A PHANTOM PORTRAIT.

The Very Strange Story of a Remarkable Coincidence. Dear Mike, Will you look in at my shop this evening?

I had nothing particular to do, so I went word round to Dick that I should turn up, having first made sure that Teddy O'Brien was in the room.

"What do you think of that?" he asked, abruptly. "It's a wonderful head," said Teddy O'Brien. "A face to haunt one," said Quiller.

"You may not tell me, for I don't know," said Quiller. "You may not tell me, for I don't know," said Quiller.

OLD WORLD OPINION. Referring to the reception to Lord Carnarvon in London, after five years' experience as Governor of South Africa, the Times says: "There is no need to be enquiring into the sentiments that bind the colonies to the mother country, nor is it any question of the public and private than to threaten them with the rod."

Discussing a series of letters in the Times, in which the writer suggests, as a settlement of the negro problem in the United States, that the negro population be gradually shipped off to the home of their ancestors in Africa, the London Graphic says: "To us it seems that this notable scheme is highly objectional."

Half the battle consists in keeping up a cheerful spirit. When depression comes, and the clouds, when the spirit is loaded with depressing pain, all work becomes a drag, and the burden and anxiety. Whatever is done is carried on under compulsion, with a will that it could be avoided, and a feeling of pleasure—if so mournful a kind of congratulation can be called a pleasure.

related of him that while he was in Rome from Asia to be confessed, woe-begone language of the "free" laborer is attacked by gangs of ruffians. This apostrophe of "pressure" is becoming a national scandal, and it will pay little for the courage and good sense of Englishmen if they do not contrive to get away with this abominable system of interference with the laborer by the means of the law.

Discussing a recently published volume entitled "A Plea for Liberty," the London Graphic says: "It may be worth while to offer a few observations on the great change which has taken place in the last fifty years in the popular view of these momentous problems, and on the causes which have brought about this change."

Clyde meetings are being held each night in the county. Supporters of Mr. Kirkpatrick, the Conservative, have had arguments. Haycock gave the policy of the Reform party in a forcible and interesting manner.

Duncan McEneaney, Grit, tried to show Hogan the errors of his political course. Senator Sullivan spoke for three-quarters of an hour, and then the speaker referred to J. L. Haycock, Grit, in referring to loyalty. He mentioned the agitation for a change in the computing of currency, made by the Canadian people in 1857, and which was finally secured after a desperate fight with the Tories, who opposed the change on the ground that it would destroy the system of currency even though it would be a benefit to the country.

CALEDONIAS AND THE WALKER MEDALS.

Curling in Ontario—Turf Literature—Box Show in New York—Princeton's Lacrosse Debut—Notes.

Goodwin's Official Turf Guide for 1890 is just out. It is a neatly printed, well bound book of more than one thousand pages, and filled with reliable records of the turf, and a succinct account of all the events of the past year. The races are arranged alphabetically, according to the States and Provinces, and the results are fully given. Besides this valuable record the book contains much general turf information. There is an account of the English racing fixtures of the fastest times, and of the names of the horses with pedigree and names of owners, racing tracks and clubs, and of many other topics of interest to turf men and sportsmen. It is arranged in a most convenient and systematic manner, and will form a valuable addition to the library of every Jockey Club and horse fancier in the country.

The match of the Insurance League, played last night between Phoenix and Guardian, resulted in a draw. The Dreadnaught and the Northern Insurance League played on Monday night, and the former won by a score of 11 to 3.

The Caledonias continued the contest last night for the Walker medals, which accompany the trophy of the Caledonian Club. The following was the playing last night:—

William Morrison vs. T. A. Williams, 11 to 10. A. W. Hughes vs. P. O. Watson, skip, 14 to 10. A. Murray, skip, 19 to 10. A. Young vs. W. Farmers, 11 to 10. W. Scott vs. J. H. Robertson, skip, 17 to 10. R. Wilson, skip, 22 to 10.

The Crescents will hold their club and green steeplechase on the 20th. Ryan and Needham fought a seventy-six round match in Minneapolis. Ryan won after a very hard battle.

BOILER INSPECTION.

THE DUTIES OF BOILER INSPECTORS.

The Boiler Explosion at Quebec—Locomotive Types and Damages Attaching to Them—Mr. Champagne's Report.

"Have you any theory as to the cause of the explosion of the boiler of the Quebec mill?" was asked of Mr. Champagne, the boiler inspector.

Judging from the terrible effects of the explosion, I think the boilers must have been extra strong, and it must have been due to the bad fittings, but in the absence of certain information I cannot say positively.

Not an accident out of a hundred, but one in a thousand, occurs in the operation of a boiler, and the cause is generally of the type of boiler, where the stays are greatly affected by the overheating of the boiler, on which depends the strength of the boiler, which the stays may be covered or uncovered by the least move of the water level.

This he says you make out that the locomotive type is more dangerous than any other.

"Only as regards the water level, as the least move is likely to cover or uncover the large flat surface exposed to the heat," answered Mr. Champagne.

"What is your mode of testing boilers?" "Boilers are tested up to 150 lbs. when they carry 100 lbs. and so on in proportion. Immediately after the test and before allowing a certificate, the inspector has to receive a declaration under oath from the boiler maker as to the quality of the material, workmanship, mode of staying, etc.

The boiler inspector has also to ascertain that the boiler is in conformity with the law taken, and this I have followed out since appointed.

"If you have any suggestions to offer which might lead to a solution of the mystery?" "If they could find out the size, type, and thickness of the plates of the boiler, which exploded, also the type, number of safety valves, the thinnest piece of the boiler, how riveted, the age, and might be able to tell you the cause of the explosion, and how the explosion occurred."

THE BOILER INSPECTOR'S REPORT. The Boiler Inspector has compiled his report for the year, and the amount of work done may be detailed as follows: Inspection of boilers, examination of persons in charge of steam engines, boilers, and services rendered to other committees.

Mr. Champagne made 1381 visits of inspection, exceeding fifty the year before, and 497 hydraulic tests; discovered 110 imperfect boilers, of which 7 were condemned, and 420 second class in New York in 1890.

169 certificates issued, 393,408 applicants for positions for the year, and 1890. Mr. Champagne also rendered services to other committees, and was a member of the City Hall Committee. He contends that there is reason for congratulation owing to the absence of boiler accidents, and with an increase of work. Reference is also made to the annual convention of the Boiler Inspectors of the United States, which was held in New York in the month of September last, of which Mr. Champagne was re-elected vice-president.
