion of the program, there was a surplus of prizes and these were distributed among the children amid great applause. Following the singing of the National Anthem, the boys and girls were given ice cream and apples on their way out of the building.

While the morning had been quite wet from the heavy rain, the weather cleared in time for the parade to be carried out. It had been intended to hold some of the races outside on the Fair Grounds, but due to the rainfall this was not possible. However, the new Huntingdon County War Memorial Arena proved once again that it could accommodate such an event with ease. This weather need never be the cause of postponement of any similar events in the future, they can go on rain or shine.

two other youngsters he was among the first of the blind to attend high school with sighted children.

"We had readers and text in braille, and exams on typewriters," he recalls, "and lots of co-operation from fellow students and teachers. I've always been grateful for the experience."

Mr. Milton recommends the integration of blind youngsters into the student body at the high school level, if they have first acquired through special training the skills—like braille and typing—without which they cannot function.

The new superintendent joined CNIB in Ontario in 1937, serving as field secretary for nine years. Transferred to Alberta, his last post was CNIB superintendent for that province.

In Montreal, Mr. Milton, who directs services for more than 6,000 blind persons, succeeds J. A. Gordin. Mr. Gordin, who served for 11 years as both superintendent and business manager, remains as business manager.

Sensible men want to decide for themselves what they will spend their money on; but the unthinking crowd allow the politicians to decide these things for them.

1. Freedom and Science will bring rapid growth and change.
  2. Progress—the fruit of rapid growth and change—flourishes best among the thorns of war and insecurity.
  3. Those who would exchange freedom for security deserve neither and will lose both.
- Harry M. Love.

Whether it be "pop", ice cream or apples, little boys and girls have great capacities for such—thus in the first picture we see a number of boys intent in the item of their choice and not bothering about much else. The second picture seems to be the "pop" brigade and nearly all girls, each one is carrying a bottle of that satisfying soft drink, which was handed out by Tougas &

Nicholson of Valleyfield to every boy and girl attending this great event. In the last picture ice cream and apples seem to hold the spotlight and once again the girls are congregated for these delectable treats, but we bet the boys are not too far behind. WHAT A PARTY!

With sadness I recall
You had a kindly word for all
And died beloved by all.
Your voice is mute and stilled the heart
That loved us well and true
Oh bitter was the trail to part
From one so good as you.
You are not forgotten, Annie dear
Nor will you ever be
As long as my life and memory last
I will remember thee.
I miss you now my heart is sore
As time goes by I miss you more
Your loving smile and gentle face
No one can fill your vacant place."
Sadly missed and longed for by your loving husband,

Dogs Kill Pigs
It is reported that Mr. Tom Higgins of the Ridge Road had six of his small pigs killed recently by what is supposed to be wild dogs. Mr. Higgins on Sunday, September 14th, heard the pigs making an unusual amount of noise and went to see what was the cause. He came upon six of the pigs, all of which were dead and they appeared to have been chased and mauled badly. He waited awhile and a large dog came along and jumped over the fence of the pig enclosure and Mr. Higgins shot and killed it. Upon examination of the dog, it did not belong to anyone in the neighbourhood and it was a large dog of unknown breed, but appeared to have been starved for it was quite lean. He came to the conclusion it must be a wild dog of some kind. He has had no trouble since that time.

Bicycles Stolen
Town police have received word that two bicycles have been stolen during the past week. They belong to Andre Clevin, son of Mr. F. Clevin and Barrie Rennie of Roosevelt Street. It may happen that one or both of these bicycles have been abandoned somewhere in the town. Anyone noticing a bicycle is asked to notify the Town Police immediately. Such co-operation will be appreciated.

Cut Corn With Sickle
With the wet weather experienced during the harvesting operations, many farmers have had difficulty gathering in the crops and getting their regular work done. It has come now to gathering the corn and while a number have managed to do this successfully, some had much difficulty. Such was experienced on the farm of Mr. D. Racine near Athelstan. It was reported that two tractors were seen to be bogged down in the field and also the machine for cutting the corn. The result was that there were 18 men all armed with sickles and they were cutting down the corn in this manner. The corn was harvested nevertheless. The ground has become quite soft and the tractors cannot get a grip and in consequence dig down and become mired.

Many Feel Earthquake Shock
At about 8 o'clock on Monday evening many people in town felt the floors in their houses shake and heard a rumbling noise, but passed it on as being some heavy traffic on the road. It is reported that the Montreal area did experience an earthquake shock or tremor which was recorded at 8:14 p.m. and continued for about 30 seconds. A second tremor was recorded at 8:15 p.m. Officials say the quake was centred about 30 miles from the college observatory on Mount Royal. The exact location and the intensity could not be checked by this observatory, this information will have to come from the Dominion Observatory in Ottawa. Thus if you felt that tremor or heard that rumble—you were right—it was an earthquake.

Growing Cities Should Think In Terms of Metropolitan Government

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis this week said a greater share of the taxation dollar must revert from the Federal Government to the provinces.

Addressing the closing banquet of the Quebec province Union of Municipalities, Mr. Duplessis said Federal-Provincial fiscal problems will remain unsolved until there is a redistribution of taxation fields.

This is his government's stand, he said, "no matter what the political color of the Federal government."

On several occasions since the Conservatives swept into power in Ottawa Mr. Duplessis had intimated his government's policy was unchanged but Saturday was the first time the Premier had stated it strongly in a major address.

Mr. Duplessis said the Federal government's take of 75 per cent of each tax dollar — leaving the provinces, municipalities and school commissions 25 per cent — is far too heavy.

"Of course it cannot be expected that a new government can undo in one year all the wrong done by preceding administrations during the past 20 years," he added.

Under the constitution, he said, Provincial governments are obliged to provide for essential needs. And municipalities have considerable needs but the Province cannot give them more than it has to give.

Ottawa had too great a share of the tax dollar but the solution

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — The government raised $600,000,000 in gold cash last week in just 45 minutes. This was but one move in a gigantic federal financial operation involving billions of dollars.

The government's goal is to borrow for its immediate purposes this fiscal year some $1,400,000,000, and to raise even more money to meet bonded debt falling due.

Financial Minister Fleming has anticipated a $700,000,000 budgetary deficit for the fiscal year and the $1,400,000,000 is needed to cover this and late revenue returns.

Largest Ever
 The government got its complicated financing program under way 10 weeks ago with an offer to replace $6,400,000,000 in outstanding wartime Victory Bonds with longer term, higher interest bonds. Some $5,600,000,000 had been converted when the campaign closed last week. It was the largest single financial operation in Canada's history.

This served to remove a top-heavy situation in the Canadian bond market, with billions in short-term Victory Bonds scheduled to fall due in the next few years.

One the conversion plan was completed, the government jumped in with its special $600,000,000 bond offering. In 45 minutes the issue was oversubscribed. The indication was that plenty of borrowing money is available. Of this, $400,000,000 will go to retire bonds maturing Oct. 1. The balance of $200,000,000 goes to the government's current needs.

This fall the regular annual Canada Savings Bonds offering goes on sale.

Poachers Beware
 Stiffer penalties against lobster poachers in the Maritimes were promised by the federal fisheries department.

The get-tough line was prompted by a number of recent instances of violence in which rifles and shotguns were fired and even an axe and a knife used against fishery protection officers.

The department said fisheries officers will ask magistrates to impose stiffer penalties on offenders. Maximum fine for taking undersize or spawning lobsters is $1,000 or, in default, six months in jail.

A department spokesman said that in the past magistrates in the Maritimes have been more lenient than magistrates in British Columbia, where both community and law enforcers were more conscious of the need for lobster conservation. Consequently there were fewer offences on the West Coast.

In cases where enforcement officers were opposed and suffered violence, the fisheries department could "throw the book at them," charging them under the criminal code. Fisheries Minister MacLean also said he would not hesitate to cancel fishing licences if warranted.

Freight Rate
 The CNR and CPR asked the board of transport commissioners for a 19-per-cent freight rate increase so they can raise some $60,000,000 to meet employee wage demands. Highly-placed sources said that if the board grants the increase, it is unlikely the cabinet will stop it as it did a 35-per-cent increase granted by the board last April.

Speculation was the increase would be granted, effective perhaps Nov. 1. Opposition from eight provinces — all but Ontario and Quebec — was expected.

A railways strike looms over wage increase demands by 130,000 employees in non-operating unions. The non-operating group is willing to accept a conciliation board recommendation of a 14-per-cent-a-year wage increase over a two-year period, but the railways are holding off acceptance pending outcome of their freight rate application.

Diefenbaker's Call
 The free world must try "God's will" to a greater extent than ever before in the face of almost overwhelming problems, Prime Minister Diefenbaker has told the general council of the United Church of Canada.

Many expeditives have been attempted by the West, he said in an address to an overflow audience in Ottawa's Chalmers United Church.

He called for a renewed sense of spiritual dedication in Canada and said that during his tenure of office he hopes Parliament will agree to set aside a room of prayer in the Parliament buildings. It would be akin to the small, simple room established three years ago by the United States Congress after consideration by Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish representatives.

Rt. Rev. Angus J. MacQueen, newly-elected moderator of the United Church general council, said the national evangelistic mission committee established four years ago had put it up to the church generally to see that the vital work of evangelism goes forward.

Thanking the prime minister, he said he could not promise him all the votes in the audience but felt he could assure him of prayers for his onerous duties at a critical time.

Mr. Diefenbaker touched lightly on that matter in his speech. He referred to the question of union among denominations, but said he would not get into the subject.

The first reason, he said amid laughter, is that he is a Baptist, and the second is that he is a politician.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bennett Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary

HEMMINGFORD — On September the 9th, 1958 at the Figs-by Memorial Hall, Hemmingford, the family, relatives, friends and neighbours of Mr. and Mrs. William Bennett of Barrington gathered together to celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary. As the couple entered the Hall, Miss May Bennett played the wedding march and after they had been presented with a corsage and boutonniere by Mrs. Pat Norman, the couple circled the hall receiving congratulations from all the guests present.

The hall was decorated with gladioli and white wedding bells. The tables were also decorated with pantries and the table in front of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett had white candles, trimmed with gold, sitting on gold doli. A three tier wedding cake appropriately decorated was given the couple by their family.

Mr. Malcolm Brown speaking for the guests, congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Bennett on the occasion and wished them future health and happiness. A beautiful 17 inch portable television set was then presented to the Bennetts by the family and their guests. Mr. and Mrs. Bennett thanked all those who had been so generous in giving them this pleasant evening and for their lovely gift.

All seven of the Bennett family were present for the occasion, Hazel, Mrs. A. English; Edith, Mrs. P. Johnson; Lillian, Mrs. R. Jersey; Ethel, Mrs. G. Anderson; Doris, Mrs. R. Johnson; Mildred, Mrs. P. Norman; Myrtle, Mrs. B. Patch; Mr. B. Patch and Mr. R. Johnson were not able to attend the party. About 75 guests were present, those outside of the family were: Mr. and Mrs. Walter English of St. Albans, Vt.; Mrs. F. I. McNiven, North Adams, Mass.; Mrs. Helen Bryant, St. Lambert; Miss B. McNaughton, Miss Thelma Luker, Mrs. E. Norman, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. S. Davis, Moores, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. S. Bennett and two daughters from Rouses Pt., N.Y.; Mr. R. English, Mr. E. Fennell, Mr. and Mrs. F. Baskin; Mrs. L. Dumas, Ormstown.

Federation (CCCL) pulled its 2,000 men off the job at the sprawling yards across the St. Lawrence from here Aug. 18 to back demands for wage increases and a shorter work week.

The company says wage increases would be too costly and that they refuse to negotiate until the men return to work.

Experts have studied and analyzed the matter, he said, and one thing is certain: problems of industrial development and heavy concentrations of population will not be found within the framework of purely local government.

Montreal was suffering from these conditions and because of this the Montreal Metropolitan Commission was established. Many persons now wanted a new organization — a metropolitan government for the city.

An interlocutory injunction prohibiting picketing at the Davie Shipbuilding Limited yards at Lauzon was extended one month until Oct. 17.

companies with total net sales of nearly $9 billion. About 13 per cent, 139 companies, operated at a loss in 1957. Average profit for the year was 52 cents on each dollar of sales. This compared with a 10-year average profit of 5.72 cents, a high of 7.1 cents in 1950 and a low of 5 cents in 1952.

In manufacturing, which is now Canada's principal industry and employs one out of four working Canadians, profits are not too high. Perhaps they are not high enough, with inflation making the manufacturer pay much more than 10 years ago for repair, replacement or expansion of plant and equipment just as the individual person pays more for virtually everything he buys. Perhaps that has been a major cause of unemployment, for the job-creating expansion of industry rests primarily on its ability to plow profits back into the business.

Certainly manufacturing profits do not seem enough to absorb another general round of wage increases. And on the realization of that fact hangs the hope of a holiday from more inflation, from higher living costs and a dollar that buys less.

On Sunday the program will be transferred to the Canadian Slovak Hall, 7220 Hutchison Street, for the remainder of the sessions".

Make Up Your Mind What to Regret

"For every evil under the sun, there is a remedy or there is not. If there is one, try to find it. If there is none, never mind it."

That bit of advice, sung by her mother many years ago, has solid meaning today. Margaret Cullkin Banning writes in a magazine article. Nearly everyone admits to being sorry for something in his past or present life. But some people handle their regrets much better than others; they have learned to live with them. For many, regrets become good tools with which to correct faults and build a better future.

On the other hand, she writes, to brood over what cannot be changed, can be tiresome and fruitless. An unmarried and successful business man over 50 keeps telling her friends: "I shall always regret that I never had a child." Perhaps she made the wrong choice of career, but she is now too old to bear a child and her regret is completely unnecessary.

False regrets, she writes, are even more obvious: the continuous dwelling on loss of unattractive talents, lovers or fortunes. "I should have kept up my music," one woman complains. "I could be on the concert stage."

What she could regret to more avail are the facts that she is fat and lazy. These faults could be corrected, and she would be happier for it.

Children of Today -- Citizens of Tomorrow

A country's wealth cannot be measured in the money it has available, the natural resources, its trade and such things alone — the important part of its wealth are its human resources. Without the human factor to work and decide what shall be done, no country could progress. This despite the fact that human failings have caused many set-backs in all countries of the world.

On Thursday afternoon of last week, an observant person had a chance to get some idea of the number of children attending the schools in the Town of Huntingdon. We mention Town of Huntingdon, because there are other parts of the County of Huntingdon where children abound and who were not represented at this gathering in mind. Nor were the children of pre-school age. When the children marched along the streets to the Huntingdon County War Memorial Arena, they were four and often more abreast and the line stretched along Dalhousie St. from York St. to Henderson St. Bridge. Once inside the arena, they occupied all seats. It is estimated that 1352 children took part in this gathering and while all of these children are not actually from Town, they are from families within this school zone of Huntingdon. Their centre, however, is the Town of Huntingdon and during their attendance at school they will be directed toward it. It therefore follows that their interest after their school days have been completed will remain with the Town of Huntingdon.

This is an important fact insofar as this Town is concerned for it forms the continuity of the life of the town. The children of today, are the citizens of tomorrow. They will be the people who will take over the duties of governing, trading, administering, social affairs and welfare and all the hundred and one jobs that have to be done. They will do their part in the expansion of the town and its ultimate progress. The business of the town will depend quite largely upon the extent of their needs and supplying them with those needs. While we can see such a large number of children in and around our town, we can feel assurance that the town will grow and progress, we can see the potential to fill the places of older citizens who must eventually retire. We cannot hope to retain all of these children when the time comes for them to take on responsibilities, but if we do what we can to keep this town progressing, the greater the opportunities which will be available tomorrow, for the children of today.

It therefore goes that we cannot afford to stand still for too long at a time. Progress must forever be the watchword. Not only must we seek to expand in all ways — business, growth and population, but we must do something to make this town more attractive. It must be attractive to these children of today, so that when they are the citizens of tomorrow they will look back upon their early days as happy and pleasant ones. Thus they will love their home town and want to work for it — not be waiting the first opportunity to leave it.

This gathering of our children together in one common bond and meeting place should do much to spur our efforts to greater things in the future. We have had to enlarge all our schools to accommodate this influx of new citizens of tomorrow, let us not leave it at that. We need more industry, more space, more housing and above all more opportunity for these citizens of tomorrow. It is our job to do this so that we may hand over to them a prosperous community and a growing and healthy one. In so doing we shall not only benefit these children of today and citizens of tomorrow, but also ourselves. A start could be made by providing more recreation facilities for this large number of children — let them laugh and play and learn to love their home.

Needless Loss

THE loss of life by fires in Canada increases every year. Last year it reached a record total of 640 — 250 men, 133 women and 257 children.

In 1956 the total was 601, including 233 children, and in 1955 it was 569, including 247 children.

Apart from this tragic toll, direct property damage last year also reached a record figure — $134,700,000. And this does not include the costs in lost incomes, in hospital treatment, in business and trade and in Canada's economy generally. It does not include the damage done in Canada's forests.

These figures are enough to shock everybody into the realization that Fire Prevention Week Oct. 5-11 is not just another notation on the calendar.

It is a week set aside by royal proclamation in the name of Queen Elizabeth of Canada, an appeal to all citizens to curb careless causes of fire, in the home and elsewhere.

For federal, provincial and municipal fire officials all stress that an appalling proportion of the loss in lives and property is caused by plain human carelessness, by failure to observe the most elementary rules of fire safety and common sense.

In plain language, most of this tragic toll is unnecessary. It doesn't have to happen, and it should not happen.

Schools, theatres, hotels, hospitals and other large public buildings undergo regular inspection for fire hazard. Factories large and small are conscious of this need.

It is in the citizen's own homes that new efforts are urged to eliminate fire dangers. Fire departments in any community will be happy to make a thorough inspection, on invitation of the home owner.

But it doesn't need a trained fireman to spot the fire hazards that exist in too many homes, awaiting an accidental happening to bring tragedy. It's largely a matter of good housekeeping, of clearing out rubbish.

It's put in a nutshell by the Association of Canadian Fire Marshals, and the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs:

Don't give fire a place to start.

The Matter of Air Defense

THE situation in the world is again tense due to the trouble in the far East — Formosa. No country of the Western Alliance can therefore relax its preparations for defence. However, the methods of defence have changed constantly and considerably during the last few years. Airplanes must of necessity be very speedy and reliable if they are to do the job they may at any time be called upon to perform. Threats of war are ever predominating and there is no telling when a full scale conflict may be forced upon us. Also the knowing what shape such a conflict will take. It would seem that intercontinental missiles will be a big factor in air defence in the next war and they could be most devastating and less costly in manpower.

The Canadian Government had a big decision to make when it decided on what should be done about the CF-105 Arrow aircraft. Many factors entered into the decision and careful consideration had to be given to all of them. Important to the economy of the country was the fact that if the decision was not to proceed with the production of the aircraft, it would possibly result in a large increase in unemployment. On the other hand, at the rate changes are being made in aircraft design, much could happen by the time the Arrow is actually put to use. While actual production was not cancelled, it was decided not to add these weapons to the Air Force for three years. However, during this time several of the aircraft will have been completed and be in the process of being tested.

It was decided, however, to go into the production of guided missiles and make these a part of the Air Force of the future. Launching sites will be planned and built and the members of the Air Force will concentrate to a greater extent on this type of weapon. Radar systems will be strengthened and more personnel trained with regard to this type of warning system.

Just what effect this will have on the economy cannot be visualized at this time. There are those who say that thousands of aircraft workers will be thrown out of employment as a result of the Government deciding not to proceed fully with the production of the CF-105 Arrow. On the other hand, the Government says that the work to be done on guided missiles will offset that which would have been done on the Arrow and there will be very little change in the number employed.

In view of the trend of the times and the position of Canada geographically, it would be very foolish of Canada to proceed with something solely because of domestic economy. Such a move could well cause our downfall in the event we became involved in another world wide conflict. Canada cannot defend itself with outmoded weapons and it cannot afford to take chances by being caught short. If the United States was ever involved in a war, as it might well be in view of present trends, Canada would be in direct line and could become involved without ever having been committed.

While our domestic economy is a matter of vital importance also, defence is a matter of first line importance in these days. The possibility of sudden attack by an enemy is some-

"Where is father?"
"Helpin' thae Yankees to get a haud o' his ain property. They took him to help them to harry his barns".

There was a bustle outside and presently two soldiers carried in a young lad, in lieutenant's uniform, whose white face told he had been wounded. They were about to lay him down in front of the fire, when Mrs. Forsyth darted forward: "Na, na; dianna pit the puir chiel on the floor; tak' him to my ain bed", and she helped to place him there. Two surgeons took off his coat and shirt, when the wound was seen; a bullet had gone through the fleshy part beneath the arm-pit, causing some loss of blood without doing serious injury. When the surgeons said he would recover, Mrs. Forsyth's face beamed and she bustled about to get the requisites to dress the wound, while she told Maggie to make some gruel to revive him. While thus engaged, officers came and went, and the house was never without several of them. There came a tall, square-built man, whose shoulder-straps indicated high rank, and his quiet resolute face, one accustomed to command. He advanced to the bed where the wounded lad lay, asked a few questions, and spoke kindly to the sufferer.

"It is too bad that Dingley, of all our corps, should have had this luck", remarked an officer.

"Yes, and to no purpose. I fear the miscarriage of our plan to carry the ford by surprise may lead to the abandonment of the General's plans".

"Can we not take the ford by force?"
"Doubtful; the river is deep and our men would have to wade across in the face of a close fire from the entrenchment on the other bank".

"There is not a man in the army that does not wish we were in winter quarters; to fight in such a country at this season is more than flesh and blood can stand", was the response.

"After last night's experience there is no denying that; yet to go back will disgrace us", said the superior officer, as he left the house.

"Who is that?" asked Maggie.
"That is Col. Purdy, and if he had been in command we would not have spent all summer doing nothing and come here in the end of October.

"Yet he failed in capturing the ford", remarked Maggie, with a sparkle in her eye.

"He could not help the weather and the dark night that kept us shivering in the woods waiting for daybreak, but we would have surprised the guard and taken the ford had it not been for somebody, perhaps a traitor among ourselves, who carried word of our coming".

"Maybe", said Maggie demurely; "but you did not get the ford and what can you do now?"

"Nothing, I am afraid. The failure of our division to carry the key of the enemy's position may cause the General to give up the enterprise".

Looking out of the open door Maggie could see the soldiers gathered round camp fires, cooking the food they had gathered by ransacking her father's property. The two pigs they had depended upon for their winter's support had been killed, cut up, and were now roasting, and the cow and calf had met a like fate. On seeing the head of the cow among the litter, Maggie mourned for her as if she had lost a friend. The corn bin had been emptied and soldiers were standing round eating roasted ears. Everything that was eatable had been searched out and was being devoured by the hungry men. The hay saved in July for the cow's feed was spread in piles on which exhausted soldiers were sleeping. On Mr. Forsyth's stock of dry wood being exhausted, planks and logs were torn from his barns to keep up the flames. Maggie had sad forebodings as to their future on seeing the destruction that was going on. One cause for thankfulness was, that her mother's attention was so engrossed by what was going on in the house that she was unaware of the proceedings in the barnyard and adjoining field. The darkey was a vexation to her by persisting in usurping her domain as cook.

"What has a man body to do with pats and pans?" she exclaimed. "Gang awa and leave the fire to me".

"Goly, missus, Ise a born cook; try dat corn cake", and he tossed her one.

"You black thief; you stole my meal an' noo would hae me eat what your dirty hands have mixt. Sape maun hae been scarce among your forbears when you came to sic a color".

The negro grinned, unable alike to understand her dialect or her allusion. A minute later she darted at him in keen indignation.

thing that must be reckoned with at all times. Only by keeping up with preparedness and in new weapons, can we even hope to defend ourselves. The United States knowing our position and theirs, has greeted the Canadian Government's decision to go into the missile field with open arms and enthusiasm. The decision to have one of the bases somewhere in Quebec, would make this part of Canada a prime target in the event of attack. It will therefore be more than ever necessary that Civil Defence units be formed and members trained immediately. The vulnerability demands that steps be taken without delay and especially so in view of the possibilities which are right before our eyes. No one wants another war and everyone would welcome the advent of war being outcast forever, but while there are people in this world who aspire to dominating power, the danger of war is ever present. Gone also, are the formalities of declaring war by issuing an ultimatum which will expire on such and such a date. Today sudden and unexpected attack is the rule. For this very reason we must be ready at all times. Virtually then, we are in a state of war at all times, that is insofar as maintaining armies, weapons and so forth are concerned. It is a tremendous drain upon the economy of every country and it is no wonder that if we do not have to spend on something, that we should refrain from doing so. This is the case with the CF-105 Arrow, it is a very expensive proposition and if it is not going to serve the best purpose in the end, then we should not waste money and resources in producing it.

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has been launched into the rocket age with a government decision to shift air defence planning from jet interceptors to ground-to-air guided missiles — the biggest defence policy change in a decade.

After two days of cabinet meetings Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced a decision to buy Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles from the United States and to arm two northern bases with them at a cost of $164,000,000 by 1961.

At the same time he announced postponement of a decision on whether to proceed with production of the super-sonic Arrow jet interceptor. The government already has put $400,000,000 into its development. Cost of putting it into full production would be some $2,000,000,000. The indication was the government would drop the project completely after March.

Nuclear Weapon
The Bomarc, guided from the ground by the same radar system used to control interceptor operations, is capable of carrying a nuclear warhead. However, Mr. Diefenbaker said there is to be no immediate decision on whether Canada will employ nuclear weapons.

It was also announced that the control system for missiles and interceptors — Canada's present interceptor is the subsonic CF-100 — is to be beefed up with the addition of "several" new radar stations in the Pinetree radar control and warning line across southern Canada. Also to be added is the American SAGE (Semi-Automatic Ground Environment) system for the faster processing of air defence data, at a cost of $100,000,000.

Mr. Diefenbaker explained the momentous air defence policy switch by saying that because of the rapid strides made in missiles by the U. S. and Russia, "the preponderance of expert opinion is that by the 1960s manned aircraft, however outstanding, will be less effective in meeting the threat than previously expected".

Chamber Of Commerce Wants Support Of Free Enterprise

MONTREAL — Rene Pare, President of the Society Artisans and Vice President of the Montreal Chamber of Commerce, was chosen president of the Province of Quebec Federation of Chambers of Commerce at the close of the Federation's 23rd annual congress here last week. The federation is an organization of more than 40,000 members.

Georges Meloche of Valleyfield and Dr. G. Letendre, Director of the School of Mines at Laval University were elected first and second vice-presidents respectively. Norman Grimard of Rouyn was elected secretary and Claude Beaubien of Montreal, vice-president of the Aluminum Company of Canada was elected treasurer. Directors are: Mayor Rosaire Gendron of Riviere du Loup for the Eastern Division, Morris Labelle of Rosemere for the Western Division and Andre Desilets, for the central area.

One of the main decisions reached during the Congress provides for the Federation to send 400 delegates on an Economic Mission to Europe next spring with special emphasis on France. It was suggested by Morris Riel of Laprairie that the Chamber invite the provincial government to participate in this first mission organized by the Federation.

The numerous resolutions adopted at the meeting will be presented to the provincial cabinet in November. One resolution will ask the government to supply a master plan of the proposed road system within the province. Another will ask that all agricultural products be classified; that better tariff production for the rubber industry be set up; that the Richelieu Waterway be planned along its natural course from Sorel to Lake Champlain and that Canadian coasting-vessels be manned exclusively by Canadian seamen.

Insurance companies will be (Continued on page 9)

if in fact such aircraft "will be required at all".

More Bomares
Towards the end of the week the U. S. announced southern Canada will get some direct protection from air attack from Bomarc launching sites being built along the northern U. S. border. With the Canadian Bomarc bases in the North, Canada will be effectively ringed with missiles defence.

The Bomarc is one of the most successful of the long-range guided missiles being developed in the U. S. The American air force announced following a test last week the Bomarc destroyed a 1,000-mile-an-hour target rocket flying 75 miles away at a height of 48,000 feet. The Bomarc was launched and guided to its target from a control centre 1,500 miles away.

Leaders on Wing
With the pressure of the last 20 months relieved, Canada's political leaders took to travel, led by super-traveller John Diefenbaker.

The prime minister last week headed for the Yukon, by way of Saskatoon and Vancouver to visit Dawson and Whitehorse for celebration of the 60th anniversary of the Klondike gold rush. In late October he begins a seven-week round-the-world flight which will take him to Europe, South and Southeast Asia, Australia and New Zealand.

Meanwhile, Liberal Leader Lester Pearson took off on a three-week grass-roots tour of Western Canada and the Maritimes. And this week CCF House Leader Hazen Arque was to begin a speaking trip that will take him through all 10 provinces.

More Unemployment
In the face of a repeat of last winter's record high unemployment, the Canadian Labor Congress called on the Government to say what it is going to do about it.

The call followed a Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimate that at Aug. 23 there were 281,000 persons in Canada looking for jobs and another 37,000 on temporary layoff. The 1,000,000-member labor organization termed this situation alarming.

The DBS figure, showing 120,000 more unemployed including temporary layoffs than at the same date a year earlier, followed on the heels of a statement by Labor Minister Starr that the unemployment situation in the coming winter could be as bad as that of last winter, when it reached an all-time peak of 590,000.

PM's Plea
Speaking in Vancouver, Prime Minister Diefenbaker challenged Canadians individually to help maintain Canada's economy in the face of the unemployment problem.

He said all levels of government want the advice and help of all groups "so that we at this time will in no way permit anything of a lessening of the economic strength of our country".

He asked business and labor leaders "to be optimistic, to be challenging in your viewpoint, to cease in any way being purveyors of gloom which breeds doom".

He said current unemployment is "a strange situation" compared with other factors: rising costs and prices, buoyant stock markets, personal income running six per cent above last year, the value of national production two per cent higher than last year, and capital investment expenditures maintained "to a degree that is difficult to understand".

Church Appraisal
The United Church of Canada with perhaps a general revamping of its upper echelons in mind, closed its eight-day 18th biennial general council meeting in the Capital by setting up a planning committee to make a long-range appraisal of the church structure, its future demands and basic program principles.

Other major developments during the 1,000,000-member institution's top-level meeting were the church's reaffirmation of the wisdom of recognizing Red China; a statement that the time has come to outlaw war; approval of a new Sunday School curriculum; a request to the government to take drastic action towards curbing liquor advertising. The council stipulated that students for the ministry must advise their presbyteries before marrying; and increased ministers' minimum wage to $3,400, up $300.

Dundee

In last week's issue a news item concerning Mr. Sandy Leslie of the R. C. M. P. should have read Constable Sandy Leslie instead of Corporal, which appeared as an oversight. Const. Leslie is now stationed at Moncton, N. B. since the past two months.

The opening of the 1958 Duck Shooting Season on Lake St. Francis on Saturday morning, September 20, brought out the largest number of hunters ever to be seen in the area. Shortly before sun up the barrage of shotgun shots reached such an intensity that from a distance it sounded almost like a battle engagement of armed soldiers. Apparently a lot of the shooting was wild and the ducks a bit scarce because very few hunters report such a high number of ducks taken on the opening day as last year. One fellow, a native Montrealer, we heard of fired 75 rounds to get six ducks; while another, an American, wasted 100 shells on one lone bird. However the morning was ideal for the opening with very little wind and just cool enough to be comfortable for hunters in the usual heavy sporting garments which they always wear as a precaution should the weather be cold.

The Ontario duck shooting season is two weeks later than Quebec in opening, immediately across the river, so when the shooting commences on the Quebec side of the border the ducks take shelter on the Ontario side which makes it impossible for the Quebec boys to get at them.

Heavy and frequent fall of rains is hampering the local farmers who are trying to get the remainder of threshing done and their corn silos filled. Considerable swathed grain is still lying in the fields untouched and also the odd field of grain stood as well as considerable buckwheat which, for the most part, still remains uncut. The weather outlook, following Sunday night's rain seems to look better so possibly this week will see the season's work rushed to completion.

Obituary
The Late Alfred Pepper
Relatives and friends gathered recently to pay final tribute to another highly respected citizen of Vankleek Hill in the person of the late Alfred Pepper.

Although Mr. Pepper had been in failing health for a number of years, he was only confined to bed for the past two weeks prior to his death.

The deceased was born in Addison, Ont., in 1874, where he received his education. He became interested in the dairy industry and made cheese for fifty-three years, throughout many parts of Ontario and Quebec. After retiring from his lifetime occupation he moved to his home on High Street, in Vankleek Hill, where he remained until his death which took place on Saturday, September 13th.

The service was held in Trinity United Church, conducted by their minister, Rev. Wm. Holmes. Mrs. Percy Allen sang beautifully, a solo entitled "Under His Wing."

The well filled church and the numerous floral tributes testified the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Mr. Pepper is survived by his wife, the former Jane McNaire of Huntingdon, Que., one son John of Riceville, Ont.; also four daughters, Mrs. Carl Murray (Winnifred) of Maxville, Ont., Mrs. Kenneth Shaver (Luella) of Maxville, Ont., Mrs. Lillie Bangs (May) of Hawkesbury, Ont., and Irene at home. Also nine grandchildren, Winston Murray, Kenneth Shaver, Barbara Shaver, Howard Pepper, Andrew Pepper, Jimmy Bangs, Judy Bangs, Danny Bangs and Barney Bangs. A letter was read from our Prayer Partner in Hong Kong. The devotional period was taken by Mrs. K. Murray. Hostesses for this meeting were Mrs. E. Clelland and Mrs. P. Barr.

Canadians consumed 41,648,000 pints of ice cream in July, establishing an all-time record high for any previous month.

MICKEY MOUSE POTATO

The above potato, which looks like Mickey Mouse, arrived in the Gleaner office on Friday afternoon, the courtesy of Bob Whyte who brought the specimen from Norman Tebby, Howick. One hears of different shapes that potatoes seem to grow but this particular potato certainly grew peculiarly. Attached to the potato was part of a root, which also had a small potato, however this part of the potato was broken off in shipment.

Round Byre AND Ring

BY FRANK NAPIER

We had a pleasant Sunday afternoon visit with M. R. ("Mike") and Mrs. Bell of Newfoundland, part of the time as guests of Gilbert Macmillan at Chateau Huntingdon. The Hammonds Farm of Bowaters Pulp and Paper Ltd., Corner Brook, Newfoundland, of which Mike Bell was Manager for around a dozen years, as also founder of that now famous Ayrshire herd, has been sold.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell have therefore been vacationing in Ontario before settling down, either in a new position or on a place of their own.

The Watson Farm
En route to Howick, where the Bells are presently the guests of Douglas and Mrs. Ness, we stopped at the Watson Farm where Manager Hugh Rennie and Mrs. Rennie were busy with the evening milking. However, Hugh Rennie took time off to show us over that fine set of buildings. Probably the most up-to-date dairy here to be seen either in this district or elsewhere. Also a complete up-to-date set of farm equipment, likewise, in general, also one of the best managed farms, indicating that neither Mr. and Mrs. Rennie cannot have very much spare time.

Incidentally, we were informed by Mr. Rennie that, recently 7 heifer calves had been dropped in 7 days. Good going!

A Top Producer
By the time we reached Woodside and Burnside farms the cows of the milking herd had all gone back to pasture, including Hammonds Top Primrose, the heifer which will shortly make headlines with a senior 2-year-old North American, perhaps also a World record for milk, in 305 days. Since she is still milking well, it may be that she will also break records in the 365 day class. Ordinarily such high record producers are kept in a box stall, given special attention. But at Burnside, as it was in her home herd she is just treated as an ordinary member of the herd. However, she is not ordinary in appearance, evidence of same being that she has been type classified "Very Good" the highest rating a first calf heifer can attain.

Outstanding Bulls
At Burnside we also saw two choice young bulls. One of them, Hammonds Top Grade, was one of the 37 head purchased by R. R. Ness & Sons from Hammonds Farm a month or so ago. The other, subsequently purchased from Hammonds Farm is a son of Hammonds Class Flower which recently broke the All-Time Junior 2-year-old milk record with 15,998 lbs. milk, 583 lbs. fat.

The Weather
Judging by the reports in old country Farm Magazines the farmers of Scotland have been experiencing similar weather conditions to those which have prevailed in Quebec and Ontario. Say's the September 6, issue of Farming News: "Here we are now into September, and we are still waiting for the first real summer month of 1958. Can September provide it?"

"It's been a queer year. Many parts of the country, on both sides of the Border, are said to have had 2 1/2 times normal August rainfall last month. "That volume sounds quite impressive. But many farmers and holiday-makers will say that it felt even worse than it sounds. "Despite all the rains of July and August, the sky on September's opening day was just as cloudy as ever. And heavy dew just lost his temper. While the girl was leaning over a large cooler full of water he caught her by the ankle and threw her into it.

"The court was told that the parties were quite friendly again. Accused was admonished."

Cows Obstructing Road

Another court case reported in Farming News reads, in part, as follows:

"A Cumberland farmer's son has been fined at Workingham for 'willfully obstructing the free passage of the highway', by not having control of 16 cows.

"This is the first case of its kind we have encountered. So far as we know there has been no such prosecution in Scotland."

"In this Cumberland case the police declared that the herd was scattered all over the roadway. The farmer's son was driving a van, stopped 200 yards away and had alighted to await the cows arriving at a field gate. Approaching traffic was at a standstill.

"Accused claimed to have complete control of the herd and asserted that 99 out of 100 farmers control cattle on roadways from cars or vans.

"National Farmers' Union group Secretary said it was next to impossible to keep a herd of 16 cows on one side of the road. An agent added that appeal is being considered."

The above conviction would seem to be contrary to a ruling by an old country judge which we read about a number of years ago. In effect, the judge ruled that pedestrians and livestock still had a reasonable right of way on the highways.

Admitting that driving cattle from a car or van is a rather lazy procedure, it would be quite a hardship on Canadian farmers with fields on both sides of the highway if they had to drive their cows along one side of the highway. From our own experience most farmers cooperate as readily as they can with motorists. But in many instances there are motorists who are of the class that seem to want to pass everything in sight.

When this writer approaches one or more cattle on the highway or other roads he keeps in mind an incident which, while amusing, might have had disastrous results.

It was during the last war and we were taking Sgt. John Teifer back to the Uplands' R.C.A.F. Station. Suddenly, a cow appeared in front of us, but we were able to brake in time to

Wednesday, Oct. 1st, 1958

The Gleaner 11

side of the road, but, just as we were getting out of the car to see if she was injured, she bumped up against the side of the car and, as the result of that impact, pierced the coupe side window with a horn. However, she quickly pulled out her horn and then meandered down the road. On our way back we kept a careful but futile look-out for the cow, and when we got home we telephoned the Provincial Police. On being asked for a description avoid a direct hit. At first the cow seemed to make for the side of the cow she said that "ironically she was an Ayrshire". The officer said he would patrol that highway, and later on reported that he hadn't seen any signs of the cow, appeared to be rather sceptical of same. But! next day I had to order a new side window pane, had to wait for same for several days, because of the wartime scarcity of that and other commodities.

Canada Must Make Improvements If It Wants Tourist Business

MONTREAL — Following a trend which began in 1950, total tourist spending in Canada in 1958 is likely to be less than spending of Canadians visiting other countries, according to the September issue of the Bank of Montreal's Business Review, just issued.

Although Canada enjoyed a favorable balance of tourist spending from 1924, the year in which statistics on travel outlays were first published, until 1950, each of the last eight years has seen Canadians abroad spending more than visitors to this country.

Further, this deficit has grown each year, the B of M says. That such a pronounced reversal has come about is explained by the extremely sharp rise in Canadian foreign travel expenditures, which have more than doubled since 1950.

A total of 27 million individual border crossings from Canada to the U. S. was made by Canadians in 1957. The larger part of these were for short visits — often of less than a day — although some 4.4 million visits to the U.S. were for periods exceeding 48 hours, and these accounted for over 85 per cent of the total spending in the U. S. by Canadians.

The review also comments on a survey conducted by the Canadian government in 1957 to determine the nature and destination of trips made by Canadians to the U.S.

This survey showed that "more than a quarter of Canadians on trips of more than two days to the U. S. reported the State of New York as their destination; Florida and the State of Washington each accounted for a little over a tenth and the remainder were concentrated in the border states except for five per cent who went to California," the B of M says.

Surprisingly enough, only about 40 per cent of Canadian tourists said recreation was the main purpose of the trip. Over a third were going to the U. S. primarily to visit relatives or friends, while business trips and shopping excursions accounted for approximately one-sixth of the total trips made.

With a view to balancing the travel deficit by drawing more visitors to Canada, the government also conducted a survey of incoming American visitors, the B of M says. During the course of this survey it was found that more than four-fifths of the returns contained favorable comments, notably on the scenery and the hospitality of the Canadian people.

Typical complaints, however, included reference to the condition of some highways, annoyance on finding the U. S. dollar subject to discount here, high prices and occasional reports of unfortunate experiences in restaurants. Many comments were, however, favorable.

Posing the question, "What steps can be taken to improve Canada's competitive position?" the review says, "much may be accomplished by informing the U. S. motorist in northern states — who is within reasonable reach of Canada — of the attractions this country has to offer."

Further, says the review, "improved roads, increased advertising, and development of facilities of national and provincial parks will undoubtedly aid the influx of tourists to Canada."

Concluding, the B of M review says: "Perhaps the most significant statistic is that the great majority of U. S. motorists visiting Canada last year had been here before. The major problem would therefore seem to be to persuade more residents of the United States to make their first visit to Canada. For it would appear that, once he comes, the U. S. visitor is favorably impressed with what he finds."

The Gore

W.M.S. and W.A. Notes
THE GORE—The Gore W.M.S. and W.A. met on Thursday, Sept. 25th, at the home of Mrs. Willard Anderson. Mrs. W. Anderson conducted the W.A. meeting, and the President, Mrs. Carl Anderson had charge of the W.M.S. meeting. Plans were made to attend the W.A. and W.M.S. rally to be held at the Huntingdon United Church this week.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. Cyril Foster and family in the death of his wife, Mrs. Foster who passed away early Sunday morning after a lengthy illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Anderson of Malone, N.Y. were recent guests of Mr. Robert Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McCaig and Debbie of Beauharnois were week-end guests of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Matt Gilligan. Miss Roberta Ruddock of Montreal spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. John Ruddock.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Graham and Melvin were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dear, Burke, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Anderson spent Thursday in Montreal guests of Mrs. Sarah Anderson and Miss Violet Anderson.

Dundee

DUNDEE — The September meeting of Zion Church W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Kazulak. Guest speaker was Mrs. W. D. Fraser who spoke about some of the By-Laws of the United Church of Canada. From each pastoral charge a Pastoral Relations Committee is formed. This group settles all matters relating to the functioning of the local congregations. Next is the Presbyterial which works for a larger group of churches, then there is the Conference and finally the General Council at the head of the United Church.

Mrs. Fraser spoke about the address Prime Minister Diefenbaker gave at the 18th General Council held recently in Ottawa. He said religious freedom came earliest in Canada, but if we are to achieve peace we must first practise within our own country what we pay lip service to international affairs.

At least six dozen tulip bulbs are to be bought and planted on the east side of the church lawn. Mrs. Kazulak offered to donate three more dozen to be planted with them.

Mrs. Stowell, the president, was appointed delegate for the W.A. and W.M.S. Rally to be held Tuesday, Sept. 30 in Huntingdon. Mrs. A. H. Fraser was delegated to go to the annual Women's Association conference held in Montreal, October 24th.

Consumers Have Their Rights Too

The year 1958 is proving to be a year of excessive wage demands by the labor unions.

To support such demands the union leaders have hired economic advisers, skilled in the art of framing plausible arguments in support of the most glaring absurdities.

These advisers are telling the workers: that the surest way to maintain employment at a high level is to squeeze every last dollar they can out of the employers, and that this extra money in the hands of the workers will enable them to buy more goods, the production of which will go a long way towards giving employment to those who need it.

Such arguments are about as convincing as to say that a machine works best when all the grease is put on one bearing, or that you can fatten a dog by feeding him on his own tail.

They create a wrong impression by showing only part of the picture. They show an employer taking in say, $100,000 a year and paying out less than half that much to his workers in wages; and they leave the impression that he has all the rest of his receipts to do what he likes with.

If these advisers had the real interests of the workers at heart, they would explain to them how the total receipts of the employer are disbursed.

They would explain that in addition to paying his workers, the employer has to pay for all the raw materials used in the plant, for fuel, power, light, heat, rent, taxes, interest on borrowed money, dividends to shareholders and payments into reserves to fall back on at need. They would explain that all these expenses are necessary to keep the plant in operation and keep the workers employed.

We believe that union members would be more reasonable in their demands if they clearly understood the extent to which the work of other people is necessary to their continued operation and that all these others have also to be paid.

Surely it is the duty of the union leaders to inform themselves and their members of the rights of all workers to share in the wealth we all help to create!

There is another interest, and a very important interest, that is being entirely overlooked in determining wage rates today. It is the consumers' interest.

It has never been practicable to organize the consuming public, which includes everyone in the country, into effective bargaining agencies for determining wage rates. Yet the consuming public are the people who have to pay all the wages.

In the days when wage negotiations were confined to employers and their workers, the natural guardians of the consumers' interests were the employers, for they were the ones who would have to collect from the consuming public whatever wages were agreed on; and they were in the best position to know how much the consumers would pay.

But since governments have interposed themselves into the matter, the consumers' interests have been left largely to Providence. The employers find it difficult to fight when Government conciliators are present urging them to yield always a little more. They have found it easier to yield to the union demands and raise the price of their products than to offer any determined resistance under the unsympathetic eyes of government officials.

But, in the long run, the consumer is the boss; and, though he is patient and long-suffering, there comes a time when he expresses his opinion in a way that is easily understood. He reduces his buying of overpriced goods. When this happens unemployment develops and workers begin to find themselves looking for jobs that no longer exist.

We appear to have reached that stage now. The natural remedy for it is to reduce prices and thus enable the consumers to buy more of the products of industry. To make this possible it will be necessary for labor to moderate its wage demands and give better value for the money it gets.

It is sheer madness for the unions to launch a drive for the greatest wage increases ever, at a time like this.

When union membership is voluntary the workers join the union of their own choice. But when membership is compulsory the union chooses the workers, who must join, and no others are allowed to work.

ROCKBURN — Rally Day Service was an enjoyment to all those present. The children's rendition of the Hymns and their readings of the other portions, the performance of all the duties called for on the Program, was a real credit to themselves and to Mrs. Trainer who coached them. Certificates were presented to all S.S. pupils who had been regular in attendance and had memorized the Portions of Scripture and Catechism asked of the different grades.

The minister, Mr. J. Anderson, asked the clerk of the Session, the officers and teachers to come to the front, where he thanked them for their faithful and successful efforts in their work.

The Misses Alice Priest and Evelyn Sutton of Churubusco, N.Y., were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Pennington.

Mr. Bruce Marritt came from Oswego, N.Y., on Thursday to attend the sale at the home of the late Mr. John Oliver on Friday. We were sorry that Mrs. Oliver did not feel well enough to take the trip back here to be present also.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and daughter, Caroline, of Montreal were weekend guests of Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Reid.

Save A Third

The average motorist doesn't have to buy a car half the size of his present one if he wants to save gas, declares The Financial Post. It quotes an American Motors engineer who says all that is necessary is to drive any car more carefully and more courteously, to use pressure sparingly on both brake and accelerator.

This expert points out that a car going 80 miles an hour uses nearly 50% more fuel than one going 50; that an engine that idles for more than a minute uses more gas than is needed to start it again; that faulty spark plugs, a dirty air cleaner, or too heavy oil can add an unnecessary 10% to the fuel bill; that jack rabbit starts and brake-jammed stops are not only dangerous but extremely wasteful.

Watch these points, suggests The Post, and the average man can save up to a third on his annual gas bill, and a lot of wear and tear on his own as well as the other fellow's nervous system.

New U. S. Import Regulations For Cattle

OTTAWA — Canada Department of Agriculture has been advised by the United States Department of Agriculture that new regulations governing the importation of cattle into that country from Canada will become effective on October 11.

The changes in the regulations affect only certification of cattle for brucellosis. All other requirements concerning tuberculosis and general health certification remain the same.

The present brucellosis import regulations require only a negative brucellosis test on the animals being exported within 30 days.

The new United States regulations applying to all importations of cattle from Canada, six months of age or over, except steers and all cattle for immediate slaughter, come into effect on October 11th and require certification as follows:

1. — Cattle originating in fully listed herds are eligible for entry into the United States, providing the individual cattle have passed a negative brucellosis test within thirty days of being presented for importation.

2. — Cattle from negative herds in Canadian Brucellosis Certified Areas are eligible for entry into the United States, providing the individual cattle concerned have passed a negative brucellosis test within thirty days.

3. — Cattle from herds which are neither fully listed nor in a brucellosis certified area but which have passed a negative brucellosis test not more than three months preceding the date of offer for entry, and the cattle offered for entry have been tested negative within thirty days preceding their offer for entry are eligible to enter the United States, providing that the test of the individual animals has been at least fifteen days after the negative herd test.

4. — Animals under 30 months of age, officially calfhood vaccinated against brucellosis and from herds not known to contain any animals affected with brucellosis, are eligible for entry into the United States without a brucellosis test, providing adequate identification and the official calfhood vaccination certificate are available.

5. — Cattle of the beef breeds originating in the four Western provinces of Canada are eligible for entry into the United States following a negative brucellosis test within thirty days of being presented for importation to that country.

All certification of cattle to the United States must as in the past be accompanied by a certificate issued or endorsed by a veterinarian of the Health of Animals Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, and any problems and questions with respect to these new regulations can be directed to the closest Health of Animals Division Veterinarian.

A National Brucellosis Program was launched early last year by the Health of Animals Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, and about 800,000 cattle have been dealt with to date. A total of 251 areas has been accepted for testing under the Brucellosis Certified Area Program and 12 have so far qualified as Brucellosis Certified. Under the National Brucellosis Area Program an area becomes

"Clear of Ice"

By C. J. Harris
 "Clear of ice", a three-word message radioed on August 5th last from a position in the Greenland Sea by the nuclear-powered submarine Nautilus was a triumphant historic message. To his waiting superiors in Washington the three words meant that Commander William R. Anderson had successfully crossed the North Pole under the Arctic ice cap. A brilliant achievement of seamanship, this submerged, 97-hour passage of the Nautilus from the Pacific to the Atlantic may have future economic significance. Almost certainly it has present military importance.

With 116 men aboard, fueled by a piece of uranium weighing two pounds and about the size of a golf ball, the Nautilus found a deep sea valley that led her safely under the ice from a point off the Alaska coast into the Arctic sea basin. "This voyage," said President Eisenhower's citation of Commander Anderson, "opens the possibility of a new commercial sea-way, a Northwest Passage, between the major oceans of the world. Nuclear-powered cargo submarines may, in the future, use this route to the advantage of world trade." He went on to point out that the sea route from London to Tokyo via the Panama Canal is a distance of 11,200 miles; by the submerged route across the Pole, only 6,300 miles.

Commander Anderson added this further suggestion: "There appears to be no upper limit to the size you can build submarines and I think cargo submarines carrying priority cargo such as oil from Alaska to Europe by this short route is very promising." The Canadian Arctic and Alaska are believed to hold vast pools of oil and some commentators suggest that cargo submarines using the new sea route could relieve the dependency of western Europe on Middle East oil.

Important as such long-range commercial and political possibilities may be, the voyage of discovery made by the Nautilus undoubtedly has far greater strategic implications. Nuclear submarines could remain submerged and undetected for weeks beneath the Arctic ice. By 1960 the U.S. will have submarines capable of carrying and launching the 1,500-mile Polaris ballistic missile. The timetable is significant. Military experts have been forecasting a heavy Soviet superiority in military strength by 1962, possibly 1961, and have warned that Russia's retaliation-free position then will permit her to destroy the West by indirect aggression, intimidation and subversion.

Harsh and ugly as these facts may be, they are the background against which the importance of that "clear of ice" signal is being weighed.

Brucellosis Certified when infection in shown by a test of all susceptible cattle to exist in less than one per cent of the cattle and less than five per cent of the herds.

Automation For Steers

A robot device which steers cultivator along row of crops without a hand on steering wheel has been developed by Fort Motor Co., reports The Financial Post. Feeler in front touches crop, transmits position to small electric motor on tractor's steering mechanism. Motor then makes steering adjustments.

Danger Lurks Under Leaves

Leaves have already begun to fall and cover many of the streets and highways across the Province. dentia warns the motorist during these autumn days it is safer and more wise to slow down and take a corner at slower speeds than to whip around a corner and go skidding into another car. Especially when the road is somewhat wet, these dead leaves are full of danger. Danger lurks under every single leaf covering the roadways. Take it easy and stay away from needless accident and injury.

In the 12 months up to March 31, 1958, the federal unemployment insurance fund decreased by $131 million although the fund's receipts totalled $516 million.

 the RENAULT Dauphine
 lets you brag about being modest!

Tell your friends you average 44 m.p.g. in your RENAULT Dauphine and you're being modest! In a motor sports club Economy Run held in June, 1958, at Hamilton, Ont., a RENAULT Dauphine was the best, averaging 81.6 m.p.g. over a 90.7 mile course. Another very popular European car was second with 62 m.p.g. But, as the 81.6 m.p.g. were made under very favourable driving conditions, we of RENAULT would never claim that mileage for the type of driving you would do in a RENAULT Dauphine. When choosing a car, be careful of exaggerated claims. Remember, the RENAULT Dauphine will average 44 m.p.g. really! And, it costs only $1825 fully equipped in Halifax, St. John, N.B., Quebec City, Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. For a demonstration, phone RENAULT at RI. 8-9661 or AV. 8-4291.

Gertrude Ederle, Channel Swimmer Comes Back From Illness, Obscurity

Gertrude Ederle, first woman ever to swim the English Channel, is returning to the public eye after years of illness and obscurity.

An article in an October magazine reports that Hollywood is planning a movie of her life. She was recently appointed to the United States President's Committee on the Fitness of Youth. And she has joined a corporation which sells swimming pools.

In the article, "The Girl Who Swam the Channel", John Reddy notes that in many ways, her emergence from obscurity is a bigger triumph than the 1926 victory over the Channel, which made her a world heroine at 19.

In 1933 she fell and injured her spine. For nearly five years she had to wear a cast. "Nineteen doctors said I'd never swim again," she said, "but my old family doctor winked and said 'keep trying, Gertrude'."

In 1937 she heard that Billy Rose was planning an Aquacade for the New York World's Fair of 1939. She made up her mind she was going to be in it. And with the same dogged spirit she had shown in the Channel, she began trying, first to walk, then to swim.

"When I moved my legs," she says, "it felt like a knife was being driven into my spine."

Grimly she kept on. And the night the Aquacade opened, she was there, churning across the blue water with her old amazing speed. She worked in an aircraft plant during World War II. Afterward, she tried to get a job teaching children to swim, but because she was now totally deaf, none would hire her. She volunteered her services to deaf children. And she has been doing this ever since.

"This job is not work—it's fun," she says. And the children's eyes light up when she shows them the great stroke that conquered the English Channel.

Freedoms in Conflict

by C. J. Harris

Should newspapers be permitted to publish reports of preliminary court hearings in criminal cases? The question has just been reported on by a legal committee in Britain, and will soon be examined by a parliamentary committee here in Canada.

A preliminary hearing is the first court appearance of a citizen charged with a crime. At the hearing, the magistrate determines whether the crown has sufficient evidence against the accused to warrant trial in a higher court. Usually only the police give evidence; usually the accused's lawyer enters a plea of not guilty and reserves defence for the trial. The proceedings are open to the press and in a major case, such as murder, the police evidence is reported in detail in the newspapers.

The major criticism of the present system is that, if the accused is committed for trial, the earlier newspaper reports make it difficult if not impossible to find

Car Hits Pole on Riverside Drive
CHATEAUGUY — On Sunday night, September 21, just as it became dark, 7:40 p.m., the driver of a car was blinded by the bright lights of an oncoming vehicle and ran a pole head on. The car was travelling at a moderate speed otherwise all passengers might have been killed. As it was, two were hospitalized: Alec Chabot, 1 Vinet St., Chateauguy Basin suffered facial lacerations which necessitated 22 stitches, while Venant Allard, same address, is still in Verdun General Hospital with more serious injuries and required a number of blood transfusions. Driver of the car, A. Lussier was unhurt. The accident occurred at the Town limit on Riverside Drive.

 Mrs. Noel Bourcier, of the bakery family, died Saturday in hospital, following complications originating in the birth of her 3-month old son. The former Suzanne Bisson was buried from the church of Notre Dame de l'Assomption, Chateauguy Station, Monday, 22nd.

jurors who have not been prejudiced by the reports of the preliminary hearing. But there are those who argue that if the press is excluded there could be miscarriages of justice, cases of one man held for trial on flimsy evidence and another released despite substantiation of a charge.

In Britain the committee headed by Lord Tucker has recommended that newspapers should not report preliminary hearings. But there is no unanimity of opinion among the British press. "If this recommendation is accepted by the Government," says the London Times, "then, as almost always happens when the press is muzzled, a premium will be put on whispering campaigns." But the influential Manchester Guardian differs. "The rights of the press exist in order that it may defend the rights of the public and the freedom of individuals. Where these interests may themselves be endangered, the press is bound to accept some abridgement of its freedom."

Here in Canada the provincial deputy attorneys-general have urged Ottawa to prohibit publication of written statements, such as confessions, that are submitted to preliminary hearings. That may be a reasonable point of compromise. Certainly Canadians would not want to abridge their freedom of the press, although in point of fact that freedom is never absolute. Nor would Canadians want to limit the right of fair trial. The coming discussion of the issue by the parliamentary committee will deserve the widest attention.

at 272 Salaberry Blvd., Mr. Arthur Beauchamp's, and 260 Salaberry, owner Mr. L. Poulin were broken into sometime over the week-end. Both camps had been closed for the season. Poulin lost fishing gear and tackle worth upwards of $125.00, while Arthur Beauchamp's camp was relieved of goods worth three to four hundred dollars. Obvious carmarks were left in both driveways, indicating a fast getaway in both cases.

Ballet Classes Under Direction of Alexander MacDougall This Season.
 Enrollment of students for The Ballet took place Saturday, September 20th at the gym of The Julius Richardson School, Mr. MacDougall, new ballet master, and convenors Mrs. Wm. Mitchell and Mrs. L. Sottiaux were on hand to greet the budding balletomanes and ladies interested in joining the newly-formed Conditioning Class. Classes started Saturday, September 27th and will maintain the following time schedule every Saturday morning thereafter until the close of the season: 10:15 to 11:15 Ladies' Class; Ballet Class 1 (beginners) 11:15-12:15 Ballet Class 2; 12 noon to 1 Ballet Class 3; 1-2.

Mr. MacDougall accepts pupils from age 6 and over, although children of 5 who have had previous training will be eligible to enter.

This season mother (and lady friends) will have a chance to get in on the act, when an hour's conditioning and exercise session will be conducted by the new teacher.

All ladies with an eye to retaining their girlish figure are invited to come along. The fee is as low for the youngsters, i.e. $3.00 per month. A reduced rate for families with two or more members participating is offered. Wear anything you feel comfortable in. And mind you, ladies, you'll not get away with just that one hour a week—there's homework, we hear!

It is regrettable that the weanlings are unable to join the classes. Mr. MacDougall will not have sufficient time to handle this age group the current year. He is dedicated to the Art and considers the training of youngsters in the preliminary stages of the Dance a serious matter. Pupils will be grouped according to ability, rather than age.

Mr. Louis Smith will act as accompanist.

A little personal data here on Alexander MacDougall: born of Scottish-French parentage. Trained at Sadler-Weiss and Joost Leclair Schools. In professional theatre, 25 years, having performed in most of Europe's leading capitals. Has appeared in a number of London musicals and pantomimes. Also performed on BBC and CBC TV. Mr. MacDougall now teaches in Montreal and environs, including a very successful school of dance in Granby, Que.

Population Growth to Cause Business Boom in Next Decade

The recession of 1957-58 will shape up in history as a brief interruption of a long up-trend; during the 1960's, expanding population will touch off the greatest business boom of modern times.

So predicts the financial expert Sylvia Porter, in a popular magazine article, "Mrs. Porter, whose financial analyses are printed in more than 200 daily newspapers, says the boom of the next decade will be propelled by an exploding population's vast need for everything from hairpins to houses, and by a dazzling variety of new products being created in industrial research laboratories."

"The long-term trend of prices is upward, and a price rise averaging two to three percent a year will be considered 'mid'," she writes, in the article, "Now Is a Good Time to Buy."

In the meantime, she says, a period of temporary recession is a

The Super '88' Holiday Scenic Coupe is one of two new body styles offered by Oldsmobile in 1959. The Oldsmobile has been completely restyled, with more glass area, passenger and luggage space and a host of engineering and accessory advancements. Steering is easier. There are new Air-Scop brakes on all four wheels. Two new engines will mean greater operating economy. The windshield, with up to 570 square inches more glass, cuts deep into the roofline to give an unobstructed view of overhanging traffic signals. The wide, heat-resistant band across the top of the tinted rear window reduces heat penetration by about 84 per cent. Sculptured twin booms sweep full length along the body, highlighting Oldsmobile's unique two-tone styling for 1959.

The Old Model "T" Has Come A Long Way

This year marks the 50th anniversary of the car that became a legend—the Model T. It was on October 1, 1908, that the first "Tin Lizzy" came off the Ford production lines in Canada and the United States. Until the Model T gave way to the equally beloved Model A in 1927, more than 15,000,000 Model Ts were built over a 19-year period. Of these some 755,000 came from the plants of Ford Motor Co. of Canada, Ltd. An estimated 85,000 T's are still in service on the roads of the world, of which 12,000 are estimated to be in Canada. For the farmer, the Model T ended the isolation of rural living and made "visiting" the most popular institution of Canadian farm families. The car took them to town, to church, to the county fair. On week days, it served as truck, tractor, school bus and market wagon.

Letters To The Editor

R.R. 2, St. Chrysostome, Quebec, Sept. 22, 1958.

Mr. A. L. Sellar, Editor, The Huntingdon Examiner, Huntingdon, Quebec.

Dear Mr. Sellar:

I was very happy to read in the Gleaner of September 17th that the Provincial Government had decided to make a grant to the local Athletic Associations. Your news item aroused my curiosity and questions have come to my mind which I thought possibly are being asked by other readers of the Gleaner and possibly answers to these questions would be of interest.

Naturally, the first question is why have these grants not been made available on previous occasions to the Huntingdon and Hemmingford Athletic Associations? Or has Hemmingford been receiving these grants regularly? The impression given in the news report is that these are new special grants which Mr. Somerville has personally succeeded in getting from the department. It is well known that the Department of Youth and Welfare has been making similar grants to other communities for a number of years. I thought that possibly the answer was that an association did not exist in Huntingdon previously and that it is impossible for the government to make a grant without a recognized association being in existence. In re-reading your news report, I have noted that you have quoted Mr. Somerville directly as follows: "I informed the Honourable Mr. Sauve that Huntingdon was organizing such an association and had received $1,000 cheque for that of Huntingdon and $500 for the one in Hemmingford. The Huntingdon Association should be made up of representatives from the Rotary Club, Knights of Columbus, the several schools and churches, etc." It would appear that at the present time, there is no such an organization as the Athletic Association. We can only conclude that one will be organized and could have been organized years before had the proper encouragement been given in the promise of a provincial grant.

It is significant that Mr. Somerville did not say that he had received the promise of a grant but he is quoted as "I have received a $1,000 cheque for the Association in Huntingdon".

Another question which is being asked, How did the Department of Youth and Welfare decide that Huntingdon should receive a $1,000 grant and Hemmingford $500? Is it because Huntingdon has twice the population of Hemmingford? Or is it because there is greater need in Huntingdon for this type of organization than in Hemmingford?

While it is recognized that Huntingdon and Hemmingford are the two largest towns in the county, can the other communities in the county hope to get a grant if they too organize an athletic association? Mr. Somerville did not refer to this point but if an association was formed in Franklin and St. Antoine could these associations expect a similar type of grant? The same question could be asked about other communities such as Cazaville, Dundee, St. Anicet and St. Barbe.

During the past few weeks, I have read with interest about the additional grants which the Provincial Government made available this year to the Huntingdon Fair and the Havelock Fair. Both grants went to a worthy cause and it is to the shame of the present government that it has for a number of years denied the Fair Boards the grants to which they have been entitled.

The explanations given as to why the grants were increased this year were as ridiculous as they were amusing.

As one drives about Huntingdon County, one cannot help but recognize that during the past few weeks, there has been more road work started than any time since just prior to the last provincial election.

It is significant that the generous attitude of the Provincial Government to our county was not noticeable before Mr. Lesage's visit to Huntingdon County on July 23rd.

Let there be no misunderelection to form the government. Yours truly, L. A. Roberts.

Mr. Editor
 Dear Sir,
 Now that the Fall season is with us and people are planning their Fall activities, I would like once more to appeal to the ladies to spare some time for Red Cross work. The need for sewers, knits is continuous, and in doing this work one has the satisfaction of knowing it is for the benefit of needy humanity. The response to my last appeal was very gratifying and I hope this one will be equally so.

There must be many ladies who if unable to sew or knit can fold dressings. The slogan for the Spring Financial Campaign was "On The Job". Let that be our slogan for the workers. Mrs. Louis Roy is still supply Secy. Let us see to it that there is such a demand for work, and that demand, throughout the whole winter that she will find it necessary to secure an assistant. (Mrs.) H. M. Wood, Red Cross Pres.

Weekly Review

Nehru As Referee

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

Jawaharlal Nehru, Prime Minister of India, has issued a long "Statement" in which he reviews the confusion that afflicts the world today. He says: "We shall never get out of that confusion unless we have some clarity of vision or, at any rate, are clear as to the questions posed to us." He does not pretend to have that clarity of thinking or to have any answers to our major questions. "All I can say, in all humility, is that I am constantly thinking about these questions. In a sense, I might say that I rather envy those who have got fixed ideas and therefore need not take the trouble to look deeper into the problems of today."

From the above preamble, the reader would rightly conclude that Nehru is a philosopher. Indeed he is the only philosopher among all the rulers of state in the world today. Like Hamlet, he realizes there is "something rotten in the state of Denmark" and he would prefer to be neutral and (in other words) he cries, "O cursed spite, that ever I was born to set it right!"

But, unlike Hamlet, Nehru does not believe in ghosts and he is a pacifist. Being a disciple of Mahatma Gandhi, he is opposed to the use of violence in the settlement of national and international disputes. He accuses both capitalism and communism of being based on the "approach of violence" in such settlements. He admits that capitalism has undergone a change in this respect because of its democratic development, and he roundly accuses communism of "having definitely allied itself to the approach of violence... Its language is a violence, its thought is violent and it does not seek to change by persuasion or peaceful, democratic pressures, but by coercion and, indeed, by destruction and extermination."

Mr. Nehru, as a neutral has thus assumed the role of referee between the East and West. He is proud of the fact that India has achieved her independence from Great Britain by peaceful means. But he can hardly claim that Gandhi's pacifist method of achieving that separation brought peace or real independence to India. Gandhi himself met a violent death and violence spread throughout the entire country. For over a hundred years Britain ruled the conflicting racial and religious elements of India by ordered government, and when the British administration was peacefully withdrawn those elements clashed in violent civil war. That in itself by contrast was sufficient evidence of the peace-giving character of British rule, and the folly of Gandhi's fanatic pacifism. India is now divided into two states and a third portion, Kashmir, is claimed by each of those states, who are prepared to fight for its possession.

So that what Mr. Nehru calls the "confusion that afflicts the world today" prevails right in his own country, and he had a good deal to do with bringing it about. If he can now view the world philosophically with a clear mind, he owes that to his British education at Oxford, where he played cricket, and he has admitted that he is for the most part an Englishman. Gandhi also had that training and he was more of a Christian than a Hindu in religion, but he had the Fakir temperament. Mr. Nehru in his Statement says the approach of violence "is completely opposed to the peaceful approach which Gandhi taught us". But one extreme always creates its opposite, and Gandhi's fanatical pacifism resulted in the violence and the confusion of which Mr. Nehru complains. Nevertheless, his Statement is an interesting human document and if it contains no practical solution of the problems that confuse the world today, it should help to clarify the causes thereof.

Starting next Jan. 1 teeth troubles should be over for Ontario children, as far as expenses for the family is concerned. In the New Year, the provincial government and the Royal College of Dental Surgeons introduce a scheme whereby all children under 16 in families receiving mother's allowances will receive free dental care. Between 17,000 and 18,000 children will be affected. The province will pay a flat rate of $8.40 a year for each child to the College of Dental Surgeons.

The Catholic Women's League has suggested family allowance payment for children of landed immigrants to be administered by the family allowance department from the date of arrival of the immigrants in Canada.

Age of Sprays
The push-button age has arrived with a vengeance. If you want to keep the dogs off the lawn, paint a hard-to-get-spot in the house, eliminate frying smells or catch a falling curl, push the right button and — presto! Or so the manufacturers say.

There is, it seems, a dog repellent which can be sprayed on the lawn (or on house furniture) and it is guaranteed to keep Fido away.

Paints can be sprayed on, air fresheners puffed into the house, and then, if all this button manipulation has made your hair limp, you can use a hair spray to clip your curls into your coiffure.

Making Mince-meat
It's a long time since making mince-meat was a chore the whole family helped with — chopping the meat and apples, seeding the raisins and grinding and blending the spices.

Everything about it is easier for today's homemaker who not only has a food chopper and can buy seedless raisins and prepared spices, but isn't even expected to have meat in her mince-meat.

Here is a modern-method recipe for green tomato mince-meat which can be made now for Christmas:

Ingredients: four pounds green tomatoes, four pounds apples, four cups seedless raisins, two cups currants, half-cup mixed peel, four cups sugar, four teaspoons salt, three-quarters cup vinegar, one cup chopped suet, two tablespoons cinnamon, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon nutmeg.

Wash tomatoes, remove core from stem end, then put through food chopper using coarse blade. Wash, peel and core apples, then chop finely. Combine all ingredients, bring to a boil uncovered for 30 to 40 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour into hot sterilized sealers and seal immediately.

Hot Soup
Appetites usually sharpen as the weather does the same, and soup, replaced by salad and fruit juice during summer, comes into its own again.

Bean and beef chowder is a combination of ready-mixed soups which may prove popular. Combine a can of condensed bean and bacon soup with a can of condensed beef soup, add a can and a half of water, and boil.
