World News In Brief

Montreal, Feb. 25.—Fire yesterday caused damage estimated at "thousands of dollars" to the swank Ruby Foo restaurant on Decarie Blvd. in Montreal's north end.

The fire broke out in a new extension being added to the premises and is believed to have been caused by a spark from a welding machine. Most of the damage was caused on the second floor and to the roof. Water damage was also heavy.

London, Feb. 25.—When Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip visit the Channel Islands in June they will travel aboard the battleship Anson, commanded by Capt. D. M. Orr-Ewing. The Anson is the 35,000-ton battleship of the Royal Navy's training squadron.

Dublin, Feb. 25.—Residents of Eire who emigrated last year totalled 81,935, the immigration ministry said yesterday. Of these, 49,824 went to North America and 30,290 to Britain.

New York, Feb. 25.—Gen. Nicolae Radescu, former Romanian Prime Minister, said yesterday that Russia is forcibly removing natives on its border areas from the Baltic to the Black Sea and repopulating the sections with Russians. The purpose, he said, was to create an "ethnic insulating barrier" along Russia's frontiers.

Quebec Proposes Margarine Ban

Quebec, Feb. 25.—The Provincial Government distributed today to Legislative Assembly copies of a bill to "protect the dairy industry" providing drastic fines or prison terms for manufacture, sale or possession of butter substitutes.

The proposed legislation, which after passage by the Legislature will take effect upon proclamation in the Quebec Official Gazette, is designed to "prohibit or regulate the manufacture, sale, placing on sale and possession of margarine and other butter substitutes."

It would authorize the Provincial Cabinet to adopt regulations specifying the products which will come under the ban and methods of analyzing the butter substitutes.

It would permit seizure and confiscation of margarine supplies as well as motor vehicles used for transport and delivery of margarine within the province. It would also authorize the Cabinet to draw up further "measures" to apply the margarine ban.

Provincial Treasurer Gagnon Sets 1948-49 Revenue Figure at $176,650,000—Net Deficit Is $25,680,000.

Quebec, Feb. 25.—The Quebec Government expects provincial revenue to fall from the record figure of $193,940,000 in the current fiscal year to $176,650,000 in the 1949-50 term which starts April 1.

The forecast of reduced provincial income was given to the Legislative Assembly yesterday by Provincial Treasurer Onesime Gagnon in his budget speech.

He announced that incomplete figures for the current financial period indicate a surplus on ordinary account of $40,770,000 and that capital expenditures totalling $66,450,000 will leave a net deficit of $25,680,900.

During the next term, the surplus on ordinary account is estimated at $31,415,640 and the over-all surplus at $152,140.

Mr. Gagnon told the House that without imposition of new taxes the Government since it came to power in 1944 had doubled credits for education, health, agriculture, colonization, public works and roads.

During the same period it reduced the net debt of the province by $33,330,000, he said.

The treasurer forecast an increase in revenue from motor vehicles from $13,300,000 during the present year to $14,300,000 in 1949-50. Gasoline tax revenues are expected to go up from $28,600,000 this year to $31,100,000.

Mr. Gagnon forecast that tobacco revenues would rise from $3,100,000 to $3,500,000. Revenue items expected to drop were:

Succession duties, from $11,000,000 to $9,500,000;
 Corporation taxes, from $47,000,000 to $44,000,000;
 Sales tax from $14,000,000 to $12,500,000;
 Liquor licences, from $8,800,000 to $8,000,000.

The provincial treasurer's figures revealed that corresponding cuts are proposed in expenditure.

The biggest cut will be in roads budget, from $63,605,000 to $59,775,000. Expenditures for colonization will be reduced from $12,336,000 to $8,391,900.

The Government will boost the education budget from $14,331,000 to a total of $18,528,400 and the health budget from $25,340,000 to $26,108,250.

Explaining the $25,680,000 net deficit for the current year, Mr. Gagnon said "several provincial governments publish only the results of their operations on ordinary account and leave capital expenditure out of loans but for three years has paid for them from ordinary revenue."

Capital expenditure had increased the value of the province's fixed assets by $144,642,168 since 1944, he said.

The treasurer said that while the Quebec budget had reached a level close to $200,000,000, it corresponds to pre-war dollar values to an $86,000,000 pre-war budget.

He added that provincial revenues were higher than they would have been if Quebec in 1946 had exchanged direct taxation powers for federal subsidies.

Mr. Gagnon's 94-page speech took nearly two hours to deliver. Liberal leader George Marler presented the formal motion for adjournment of discussion on the budget and will open the opposition's attack on Government financing next week.

Quebec, Feb. 25.—Provincial treasurer Onesime Gagnon in his budget speech in the Quebec Legislature explained how a surplus of $31,415,640 on "ordinary account" can shrink to a mere $152,140 when "capital expenditures" come into the picture.

The final $152,140 in the black was what he expected Quebec books will show when the next financial year ends March 31, 1950.

He said that some other Canadian provinces rightly keep capital expenditures out of their figures when they are reporting on the situation of their everyday finances.

This is the reason he gave: A capital expenditure is investment of money in something like a bridge, a building or a road, and which still exists and has a recognized value after the money it took is gone.

An ordinary expenditure is spending for an item such as an employee's salary or a paper supply that ends up in the waste-basket.

The government is entitled to borrow for capital expenditure and write off such spending during the years the bridge is in use.

The government does not borrow for "ordinary expenditure" for services of employees or for what Mr. Gagnon called the "daily requirements of its administration."

Mr. Gagnon said his government tried to pay for capital expenditure out of pocket to keep it from growing to a minimum.

That, he said, is why $31,415,640 in hand shrinks to $152,140.

G.M. Slices Price Of All Automobiles

Detroit, Feb. 25.—General Motors announced today a price cut on all its passenger automobiles, attributing its action in part to wage cuts.

The corporation declared price cuts of from $10 to $40.

This was done, a G.M. statement said, to "pass along to consumers the savings resulting from both the downward adjustment of wage and salary payments and the lowered cost of certain material items."

Under its cost-of-living readjustment of wages, G.M. today was given a total savings of an estimated $9,000,000 to $10,000,000 annually in the production workers' payroll.

This followed from the fall in the United States government's cost-of-living index. The wages of 273,000 hourly-paid workers are tied to the index in a contract with the United Automobile Workers (U.A.W.).

G.M. said its price reductions on all passenger cars and on its Chevrolet trucks, were effective immediately.

The reduction in the index, announced last night, costs the affected G.M. employees a two-cent hourly cut in pay.

The government figures showed that from Dec. 15 to Jan. 15 the retail prices of goods and services purchased by moderate-income city families declined 0.3 per cent. It was the fourth consecutive month which showed a decrease.

The latest index (an. 15) was still 1.2 per cent higher than a year ago, 28.2 per cent over June, 1946—when major price controls were abandoned—and 73.3 per cent above the level of August, 1939. The index now has dropped 2.1 per cent below the record, which was in August and September of 1948. The December-January reduction was attributed more to lower prices for apparel and house furnishings rather than low food prices. However, drops were recorded on meats, eggs, fats and oils, and dairy products.

French War Minister Plans Legal Action Against Reds

Paris, Feb. 25.—A high government source said today War Minister Paul Ramadier had taken legal action against the central committee of the French Communist party for allegedly inciting the army to revolt.

The informant said Ramadier's complaint was based on statements made in posters and the Communist daily L'Humanite during last fall's miners' strike.

Ramadier's complaint was sent to Justice Minister Robert Lecourt, the informant said. Lecourt will send it to the public prosecutor, whose job it is to start action against those members of the committee who are not members of the National Assembly.

The reported government action followed a speech in Parliament yesterday in which the Communist party's secretary-general, Maurice Thorez, repeated a statement that the French people should welcome the Red army if it ever reached France.

The government has been known to be preparing legal steps against the Communists since the coal strike, in which troops took over the mines.

The Assembly last night denounced the Communist leaders for their statement echoing Thorez' declaration.

Parliament is scheduled to debate Friday the question of lifting the immunity of Marcel Cachin, editor-in-chief of the Communist daily. Requests for lifting the immunity of Thorez and other Communist deputies from arrest are expected to follow.

Red Troops Parade In Berlin

Soviet troops march through Berlin's Brandenburg Gate into the British sector to lay wreaths on the Soviet war memorial in honor of the Red Army's 31st anniversary. Russian soldiers shook their fists at newsmen during the ceremonies, which were approved by British authorities.

Red Troops Moved To Norse Border

By GUSTAV SVENSSON

Helsinki, Feb. 25.—Russia has moved additional troops to Norway's Arctic border, according to an authoritative Finnish source.

The informant said the troop movement was observed last week and apparently was in connection with Norway's stand on the proposed North Atlantic pact with the United States, Canada, Britain and western Europe.

The source, who refused to permit use of his name, had no estimate of the number of troops, but said they had been moved close to Norway's 122-mile border from the Murmansk area.

Russia gained a common frontier with Norway in the peace settlement with Finland in which Finland ceded Petsamo region to the Soviet Union.

The informant said there was no sign of similar troop movements to the Finnish border. Norway has a 450-mile border with Finland in the north, also.

Last year Finland and Russia concluded a pact of friendship and mutual assistance.

Finland's leaders have interpreted the pact as excluding the possibility of Russia sending troops into their country unless Finland agrees there is a threat of aggression against the Soviet Union.

Moscow dispatches recently reported considerable criticism against the Finnish government for attempts to "undermine the morale of the nation and the army."

There is a difference in the two trials, however. Cardinal Mindszenty was the highest Roman Catholic prelate in a country 78 per cent Catholic.

In Bulgaria, Protestants are a small minority. The Bulgarian government says the four principal denominations involved—Congregational, Methodist, Baptist and Pentecost—have 13,549 members. The Greek orthodox church has about 6,000,000.

Foreign Minister Vassil Kolarov has introduced in parliament a bill to make the orthodox the only "people's church" and establish strict control over international connections by church officers.

The four chief defendants are: Rev. Vassil Georgiev Zlupkov, 48, head of the Congregationalists and religious representative of the United Evangelical churches which include the four denominations.

Rev. Yanko Ivanov, 48, supervisor of the Methodist church and deputy religious representative of the United Evangelical churches.

Rev. Georgi Nikolov Chernev, 46, head of the Pentecost church.

Rev. Nikola Mikhailov Naumov, 49, secretary of the union board of Baptist churches.

All are members of the supreme council of the United Evangelical churches in Bulgaria.

Zlupkov is accused of being the key figure in the group. He is alleged to have sent information about the Bulgarian army and the extent of armaments and disposition of Soviet troops to British and American intelligence agents and to have slandered Russia. He was a member of the Bulgaria delegation to the Paris peace conference in 1946.

School Bill Is Approved By Assembly

Quebec, Feb. 25.—To encourage the idea that the school boards should get their revenue from the government was dangerous, declared Premier Duplessis in the assembly last night when putting through the bill of the school commissions of Sherbrooke permitting the levy of a special sales tax of one per cent for school purposes.

George C. Marler, Opposition Leader, objected that the tax was not necessary in view of the fact that there was educational fund running from $17,000,000 to $18,000,000, of which only $6,000,000 is wanted to service the debts taken over by the Government.

The Premier took occasion of the objection to say that there was an erroneous impression and lack of understanding of the position of education, the most important asset. It was his duty to free the parents and school boards of the responsibility for education by leaving everything to the Government.

The commissions were close to the people and represented decentralization. If the Government were to do everything it would mean bureaucracy. The Sherbrooke school boards represent the people of Sherbrooke, and they asked that they be given the chance to help themselves. They did not want to lean on the Government for everything. What was wrong with that idea? The sense of responsibility of human dignity. We would be on the road to bureaucracy if the school boards get everything from the Government, he reiterated.

Mr. Marler said the argument is pushed forward, there should be no grants.

The bill was approved on division.

Both sides went all out in the campaign. The Conservatives, led by the oratory of Churchill, cut the Labor majority in the constituency to a little more than half of what it was in the 1945 general election. Yesterday William won with a majority of 1,623 votes; in 1945 Adams had 3,518.

Despite the reduced Labor majority, which was typical of recent Parliament by-elections won by Labor, the choice of the Hammersmith electorate was regarded as a vote in support of the government's program of social reform, nationalization and food subsidies.

Previous Labor by-election successes were registered in solid Labor communities, Hammersmith differed in that it is a district of workers and property owners and has a large Roman Catholic element, predominantly Irish.

Interest in Hammersmith was so sharp that 70 per cent of the electorate cast their ballots. A total of 28,843 voted yesterday, 7,297 more than in 1945, when Labor polled 12,592 votes to 9,044 for the Conservatives.

Morgan Phillips, secretary of the Labor party, commented that the result was "a great defeat for the Tories, who started the campaign with such confidence and with the bold declaration that the result would be a pointed to a general election."

He said the government has no intention to call a "snap election"

Seigniorship Of Mingan Cost $50,000

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
 Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec, Feb. 25.—Ownership rights to the Seigniorship of Mingan, one of the last remaining links with Quebec's feudal past and 288 years old today, once were purchased for less than $50,000. What the land itself cost is not known.

The vast holdings, stretching for 150 miles along the north shore of the gulf of St. Lawrence and six miles deep, now are owned by the Labrador company of Montreal, although Martin's Bank of Liverpool, England, holds 100 per cent of the shares. The Quebec government has taken steps to expropriate the Seigniorship at a price ranging between $900,000 and $3,000,000.

An English biscuit-maker from London, who recently said he had a claim on Mingan, estimated its worth at $100,000. His claim has been described as "crazy." Still another claim that the Seigniorship is owned by the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Quebec has been "discarded by a spokesman for the Archbishop."

It all started back on Feb. 25, 1661, when Francois Biset became the first Seigneur de Mingan. He was granted the lands by the "Western Indies Company" which held title rights from the King of France to the territories extending from Tadoussac to the Atlantic. Biset left Mingan to his son-in-law, Louis Joliet, famous explorer of the Great Lakes and the upper Mississippi. It remained solidly with the Joliet and Bisets for more than 100 years.

Then it started to fall into many hands, people who acquired pieces of it here and there. Records of transactions fill volumes in the provincial archives. To complicate matters, original documents disappeared, leaving owners without a proper claim to their portions.

The tempo of transactions increased after the 17th century ran out, and the name that appears most frequently in these is that of the Hon. John Richardson who eventually gained full control. In 1864, the government of Lower Canada surveyed the area, subdividing it into parcels. At that time Mingan was referred to simply as the Richardson succession.

Ownership became so muddled and complex that protracted court skirmishes ensued. The provincial Legislature ordered investigations, and out of these issued two 100-page reports, including a map drawn by Samuel de Champlain himself.

Finally the muddle reached the Privy Council in England whose appeal decision in 1892 paved the way for the province to come to an "agreement" with the Labrador company.

By the agreement, signed at Montreal in 1900, the Labrador company obtained ownership rights for $25,000 and subsequent payments of $1,000 a year for 15 years, a total of $41,000 in all. Presumably, the company previously had bought up all the title rights.

Meanwhile a Privy Council judicial committee had set the bounds of the Seigniorship as they stand today. Previously, they had been the subject of many disputes. Some claimed the holdings extended beyond its present easternmost tip, the Goyish river, another 150 miles eastward to Eskimo Bay.

Labor Holds Hammersmith Riding; Majority Reduced

London, Feb. 25.—Jubilant over Labor's latest victory at the polls, Prime Minister Attlee, his Cabinet ministers and the party executive left today for the Isle of Wight where they will meet this week-end to map the program for the next general election in 1950.

A draft program for 1950 already has been prepared by Herbert Morrison, deputy Prime Minister and Labor's election expert. What it contains is secret and probably will remain so until the annual party conference in Blackpool in June, when delegates from over the United Kingdom are asked to approve it.

Attlee and his colleagues are expected to work on the draft in a secret conference. One of the main tasks facing the party leaders is nationalization and how far they can go to include in their program industries beyond fuel, transport and iron and steel, already achieved or promised.

Yesterday Labor won a key test of strength against the Conservatives by keeping their Commons seat in the fiercely-contested Hammersmith South by-election.

Results, announced early today, gave the victorious Labor candidate, Tom Williams, 15,233 votes to 13,610 for his Conservative opponent, Anthony Fell, a Scots engineer who was strongly backed by Winston Churchill.

The by-election was held to fill a vacancy in the House of Commons caused by the recent death of W. T. Adams.

SELLING OTHER MEN'S BRAINS By John Wheeler

THE ATOM PUNCH What do you expect to get out of hanging around with those jerks in the prize-fight business? asked the girl whose name was Liz Britton. "They'll get all the money, and you'll finish with a cauliflower ear and a flat nose, broke, cutting out paper dolls."

"Gene Tunney came back from the first war and made good," said the kid. "He won the championship, married an heiress and see him now, on top of the world. Besides, as for looks, I ain't any Errol Flynn."

"Kid, I can manage you into some real dough if you will listen to me. You've got the makings and a lot to learn. One thing I want to ask you is why you don't turn loose your right."

"Because," answered the kid, "I ounce got knocked kicking when I did. Since then I have been shy about it."

"The boy was fast and a natural boxer, so he learned the tricks of the trade quickly. Sprague was honest as most managers go, and he played square with the kid. He had a real affection for him. The trainer made him punch with his right, tripping his left behind him. He tried tying his legs together with a towel on the theory it gave him more leverage."

"Kid McCoy used to do that after he saw Bob Fitzsimmons fight on the theory all knock-kneed guys were better and could hit harder," said Sprague. "Parenthetically, there must be some great women athletes, judging by what I saw before the new look came in."

"The kid improved and the record book shows he knocked out a lot of 'boys' who were just disappearing over the pugilistic horizon anyway. He was throwing his right hand a little better. But the prospects of a match with one of the top heavies made him timid again. He had faced machine guns and bazookas without a quiver. It was all in the day's work. But standing before twenty-five thousand yelling fans, including Liz Britton who was to see him fight for the first time, would make a difference. The psychological problem was to get him to believe in himself. "Did you read about this atom bomb test in the Pacific?" said the manager one morning as the kid returned from his road work, looking worn and drawn. "I sure did," he answered, "and I reckon I have been in my last world war. I don't want any more of them."

With the death of Mr. George Wright, at his home nearby, the countryside has lost one of the remaining few of the old guard, whose hobby was horses. Wherever horses were in the centre of attraction there would be found George Wright. His friends, who regret the passing of this colorful, witty, keen man will long remember his many fine qualities. Owing to the icy condition of the roads several were debarred from attending his funeral on Tuesday afternoon last.

Members Of Local Sales Staffs Hear Address About "The Art Of Selling"

Local salesmen and salesladies, accompanied by their employers, joined the members of the Chamber of Commerce after their regular monthly meeting in the New Sherbrooke Hotel, last evening, to hear Maurice Tremblay, associate of the firm of Bolton and Tremblay, financial counsellors, who spoke on "The Art of Selling."

During the dinner meeting Mr. Tremblay spoke briefly to employers, outlining their responsibilities with regard to the training of their staff. Following the meeting he addressed the large gathering, pointing out the principles of general salesmanship and stressing the fact that before anyone can become a successful salesman, he must know the product which he is selling.

"Some people are born salesmen," he said, "but it is an art which can be acquired. Just as a person learns music or studies painting, he can also study the fundamentals of selling which should be regarded as just as much of an art."

The speaker said that during the last ten years, business men have forgotten the importance of selling, mainly because during the war years there was nothing to sell. However, this situation no longer exists and he is of the opinion that unless the employer realizes the competition he is facing today and acts accordingly he will not make a success of his business.

"Salesmanship is just as important for the employee who remains behind the counter," he continued, "as it is for the man in the road, and, appalling as it may

U.B.C. Students Debate Capital Punishment

The second in a series of debates between Arts and Science and the Divinity faculty of Bishop's University for the Skinner Trophy was won Wednesday evening by the Divinity team of R. S. Jarvis-Reed, Robert Hayden, and J. D. Tiller, successfully defending the resolution that "Capital Punishment should be abolished," against the Arts and Science team of George McClintock, Miss Lois Beast, and William Atkinson. Arts and Science won the debate last term.

Dealing with the historical aspect of the subject Jarvis-Reed, first speaker for the affirmative, illustrated that there has been a definite trend towards narrowing down the use of punishment by death. Legislators have come to realize that criminals of all sorts can successfully be rehabilitated by various methods, and that capital punishment applied indiscriminately often removes a potentially valuable member of the community from society. Many modern countries have abolished capital punishment and the results have been uniformly successful. Abolition of capital punishment does not necessarily mean an increase in murder, because criminals seldom think of the punishment before committing a crime.

McClintock, first speaker for Arts and Science, maintained that public opinion still demands severe retribution for such crimes as murder and treason, and if capital punishment were abolished, public opinion would be aroused in many cases to the point of taking the law into its own hands, as the numerous lynchings in the south illustrate. A sufficiently severe punishment also serves as a restraining influence upon potential lawbreakers. In closing, the speaker declared that capital punishment violates any moral principle. Such criminals as are condemned to death are beyond redemption, and their continued presence in society is a danger to the community at large.

Hayden, the second speaker for the Divinity faculty, insisted that punishment by death is in no way a restrictive measure, and that it is virtually impossible to judge whether or not a criminal is incapable of rehabilitation. To remedy the attendant evils of capital punishment, he proposed extensive revision of the criminal law, and reformation of the prison system. As an illustration, he discussed the decline of murder in the Netherlands following the abolition of capital punishment late in the 18th Century. A carefully administered system of rehabilitation has proven extremely effective. In his closing remarks he declared large number of innocent persons put to death under the present system, contending that the only way to eliminate capital punishment is to abolish capital punishment.

For the affirmative, Miss Beast claimed that occupational therapy does not work in all cases, that too many murderers are incurable psychopathic killers, and should be eliminated from society. The emotional implications of murder, its effects upon those whose welfare has been endangered, must also be taken into consideration. Results to date in those countries where capital punishment has been abolished have not been satisfactory, and competent legal authorities still insist that capital punishment is the most effective in all respects, she said.

Tiller, the last speaker for the negative, confined his arguments to religious and ethical problems. The allegory of Cain in the Old Testament, establishes the principle that a man should not be executed for murder. Raising the question as to whether punishment should be for the positive benefit of society, or to give vent to the resentment of society, the speaker asserted that punishment should be essentially reformatory. Capital punishment is not in accordance

Spectacular Wave Of Wet "Gunplay" Rages All Week In Serene Waterloo

By BOB PERRY
Sherbrooke Record Staff Writer

Waterloo, Feb. 25.—A spectacular wave of indiscriminate "gunplay", that at times reached nightmarish proportions, has been sweeping this town for the past week. Local police are exerting every means to bring the shooting to a halt, but normally respectable citizens continue to blaze away at one another under the slightest provocation.

The odd angle about the whole affair is that to date no one has been killed or injured in any of the fusillades . . . only narrowly so, since the weapons involved are water pistols and the ammunition consists of liquids that, vary from perfume to alcoholic beverages. Brother ranged against brother, the town's citizens fight it out man to man, squirt for squirt.

The whole screwball business started last week at a hockey game when several members of the younger set used the pistols to express their disapproval of the referee's conduct. The idea spread, however, with unforeseen rapidity until the guns became formidable weapons in the hands of adults. At the present moment no one is safe at public gatherings. The various clubs fly about hitting warriors and non-combatants alike, occasionally creating embarrassing situations . . . elderly ladies of un-with Christian principles, since it is normally and ethically wrong to take away a man's chance of retribution.

The final speaker, Atkinson, discussed the educational value of severe punishment for the more heinous crimes, maintaining that it impresses the public society's abhorrence of crime. In illustrating that punishment by death is a more effective deterrent to crime than confinement the speaker mentioned the case of Utah, where capital punishment has been reinstated because of the increase in murder. Abolition of capital punishment would place an increased burden on society, for the upkeep of prisoners who will probably never be of any use to the community. Capital punishment is based on the principle of the "greatest good for the greatest number," the removal from society of a most undesirable though fortunately small element.

Jarvis-Reed and McClintock delivered rebuttals for their respective sides.

Judges for the debate were Messrs. Buchanan and Bridgdon and Miss Harper. R. C. Seclakwe, President of the university Debating Society, was chairman.

Johns-Manville Co. Sets Conditions On Which It Will Negotiate Strike

Asbestos, Feb. 25.—Negotiations with lawful representatives will be considered on a peaceful return to work by the men, George K. Foster, vice-president and general manager of the strike-bound Canadian Johns-Manville Company, declared yesterday in a 15-point statement reviewing the strike.

Mr. Foster's statement referred to criticism levelled against Provincial Police who moved into Asbestos last week-end and declared that a resolution of the Asbestos municipal council condemning intervention by these police "cannot be explained in the light of the facts and situation as they then existed."

The statement added that lawlessness and disorder in Asbestos have stopped since the Provincial Police have taken over.

Workers here and at Thetford Mines held mass meetings last night but there were no other developments in the strike.

The statement said the Provincial Police had stopped "lawlessness and disorder" since their arrival in Asbestos last Saturday.

"The invasion of our properties, mill mine, factory, offices has been nullified and free access and egress is now possible."

About 2,100 employees have been involved in the strike in the Canadian Johns-Manville plant. Including other plants here and in this Eastern Townships district a total of nearly 5,000 have been on strike since a week ago Sunday night.

The workers are members of the Canadian Catholic Federation of Workers and other organizations allied with the National Federation of Mining Employees.

The strikers have sought a 15-cent increase in hourly wage to make the basic hourly pay $1.

Mr. Foster noted the strike had been declared illegal by the Quebec government and said the company management "regrets immensely the accusations which have been hurled at the Government and Provincial Police because of their intervention."

"Without doubt it is becoming more and more evident that said lawlessness, violence and disorder could not have been controlled by local authorities."

By "force and threats" some of the company's supervisory personnel, including the factory manager, "were ejected from our premises" and the administrative staff "was ousted from our head office."

The statement said "a municipal council's resolution condemning intervention of Provincial Police "cannot be explained in the light of the facts and situation as they then existed."

Asbestos production is "vital for basic needs on this continent, and abroad," and consequences of work stoppage "can only be lasting and most deplorable."

Mr. Foster denied reports that company representatives had been in communication with R. Hamel, president of the Federation of Mining Industry Employees. He said neither Hamel nor anyone else had any authority to give an impression to the workers or townspeople of direct or indirect negotiations during the strike.

"When and if the resumption of work takes place in a stable, peaceful and law-abiding fashion, the management then will consider negotiations with those who may lawfully represent the employees."

"Until such resumption of work is achieved, the management will continue as in the past to respect the laws of this country and province."

The statement said the employees were not informed "as to the true situation," otherwise there would have been no law-defiance, which the company "regrets deeply."

"It is hoped that our employees will, at an early future date, have ascertained the true facts behind this planned strike and that eventually work here may be resumed."

THE QUEBEC BUDGET

Despite an overall deficit of expenditures over revenues caused by exceptionally heavy capital outlays, especially on highways, during the current fiscal year, the Quebec budget tabled in the Legislative Assembly by Provincial Treasurer Onesime Gagnon indicates that in general the finances of the Province are in a buoyant condition. Through a general reduction of capital expenditures during the coming twelve months, the Government hopes to close the coming fiscal year with a moderate surplus of revenues over all expenditures, both capital and current. It is significant in this respect that the Provincial Treasurer in his estimates for the 1949-50 fiscal year bases his figures on a moderate reduction in revenues which he expects may follow the levelling out of general business operations which has begun to make its appearance in many lines of industry and commerce. However, if the industrial development of the Province continues unabated, it is but reasonable to expect that the provincial revenues will continue to expand and if the predicted control is maintained over expenditures, the policy of debt reduction practised during the past four years will be restored.

In dealing with the debt problem, it must be appreciated that the net debt of the Province had been reduced some $33,000,000 during the previous four years, so that since the advent of the present administration, the net debt has been actually reduced some $8,000,000 despite a great extension of highways and public works, a marked growth of population and the opening of many new areas. The needs of a growing province require heavy expenditures and it is inevitable that at times, the capital costs exceed operating surpluses, resulting in a debt increase. The vital point is to see that the increase in the net debt does not exceed the ratio of the increase in provincial income.

On a comparative basis, Quebec is in a splendid position. The per capita debt is lower than any other province of the Dominion, while the sinking funds set up for debt redemption are the highest. The per capita burden of interest debt is the lowest of all Canadian governments. The consolidated surplus of the Province has reached the highest point since Confederation.

Doubtless the Official Opposition will find plenty of criticize in the budget speech of Mr. Gagnon and financial experts will almost certainly be able to read various meanings into the same set of figures. But to the ordinary citizen, the main point is that the Government hopes to continue its expanded operations without any increase in the tax burden.

ANGLO-CANADIAN TRADE

Appraising Anglo-Canadian trade relations over the long term, the Bank of Montreal's latest Business Review points out that "some highly significant portents emerge from the United Kingdom's recently published four-year recovery plan.

This plan, designed to remove the necessity of extraordinary outside aid by the end of the E. R. P. period in mid-1952 involves, in addition to a substantial increase in domestic production, a major alteration of the present pattern of trade with the Western Hemisphere.

The plan assumes that by the year ending June 30, 1953, Britain's annual exports to that area as a whole will be fifty per cent greater and exports to Canada twenty-five per cent greater than in 1948, the Bank of Montreal continues.

At that time, a cut of about one-fifth from 1948 levels is envisaged in the United Kingdom's imports from the Western Hemisphere, although no indication is given of the planned reductions from particular countries in the area, including Canada.

Summing up these points, the Bank of Montreal comments that problems of bilateralism will in all likelihood continue to complicate Anglo-Canadian trade relationships for some time to come, with shortage of both Canadian and United States dollars influencing and limiting the United Kingdom's purchases from Canada.

To the extent, however, that the United Kingdom is able to supply increasing quantities of goods readily saleable in the Canadian market, the less would be the necessity of recourse to restrictions inherently distasteful to both parties, the Review stresses.

Over the period, however, the position occupied by each country in the trade of the other has notably altered. Thus in 1948 Canada displaced the United States as Britain's largest single supplier. But whereas shipments to Britain had constituted forty per cent of Canada's exports to all countries in 1938 the proportion had fallen to only twenty-three per cent in 1948.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Christian Science Monitor
 With billions of dollars asked for atomic research, a "radar curtain" to protect the United States, a 10,000-m.p.h. "earth satellite" to launch rockets from the stratosphere, and a national science foundation to push research, it is not surprising that many people are questioning the value of further "progress" in this direction.

One such questioner is Mrs. Mabel M. Rockwell, an outstanding electrical engineer and naval rocketeer. Daughter of a Quaker mother who was also a pioneer woman mathematician and astronomer, Mrs. Rockwell thinks that the people's money might be better spent in promoting the brotherhood of mankind, and she declares:

We know enough about the atom—now it's time for intelligent men everywhere to develop spiritual values. Americans must halt their pursuit of more technical knowledge and devote their time to the elimination of war by turning . . . to things of the spirit.

Not long ago in Harper's Magazine a Scottish physicist, Lancelot Law Whyte, predicted that in the second half of this century scientific thought would take a dramatic new direction toward general principles and a "science of man." Physicists, he declared, may have "touched bottom"; research into smaller and smaller regions of space may have come to an end.

Such voices in the wilderness of scientific professionalism are signs of the times. They hint at a transition from what P. P. Wiener calls a "scientific" to an "axiomatic" culture. They offer no plea for obscurantism or retrogression. They call, rather, for a science of spiritual values. If the minute structure within a hydrogen nucleus turns out to be a dead end, there is always further progress possible through research into and utilization of the infinite power of a spiritual idea.

PRETENSE EXPOSED

Toronto Globe and Mail
 Hate dies slowly. Last week the Toronto Star betrayed its chagrin over the way the weather had destroyed its campaign against Progressive Conservative Leader Drew on the power issue, by stepping off into this air again. Throughout the whole of its campaign, it has reiterated ad nauseam the claim that if only the Des Jochims power development had been finished, there would have been no power shortage last fall. Now, it deliberately overlooks the fact that though the Des Jochims plant is still far from finished, the shortage is to all intents and purposes over.

The Hydro a week ago last Thursday generated and purchased the largest amount of electricity in its history. What the Star has also consistently refused to tell its readers is that even if the Des Jochims development had been finished last fall, it would have been subject to the same lack of water that affected other plants in that area. It would have produced only a fraction of the hundreds of thousands of horsepower the Star pretended would have been available during the shortage.

The campaign to smear the Hydro on the grounds that it lacked foresight has failed. It lacked no more foresight than any other business, and the narrow margin between demand and supply reflects only the remarkable post-war prosperity. The Hydro could have kept supply ahead of demand by refusing to furnish power to new factories and homes. What would the Star have said about such an insane policy?

The Hydro has gone ahead with new construction as fast as labor and materials were available. It has projected new steam plants for the express purpose of providing safeguards against dry years. They will help bear the brunt of peak loads, and enable more economical use of the water-generated resources. If there was any lack of foresight, it was in the campaign carried on by the Star, which did not allow for the vagaries of nature.

Mr. C. D. Howe, the Minister of Trade and Commerce, who played his part in this campaign, stopped talking as the facts emerged. He did not, like the Star, foster ridiculous rumors that the partially lifted restrictions would be clamped down again after the Carleton by-election. The simple truth is that the power shortage as we felt it last fall was induced by lack of rain. When it rained, the power shortage was progressively lifted, just as the Hydro assured the public it would be. We need more power plants and we need them quickly, but the recent crisis was not man-made; it was an accident of nature. That it passed so miraculously in the middle of winter is equally accidental.

HIGH COST OF TAXES

Toronto Globe and Mail
 A recent advertisement in this newspaper announced that the price of one brand of oleomargarine was being reduced from 45 cents a pound to 40 cents, on account of easier supply of raw materials. It was also pointed out that the new price includes an 8 per cent sales tax. If that were removed, the price could be reduced to 37 cents a pound.

This advertisement is of more than passing interest. It demonstrates vividly once again the injustices, inequality and unfairness of this form of tax. Apart from the purchases of the curious of all income levels, who wish to try the long-forbidden product, margarine has become a staple in a great many homes which cannot afford butter. That being the case, the presence of a 3-cent tax on a 40-cent product must be regarded as an unreasonable burden.

There are many foods which do not carry this tax, but, because of the Government's reluctance to do the fair thing, specific exemptions have only been achieved by consistent and heavy pressure from the public. This case reminds the public that there are a host of products which should not be carrying the impost.

Canada Packers are to be commended for having separated the tax from the price of margarine. This newspaper has frequently pointed out that if business realized its responsibility in this regard, and informed the public on what part of the price was tax, there would be fewer complaints about the cost of living and more on the high cost of taxation. Only when the public realizes what part of every dollar spent is tax, will it become economy-minded with regard to the expense of government, and exercise corresponding restraint.

OPPOSES CENTRAL SCHOOLING

The Editor.
 Sir:—I have wondered if none of the members of the Brome County Central School Board had the pleasure to attend a rural school when a child. If so, when he thinks back, can he truthfully say he would trade those years for what the school board is wishing to do now, that is ride twenty or thirty miles to school on a bus?

Do not these people have any heart for the children of today? Do you think any parents who care for their children are going to want their small children to be subject to a one and one-half to two mile tramp in snow to meet and wait for a bus on a nice crisp windy morning; get on a bus to ride several miles on perhaps icy roads; what time would they have to leave home. What time would they return home, half sick with exhaustion? Did some one say, let them board at a place provided by the C.S.B.? Where would a rural family get the money to pay $10 per week for each child?

The Family Allowance—that, as too many mothers know, would not keep a child of school age half clothed.
 What is wrong with our rural schools? Give a teacher a job and let the bus driver find another job. We cannot afford to send our rural children to Knowlton to be exposed to the diseases of all Brome County, whatever they may be or what town or district they come from.
 Time enough for that after the first seven years of rural school, which most of us can stand, with ever so much less expense.

Am I the only one that sees it this way?
 Thanks for the space.

READ THE BIDDING TO HELP THE PLAY

We used to tell John Weil, one of New York's outstanding bridge players, that he was the smallest man in the Army. We thought he was at least one and a half inches under the legal height. When he sent us a picture from North Africa with his gun beside him, it looked as if he were leaning against a telegraph post.

I am always interested in finding out what line of business our former service men have taken up. Well now has a little chain of shoe stores known as the Marc Shops, two of them in Newark, N.J., and one in Palisades Park. He still likes to play tournament bridge and he can always be counted upon to find the correct play, as he did in today's hand.

The king of hearts was opened, and when it held, North shifted to the small spade, declarer winning with the jack. A heart was ruffed in dummy, and now there was a problem.

Declarer knew from the bidding that North did not have any diamonds because South would not have bid three diamonds without a six-card suit. Therefore he had to come off the board with a club. Well led the three of clubs, and when South played the deuce, he put on the ace from his own hand. North dropped the nine-spot. Well then ruffed his last heart in dummy.

The Record Short Story

THE HOUSE BY THE SEA

By OLGA A. ROSMANITH

My mother didn't worry about herself at all when the doctor said she must go at once to the hospital, but she worried about us children. It was just the time Uncle Peter was due home from sea and it frightened her to think what would happen after the first couple of hours when he began to be himself with Miss Ferguson.

Miss Ferguson was her friend who was staying with us while Mother was away. She was much younger than Mother but she was very serious. She wore serious colored clothes, she had never had a beau so far as Mother knew, and Mother said undoubtedly she would stay with us no matter what happened, but it could be awful for her. She had never had a bad word.

She thought for a little while of sending a radio to Uncle Peter to go to a hotel, but that worried her, too. He loved home life, he had no home of his own and after all, he was her favorite brother. As usual she gave a big sigh and said, "But I'm hanged if I know why, he has no respect for anything or anybody."

Miss Ferguson arrived and helped Mother get ready and the taxi was ordered on the telephone. Mother took me aside and said— "Sissie, you're nice. That's a big girl now. You keep Uncle Peter from teasing Miss Ferguson. Just tell him to keep his high spirits till I come back. They have nothing in common and there's no use of him trying to make an impression on her."

Fearfully, I promised to do my best. Mother laughed and said not to take it so seriously. It was no worse these days than having a tooth pulled. Just a little appendicitis that might make trouble if it wasn't attended to.

After she had gone Miss Ferguson fixed supper and then read books to the four of us. She was quiet and kind of sad and looked like the Madonna on a Christmas card with her dark hair parted in the middle. I thought of Uncle Peter shouting, "Ho there, wench!" instead of using her name and I shuddered.

"Feeling cold, Sissie?" she asked me.
 "Not very," I said. "Why are you sad? Don't you like being with us in the country?"
 She looked out the window at the rolling hills across the valley and her eyes looked kind of wistful. "Yes, I like the country—but my idea of happiness is a house by the sea. A harbor, maybe, where I could see the ships come in."

"I'd like that, too," I said.
 She picked up the book again. "If I ever have it you shall come and stay with me there whenever you like—but don't count on it." She added with the saddest sigh—"I was only joking."

Uncle Peter arrived next day and our whole world changed immediately. The house was full of noise and laughter and the smell of his cigar smoke. He was crestfallen not to find Mother home but cheered up again when he heard she would be back soon and it wasn't serious. His black eyes twinkled when he looked at Miss Ferguson, but she remained solemn and unsmiling over his jokes and he carried the first two days by being very polite to her.

We all knew it couldn't last. And, of course, it didn't. Uncle Peter loved good rich food and lots of it. Miss Ferguson was frightened by Uncle Peter's appetite and the price of meat was shocking to her. "What's this blasted soup made of?" he inquired in his hurricane voice. "Bones and cat-nip?"

We children shivered deliciously. But I was the eldest. I saw Miss Ferguson color and bite her lip and decide to ignore the question. I slid off my chair and whispered to Uncle Peter in his ear—"Mother said don't, frighten Miss Ferguson. She isn't used to meat teasing her."

Uncle Peter looked at Miss Ferguson and his black eyes twinkled wickedly. "I don't see why she shouldn't be. She'd be a right pretty little craft if she let her hair blow in the wind and wore a red sail or two."

Little Peter giggled and Peggy slapped him and that started Baby crying. Miss Ferguson lifted Baby out of his high chair and said, "Excuse me, Captain Henry." She went out of the room and Uncle Peter said, rather abashed—"that old-time dignity." He added thoughtfully—"I thought it went out with the windjammer."

When she returned, he said gently, "I'm sorry about the cat-nip, Miss Ferguson. Not everyone can cook and I know you're doing all this as a favor to Mary."

"I can cook as well as you can command a ship, Captain Henry," she said. "You do the shopping tomorrow and bring anything you like. I will cook it to your lordship's satisfaction."

Uncle Peter said, "It's a deal," and he winked at me.

Miss Ferguson said when she tucked us in bed, "Just wait till he sees the price of meat and what it costs for six people at a time. That'll settle him."

It didn't settle anything. Uncle Peter came home with a ham and a turkey and all the fixings and he said he wanted with his English plum pudding with brandy sauce and it would be just too bad if he couldn't have it after all the cat-nip he'd been eating.

Miss Ferguson looked faint when she saw the parcels unpacked and she called me aside. "Sissie, I trust you not to tell, but I want you to go down to the library for the pudding recipe. Tell the librarian to try the Encyclopaedia Britannica."

Everything turned out well except the pudding which needed six hours boiling and six weeks to mature in. Miss Ferguson said simply "You win, Captain Henry," and gave him no alibi.

I enjoyed my dinner with gusto, as we all did, and he complimented her on the unusual flavor of the turkey dressing.

"That's the catnip," she said frostily. "As you have yourself pointed out so often, I'm unable to cook anything without it."

"You're a very unforgiving young lady," said Uncle Peter unhappily, "and there sure is a good reason why I'll never get used to a man teasing you."

She gave him a scornful look as she went out of the room, but I held the towel when she bathed Baby and I saw there were tears in her eyes.

There was something wrong with Uncle Peter too. I had been afraid he would be himself, now I was afraid he wouldn't be. When Mother was home he teased her without stopping, but it was all in fun and high spirits.

"Miss Ferguson's all right," I told him. "Please go on joking. She'll get used to you."

But Uncle Peter shook his big iron gray head. "No Sissie—she's the only woman I ever met I have nothing in common with."

You do, too, Uncle Peter. She loves the sea. She would like to live in a house by a harbor where she can see the ships come in. It makes her feel sad to be hemmed in by the hills in the country."

His merry black eyes began to shine again in the old way. "Maybe that's all that's the matter with me, too. What's her name, Sissie?"
 "Juliet—that's what Mother calls her."
 But Uncle Peter called her Julie. He lumbered up to his bedroom and came down with a big sandalwood box with carved brass lock fittings and took out a blue mandarin coat he'd brought for Mother.

"Do me a favor, Julie," he said. "Let me see what blue does for you."

She looked at him queerly and she put the coat on and it did a lot for her. Her eyes looked much bluer and her cheeks grew very pink. Uncle Peter said, "Look for yourself, Julie. Didn't I say you only needed some color to make you into a beauty?"

She shook her head. "You said I'd be a right pretty little craft if I wore a red sail or two." But this time she was laughing.

After that it was no trouble at all for Uncle Peter to add the house on the harbor with a view of the ships coming in, for that was his dream, too, and he was retiring from the sea. Mother was astonished when she came home but very happy about it. She knows we're safe when we spend vacations with Uncle Peter in his house by the sea. We have Aunt Julie to look after us.

THE END.

USEFUL CRITERS

Chatham News.

A husband is a handy thing to have around the house; not only is he welcome on pay day, but think of the joy that comes to a woman out in company to point to a man and say "that is my husband." That in itself is worth much.

Then, too, the average man is so handy around the house; he has a way of doing things that is almost priceless; he can fix so many things, keep the furnace room so tidy, put up shelves and stuff rags in the broken window in the kitchen when the cold arrives. It's so nice to have a husband when there is a mysterious noise downstairs late at night.

Weekly News Letter From The Dominion Experimental Station

By W. S. RICHARDSON, Assistant Superintendent. High production per acre is the aim of every farmer. Many factors are involved in obtaining this aim but none more important than high, well balanced fertility.

The soil is a very complex substance made up of many elements. All soils are not alike and do not contain these elements in the same ratio. In fact, some soils may be very short in one of the elements essential for plant growth which will be the limiting factor for crop production on that soil.

The principal elements are nitrogen, phosphorus and potash which are used in large quantities by plants. Besides these, there are many such as boron, cobalt, sulphur, manganese, etc., which are in small quantities and used in minute amounts by the growing crop but are very necessary if normal plants are to be produced.

Experiments conducted with fertilizers as a rule should contain this element in large amounts in order to make up this deficiency. It is a good rule for the average soils to supplement the farm manure with commercial fertilizer high in phosphorus.

Floor Prices For More Jerseys Sought By C.F.A. In Townships

Ottawa, Feb. 25. - The Canadian Federation of Agriculture has expressed fears of possible depression and asked the Government to consider plans for supporting consumer food demand and for establishing floor prices under farm products.

"We feel," the farmers' organization said in a brief presented to the cabinet this week "that if the economic system in the immediate future functions as in the past, without any attempts to control its more violent fluctuations, the farmers along with other groups will suffer severely, as they did in the deflation of 1929 and the prolonged depression of the 1930's."

In addition, loans and grants to Europe would likely cease in a few years and unless international trade returned to a broad multi-lateral basis, Canada would face an impossible situation with her surplus exports, particularly food products.

Farmers realized that stability of their industry is dependent on a maximum exchange of goods and services among all countries and they appealed to the government to exert every effort to achieve this end.

Pending this achievement, the C.F.A. suggested the Government consider the possibility of negotiating further bi-lateral commodity trade agreements "and that the practicability of barter agreements be fully explored."

As a means of reducing instability in consumer demand for food, the C.F.A. recommended that the government study ways of maintaining this demand.

"We particularly recommend a study of the proposed American national food allotment program as a means of maintaining the food-buying power of families with low incomes," the brief said. "We feel that before very long some such program will be essential in Canada if we are to prevent ruinously low prices for farm products and the piling up of food surpluses in Government hands."

The C.F.A. declared its willingness to work with the Government in seeking a floor-price program. A suggestion was that the price formula be based on the index of the most of things that farmers buy.

The C.F.A. also listed recommendations, many of which were passed as resolutions at its recent Saskatoon convention or forwarded by the Dairy Farmers of Canada.

The brief: 1. Renewed demands for Federal marketing legislation. 2. Urged continued efforts towards an international wheat agreement and asked that when British wheat agreement producers should get for wheat sold in the domestic market, a price not less than the average price under the United Kingdom agreement. 3. Asked the Government to place coarse-grain marketing under the wheat board. 4. Asked retention of freight assistance on feed grains shipped from western provinces to eastern Canada as a permanent feature of agricultural policy. 5. Urged appeal of the supreme court's margarine decision. 6. Asked that the dairy industry receive the same tariff consideration with respect to imported margarine ingredients as industry in general enjoys, should sale and manufacture of margarine continue in Canada. 7. Requested steps to prevent

Week's Dealings In Livestock Were Light

Montreal, Feb. 25. - Offerings were light and prices generally remained unchanged or eased slightly on all classes of the two Montreal livestock markets this week.

Total receipts were 1,263 cattle, 89 sheep and lambs, 3,624 hogs and 1,298 calves, plus 381 cattle from western Canada handled on direct shipments to Montreal Plants.

The two markets, where light receipts have prevailed since the start of the year, had little to offer Monday and Tuesday. Trading was kept active on cattle, calves and sheep, however, and by Thursday all receipts on these classes had been cleaned up.

Prices on cows, heifers and bulls were steady with last week. Steers weakened due to poor quality offerings. Mixed loads of good and choice steers made 20.50; good quality 19-20, medium 17-19 and common light ones 14-16.50.

Good heifers 18-18.50; medium 15-17 and common 10-14.50. Good cows 14.50-16, medium 12-14.25 and common 12-15. Canners and cutters 9-12, mostly 11-12. A few good bulls 17-18, common ones 14 or better.

Vealers made the bulk of offerings at steady to easier prices. Good and choice veals 30 with a few 30.50-31, medium kinds 26-29.50 and common 22-25.50. A few grassers sold about $1 down at 16-16.50. Yearlings 6-10.50.

A few common lambs brought 22-23 with culls down from 12 to 18. Sheep 6-10.50, according to weight and quality.

Approximately 450 grade A hogs were sold Monday and Tuesday at 39.25 to small butchers. The balance was sold at 39. Sows 25 dressed.

Meeting Of Farm Forums Is Held At Huntingville

Representatives of the Ives Hill, Glendoy Road, Waterville and Spring Road Farm Forums met at the school house, Huntingville, last Monday evening. This was Fourth Night for Farm Forums, hence, the reason for the different representatives being present.

The group listened to the Radio Broadcast put on by the National Farm Radio Forum. A summary of Farm Forum findings across Canada was given by the National Secretary, Joseph Galway and this was followed by news from Quebec Forums by Floyd Griesbach, Macdonald College.

The meeting continued with the showing of three films by a representative of the National Film Council of Canada - Mr. Maurice Bastien of Granby. Mr. Bernard of the Waterville Farm Forum acted as chairman.

The first film shown entitled Farm Homes Beautiful - deals with two dilapidated run down properties. These are acquired by new owners who bring about order and beauty into the farm grounds in the course of one season.

The second film - Double Heritage - was produced in the Eastern Townships. In it an English speaking farmer, descendant of United Empire Loyalist stock, describes how his ancestors cleared the land. A French speaking farmer tells what his people have added to the life of the area. Factory towns, farms and the world's largest asbestos mines are features of a prosperous region developed by two peoples working together.

The third and last film - The Film and You - dealt with Film Councils. A film council is composed of representatives of different organizations in a district who are interested in using films. The projector belongs to the Council and films are kept on hand to be shown by the different groups belonging to it. Some discussion took place regarding the organization of one in this district.

The Doctor Says

INFLAMMATION OF GALL-BLADDER MAY REQUIRE AN OPERATION
By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

The gallbladder is a small pear-shaped hollow organ lying just under the liver and ribs on the right side. Its function is to store bile and to empty it gradually down a small tube into the intestines. The bile is manufactured in the liver; when it reaches the intestines it helps greatly in the digestion of fats.

Inflammation or irritation of the gallbladder may or may not be associated with gallstones. In about two-thirds of all cases, no germs are found in the bile. Chemical agents—apparently even the bile itself—as well as bacteria, can produce either acute or chronic inflammation of the gallbladder. When germs are at fault they may have come from infection in the mouth of throat, or have passed up the tube or duct from the intestines.

Severe Pain Signal

In acute inflammation of the gallbladder, severe but not constant pain is the first sign of difficulty as a rule. This is generally on the right side of the abdomen. Often pain from the gallbladder is felt in the back under the right shoulder, nausea, vomiting, slight fever and swelling of the entire abdomen may come after a short time. The area around the inflamed gallbladder is almost always extremely tender.

The question of whether to operate at the time when the inflammation is acute or to wait until it is not so bad has been debated by authorities for a long time.

In chronic inflammation, the symptoms may be much the same as in the acute form but not so severe. Many of those with chronic cholecystitis complain of "gas on the stomach," a feeling of fullness after a small meal, and similar vague symptoms. Sometimes jaundice, or yellowness of the skin, and mucous membranes is present. The question as to whether operation is necessary or whether the condition should be treated by medical means is often difficult and cannot be answered except after careful study.

Q—Please say something about emphysema.

A—This is a condition of the lungs in which air escapes into the tissue surrounding the usual lung pockets. This air does not flow in or out of the lungs with breathing. It is generally the result of some chronic condition such as bronchitis or obstruction to the breathing tubes.

Dr. W. Moulton Stanbridge East Addresses Rotary Has Annual Club At Boundary Vestry Meeting

Rock Island, Feb. 25.—"I know of no profession that offers greater awards than does the veterinary profession," said Dr. William Moulton, in an address at the regular Monday evening meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary, held at the Del Monty Hotel.

Dr. Moulton is the Government veterinarian, a member of the staff of the Bureau of Animal Industry, division of the United States Department of Agriculture, and gave his classification talk as a member of the Rotary Club.

Telling the story of the various ways in which the work of veterinarians affects the daily lives of everyone, the speaker mentioned that a long and arduous course of study was necessary before a practice could be started.

"A veterinarian deals with the health of animals, and upon their health depends in many instances the health and prosperity of human beings. The nearly total elimination of tuberculosis in cattle is an accomplishment of the veterinary service that has done a great deal to reduce the amount of this disease in young children.

The meeting next Monday, Feb. 28th, will be held at the Centenary United Church Hall, and will feature a talk by Rev. Wilson A. Burden of Newport. It will be Ladies' Night, and it is expected that there will be more than the usual number present to enjoy the meal to be served by the Allegro Group of the Centenary Church.

Among those who attended the Quebec Pomological Society's winter meeting held in the Queen's Hotel, Montreal, were Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Chaplin, Mr. and Mrs. A. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Fisk, Mr. and Mrs. P. Gould, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gillespie, Mr. R. Thomson, M.B.E., and Mrs. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bowley, Mr. and Mrs. Howe Paquette, Mr. and Mrs. O. Menard, Mr. and Mrs. R. ## Constable Romain Addresses Lions Club In Magog

Magog, Feb. 25.—The Lions Club in Magog held their regular meeting Wednesday evening in the Chateau Du Lac Hotel with President George Abbott in the chair. A record crowd was in attendance. The business meeting was short as there were few items to be discussed.

Lion Geoffrey Roberts introduced the guest speaker of the evening—Constable J. B. Romain, of the Sutton detachment of the R. C. M. P.

Constable Romain spoke on "The duties of the R. C. M. P. in Canada's North West Territories and the Yukon," and mentioned his own personal experiences in the Yukon, where he had previously been stationed.

At the end of his address, Constable Romain answered numerous questions, after which the speaker was thanked by Lion Ernest Bradley.

Lion William MacKenna gave an interesting report on the progress of the Campaign for the Blind. In his report, Mr. MacKenna stressed the importance of this campaign and urged the full co-operation of all members.

Mr. MacKenna mentioned the untiring efforts of some members, and hoped for more effort from other members. To the new members, he said that the Lions Club was not all pleasure, but that it was an act of service to the community in which the club was formed.

Lion Ernest Jackson led the singing with Lion Manse Scruton at the piano.

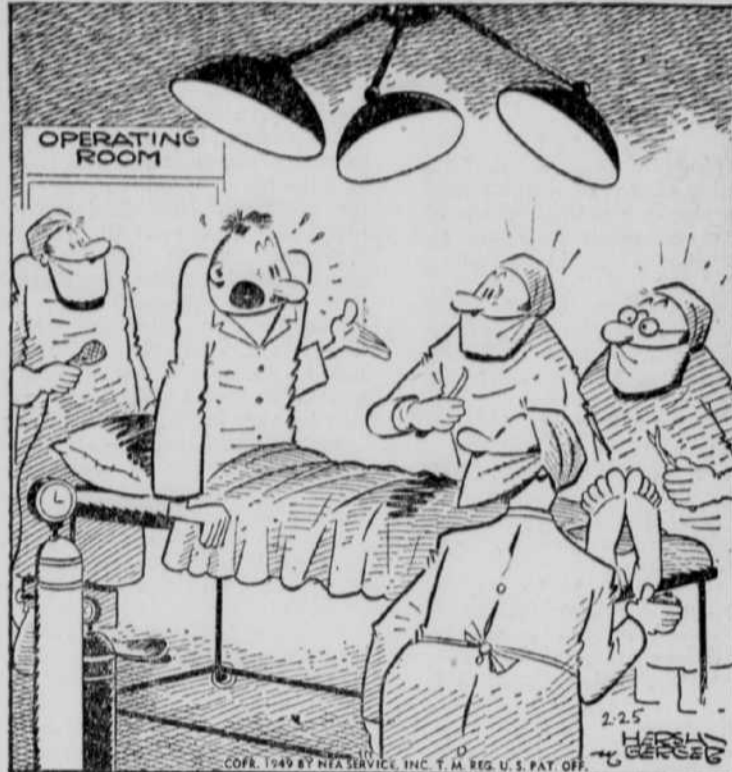

Lion Dan Rammage claimed this to be a record evening for fines, having had to pay one himself. The meeting closed with a toast to the King, and with the singing of God Save the King.

Final Round Of Ladies' Bonspiel Is Completed; Aubrey Rink Takes Rand And Victoria Fairbanks Trophy

Mrs. T. Burton skipped her Lennoxville rink to a 12-6 victory over Mrs. A. Plouffe's Quebec foursome to cop the G. M. Young trophy, Mrs. J. Gruer guided her Aubrey quartet to a 6-5 decision over Mrs. W. E. Jones and her Montreal West aggregation to win the Canadian Ingersoll-Rand trophy while Mrs. G. Patterson piloted her Victoria squad to an 8-7 verdict over Mrs. G. McGibbon and her Lachute rink to cop the Canadian Fairbanks Morse trophy in the finals played last night in the Ladies' Sherbrooke Curling Club fourth annual bonspiel.

In the finals of the Young trophy Mrs. Burton took an early lead over Mrs. Plouffe's Quebec rink and was leading 3-0 at the end of the third end. The Quebec squad came up with a four end, plus a singleton, to take the lead 5-3, but the Lennoxville team came right back with four, in the seventh, plus a single, to take over 8-5. Quebec got one more in the eighth for an 8-6 score but from then on Mrs. Burton's rink added two in the ninth, and finished with two more in the final end to finish on the long end of a 12-6 count and win the match.

In the fight for the Rand trophy Mrs. J. Gruer's Aubrey aggregation was out in front 5-0 at the end of the fifth. In the sixth Mrs. W. E. Jones' Montreal West rink got their first point and then added another in the seventh for a 5-2 score. Aubrey got one to extend their lead 6-2 but the Montreal West team got two in the ninth and added one more in the final end to finish the game 6-5 in favor of Aubrey.

The duel for the Fairbanks trophy was the closest one of the evening and the match was not decided until the final stone. Mrs. McGibbon's Lachute rink piled up a lead of 4-0 at the end of the third. Mrs. Patterson's Victoria rink got two in the fourth when they chalked up two points, and picked up another in the fifth. In the sixth Victoria got two to move out in front for the first time in the game and added another in the seventh for a 6-4 count. Lachute came back and tied it with a two count at the end of the eighth. In the ninth Mrs. McGibbon got one for a 7-6 count, but in the final end Mrs. Patterson came through with two beautiful stones to chalk up two points and win by the narrow margin of 8-7. The match was not decided until the final iron was thrown. It was a nip and tuck battle the whole way.

In the quarter-finals of the Young trophy Mrs. A. J. Moore, Lennoxville, dropped a 9-3 decision to Mrs. K. McMahon and her Ormstown's rink while Mrs. A. Plouffe piloted her Quebec foursome to a 14-7 verdict over Mrs. A. Bloudeau's Outremont quartet. In the lower half of the draw Mrs. T. Burton skipped her Lennoxville rink to a 8-2 win over Mrs. G. Porter's Pointe Claire aggregation. Miss L. Teakle, Quebec, downed Mrs. G. Griffin and her Outremont foursome 10-3.

In the semi-finals Mrs. T. Burton eked out a 7-6 victory over Miss L. Teakle in a close match, with Mrs. A. Plouffe coasted to a 10-3 win over Mrs. K. McMahon's Ormstown foursome to earn their way into the finals.

Six Teams To Comprise Local Softball Loop

Paton Manufacturing Company and the Canadian Pacific Railroad were accepted into the Sherbrooke and Lennoxville Softball League at a meeting held this week.

The meeting held with President Ted Anderson presiding, was called to discuss plans for the coming season, and to settle the question pertaining to the number of teams operating in the loop this year.

Six teams signified their intentions of forming part of the loop. From last year Unitcast Steel, Union Screen Plate, Superheater and Sherbrooke Machineries will return, while two new entries, C.P.R. and Paton Mill have joined the ranks.

The league adopted the Ontario Softball rules with a few local amendments to be added. President Anderson has hopes of starting the league on May 23 and a twenty game schedule will be adopted.

Anybody interested in umpiring in the league is asked to get in touch with Charles Clark, secretary-treasurer, at 820 or with Len O'Donnell, chief umpire at 6262.

Rock Island Upset By Beebe 4-2 In Playoffs

Rock Island, Feb. 25.—Beebe hockey club caused a surprise in the Massawippi Valley Hockey League playoffs when they chalked up a 4-2 victory over the second-place Rock Island Battery boys in the initial tie of the best-of-three semi-final playdowns.

The teams did not play their final game of schedule as the outcome would have no bearing on the standing and owing to the late season decided to commence the playoffs immediately.

Rock Island took the lead in the game when Cote and Badard dented the meshings to put the home team in front 2-0. In the middle period Beebe knotted the score as Laro and Stewart tallied the only goals of the frame.

In the final session Gruer put the Beebe boys out in front at the halfway mark and with fifty-four seconds remaining Gaudreau dented the twine to extend his team's lead and give them a well earned victory.

Saints With Brilliant Third Period Rally Defeat New York Rovers 7-2

A third period drive which netted five goals enabled the Sherbrooke Saints to down New York Rovers 7-2 in a regular scheduled Q.S.H.L. fixture played at the local Arena last night.

After a somewhat mild first period the two teams decided to go full out towards the end of the second canto.

Only one goal was scored in the close checking first period. Manny McIntyre scored from close in when he received a pass from linemate Herbie Carnegie, Brother Ossie also received an assist on the play.

New York pressed in the final minute of the opening canto when Big Ivan Irwin was sent to the cooler. Leclere, the Saint's goalie, saved the day and the period ended with Sherbrooke holding a one point lead. Leclere stopped 11 shots while Gordon was called up to stop 10 in the first frame.
