DI PIEMENTE'S PASSENGERS FREE.

New York, July 22.—One hundred and eighteen first cabin passengers of the steamer Principe di Piemente who have fretted for several days at the tightly drawn quarantine lines, were given clear bills of health by Health Officer Doty late yesterday afternoon, and landed later in Jersey City. Steerage passengers and crew, however, were left aboard the vessel.

Hoffman Island, where are detained several hundred immigrants from Italy's cholera-infested districts, also discharged forty-six of the passengers and crew of the steamer Moltke. The delegation was taken to Ellis Island. No further deaths and no outbreaks are reported.

The steamer Roman reached quarantine last night from Marseilles and Barcelona with 72 passengers in the steerage and was detained. She usually takes passengers at Naples, but did not stop there this trip and will probably be released today.

WHOLESALE GRAFT IN IMPORTATION OF CHINESE HERE

Report of Judge Murphy, Tabled in Commons, Contains Startling Statements.

OFFICIALS FOUND GUILTY PROSECUTIONS ARE URGED

But Premier Says Guilty Parties are Now Safe in China.

Ottawa, July 22.—That a system of direct fraud to secure the entry of Chinamen to Canada, on the ground that they were merchants and that this exempted them from the head tax, has flourished at Vancouver since 1907, is one of the main findings in a voluminous report by Mr. Justice Murphy, of British Columbia, which was tabled in the House yesterday.

Collector of Customs Bowell, while found negligent in regard to Chinese immigration, is exonerated from wrong-doing, and reference is made to the great demands upon his time. Charges against Hon. William Templeman and the Liberal Executive of Vancouver are found to be untrue, but it is declared that Mr. T. R. McInnes was guilty of intrigue with Gordon Grant and the Chinese interpreter, David Lew, the object being to serve personal ends.

Some Drastic Findings.

The evidence is revived at great length, and following is the judge's summary in conclusion:—

(1) The charges, personal and official, against Hon. William Templeman, are found to be entirely without foundation.

(2) The charges against certain members of the Liberal executive of Vancouver were shown to be untrue.

(3) The existence was demonstrated of an intrigue on the part of Mr. T. R. E. McInnes, with whom were associated David Lew and Gordon Grant, to establish some sort of connection with the administration of the Chinese Restriction Act at Vancouver by obtaining control of the Chinese interpreter, and possibly in other ways. Its object was to serve some personal end.

(4) Mr. Foster, Government secret service officer, was utilized to advance this intrigue.

(5) Ample opportunity has existed at Vancouver for illegal entry of Chinamen.

(6) The administration of the Chinese Restriction Act at Victoria has been as careful and as effective as the act would permit.

(7) The port of Union Bay is practically free for entering Chinamen and smuggling opium. This obtains also at Nanaimo, Ladysmith and Boat Harbor.

(8) A system of direct fraud to secure illegal entry of Chinese into Canada as merchants has flourished at Vancouver since 1907. It is impossible to say how many have thus entered.

(9) The interpreter Yip On was directly concerned. Numbers of Chinese have entered as merchants' sons by wholesale registration as members of merchant firms, whereas they came in to be laundrymen, laborers, etc.

(10) The method of identification was vague. The watch on ships farcical.

(11) Mr. Bowell, collector, is exempted from wrong-doing.

(12) Some suspicion rests upon the new interpreter, Pooa Shun Lung, by reason of his former connection with a Toronto firm suspected by the police.

(13) The charge that customs officials sold opium at the seizure is untrue.

(14) The quantity of opium coming in is regulated by the demand. Consumption must be discouraged by drastic amendments.

Prosecutions Recommended.

Mr. Justice Murphy recommended the prosecution of Yip On and Yip Sue Poly, and that until this was done the report should not be made public. Between April, 1910, and January, 1911, 4,760 Chinamen came to Canada.

Another recommendation is that merchants from China should get a certificate of standing from the Canadian Trade Commissioner in China and also furnish evidence of intention to go into business here.

The age limits should be increased to 12 years for merchants' sons. Another suggestion, since given effect to, is that Chinese immigration be controlled by the Superintendent of Immigration, instead of by the Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, as before.

When tabling the report in the House, the Premier stated that he had again conferred with the Minister of Justice on the subject, and had learned hat the men whose prosecution was recommended were now in China, so that there was now no obstacle to its publication.

Mr. Taylor and the Evidence.

A little later Mr. J. D. Taylor took occasion to justify further his reading of the evidence on Thursday as he then "had no certainty that he would ever have the report." He further expressed regret that the Premier had indicated that there would be no prosecutions. There were, he affirmed, persons in Canada equally culpable with the Chinese. He expressed surprise, too, that Mr. Templeman had made no reply to the charges made against him.

This brought a reply from Sir Wilfrid, who first came to the defence of his colleague. There was no need of Mr. Templeman making any reply, he said, because Justice Murphy had altogether and absolutely exonerated the Minister. He denied that he had said that there would be no prosecutions. He had merely stated that the only persons mentioned for prosecution by the Commissioner were in China. He added that the only person, not a Chinaman, who was suspected of wrong-doing, was not appointed by the present Government.

HOUSE HEARS OF EXTENSION OF THE PARCEL SYSTEM

Minister Announces That Department is Now Having 100,000 Rural Mail Boxes Manufactured.

RECIPROCITY ORDER OF DAY ON MONDAY

Member for Algoma Declares Agreement Harmful to Workers of Dominion.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Press Gallery, House of Commons, Ottawa, July 22.—The post office is now conducting an investigation with a view to the extension of the parcel post system in Canada on the same scale as the system in Great Britain. Under the British system the limit of weight is eleven pounds. The weight in Canada is now only five pounds.

This announcement was made by the Postmaster-General in reply to an appeal by Mr. W. F. Maclean for post office competition with the express companies. Mr. Maclean also urged the necessity of decreased freight rates. These things, he said, would be much more valuable to the farmers that "the much-vaunted reciprocity."

Mr. Lemieux opened with the remark that he was a believer in telepathy. He had been studying the question of parcel post just recently, and Mr. Ross, superintendent of city offices, who was an advocate of the extension of the system, was now investigating it. Mr. Maclean had stated that the railways for the express companies had in the past blocked this extension of State ownership.

"I cannot say," went on Mr. Lemieux, "that the railway corporation is the enemy, but there is this fact, that the moment the announcement was made that we proposed to go into this business, the department was flooded with petitions from the rural parts of the country, from farmers and storekeepers, against it. The petitions stated that the departmental stores would reap the benefits of such a change. I may add that all the petitions were couched in the same terms, no matter what province they came from. I was surprised at this, because I thought it would benefit the farmers.

"And the storekeepers," put in Mr. Maclean.

Mr. Lemieux added that the department was now manufacturing 100,000 rural mail boxes, which was a step towards a parcel post system. He would expect that if such a system were inaugurated the railways would ask for higher pay for carrying the mails. He was convinced, however, that the parcel post had been in England, France and Germany a success.

EXPRESS RATES SAID TO BE EXCESSIVE.

The announcement led to considerable discussion, in which Messrs. Lalor and Sproule and other members described express rates as excessive.

Mr. Lemieux asked Mr. Lalor whether the opinion in his riding was in favor of, or against a parcel post system.

Mr. Lalor replied that it was inclined to be opposed by reason of the advantage it gave the large stores in the cities.

This discussion took place on the motion to go into committee on reciprocity, which was made, as usual, at the opening of the sitting. On the same motion Mr. C. Boyce and Mr. W. R. Smyth, of Algoma, brought up the question of the election lists in the unorganized disctricts.

Mr. Boyce stated that in 1908 the statutory time from August 10 to October 15 had been found altogether too short, and that the judges in New Ontario had adopted a judgment to that effect. He further stated that there were large numbers of unqualified voters placed on the lists, and there was no opportunity to prevent it.

Mr. Smyth gave as an instance of this abuse the presence of 680 men at the bush poll of whom only 280 would take the oath when challenged. In that poll, Mr. Smyth said he got only 106 votes.

SIR ALAN AYLESWORTH ON THE NEXT ELECTION.

Sir Alan Aylesworth said that these were the first complaints that he had heard against the working of the act in 1908, and he had felt gratified, as the act was drafted by himself.

"This year," he went on, "there should be no trouble, for no one, I assume, has any expectation that the general elections which follow upon a dissolution of this Parliament are anywhere in sight, or are likely to take place, until there has been at least one session, or probably two sessions more."

This statement was greeted with loud laughter by the Opposition members, and Mr. E. A. Lancaster called out:

"Better withdraw reciprocity, then."

The Minister of the Interior made a statement in regard to Howard Courtice, of the Interior Department, who was reported as being engaged in sending out Liberal literature. Mr. Oliver stated that Mr. Courtice had been on leave, without pay, from July 1 till the House resumed, and then had been called back to the department, where he was at work on Wednesday.

NOT AN EMPIRE, FIVE INDEPENDENT NATIONS, HE SAYS

Remarkable Statement Attributed to Premier Fisher of Australia by London Publication.

Canadian Associated Press.

London, July 22.—The Review of Reviews publishes a remarkable interview with Premier Fisher, of Australia, who is alleged to have said: "Don't talk to me of Empire. We are not an Empire. No end of mischief has come from the use of that word. We are a very loose associaation of five nations, each independent each for the time being willing to remain in fraternal co-operative union with Great Britain and each other, but only on condition that we may at any time and for any cause, terminate the connection.

"We are independent self-governing communities, absolutely untrammelled by anw laws, treaties or constitutions. We are free to take our own course according to what we believe to be our own interests, without any one being able to prevent us. There is no necessity for us to say we will or will not take part in any of England's wars. If we are threatened we should have to decide whether to defend ourselves, and if we thought the war unjust, and England's enemy in the right we should have the right to haul down the Union Jack, hoist our own flag, and start on our own account.

"We don't expect to be attacked, and dont contemplate, a declaration of independence, because, except as a riddance of the risk of being attacked by England's foes, we could gain nothing, as we are as independent as any other sovereign state, and we might lose much."

THE FRESH AIR FUND

Kindly People Help to Save the Lives of the Little Ones—What Montreal's Practical Charitable are Accomplishing.

It is gratifying to see that those who have kindly feeling for the women and children of Montreal remember that there is a hot season. The list given to-day demonstrates how those with sweet charity in themselves do not forget to help those who are caring for the mothers and babes.

The heat and stifling atmosphere of any city at this time of year is troublesome to the adult in robust health, but what of the worn-out mothers and the little children? The care of them is one of the best and most practical charitable enterprises of the day. The opportunity that the Fresh Air Fund affords of sending them to the lakeside is a veritable life-saving enterprise.

Fortunately, many who know the value of a visit to the country in the heated term do not forget to provide the Fresh Air Fund with the means to let the tired mothers and children of the city enjoy a trip to the Home.

What would the infantile mortality of Montreal be if it were not for the Fresh Air Fund? Since last acknowledgmentThe Montreal Star has received the following contributoins to the Fresh Air Fund:

Darrah—McCutcheon.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McCutcheon, West Brome, Que., was the scene of a pretty wedding, when their daughter, Miss Florence Louise McCutcheon, was married to Mr. Roswell R. R. Darrah. The Rev. Mr. Brundage performed the ceremony. Miss May Brundage played the wedding march. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a white silk gown, with tulle veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Nina Darrah, sister of the bridegroom. Mr. George A. McCutcheon was best man. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Darrah left for Montreal, the bride travelling in a costume of Coronation blue, and black hat.

Kneeland—Ferris.

A quiet wedding took place on July 20th, at the residence of Mr. James Arnold, Grenville, when Mrs. Arnold's sister, Miss Dora Ferris, was married to Prof. A. W. Kneeland, M.A., B.C.L., of Macdonald College. The bride, who was given away by her father, Mr. Robert Ferris, of Buckingham, was unattended. She was gowned in white hand-embroidered Marquisette. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Baugh, of Grenville. Prof. Kneeland and his bride are taking a month's trip down the Gulf of Newfoundland and other points, after which they will reside at Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

ROYAL EDWARD INSTITUTE TO GET A WORK OF ART

Replica of Beautiful Memorial Tablet Being Prepared for Montreal Building.

According to an announcement just received by the president, Lt.-Col. Burland, the Royal Edward Institute will shortly be enriched by the possession of a beautiful work of art from the studio of Mr. Toscombe John, R.A., which will be a gift from Mr. William James, of West Dean Park, Chichester, England.

It will be remembered that his late Majesty King Edward VII. was the guest of Mr. James when he opened the doors of the Institute (by cable) in October, 1909. A beautiful commemorative marble tablet has since been erected at West Dean Park by Mr. James to mark the spot where the late King stood while performing the unique ceremony, and it is a replica of this tablet in bronze which the sculptor has been commissioned to erect for presentation to the Royal Edward Institute, "trusting" as the generous donor modestly puts it in his letter to the president "that it will meet with your approval."

It is unnecessary to say that the announcement has been received with intense satisfaction by the founders and officers of the Institute.

It may be mentioned in this connection that the work of the dispensary has increased so rapidly and steadily since the opening of the building that it has become necessary to enlarge the premises. At an informal meeting held at the Institute, Colonel Burland, with the medical superintendent, Dr. Harding, and Mr. Spence, the architect of the building decided that it would be necessary to increase the waiting-room accommodation and to open two observation wards. These alterations will be recommended to the Board at the next meeting.

An idea of the extent of the work now being carried on among the tuberculosis poor of the city by the Dispensary may be gathered from the fact that the account for cod liver oil emulsion alone supplied to patients in one year is over $700. Large amounts are also necessarily expended in relief. During the month of June a generous donation of $500 was received for this purpose by the Relief Committee from the National Council of Women and the Federation Nationale as their share of the proceeds of Tag Day, but such windfalls are rare, regular contributions to this fund being few and far between, though even the smallest amounts are gratefully received for the purpose by the Treasurer of the Relief Committee, Mrs. Fred Bacon.

ST. ALOYSIUS PICNIC.

Elaborate Preparations Under Way to Make Outing the Success of the Season.

The annual mid-summer picnic of St Aloysius parish will take place on Wednesday, July 26, on the Shamrock Grounds, where elaborate arrangements have been made to receive what is expected to be the bumper gathering of the season.

Cars, specially provided for the purpose, will be in readiness to take the pleasure seekers from the corner of St. Catherine east and Nicolet streets at half past nine in the morning. Refreshments will be served by the ladies of the parish and altogether a splendid outing will be enjoyed by all who are fortunate enough to be able to take part in the outing. The officers of the committee in charge state that there will be room for all.

CANADIAN HONORED.

Prof. Frank Norman Appointed Instructor of American Dances by German Convention.

Writing from Magdeburg Germany, on the 11th instant, Mr. Frank Norman states that at the German Dancing-masters' Convention, held in that city, he was appointed instructor for American dances, which are becoming very popular in Germany, especially the gavotte and the Spanish-Boston. A vote of thanks was tendered him by the convention and the British National Anthem was played in his honor.

Next winter, Mr. Norman purposes introducing in Montreal some of the folk dances and songs which are so popular in Germany.

At the Ice Palace in Berlin, Mr. Norman saw a representation of "A day in Montreal," given on skates, which he hopes to be able to reproduce at the Arena next winter.

MR. JAMES MACKAY DIES.

Chicago Business Man Was Former Montrealer.

Mr. James Mackay, a former resident of Montreal, passed away at Chicago, Ill., of typhoid fever.

Mr. Mackay was prominent in the heating and plumbing manufacturing and supply business in the United States, being secretary of the Kellogg, Mackay Company, of Chicago, with branches in other Western cities, he was also a member of the leading associations in his line, was a charter member and past president of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, and also a past president of the Illinois Chapter of that organization.

Mr. Mackay was born in Montreal in 1853, received his education in this city, and also learned his business here. Going to the United States when a young man he quickly made a name for himself as a leader in his chosen profession. Although ill for some weeks his death was hardly expected, and came as a shock alike to his family, friends and business associates. He was a member of the Masonic Fraternity, including the Lodge Chapter, Commandery and Mystic Shrine. A Masonic service was held at his home in Chicago and his remains were brought to Montreal for interment in Mount Royal cemetery.

He was eldest son of the late Andrew Mackay of this city, and is survived by a widow and daughter, also ratives of Montreal, and several sisters and brothers, including William M. Mackay, of New York; Alexander Mackay, of Alex. Mackay and Co., and David M. Mackay, of this city.

A Novel Saw Set.

A novel kind of saw set has been invented and patented by Mr. Louis Dragon, of Duvernay, Alta. The object of the invention is to produce a saw set for all kinds of saws, whether cross-cut, circular, or hand-saws, so that even an unskilled hand may set correctly either to bend or straighten the teeth of any saw when not set perfectly. One end of the invention consists of a curved guide by means of which the setting may be determined automatically.

Injured Woman Died.

At 3.35 yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Robert Maw, of 187 St. Antoine street, died in the Royal Victoria Hospital from injuries received at 9.20 in the morning, when she fell to the pavement while getting off a car at the corner of Park avenue and St. Viateur street. The body was taken to the morgue.

The investigation into the so-called "Smelter Trust" has been dropped in New York, the District Attorney finding the charges without foundation.

NO OVERCROWDING.

This is Report of Officers Sent to Check Ferry Boats.

The Department of Marine and Fisheries has received complaints of overcrowding of the boats that go to King Edward Park. Mr. Giroux, the tide surveyor, who has charge of such work, was notified, and as a result the latter sent down two men last week to find out if there was any foundation for such complaints. The officers who made the inspection reported that everything was all right. The figures taken by the two officers are as follows: The White Star, which can give passage to 700 people, had only 600 on board; and the Imperial, which is capable of taking 835 passengers had only 500.

Work of Dominion Bridge Extension Advancing.

Mr. Wm. Linford has been elected to replace Mr. Duncan upon the Protestant Board of School Trustees.

Mrs. G. Dunn has been made the recipient of a handsome cabinet of silverware on retiring from her position in the offices of the Dominion Bridge Company.

The work of rebuilding and enlarging the C. P. R. bridge across the St. Lawrence is progressing rapidly, and it is evident that no regard is to be paid to the representations sent in regarding the need of a foot passageway to Caughnawaga.

Owing to the mischievous setting fire to large brush piles in the new park after dark, the whole city turned out in alarm a night or two ago, expecting to find a general conflagration in progress. No damage of any account was done.

It is again rumored that one of the large departmental stores has purchased a site here with the intention of catering to the business which now finds its way to Montreal.

PEERS WITHOLD THEIR DECISION UNTIL MONDAY

But It Is Practically Certain That Their Opposition to the Veto Bill Has Ended.

NOT LIKELY TO FORCE THE EXTREME MEASURE

Asquith's Letter Held to Foreshadow Govt.'s Acceptance of Minor Modifications.

London, July 22.—Following the Cabinet meeting yesterday, Premier Asquith wrote a second letter to Lord Lansdowne, asking for assurance that the House of Lords will pass the Veto Bill in its original form. It is understood that Lord Lansdowne has been unable to give this assurance.

This is taken to mean that the insurgent peers are still standing out, and that their resistance may still make it necessary to resort to the extreme measure of creating new peers to meet the situation, in accordance with the Premier's letter to Mr. Balfour yesterday. It is generally believed, however, that the recalcitrants will capitulate at the last minute.

The Premier's letter to Mr. Asquith was as follows:

"Dear Mr. Balfour:—I think it is courteous and right, before any public decisions are announced, to let you know how we regard the political situation. When the Parliament Bill in the form which it has now assumed returns to the House of Commons we shall be compelled to ask that House to disagree with the Lords amendments. Under the circumstances, should the necessity arise the Government will advise the King to exercise his prerogative to secure the passing into law of the bill in substantially the same form in which it left the House of Commons, and His Majesty has been pleased to signify that he will consider it his duty to accept and act on that advice.

'Yours sincerely,

"H. H. ASQUITH."

Three meetings were held to discuss the situation. The Cabinet assembled early with a full attendance and sat for two hours. Later the Conservative leaders of both houses met at Mr. Balfours' residence, the Marquis of Lansdowne, Lord Curzon of Kedleston, the Marquis of Londonderry, the Earl of Selborne, Austen Chamberlain, the Right Hon. Henry Chaplin, the Earl of Halsbury and the Marquis of Salisbury being the principal figures of the conference.

The last and most impressive gathering was at Lansdowne House, which has been the scene of many important political meetings. More than two hundred peers, among them almost all the greatest names of their order assembled and listened to the reading of the Prime Minster's letter and practically decided that they must accept the inevitable with the best grace they can.

Peers Reserve Decision.

Lord Lansdowne, Lord Halsbury, the Duke of Norfolk, the Duke of Devonshire, the Duke of Bedford, Lord Salisbury, the Duke of Somerset, Lord Curzon, Lord Selborne and several lesser lights made speeches, after which a statement was given out that the peers reserved decision as to their course until Premier Asquith's announcement of the policy of the Government on Monday. Apparently this was mere temporizing. The Lords are not anxious to emphasize their surrender, but, speaking privately, few failed to say that they no longer considered themselves, in Lord Lansdowne's words, free agents and will yield to the Government's threat to invoke the royal prerogative.

The Earl of Halsbury, the leader of the extremists, strode out of the grounds with fighting fire in his eye. While his compeers admire his stand for the prestige of the Upper Chamber, most of them regard him as an anachronism.

Some of the Lords expounded pessimistic views of the situation. "What is going to happen?" was asked by one. "Government by a Cabinet controlled by rank Socialists," was the tart reply.

Consideration for the King was given by many as the chief reason for dictating the policy of surrender. What the King's feelings are cannot be known, but it is generally believed that he is anxious to avoid the necessity of creating a great number of peers. It is understood that the King always thought that he was bound to follow the advice of the constitutional ministers. This question, however, is distasteful to him, all the responsibility resting on the shoulders of the ministers, not his.

It is understood that when the conciliation committee met in June, 1910, there was an agreement that the King's course, if the conference failed to solve the problem, should be guided by the result of the general election, and by the fact that his father contemplated the same acion.

Minor Modifications.

Premier Asquith's letter gives ground for the belief that the Government will accept some minor modifications of its bill. Those considered most probable are: Placing outside the bill's scope any proposals dealing with the succession to the Crown and the concession of a committee to assist the Speaker in determining what are money bills, but instead of a joint committee of the two houses which the Lords desire, the Government is expected to insist that the committee be composed of members of the House of Commons alone.

SAYS RECIPROCITY AID TO AMERICAN LUMBER INDUSTRY

Algoma Member Declares Pact Means Timber Will Be Manufactured Across Border.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Ottawa, July 22.—In the House of Commons last night there was some further talk over the failure of the census enumerator to secure the return for the Opposition leader. There the upshot was that the census man had called five or six times without seeing anybody, while Mr. Borden's information was that he had called only once. Mr. Fisher will probe deeper.

Mr. Borden inquired why the Oliver committee had not been called. Chairman Clarke answered that he was waiting for the last member. He was expected in a day or two.

The debate on the reciprocity agreement was resumed about nine o'clock, and continued until half past eleven.

Two speeches were delivered by Mr. Claude MacDonnell, of Toronto, and Mr. W. R. Smyth, of Algoma. Mr. Smyth, who is a practical lumberman, condemned the agreement, because it would send out of Canada her timber in unmanufactured form, and build up the manufactures of the United States at Canada's expense. He was not through when the House rose.

At the close, the Finance Minister announced that reciprocity would again be the order of business on Monday.

RAPID TRANSIT GETS SUBWAY CONTRACT

Works Will Involve Expenditure of Fully $225,000,000 in New York.

New York, July 22.—The city has awarded the whole $225,000,000 subway extension to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. By a vote of 12 to 2 the Board of Estimate settled the question which has been pending for many months.

The city will contribute $123,000,000 for the new lines and allow $27,800,000 for subway routes ih has now under construction, making the total expenditure by the taxpayers $150,000,000. The railway company will spend the remaining $75,000,000.

The proposed new routes will embrace the boroughs of Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens and the Bronx, and give rapid transit to many sections which have had to depend upon the slower trolley.

C. P. R. OCEAN RATES HAVE NOT INCREASED

The C. P. R. Steamship Company have not yet made any arrangements for an increase in rates, either for passengers or freight.

This statement was made by Mr. G. M. Bosworth, first vice-president of the company, who returned from London yesterday. As a result of the recent seamen's strike and a raise in wages granted the men, most of the steamship lines have decided to raise the passage fee $2.50, while no definite increase was fixed for the carrying of freight. Whether or not the C. P. R. intend to increase the rates, Mr. Bosworth declined to discuss, but he made it clear that the matter had not been taken up, so far as he knew.

The main object of Mr. Bosworth's visit to England was in connection with the building of two fine new steamships for the Pacific trade, which are to be delivered in the spring of 1913. These two new vessels will be of the latest type, and will have a tonnage of 15,000 tons and a capacity for 1,300 passengers. It is estimated that they will develop an average of 18 knots an hour, and will cost $2,500,000 each.

When completed the two new ships will be put on the run between British Columbia and Oriental ports, and will work in conjunction with the three Empresses at present engaged on that route. Instead of the present schedule, there will be a fortnightly service, with four vessels, the two new boats and the two Empresses. The third Empress will very likely be put on another run. The new vessels will be built by the Fairfield Shipping Company of Glasgow.

CHANCELLOR LLOYD GEORGE DECLARES BRITAIN MUST LEAD

Mansion House Speech Considered Diplomatic Warning to Germany to Go Carefully.

NOT FOR PEACE AT ANY PRICE

Must Maintain Prestige and Position for Benefit of Whole World.

London, July 22.—Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, filled an unusual role in a speech at the Mansion House, last night, giving the impression that he intended to warn Germany to go slowly in the Moroccan crisis.

It was the Lord Mayor's annual banquet to the London bankers and merchants at which the speech was made.

Lloyd George's speech was mainly cold finace, but when naering the end he read carefully from the manuscript. The gist of his remarks was that the only thing possible to interfere with the continued prosperity now spreading over the world would be a disturbance of international peace. Fortunately there was no reason to fear that such a catastrophe was imminent, although questions would constantly arise between the governments, producing discussion and sometimes irritation. The common sense of nations of late years generally intervened to secure a peaceful solution.

Must Retain Lead.

After lauding arbitration and giving special approval to the Anglo-American treaty, Mr. George said:

"But I am bound to say that it is essential to the highest interests, not merely of ourselves, but of the world, that Great Britain at all hazards maintain her place and prestige among the powers of Europe. Her potent influence has been felt many times in the past, and may yet in the future prove invaluable in the cause of human liberty. It has more than once redeemed continental nations, who are now apt to forget the services that wrenched them from overwhelming disaster and even national extinction. I would make sacrifices to preserve peace. I can conceive of nothing to justify a disturbance of international good will except questions of the gravest national moment, but if the situation were forced upon us wherein peace could only be preserved by the surrender of the great and beneficent positon of good by heroism and achievement, by allowing Britain to be treated, where her interests were vitally affected, as if she were of no account in the cabinet of nations, then I say emphatically that peace at that price would be humiliation intolerable for a great country like ours.

"National honor is no party question. The peace of the world is much more likely to be secured if all nations realize what these conditions of peace must be, and it is because I have a conviction that the nations are beginning to understand each other's point of view more thoroughly, to be more ready to discuss their difficulties calmly and dispassionately, that I feel assured that nothing will happen between now and the next year to render it difficult for a Chancellor of the Exchequer to propose a toast to the continued prosperity of the public purse."

The Times Warmly Approves.

London, July 22.—Te Times, in an editorial, this morning, says that the whole country will endorse Chancellor Lloyd George's decisive and statesmanlike reference to the European situation created by the German demands, which are "nothing less than a claim for absolute European predominace."

The Times continues: "David Lloyd George is under no suspicion of jingoism, and he spoke not only for the British Government, but for his countrymen as a whole."

AMERICAN EDITORS HERE.

Favor Reciprocity, They Say, But Disclaim Annexation Sentiment.

Over a hundred American editors are paying a visit to Montreal. The party includes several of the delegates to the annual convention of the National Editorial Association at Detroit.

Nearly all the visitors are strongly in favor of the proposed reciprocity 'pact between Canada and the United States, but, they disclaim all sympathy with the talk about annexation and point out that when this subject was mooted at the National Convention on Friday, strong disapproval was expressed by 85 per cent. of the delegates present.

The party stayed at Freeman's hotel last night and left on the Laurentic this morning for a trip to Quebec.

Automatic Alarm Worked Well.

Automatic sprinklers and automatic fire alarms worked to perfection last night when the drying room on the sevenht storey of the L. Gnaedinger, Son and Company's building, at 94 St. Peter street, became heated above the usual temperature. This is a hot room anyway for th drying of furs, and an increase of a few degrees started the sprinkler system operating at 8.15 last night and summoned a good part of the fire fighting force of the city. Very little damage was done by the water.

Another New Police Captain.

The appointment of a new police captain to replace Captain Landriault in the Recorder's Court has been recommended to the Controllers by Chief Campeau.

It is claimed by the Chief that the force requires Captain Landriault's whole time in the drill hall, where he is in charge of the physical training of the men and instructs them on their duties as police officers.

HISTORY LINGERS IN OLD BUILDINGS OF CONGREGATION

Structures Offered to City by Nuns Reared on Ground Famous in the Old Days.

FIRST CONVENT STABLE MAISONNEUVE'S GIFT

Wonderful Growth of Teaching Order Established by Marguerite Bourgeois.

The property of the Congregation of Notre Dame, at the foot of St. Lawrence Boulevard, which it is proposed should be bought by the city to make an opening of the boulevard to the water front, is one of the most historical spots of Montreal. Not only was it the cradle of the Congregation, which was intimately associated with the early days of Montreal, but it marks also one of the first pieces of land occupied by civilization on the Island of Montreal, and the first devoted to education.

It is a few hundred feet from Place Royale, where Chomedy de Maisonneuve disembarked in 1642, when he came up the river with a small squad of men to establish the fort of Ville Marie, which was intended to intercept the parties of Iroquois in their raids on Three Rivers and Quebec.

It was fifteen years after the foundation of Montreal that Marguerite Bourgeois founded her community and Governor Maisonneuve made to her the gift of a stable which was the first convent of the institution. That stable, measuring 36 feet by 18, was between St. Paul street and the Hotel Dieu, serving as school house and residence to the sisters.

Very quickly the stable was outgrown by the community and a few years later the superioress built a new house which could shelter twelve teachers. But it was not very long before the quarters were found again too narrow, and Mother Marguerite Bourgeois ordered the construction of a stone building on the real site which is now offered to the city. That same house was destroyed by a fire in 1663, in which two of the nuns lost their lives. All the furniture was also destroyed.

The Old Buildings.

A new house was built on the spot where is still standing the old mother house in the garden and the location of the old stable given by Mr. de Maisonneuve, south of St. Paul street, was sold to the Hotel Dieu.

In April, 1768, the house erected by Mother Marguerite Bourgeous and inhabitated by the nuns for eighty-three years was destroyed by a fire which devastated the greatest part of Montreal. Owing to the generosity of Mr. de Montgolfier, the then superior of the Sulpicians, a new convent was erected on the same site with an addition corresponding to what is to-day the business office of the mother house. The building was reconstructed since, but the vaults and the cellar are still those built under the care of Mother Marguerite Bourgeois. It was in 1844 that was erected the large buildings of to-day, and it was inaugurated in 1845. At that time, the number of nuns was ninety-three.

In 1880, the headquarters were transferred to Villa Maria, but after thirteen years of sojourn fire compelled the community to return to the old quarters, which were again vacated when the new convent was ready.

A great part of the buildings of the Congregation have been rented for industrial purposes, but the Normal School and Notre Dame Academy are still occupying the portion facing Notre Dame street.

The Normal School was founded by Mgr. Bruchesi in 1899, and has now a goodly number of pupils.

Another part is occupied by the Notre Dame Academy for younger girls. It is the real succession of the school founded by the Marguerite Bourgeous, and in its origin, when the classes were given in the old stable, boys and girls, French and Iroquois were admitted. Marguerite Bourgeois was the teacher.

In 1668, when a new school was built inside the fort, the boys were sent to the old stable, while the girls were admitted in the new house. That school was rebuilt after the fire of 1768.

The First English Classes.

In 1840, when the mother house had been extended to St. Jean Baptiste st., two English classes were opened for the Irish population and gradually more classes were added on St. Jean Baptiste street, which were vacated in 1880.

Very few of the tourists who come to Montreal to take the sights leave the city without seeing the chapels of Notre Dame de Pitie and of Notre Dame des Victoires.

The little Church of Notre Dame de Pitie can been seen from Notre Dame street, through the large yard door of the Normal School. The first chapel of the name, on the same site, was erected by Melle Jeanne LeBer, and in 1695 Mr. Dollier de Casson officiated at its benediction. It did not escape the fire of 1768 and was rebuilt only in 1786. It was restored in 1860.

The chapel of Notre Dame des Victoire, of which some traces are still to be seen on the right hand while going towards the chapel of Notre Dame de Pitie, in the yard of the convent, was built in 1718 and was rebuilt immediately after the fire of 1768.

The Congregation of Notre Dame has now extended its sphere of activity throughout North America, and counts over one hundred and fifty convents, fifteen hundred nuns and over thirty thousand pupils.

Auto Victims Improving.

Mr. George DeSeve, who was injured in the automobile accident early yesterday morning, was reported today to be slightly improved, though still in a critical condition, and Miss Kendall and Miss L. Boyer are also said to be progressing favorably.

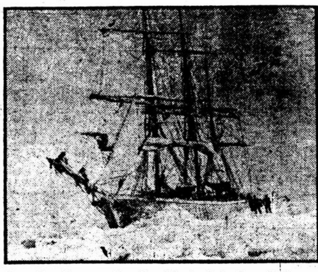
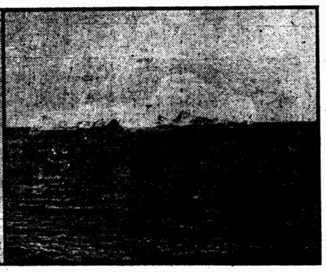
"THEY'RE AFTER ME."

HUDSON'S BAY ROUTE USELESS FOR GRAIN OWING TO ITS EARLY CLOSING



Hudson Bay Company's ship "Sorine" in Ice off Cape Wolstenholme, Hudson's Straits July 28, 1910.



Sixty Miles East Hudson's Straits, July 14th, 1910.

To the Editor of The Star:

Sir,—In 1886, Lieut. A. R. Borden, R.N., of the Dominion Steamer Alert, the Hon. G. E. Foster, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa, to proceed to the mouth of the Hudson's Straits so as to avail of the very first feasible opportunity to make the passage through, it being the wish of the Department to demonstrate as far as possible the navigability of the Straits for purposes of commerce in point of time and facility.

On the 24th June Lieutenant Gordon commenced his voyage with every hope of making an early and successful passage of Hudson's Straits as he had received information from Newfoundland that the ice had left the Labrador coast, and that the season was an unusually early one.

His journal recording the progress, or rather, on many occasions, the lack of progress of his vessel, testifies to the grave difficulties of navigation in these waters from field ice, icebergs, snow and fogs, which have to be contended with. The field ice is spoken of as being from 5 to 12 feet thick on the Labrador coast, whereas in the Straits 15 to 20 feet is given as the thickness and the icebodies as being 200 miles in extent, the individual floes oftentimes being a mile in length.

On the 14th July, Leiutenant Gordon expressed himself in the following terms:—

"The ice met with to-night, in my opinion settles the question of the practicability of the navigation of the Straits; up to this date, at any rate, the Straits are not navigable for this season, because no ordinary ship that could be used as a freight carrier, even if strengthened to meet the ice, could have stood the pounding which this ship has had this afternoon."

In his general remarks on the navigation of Hudson's Bay and Straits, Lieutenant Gordon writes:—

"Altogether I consider the navigation of Hudson's Straits as being more than ordinarily difficult, with shores inhospitable and bleak, presenting such a picture of lineliness and desolation, that it takes some time to get accustomer to it. The only safety in thick weather lies in the constant use of the lead and keeping a bright lookout, as the dead reckoning is frequently in error to a considerable extent."

This then, is the result of an expedition especially fitted to contend with the dangers of Arctic navigation, and yet attention is continually being directed to the Hudson's Bay route as an expeditious and economical means of transporting the products of Western Canada to Europe. At each successive general election the building of a railway from Saskatchewan to Hudson's Bay has been advocated, by one party or the other as a panacea for all possible or conceivable disadvantages from which the Canadian farmer thinks he is suffering as a result of the distance from the seaboard and the heavy charges of the railway companies.

Apparently the seasons have not altered very materially since Lieutenant Gordon's Expedition on behalf of the Government in 1886 if the photographs taken by the crew of the "Sorine," in July and August, last year, convey anything to laymen disinterested in party politics, or to those interested in persuading the public to invest their hard earned savings in a railroad venture which cannot possibly ever become a dividend earning proposition.

Lieutenant Gordon's report was the outcome of an attempt to demonstrate the navigability of the Straits for purposes of commerce, and his verdict was "impossible," yet at the moment there are Government Surveyors at work on the Nelson River preparing for railway and docks, while the Hudson's Bay & Pacific Development Company are trying to induce people to believe the scheme is such an assured success that they are going to parallel the Government line.

The following comparative table of distances is of interest:

Liverpool to Churchill	2,926
Churchill to Calgary	1,000
Calgary to Vancouver	642
	4,568
Liverpool to Montreal	2,990
Montreal to Vancouver	2,906
	5,896 Miles.

This shows a saving in distance in favor of the Churchill route of 1328 miles; surely a good and sufficient reason to build a railway and to construct ships protected against ice conditions—at any rate for the uninitiated. Turning once more to Lieutenant Gordon's Report one reads the following:—

"It will be admitted that with the experience extending to centuries, which the Hudson's Bay Company have, if it were possible for them to get their ships in earlier they would endeavor to do so; inasmuch as the detention of one of their ships over a winter in the bay entails loss of markets, more or less undue wear and tear of vessel, and the additional expense of wages and maintenance of the crew. I have examined the records of 116 consecutive arrivals at York Factory and find that the average date is September 4th. Of the 116, 48 arrived in August. Earliest date, 6th August. The latest arrival was the 7th October, on which occasion the ship wintered in the bay.

"In concluding these notes on the ice, it may not be out of place to state that whilst I am of opinion there will always be more or less fluctuation in the date of the opening of practical navigation for the purposes of commerce, the shipowner who sends in a freight-carrying steamer before the 15th July, will almost certainly be subjected to such delays as will add very seriously to the cost of the voyage; indeed, it is by no means unlikely that given two similar steamships, one entering Hudson's Straits, on 5th July, and the other on the 15th, the second steamer would make the first, and get through with little delay.

"In regard to the closing of the season so far as obstruction from ice is concerned, the end of October seems to be the time when the heavy old ice comes down in force, and although in 1886 this ice was driven eastward by a heavy gale, and the Strait remained open for some time longer, the temperatures have in November fallen so low, and the days have become so short, that the risks of navigation are seriously augmented. In estimating the period of navigation of an ordinary year, I should say from 15th July to 15th October, with a possibility of navigation from 1st July to 1st November, but in the first half of July and, indeed, occasionally in the latter half, there will always be delays, and later than 15th October the risks of navigation are so increased that the question of insurance would in all probability settle the date."

A careful study of the foregoing can only lead to the following conclusions:

It is very doubtful if the large ocean freight steamer could be used, owing to its unfitness to withstand ice pressure;

The cost of carriage by smaller protected vessels would be prohibitive;

Not a bushel of any year's wheat would reach Europe until nearly a year after it had been harvested as navigation on Hudson's Bay would close before any of the grain could reach a Bay seaport;

Elevator storage at Hudson's Bay would necessarily be costly as accommodation would have to be provided for the entire quantity of grain shipped to the Bay;

The interest on capital tied up in wheat at Hudson's Bay from October in one year until August the year following the insurance on the grain for that long period, and the marine risks would be very serious and adverse considerations, if there were no others.

Whereas, under the present prevailing condition a half or more of the Canadian wheat is marketed and shipped by lake and rail to the seaboard before navigation closes in the Great Lakes. The elevators at Fort William and Port Arthur are simultaneously receiving grain from the railways and shipping it on lake steamers or by train, so that each elevator during the shipping season handles several times its gross capacity, and the wheat taken into the elevator for storage is within easy reach of the market for shipment by the all-rail routes during the winter.

Pretoria Paper Answers Critics

Volkstein Declares English Press Out of Date in Its Idea of Imperialism.

Canadian Associated Press.

Pretoria, July 22.—The newspaper, the Volksstein, replying to criticism, says the English press is hopelessly out of date with its Imperialism, and has not kept pace with public feeling, and quotes at some length an article from a Canadian newspaper supporting the neutrality proposal.

It adds that the Coronation proceedings have proved that South Africa is not wanting in loyalty, but adds that loyalty no longer means servility to the Ministry in London, which might gamble lightheartedly with war.

Old Montrealer Dies in Chicago

James Mackay, Prominent Member of the Masonic Fraternity, Passes Away.

An old Montrealer, Mr. James Mackay, passed away at Chicago, on Tuesday, at 57 years of age. The late Mr. Mackay was prominent in the heating and plumbing supply business in the United States, and was secretary of the Kellogg-Mackay Co., of Chicago. He was educated in Montreal and also learned his business here. He went to Chicago 21 years ago.

He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, including the Chapter, Commandery, and Mystic Shrine. After a Masonic service at Chicago, the remains were brought to Montreal and interred at the Mount Royal cemetery yesterday.

OTTAWA WAITING NEWS OF TO-DAY'S VOTE ANXIOUSLY

If U. S. Senate Raties Reciprocity To-day, Way Will Be Cleared for Action in Canada.

BOTH PARTIES WANT THE ELECTIONS SOON

Dissolution May Be Recommended Within Three Weeks From To-day.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Ottawa, July 22.—To-day's anticipated vote at Washington on the Reciprocity Bill is being awaited here with much interest as having a direct bearing upon the present political situation, now fast approaching a crisis. If the expectation that the bill will be ratified by the Senate proves true, the prevailing conditions as between the parties will not be altered, but the Canadian House will no longer be in any doubt as to what the other side is going to do.

There is no question that concurrent action being necessary has operated to delay final disposition of the measure here. If some weeks or months ago the United States had acted on the agreement and finally passed it, the crisis now threatened here, while it would not have been obviated, would long before this have been reached.

Assuming a final vote favorable to the bill at Washington to-day, the House here may be expected to go at the agreement next week with an exceptional vigor, the Government being determined to pass it, the Opposition being equally aggressive in its stand and determination to force an appeal in the country. Spectacular politics may be looked for, with late sittings, displays of ill-temper, and all the other concomitants of a Parliamentary deadlock.

What it will all lead to, no one appears to doubt. Everywhere a general election is looked for. The question just now resolves itself much more in speculation as to when this development will take place than any other feature of the situation. Indications in the last few days would appear to justify the conclusion that it may come sooner than has been generally expected. The evident intention of the Government is to stick to reciprocity as the sole and predominating item of the daily orders. The introduction of other matters, many of which stand unfinished or untouched, will operate to the benefit of the Opposition, which, so far, on the daily motion to go into committee, has headed it off with other questions and discussions.

Want Election Quickly.

It is now believed to be quite within the range of possibility that dissolution will be recommended to His Excellency within three weeks. The elections would come a month after that. Preliminary to them, however, there must be the allocation of voters in the unorganized districts of Northern Ontario and Manitoba, which, as was stated in the House, is a long process. Then there is the printing of the lists. Generally, the work upon these is not so far advanced as has been reported. Whatever the date of the probable elections, the outlook at present is that the climax in the House will come well inside the period of a month, perhaps less.

Meanwhile, the signals are set for political storms, accompanied by all the partisan bitterness and rancor, which a situation so critical and momentous naturally engenders. The members believe there will have to be an election. Some relish the prospect; others do not; but there appears to be a general desire to reach the culmination as soon as possible.

CARPENTERS' STRIKE IS NOT YET ENDED

Some of the striking carpenters, to the number of about 100, having, it is said, obtained the rate they demanded, returned to work yesterday.

It is thought that a settlement of the dispute will be arrived at shortly. The Atlas Construction Co. has agreed to the 35 cent rate, on the understanding that union succeeds in maintaining this rate with other contractors, and took as many men as they required at the new schedule.

Regarding the alleged shooting at the United Shoe Machine building, yesterday, it is stated that the foreman, Fournier, was surrounded by strikers, urging him to join them, when he became alarmed, and, as he claims, fired his revolver in the air, though the strikers affirm that the weapon was pointed at them.

The secretary of the Builders Exchange, Mr. J. H. Lauer, issued a statement yesterday in the course of which the attitude of the Exchange towards labor was thus defined: (1) "That the flat uniform rate for all workmen alike is unjust to the competent man.

(2) That agreements can only be entertained with labor associations having a 'civil existence.'

(3) "That employers are always prepared to deal directly with their own employes in discussing grievances, but will not accept dictation from third parties not in their employ.

"The Builders' Exchange does not desire, and never has attempted, to depress wages, but regards the principle of the 'closed shop,' without any guarantee of competence, as an injustice to the employer."

Holidays and Beauty

It is most important for people when on their summer holidays to continue to take the same care of their personal appearance as they do when they are at home.

It is a difficult thing to say which suffers most, the complexion or the hair—certainly the latter profits most from exposure to the sun's rays, but is not benefited by contact with the sea, or if it does not sustain grievous harm, at least it becomes lank, sticky and dull. One is so apt when immersed in the pleasures of yachting, bathing and riding, to leave the hair to take care of itself; it is such a pity that a short time cannot be devoted every day to its care. The usual thing is a hasty combing, a cursory brushing, and then it is done up for the day. A woman's chief beauty is her hair, and if that goes, where is she? She is compelled to wear other people's, in the form of a transformation! This may be less trouble, but it certainly does not look half so well, resembling a barber's block, as, indeed, it is—more than anything else.

The chief object of the present up-to-date woman is to look "smart"—oh, that word, how it misleads people!—they imagine that looking "smart" is to don a hobble skirt so tight that they cannot move, and the most exaggerated hat at the most exaggerated price they can find. They do not realize how utterly, how hopelessly, they fail—how they are jeered at, and looked down upon for their absurdity; they are willing to go to any lengths for the fashions; they will bear with equal urbanity a harem skirt, or a crinoline. The very essence of smartness is to wear what suits one. I do not say that one should outrage the fashions, so to speak, by wearing just the contrary to everybody else,—that would be equally as absurd as the first case—but a happy medium in all things, in the coiffure as well as in dress, is the one desirable mode. A girl will wave her hair about her face and cover her head with curls, not because it suits her, but because it is the fashion; she would probably look infinitely better if her hair were done quite simply, perhaps low in the neck if she has classic features, or coiled on the top of her head if she has a piquante retrousse face.

But even for these simple styles, it is necessary to have nice hair, and how can one expect this if one does not care for it properly? Brushing is, in the first place, absolutely necessary; while, if the hair is very dry, a little grease should be carefully applied.

It is good to leave the hair quite loose at night or else down loosely in one or two plaits. If grey hairs appear rather more easily than the circumstances seem to warrant, it is prudent to consult a doctor as this is the general result of imperfect health. It is a great mistake to dye the hair, as it entails endless trouble and expense, it being necessary to renew the process continually, as the hair grows very quickly from the roots, and when bathing it is almost impossible to conceal the fact that the hair is dyed unless a cap is worn.

In the case of falling hair, massage is an excellent treatment; plunge the hands into the hair and rub the scalp till it glows all over. This tightens the skin of the head, and is often sufficient in itself to arrest the mischief. If this does not succeed, get a good lotion from the hairdresser, suited to your hair, and use it regularly for several weeks at a time.

It is a very great thing, if possible, to go without a hat when away; there is nothing so good for the hair as sun and air.

Do your best to retain the hair which nature has given you in its full beauty, if it is allowed to run to seed, or drop out, it will never realize its full luxuriance again, in spite of all the artificial restorers, which do a great deal towards it, but not everything. "Prevention is better than cure." So, while you have time, look well to your hair; it will repay you in the end.

Some Cool Summer Drinks

The hot days of summer are with us, and we are waking up to the fact that there are now a number of delectable beverages to slake the thirst and refresh the system that were unknown to us in this country only yesterday.

Punch bowls of tasteful design and good material should be chosen in which to serve the drinks, and glass pitchers without decoration may show prettily through their sides the fragments used in concocting them.

The glasses used for summer beverages may be slender ones with upright sides or large ones with flaring rims, and as for the spoons, they should have long handles and little round bowls.

Lemonade in Lemons.

Prepare the lemons cutting off the round ends of the fruit until they stand firmly and then cutting off the pointed ends about a quarter of the way down. Empty the lemons and scrape the insides well. Make a strong lemonade and add a little sherry; sweeten to taste with powdered sugar and chill well.

Keep the lemon shells in iced water until needed, then, wipe dry and put two straws between each top. Fill the cups with the lemonade, put on the tops and set each one on a paper d'oyley on a small plate in the serving plate.

Iced Ginger Punch.

Make a strong lemonade with a quart of water, a cup of sugar, and five lemons. Slightly bruise a dozen sprigs of mint, put these into the bowl with the lemonade, and add a quart of ginger ale.

When ready to serve, strain into a tall glass pitcher, add a piece of ice, and now in the mouth of the pitcher put a fresh bunch of mint, which has been dipped first in beaten white of egg and then in powdered sugar.

Cider Cup.

Put the thinly-peeled rind of two lemons into a stone jar, with the strained juice of one, some slices of cucumber, two tablespoonfuls of cognac, and one quart of cider. Put on ice till wanted. Just before serving, take out the lemon and cucumber peel, and add one bottle of soda-water.

Tea Frappe.

Boil a cup of sugar, five minutes with thow cups of water, add the juice and rind of two lemons, three oranges, with a cup of pineapple pulp. Make a strong decoction by pouring a pint of boiling water over five teasoonfuls of tea and steep five minutes; cool, mix with the fruit, strain and freeze.

Ginger Lemonade.

Cook one-half pound of Canton ginger one and one-half cupfuls of sugar and the grated rind of three lemons in three pints of water for twenty minutes. Squeeze the juice from six lemons and add to the boiling syrup; then cool, strain, and set on ice until ready to use.

Grape Juice Tonic.

Put into each glass three tablespoonfuls of grape juice. Add one teaspoonful of crushed ice the beaten white of an egg, and a little powdered sugar.

Orangeade.

Mix the strained juice of a blood orange two tablespoonfuls of plain syrup and three-fourths of a cupful of seltzer water. Decorate the top with shavings of orange and dust with nutmeg.

Nectar.

To one quart of grape or strawberry juice add a syrup and the juice of four oranges. Serve with a quart of seltzer water.

Cold Breakfast Dishes

Scotch Eggs.

Take half a pound of sausages and four eggs. Boil the eggs hard, put them into cold water then shell them. Wrap each egg in sausage meat, allowing one egg for each sausage. Roll it in egg and breadcrumbs and fry it a nice golden brown. Drain it on paper, and when it is quite cold cut it in halves and garnish it with mustard and cress. This makes a very pretty dish.

Beef Roll.

Ingredients: 1 lb. of steak or veal cutlet, 1-2 lb. of gammon rashers, 3-4 lb. of breadcrumbs, 2 or 3 eggs to bind the rest, pepper, salt, nutmeg, and mace to taste.

Mince the meat and bacon add the breadcrumbs and seasoning, and moisten it with beaten egg. Roll it into a large sausage, placing, if liked, a hard-boiled egg in the centre of meat. Put it in a well-floured cloth and boil it for one and a half hours. If veal is used in place of steak it tastes like chicken.

Veal Brawn.

Take one and a half pounds of lean veal, two hard-boiled eggs, half a pound of cooked lean ham, chopped parsley, lemon rind, white stock, coraline pepper, and salt and pepper.

Cook the veal in white stock with plenty of flavoring until it is tender drain it, and when it is cold, cut it into neat pieces. Chop the ham and cut the eggs into rings, arrange them in a pattern in a plain tin mould, with the coraline pepper, parsley, and chopped ham. Fill the mould with veal, ham and the remains of the garnish. Well season the stock, and pour it into the mould when nearly cold, till it is quite full. A little gelatine can be added if the stock is not strong enough to jelly. Turn it out when it is quite cold. This dish is enough for seven or eight persons.

THE POETS' CORNER.

TRANSIT AMOR.

By Harold Richardson.

Love, have you counted the days that are dead
Since the day we loved as the Gods of old?
In the dull rough brass of the years that have fled
We have paid the price of an hour of gold.

An hour of gold! so quickly spent
'Mid sunlit flower and shady tree,
And the lavish color and swooning scent
Of a garden full of the sound of the sea.

The sunlight filtering down through the pines
Swam in the light of your upturned eyes,
And I thought that an angel had pitied me
And opened the Gates of Paradise.

Autumn had breathed on the maples, love,
Till they blowed with a glory of red and brown,
But the breeze was astir in their tops above
And a shower of leaves came whispering down.
Turning and twisting, folding—falling
Fluttering downwards, one by one;
And I thought in the stillness I heard them calling—
"Summer is over—Love is done."

"Summer is over! Soon will the world
Hush at the touch of the falling snow,
And the leaves of the forest lie sere and curled,
Summer is over—Love must go."

But I hearkened not to the dreary story;
Your lips were warm and your eyes were bright,
And who would dream from the sunset's glory
The nearness of the coming night?

Yet night was coming; over the world
And over our hearts that beat as one:
The words were true that the leaves had spoken—
Summer was over—Love was done!

FORMATION OF CHARACTER

To form a character is the work of our personal life. And when once we see this, the inequalities of our outward circumstances cease to be startling. If wealth, or fame, or knowledge, or length of days, were the final goal of human endeavor, then, indeed, the difference between man and man would be an unspeakable injustice.

THE HOLLOW NEEDLE

BY MAURICE LEBLANC

AN immense clamor of astonishment, admiration and curiosity arose among the public. Already, the Rouen journalist, in a very able article, had described the first examination of the sixth-form pupil, laying stress upon his personal charm, his simplicity of manner and his quiet assurance. The indiscretions of Ganimard and Mr. Filleul, indiscretions to which they yielded in spite of themselves, under an impulse that proved stronger than their professional pride, suddenly enlightened the public as to the part played by Isidore Beautrelet in recent events. He alone had done everything. To him alone the merit of the victory was due.

The excitement was intense. Isidore Beautrelet awoke to find himself a hero; and the crowd, suddenly infatuated, insisted upon the fullest information regarding its new favorite. The reporters were there to supply it. They rushed to the assault of the Lyce Janson-de-Sailly, waited for the day-boarders to come out after school hours and picked up all that related, however remotely, to Beautrelet. It was in this way that they learned the reputation which he enjoyed among his schoolfellows, who called him the rival of Holmlock Shears. Thanks to his powers of logical reasoning, with no further data than those which he wasc able to gather from the papers, he had, time after time, proclaimed the solution of very complicated cases long before they were cleared up by the police.

It had become a game at the Lycee Janson to put difficult and intricate problems to Beautrelet; and it was astonishing to see with yhat unhesitating and analytical power and by means of what ingenious deductions he made his way through the thickest darkness. Ten days before the arrest of Jorisse, the grocer, he showed what could be done with the famous umbrella. In the same way, he declared from the beginning, in the matter of the Saint-Cloud mystery, that the concierge was the only possible murderer.

But most curious of all was the pamphlet which was found circulating among the boys at the school, a typewritten pamphlet signed by Beautrelet and manifolded to the number of ten copies. It was entitled, Arsene Lupin and his method, showing in how far the latter is based upon tradition and in how far original. Followed by a comparison between English humor and French irony.

It contained a profound study of each of the exploits of Arsene Lupin, throwing the illustrious burglar's operations into extraordinary relief, showing the very mechanism of his way of setting to work, his special tactics, his letters to the press, his threats, the announcement of his thefts, in short, the whole bag of tricks which he employed to bamboozle his selected victim and throw him into such a state of mind that the victim almost offered himself to the plot contrived against him and that everything took place, as it were, with his own consent.

And the work was so just, regarded as a piece of criticism, so penetrating, so lively and marked by a wit so clever and, at the same time, so cruel that the lawyers at once passed over to his side, that the sympathy of the crowd was summarily transferred from Lupin, to Beautrelet and that, in the struggle engaged upon between the two, the schoolboy's victory was loudly proclaimed in advance.

Be this as it may, both M. Filleul and the Paris public prosecutor seemed jealously to reserve the possibility of this cictory for him. On the one hand, they failed to establish Mr. Harlington's identity or to furnish a definite proof of his connection with Lupin's gang. Confederate or not, he preserved an obstinate silence. Nay more, after examining his handwriting, it was impossible to declare that he was the author of the intercepted letter. A Mr. Harlington, carrying a small portmanteau and a pocket-book stuffed with bank-notes, had taken up his abode at the Grand Hotel: that was all that could be stated with centainty.

On the other hand, at Dieppe, M. Filleul lay down on the positions which Beautrelet had won for him. He did not move a step forward. Around the individual whom Mlle. de Saint-Veran had taken for Beautrelet, on the eve of the crime, the same mystery reigned as heretofore: The same obscurity also surrounded everything connected with the removal of the four Rubens pictures. What had become of them? And what road had been taken by the motor car in which they were carried off during the night?

Evidence of its passing was obtained at Luneray, at Yerville, at Yvetot and at Caudebec-en-Caux, where it must have crossed the Seine at daybreak in the steam-ferry. But, when the matter came to be inquired into more thoroughly, it was stated that the motor car was an uncovered one and that it would have been impossible to pack four large pictures into it unobserved by the ferryman.

It was very probably the same car; but then the question cropped up again what had become of the four Rubenses?

These were so many problems which M. Filleul left unanswered. Every day, his subordinates searched the quadrilateral of the ruins. Almost every day, he came to direct the explorations. But between that and discovering the refuge in which Lupin lay dying—if it were true that Beautrelet's opinion was correct—there was a gulf fixed which the worthy magistrate did not seem likely to cross.

And so it was natural that they should turn once more to Isidore Beautrelet, as he alone had succeeded in dispelling shadows which, in his absence, gathered thicker and more impenetrable than ever. Why did he not go on with the case? Seeing how far he had carried it, he required but an effort to succed.

The question was put to him by a member of the staff of the Grand Journal, who had obtained admission to the Lycee Janson by assuming the name of Bernod, the friend of Beautrelet's father. And Isidore very sensibly replied:

My dear sir, there are other things besides Lupin in this world, other things besides stories about burglars and detectives. There is, for instance, the thing which is known as taking noe's degree. Now I am going up for my examination in July. This is May. And I don't want to be plucked. What would my worthy parent say?"

'But what would he say if you delivered Arsene Lupin into the hands of the police "

"Tut! There's a time for everything. In the next holidays——"

"Whitsuntide?"

"Yes—I shall go down on Saturday the sixth of June by the first train."

"And, on the evening of that Saturday, Lupin will be taken."

"Will you give me until the Sunday?" asked Beautrelet, laughing.

"Why delay?" replied the journalist, quite seriously.

This inexplicable confidence, born of yesterday and already so strong, was felt with regard to the young man by one and all, even though, in reality, events had justified it only up to a certain point. No matter, people believed in him! Nothing seemed difficult to him. They expected from him what they were entitled to expect at most from some phenomenon of penetration and intuition, of experience and skill. That day of the sixth of June, Isidore Beautrelet would take the fast train to Dieppe; and Lupin would be arrested on the same evening.

"Unless he escapes between this and then," objected the last remaining partisians of the adventurer.

"Impossible! Every outlet is watched."

"Unless he has succumbed to his wounds then," said the partisians, who would have preferred their hero's death to his capture.

And the retort was immediate:

"Nonsense! If Lupin were dead, his confederates would know it by now, and Lupin would be revenged. Beautrelet said so!"

And the sixth of June came. Half a dozen jurnalists were looking out for Isidore at the Gare Sainte-Lazare. Two of them wanted to accompany him on his journey. He begged them to refrain.

He started alone, therefore, in a compartment to himself. He was tired, thanks to a series of nights devoted to study, and soon fell asleep. He slept heavily. In his dreams, he had an impression that the train stopped at different stations and that people got in and out. When he awoke, within sight of Rouen, he was still alone. But, on the back of the opposite seat, was a large sheet of paper, fastened with a pin to the grey cloth. It bore these words:

"Every man should mind his own business. Do you mind yours. If not, you must take the consequences."

"Capital!" he exclaimed, rubbing his hands with delight. "Things are going badly in the adversary's camp. That threat is as stupid and vulgar as the sham flyman's. What a style! One can see that it wasn't composed by Lupin."

The train threaded the tunnel that precedes the old Norman city. On reaching the station, Isidore took a few turns on the platform to stretch his legs. He was about to re-enter his compartment when a cry escaped him. As he passed the bookstall, he had read in an absent-minded way, the following lines on the front page of a special edition of the Journal de Rouen; and their alarming sense suddenly burst upon him:

Stop-Press News.

We hear by telephone from Dieppe that the Chateau d'Ambrumesy was broken into last night by criminals, who bound and gagged Mlle. de Gesvres, and carried off Mlle. de Saint-Veran. Traces of blood have been seen at a distance of five hundred yards from the house and a scarf has been found close by, which is also stained with blood. There is every reason to fear that the poor young girl has been murdered.

Isidore Beautrelet completed his journey to Dieppe without moving a limb. Bent in two, with his elbows on his knees, and his hands plastered against his face, he sat thinking.

At Dieppe he took a fly. At the door of Ambrumesy he met the examining magistrate, who confirmed the horrible news.

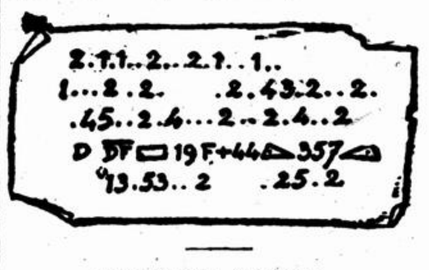
"You know nothing more?" asked Beautrelet.

"Nothing. I have only just arrived."

At that moment, the sergeant of gendarmes came up to M. Filleul and handed him a crumpled torn and discolored piece of paper, which he had picked up not far from the place where the scarf was found. M. Filleul looked at it and gave it to Beautrelet, saying:

"I don't suppose this will help us much in our investigations."

Isidore turned the paper over and over. It was covered with figures, dots and signs and presented the exact appearance reproduced below:



CHAPTER THREE.

The Corpse.

At six o'clock in the evening, having finished all he had to do, M. Filleul accompanied by M. Bredoux, his clerk, stood waiting for the carriage which was to take him back to Dieppe. He seemed restless, nervous. Twice over, he asked:

"You haven't seen anything of young Beautrelet, I suppose?"

"No, Monsieur le Juge d'Instruction, I can't say I have."

"Where on earth can he be? I haven't set eyes on him all day!"

Suddenly, he had an idea, handed his portfolio to Bredoux, ran round the chateau and made for the ruins. Isidore Beautrelet was lying near the cloisters, flat on his face, with one arm folded under his head, on the ground carpeted with pine-needles. He seemed drowsing.

"Hullo, young man, what are you doing here? Are you asleep?"

"I'm not asleep. I've been thinking."

"Ever since this morning?"

"Ever since this morning."

"It's not a question of thinking! One must see into things first, study facts look for clues, establish connecting links. The time for thinking comes after, when one pieces all that together and discovers the truth."

"Yes, I know—That's the usual way the right one, I dare say.—Mine is different.—I think first, I try, above all, to get the general hang of the case, if I may so express myself. Then I imagine a reasonable and logical hypothesis, which fits in with the general idea. And then, and not before, I examine the facts to see if they agree with my hypothesis."

"That's a funny method and a terribly complicated one!"

"It's a sure method, M. Filleul, which is more than can be said of yours."

"Come, come! Facts are facts."

"With your ordinary sort of adversary, yes. But, given an enemy endowed with a certain amount of cunning, the facts are those which he happens to have selected. Take the famous clues upon which you base your inquiry; why, he was at liberty to arrange them as he liked. And you see where that can lead you, into what mistakes and absurdities, when you are dealing with a man like Arsene Lupin. Holmlock Shears himself fell into the trap."

"Arsene Lupin is dead."

"No matter. His gang remains and the pupils of such a master are masters themselves."

M. Filleul took Isidore by the arm and, leading him away:

"Words, young man, words. Here is something of more importance. Listen to me. Ganimard is otherwise engaged at this moment and will not be here for a few days. On the other hand, the Comte de Gesvres has telegraphed to Holmlock Shears, who has promised his assistance next week. Now don't you think, young man, that it would be a feather in our cap if we were able to say to those two celebrities, on the day of their arrival, 'Awfully sorry, gentlemen, but we couldn't wait. The business is done'?"

It was impossible for M. Filleul to confess helplessness with greater candor. Beautrelet suppressed a smile and, pretending not to see through the worthy magistrate, replied.

"I confess, Monsieur le Juge d'Instruction, that, fi I was not present at your inquiry just now, it was because I hoped that you would consent to tell me the results. May I ask what you have learned?"

"Well, last night, at 11 o'clock, the three gendarmes whom Sergeant Quevillon had left on guard at the chateau received a note from the sergeant telling them to hasten with all speed to Ouville, where they are stationed. They at once rode off, and when they arrived at Ouville——"

"They discovered that they had been tricked, that the order was a forgery, and that there was nothing for them to do but return to Ambrumesy."

"This they did, accompanied by Sergeant Quevillon. But they were away for an hour and a half and, during this time, the crime was committed."

"In what circumstances?"

"Very simple circumstances, indeed. A ladder was removed from the farm buildings, and placed against the second story of the chateau A pane of glass was cut out and a window opened. Two men, carrying a dark lantern, entered Mlle. de Gesvres's room and gagged her before she could cry out. Then, after binding her with cords, they softly opened the door of the room in which Mlle. de Saint-Veran was sleeping. Mlle. de Gesvres heard a stifled moan, followed by the sound of a person struggling. A moment later, she saw two men carrying her cousin, who was also bound and gagged. They passed in front of her and went out through the window. Then Mlle. de Gesvres, terrified and exhausted, fainted."

"But what about the dogs? I thought M. de Gesvres had bought two almost wild sheep dogs, which were let loose at night "

"They were found dead, poisoned."

"By whom. Nobody could get near them."

"It's a mystery. The fact remains that the two men crossed the ruins without let or hindrance and went out by the little door which we have heard so much about. They passed through the copsewood, following the line of the disused quarries. It was not until they were nearly half a mile from the chateau, at the foot of the tree known as the Great Oak, that they stopped—and executed their purpose."

"If they came with the intention of killing Mlle. de Saint-Veran, why didn't they murder her in her room?"

"I don't know. Perhaps the incident that settled their determination only occurred after they had left the house. Perhaps the girl succeeded in releasing herself from her bonds. In my opinion, the scarf which was picked up was used to fasten her wrists. In any case, the blow was struck at the foot of the Great Oak. I have collected indisputable proofs——"

"But the body?"

"The body has not been found, but there is nothing excessively surprising in that. As a matter of fact, the trail which I followed brought me to the church at Varengeville and the old cemetery perched on the top of the cliff. From there it is a sheer precipice, a fall of over three hundred feet to the rocks and the sea below. In a day or two, a stronger tide than usual will cast up the body on the beach."

"Obviously. This is all very simple."

"Yes, it is all very simple and doesn't trouble me in the least. Lupin is dead, his accomplices heard of it and, to revenge themselves, have killed Mlle. de Saint-Veran. These are facts which did not even require checking. But Lupin?"

"What about him?"

"What has become of him? In all probability, his confederates removed his corpse at the same time that they carried away the girl; but what proof have we? None at all. Any more than of his staying in the ruins, or of his death, or of his life. And that is the real mystery, M. Beautrelet. The murder of Mlle. Raymonde solves nothing. On the contrary, it only complicates matters. What has been happening during the past two months at the Chateau d'Ambrumesy? If we don't clear up the riddle, young man, others will give us the go-by."

"On what day are those others coming?"

"Wednesday — Tuesday, perhaps ——"

(To be continued.)

Drinking Mechanics

It is a peculiar coincidence of life that the good mechanic is a drinking man; that is, the fine workman. Of course, there are exceptions to the rule. Many master mechanics, holding the very highest positions in the mechanical world, are so wedded to drink that without drink they could not fill their positions, they think But they could, and do so to a much better advantage. Some are slaves to drink, but still hold their positions by reason of their mechanical skill only. The intrinsic value of their services would be doubled in salary, if they did not touch drink in any form. The Neal treatment especially appeals to the business and professional man and mechanic, because of the short time in which it is completed—three days. Call up Mr. G. F. Hepburn, manager, East 459, and arrange in advance for a room in the Montreal Neal Institute, 226 Sherbrooke east. Write for free booklet, sent sealed.

WINDSOR TABLE SALT

"Isn't it a treat to have salt that does not get damp and cake?"

"Well, I suppose it would be a treat to those who used it for the first time.

But you see, Mother always had Windsor Salt at home, and naturally I use it now in my own home.

Windsor Salt never cakes or hardens, so I don't know anything about the kind that does.

I would not think of keeping house without Windsor Table Salt".

DEATH AT DANCE; GUEST IS KILLED WITH WIFE NEAR

Children, Too, are There to See Father's Lifeless Body on Floor Below.

Death came unexpectedly among the gaiety and the merry making at a dance last night in the Grand Central Hall at 204 St. Lawrence Boulevard None of the guests had been more eager in quest of pleasure than Benny Dickner and on him fell the swift stroke.

Seeking a moment's respite from the swing of the dance hall, Dickner left the room near midnight, pushed his way through another door which had masked a yawning hoist shaft, and fell to the sub-cellar below, a distance of four storeys. He struck head first and his skull yas fractured, death being instantaneous.

He cried aloud in fear as he fell and in alarm the music of the dance immediately stopped. Guests were momentarily panic stricken, women ran screaming from the place and the shrill cries of children frightened the neighborhood.

Dickner's wife and their six children were at the dance and they fled from the hall, afterwards returning to find that their father was the victim.

Some one ran to the General Hospital in Dorchester street and an ambulance and a surgeon hurried to the place, but no aid could be given as the man was dead when the surgeon reached the place and a call for the Morgue waggon followed.

Meanwhile the large number of guests who had been attending the Journeymen Bakers dance had scrambled from the place and crowded into the streets, but some of the more bold gained the rear stairway and gazed with morbid curiosity on the still form that was then lying on the floor near the St. Charles Borromee street exit.

Captain Belanger, of No. 4 Station, in company with Constable Martin, had been passing at the time and took charge of the place while patrolmen were summoned to clear the halls of the people.

Both in St. Lawrence and in St. Charles Borromee streets groups gathered and many wild stories were flung from one to another until investigation sifted facts from fancy.

The wife ran about the streets in a hysterical condition followed by her children until at last kind friends took charge of them and took them to their home at No. 2. Bronsdon Lane.

Dickner was quite a character in the community being familiarly known as "Benny, the Baker." He was a big man, weighing fully two hundred pounds.

The fatality ended the dance and soon after midnight when the affair would have been at its height, the hall was deserted and the guests scattered.

Absolutely Guaranteed not to sag or bag.

PATROL SYSTEM TO PROTECT AGAINST FOREST FIRES

Chief Forester Atkinson in the Porcupine to Make Arrangements.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Porcupine, Ont., July 22.—With a view of devising some means to prevent forest fires in this district, Mr. F. V. Atkinson, chief forester of the Dominion Conservation Commission, and also honorary inspector for the Quebec Government, is in camp. Mr. Atkinson, cut short his holidays to make the trip into Porcupine immediately following the fire and since then he has covered considerable territory and made many pertinent suggestions.

His claim is that with the proper regulation, fires, which ultimately result seriously, can be prevented. While this argument is by no means original with him, Mr. Atkinson speaks most bitterly against the careless cigarette smoking in the bush. He claims that this is the origin of hundreds of fires where cigar or pipe smoking would not start one.

Mr. Atkinson believes that a patrol system should be organized and that such an organization should be as active as a city fire department, seizing every opoprtunity to extinguish a fire where one is reported, no matter how small it may be. Such an organization is suggested with a chief head and sub-chiefs, each responsible to the chief and each having charge over patrol men.

Now that the bush fires in the north country have wrought so much damage and have incurred such a loss of life, it is likely that some suggestion of this kind may be acted upon. Mr. Atkinson has been a forester and a conservationist for thirty years and he maintains that disastrous bush fires can be prevented in practically every instance.

AMERICAN PAPERS' RECIPROCITY POLICY ATTACKED IN SENATE

Senator La Follette Declared Press Failed in Its Duty to Public.

Washington, July 22.—Assailing the pres of the United States for its support of the Canadian reciprocity bill, Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, made his closing speech against the bill in the Senate last evening. He expressed the belief that nwspapers would suffer in loss of influence for the support they have given to Legislation, in which, he said, they "have a direct money interest."

"The press has failed in its duty to the public in regard to this legislation," he said.

Mr. La Follette referred to testimony given before the Finance Committee of the Senate that a newspaper organization had sent out a communication to many papers urging them favorably to treat the reciprocity agreement. He deplored this attitude of the newspapers.

He objected to the reciprocity bill, he said, because the newspapers would get free paper at the expense of the farmers, whose duties on their products would be removed.

Senator Townsend's amendment to the reciprocity bill providing for international improvement of the St. Lawrence River was defeated by a large vote.

Mr. Townsend spoke in favor of his amendment, which would have authorized the President to enter into an agreement with Canada for the improvement and deepening of the river from the Great Lakes to the ocean.

Quebec Electrician Killed.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Quebec July 22. — An electrician named Bruyere met death yesterday afternoon on the St Foye Road, by receiving an electric shock while working at a light on a pole After descending from the pole he complained of having received a shock, but walked a considerable distance without any apparent bad effect, and then suddenly fell dead.

Douglas Scaman, of Ottawa, has been awarded a Canadian Pacific Railway scholarship at McGill University.

MONTREAL GENERAL HOSPITAL
ESTABLISHED 1823
Supported Entirely by Voluntary Subscriptions

Through the generosity of the public, the Montreal General Hospital has been supported for the past eighty-seven years on a scale commensurate with the needs of the community.

The unprecedented growth of the city during the past five years has so enlarged the demands upon the institution by the suffering public as to necessitate the reconstruction of the Hospital buildings.

The modernized Montreal General Hospital will be fireproof, and will embrace the latest improvements in hospital architecture and equipment.

This important undertaking, necessitating increased expenditure for maintenance, has been assumed by the Committee of Management, in the full hope that the public will recognize the growing claims of this venerable institution.

PARISIAN SAGE

MAKES THE HAIR GROW STRONG AND LUSTROUS

Like their clever sisters in Paris the women in Canada have learned that a woman of scant, dull, lifeless hair grows old all too soon.

Since the introduction of Parisian Sage into Canada, druggists in every town are recommending Parisian Sage because they know that it will do exactly what the makers say it will do.

Besides being a hair grower and beautifier Parisian Sage is rigidly guaranteed to stop itching scalp, to stop hair from falling and to banish every trace of dandruff or money back.

Parisian Sage causes the hair to grow strong, vigorous and lustrous because it kills the dandruff germs that infest the hair roots, which is the basis of all scalp and hair diseases, and also because it furnishes natural nourishment to the weakened and run down hair bulbs.

Parisian Sage is sold by druggists everywhere for only 50c a large bottle and guaranteed. The girl with the Auburn Hair is on every package. Mail orders filled, charges prepaid, by the Giroux Manufacturing Co., Fort Erie, Ontario, upon receipt of price.

ALGOMA CENTRAL CONTRACT AWARDED

Three and Half Millions Involved—Includes Line to Point Near Hudson Bay.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 22.—The contract for the laying of steel and the erection of stations on the line of the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway, from Hobon to the Grand Trunk Pacific, has been awarded to Kennedy and McArthur, of the Superior Construction Company. The sum involved totals three and a half millions, and the construction of the road will leave the terminal but 150 miles from Hudson Bay, crossing three transcontinental lines, and placing the Soo in direct contact with all the railways to the west.

NEARLY NO ELECTIONS

If Revised Voters' Lists Had Been Burned, What Would Have Happened.

Ottawa, July 22.—In connection with a fire which occurred at the Printing Bureau yesterday, it developes that Canada came very near not having the expected election this fall.

It all hinged upon a fire which started in the long grass beside the Printing Bureau and which was extinguished by a volunteer fire brigade from the bureau.

Right beside the burning grass was a pile of old packing boxes and beside the pile of packing boxes was a long shed. In the shed were housed the recently revised voters' lists of Canada, in type.

Had the packing boxes caught the flames would have spread to the shed. Had the shed become ignited the voters' lists would almost assuredly have been melted. Had this happened there might have been no election this fall.

"It all illustrates on what little things great events turn," said an official of the Bureau, in discussing the incident.

SAYS M'MANIGAL IS ACTING QUEERLY

Something Wrong With His Head, Declares Uncle of Self-Confessed Dynamiter.

Special to The Montreal Star.

Los Angeles, July 22.—That Ortie McManigal has "something wrong in his head," was the statements made today by George Bohm, of Portage, Wis., uncle of the imprisoned man.

"The man in the county jail, who is said to have confessed scores of dynamitings, is not like my nephew," he said.

"I reared Ortie. He came to live with me when he was four years old, and stayed until he was 16. Now he acts and talks queerly. There certainly is something wrong with that boy.

"I told him, I didn't believe what had been said about him, and advised him to tell the truth and get out of pail. He said he was afraid to get out.'"

NEW COMET DISCOVERED.

Dr. Brocks, of Hobart College, Has Found One, He Says.

Geneva, N.Y., July 22.—Dr. William R. Brooks, director of the observatory and professor of astronomy at Hobart College, announced that he had discovered a comet yesterday in right ascension 22 hours, 13 minutes, 40 seconds declination north 20 degrees, 37 minutes, motion slowly north-west.

The comet is in the constellation Pegasus.

NO SMELTERS' TRUST.

District Attorney Finds Complaints Are Devoid of Foundation.

New York, July 22.—The investigation into the affairs of the American Smelting and Refining Company to determine whether the so-called "Smelters trust' is in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law has been dropped.

District-Attorney Wise, of the United States Court, says that he has investigated the complaints against the "Smelters trust," and found them without foundation.

REALTY REVIEW

VOL. I. MONTREAL, SATURDAY, JULY 22, 1911 No. 180

MOVING FAST

You would naturally suppose that there would be little doing in real estate or in any kindred business at this season of the year, but real estate is so much on the move that neither dog days, vacations nor anything else seems to stop it. Some mighty big deals are going through these days and the smaller ones are no less active.

Get busy on these properties while they are hot:—

Notre Dame St. W., corner near Lusignan St., area 3275 square feet; store of stone and brick construction. Three stores. In excellent condition. Payments arranged to suit purchaser. Price $13,000.

Mansfield Street, between Dorchester and St. Catherine St. W.—Stone house, three stories and basement, could be turned into store at small cost; 2 storey stable in fine condition on the premises. Terms arranged. Price $15,000.

Aylmer Street, between St. Catherine and Berthelet; area 1617 square feet; frontage 21 ft. Dwelling of brick construction; suitable for store. Very valuable location. Terms can be arranged. Price $16,170.

Craig Street East, between Sanguinet and St. Denis. Stores and dwelling of solid brick, 2 stories; 30 ft. frontage. Dwelling has 10 rooms. Cash $12,000. Price $20,000.

Notre Dame Street, corner near Murray Street, stores and dwellings; area 9,000 ft. Building 3 stores. Price $24,000.

Notre Dame Street West, between McGill and St. Peter Streets—Stores and flats of stone construction, 3 stories and basement. Large rooms; lane 15 x 29. Cash required $20,000. Price $50,000.

St. Lawrence Boulevard and Ontario Street—Stores and dwellings of stone and brick; 3 stories and basement. Good tenants. $25,000 down. Price $75,000.

P.S.—Buy inside property now. The prospects for an investor were never better.

LORD SELBORNE PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO THE MONARCHY

Replies to Mr. Keir Hardie — Says Unionists Will Not Compromise.

London, July 22.—Speaking at a recent dinner at the Hotel Cecil under the auspices of the United Club, Lord Selborne dwelt on the strength of Unionism and incidentally handled Mr. Keir Hardie, M.P., without gloves. He said in part:

Unionists can make no greater error than to ape Radicalism. If the country wants Radicalism they can go to the Radicals. The time is sure to come when they will be disillusioned and turn from them with disgust, and then the all-important thing is there should be another party who is steadfast to the contrary principles. Has the Unionist Party done all that can be done in the last six months to rouse the country to a sense of its danger? I do not think it has. I do not think the attitude of members of our party has been the attitude of men who thoroughly appreciate the greatness of the crisis. If this Parliament Bill becomes law, the Radicals will have achieved for the moment all that they could possibly have achieved as the result of a successful civil war. They will, as a fact, have achieved without a civil war exactly what was achieved only after a civil war at the time of the Great Rebellion. They will have established the House of Commons as the most autocratic, the most unchecked, the most unbalanced authority in the whole world. (Cheers) The human element naturally plays a great part in all our political struggles, and it is true that the country and our party have been striving. Two General Elections within 12 months, and those General Elections coming on the top of a period of most strenuous political work, have tried the physical stability and powers of all politicians most severely. The party is no doubt very weary—but politics must be strenuous. The reason of the strength of Socialism comes from the fact that it is so strenuous and uncompromising. Compromise has a place in politics. The great thing in politics is to make up your mind what is essential and what is nos-essential. On non-essentials by all means compromise; but on essentials, never! Another reason for the strength of Socialists n their courage. They have the courage to express their opinions, whether they are popular or not, and that is just what is required in democracy. Democracy means in the long run the fixed opinion that the majority will prevail, but it does not mean always looking to the man-in-the-street for guidance. Politics are just like war; if you do not lead, no one will follow. If you do not believe in your cause yourself, no one else will. (Cheers.)

Social Reform.

In the long run the Unionist party have certain great advantages. For instance, the governing political theory of the Radicals and Socialists is fundamentally vicious. They think that every social evil—drunkenness, poverty, or disease—is the result of some one else's fault, and that that fault can be cured by legislative flogging. Now what is the Unionist position in respect to social reform? We are prepared to be bold, and we still have the greatest reverence for the principle of liberty. Our policy of social reform does not involve spoliation. We are free from the Radical obsession to injure certain classes in the course of legislating for the good of others. Unionist emancipation from the political incubus of Cobdenism gives us great advantage in the field of social reform, and also in dealing with the Empire and the problems of Empire. (Cheers.) We believe in the Empire as the greatest instrument that exists for human happiness, and we feel it to be a most solemn trust. The Radicals do not really believe in it, and do not in the least understand what it is or what it may mean to the world. We, again, stand for Nationalism as opposed to Internationalism. We do not desire to meddle with other nations, but our first care must be the interests of our own nation, not that of others. We stand for the national principle. Further, we are not afraid to govern, either at home or in Africa, or in Egypt, or in India, and we will support our fellow-countrymen who are working for the Empire, such as the Indian Civil Service. We are not materialists. We do not believe that cheapness is the end of all existence in this world and the next. Nor are we sentimentalists. We do not believe in government or diplomacy by slobber. We are idealists, but living in a world of fact, not of fiction. Our grave anxiety for the present does not prevent our confidence in the future. We know that our race and country are not played out nor degenerate; but we also venerate the past, we regard the traditions of a great country and the continuity of those traditions as one of our greatest assets. That is why we are the constant and convinced supporters of the Constitution, the Crown, and the two Houses of Parliament. That is why we uphold the Church of England—the Church existed before England did, and, indeed, it is largely owing to the unity of the Church that England became united at all. We uphold in every way in our power the perfect liberty and rights of other churches. We believe that the broach between the Church and the State would be a grievous breach of the continuity of our traditions, and we believe that to take the endowment that has been given by Churchmen in past ages for the service of religion, and to turn it to some secular use, would be a grievous wrong of the greatest magnitude. (Cheers.)

The Monarchy.

Then there i the Monarchy. Hitherto we have all of us disliked speaking about the Monarchy, but the time has come when we must do so because there are others who are its avowed enemies, and who are led by the recent speech of Mr. Keir Hardie. I cannot myself understand how an honorable man can hold such opinions and at the same time take the oath of allegiance in the House of Commons, and apart from that, his own words show that he has not begun to think out the question. He asks—Does any one have an hereditary doctor or barber, and if not, why an hereditary Monarch? And he thinks that disposes of the question. It would be just as sensible for me to ask—Does any one elect their doctor or their barber, and if not, what is the sense of having an elected member of the House of Commons? We have found by experience that election is the best method of composing a House of Commons. In the same way, our own experience, and the experience of history, shows the immense advantages of a Constitutional but hereditary Monarchy. (Cheers). No country in the world has achieved greater liberty than we have under that system, and no other system has ever given the same stability to the State, and stability is really the greatest essential for all classes in the State, and especially for the poorest. No other system provides any counterbalance to the power of wealth by every test of practical experience. It is not possible to exaggerate the value to us of the hereditary Monarchy. It is also the only system under which the nations of the Empire could possibly hold together, and that the nations of the Empire should hold together, is necessary for the independence and preservation of each. In addition, we regard the Monarchy with deep affection, which we call loyalty, because under the Monarchy every race of the United Kingdom—Briton, Saxon, Dane, Norman—and all parts of the United Kingdom, are united, and this is the embodiment of 1,500 years of history.

Why Should I Use Cuticura Soap?

"There is nothing the matter with my skin, and I thought Cuticura Soap was only for skin troubles." True, it is for skin troubles, but its great mission is to prevent skin troubles. For more than a generation its delicate emollient and prophylactic properties have rendered it the standard for this purpose, whilst its extreme purity and refreshing fragrance give to it all the advantages of the best of toilet soaps. It is also invaluable in keeping the hands soft and white, the hair live and glossy, and the scalp free from dandruff and irritation.

While its first cost is a few cents more than that of ordinary toilet soaps, it is prepared with such care and of such materials, that it wears to a wafer, often outlasting several cakes of other soap, and making its use, in practice, most economical. Cuticura Soap is sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, but the truth of these claims may be demonstrated without cost by sending to "Cuticura," Dept. G, Boston, for a liberal sample cake, together with a thirty-two-page book on the skin and hair.

MR. D. C. CAMERON TO SUCCEED SIR DANIEL McMILLAN

Official Announcement of Winnipeg Man's Appointment is Expected Shortly.

Ottawa, July 22.—It is learned in official circles of the Government that Mr. D. C. Cameron, of Winnipeg, is to be the new Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, succeeding Sir Daniel McMillan, who is retiring, after filling the position for some years.

Mr. Cameron, who is a large lumber operator, and engaged successfully in other lines of business, is a very prominent citizen of Winnipeg, and was the Liberal candidate at the last general election. He is very wealthy.

The appointment is expected to be announced officially in the course of a few days.

Quebec Council Deadlocked.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Quebec, July 22.—At last night's meeting of the city council a resolution was passed to reconsider the appointment of Captain Blouin, of Quebec, as Chief of the Fire Brigade.

The hour for adjournment was reached, however, before the new election could take place, and the council adjourned until August. Had the vote for chief taken place last night sub-chief Marin, of Montreal, would have been elected, his opponents succeeded in talking till midnight, when the rules of council caused the adjournment.

A Berlin report states thaat the German naval authorities are being urged to station several cruisers in South American waters to protect German lives and property.

Grand Trunk at the Coronation.

In connection with His Majesty King George V.'s fete to 100,000 children at the Festival of Empire, at the Crystal Palace, London, Eng., on June 30th, the Grand Trunk System Pavilion was an animated scene, and special arrangements were made to entertain the children and give them some idea of the great attractions of the Dominion of Canada. In this connection the Grand Trunk are in receipt of a letter from Mr. Fred. W. Wren, Headmaster of one of the London County Council schools, which reads as follows:—

"As Steward on the occasion of His Majesty's King George V.'s Fete to 100,000 children at the Festival of Empire at the Crystal Palace on June 30th, I beg to offer the heartiest thanks of the 15,000 children and teachers who were privileged to pass through the Grand Trunk Pavilion. The beautiful pictures illustrative of scenery through which your railroad passes were a source of great pleasure. The really excellent Cinematograph pictures besides affording much amusement were extremely useful from an educational point of view.

"In addition your generosity in permitting some 19,000 copies of your excellent maps and pamphlets to be distributed among the homes and in the schools of the children, deserves our warmest thanks. The arrangements for dealing with such a large number of pupils and teachers were splendid.

"The courtesy and kindly aid of all the officials ensured complete success to this memorable day."

This is only one of the many features that are taken advantage of by the Grand Trunk to bring before the British public the resources, developments and attractions of the Dominion of Canada.

Chronicle of Social Life from the Beaches, the Dells, and the Mountains

The gay social season at the Summer resorts is now at its zenith and the throngs of vacationists who are taking their departure from the city go with the assurance that just now they will get the best of everything that is to be had in the way of recreation and jollity; while those who prefer the simple life, will find the quiet country peculiarly restful and grateful to the tired senses. Many hundreds of Montrealers have this week found release from the busy life, and have gone to forget cares and enjoy the beauties of nature so profusely shown, these midsummer days in earth, sky, air and water. The resorts are crowded and the records show that the season's a brilliant one.

"Within 30 years, all construction will be of Concrete" Edison

Says Thomas A. Edison, "Men are lunatics to keep on building with brick and steel. It is because we use such materials that the fire losses in the United States alone amount to FIVE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR!

Think what an enormous waste of material and labor this represents! It is all unnecessary".

CONCRETE BLOCKS made on "IDEAL" FACE DOWN MACHINES

make an absolutely fireproof store, business block, factory or home. It is simply impossible to burn cement, sand and gravel—which are the materials used in making concrete blocks.

When the building is finished, you are done spending money on it—because it is built for all time.

Let us send you some facts about the beauty and economy of building with "Ideal" Face Down Concrete Blocks. Write for our catalogue. 2

BEFORE YOUR DIP or, indeed, before any summer work or play that exposes the skin to the sun, coat the face and arms with SANITOL PURE COLD CREAM. Thus you will prevent sunburn, with its soreness and "peeling." Used thus, it is a preventative. Used after sun-exposure it is a remedy. Either way, Sanitol Pure Cold Cream is good for the skin—nourishes and invigorates the tissues—improves the circulation. 25c. at all drug stores.

AMUSEMENTS

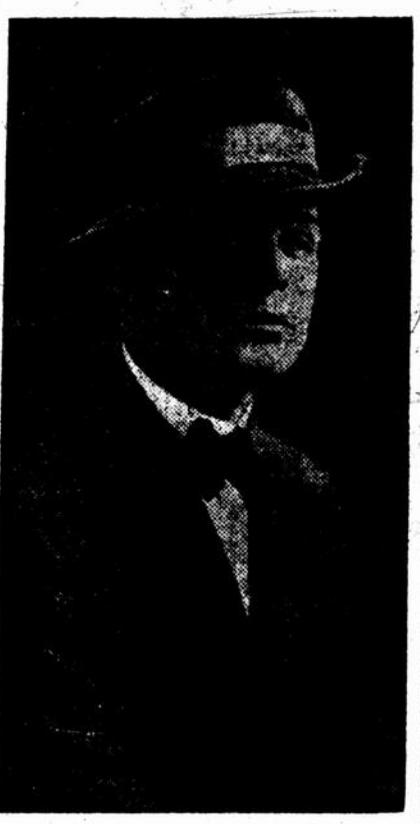
Orpheum.

The Orpheum Players next week will appear in "The Man of the Hour," by George Broadhurst. The author has skilfully avoided personalities by placing the location of the play "in any large city in America," and as unfortunately graft and bossism rule in so many of them, each city, where it is produced can deduce a moral lesson for itself. Richard Horigan, the unscrupulous political "boss," in company with Charles Wainright, a financier and railway magnate, is engineering a big street railway transaction that, to say the least, looks somewhat crooked. Horigan, of course controls the city council, but Wainright and he are both anxious, on the eve of election to find the right man for mayor, one whom, as the boss says, they can handle. Their choice falls on young Alwyn Bennett, a wealthy young idler, who is very much in love with Dallas, Wainright's niece. She has just reproached him with his useless butterfly existence; so that when they offer him the nomination for mayor, he gladly accepts, but warns them both, that if he is elected, he will keep his oath of office. He is elected and at once starts out to show his real worth. Horigan begins to fear he is not going to provel the pliable official they expected, and when Bennett finally defies them and vetoes the objectionable bill, he discovers an old scandal about Bennett's father which he threatens to make public to the world unless Bennett agrees to his terms. To make matters worse Dallas has been told by her uncle that Bennett has been guilty of double dealing, that he did not veto the bill because of duty, but to feather his own nest. Bennett cannot explain his actions in the matter, and Dallas, hurt in her pride, believing the worst bestows her hand on her uncle's choice, Scott Gibbs, a daring young Wall Street operator. In the final act, however, everything is cleared up. The bill is withdrawn, virtue, of course, triumphs. Bennett wins, not only the fight, but the hand of his sweetheart as well. Miss Kemble will appear as Dallas Wainright. She played the part in the original New York production during the play's famous run and afterwards on tour. Mr. Mackay will play Alwyn Bennett. Mr. MacLarnie will make an ideal Horigan, the man of the people, who has risen from the ranks till he is now the political boss of the city. Mr. Reed's quiet methods should aid him in giving a consistent performance of Alderman Phelan. Miss Boshill naturally will show to advantage as the gentle Mrs. Bennett, whose life is wrapped up in her son; and Miss Nichols should be thoroughly at home as the breezy, good-natured young Cynthia Garrison. Mr. Webb can be depended on for one of his cameo-cut characterizations as the financier, Wainright, while the part of Perry, his nephew, has been assigned to Mr. Clark. Mr. Adams is cast for Gibbs, the Wall Street broker, and Mr. Mathews will have the best opportunity yet given him in the role of Thompson, the secretary. Mr. Bennett, as Judge Newman; Mr. Frawley, as Alderman Roberts; Mr. O'Brien, as Ingram, the old Grand Army veteran; Mr. Kelly, as Horigan's lieutenant, Williams; Mr Delmar, as Payne, a typical reporter, and Mr. James, as Miels, the butler, will complete the cast. For the closing week of this organization, beginning Monday, July 31st, Manager Driscoll promises a beautiful and complete production of Henry E. Dixey's comedy drama, "The Man of the Box." The management announces the opening of the regular vaudeville season to take place, Monday matinee. August 7th.

One of the Wagner Sisters, at Dominion Park Next Week.

Princess.

The striking pictures which are being shown at the Princess this week are the subject of general remark. It is the first public display of the Urban-Smith colored pictures, which show subjects in the exact colors of nature. The management offer an entire change of programme next week. Among the new pictures promised are: The Indian contingent at Hampton Court; Royal Progress through London, (part 2.); Canadian troops at Liverpool; (showing many well-known Montrealers); Camps in Hyde Park; Trafalgar Square on Coronation Day; Coronation procession from Parliament Square; Trooping the Colors; Drills at Reedham Orphanage, which the children before their Majesties made Union Jacks and other devices; the Coronation procession seen from Canning statue; Royal progress through London, June 23, in which their Majesties were in an open carriage; the full naval review at Spithead; the second part of the Royal Horse Show at Richmond; Investiture of the Garter. Then we are taken to the East and given remarkable scenes of sunsets in Egypt. The birth of flowers shown this week is to be followed by another series called "Friends." Another big pageant, in the unveiling of the statue of Queen Victoria, will again show what Kinemacolor can do in giving full color value to a splendid parade. The German Emperor and King of England will be seen standing side by side reviewing the troops passing by. A beautiful series will be farmyard friends, in which some more beautiful evidences of what can be done with color in reproducing children and animals will be shown. The day with the staghounds, fording the river, bathing at Ostend, and strange mounts will be attractive. The review of the troops at Khartoum by Lord Kitchener, and the changing of the guard at St. James are spoken of as unparalleled military views in color.



ROBERT ADAMS
Of the Orpheum Players.

Dominion Park.

The Park this week has been visited by thousands of people who appreciate good attractions. This week was the first of the free attractions and the management did not make any mistake when they secured the High Diving Horses and the Lee Trio. For next week the management re-engaged the High Diving Horses. The animals, now the property of J. W. Gorman, of Boston, belonged to George Halloway, of Bncroft, Iowa, who raised and trained them to perform their wonderful feats. Standing almost forty feet above the heads of the audience each animal calmly surveys the crowds below and without the slightest hesitation makes the dive. The most wonderful part of the act is the fact that the animal does not jump into the water but actually dives striking the water with his fore feet. The horses seem to take the feat without a bit of fear and dive without any urging, they seem to do it as a matter of course. Next week at the vaudeville theatre there will be another strong bill. The Great Otto, bag puncher; The Wagner Sisters, refined singing and dancing; Alias Allie Roman, actor, vocalist, character quick change artist, direct from the London Music Halls; Pritchard and Pritchard, a study in black and white. The Lee Trio has been re-engaged for next week as a free attraction and they will present all new tricks on bicycles and unnicycles.

Greetings from Bernhardt.

Sarah Bernhardt has written a letter to her American manager, Mr. Connor, in which she expresses her appreciation of the reception she had on her last tour. She writes:

I have just reached the shores of France, where I have been welcomed with outstretched arms, eyes bathed with tears, and I have shared, with those around me, the emotions of home-coming; but at the same time, my heart has been stirred by another emotion, one which has evoked the memory of those eight months I spent in America, and I do not wish to await my return to Paris to express to you my friend, all my grateful appreciation, for it is to you that I owe the immense happiness of those last eight months. I have made wonderful tours in America with charming impressarii—Abbey and Grau—but I was then in the full vigor of my youth and at the height of my career. You, my friend, you had confidence in me when others feared my return to America. You also had faith in your fellow countrymen, knowing that they would appreciate an art offered with sincerity by an artist having a true love for The Ideal. The American public responded to your appeal, anxious to applaud the French artist who was presenting works essentially French. Never before during my tours of Canada and the United States has my success or that of my company been so great, so constant. This time, the public being more familiar with our language, showed a just appreciation for the young artists who surrounded me. De Max achieved a marked success five years ago. This year Tellegen, Decoeur, Maxudian, Cauroy, Miles. Seylor, Thomas and Duc were applauded and appreciated individually, and this was for me a great joy.

I confess that I have never before realized how faithfully and tenderly the American people cherish the memory of the distinguished Frenchmen of the past, not only those portrayed in our plays but those memorable in history: Lafayette, Champlain and others. At the same time they are interested more than ever in things French as we, of France, are interested in things American. In your admirable country of many Capitols, all the younger generation understand French. That is why I write this letter in French, for in this way I can better express my gratitude and profound friendship to those who greeted me in the course of my journey of 25,000 miles, and to the American Press my heartfelt appreciation for the conscientious study of our plays and the criticism of our interpretation.

Perhaps I shall never return as artist, but I shall come back to America, in any case, to see again those immense rivers, those great inland oceans, those gigantic forests, those boundless plains, those dizzy canyons, those marvellous parks, and even those buildings, less picturesque than the canyon, but nearly as tall as they are deep.

With a full heart,
SARAH BERNHARDT.

Sohmer.

Something new in the way of an aquatic act is promised as the headliner for the coming week at Sohmer park. M'lle Odiva, who is styled as "The Sensational Samoan Diving Queen," comes to Montreal for the first time. It is claimed that she uses the largest water tank ever introduced on the stage and that her act is entirely different from anything that has yet been seen. A mind reading duck will be introduced by the two Van der Koors. Felix, the duck has been taught to do some smart tricks, and clever though his educators may be, newspapers have claimed that the duck is the more wonderfully part of an all round funny act. Harry Tsuda, the Japanese equilibrist will make his first appearance in Montreal and an act that is sad to be very sensatonal. The Zenoras, European Comedy Bicycle riders, are also among the new arrivals. It is claimed that they have a new act of tricks. Those who are fond of clever dancing by clever girls who have half a dozen changes of costume will be interested in the appearance of the Misses Crawford and Montrose. A change in the programme will be the feature of the Wednesday and Friday gala nights during the balance of the season.

Thursday, August the tenth has been selected for the annual benefit of the employes of Sohmer Park. Special features will be provided and the Park band promise to have a programme that will be hard to beat.

Odiva, at Sohmer Park Next Week.

AT DOMINION.

Much Building Being Carried on in Suburb.

The Council has undertaken the thorough tile draining of the thickly populated part of the town north of the G. T. R. tracks, and has started a large gang of men upon the work.

Building is going on rapidly here, but the absence of any effective supervision, permits of the erection of poor little wooden houses by the foreign element, which simply invite serious fire.

The clergy of the Roman Catholic parish here are inaugurating a regular campaign against social evils of various kinds, which are said to be on the increase.

Special Notice.

Special Sunday Train, Montreal to St. Hyacinthe and Intermediate Stations.

Every Sunday, until further notice the Grand Trunk Railway System will run Special Train, leaving Montreal at 12.10 p.m. for St. Hyacinthe and Intermediate Stations. Returning, this train will leave St. Hyacinthe at 8.00 p.m., stopping at Intermediate Stations, for Montreal.

PIANOS

THE HEINTZMAN & CO. PIANO

is the greatest piano of the day, made in Canada.

It is not an instrument of ephemeral growth, but of steadily increasing popularity and excellence throughout the fifty-eight years of its life.

So remarkable is the tone of this instrument that it has won world-wide fame, and the unstinted praise of such artists as Calve, Mark Hamburg, Madame Albani, De Pachman, Nordica and many others. It is to be found in the best homes and many of the large institutions of the Dominion.

TRADE UNIONISTS WILL DISCUSS CITIZENS' ARMY PLAN

Regular Standing Army a Menace to Popular Liberty, Declares Proposed Resolution.

London, July 22.— The agenda for the forty-fourth annual Trade Union Congress, which is to be held in Newcastle in the early days of September under the chairmanship of Mr. W. Mullin, contains, amongst other interesting items, a proposal for the establishment of a citizen army. It stands in the name of the London Glass Blowers' Society, of whom the chief spokesman on important occasions is Mr. John Stokes. The resolution reads:—

"The congress, realizing that militarism and the existence of a regular standing army constitute a menace to popular liberty, is of the opinion that the time has arrived for the institution of a real citizen army, free entirely from military law during times of peace, officered entirely by the selection of the rank and file. Such citizen army to be used for defensive purposes only."

Opinion among trade unionists and the working classes generally is very divided on the subject of a citizen army. The matter has not so far been taken as a direct issue either by the Trade Union Congress or the Labor Party Conference, but it has been indirectly discussed. For instance, in September, 1907, at the Trade Union Congress at Bath, Mr. W. A. Appleton (Lace Makers) moved:—

"That this congress desires to enter its protest against the proposal to introduce conscription or compulsory military training, believing that any such system would act most injuriously upon the industrial and commercial interests of the working classes through the removal of young men from their trades and occupations at that time of life when excellence in craftsmanship is most easily obtainable."

This was seconded by Mr. J. Turner, of the London Shop Assistants, but the opportunity was seized by Mr. Will Thorne, M.P., a leading Socialist, to advocate the establishment of a citizen army. He declared himself in favor of the abolition of the standing army. Some 90 per cent. of the young men were forced to join it through economic reasons. The young men were not moved to join for love of the Service. He wanted to see every man ready to bear the burden when called upon, and to see a citizen forme which should be compulsorily trained

Socialists and the Army.

On the same occasion Mr. Ben Turner reminded the congress that the greater portion of the Socialist movement was absolutely opposed to standing armies whether voluntary or otherwise. He deprecated the Territorial system and the visit which it was proposed that Labor members should make to Switzerland to investigate the citizen army there, Mr. Clynes, M.P., was in favor of the influence of the ballot rather than that of a citizen army. He looked to "a revolution which would be due to the forces of the mind," and he lamented that the chief of his own organization was now lending himself to a mistaken course. The original resolution was carried with only one dissentient.

Trade Unionist Views.

The spirit of trade unionists would seem to be adverse to all forms of militarism, although if Mr. J. Stokes —who has given notice of the resolution to be moved at the forthcoming Newcastle Trade Union Congress—is to be credited, the organized workers are gradually coming round to his view, and that of Mr. Will Thorne, M.P. Mr. Stokes, with whom the subject was discussed by one of our representatives yesterday, said: "The necessity for a citizen army in place of an army officered entirely by men of a class separated from the workers is clear to us, and it is pointed out in my resolution. My society and other unions are of opinion that every man should be trained to the use of arms, but not necessarily trained to use them for the defence of capitalistic property—for the defence of their own State. The idea is becoming more acceptable. There was scarcely a voice of assent at Bath in 1907, but at Ipswich, although defeated by a large majority, the minority was solid.

"None of us of the Social Democratic Federation or of the trade union desires to see a citizen army used as a means of introducing conscription. We desire something entirely diferent from that. We have no desire for a conscript army which can be used for replacing the people in the way these armies are used on the Continent. In the French railway strike, for instance the conscripts were called up to take places of men on strike. We don't want that kind of thing, but a citizn army, free from military drill in times of peace."

MORE PIN PRICKS IN ALCAZAR AFFAIR.

Tangier, Morocco, July 22.—A despatch from Alcazar says that the French lieutenant Thiret, instructor of the Moorish troops camped at Rouznah, while riding to Alcazar to secure money for the payment of his command, was stopped by a Spanish picket. The soldiers tried to force the French officer to dismount, but Thiriet refused. A patrol of cavalry with drawn swords and a detachment of infantrbkgqjxJW. cfwyp bgkqja vbgk infantry with fixed bayonets rushed up and surrounded the officer.

They beat him with the flats of their sabres, according to the despatch and pointed their rifles at him, and thus dragged him to the Spanish camp. Thiret was detained an hour and after being questioned by Col. Sylvestre was released

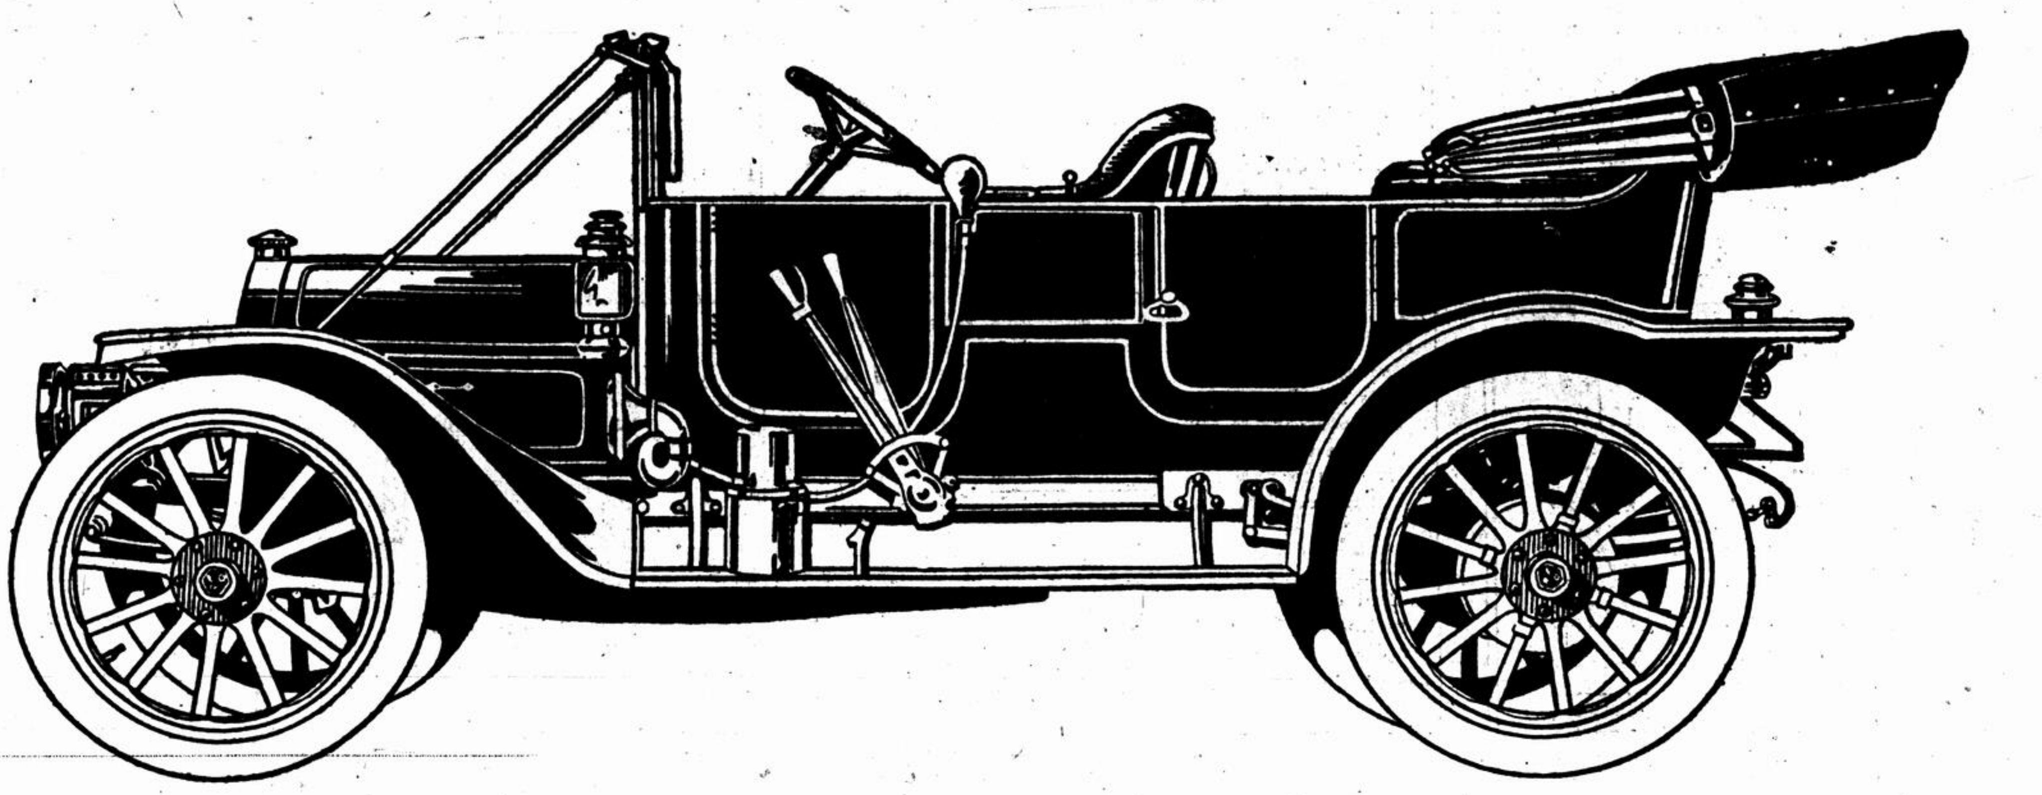
$1350 For the Liveliest Car of its Class in all Canada



Reo "Thirty," Detachable Fore-door Touring Car, Complete with Top and Windshield—$1350.

Reo "Thirty," Five Passenger Low Fore-door Touring Car—$1350—Complete with Top and Windshield

Identical with the Reo "Thirty" shown at the top of this advertisement, except for the low fore-door feature.

Reo "Thirty," Two Passenger Torpedo Roadster—$1275

Complete with Top and Windshield.

A splendid car for all 'round service, both business and pleasure.

If you can find, in all Canada, a value that compares with this car at $1350---a price made possible only by the economies of a greatly increased production---we shall be glad to have you point it out to us.

The Reo is not only the liveliest car of its class in all Canada—but the most capable, the most competent, under Canadian road conditions.

Reo Touring Car or Reo Roadster — either one says: "Goodbye, I must be going" to any car it meets of approximate horsepower or price.

Many motor cars, like many men, have a good deal of latent power which goes to waste.

Every ounce of power the Reo motor makes—it uses.

The wheels get it all—none of it gets away.

The Reo is never an idler; it never shirks—it is busy getting there every minute that it is in action.

Go where you will in the farthest corners of the American continent—there is the busy, industrious Reo; the cheerful willing servant of some enthusiastic owner.

It has never met Canadian conditions that baffled or discouraged it.

You will find it at the very outposts of civilization — but rendering no better service there, than it is rendering every day in crowded city streets.

The Reo owner gets all the good out of his car that there is in it—and the supply never runs short.

It is a quick, flexible, ready, economical, easily-managed car.

It is of unequalled endurance and yet is easily maintained, because it carries not one pound of unnecessary weight.

It will do things that will frighten a car of more horsepower and larger carrying capacity — and go places where the other car can't follow.

What you want in a motor car is efficiency; because efficiency, of course, means economy; and that is what the Reo gives you every minute and every hour of the day.

The St. Catharines plant is ready to serve all Canada at any time and at all times.

It does not need to refer to the Reo record on the other side of the border.

It rests its claims for your consideration on Canadian records and Canadian results.

Hundreds of Canadian farmers and ranchmen are now driving the Reo—but some day there will be thousands.

The sooner you investigate the Reo, the sooner your Reo day will come—from every standpoint it will win your loyal affection.

See the Reo at any of these principal agencies, or ask for the address of the sub-agent nearest you.

MILK IN HOT WEATHER.

OUT of four hundred cans of milk which the city's Food Inspectors examined one day during the recent hot weather, none of them conformed to one of the first hygienic essentials, which is that the contents of the cans should never reach a high temperature. Fifty degrees is the ideal limit, sixty is tolerable and seventy is dangerous. The best of the cans was heated to sixty-two degrees; in the great majority, the temperature ran between seventy-five and eighy-five; and in one case the milk which was waiting for distribution to families and had the worst part of its journey still before it, showed a thermometer reading of ninety-two degrees. And still we wonder why our infant mortality is so high!

Dr. McCarrey has submitted to the Board of Control certain recommendations based on these investigations and intended to put an end to the most careless—it is almost possible to describe them as criminally careless—of the practises which make such conditions possible. Why, for example, should milk, of all the commodities which are handled by railroads, be usually allowed to stand on a hot and unsheltered platform from the time of its delivery until the retail carts call for it? This was the custom in the early days of railroads and it is the only custom which has survived with all its primitive features. More care is taken of a sack of oats or a bushel of corn, dumped on a station platform, than of a milk-can which contains either food or poison for helpless babies according to conditions which are largely controllable, although apparently little attempt is made to control them. There should undoubtedly be refrigerator cars for the transportation of the city's milk supply, as Dr. McCarrey recommends, but, failing the inauguration of such a service, there must be more care taken of the milk between the hour of its arrival on the railway platform and its delivery to the families who pay—and pay well,—for what is supposed to be the untainted commodity. The retail price of milk is quite high enough to justify the consumer in demanding at least a superficial attention to hygienic considerations.

AN EIGHT HOUR DAY FOR PARLIAMENT.

PARLIAMENT is to begin morning sessions presently. This would be good news if it were coupled with a statement that it would at the same time abandon late night sittings. The morning is the best time for business men to get togather to discuss business in a business fashion. They are then alert, optimistic, good humored, and with well-poised nerves and well curbed tempers. But all this disappears as the dreary hours wear on, and sheer physical friction unravels the nervous system and sharpens the calmest tempers.

The unseemly "scenes" with which our House of Commons has been too often disgraced of late, have practically all taken place after the members were worn "to a frazzle" by overwork. Now these "scenes" do more than humiliate the country. They delay business, and prevent the common sense and conciliatory settlement of many difficulties. A bad spirit between the members is as bad for public business as friction in a commercial or industrial "board" is bad for the success of the enterprise it has in hand. Harmony, toleration, above all a spirit of conciliation and fair compromise, are essentials to getting things done.

If Parliament would meet at ten and adjourn for the day at six, it would do more business, talk less and quarrel seldom. The habit of meeting at three in the afternoon and sitting until the Ministers are tired out, is one of the silliest importations we ever made from London. No other wise Parliament in the world is guilty of this folly. They do their work in day-light at Washington and in Paris. We seem to prefer to do ours after most honest men in the country are in bed.

What Parliament should demand for itself is "an eight hour day," beginning at ten in the fresh morning.

IS THE CENSUS A PREPARATION FOR DIRECT TAXATION?

THE Legislature of the State of New York has just ratified the constitutional amendment giving Congress the power to levy an income tax for federal purposes. When the time comes, as soon it must come if the Reciprocity Treaty is ratified, and subsequently amplified into Commercial Union, for the Dominion Government to impose an income tax or any kind of direct tax upon the people of Canada for federal purposes, it will not be necessary to obtain the consent of the provincial legislatures. Under the British North America Act, the Dominion Parliament has power to raise money by any mode or system of taxation. Hitherto the Customs and Inland Revenue Departments have furnished the Dominion Government with all the money it required; but obviously the adoption of the Reciprocity Agreement with the United States not only means the cutting off of nearly all the revenue from American imports into Canada but also the cutting off of the revenue from similar imports from every country entitled to most favored nation treatment from Canada.

Meanwhile the expenditure upon railways and the public works has increased enormously and at the present stage the Dominion Government could not check the utflow of public money very materially even if it wished to do so. The policy of paying the principal and interest of one loan by launching another has it necessary limitations and unless some provision is made for making up the loss of revenue involved in Reciprocity it will not be long before Canada is face to face with a financial crisis.

This is what makes the present Dominion Census a matter of the gravest importance to the country, and why the enumerators should receive every possible assistance from the people. It is not simply a question of "numbering the people;" it is also a question of ascertaining their capacity for taxation. They are asked questions concerning the value of their property, their wages, the time they have lost through sickness and so on. This does not mean, as some people evidently imagine, that the individual will be taxed according to his personal crcumstances, as revealed by his answers; but all this kind of information is absolutely necessary to enable Mr. Fielding to prepare a system of taxation based upon the actual wealth and earning capacity of the nation as a whole. There is nothing novel about the collection of such information for statistical purposes; but it is of exceptional importance to Canada just now, that the Finance Minister should have as complete information as possible to enable him to prepare for the radical change in Canada's fiscal system, involved in the carrying out of his Reciprocity policy. It is only fair to Mr. Fielding and his colleagues to assume that when they put their hands to the Reciprocity plough, they did not fully realise the extent of the effect of their policy upon Canada's finances. Probably they omitted to take into consideration the imports from the most favored nations, which will be entitled to the same exemption fro duties as those from the United States. The Honorable Minister has not yet submitted to Parliament any estimate of the loss of revenue which is involved in the new policy; nor has he suggested the alternative scheme of taxation he has in view. He may be awaiting the completion of the Census before setting out upon this tremendous task. The system of indirect taxation is sometimes criticised for its complexity, but a scheme of direct taxation which hall be thoroughly fair in its incidence is one of the most difficult things in the world to devise and also one of the most complex. "But that is another story."

CONTROLLING THE "INTERESTS."

EVER since Judge Gary the chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, stated to a committee of Congress that the business of making steel should be under government control just as much as the business of running railroads, there has been both speculation as to what he meant and concern as to why he meant it. One of the disabilities of a position such as Judge Gary occupies in the world of finance is that the general public rarely accepts its occupant's utterances at their face value. This suspicion in Judge Gary's case was much complicated by the knowledge of his efforts to unite the steel industry of the world into what was felicitously called a "Golden Rule" association whose motives were to be as highly moral as its treatment of its competitors was to be genuinely philanthropic. That the seed Judge Gary sowed has fallen upon fertile ground is indicated by the intimation which the Attorney-General has just made to the effect that a Government Commission to regulate the great corporations is as desirable and even as necessary as the Interstate Commerce Commission which controls railway rates. When a member of the President's official household makes an occasion for announcing his belief in so important a principle as state regulation of industries it is safe to assume that it is but the forerunner of an announcement of policy by the President himself. The vision of the Republican party setting itself seriously to the task of curbing the great "interests" of the United States is not one easily conjured up although it is quite possible that if curbing is inevitable, the "interests" would rather have it done by kindly and gentle hands

THE DANGERS OF AUTHORSHIP.

THERE is no new thing under the sun. A libel suit was taken in Manchester against the Amalgamated Press for libelling a Miss Irene Chester, a tobacconist and money-lender. The alleged libel was contained in a novel which had for one of its characters a Marriette Chester, a money-lender. The author swore that he had never heard of Irene and Irene swore that her business was ruined because people associated her with Mariette. The jury awarded the plaintiff £75 damages.

Charles Dickens, in his preface to Nicholas Nickleby, says: "It has afforded the author great amusement and satisfaction, during the progress of this work, to learn, from country friends and from a variety of ludicrous statements concerning himself in provincial newspapers, that more than one Yorkshire schoolmaster lays claim to being the original of Mr. Squeers. One worthy, he has reason to believe, has actually consulted authorities learned in the law, as to his having good grounds on which to rest an action for libel; another has meditated a journey to London, for the express purpose of committing an assault and battery upon his traducer; a third perfectly remembers being waited on, last January twelve month, by two gentlemen, one of whom held him in conversation while the other took his likeness; and although Mr. Squeers has but one eye, and he has two, and the published sketch does not resemble him (whoever he may be) in any other respect, still he and all his friends and neighbors know at once for whom it is meant, because—the character is so like him."

The verdict adds a new terror to authorship. If the author selects a common name for an objectionable character he multiplies the number of possible plantiffs. If he selects an uncommon one he makes the identification with somebody all the more complete.

THE SHAH'S REJUVENATION.

MOHAMMED ALI MIRZA, as a Persian gentleman of good family and large income who spent most of his time and money between Marienbad and Baden-Baden, was one thing; Mohammed Ali Mirza, as the dethroned Shah of Persia seeking his throne and stirring up rebellion in Turkestan is something very different, as he is likely to discover to his sorrow unless the Persian people flock to his standard with the same unanimity they displayed in flocking away from it a few months ago. The ex-Shah was supposedly under Russian tutelage and control to the extent of being eliminated as a factor in Persian intrigues, a special protocol covering this point. Whether he has eluded the surveillance of his guardians or been allowed to do so for some purpose of high Russian politics, is not, at present, determinable. In either case, his presence in Turkestan with the nucleus of an army will act on European politics as a counter-irritant to the Aquadir incident. Germany has no desire to see complications in Persia occur simultaneously with complications in other districts in which she has or assumes to have an interest. The Bagdad railway is of strategic as well as commercial importance and its construction will not be advanced or its value to Germany augmented by the inauguration of an era of revolution and counter-revolution in Persia. This fact is so apparent that the how and wherefor of the Shah's evasion of Russian surveillance will probably have to be very carefully explained.

The courts in Toronto have decided that the Deity is offended when people buy ice-cream on Sunday and carry it home in pails or in the form of "bricks;" but that He has no objection to it being carried home in "cones." They must have got this information by wireless.

The weakness of the West at this moment is that the Government believe that it is bound to vote for them anyway because of Reciprocity; while the Opposition do not see why they should try to get more votes for a section which advertises its determination to use them to keep the Opposition where it is.

"I Remember—"

"McGill University consisted of one central building—the old Arts Faculty, in the west end of which were a few shelves of books, designated a library. The campus was an untrodden field. The great modern buildings, which express the generosity of Sir William C. Macdonald, had not then been a thought in the mind.

"And the arts building looked lonely enough," and when you struck the portico, it sounded hollow, which led a member of the British Association for the Advancement of Science to say that the whole thing was hollow."

And to this old building, out of the east end of which had been fashioned a make-shift residence for the then Principal, Sir William Dawson (most modest of men)—a man named George Morgan, now nearly eighty years of age, brought the first furniture—office and domestic.

"The stuff came from St. Johns, where it had been bought at private sale, and was brought with difficulty to Montreal. I took the contract of handling it, being in the express delivery business at the time.

"I remember that after we left Craig street to go north-west we passed over fields, for there was no regular street. The fields were swampy; and when we reached the site of the present English Cathedral, the express swayed in the morass, and a case of fine delft went smash into the swamp. I had to pay for it out of my own pocket, which is why I remember it so well. But the college then had simply one building. The grounds were not laid out at all, and were not very different, one supposes, from what they looked like when the Indians occupied the fields as part of their original Hochelaga."

There was no railway then; no gas; no waterworks; no Victoria Square—worth speaking about; no St. Catherine street west; only a few houses on Sherbrooke street; and in reaching the city, in the first place, from Rawdon, when he was a lad, he had to make use of the wooden railway, of which mention has been made by several contributors to the "I Remember" column.

"In that early day, all the groceries and saloons were open on Sunday. The license for a saloon then was $16. St. Lawrence market—that is, the first one as you go up northwards—was called the "Sunday market," because it was wide open, and you could get your meat or fish on that day, the same as any other. There was no restriction at all."

A fierce faction spirit prevailed when Mr. Morgan was a lad, in the city. This spirit was provoked by politics and partly by creed.

"I remember the elections of such men as Drummond, Molson, D'Arcy Magee, and others. The excitement was tremendous. I often heard Mr. Magee speaking in public. He was very eloquent; but whereas he commenced as a radical, he ended by being a Conservative—I mean in feeling, and this moderation cost him his life ultimately.

* * *

"At the time of these elections, a large number of people came in from Rawdon to support Drummond and Molson, who were supposed to favor the Protestant side. Many of those were armed, and camped out at night in the street, wrapped in blankets. There was only one polling station that I can recall, at the City Hall. The voting was open, and in exercising the franchise in this way, one ran great risk of violence. As I came originally from Rawdon, I was often attacked by the opposite party, and nearly lost my life in Griffintown, at that time. I was saved more than once by the kindly intervention of one of the opposite party.

"The building of the Victoria Bridge was watched with great interest, and when it was completed, the Prince of Wales came out to declare it open. I remember the illumination of the city, and the crowds which came from a distance, and the member of which had, many of them, to sleep out at night, while the festivities lasted. And as for the illuminations, these were effected by tallow candles. A few houses in the city had gas in 1860, but very few. These candles were made by Mr. Matthewson, the soap manufacturer. I remember, by the way, that this Mr. Matthewson had a fine stallion, which one night killed the man he had attending to it. When the man was found dead and his face partly eaten away, Mr. Matthewson ordered the animal to be shot; but a man standing by named O'Neill, said he would take the animal. "Well, do so; but never let it be seen unless it is muzzled."

* * *

"When the Gavazzi riots occurred, I was walking on St. Catherine st. I rushed down, and saw the firing; but who was responsible for it will never be known. It was said at the time that the soldiers fired, because some one in the crowd, other than the officers, gave the order. It was contended that Mayor Wilson gave the order. This he denied. Again, it was said that the soldiers fired not into, but over the crowd, and that it was the innocent spectators on the outside who were shot. There was an investigation: but it did not clear up the mystery; but the soldiers who were known to have discharged their rifles, were transported.

"All about the scene of the riot, and the shooting were wooden shanties. Even Victoria Square was not built up; and where Greenshields is now, was a wooden shanty, where they sold small wares. It was there that Hackett was shot."

* * *

The floods and fires, Mr Morgan remembers. The floods came again and again, and the people were imprisoned in their houses for weeks, while the waters rose as far as Victoria Square. The big fire in the Quebec suburbs, demolished the east end of the city, burning everything in its path and ending only at the jail. "The habit of the time was for the men to have clean shaven faces. I think the only man to wear a beard at the time was Judge Day. But there was a second man to wear a beard, after the fire, for a man named Cooper, being badly burned in the hands and arms, was unable to shave, and he was notable ever afterwards for a beard."

Mr. Morgan used to gallop his horses all along the fields where now Sherbrooke street is; where St. Catherine street is—in part.

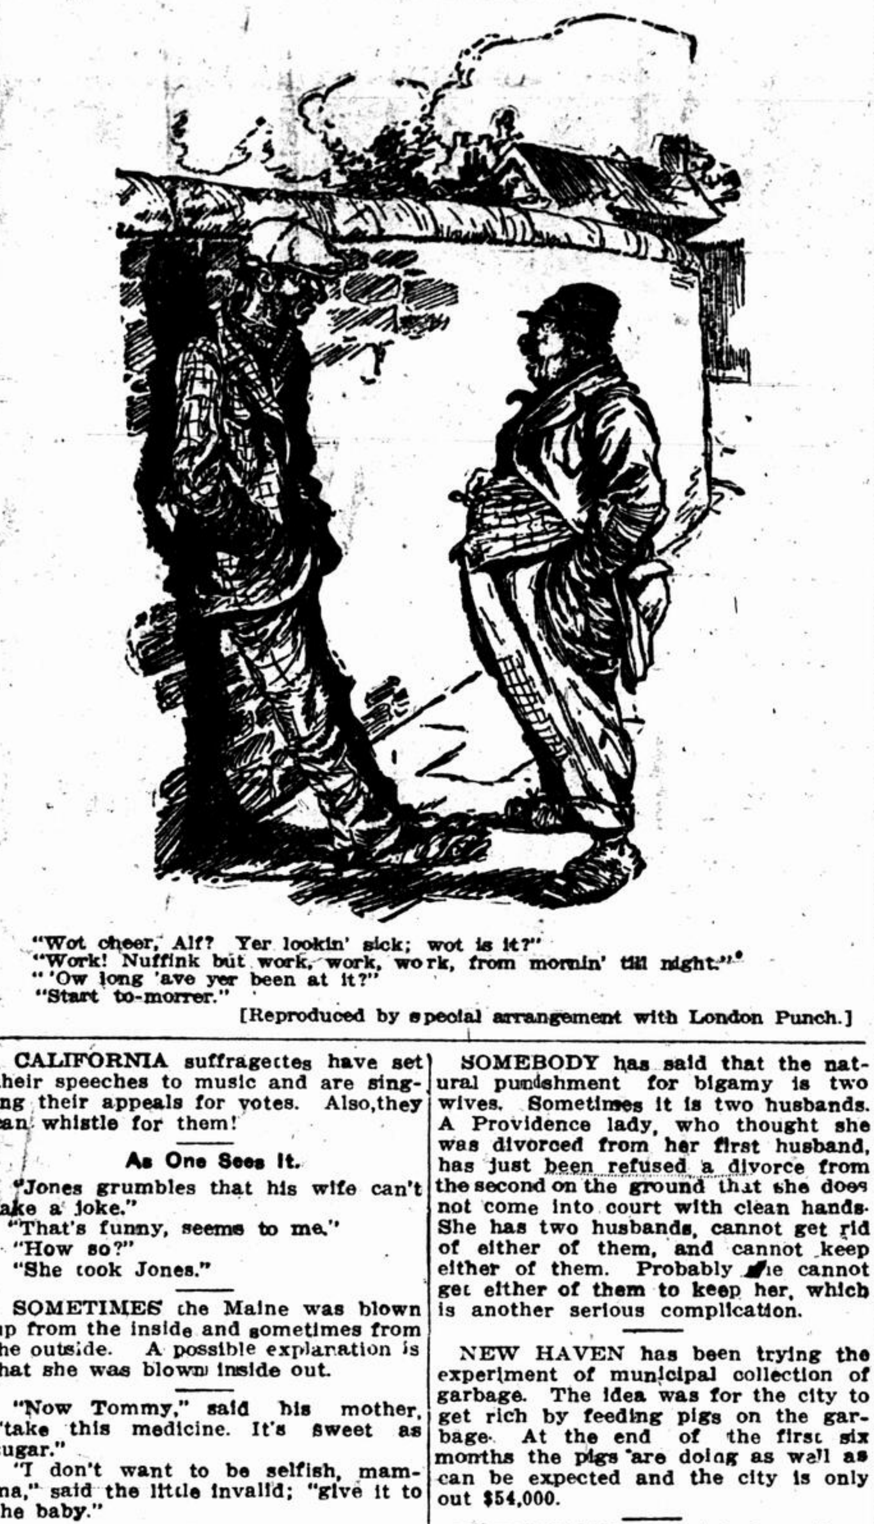
Dominion S(quare was then the Roman Catholic cemetery; and when he was young, they were removing the bodies. "I remember when the cemeteries behind the mountain were first used; and I assisted at the first burial in Mount Royal cemetery, of a young woman named Parker. In the Catholic burying ground there was no large vaults, such as we have now, but a great tunnel was made in the earth and the corpses put there in the winter, awaiting burial in the spring. To get to the tunnel, or to its bottom, you had to step on a series of coffins, which were placed so as to form steps to assist the descent. I have often trodden on the corpses myself in this way. Some Protestant civilians were buried, I remember, in the old military burying ground on Papineau Road. That was the time of the body snatching. There were no anatomy laws then, and no vigilant officials to see that the unclaimed bodies were taken to the dissecting rooms of the universities. Students and others used to snatch the bodies for dissecting purposes, while others, not students, used to make a trade of the business for money. Many a family had to watch the newly-made graves for months; nor was this vigilance always successful."

* * *

Mr. Morgan remembers when St. Denis street was a garden—a market garden, owned by a Mr. Cooper, when the Governor's garden was full of bloom; when the Grand Trunk burned wood, as did every household in the city—practically; when the "shillelah" cracked many a skull and drew the "claret" freely "in the brave days of old"—the old political election days, when the contest would last for a month or more, and the voting a week; when each candidate would, either himself, or through his agents, try to disable the voters of the other party, by making them drunk, if that were possible (which it usually was), or by the process of smashing their heads; when political oratory reached tremendous height and copiousness; when the bulk of the land which now represents modern Montreal, was bush or meadow or farm land.

"What changes I have witnessed; and how little could anybody have foreseen what has taken place during the past half century."

THE PASSING HOUR



"Wot cheer, Alf? Yer lookin' sick; wot is it?"
"Work! Nuffink but work, work, work, from mornin' till night."

SOMEBODY has said that the natural punishment for bigamy is two wives. Sometimes it is two husbands. A Providence lady, who thought she was divorced from her first husband, has just been refused a divorce from the second on the ground that she does not come into court with clean hands. She has two husbands, cannot get rid of either of them, and cannot keep either of them. Probably she cannot get either of them to keep her, which is another serious complication.

NEW HAVEN has been trying the experiment of municipal collection of garbage. The idea was for the city to get rich by feeding pigs on the garbage. At the end of the first six months the pigs are doing as well as can be expected and the city is only out $54,000.

NEW YORK has just had a sham naval attack, in which nine of the attacking battleships were hypothetically sunk to the bottom of the deep blue sea and New York was saved. But there wasn't a Niobe in the whole attacking fleet, or New York might have been laid in hypothetical ashes.

To the Editor.

STATION DRIVES AT LITTLE METIS.

To the Editor of the Montreal Star.

Sir:—I am not a Little Metesian, but I have for many years heard of Little Metis, its charms of scenery and its many other advantages which include golf links, quietness and reasonable charges. These were what I wanted, so a few days ago I booked my ticket and secured my sleeping accommodation on the I. C. R., for Little Metis. I am now back in town again, all too soon; my holiday is over and I am looking back over the joys and sorrows of my few day's sojourn in that charming seaside resort.

Generally speaking, the charges are fairly reasonable, that is to say, taking into consideration what you get, the hotel charges are not exorbitant. In one respect, however, the bill that was presented to me was simply outrageous. The railway station is situated hardly a mile from the Post Office and it took approximately about eight minutes to transfer me and my suitcase from the station to the hotel. The road is a gentle slope all the way down to the Post Office and in a better condition than Sherbrooke street is to-day. Imagine my surprise when I was told the charge would be $1.00. A suggestion on my part that the charge was an unreasonable one, met with the statement that it was the charge fixed by all the different hotelkeepers and farmers who act as cabmen and take people to and from the station to the village.

In Montreal a similar drive would, by tariff rates, be 25 cents, and one would very probably give the cabman 10 cents extra, 35 cents in all, which would bring forth a "Thank you" and a touch of the hat. The conveyance that held you would be a rubber-tyred cab, costing somewhere in the vicinity of $700. or $800., the horse between the shafts would probably cost $300. and both the horse and cab would pay a tax to the city and yet the tariff charge would be 25 cents.

I have travelled a good deal—know Europe fairly well—and not in London, Paris or Berlin, or any other place that I know would such exortion be permitted. Even in expensive New York a cab will take you from the Grand Central Station, to say, The Hamburg-American wharf for (taking the distance into consideration) proportionately a much cheaper fare than I was called on to pay.

What the tariff should be it is not for me to suggest, but I would simply call attention to the fact that for 25 cents a cab will take you from the C. P. R. station at Quebec to the Chateau Frontenac, which is practically about the same distance, and at the same time you get all the hills thrown in.

A VICTIM.

FROM THE STAR FILES THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

"In an interview with Major Brotherton, at Fort Buford, Sitting Bull, the great Indian chief, who defeated General Custer, handed his rifle to his little son to surrended it to an U.S. officer. In the course of a dignified speech, the old warrior said, with reference to leaving Canada: "My heart was very sad at having to leave the great Mother's country. She has been a friend to me, but I want my children brought up in their native country, and I also wish to feel that I can visit my friends on the other side of the line, viz., Major Walsh and Captain McDonald, whenever I wish." — From The Montreal Star, July 22nd, 1881.

MAJOR WALSH was well known throughout the western part of Canada as a smart military man, with what amounted to a talent for dealing with Indians and half-breeds. It was generally believed that Sitting Bull did not take the important step of re-crossing the boundary to surrender to the United States without seeking advice from his friend, the Major.

"Don Carlos was expelled from France for deciding to attempt some partial scattered risings, which at the approach of the elections in Spain should stir up agitation." — From The Montreal Star, July 22nd, 1881.

SPAIN was kept in intermittent turmoil by the pretender to the Spanish throne for many years, his life at this time being a continued duel with the dowager Queen Isabella, a woman of immense ability and energy.

"The Duke of Cambridge, the Earl of Kimberley, Sir John Rose, and Sir John A. Macdonald made speeches at Wimbledon to-day, in reviewing the Canadian marksmen." — From The Montreal Star, July 22nd, 1881.

GEORGE, Duke of Cambridge, Field Marshal, commanding the British army, cousin to Her Majesty Queen Victoria, congratulated the team on its shooting, and said: "I am really much gratified that you have won the Kolapore Cup." Sir John A. Macdonald said in the course of one of his characteristic speeches: "I believe if the time should come that England should find herself involved in war, Canada would do her fair share, man for man, in fighting for the common cause and the common flag."

GIRL IS FRIGHTENED BY STRANGE MAN.

West End Police Seek Man Who Molested Children.

Little Ethel Shaw, nine years old and residing with her parents at No. 200 Coursol street, was on Western avenue, in company with another little girl and a young boy yesterday afternoon. They were amusing themselves gathering daisies and flowers when a man came upon them and engaged the children in conversation. After a few moments, he gave young Ethel the contents of his pockets, about eleven cents and asked her to follow him. The little girl refused and he grabbed her and attempted to carry her away from the road. Her cries were so loud that he became alarmed and he placed her down about fifty feet away from the road and took to his heels.

The child was badly frightened and upon her arrival home related her story to her mother, who immediately informed the police. Captain Dourangeau, of the Vinet and Workman St. Police Station, immediately set men to work on the case, but the little girl was unable to give but a very hazy description of the man.

RECORD PRICES ARE BEING ASKED FOR PROPERTIES ALONG ST. JAMES STREET

Several Big Deals Consummated During the Present Week — Sale of Mechanics' Institute Building Hangs Fire, But Big Price Has Been Offered — South Shore Land Is In Keen Demand — List of Transfers During Week.

The Boxer property at the corner of St. James and St. Francois Xavier, which is now the object of keen competition.

The feature of the week in real estate is the ballooning of prices on St. James street, but despite this fact, sales are more numerous than for many months past.

As an instance of the immense profits made on real estate on that thoroughfare during the week, may be mentioned the following two deals published in the Star:

The property situated at Nos. 208, 210, 212, 214, 216, 218 and 220 St. James street, and known as the Campbell-Nelles property, was sold for $354,000. The purchasers are a French syndicate, who also made an attempt to purchase the Mechanics' Institute building. The property has an area of 7,277 feet, which makes the price per foot about $47.50 a square foot.

It is stated that Messrs. Carrick, Limited, secured the option on this property, at the rate of $41 a foot some time ago and have realized a profit of about $6.50 per square foot.

The other deal was that of the property situated at 235 to 237 St. James street, which was sold for $150,000. This property contains an area of 3,558 square feet, which brings the price per foot to $43. This property was purchased last December by Mr. Frank McKenna for the sum of $110,000, or at the rate of about $31.60 per square foot and yesterday he sold it for $150,000, making a profit in six months of about $40,000.

The Boxer property, situated at the corner of St. James and St. Francois Xavier streets, is also a centre of attraction for millionaire buyers, and during the week several offers have been submitted to the parties looking after the interests of the owners. This property runs through from St. James street to Notre Dame, and is bounded on the east side by St. Francois Xavier street, measuring no less than 7,759 square feet, but the St. James street sections, amounting to 5,035 feet, have alone been in the market. This property measures 53 feet on St. James, and 95 on the side street, making a total of 5,035 square feet, and it is understood that one of the offers submitted is at the rate of $80 a foot, or something over $400,000.

The Mechanics' Institute Sale.

An attempt was also made during the week to purchase the site of the Mechanics' Institute, and Messrs. Gault & Ewing, on behalf of a syndicate, made a cash offer of $360,000. This offer was favorably entertained by the directors of the Institute, but when the question was submitted to a vote of the members the proposition was turned down. It is now understood that bids are being renewed at much higher figures; in fact, it is stated that an offer of $400,000 has already been made, but with the sensational developments of the last few weeks in real estate in mind, it is doubtful if this property will sell much below the half a million mark.

Another portion of the business district has also been the centre of a great deal of activity during the week, this is in the uptown business section. The Deayton-Shaw syndicate are reported to be buying heavily of real estate in that section.

During the weeks lots with buildings erected thereon have been acquired to the value of over $1,500,000, and other deals are at the moment under consideration.

The property purchased lies within the district bounded by Peel street, St. Catherine street, Union avenue and Sherbrooke street, and has been bought with the understanding that it will be required for railway purposes. This much was admitted by the agent who made the purchases on behalf of the syndicate. Since the acquisition of the properties mentioned owners are putting up their prices all the way from 25 to 50 per cent., and $125,000 was refused for a single store with 32 feet frontage on St. Catherine street, while another proprietor advanced his sale price $20,000.

The Deayton-Shaw Company in addition to purchases for the Canadian Northern Railway, are making purchases for other large concerns of Britain and of the big cities in the United States.

The representative of this company was active in the vicinity of Victoria street yesterday and offers of $15 a square foot were turned down by the proprietors.

Church Bought For Investment.

The Dominion Square Methodist Church has at last been sold to Mr. Henry Pearce for a sum just under $350,000. This property is situate at the angle of Windsor and Dorchester streets, with a frontage on the former of 190 feet and 126 feet on the latter, and was purchased 47 years ago for the modest sum of $9,000, or thirty-one and a half cents per foot, and now exchanges hands at the rate of $15 per foot.

Mr. Pearce says that he put down a substantial sum in cash, but nothing like the amount of $240,000 mentioned. He bought the property as an investment.

The congregation will continue to worship in the building while preparations are made for new quarters, but the purchaser has the right after the 1st of May next, to give notice of three months to quit, and the trustees on their side have the right to give a similar period of notice to him to take possession.

As to the future arrangements for the congregation, various alternatives schemes are being considered by a committee, which is examining the claims of localities which promise development, and which at the same time would be within access of members' residences.

In regard to suburban property the greatest activity is reported along the South shore where farms are being bought up with lightning-like rapidity, then subdivided and offered to the public. All kinds of rumors are afloat in regard to the future of this part of the country.

A new project is reported to be on foot for the construction of a tunnel under the St. Lawrence in order to give better communication between the city and this apidly growing district, including St. Lambert, Brooklyn Park, Montreal South and Longueuil. The biggest developments are taking place in the area which covers Montreal South and Brooklyn Park, and in this latter district some lands have been purchased while options have been obtained on others by Montreal Street Railway Company interests, and also, it is said, by the Canadian Northern Railway Company, the latter having the intention it is further stated, of "carrying a line across to the south shore.

It is well known that the Montreal Street Railway Company have for a long time had the ambition to extend its service across to the other side of the river. It is considered that the time is now ripe to have this ambition realised, as the cars already conveying the surburbanites to these sections are worked to their full capacity and relief must be obtained at once.

Another rumor which is seriously regarded in many quarters is that the Delaware and Hudson which has long looked forward to the time when it would have an entrance of its own into this city instead of over the Grand Trunk tracks, has been purchasing land across the river.

Efforts will be made, it is asserted, to have the tunnel built as part of the harbor improvements in the place of the bridge, which, it was planned should be constructed from the guard pier across to St. Helens Island and thence to the south shore.

The House of Browne sold by auction the property bearing number 1432 St. Patrick Street, fronting directly on the canal, to the Canada Axe, Tool and Harvesting Manufacturing Company, for $20,100. The sale comprises land 100 by 200 feet has buildings of two and three stories erected, rail and shipping facilities directly at hand, and a perpetual lease of 150 horse power.

The property was auctioned by Mr. Fitzjames E. Brown, President of the House of Browne, Limited, conducted the auction and the sale was started and concluded all within five minutes, making a record for a sale by auction.

Transfers During Week.

Among the important transfers of the week were the following:

There are four Packing Houses at Kelowna, which will contract for all the produce and fruits grown, as they cannot begin to supply their numerous orders,—the demand for Kelowna fruits and produce being so great.

An important branch of our work is the DEVELOPMENT OF PROPERTIES for those who cannot go out there to live at the present time. We take the land as it is to-day, buy and place a 5-strand Page wire fence around it, plough and prepare for planting, buy and plant whatever varieties of trees the owner wishes, pay for the fence and trees, irrigate, prune and spray, and thoroughly care for the orchard, for the sum of $50 per acre for the 1st year, and $20 per acre each year after.

Call or write for our illustrated booklet and information. Open Wednesday evenings.

Madeleine Park

Partly situated in Ahuntsic Ward, Montreal. Lots are 25 x 100 to a 15 foot lane. It is well understood that a 25 foot lot with a lane is equal to a 35 without. Homeseekers should always bear this in mind.

According to the terms of contract being made between the Street Railway and the City of Montreal, the property will be within the ticket limit, NO DOUBLE FARES. All improvements are in on part of this property, and they are going ahead with the balance.

It is not miles away in a wilderness, but in a built-up district, and our prices run from $182.50 to $330.00, upon which we allow a discount of 10%.

To reach the property take a St. Denis Car going north, and transfer at the C.P.R. Subway to a Back River Car.

We ask you to compare our prices with adjoining property.

Sale of Mirror Lots

broke all records

577 Lots Sold in 660 Minutes

Bringing the Enormous Sum of

$251,648.00

All records were broken last Tuesday and Wednesday when 577 Mirror Townsite Lots were sold at public auction for the enormous sum of $251,648.00. One corner lot sold for $2,075.00. Banks and commercial enterprises of various kinds are now established; others are rapidly being established in

MIRROR

The New Town of Opportunities

Mirror is to be a divisional point on the Edmonton and Calgary Branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and consequently it will be the home of many railroad men and their families. Mirror is surrounded by one of the richest agricultural sections of Alberta. The trade which will naturally come from the surrounding country must necessarily be large for Mirror will be one of the most important towns in Southern Alberta, and by reason of it being situated near Buffalo Lake it will be a desirable place in which to live. 577 Lots were sold in Mirror in 660 minutes. Think of it, almost a lot a minute. These 577 Lots sold for $251,648.00,—Think of that; more than a quarter of a million dollars invested in Mirror lots. Many of these lots were purchased by some of Canada's keenest business men. As a business man can you afford not to join forces with them?

As Merchant or Investor

Here is Your Opportunity

577 Lots have been sold in Mirror; $251,648.00 have been invested, but there are several hundred more choice lots to be sold in both the business and residential sections. In order to get the choicest of these you will have to act quickly. Delays are dangerous, avoid them. Whether you desire to invest in Mirror or not we respectfully ask you to call or write for maps, prices and detailed information. Address

PLENTY OF GOOD HONEST DOLLARS IN

FORT FRASER

The Hub of British Columbia

A TOWNSITE INVESTMENT PROPOSAL APPEALING TO THE COMMON SENSE, BUSINESS FORESIGHT AND SOUND REASONING OF THE PEOPLE.

FORT FRASER IS SITUATED at the confluence of the Upper and Lower Nechaco Rivers, in the interior of British Columbia, Canada's richest province. It is a superb city location, is being improved with streets, buildings, etc., lies adjacent Fraser Lake a beauty spot and water-power source,—and in the very heart of the Bulkley and Nechaco Valleys, rich agricultural and stock-raising areas. Government reports highly recommend this section of British Columbia to settlers, and as a result it is being quickly taken up. Fort Fraser is to be accessible within a year by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway; has water communication with neighboring towns. In a word, it is a most promising prospect for the investor, and strong men of clean reputation are behind it. The British Columbia Government has made numerous reservations in Fort Fraser. No flare of trumpets or elaborate argument is required to impress the possibilities of this new town upon the mind of the intelligent observer. Many precedents have been established in the Canadian West to strengthen its claims.

PRINTED DATA, MAPS and PLANS furnished promptly on request, all duly registered and protected. Government reservations marked in red.

INSIDE LOTS, 33 x 120	$100
CORNER LOTS, 33 x 120	150

Excepting double corners on two principal streets, which are quoted at $350.

The title to Fort Fraser property is indefeasible and is guaranteed by the Government of British Columbia. The deeds are deposited in trust with HOT WAVE HITS LONDON.

Temperature of 88 in Shade in the Metropolis.

London, July 22.—London to-day sweltered in the hottest weather in five years, the temperature reaching 88 degrees in the shade. Lord Justice Williams, presiding over the Appeal Court, made an almost unprecedented sacrifice of judicial dignity to comfort by doffing his wig and permitting the barristers to follow suit.

The hot spell has been unbroken for two weeks and London is threatened with an ice famine. Thousands are flocking to the seaside and the country. No rain has fallen in the greater part of the country districts for three weeks and farmers are complaining bitterly of ruined crops.

Bernstein Fights Another Duel.

Paris, July 22.— The playright, Henri Bernstein, who has now a great number of duels to his record, added still another to the list, when he fought Leon Daudet, editor of L'Action Francaise yesterday first pistols, and then with swords. Both men were wounded, but it is not believed seriously.

AUTO BACKS INTO CAFE.

Diners Rudely Shocked by Advent of Car Into Restaurant.

An automobile backing into the Castle Blend Tea Rooms, at the corner of Stanley and St. Catherine streets, caused considerable excitement shortly after noon yesterday, among the diners there. The car belonged to Major A V .Boucher, vice-president of the Castle Blend Tea Co., who had his left wrist so seriously cut by the smashed plate glass that he had to have it treated at the Western Hospital.

How the car happened to back up is not known but it is thought by Mr. Boucher that some children must have interfered with his car while he was in the store.

Burnham, the Noted Speed King, Ready to Race Here for Auto Club

PREPARATIONS COMPLETE FOR CALEDONIA SOCIETY'S ROAD RACE FROM DOMINION SQUARE TO DOMINION PARK

Everything is ready for to-day's race to the Caledonian Games at Dominion Park.

The race starts from Dominion Square at 3 o'clock p.m. Fifty popeau, himself for years president of the Police Athletic Association, and always greatly interested in sport of all sorts, to see that there is no hitch about the start.

Captain Naegle is the marshall of the race, and he is now an active officer of the Policemen's Athletic body, which will have its own Field Day next Wednesday.

At Dominion Park, the Highland Cadets will keep the home stretch clear.

The officials are all men who have had experience in long distance races, and the only regret of the Games Committe of the Caledonian Society, which has itself made all arrangements for the race in consultations with President Ryan and Secretary Brown of the Montreal Harrier Union, is that Mr. Arthur Plow, who in the past has done so much to make other races a success in various official capacities, has felt unable through stress of business to take an active part in this one.

Notwithstanding Mr. Plow's avowal that he would not be able to give any time to it, made at the moment when the arrangements for the race were first talked about some six weeks ago, Chairman Shiells, and other members of the committee have endeavored to make him engage actively, but business was too important, although he has aided them with his advice and experience whenever called upon.

Arquette Favorite.

The favorite for the Star Cup, and the special gold medal offered by the games committee for the man living within a radius of fifteen miles from Montreal, who comes in first, is "Chon" Arquette, the new Indian runner from Caughnawaga, who won the French Athletic Association race from Place d'Armes to Dominion Park, and made such a great showing in the Modified Marathon held in New York three months ago, but there are a number of dark horses who promise well, and there ought to be a good contest.

The finish will be at the Fighting the Flames show.

SPORTING VIEWS and REVIEWS

If the Tecumsehs do not win to-day in Cornwall they will be justified in thinking that they are under the spell of "bad medicine," as the Indians say, and the public will begin to doubt their ability to sweep the boards. It can scarcely be said that the fate of empire hangs on the issue of the Shamrock-Capital match, but all the same, it is important to those engaged in it, and it ought to be interesting to the spectators. In Toronto the Nationals ought to win, according to all the signs of the time, but signs occasionally fail; and, although wise heads can feel sure before the event, it is easier for most people to have that feeling after the last goal has been scored.

For the second year in succession an ex-delivery horse has won a big purse at the Grand Circuit trotting meet at Kalamazoo. Facts like this, coupled with the victory of the British Commons over the House of Lords, make it clear that the cause of the democracy is effecting steady headway. The victory of a delivery horse over the blue blood, standard bred aristocrats of the turf is enough to turn the heads of every grocer's and butcher's horse in town.

If any one in this city is in possession of a baseball genius, or even a first class player, able to pick flies off daisy tops or steal bases without being arrested, he had better keep his valuable possession well under cover these days, for the manager of the Chicago White Sox, in the capacity of a scout, is lurking about for the purpose of spying out talent and adding it to the galaxy of baseball stars that, with the aid of the stockyards, make Chicago famous. This covetous scout is said to be hot on the trail of Ward Miller, and it is believed that the White Sox will not be happy until they get him.

It has been announced that "Racing Bill is about dead." It may be pointed out that this unfortunate creature is no relation to Reciprocity Bill, or Veto Bill, or Hello Bill. Racing Bill is a poor New York waif that would relieve directors of racing associations of liability for gambling carried on at race tracks. The law creating this liability is comparatively new, and those whom it affects do not like it a bit. It was hoped that the dying bill would relieve the directors of the unwelcome responsibility, but it is too far gone for that. The State Legislature will soon arrange its funeral.

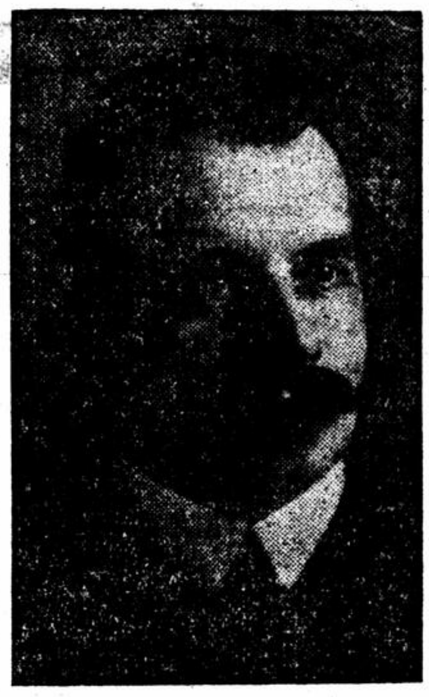
That sixteen to two victory of the Royals over Newark came very near possessing Mr. Bryan's gold and silver ratio. Well, the Royals are not at all particular about the ratio, provided they have the majority. In any one of three innings the Royals made enough runs to win the game. They got around the bases with an agility only equalled by haymakers getting out of the field when the dinner horn sounds.

Good baseball pitchers are still in demand, and this season's crop does not appear to be coming on very fast. Most of the talent in use was discovered and trained some time ago. Pitchers are wilting all along the line, and a new supply is not within sight. Some say that the lively ball is partly accountable for this, for heavy batting discourages the man in the box. Of course, there is another side to the question. Baseball is not wholly played for the benefit of the players. It is played to make money for shareholders, and the money comes from those who pay to see the sport. The ball that draws and satisfies spectators is a pretty good kind from the business point of view; and, judging from the manner in which grand stands are filled, the ball that is being played is quite satisfactory—especially when your team wins.

Taken at his own word, Mr. John Johnson is lost to the United States through the ingratitude that has so often been said to be a characteristic fault of republics. Johnson's complaints respecting his native land are chiefly two—the people of the United States did not give him a "square deal," and they did not shout for him when he won. Whatever sort of a deal he got, it was profitable enough to enable him to lead the life of a spendthrift; and as for the shouting, he had fully ten millions of his own race howling night and day. He could not expect everybody to be delighted over his success, for, even in a prizefight, there are usually two sides.

Among the rumors that come up from what may be called the countinghouse of baseball, one is to the effect that John I. Taylor is about to sell his dominant interest in the Boston Americans. Another tells of changes in the Cincinnati Nationals. One change will be a new manager, but the President of the club declares that the new manager will not be George Stallings, manager of the Buffalo club. There is a strong possibility that John Evers, second baseman of the Chicago Club, will get the position. At any rate, the new manager, it is said, will be a player.

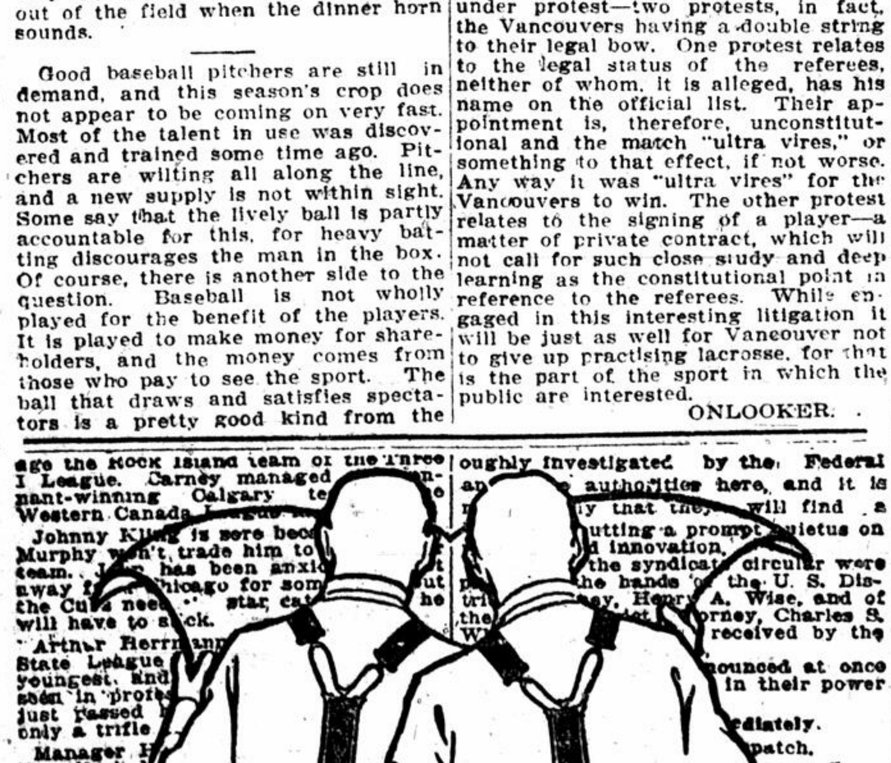
THE NEW M. F. H. OF THE ST. LAWRENCE HUNT.



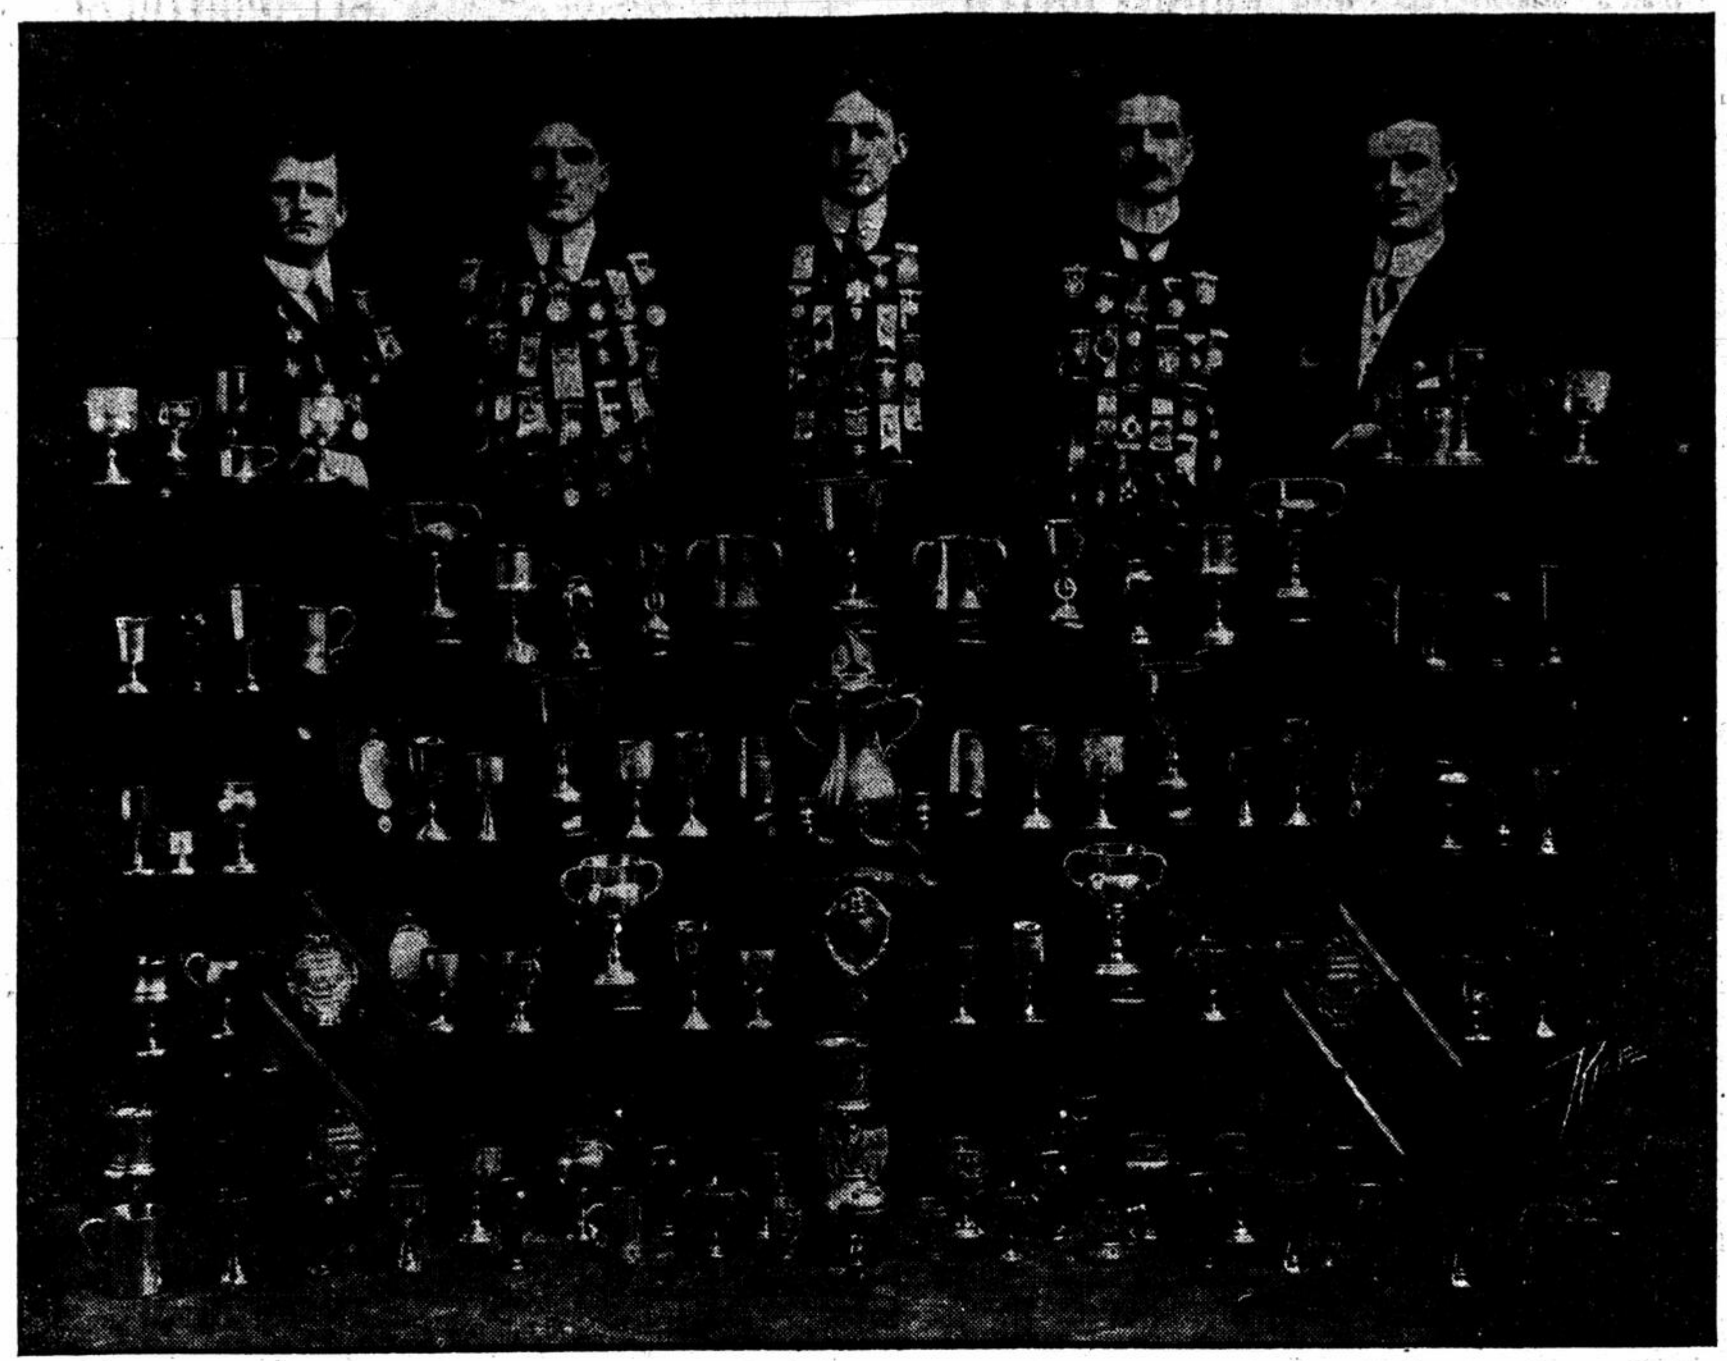
MR. J. G. R. LAURENDEAU.

Although defeated on the field in their recent match with New Westminster, the Vancouvers still have a chance of winning in the law courts of lacrosse. The match was played under protest—two protests, in fact, the Vancouvers having a double string to their legal bow. One protest relates to the legal status of the referees, neither of whom, it is alleged, has his name on the official list. Their appointment is, therefore, unconstitutional and the match "ultra vires," or something to that effect, if not worse. Any way it was "ultra vires" for the Vancouvers to win. The other protest relates to the signing of a player—a matter of private contract, which will not call for such close study and deep learning as the constitutional point in reference to the referees. While engaged in this interesting litigation it will be just as well for Vaneouver not to give up practising lacrosse, for that is the part of the sport in which the public are interested.

ONLOOKER.



FAMOUS FAMILY WITH COLLECTION OF TROPHIES WON.



The five Marshalls, some of whom are entered at the C.C.A. Regatta at Cartierville to-day, together with their magnificent collection of cups and medals, won in various athletic contests, mostly in canoe races. The names are, reading from left to right: Albert Marshall, Arthur Marshall, Gordon Marshall, Charlie Marshall and Percy Marshall.

BURNHAM READY TO COME HERE

Has Notified Auto and Aero Club Would Like to Race Here.

It is announced by the Auto and Aero Club of Canada, that Burnham, the great speed king of the world, is ready to come here for one or a series of match races under the auspices of the club.

Whether or not his offer will be accepted has not yet been decided, for with the many horse races, the various available tracks around Montreal are being kept pretty busy, and, besides, the aviation meet in the lattter part of August will also take up considerable interest on the part of the club's members.

ENTRIES CLOSE FOR DELORIMIER PARK ON MONDAY.

Entries for the six days' trotting meet to be held at Delorimier Park, under the auspices of the Montreal Driving Club Co., Ltd., July 31 to August 5, will close on Monday, July 24, with Secretary A. A. Gingras, and judging by the applications received up to now from all over the country and United States, it looks as if Delorimier Park stabling capacity is going to be more than overtaxed.

Mr. Gingras has just returned from Dover, N.H., and he states that all the horsemen actually racing their stables over New England tracks will ship this way for the two meetings to be held at Delorimier and King Edward Park. Some eighty horses will be loaded and shipped from Dover on Monday, comprising the following stables from Boston and vicinity.

Henry Titer, Readville; Frank P. Fox and F. H. Rideout, Medford; E. D. Gillies and Wm. O'Neil, Narragansett Park; Fred Hyde and Ed. Lyons, Hartford, Conn., whilst the New Hampshire brigade will be composed of J. E. Marston, Pittsfield; A. B. Martin and We. E. Berry, Nashua; R. C. Beaver and Chas. I. Churchill, Sanbornville.

The well-known horsemen from Vermont will also come this way, among them being Fred Bieble, who has charge of the Newport Stock Farm stables, comprising eight promising ones, Frank Lang, and Harry Harding with a dozen or more from Barton, Vt.

But the feature of this meeting will be the hot fight that Western Canadian horsemen will have to put up against the United States entries.

Nat Ray's success in Western Ontario in the Canadian Circuit with Knight Onwardo, Bushnell King and Emily Morre, will make him the most dangerous rival on the local tracks, and the Bostonian horses will have to step some merry miles before taking the measure of such crack pacers as Ritchie, Funoso, Lew Jean, St. Anthony and Aleyde.

The fast little mare, Jennie W., owned by Mr. L. J. Tarte, of this city, is now located at Delorimier Park and Trainer Hodson is working hard on her to get her in shape for the lively free-for-all in which she is announced as a sure starter at the fast half mile track of the north end of the city.

LACHINE FOR HENLEY.

Lachine have been working quietly under Mr. Smith, the former Argonaut, who is coaching them, and will be represented this season at the Canadian Henley in the junior four. Should the crew be successful they will make post entries in the intermediate and senior events.

Quite a number of the members will accompany the crew. On Friday evening, July 29th the annual concert and dance in aid of the Henley trip will be held. The committee expect a large turnout of members and friends. Tickets can be had from the committee or at the gate.

TO-DAY'S RACE

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE CALEDONIAN SOCIETY. AND TO THE CALEDONIAN GAMES.

The race this year will be run to-day, July 22, it will start at 3 p.m. from Dominion Square and will finish at Dominion Park. The distance is about seven miles.

The race is open to any amateur in the world. The runner who has the first claim on The Star Cup, presented to the Caledonia Society, and which must be won twice, having won it last year, is Ellard White, of Brockville.

In addition to the trophy presented by The Montreal Star, the Caledonian Society will offer a number of medals.

SHAMROCKS EXPECT TO WIN

At a meeting of the Cornwall Executive last night the matter of Roussam's eligibility was left in the hands of President McPhee. From correspondence Mr. McPhee has in his possession from Mr. W. E. Findlay, of the Montrealers, he still thinks his contention is correct, and he will communicate with other gentlemen in an endeavor to get their views of the matter, to ascertain if his claims are not shared by them. In the framing of the rules this was Mr. McPhee's idea of the clause, it is firmly believed in Cornwall that Mr. Murphy intends to do what is right, but conflicting clauses leave him in anything but an enviable position

If the Torontos lose to-day's match with the Nationals there is going to be trouble in the ranks of the Scarboro Beachols, for it has been intimated that this was to be Fred. Thompson's last straw to make good. The trouble has all started over the talk of Barney Dunphy as manager, and the players refused to stand for it, even going so far as to threaten a strike should any change be made. Bob Fleming of the Street Railway Company, who has some say in the matter, and who was in favor of Dunphy as manager, has been made to see the mistake he was making in changing the head of the team before such an important game as this one to-day, but he has allowed it to get leaked out that Dunphy will be in charge should the Torontos lose this match with the Nationals. The players have not said what stand they will take in the matter, as they intend to await developments, but it looks as though there was to be trouble in the ranks, should Dunphy take charge. The players themselves have no grievance against Dunphy, other than they thing Fred. Thompson should be left to finish his work, and that it would not do any good to have a new man come in and change the method of their play. At any rate, Messrs. Thompson and Menary are under the impression that they will pull out a win to-day, and in that event will retain their places in charge of the team.

Manager Querrie, of the Tecumsehs, before the train pulled out for Cornwall, where the Indians play to-day was in no too cheerful a mood. His team is badly crippled with the loss of Murton and himself on the Home, and McKenzie on the Defence. He is carrying around a cane as the result of last Saturday's game and his knee is giving him a lot of trouble, he does not believe he will be able to play again this season, and hopes to win in the Factory Town, with a little luck. He has not decided on his line up for the game, preferring to wait until the team's arrival in Cornwall.

— Shamrocks expect to win here this afternoon, for the management thinks that Clingen, in goal will be almost as strong as Jim Muir, veteran, and much faster in getting after the ball.

They have been hard at work all week and every man is in tip-top shape for to-day's game.

The team will not be chosen till immediately before the match, but it is hardly likely that any changes will be made in the line-up that faced Nationals last Saturday, with the exception of goal.

The Clover Lacrosse Club journey to Quebec to play the fast National team of the Ancient Capital to-day. Messrs. Alf. Kane and J. Aspell, of the M.A.A.A. lacrosse club, have been training the local team.

GEORGE ADAMS' NIMBUS RAN FASTEST MILE OF THE WINDSOR RACE MEET

$5,000 WON ON LIGHT O' MY LIFE

Special to The Montreal Star.

Windsor, July 22.—The selling race war lost none of its activity today, and bidding and claiming marked several of the events. Mrs. W. G. Wilson's TaNun Da was bid up by Jack Flynn, from $800 to $1,500 after winning the third race, and went with Flynn's stable. As Flynn was second, with the Golden Butterfly, the transaction meant that he secured Ta Nun Da for $1,500.

Albert Simons bid up Light o' My Life from $500 to $1,600 after the fifth race, and owner Fred Johnson retained him at the extra five.

Johnson was said to have bet $5,000 on Light o' My Life at even money Simons has the registered half interest in Jawbone, the second horse, so that he drew down something from the run up. Sam Hildreth claimed Jawbone for $1,015, Hildreth also boosted R. F. Carman's Arctic $400 after the last race.

"Uncle George" Hendries Martimas colt, Steamboat, trained by John Graves, won the Canadian-bred two-year-old race from Ed. Glassco's Prince Polo and J. E. Seagram's Sati.

The Valley Farm Colt Rockspring fell at the head of the stretch, but Jockey Olsen escaped inury.

Jockey Yourrel had his arm broken and his shoulder dislocated by falling with Dr. Heard in the steeplechase.

George Odom's Nimbus ran the fastest mile of the meeting, in the fourth race. Jockey J. Henry has been engaged by J. W. Flynn and Jockey Adams will do the lightweight riding for Mr. Seagram.

John Bartschell has bought a half interest in Grassmere, which will in future run in his name.

The meeting closes today, and the Wilson, Seagram, Watkins, Belmont and other hoses will be shipped to Fort Erie tonight, the others following on Monday. There will be no urse less than $500 at the second meeting here on August 28.

FIRST RACE, $400; 2-year-olds; Canadian bred; 5 furlongs—

Steamboat, 94 (Byrne), 4 to 1, even, and out, won by two lengths.

Prince Polo, 101 (J. Wilson), 13 to 5, 3 to 5, and out, second.

Sati, 94 (Adams), 6 to 5, 9 to 2, and out, third.

Time, 1.03 3-5.

BALTIMORE SEEKS BOSTON FRANCHISE

Ned Hanlon Heads Attempt by Orioles to Break Into Major Company.

Baltimore, Md., July 22.—Edward Hanlon, the wizard of Baltimore baseball early 90's, whose name is now largely on the baseball horizon, due to his efforts to land the Boston National League franchise, arrived in Baltimore yesterday and made clear the present situation to Mayor Preston, and other friends.

Following the visit of Hanlon to the City Hall, Mayor Preston wrote a letter calling a conference of all the owners of baseball teams in the American and National Leagues to meet a committee of representative citizens of Baltimore to consider the question of Baltimore getting into one of the major leagues.

Hanlon has offered Russell $169,000 for the Boston franchise, but it is understood $200,000 is asked.

TENNIS MATCHES TO-DAY.

McGill vs. Country Club—Westmount vs. Y.M.C.A.

The following players will represent the McGill and Country Club teams who meet on the McGill courts in a section A fixture:

McGill—Messrs. DeBay, Eberts, Strang, Murphy, Baber and Dodds.

Country Club—Messrs. W. O. Molland, John M. Miller, W. L. Hart and F. D. Williams.

The Westmount tennis team will play a league match on the Y.M.C.A. courts this afternoon. The match promises to be a close one, as the championship of section B depends on it.

Y.M.C.A. will be represented by Dr T. H. A. Baxter, H. D. McMullen, P. C. Hart, Wm Stewart, J. G. Birnie and S. W. Tilden.

MANAGER AND CAPTAIN OF THE ARROW BALL CLUB, JUNIOR LEAGUE.

"JIMMIE" DRURY.

ST. LAWRENCE YACHTS.

Class "B" Boats to Sail Off Pointe Claire

The "B" class boats will be asked to row over the Point Claire course of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club this afternoon, in the fifth of the races in the series for the Black Cup. With three of the six boats eligible for the prize, so close together in at the head of the list, this is likely to be one of the best races of the series, providing that the wind holds. Mr. Mercur, who held first place for some time with the Lady Kitty, but who has had the misfortune to lose a point or two of late, is determined to regain the position, if possible while Mr. Ross Hutchins, who is sailing Mr. A. R. Doble's boat, is equally certain that the Lady Kitty can not win another race from him.

Thessalon Youths Sentenced.

Sault Ste Marie, Ont, July 22. Found guilty of a statutory offence against a thirteen-year-old girl, four youths, the oldest aged 21, of St. Joes Island, arrived here, in the custody of Provincial Constable Connor to-day, to serve sentences of two years each, imposed by Magistrate Williams, of Thessalon. They will be taken to Toronto.

Stars go to Plattsburg.

The Stars are in good shape for their game to-morrow afternoon in Plattsburg, N.Y., with the St. Jean Baptiste team, and will be at full strength. The nine, which will leave by the excursion leaving at 9 o'clock sharp tomorrow morning from the G. T. R. Bonaventure station, will be chosen from the following players: S. Cleghorn, Beaudoin, Watson, Shepherd, Ross, Innes, O. Cleghorn, Turner, Abrahams, Legarde, Kirlin, Hart, Smeaton, Matter.

Canadian Ball League

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, July 22.—Keating, pitching for Hamilton, made a record for the Canadian League in a game with Brantford, at Hamilton, yesterday, by striking out 16 men, including the first six who faced him, Hamilton winning by 9 to 5.

London won both ends of a double-header from St. Thomas at home, the scores being 6 to 2 and 11 to 6, respectively.

Berlin defeated Guelph at home by 11 to 2.

English Racing.

Special by Cable from Our Own Correspondent.

London, July 22.—Favorites for the Stewards' Cup, run at Goodwood on Tuesday, July 25:

10	Runnymede.
10	Romney.
11	Borrow.
12	Poor Boy.
14	Vesta.
14	Mount Felix.
16	Mercutio.

The Liverpool Cup, run on Thursday, was won by Dalnacrag, with King Midas second and Humorist third.

WINDERMERE.

To Try Again for Polo Cup.

London, July 22.—Great Britain is going to make another try to regain the polo cup and will challenge America for a match in 1912. The Duke of Westminster has offered to furnish the funds and ponies and the Hurlingham committee has decided to accept the offer. The action of the Duke of Westminster relieves the committee of the necessity of appealing for subscriptions for the fund that would be required.

To carry the team and its mounts across would necessitate an outlay of between $4,000 and $5,000.

Cricket in New York.

New York, July 22.—In the teeth of an imposing thunderstorm, which deluged the grounds five minutes later, the Toronto Cricketers dismissed the New York Veterans for a total of 104 runs, which made the game a somewhat sensational tie. The visitors went first to bat on what proved to be a very fine wicket and were not disposed of until they had put up 104 runs. F. A. Sargeant was top scorer with 53 not out. Only two other players of the visiting eleven succeeded in getting into double figures, H. S. Reid making 10 and W. P. Charles 20.

Tourists' Best Trip

EVERYTHING READY, ETC.—SOME OF THE BEST KNOWN JOCKEYS OF AMERICA TO RACE HERE

John J. Hyland, trainer of the stable of Russell Fleischmann, a millionaire lawyer of New York, will have his table at Isle Gros Bois for the July session of the King Edward Jockey Club. Hyland has two valuable campaigners in Dullcare and Apache. The former, a son of Ethelbert, is a full brother to Pinte, the colt with which Philip Chinn defeated Olambala in the Fort Erie Derby a couple of seasons back. Dullcare, a son of Hastings and Dulcibella, was a product of August Belmont's nursery stud in Fayette County, Kentucky.

Dullcare is useful at every kind of racing. Last season he won a number of distance events in which gentlemen riders participated under the silks of Otto Fleischmann, his owner's brother. Dullcare runs equally well in muddy and dry going.

Hyland is one of the most successful and popular trainers on the continent. He trained Requital and The Butterflies for their victories in the Futurity. At that time Hyland was in the employ of David Gideon, the veteran plunger. After leaving the service of Gideon, he trained Jean Beraud for John Daly, and later still he campaigned many good horses for August Belmont. It was Hyland who developed Masterman, and he won the Belmont stakes with the son of Hastings for the chairman of the Jockey Club of New York.

Tommy Burns, who will campaign Premier and I'm There at King Edward Park, was, a little while back, one of the best jockeys on the North American continent. Burns was first exploited by John W. Schorr, the Memphis turfman, so well known on the racing circuit of Canada, and, while riding for Mr. Schorr in 1898 and 1899, he headed the jockeys' winning list with 278 and 273 mounts, respectively.

After leaving the service of Mr. Schorr, Burns went to New York and rode for the late William Collins Whitney, when that distinguished statesman and sportsman was the leading American racing man.

After the death of Mr. Whitney, Burns rode for several seasons in the States and in Europe as a free lance, and then came home and gave up work in the saddle. He is one of the youngest trainers in the business, and in taking up that calling he has followed the examples of such famous horsemen as Jas. Rowe, Jas. H. McCormick, Geo. Odom, William Hayward, Charles Littlefield and Snapper Garrison.

Burns has a brother, Guy, riding at Windsor for the stable Albert Simons is training for, Harry Payne Whitney. Guy was developed by Father Bill Daly, but he has never had the success his older brother achieved some eight or ten years ago. Tommy promises to show patrons of the Isle Gros Bois races a consistent horse in Premier

Some lively work was done yesterday by the horses at Isle Gros Bois preparing for the coming meeting of the King Edward Jockey Club, which begins to-day and continues until the 29th. Tommy Burns galloped his Jacksonville star, Premier, the same with which he made a killing last winter, three-quarters in 1.18, and I'm There turned a mile at a little better than a two-minute clip.

James McLaughlin showed Forester three-quarters in better than 1.20, and the son of Wild Mint and Flickamaroo cooled out nicely. Forester is not as nervous as he was when Mr. McLaughlin brought him this way from Gravesend track, and he will in all probability race better than he did in June. He has a quick turn of early speed, and, like his half-brother, Fauntleroy, he is partial to a distance of ground.

Mollie Kearney and Delightful worked together, turning a half in 55 3-5, the Gone Coon filly beating the daughter of Sir Dixon, who does not extend herself freely for fun. Mollie Kearney likes to see the colors and know that there is something doing. Day Bell and Inwood worked like a team, turning the three-quarters in 1.25. McLaughlin will set them down this afternoon.

The two best-looking horses at Isle Gros Bois are Semi-Quaver and Grandissimo, of J. G. Gagnon's stable, and they breezed a half in 55. Grandissimo finished a little in front of the Kentucky-bred son of Ogden, and Wagnon has a notion that he will do better than his stable mate next week in the competition for purses. This opinion is not, however, shared by the majority of the horsemen at King Edward Park. Semi-Quaver has had a thorough going over since the June meeting, and he looks as fresh as a horse just out of winter quarters.

Father Bill Daly let Kingpin step three-quarters of a mile in 1.19, which was rattling good time around two turns. The son of Box and Elise is in much better condition for racing just now than he was when Daly brought him up from New York. It is Daly's intention to send Kingpin out after a purse to-day.

H. C. Airhart galloped Donation, a winner on the last day at Delorimier Park, and Bertmont, the former three-quarters of a mile in 1.25, and the latter five furlongs in 1.04. Both are ready. Bertmont has as much speed now as he showed in his winning races at Isle Gros Bois in June.

MR. ALEX. SHIELDS

JOHNNY HAYES ON THE BRITISH CHAMPIONSHIPS

Says England Will Have to Watch Herself—Canada Can Beat Her.

Special Correspondence of the Montreal Star.

London, July 3.—The British Amateur Championships were the biggest surprise of the athletic year, for England only won three of the fourteen events decided. The play was fine, the crowd large and the interest intensified by the persence in the stand of the Crown Prince of Sweden, and Prince Arthur of Connaught, who distributed the prizes, and who seemed to take a deep interest and enjoy the efforts of the men competing. The meet was decided at Stamford Bridge, that historic sports ground, where Mike Ryan made his gallant effort to lift the sporting Life Trophy on May 28th.

It was a dark day for athletic England, for never in all her history have her athletes failed as they did on Saturday. To give them their due they tried hard and were only beaten by small margins and by better men.

German Took the Honors.

The great athletic feat of the day was the German, Passeman's two wins and his escond in the broad jump, for which he was presented with the Harvey Cup, for scoring the greatest number of points, at a championship meeting. Next in greatness was Halbau's grand win in the quarter in fast time (50 4-5 seconds) and his game effort in the 220 yards, in which he was only beaten foot by Ramsdell in 22 1-5 seconds. Germany carried off the half mile, pole vault and high jump and furnished the first man home in the 2 mile walk..

However, H. Muller, the wniner was disqualified for unfair walking. Unfair he was, but if he can overcome his inexperience, he will become a great walker. He had the beating of any man in the race.

Gloomy Outlook for England.

A. Finn, Kilchmainen, a brother of the man who runs in the professional races in the States, won the four miles after allowing two Englishmen to hold the pace all the way. He is a good man and is coming. In a year he should show improvement enough to take everybody into camp in the 4 mile event, in the Olympic games in Stockholm, which is near his home. Lukeman won his heat in the hundred in 10 4-5, but couldn't do better tan fourth in the final. He showed the effects of the hurdling and jumping he has been doing in his training.

Jack Tait ran a splendid race, but D. F. McNicol, of the Polytechnic Harriers, proved the winner after a gruellling sprint. He showed that if he had been in the Empire mile, he should have given Jack a closer and faster race.

If Halbaus had not run in the 440 previous to the 220 he might have given a better account of himself, and as it was, he led till 30 yards from the worsted, and was nipped on the tape by Ramsdell, the strapping collegian from the University of Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia.

Halbaus was the only man fit in the quarter, as he won his heat in 50 3-5 secs. and simply romped home in the final, a winner by 8 yards in 50 4-5 secs. He did not show his best speed, and should be a tower of strength, along with good old Jack Tait, for Canada in the Olympic games.

Some of England's Chances.

England will have to take a brace if she intends to hold her place among the athletic nations. On her performance at the championships, Canada alone could beat her. True, her men did well, and the feat of D'Arcy, who held Ramsdell to a foot in the 100 yds. was a good performance, considering that sprinting is not her strong point. In the half mile an entry, named J. J. Soutter, made a very good impression and will improve.

Where England Lags.

It seems to me that every nation in the athletic world sends champions to compete in England, but it is very seldom that we see a team sent out from there. This is a serious mistake on the part of English athletic authorities, as the sending of teams to foreign parts not only teaches the athletes new methods, but it puts ambition into young hearts. The beginners get the interest to try for these teams, and the novices of to-day make the champions of to-morrow.

I would suggest that England take a hitch in her athletic trousers, for if she is going to make a showing in the Olympic games in Stockholm in 1912 it behooves her to get to work. In the pole vault and the shot putting, England still sticks to the rules which were framed more than 40 years ago, in which the stop board for the shot putting, and the hole in the ground for the pole in the pole vault were not provided..

England lost the first event, the hammer throw, because of the absence of that safeguard, the toe or stop board. An American Rhodes Scholar won it with a medium throw of 147 ft. 7 1-2 inches, after the British Athletes had made all their throws foul.

The continental athletes have followed the lead of Canada and the United States and improved their rules, but England insists on standing on her old ones.

Yours in Sport.

Stars For Plattsburg.

The Stars are in excellent shape for their game in Plattsburg, N.Y., with the St. Jean Baptiste team, and will be at their full strength. The nine which will leave by the excursion leaving at 9 o'clock sharp to-morrow mornig from the G. T. R. Bonaventure Station, will be chosen from the following players:

S. Cleghorn, Beaudoin, Watson, Shepherd, Ross, Innes, O. Cleghorn, Turner, Abrahams, Legarde, Kirlin, Hart, Smeaton, Matter.

Senior League.

West End meet Church of Ascension in a scheduled game to-day at Fletcher's Field at 3 o'clock. It should be a nip and tuck affair right through, as both teams are playing good ball and jointly head the league.

ALL-MONTREAL VS. RICHMONDS IN CITY LEAGUE

They Will Play at the Shamrock Grounds To-morrow Afternoon.

In City League circles, everybody is agog over the approaching contest between All-Montreal and Richmonds. To Ashton and Morin, the "Millionaires" celebrated battery, Manager Pat Kennedy will oppose Thomas, a new pitcher he has dug up somewhere, and Tom Buell, his stocky backstop. Thomas, although he might turn out to be a wonder, is still an unknown quantity so Freddy must be given the palm. All-Montreal's infield and outfield has a shade on the Richmond's, Heber O'Reilly, Bert Deschamps, Joe. Leboeuf and Danny McCoy are a better hittin, fielding and base-running quartette than Gauthier, Lavoie, McGranahan and Sherman, while in the outfield, Ike Pierce, Cohen and Pat Heffernan are a trifle superior to L'Etoile, Pelland and Webster. As a team, however, the "Millionaires" are a formidable aggregation as they have cultivated team work rather than individual brilliancy, and they play with marked confidence behind Ashton, their sterling heaver. All-Montreal's new twirler, Thomas, is highly touted and those who have seen him in action are already predicting the Richmond's downfall, but even though he didn't show, Pat Kennedy has Delage to fall back on and this youngster has conclusively demonstrated that he has the goods and if accorded proper support, will get away with many games. His victories over Athletics, Three Rivers and Terrebonne were all clean-cut and should the new phenom not perform up to expectations the Ville-Marie product might easily turn the trick. In any case the game will undoubtedly be hotly contested from start to finish and in anticipation of extra innings being necessary to decide the result, instead of calling the game at 1.30, as scheduled, it is billed to commence at 3.30. Voltigeurs and Villeray taking the field first. The largest crowd of the season is looked for at Shamrock grounds on the 23rd.

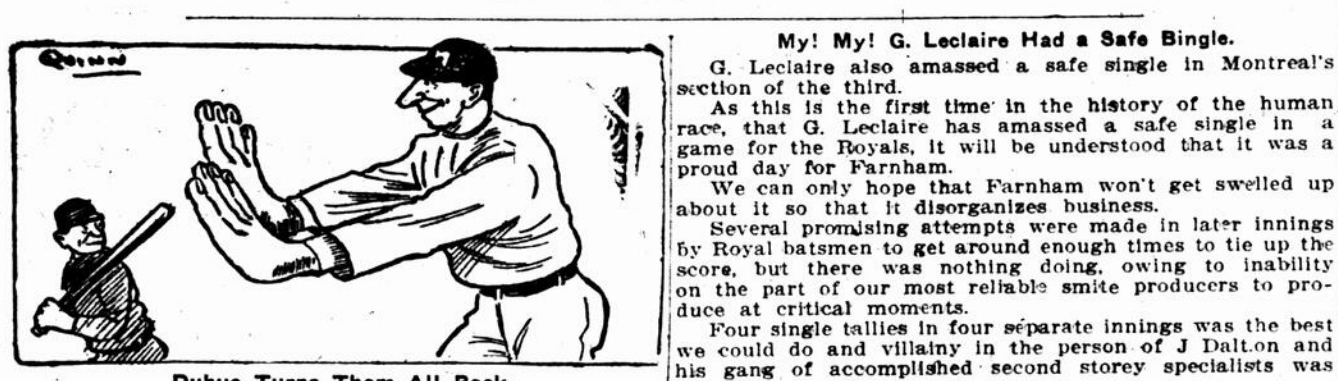
SWATFEST STARTED IN FIRST AND CONTINUED IN THE THIRD SECURED FINE SATISFACTORY WIN FOR NEWARK



Dubuc Turns Them All Back.

Attracted by the multifarious and variegated doings of Thursday nearly 2,000 enumerated citizens of this mighty metropolis gave up hard-earned wealth to view yesterday's combat between S. Lichtenhein's athletes and the band of trained brigands from Newark, N.J.

There were more doings, but on a different line of business to Thursday's. Yesterday, the Royals were the doers. Score 7 to 4.

Gents. who had wagered coin, shirts, underclothing, and other assets on the chances of a Royal victory, on the strength of the mouldy showing of the Indian aggregation on Thursday, went home wrapped in gloom and contemplating suicide

Melodrama Started Early.

The tragedy was a crude affair at that. Instead of starting with a quiet senorio, introducing a few dramatic situations and leading up to a thrilling climax, Mr. Iron Man McGinnity's Braves started to plaster on the death-dealing elements in the opening setting, and before the entire assemblage was on the ground had the game nicely cooked and salted away ready for transportation.

Mr. Bailey, the first brigand to appear, plunged into the murder and sudden death business from the word go, picking up the first ball put over by R. Carroll, who heaved in our interests, and smiting it into left field for three sacks in a most uncivilized manner.

If these Newark gents want to come up here and paste us all over the landscape the least they could do is give us a chance to get settled before beginning to paste.

Low Down Trick by Jack Dalton.

Following this uncouth act by Mr. Bailey, two gents lofted easy flies, and J. Dalton, the prize villain, singled, scoring Mr. Bailey.

This is just the sort of thing you'd expect from a gent. whose far-sighted parents bequeathed to him a label like Jack Dalton.

Following this dastardly blow by J. Dalton, G. Smith flied out, and the populace breathed with greater ease, and demanded that proceedings commence at once.

Mr. Wyatt Lee, who was handing out a fine line of assorted curves for the Indians, allowed W. Miller a hit, but disposed of the rest of the batters in short order, and without effort.

The brutal plot thickened and exploded in the second stanza, which saw the departure of R. Carroll, the introduction of F. Burchell, the departure of the same and the arrival of G. Leclaire all without extra charge.

While this unprecedented protean act was being staged, the Newark gents amassed six more runs.

Alma, step softly in this house of mourning.

Sometimes They Do Come Back.

W. Lee was first up and smote a low ball in the direction of R. Carroll's funny bone. The cork pill (1911 vintage) bounded off our eminent heaver and rolled back to F. Roth.

F. Roth grabbed the pill and hurled it in the general direction of first base. The pill hit W. Lee a smart punch in the small of the back and rolled to the bleachers. While C. Gandil was making desperate attempts to connect, W. Lee ambled gently on to the second station.

Bailey bunted out a sacrifice and Agler doubled, scoring Lee. Kelley smote the pill to left and Agler came home.

Exit, finis, bon soir, viz., good-night, to R. Carroll.

F. Burchell hurried to the rescue and after making a stern but ineffective attempt to massacre Ump. Doyle, while warming up, was safely pounded twice in succession, and chased

G. Leclaire, without being given a chance to warm up, responded to a hurry call and managed to pull through with only three runs off his offerings.

After this holocaust, G. Leclaire pitched good ball until the eighth, when he was taken out to allow Curtis to bat

My! My! G. Leclaire Had a Safe Bingle.

G. Leclaire also amassed a safe single in Montreal's section of the third.

As this is the first time in the history of the human race, that G. Leclaire has amassed a safe single in a game for the Royals, it will be understood that it was a proud day for Farnham.

We can only hope that Farnham won't get swelled up about it so that it disorganizes business.

Several promising attempts were made in later innings by Royal batsmen to get around enough times to tie up the score, but there was nothing doing, owing to inability on the part of our most reliable smite producers to produce at critical moments.

Four single tallies in four separate innings was the best we could do and villainy in the person of J Dalton and his gang of accomplished second storey specialists was triumphant.

This is against all known rules and regulations, and J. Yeager must see that it doesn't happen again.

Hist! Mystery of Pitcher Parsons.

The attention of Pitcher Parsons, of Boston, remain sealed book to the fans. There were several howls for Parsons when Burchell was removed, but J. Yeager's heart was adamant, and Parsons is as big a mystery as ever.

The biggest mystery of all is why the club bought Parsons if it didn't intend to use him.

PICKED UP FROM THE DIAMOND

President Lynch ha suspended Sherwood Magee, the Philadelphia Nationals' famous red-neck, for the rest of the season, for smashing Ump. Finneran. It is cheaper to smash china than umpires.

Al. Bridwell and Gowdy, Giants' infielders, have been traded to the Boston Doves in exchange for Charley Herzog, who had a run in with President Russell recently.

Newark once more to-day at 3 o'clock.

W. Louden had a good day yesterday. W. Louden should have whatever it is that causes him to have those bad days amputated.

If F. Roth is really getting his eye on that old pill, St. Catherine street will not be safe for pedestrians while F. Roth is at bat.

Parsons is rumored to be holding out on salary.

The Newark series closes to-morrow on the National Grounds at 3 o'clock. Maybe they'll give Parsons a wallop at the East End hoodoo

On Monday Jersey City comes here.

Barberich will likely heave to-day.

"The Light Beer in the Light Bottle"

Is Far Better Than The Government Regulation Requires

The Canadian Government regulation, regarding the brewing of lager, is probably the most exacting in the world.

It calls for a brew of Hops, Malt and Water only. The American Government places no such restrictions on her brewers.

O'Keefe's "Pilsener" not only complies with the Canadian Government regulations—but is brewed of the very finest Hops and Malt, and pure filtered Water.

Detroit United and The People--Cement Merger--N.Y. Paper on Our Boom

ADVICE FOR THE LOCAL HOLDERS OF DETROIT UNITED

Special to the Montreal Star.

Detroit, July 21.—The Detroit United Railway is again giving an illustration of what makes the company so unpopular in Detroit.

For years a large community in the northwest section of the city has been fighting for much needed street railway facilities.

At first the City Council refused to give its consent to an extension of the present lines, holding that to do so would be to aid the company in maintaining its hold on the city streets. While the city withheld consent the company, through President Hutchins and General Manager Brooks, declared not only its willingness, but its anxiety to make the extension as soon as permitted to do so.

The residents brought pressure to bear on the aldermen and forced them to yield. That was months ago, but the company has done nothing to take advantage of the consent thus obtained. The people are still without street cars. They are very angry, fearing that they will have to go through another winter without them.

Of course the newspapers have seized upon the incident for another vigorous assault upon the company.

Even the Detroit Journal, which has shown a disposition to treat the company fairly, is publishing editorials and cartoons attacking the company for its refusal to meet public requirements

The company, had it chosen, could have laid the rails for the new extension within 48 hours after the Council had granted permission. Had it done so there is no question, but that it would have made friends of every voter in the district affected. Instead it has made every such voter its enemy.

What Montreal and other shareholders of the Detroit United ought to do if they really want a renewal of the franchise on profitable terms, is to cause a change of heart in the management and induce them to try and capture the good will of the citizens of Detroit.

This the management has apparently never thought of doing. No matter what request or demand has been made upon the railway by the citizens, the company has invariably adopted the rule of fighting to the last ditch. They have done this even when the matter involved no particular expense to the company, as, for instance, when they refused to sell workingmen's tickets on the cars until the courts made it compulsory.

In speaking of the company's latest exhibition of hostility to the city, the Journal says:—

> "The company has earned new unpopularity in its opportunity to be useful. When crowds of people are delayed, wearied, impeded, in their efforts to get home on the one-line system now in operation, it is no wonder the feeling in the city toward the company is hostile, and that the relation between corporations and public seems to be one of war."

Meanwhile, a vote on municipal ownership is an expected development this fall.

MUTUAL LIFE CO. WON.

The result of the election of trustees of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. shows that the 36 men running on the administration ticket received votes running from 13,000 to 15,500, while Sol Rosenblatt, who ran alone on a "policy holders' ticket" got a trifle over 2,100.

TOBACCO STOCK DOWN 135 SINCE THE BIG DECISION

In selling at 385 American Tobacco establishes a low price of the year, and a decline of 135 points from the high price reached just before the decision rendered against the company by the Supreme Court in May. Selling has been persistent, and certificates have been for large amounts, and the offerings have been scattered among various brokerage houses, notably New York Stock Exchange houses rather than those of the curb. Curb specialists aver that the selling has been for some big insider who has been getting out of his large holdings since the decision was rendered. High and low of American Tobacco over a series of years follow:

Year.	High.	Low.
1911	520	385
1910	480	390
1909	480	322
1908	395	210
1907	385	174¼
1906	513	290
1905	476	209½

It will be seen that while the stock is selling well above the low of the panic, which was 210, the present price is below last year's low price.

HIGHEST PRICES OF PAST 12 MONTHS

The average quotations on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday reached the highest point not only of the current year, but for more than twelve months.

On Tuesday the June 24 maximum was passed by the railroads, but the industrials were 3-8 behind, thus keeping the grand average slightly lower than the June figures, which were about 123 1-4 for the railroads and 86 3-4 for the industrials. Yesterday, the whole market went higher. This lifted the railroad average to within a slender fraction of 124, while industrials passed the June maximum of 86 3-4.

SPEAKS HIGHLY OF THE LEMON LAWSON SOLD THE PUBLIC

S. R. Guggenheim, who is president of the Yukon Gold Co.; T. W. Lawson planted on the public says:

"We are much pleased with the progress of the Yukon Gold Company. The illustrated booklet, recently issued by us, describing its equipment and operations, brought out a surprising number of letters from stockholders and others signifying their approval, and in some cases expressing astonishment at the magnitude of the operations which they had never before comprehended. Some of these correspondents were not aware that the property was located in Canada, believing it to be in Alaska.

"At the time we undertook to acquire and equip the properties now owned by the Yukon Gold Company, there was a widespread belief that the Klondike district had seen its best days. The City of Dawson was becoming rapidly depopulated, the miners and prospectors looking to other fields. The especial reason was not because of the lack of pay gravel, but on account of its frozen condition, which many believed could not be successfully overcome. In fact, the prediction was freely made that our enterprise would prove a failure. However, our faith in the reports and opinions of our own engineers, coupled with the encouragement extended by the Canadian Government, made possible by its liberal laws, has resulted in the working out of the problem, and now we are told that the Canadian officials, as well as engineers who criticised our project, have come to a realization that the Yukon district is likely to produce within, say, the next 25 years or so, perhaps another 75 to 100 million dollars.

"Up to a year ago, we had calculated upon a season of about five months, that is to say, from May 15 to October 15. Since then, the installation of power plants by two independent power companies has afforded us facilities for dredging earlier and later, thereby lengthening our operating season. Last year we closed our dredges on November 5, as compared with closing the previous year on October 1. This season the first of our dredges commenced on May 4, against May 22 in the previous season, so it will be readily seen that we can add, and in fact have added, another month to our operating period.

"We have not received our detailed costs for any of this season's operations as yet, but the gross product to July 8 was $815,000 as against $529,000 for last year up to the same date. These figures encouraged us to believe that the net profit for this year will show a substantial advance over the preceding seasons."

SAYS CANADA ISN'T OVERDOING BOOM

Special to The Montreal Star.

New York, July 22.— The Journal of Commerce says:

"Canadian banks, in order to cope with the rapidly expanding business of the Dominion are planning to increase their capital. During the last two years the growth of our northern neighbor has been phenomenal. Capital has poured into the country as never before, new enterpireses have been founded on all sides, virgin soil has been brought under cultivation, railroads have been built, mining districts have been energetically opened up branch banks have been established by the score, immigration from Europe has been on an unprecedented scale, and many American farmers have crossed the border. There are always croakers ready to lower their eyebrows, shake their heads and portend all sorts of disasters when things boom; among these Canada's prosperity has provoked loud complaints that expansion is being overdone. The Dominion may experience a slight setback, and even some temporary embarrassment but its resources are so great that its progress is only in its first youth."

T. W. LAWSON UP A TREE; A BEAR NEARLY GOT HIM

Special to the Montreal Star.

Seattle, Wash., July 22. — Thomas W. Lawson, the Boston prophet, who has been passing his vacation "somewhere" in the west, has at last been discovered.

It was not a newspaper man, nor a fiend with a snap-shot camera that located the lair of the noted man—but a bear. It was just an ordinary black bear at that.

Lawson has been living on the ranch of an old friend, Thomas Sharp, across the Columbian river in Oregon, near the town of Princeville.

The trout fishing has been good in the wild treams that lie near Princeville and Lawson was wont to hike about twelve miles up certain streams daily for a day's fishing.

Last Saturday he went away after telling Mrs. Sharp of the trout he would bring home for Sunday dinner. He went up the south fork of the Wawawai creek.

When darkness was but an hour away and Lawson was late to dinner more than three hours Sharp and his hired man started after the Yukon Gold boomer, to "help him carry back the fishes."

After a walk of three miles they heard a faint "hellow," and recognized Lawson's voice—even though it was husky.

In a few minutes they reached the banks of the Walwawai creek and saw a pitiable sight—one that would be worth good money to a Sunday newspaper editor.

Out on the end of a smooth log suspended over the water sat T. W. Lawson, astride. His face was red, his hat minus, and one shoe gone, the other in his right hand poised ready to be thrown. On the bank near the stump of the leaning log sat a bear, a big black fellow, slowly devouring trout which Lawson had thrown to him, evidently to induce him to leave.

Lawson said he had been a prisoner for five hours and had caught 500 pounds of trout which he had thrown to Bruin but the bear still wanted more.

Sharp took a sharp hot at the bear with a rifle as Bruin sped through the underbrush, but did not hit him.

Advises Caution To Those Who Hold C.P.R. Stock

One of the Wall Street Brokers passes out this advice to holders of C. P. R. stock, free, gratis, for nothing :

"Those who are long of this stock and are not holding for permanent investment, should, we think, protect their profits with a stop order placed, say, four or five points under the market, while on any marked bulge now it would be well to secure profits and wait for a big reaction before buying again. There are many who bought with the idea of selling around 250, and when that figure is approached there will be a great many selling orders placed. We do not believe in waiting for the last fractional rise in this stock, as there is too big a risk of seeing the price slump 10 to 15 points, which would be only natural."

A FACTORY
WITH A SEA DOCK IN FRONT AND A RAILWAY BEHIND
IN MAISONNEUVE

Located in the midst of plenty of the best labor, where cheap power abounds, where conditions have been built with an eye single to the welfare of industries, would be considered well located — wouldn't it?

Some of the largest industries in the Dominion have long ago realized that by building a factory in Maisonneuve they would be forever assured of the most perfect manufacturing conditions in Canada — a country that is destined to be one of the greatest consuming nations in the world.

We are bringing this matter to your attention. MR. MANUFACTURER, in the hope that you will be wise, and act NOW, at once. Soon the choicest sites will be gone, and yours will be the loss. ACT NOW 'Phone or mail the coupon.

INSURING AN INCOME.

Landlords, as a guarantee against curtailment of income through the loss of tenants, call upon the Want Columns of The Star to promptly provide tenants to occupy their vacant property.

Prudent landlords, those who rarely, if ever, have vacant property upon their hands, keep in close touch with Star Wants and locate through them the most reliable tenants.

Various households that rent a room or two find that the same rule holds good in their case—it pays to insure a steady income derived from tenants by watching The Star's Want Ad Pages closely and immediately inserting a Want Ad when there is to be a change.

The Wants bring landlords and tenants together and cost but a trifle.

R. & O. Deal has Been Completed, Stock is All In

Special to The Montreal Star.

Toronto, July 22.—The Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co., of Montreal, are now the full-fledged owners of the entire stock issue of the Northern Navigation Co., one of the concerns recently merged into the big steamboat combine.

Secretary F. Percy Smith, of the Montreal company, arrived here yesterday morning and arranged for the final transfer to the R. & O. of the shares at the price of 125, the figure agreed upon at the time of the merger between the Furness interests and the Richelieu directors.

When Mr. Smith took the train for the east last night he had in his pocket the entire issue of the Northern Company, and several of the banks, together with a number of prominent brokers, had a busy day of it collecting the shares for the R. & O. secretary.

BILL TO GET THE DETROIT UNITED FOR THE CITY

Special to The Montreal Star.

Detroit, July 22.—The Glinnan Bill, under which Detroit hopes to acquire ownership of the Detroit United, has been drafted and submitted to the Common Council. Its outstanding provisions are:

Giving the city power to issue bonds for acquiring the railway.

Giving a franchise to an elective railway commission, which, however, must be approved by 60 per cent. of the voters.

Should the first franchise submitted not be aproved by the necessary number of voters, new franchises are to be submitted until one is constructed that meets with the necessary approval.

Nowhere in the bill is provision made for taking over the common stock.

The city is given the right to condemn existing tracks, to parallel existing lines where deemed necessary.

SOME NEW COMPANY INCORPORATIONS NOTED.

Special to the Montreal Star.

Ottawa, July 22.—The Dominion Nut and Bolt Fastener Company has been incorporated at Montreal, with a capital of $150,000, through C. G. Greenshields, advocate, and several clerks. Power is secured to make and deal in machinery.

The Ottawa Farm Development is a new incorporated Ottawa company, capitalized at $35,000, and with general realty powers. George Land and Matthew Orme head the concern.

The capital stock of the Cement Gun Company is increased from $600,000 to $1,000,000.

Formal notice is given of a meeting of the shareholders of the Bank of Montreal on September 5, to consider the increase of capital stock by $1,600,000, to a total of $16,000,000.

The Vancouver Life Insurance Company gives notice of intention to seek corporate powers at the present session of Parliament.

AN ENGLISH EDITOR WRITES STAR ON CEMENT MERGER

Financial Editor Montreal Star:

Sir,—As a considerable investor in Canadian Industrial Securities and an Englishman, I venture to lay before you the views of others like myself, regarding the present agitation directed against Canadian corporations of the first magnitude.

I see that a shareholder of the Canada Cement Company is protesting, or has protested, against the issue of common stock without any cash consideration, the protest being supported in some degree by certain Canadian papers. I do not know, of course, whether the shareholder who complains received any bonus shares, but I assume that he did. as I and others did. along with the preferred stock, in terms of the prospectus. Now, the assertion that there was no cash consideration for the common stock is only partially true. The fact is that English investors put up money for Canadian companies, hoping and expecting to get something like 10 per cent. return, which is not more than an adequate yield on industrial investments. The preferred stock alone could not, under any circumstances give us more than seven per cent.. and unless, by the bonus in comomn stock, we had been offered a participation in the surplus profits of a company, which we regarded as sound and promising, we should not have subscribed our money for the preferred stock at all.

The effect of the common stock bonus, therefore, is neither more nor less than to give the investor a fair return on his capital. but it is done in such a way that there is no obligation upon the company to pay the full 10 per cent. which we expect, a substantial part of it being contingent upon the resuls of trading.

I regard that as perfectly sound finance; and it has the justification of the approval of experienced financiers on this side.

With regard to the important question of prices. I invite comparison of the price of cement in Canada with the ruling in England. I understand the Canadian price twelve months ago was about $7.80 per ton. The demand has since largely increased, but the price, so far from being raised by the improvement of the market, has actually fallen to $7.20. and this is the work of the Canada Cement Company, arising out of its ability to manufacture and distribute more cheaply than ever before. But the main point I wish to make is that in England the price during the last twelve months. as quoted by the Associated Portland Cement Company (the ordinary shares of which, by the by, were bonus shares). has risen substantially with the increased demand. and is now $7 per ton or only about 20 cents less than that of the Canada Cement Company, although the latter has duty charges on coal. etc, which the English Company does not bear, and although wages in Canada are very much higher than on this side.

I have good authority for the statement that the promoters of the Canada Cement Company did not receive a bond or a preferred share for which they did not pay cash. But if I am correctly informed, the gentleman who has allowed himself to criticise the issue of bonus shares by the Canada Cement Company was the president of the Exshaw Company in which I happen to have been a bond holder; and everyone knows the unhappy fate of that concern. I only received 80 per cent. of the par value of my Exshaw bonds in bonds of the Canada Cement Company, and yet — this is my present point—the Company of which this gentleman was the president is one in which, according to its Trust Deed, the promoters helped themselves to $200.000 of bonds. in addition to bonus shares..

Apparently all this discussion has arisen out of the proposal of the Cement Company that its 7 per cent. preferred shares should be converted into five per cent. debenture stock.

I strongly urge the Canadian Parliament to support the proposal, in the absence of very strong reasons to the contrary; and I address myself to Parliament on this ground—that any company. large or small. should be permitted to decide upon its own affairs unless and until the interests of the public are in jeopardy; and there is no tittle of evidence that this is the case.

Canada depends for the development of her resources upon the influx of capital from without, and if she does not desire to incur the risk of creating the impression abroad that even the established and useful companies are open to the danger of Parliamentary interference in their affairs, even when they are conducted lawfully and legitimately. there will be very strong disinclinations to interfere. In this particular proposal there is excellent precedent to be found in the history of the United States Steel Corporation; but I put my plea for non-interference on a higher and more important foundation than that.

CHARLES W. COOP.

Editor Joint Stock Companies Journal.

MAY DROP BRITISH INSURANCE BILL IS LONDON RUMOR

London, July 22.—Chancellor Lloyd George's insurance bill has incurred the hostility of so many different interests—doctors, friendly societies, trades unions, shippers, cotton spinners and others, and now the revolt of the Laborites in the House of Commons, that it is being freely predicted that the Government will be compelled to drop the bill, at least for the present

The bill has been for a fortnight in committee, and only eleven of 86 clauses have been disposed of. James Keir Hardie, the Socialist and Independent Labor member, says that Lloyd George's health is giving way under the strain and that he will not be able to carry the bill.

Philip Snowden, Socialist member, says that in the hands of any other Minister the bill would have been dead long ago, and the odds are heavily against its ever becoming law.

FIRST WOMAN AVIATOR KILLED

Etampes, France, July 22—Mme. Denise Moore is the first woman victim of aviation. She was killed at the aerodrome here last night. Mme. Moore had already made several fine ascents and was about to make a high flight.

When about 150 feet in the air her biplane was caught by a gust and capsized. It fell straight to the earth, and the woman was crushed beneath it.

Mme. Moore was a French woman, although she had an English name. She was about 25 years old. She had hoped to obtain a pilot's license next week

MILLION IN PAVING.

The City Council will consider a supplementary list of streets to be paved this year, at an estimated cost of $250,000 consequent on the decision of the Board of Control yesterday. There are 42 sections of streets on the list, and the amount now recommended to be spent, together with the sum already approved, will bring the total amount up to a million dollars, the sum originally contemplated by the Controllers. The cost will be borne by the owners on each side of the street.

Further legislation. it was mentioned yesterday, will be required before the city can take advantage of offers for the sale of property in connection with the proposed opening up of St. Lawrence street to the river front.

A report calling for the expenditure of $117,533 for the laying of water mains in certain streets, which are to be paved next year, was approved of by the Controllers. With regard to new sidewalks the Board are not yet ready to send in another report on account of increased demands involving an outlay of about $500,000.

Get Man After Long Search.

Henri St. Martin, 979 St. Denis street. who the police say they have been after for the past year, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Constable Benoit, of No 12 station.

St. Martin is alleged to be the man who fired two shots at Constable Bougie. while the latter was arresting Antoine Delorme alias St. Jean, on Craig street, on a charge of robbery. He will be arraigned before Judge Bazin this morning.

REA is one of the three great mines in Porcupine.

REA is proven to the greatest depth, has the largest area and the smallest capitalization of any of the three.

REA is a mine—not a prospect.

REA is already financed and is offering no Treasury Stock.

The control is lodged in strong hands.

The floating stock that would come on the market at anything under $30 a share, is so small that we advise the immediate purchase of REA under $6.

Inside information justifies the belief that REA will sell better than $15 a share before January 1st.

COME AND SEE

DORVAL BAY GARDENS

The Rapid Transit Suburb

If you are doing nothing next Saturday afternoon, we would be glad to have you accompany our Sales Manager to DORVAL BAY GARDENS. Every week a party of interested investors make a point of seeing this wonderful property for themselves; and every week, sure enough, we are selling an increased number of DORVAL BAY GARDENS plots.

There is still time for YOU to purchase a plot or two in this beautiful districe before the prices are raised again. Of course, it is not absolutely essential that you should see DORVAL BAY GARDENS, since we guarantee satisfaction and honest dealing to every purchaser who buys from the plan; but we feel sure that we can do business far better and more expeditiously if you will permit us to show you the property first.

DORVAL BAY GARDENS is not a hole in the ground, nor is it watered stock. It is the finest and safest real estate proposition ever put before an investing class, and holds bigger profits in store for the investor than he ever dreamt of.

Understand this, buying DORVAL BAY GARDENS plots is NOT speculation. It is an investment of the safest and most tangible kind; and if you are thinking of building a home, then this is the very spot where your happiest thoughts can be consummated, and where you can live free from the noise, smoke and worries of the city.

At Twelve Cents a foot, land at DORVAL BAY GARDENS is positively an A1 buy; and so great is the demand, while so small the supply, that it will be impossible in a few weeks' time to buy any single plot under fifteen cents a foot.

To delay means to miss the pick of the market; therefore, we urge you to make up your mind quickly and buy at DORVAL BAY GARDENS before every lot is sold, and you are compelled to pay advanced prices to others.

If you haven't the time or convenience to go and see DORVAL BAY GARDENS for yourself, write us or send in the attached coupon, and we w'll send you plan, price list and all possible information.

This Week's Trip

On Saturday next, the first excursion will leave Bonaventure Depot at 1.30, the second at 2.15 p.m. You can take your choice of either of these trains, but notify us ahead of which one you propose to travel by. We supply tickets.

GEO. MARCIL & CO.,

BOULEVARD PLAN WELL RECEIVED MAY GO THROUGH

Total Cost of St. Lawrence St. Extension to River Front, $800,000.

The City Council at its next meeting will take into consideration the recommendation of the Board of Control that the properties necessary for the opening of St. Lawrence street from Notre Dame to Commissioners street shall be expropriated in accordance with the conditions contained in the amendments to the city charter.

If adopted, the scheme will cost the city about $800,000, but it is contended that the surrounding properties would be so enhanced in assessable value through the street improvement that an appreciable proportion of the cost of the work would be returned to the city in the course of a few years in additional taxes.

In addition, it is further pointed out by the advocates of the improvement that this new outlet to the wharf would be of great benefit to the commerce of the city.

Most of the property required to prolong St. Lawrence street belongs to the Sisters of the Congregation, who are willing to sell it to the city for a total sum of $617,358. It comprises a superficial area of 88,194 feet, the price therefore working out at about seven dollars a foot. The city authorities have consulted expert land valuers, and the latter submit that the price asked is reasonable in this neighborhood.

The church of Notre Dame de Piete is involved in the expropriations as proposed.

The Sisters of the Congregation hold options on other properties that will be required to carry out the scheme, and they are willing to let the city take up these options for the amount named on them, namely, $64,338. These properties belong respectively to the Etstate Masson, Madame T. Darling, the Estate Corneille, the Estate Tiffin, and Mr. H. Joseph Jacob.

In regard to the Church of Notre Dame de Piete, a proposition has been made that it should be left standing on its present site to form a sort of island round which the street would run on both sides. On the other hand it is submitted that as this would spoil the perspective, the church should be removed to the side of the street. This could be done without difficulty as the church is of comparatively small proportions.

The Route to Portland and the Maine Coast.

The Grand Trunk Railway operates daily two high-class trains over its own rails, between Montreal and Portland, Maine.

The Day Train from Montreal leaves at 8.00 a.m., arriving Portland at 5.45 p.m. The Night Train leaves Montreal at 8.15 p.m. and arrives Portland at 7.00 a.m.

Trains leave Portland at 8.00 a.m. and 8.00 p.m., arriving Montreal at 6.40 p.m. and 7.30 a.m. respectively.

These trains, as "Grand Trunk Trains," are expected to be "On Time." They are living up to their reputation.

It may also be noted that this service caters to the convenience of those who travel with limited or leisure time at their disposal. Those who select the day ride in order to enjoy the many and remarkable beauties of the "White Mountains" will be well advised. These natural attractions lend aid to the artificial in maintaining the popularity of the "Grand Trunk Route."

The Day Trains carry high-class Cafe Parlor Cars, the food and service on the same being up to the "Grand Trunk Standard" of excellence.

On the Night Trains are operated Modern and Sumptuous Electric-lighted Sleepers, including reading lamps, easy of access, in both upper and lower berths. Also Electric Fans keeping atmosphere nice and cool.

From Portland the far-famed islands of the Portland District are conveniently reached, as are also the Maine Coast Resorts to all of which tickets are sold, and baggage checked through by the Grand Trunk Railway System. 160 26

Immense Sale of

"Chantilly Foulard" SILKS

SOMETHING NOVEL AND LOVELY. Really fine 50c value. On sale Monday and Tuesday only, yard 25c

The price is low undoubtedly, but is, in this case, no criterion by which the value of these fabrics may be judged. These particular silks are new, so new, in fact, that the manufacturer advises us they will be extensively shown in their lines for Spring 1912. However this may be, it is a matter of great delight to us, and of momentous importance to you, that we are able to offer such desirable materials at exactly half price. For your new summer dress, blouse or kimona, nothing could surpass these silks, and at the price nothing can equal them in the city. Please investigate and see whether or no we speak the truth. The colors come in a charming range, prominent amongst which are such Blues as:—Alice, Cope, Saxe, King's Blue, light and dark Navy, also Old Rose, Mahogany, Copper and Blacks. The designs contain a variety of pretty Spots, Dots, Diamonds, Rings, Damesse, Brazil and Floral effects. See Our Window Display and Come in Early on Monday. On sale at 25c

A Final Clearance Sale of LADIES' SUMMER DRESSES

WILL COMMENCE HERE ON MONDAY, JULY 24TH.

In ten days time we will be taking stock, and it is our intention to clear as many of our Summer Dresses as possible, before that event. With that end in view we have made the prices so temptingly low that this sale will prove a boon to those seeking really good quality dresses at rock bottom prices. These are all New York styles, beautifully tailored, and have that individual character in style, fit and workmanship which is peculiarly American. We desire to restate our claim that our Summer Dresses are unequalled in this city at the prices. The materials are of Plain Striped, Check and Fancy Lawns and Muslins, Ginghams, Chambrays, Linens, Repps and Mercerized Linens.

Note This Great Fact, that our prices on these Dresses for Monday, are away lower than the cost of making alone, to say nothing of the cost of the materials, so these are much less than you could make them for, and the styles are the very latest, such that could not be successfully copied if anyone tried.

READ OVER THESE SALE PRICES CAREFULLY.

How to Get the Best Candy Results

Take a pound of pure granulated sugar, and a piece of butter, the size of an egg, and a little flavoring extract. Heat a clean pan over an even fire till it is nearly red hot. Pour the sugar into the pan, adding a small quantity of filtered water. Then suddenly turn around to the people who are watching you and tell them they can make their own candy if they want to, you are going to Goodwin's where you can get the ideal of real pure candy at the lowest prices.

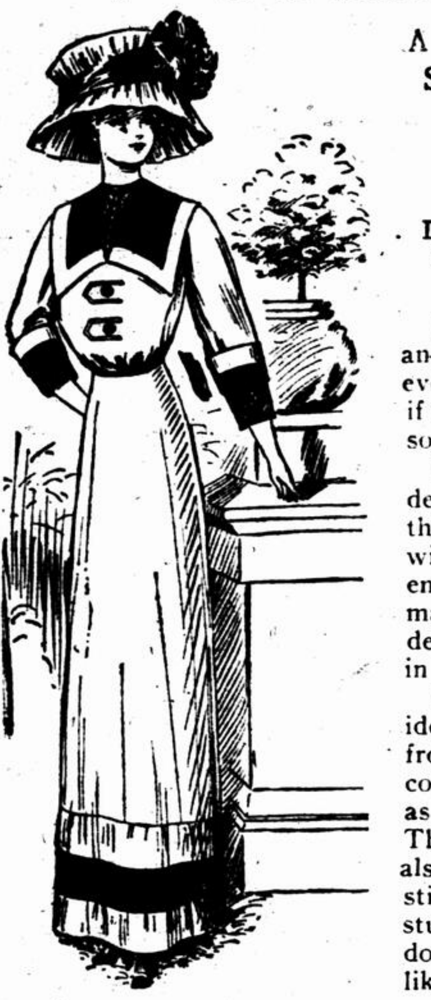
It may be fun making candy, but we have taken all the trouble and risk for you. Let us do all the pouring over the hot fire. You take the results. It pays better and you get nicer candy.

Store opens at 8 o'clock and closes at 5.30 p.m. D. LORNE McGIBBON, President. J. W. McCONNELL, Vice-President. W. H. GOODWIN, Vice-President and Managing Director. SATURDAY, JULY 22ND.

GOODWIN'S SEMI-ANNUAL--THE SALE THAT STARTS THE WEEK SATISFACTORILY

This Fine MUSLIN DRESS

IS A REAL PICTURE



A Garment for Which $15.00 Should be Paid—We Ask Only

$9.95

DAINTIEST OF LINGERIE PANEL DRESSES AT THE SAME PRICE.

How often black has come along and taken the leading place against every other color. More especially if there has been the least shade of something else to brighten it.

In showing you the dress here described, we decided on having the artist sketch the black one with white pin dots. There is just enough color in this garment to make it immensely attractive. The designers have been very clever in their combination of shades.

Though you can get an excellent idea of what the dresses are like from this sketch, you had better come into the store and see them as early on Monday as possible. These Lingerie Panel Dresses are also exquisite in every line. Every stitch of their make-up shows studied care. That French Batiste does look well in a dress model like this one.

Fine Muslin Dresses, in black with white pin dots, sailor collar of black satin with fold of self material. Round neck, with yoke of Guipure lace edged with Coronation Blue, Coral or Paddy Green. Kimona sleeves with cuffs of lace to match yoke. The belt is narow of black satin. Plain skirt with a deep tuck and a four inch fold of black satin. Regular $15.00. Monday $9.95

Lingerie Panel Dresses, made of French Batiste, with a broad Sailor Collar of embroidery. The waist ad sleeves are neatly trimmed with bands of filet lace, and the dress is set off with a chiffon tie of contrasting shade. It is finished with a wide semi-loose front and back panel of allover embroidery. Regular $15.00. Monday... $9.95

Some Rustling Silks for Summer

The designer who conceived the idea for these silks must have had in mind a picture of light, bright summer days. Perhaps a view of many Social functions appeared to him. At any rate the manufacturer and the weaver at the loom carried out the idea thoroughly, and every piece of this silk is a real delight to those who are seeking silks for the present months.

Our part in the matter was to make good selections of patterns and fix prices to keep ourselves and customers on friendly terms.

Why China and Cut Glass Have Fallen in Price

Not because there is any difference in the goods since the day they left the potteries or the large establishments where they were made. Not because they have outgrown the designs which fashion says are correct, but because many of these beautiful articles have stood on our heavily stocked tables long enough. They are lovely ornaments, every one of them useful every day in the year. We have had our share of taking care of them, we want you to take the responsibility for them now. Any one can see the inducement is great enough, for prices have been cut absolutely in two.

Cut Glass Novelties from .02½ to $3.75 include: Celery Dips, Sardine Boxes, Tooth Pick Holders, Hat Pin Holders, Salted Almond Dishes, Individual Butters, Tumbler rests and the like.

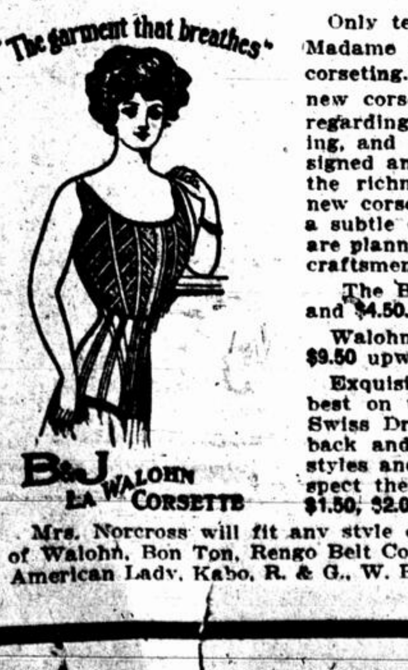
Her Visit Drawing to a Close



Only ten days left to take advantage of Madame Norcross's vast experience in correct corseting. Come in and consult her upon your new corset or any points you wish to know regarding corsets. Present modes are exacting, and it requires a garment exquisitely designed and welded like the Walohn to exhibit the richness and delicacy necessary for the new corset. Walohn corsets invariably effect a subtle charm of chic. Their beautiful lines are planned by masters and executed by expert craftsmen.

The B. J. or Bien Jolie Corset from $3, $4 and $4.50.

Walohn Corsets from $6, $6.50, $7, $8.50, $9.50 upwards.

Exquisite new lines of B. J. Brassieres—best on the market, allover embroidery—fine Swiss Dr. Demiel Linen Mesh, linen trimmed back and front with pretty insertions. All styles and all kinds. We invite you in to inspect these prices, from .50, .75, $1.00, $1.35, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50, $3.00 upwards.

Mrs. Norcross will fit any style or make of corset desired, full range of Walohn, Bon Ton, Rengo Belt Corsets, Ivy, Royal Worcester, Warner's American Lady, Kabo, R. & G., W. B. and many other makes.

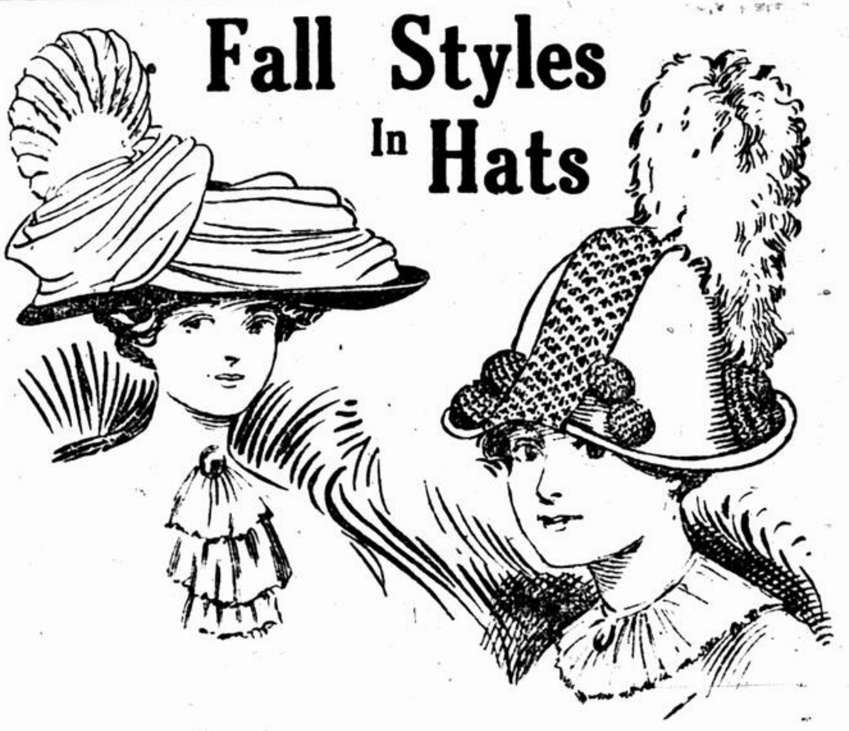
Fall Styles In Hats



Why Ladies Buy These Hats Early

Many ladies come into the store just as soon as the first models for the season arrive.

"Now I do not think I'll see anything nicer than this during the whole Fall season, so I'll just take this hat with me now," was what one customer said the other day. There are many who act just as she did. Some of these early Fall styles, same as we are showing here, sketched from models in the department, may never be on sale again. It is wise, therefore, to make the most of these early opportunities.

Referring to these two models, let us tell you that the $14.00 one is made of Black Velvet, slightly turned up at side, folds of white chiffon over crown, finished off with smart white wing tipped with black.. $14.00

The $10.00 one—Velvet Hat in the new tan shade, new braid over crown with Marabout mounts at side.......... $10.00

Silk Underskirts Will Glide Away

ON MONDAY $2.95 TAKES THE PLACE OF $4.00

Lawn Waists Will Do Some Gliding Too

They Were $3.50 to $5.50 Monday's Price Reads $1.89

We will speak about the silk underskirts first:—

Up in the department where they sell underskirts and waists, the buyer of these garments wore a bright smile when he was asked why he thought a great many of them would glide out of this store on Monday.

"Glide" is a good word here, because there is not much doubt about their going smoothly, quietly and quickly.

After his smile he said earnestly, "Just look at the price. That's the reason."

That does seem a pretty good reason—$1.89 for $3.50 to $5.50 waists, and $2.95 for $4.00 underskirts.

LADIES' WAISTS, made of fine Parisian Lawn and Mull, Indian Lawn and Polka Dot Muslin, beautiful hand embroidered fronts, braided fronts, finished with baby Irish Cluny, Maltese embroidered insertion and Val. insertion, Kimona and short sleeves, all nicely finished with fine pin tucks and Val. insertion, button back, button front, with embroidered fronts and dainty fancy collar, long sleeves finished with neat cuff and pearl buttons. Reg. $3.50 to $5.50. Monday.......... $1.89

PRINTED DELAINES Just Off The Press

First Shipment From The Continent---Monday per yard - .50

France is turning out Printed Delaines more beautiful than ever for this Fall. The City of Lyons has done itself more than credit in the printing of these handsome Delaines. The Canadian Custom Officers have just passed the first consignment of these lovely fabrics, every box addressed Goodwin's, Limited, Montreal. While the presses kept rattling and buzzing, printing the latest Delaines, our buyer from this store kept ordering. The goods have arrived in Montreal nearly as soon as he has. We feel sure that this is the finest selection of printed bordered Delaines ever shewn in this city. They are suitable for street and house gowns, making up charmingly. France has produced nothing newer; we cannot purchase anything choicer in the matter of Delaines.

Such goods as these will be one of the many features in our Dress Goods Department from now on.

We will be glad to have you come in and see the very latest dress materials from across the Atlantic, and be sure to ask our dress goods people to show you this Printed Delaine at .50 per yard. Then if you don't want to buy them at the present moment, have a good look at them and think it over.
