RETIREMENT OF RUSSIANS FROM WARSAW IS REPORTED AS BEING EXTREMELY ORDERLY

Austro-Germans Begin Attacks On The Fortresses Of The Polish Capital—Operations Of Von Mackensen And Von Buelow Appear Dangerous To Retreating Muscovites—Latter Have Checked Germans In Two Battles And A Third Is In Progress—Western Front Is Quiet Except In The Argonne And The Vosges—New Moves Of Importance Are Expected In The Near East

London, Aug. 4.—After having tried for three weeks to force the Russians to evacuate Warsaw and the Polish salient by encircling movements from the north and pressure from the west, the Austro-Germans have commenced attacks on the fortresses of the capital and those of Lomza and Ostrolenka to the north-east, and Ivangorod to the south-east.

Berlin claims tonight that the Russians have been driven back to the advanced defenses of Lomza; that the Narew has been crossed near Osarolensk; that, driven out of their Bloniec positions, the Russians have fallen back into the outer lines of Warsaw, which the Bavarians are attacking and that the Austrians have captured the western part of the fortress of Ivangorod.

Thus, what should prove a decisive battle for the Polish capital has begun in earnest.

In the meantime, Field Marshal Von Mackensen is slowly advancing from the south-east between the Vistula and the Bug in an effort to cut off the Russian armies, which apparently are making a leisurely exit from Warsaw and the western lines, while General Von Buelow, in his wider encircling movement through Courland, has reached Kupischki, some fifty miles west of Dvinsk, on the Vilna-Petrograd railway.

Although the operations of Von Mackensen and Von Buelow appear to offer the most dangerous threats to the retiring Russian armies, the Russian General Staff is paying more attention to Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, who has been trying, with more or less success, to force the line of the Narew. Here the Russians are offering the most stubborn resistance, and, according to an official despatch from Petrograd, in two battles of three days each succeeded in checking the Germans and inflicting heavy losses on them. The Russians also admit severe casualties.

When the despatch was sent, a third battle was in progress. Berlin claims that in this battle the Germans have been successful and have forced a cross of the Narew near Ostrolenka.

On the whole, the Russians, according to official reports, are making an extremely orderly retirement. They are losing comparatively few prisoners and, except for the 32 guns abandoned to the west of Ivangorod, the Germans make no claims to the capture of heavy pieces of artillery.

Quiet has settled down along the western front except in the Argonne and Vosges where German attempts to recapture lost ground or take new trenches have failed, according to the French communication.

New moves of the greatest importance are anticipated in the near east. The Ministers of Great Britain, France, Russia and Italy have had a conference with the Greek government. A despatch from Paris says that an Italian officer recently arrived at British headquarters in the Mediterranean to arrange for this.

GENERAL HUGHES AT SHORNCLIFFE

BONAR LAW AND MINISTER OF MILITIA REVIEW THE CANADIANS.

London, Aug. 4.—Canada's contribution to the armed forces of the Empire was strikingly displayed today when the British Secretary for the Colonies, Andrew Bonar Law, himself a native of New Brunswick, and the Canadian Minister of Militia, Major-General Sam Hughes, reviewed the Canadians at the Shorncliffe camp. Probably there were more troops in this review than the United States has mustered in one place since the Spanish-American war, and this is but a part of Canada's contribution.

There was a heavy rain from noon until dusk, but, notwithstanding, the men marched with an impressive dash through the puddles.

Mr. Bonar Law, in a brief speech to the officers, praised the Canadian spirit, adding that even their sacrifices were less of a strain than the anxiety of their families across the seas.

Every province from Nova Scotia to British Columbia was represented.

BARTLETT MINES ARE OFFERED; NO SALE

Toronto, Aug. 4.—The Bartlett mines property, famous in the days of the Gowanda boom, was put up at auction by the Trusts and Guarantee Company for judicial sale today. There was a fairly good attendance. The highest bid received, however, was $6,000, and as this did not equal the reserve, the sale was called off.

retreated on the Warsaw positions.

"The German troops which have been crossing the Vistula during the last few days near Matziewitz unsuccessfully attacked us. In the Ivangorod district Monday our troops concentrated on the Vistula bank.

"Between the Vistula and the Bug fighting continues. On the Vieprz near Lake Draioiv, north-east of the village of Leczna, and between Cholm and Vladowa, the enemy yesterday attempted to break through our front. The fighting reached almost incredible ferocity, and the infantry divisions which resisted the enemy's pressure during the whole day particularly distinguished themselves during the night. They repulsed great masses of Germans, compelling them to make a disorderly retreat.

"In the counter attack in the direction of Cholm our armored motor cars assisted in our success. "No engagements took place along the Bug-Zlota Lipa-Dziester line."

The Weather

Toronto, Aug. 4.—Pressure remains comparatively low over the Great Lakes and highest in the Maritime Provinces. Rain fell heavily today in the Ottawa valley and a few showers have occurred in the other portions of Ontario. Elsewhere the weather has been fine and in the west decidedly warm.

RUSSIANS RETIRE.

Petrograd, via London, Aug. 4. 5.—1.40 a.m.—An official statement issued from general headquarters admits that the Russians have retired from the Bloniec-Nadarzyn line on Warsaw.

MORE MACHINE GUNS.

London, Ont., Aug. 4.—The donation of at least twenty machine guns to the Canadian troops is the aim of the Middlesex Patriotic League, which was organized here tonight to direct a machine gun campaign in London and Middlesex county. The Lewis gun, of English manufacture, and costing $1,000, is the type decided upon. The London Victualers' Association today decided to donate two machine guns, while pledges of support to the campaign are being received from all sides.

ARGUMENT OF GERMANY REGARDING FRYE CASE

HUNS REFUSE TO ADMIT THAT SINKING OF THIS VESSEL WAS A VIOLATION OF AMERICAN TREATY RIGHTS.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Germany is unyielding in her refusal to concede that the sinking of the American sailing ship William P. Frye by the auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich in the South Atlantic last January was a violation of American rights under the Prussian-American treaty or international law.

In reply to the last representations of the United States, the German Foreign Office, in a note made public here tonight by the State Department, reiterates a previous justification of Germany's course, declares again her willingness to pay for the ship, and accepts a proposal first advanced by the United States—that the amount of damage be fixed by two experts, one to be selected by each country.

Such a sum the German government pledges itself to pay promptly with the stipulation, however, that the payment shall not be viewed as a satisfaction for violation of American rights. Should that method be unsatisfactory, Germany invites the United States to arbitration at The Hague.

The unofficial view here is that reparation by a commission of experts probably will be satisfactory to the United States with the express provision, however, that it is not a waiver of treaty rights for which the American government contends, but applies only to the matter of damages.

It is practically certain that if the United States allows the dispute to go to the Hague for interpretation of the treaty provision or continues the academic discussion of principles through the channel of diplomacy, it will insist that, meanwhile, Germany refrain from violation of what the United States contends are its rights.

The entire dispute revolves about article thirteen of the Prussian-American treaty of 1799 which was revived and included in the treaty of 1828. That article, the United States contends, specifically protected the William P. Frye; from being sunk, although it did not protect a contraband cargo. Germany takes precisely an opposite view, contending that the article only obligates her to pay damages. Furthermore, Germany replies that as the Frye's cargo of wheat destined to England was contraband the ship was liable to confiscation and that as an attempt to take the prize into a German port would have imperilled her captor, the destruction of the Frye "was according to general principles of international law."

"The right of sinking," says the German note, "is not mentioned in the treaty, and is therefore neither expressly permitted nor expressly prohibited, so that on this point the party stipulations must be supplemented by the general rules of international law."

It is not disputed by the American government that according to the general principles of international law a belligerent is authorized in sinking neutral vessels under almost any conditions for carrying contraband.

The note argues at length for the German interpretation of the disputed treaty provisions, contending that its intent is to establish a reasonable compromise between the military interests of the belligerent contracting party and the commercial interests of the neutral party.

"On the one hand," says the note, "the belligerent party is to have the right to prevent the transportation of war supplies to his adversaries, even when carried on vessels of the neutral party; on the other hand the commerce and navigation of the neutral party is to be interfered with as little as possible by the measures necessary for such prevention, and reasonable compensation is to be paid for any inconvenience or damage which may, nevertheless, ensue from the proceeding of the belligerent party."

That, in short, is Germany's argument, based on her interpretation of the treaty, and to that, the view of the United States is squarely opposed. Payment for the Frye in the manner suggested will not affect the question of rights under the treaty.

A German prize court on July 10 held the Imperial government for damages but fixed no amount since the United States declined to become a party to the proceedings, demanding settlement by diplomacy under the treaty.

The case of the American steamer Leelanaw recently sunk by a German submarine is parallel to the Frye case. It now is in the preliminary stages of diplomatic negotiations.

ONTARIO CIVIL SERVICE GIVES MACHINE GUN.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—Ontario's civil servants, resident in Toronto, will give a machine gun to help the British and allies cause. They will probably man it, too, from the men who contribute to its cost.

An enthusiastic meeting of the provincial employees in the main corridor of the parliament buildings this afternoon heard acting Premier Lucas state that if the gun was manned by men from the buildings the government would allow them full pay and keep their positions open for them.

A resolution that the necessary funds be raised for the purchase of the machine gun was passed unanimously.

Long Pedigrees.

A distinguished French seaman, Admiral Magon, who was killed at Trafalgar, showed a pedigree going back to Mago, the brother of Hannibal. The Magon family, who owns an estate near Lyons, boast of their descent from the strong man of the Bible, which is commemorated in their coat of arms by the broken column of a temple. An Italian nobleman, the Marchese Porro, traces his line back to Porus, the Indian monarch who fought a battle with Alexander the Great.

GERMAN LIBERALS WANT VIGOR IN WAR

STRONG CENSURE OF THE KAISER'S GOVERNMENT FOR LACK OF NAVAL ACTIVITY.

Zurich, Aug. 4.—Discontented German Socialists no longer have a monopoly of attack on the government. The National Liberal party which has just held a meeting at Cologne criticizes the government in vigorous terms, but for absolutely opposite reasons to those which inspire the Socialists. The National Liberals declare that not enough energy is being spent on the war. A deputy, Bassermann, in a violent speech contended that the government showed a lack of confidence that is calculated to cause astonishment and anxiety. He attacked Count Monts and Admiral Von Truppel because they had proposed an accord with America and expressed indignation that such proposals were approved in certain official circles. The distrust that this party felt was increased by the fact that leaders of the Socialist party had declared that they were supporters of the chancellor and his policy and had not been repudiated by him.

Want Vigorous Naval Policy.

Bassermann expressed satisfaction at the collaboration of four great economic associations in Germany, two industrial organizations and one agrarian body, declaring that the last named had shown great understanding of the needs of commerce and industry.

Other speakers demanded that military and naval operations be carried out on a still greater scale.

Deputy Bassermann, chief of the party, declared that this was not the time for reform of the Prussian electoral system. The spirit of Bismarck pervading the German people he declared to be wanting in certain spheres. The government which he said gives free rein to democratic sentiment and proposals for peace was suppressing utterances of the nationalists who demanded a policy of force, devoid of all sentiment.

Sensation Caused.

As the National Liberal party is that of the wealthy industrial classes though not one of the peace government party, this violent attack on the chancellor's policy has caused a sensation and is proof that the Von Tiritz partisans are getting the upper hand. As the party is against any concessions to America on the submarine warfare issue, its hostility to the government's policy will probably have considerable influence.

The Vossische Zeitung has published an article which is probably a feeler. The article states that the government would not reply for some time to President Wilson's note, but the submarine warfare would be continued with increased energies.

May Not Reply.

Professor Meyer, the well-known historian, writes that Germany has no need by any action of hers to strengthen President Wilson's position and need not trouble about what America thinks.

The Morgen Post declares that this attitude in itself constitutes a reply. The Munich Neueste Nachrichten maintains that the American note does not prohibit a reply, but need not necessarily receive one. Nevertheless the German Government may have something to propose. In any case it is desirable that discussion in the press should continue. The Neueste Nachrichten thinks it would be well to reply in any case in order to rebut such of President Wilson's affirmations as are considered erroneous since silence might mean an admission that they were just.

SERG. COOKSON'S VALOR.

A member of the Princess Patricia's, singing himself "One of those left," has written to the London Times to call attention to Sgt. Cookson's gallantry during the fierce fighting in May. This man, he writes, "deserves the greatest honor for his unflinching and conspicuous gallantry during the whole of those terrible days, as it was indeed chiefly owing to its coolness and indomitableness that Lieut. Niven, after Major Gault, D.S.O., had been knocked out, was able to save the entire position; it was Sergt. Cookson who got the vital despatch through for reinforcements and brought them up when volunteers were called for this perilous task, and I guess no one living to tell the tale of those days of real hell will ever deny the justice of honoring this brave man who fought as a Gordon Highlander in South Africa with those you have given prominence to."

DISTRICTS WELL GOVERNED.

A Havas despatch from Rome by way of Geneva says that in 70 communes organized by the supreme commandant of Austrian territory occupied by the Italians, life has again become normal. Business is being resumed, the markets are going on regularly, and physicians are proceeding with the work of disinfection. The authorities make daily distribution of food to the population.

The Italian Government, the despatch states, has granted the families of those mobilized into the Austrian ranks a continuation of the subsidies the Austrian Government had paid.

MEDICINAL VALUE OF OUR TREES

A DOZEN VARIETIES IN THIS COUNTRY THAT NEED ATTENTION.

There are about a dozen trees growing in the United States which are entirely or partly for medicines. On account of the enormous quantities required it is a foregone conclusion that in the not far distant future trees will have to be planted to meet the demand that is fast growing, or else we shall suffer from the lack of necessary drugs.

The presence of hydrocyanic acid in the thin inner bark of the wild cherry and its tonic and sedative properties make the tree valuable. It is gathered in the fall, and a fresh supply is required each year, as it loses strength if kept too long.

Witch hazel plays a prominent part in the medicine chest of every household to-day and represents in its manufacture many thousands of dollars in invested capital. The Indian knew of its healing properties long before the white man came.

The New England farmers find the witch hazel crop one of much value and a regular source of income. The brush is taken to the local distillery, where the essential properties are extracted. While it is usually classified as a shrub, it has been known to grow to the height of twenty-five feet. It also has the peculiarity of blooming very late in the fall.

The bark of the slippery elm is highly prized for the relief of colds and to allay inflammation. This tree grows to the height of from forty to seventy feet, with a trunk two and one-half feet thick. The outer bark is shaved off and the inner one removed and dried under pressure in order to keep it flat. The dried bark is remarkable for its small proportion of weight to bulk.

The white pine, which plays such an important part in building industries, is conspicuous among trees possessing medicinal properties.

These four are among the best known and most widely used of nature's remedies growing wild in the woods. There are others of various kinds and degrees of usefulness. The tamarack and the aspen, both of them esteemed as tonics; the white willow, a tonic, a febrifuge and sometimes used for rheumatism; the butternut, whose bark serves as a tonic and a mild cathartic; sweet birch, best known as the principal ingredient in birch beer; the white oak, with its astringent bark, and, perhaps as popular as any bark that grows, the sassafras.—New York American.

Over 80,000 officers and soldiers of the Salvation Army are now arrayed against each other in the European war.

INTERCESSION SERVICE IS MOST IMPRESSIVE

THE VERY REVEREND THE DEAN OF QUEBEC PREACHES MOST FORCIBLE AND APPROPRIATE SERMON—LARGE ATTENDANCE.

The special service of Intercession held in the Cathedral of the Holy Trinity last evening was attended by hundreds of Quebecers and it was the most impressive event of such nature which has ever taken place in the city of Quebec.

The Rev. E. A. Dunn, Rector of Bergerville opened the service, which was a shortened form of evensong, after which Psalm 46, "God is our Hope and Strength" was sung.

The very Reverend the Dean of Quebec then mounted the pulpit and preached a very forcible and eloquent sermon. He took for his text the 3rd Verse 4th Chapter of the Book of Judges: "And the children of Israel cried unto the Lord, for he had nine hundred chariots of iron."

The Reverend speaker opened his sermon by alluding to the anniversary of the opening of hostilities. For twelve months the world had been the scene of a conflict in which bloodshed and spectacles of misery and carnage are not lessening today; in fact, they are increasing with every hour.

"Is it a bold or unwarrantable thing we do?" said the reverend speaker, "that in the midst of terrible bloodshed and strife, when the hands of men are red with the blood of their fellowmen, we dare come into the presence of God? For we remember what old King David was told when he wished to build a house of prayer. God sent for the prophet and said: Thou shalt not build me a house of prayer for thy hands are filled with blood."

The Dean then went on to explain that war cannot be in accordance with the will of God. God is Love. He would, indeed, be imperfect if he should be pleased to see brothers quarrelling and taking each other's lives.

"Can we make war a subject of prayer?" Was the question the reverend speaker proposed to answer and in the case of Siseria a very strong simile was made to the present conditions. Israel had cried out to the Lord because "he had 900 chariots of iron."

To use the language of modern times, Siseria had built up a powerful military machine; he had been preparing for years to subject Israel to his sway. The people of Israel had not the army nor the equipment to defeat Siseria, but they cried out to God for help. Did God answer? We all know how he did. There came a power from heaven and the great rivers were choked with the bodies of the dead. God was not on the side of the 900 chariots of iron: He was on the side of the distressed and Siseria was obliged to flee to his death.

How war was used by God for the purpose of cleansing the world and how God even used it as an instrument to punish certain peoples was illustrated by reference to well-known biblical examples.

"The brain of the tortoise was once supposed to contain a wonderful stone which was efficacious in extinguishing fire and when placed under the tongue would produce prophetic inspiration. Another stone possessing the latter property was, so it was said, to be found in the eye of the hyena."

The head of the cat, however, in those ancient days was thought to contain what would undoubtedly have been the most wonderful and most desirable treasure of all could it have only had a real instead of an imaginary existence, for that man who was so fortunate as to possess this precious stone would have all his wishes granted.—Chambers' Journal.

BRITISH PEOPLE DECLARE BELIEF IN JUST CAUSE

PREMIER BORDEN ATTENDS BIG MEETING IN LONDON OPERA.

London, Aug. 4.—Having in the churches throughout the land this morning "commended our cause to the hands and judgment of the all-wise Ruler of the Universe" the British people at public meetings held tonight in every city, town and hamlet in the United Kingdom, the Dominions and colonies, declared their "belief in the justice of our cause and firm determination not to look to the right or to the left until the goal of victory is achieved."

The principal meeting in England was held in the London Opera House. This was attended by Princess Victoria and other members of the royal family, the Ambassador and Ministers of the Allied countries, and was addressed by Arthur J. Balfour, First Lord of the Admiralty, Sir Robert Borden, the Canadian Premier, and the Marquis of Crewe, Lord president of the Council.

At Folkestone, Andrew Bona, Law Secretary of the Colonies and Major-General Sam Hughes, Canadian Minister of Militia, addressed the Canadians, thousands of whom are in camp at Shorncliffe, a short distance away. Other Ministers and leaders addressed large audiences at various other important centres.

Messages were read at the London meeting from France and Russia and from every corner of the British Empire. Mr. Balfour moved, and Sir Robert Borden seconded, the following resolution:

"That on the anniversary of the war this meeting of the people of London records its inflexible determination to continue to a victorious and the struggle in the maintenance of these ideals of liberty and justice which are the common and sacred cause of all the Allies."

Mr. Balfour said there was no need to impress upon the meeting the resolve of the nation to pursue the great controversy to the end. This resolve was not only unshaken; it was stronger than ever.

England, he continued, had never professed to a great army at the start only offered to send out 160,000. The casualties of the British army were already three times that number. What England had done far exceeded what was originally expected, but it was only part of what she was going to do.

He was confident that historians would say that as this country had played its part in maritime matters, so it had in no sense fallen short of what it could do in military matters. He was sure that had the Germans known what the end of things would be not a man would have moved, a soldier mobilized or a life lost between the Ural mountains and the Bay of Biscay.

The Canadian Premier, after eulogizing the British army, said he was assured of the triumph of the cause. Canada, he declares, was inspired by an inflexible determination to do her part.

The resolution was carried by acclamation.

PARIS AND BERLIN.

Both Know What It Is to See Foreign Armies Within Their Gates.

Paris has had severe experiences in the way of surrenders to invading armies. On March 31, 1814, the allied armies that had hemmed in Napoleon entered the French capital, and occupied it with a force of 230,000 troops.

After Napoleon's escape from Elba and his defeat at Waterloo the armies of the allies again entered Paris, July 7, 1815. Thus the great city had to surrender to its enemies twice within sixteen months. Fifty-five years later—Jan. 28, 1871—the city surrendered again, this time to the victors in the Franco-German war, after a brisk bombardment.

Berlin has seen foreign troops enter its gates no fewer than three times in the last 200 years. The first time, curiously enough, the conquerors were Austrian troops under General Hatfield, who entered Berlin in 1757, when Frederick the Great was engaged in fighting the French on the Rhine. During their stay the Austrians imposed a fine of £30,000 on the city, as well as commandeering a huge quantity of provisions and equipment for their troops.

It was only just over three years later when both the Russians and Austrian troops, then allies of one another, entered Berlin. This time the city was fined £300,000.

The time that will be best remembered, however, was the entry of Napoleon into Berlin after the victory of Jena. Napoleon inflicted a very heavy fine on the Germans and forced them to feed his troops.—London Tid Bits.

BRITISH EXPORTS HAVE DECREASED

BUT IMPORTS AND RE-EXPORTS GROW—COTTON IS A FEATURE.

Washington, Aug. 4.—The London report showed that while Great Britain's exports decreased materially in the first six months of 1915 as compared to the same period of 1914, imports increased. Re-exports during June, the first month during which the British order-in-council was fully effective, showed an increase of $2,904,838.

In cotton, one of the much-disputed articles in the trade, Great Britain's imports increased by 1,314,592 cents of 112 pounds each.

Large increases in all lines of cotton goods and cotton yarns from Great Britain to Sweden, Norway, Denmark and the Netherlands during the first six months of 1915 are shown. Despite a general decrease in exports of manufactured copper, Great Britain sent Norway 317 tons in 1915 as against 48 tons in 1914. Increased American copper exports to Scandinavian countries have been cited by Great Britain to sustain her contention.

These British trade figures with many others collected by the State Department, have been arranged for use in replying to Great Britain, if the President determines to argue the question, despite the flat refusal of this country to recognize Great Britain's right to interfere with non-contraband commerce through neutral ports, even if it is for final consumption by a belligerent.

Encouraged by the announcement from London that a part of the cargo of the steamer Neches had been released, officials determined today to press informal negotiations to secure an agreement that would release all the vast quantity of American bond commodities now lying in Rotterdam docks. The British note in the Neches case set forth that if it is alleged that "in particular cases and special circumstances, hardships may be inflicted on citizens of neutral countries, His Majesty's government is ready in such cases to examine the facts in a spirit of consideration for neutrals."

In line with this assurance, the foreign trade advisers of the State Department are forwarding to London affidavits covering hundreds of individual cases in which they allege that hardships are being inflicted. The total involved will be millions of dollars and undoubtedly will participate extended diplomatic correspondence.

The State Department is hopeful of results in many of these cases and an arrangement already has been made to facilitate American commerce in oil.

ITALY WANTS LOAN.

New York, Aug. 4.—Wall street heard today that Italy was negotiating in this money market for a $50,000,000 loan.

No authoritative announcement concerning the report was obtainable and details as well as confirmation were lacking.

RAIN PREVENTS TENNIS MATCH.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Rain again prevented the match in the Western Tennis Tournament at Lake Forest today. After waiting until late in the afternoon, officials decided that a continuous drizzle and a wet course were too much to contend with and called play off.

TERRIFIC STORM ON LAKE HURON.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 4.—A special despatch from Harrisville, Mich., received here today says that after a terrific storm which raged on Lake Huron yesterday, considerable wreckage was washed ashore between Sturgeon Point and Greenbush.

Among the wreckage were part of a boat's cabin and two lifeboats. It is not known whether the small craft bore the name of any lake going vessel.

Marine agencies here have not learned of any steamer in distress.

Island City Still In Ruins.

St. Pierre, Martinique, which was destroyed by the eruption of Mount Pelee in 1902, has never been rebuilt, but it is said that even yet the ruins are being searched for valuables. The place is under police control, and two or three streets have been excavated, but it is still a "city of desolation."

TO MAY 31st, AS COMPILED BY THE FRENCH MINISTRY OF WAR, ARE AS FOLLOWS:—

France: Killed, 460,000; wounded 660,000; prisoners, 180,000; total 1,300,000.

England: Killed, 181,000; wounded 200,000; prisoners, 90,000; total 471,000.

Belgium: Killed, 49,000; wounded 49,000; prisoners, 15,000; total 113,000.

Russia: Killed, 1,250,000; wounded 1,680,000; prisoners, 850,000; total, 3,780,000.

Germany: Killed, 1,630,000; wounded 1,865,000; prisoners, 910,000; total, 4,385,000.

Austria: Killed, 1,610,000; wounded 1,865,000; prisoners, 910,000; total, 4,385,000.

Turkey: Killed, 110,000; wounded 144,000; prisoners, 95,000; total, 349,000.

This was prepared for publication early in June, but was withheld because the French authorities feared the enormity of the figures might have a bad moral effect on the people.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT ST. ANDREW'S

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE OF INTERCESSION FOR CAUSE OF EMPIRE AND ALLIES.

A large and representative congregation was present at St. Andrew's Church last night to attend the service of intercession on behalf of those engaged on the side of the Empire and her Allies in the present world war.

The service was most impressive, and was followed with profound attention. Hymns were rendered and prayers were recited while the Rev. S. T. Martin, M.A., pastor of Chalmers' Church, who presided at the service, delivered a most eloquent address in the course of which he spoke as follows:

"It is not my intention to rehearse this evening the victories and successes that have crowned the magnificent and heroic efforts of our men in arms nor to recall the failures and defeats that have been incidental to this year of war, for victories won for us at such tremendous cost we shall never forget, and those who have gained them for us at the sacrifice of life shall receive our undying gratitude. Our defeats we shall regard as temporary pauses in a great forward movement; towards the world's emancipation and yet we must not forget the facts with which we are confronted.

"To flatter the vanity of the nation at this particular time would be mischievous and to close our eyes to the situation which confronts us would be to court disaster. We are today facing the second great crisis of the war. The first was Germany's superiority in men. Her drive on Paris was checked by the heroism of the Belgian army, and gave the Allies an opportunity to gather strength. The second crisis is Germany's superiority in war munitions. The Allies are suffering on every front from lack of war munitions, but Britain is bending every energy to meet this second crisis and conditions are marvelously improved. Every class is responding to the magnificent appeals of the Minister of Munitions."

"We believed," says a leading Old Country journalist, "that never since the war began has there been a more determined resolution that this great Empire, on which the sun never sets, shall not depart like a dream, but shall be strengthened for a glorious future."

"We are not here, however, to glory in our arms or in our Empire, but to render our humble and hearty thanks to Almighty God, to seek the continuance of His favor, to implore His blessings upon our forces and to receive the inspiration which comes to us from the knowledge that our cause is His.

"The year has revealed nothing more clearly or more distinctly than this latter fact. A year ago we believed we were fighting for ideals and principles which were essential to our national integrity and the Kingdom of God. Today, we know we were and are."

After making reference to the heroism and sacrifice of those who have fallen the speaker went on to say: "There is no place today for him who feels no response to the Empire's call. He is not only a man without a country, but a man without a God. He who values life more than service and gold more than God, is today conspicuous by his shame.

"But there is something more to be done than to enlist, and that is to endure. The hardest day for the men in the trenches was not the day they swore allegiance to the Empire and set their names upon the service roll, but all this year of perilous fighting and patient waiting, and the greatest trial for those at home was not the day the soldiers sailed, but this year of grave anxiety and trying uncertainty."

For the secret of prolonged endurance the preacher then recalled the Patriarch who passed into a land of strangers, suffered disappointments and met reverses with a courage that was unexampled, because he had seen Him who was invisible, "and since we are compassed by such witnesses," says the author of the Hebrews, "let us lay aside every weight and the sin."

"If we would save our Empire," continued the speaker, "then these conditions are essential. Weights, which in normal times we might carry, must be laid aside. Ease and comfort, pleasure and amusement, must all fall into a very secondary place and even the ambitions and desires of peace must give place to the one thing upon which we have set our hearts in this time of war and sin—let it not be so much as named amongst us for, 'the soul that sinneth it shall die.'"

"No, we must keep our eyes upon Him in Whose cause we are enlisted. For He must be the secret of our endurance. Faith in the righteousness of God has been the inspiring motive of our soldiers' service and faith in the love of God has been the comforting and consoling element of our women's sacrifice. Despite all appearance that may be on the contrary, there is a deep and abiding faith in God running as an undercurrent through all our nation's life and acting as an anchor through all the storms of fear and doubt. A faith in a God omniscient and wise,

MACHINE GUN FUND

Almost enough money to buy twenty-three machine guns has now been realized, the response to this appeal being so generous that it has been decided to close up the fund next Saturday.

During the day subscriptions of a thousand dollars each were received from Sir William Price and John Breakey Reg'd., while the John Ritchie Company gave five hundred dollars. Another useful contribution came from the employees of the Holt, Renfrew Company who, with most commendable energy, had collected two hundred and fifty dollars among themselves.

The most important news of the day was contained in a cable message received by Mr. J. K. Boswell from Lieut.-Col. Watson saying that General Hughes will cable General Macdonald, Ottawa, authorizing Quebec's purchase of machine guns. This means that the guns will be secured without delay. Col. Watson was most emphatic in his gratitude at the "glorious example" of Quebec in the matter of these guns.

Subscriptions received during the past few days were as follows:—

Turkey: Killed, 110,000; wounded 144,000; prisoners, 95,000; total, 349,000.

This was prepared for publication early in June, but was withheld because the French authorities feared the enormity of the figures might have a bad moral effect on the people.

ANNIVERSARY OF WAR.

St. John's Nfld., Aug. 4.—The anniversary of the outbreak of the war was observed here as a public holiday, with services in all the churches and money for machine guns, naval hospital and other funds. Enough various patriotic functions to raise money has been subscribed to present three airships and twenty machine guns to the Imperial authorities, while the fund will probably be continued to secure a still larger number later.

QUEBEC, AUGUST 5, 1915.

THE NEED FOR MEN.

The Bible says some devils come out only by prayer and fasting and it is a very wise book says the Vancouver Sun. There is some doubt whether the Germans will ever do much praying but they have already done some experimental fasting and ultimately it will be much fasting that will bring them to their sober senses. At least, if fasting has not lost its efficiency.

In order to hasten the day when the disciples of Nietzsche, Treitschke, von Sybel, von Bernhardt and other priests of devil-shrines will find out the virtues of this sovereign remedy for the casting out of devils Canada must send 150,000 or more extremely efficient warriors to the aid of civilization as soon as possible. Before Germany is brought to the fasting stage, the hardest fighting in history will have to take place and it is going to be a terrible job to keep the devil-ridden Germans from laying waste the whole Empire. Before the process of exhaustion, which fight harder than armies, get on the job, all the men the British Empire can gather together, and the whole military resources of the five nations that are our brave allies in the huge crusade against the hosts of barbarism, will be needed.

As has been said repeatedly, it is a war of civilization and decency and all that makes life worth living, against the brute force, assault, destruction and all the powers of darkness. It is a war of all decent, right-minded men against a dreadful coalition of the hosts of evil. It is a war to destroy militarism and bring peace and equity back to the world. The processes of exhaustion which will finally end Germany will not begin for a long time yet, and the Germans, though mad, are a very strong, obstinate and numerous people. Their madness, the poison of the most awful philosophy ever preached in the world, makes them all the stronger. Ultimately the devils of this wicked philosophy will be cast out of them in the Scriptural way, by want and only by starvation will they be humbled to the degree of humility necessary. Not before this last chapter is reached, these madmen must be hammered and pounded by tens of thousands of great guns and by masses of men, and never permitted to rest. Germany must be placed in the position of a besieged city and when this is done, the praying and fasting, not much praying perhaps, but extended and ample fasting, will begin.

The duty of the young men of this country is plain. They must go to help to accomplish this vast task. In Canada there are thousands of intelligent citizens who have not yet realized the seriousness of this business of eradicating the hellish philosophy of the German militarists. They do not realize what will happen if the men of the British Empire do not respond in sufficient numbers to the call of the bugles. They do not realize the magnitude of the power a victorious Germany would have over the rest of the world, a power which every nation would have to obey. The ambition of the German emperor is boundless; he would dominate the rest of mankind. German goods would strangle all other merchandise in every market, because a trade preference would be wrung from every vassal nation. As for the British race, it would be enslaved. We can but guess wildly at what would happen to us but we can let our imagination take flight to high altitudes of fancy and still be remote from what would be our fate if the Germans conquered us. This is a war for our existence, as well as for the existence of our ideals and our democratic institutions. And before the world can walk again in the paths of peace, Germany will have to be strangled and clubbed and bludgeoned with every man an every gun we can put in the field. The mere driving of the Germans back over their own frontiers will be the biggest job in history. Not until they are shoved back and placed in a state of siege, will they think of yielding. And for the purposes of the world, no peace treaty has any meaning, if Germany is not clubbed and starved into submission first. The German does not recognize the sanctity of treaty rights. He does not recognize the principles of truth and honor. He does not live by our code at all.

To accomplish the only end that is thinkable for us, more men are needed. We do not doubt that we will beat Germany; if we did, merely doubting would stimulate recruiting more than anything else would do. We have taken it for granted from the first, as the rest of the civilized world has, that the powers of evil would be defeated. But to do it, we must make war our only business. We cannot take the situation too seriously. If everyone took it seriously, there would be trouble about getting all the men needed.

A CONTRAST.

For a long time past no very serious depredations have been made by German submarines. This may be because the British are catching so many of them with steel netting, that they are finding their movements extremely hazardous. Or it may be because the American remonstrance has made them more circumspect. One symptom of the new German attitude is the request through Ambassador Gerard that American vessel-owners paint their national flag more conspicuously on the sides of their craft. While German submarine activity is thus abating, there seems to be an increase in British, and it will be noted that British submarine work is always legitimate—that is to say, against warships and not against merchant ships carrying innocent passengers. A Petrograd dispatch announces that a British submarine has just sunk a German transport in the Baltic Sea. The British Admiralty announces that another British submarine has sunk a torpedo destroyer near the German coast. The Admiralty also announces splendid work by a British submarine in the Sea of Marmora, where it torpedoed a gunboat of 3,000 tons, and bombarded and blockaded a railway along the Asiatic coast so that troop trains were prevented from passing. Just such work it is that the young men of the British navy delight in. It illustrates the true field of the undersea boat, and is in striking contrast with the kind of work to which that invention is put by German fiends incarnate.

Russia is only at her beginning. Her strength is inexhaustible. Behind the army is a complete national unanimity and an inspiring faith that the empire is fighting for its soul and for a new and fuller life. The Czar warns his people that the war will be long, and that many vicissitudes must inevitably occur, but Russia, equally with Great Britain, France and Italy, will carry on the fight, unperturbed and undaunted, until the enemy is crushed, "for without that peace is impossible." Russia is a country of pity and resignation. Its people accept without a murmur the troubles of the darkness and the night, for their trust that light and comfort will come at last is unshaken. Of all European peoples their faith in the divine direction of the world is the strongest.

If any one among us has despaired of the British race, or let his mind be affected by the constant assertion of German writers, that our young men have grown soft and feeble, let him take and read the wonderful despatch which that gallant commander, Sir Ian Hamilton, has sent from the Dardanelles, and then read it again and again. He will learn there how English, Welsh, Scotch, Irish, Australian, New Zealanders, in company with their French allies, performed just those prodigies of valor which are supposed to belong to the antique world, how they landed on steep beaches overhung with cliffs against a withering fire, fought desperately by day and night, undeterred by death, wounds and overpowering fatigue, and finally performed a feat which by all the rules of warfare might well have been deemed impossible for the most hardened veterans in the world. In the history of the River Clyde he will read a modern version of the wooden horse of Troy in circumstances which makes that ancient tale of heroic times seem insignificant by comparison. And he will learn that large numbers of the men who took part in those great feats of arms were recruited since the war began, were, until a few months ago, going about their modest, peaceful avocations in offices, in workshops, behind the counter, or on the clerk's stool. What we owe them is beyond telling or repaying. But we shall cherish the memory of those who have fallen, and draw strength, courage, and confidence for the future from the proof here offered to us that the old spirit of daring and adventure is unquenchable.

PRESS COMMENT.

A contemporary says that Price Collier in "Germany and the Germans" gives the following account of the Kaiser's Daily Telegraph interview:— The incident occurred in October, 1908. "The gist of it was that the British press and people continued to distrust him, while all the time he was and had been the friend of Great Britain. The Emperor cited instances of his friendship, and declared the English were as mad as March hares not to believe in him; insisted that by reason of Germany's increasing foreign commerce and on account of the growing menace to peace in the Pacific Ocean, Germany was determined to have an adequate fleet, which perhaps one day even England might be glad to have beside her own." The secret history of this incident has never been divulged.—Moncton Transcript.

The election protest figures presented to the Royal Commission (No 2) should open the eyes of the public. In the Provincial arena only two or three protests, out of more than a hundred filed, have been prosecuted during the past twenty years. What does it mean? That both parties have been playing a game of bluff; furthermore, that upon a show-down both sides have been caught with the goods, and have regularly sawn-off the petitions to prevent exposure on both sides. Another reason, the minor one, least responsible for the withdrawal or lapse of so many protests, is because the election trial law has been specially designed to delay prosecution. Winnipeg Tribune.

According to an article in the official organ of the Swiss Social-Democratic Party, the Berner Tagwacht, some of the weak-kneed leaders in the German party of Social Democracy are beginning to find it hard to play the double game. For a year they have bowed or scraped to suit the policy of Prussian junkerdom, while posing still to be the leaders of the German people towards democracy. Three leaders, Haase, Bernstein and Kautsky, have called for a revision of the party's attitude with regard to the war, and an open letter signed by 200 leading Socialists has been sent to the mandarins at the head of the party. There are other signs of a break. Conscience has certainly produced a state of ideal slavery or servility in Germany, but even the slave must turn or be crushed utterly. The crushing process has gone on since the first of August, 1914; if it continues for another year they will be only a remnant left to revolt.—Ottawa Citizen.

The other day in speaking of the present conditions of German finance we quoted the opinion of the Wall Street Journal to the effect that the enemy is already not only beaten, but bankrupt, and that if the war lasts another six months the paper money of Germany will be worth no more than the Confederate money of the South towards the end of the Civil War. Here are some comments on the same subject from the New York Commercial: "Germany does not permit the publication of foreign exchange rates and it is a penal offence to offer or pay a premium for gold or for the bank or treasury notes of any other country. The Berlin bourse is closed and quotations are forbidden, whereas those of Paris and London are open for business on certain terms, and quotations are published in London and Paris. Gold is not in actual circulation in Germany, but the Bank of England redeems its notes in gold as usual. Germany's great assets are her Government-owned railroads, canals, and other property that can be mortgaged as a last resort. In Germany and Austria savings banks and insurance companies have been 'invited' to subscribe for Government loans, and their liquid assets have been completely exhausted. Germany and Austria, by the endless chain system of finance, are actually borrowing money on their debts from their domestic creditors. Banks that purchased early issues of bonds have been 'authorized' to issue currency on the security of these bonds in order to buy second and third issues. Are there 'paper girders' in the German financial bridge? Great Britain and France at least know where they stand as far as finances are concerned." The pressure of events, a strain too long borne, undertakings large beyond all reason, are telling on Germany, and as the months go by will end in collapse. As long as the German people can clothe and feed themselves, or pay in gold for what they import, they may manage to pull along, but as one door after another closes, keeping out imports and preventing exports, their state grows rapidly worse. Already it is pretty evident that the German bankers view it as hopeless.—Toronto Star.

FAMILIES WITH THREE SONS SERVING EMPIRE.

When mentioning Quebec families who have given several of their members to the service of the Empire, it must not be forgotten that the three sons of Mrs. Margaret Creighton are now serving their country, two of them being on the battle line in France, while the other, who is with the R. C. R. in Bermuda, secured his transfer to this regiment at Valcartier, with the idea of hastening his departure for the front.

The two boys who are now in France are Sergt-major Wilden Creighton, 16th Battalion, and Sergt. James Creighton. Lance-Corporal Wilfrid Creighton is with the R.C.R. and hopes to be sent to the front soon.

There are other Quebec families who have several representatives at the front or on the way. Col. B. A. Scott's two sons are at Valcartier, preparing to go, while another has already gone. They are Lieut. H. Evelyn Scott, 57th Battalion; Captain C. E. A. Scott, 41st Battalion, and Lieut. J. Stanley Scott, 26th Battery, 7th Brigade. Three sons of Mr. A. C. Routhier, Mountain Hill, are also serving the Empire, two of them being on the firing line and one at Valcartier. Raymond, Clifford and Russell Fletcher, sons of Mrs. Fletcher, wife of the late Captain Norman Fletcher, are also at the front.

MAYOR PRESENTS CUP TO CAPTAIN

THE VESSEL WHICH PASSED THROUGH PANAMA CANAL NOW HERE.

On the occasion of the maiden trip to Quebec of the SS. Missourian, of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Co., Captain William Lyons, Commander of the vessel was presented with a handsome silver loving cup at the City Hall yesterday afternoon by His Worship Mayor Drouin on behalf of himself and the citizens of Quebec.

The reception presented an opportunity for an exchange of friendly greetings between the noted American Commodore and the leading business men of the city, including the President and Council of the Quebec Board of Trade, representatives of the Quebec Harbor Commission, members of the local branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway, members of the City Council and many others.

It was a most happy gathering in every sense. The presentation address read by His Worship the Mayor, was as follows:—
To Captain William Lyons, S. S. "Missourian."

Commodore: I bid you the heartiest welcome. I beg to say that your reputation as a distinguished and daring seaman has preceded you and that before your arrival you were already well and favorably known in our midst.

The title of Commodore, which you so worthily bear, means that you are the senior of all the captains in command of the vessels of a large fleet of merchant ships, in the Great neighboring republic. You have been, in fact, for more than twenty-five years, in the service of one of the most important companies under the American flag, "The American Hawaiian S. S. Co.," and you have under your command one of the largest cargo steamers afloat in the United States, if not the largest.

We were aware before its arrival in the Port of Quebec, that the "S. S. Missourian," which you so skillfully command, had, in a certain measure, an historical character, that she figured in the history of the opening of the Panama Canal, because she had been the first cargo-boat to pass through the Panama Canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast on the day of its official opening.

We were aware of all these facts, but there is another interesting phase in your life which we were unfamiliar with, that you were born in Canada, and we can justly claim you as one of our own countrymen, in spite of the fact that you have faithfully fulfilled the duties of an American citizen for more than thirty years. The fact that you hail from the shores of Nova Scotia makes your presence here all the more happy to us.

Be sure, Commodore, that we feel justly proud of it. I pass now to what we understand as being the meaning of the presence of your large steamer in our port.

We see in this a thorough new era for our port and era of progress and development for the national port of the St. Lawrence river. We hope that the establishment of this new line of communication and transportation between our beloved Mother-Country and the Chief-Lieu of its ancient colony will last, and remain permanently, and always increase in importance. Be sure that we will do our best in order that you have not to regret to have adopted, for your extensive shipments, the port of Quebec which has natural advantages unrivalled in any part of the world.

Please accept, Commodore, with the expression of our best wishes, this modest token of our gratitude and souvenir of a very memorable day for us.

NAP. DROUIN.

Quebec, August, 4th, 1915.
Commodore Lyons in suitable terms acknowledged the handsome gift and stated that although it was his first visit to Quebec he hoped it would not be the last. Referring to the port of Quebec being so safe for mooring deep draught vessels he expressed himself delighted with the opportunity of commanding a steamer coming into this port and he hoped that this would mean the inauguration of a permanent freight traffic between Quebec and European ports.

Mr. Joseph Picard, President of the Quebec Board of Trade also addressed a few congratulatory remarks to Commodore Lyons with the same trend of optimism that characterized the Mayor's reference to Quebec being chosen as a permanent port by the American-Hawaiian Steamship Co.

The silver cup presented to Captain Lyons bore the inscription:
Presented to Captain William Lyons
Commodore of the American-Hawaiian Co.,
of the SS. Missourian,
4th of August, 1915,
by the Mayor and Citizens of Quebec.

Among those present were:—Mr. Joseph Picard, President of the Quebec Board of Trade; Mr. A. Gravel, and Captain J. A. Murray, of the Quebec Harbor Commission; Mr. John T. Ross; Messrs. G. J. P. Moore, Quebec Agent, A. Rawland, Assistant

QUEBEC PILOT LOSES LICENSE

SUSPENDED FOR ONE YEAR OVER GROUNDING OF S. S. HENRY B. HALL.

Montreal, Aug. 4.—Scathing criticism of the manner in which the steamer Henry B. Hall was piloted and navigated when she grounded about a mile and a half south-east of the Stone Pillars, 50 miles below Quebec, on the evening of June 10, is expressed in the judgment of the Dominion Wreck Commissioner, Captain L. A. Demers.

As a warning to "the laxity of some of the pilots in giving ordinary attention to their duties," Captain Demers suspended the license of Pilot Lucien Lachance for one year. The investigation was held on July 23 and 24.

The vessel was chartered to carry pulp from the Saguenay to Ogdensburg. Captain David H. Kiah is the chief officer of the Henry B. Hall.

LITERATURE FOR CANADIANS.

Lady Jephson, 100 Oakley street, Chelsea Embankment, London, Eng., appeals for books and magazines for the Canadian contingent. "I have already," she writes, "collected and despatched over 1,200 of these, but continual requests for more come in. Twelve hundred books go but a little way among so many men. Something to read is needed, not only by the men who go into billets for rest after the strenuous work of the trenches; but also by the wounded. May I remind your readers that French books will be very acceptable to the gallant French-Canadians, who are so splendidly loyal to Great Britain? Hitherto all books sent to me have been English. Games as well as books if forwarded to 100 Oakley street, Chelsea Embankment, London, Eng. will be sent on by me, and gratefully acknowledged."

AMATEURS THAT ARE NOT IMITATORS.

All Numbers Booked for the Auditorium Tomorrow Night are Original.

Although there were a few numbers less at the last Amateur Night at the Auditorium than at the previous one, the audience seemed to get more satisfaction for all the acts were very original and pleased everybody. This week, there will be about the same number of attractions, but they will certainly surpass all the others in variety and novelty. Some of the amateur performers will not only try to imitate professionals, they have seen on the stage, but they will present turns due to their own imagination.

This is what the people want to see and the true aim of amateur contests is attained if we can have through them an idea of the entertaining capacities of our fellow citizens. Some acrobats are already booked. There are also musicians and singers, but not of the ordinary class. Professor Fecteau will offer his many numbers, all new to Quebec audiences and maybe some jugglers will try and compete with the professional there is on the vaudeville program of the Auditorium.

GRANDE ALLEE GARDENS.

Charlie Chaplin and Robt. Warwick Make Up Fine Programme.

The opening night of the mid-week programme at the Gardens was all that could be desired. Robt. Warwick in "Alias Jimmy Valentine" is a strong picture in five reels. Charlie Chaplin's comedy was also well received by the large audience. This strong programme will hold the boards this afternoon and tonight. On Friday and Saturday Robt. Edeson will star in "Where the Trail Divides" which is a five-reel Laskey production. This is an exceptionally strong picture and should draw large houses.

A treat is in store for the patrons next Wednesday and Thursday, when "After the Ball," which is a six-reel production, will be shown. This masterpiece is written from the well-known and world-renowned song of the same name. Big plays will also be shown on Monday, Tuesday, Friday and Saturday. Chaplin again next Wednesday and Thursday.

SPECIAL NOTICE CONCERNING PASSPORTS.
THE attention of intending applicants is directed to the fact that the regulations governing the issue of Passports are on the eve of amendment in the direction of increased stringency, that it will be no longer possible to receive a Passport while one waits, or by return of post.
Every application must be accompanied by two unmounted photographs of each person to be mentioned in the Passport, one photograph to be certified by the person vouching for the applicant as being the latter's photograph.
Passports cannot be issued to persons already abroad. Such persons should apply to the nearest British Mission or Consulate.
Passports cannot be sent by mail to persons abroad, and in this category are included residents of Canada taking steamer at New York or any other port beyond the bounds of the Dominion.

She Was Frank.
The moving picture director was having trouble in getting one of the scenes right. The girl was supposed to resist an attempt to kiss her, but the rehearsal was far from satisfactory.
"Think, now," said the director, coaching her, "haven't you ever tried to stop a young man from kissing you?"
"No," was the girl's frank reply.—London Answers.

SATURDAY'S BOUTS AT VICTORIA CLUB

THIRTY-SIX ROUNDS OF BOXING AT ARENA — EGGERS WILL MEET CONLEY.

The Victoria Athletic Club, yesterday announced its card for Saturday night at the Arena.
Manager Belanger's promise that good men would be secured has been kept and Quebecers will have a chance to see "Knockout Eggers" against Frankie Conley, one-time champion of the world; George Rivet against Charlie McCarthy; Joe Shea vs. McCline, and also an interesting preliminary.
Frankie Conley's reputation is well known and there is no doubt that Eggers will have his hands full against this clever man. Conley only lost his title on a decision in a bout last year, though he was fresh and fit at the end.
The George Rivet and McCarthy bout will have plenty of action. Rivet has always pleased the local fans as he fights from start to finish, never stalls, and can take his medicine when he gets it. He gave a fine exhibition of gameness against Sullivan, by whom he was outweighed and when he finally knocked out Spike, his friends were more than pleased as they had considered the bout as lost.
Shea and McCline, two good mixers, will supply lots of excitement, and there is keen rivalry between the two boys. This bout will be a hotly contested one, and will not be behind the others in interest. A six round preliminary is also promised.

The bouts will be staged in the Arena and with the exception of the preliminary go, will be ten round affairs. There are 1,800 seats at 50c, while reserved seats are 75c, and ringside places may be had for $1.00.
Saturday night, August 7th, is the date and there is no doubt that the Arena will be even more crowded than it was last time when the bouts are held.
The men are all evenly matched and each boxer will be accorded a fair deal regarding weights, everything being arranged so that no hitmen will occur. The men who have been signed up for the mills have reputations to sustain and they are all good sports men, who carry out their contracts to the letter.

RACING AT FORT ERIE.

Borrow Wins the Dominion Handicap Race.
Fort Erie, Ont., August 4.—Fort Erie's second and last 1915 gathering opened this afternoon. The rains of yesterday and this morning rendered the track in a deep slopping condition and scratches were in order on this account. The feature was the Dominion Handicap, the fourth number on the card, for three-year-olds and up, with $1,500 added. It was won by Borrow. Eight horses faced the starter.
The summary:
First race, two-year-olds and up, selling, foaled in Canada, five and a half furlongs Kathleen H., 104, Cooper, $5.00, $3.10 and $2.50, won. Foxlet, 105, Ober, $10.60 and $3.20, second. Thorncliffe, 105, $3.40, third. Time: 1:14. Miss Fay and Hecla Flame also ran.

Questions and Answers.
"You are thoroughly familiar with public questions, of course?"
"I know 'em all by heart," replied Senator Sorghum. "But I must admit that as time goes by I don't feel quite so certain about some of the answers."—Washington Star.

IS HE YELLOW?

NOT BOMBARDIER WELLS.
He was clown of the ring, with his blind, clumsy swing—
How they hooted the loutish big fellow.
They would sneer when he stopped; they would jeer when he dropped.
And they said that his make-up was yellow.
Now he's taking his chance in the trenches of France,
And a lot of the fellows who heat him
Aren't marching away with their colors today
T' those same far distant trenches to meet him.

MANAGER OF LONDON BALL TEAM RESIGNS.

London, Ont., August 4.—Dr. F. C. Reising, of Caldwell, O., manager of the London team of the Canadian League for the last two seasons, handed in his resignation to the local directors today. At a meeting of the directors tonight the resignation was accepted, and Wally Hartwell, former manager of Bay City, South Michigan League Club, was appointed to succeed Reising. Hartwell has been playing second base for the London club since the South Michigan League disbanded.
Reising's resignation followed a long list of reverses that the local club has experienced this season. Although nearly forty players have been tried out, he could not pick a team that could keep out of last place. The players were not working harmoniously, and errors and poor judgment has been largely responsible for the team's poor showing. Last season Reising led the league for several weeks only to be beaten out by Ottawa in the last weeks or two.

Repudiated.

"I am a self made man," said Mr. Cumrox.
"Didn't you wife have something to do with your career?"
"She used to say so. But after seeing how I behaved in society she refuses to take any of the blame."—Washington Star.

BASEBALL RACE IS STILL UNCERTAIN

A LAVAL WIN OVER ST. PAT'S AND A PATRICIA VICTORY QUITE POSSIBLE.

The last meeting between Laval and St. Patrick's will be long remembered as the most exciting struggle ever witnessed on the Exhibition Grounds and only decided in favor of the Irishmen after eleven innings.
Both these clubs meet again Sunday in the first game of the usual league weekly double-header and a close contest is looked for. The only team which has proved too strong for Laval so far this season appears to be the Emmets, who have won easily both times. St. Patrick's have won twice by close margins and one game has been ordered replayed.
The second game on the same afternoon also promises to be a good one. Emmets will have as their opponents, the Patricias who since the last couple of weeks have been so strengthened they hardly know themselves. Manager McLaughlin is determined that his men shall not labor under any false impressions concerning the Patricias, and they will practice hard during the rest of the week.
Laurin and Miller will be in the points for Patricias and with a battery such as this, no team can go against them without being prepared for a close game.

The surprise of the afternoon was the defeat of The Eno, favorite in the $2,000 Michigan United Traction trot. St. Frisco, the Geers entry, took the event in four heats. The Eno winning the first heat.
The 2.08 pace proved easy for Acconite, who won in three straight heats.
Lou Jennings, favorite in the 2.09 trot, finished last in the first heat, and was distanced in the second. Lizzie Brown won this race by taking the last three heats.
The 2.13 trot was the slowest race of the day, being won by F. A. L. He was not driven out until the third heat.

Sporting Notes
Thirty-six rounds of boxing at the Arena, Saturday night. And good boxing at that. Eggers and Conley will be more than worth the price of admission. Tickets will be on sale today.
The boxers will arrive here tomorrow. The name of the referee will not be announced until later.
St. Patrick's will have to hustle to beat Laval on Sunday. The Students very nearly put it over them in that extra inning game.
The Emmets will practice this evening on the Esplanade.
F.D.—Can you state who is the highest salaried player in the American League? Tris Speaker, of the Boston Red Sox is reputed to be the gentleman in question.
Lefty Laurin is bound to get a win next Sunday. If "Lefty" did not take the responsibility of the game too much on his own shoulders he might succeed. Everyone knows that his team is not up to the standard of the others, but at the same time, if he was to show a little confidence in them it might do any harm.
Pierre Campagna, who preters to pitch for bush league teams away from the grandstands of the city, is the most philosophical pitcher we know. Pierre does his best, and if the others make errors behind him, it does not bother him in the least. After a beating in which he lost through errors, he simply remarked (in French, of course), "It wasn't my fault. My support failed." Which may sound egotistical to those who do not know Campagna. He never complains of his support, but accepts the errors as a part of the game, only feeling that if the game is lost through misplays, it is none of his affairs.
Jack Johnson tells the English people through "John Bull," that he faked his last bout. It is a good (John) Bull story.
"The biggest trouble with present-day batters is they pull away from the plate instead of wading into the ball," says John McGraw, the Giant foreman.
"For a long time I refused to pay attention to folks who said ball players didn't hit as well as the old-timers, but now I'm convinced. The youngsters coming up just naturally can't hit, that's all. You can't get them to step into the ball."

REPTILES SERVED AS DELICACIES

DAINTY DISHES SERVED IN VARIOUS PARTS OF THE WORLD.

Every nation has its staple dishes; but the odds and ends are the more interesting and in their way more indicative of the general status of the civilization of those partaking of them.

Mankind on the whole has an instinctive dislike to reptiles of every kind and degree; yet of the four families into which the older naturalists divide them—the saurian, ophidian, batrachian and chelonian—each affords sustenance to man, civilized or savage.

A peculiarly dainty and nourishing dish is made with the iguana, the flesh of which is as white as that of a chicken, and just as palatable; though the appearance of the reptile, with its scaly, black-spotted green coat, is more repulsive than either crocodile or alligator. To the inhabitants of the West Indies and the Bahamas the iguana is a much valued source of food and is hunted down by means of dogs, which are muzzled to prevent them using their teeth and damaging the iguanas, which are sold alive, or killed, salted and barreled for home consumption.

The eggs of the iguana are also much relished and are like hens' eggs in taste, but wholly filled with yolk and do not become hard in boiling. The horrid iguana of San Domingo is much appreciated by the bon vivants in the West Indies the flesh tasting just like the roebuck's, though infinitely more delicate.

The common green lizard is eaten with much gusto by many tribes in Africa, and the gray lizard baked and fried in the south of Portugal, the dish in both instances tasting rather like chicken. In Brazil a green and yellow snake is consumed by all classes; while among the Sardinians the adder is frequently added to broths and soups.

Crocodile flesh is publicly sold in the meat markets of Senaar in Africa; and in Siam one sees the carcasses hung up for sale like sheep in the butchers' shops. The flesh of this great aquatic lizard tastes somewhat similar to veal.

In South America the cayman, or alligator, affords a dish, when boiled or fried in butter, just as tasty as rabbit. It is the common sea turtle, though, which has won the highest commendations as an edible reptile. It is a species used in the preparation of the hereditary dish at most of the city banquets in England, the supply being sent from Jamaica and the Antilles, the favorite resort of those much prized reptiles, which travel hundreds of miles in order to deposit their eggs. A single turtle of the Amazon is a heavy load for a strong man; but though much larger than the Caribbean species, it is coarser in flesh. At Ege every house has its turtle pond, which is stocked for the winter when the Amazon runs low.

Of the batracians used as food, the frog is the most popular and most historical; the French, Germans, Italians and Belgians (Walloons) all being noted throughout the centuries for their frog-eating proclivities. The frog is in best condition for the table in the autumn, just before it takes to the water for the winter; but is most popular for food during the spring, for it is then easier to catch.

The French usually eat only the hind quarters, dressed in wine or served with a white sauce, when it is an exceedingly dainty and nourishing dish, finer in flavor than a chick. But the Germans and Walloons, being of a more economical turn of mind, use every part of the animal save its skin and intestines. The species in favor for table purposes is that known as the green frog, though the red frog, much eaten in Italy, is just as good. There is no doubt whatever that the toad is often served in place of the frog in countries where frogs are much used.

But there are many tastes in the dietary of the nations. Bear's flesh is in great demand throughout Germany as one of the most esteemed delicacies, and smoked bear's tongue and hams are much in esteem there. Consequent on their rarity they are among the most expensive luxuries of the table. From bear liver are made the sausages dear to the stomach of the Teuton; but a very remarkable price has to be paid for them.

Tiger flesh is eaten in many parts of India, though it is somewhat tough and sinewy. Lion flesh is very good to eat, and much in vogue among the Hottentots, and other South African tribes, who are also as fond of rhinoceros as any good Englishman is of a rump-steak. Rhinoceros flesh tastes rather like something between beef and pork.

But it is elephant's food which wins most tributes. All who have eaten the baked foot of the elephant agree that it is most emphatically a dish for a king. The flesh of the elephant may resemble, when cooked nothing more than a compost of soft leather and glue; but the foot! The foot is cut off at the knee-joint, then a hole about three feet deep is dug in the ground, and the sides of it baked hard with burning wood. The embers are removed in time, and the foot is placed in the hole, which is then filled up with earth tightly rammed down. A great fire is built above it, and kept blazing for three hours. At the end of that time the foot is removed, and the casing of hide and earth peeled off. The flesh is now like a jelly, and may be eaten with a spoon. It is certainly one of the greatest delicacies in the world.

Now the Black Bathroom.

New York World. The tendency to the bizarre, which has been noticeable in painting and dancing for some time, has now spread to home decorating.

Bizzarrie—that's the last word in home decorations. It's quite the fad to have the furniture painted various colors, and of course doors, window sills and other objects which tend themselves to color treatment are given fantastic shades. In fact, some of the latest interiors actually shriek with color. But restfulness is not the order of the day.

But the limit of bizzarrie-up-to-date is a bathroom in black. Can you imagine it?

But why not? Bathrooms in white have been in use for years. One of the newest black bathrooms has just been installed at the Palace Theatre. It is an annex to the star dressing room, and a much appreciated annex these torrid July afternoons and evenings.

The floor of this new "noire salle de bains" is of black marble—real or imitation—the walls of black tiles and the tub and other fixtures of black enamel. The only object in the room that is not of ebony hue is the mirror.

It is believed that the more aesthetically inclined of the vaudeville headliners will go into ecstasies when they find themselves ready for a tub in this new bathroom. It's a wonderful setting.

Bad Taste As Seen In Japan.

Dr. Aston, the scholarly Japanese secretary to the British legation in Tokyo, summarized what Kenko, the fourteenth century writer of "Tsurezure Gausa," considered to be "bad taste," thus:

Too much furniture in one's living room.

Too many pens in a stand.

Too many Buddhas in a private shrine.

Too many rocks, trees and herbs in a garden.

Too many words when men meet.

Too many books in a bookcase there never can be, nor can there be too much litter in a dust heap.—London Saturday Review.

The Greatest Geologist.

The royal name in geology is undoubtedly that of Charles Lyell. It was Lyell who did for geology what Copernicus did for the heavens and Darwin for the realm of biology—gave it true rendering by finding out and stating its true laws. Before Lyell's time geology was largely romance, but in "The Principles of Geology," published in 1830, the old catastrophic view of the formation of the earth heard its deathknell, and from the publication of that great work we are to date the birth of real geology.—Exchange.

TIMBER REGULATIONS. GOVERNING Timber on Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and the North West Territories, the Railway Belt in the Province of British Columbia, and the Three and a Half Million Acres Located by the Government of the Dominion in the Peace River District in British Columbia.

Licenses. A license to cut timber on a tract not exceeding twenty-five square miles in extent may be acquired only at public auction. A rental of $5 per square mile, per annum, is charged on all timber berths excepting those situated west of Yale, in the Province of British Columbia, on which the rental is at the rate of 5 cents per acre. In addition to rental, dues are charged on the timber cut at the rates set out in section 20 of the regulations.

Timber Permits and Dues. Permits may be gained in the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, to owners of portable saw-mills, to cut over a definitely described tract of land not exceeding one square mile in extent, on payment of dues at the rate of 30 cents per thousand feet, B.M., and subject to payment of rental at the rate of $100 per square mile per annum.

Timber for Homesteaders. Any occupant of a homestead quarter-section having no timber of his own suitable for the purpose may, provided he has not previously been granted free allowance of timber, obtain a free permit to cut the quantity of building and fencing timber set out in Section 51 of the Regulations.

W. W. CORY, Dept. of the Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, 29th July, 1914. Me.18x6m

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-agency), on certain conditions.

Duties: Six months residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead, on a farm of at least 80 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties: Six months residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent, also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties: Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

W. W. CORY, C.M.G., Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

MUCH ACTIVITY IN LUMBER BUSINESS

STATEMENT FROM QUEBEC CULLER'S OFFICE SHOWS INCREASE IN SOME LINES.

From the appended comparative statement compiled by Mr. Thomas Harney, Acting Supervisor of the Supervisor of Cullers' Office, Quebec, much activity in the timber industry is shown up to date.

Table with columns: 1913, 1914, 1915, and sub-columns for Cub Ft. and Ft. Cub. Rows include White Pine, Red Pine, Oak, Elm, Ash, Basswood, Butternut, Tamarac, Birch & Maple, and Quebec.

THOMAS HARNEY, Acting Supervisor.

SHIPPING NOTES

The American owned steam yacht Kaleida arrived last night and is located in the Basin. S. B. Donnacona passed yesterday en route to Montreal. The Manchester-Shipper which has been taking on a cargo of deals at the Basin passed yesterday. Lord Sifton arrived down from Montreal yesterday and is at a berth in the Basin completing her cargo.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS.

New York, Aug. 4.—Steamer chartering was light, but rates were firm and unchanged and a good general demand prevailed for tonnage. Quotations to Liverpool and London, 10d; Glasgow and Hull, 11d; cotton to Liverpool, per 100 lbs. $1. Charters British steamer, 2,752 tons coal, Baltimore to Guayaquil, private terms, prompt; British steamer, 1,961 tons, cotton, Galveston to Havre, 167s 6d, August-September; Norwegian steamer, 1,959 tons, coal, Philadelphia to Martinique, private terms, prompt; steamer, 1,414 tons, coal Baltimore to Galveston, private terms, prompt; Norwegian (motor) bark, 1,134 tons, timber, Gulf to Huelva, 210s 82 form, August; Norwegian ship, 14,500 barrels refined petroleum, Philadelphia to a Scandinavian port, private terms, August; Norwegian bark, 6,000 barrels, same; schooner, 1,237 tons, coal, Philadelphia to Porto Rico, private terms.

NOTES OF THE FISH.

The sardine fishermen along the coast of St. John county have not been getting as large a catch as some press reports indicated, though the catch has been fair lately. At Yarmouth dogfish are very prevalent on the shore and are proving a great detriment to the boat fishermen. Some of the schooners, to get clear of the nuisance, have been up the bay haking. Halifax reports lots of herring on the Nova Scotia coast this season, judged by the large sales of barrels and salt being made by Halifax houses. Mackerel have been plentiful in certain sections, but disappearing in others. Up to the middle of July they have not been as plentiful as usual in St. Peter's, B. C., the other places not very far away have done fairly well. In the Baie Chaleurs there has been remarkably good fishing by inshore fishermen, but the conditions are not so good.

OCEAN SAILINGS.

Compiled by F. S. Stocking, General Steamship Ticket Agent, 32 St. Louis street, Quebec. Subject to Change.

Table of ship sailings with columns for destination (e.g., Saxonia, Megantic, St. Louis, Ryndam, Lapland, Canopic, St. Paul, Hesperian, Sicilian, Pretorian, Baltic, Corsican, Ornduna, Northland, Hesperian, New York, Rotterdam, Cymric, Tuscania, Scandinavian, Philadelphia) and dates.

tinuous foggy and wet weather has made curing very difficult. A month of westerly winds off shore would be a splendid thing for fishermen and fish driers.

According to the bulletin of sea fishing statistics for the month of April, Shelburne county leads all other counties of the province of Nova Scotia in the value of the fish caught for that month. The figures for that county are $156,013. Yarmouth comes next with a catch valued at $154,696, and Digby takes third place, the catch there being valued at $114,763. Late news from the banks is not all that it might be. The Lunenburg fleet got a good supply of caplin bait for its summer trip without much difficulty, but at the fishing grounds they found codfish scarce. Some of them up to a week ago have only taken about 50 quintals, and the best catches are in the vicinity of 250 quintals. It is, however, too early to reach a conclusion as to what the catch of the summer fleet will be.

A new fog alarm station is to be erected on the eastern side of Digby Gut, Digby. The Port Hawkesbury Journal-Bulletin says: "A considerable quantity of fish is being frozen and stored by the North Atlantic Fisheries Co., for the Hawkesbury Fish Co. The plant is in splendid shape and condition, in readiness at a moment's notice to be operated to its capacity." Two hundred and forty-eight barrels of herring were reported taken at four Nova Scotia ports July 16. It is reported from Shelburne that Sandy Point boats made several big hauls of herring the week of July 15. On July 13 fully 350 barrels were taken by a number of the boats.

GLIMPSES OF OLD QUEBEC

From the Files of THE CHRONICLE, August, 1885 and 1815.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

An American View of Quebec.
At this time thirty years ago the country was sweltering under a two week's spell of particularly hot weather which led to a remarkable increase in the volume of summer travel to Quebec and the lower St. Lawrence. The St. Louis Hotel, the then leading Hotel in the City, was quite filled up and fresh arrivals continue to pour in by boat from Montreal, by the North Shore and Quebec Central railways. Amongst the arrivals in the city was a prominent American gentleman whose views on Quebec and environs—though quite familiar to us—was pleasing to the ear. Coming as they do from such an independent source. Montreal, he said, possessed nothing that was novel or attractive to American tourists. It was merely an imitation of a large American City. In Quebec, on the other hand, one could scarcely turn around without meeting something that was novel and attractive or that reminded one of times long gone by, and of people and customs of another world. I have been through your Fort which you call the Citadel, and consider it is well named the Gibraltar of Canada.

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO TODAY

Founder of Morrin College.
We are informed by these columns of 100 years ago that His Excellency the Administrator in chief has been pleased to grant the following commission viz.—Joseph Morrin to practice Physic and Surgery in this Province.
Dr. Joseph Morrin was for many years a most successful practitioner in the City of Quebec where he had a large practice and amassed considerable wealth. In addition to medical science he was greatly interested in education and was the original founder of Morrin College in 1860. The present Morrin College building (the old gaol) was acquired for college purposes in 1862. Although Dr. Morrin was a busy medical practitioner and interested in education he also found time to devote municipal affairs and was twice elected Mayor of the City.
The first time in 1855, he was elected by the City Council. The second time in 1857 by the electors. The fruits of Dr. Morrin's munificence has done excellent work all these years and some of our leading professional and business men in Quebec today are graduates in Arts from this institution, which degree in the same as that granted by McGill.

Correspondence

PRAYERS FOR HUNS!

Quebec, Aug. 4.
Editor, Chronicle:—
Dear Sir,—I notice by this morning's Chronicle that at the special Intercession Service to be held in the Anglican Cathedral this evening prayers will be said "for our opponents." For my part, I have only one prayer for them and that is that they should be consigned to the nethermost pit as soon as possible.

If this kind of thing is to be carried to its logical conclusion, I suppose we shall be asked to pray for His Satanic Majesty next.
And, I suppose also, we shall be probably asked to turn the other cheek to the Smiler.
No wonder people are keeping away from the churches.

Yours truly,
CHRISTIAN.

37 Apartment House, Grande Allee.

Dear Sir,—I have received a letter from a wounded Australian soldier in Egypt, who writes from the General Hospital, Alexandria, saying he was put out of action in the Dardanelles, and begging for used stamps of all countries as he is starting to make a collection, evidently to while away the time. I thought that possibly if you would kindly print this letter in the Chronicle, some of your readers would send me some stamps, or an unwanted collection to forward to him. The letter came to me through the Overseas Club.

Yours faithfully,
MRS. M. BRAWDER.

SPRINKLER ON MICHAEL ST.

To the Editor of The Chronicle:—
Sir,—With its boasted supply of water surely the City of Quebec could afford to let the sprinkling cart pass through St. Michael street once a day at least.

The residents on this street pay taxes just as well as the residents of St. John street, Grande Allee, and other sections of the city.
Is it wilful discrimination or is it just the usual neglect?

Sincerely yours,
WATER WAGON.
LOCUST TREES.

They Are Very Easy to Raise and Yield Valuable Timber.

No wood is easier or more quickly grown than the common locust, and but few if any kinds of timber are more valuable to their owners at this time of need in lumber that has a commercial value.
Curiosity enough locust trees will grow in almost any soil. They are easily started and can be transplanted without danger of loss. They also may be grown in out of the way or waste places where the soil is unfit for cultivation, and they grow so rapidly that in a few years a locust grove will have trees that are large enough to be made into posts for facing or lumber for furniture or house finishing.
Locusts bear the most heavy laden flower carried by any tree extensively grown in America, and where there are plenty to locusts and bees in the same community there will be a heavy yield or honey.

Locust posts have been known to remain in the ground for fencing purposes for a period of sixty years, and when removed the bark was not decayed, and the wood was almost as solid as iron.
The latest use for locust is in the manufacture of fine furniture and interior finishing of fine residences. The wood has a grain and color not found in any other timber.—New York Journal.

A SCREAM FROM START TO FINISH.

Chaplin's Comedy the Funnies; Yet Produced—Olympia Has Also a Great Attraction in "The Lion's Cage."

It is a scream from beginning till end. Nobody ever thought that so much mirth could be squeezed out of two reel pictures. That Chaplin picture "Work," shown yesterday and today at the Olympia is the "nec plus ultra" of comedy. Chaplin surpasses himself and he has with him actors that would star in any company and be featured in any picture where Chaplin does not appear. He is shown in this picture as a paper hanger and all the mischief he does with the brush and the pail of paste account for the fun developed in the picture. It is also funny to see him on his way from the shop to the house he is supposed to repair, having many narrow escapes from being run down by the street cars.
"In the Lion's Den," in three parts, colored, is in another class, also a first-class picture that was praised by the best critics. Some scenes, the most sensational, are photographed with such realism that the audience shudders as they see the lions jumping at the artist's victim.
"Who Pays?" serial has as much success as the preceding episodes and the Pathe News proved quite popular.

ALGONQUIN PARK.

The highest point in Ontario is Algonquin Park, 200 miles north of Toronto and 170 miles west of Ottawa. The angler can find here excellent fishing, black bass, speckled trout and salmon trout. The business man can find rest and recreation. It is the objective point for those who love nature, fresh air, simple living and fellowship with kindred spirits. Good hotel accommodation.
Write Miss Jean Lindsay, Manager, Highland Inn, Algonquin Park, Ont. for handsome, descriptive literature.

Court Martial of Sir Geo. Prevost.

Some time ago we gave in this column the notice of the departure from Quebec of Sir George Prevost, Governor and Commander in Chief for England where he had been summoned to explain his military conduct at what is known as the battles of Sackett's harbor.
The London Star which has just come to hand states, that two important court martials are to be held shortly. One for the investigation of the conduct of Sir George Prevost late Governor of Canada, the other upon Lieut-Col. Mullen, who commanded the 44th the late unfortunate attack on the American entrenched Camp at New Orleans.

PLANNING THE MEAL.

Balanced Rations an Important Factor in Home Economies.
"Oh, dear! This eternal planning and contriving, from meal to meal over what to serve next."
A common enough exclamation, surely, and one familiar to the family man, who too often considers wife's work more or less of a sincere and wonders why she frets so easily over trifles.
Just throwing things together in bulk, regardless of the food's effect on the general health and efficiency of those who must eat it, is a wasteful and even a dangerous process.
Nowadays the thoughtful housewife "balances rations" as skillfully and carefully as does the careful stock feeder. She feels that what is good for beasts of the field is surely worth applying to man.
A few hints in balancing rations from the home economics department, College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, follow:
Fat, protein and carbohydrates should be distributed through the day so that no meal will contain an excessive amount of any foodstuff.
Don't serve two or more foods rich in the same foodstuffs at one meal. For example, macaroni and cheese with meat, rice and potatoes.
Don't serve the same food in the same form twice in the same day except with such staples as bread, butter and milk. Never serve such a combination as tomato soup and tomato salad, or creamed peas and cream of pea soup in the same meal.
Work for favor contrast between different courses of a meal. Seek to have pleasing combinations of flavor, color and form in each course.
Plan to serve a fruit or vegetable at each meal. A mixed diet of vegetable and animal food is safest and best.
