PLAYGROUNDS OPEN: The city playground program officially opened last week, and supervisor Gundega Janfelds found the youngsters standing in line to register at Prince Albert Park. Committees Do The Job E. Mills Tells Rotary

The smooth and successful working of committees rather than individuals has been responsible in the past year for the highly efficient operation of the Westmount Rotary Club, retiring president Ernie Mills told members Wednesday noon at Victoria Hall, in presenting his annual report.

Paying tribute to the work of the committees, and the chairmen, retiring president Mills mentioned particularly: W. W. Allison for program, J. P. Page, for his work with the bulletin; W. F. Close for Rotary information; Lynn Davenport for attendance; B. D. Bailey for fellowship committee work; J. B. Burrows for inter-club activities; D. M. Campbell for public information; H. Houston for international service; Dr. P. C. Staples for youth service; J. J. MacBeath for Crippled Children's activities; Borden Empey, General Council of Service Clubs; A. W. Callard, scholarships; W. J. Tawse, safety.

Elaborating on the community service work of the club, Mr. Mills told of the activities at Unity Boys Club where an all time high membership had been reached of 900, of which more than 40 per cent were girls.

Discussing the safety committee work, he mentioned the 140 pupils of Westmount school passing the safe-driving course tests and the same number the swim tests.

New officers were announced as: W. G. Moxley, president; W. J. Tawse, vice-president; Harry Houston, secretary; S. B. Cayford, treasurer; J. Arthur Speers, sergeant at arms.

Humanitarian Award Granted To Roy Campbell

Roy Campbell, well-known local businessman and former Mayor of Westmount, was presented Tuesday with a citation for "civic mindedness and humanitarianism," the highest award of the International Association of Personnel in Employment Security.

The Association is holding its 43rd annual convention in Toronto this week and delegates from all over the world heard Marcel Guay, Quebec Regional Superintendent of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, describe Mr. Campbell's activities in the fields of handicap

Pupils Of Irene Nichols Display Talent In Recital

Excellent performances from members of her music class featured Irene Nichols' annual piano recital recently in Roslyn school.

Paul Becker opened the program with 'Toymaker's Dream' which he played with ease and excellent timing. He was followed by second year pupils—David Seixsmith played 'Turkey in the Straw'; Dicky Bourne and Joan Russel played 'Tom Thumb's Band' and Judy Holland and Maureen Minnion followed with 'The Donkey's Serenade'. These duets were very much enjoyed.

Jean Cameron rendered Copenhagen and Eddie Goldenberg played 'Toy Soldiers on Parade.' This young man, who sold one hundred tickets, presented the cheque to Dr. Patterson later in the programme. Kathy Addleman gave a melodious rendering of 'Toyland' and Dwight Druick played 'The Cossacks' with much confidence and good technique.

A good interpretation of 'Lullabye' was rendered by Alice Home and the audience gave much applause to the two small boys who played 'The March of the Wooden Soldiers.' These were Rodney Devitt and Darrell Munro.

Richard Brabander the master of ceremonies, played the 'Polonaise Militaire'. This young man not only shows great musical ability but he is greatly to be complimented on his excellent stage presence and for the responsible manner in which he presented and controlled the players throughout the evening.

Favourite selections for the young at heart included Stuart Connolly, Kathy Veitch, Tommy Stewart, Ethel Kostman, Ann Common, Deborah Pidgeon, Betty Barber, Jennifer Hill, May Lou Allan, Sally Sharp. The two outstanding of these pupils were Jennifer Hill and Sally Sharp.

'Silver Threads Among the Gold', played by Paula Doyle and Susan Sharp, an older pupil, received much well-deserved applause for her rendering of the 'Durand Valse'.

Class beginners represented the section called Old Canada. Dominique and Martine Blouin played a duet of the theme from 'The New World Symphony'. Indian pieces followed, played by Gordon Byers and Margot McDougall and Doris Blouin and Karen Marks rendered French songs. Elizabeth Lewis played an Irish song and Roslyn Pepall and Roslyn Horwood represented the Scotch and Mary Kostman, the English.

Lucy Fellowes played 'All Through the Night' with good expression and Alice Becker gave a good performance of the 'Marseillaise.' Frank Lewis was outstanding in this group. He played 'Rule Britannia' with excellent technique and later completed the recital with a patriotic rendering of 'God Save the Queen'.

Barbara Pidgeon gave a finished performance of 'Village Dance' and Susan Lytle received much applause for her good interpretation of the 'Brahms Waltz in A Flat'.

Favourite selections of New Canadians included Brian Hill, Peter and Kirstine Mikelson, Nancy Jefferys, Kippy Murphy and Joan Traversy. 'The Neopolitan Dance', a duet played by

SUMMER PROGRAM OPENS

Registration for the 1956 Summer Program got underway last Monday. It was indicated that an estimated 250 boys and girls will be enrolled in this year's Summer Program. The first special event of the season took place on Tuesday when some fifty youngsters travelled to Kippy and Joan received much applause as did 'Toreador', played by Brian Hill and 'Slavonic Dance', played by Nancy Jefferys.

Xenia Kirkpatrick rendered 'Dark Eyes', and Robert Bourne gave a rhythmic performance of 'Waltzing Matilda'. Gerald Mack played 'Polish Dance' with good technique and phrasing. Both these boys show musical ability.

'Norwegian Dance' followed and Susan Johnstone carefully observed the Rubato tempo. Jacob Silberberg impressed the audience in his performance of 'Finlandia'. This beginner shows great promise. Susan Cayford gave a good interpretation of the celebrated 'Hungarian Dance' by Newman, and Tommy Lewis gave a good performance of 'Edelweiss Glide'.

Joan Sadler played 'Hungarian Fantasy', by Sher, with proper change of tempo and regard of dynamics.

Donald Bradbender displayed excellent talent and gives promise of being a fine pianist.

Douglas Druick displayed his technical ability with a finished performance of Turkish March.

Linda Grobstein received much applause for her brilliant and artistic performance of Godard's 'Seconde Valse' and Elizabeth Jefferys deserved much credit for her mature rendering of the 'Paderewski Minuet'.

Dr. Patterson thanked the children for their excellent effort in obtaining $263.95 for the benefit of the Crippled Children's Camp.

Granby, Quebec to the Granby Zoo. In addition to touring the Zoo, watching the animals, and so on, the youngsters participated in softball games and had a very enjoyable day.

CRAFTS AND SPORTS

Staynor Park is the site of the outdoor program with crafts being conducted on a daily schedule under the direction of Mrs. Gisele Mauer. And the sporting program, softball, inter-Club games, etc. is under the direction of the newly appointed Boys' Work Supervisor, Mr. Ronald Havard.

TOURS

Several interesting and educational tours have been lined up for the Summer Program season. Tour Day will be on Wednesdays. Of course the highlight of the Summer Season will be the trip to Belmont Park on July 11th, when 100 boys and girls will participate in the Annual Childrens Jamboree.

HIKES WITH LOUIS THOMAS

The best attended special activities of last year's summer season program was the Thursday hike with Louis Thomas. Mr. Thomas who has vast knowledge of Indian lore, and Indian culture, is an expert on tracking and hunting and with this knowledge and his all around ability, the youngsters are in store for a great treat this summer in hiking to different places in and around the district of Montreal. A schedule of Louis Thomas' weekly hikes is posted on the Club bulletin board.

OTHER PROGRAM NOTES

A periodical trip to the East End Boys' Club for a day of sports and swimming will be instituted in the very near future. Another feature of the summer program will be trips to St. Helen's Island, Mount Royal, La Fontaine Park and possibly Mald Beach.

Unity's Little League Baseball Team, the Indians, continue to play regularly scheduled games twice weekly. Although the group has not been faring too well in the win column, coaches Tom McAlear and Manny Barnoff are hopeful of a good finish in the second half of the schedule. A recent report by Manager McAlear tells us that there is some very promising material for next year's edition of the team.

A daily shower will again be on the agenda for the boys and girls this year.

Inter-Club softball games are being planned by the M.B.A. member agencies. Last Wednesday and Thursday the Unity Boys' Club was the scene of a large turnout of youngsters who are going to Camp Lewis. On Wednesday the Annual Check-Up was completed while on Thursday six bus loads of singing youngsters left for the two week sojourn at Camp Lewis. Despite the fact that the playground has been open for some time now, the basketball craze which has existed at the Unity Boys' Club during the last few years continues to grow. The youngsters seem to want to play basketball and it is with some difficulty that the activity has come to a definite close.

HAVE A GOOD SUMMER

We would like to take this opportunity of wishing our friends and members of the Club who will not be with us during the Summer Season Program, a good and happy vacation this summer.

Laymen's Institute Hears Dr. Glatzer Discuss Judaism

'Classical Judaism' was the main theme of the seminars held recently in the Laurentians at the Laymen's Institute under sponsorship of the Men's Association of the Shaare Hashomayim. It was under chairmanship of Dr. S. H. Feldman.

In three seminars, guests speaker was Dr. Nahum N. Glatzer of Brandeis University. Dr. Glatzer, a professor of Jewish history, dealt with the role of the Jew in universal history; the views of Toynbee and their refutation and innovations of the Talmudic sage, Hillel, in the development of the Halacha.

He also referred to the nature of Midrash as a living experience of accumulative learning and the life and thought of Franz Rosenzweig as a modern attempt to revitalize the total structure of Judaism.

Highlight of the institute was an outdoor study session on the Pirkei Abot given by Rabbi Wilfred Shuchat.

'Y' Men's Club Head Returns From Convention

Keith Charters, president of Westmount YMCA Men's Club spent last week in Estes Park, Colorado, where he represented his club at the 32nd international convention of the Y Men's movement.

Among the 700 delegates were Y men from Hong Kong, Japan, India, Chile, British Guiana, Germany, Belgium, Denmark and Sweden. Their presence was made possible in part by the efforts of the Westmount group in collecting cancelled postage stamps.

Mr. Charters will also represent his club in ceremonies marking the departure of Henry D. Grimes, Lawrence, Mass., international secretary of the Y Men, on a round-the-world fellowship journey during which he will carry greetings from North American clubs to others in 28 countries.

The journey is considered a co-operative venture in world brotherhood. It has been 20 years in planning and is also made possible by the Y Men's cancelled stamp project.

Education II

By Rev. Canon R. K. Naylor
Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

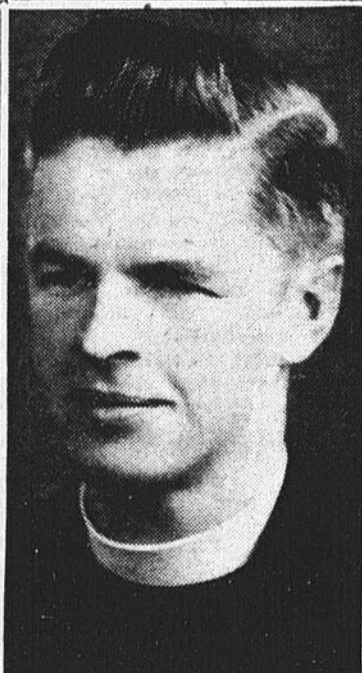

This brief article is addressed to parents as citizens of a great country celebrating its eighty-ninth birthday. Our minds naturally turn with the closing of school and the approach of Dominion Day to the questions: What have the schools and the Dominion Day to one another? And also, What do the parents as citizens think and do about it? The answer to the first question is conditioned by the fact that the schools are a provincial affair and will remain so. Some people think it should not be so, but as wise men we shall deal with things as they are and not go after the impossible. But even if the Dominion as a whole does not control the schools nevertheless it has a moral concern in them and expects certain things from them. It expects in every province the best general education that can be had in our modern days. It expects an education which will fit the next generation to take its place and maintain the good name and prestige of our country in a troubled world. It has a right to look to our schools to provide citizens for life in Church and State, in industry and finance, in law and medicine, in teaching and politics who will in every sense promote the good of our community. Further, it has the right to look to the schools to train citizens with breadth of vision and understanding, with an appreciation of their dual heritage of religion, language and culture which will enable them to interpret Europe to America and America to Europe. It surely must expect our schools to keep before our pupils the practicalities and the ideals which will produce an upright and a prosperous nation.

That applies to the whole Dominion, but we live in Quebec, a province with its own peculiarities and problems and even its own provincial holiday. It is very interesting that Quebec—which came out of France—does not observe the French national holiday, July 14, but its own private holiday, June 24. For Quebec did not pass through the French revolution of 1789, and still thinks of a pre-revolutionary France.

It follows then as a matter of course that our Quebec Government expects certain things of us. They may be summed up in one sentence: that we shall take seriously the French language and history and, especially, try to sympathize with the national mentality of our fellow-citizens. For we are training our pupils to live understandingly in this province.

There is another side to this questioning. What do you as parents and tax payers expect of the Government of your Dominion and Province? What do you say about governments at the breakfast table before you rush off to your office and the boys rush with equal speed to school? Is it merely abuse of government as such or have you something constructive to say which will give a lead to your son if he becomes a member of Parliament in years to come?

There are several things that you have a right to ask. The first is honesty in handling the nation's finances, to which you have contributed your taxes. Padded payrolls should lead to dismissal, not to cynical laughter. In the second place you have a right to expect absolute fairness both from Dominion and Provincial Governments. They administer the country and province not for a party but for the good of the whole. There should be no question of a wharf here or a road there because it will provide votes for a member of Parliament in distress. In the third place Government should use every means to promote the unity of the country, not by suppressing one group—English, French, Jew or New Canadian—but by welding them together as one nation. And, lastly, at least as far as this note is concerned, we expect in Parliament dignity and the observance of all the niceties of parliamentary life which have grown up in the last six centuries.

You have a right to ask for these things on your national holiday because they provide the setting for your schools and the atmosphere in which your children grow up, the atmosphere without which national teaching will be completely ineffective.

INSTRUCTION FOR SLOW LEARNERS (Part III)

By Gretchen Wulfig
Director Elementary Education, Oakland, Calif.

Plan a sensible program of word recognition. Slow learners should eventually become independent in word recognition, just as other children do. Since they learn more slowly, it is important that these skills be developed gradually in keeping with total reading growth. Specifically, slow-learning children may be expected to need more time than the average in ear-training activities. These should precede and accompany the initial reading from books, and may be necessary for a considerable time thereafter. The ability to hear differences and likenesses in word and letter sounds is basic to recognizing differences and likenesses in printed form. It is an important beginning step in word recognition.

As the children begin to read from books, they must be helped to build a vocabulary of words they can recognize at sight. New vocabulary must be presented and practised in a variety of ways if slow children are to master it. The association of a word with a picture or with an actual object will be an aid to recognition. For this reason, picture dictionaries made by the children, games which involve matching words and pictures, following written directions using objects in the room (Sit on the biggest chair. Find a red book.) are useful. Meaningless repetition of lists of words, a poor practice for any group, cannot be justified for slow pupils either as a learning aid or as a morale builder.

After the children have mastered a considerable number of words which they recognize at sight (this may occur during the primer level or even later), they will probably show readiness for observing parts of words and forming generalizations about them. Thus, if they have learned as sight words cookies, come, cold, and candles, the teacher presents all these words, the children pronounce them listening for the beginning sound, and discover that the letter c has a specific sound. In the same way other familiar sight words are examined for beginning consonant sounds, for rhyming endings, and later for more difficult phonetic parts.

It is important for slow-learning children that these three major steps be taken in order and at the child's rate of learning: (1) ear-training activities; (2) ear-training activities plus the building of a sight-word vocabulary; and (3) ear-training activities, if still needed, plus the continuation of the sight-word vocabulary, plus analyzing words and forming generalizations about sounds (phonics).

Help the children measure their own progress. All children need to feel that they are succeeding with their school work. Slow-learning children, many of whom have known repeated failure, need success even more. In fact, they need success frequently, and are unable to wait for long periods of time to gain it. The teacher of slow learners will strive, first of all, to plan a reading program at the children's level, and then to devise objective ways of recording progress. Competition and comparisons with more able children can be avoided.

Individual graphs and charts on which the children may record daily achievement in their independent seatwork activities are helpful. A bit of ceremony when a child completes a book—taking it home to share with parents opens a series of four discussion topics; his subject this week being—"How can we Conquer our Worries".

the family or reading a favourite story aloud to a younger group at school—marks an important milestone. Setting up group standards for good oral reading, for good independent work when the teacher is busy, or for considerate behaviour in the classroom library, with proper attention given to those children who achieve the standards is another means of measuring growth. So too are displays of interesting work done by this group in relation to their reading. The first voluntary interest in reading books from the public library may be quietly praised. Results by testing from time to time measure growth.

The teacher who is genuinely interested in helping slow-learning children will find tangible ways of making them aware of their progress and giving them pride in achievement.

The teacher who would succeed with slow learners needs an extra measure of understanding and patience and interest. Above all, she needs real skill as an instructor. This is a challenge to any teacher. Countless numbers of teachers are accepting the challenge and doing a fine job to help the less able pupils in their classrooms.

Tooth decay attacks nine out of ten people and is particularly active among the teen-agers. Adults are more susceptible to gum diseases. To prevent dental caries, brushing the teeth immediately after eating will remove the acid-forming food particles that cause decay.

Red Feather Director Deplores Lack Of Small Day Nurseries

More mothers are working outside their homes but facilities for the care of young children have not increased, welfare agencies report. No up-to-the-minute statistics on the actual increase of mothers in the country's working force are readily available but it is obvious that numbers are up, social workers agree.

Elinor Barnstead, director of the Red Feather Family Welfare Association, commenting on the increase said that many mothers worked during the war years, but their children were provided for through wartime day nurseries to a great extent. These are no longer operating and private welfare agencies have not been able to expand their services.

Miss Maud Bothwell, director of the Montreal Day Nursery, said that the nursery, also a Red Feather service, is filled to its capacity of 100 pre-school age children and has a long waiting list. Comparable nurseries in Montreal include the St. Anne's Day Nursery, operated by the Federation of Catholic Charities, and a day nursery affiliated with the Federation of Jewish Community Services. Several social agencies operate nursery school programs with half-day care, but this offers only a partial answer to the working mother's problem.

Private Day Nurseries

A scattering of privately operated day nurseries has sprung up recently, Miss Bothwell noted. Social agencies know little about them, since there are no licensing regulations and no outside supervision of program or standards.

"God has endowed man with inalienable rights, among which are self-government, reason, and conscience. Man is properly self-governed only when he is guided rightly and governed by his Maker, divine Truth and Love."

of care. Nurseries run by social agencies abide by standards requiring a certain number of trained adult supervisors for a given number of children and adequate indoor and outdoor play facilities. They also usually provide planned food service and an informal play-school program of the nursery school type. These standards account for the relatively high cost of day care at institutions like the Montreal Day Nursery, she said. The actual cost per child per day at the Nursery is $3.55, although fees are arranged in accordance with parents' means and many people pay little or nothing. Privately operated nurseries charge daily fees starting at $2.00. Most of them, she said, are simply private homes in which a housewife undertakes to supervise children's day care and there are no overhead expenses to meet.

Cancer kills more children than does any other disease.

CJA Women's Division To Hold Women's Community Conference

A new educational arm of the Women's Division of Combined Jewish Appeal has been formed known as the Activities Committee. As its first undertaking it is sponsoring on September 26 a Women's Community Conference.

It has long been felt that the opportunity for women to exchange ideas in regard to women's work in the city and community work in general would be welcome. This kind of collaboration on an educational basis is a good means for women belonging to an organization to get a total perspective of work being done in their own special field of endeavour and in other fields, as well as getting to know the needs of the total community and the services performed.

With these aims and purposes in mind, the Activities Committee invited the seven large organizations which give over 100 workers each to the Women's Division, plus the National Council of Jewish Woman to form the planning body of this Women's Community Conference. These organizations are: the B'nai Brith, Hadassah, Jewish Junior Welfare League, ORT, Mount Sinai, Pioneers and Pythian Sisters.

This planning body has been functioning actively these past months and much has been accomplished. The interest of over 100 Jewish organizations has been aroused through publicity. They will also invite representatives from Women's organizations of the wider Montreal community as well as representatives from various agencies.

In order to bring out the work and service performed in the community they are inviting exhibits. These displays depicting the work of these groups may be in the form of pictures, hand-crafts, pamphlets, etc., and will be exhibited in the auditorium and in the concourse of the YMWHA on the day of the Conference.

A manual, in the form of a general handbook will be given to each delegate at the Conference and will contain information pertinent to the subject of the day plus a list of all the affiliated organizations. Included will be a list of professional agencies so as to be useful for reference purposes. A questionnaire will be included at the end of the manual which they hope the delegate will fill in and leave.

The program will be divided into three sessions — morning, luncheon and afternoon. The theme for the day's conference is, "Living is so Daily." The morning session will take the form of a panel discussion entitled "Your Community in a Changing World," and will be devoted to "The Young" and "The Old."

Mr. Arthur S. Rosichan, Executive Director of the Federation of Jewish Community Services and Combined Jewish Appeal will act as moderator. Dr. Martin Hoffman an outstanding authority in this field will speak on the problem of the Aging.

There will be on hand professionals in these specific fields to act as consultants during discussion on any questions that may arise regarding specific services in the community.

The luncheon speaker will be Mrs. Leonard H. Weiner, a prominent leader in Detroit who will discuss "The Role of the Volunteer". This will be dealt within its broadest aspects in relation to its effectiveness in local and overseas communities.

The afternoon program will be in audio-visual form and suitable materials are now being selected for it by the Progress Committee.

TO HOLIDAY ABROAD: Isabel O'Connor, left, Woodbury avenue, and Mary Martha Wright, Trafalgar Square, who sailed aboard the Canadian Pacific liner, Empress of France, on June 19. Workshop Program To Assist Members Attending Congress

The Seventh Triennial Congress of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women is being held from July 8 to 12, at the Mount Royal Hotel. The following is an outline of the Workshop Program:

It is the purpose of the workshops to give to those members attending the Congress a composite knowledge of some of the factors which are of importance to them as gainfully employed women, through listening to experts, through discussions and through adding their own experience and thoughts on this matter to that of their fellow members.

The workshops will be divided into three groups and each member will be invited to choose one group where her special interests lie. These groups will again be divided into sub-divisions, one for each day at the disposal for workshops, with the exception of the last day, when the whole group will meet together to discuss their findings and corroborate them into a report from the group. These three reports will so be discussed with the workshop leaders, with a view to their final presentation to Congress for further discussion.

Holiday House Opens For Teen-Age Girls

Holiday House at Morin Heights opens again on Friday, when the first group of teen-age girls go north for the long weekend. The country residence, operated by the Girls' Counselling Centre, is vacation headquarters for girls in their middle teens.

Most of the girls who holiday at Holiday House are employed and they spend their regular vacations from work and many of their free weekends at the House. Jean Short, director of the Girls' Counselling Centre, a Red Feather service, doubts that there is anything really comparable to the Morin Heights residence for girls. The name, she feels, exactly describes the kind of place it is. There is an informal, relaxed, atmosphere in the medium-sized house and it provides a low-cost holiday for girls who would otherwise not be able to dream of getting out of the city for a vacation.

Even the full cost of a holiday at Holiday House is low but girls who cannot manage to pay the whole amount can arrange to contribute whatever seems right

Simple Rescue Tricks Often Save A Life

What would you do if you saw someone drowning? Could you act swiftly to help the victim — and guard your own safety — without panicking?

"You could," says an article in the current issue of The American Home, "if you planned in advance what to do." You can help save a life even if you can't swim because many drownings and near drownings happen close to shore where simple rescue skills can be used.

With summer here, it will be swimming time from Maine to California. Unfortunately, for many the fun of swimming will be marred by the grim statistic that aside from auto accidents, drowning is the leading cause of accidental deaths in the United States.

What to do about it? The American Home article "Quick Tricks Save Lives" advises everyone going near water to be prepared in case of trouble. And to be prepared, they should know the kind of rescue for which they are fitted without endangering their own life.

from their budgets. Applications can be obtained from Crescent House, in-town headquarters for the Girls' Counselling Centre, and girls who plan to go must complete the applications forms at least a full week before they plan to go.

MacRae Narrow Margin In Intermediate Play

MacRae Electric narrowed Prudential's lead in the Westend Intermediate Fastball League to one game this week, chalking up two wins in as many starts. The Electricians included a 3-0 shutout over Prudential in their skein.

Prudential split a pair, having won last Thursday 17-1 over Mitchell Houghton. The latter bounced back Tuesday to defeat Notre Dame des Neiges 9-4. MacRae beat Notre Dame 8-4 last Thursday.

Sonny Smith allowed only four hits as the Electricians edged Prudential Tuesday. He fanned 11 and walked five, while his mound opponent Yves Valois whiffed seven and passed three.

MacRae opened with an unearned run in the sixth, when Cam McFadden reached second on an error and came home on Lloyd Hughes' double.

In the seventh, Al Olsen and Phil Martin singled, went ahead one base each on a passed ball, and came home on Smith's single. Joe Taillon got the only other MacRae bingle, a double in the third.

For Prudential, Valois and Larry Gallagher got singles in the third, and Marcel Dupont and Jack Victor cracked out a double and single respectively.

One-hit relief hurling by Cliff Bowles stopped Notre Dame des Neiges in an upset bid last Thursday. MacRae Electric won the tilt 8-4 with five markers

Red Sox And White Sox Show Early LL Strength

The second half of the American B Little League schedule is barely underway, and already the race seems to have settled down between the Tyndale House Red Sox and St. Andrew's White Sox.

Needless to say, that leaves the westends' two entries—the Lions Boys Club Orioles and Unity Boys Club Indians—out in the cold.

The Red Sox suffered their first defeat last Friday, being edged 6-5 by the White Sox, but still managed to forge ahead with a 21-6 victory on Tuesday over the Orioles.

The Indians were bounced 10-1 by the White Sox on Tuesday.

The only action this week sees the White Sox at the Orioles Tuesday, at Vaillant Park, and the Indians against the Orioles Wednesday at the WAG. The White Sox and the Red Sox meet next Thursday at Vaillant park. The Indians lost again to the White Sox Wednesday in a battle of walks as the St. eked out an 11-9 victory on only three hits.

Howard Blanchette was tagged with the loss as the White Sox came up with six runs in the third frame on only one hit. Three men got on by walks and a like amount on errors.

Unity came close to tying the count in the fifth when they scored seven times on two hits, Fred Power getting a homer for one of them. Bonnano and Waugh gave up six walks in the frame.

Howard Blanchette led the Indians at bat with three hits in as many trips. Power, Gordie Cole and Morgan got the others.

Morgan Turner was the loser in Tuesday's game, as winning pitcher Don Carter allowed but two hits, one to Ray Mader and the other to Blanchette. Walks again were the Unity weakness, with Turner and Gordie Cole handing out 10 along with six hits.

Carter and Pierre Brisson each banged two hits for the White Sox.

Petrofina Tops IBM In Commercial Loop

Petrofina defeated IBM 17-10 in the only game played in the Westend Commercial Softball League this week. In another scheduled tilt, Ogilvie defaulted to Howard Smith.

Frank Kennedy led Petrofina with a three run homer. Ian Forest was the winning hurler.

Raybestos Cardinals Will Test Calibre Of Snowdon League

By MARTY GOODMAN

Is Snowdon League fastball "major league" in calibre?

That question has been bandied about for some time now, with little opportunity to answer it.

Even with the influx of top-notch Americans like Percy McCracken and Gibby Wesolowski, no complete picture could be obtained.

But after this weekend, fans and players alike should know. Results of the four game exhibition series against the Raybestos Cardinals, of Bridgeport, Conn., world champions, will enable fans to see how the Snowdon League rates against the best in the world.

American rules will be used throughout. The pitchers will hurl from 46 feet, instead of 43; the bases will be 60 feet apart, instead of 55; and the American softball will be used.

If the locals do well, and the changes look good, the Snowdon League may discuss adopting the American distances in future, according to vice president Gerry Snyder.

For Gibby Wesolowski, of FBI, and Percy McCracken, of Steinberg's, it will be an opportunity to display their pitching wares in familiar circumstances. Both are veterans of world tournament play, McCracken having sparked the Grocers to a 2-2 record in 1952. Wesolowski made numerous appearances with Briggs of Detroit and Trenton Democratic Club of Baltimore.

Both the Tomato Kings and Grocers are expected to stand pat with their regular lineups in the Saturday and Sunday games, with Wesolowski and McCracken on the mound.

Dow manager Stan Kalinauskas has taken over the management of the Snowdon team in the opening game, with players drawn from Dow, Dominion Provisioners and St. Augustine's.

Substitutes will likely include Gilles deGrandpre and Larry Grant of Dominion Provisioners; Gilles Legare and Ian Slater of Dow; and Dave Broadbelt and Ray St. Pierre of St. Augustine's. However, both Kalinauskas and Pat Patterson managing

Raybestos Schedule

The lineup of exhibition games this weekend between the Snowdon League and world champion Raybestos Cardinals:

Saturday: Raybestos at Snowdon (players from Dow, Dominion Provisioners, and St. Augustine's), Trenholme, 7 p.m.; Raybestos at FBI, Trenholme, 8:30 p.m.

Sunday: Raybestos at Steinberg's, Van Horne, 2 p.m.; Raybestos at Snowdon All Stars, Trenholme, 8 p.m.

the All Stars, will not make up their final lineups until after practice tomorrow night. Patterson still may obtain Hugh Mayberry, FBI's new import, for catching duties, while Bernie Leebosh seems to be the likeliest choice to take over for Dow's Dave Barnard, who is unavailable. If Mayberry plays, the batting order will probably read:

Substitutes are Leebosh and Stan Diamond, FBI; deGrandpre and Grant, Freezers; Gordie Callaghan, Hugh Sutherland, McCracken and Rickie Tomlinson, Grocers; and Broadbelt, Saints.

Chance Of Golf Playoff Looms At Canadian Open

For anybody who likes to play a hunch, this looks as though it might be the year for a playoff to decide who wins the Seagram Gold Cup and the lion's share of the $15,000 prize money in the Canadian Open Golf Championship at Beaconsfield Golf Club July 5-8.

It is 10 years almost to the day since the regulation 72 holes of Canadian Open play wound up in a tie—and that was at Beaconsfield. Before then there had been four ties in 14 tournaments spread over 16 years. No tournaments were staged in 1943 or 1944 due to the war.

It was June 30th—just five days before this year's Canadian Open starts—in 1946 that George Fazio of Los Angeles and Dick Metz of Arkansas, Kansas wound up the regulation 72 holes for the Seagram Gold Cup at Beaconsfield Golf Club tied at 278 to force an 18-hole playoff for the Championship.

That was the day Fazio came in early with his potential winning score and sat on the club veranda chewing his nails for more than two hours while Metz and a young guy from Vancouver by the name of Stan Leonard traded shot after shot out on the course in an attempt to beat Fazio's score. When it was all over, Metz had equalled Fazio's 278 to force a play-off and Leonard wound up with 279 for an automatic third place.

The next day Fazio shot an 18-hole 70 to clinch the Seagram Gold Cup, one stroke better than Metz. The Canadian Open has not wound up in a first place playoff since and it hasn't been back to Beaconsfield since until this year.

Before 1946, playoffs were fairly common in the Canadian Open. In 1931 Tommy Armour nosed out Leo Diegel with 138 in a 36-hole playoff. The following year the great Walter Hagen won in the same kind of playoff over Percy Allis of Germany.

In 1938, Sam Snead, the only man to win the Seagram Gold Cup three times, took it for the first time in a playoff battle with Harry Cooper. After finishing with 277 each, the antagonists tied again with 67 in an extra 18 holes, but Snead won by a handy five strokes over an additional nine holes.

You've been looking for the ideal lager beer... one without a hint of bitterness, sting, or over-sweetness.

Take one sip of the new Crown & Anchor. After just that one sip you'll want to know why it tastes milder (not bitter), smoother (not sharp), lighter (not heavy-sweet). And as your pleased glance falls upon the glass, you'll want to know why the bubbles shine so brilliantly in this clear, sparkling brew.

Here are the why's... 1. Because a new pure yeast strain — imported from Copenhagen — has been introduced into the fermenter to make the beer more mellow. 2. Because the ageing period has been lengthened. 3. Because the Molson's brewmasters have developed just a slight variation in the proportions of malt, hops and other ingredients that go into the brew kettle — and it has made an important difference. 4. Because subtle changes — just a few vital minutes — have been made in the timing of the brewing processes. 5. Because this new brew is forced through thousands of layers of filtering material to remove any haze and impart a brilliance to the finished product.

All slight... all seemingly "un-world-shaking" — but together these refinements have produced Molson's new Crown & Anchor, a truly tasty lager beer.

Here in the
a difference is created

Tested by trained palates and plain people... both say new Crown & Anchor tastes best!

The new Crown & Anchor was first submitted to a panel of trained beer tasters. These trained testers sipped from an unidentified glass of new Crown & Anchor... then from unidentified glasses of other popular lagers.

These trained palates gave the new Crown & Anchor higher marks than any other lager for mildness, smoothness and lightness of taste. And trained eyes gave new Crown & Anchor the highest marks for clarity and brilliance.

Then bottles of the new Crown & Anchor and bottles of the next most popular lager — both identified only by numbers — were left in thousands of homes throughout Quebec. Interviewers called later to get these ordinary consumers' opinions. Here's what they found...

Everywhere, new Crown & Anchor was preferred by a majority of all lager consumers.

Like the trained experts, these average consumers preferred Molson's new Crown & Anchor for its mildness, smoothness, lightness of taste... for its sparkling brilliance and clarity.
