NATIONAL ANTHEM TALK

Every session of Parliament for the past few years has been marked by suggestion for a distinctive flag for Canada, and the session just closed also heard some discussion of Canada's national anthem. The subject was brought up last Friday by Tommy Church (the eighth time during the session the matter was discussed). Mr. Church and one or two other Toronto members want to make sure, apparently, that "The Maple Leaf Forever" get at least equal recognition with "O Canada". The Prime Minister's patience was obviously worn a bit thin, and the majority of Canadians will heartily agree with what he said to Mr. Church: "There are times and seasons for all things, and this time of war does not seem to me, and I am sure it does not seem to honourable members generally, to be an appropriate time to provoke a discussion, either in the house or in the country, on the question of either a national anthem or a national flag." That's that!

ARMS AND THE MAN

World War II has been called the battle of the assembly lines. We have estimated our success by our increased production of planes, tanks and guns. Yet, in assessing our prospects of victory, there is another factor that is hard to measure by statistics. We must still reckon as the old poet did, with "arms and the man".

What of this man, diving his Spitfire, pacing the deck of a lunging destroyer, sweating on the production line, on the farm? What is happening in the minds of millions of such men on many battle-fronts, and on the home fronts of a dozen countries?

We are throwing billions, in money and material, into the balance; but the outcome may be decided in the hearts and minds of ordinary men. To use President Roosevelt's phrase, "We must arm the hearts of men". And the best armament is a great belief in the things for which we are fighting.

Today let us blazen to the four corners of the world our democratic way of life — not only that men are born free, but that they are born free for a purpose; free no longer merely to defend the freedom their fathers died for, but free to remake the world; free to find a simple honesty between men and nations; free to care, not only for every citizen's rights, but for every citizen himself; free to demand from each his best; free to give the full service of his life that a better world may be born.

With this as our war-aim we will show the world once more that the free man is the best fighting man. No enemy can rob him of his freedom, because it roots in his heart and character.

A machinist in the battle of production puts it this way: "We must set up a non-stop assembly-line for creating men of character, with the same speed and efficiency as we produce planes. For national character is the heart of our victory effort."

NEARER REALIZATION

If this is indeed the people's war — the struggle of the little people of the world for their rights — the historians of another day may, strangely, not need to look beyond the great democratic "land of the free," to our south, to find some conclusive evidence. It may be that this people's war will bring about the complete emancipation of the American Negro. In any event it will bring the Lincoln dream nearer to realization.

The chorus of powerful voices raised on behalf of America's Negro citizens, and against the discrimination which has so long marked the place of the coloured people in the United States, is steadily growing. Roosevelt, Willkie, Wallace, Paul McNutt and others have taken forthright and courageous political positions and equally powerful voices of the press are echoing the growing concept of American freedom and equality. It is summed up in the thesis that this war for freedom must be won at home as well as on the battle fronts.

Of course, no one will look for Jim Crow to vanish from the American scene in a twinkling. Prejudice and tradition do not fall before a crusade of the hour when the roots have grown deep and strong and almost ineradicable. But they can and are being worn away and weakened. The demands of war alone have given a new-found place for the Negro as a soldier and as a citizen. And each step toward diminishing the discrimination against him means a new measure of human dignity bestowed where man's inhumanity has laid heavily upon him for so long.

If this is indeed the people's war, it is for no less than this new measure of human dignity that the little people everywhere are fighting today.

Discussing the Mobile C.P.C., a distinct and separate unit under the C.P.C., of which he is adjutant, Mr. Robson said that it is designed to deal more particularly with saboteurs — and to assist the police in keeping law and order.

The Mobile Force was started just two years ago under the guiding genius of Col. D. R. McCuaig — former O.C. of the Royal Highlanders. There are over 1,800 members of the Mobile in Montreal and surrounding areas. Our Westmount Company numbers 50.

The Mobile C.P.C. is also a strictly volunteer organization — trained along military lines — and qualified to carry side arms. Its chief value is in its mobility.

Conducted by HOWARD S. ROSS, K.C., D.C.L.

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

The opinions expressed in this Forum are not necessarily those of this newspaper and it does not accept responsibility for them.

The miner sees two scenes. When he walks abroad, in the hot sunshine or in the winter snow, he knows that beneath his feet, and sometimes these days beneath his keel, there roars the incessant traffic of the mine, through roadways and passages of "interminable length, same noisy, crowded and lively as the city street. He knows the leathery, lusty jost, the comradely greeting in the dark that are part of the social life of the mine, to which the surface-dweller is an outsider, an uncomprehending and rather pitiful alien to the miner's freemasonry. The miner knows also of the hidden dangers of the mine, of quiet heroism and quick death, but of these he says little and thinks a great deal. He is as the man who knows two languages compared to the one who knows only one. Two facets of thought are in his mind, and he is richer in comprehension and experience because of his "otherworldly" and two-fold life and labor.

The mining lore of the Sydney coalfield, long and interesting as it is to local residents, will be overshadowed by the story that a generation yet unborn will be able to tell of developments in the art and science of coalmining under the waters of the Cabot Straits, of which we are now upon the eve.—Dr. F. W. Gray, Associate General Manager, Dominion Steel & Coal Co., Sydney, N.S.

A precedent was established by the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland recently. The minister of a small town near Edinburgh became town clerk at £450 a year, his stipend as minister being £330. No stress was laid on the matter of finance. The local presbytery ruled he must resign, and he appealed. It was a half-time post and it was agreed he had not neglected his parochial duties and that the congregation had increased. A lawyer pleaded his case and admitted there is a law prohibiting a minister holding such an appointment, but that the latest statute was passed in 1838. It was pointed out by the lawyer that in a somewhat similar case 150 years ago Sir Walter Scott was able to plead successfully that this act was even then out of date. It was on the grounds of expediency, the danger there might be to church life, if the holding of such dual office was allowed that the Assembly confirmed the decision of the Presbytery and ordered that the minister resign his position as town clerk.

The San Francisco Chronicle concluded its report of the graduation of the 4,800 members of the class of 1942 from the University of California as follows: "The University Medalist, the student who had maintained the highest scholastic record during his four college years, was not present to receive his distinguished award. He was Harvey Akio Itano, a 21-year-old American-born Japanese who had been evacuated a month and a half before."

R. E. Olds, veteran motor car manufacturer, purchased the Daytona Terrace Hotel, Daytona Beach, Fla., to be used as a non-profit club for retired ministers, missionaries and their wives. A retired minister is the manager.

During the meeting in June of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland there was much discussion as to the Christian attitude to the social and economic order and international relations. It was suggested that superintendents should be appointed, somewhat like those favored in the old days by John Knox and others, to exercise a fatherly and disciplinary supervision. Discussions showed the church is moving in its attitude to social reconstruction. It was, speakers said, for a hundred years or more the view of probability of the majority that "business is business" but not the business of the church which should confine itself to the purely spiritual sphere. It is now being recognized that economic conditions have so strong an influence on the spiritual side of men's lives and involve such things as freedom, justice and men's whole sense of values to such an extent they are a matter in which the church is profoundly concerned.

Mr. Tom Harrison, director of mass-observation at London, G.B., has again drawn attention once more to the astrologers and their place in British life. He says their influence is growing and that one astrological almanac sells three million copies annually and that interest and belief has increased steadily and especially since the war. He said: "The basis of mass astrology is favorable prediction and it emphasizes the primrose way. It is dangerous to the war effort. The prevalence of this new 'prophetic optimism' is symptomatic of a wide decline in spirituality over the past decades and should be diagnosed."

CALVARY CHURCH NOTES

Union services of First Baptist Church with Calvary United congregation will be held on Sunday in Calvary United Church, Dorchester St. at Greene Avenue, Westmount, with the Minister of Calvary Church, Capt. the Rev. T. W. Jones, M.A., D.D., preaching both morning and evening.

At the morning service at 11 a.m. Dr. Jones will preach on the theme "I Saw - I Heard - I Said." These stirring days in which we live are days calling for religious inspiration and stirring challenge. Parents are invited to bring their children to the services. A part of the service will be devoted especially to the children.

At the evening worship service, at 7.30 p.m. the theme will be "The Living Bible." How precious, yet how searching is the Word of God in Wartime.

Throughout the month of August Capt. Jones will be available for Pastoral ministry and can be reached at his home 4210 Dorchester St., W.E. 6311.

Deadline nightshade (belladonna) is being cultivated at Kew's Royal Botanical Gardens in Surrey to let Britain's manufacturing chemists have the 2½ tons of the medicinal herb needed for rheumatic ailments. Kew is also growing colchicum, another anti-rheumatic herb, from bulbs collected by Boy Scouts in the English countryside.

Once the private gardens of England's kings, Kew is also set out to show the British housewife what can be done with the traditional English herbs. Dill, fennel, sage, chervil, marjoram and thyme are some of the many herbs now being grown there, and all of them provide attractive flavorings for soups and other war-time dishes.

In the midst of its 288 acres, where 24,000 different species of plants from all climates flourish as they do at home, Kew has now a regulation 10-rod allotment with a woman gardener in attendance to help amateur food-growers with their problems of raising potatoes, swedes, parsnips, carrots, onions and other vegetables.

Because of a shortage, gas may be used only at certain hours of the day in Dublin, Eire, and those caught burning it during the restricted periods have their entire supply cut off.

A Few Extra Minutes

BY LUCIA MALLORY

"Will you please go to the store and get a loaf of whole-wheat bread for me, Alice?" my sister-in-law called to her daughter, who was working at the sewing machine, making a dress for her little sister.

I was visiting in my brother's home.

"All right, Mother," Alice promised. "I'll go just as soon as I finish these ruffles."

"I'd rather you would go now, Alice," her mother replied a little wearily. "You know what happened the last time—"

Alice pushed her sewing aside with a wry smile. "I didn't get the bread home in time for Daddy's lunch, and he had to eat crackers and milk instead of sandwiches. I'll go right now, Mother, so lunch will be ready a few minutes early."

"Thank you, Daughter!" Her mother looked relieved as she turned back to the salad she was preparing. "I'm trying to get the whole family into the habit of giving themselves a few extra minutes instead of always being hurried and late," she said to me.

"It was my fault as much as Alice's that her daddy failed to have a good lunch that day when we had no bread," she explained. "When he went back to work after eating that skimpy lunch, I just sat down and took stock of myself and my home. I used to think I could do things in no time at all. You know how I worked my way through college, doing everything that came to hand, and managing to get through it all with reasonable success."

"All of your friends wondered how you ever accomplished so much, Beatrice," I interposed. "You made excellent grades and kept your health at the same time."

"I've found out that being a mother is entirely different from being a student or a business woman," Beatrice continued. "One has to plan a schedule that is flexible enough to allow for interruptions. Home should be a restful place for all the family. There cannot be much repose in a home if the mother is always hurried and flustered."

"I decided that the cure for too much hurrying was to simplify my work as much as possible and give myself a few extra minutes for each task. Some days I leave work undone that I used to think was absolutely necessary. If I try to push myself through every minute of the day, there is an atmosphere of strain that is actually a menace to health."

"I have found that the children can help me a great deal. Alice likes to cook and to sew and even Betty Anne is not too young to set the table, wipe dishes, and dust the furniture. Kenneth runs the vacuum cleaner and uses the dust mop for me whenever he has time."

"I rise a few minutes earlier than I used to do, plan my meals and then order my groceries as soon as the store is open, and I do not wait until almost noon to start getting lunch."

"Not even when you have a talkative visitor to take your time," I smiled, looking up at the clock to see that the hands showed ten minutes to twelve. "May I set the table for you?"

"Yes, thank you, Lucia," Beatrice replied. "The salad is ready and here comes Alice with the bread. I can't get the bread baked until after half past eleven. We shall not be late, because I gave myself more than the usual number of extra minutes to make up for the time I'd spend talking with you!"

Warning Is Issued to Subversive or Careless Persons Helping in Enemy "Whispering Campaign" — Law Provides Term in Jail for Offenders

Any person wilfully spreading a rumor that may be to the benefit of the enemy is liable to prosecution under the Defence of Canada Regulations Act, and subject to heavy penalties.

The Notre Dame de Grace police, like all officers of other law-enforcing bodies, including the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, are keeping their ears wide open to catch any disloyal or subversive talk on the part of either fifth columnists or persons who do not fully realize the harm they may be doing by circulating harmful stories or even malicious hints or suggestions.

Such talk evidently finds its origin in what is generally known as an enemy whispering campaign. Many of the rumors are the same as those circulated in various European countries as part of Hitler's preliminary "softening up," and in order to cause distrust and dissatisfaction and thereby weaken resistance.

Frequently these rumors are started by propaganda broadcasts originating in enemy countries and are circulated in the early stages by thoughtless, disloyal or downright subversive persons.

Commissioner S. T. Wood, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, quite recently issued the following statement in that connection:

"The circulation of rumors throughout Canada is increasing and has already reached a point that convinces me that many of the vicious and harmful stories form part of the enemy whispering campaign aimed at injuring Canada's war effort."

The police on the Island of Montreal state that the sudden growth of wild, unsubstantiated, untrue, false and vicious rumors is quite widespread at the present time, and reminds all concerned that any person wilfully assisting the distribution of a false rumor is liable to arrest and, upon conviction, to a prison term.

That the warning by the R.C.M.P. Commissioner and the regular police is opportune, can be vouched for by reliable witnesses who have heard such talk, and as a matter of fact have made up their minds to convince those who heard them that what they were saying was not only quite untrue, but also extremely harmful.

In one case, a street car conductor insisted that certain developments, detrimental to the United Nations, the nature of which cannot be divulged, since it would mean giving the rumors more publicity, were about to take place in Europe. He was taken to task by the person he spoke to, but insisted that his information was well founded, and he was persuaded to desist only by the warning that he was liable to get into very serious trouble.

A campaign is under way to put a stop to this kind of talk and to discover where the false news originates. Action will be taken in every possible case, and the full severity and penalties of the law will be applied in all cases where a conviction is secured before the courts.

School Children Aid In Work of Red Cross

Through the Junior Red Cross, the school children of Canada are making a magnificent contribution towards the service activities of the Canadian Red Cross.

During the school year just concluded, the 60,380 members of Quebec Province have produced everything from clothing for bombed victims to splints for the 4,444 Government.

$34,592.44 has been raised by Quebec Juniors for their various services. One of their chief interests was the British War Nurseries in which children who have been crippled or orphaned in bombing raids are given new homes. The 800,000 members of the Junior Red Cross in Canada have undertaken the maintenance of eight of these Nurseries. $7,000.00 was raised by the Juniors of the Province of Quebec for this War Nursery Fund. In addition, Quebec Juniors purchased 2 Ambulances, 2 Station Wagons and 1 Carrier Canteen — all for service overseas.

Nearly $5,000.00 was spent on the purchase of materials to be made into comforts for the troops and for the victims of air raids. 54,081 articles have been made since last September for shipment overseas. These include sweaters, socks, caps, gloves, etc. for the troops, complete outfits, layettes, dresses, sweaters, caps, and many other articles for civilians.

A special service was the making of 11,032 splints for the Department of National Defence and 420 test-tube racks for Government laboratories, while 700 splints are in readiness for Red Cross Casualty Clearing Stations throughout the Province.

On the homefront, the Juniors have not forgotten their peace-time obligations. Health Campaigns of all kinds have been featured; school improvements varying from the purchase of a pencil sharpener to playground equipment have been made.

With the increase in employ-

LAST RESPECTS ARE PAID LATE JAMES DRURY

Member of Church of the Ascension Was Former Widely Known Restaurateur

James Drury, a prominent member of the Church of the Ascension of Our Lord, and a widely known former restaurateur, died early on Friday in the Ross Memorial Pavilion of the Royal Victoria Hospital following an illness of six weeks. He was 63 years of age.

Onetime owner of Drury's Restaurant, which famed eating house was established originally by his father, John Drury, in 1890, James Drury retired from active business three years ago, after directing the establishment for 30 years.

Born and educated in Montreal, Mr. Drury was a prominent amateur athlete in his youth and maintained an enthusiastic interest in all sports for many years after retiring from active participation. In 1889 he established a world record at the half-mile distance for bicycle racing at Queen's Park, Verdun, and two years later he won both the Canadian and United States speed skating championships. He was also well-known as a motorcycle racer in the early days of that hazardous sport.

One of the oldest restaurants in the city, Drury's was first established by Mr. Drury's father at Windsor and old Donegana streets. The latter street disappeared with the construction of the C.P.R. Windsor station in 1909, following which business was carried on at its present site on Osborne street.

Surviving are his widow, the former Eileen McLaughlin; two sons, John and Robert, and three daughters, Misses Peggy, Audrey and Sheila Drury, and one brother, John, all of Montreal.

Inland "Ocean" Cruise on Great Lakes

The ocean voyage is a pre-war luxury now denied vacationists who favor shipboard life; wartime hazards and the fact that all ocean shipping is engaged in vital supply service render pleasure cruises at sea out of the question. But Canadians are fortunate inasmuch as they have an excellent and realistic substitute right on their front doorstep: the Great Lakes.

Great Lakes cruises by the Canadian Pacific Great Lakes Steamship Service provide a holiday that is different, offering as it does the tang of open water and the incomparable relaxation and friendliness of boat travel.

The sailings of the Canadian Pacific ships from Port McNicoll to Fort William also afford an attractive alternative route for part of a trans-Canada trip.

The Canadian Pacific Steamships Keewatin and Assiniboia ply the 542 miles between Port McNicoll and Fort William in slightly over a day and a half. A third gleaming white ship, the C.P.S. Manitoba, calls at Owen Sound. All three are famous for their luxurious appointments and the high calibre of their cuisine and service. All are equipped for a wide variety of deck sports.

There are two eastward and two westward sailings each week during the regular season, June 17 to September 16, and after the latter date special sailings are frequently arranged to handle freight shipments, and accommodations are made available then for a limited number of passengers.

During part of the journey, the boats follow the shoreline with its enchanting scenery, but at other times are completely out of sight of land. On the eastern leg of the trip, the ships pass through beautiful Georgian Bay and emerge into Lake Huron, 207 miles long and 101 miles wide, second largest of the Great Lakes. The St. Mary's River, which is the international boundary at that point, and the Sault Ste. Marie Canal, lead to Sault Ste. Marie and into Lake Superior, largest body of fresh water in the world.

A Canadian Pacific voyage through the Great Lakes carries the traveller along water-routes famous in Canadian history from Indian days down through the pioneering years of the first French explorers, missionaries and colonists.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID TO LATE MRS. E. CURRIE

West End Resident Was Founder of the Karnak Ladies' Social Club

The funeral service for Mrs. Elizabeth B. Currie, of 483 Prince Albert avenue, was held in Trinity Memorial Church on Monday afternoon, officiated at by Rev. W. J. Bradbury, rector, assisted by Dr. Malcolm Campbell. Interment followed in Mount Royal Cemetery. Mrs. Currie, founder of the Karnak Ladies' Social Club associated with the Shrine, died Saturday at her home.

Mrs. Currie, who was the widow of the late Thomas S. Currie, formerly of the W. and F. P. Currie Ltd., was born in Brockville, Ont., the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Barber of that city. She had been a resident of Montreal for the past 39 years.

The Karnak Ladies Social Club was organized chiefly through the efforts of Mrs. Currie, who became its first president. She was a member of Trinity Memorial Church Westmount; of the Women's Canadian Club and the Young Women's Christian Association.

Mrs. Currie is survived by an only daughter, Miss Elizabeth Frances Currie of Montreal.

COLOR OF HONEY INDICATES FLAVOR

Color in honey is an indication of flavor—the lighter the colour, the less the flavor. Research has shown that darker honey has more accessory food value because it contains more minerals, especially iron, copper, and manganese. Among the lighter-colored honeys are those from orchard blossom, maple, basswood, and clover. The darker honeys with their strong, hearty flavor include those from dandelion, golden rod, and buckwheat, ranging from lighter amber to dark reddish brown, writes W. A. Stephen, Bee Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

In making light cakes and cookies, or in sweetening beverages, or when it is desirable to maintain a particular food flavor, light honey is used, but when honey is intended for a bread spread, or on pancakes, or in dark cakes, dark honey with its stronger flavor may be preferred.

All honey is sweet, but honey is more than sweetness. It is food ready to supply energy and flavored with the perfume of flowers. It contains carbohydrates—predigested sugars; enzymes that aid digestion; acids that do not cause acidity but contribute to a normal balance; volatile oils which give flavor and aroma; minerals—elements necessary in the building of blood, bone, and muscle; and coloring materials—pigments which indicate flavor and food value.

List of Laurentian Lakes Answers Holiday Problems

Are you the party who inquired recently about lakes—where to find them—how to get to them? Are you the party who inquired about a reasonably-priced holiday with good accommodation and opportunity for plenty of outdoor activity? If you are, then the answers to your vacation problem are to be found right here.

Take the first query, for instance—more plentiful, more attractive lakes than those found in the Laurentian Mountains do not exist. A list of popular lakes, as long as your arm, could be accumulated from those to be found along the Canadian Pacific Railway line which stretches from Montreal to Mont Laurier.

Among those which come to mind at present are Lac Masson, near Ste. Marguerite. Holiday development in this area has grown extensively in the past few years, making it one of the more popular Laurentian districts. Nearby are Lac Charlebois and Lac des Isles which also attract large numbers of summer vacationists. Slightly beyond Ste. Marguerite is Val Morin. The lake here, Lac Raymond, is a glimmering sheet of glorious water which annually provides the outdoor pleasures of water enthusiasts who come to Val Morin for their holiday.

At Ste. Agathe, one of the most popular towns in the Laurentians is Lac des Sables, renowned for its ideal beaches. Lac Castor, Sal-

FINAL RITES HELD FOR LATE MRS. MCGUIRE

Wife of Captain of Westmount Frontiersmen Squadron Widely Mourned

From her late residence, 5217 Sherbrooke Street West, where a number of relatives and many friends, including members of the Canadian Legion and representatives of other organizations, had gathered to pay final tribute to her memory, the mortal remains of Mary Margaret Hennessey, wife of Captain Michael McGuire, L.F.C. "B" Squadron, the Legion of Frontiersmen (Can. Div.), were taken on Friday to Westmount Station and conveyed to Saint Edward de Frampton, Dorchester County, P.Q., for interment.

The funeral cortege was attended by a troop of Frontiersmen from "B" Squadron, Westmount, the coffin having been borne by Frontiersmen from the residence and at the railway station, while a profusion of floral tributes afforded abundant evidence of the very great respect and esteem entertained for Mrs. McGuire.

The mass and funeral service at Saint Edward de Frampton were conducted by the Reverend Father Lacroix, who was assisted by Fathers Humphrey and Couture, while in addition to the regular ritual music furnished by the church choir, Joseph Brennan as tenor soloist sang two hymns, "Nearer My God To Thee" and "The Angels Are Waiting".

Mrs. McGuire, who was 28 years of age, leaves two young sons, Michael, aged five, and Bryan, Emmett, aged 13 months and survived by her husband, Captain Michael McGuire, L.F.C. of Montreal, her father Patrick Hennessey and her mother, Nelly, of Saint Edward de Frampton, three sisters, Margaret, Anne and Henrietta and three brothers, Joseph, Raymond and Bernard.

NEW COLLEGE APPOINTMENTS ARE ANNOUNCED

In the appointments to the Loyola faculty made public this week there are important changes in the departments of science and mathematics and several of last year's faculty now engaged in war work have been replaced.

Rev. Patrick McHardy, S.J., comes to Loyola as prefect of discipline.

Rev. Eric O'Connor, S.J., with a doctorate in pure mathematics at Harvard University, becomes head of the department of mathematics.

Rev. Hugh McPhee, S.J., who has his master's degree in applied mathematics from the University of Toronto, will be in charge of the department of physics.

Frank Guadagni, B.Sc. (McGill) will be the principal chemistry professor in the college course.

Others appointed to the Loyola faculty are: Rev. Francis Devine, S.J., Rev. Joseph Monaghan, S.J., Rev. Thomas Moylan, S.J., Rev. Peter Ambrosio, S.J., Rev. Vincent Hayden, S.J., Rev. Paul Hoppe, S.J., Rev. Gerard McGinnis, S.J.

Of the members of last year's faculty, Rev. James McGarry, S.J., is an R.C.A.F. chaplain at Edmonton; Mr. John Cavanagh, M.Sc. of the physics department, is an instructor in radio to the U.S. Army; Mr. Mark Lonergan, B.A. of the chemistry department, is a technician with Defense Industries Limited at Brownsberg, Quebec; Rev. Lester Carroll, S.J., Rev. Joseph Leahy, S.J., Rev. John McCarthy, S.J., and Rev. Clifford Rushman, S.J., are transferred to the Immaculate Conception College, Rachel Street East.

pleasing results have been obtained.

There are well over 100 sections listed in the official show programme, and those desiring to compete may obtain full information from the secretary, W. J. Looker, 985 Prud'homme Ave., N.D.G., DEXTER 5559. Following the custom of the past two years, flowers will be auctioned after the distribution of trophies. War Savings Stamps will be given to the full value of all purchases in addition to the flowers. Judging of gardens took place recently and the results will be announced shortly.

HORTICULTURAL SHOW SET FOR AUGUST 19, 20

The West End Horticultural Society's Annual Flower Show will be held at St. Luke's Church Hall, 3489 Decarie Blvd., on Wednesday and Thursday, August 19th and 20th. The exhibition will be open to the public free of charge from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. each evening. The official opening will take place at 8 p.m. on the 19th and the trophies will be presented by J. O. Asselin, chairman of the Executive Committee, at 9 p.m. on the 20th.

In view of the war conditions the prize list for vegetables has been enlarged and it is expected that there will be a large entry in these sections. In the floral group there is a novice section for those who have not won a prize at a previous exhibition, with prizes equal in value to those in the amateur sections. There is also a junior section for those under 15 years of age desiring to exhibit flowers grown by themselves, included in which is a competition designed to encourage the art of floral arrangement. In this competition children may obtain flowers from their parents or friends and arrange them in a vase at the show room without any assistance. This has proved a very interesting contest and some very

APPROACHING MARRIAGES

Mr. and Mrs. Preston G. Prince announce the approaching marriage of their elder daughter, Virginia Gordon, to Russell Charles Brown, R.C.O.C., only son of the late Charles Brown and of Mrs. Brown. The wedding will take place quietly on August 17.

WEDDINGS

Cheese-Brown
The marriage of Elizabeth Jean (Betty), only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hodge Brown, to Mr. George Bryce Cheese, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Ewing Cheese, took place on Saturday afternoon in the chancel of Christ Church Cathedral, the Reverend Stanley Rider, of Iberville, officiating. The altar was decorated with summer flowers, and the wedding music was played by Miss Rosette Renshaw.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white ivory cotton, fashioned with a basque bodice, and a belt of French rhinestones over pale blue velvet. Her shoulder length veil fell from a Juliet cap trimmed with rhinestones, and her bouquet was of shasta daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. H. E. North, the bride's only attendant, was gowned in pink eyelet pique, her small hat of matching flowers being trimmed with sky blue. Her bouquet was of pink carnations and baby's breath.

Mr. H. E. North was best man for the bridegroom, and the us-

War Snips British Bridal Gowns

TROUSSEAUX AND HOPE CHESTS ARE CASUALTIES, TOO

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
London.—The super war economy being imposed upon the British nation will hit the June bride—and the July, August and September ones, too, for that matter.

First, few brides will be able to indulge in a full-trained wedding gown, unless the entire family pools its coupons. The newest clothing restrictions will preclude such extravagance. From June 1, 51 coupons only, instead of 66, will be allowed over a period of twelve months to civilians generally—with few exceptions.

Anything like a peacetime trousseau—unless, of course, a girl built up her "hope chest" before the introduction of clothes rationing—is therefore out of the question.

THEY DON'T ATTEMPT TO FURNISH HOMES

Canadian brides-to-be may be surprised to learn that most of their English sisters are not even attempting to furnish any kind of a home these days; at any rate, they are not buying any furniture to speak of. Prices have more than trebled, they have quintupled and production is at a standstill. Most newly-marrieds are living in furnished rooms or with their parents unless, of course, they happen to be in the services.

Such things as house linen—sheets, blankets, table linen—are beyond the reach of the average salaried worker, when they are obtainable.

Brides who toy with the thought of a one-roomed apartment (furniture to be supplied by the family) and kitchenette are due for disillusionment when they start out to outfit the kitchen.

Pots and pans, glassware, cutlery, crockery, all essential commodities are virtually unobtainable.

The "five-and-ten" chain stores have long since given up their "household" counters. On the other hand, you can still buy brooms, dishcloths and mops, but these are about three times dearer than they were before the war, and there is, of course, no question of any choice.

Elaborate wedding gowns are rare in England these days. For the glamor touch, soldiers' brides have to be content with the traditional arch of swords or rifles.

CUPS PURCHASED WITHOUT HANDLES

All the canteens, communal restaurants and workers hostels get priority deliveries of all crockery. As it is, these places are so short of cups that they are now accepting delivery of handleless cups rather than wait an extra month for the finished article.

If your frigidaire, percolator, vacuum cleaner or radio set go wrong these days, you just make up your mind to do without it, as it is now practically impossible either to replace or repair them.

Despite the recent ban on gold wedding rings and engagement rings, whatever the English warbride may have to forego, she will cling to this deep-rooted and treasured custom. Brides are borrowing and even begging golden wedding rings, if only for the marriage ceremony.

In the last war, a similar ban was imposed and jewelers sold aluminum rings. Today aluminum is as precious as gold for wartime purposes and no substitute has as yet been found.

Canadian Women Greet Rationing of Tea, Coffee

"The announcement of tea and coffee rationing, while it was undoubtedly a surprise did not come as a shock to housewives," said Mrs. J. Leslie Hodges, chairman of the Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, this morning.

"It is my opinion and it is that of members of the Advisory Committee throughout the region that Canadian Housewives have been prepared all along to go further than they have been called upon to do by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

"You will remember that when voluntary rationing of tea and coffee was called for, May 26th, many leaders of women's organizations throughout the country announced their intention to forego the serving of tea at afternoon functions. A splendid lead was given by the National Council of Women in convention at Montreal at the time by the cancellation of the service of tea at several events during their program."

Looks on Bright Side

Looking on the bright side of the new regulations, Mrs. Hodges pointed out that while according to tea firms and government experts the ration of one ounce per person per week amounts to 12½ cups of tea, ways and means have been devised in the past weeks to double the number of cups without impairment of flavor.

"The only persons", Mrs. Hodges said, "who will find the new ration a hardship are those whose patriotism has been 'blackened out' by their greed—or if that is too harsh a word—by their desire to carry on as though the war did not affect them and ors were Mr. W. H. Blair and Mr. Paul Cheese.

Following the ceremony, a reception for the immediate families was held at the home of the bride's parents, 440 Mount Stephen avenue, and later the bridal couple left for the Knowlton Golf and Country Club, the bride wearing a dress of gold color crepe patterned with large white polka dots, with a small hat of light cocoa brown flowers, and matching accessories.

who have failed to prepare themselves for today's action by voluntarily limiting themselves to the quantity suggested by Donald Gordon, in his broadcast at the time of sugar rationing. I am glad to say that the number of these is very small."

Mrs. Hodges pointed out that the underlying feature of the rationing of tea is the shipping situation. "It was stressed", she observed, "in the announcement from Ottawa, that the great distances to be travelled by sea in order to bring tea and coffee to Canada render the supply situation difficult. In Australia, for instance, where the sea mileage is even greater, the ration of tea is one ounce per person over nine years old every two weeks—half as much as is made available for Canadians. In England, where the consumption of coffee is negligible, the tea ration is two ounces per person per week, a reduction of one third of the general consumption."

Ration Equals England's

"Compared with these figures, Canada's ration of one ounce per week for each person over 12, shows up very favourably. It amounts to three pounds per capita per annum and the normal annual consumption in the Dominion before the war was 3.8 pounds per capita. The earlier figure, of course, was based upon the total census. An allowance must be made in these figures for the elimination of those under 12 years of age. By a rough comparison, therefore, it will be seen that Canada's ration is the equivalent of England's in that the annual per capita consumption is reduced by slightly less than one third."

Mrs. Hodges felt that the women of Canada once again have cause for congratulation for the magnificent job they did in preparing the voluntary coupon rationing cards for sugar. "Their hard work for the 4 days required to transcribe ration cards made the instant application of tea and coffee rationing possible. I am quite sure that the good work done on that occasion will be much appreciated by the men of the Merchant Navy who take their

MAKE TEA RATION GO TWICE AS FAR THE ENGLISH WAY

The English people are among the greatest tea drinkers in the world, in most homes tea being served on an average of five times daily—early morning, breakfast, mid-morning lunch, afternoon and for dinner or at bedtime.

Yet, when it came to pondering ways and means of making the two ounce ration go as far as four or more ounces did before, the simplest solution proved the most effective; this was—making the tea as it should be made.

To non-tea drinkers, the ritual of proper tea making may sound foolish; to tea addicts, it won't. The recipe is as follows:—

Boil the water—and this means boiling, not just hot—scald the teapot, then wipe it dry. Put in one-half a teaspoonful of tea for each person, then a half-cup of water for each person. Let stand for three minutes; no less. Add another half-cup of water for each person and let stand for another two full minutes.

Refill teapot

When the first round of cups has been poured, refill the teapot with boiling water and let stand for three minutes. Result: Another round of full cups with, perhaps, one or two still in the pot.

Incidentally, in Ireland, where the tea ration for over a year has been only one-half ounce per person a week, this procedure has produced three cups of tea where but one was made before. Various freak methods of stretching the half-ounce have been tried, including boiling the whole until the tea leaves had almost turned white, bottling it and then pouring into a cup so much of the mixture and adding hot water, but none gave such generally satisfactory results as the English wartime formula.

War Work Committee Sends Gifts Overseas

Canadian men overseas have recently been the recipients of gifts from the war work committee of the Westmount Women's Club. These gifts have been distributed to the men through the Beaver Club in London, which is associated with the Canadian Y.M.C.A.

The war work committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harold Mills, is sending parcels

EVERYTHING CONSIDERED

BY GERALDINE BRIETZCKE

The country is lovely now. Apple trees with round, reddening fruit stand knee-deep in oats that have slowly turned from cool blue-green to warm gold; in some fields the harvesting has begun, and neat "stooks" dot the stubble side by side with the thick uncut crop; the bearded barley moves softly in the warm wind; the strong curves of the corn leaves shine proudly in the sun, and the cornflowers look like small pieces of sky startlingly placed in the fields.

It is full summer, with the promise of more richness to come. As we ride lazily along the little lanes we keep our horses off the shorn meadows where the farmers have been shouting, "Whoa!" and "Git on there!" in the throes of hay-making, as their big, patient horses tugged and backed and did all that was required of them until the great masses of this year's good hay crop were cut, loaded and stuffed into the barns. There will be a second crop, and one-half a teaspoonful of tea for each person, then a half-cup of water for each person. Let stand for three minutes; no less. Add another half-cup of water for each person and let stand for another two full minutes.

At high noon the cicadas buzz their torrid song; heat seems not only to come down from the blazing sky but to rise up from the fields, so that we feel as if we are swimming in clean, hot, scented water.

In the evening, the countryside holds both heat and cold, in mysterious pockets of air. It reminds us of the warm and chilly currents that flow all over us when we swim in a Laurentian lake. As we ride through the cedar swamp, it is deliciously cold and pungent, and when we pass between the chokecherry bushes in the lane, it is warm and drowsy.

But when we arrive back in the city later in the evening, it is like walking at the bottom of a dry well.

A London lady was doing her bit by growing fat tomatoes on the small iron balcony outside her flat during the blitz. She was looking forward to these tomatoes. They were her pride and joy. One day, however, she heard an uproar in the vicinity of the French window looking out on the balcony, and rushed to see what was wrong. She perceived to Canadian boys twice a month in this way. A typical parcel which arrived in London recently contained: 15 pairs of socks, 4 caps, 1 sweater and 6 scarves.

Powell, Skelton Star In New Musical Comedy

A delightful combination of dancing and music by Eleanor Powell and Tommy Dorsey's orchestra, with comedy by Red Skelton, is on the bill at the Westmount United Theatre, where the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer musical comedy, "Ship Ahoy," opened yesterday.

Miss Powell offers five completely new dance routines. In one she actually taps out a Morse code message, to notify her friends that enemy agents are operating. There is little attempt at serious plotting, the whole arrangement being happily dedicated to mirth.

"THE LADY IS WILLING"

Fred MacMurray and Marlene Dietrich in a scene from "The Lady Is Willing," which opens at the Monkland United Theatre on Sunday playing until Tuesday night.

"RINGS ON HER FINGERS"

Henry Fonda is nuts about Gene Tierney in "Rings On Her Fingers," the hilarious new comedy which opens at the Westmount United Theatre on Sunday playing until Tuesday night. They keep 'em laughing with their loving, and are ably supported by that outstanding character actor, Laird Cregar, and a cast of favorites.

'Great Man's Lady' New Comedy Stars Fonda and Tierney

The sweep and power of our own great country and the courage of the men and women who made its development possible, were unfolded on the screen of the Monkland United Theatre last night when Paramount presented its stirring romance, "The Great Man's Lady," starring Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea, with Brian Donlevy.

A bell-ringer for the fans if there ever was one is 20th Century-Fox's "Rings On Her Fingers," the gay romantic comedy which made its debut at the York United Theatre yesterday.

The story starts and ends in our time, but in the interim it takes us back as long ago as 1848 when most of America was trackless waste. Barbara Stanwyck, then a young, impetuous girl, elopes from her staid Philadelphia home with Joel McCrea whose dream it is to build a great city out west.

Packed with comedy, the picture makes the most of its hilarious plot to keep Henry Fonda and Gene Tierney in a constant state of uncertainty while a slew of laugh-provoking situations resolve themselves.

Making her first appearance in a youthful modern dress role, Gene Tierney turns in a neat performance as she romps through the film matching wits with Fonda.

The story is just right for the two stars. Gene plays the part of a shopgirl whose services are enlisted by two shady characters, Laird Cregar and Spring Byington, to mulct millionaires out of their money. Gene, at first, is unwilling, but the prospect of gorgeous clothes, swank hotels, travel, Palm trees and all the accoutrements of a glamorous debutante win her over. Naturally, the victim turns out to be Henry Fonda, a guy who has finally saved up enough to buy the boat he's always dreamed of.

Federated Charities Drive To Be Held from Sept. 14-22

Chairmanship of Montreal's annual Federated Charities Campaign, which will be held this year from September 14 to 22, will be taken by B.C. Gardner, M.C., assistant general manager of the Bank of Montreal, it was announced yesterday by Financial Federation. Mr. Gardner, who will also act as a campaign committee member, has taken a leading part in the Federated Charities campaigns for a number of years, last year serving as chairman of the Men's Special Names Division.

and the Hon. Mrs. A. K. Hugessen will act as vice-chairman of this division. Mrs. Fisher was chairman of the Women's Division for the 1940 campaign, vice-chairman of the division and chairman of the Women's Central District in 1939, and prior to that a worker in the Women's Central District. She is a member of the Board of Directors of Financial Federation, a vice-president and member of the Board of Directors and the Family Welfare Association and immediate past president of the Protestant Foster Home Centre. Mrs. Hugessen is vice-president of the Child Welfare Association of Montreal.

J. Hollis Brace, vice-president of The Bell Telephone Company of Canada, and president of the Montreal War Services Co-ordinating Council, will serve as chairman of the Public Service Division. Herbert K. Crabtree will head the Territorial Division with W. Norman Clelland, Claude S. Richardson and M. H. Blakely as vice-chairmen. Mr. Crabtree is president of Crabtree and Co. Ltd.

George Sharp, chartered accountant with Sharp Milne and Company, has accepted the post of chairman of Interior Organization. W. K. Newcomb, branch manager, West End Branch, Bank of Montreal, will act as honorary campaign treasurer, and F. D. Chapman, resident director in Montreal of the A. E. Ames & Co. Ltd., will chair the out-of-town division.

Herman M. Mawhinney, of the Steel Company of Canada, will be chairman of the Industrial Division. Mr. Mawhinney's vice-chairman will be Leonard W. Taylor, Montreal manager of Hardy and Badden Ltd.

Astaire Joins Up With Film Colony Cowboy Ranchers

Add Fred Astaire to Hollywood's growing list of ranchers. The dancing star disclosed on the set of Irving Berlin's "Holiday Inn" that henceforth he will do his relaxing on a recently acquired ranch in the Southern portion of the State.

Astaire brings to a total of sixteen the movie topners who have followed in the footsteps of Bill Hart and Harry Carey in a trek to the hills during the past decade.

The film colony's better known ranchers are Bing Crosby, Joel McCrea, Clark Gable, Ginger Rogers, Fred MacMurray, Cecil B. De Mille, Rich. Arlen, Andy Devine, William Boyd, Albert Dekker, Doug Fairbanks, Jr., Ann Sheridan and Eugene Pallette.

And there is Harold Lloyd, whose Beverly Hills estate embraces enough terrain for a full fledged rancho, but contains a golf course instead, in reality a city ranch.

And Bob Hope, who boasts of four rows of onions, a sheep dog and a lemon tree on his Toluca Lake estate.

Formby Picture Is Held Over

The most brilliant and side-splittingly funny comedy George Formby has ever made—such is the general consensus of opinion on "South American George," which will be held over for a second week commencing Sunday August 9th at the Snowdon Theatre.

If you can imagine George as a theatrical extra who suddenly finds himself forced into impersonating a highly temperamental opera star whom he happens to resemble, you will have some idea of the hilarious fun and adventure that make "South American George" the grand and glorious entertainment that it is.

From the beginning to end "South American George" is packed with a lavish assortment of brand new "gags" and comedy situations. The operatic sequences are outrageously funny, especially a scene in which Formby gets himself tangled up in a ballet with results that must be seen to be believed! Other comedy highlights include the famous death scene from "La Traviata" in which George, as the hero, behaves as no grief-stricken hero should do; the star's encounter with a couple of engaging crooks, one of whom happens to be a knife-throwing fiend; and a climax that begins with a free-for-all during the last act of an opera.

'Nazi Agent' At Kent Saturday

Life to Conrad Veidt was just one make-up after the other as he jumped between two characterizations several times a day during the filming of "Nazi Agent," dramatic story of a spy and sabotage ring, coming Saturday to the Kent Theatre.

He played a dual role — twin brothers. One brother is a kindly and intelligent collector of rare stamps and first editions. The other is a sinister saboteur. When the two characters work together a split screen was used. It was suggested that Veidt do all of the work of one character and then switch to the other. But Veidt felt that he could vary his performance and achieve more reality by going from one characterization to the other.

This entailed tremendous make-up work. As the kindly twin he wears a beard, rather bushy eyebrows and glasses. The other man is smooth shaven and austere. On one day Veidt changed make-up eight times. In making the switch Veidt and his make-up man worked from still photographs. On the first day a picture of the actor in both characterizations had been made. Each time the make-up was changed, that still guided them. In fact, instead of using a mirror, Veidt used the still. But a familiar sight on the set was Veidt's hand reaching into his pocket for his small mirror. As a final check-up and just before Director Jules Dassin said "Begin," Veidt gave himself a quick once-over to be sure that the make-up was exactly as it had been when last used.

"Nazi Agent" deals with wholesale sabotage and spying in this country by a foreign ring, commanded by Veidt in his one identity, and ultimately foiled by Veidt in the other side of his Jekyll and Hyde characterization. Opposite him is Ann Ayars, who played her first role as the heroine of "Dr. Kilare's Victory."

The second feature will be "Roxie Hart," starring Ginger Rogers and Adolphe Menjou.

and leads through a succession of exuberantly funny action that leave the audience breathless with laughter. Linden Travers, George's new leading lady, gives the great star excellent support in the role of publicity agent to the temperamental opera singer. It is for her that George endures all the trials and tribulations that beset him in this picture. Enid Stamp-Taylor gives a grand performance as an effusive prima donna, while outstanding work comes from an all-comedy cast that includes Felix Aylmer, Jacques Brown, Ronald Shiner, Alf Goddard, Gus MacNaughton, Mavis Villiers, Herbert Lomas, Beatrice Varley and many other favorites. The added feature is Edgar Wallace's "The Case of The Frightened Lady" starring Marjorie Goring and Penny Ward. Latest news and other short subjects complete this program.

"RIO RITA"

She's Terrific! Veronica Reduces Costs By Herself

How much money Veronica Lake receives for her work in Paramount's "The Glass Key," her current starring vehicle, is nobody's but Veronica's—and the tax collector's—business.

But how much Veronica, the glamorous star credited with being the most spectacular find of recent years in pictures, pays for the neat peasant dresses she sports, is practically everybody's affair—and now it can be told.

The material for one of Ronnie's peasant outfits costs her, on an average, $138. Not one hundred and thirty-eight dollars, but one dollar, thirty-eight cents.

There is no dressmaking cost, because Ronnie makes them herself.

Dance Contests Held at Belmont

During the past six weeks, a series of dance contests have been held at Belmont Park to decide Montreal's greatest exponents of the art of terpsichore in its many forms. The Grand Finals to decide Belmont Park's All-Round Dance Champions will be held tomorrow, Friday eve, in the beautiful pavilion with Stan Wood's orchestra providing the music. The six winning couples will then be chosen to represent the park at Montreal's Harvest Moon Ball scheduled to take place at the Forum early next month.

It is announced by the management of the park that there will be a double-header on Sunday when Peejay Ringens, sensational bicycle rider who soars through space on his cycle and lands in a tank of water, will make his appearance at the park in conjunction with the current free outdoor attraction featuring the Jansleys. On Saturday the Robert Mitchell Co. Ltd. and the Women's Benefit Association (English Section) will be holding their picnic. Next week, starting Monday until Saturday August 15th inclusive, will be Borden's Kiddies' Health Days at the Park.

No. 12 Depot, Wireless School Meet Tonight

TEAMS WILL VIE FOR POSITION IN MUNICIPAL SENIOR SOFTBALL FIXTURE AT WESTMOUNT PARK

The first week of play-offs in the Westmount Municipal Senior Softball League saw Squadron-Leader Martin's No. 3 Training Command team, occupants of first place in the league standing when the schedule finished, eliminate the sixth place Swans in two straight games. Both of the games, however, were close affairs and could easily have gone either way. The Airmen won the first game 6-3 and the second 7-6.

At this writing the series between the No. 12 equipment Depot and the Wireless School is "even-tempered" at one game apiece. The deciding game in this series is scheduled for this evening at Westmount Park. The No. 12 outfit topped the first game 6-4 but dropped the second 10-3.

In the local derby between the Dodgers and Royals, the Royals upset the Dodgers and jumped into a one game lead in the series by winning the first game on Monday evening 5-2. These teams met in the second game of the series last night and in the event of the Dodgers winning, the third and deciding game of the series will be played tomorrow evening.

If the weatherman doesn't butt in, the winners of the No. 12-Wireless series will meet the winners of the Royals-Dodgers series on Monday night in the first game of another series to decide the team to meet the No. 3 Command team in the final series for the title. The second game of this series would be scheduled for next Wednesday evening. All the play-off games are scheduled to start at 6.45 p.m. instead of the usual 7 p.m. hour.

The Swans lacked a pitcher in both of their games with the No. 3 Training Command team but the substitutes they used did effective work. Desse Brown hurled a fair game in the first game of the series and it was not his fault that the team lost. A jittery sixth inning in which the Swans' infield bobbled the ball all around gave the Airmen three runs and enough to break up a close game.

Bonus for Fanning Makes Star of Novikoff

Gets $10 For Swinging On Third Strike

CAN'T LOSE; LOSES BALL

Fans Shouted For and Got Mad Russian

New York.—What so suddenly transformed Louis Novikoff from an All-America out to an outstanding National League slugger?

The change came just when Jimmy Wilson and the others had made up their minds that, as a major league hitter, Lou Novikoff was an excellent harmonica player, Irish tenor and gag man.

But Chicago Cub fans, hungry for someone to root for, shouted for Novikoff until Jim Gallagher suggested that the Mad Russian be employed regularly.

President Gallagher grasped the bucks office value of the Bruins' first colorful performer since Hack Wilson.

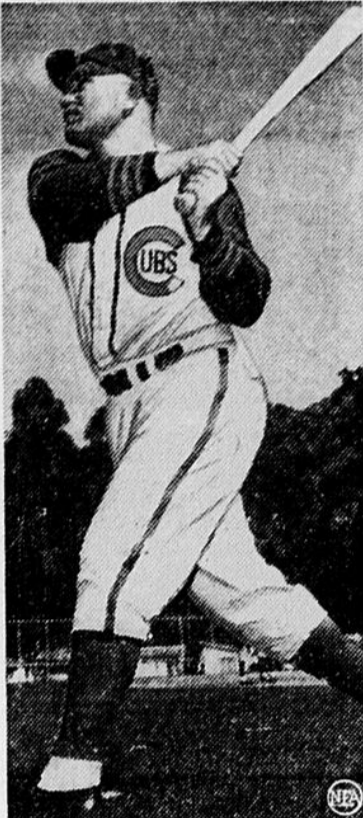

That gave Novikoff his first real big league opportunity.

Manager Wilson lectured Novikoff on hustle, related the success stories of others who refused to permit adversity to get them down. He told Novikoff the story of Morrie Aronovitch, who had that one big year with the Phillies on little more than the old college try.

WRIGLEY HAS HAD TO PAY LOU NOVIKOFF ONLY $30

But the momentum that swept Novikoff, from a bloke who could not hit the ball out of the infield and took too many third strikes to a confident .300, third-slugger of tremendous power, came when Philip K. Wrigley gave the squatty gent from Los Angeles' Boyle Heights a $10 bonus for striking out swinging.

Novikoff, who led every minor league in which he performed, is a free-swinging bad ball hitter. He is just as likely to hit a ball over his head or a pitch out or to pop one as he is to pickle a poppin.

Lou Novikoff has hit ball from town to town since Philip K. Wrigley gave him bonus for striking out swinging.

Naturally, Novikoff was advised against that in the big show. The result was that, in guarding against the practice, he looked at too many third strikes.

That is, he did until Owner Phil Wrigley called him into his office.

When he realized he couldn't lose, Novikoff started losing the ball.

Magnate Wrigley has had to pay him only $30 to date, for he has led a third strike slip by without taking a raffle at it only three times since they made their little deal.

With his newly-found freedom of movement, Novikoff also refused to further fall for soft stuff—the change of pace and such.

NOVIKOFF RESTORES WRIGLEY'S INTEREST

In addition to giving the Cubs badly needed violence, Novikoff restored what little interest Wrigley had in baseball.

They now telephone Wrigley when Larruping Louie manufactures a home run in a game the owner is unable to attend. They long-distanced the gum tycoon in Washington not long ago when his hero slapped another.

The National League was criticized somewhat for not naming Novikoff and his teammate, Bill Nicholson, for the All-Star game. Novikoff and Nicholson are two of the mighty few in the senior circuit who smite the ball for magnificent distances.

Novikoff is slow and not a good outfielder. When he makes what appears to be an unusual catch now and then, it is due as much to awkwardness as skill. He plays hitters poorly and is an uncertain catch. His arm is only fair.

But the mob loves him.

As long as Lou Novikoff continues to press the fat of the bat against the ball, he will look like a Tris Speaker to the paying guests.

And, as Jim Gallagher made plain, the customer is always right.

TENNIS GAME FINALS NOW NEARING END

The ladies' open doubles tournament now underway on the municipal tennis courts is well on towards the end and if rain or bad weather doesn't intervene, the finals are expected to be played on Friday evening at the adult courts.

The quarter-finals were due to be played last evening with the semis on tonight. The quarter-finalists are the teams of Dot Ross and Enid McNichol, Mary Powers and Olga Pollock, Evelyn McMahon and Doris Manthorpe, Ann Hoffman and Faith MacCrear, Mrs. Daman and Mrs. McNaughton, Bea Berini and Sheila Tremblay, D'Arcy Hubbell and Mary Pike, Mrs. Edwards and Mary Scott.

The entry sheet for the men's closed singles is now up on the court notice boards. This tournament will start on Monday, August 17th, and the entry list will be closed on Tuesday evening, August 11th. This tournament is open to all players who are not members of any other tennis court or who play all of their tennis on municipal courts.

R. Babbage Again Wins At Putting

R. H. Babbage duplicated his feat of last week when he copped the putting honors in the tournament held on the adult course at King George Park on Thursday evening. Babbage carded an 80 for the thirty-six holes, two strokes better than the runner-up, F. W. Denegate.

Although the winner did not succeed in getting an ace during the thirty-six hole stint, a steady stream of deuces enabled him to capture the event.

Another tournament will be held this evening at the same course in King George Park and the starting time is 8 p.m.

B. LUNNY WINS TOURNAMENT

The boys in the Summer League at Westmount Park had two well attended tournaments during the week. In the annual competition held last Thursday afternoon Bob Lunny captured top honors when he defeated Rene Chatebois in the final round. Third place in the event went to Al Lositto. Another tournament will be held this afternoon on the West-ern courts.

held this afternoon on the West-ern courts.

In the golf tournament which was held on Tuesday afternoon at King George Park, Harold Young ended Morry Barrie's string of victories at three straight. Young carded a 93 for thirty-six holes to come out an easy winner in the Class A group. Barry was the runner-up in this section with a score of 102. Brian Tiffin and Bill McVey tied for third place with scores of 119.

John Drury won the Class B title when he defeated Bob Lunny in a nine-hole play-off. Both players had carded 124 for the original thirty-six holes. Drury won the event in the play-off when he negotiated the extra nine holes in 32 strokes, one better than Lunny. Another golf tournament will be held on next Tuesday afternoon at the same place starting at 2.30 p.m.

Bond led the winners at bat with two hits apiece. Danny Titleman, who was the only Swan player to get to Scully with any consequence, led the Swans at bat with two hits.

In the second game of the series the Swans to all appearances had the game in the bag after they scored six times in the fourth inning. Rallies by the No. 3 Command team however in the fifth and sixth innings which were good for two and three runs respectively decided the game.

Jack Keen and Manus were the big guns for the winners with three hits each, while Danny Titleman again got to Scully for a pair of hits, both of them doubles in the big fourth inning. Jackie Coleman hurled for the Swans and did a fair enough job but Scully on the mound for the Airmen fanned twelve.

The Royals upset the second place Dodgers on Monday evening when they capitalized on three bunts and Bill Willock's long single to score five times which was enough to give them the ball game. This was Allen Dyke's first defeat in the league. Meronek on the mound for the Royals hurled one of his good games.

Lloyd Daniels led the Royals at bat with three hits, Meronek and Sonny Prevost were right behind with two each, which accounted for all but one of the hits obtained off Dyke.

Noel Romney was the only Dodger to get to Meronek for more than one hit.

The No. 12 Equipment Depot team took the Wireless School team into camp in the first game of their series by scoring three times in the last half of the sixth inning to come from behind a four run deficit and win the game 6-4.

Bessette and Baril were the best for the winners while Bradley hurled a neat game striking out seven men.

Don Ireland and Kelter led the Wireless squad at bat with a pair of hits apiece.

The second game of the series which was played on Tuesday night was Wireless School all the way. After the No. 12 team had tied the score at 2-all in the second inning, the boys from Queen Mary Road banged out eight runs in the remainder of the innings to run out a 10-3 winner.

Hobbs with three hits including a circuit clout was the best for the winners while Kedej the No. 12 Depot's hurler helped his cause with two safe hits.

ROYALS, LEAFS TO MEET HERE THIS SUNDAY

Sunday's double-header between the Royals and the Maple Leafs at the Montreal Stadium will give local fans a chance to see Burleigh Grimes' surprising Toronto club in action for the first time in several weeks. Grimes, ex-pilot of the Royals, started from scratch last winter, taking the remains of a cellar club, and at the present moment has his team fighting for second place in the league standings.

The Royals, after their second place finish in 1941, hope to win the same spot this season, so there will be plenty of rivalry between the two Canadian clubs. Grimes' club has been able to win only one game in Montreal so far this season.

Burgess Whitehead, one of the league's outstanding second basemen, will be on display during the series, as will Eddie Lepp, Russell, Wyrstek, Hallett, Brandt, Rubeling and the Canadian boy, Frank Colman. Hallett is the strike-out king of the league.

The Maple Leafs and Royals will be absent from Montreal until Sunday, August 23.

Injuries have prevented the Royals from making a real bid for the International League pennant this season. Just about the time the club was set to overtake the Bears, Stanley Rojek, the league's best shortstop, took sick and had to go into the hospital. The club had been able to stay close to the leaders despite two protracted losses of Jack Graham, 1941 home run king, but when their star shortfielder took the count, the club began to have really serious difficulties. Then Alex Kampouris was added. Rojek returned to the line-up, and once more the team seemed ready to surge forward. Next it was Dixie Howell who got hurt.

Howell is regarded the outstanding receiver in the league. His hitting was light, but his brilliant catching and throwing more than offset his weakness with the willow. Through it all, Manager Sukeforth has kept his chin up, and the Royals are still in there battling.

Gene Moore and Carl Furillo have been two very bright spots. Moore looks like he might lead the league in hitting. Furillo's brilliant play has been a constant source of delight to the fans. Then too, Eddie Albosta has developed into a fine pitcher and has been turning in winning games with regularity.

USE LITTLE WATER

Cooking with small amounts of water reduces cooking time, saves food value and fuel. Turn the heat down after food starts boiling.

NAVY RADIOS DO NOT GIVE OUT POSITION

Sets Are "Screened" So They Cannot "Re-radiate" and Give Enemy Any Information

Portable radio sets for ships' crews which do not give away positions to the enemy are now in use in Britain's Royal Navy.

The Navy has received more than 15,000 sets and £25,000 raised by voluntary subscriptions has been spent by the Admiralty in supplying them. Corvettes, minesweepers, sloops, submarines and torpedo-boats are among the small craft whose ship's companies can now listen in when off duty. As the sets are "screened", they do not re-radiate, and so do not disclose the ship's position to the enemy.

The manufacturers made several modifications in a standard portable radio, giving it an exceptionally strong cabinet and fitting up the "chassis" so that the set would be able to stand up to the many hard knocks likely to be received under Service conditions. It has roughly $80 separate parts.

No accumulator is necessary and the battery gives 240 hours' service. The makers have been able to issue fresh batteries at the rate of 1,000 a week, and 10,000 valves have been sent out in the past twelve months. The Royal Air Force has been supplied with 5,000 sets and the Army has had 5,000. They are being used in many remote districts of Britain as well as in Iceland and the Middle East.

The manufacturers carried on producing the sets throughout the "blitz" although their factories and workshops were actually razed to the ground and many essential parts and machine tools destroyed. Despite these difficulties, they have been able to carry on, and there are now more than 100,000 of their sets in use.

TO SERVE ORANGE JUICE

Orange juice should always be extracted just before use and never allowed to stand, since juice that is not fresh loses flavor. Prepared and bottled orange juice beverages are not safe substitutes for the fresh juice and will not provide the proper vitamin protection and other healthful qualities. A mechanical or electrical extractor, or a good hand reamer, makes extraction easy.
