Shawville Fair Notes

The Shawville Fair, Sept. 22, 23, 24, should be the very best in history for several reasons:

A good crop of hay, grain and roots, with the harvesting all finished and threshing likely to be finished before the Fair leaves it easier for farmers to attend this "Get together event" and assists in making it a success.

The prize list issued in July contains a good list of specials to which we hope to add some events at an early date.

The list of donors to the Fair is one of the largest we have had and some new names appear. Persons willing to donate to 1938 Fair who have not been called upon by a canvasser are requested to advise a director or the Secretary as soon as possible the amount they desire to contribute.

The names of additional donors will be published. Donors of $5.00 and over will receive the usual complimentary ticket to the Fair.

Two Men Drowned in Ottawa River Sunday

Gabriel Ryan, aged 25, and Phyllis Gaudette, aged 18, two Allumette Island youths, were drowned in separate accidents while swimming on Sunday afternoon. Bodies of both were recovered late Sunday night.

Both young men were farmers' sons, unable to swim more than a few strokes. In the humid heat of mid-afternoon on Sunday, with a party of friends they had gone bathing in the Ottawa river, had waded out, floundered in holes beyond their depth and sunk out of sight. Friends in both cases were powerless to help.

Ryan was born on May 26, 1913, and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Matthew Ryan; three brothers, W. J. Ryan, Edmund and Basil, at home, and seven sisters, Mrs. C. Sunstrum, of Temiskaming and Misses Frances, Ottawa; Gerald, Westmeath and Christina, Inez, Joan, and Theresa Ryan, all at home.

Gaudette was born on July 11, 1921, and is mourned by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gaudette Demers Centre; two brothers, Edgar and Lorenza, and four sisters, Misses Violette, Edwina, Nora and Albertine Gaudette at home.

The Rev. A. F. and Mrs. Fokes Honoured

On Friday evening, the congregation of Shawville United Church held a reception in honour of Rev. A. F. Fokes and Mrs. Fokes, the occasion being the 25th anniversary of their marriage. They were invited to the church by Mr. Clifford Wilson, who escorted them to a place at the front of the auditorium to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin played by Mrs. Edgar Hodgins.

Mrs. S. E. McDowell sang as a solo "I Love You Truly", after which Mr. and Mrs. Fokes were invited to the platform. An appropriate address of congratulation was made by Mr. R. P. Eades, and little Ann Campbell presented Mrs. Fokes with a bouquet of summer flowers. Another address was then made by Jos. B. Kilgour, who presented the honoured guests with a beautiful cabinet of silver.

The congregation then individually offered their congratulations after which all retired to the Sunday School room. The tables had been beautifully decorated with cut flowers and pink and white streamers. Mrs. J. McKinley and Mrs. H. Hayes presided for the pouring of tea, and a committee of ladies served dainty refreshments.

Mrs. A. F. Fokes in a few words thanked the congregation for their kindness, and Rev. A. F. Fokes also extended his appreciation with a number of reminiscences of the marriage 25 years ago.

It was on the 14th of August in 1913 that Miss Edna M. Foley was united in marriage to Rev. A. F. Fokes at the home of her parents near Lansdowne, Ont. The officiating minister was Rev. Geo. Snell of Lansdowne Methodist Church. The young couple were attended by the brother of the bride, Ellis Foley, and a cousin of the groom, Miss Pauline O'Keefe. Shortly after their marriage they went to live at West Brome, Que. Since then they have lived in the parsonages at Riceville, Richmond, Brinston and now for the past seven years, at Shawville, Que. There are four children, Brome of Gananogue, Harold of Shawville, Lorraine, nurse-in-training at Ottawa Civic Hospital and Dean at home.

Commentary on the Highlights of the Week's News . . . by Peter Randal

ELIMINATION CONTEST: — Directors of the Kent County Motor Club, with headquarters at Chatham, are contemplating forwarding a recommendation to the Ontario Department of Highways urging a change in the Highway Traffic Act by which motor car drivers will be required to submit to periodical tests for ability in handling a car and also for physical fitness. Such a course of action would result in the elimination of a great many incompetent drivers who make our roads unsafe to venture upon by day or by night. It would withdraw from circulation not only hare-brained youths and epileptics but men well up in their seventies now found behind the wheel of a car.

And speaking of constructive suggestions, the same Motor Club urges that the city of Chatham establish a school for drivers.

TO BRIDGE OR NOT TO BRIDGE: Whether the Senate gives permission or no, Ontario and New York State are going to go ahead and build a new international bridge at Niagara Falls, and that right speedily, according to the Province's Minister of Highways, Hon. T. B. McQueen. The fact that the International Railway Company already has a charter to construct a similar bridge will have no bearing on the matter.

To take the place of the famed "Honeymoon Bridge" swept away in January last by ice break-ups, the new structure, longer and higher, will be started before spring, it is announced, as soon as plans and engineering details can be completed. The attitude of the Ontario Government is that the Dominion Government has no right to interfere with the business of the province and cannot keep Ontario and New York state authorities from carrying through their project.

Who knows but that we may yet end up with two bridges on the same spot.

BREAK WITH THE POPE: Mussolini, being a cleverer man than his fellow-dictator, Hitler, has during his sixteen years in office scrupulously avoided any trouble with Pope Pius XI or with the Catholic Church. That is, up until this summer.

Now, the lid is off. The new racist theories (anti-Jewish, anti-Catholic) of the Italian Fascist regime are the point of contention. Declaring first that Italy is simply imitating Germany, the Pope has lashed out at Mussolini, repudiating all racist theories, including the Italian ones. He condemns them as contrary to the very essence of the Catholic faith. Italian authorities have threatened to declare membership in the Catholic Action Associations incompatible with membership in the Fascist Party.

And the fight is on. Mussolini, stung to the quick by the assertion that he is merely imitating Hitler, is ready for a battle royal with the Pope. "We'll go straight ahead!" he shouts. The significance here is that Mussolini used that same phrase, "We'll go straight ahead," when the League of Nations tried to stop the Italian invasion of Abyssinia. He went straight ahead then, has continued to do so ever since.

CANADA REPRESENTED: — Tucked away at the bottom of a dispatch from Breslau, Germany, last week was the unobtrusive mention that Germans from Canada paraded before Herr Hitler at the National German Gymnastic Festival. Together with 200,000 other German-speaking representatives from the four corners of the globe, these people from our Dominion marched past the Fuehrer, performed an act of homage and proclaimed undying constancy in their German origin. How long has this been going on?

AXES TO GRIND: In our column two weeks ago we stated that when the Rome-Berlin-Tokio axis is working well, Japan is able by creating a ruckus on the Russian-Manchoukuoan border to draw attention away from what Italy and Germany are up to in Europe. But Russia has an axe to grind too, perhaps. By allowing the Manchoukuoan border incident to appear more serious than it really is, she succeeds in drawing several Japanese army divisions to the scene, so far off that were they needed in the conflict in China, they would not be available.

Also if the Japanese campaign in China is at the stage where it must have every reinforcement, a conflict with Russia will prolong the Sino-Jap war, weaken Japan immeasurably from both the economic and military standpoints.

(How it all started: On July 29 a small Japanese force occupied the northern heights of Changkufeng which Russia claims are in Soviet territory; Japan insists that they are in Jap-controlled Manchoukuo. Soviet frontier guards ejected the Japanese. Early on the morning of July 31 the Japanese attacked in strength, seized the whole line of the heights to a depth of two and a half miles. Then Russian divisions regained the position. And so it went. Nobody really knows who owns those heights, the border is so ill-defined.)

THE WEEK'S QUESTION: What European Country will likely be next to join the Rome-Berlin axis? Answer—Hungary, who is Germany's next-door neighbor and a leader among the Balkan States.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

LESLIE HORE-BELISHA

Descendant of Spanish Jews who fled from the terror of the Inquisition to the shores of England, Leslie Hore-Belisha (pronounced "Bel-ee-sha") because of his meteoric career in British politics is looked upon by many to have the makings of a "second Disraeli." He is still a young man, around 42 (he won't tell his exact age), in a position as Minister of War where a leap up to the Prime Minister's chair is not long; nor a crash downwards altogether unlikely. His future is a big question mark.

A Brilliant Showman
Following the war this smooth-faced, thick-lipped young man continued his interrupted education, was President of the Oxford Union for a term, practised law in London and rode into Parliament as an M. P. for Devonport. While sitting in the House he came under the influence of that famed ex-Canadian, Lord Beaverbrook, wrote political articles for his "Daily Express," and learned for him the art of publicity.

Hore-Belisha first featured largely in the public eye following his appointment in 1934 as Minister of Transport. He inaugurated a tremendous publicity campaign, using radio, billboards, newspaper cartoons to reduce accidents on the highways, which actually cut down the slaughter figures. He has got action. He became a famous man.

In 1937 Prime Minister Chamberlain moved Hore-Belisha to the War Office and got more action. A purge of the British Army High Command occurred immediately, sweeping a lot of the elder men out of the war office.

In The Balance
At the present moment, Mr. Hore-Belisha's career is at stake. It has been whispered persistently of late that he is likely to resign from the War Office. The truth is that his career is at stake. The trouble may come to a head following the publication of a report by a special committee of all parliamentary powers which is investigating the arrest of Duncan Sandys, M.P. (Winston Churchill's son-in-law) for the alleged violation of the Official Secrets Act. "Who summoned Sandys?" is the question. Mr. Hore-Belisha may be charged with misleading evidence.

Horrid Tips

Summer is more fun for the woman who —

—Decides on a coiffure that won't keep her neck too warm for comfort and one which is so simple that she can tidy it up herself after a swim or a game of golf.

—Finds a really efficacious anti-perspirant that suits her own type of skin, then uses it regularly.

—Buys washable white gloves. —Appreciates the fact that an extra jacket or two can make a skimpy wardrobe seem larger and infinitely more interesting.

—Plans her own holiday well in advance, budgeting her allowance and choosing her summer clothes with it firmly in mind. —Begins to think about details of the children's months at camp or at grandmother's right now instead of waiting until a week before they are to leave.

—Stores away all heavy looking bric-a-brac, heavy cushions and so on. People who live in coal-looking houses during hot weather are less bothered by the heat than those who do not.

—Endeavours to get her skin gradually used to bright, hot sunshine weeks before she intends to spend a full day on the beach. Thus she avoids a sunburn, and

So many people are moving out from London, Ontario, to new districts outside the corporation limits that the city shows a drop in population for the first time in 55 years. The same exodus is noted in Toronto and many other larger cities with an urban zone surrounding them, but in Toronto the population continues to show a minor increase nevertheless. — Toronto Star.

The Editor Restrains Himself
There are some obituaries that it might be a pleasure to write, were circumstances rather different. Some funerals bring an improvement to the community, and the editor of the paper would just love to let himself go and say just what he believes to be the truth. But even that pleasure is denied him. There are relatives to think about, and after all, there are times when silence is golden. — Fergus News-Record.

Why Accidents Happen
"I was thinking about something else." Half the motorcar drivers stopped by traffic officers in the U.S. for violations of the rules of the road give the excuse quoted. But surely any responsible adult realizes that in driving a fast-travelling car, under present conditions of traffic, he or she has plenty to think about without letting his or her own thoughts wander outside the automobile. — Stratford Beacon-Herald.

That Was Thirty Years Ago
Thirty years ago this week the editor of the Walkerton Telescope sharpened his quill and gave his readers this hot-shot: "In Kincardine one day last week an automobile frightened a horse, the horse ran away, the driver was thrown out of the rig and his leg was broken. It is becoming apparent from incidents like this that something will have to be done about these automobiles. For several years past the farmers in the vicinity of Toronto have been agitating for

This province cannot hope to produce another Adam Beck, and if it did we doubt whether the members of our Legislature would be inclined to leave him alone and allow him to work. — Peterborough Examiner.

Who Are The Happy People?

Who, then, are the happy people? Some say they are the Communists, some say they are the Nazis, some say they are the Buchmanites. It is a fine thing to have such reports of widespread happiness from all over Europe. How happy Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini looked in the photograph of the march-past during the Roman celebrations! I almost wished I were a dictator as I was watching the news-reel. How happy, too, a thousand or two Buchmanites look in a photograph, all laughing together like bathing belles in the popular press! I sincerely hope all these people are as happy as they look, and that their happiness is infectious. Some people say the followers of General Franco are happy, but I wish they could express their happiness in some other way than dropping bombs on children. Happiness takes many forms, however, and it is probably lack of imagination that prevents me from entering into the happiness either of a bomb-thrower or of a Prime Minister. The truth is, I do not know what constitutes happiness for anybody except myself, and I am not sure about myself. A shower of rain on the garden, perhaps, and, after that, white clouds in a blue sky. Or a peacock butterfly. Or a cinnabar moth. Or a bullfinch in an apple tree. Or work — when it is over. — "Y. Y." in The New Statesman and Nation (London).

THE WONDERLAND OF OZ

The new General of the Gnome King's army knew that to fall in his plans meant death, yet he was not at all anxious or worried. He hated everyone who was good and he longed to make all who were happy unhappy. Therefore he had accepted this dangerous position as general quite willingly, feeling sure in his evil mind that he would be able to do a lot of mischief and finally to conquer the Land of Oz.

The mountains underneath which the Gnome King's extensive caverns were located lay grouped just south of the Land of Ev, which lay directly across the deadly desert to the west of the Land of Oz. As the mountains were also on the edge of the desert the Gnome King found that he had only to tunnel underneath the desert to reach Ozma's dominions, but he did not wish his armies to appear above the ground in the Munchkin country.

He wanted to take all the Oz people by surprise; so he decided to run the tunnel clear through to the Emerald City, where he and his army could break through the ground without warning and conquer the people before they had time to defend themselves. "Ozma," said the Gnome King to himself, "will not know that we are going to attack her, so she will make no preparations to resist us. In a few hours my gnomes will have captured the entire country."

He began working at once upon his tunnel, setting a thousand miners at the task and building it high and broad enough for his armies to march through it with ease. The gnomes were used to making tunnels, as all the kingdom in which they lived was under ground, so they made rapid progress. While this work was going on, General Guph started out alone in search of allies. He first planned to visit the Chief of the Whimsies.

Future Bright For Cattlemen

Alberta Ranch Country Hopes To Get Out of the Red

Ten lean years are over for the ranchers of Southern Alberta — they look forward to a year of plenty of feed and, perhaps, plenty of money.

"Give us decent prices this fall and we'll be on our feet again," was the comment of cattlemen attending Calgary's Exhibition and Stampede.

For a decade Alberta ranges were over-grazed, herds depleted and prices far below cost of production.

Grass is Abundant
This year grass is abundant, particularly in the southern foothills. Ground devoid of grass for years has been a green blanket; cattle are in fine shape and market prospects are good.

"The foothill country is generally the best I have ever seen in the past 22 years," said Professor W. L. Carlyle, manager of the Duke of Windsor's E.P. ranch near High River.

... Gardening Notes ...

NEXT YEAR'S IRISES

One of the "must" items which many gardeners have marked down on their schedules for attention during the next few weeks is the ordering of irises for new plantings, or the improvement of old beds.

Unlike most garden perennials the bearded irises can be set out during the midsummer. In fact, they are better planted then than later in the fall, when root growth again becomes active.

No other flower so easily grown as the iris has such a wide range of color combinations. Almost every color, shade and hue is to be found in the petals of this attractive flower. Because of the ease with which it may be hybridized, many amateur and professional plant breeders have been making thousands of crosses yearly, with the result that seedlings have been grown which not only produce taller and better branched stalks, bearing more and larger blossoms, but new colors and color combinations have been also brought into existence.

C. N. R. Operating Revenues Down

The statement of operating revenues and operating expenses of the Canadian National Railways all-inclusive system for the month of June issued at Montreal shows operating revenues were $13,702,244 as compared with $16,091,901 in June, 1937. Operating expenses were $14,472,826 against $15,656,713 during the corresponding period of last year.

For the six months period ending June 30, operating revenues were $82,759,559, against $94,996,314 in the corresponding period of last year. Operating expenses up to June 30 of this year were $88,439,541, compared with $88,328,366 for the similar period of 1937.

The summaries follow:

Flightless Rail Worth $5,000,000

This Rare Bird from South Atlantic Has Never Been Captured Alive—Try And Get One.

Want to try your hand on a treasure hunt, with $5,000,000 as a prize if you are lucky? They say the old romantic days of such expeditions are over — but don't you believe it. True, it's not the doubloons or pieces-of-eight that await the lucky finder. In fact, it is only a bird, and a small one at that. But it's worth, alive, a cool five million. Or so they say.

The bird is a flightless rail, and is found only on Inaccessible Island (there's a name for those with the spirit of adventure!), in the South Atlantic. This rare bird looks like a small black chick and has long, slender legs and short, soft wings.

Mounted Specimen Only
A mounted specimen has been presented to the American Museum of Natural History by the Rev. August G. Partridge, who captured it when he was British Commissioner on Tristan da Cunha, the world's loneliest island. Said the Rev. Mr. Partridge: "A live specimen of the bird itself would be so rare that it would be a good buy at $5,000,000."

More than 20,000,000 pounds of crude rubber was shipped into Argentina last year.

What Science Is Doing

Synthetic Vitamin E

Vitamin E, the factor in nutrition that controls fertility and the ability to carry the young to maturity and birth, has been made synthetically by Dr. Oliver H. Emerson, of the Institute of Experimental Biology, University of California, working in the research laboratories of Merck & Co., at Rahway, N.J. This is the vitamin whose existence in wheat germ oil and in lettuce was demonstrated by Dr. Herbert M. Evans in his research at the University of California.

Useful In Pellagra

Discovery of a new drug which, it is hoped, will assist materially in the treatment of sufferers from pellagra, (a chronic disease due to diet deficiencies), was disclosed at London, England, last week, by chemists who have been experimenting for years on the compound derived from ordinary smoking tobacco.

Tablets containing a drug which is named "nicotine acid" have been found useful in making good deficiencies of diet that cause many cases of pellagra in both the south of the United States and southern European cities.

Trips To The Moon

Regular high-powered rocket service to the moon may be expected in the "comparatively near future" if scientists continue to increase their knowledge as they have in recent years, Dr. Peter M. Milliman, A.M., Ph.D., told a Kiwanis club meeting in Toronto last week.

"Rocket trips to the moon are much more feasible today than was the invention of television 100 years ago," Mr. Milliman said.

Wind In The Stratosphere

Wind speeds in the stratosphere, one of the "great unknowns" of the weather, register themselves on a new radio direction finder at the California Institute of Technology.

The finder is an automatic weather-man, who sits on a roof and records the vertical and horizontal angle of radio balloons such as the U.S. weather bureau is sending into the stratosphere to report temperature, humidity and pressure.

Little has hitherto been known about stratosphere and upper air currents.

New Ancestor of Man

Dr. Robert Broom, South African scientist, reports the discovery of a fossilized anthropoid which he claims is the nearest approach to an ancestor of man yet uncovered. The anthropoid's remains were found among a deposit of bones at Breccia in the Sterkstroom district.

"The face is unlike that of a gorilla, being remarkably flattened and the muzzle very short," Dr. Broom said. "The ear region and the hinge region of the lower jaw are remarkably human, though very much larger."

"The skull though not quite complete shows everything except the size of the brain. Half of the face is preserved with the whole lower half of the left side of the skull showing, including the cheek arch, ear cavity and articulation of the jaw."

"We have a practically complete palate with most of the teeth and a nearly complete lower jaw," he said.

Canada's Maternal Deaths Skyrocket

Higher Than Other Countries Of Equal Standards—Remedial Steps to Be Suggested in Near Future.

The new Child and Maternal Hygiene Division of the Department of Pensions and National Health is already making progress with a survey to determine factors contributing to Canada's high infant and maternal mortality rate. When the survey is completed, it will suggest remedial steps its findings indicate. Canada's death rate is admittedly higher than it should be, and is poor in comparison with two or three other countries of comparable national stock and condition of life, officials here admit. The child and maternal mortality rate, in particular, is above that of some other countries where vigorous methods have been employed to assure the baby a safe start in life and to also make maternity relatively safe.

Highway Lighting System Advocated

Suggested Plan Said To Be Cheaper Than Present System of Road Illumination in Ontario.

Recommended by Hon. N. O. Hipel of Preston, Speaker of the Ontario Legislature, a new improved system of highway lighting is now under consideration by the provincial Department of Highways and the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

For Safer Driving

The system will be installed on the new Preston-Galt double highway if costs are found to be favorable with the present highway lighting system. The new lighting plan, which it is claimed will make safer driving and eliminate eye strain, will embody underground wiring and the elimination of poles. It will revolutionize the system at present used on provincial highways and will be somewhat similar to that used on certain highways in France. Under the plan a lighting unit of portable type three feet high along the highway, with lights at various locations will be provided. It is believed that the cost will be lower than the present overhead system.

Many Old Laws Are Still Valid

Canadian Cities Have Ancient Ordinances On Their Books That are Rather Laughable.

Every motorist in Vancouver is liable to arrest but it took an inquiring reporter to find it out. A study of city by-laws showed one directing traffic to keep to the left had never been repealed. Vancouver has been "keeping to the right" for 18 years!

Cows, Pigs Barred

If you must drive your cows or pigs along the streets of Ottawa it is as well to keep them off Metcalf street. An ancient city by-law, enacted when Ottawa was small and animals on the street were common, made it an offence to drive them along this central thoroughfare.

Metcalf was the first Ottawa street to be paved with asphalt and the city fathers of that day were so proud of it they decided to reserve it for human beings and horses. The by-law is still in effect.

Tough On Pedestrians

Halifax has its own group of old statutes that have never been repealed and nimble pedestrians, although unaware of it, were also breaking the law every time they jumped to escape being hit by a vehicle on the streets.

A city ordinance, never repealed, forbids the performances of "Rope walking or any other gymnastics or athletic feat on the streets." Apparently the law was enacted when a patent medicine vendor, to attract business stretched a rope across the street and walked across it.

A section banning imbeciles from walking on the streets on Sunday is also still on the books.

Beautification Of Ottawa Begins

Under Supervision of Paris Architect The Long Range Plan Is Going Forward

Jacques Greber, Parisian architect, famous on two continents for his town-planning, arrived last week in Ottawa to find work well started on the long range plan for beautification of the national capital he submitted to the Government six months ago.

Chief architect for the 1937 Paris Exposition and now consultant in the creation of New York's 1939 World Fair building construction, Mr. Greber arrived to discuss further details of the Ottawa improvement plans.

Central feature of Mr. Greber's plan for Ottawa is the site of the National war memorial located on the plaza over the Rideau Canal. Since his last visit the Post Office building has been levelled and the work is now progressing behind a high fence to prepare the base for the memorial.

"And now, my bred'ren," he said, "next Sunday I will speak to you upon the condition of the church and my topic will be The Status Quo."

"Well, Deacon," rejoined the parson, "dat's Latin for we's in a devil of a fix."

The student walked into class wearing a coat which truly outdid Joseph's. The clash of colors almost made a noise. He just could not have hoped to get by without some comment but perhaps nothing like what he actually did get from one of those ever present back-of-the-roomers:

"Say, that's the first time I've ever seen a sunset with buttons."

He — "You've been out with worse looking fellows than I am, haven't you?"

She did not reply.

He — "I said, you've been out with worse looking fellows than I am, haven't you?"

She — "I heard you the first time. I was trying to think."

Law on Shooting Migratory Birds, Issued for Quebec

Quebec—(Northeastern district)—Situating east of the counties of Portneuf, Lavolette, Lotbiniere, Megantic, Frontenac and north of latitude 49 degrees north, to the western boundary of the province, the open season for ducks and geese will be from September 1st to October 31st.

In that part of Quebec west and south of the above district, open season for ducks and geese will be from September 15 to November 14.

The open season for woodcock and Wilson's or jacksnipe will be from September 15th to November 15th.

Bag limits:—Ducks 12 in any day, geese (other than brant) five in any day, rails, coots and gallinules 25 in any day, in the aggregate, Wilson's or jacksnipe 25 in any day, woodcock eight in any day, and not more than 25 woodcock, 150 ducks, or 50 geese (other than brant) in one season.

Wheat Yield May be High

Western Canada can still harvest a wheat crop of 300,000,000 bushels and, if the present excellent conditions in Alberta are maintained, the final yield might easily reach 325,000,000 bushels, the fifth Winnipeg Free Press crop survey said recently.

The report continues: "A sharp recession has occurred in Saskatchewan conditions since the last report three weeks ago with rust, hail and grasshoppers taking a heavy toll. It would appear that Saskatchewan's crop will fall below the 10-year average. "Crops in Manitoba have been aided by beneficial showers and conditions have been maintained or improved. "Present prospects in Alberta point to the best since 1932 when 167,000,000 bushels were harvested."

The condition of the Spring wheat crop in Canada on July 31 showed a decline of nine points since June 30, says a crop report issued Thursday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The condition figure was 82 percent, of the long-time average yield per acre compared with 91 percent, a month ago.

This figure was however, greatly in excess of the 35 percent, at July 31 last year.

Coarse grains likewise showed small declines in condition during July; but for Canada generally, they were showing greatly improved prospects when compared with the condition for the same period of 1937.

Horse Racing Featured at Ottawa Exhibition

Five full days of harness horse racing are programmed for this year's Ottawa Exhibition which is being held from August 22nd to August 27th inclusive. The racing dates are August 23rd to 27th and one of the finest cards ever run off on the dirt track in front of the grandstand is being drawn up. Entries positively close on Aug. 18th at 9 p. m., eastern daylight time and owners are urged to have their entries filed on or before that date with the secretary in the Exhibition offices, Journal Bldg.

A feature of this year's race program will be the driving race for ladies. This event will be run on the last day of the Exhibition for a $200.00 purse. The classes will be the 2.17 to 2.22 pace and trot. The lady attaining highest in the summary will receive a gold watch.

On Tuesday, the opening day of the racing, the events will be the 2.30 pace, open only to horses owned within 100 miles of Ottawa, and the 2.14 pace. Both events are for purses of $300.00. On Wednesday the three-year-old pace and the 2.25 pace and trot for stakes of $500.00 will be run off. Thursday will see the 2.17 pace and the 2.16 pace for $300.00 purses. On Friday the 2.22 pace will be run for a $300.00 purse, to be followed by a gentlemen's road race, one mile heats. Amateur drivers will be up and owners must reside within 100 miles of Ottawa. The race will be run on the three heat plan. Hobbles will be barred.

In previous years the racing has been confined to four days but the sport, fast becoming more popular with exhibition patrons, has been extended another day this year. Some splendid racing may be assured, with the usual thrills.

Should We Raise Horses?

With the activities of the season it is opportune to analyse the horse power available on each farm, what it will be next year and the next few years. According to the Dominion Live Stock Service, the horse industry in Canada suffered a steady decline in population of almost half a million, or 14.1 per cent from 1926 to 1936. The United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports a total decline of 28 per cent for the corresponding period. In Quebec the horse population was 368,590 against 266,600 in 1935, or a decrease of 22.2 per cent for the same period.

While it is known that more colts have been raised during the last few years, states J. A. Ste. Marie, Dominion Experimental Farm, Lennoxville, yet the average age of the horses at present is high, and it is safe to assume that the horses will continue to rise in price for a few years. Therefore, whoever is in need of horses should give due thought to this question.

The point often discussed is: Who should raise horses? In the writer's opinion, every farmer should aim to raise at least enough horses to take care of his needs, and others with the necessary facilities would find it an interesting line to intensify on their farms.

The most important consideration is to choose the soundest and most likely mare available and breed her to the best stallion in the district, keeping in mind the endeavor to raise a colt that will meet the market demand when offered for sale.

The raising of horses is like any other enterprise. It is the study and the application of the details that will lead to success. Many foals would be saved if more were known of the details of procedure, particularly at foaling time. Farmers may secure such information from the nearest agricultural office.

Summer Care for Brood Sows

An abundance of good pasture during the summer greatly reduces the cost of maintaining brood sows. Crops such as rape or clover supply needed materials, vitamins and other needed nutrients. The exercise obtained in grazing also contributes in small measure to the general health of the breeding stock, with consequent beneficial results at farrowing time.

Sows raising only one litter per year need but little grain after the pigs are weaned, if good pastures are provided. While it is a mistake to allow sows to become too fat, it is equally unwise to allow them to become too thin. Enough grain should be given to keep the sows in thrifty condition, and in any event should get some grain such as a mixture of ground oats, ground barley and middlings, supplemented with skim milk or fish meal for two or three weeks before breeding time in the fall. Sows raising two litters per year naturally require more feed than those raising only one, but if early spring and fall litters can be accommodated, the average cost of rearing pigs to weaning age will be lower if two litters are raised.

Market hogs make faster gains when confined to a pen, but sow pigs which are to be reserved for breeding, should be given good pasture to ensure good vigorous breeders. They should be fed liberally to ensure satisfactory growth when they are on pasture, but if their yard is small and the gilts get only a limited amount of exercise, heavy feeding should be avoided.

Sanitation For Poultry

Hygiene and sanitation are factors as important to the poultry flock as good stock, clean water proper feed and range. Failure to maintain clean and sanitary surroundings is frequently the weak spot in poultry management. Cleanliness is essential, as high mortality, and reduced egg production follow disease and impaired vitality. To ensure healthy surroundings remove droppings daily and scatter an absorbent such as land plaster over the dropping boards. Renew litter before it becomes too dirty, and supply clean water in clean vessels; disease may spread rapidly through the medium of dirty water or containers.

At least once a year, with a hoe and broom, scrape and sweep clean the floors and walls of the poultry house, removing dust and cobwebs, and if running water is available use the hose at high pressure. Paint roosts and supports with a good coal-tar disinfectant, full strength, and spray frequently with a solution of the same product according to the instructions of the manufacturer. The range also demands its share of precaution. Gravel or sandy loam provide the best sanitary conditions and is easily worked with a one-horse plough. All range and yards should be ploughed and cropped yearly and seeded with a quick-growing crop. Sudan grass is palatable and greatly relished. To ensure a good supply, it is well to cut Sudan when about six inches high before allowing the birds access to the yards or range. Ideal sanitary conditions are supplied with a two or three year range rotation; a hoed crop intervening in the three year rotation provides additional protection against parasites that flourish in contaminated soil.

When the infestation of perennial weeds has spread over a large area, cultural and cropping methods have to be relied upon for their eradication. It is advisable, however, to use sodium chlorate for the eradication of small patches of perennials.

The latter half of the growing season is a good time to make an attack on perennial weeds. There is not quiet the same rush of work then, as in the spring of the year, and the weather is usually more favorable for the destruction of perennials, particularly couch grass. The roots of this weed are killed by a few days' exposure during dry, warm, weather and since couch grass is a shallow-rooted weed, a large percentage of its roots can be brought to the surface by cultivation.

Another advantage in favor of killing weeds in the latter half of the growing season, is that it permits the growth of an early crop such as hay or oats cut for green feed, before the treatment commences; or the land may be used for pasture during the time of the year when pasture is most productive.

A partial summer-fallow consists of ploughing in midsummer followed by cultivation to keep down weed growth during the remainder of the growing season. This treatment should not be commenced later than August 1, because it takes about three months of cultivation each time any top-growth appears to exhaust the food reserves stored in the

And pray to God each day,
And when He calls us home to you
Your smile will guide our way.
Sadly missed by

In loving memory of Mrs. Samuel
Hayes, who passed away August 17th,

We will remember you.
SISTER MARTHA, and
SAMUEL HAYES and FAMILY

In loving memory of my dear brother
John A. Murphy who departed this life August 16, 1937.

My heart still clings to a memory dear
Of one who was called to rest,
And the one that thinks of him tonight
Is the one who loved him best.
Tis not the tears at a moment shed
That tell of the love for the soul that fled,
But the tears through many a long night
wept,
And the sad remembrance so fondly
kept.
Sister, MRS. S. HORNER.

TEXAS GUNS . . . by L. P. Holmes

CHAPTER XXII

Something struck him low on the left side, burning across his ribs like a white hot iron. It spun him half about but he steadied and drove two quick shots in return, holding low down and between the crimson arcs of flame which spat at him. There was a cough, a gurgle and the thud of a falling body.

"Johnny," bawled Delevan. "Yuh got him—yuh got him!"

In the rear of the house Pink Crosby's Winchester was crashing in steady cadence, while outside the yell had doubled in ferocity and the gunfire rolled to a shattering, sustained roar.

There came a rustle of skirts and Ronny's voice, fearful and broken carried through the dark.

"Johnny—dad—where are you?"

"We're all right child," boomed Delevan. "You keep down—down—do you hear. Lay on the floor."

But Ronny did nothing of the kind. She stumbled through the blackness until her hands rested on Johnny. She felt the warm stickiness of blood running down his side.

"Johnny!" she gasped. "You're hurt, you're hurt! Oh—dad—he's falling!"

A Little Dizzy

Johnny was not exactly falling but he was slumping slowly downward, his shoulders against the wall.

"I'm a' right," he muttered hoarsely. "A'right—just a little dizzy. A little dizzy."

He ended up finally, half lying, half sitting against the wall. Ronny crouched beside him, her arms about him fiercely. She was sobbing and praying at the same time.

Abruptly he stiffened.

"Listen!" he gasped. "Listen—I hear 'em—I hear 'em. Texas guns—Texas guns! Hear 'em roar will yuh? It's Tex—it's Tex. The ole gray wolf's come to look after his cub. Now Spelle—darn yuh—here's where yuh—get—yore—needin's."

So saying, Johnny slumped forward, silent—inert.

Late on the following afternoon, Johnny opened a pair of lackluster eyes and stared about him. Immediately a slow grin wreathed his pale face. Stooping above him was the care lined visage of his old partner.

"Tex," murmured Johnny. "Tex—yuh came in time. I knew it was you. I heard 'em roar—those Texas guns."

"Yuh danged young hellion," murmured Tex. "Yuh didn't leave much fer Utah and Al and me to finish."

"But yuh got Spelle?" protested Johnny.

"Nope—not us. You got him."

"I did? I don't get'cha."

"Son, yuh shore did. He was layin' jest outside that front window on the porch with a .45 between his eyes. An' that thievin' four-fingered, half-breed son o' his was the two gun man yuh downed

Fashion Flashes

Dirndls are favorite costumes for young spectators everywhere.

Crinkled seersucker makes a one-piece suit, which rolls into a ball the size of a kerchief when it's not being worn.

A two-piece play suit is of white rayon with tailored jacket blouse worn outside the shorts.

There are some large hats this summer but more small in white or gay light colors with frivolous veil, flower or feather trimmings, including considerable ostrich.

Fashionable footwear accents high-heeled sandals designed to cover most of the toe and the vamp but open at the sides, with straps joining vamp to heel.

Stiebel reports success with full-skirted black chiffon dresses; also with full-skirted printed crepe dresses, the last under fitted matching jackets.

Natural, in linen, is another rival (besides prints and pastels) of white for spectator sports styles.

Short woollen jackets—bolero, waist-length box, and fitted hip-length—are worn instead of separate coats, with printed or monotone frocks.

The vogue for flowered toques continues, establishing acceptance of formal fashions for summer.

Peasant styles replace nautical themes for informal sportswear.

Full-gathered and pleated skirts in vivid colored cottons, printed or plain seen in garden and beach wear.

At formal dinners, the question of rank in the seating arrangement is not always without rancor.

Exciting Young Hat Fashions

Such Fun to Sew . . . One Pattern!

By LOUISE LENNOX

Four important hats . . . that will lift your morale . . . make you feel and look young. The peasant hats are indispensable for country or beach wear made of gay cottons as calico, chintz, peasant prints or bright solid colors. Dazzling white linen, sharkskin or pique, peasant cotton print, natural crash, denim, percale print, calico print, etc., there's a nice choice of fabrics for the off-the-face "baby" bonnet style. The "gnome" hat is incredibly flattering and versatile. The crown may be adjusted into so many different ways. You can make it of solid colored or of a gay print crepe silk, of snowy white or pastel crepey cotton or of a calico, Mexican or peasant print cotton. These little hats are such fun to sew and take just the minimum of material. You'll want half a dozen of them.

Style No. 2759 includes all four models and is designed in one size. For material requirements see pattern envelope.

Send fifteen cents (15c), (coin is preferred) for pattern to Peerless Patterns, Room 421, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size you wish.

WITH FRESH PEACHES

Are you wondering how to serve the juicy, ripe peaches which are on the market now? First serve sliced peaches with cream and then try these two recipes for fresh peaches.

A clever "upside down" cake makes a complete dessert because it includes both fine fruit and tender cake in perfect combination. Of course you can't make it from any standard cake recipe because the flour and shortening used would make it too crumbly.

The recipe given here has been carefully tested to give a perfect upside down cake. The flour specified is the very finest winter wheat flour and its delicate gluten will give a fine-textured, light cake.

PEACH UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

1 1/4 cups sifted cake flour
1 1/4 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup granulated sugar
4 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
4 tablespoons soft butter or other shortening
1 egg, well beaten
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups sliced peaches.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and granulated sugar, and sift together three times. Add butter. Combine egg, milk and vanilla. Add to flour mixture stirring until all flour is dampened; then beat vigorously 1 minute.

Melt 4 tablespoons butter in 8 x 8 x 2 inch pan or 8-inch skillet, over low flame. Add brown sugar (1/4 teaspoon nutmeg may be mixed with brown sugar, if desired); stir until melted. On this arrange peach slices. Turn batter over contents of pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 50 minutes, or until done. Loosen cake from sides of pan with spatula or broad blade knife. Serve cake upside down with peaches on top. Garnish with whipped cream.

PEACH DELIGHT

1/2 cup water
1 cup peach juice
1-3 cup quick-cooking tapioca
1-3 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
6 halves (3 peaches) forced through sieve
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 egg white, stiffly beaten.

Place water and peach juice in top of double boiler; bring to boil over direct heat. Combine dry ingredients; add to liquid and bring to brisk boil, stirring constantly. Place over rapidly boiling water and cook 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour small amount over egg yolk; return to double boiler and cook 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from boiling water; add peaches, rind, and fruit juice. Fold in egg white. Chill. Mixture thickens as it cools. Serves 6.

Should We Dye Our Gray Hair?

That's the Question — Sometimes Gray Locks Are More Becoming Than the Original Shade.

It's all very well for the 25-year-old to say, "I'll never dye my hair," or "I think gray hair is beautiful, and why in the world do women hate it?" But it is true that the day a woman notices that she has not just gray hairs, but gray hair, there is an important decision to be made.

Job For An Expert

In the first place, hair dyeing is a job for an expert — not an amateur. One should go to a very good beauty shop, put herself in the hands of an experienced operator, insist that the graying locks be dyed to match exactly the hairs that are not yet white. It is a mistake for a woman whose brown tresses are streaked with gray to have her hair dyed red, or black, or blonde. When the job is finished, her hair should be simply brown (as it once was) instead of brown and gray.

Only She Can Decide

However, if a woman holds a job where a youthful appearance is an advantage, all of the trouble and expense involved may be very much worthwhile. Or if white hair makes a young woman look more like her husband's mother than his wife she certainly is justified in dyeing it. Perhaps it doesn't. Perhaps it only serves to soften her features, and makes her more attractive than ever.

Only she can decide. And if her decision is in favor of dyeing, she need never be ashamed to admit it. Any beauty routine that makes for a lovelier appearance and more happiness is worth a trial.

Household Hints

Your mattress will be much easier to turn if you cut a yard of wide tape into four and sew a "handle" to each corner.

When washing woollen sweaters pull gently into the correct shape while damp, then tack to an old sheet. This can be pegged to the line and the sweaters will dry in good shape.

Before starting to iron, put all towels and glass cloths under the ironing blanket. When ironing is finished you will find them all nicely pressed.

Instead of tacking a long seam,

Salty Water Halts Heat Exhaustion

Five Grains of Salt Added to a Glass of Water Are A Great Help In Hot Weather.

Most people are aware of the symptoms of heat exhaustion. They are general depression, headache, dizziness, nausea, diarrhoea and stomach distress. In the severer forms muscle cramps occur as well and as a result of a suggestion by J. B. S. Haldane, eminent English physiologist, a group of mine workers were induced to try salty water. The results were magical. There were no further attacks of cramps and much less complaint of fatigue than formerly.

The objection to this form of a treatment is the salty taste. This has been overcome by the use of 5-grain salt tablets to which, as a further improvement, 5-grains of dextrose are added.

In the Journal of Industrial Hygiene for December 1931, are given some interesting data on the benefits of salt taken in tablet form by workers in a large steel plant. There were some 3500 men at work in the plant. In the summer of the year 1927, heat cramps were responsible for the loss of 48 working days among this group. The use of salt was begun in the following year with the result that only nine days were lost. In 1929 the loss was but 4 days and in 1930 none.

The means of prevention of the ill effects of heat exhaustion are simple. Ordinarily the use of 5 grains of salt with each drink of water is ample. Try it!

Tie Up Soap

The elusive cake of soap that often turns a shower bath into a game of hide-and-seek can be kept in plain sight by a length of thick cotton cording, the kind dress-makers use.

Bore a hole in the soap with an ice pick or some such sharp instrument, and insert a good long piece of the cording. Fasten the ends securely. The soap can then be worn necklace-fashion while you are doing your lathering, and anchored onto the faucets while you are rinsing off the suds.

LESSON VII

THE RELATION OF TEMPERANCE TO CHARACTER

(A Personal Aspect of Temperance) — Proverbs 4:10-23; 1 Thessalonians 5:6-8

GOLDEN TEXT—"Wine is a mocker, strong drink a brawler; and whosoever erreth thereby is not wise." Prov. 20:1.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time — Of course we do not know exactly when Solomon wrote the book of Proverbs, but it can be roughly estimated as about 1000 B.C. The apostle Paul wrote the First Epistle to the Thessalonians before 54 A.D.

Place — There is nothing to tell us where the book of Proverbs was written, though, of course, we all know that Solomon ruled as king in city of Jerusalem. The epistle to the Thessalonians was written from the city of Corinth in Greece to the church of Thessalonica, a city in Macedonia, now known as Saloniki in European Turkey.

The major part of this lesson is taken from the book of Proverbs, a book written, for the most part, by Solomon, and completed sometime after his death. The central, fundamental word of the book of Proverbs is "wisdom." "In all its teaching this book takes for granted the wisdom of God, and seeks to instruct men concerning what God's wisdom really is. Man is wise in proportion as he recognizes these truths and accepts them in the conduct of his life. The perfectly wise man is the one who in his whole being lives and thinks and acts in right relationship to the All-wise God."

Wise Instruction

10. Hear, O my son, and receive my sayings; and the years of thy life shall be many. Solomon is here not so much thinking of his own sons or sons according to the flesh, but of all young men, who would look up to him as a guide and instructor of youth. Solomon would have the young man to know that, by adopting the principles about to be mentioned he will prolong the years of his life.

11. I have taught thee in the way of wisdom; I have led thee in the paths of uprightness.

12. When thou goest, thy steps shall not be straitened; and if thou runnest, thou shalt not stumble. By following the ways of uprightness, the path of wisdom which God has marked for us in his word, we have the promise of freedom and liberty in the way that we travel. We do not very often have to run in life; the times when we do are times of crises and these are times of danger. God promises us that in such moments if we are in his way, we shall not fall. The New Testament supplements this promise by assuring us that the Lord Jesus Christ himself, our wisdom, will keep us from stumbling (Jude 24).

13. Take fast hold of instruction; let her not go; keep her; for she is thy life. No man is sufficient unto himself. The Lord himself is our perfect example, and we are to follow in his steps, we are to learn of him (1 Pet. 2:21; Matt. 11:20). The reason why we are to lay hold of God's will for us so firmly is because, if we do not determine to walk in his ways, our whole life is foredoomed to ultimate failure, disappointment and sorrow.

Folly of Wickedness

14. Enter not into the path of the wicked, and walk not in the way of evil men. 15. Avoid it, pass not by it; turn from it, and pass on. Verses 14 to 17 give the picture of the other path, in terrible contrast with the preceding. Righteousness was dealt with, as it were, in the abstract; but wickedness is too awful and dark to be painted thus, and is set forth only in the concrete, as seen in its doers. True, negative virtue is incomplete, but there will be no positive virtue without it. We must be accustomed to say, "No," or we shall come to little good. The Decalogue is mostly prohibitions.

16. For they sleep not, except they do evil; and their sleep is taken away, unless they cause some to fall.

17. For they eat the bread of wickedness, and drink the wine of violence. Every man who lives in sin contributes financially to the support of sinful businesses.

Study in Contrast

18. But the path of the righteous is as the dawning light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day. Here is one of the most exquisite sentences in all of the wisdom literature of the Old Testament. Our Lord said much about the light, and so did the apostles. Jesus said that we should walk in the light, lest darkness overtake us. Paul frankly tells us that we, born again by the Holy Spirit, are the children of light, and that as such we should put off the works of darkness and put on robes of light.

19. The way of the wicked is as darkness; they know not at what they stumble. Wicked things are black things; sin blows out the light in our hearts; a sinner cannot see God, cannot discern the right from the wrong, cannot see beauty in virtue and innocence and honor and uprightness. A sinner does not know where the right road is. A sinner stumbles.

20. My son, attend to my words; incline thine ear unto my sayings. 21. Let them not depart from thine eyes; keep them in the midst of thy heart. 22. For they are life unto those that find them, and health to all their flesh. 23. Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life. The teaching of all these four verses is summed up in the last one. Literally, the opening clause should read, "with all watching, guard," i.e., in every way with all possible vigilance and diligence. "The word 'heart' is to be understood as the word 'self,' and not as indicating a contrast between inward and outward life, for the outward life in Proverbs is treated as the expression of the inward self. The fountains and wells of the East were watched over with special care. A stone was rolled to the mouth of the well so that 'a spring shut up, a fountain sealed' (Song of Sol. 4:12) because the type of all that is most jealously guarded. So it is here. The heart is such a fountain; out of it flow the issues of life. Shall we let those streams be tainted at the fountain head?

Virtue of Sobriety

1 Thess. 5:6-8. Paul's entire paragraph here, beginning with verse 4, has to do with the life that the Christians ought to live as sons of light and sons of the day. While verse 4 is not included in our lesson, it is really at the foundation of the three verses which are assigned to us. Light is always a synonym for openness, frankness, honesty, purity, sincerity, singleness of purpose. As God our Father possesses all these characteristics because he is light, so ought we as his children.

6. So then let us not sleep, as do the rest, but let us watch and be sober. There are logical consequences in our being sons of the light. We show ourselves to be truly such by living in the light lives that are transparently honest and undeniably holy and good.

Sobriety refers to the moral aspect of the life of a Christian looking for the coming of the Lord, while watchfulness has reference more to the mental aspect of such waiting. Sobriety not only means freedom from drunkenness, but includes all habits of moderation and self-control. It does not refer exclusively to the matter of intoxicating liquors, we are to be sober in our amusements, sober in our eating, sober in the hours that we work, temperate in all things.

7. For they that sleep sleep in the night; and they that are also drunken are drunken in the night. This verse principally refers to the facts observable in the natural and physical world, namely, that sleep and drunkenness are indulged in almost exclusively after dark. This is used by Paul as an illustration of life in general.

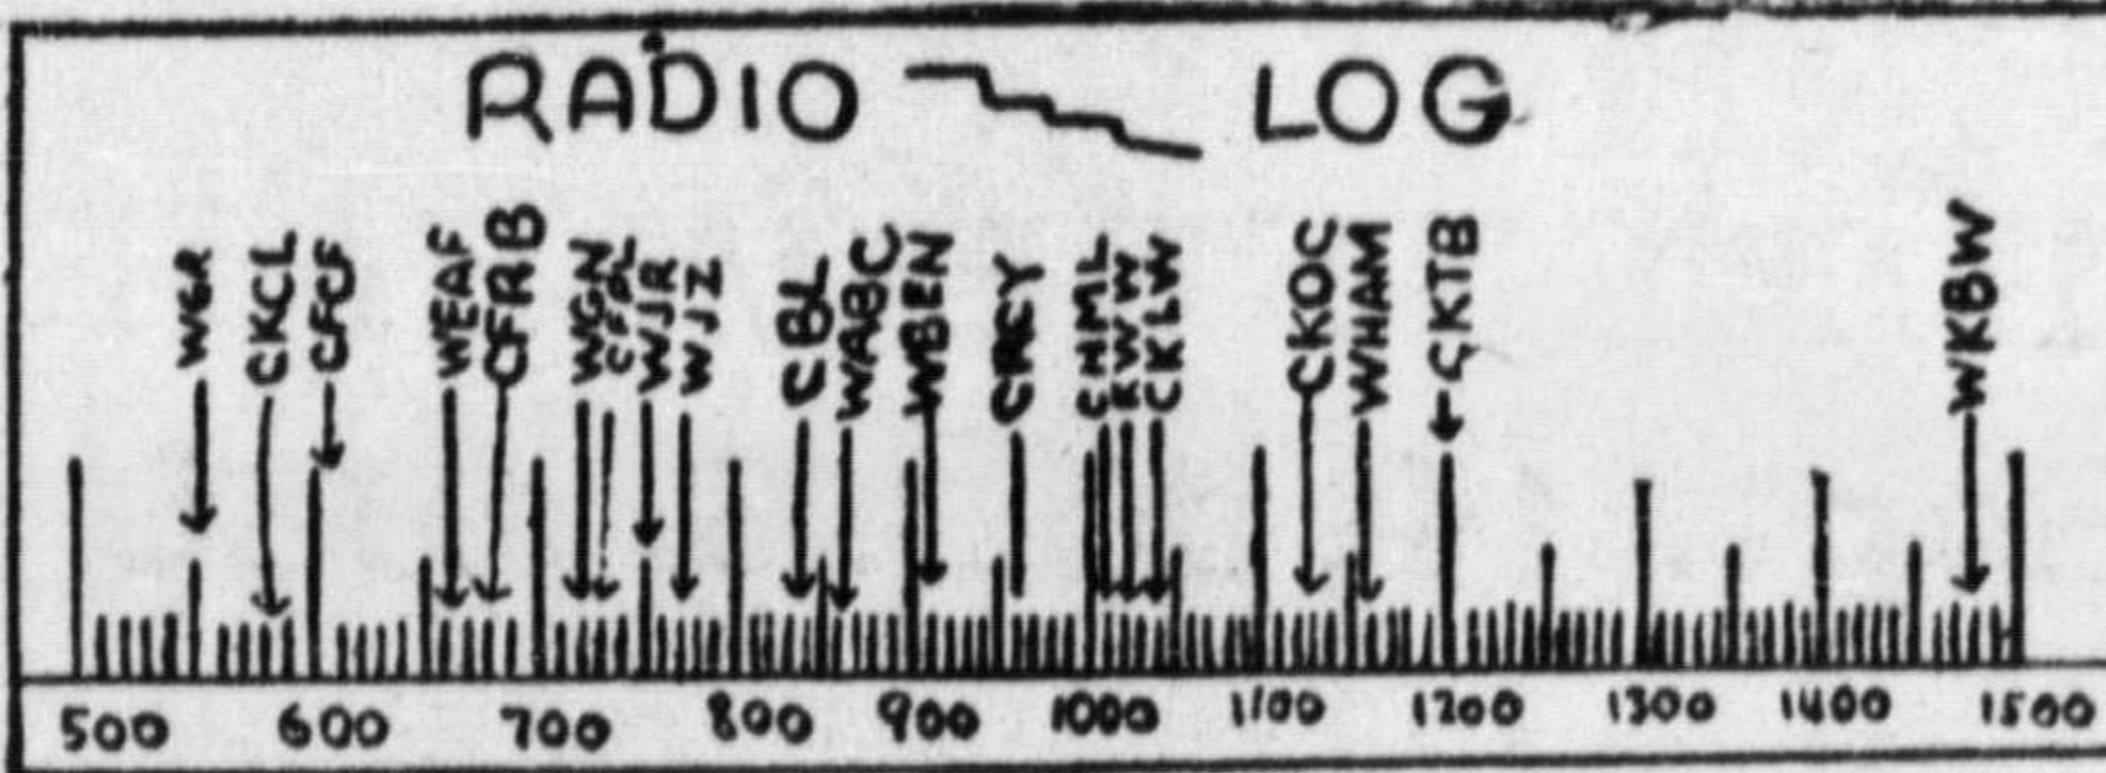

8. But let us, since we are of the day, be sober, putting on the breast plate of faith and love; and for a helmet, the hope of salvation. We are not only to be wakeful, but we are also to be fully armed, soldiers of Christ. The breastplate is that part of the armour which covers the heart. The helmet is a military cap which covers and defends the head, and is here identified with salvation.

With the recent introduction of popular-priced miniature and motion picture equipment for home use, it is felt that radio listeners would like some expert information on the subject. Broadcasts will describe such subjects as "Photography as an Art," "Photographing the Spanish War," etc. In short, it will be a most interesting and informative series.

Arctic Voyage of Priest Unique in Modern Times

With Eight Companions He Negotiated the Perilous Bering Strait in A-Walrus-Skin Canoe—Wants to Prove Theory That North America Was Originally Populated by Asiatic Migration.

Father Bernard J. Hubbard, the Jesuit explorer-scientist, and eight companions "dried out" at Kotzebue, Alaska, after a perilous 250-mile voyage through treacherous Bering Strait in a walrus-skin canoe.

New Tory Organizer

Dr. J. M. Robb, minister of health in the former Ferguson and Henry governments of Ontario, has been named to the post of Conservative party national organizer.

The party's trip, which started from King Island, was the first such voyage in modern memory. It was the first leg of their projected cruise to the barren lands east of Point Barrow.

The "Glacier Priest" arrived just as rescue parties were forming to seek the fragile craft, overdue here after a week at sea. High seas forced the group to seek haven on the beach at Sinrok and Cape Prince of Wales during the voyage, Father Hubbard said.

Eskimos in Party

He is accompanied by Ed Levin and Ken Chisholm, former Santa Clara University football stars, Aolarana, chief of the King Island Eskimos; Patunak, Mayae, Tatyuna, Alliak, and Peter Mayac, native hunters.

Father Hubbard reported members of the party were constantly soaked by spray as the 36-foot skin canoe, powered with an outboard motor, sail and paddles, battled the swirling currents of Bering Strait. High winds slowed the progress of the oomiak.

Around Corner of Continent

The priest said he hoped the voyage would prove that prehistoric migrations from Siberia could have been made in skin boats similar to his craft. Skeptics who have doubted the theory that North America was originally populated by an Asiatic migration have said that skin boats could not negotiate Bering Strait.

From Kotzebue, the skin boat expedition will attempt to reach Point Hope before going eastward "around the corner" to the northernmost settlements on continental America.

spected for his thorough knowledge of law. One of his last court sittings was the occasion of a minority judgement made relative to the appeal of John Comba sentenced at Pembroke, for the murder of Ethel Hedderick. Chief Justice Latchford maintained that Comba should stand another trial. Before his elevation to the bench, Mr. Latchford was member of the Ontario Legislature for South Renfrew from 1899 to 1905. He had the distinction of being a Cabinet Minister during the whole time he was in the Legislature, being Minister of Public Works from 1899 to 1904 and Attorney General in 1904 and 1905.

He was born on a farm at Aylmer, Que., in 1854 and received his education at Aylmer Academy, Ottawa University and Osgoode Hall. ### Log Drive Makes Great Time

Gillies Brothers' Lumber Company, at Braeside, report the Petawawa drive of company logs all down some three weeks earlier than was the case last year. With the men paid off, it was said the rapidity with which the drive was completed was due largely to high water, which was prevalent in the early spring, favorable weather and labor conditions and other contributing factors. The logs were brought down from the Petawawa river in the northern section of Algonquin Park.

Mrs. Lemuel Hodgins Bereaved

Many friends in Ottawa and district will learn with regret of the death on Wednesday afternoon, August 11th, at Ottawa Civic hospital of Mrs. A. Stewart McLaurin resident of the Capital for a number of years and latterly of Carling avenue, Woodroffe.

In her 46th year, Mrs. McLaurin had been in ill health for some time and on Saturday she was taken to Ottawa Civic Hospital. A few hours later, her 10 year-old son, John, was admitted to the hospital suffering painful injuries to his back after being struck by an automobile on Carling avenue near Richardson's Crossing while selling berries. Owing to the serious nature of her illness, she was not informed of the accident. The boy is still in the hospital but his condition is reported to be good.

Born in Eardley, she was formerly Florence Margaret Bradley, a daughter of Mrs. Thos. H. Bradley and the late Mr. Bradley. She was an attendant of the Presbyterian Church.

Surviving in addition to her mother and husband, are six children, Kenneth, Margaret, Douglas, Thomas, John and Audrey, all at home; five brothers, Harold, of Perth; Ernest, of Mansonville; Earl, of Montreal; Percy, of Ottawa, and Clifford, of Eardley; two sisters, Mrs. Lemuel Hodgins, of Shawville, and Mrs. Harvey Westbrooke, of Bradford, Ont.

The funeral, very largely attended, was held on Friday afternoon, from the late home of the deceased at Zion United Church, Upper Eardley. Service was conducted by Rev. S. Farley assisted by Rev. Mr. McLean, of Upper Eardley. As a special selection, Mrs. Samuel McKibbin an aunt of the deceased, and Mr. Harry Jones, sang as a duet, "In That City." Interment was in the cemetery adjoining Zion United Church, Eardley.

The pall-bearers were, Messrs. Peter and Charles McLaurin, Ben Bradley, Charles and Freeman McLean and W. Lonsdale.

Among the many beautiful floral offerings were those from Upper Eardley United Church Ladies' Aid, officers and members of Earncliffe Lodge No. 283, Hazel Rebekah Lodge No. 40, Loyal Orange Lodge No. 70, L. ### Former Resident Takes Many Prizes in Fine Arts

Mrs. A. S. McDowell, of Melville, the largest prize winner in the fine arts section at Yorkton fair two weeks ago, who had the remarkable showing of 17 prizes with 19 exhibits, is entirely self-taught. Mrs. McDowell's performance of gaining 15 firsts and two seconds with all original paintings and sketches, in view of the large entry caused considerable comment. Through having done paintings in oil and pastels for some years, she only entered the field of pencil, pen and ink sketching a year ago.

Mrs. McDowell's prizes at Yorkton were as follows: Oil Paintings—first for portrait and animal; Water Colours—first for portrait, animal, and second for any other subject; Pastel—first for landscape, flowers, and any other subject; Pen and Ink Sketch—first for portrait, landscape, and any other subject; Pencil Sketch—first for landscape, portrait, and any other subject; and first for hand painted cushion.

Mrs. McDowell also showed the same collections of paintings and sketches at Saskatoon.—The Melville Advance.

Mrs. McDowell was formerly Miss Hattie Workman, of Shawville, sister of Mr. Lendon Workman.

Mrs. John B. Corrigan

Following a distressing illness of six months the death occurred at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. Henry Hodgins, Centre Street, Shawville, on Thursday evening, Elizabeth Anne Elliott, beloved wife of Mr. John B. Corrigan, of the fifth line, Clarendon, in her 65th year.

Mrs. Corrigan was a life-long resident of Clarendon, and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alex Elliott, pioneer settlers. In 1908 she married and had resided since on the fifth line, Clarendon. She was a life member of Clarendon Women's Institute and took a keen interest in all its activities and was one who gave much of her time for the welfare of others. In religion she was a member of the Anglican Church.

Left to mourn her loss besides her husband are two sons, Tolbert, of Ottawa, and Foster, of Clarendon; three daughters, Mrs. Bert Stark, Mrs. Henry Hodgins and Miss May Corrigan, all of Shawville; also five brothers, Alex, of Austin; Walter, of Shawville; Adam, of Clarendon; Joseph, of Stranraer, Sask.; James G., of Wiggins, Sask.; three sisters, Mrs. Sherwood Wilson, of Birch Hills, Sask.; Mrs. Robert Corrigan, and Mrs. Joseph E. Brownlee, of Shawville, and eight grandchildren.

The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon from the late home of the deceased, on the fifth line, to St. Paul's Anglican Church, Shawville, and was attended by a very large representation of relatives and friends, many being unable to gain admittance to the Church. In the absence of the Rector, service was conducted by the Rev. Donald Andrews, of Charteris, who was assisted by Rev. A. F. Fokes, Pastor of Shawville United Church. Mr. Andrews delivered an impressive address, basing his remarks on the 23rd
