

SITUATION IN DUBLIN STILL CONTINUES SERIOUS; LIBERTY HALL IS SHELLED BY GUNBOAT

Military Capture Sinn Fein Headquarters—American Ambassador Confers With Kaiser Regarding Submarine Warfare—British Suffer Reverses In Egypt And Mesopotamia—Aerial Activity On Many Fronts

London, Apr. 28.—4:26 a.m.—The Dublin rebels have been driven out of their positions in St. Stephen's Green with bombs after sustaining heavy losses, says the Daily News.

Kingstown, Ireland, via London, Apr. 28.—4:55 a.m.—Four hundred Irish rebels were made prisoners when the troops captured St. Stephen's Green and drove them out with bombs.

The situation in Dublin, where the members of the Sinn Fein Society undertook a raid against the government last Monday, continues serious, according to latest advices. The police, according to belated reports, were unable to cope with the raiders and the Sinn Feiners not only seized the general post office but barricaded themselves in Sackville street and dug trenches in St. Stephen's Green.

Advices from Belfast are to the effect that Liberty Hill, the headquarters of the Sinn Fein Society, was captured by the military after it had been shelled by a gunboat.

James W. Gerard, American Ambassador to Berlin, has gone to German army headquarters to confer with Emperor William concerning the reply to the American note on Germany's submarine warfare. Prominent German statesmen, including Vice-Admiral von Capelle, the successor of Admiral von Tirpitz, as Minister of the Navy, already are at the Emperor's headquarters.

Only aerial and artillery activities mark the progress of the war on the European fields, but the British have met with reverses both in Egypt and in Mesopotamia.

In a battle near Quatia, according to reports from Constantinople, a British force of four cavalry squadrons has been annihilated by the Turks, who captured three hundred prisoners besides inflicting heavy losses.

London announces that an attempt to relieve the beleaguered force of General Townshend in Kut-El-Amara failed when a vessel loaded with supplies grounded in the Tigris river four miles east of Kut. The affair, the official statement says, was carried out with "the utmost gallantry."

Airmen also have been active in the Asiatic field. Constantinople claims a British aeroplane squadron raided Quatia after the British defeat and threw bombs on a hospital.

The Turks attacked from an aeroplane an Entente Allied warship at El Kantara and the docks of Port Said. They also dropped bombs on Entente aviation grounds on Imbros Island.

There has been some infantry activity along the front in France held by the British forces, but along the rest of the front the artillery and aerial arms have been the means of attack by the opposing forces. The artillery bombardment has been violent both east and west of the Meuse in the Verdun region. East of the Meuse the Germans shelled the French positions between the Cote Du Poivre and Douaumont.

French airmen have shelled German stations and the Germans have retaliated by attacks in the Verdun sector.

German aeroplanes have dropped bombs on the Russian battleship Slava in the Gulf of Riga and Berlin reports the action had good results. The Teutons also have attacked Russian warehouses at Rzeszyca with airships.

Reports of activities on the Austro-Italian line and on the Russian-Turkish front in Asia Minor front in Asia relate no important actions.

HUN PLOTTERS INDICTED.

New York, Apr. 28.—The Federal grand jury returned an indictment today against the eight Germans recently arrested on the charge of engaging in a conspiracy to place incendiary bombs on ships carrying munitions for the Entente Allies and against Dr. Walter Scheele, president of the New Jersey Agriculture Chemical Company, the alleged leader of the conspiracy, who has not yet been arrested.

RELIEF SHIP COMES TO GRIEF.

London, Apr. 28.—A relief ship sent by the British with supplies for the garrison at Kut-El-Amara grounded in the Tigris four miles to the east of Kut, it was announced in an official statement this evening.

"An attempt made on the night of April 26 to send a ship with supplies for the Anglo-Indian forces shut up in Kut, though carried out with the utmost gallantry, unfortunately failed," says the official announcement.

"Our aeroplanes discovered the ship aground near Magasis, about four miles east of Kut."

KING'S ACTION EXCITES GOSSIP.

London, Apr. 28.—11:35 p.m.—Considerable gossip was occasioned in political circles tonight over an official announcement that King George made a journey from Windsor to London this afternoon with the special purpose of a conference with Premier Asquith and Earl Kitchener and immediately returned to Windsor.

The War Council of the cabinet sat for two hours this morning and assembled again this afternoon for another long session, after which it was understood to have adjourned until tomorrow morning. Whether another cabinet crisis has arisen is not known. It is possible that the King's visit to the Premier and War Minister had to do with the securing of the King's approval of the new military bill. The universal opinion is that there no longer is any alternative to the introduction of a general conscription bill, with possibly a clause giving another month for a trial of a scheme for the voluntary recruiting of married men.

GENERAL PETAIN HONORED.

Paris, Apr. 28.—Generals Petain, Commander-in-chief at Verdun; Balfourier and Claret De La Touche have been placed on the special roll of the Legion of Honor for Grand Officers for conspicuous services at Verdun. The inscription relating to General Petain says:

"A general officer of the greatest valor since the beginning of the campaign, he has not ceased as a commander of brigade, division, army corps and army to give proof of most remarkable military qualities. Thanks to his calm firmness and the skilfulness of his dispositions, he knew how to retrieve a delicate situation and inspire confidence in all. He has thus rendered the country most conspicuous services."

DR. P. V. FAUCHER IN QUEBEC CENTRE

WAS OFFERED THE CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATURE BY CONVENTION LAST NIGHT.

At the Conservative convention of Quebec Centre, which was held in Berthelot Hall last night, Dr. P. V. Faucher, of this city, was unanimously chosen as Conservative standard-bearer for the constituency in the coming Provincial elections.

More than 200 prominent electors of the division were present at the meeting and much enthusiasm prevailed. Mr. Romeo Langlais, President of the Conservative Association of the district of Quebec, acted as chairman, while Mr. Evarise Rochette was selected to act as secretary.

After the chairman had explained the object of the meeting and briefly reviewed the situation, the name of Dr. P. V. Faucher was moved by Mr. Fra. Donati, seconded by Mr. P. Campbell, and the convention unanimously approved the nomination of Dr. Faucher amid hearty cheers and applause.

Dr. Faucher, in an eloquent speech, thanked his friends for the honor which they would confer upon him, but asked for a few days to consider the matter and give his answer. He urged the Conservatives in Quebec Centre to hold fast together and to work hard individually and collectively to help should he accept the nomination to defeat Mr. L. A. Cannon, the Liberal candidate, and he concluded his remarks by expressing the conviction that a substantial victory was in store for the Conservatives in the Centre.

Speeches were also delivered by Mr. Willie Amyot, advocate, and Conservative candidate in Bellechasse, Dr. W. A. Verge, Mr. Honore Grenier, Mr. F. O. Drouin, Mr. Maurice Dupre, Mr. J. K. Leonard, and F. Gosselin, President of the Junior Conservative Association of Quebec.

IRISH NATIONALIST LEADER CONDEMNS THE SINN FEINERS

REDMOND HOPES THEY WILL NOT DASH THE CUP OF LIBERTY FROM IRELAND'S LIPS — WON HOME RULE IN SPITE OF THEM.

London, April 28.—John Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists in the House of Commons, tonight gave The Associated Press a statement concerning the uprising in Dublin.

"My first feeling, of course, on hearing of this insane movement, was one of horror, discouragement and almost despair," said Mr. Redmond. "I asked myself whether Ireland, as so often before in her tragic history, was to dash the cup of liberty from her lips—was the insanity of a small section of her people once again to turn all her marvelous victories of the last few years into irreparable defeat, and to send her back, on the very eve of her final recognition as a free nation, into another long night of slavery, incalculable suffering and weary and uncertain struggling."

Mr. Redmond pointed to the great progress made by Ireland during the last forty years, finally placing on the statute books the "greatest charter of freedom ever offered her since the days of Grattan." "Is all this to be lost?" asks Mr. Redmond.

Referring to the sufferings of Ireland in the past, Mr. Redmond says: "Ireland's Past Sufferings."

"What has Ireland suffered in the past which Poland, Alsace, Belgium, and Serbia may have not suffered at the hands of Germany? And I may add also, that portion of the soil of France, her old friend and ally, which is in the hands of Germany?"

"What has been the record of Germany but the suppression of nationality, of freedom and of language—in short, the suppression of all things for which for centuries Ireland has struggled, the victory of which Ireland has achieved. Take the case of Belgium. Has there not been there the same ruthless shedding of blood of the priests and the people that is part of Ireland's own history? What did the situation demand?"

"Neutrality? That was impossible. Hostility to the just cause of the Allies? Is there a sane man in Ireland who does not see that this meant the downing of Ireland's newly won liberties in Irish blood? Be this view right or wrong, this was the opinion which thousands of Irish soldiers have sealed with their blood by dying in the cause of the liberty of Ireland and of the world."

"That doctrine has been contested only by the very same men who today have tried to make Ireland a catspaw of Germany."

"In all our long and successful struggle to obtain Home Rule, we have been thwarted and opposed by drowning of Ireland's newly won Home Rule not through them, but in spite of them."

Declaring that Germany plotted, organized and paid for the revolt, Mr. Redmond says:

ALLISON WILL APPEAR.

Ottawa, Apr. 28.—Col. J. Wesley Allison, of Morrisburg, N.Y., will appear before the Davidson War Contracts Commission tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

"Blood has been shed, and if Ireland has not been reduced to the same horrors of Belgium, with her starving people, her massacred priests and her violated convents, it is not the fault of Germany."

Charging that certain Irishmen in America had their part in the uprising, Mr. Redmond says that as America is now demanding reparation for the blood of innocent American men, women and children shed by Germany "they are guilty of double treason—treason to the generous land that received them, as well as to the land which gave them birth."

Mr. Redmond concludes: "As to the final result: I do not believe this wicked and insane movement will achieve its ends. The German plot has failed. A majority of the people of Ireland retain their calmness, fortitude and unity. They abhor this attack on their interests, their rights and their principles. Home Rule has not been destroyed. It remains indestructible."

Officers Killed

London, Apr. 28.—The casualties among the officers in charge of the troops suppressing the rioters in Dublin reported officially up to seven o'clock this evening were: Killed, Second Lieut. G. V. Pinfield, 8th Hussars (King's Royal Irish), and Second Lieutenant J. H. Valvert, Royal Irish Rifles; wounded, Major C. A. J. A. Balek, Royal Army Medical Corps; Major W. T. Rigg, Royal Irish Rifles; Major W. S. B. Leatham, Royal Irish Rifles; Second Lieut. J. A. Battersby, Royal Irish Rifles; Lieut. H. H. Thompson, Duke of Lancaster's Own Yeomanry.

London, Apr. 28.—Sir Henry Craik, member of parliament for Glasgow and Aberdeen universities, Scotland, has given notice that at the next meeting of the House of Commons he will move that Lord Wimborne, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, be suspended from the functions of their offices. He will move further that a commission be appointed to examine into their respective offices and report.

AT THE THEATRES

SCENE FROM ACT II, "WITHIN THE LAW."

Auditorium Three Days Commencing Monday, May 1st Matinee Wednesday.

FEW PLAYS HAVE HAD MORE PRAISE THAN "WITHIN THE LAW"

That Drama (not a Moving Picture) Which will be Presented Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday was Designated the Dramatic Sensation of the Year.

Few plays of recent years have been so enthusiastically praised by the exacting dramatic critics of New York and Chicago as Bayard Veiller's absorbing new human interest drama of modern metropolitan life, "Within the Law" which a very strong company is to offer here on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Auditorium.

"This Play," says Acton Davies in the "New York Evening Sun" is set forward on the programme as a melodrama, and the man who writes the advertisement calls it a drama of the minute. It is both. The killing that is done in the course of the narrative is accomplished with a revolver that shoots a smokeless powder and is rigged with a Maxim silencer. When the killer finally has the crime fastened upon him, he says to the police inspector, with the conscious pride of one who has done a good job with a high sense of artistic values: "I guess that's the first time a guy was ever brooked with one of them, and, as the inspector nods, the slayer continues: "Some class, eh?" and strolls off to take his medicine.

"Within the Law" has a story back of the shooting, in which a young girl goes to prison while not guilty, comes out and evolves a scheme for making society "give up" without actually breaking the written statutes. She organizes a group of experts, and what they do to the police, who are powerless to convict them, makes the play.

A remarkable cast for "Within the Law" and the elaborate scenic production which is to be employed here is identical, even to the small details, with that employed in New York and Chicago where this stirring new play was designated the "dramatic sensation of the year."

Tickets are now on sale for all four performances, at 25, 50, 75c, and $1.00 for the evening performances; 25 and 50c. for the matinee.

MAX FIGMAN At Victoria Monday and Tuesday — In — "MY BEST GIRL."

"THE GREAT PROBLEM" AT THE VICTORIA, TO-DAY.

With Violet Mersereau in the Leading Role.

"The Great Problem," starring Violet Mersereau, will be offered for the last time to-day at the Victoria Theatre.

Specialists in sociology have pronounced "The Great Problem" to be the greatest lesson ever drawn from the nation-wide movement for prison reforms. Violet Mersereau plays the role of a girl steeped in crime, born and reared in the sodden atmosphere of the slums—to grow up, very naturally a pickpocket. "The Great Problem" is a photo-play in a class by itself.

CREATORE HAS MARVELLOUS PROGRAMMES

For Grand Musical Festival at the Auditorium Next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Giuseppe Creatore, the inimitable conductor of the famous Italian band coming to the Auditorium the latter part of next week, is a great master in the art of programme making. Local music lovers can therefore rest assured that the Festival of Music opening Thursday evening next will be equally interesting at each of the four programmes to be given in this city. The opening concert, a grand gala at which all representative Quebec is to be present, will be of a varied nature. Mr. Creatore will perform grand selections on "Ernani" by Verdi and "Faust" by Gounod and his principal instrumental soloists, the Signori Demitri, Marcellini, Rossi, Molvasi, De Luca and De Ambrosia, will appear in the famous sextette from "Lucia," which it will be remembered, was one of the great hits when the famous band played here some five years ago. The "William Tell" overture and a military march by Creatore and smaller numbers are also on the programme for the opening night. The second concert (Friday) will be a grand "French Night," the programme including a march "Lorraine" by Louis Ganne, the "Mignon" overture by Thomas, the "Arlesienne" suite by Bizet, smaller works by other French composers and finishing by a grand selection on "Carmen." The third concert (Saturday matinee) will be devoted to popular operatic Italian music of which the Creatore band is an unequalled interpreter. The fourth concert (Saturday night), announced as the "Allies' Night," will present works of the allied composers (Russian, French, English and Italian) with patriotic encores and national hymns. Seats for all four concerts will be on sale Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the Auditorium.

COAL DISPUTE OUTLOOK SEEMS MORE HOPEFUL

New York, April 27.—It was announced at the conference here today of joint committees of anthracite coal operators and miners that their differences had been referred back to sub-committees and that there was every prospect that they would be settled before the miners' tri-district convention of May 2. It was stated on behalf of both sides that the chief point of difference between them—the matter of full recognition of the United Mine Workers of America—had been "cleared up" and that the details would be arranged at a meeting of their respective sub-committees tomorrow morning. This averts a threatened strike.

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR THE SPRING

Do Not Use Harsh Purgatives — A Tonic Is All You Need

Not exactly sick—but not feeling quite well. That is the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired appetite flicks, sometimes headaches, and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble.

Do not dose yourself with purgatives, as so many people do, in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. Any doctor will tell you this is true. What you need in spring is a tonic that will make new blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only medicine that can do this speedily, safely and surely. Every dose of this medicine makes new blood which clears the skin, strengthens the appetite and makes tired, depressed men, women and children bright, active and strong. L. R. Whitman, Harmony Mills, N.S., says:—"As a tonic and strength builder I consider Dr. Williams' Pink Pills wonderful. My whole system was badly run down, and although I faithfully took a tonic given me by my doctor I could note no improvement. Then I began Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and was soon restored to my old time health. I can most heartily indorse this medicine."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HOW PATRIOTIC (?)

To the Editor of The Chronicle,
Dear Sir,—Looking over your published lists of contributions to the Patriotic Fund, one can hardly avoid the conclusion that many must regard this as a "joke" instead of a pressing duty.

Let me quote a few instances from your own columns:—
Chairman or Convener of a War Collection Committee the nominal amount of $10.

Another party reputed to be worth $150,000 to $200,000 owning a $25,000 residence—$10.00.

Another wealthier still—$5.00.

A man whom one cannot encounter on the street cars without hearing of the extensive business he is doing, and who has his own pleasure car—$10.00.

Is it not evident that there is an utter lack of the sense of duty when this most important matter can be so flippantly evaded?

I am, Mr. Editor,
CONSISTENCY.
Quebec, 28th April, 1916.

ASQUITH'S CRITICS WILL UNITE.

It is intimated that Winston Churchill will throw up his command at the front and return to play a leading role in the movement that aims at the overthrow of the present British Government. There is very general dissatisfaction with the Government, and with almost every member of the coalition Cabinet, Unionist, Liberal and Labor. It is felt that the Government has not boldly grappled with the recruiting problem, that it hesitates to adopt compulsion, though compulsion is needed, because of a fondness for old formulae of radicalism. It is believed that the Government is thinking about votes rather than about the war, and that no change could bring a feebler combination to the front. The trouble is that up to the present time the people have not had the opportunity of selecting a successor to the present Government. When an opportunity offered of expressing disgust, however, it was enthusiastically seized, and Pemberton Billing was returned in a bye-election with a tremendous majority.

Churchill and Carson.

The attack of the radical London News, a paper that always opposed the participation of Great Britain in the war, upon Lloyd George has again made acute a Cabinet situation that has been grave for more than a year. It is said that when Sir Edward Carson resigned from the Cabinet Lloyd George was on the point of joining him, and was restrained with great difficulty. Unless the Government adopts some form of compulsion Lloyd George may step out, and even if he had no followers in the Cabinet, there would be outside it a nucleus of a very powerful third party in George, Churchill and Carson. It is significant, as remarked by the London correspondent of the Springfield Republican, that Churchill upon the evening of the day when his leave was up, instead of sailing for France, motored to Birmington, where Carson was recovering from an illness, and spent the night in conference with him. He left for France the next morning. Only extraordinary circumstances could lend an air of plausibility to the theory that men like Carson, Churchill, and Lloyd George might combine to oust the Government and form a third party.

Old Enemies Unite.

It will be recalled that it was Churchill who tried to lend the British army to the conspiracy aimed at Ulster. It was Lloyd George who threatened three years ago to leave the British Government because Churchill insisted upon an increase in the naval estimates. It was Churchill who is blamed for the fiasco at Antwerp and the tragedy of the Dardanelles. Yet it was Churchill, whose quarrel with Fisher had driven the First Sea Lord into retirement, who returned from France and made an impassioned speech, in which he urged that Fisher should be restored. The circumstances, however, are extraordinary enough to justify almost any combination against the present Government. The basis of action of the opposition may not be a common understanding as to how the war should be prosecuted, but a common distrust of Asquith, Bonar Law, Balfour and the other members of the Government.

The Ginger Groups.

This opposition has been already more or less organized in both the Liberal and Unionist party. Each boasts of a so-called "ginger group," which believes that the Government should put more "ginger" into the campaign. In the Liberal party the leaders of the "ginger group" are Sir Arthur Markham. It includes members like Sir William Byles, W. M. R. Pringle and others who, though Liberals, are constitutionally against the Government. There are probably forty recognized Liberal members of this little corps, and perhaps there are many more that would side with it in a crisis. Sir Edward Carson is the leader of the Unionist "ginger group" and the leader of both Liberal and Unionist critics of the Government. There are probably fifty or sixty Unionists who could be counted upon to follow Carson in an assault upon the Government, or some hundred altogether out of a House of 670 who could be depended upon to part with their nominal leaders upon a question of more vigorously handling the war problems.

Lord Derby's Role.

The accession of Lloyd George and Churchill to these critics would be of great importance. They were recognized as the two most brilliant members of the Liberal Government.

Churchill is credited with having had the navy in a state of perfect preparedness, despite the mistakes that he is said to have made while First Lord of the Admiralty. Lloyd George is admitted to have done fine work as Minister of Munitions, and the attack upon him of the London News will strengthen him with all groups but the Little Englander, pacifist crowd. Both men are admitted to have real political genius, which would be of the utmost importance in an attack upon the present Government. If a man like Lord Derby could be inducted to take his place with them and Carson, the fall of the Asquith Government, would be imminent. The hint is, however, that Derby will not openly identify himself with the critics of Asquith, and that he may later on emerge as a sort of compromise candidate for the Premiership, under whom Carson, Churchill and Lloyd George would consent to serve.

MR. MORGENTHAU RESIGNS HIS POST

Retiring Ambassador Will Remain in New York. It is Believed, to Aid the Wilson Campaign.

Washington, D.C., April 27.—Henry Morgenthau has tendered his resignation to President Wilson as Ambassador to Turkey and the resignation probably will be accepted.

It is understood that Abram I. Elkus, of New York, will be appointed to succeed Mr. Morgenthau at Constantinople.

Mr. Morgenthau is expected to assume an important role in handling the financial affairs of the Democratic National Committee during the forthcoming campaign. He probably will serve as treasurer, although it is impossible at this time to obtain confirmation of this report.

Deep regret was expressed in diplomatic circles here today at the news of Mr. Morgenthau's resignation, for he has earned the friendship and gratitude of governments of both sides in the European conflict. As the Ambassador was entrusted with the interests of the Entente Powers in Turkey, he rendered especially valuable services in arranging for the safe leaving from Constantinople of British and French officials and residents after Turkey's entrance into the war. The British government directed a special communication to the State Department, expressing its gratitude to Mr. Morgenthau for the services rendered to British subjects at that difficult moment.

Again, Mr. Morgenthau's ability as a business administrator and financier stood him in good stead in his diplomatic post, for upon him fell the task of distributing funds and relieving the suffering of the Jews and Armenians in Turkey.

"Happiness," exclaimed the philosopher, pompously, "is only the pursuit of something, not the catching of it." "Oh, I don't know," answered the plain citizen, "have you ever chased the last car on a rainy day?"

CITY OF QUEBEC.

City Clerk's Office.

Tenders for Storage Battery Plant for Fire Alarm Telegraph Dept.

Quebec, April 13th., 1916.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Is Hereby given that sealed tenders endorsed: "Tenders for Storage Battery Plant for the Fire Alarm Telegraph," and addressed to the undersigned, will be received from this date to Tuesday, 2nd of May next, 1916, for the supply of apparatus for storage battery plant, to replace present gravity plant, and the complete installation of same, in the office of the Fire Alarm Department, City Hall, Quebec.

The storage battery plant shall consist in storage batteries with glass jars, insulated battery racks of ultimate capacity of 320 cells, controlling switch board arranged for charging, and discharging ground tests, and supplied with proper current measuring instruments, Motor Generator Set, for charging batteries, 1 1/2 horse-power gasoline engine for emergency use.

The controlling board shall have capacity of 16 circuits.

Alternate tenders are requested for 18 and 20 circuit boards.

The City will do all carpenter work necessary for the installation of plant. The installation shall be made by running all wires in iron conduit, and the change from present plant, to new plant, shall be made in such a manner that no portion of the system will be out of working condition for any time. "Guarantee."

The tender shall be accompanied by a guarantee that the complete plant will be the most up to date and efficient possible. That the parts will be of design and workmanship equal to that installed in the office of Fire Alarm Department in Montreal, and that it will perform the same functions in every way.

The tender shall be accompanied by a complete specification and photographs, explaining in detail every part that will be furnished, and what functions it will perform.

The City does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any of the tenders, and the contractor shall pay the cost of drawing the contract, and of a notarial copy for official use.

By order,
AUG. MALOUIN,
Sec. Fire Committee.

OCCUPATION OF FORT DOUAUMONT IS DESCRIBED

SCENE INSIDE THE FORT WAS DESPERATE — DEFENDERS CUT OFF.

Paris, April 28.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—The occupation of Fort Douaumont by the Germans in March, which has been one of the most important successes of the enemy during the long Battle of Verdun, is described to The Associated Press by a French infantry officer in the following words:

"We had to combat detachments of the enemy that had slipped inside the fort with machine guns and a revolving cannon. At the same time we had to watch over a winding ravine opening near the church of Douaumont through which the Germans might get through. We thus had to look two ways, while we were nearly blinded with smoke and with dust raised by shells that furrowed the ground all about. Orders could be heard only a step away in the deafening crashes that were almost continuous. The ground quaked under the concussion. All our defense works were obliterated between two o'clock in the morning and one o'clock in the afternoon when the Germans increased the range of their artillery fire and their infantry attacked the village. We were cut off from all communication front and rear, for every man sent out with information was a dead man.

"The Germans came out of the fort and from concealed positions we had not been able to reconnoitre, and advanced through the ravine simultaneously. The men debouching from the fort were seen first. We hesitated because they wore the new helmets of our infantry. Our commandant ordered 'Don't fire! They are French!' Then he fell with a bullet in his throat fired by the men wearing the French helmets. 'Fire! Fire!' ordered the adjutant of the battalion. 'They are Germans.'

"The loss of our commandant through this ruse excited the fury of our men, already decided to make the supreme sacrifice.

"The battalion had had the mission of defending the village at no matter what cost. They were doubly bent upon it now, as the Germans learned when with several of its machine guns out of action, the company fell upon masses which were menacing the left side of Douaumont. With bayonet and rifle butt our boys opened breaches in the thick ranks before them and strewn the ground with German dead. Resisting to the last man, the French stabbed and clubbed until overwhelmed by the weight of numbers.

"A hundred Germans advanced in the direction of a farm on the summit of a hill 800 yards south of the village. Eighty of them fell on the field under the fire of a single machine gun. The rest fled. That gun continued firing until dark, at the western skirts of the village, decimating numerous groups.

"During the night we reestablished our position facing East, and the Germans fortified themselves in the village. Every attempt they made to debouch during the morning of March 3rd ended in more slaughter. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon our own heavy artillery took Douaumont for target, and the execution it worked there, plainly visible to our men, compensated our reverse of the preceding day. At nightfall two battalions of neighboring regiments lined up for the counter-attack and opened a violent fusillade. Cheers rang through the air from all sides in answer to the order: 'Forward with fixed bayonet!' More cheers and choruses of the Marseillaise greeted the news that soon came back that the two battalions had thrown the Germans out of the village and carried our line somewhat beyond the town.

"Again and again the Germans came back in dense masses, but the line held good beyond the town. In the morning 800 German dead lay in front of our trench.

"The next morning, after the usual artillery preparations accompanied by powerful aerial torpedoes, the Germans attacked the village again. There was a heroic house-to-house struggle of two hours before our thinned ranks were ordered to retire 300 yards in the rear."

"The French officer who gave this description narrated also some of the incidents of heroism which he had observed as follows:

"Quoting unconsciously the historic words of the commander of the guard, Sergeant H... walked up and down the lines of his company during the most critical moments crying 'Men of the... company are ready to die but never to surrender.' His men fought to the last man.

"Private S... face to face with five adversaries in a trench, killed two with bayonet and brought down the three remaining with bullets as they fled.

"Lieutenant L... unable to make himself heard above the din of the battle, circulated among his men smoking cigarette and with a smile on his lips to encourage them."

"These," concluded the officer, "are only examples of a thousand cases of the heroism that characterized the defense of our lines around Douaumont!"

THE GRAIN TRADE

For the last two days, the Quebec Board of Trade has incessantly urged the Government to fix a freight rate of ten cents per bushel upon export wheat over the Transcontinental Railway from Winnipeg to Quebec, contending that the saving of over three cents per bushel, compared with the ordinary lake and rail route to Montreal, would have the effect of diverting the trade to the St. Lawrence route, and of checking the alarming diversion to Buffalo and New York which is increasing every year, and last year took away 105 million bushels of our wheat.

After much consideration, the Government yielded a few weeks ago to this demand, which was urgently endorsed by Mr. Casgrain, and also gave the same rate to Montreal, as to Quebec. Immediately the grain began to come east, and today the elevator at Quebec is full, and steamships have been engaged to come here in May to take it away. So that we may now thank the Board of Trade and the Government or what promises to be the beginning of the grain trade at Quebec, to which we have all looked forward so earnestly, since this great railway was first undertaken.

But this is not all. Grave doubts were at first expressed, as to whether the railway, notwithstanding its shortening of distance and easy grades permitting of heavy train loads, could profitably carry the wheat, all rail, at so low a rate. These doubts seem to have been set at rest. Because the Hon. Mr. Reid, Acting Minister of Railways, stated in the House of Commons, on Tuesday, that this wheat had been carried to Quebec at a profit, although the Montreal shipments had involved a loss, owing to the freight charges having to be divided with two other roads, the Grand Trunk and the Ontario Government railways. Whereas, in the case of Quebec shipments, the Government took all the earnings. If this can be done in a severe winter, with limited and inferior rolling stock, there can be no doubt of the greater success which new equipment and normal conditions will bring about.

This is good news for us, and would seem to indicate that we are now sure of all the grain that this railway can bring us, provided we have storage facilities to handle it. But that is just where the hitch comes. Our elevator storage is only a million bushels, as the smaller elevator of 250,000 bushels is required for the local trade. A week's work of the railway would fill these. What is the road to do for the remaining weeks of the year?

Since 1912, the Quebec Board of Trade have been urging the Government to carry out the advice given by the late Hon. R. R. Dobbell, fifteen years ago, to build ample grain storage at our seaports, and have suggested that storage for ten million bushels should be built at each of the seaports of Quebec, Halifax and St. John, so as to give the railway constant traffic.

The present success makes the wisdom of this advice apparent, and it is most urgent, because the railway is helpless without terminals. We hope therefore, to see a beginning made this year by putting in the first three piers between Lampson's Cove and Sillery, for which the Board of Trade have asked.

COLONEL CARNEGIE STILL ON STAND

CUT ON FUSE CONTRACTS SINCE KYTE CHARGES — COMMISSION WAS ADJOURNED.

Ottawa, April 28.—New agreements between the Imperial Munitions Board, the successor of the Shell Committee, and the American Ammunition Company, the fuse contractors, were disclosed this afternoon to the Meredith-Duff Royal Commission of Inquiry. One of them is a new contract by the terms of which the company secures a further order of 600,000 fuses at $4.30 per fuse. The other agreement, a very significant one, reduces the prices on the old contract, now under investigation, from $3.72 per fuse to $2.34. It had been previously reduced from $4.

The reduction in price was made nine days after the introduction of the Kyte charges in the House of Commons on March 28th, and amounts to $1.38 per fuse. It was the privilege of the board to make the cut as the company was badly in arrears in its deliveries. On April 1st it was behind to the extent of 1,016,066 of one kind of fuses and 833,334 of another, or 1,850,000. The company has not lived up to its contract which was placed with it on the supposed ground of capacity to meet an urgent requirement, and the board, although it had the right to cancel the orders in arrears, waived this right and cut down the prices. The new agreements were executed by E. B. Cadwell for the company and C. B. Gordon for the Munitions Board.

Another feature of the afternoon sitting was the production of correspondence showing that the International Fuse Company also sought a time extension from the old shell committee, but, so far as the record produced is concerned, failed to get it.

Col. David Carnegie is still on the stand and though he has been there three days his main examination is not yet finished.

Colonel Carnegie disavowed any knowledge of the alleged agreement for "rake-offs" by Yeakum, Bassick, Allison et al., as made by G. W. Kyte, M.P., in the House of Commons. He said he had never heard of it in any way either directly or indirectly.

The Commission adjourned until Monday afternoon.

At the close of the morning session Mr. I. B. Hellmuth, K.C., the Government counsel, revealed an entirely new aspect of the old shell committee. From his reading of the papers in the case, it would appear that the body was sailing under false colors, and did not at all represent the War Office, but themselves, and that General Sir Sam Hughes really was the man who represented the Secretary of State for War. The shell committee, not as an administrative body, but as contractors themselves, entered into a contract with General Hughes in his representative capacity. In the case of the original order it was they who made the shells or sub-let the orders. In LIST GROWING STEADILY — CHEER THE MEN IN THE TRENCHES.

There is no doubt that the manner in which the citizens, at least a good portion of them, are performing their patriotic duty in subscribing to the Canadian Patriotic Fund is bringing joy to the Quebec father or son in the trenches, as he receives The Chronicle, and is assured by the list of subscriptions appearing each day that those dependent upon him will be well looked after by those of us who for one reason or another cannot go overseas to help in bringing about that much hoped-for victory for the Allied arms.

Subscriptions such as many of those that have already been announced and the fine donation received yesterday from the Herman Young Co., show the true spirit of patriotism and should cause many other firms to come forward with similar contributions in favor of the Patriotic Fund.

OVERSEAS CLUB BLESSING IN LONDON.

London, April 28.—One result of the war which has brought together millions of English-speaking men who would never otherwise have met, has been the formation in London of the Overseas Club, a non-political society of British subjects from all parts of the world. Comfortable quarters have been provided where visitors are welcome and can listen to the war chat of men from all corners of the globe, Canadians, Indians, Quebec-French, West Indians, Australians, New Zealanders and South Africans. The object of the society is to promote the unity of the British Empire other words, the papers put in by Mr. Hellmuth establishes in effect that they awarded the contract to themselves. This is indicated in the forms of contract produced by counsel for the Government.

WILL INQUIRE INTO WATER PIPE BREAKS

SHORTAGE OF WATER AND INCREASED SCHOOL TAXES DISCUSSED BY COUNCIL.

The questions which occasioned the main discussion at the meeting of the City last night concerned the recent breaks in the water pipes and the increase of the school taxes to 38 cents per hundred dollars.

In connection with the increased school rates which are occasioned by the expenditure of $220,000 for new schools, Ald. Fiset remarked that it was a scandal the way the schools of Quebec are administered. Monumental buildings were erected when more modest constructions would suit the purpose better.

Mayor Lavigneur agreed with Ald. Fiset that the schools erected in recent years were too costly, but he pointed out that new schools had been a necessity and in the past nine years more than a million dollars had been spent. The number of school children was constantly increasing and larger schools were required. Mayor Lavigneur differed with Ald. Fiset with regard to the administration of the schools and thought that the school affairs were well conducted and that all the commissioners were working conscientiously in the best interests of the city.

Ald. Lockwell said that he did not blame the chairman of the School Commission, but the late Mayor of Quebec who was a member of the Commission when the costly schools were erected.

Ald. (Dr.) Dussault, and Ald. Dussault (Belvedere) both defended the School Commission.

Break in Water Pipes.

The question of the recent breaks in the water pipes was brought up by Ald. Verret who remarked that despite the fact that the City had three water supply pipes there was no water in the upper section of the city last Tuesday. There was every reason to thank Providence that no fire had broken out at the time. He said that there was something radically wrong and asked for an inquiry in the matter.

Ald. Madden, Chairman of the Waterworks Committee and Mayor Lavigneur both explained to the Council that some time ago a joint had given out in the 24-inch pipe leading from the 40-inch main to the pipes serving the upper section of the city. The joint had given out at the corner of Sherbrooke and St. John streets near the Normal school, but as the leak at the time was very small it required considerable time to locate the damaged joint. When it was discovered it was repaired and Waterworks Engineer Forrester thought it prudent to strengthen the joint by surrounding it with a steel collar. He had endeavored to have one made during Holy Week, but as the firm of F. X. Drolet was very busy with other matters at the time it was found impossible to secure the collar before the following week. The temporary repairs lasted well until the break occurred early last Tuesday morning in the 30-inch main and when the water was turned from the 40-inch main to the 24-inch pipe to serve the upper section of the city the repaired joint gave out again. It was this second break which occasioned the shortage of water complained of, but both breaks were repaired with all the despatch possible. The Mayor said that he had received a report from Mr. Forrester and was well satisfied with what the engineer had done.

As to the Waterworks Department he knew that there were constant misunderstandings between Mr. Forrester and Mr. P. Casgrain, and in his opinion these two men could not remain together in the department.

The matter will be further discussed at the next meeting of the Waterworks Committee.

Accident at Fire.

The breaking of the ladder at Friday morning's fire on Palace Hill which caused injuries to three citizens and two firemen, was brought to the attention of the Council by Ald. Verret, who said that it was a rather extraordinary thing that the ladder should break under the weight of five persons. As far as he could remember there were guarantees given when the ladders were purchased by the city, and in the case in hand the ladder had either not been in good order or it was not what was guaranteed the city.

Ald. Lockwell, Chairman of the Fire Committee, said that after reading the account of the fire in the Chronicle he had gone to the Fire Station and saw the broken ladder. Deputy Chief McManus and Donnelly both stated that the ladder was in good condition, but was not strong enough to withstand the weight of five persons who came together at the same point. He praised the work of Fireman Floyd, who had sustained painful injuries while rescuing the women.

Budget Voted.

The appropriations for the next Fiscal Year as recommended by the Finance Committee were passed by the Council. The amount is $1,430,000.00.

Telephone Company charged different rates within the city limits, and if the city had done anything in the matter. Mayor Lavigneur said that the matter had been brought to his attention and that he had arranged an interview with Mr. L. Belcourt, Manager of the Quebec Branch of the Company, to discuss the question. A request was received from "La Creche," the Foundling Home on St. Foye Road, asking that the annual Civic grant of $1,500 be made now as they are in urgent need of funds. The communication was referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. John Nelson wrote to find out at what conditions the city would permit him to erect and operate a "Merry Go Round" at Victoria Park. His letter was referred to the Road Committee. A petition was read from residents of Belvedere Ward asking the city to stop the erection of a building on St. Laurent street which would prove an obstruction and a menace. A number of taxpayers of Limoilou Ward petitioned the city protesting against the establishment of the abattoir in that ward. Both petitions were referred to the committees to which they belong.

THE RECRUITING RALLY.

Quebecers have reason to be proud of the proceedings at the Recruiting Rally in the Drill Hall on Thursday night. The speeches were splendid in both form and matter and of a nature to carry immediate conviction. Their effect upon the audience was all that could be desired. But the audience itself was not all that could have been desired. Many were missing that should have been there:—if not in khaki, at all events there to ask for it. As noticed by everybody, the shirkers were conspicuous by their absence, not only from the hall but also from the line of march on the streets. They could not face even the light of night as the brave lads in khaki marched by. They had apparently retired to their Kiel canal, rather than come out to have the finger of scorn pointed at them by the patriotic ladies of Quebec and especially by the wives, daughters and sisters of the men at the front, or of those now waiting to take passage for France. How, then, will they face our returning heroes when the war is over, and what kind of a life do they expect to have if compelled to live after peace has been declared, in a country which has witnessed the sacrifices made by so many of their friends and neighbors for such as they are?

Too much cannot be said for the speakers of Thursday night or for the sentiments to which they gave expression. Both Sir Charles Fitzpatrick and Sir Lomer Gouin spoke with the utmost feeling, and it was certainly not surprising that loud applause should have greeted the former when he said that when the parents of those who slept on the field of Flanders should look around after the war and see those who had not gone, they certainly could not be blamed if they should then feel that a day of retribution must come for those who had shirked their duty. As for His Honor Lieutenant-Governor LeBlanc, nothing could have been more forcible and more to the point than his appeals for recruits, especially when he reminded the gathering that France was drawing on her last reserve, and when he asked all who had the pure French blood in their veins to follow the example of the sister province of Ontario, which had done so nobly in furnishing men since the outbreak of the war. His Honor's compliments to Sir William Price, also drew out considerable enthusiasm.

When we see all the leaders of public opinion firmly united in their determination to prosecute the war to a successful issue, we marvel the more that the general public does not yet seem to have fully grasped the dire significance of the stupendous problem with which the civilized world is faced. It is evident that much more remains to be done in the way of education and exhortation.

THE DESTRUCTION OF BIRDS.

A disgraceful destruction of some of the most welcome and most beautiful of our song and ornamental birds is going on at the present time well within the limits of the city and under the very eyes of the park and city police. The authorities should immediately see that the attention of these officers of the law be directed to this lawlessness, and if necessary, arrest the offenders. It is also time for the officials of the Fish and Game Protective Association and of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to get busy on the outskirts of the city. Robins, which are among the prettiest and most tuneful of our spring and summer visitors, seem to be special objects of the designs of a group of heartless bird catchers and killers, who are just now haunting the Battlefields Park and the other partly wooded portions of the city bordering on the neighborhood of Bergerville, St. Foye and Little River, some with trap-cages, others with miniature rifles and catapults. The law is very explicit on the subject and prohibits the killing of such birds, equally with the taking of them by means of traps, snares, cages or otherwise, under a penalty of two to five dollars for each offence. The prohibition includes the taking in any way or the killing of any of the birds known as perchers or warblers, including king-birds, fly-catchers, finches, song-sparrows, red birds, indigo birds, tit-mice, goldfinches, robins, wood-thrushes, etc., or of kinglets, bobolinks, grosbeaks, etc., and a very excellent provision of this law, to which the special attention of the general public, and particularly of all lovers of the birds is directed, provides that springs, snares, cages, etc., so placed or set, may take possession of or destroy the same." It is sincerely to be hoped that this provision of the law will be very generally acted upon.

Those who seldom pause to reflect upon the beneficial work of our feathered friends need perhaps to be reminded that there is very much more involved in this question of protecting the birds than the prevention of cruelty to the lower orders of creation or the preservation of some of the most beautiful and most pleasing of God's creatures. It is a subject of the utmost importance to the public welfare. Were all our insectivorous birds destroyed we might easily be brought face to face with famine. Their value to agriculture is beyond computation. Their function is to lessen the number of noxious insects to such a level as will prevent them from becoming a menace to human existence, for an eminent agricultural authority estimates that the total annual loss attributed to insect life is no less than eight hundred millions of dollars. In one year it was said that the loss to the United States by cut worms was a hundred millions of dollars. Seventy of these cut worms was fed to a young robin every day for fifteen days. Two parent grosbeaks have been known in eleven hours to make 450 trips to their nest with one or more larvae at a time. Song sparrows, chickadees, vireos, martins and warblers have been known to make forty to sixty trips an hour with their beaks filled with all manner of insects. More than fifty kinds of birds feed upon different varieties of caterpillars; thirty-eight varieties feed upon the devastating plant lice; fifty kinds feed upon the most destructive species of scale insects. One stomach of the yellow billed cuckoo, a Canadian bird, was found to contain 250 tent caterpillars, and another, 217 web worms. Palsied indeed should be the arm stretched out to destroy these feathered friends of the farmer, and to prevent them from living their lives and serving their true ends, which are the safety and the happiness of the world.

AUTOMOBILES.

The suggestion that the authorities should exercise every effort to ensure a better regulation of the automobile traffic is one that will commend itself to the general public. Already there have been several accidents and it is a safe conclusion that there will be many more this summer if the present reckless and lawless speeding is indulged in with such flagrant disregard of the public safety.

It is quite evident that a by no means inconsiderable proportion of those who drive automobiles should never be permitted to do so as they seem to have no proper conception of their responsibilities and of the risks connected with these machines. Even with the most careful drivers the element of danger is ever present.

The laws are there, but they appear to be more honored in the breach than the observance, thanks largely to the influence of some of our more prominent citizens. Indeed, it is quite plain that the local Automobile Club should take a much more active stand in this matter.

On the other hand, it may as well be wise to warn pedestrians that the policy of "safety-first" is the best and that if they wish to cross the street they should use a certain amount of haste and not stand talking in the middle of it or loiter there after getting off a street car. Greater care might also, in some cases at least, be observed by the policemen who have the regulation of the street traffic at busy cross-streets such as by the Merger Building.

The outstanding fact remains, however, that there are a number of automobilists who should be brought to book unless they amend their ways and maintain a better respect for the lives of others.

A French officer writing to a friend in this city gives the following opinion of the behavior of the Canadian troops in the sanguinary battle in Belgium a year ago. This impartial testimony gives us additional reason to be proud of our men:

"Dans la region d'Ypres, ou j'etais cet ete et cet automne, nos troupiers en parlent qu'avec une supreme admiration de l'heroisme des Canadiens le 23 avril, quand les Boches ont use pour la premiere fois de nappes asphyxiantes. Par leur intrepide sang-froid ils ont sauve la situation; c'est une des plus belles pages de cette guerre."

PRESS COMMENT.

300,000 IRISHMEN FIGHTING FOR THEIR KING.

Faith, what is all this bother that belies the Irish name? That says we've turned our backs on right and bowed our heads with shame? Go tell this truth for Ireland's sake, till hills and valleys ring: Three Hundred Thousand Irishmen are fighting for their King.

'Tis true that in the olden days the Saxon sword and fire, Swept through the field of emerald green and slaughtered son and sire; But St. Patrick taught the Irish that forgiveness is the thing; So Three Hundred Thousand Irishmen are fighting for their King.

We love old Ireland's golden harp setting in its green, We love the songs of Tara's halls, the smile of sweet colleen; But to save our sacred liberty from the Teutons' savage spring, Three Hundred Thousand Irishmen are fighting for their King.

When Scotsmen and Australians and brave Canadians, too, Are mingling with Old England's sons to fight for what is true, Sure Ireland will not stand aside, so wide this message fling: Three Hundred Thousand Irishmen are fighting for their King.

And when her fighting blood is up, she spurns the reptile brood That keeps alive the bloody past, the Ireland on the Rood, And with undaunted bravery, she joins the Iron Ring, Where Three Hundred Thousand Irishmen are fighting for their King!

From Belfast Town to Skibbereen, from Connemara's hills To Limerick and Donegal and sweet Killarney's rills, Tell every loyal Irish heart to catch the lilt and sing: Three Hundred Thousand Irishmen are fighting for their King! —B. W. ROGERS TAYLOR in the New York Sun.

The High Cost of Living. THE Government Commission has reported—their 2000 pp. document was tabled in the House of Commons on February the 18th. The Commission finds that there are nine reasons why the cost of living has advanced, and these reasons are detailed. The amount of the increase in the cost of living amounts to about fifty per cent. in the last fifteen years. Where one dollar was needed in the old days, a dollar and a half is needed now; where a two thousand dollar salary was required then a three thousand dollar salary is needed now. This means that life insurance of $1000 should be increased to $1500; insurance of $3000 should be increased to $4500, and other policies in proportion. The cost of living has gone up, up, up! Is your insurance increased? Our aim is to give the largest amount of insurance for the least possible outlay. The Mutual Life of Canada WATERLOO ONTARIO. M. IN AND ABOUT TOWN

EMPIRE THEATRE WILL OPEN SOON

HOUSE IS SPLENDIDLY LOCATED—PATRIOTISM FEATURES FIRST PERFORMANCE.

The new Empire photoplay house situated on Rabrique Street and now nearing completion, will be opened on the 9th May under the auspices of Stadacona Chapter, Daughters of the Empire.

The selection for the occasion is D'Annunzio's Cabiria, the great novelists masterpiece.

The Empire theatre is located opposite to the City Hall, one of the most central points in the Upper Town. It is modern in every respect; comfort and fresh air were two of the principal objects of the builders, while fine lofty ceilings equipped with patent ventilators assure the patrons of a constantly pure atmosphere.

A pretty balcony railed off in the form of boxes accommodates about fifty people.

The comfortable, roomy chairs, well spaced, wide aisles with spacious exits on Fabrique and Garneau street, will be appreciated by the patrons of this the newest, cleanest and brightest photoplay theatre.

A commodious vestibule in the main entrance on Fabrique street will prove a pleasant shelter for patrons of the theatre during inclement weather.

Fifty p.c. of the net profits of the Theatre Company's receipts for the day will be made over to Stadacona Chapter Daughters of the Empire for patriotic purposes.

QUEBEC SEAMEN'S INSTITUTE MEETS

REPORT OF MR. J. THOMSON IS RECEIVED MOST ENTHUSIASTICALLY.

At the annual meeting of the Quebec Seamen's Institute held in the office of Mr. John T. Ross, Quebec Bank Building, yesterday afternoon the report presented by Mr. John Thomson, Superintendent and Secretary was received with acclaim by all present. Mention was made in the statement of the fact that the deficit this year was considerably less than that of last year when the Institute also suffered through a decrease in membership caused by the war.

The officers elected were:— President:—Mr. John T. Ross. Treasurer:—Captain Murray. Superintendent and Secretary—Mr. John Thomson.

Among those attending the meeting were:—Messrs. J. T. Ross, G. B. Ramsay, W. H. Wiggs, G. Moir, Robert Stanley, W. E. Paxman, John Thomson and many ladies interested in the Institute.

The annual report will be published on Monday.

NEW ACCOUNTING FIRM FOR QUEBEC

MR. LOUIS PHILIPPE MORIN WILL OPEN OFFICE ON MOUNTAIN HILL.

Mr. Louis Philippe Morin, son of Lieut.-Col. J. A. Morin, M.D., will open an office at No. 105 Mountain Hill on the 1st of May next and will specialize in accounting, auditing, liquidation, administration arbitration and the organization of limited companies.

Mr. Morin is well qualified for the business in which he is branching out under his own name. Having graduated from the Commercial Academy in 1909, he entered the employ of the Molson's Bank where he was rapidly promoted and later accepted a more responsible position with the Canadian Bank of Commerce. In this preliminary banking training he acquired method and exactness in his work, but as professional accounting afforded a better field for his special aptitude for figures he decided to enter the employ of La Rue & Trudel in 1913 where an assiduous clerkship since that time coupled with serious personal study carried on after office hours amply fit him for the important business which he is opening and will assure him the confidence and the patronage of the commercial world.

GIANTS STILL ON LOSING STREAK

JUNIOR BASEBALL LEAGUE FORMED

LEWIS SAVES RED SOX FROM DEFEAT BY HITTING HOME RUN IN NINTH GAME

Yankees Outbit Boston But Lost in the Eleventh Inning — All American League Games Were Decided by One Run Margins—Montreal Won Victory Over Baltimore in International League.

The four American League contests yesterday were decided by one run, two games going over the regulation nine innings, while the other two were only won in the ninth inning.

The Yankees were unlucky to lose to Boston, Lewis' home run with one on in the ninth inning tying the score, Boston winning in the 11th stanza.

Coombs and Bender faced each other in the National League, but the two former stars of a peerless outfit were hammered hard. Brooklyn won 3 to 3, and Philadelphia is now tied for first place with the Cubs, who jumped in front by winning their seventh straight victory.

Montreal put over a win in the International League, the Royals defeating Baltimore 7-5, scoring five runs in the first inning. Richmond took the third straight from Buffalo, while Toronto lost to Newark.

The results:—
National League.
Pittsburg Victorious.

Pittsburg, April 29—Pittsburg won from Cincinnati, 5 to 1 here today. Harmon holding the visitors 2 1/2 six hits while the local team accumulated eleven. Rightfielder Hinchman made a double play unassisted when he caught Groh's liner and then ran to first before Chase could get back.

The score:— R. H. E.
Cincinnati . . . 100 000 000—5 0
Pittsburg . . . 202 100 007—5 11 0
Schneider, Dale and Wingo; Harmon and Schmidt.

Chicago Tie for First.
Chicago, April 28—Claude Hendrix held St. Louis to two hits today and Chicago pounded its way into a tie for first place in the National League race through a seven to nothing victory, the Cubs seventh straight.

The score:— R. H. E.
St. Louis . . . 000 000 000—0 2 0
Chicago . . . 100 204 007—7 13 1
Sallee, Griner and Snyder; Hendrix and Archer.

Coombs versus Bender.
Philadelphia, April 28—Coombs and Bender, formerly star pitchers of the Philadelphia Americans, opposed each other in a championship game for the first time her today. Brooklyn won 5 to 3. Both veterans were hit hard, Bender for ten safeties in seven innings and Coombs for nine in six innings.

The score:— R. H. E.
Brooklyn . . . 101 120 000—5 10 0
Philadelphia . . . 000 201 000—3 13 4
Coombs, Pfeiffer and Miller, McCarthy; Bender, Mayer and Burns.

Games Postponed.
Boston-New York; rain.

American League.
Eleven-Inning Game.

New York, April 28—Boston made it two out of three from New York here today, winning the second 11-inning game of the series, the score being 3 to 2.

With New York leading, 2 to 0, in the ninth inning, Lewis tied the score with a home run, which followed Hobbittzell's base on balls. In the 11th inning, Hooper walked, took 3rd on Hobbittzell's double and scored the winning run on Lewis' infield out.

The score:— R. H. E.
Boston . . . 000 000 002 01—3 7 1
New York . . . 001 010 000 00—2 12 0
Leonard, Gregg and Carrigan, Agnew; Keating and Numamaker.

A Pitcher's Battle.
Cleveland, April 28—Cleveland won 2 to 1 from Chicago today, scoring the deciding run in the tenth inning. The contest was a pitcher's battle between Morton and Williams. Each allowed five hits, neither gave a pass, but Morton hit a batsman who scored.

The score:— R. H. E.
Chicago . . . 000 001 000 00—1 5 3
Cleveland . . . 000 010 000 01—2 5 1
Williams and Schalk; Morton and O'Neill.

Close for St. Louis.
St. Louis, Mo., April 28—With the score tied in the 9th, Burns doubled to left, scoring Heilman, and Detroit beat St. Louis six to five. Cobb returned to the game today and got a double and a single. His hit scored Kavanagh in the 7th.

The score:— R. H. E.
Detroit . . . 200 000 121—4 11 2
St. Louis . . . 000 112 100—5 9 2
Coveleskie, Boland, Dasso and Stanga, Baker; Davenport and Hartley.

Washington Wins.
Washington, April 28—Washington won from Philadelphia in the ninth inning today, netting four runs from an infield out, an error and two singles of Crowell, who had been sent to

COUTURE PUT OUT IN FIRST ROUND

"COON" CLAIMED FOUL, BUT RIVET'S VICTORY LOORED TO BE CLEAN CUT.

George Rivet won in hurry-up style over "Coon" Couture in the main bout of last evening's program of boxing at the St. Roch's Club. Couture was counted out by referee Montminy, one minute and 37 seconds after the bout commenced. It was to all appearances, a clean cut victory.

Couture was showing up pretty well and had a fairly equal share of the milling. However, he continually left his body open and Rivet led him into swinging for his head and then with his own head lowered beat a rattat-fat of rights and lefts with lots of steam behind them on Coon's solar plexus. Couture went down in a sitting position, and Referee Montminy began to count. Suddenly some one in the crowd cried "Foul!" and Couture seized the opportunity of playing it to the limit. Nevertheless, Referee Montminy saw no foul and counted ten over the prostrate man, while all the newspaper men and Time keeper Sam Murphy, were of the opinion that Rivet's blows were perfectly legitimate.

The bouts were all good ones and there was a fair crowd present. In the semi-windup, Patsy Dillon received the first knockout of his career, after an exceedingly game struggle against Soldier Legare, of the Ninth Regiment. Legare showed speed and cleverness besides carrying a terrific punch in his right hand. Dillon was knocked down in every round but the fourth, and took a severe punishment, developing a "cauliflower" ear. The end came in the fifth, Dillon, notwithstanding his battered condition still plugged on in the hope of scoring a knockout, his only chance to get the verdict, but he walked in to a straight right to the head and went down. He struggled gamely to rise, but failed to respond to the count of ten and Legare's friends carried him in triumph from the ring. Legare surprised the fans, and his showing was impressive. Dillon is not scientific, but he is a mixer, but Legare played him cleverly, and did some exceptionally clever boxing. The soldier should make a good fight if matched with a first-class man.

The preliminaries were full of pep. Young White proved too much for Young Williams, and after some terrific grueling, Williams' seconds tossed in the sponge at the end of the fourth round. Young White is gaining quite a reputation and though his opponent stood up to him for four rounds and had a good share of the milling, the youngster's aggressiveness and persistence evidently got his "nanny," and when the bell rang for the fifth round to commence, Williams was through. White never clinches and fights free from start to finish. If properly coached he should develop into a good little scrapper.

The other preliminary between Gagnon and Letourneau was over in three rounds. Letourneau was not fast enough for Gagnon, who has a real fighting face and a good quick shift of position besides a murderous right. He landed a solid blow with this right of his on Letourneau's ribs early in the first round and this blow practically took all the steam out of Letourneau who went down under a volley of rights and lefts in the third round, and Referee Montminy stopped the bout.

During the evening the crowd was addressed by Col. Tolbot and Major Leo McWilliam, recently returned from Flanders, soliciting their aid in winning the war. Reference to their speeches is made elsewhere on this page.

Mr. Sam Murphy acted as time-keeper for the bouts.

FULTON KNOCKS AL REICH OUT.
New York, April 28—Fred Fulton, of Rochester, Minn., scored a technical knockout over Al Reich, of this city, here this evening, the referee stopping the match after one minute of the ninth round had expired.

Fulton outfought his opponent throughout the bout, and when Referee Bill Brown halted the fighters, Reich was tottering helplessly, unable to defend himself. Fulton weighed 217 pounds and Reich 211 1/2.

Fulton demonstrated that he had a good left which he used frequently.

PITCHING HINTS BY GROVER ALEXANDER.
Don't try to make out every batter. Remember there are eight other players on the club.

Master control, and don't fool with too many freak curves.

Study your batter and never put over a "groove" ball. Don't give him what you think he can hit.

Don't think you know it all—take some advice from your catcher.

A slow ball will fool just as often

WILLARD-MORAN FIGHT PICTURES

FIRST SHOW IN QUEBEC AT PRINCESS THEATRE ON MONDAY.

The Willard-Moran fight pictures, which are said to be the clearest motion photographs of any prizefighting contest yet taken, will be shown to Quebecers at the Princess Theatre for three days running, commencing Monday, May 1st.

Montreal papers stated that the fight was a most interesting one and Moran's efforts to reach the champion's jaw are clearly depicted.

The interest in this bout when it was staged in New York was so keen that Mr. Drapeau, of the Princess Theatre, made a special effort to secure them for a few days in Quebec and there is small doubt that they will be seen by large crowds during the time they will be shown here.

The Emmets will practice tomorrow morning at 10.30 o'clock.

"Ty" Cobb, king of baseball stealers and "Buck" Herzog, veteran infielder believe that third base is the easiest cushion to steal. Ty's reason for thinking so is that runners can take a bigger lead off second than off any other sack. "Buck" says the runner is helped by the fact that the third sacker must take the ball at a hard angle and the runner has more room in which to slide around him.

The Tipperary ball team will practice this afternoon on the Esplanade, at 2.30 o'clock.

This club will play against the Cubs on Sunday afternoon, at 2.30, on the Esplanade.

The Napoleons will practice on their grounds on St. George street, Lewis, tomorrow afternoon, at 2.30, against the team of the 167th Battalion. All players who wish to try out with the Naps will be welcomed by Manager Giguere.

The Red Rose Club will practice on their grounds at Hare Point tomorrow afternoon. Manager F. McLaughlin of the Emmets, has promised President Caron a game at a future date.

President Phillips of the newly formed Junior League, looks for a successful season. Already it is stated several other clubs will make application for membership.

Fred Fulton knocked out Al Reich last night. Just another little boost for Fulton.

The Montreal Baseball team won a game yesterday. You never know what's going to happen nowadays.

The Victoria ball team will practice tomorrow morning. Manager Jimmy Walsh expects to have a full turnout.

Ottawa lost money in hockey. Yet the rink in the Capital was packed almost every match.

The Patriotic Sports Committee got a share of the receipts of last night's boxing exhibitions at St. Roch's Club. Don't forget their euchre on the 4th.

Major Leo McWilliam's appeal to Quebec sportsmen was well received last night. "Leo" was an enthusiastic athlete, a member of the Quebec Hockey Club and extremely popular. "I'm sorry I can't address you in French," he said. "You know I speak only Chaglesbourg French." And the crowd smiled aloud.

Billy Frenzell will be out with the Vics tomorrow. Frenzell says he is in good trim and expects to have a record season no matter whether he's played in the box or in the outfield.

HAS POOR OPINION OF SIR ROGER
Montreal, April 27—Captain J. T. Walsh, Assistant Manager of the Canadian Pacific Steamships, knew Sir Roger Casement very well. He met him first twenty years ago while Sir Roger was a purser on the steamer Matade of which Capt. Walsh was commander.

"When I first met Sir Roger Casement," said Capt. Walsh, "he was a capital fellow, of charming personality, the life and soul of a social circle, and certainly as loyal a man as you could find anywhere. When I read of this madcap affair, I recalled an impression which his speeches had made upon me, an impression of an ill-balanced mind. Remember that he had lived long in the tropics, and that he was a single man, and one may read between the lines.

"When he was in Nigeria, he would disappear for a week at a time. Where would he go? To the top of the mountains of Fernando Po, where lives the boobies, the lowest of human races. There he would remain, consorting with the savages, and then return to civilization. Better for him if he had gone down with the German vessel."

Will be shown — at the — PRINCESS THEATRE
Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 1st, 2nd and 3rd.

SOLDIER SOCCER TEAMS IN ONTARIO

WESTERN FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION HAS LARGE MEMBERSHIP THIS SEASON.

London, April 28—Secretary Chas. Hollens, of the Western Football Association, is making preparations already for the three series of military soccer games. He announced that trophies for these series would not be adequate, and that gold medals should be awarded to the winners in each of the junior, intermediate and senior sections.

Camp mobilization for this district will bring no less than about 13 battalions under canvas in this city, and every district in this section represents a soccer football playing infantry.

The possibility of a military series in that event is most encouraging, and a suitable reward for the champion teams is highly necessary.

Secretary Hollens will approach the local branch of the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association, the Board of Trade and the City Council for financial aid in securing the medals.

Judging from the material harbored in the 14 battalions, there will be at least 21 teams in this district, all playing their games in this city this summer.

The 142nd (London's Own) Battalion has already organized a team and is ready for a senior series.

The 135th (Middlesex) Battalion also will enter one or more senior teams.

The 110th (Perth) Battalion will in all probability enter two teams, as the whole Listowel Junior W.F.A. champion team has enlisted, while Stratford is the home of soccer, and a great many of the Classic City players are with the 110th.

The 11th Battalion (South Waterloo) means that Preston, Galt and Hespeler football players are members of this battalion, and it would not be surprising to see two or three teams at least entered.

The 118th Battalion (North Waterloo) will have one team, and a strong one, as Berlin and Waterloo always had good soccer teams.

The 149th (Lambton) Battalion has three teams, not only organized, but have been playing for the past three weeks. Watford, Theford and Sarnia companies have had early training.

The 91st (Elgin) Battalion will support a strong team, as they always had a good team in St. Thomas alone.

The 161st (Huron) Battalion, recruited from Seaford and Goderich, should have at least one team.

The 161st (Bruce) Battalion, one of the W.F.A. strongholds, surely will have one or more teams.

The 186th (Kent) Battalion, with players from Chatham, Dresden and Wallaceburg enlisted, will have a team.

The 99th (Essex) Battalion has places like Windsor, Leamington and Essex to draw their players from, and where teams have flourished in times of peace, could afford a team in the military series.

The 153rd (Wellington) Battalion, recruited from towns like Harriston, Drayton and Mount Forest, should be heard from when the series is arranged.

The 168th (Oxford) Battalion, recruited from soccer players at Woodstock, Ingersoll, Plattsville and Tavistock, where the old football game always held full sway, should have one or two strong elevens.

"GIVE US A HAND TO BEAT GERMANS"

MAJOR LEO McWILLIAM ASKS SPORTSMEN TO HELP OUT — COL TALBOT SPEAKS.

"All we want to do is to ask some of you fellows to come and help us to beat the Germans" stated Major Leo McWilliam who recently returned home on furlough from the Canadian trenches in France speaking from the prize-ring at the St. Roch's Club last evening to the gathering of sportsmen who were watching the bouts.

Major McWilliam was given an ovation when he stepped into the squared circle accompanied by Col. Talbot, and his opening words were as above. His speech was short but to the point. He told those present that here was a big fight going on in which everyone in the Empire was a principal. "I don't like to ask you boys to do this, but you are needed out there. Believe me, it required more spunk for me to stand up here and ask you come and give us a hand than it did for me to go out and fight the Germans. But, the sportsmen make fine soldiers, and I know that realizing that your country, your very homes and all that you hold dear are in danger you will come forward and help to defeat the Prussian hordes whose inhuman deeds you have already been told of."

"Therefore, boys, I ask you who can to come and give us a hand, we need your help to beat the Germans."

Major McWilliams was loudly cheered at the conclusion of his straightforward, soldierly appeal to the crowd present and Col. Talbot then addressed them in French. Col. Talbot pointed out that the athlete was a most desirable soldier and after explaining that man's first duty was to God and his second obligation to "his country" the colonel told Canada's relation to the present war and clearly showed that the Dominion was directly involved. He told his hearers that though they might think themselves immune from danger under the protection of the British fleet, yet German intrigues and espionage made anything possible. He cited the plots against the Welland Canal, the burning of the Parliament buildings at Ottawa and then suggested that German agencies started the Mexican trouble in the hope of directing the attention of the United States to this country while German-Americans began a crusade against Canada. "It is our war," said Col. Talbot, "and I ask each one of you who is able to do so, to go and help your brothers at the front in the fight for liberty and humanity." It takes fifteen months training to make a soldier, therefore, join now if possible.

The 161st (Huron) Battalion, recruited from Seaford and Goderich, should have at least one team.

The 161st (Bruce) Battalion, one of the W.F.A. strongholds, surely will have one or more teams.

The 186th (Kent) Battalion, with players from Chatham, Dresden and Wallaceburg enlisted, will have a team.

The 99th (Essex) Battalion has places like Windsor, Leamington and Essex to draw their players from, and where teams have flourished in times of peace, could afford a team in the military series.

RING GOSSIP.

The Montreal Gazette says: "Up until the time of the claiming of the foul by Fleming, Wallace had the better of the fight. He carried the fight to Fleming through the greater part of the opening round, and was continuing to do so in the second.

It was almost the unanimous expression of opinion that Fleming might have shown more gameness and continued after he had been given a lengthy rest. Other fighters have

It is now up to Fleming to fight or chuck his "championship" title into the ashbarrel.

"Pete" Scott received the first K.O. of his career the other night, when Johnny O'Leary, the Canadian lightweight champion, put him away in the ninth round.

Patsy Russell would like to secure a return bout with Soldier Loisel.

A doctor who examined Couture, declared that the knockout was a legitimate one.

Legare and Gus Lavigne would make a good mill.

He was a noble lord, and he was in an awful rage with one of his footmen. "It is intolerable!" he exclaimed. "Are you a fool or am I?" "Oh! my lord," replied James, with humility, anxious to appease the great man, "I am sure you wouldn't keep a servant who was a fool."

done so, and the khaki dressed spectators should have inspired pluck. In a bout at Eohmer Park, Joe Jeanette was struck low by Battling Jim Johnson, and when the referee wanted to disqualify Johnson, Jeanette asked that it be allowed to continue, and afterwards earned the decision over him. When Fleming crumpled up, it was following a blow to the solar plexus, the same through which Wallace knocked out Billy Hughes here last fall. Wallace followed up this blow with another and that one was claimed to be low and foul. Referee Moorehouse stated that if Fleming had been struck low he knocked the blow down himself in trying to smother it, while Dr. Wiseman, who examined Fleming, stated that he was fully able to continue, as there was no marks to show that a low blow had been struck.

Eddie Wallace, at least taught Frankie Fleming a lesson in good sportsmanship if Fleming will not admit anything else. The Laprairie boy started by protesting against tape bandages, but Wallace agreed to discard them. Then, even had Wallace fouled him, though it is not certain that he did so, why did he not, continue after resting up a while. From this distance, it looks like the biggest case of "quitting" on record.

"I will remain over in Montreal for a week or ten days and fight Fleming at any time during that period," said Wallace. "I will fight for nothing, if Fleming will do the same, the whole amount of the receipts to be given to some patriotic or regimental fund, this fund to be decided on by a committee named by those in charge of such affair."

It is now up to Fleming to fight or chuck his "championship" title into the ashbarrel.

Traffic Rules for Navigation

MILITIA AND NAVAL AUTHORITIES ISSUE REGULATIONS FOR ST. LAWRENCE.

With reference to the Public Traffic Regulations, issued this date, ship owners and ship agents are advised that they should, as a general rule, time the arrival of their vessels at the port for daylight, and also that delays will be avoided by giving immediate notice to the Chief Examining Officer of expected date of arrival of their vessels, with particulars of appearance and tonnage to facilitate recognition by the Examining Officer.

Necessary forms have been issued, others if required can be obtained on application to the Chief Examining Officer, 17 St. Louis street.

(Signed)

A. O. FAGES, Colonel,
Commanding 5th Division,
J. A. MURRAY, Lt., R.N.V.F.,
Harbor Master,
Acting Chief Examination
Officer of the Port of Quebec.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

Public Traffic Regulations.

Examination Anchorage.

(a) An examination anchorage has been established for the Port of Quebec, situated in St. Patrick's Road, Island of Orleans, and all vessels entering the port are required to communicate with the examination vessel situated in the vicinity.

(b) The limits of anchorage are: Latitude 46. 51. 49. N. A. position. Longitude 71. 00. 00. W. limits: On the North by a line drawn from the above position.

(a) S. 62 E. Mag. for 2,000 yards.
(b) S. 72 E. Mag. for 2,000 yards.
On the S. E., South and S. W. by an arc of a circle 2,000 yards radius drawn from the above position as a centre which is intercepted between the extremities of A. and B.

Notes.

The radius includes St. Laurent. All vessels entering the port are required to communicate with the Examination Steamer, situated in the above vicinity.

The examination vessel may be recognized by the following distinguishing marks:

By Day.

A blue ensign, and at the foremast head the special flag for examination vessels. When the port is closed she will hoist three red balls in addition.

By Night.

Three lights vertically, six feet apart, conspicuously displayed at the end of a yard. When the port is closed these lights will be red, when open white. The above lights will be carried in addition to the ordinary navigation lights.

Masters of vessels approaching the port must obey the directions of the examining officer on board the examination steamer or they will be fired upon.

Restrictions on Vessels Entering or Leaving the Port.

No vessels will be allowed to enter the port until she has received and hoists the special signal for the day or night.

No vessel will be permitted to leave the examination anchorage, once she has anchored, until she has received permission from the Examining Officer. Vessels disregarding this order will be fired upon. No vessels is permitted to leave the port without the permission of the Detaining Authority (Collector of Customs) in writing.

Owners of vessels and shipping agents should inform the Chief Examining Officer, at the earliest possible moment of the proposed movements of both incoming and outgoing vessels, so that arrangements may be made to facilitate their passage through the defences of the port. It should be noted that neglect to forward this information is liable to cause serious delay and inconvenience to the vessels.

Boarding by Examining Officer.

On a vessel approaching the port the examination steamer will close her, flying the Commercial Code Pennant and the Commercial Code Signal in the Signal Book to "Stop instantly." If she is identified, which if she is one of the vessels usually trading with the port and her arrival has been previously notified, will be readily done, the examining officer will give her the special signal for the day or night, putting a pilot on board if necessary, and will then allow her to proceed with as little delay as possible. If the approaching vessel is not recognized, she will be directed to proceed to the examination anchorage, where she will be directed to proceed to the examination anchorage, where she will be examined at anchor. Should a vessel fail to "bring to" when ordered by signal, she will be fired upon.

Pilotage.

All ocean going vessels entering or leaving the port must be provided with pilots; those entering the port embarking them off Father Point. The presence of a pilot does not remove responsibility from the master of the vessel to obey the orders of the examining officer. Local coasting vessels are not required to take a pilot.

Authority.

The Chief Examining Officer has authority over the movements of all vessels in the port and its vicinity. Disobedience to his orders on the part of masters will render their vessels liable at once to be treated as hostile. Restriction on Movements of Vessels Inside the Port.

Each vessel's berth will be selected by the Chief Examining Officer, who will inform the pilot through the Examining Officer, of its position on her arrival at the examination anchorage. In case of the non-arrival of this information the vessel must remain in the examination anchorage until it has been received. Local coasting vessels will have their berths assigned to them by the Chief Examining Officer, who will communicate the position to the examining steamer for the information of the master of the incoming vessel.

Owners and shipping agents will greatly facilitate the expeditious berth of their vessels by giving ample notice to the Chief Examining Officer as to the date of their expected arrival. No vessel may change her berth without the permission of the Chief Examining Officer. Early intimation of the proposed departure of the vessels should likewise be given to the Detaining Authority (The Collector of Customs).

Vessels Lights.

The usual navigation lights are to be shown by all vessels in the vicinity of the port at night. Ships without lights will be immediately treated as hostile.

Control of Traffic in Fog.

The regulations for the control of traffic are equally applicable in foggy or misty weather but special arrangements will be made for passing vessels through the defences, and masters of vessels are particularly warned that they must approach the examination anchorage at moderate speed or they may be fired upon.

Coasting Vessels and Private Craft.

All traffic must take place through the south channel. No small craft of this description will be allowed to enter the port between sunset and sunrise, but must await those times, if necessary, in the examination anchorage.

North Channel.

The channel to the north of Orleans Island is closed to all traffic. It has been obstructed and the lights and buoys placed there as aids to navigation, have been removed. All boats and vessels must use the south channel when approaching Quebec.

Approach to Government Vessels and the Dry Dock.

Boats and unauthorized persons are forbidden to approach any Government vessel or the Dry Dock at Lewis. Any boat or person infringing this order is liable to be fired upon at all times.

Port Regulations.

The ordinary regulations of this port, except those affected by these Public Traffic Regulations, are to be strictly adhered to.

Warnings to Incoming Steamers.

(a) All orders given by the Examining Officer, or by the port authority, are to be strictly observed whilst the vessel is in port.

(b) When at anchor in the Examination Anchorage it is forbidden to lower any boats, or to communicate with the shore, or to work cables, or to move the ship, or for any one to leave the ship, without permission from the Chief Examining Officer.

(c) The ship is not to be moved at any time except to avoid accident, without having a pilot on board.

(d) Before leaving the port a clearance must at all times be obtained from the Collector of Customs.

(e) Disobedience of any of the above warnings will render the vessels liable to be at once fired on.

(f) The use of wireless telegraphy is absolutely prohibited within the port.

(g) When the "special signal" is hoisted, the flags are to be well shaken out on calm days, and are to be kept hoisted until the ship is finally made fast.

(h) Examining Officers will inform incoming vessels of any lights which have been extinguished or buoys removed. The examining officer will inform the master and the pilot of the incoming vessels of the berth to which she has been allotted.

(i) Attention of masters is to be called to the Public Traffic Regulations of the Port, and a copy given to each one if this has not already been done by the Pilot.

NOTICE to Captains and Pilots

The examination anchorage for the Port of Quebec is now stationed off St. Patrick's Hole, 1 1/4 miles west of St. Laurent.

When weather conditions are too bad for boarding vessels, the Examination Steamer will, if satisfied with the identity of the steamer, hoist the signal for the day at the MAIN. This must not be confused with the signal M-N, which will always be hoisted by the Examination Steamer, and indicates "stop instantly."

The incoming steamer, when she has hoisted the signal for the day, will be answered by the Answering pennant from the Examination Steamer, and may proceed to Quebec, but must keep her flags flying till arrival.

By order,

LESS TYPHOID THAN MEASLES AT FRONT

PHYSICIAN ENTHUSIASTIC OVER WORK OF BRITISH M.D.'S AT THE FRONT.

London, April 28.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—"There is less typhoid at the front today than there is measles," according to Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, head of the Labrador Medical Missions, who has been for three months with the Harvard Surgical Unit, and which is now returning to his work in Labrador. He is unboundedly enthusiastic about the work of the British medical men at the front.

"Look at typhoid," he remarked. "Heretofore whole armies have been decimated by it. When the English took over the trenches west of Ypres, where typhoid was epidemic in the villages, the Allies had already 6,000 cases of this disease. Twenty-six thousand Belgians had to be inoculated, and this was supplemented by the British Tommy playing Hercules in cleaning up this new Augean stable. But now typhoid is so small a factor that if a single case occurs anywhere in form armies it is known the same night at headquarters, and next day a rigid local inquiry is held as to the cause.

"The sanitary service of all the towns and villages near the line has been taken over by the Medical Corps. Sewers and drains have been put in order, garbage and filth disposed of at the least possible cost. At certain places near the line one sees a series of furnaces all made from old tins filled with clay, having air spaces between, which once lighted require next to no attention, but are eternally doing their work, like modern Vellays of Hinnon.

"Water supplies are all the time being tested and retested by the ambulance laboratories. One sees everywhere the trail of their work in labels hanging to melancholy-looking tips, such as, This water is not to be used until chlorinated.

"Tetanus, a most terrible and fatal danger of mud associated with wounds, is being met with inoculation so soon after the vent that it has become an almost negligible factor in war mortality.

"French feet at first disabled thousands of our soldiers. Today it is no longer a problem. A batch of such cases is now sent down by the medical officer in the trench with an apology and an explanation, as if it were a misdemeanor.

"One sees criticisms on the one hand that operations are entrusted to incompetent hands, and on the other that extravagant salaries are paid for illustrious names. Neither of these statements has any truth in it. Unfit surgeons are remorselessly eliminated as soon as recognized, and the army has not paid more than the rank entitles him to any surgeon. Yet they have permanently in France men whose skill bring them in the comfort of their homes ten times the money for which they are serving their country.

"To us, the team work of these hospital units, each with its expert in various lines, the pathologists, the X-ray men, the diagnosticians, the therapists, the operating surgeons, and the commanding executive medical officers, suggest an ideal model for the future in civil life. The splendid dental and eye clinics are among the best evidences of the progress of army medical work. Hundreds of cases of minor eye troubles are corrected which would never have been discovered but for the war. In spite of the strain of war the workers have isolated new diseases, such as trench fever

HOT WATER THE BEST LIVER AND BOWEL MEDICINE

SAYS GLASS OF HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST WASHES POISONS FROM SYSTEM.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshen the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminative organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost little but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue it each morning are assured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.

and trench nephritis—the first step toward their cure.

"A casualty clearing station to the ordinary mind suggests only a shambles of shattered humanity, amid which belated medical officers labor to give temporary relief until the victims can obtain treatment at a base hospital. The real casualty clearing station would surprise the unenlightened visitor as much as the large but, terribly emerging from a chrysalis would a child. In old factories, schools, or in huts, adapted operating rooms, well lighted with electricity or acetylene, afford all that is necessary for good aseptic surgery. Small but sufficient pathological laboratories are attached, and sufficient wards for officers as well as men are provided to keep for a fortnight all cases in which the chance for life or limb is increased by immediate treatment.

"Once picked up, a wounded man is never isolated from skilled assistance. After being seen in the trench or field by the regimental doctor, who remains there, he is carried by hand to the strongly protected dugout close behind the line. Thence stretchers on wheels take him to the advanced dressing station, often also in a heavily protected dugout. The motor ambulances can reach the wounded here, though generally only by night, and then they disappear with their burdens to the field ambulance."

NEUTRAL EXPERT WRITES OF VERDUN

Frank Simonds, one of the best-known and most respected of American military critics, has just returned to New York after a visit to the western battle-front. His story about the strategy at Verdun which appears in The Mail and Empire, is the most interesting and the most circumstantial that has yet appeared on this side of the ocean. He tells why the Germans attacked Verdun, why they believed they could capture it, and why the French decided to defend it. He does not go into the military reasons that made the defence of an almost indefensible position successful, but probably will do so in a future article. Mr. Simonds is a neutral observer, and though in his previous writings he has never dissimulated his sympathy with the Allies, and his belief that they will win, his is, after all, an independent opinion, and since it is based on keen observation, it ought to make heartening reading.

Verdun a Husk.

The most casual reader of the war news knows that a word which became obsolete after the German advance through Belgium was the word "impregnable" as applied to fortresses. Liege was supposed to be one of the greatest fortresses in the world. It shattered like glass before the German high-explosive shells, and other forts shared a like fate after a few hours' concentrated bombardment. Before the attack upon Liege, Verdun was considered an impregnable fortress, the strongest in France with the exception of the forts in the immediate vicinity of Paris. When Liege fell the French general staff realized that Verdun would fall, too, if subjected to a similar bombardment. Joffre decided, therefore, that the huge guns and other portable defensive works in Verdun were useless where they were, and consequently they were removed from the fortress. The guns were piled from their beds and mounted in other positions. A new plan was devised to protect Verdun.

An Army in Trenches.

It is now realized that the only proper defence of the most "impregnable" fortress in the world is the proper defence for an unfortified hamlet, namely, an army in the field, an army in trenches. So the defence of Verdun was arranged by entrenching an army before it at such a distance as would prevent the enemy from bringing up his irresistible howitzers. But at Verdun there was another difficulty. It was part of a salient in the middle of a wedge that had been thrust into the German lines, and therefore subject to attack upon three sides. General Joffre realized that if the Germans made a determined effort to take Verdun they must succeed, because of the impossibility of holding a position that can be swept on three sides by the fire of unlimited artillery. When the Crown Prince announced that he was about to take Verdun, therefore, Joffre determined that he would evacuate the city, which was a mere shell, and fall back upon the heights behind it, which were admirably adapted for defence.

The Moral Effect.

As Mr. Simonds explains, his reasons, from a military point of view, were unassailable. There were other reasons than military to be considered. There was the moral effect. All France knew, all Germany knew, that Verdun was reckoned the strongest fortress upon the French frontier. To explain to the people that no fortress was impregnable would not be to lessen the despair of the one and the exultation of the other should it be abandoned. French statesmen were sure that if Joffre abandoned Verdun the French Ministry would have to resign, and that a feeling of the result upon the morale of the people would be deplorable. It would be some such feeling of hopelessness as possessed them in those first dark weeks, when the French capital was moved to Bordeaux. So Joffre was told that, indefensible as Verdun was, it had to be defended, and Joffre bowed to the will of the statesmen, and, with Castelnau and Petain, a system of defence was improvised. That an "indefensible" position could be defended by means of a plan that was not devised until after the attack had begun is surely the great miracle of the war.

Mr. Simonds says that the battle at Verdun is very much like the Battle of Gettysburg in the American Civil War. It was two years after the defeat of the Confederates at Gettysburg before the South collapsed, but "Here is the Nerve Food I know that will help you."

Malnutrition Failure to get the good of the food you eat.

It is not what you eat, but what you eat, digest and absorb, that counts in keeping up the health and vigor of the human body. If you are not getting the benefit of the food you eat you should suspect the nervous system, for the nerves control the flow of the gastric juices of the stomach and the other chemical fluids of the digestive system which effect the digestion of starches, fats, etc.

Especially at this season of the year digestion lags, appetite fails, you do not get the good of the food you eat and vitality is consequently lowered. You feel the effects in loss of energy and ambition, feelings of fatigue come over you and you lack in courage and good cheer.

Eating more will not help you, for you must have nourishment in an easily assimilated condition so that it may be taken up by the blood stream without effort. In short, you need such assistance as is best afforded by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

By using this food cure you enrich the blood and supply nourishment directly to the starved nervous system. The nerves which control the process of digestion are invigorated, digestion is improved, appetite sharpened, and gradually you are restored to health and vigor.

This is Nature's way. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies the elements and the processes of Nature convert these elements into new, rich blood and new nerve force. You cannot fail to be benefited by such treatment, and the results obtained are lasting.

THE CHANGE IN WOMEN'S DRESSES.
Paris, April 28.—For years the cloth manufacturers of France have been crying ruin owing to the vogue of the narrow and split skirt. Now that women have jumped to the opposite extreme and wear dresses that measure several yards around, the same manufacturers declare that things have gone from bad to worst.
In ordinary times, the cloth manufacturers would be rubbing their hands with glee at the change of fashion; as it is they greet it with concealed apprehension.
"Our best mills are in the hands of the enemy," explained M. Alfred Damez, secretary of one of the big Traders' Committees and those that are left to us are so little time to devote to our business as beg as balloons, French factories will be unable to keep pace with the demand."
A meeting is to be held to see whether the "union sacrée", which has been applied to most things since the war began, can be extended in some way to controlling fashions.

SUPERNATURAL COMMUNICATIONS DURING WAR TIME

(By Maurice Maeterlinck.)

In a volume entitled "The Unknown Guest," published not long ago among other essays I devoted one in particular to certain phenomena of intuition, clairvoyance or clair-audience, vision at great distances and even vision of the future.

The existence of this faculty is no longer seriously denied by anyone who has some little attention to metaphysics; and it is easily verified by those who will take the necessary trouble, for its possessors, though few in number, are not inaccessible.

It is one of the most curious faculties of our subconsciousness, and doubtless contains the clue to many of those manifestations which appear to proceed from another world.

Madame M's Clairvoyance.

One of the best mediums of this class is a lady to whom I have referred, in "The Unknown Guest," as Mme. H. Her visitor gives her an object of some kind that has belonged to or been touched or handled by the person about whom he proposes to question her.

After placing the object, usually a letter, in the medium's hand, you say to her:

"I wish you to place yourself in communication with the writer of this letter," or "the owner of this article," as the case may be.

Forthwith, the medium perceives not only the person in question, his physical appearance, his character, his habits, his interests, his state of health, but also in a series of swift and changing visions, which follow one another like the pictures of a cinematograph, sees and describes exactly that persons environment, the surrounding country, the rooms in which he lives, the people who live with and who wish him well or ill, the mentality, and the most secret and unexpected intentions of all the various characters that figure in his existence.

But here we must make certain reservations. We are entering upon forbidden tracts: errors are almost the rule, and proper supervision is all but impossible. It is better, therefore, not to venture into those dangerous regions. Pending fuller investigation of the question, we may say that the foretelling of the future, when it claims to cover a definite space of time, is nearly always illusory.

CAN'T BEAT "TIZ" WHEN FEET HURT

"TIZ" FOR SORE, TIRED, PUFFED-UP, ACHING, CALLOUSED FEET OR CORNS.

You can be happy-footed in a moment. Use "Tiz" and never suffer with tender, raw, burning, blistered, swollen, tired, aching feet.

As soon as you put your feet in a "Tiz" bath, you just feel the happiness soaking in. How good your poor, old feet feel. They want to dance for joy.

Get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" at any drug store or department store. Get instant foot relief. Laugh at foot sufferers who complain. Because your feet are never, never going to bother or make you limp any more.

difficult to distinguish it from presentiments, which in their turn are rarely true, except where the immediate future is concerned.

To sum up, in the present state of our experience, we observe that what the psychometers and clairvoyants tell us possesses a certain value and some chance of proving correct only in so far as they put into words our own forebodings, forebodings which again may be quite unknown to us, and which they discover deep down in our subconsciousness.

The Limits of Psychometry.

It is very difficult to fathom the nature of this intuition. Does it relate to events partly or wholly realized, but still in a latent state, and perceived before the knowledge of them reaches us through the normal channels of the mind or brain?

There remains another point to which it is well to draw attention in order to avoid misunderstandings and disappointment. Experience shows us that the medium perceives the person in question quite clearly in his present and usual state, but not necessarily in the exact accidental state of the moment.

Having said so much, it is open to us amid all the mental anguish and suffering which this terrible war has engendered, without profaning the sorrow of our fellow-men and women, to give to those who are in mortal fear as to the fate of one they love the hope of finding among those curious, extra-human phenomena, which have been so unjustly falsely disparaged, a consoling gleam of light that shall not be a mere mockery or delusion?

Now what is the nature of this strange and incredible faculty? In the book which I mentioned at the beginning of this article, I tried to examine the different theories that suggested themselves. The argument, unfortunately, is infinitely too long to be republished here, even if I were to compress it ruthlessly.

After dismissing the spiritualistic theory, which implies the intervention of the dead or of discarnate entities, and is not as ridiculous as the profane would think, but which nothing hitherto has adequately confirmed, we may reasonably ask ourselves first of all whether this faculty exists in us or in the medium.

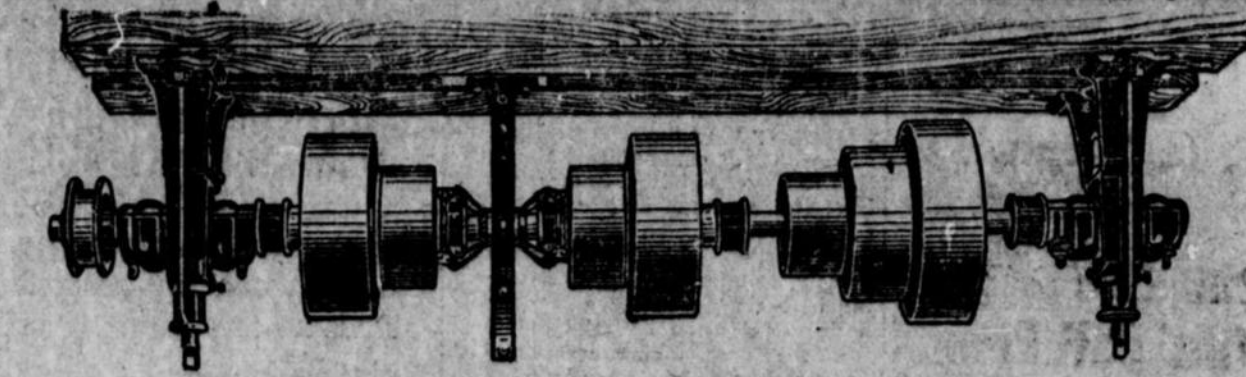

A mother had three sons at the front. She was hearing pretty regularly from the eldest and the second, but for some weeks the youngest, who was in the Belgian trenches, where the fighting was very fierce, had given no sign of life.

The mother did, in fact, receive a card from this son a few days later, written in an unnatural hand, telling her that all was well and that he was in good health. Greatly relieved, she dismissed the matter from her mind, merely said to herself that of course the medium, like all mediums, had been wrong, and thought no more of it.

When Success is Possible.

The mother did, in fact, receive a card from this son a few days later, written in an unnatural hand, telling her that all was well and that he was in good health. Greatly relieved, she dismissed the matter from her mind, merely said to herself that of course the medium, like all mediums, had been wrong, and thought no more of it.

I repeat, mediumistic experience can show other instances of this kind. If it stood alone, it would be valueless, for it might well be explained by mere coincidence. But it forms part of a very normal series; and I could easily enumerate many others within my own knowledge. This, however, would merely mean repeating, with uninteresting variations, the essential features of the present case, a proceeding for which there would be no excuse, save in a technical work.

however, would merely mean repeating, with uninteresting variations, the essential features of the present case, a proceeding for which there would be no excuse, save in a technical work.

Is success, then, practically certain? Yes, rash and surprising as the statement may seem, mistakes on the whole are very rare, provided that the medium be carefully chosen and that the object serving as an intermediary have not passed through too many hands, for it will contain and reveal as many distinct personalities as it has undergone contacts. It will be necessary, therefore, first to eliminate as many distinct personalities as it is to fix the medium's attention solely on the subject of the consultation.

Nature of the Faculty. Now what is the nature of this strange and incredible faculty? In the book which I mentioned at the beginning of this article, I tried to examine the different theories that suggested themselves.

After dismissing the spiritualistic theory, which implies the intervention of the dead or of discarnate entities, and is not as ridiculous as the profane would think, but which nothing hitherto has adequately confirmed, we may reasonably ask ourselves first of all whether this faculty exists in us or in the medium.

It seems, therefore, almost certain that the strange virtue is contained solely in the object itself, which is somehow galvanised by a complementary virtue in the medium.

It seems, therefore, almost certain that the strange virtue is contained solely in the object itself, which is somehow galvanised by a complementary virtue in the medium. This being so, we must presume that the object, having absorbed like a sponge a portion of the spirit of the person who touched it, remains in constant communication with him, or, more probably, that it serves to track out, among the prodigious throng of human beings, the one who impregnated it with his fluid, even as the dogs employed by the police—at least, so we are told—when given an article of clothing to smell, are able to distinguish, among innumerable cross trails, that of the man who used to wear the garment in question.

All this, I agree, sounds incredible, but really it is hardly any more so than the wonders of radio-activity, of the Hertzian waves, of photography, electricity or hypnosis, or of generation, which condenses into a single particle all the physical, moral, and intellectual past and future of thousands of creatures.

Hear The Pitiful Call From the Kingdom of Grief!

Mothers, Children and Old Men of Belgium are Suffering for Food while their Young Men Fight Our Battles!

Since the early days of the war, Belgium's need has been eloquently urged throughout Canada, Britain and the United States, and has brought forth truly magnificent responses. The Commission for Relief in Belgium, trusting to the generous support of the English-speaking world, undertook the stupendous task of feeding some 2,000,000 people—and so far they have succeeded, though the number of destitute has steadily increased.

For conditions in Belgium grow worse rather than better! Following up the horrors inflicted during the early days of conquest, Germany has systematically and mercilessly bled the country white. She assumes no responsibility for the lives of the helpless, penniless women, children and old men who are her victims, and who, but for the Belgian Relief Fund, must have starved by tens of thousands.

Those who had a little money at first have paid what they could for the food supplied—but more and more of them are coming to the end of their resources. About three millions are now entirely, and millions more are partially dependent on the Belgian Relief Commission for their daily bread.

Picture it to yourself! Whole communities, including families formerly living in comfort and even in luxury, are now without money—with no clothing but rags—and with nothing to eat but the daily allowance from the Relief Commission. What this amounts to you can gather from the fact that at no time yet has the Commission been able to allow more than seven cents a day for man, woman or child!

This Ally nation, as thrifty, industrious and intelligent as any in Europe, must be saved! We who have escaped the horrors of war as made by Germany must help keep up the good work! With our returning prosperity we must do our share to meet their increasing needs!

We all feel like helping, of course. The trouble is that so many of us think that the little we can give will make no noticeable difference one way or the other. Perhaps not in the grand total—but it most certainly will be noticed by the Belgian mother whose baby it saves, and by Him who notes the sparrow's fall!

Though your individual gift be small, so are the individual needs in "The Kingdom of Grief". Don't let one hungry Belgian look for help in vain because you thought what you could do was not worth while, or because you "just didn't bother"! Whatever you can afford to give, send your subscription weekly, monthly, or in one lump sum.

TRAWLER SINKS HUN SUBMARINE

BRITISH BOAT SENDS GERMAN SUBMARINE AND CREW TO THE BOTTOM.

London, April 28—3.10 a.m.—The destruction of a German submarine by a British trawler off the North coast of Scotland, is described by Dutch newspapers received here. According to the accounts, the submarine had halted two Dutch steamers, when a trawler appeared and killed with its first shot four men who were standing on the deck of the submarine. The trawler then sank the submarine with a second shot. The entire action lasted less than ten minutes.

The papers say the submarine was of the latest and largest type and carried a crew of sixty, all of whom were lost.

LOVE-CHANT HIT TEUTONS

(From the New York Times) C. Huntington Jacobs, the Harvard senior whose fiery sonnet, "Gott Mit Uns," caused much comment last winter, and influenced Professor Kuno Meyer to write a letter to President Lowell, of Harvard, berating the university authorities for sanctioning the award of a prize for such an unneutral poem, has written another poetical attack on Germany. Jacob's latest poem decries the alliance of Germany with Turkey, and is entitled "The Chant of Love." It is published in the current issue of The Harvard Illustrated, and is a paraphrase to the English version of "Gott Strafe England." It follows:—

Dane and Bulgar they matter not; A smile for a smile, and a plot for a plot; We love them not, they love us not; We hold stern power their heads above, We have but one and only love, We hate as one, we love as one, We have one friend and one alone—Turkey!

He is known full well, he is known full well; He rules the Land of the Crimson Flood. Rich in madness, in race, in craft of hell, Cut off by torrents of Christian blood, Come let us greet him hand to hand, An oath to offer sublimely grand, An oath which conscience shall never shake, An oath for our sons and their sons to take.

Come hear the word repeat the word, Through Kultur's citadels make it heard; We will never repent our love, We have all but a single love; We hate as one, we love as one, We have one friend and one alone—Turkey!

Take ye the robe of our God in pay, With Kultur from Krupp your ramparts lay; Trample their towns to a Belgian slough; Ye are keen for the work, and we'll show you how!

Dane and Bulgar they matter not? A smile for a smile, and a plot for a plot; We have fettered their arms with quill and steel, And the scars of our lash are slow to heal, But you will we love with a kindred love; We will never repent our love! Love in lying and treachery, Love in battle and butchery, Love of the cleaver and love of the crown, Love of a nation to hell brought down! We hate as one, we love as one, We have one friend and one alone—Turkey!

The poem has aroused widespread interest among the undergraduates.

Ask Around You For The Proof

THAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS ALWAYS CURE KIDNEY DISEASE.

In Every Neighborhood You Will Find People Cured of Backache, Rheumatism, Dropsy or Diabetes by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Lac Bouchette Lac St-Jean, Que.—April 28th. (Special).—Mr. Arthur Fleurie, well known and highly respected here, has issued a short, concise statement in regard to Dodd's Kidney Pills. It is as follows:—

"I have found that Dodd's Kidney Pills are an excellent remedy and that they cure kidney disease, rheumatism and indigestion."

Mr. Fleurie has received such benefit from Dodd's Kidney Pills that he wants other sufferers to know how to find relief. He feels it is his duty to his fellowman.

If you inquire among your neighbors you will find scores of people who have found in Dodd's Kidney Pills relief from some forms of kidney trouble. It may have been the dry, itching skin, dizziness, nervousness and inability to get refreshing sleep that mark the earlier stages, dropsy, rheumatism, heart disease, or some other of the dangerous diseases that mark its advanced stages.

You will find that Dodd's Kidney Pills cure kidney trouble, no matter where or in what form it is found. Ask your neighbors for the proof.

SUBDUED SPIRIT IN GERMANY.

Booy Patriotism and "Hates" Over.

(By a Russian Journalist.) I must admit that Berlin was very disappointing. When I started on my journey I expected to find the well-known aspect of the city very little changed. Berlin under war conditions I thought would contain a larger number of Lieutenants with monocles and high collars, and I expected large placards with "Gott strafe England" or its new variant, "Hedeck"—Hauptsache ist das England keine krigt!—(the main thing is that England is thrashed!). Search as I might I could not find in Berlin or Dresden any traces of the "Hymn of Hate."

Allen Words Restored.

As I discovered afterwards, all the post-cards, emblems, bills, and vulgar pictures with the invocation to the Almighty to "strafe" England and her Allies were recently confiscated by the authorities, and all "Hates" were stopped by police orders. I have found afterwards all this "Hate" literature, emblems, and post-cards in Vienna.

As if by a magic wand, English goods, French wines and scent, Russian caviare, Russian "Karavan" tea appeared in the restaurants and hotels, and the signs with English and French inscriptions which were pasted or painted over were restored again. The "Friedrichstrasse Bahnhof Gasthaus" has again become the old "Russischer Hof." Foreign words banished by the Berlin police have returned; "Wirthshaus" is "restaurant" once more, "Spielhaus" is again "theatre," and the Berliner who has suddenly become very polite is not afraid to pronounce the French "pardon."

Another sign of the new reign of tolerance which is coming over Germany is the presence in all cafes, restaurants, libraries, and in mist newspaper kiosks and bookshops of French English and Russian papers, and any educated German is not now afraid to sit in a cafe with the "Times," "Journal," and "Matin" in his hand, whereas a year ago he would have been mobbed.

New Era of Toleration.

At the same time, in the book-shops, English, French and Russian books have appeared on the shelves, and the well-known publishing firm of "Tauchnitz," who publish the so-called Continental editions of English authors, has recommended its publications. On the stage enemy plays are produced, although of authors who died before the war.

Among the "young" authors, in contradistinction to the escapades of the "veterans" like Hauptmann, Demel and others, who have written all sorts of "hymns" and "prayers," there is a strong tendency to place and maintain art in its purity without any admixture of "politics." A whole series of organs of "young" authors, especially the brave Munich monthly, "Das Forum," edited by Wilhelm Herzog, have carried on a strong attack against the placing on the stage of the patriotic rubbish, by old and contemporary authors, and against the capture of literature by rhymesters like Ernst Lassauer, the author of the notorious "Hymn of Hate." As a sign of protest all these journals are publishing translations of French, English, Russian and Belgian authors, and give articles and reviews of modern foreign literature, just as they did before the war.

Fewer Jingoos.

Together with the extinction of Chauvinism, the noisy, showy "beer" patriotism which finds expression in "Hochs" and the singing of "Wacht am Rhein" and "Deutschland uber Alles," has also quietened down. I was told by intelligent Germans that this "beer" patriotism was absolutely unbearable at the beginning of the war. One could not sit in peace for half an hour in a cafe and one had to rise ten to twelve times in the course of an evening and listen to the singing and shouting of drunken companies. Now there are fewer drunkards and fewer "Hochs." This is, one of the blessings of the higher price of beer and of the restriction on the quantity sold.

One must not assume from the above that the Germans have exchanged their "hates" for love of their enemies—far from it! From my conversations with people of various social positions I have come to the conclusion that up till now the hatred of England, mingled perhaps with a feeling of fear, is still strong in every German. The attitude towards the French is not only calm but even somewhat sympathetic.

The feeling against Russia and the Russians is less acute than that towards England; there is also some lingering fear of Russia. The general opinion is that the fate of the war will be decided on the Russian front, and not on any of the others.

When I remarked that most of the neutral countries do not believe in the final victory of Germany, and cannot even conceive that such giants as England and Russia, with their inexhaustible resources of men and material, can be conquered, there was no murmur of protest, but rather a silent acknowledgement. In general it looks as if Germany has entered a phase of some great doubt.

BRAVERY OF WOMEN SOLDIERS.

Petrograd, April 28.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—The bravery of the women soldiers who have managed to get into the Russian army is again strikingly recalled by the decoration bestowed upon a Russian sister of charity, Mlle. Ivanoff, and the proposed decoration of Tanja Kakourine, a girl sixteen years of age.

Mlle. Ivanoff, finding herself close to a company which had lost all its officers, placed herself at its head and captured a hostile trench before which the troops were hesitating. Mortally wounded, she was, by Imperial command, decorated with the Cross of St. George in enamel, a distinction to which only officers are entitled.

Tanja, a girl with masculine name, got into a regiment in much the same circumstances and the same disguise as her mother joined a Russian company in the war against Turkey in 1877. At the time her identity became known the girl was in a regiment serving in Galicia. For a long time the men had concealed her sex from the authorities. The officer discovered the truth accidentally. He wished to take the soldier as his orderly on account of "his" good conduct and youth, and had summoned "him" to his quarters. He was struck by the face and the eyes; he asked questions and the girl began by denying but finally burst into tears and confessed. This girl shared all the difficulties of the service and all the dangers of battle with the others. Her bravery has been the marvel of her male companions. She has a pleasing appearance, a round face, shining with health and looks well in uniform. The men protect her by common accord and act towards her as father and mother with touching solicitude. She has just been proposed for the cross and medal of St. George.

CUSTOMS UNION.

Budapest Chamber of Commerce Opposes Proposal For Central European Union.

Budapest, Hungary, April 28.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—The Budapest Chamber of Commerce has passed a resolution expressing its opposition to the proposals for a Central European Customs Union, embracing Germany, Austria-Hungary and possibly Bulgaria.

The resolution was passed at a special meeting attended by representatives of the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce, by men prominent in industry and commerce, managers of all the big banks, and mine owners. The chief argument against the proposed customs union was that it would be mainly to the advantage of Germany and Austria, and would merely hamper the development of Hungary.

Dr. Paul Szende, delegate representing the Union of Hungarian Traders and Manufacturers, was the principal speaker. He opposed the customs union, declaring "Surely hatred will not always be dominant in Europe, and you will only be prolonging the era of hatred by establishing a union which will antagonize the other group of Powers, with the result that Austria-Hungary will soon find herself isolated in spite of the unity thus established. The question of 'Greater Austria' has already caused us enough trouble, and all our economic concern is centered in opposition to the idea of this Greater Austria. Now they want to drag us into a union still more dangerous, in which we should have to face not only Austria but Germany also, with her highly developed and marvelously organized industry and commerce, which would be likely to strangle our own national industry and commerce."

Speakers who favored the customs union contended that small states are not in a position to exist under present European conditions, and that when peace comes they will be exploited, while in war time they are liable to suffer the fate of Belgium and Serbia. Dr. Szende replied that Belgium had been one of the most prosperous countries in Europe and that Serbia had also led a happy independent life, and their ruin was brought about by the fact that they lay in the path of invading armies. This caused their ruin, he said, not their smallness.

The resolution finally adopted declared that the proposed customs union would entail the total destruction of Hungarian industry and commerce, and that "the culture of the nation is not dependent on Central Europe but on the nation itself, which is proud of its culture, developed by itself."

Eternal Providence! go thine inscrutable way; only let me never, on account of this inscrutableness, doubt or despair.—Lassing.

WONDERWORLD of the PTARMIGAN VALLEY

(1) Lone Tree Lake and Wall of Jericho in Ptarmigan Valley. (2) Snow Cornice on Ptarmigan, showing Douglas in distance. (3) Black and White Douglas. (4) Mt. Black Douglas. (5) Looking down Corral-Creek from Ptarmigan Lake, showing Mount Temple. (6) Lone Tree Lake and Lake Myosotis and the base of Ptarmigan Peak.

A way yonder in the wonder world of the Canadian Pacific Rockies awaits full exploration—there is a valley where the Ptarmigan live and breed and die, where the mother hen clucks to her chirping brood and where she warns them of the danger of strange two-legged animals known as men, but from whom she is powerless to protect them.

So the wise men who give places their names, have marked this particular region as Ptarmigan Valley, and its guardian peak as Ptarmigan Mountain. In this wild Alpine area, thus named after a bird, will be found one of the thousand beauty spots of our Canadian Switzerland, including every type of scenery that belongs to a mountain area: turbulent rivers, fed by countless glacial tributaries, leaping in headlong flight to the lower levels and the ultimate sea; alpine meadows carpeted with a profusion of flowers, canyon depths, forested retreats opening into expansive valleys, cliffs, peaks, rocky ramparts, snow cornices and ice fields making the avalanches that reverberate like a Flanders bombardment. There are lakes, beautiful beyond compare, deep-hearted pools, waterfalls of all heights, musk traps and rock strewn trails, and glacial boulders stranded far from their northern habitat in the mysterious north of a mysterious ice age.

There are moreover signs of wild life on every hand. The Ptarmigan is everywhere, strutting stately in one's way, deer and bear tracks freshly made on the snow, goat paths that point the way to summits, marmots that whistle, gophers that invade tent and ladder as impudently as porcupine, while an occasional bunny or a flying eagle add variety to the mountain zoo.

Let us hit the trail together for this Canadian Garden of the Gods, where nature may be viewed in all her sublimity and variety, and where He who made the hills has placed circles and ranges of mighty summits rivaling each other in towering heights through and beyond the seery clouds.

It will be at Lake Louise station that pack ponies will be diamond-hitched and saddle ponies mounted. Heading northward, little but lively Corral Creek blocks the way and demands the first of scores of wading processes with the water dashing over feet and leggings. But water doesn't count on the trail, whether in wet feet or a down-pour from the sky, for warmth and dryness are at the end of the trail. And such a glorious trail it is, like an unfolding panorama with new scenes at every turn, a succession of God's canvasses in the great gallery of the open air.

It is all uphill for the first league or two. At each succeeding altitude a turn in the saddle held the eye spell-bound with the scene to the south where, like soldiers on parade, thirty miles of giant peaks lined up and made a beautiful vision: the Ten Peaks, lordly Temple, Aberdeen, Lefroy dominating Lake Louise, Victoria's Glacier, glistening white. We are high enough to even catch an entrancing glimpse of Lake Louise. It is truly an upheaved world, where "hills peep o'er hills and Alps on Alps arise."

Now it is facing forward as a new world stands revealed. Yonder is a speck of white in an immensity of space. Thanks be, it is a tent and a curl of smoke. How the heart of the trail-hitter warms to the sight! Shelter, food, warmth, a balsam bough-bed, mugs of tea, rashers of bacon, pails of prunes, squares of Bann bread, what more could mortal ask?

The next day, and a red letter day it will prove to be. The early morning sun washes in a day of wondrous charm that makes every nerve tingle with the glow of life. Radiating valleys on every hand invite exploration, shimmering summits look down upon us as giants upon pigmies, cascades and rapids sing their song of the wild, and the world of men and war seems to belong to another planet. Off we start on another trail, thrilling at every turn with the sensation of the first sight of nature marvels. We make for One Tree Pass, where the foothills of what have been a giant bruin were freshly made. Do not the very names of Merlin Lake and Merlin Castle sound seductive? And Little Lake Myosotis is a miniature Lake Louise and no less beautiful, dammed up in a basin formed by the tilting of the strata, the overflow in a trickling stream making the birth of a river. Yonder rise the Walls of Jericho, forbidding in their black and frowning mass. Through the Stoky Valley we make a detour, catching a glimpse of massive Hector to the west, with Cathedral Peak asserting its lordliness of height.

Tramping through fallen timber, over treacherous scree, fording streams on bridges of a single log, and at times being mired in a hidden musk, are mere incidents in the day's fun. The happy hours fly quickly until, as the day hurries to its close, we hurried to another camp on the Red Deer, under the lee of the Black and White Douglas peaks, towering over 11,000 feet above sea level and curious Mount Molar rising the sky canvass with its tooth-like summit. Here were more lakes, more Niagaras, more flower-strewn vales, more litteral ups and downs, for a trail is rarely content to work on the level. So the happy days sped away until the last one came, the last camp fire was enjoyed, and the final bit of saddle, travel as the return journey was made, and a most delightful trip came to an end.

C.P.R. TO MOBILIZE SCIENTISTS FOR RESEARCH WORK

Arranges With Arthur D. Little to Establish Central Organization at Montreal

CO. LOOKING FORWARD

Dominion-Wide Organization for the Scientific Research of the Country's Vast Resources

Although the potential wealth of Canada's natural resources is known to be marvellous, only a small portion of these have been exploited, and apart from the work done by the Government Geological Survey, the scientific investigation of Canada's resources with a view to practical development has been fragmentary and almost immaterial.

The lesson of the titanic conflict now raging in Europe has brought home how much the Dominion has to learn from some of the European countries with which she is at war, as for instance, the pre-eminence of Germany in manufacturing, metallurgical and electrical development, due pre-eminently to the thoroughness with which chemical research was pursued in that country, a pre-eminence which resulted in a large and profitable market for her manufacturers, not only at home but all over the world.

The wealth and prosperity of the nations and empires of the future will be gauged by their mineral and chemical activities and production. When peace is restored there will be a strong effort to provide the requirements of the British Empire and her allies from friendly sources, and if the war were, unhappily, to be long drawn out, the production of Canadian resources might become more essential to success in peace and war than arms of heroes.

The Canadian Pacific Ry. Co. has technical schools attached to its great shops, and at Trail the company has developed a great chemical and metallurgical laboratory and hydro-electric equipment equal to anything on the continent. These are, however, local activities, and the time has come, in the opinion of Lord Shaughnessy, when a Dominion-wide organization should be formed for the scientific research of Canada's vast mineral, metal, hydro-electric and chemical resources, which will result in the practical application to industry of many minerals heretofore neglected or exported for manufacture to other countries, or by-products in existing industries and of other natural resources which were neglected or insufficiently exploited. The waste of straw, for instance, in our wheat fields, of flax fibre, of lumber, seventy-five per cent of the product of which has been wasted in the forest or at the mill, while in tungsten, molybdenite, graphite, oil shale, mica, manganese, magnesite, talc, felspar and other minerals there is a field for the profitable investment of much larger capital than at present.

The Canadian Pacific Ry. Co. aims to secure the mobilization of the ablest and most scientific and chemical brains of the Dominion, and to associate them with a central organization to direct the activities of all the scientists and experts engaged in research work in all parts of the Dominion. The discoveries and information gleaned by the central organization, while supplies for the special information of the Canadian Pacific, will be disseminated from time to time by bulletins which should be of great value to merchants and manufacturers as well as to students and prospectors.

To carry out these views arrangements have been made with Mr. Arthur D. Little for the establishment of a central organization at Montreal for research work. Mr. Little has been President of the American Chemical Society and is a member of the Institute of Chemical Engineers, and a director of the Chemical and Engineer Department of the Institute of Technology. Indeed, Mr. Little's fame as a chemist and a chemical engineer is world-wide, and, as an organizer and investigator, he has no superior. His activities have extended to every branch of industrial and chemical research work, having seventy practical chemists associated with him. Lord Shaughnessy is confident that Mr. Little will build up an organization in Canada which will confer immense benefits on the Dominion.

A Dominion charter has been obtained and the Canadian Research Bureau will begin operations in Montreal on May 1st, when they will be in a position to co-operate with science professors and others of the Dominion already engaged in research work.

DISTRICT OF QUEBEC. CITY OF QUEBEC. To wit: CITY OF QUEBEC. City Hall. By-Law No. 5. By-Law Imposing a One Cent Tax on Every Person Admitted in a Place of Amusement.

(Drawn up in the French Language). At a meeting of the Municipal Council of the City of Quebec, held at the City Hall, in the said City of Quebec, on the fourteenth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and sixteen (1916), in conformity to law, and in virtue of a by-law passed by this Council, pursuant thereto, and after the due observance of all the formalities prescribed by the statute in such case made and provided, at which meeting were present two-thirds of the members composing the Council of the City of Quebec, that is to say: His Worship the Mayor, Aldermen Bedard, Bertrand, Bois, Bourret, Collier, Dinan, Dusault, St. Sauveur, Dussault, Belvedere, Fiset, Calibois, Gauvin, Gloze, Lantier, Lockwell, Madden, Martin, Paquet (J.C.), Paquet (St. S.), Pettigrew, Theriault, Verret, Plamondon.

It is ordained and enacted by the Municipal Council of the City of Quebec, and the said Council doth hereby ordain and enact as follows, to wit: Section 1.—The words "place for amusement" employed in the present by-law signify and comprise a theatre, moving picture halls, an amusement hall, concert hall, a circus, play grounds, trotting course, a skating rink of any other place where are given representations or shows of any nature or kind it may be, in the City of Quebec, where an entrance fee is charged.

Section 2.—The words "proprietor of a place for amusement" used in the present by-law, signify the person, partnership, company or corporation who carries on a business in a place of amusement in the City of Quebec. Section 3.—A one cent tax is imposed on every person admitted in a place for amusement, even if said person is admitted with a free ticket or a pass. Said tax shall be due and payable by such person every time he shall be admitted in a place for amusement.

Section 4.—Said tax shall be payable with a ticket issued by the City. Section 5.—The product of such tax, deduction made of the expenses incurred by the City for said imposition and perception of it, shall be employed only for the ends and in the manner mentioned in the Act 6 George the Fifth, chapter 43, and section 10.

Section 6.—So as to facilitate the payment of said tax, the City shall have printed and shall sell in such a way it shall be found advisable, the tickets at a price of one cent each.

Section 7.—Every proprietor of a place for amusement shall, under the hereinafter edicted penalty, collect said tax and account for it to the City the following day of the collection of such tax, and furthermore, he shall supply the City, at the end of every week, or oftener, if he is requested to do so by the City, a written report of the number of persons that have attended the shows in said places of amusement.

Section 8.—The municipal officers shall have the right to enter in every place of amusement to ascertain if the dispositions of the present by-law are observed and to collect themselves said tax, in case the proprietor of said place of amusement should refuse or neglect to do so.

Section 9.—It is forbidden to interfere with or molest or annoy said municipal officers.

Section 10.—It is forbidden to enter as a spectator in a place for amusement without having previously paid said tax.

Section 11.—It is forbidden for any proprietor of a place for amusement, also for any of his employees or representatives to admit in a place for amusement a person subject to the payment of said tax, unless said person has previously paid said tax.

Section 12.—Whomsoever shall infringe any of the dispositions of the present by-law or shall refuse or neglect to fulfil any of the obligations that shall be imposed upon him by the present by-law, shall be, upon conviction of said offence before the Recorder's Court of the City of Quebec, liable to a fine with or without costs, and in default of the immediate payment of said fine, or of said fine and costs, as the case may be, of an imprisonment; the amount of the said fine and the term of said imprisonment shall be fixed by the said Recorder's Court, at its discretion, but said fine shall not exceed forty dollars, and the imprisonment shall not be for a longer period than two calendar months, said imprisonment, however, may cease at any time before the expiration of the term fixed by the said Recorder's Court, upon payment of said fine, or of said fine and costs, as the case may be, and if the infringement continues, the offending party shall be liable to the fine and to the penalty edicted by the present article for every day during which said infringement shall continue.

Section 13.—The annulment of the license awarded by the City to a proprietor of a place for amusement is imposed as an additional penalty to said proprietor who shall have been found guilty for the third time by the Recorder's Court of having infringed some of the dispositions of the present by-law.

Section 14.—Said by-law shall be enforced on the first of May, next, (1916).

Attested: L. S. H. E. LAVIGUEUR, Mayor. H. J. B. CHOUINARD, City Clerk.

QUEBEC COURT TENNIS CLOSING

SEASON CAME TO END - YESTERDAY WITH PRIZE DISTRIBUTION.

The ladies of the Quebec Tennis Club gave a tea yesterday afternoon at the tennis courts. During the afternoon a ladies' tournament was held which was keenly contested, and was won by Miss Williams Goodday. The prizes for tournaments held on the Winter Court were presented at the tea by Mrs. Stavelly to the following ladies:—

Turner Cup—Ladies Championship Singles: Miss Mary Williams. Ladies Intermediate Single—Mrs. E. Stavelly. Johnston Cup—Ladies Handicap Singles: Miss Mary Williams. Joseph Cup—American Tournament—Miss Mary Williams. Ladies Doubles:—Mrs. W. LeM. Carter, Miss Leslie Hall.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS CLUB WEEKLY MEETING

The High School Boys' Club held their usual meeting this week, in the Y. M. C. A. where they were served a delightful supper by several of the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, of the Y. W. C. A. After the inward man had been well looked after, Captain D. H. Geggie was introduced to the boys by Mr. H. K. Tennant, who is chairman of the Boys' Work Committee. Dr. Geggie spoke very interestingly of his "Bit" at the Front, especially of the battle of Ypres, and mentioned several of the Quebec boys now serving in the trenches, whom he had met there. His remarks dealt not only with the heroic side of the men's characters who are serving their King and Country, but also with the way the French and English women are taking up occupations long thought of as only capable of being done by men. He told of seeing the women driving horses, teaming, and such like, also of them acting as street car conductors and motormen. And just to show the boys what they can do he mentioned several places where their help would liberate some man or more who might enlist when shown that he could be spared. As a recruiting sermon it would be hard to beat. Next Thursday Rev. T. P. Perry will address the Club, and the usual supper will be served.

EXPERTS IN HOMES.

What Does Household "Efficiency" Mean to You?

What is your idea of household efficiency? To every woman the phrase means something different. Perfect efficiency cannot be entirely a matter of book accounts, of time and labor saving devices—in fact, of physical work. Efficiency is as much a matter of mental attitude as anything else. Does this seem absurd to you on first thoughts? Think it over a little further, and the more you think into it the less absurd it will seem.

It has often been said that every single thing in the universe has first been built in mind before it has taken visible shape. The buildings have been planned in architects' minds; the streets have been built out by contractors; books, painting, music—all have had birth in mind first. So it is with every one of our successes, it is said. The success is thought of long before it actually arrives.

Now let us go back to this question of household efficiency being a mental attitude first and foremost. You may bring up in argument that a housewife may think efficiently as much as she likes, but if she has had no practice in running her home along the most approved lines she cannot very well put her thoughts into demonstration. You may say in proof that the girl who has spent her time in a business office cannot be as practical a housewife as the girl trained in domestic science no matter how efficient a mind the former may have.

Your theory, if you follow this line of reasoning, as so many women do, has some good points, but, on the whole, is without backbone. As a matter of fact, the business girl very often makes a much better housewife than the girl trained in all the homely arts. The business girl brings business methods to bear on the running of her home. She has an efficient mind and she uses it. For instance, she is quick to detect that many steps are lost in going from icebox to stove or from sink to china closet, and she seeks a remedy at once, whereas the home girl takes such things as a few extra steps here and there quite as a matter of course and would never think of trying to change things.

The woman of another type looks on housekeeping as the most stupid thing, to be hurried through and got rid of as quickly as possible. Still another type is fond of one particular branch of housework and neglects the rest of the work for its sake. Now, how can such women run a well organized home? They may have all the practical knowledge on earth, but their attitude toward housekeeping is so very wrong that their homes will never be efficiently managed until they change their attitudes. When they have learned to look on housekeeping as an all encompassing, scientific study which requires all concentration and interest they will begin to show efficient results, not before.

BILL PROHIBITING EXPORT OF SHIPS

The Hague, Netherlands, April 28.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—A bill to prohibit the export of ships—also their chartering except by Government consent—has just passed both Chambers of the Dutch Parliament, where it met with no serious opposition.

Holland's supply of essential necessities from overseas has been endangered, for in present circumstances she is forced to depend practically entirely on her own merchant fleet, and Dutch shipowners have been tempted by fancy prices and safer waters elsewhere to charter their boats for entirely foreign services, as, for instance, in the traffic New York-Marseilles, New York-Australia, Chile-North America and North-South America. Even of the Dutch ships which do continue to trade to home ports a goodly proportion are engaged in supplying average voyages owing to the closing of the Baltic and Black Seas, and the increased length of the voyage to the Far East round the Cape of Good Hope, have all contributed to decrease shipping sales.

On top of all this comes the sale of ships abroad, tempted by trebled and more than trebled prices. According to figures presented to the Chamber by the Minister in charge of the Bill, the Netherlands merchant fleet decreased between August 24, 1915, and February 10, 1916, by 31 ships of over 400 tons, and totalling 140,000 tons, and increased by only 12 ships of 38,000 tons, thus experiencing a decline on balance of 19 ships and 66,000 tons in less than six months. When to these figures are added the numerous losses by mine and torpedo in the short intervening period it will be easily seen how serious the position was becoming.

Henceforth no permission for the sale of ships will be granted unless it is shown that the vessel in question cannot be profitably used and that a new ship for replacement is ready. Some demur was made in Parliament to the inclusion of ships building in the busy Dutch yards under the Bill, as endangering the shipbuilding industry, which is just now so prosperous. The Minister stuck to his point, however. Permission to export such new ships will only be given where it is shown that the vessel was destined for abroad from the very commencement of its construction and where the Dutch mercantile fleet is not in definite need of a ship of this sort.

Success? If the thing is unjust thou hast not succeeded.—Thomas Carlyle.

RASH ACT.

Tokio, April 28.—Driven to attempt suicide by the failure of her father on the stock exchange, and consequent poverty, a young Japanese girl recent, by threw herself to the ocean from the top-most cliff of the sacred island of Enoshima. She was caught and pinioned by the branches of a giant tree which leaned far out over the sea. It was not until seventeen hours later that her cries were heard by a fisherman passing in a sampan and she was rescued, seriously but not mortally hurt.

Liberty Hall Shelled.
Belfast, Thursday, Apr. 27, via London, Apr. 28.—7.50 p.m.—Liberty Hall, the headquarters of the Sinn Fein Society in Dublin, was shelled by a gunboat during the rioting early this week in the Irish capital, according to official statements given out here. The first official intimation of the outbreak in Dublin was received here yesterday. Telegraphic and telephonic communication between Belfast and Dublin is still interrupted seriously.

The Belfast News Letter today says it understands the post office at Dublin has been retaken by the military forces. The newspaper also publishes the following statement:

"The police authorities desire the widest publicity in your district of the following:

"During the night (Wednesday?) a royal naval reserve gunboat shelled Liberty Hill, the headquarters of the Sinn Fein force, and it was subsequently occupied. Meanwhile large reinforcements have arrived in Dublin. In other portions of the city the situation is well in hand and repairs to the railway line are being effected rapidly."

News has been received here of the safe return to Dublin of Lord Basil Blackwood, secretary to the Lord Lieutenant, and Lieutenant Murray Graham, who came to Belfast before the outbreak of the disorders in Dublin.

The news of the shelling and capture of Liberty Hall, a ramshackle building the rear of which is toward the Liffey river, caused the greatest satisfaction here.

An official statement from the headquarters of the Irish command in Dublin received at the Victoria Barracks here Wednesday morning said: "Reports from the provinces indicate that normal conditions prevail. The situation in Dublin has improved and adequate forces are at the disposal of the military authorities to cope with it."

GENERAL FRENCH REPORTS.
London, April 29—1.27 a.m.—"The military operations for the suppression of the rebellion in Dublin are proceeding satisfactorily," says a communication issued by Field Marshal French, commanding the home forces, late last night.

"What may be described as the organized forces of the rebels," the communication adds, "are confined to a few localities, the principal one being the Sackville street district, in which the rebel headquarters appear to be the general post office."

"The cordon of troops around this district has been drawn closer, and the rebels in this locality are now confined behind their line of barricades."

"Sniping from houses in which small parties of the rebels have established themselves in various parts of the city still continues. The district where this is most prevalent is that northwest of the Four Courts, which are still in the possession of the rebels. The clearance of these snipers is a matter of time."

"Considerable damage was caused by fires on the 27th, and a large fire is still burning in Sackville street."

"In the other parts of Ireland the principal centers of disturbance are in the county Galway and in Ennis-corthy. Disturbances also are reported at Killarney, Clonmel and Gorey."

"The other parts of Ireland appear normal."

"The general trend of the reports received indicates that the disturbances are local in character."

Redmond Endorsed.
The parliamentary branch of the United Irish League in Great Britain at a meeting here tonight, endorsed John Redmond's condemnation of the Irish "crime."

STREETS ARE EMPTY
Clergyman Gives Graphic Story of Disturbance.
London, April 28.—A graphic story of the situation in Dublin, as told by a clergyman who got away from the city by motor to Belfast, is printed in the Daily Telegraph today. The clergyman said there was hardly a soul to be seen in the streets of Dublin. The rebels had entrenched themselves in St. Stephen's Green overnight, and on Wednesday morning were blazing away promiscuously with their rifles. He was unable to discover at what they were firing.

All around St. Stephen's Green are the houses of gentry judges and leading governmental officials, while at one corner of the green is the Shelburne Hotel, the occupants of all of which are virtually prisoners. At the head of Grafton street, Dublin's fashionable shopping thoroughfare, the rebels had erected strong barricades.

At Dublin Castle there were few traces of Monday's struggle. The entrance was barred up. It was here that two of the earliest fatalities occurred, the policeman on duty at the gate of the castle and the sentry inside both being shot dead.

To reach the city from St. Stephen's Green the clergyman had to proceed by way of York street, whence it was easy to go to the quays. There was no traffic south of Four Courts, which were still in the hands of the rebels, who could be seen inside wearing their green hats. A hospital close by had been completely wrecked and the inmates made prisoners in the upper

BRINGING 1,200 miles from Australia—her nearest relative—New Zealand is probably the most isolated civilized region in the world, and for the reason that most of those who live there are of the same race as ourselves, we should be especially interested in this beautiful country and her people. New Zealand is made up of about 104,751 square miles. The coast lines are very flat generally, and the total circumference of the three main islands is 4,320 miles. The interior of New Zealand is interspersed with hills, valleys and plains, all of remarkable beauty. It has been said that both the scenery and climate of those fair lands resemble those of Italy and Sicily. There is always ample rain but never superabundance of it; azure is the favorite color worn by the sky, and the islands are like emerald and golden gems set in the silver form of the Pacific.

New Zealand is a productive country; the finest sheep and cattle are reared on the rich pastures, and oats, barley and maize are grown in abundance. Along the hillsides there are rich forests, and tracts of elevated ground that are too rocky to produce vegetation that is of commercial value never fall to grow plants that are delightful to the sight of man; no less than 140 species of wild fern are to be found in New Zealand, and many of these are 40 feet in height. There are volcanoes on some of the mountains, and adown the sides of others noisy rivers take their rapid courses. Parrots chatter merrily on the tree tops, and pigeons coo in the recesses of the woods. These are practically the only native birds. Native animals are also few, but European birds and animals, and even fish, have been introduced with success. Gold, coal, copper and sulphur are the chief of the New Zealand minerals. Gold was first discovered in 1853, and since that time something like $350,000,000 worth was found. Auckland is the principal gold mining area. The Canadian Australasian Line has a regular service of fine passenger steamers between Auckland City and Vancouver.

At present the population of New Zealand is something like 1,000,000 people, and nearly all are of British extraction. Still there are 45,000 colored folks. The early inhabitants of the country were the Maori tribe; they came there in their war canoes in the fourteenth century. In 1642 the islands were discovered by Abel Jansson, a Dutch sailor, and Captain Cooke visited the place in 1769. It appears that when the famous captain returned to England he gave the English people a wrong impression of the place; he reported that the islands did not seem to be of much value, also that the Maori people would be a formidable race to attempt to conquer. Anyway, for 70 years after Captain Cooke's visit the British Government did not think it worth the trouble to annex the present proud possession. It was in 1840 that the Union Jack was first hoisted on the shores. At that time the Maori folks numbered 65,000. The decline in the race since then is due to disease and to war, for both have played a big part in the history of the Maori. Before the British came these people warred amongst themselves, and later they warred against the British. Up to 1770 they knew nothing about pottery or metal, and until that period their battle instruments were their fists, clubs and stones—they were even unaware of the existence of bows and arrows. For themselves this was all the better, for immediately after the introduction of guns and swords amongst them fully one-fourth of them became no more. As time progressed those of the Maori who were left progressed also, and between 1830 and 1840 many of them became Christian. Now the Maori children go to school side by side with children of our Southern cousins. Maori representatives take their part in the government of their country. Some of the Maori people are skilled at wood-carving and dyeing; they are an imaginative race; and have delightful poetry and tales to recite and tell. Their homes are pretty and their home life simple.

New Zealand has many things in common with Canada; she is a new country rapidly developing; she is rich; she is patriotic; she has sent thousands of brave soldiers to fight for the Empire in this great war. In New Zealand there are more men than women, and it is quite likely that after the war she will be a resort for some of the superfluous ladies of the Old Country, who, unable to have the opportunity of blessing some man at home, will seek the chance of blessing one abroad.

GENERAL INTEREST (Special to Chronicle)

Montreal, Apr. 28.—So far as Alberta is concerned, the weather conditions for farming in the districts served by the C. P. R. have been excellent. Ploughing and seeding are general. The land is in a good condition of moisture and the seed being put in is in first-class shape. Along the main line and branches north to Red Deer and on the branches south of the main line, 25 p.c. to 30 p.c. of the seeding is completed. Business conditions in Alberta are considered to be in better shape than at any time since the commencement of the war. There is a steadily increasing demand in practically every line of staple goods.

BUY SHIPYARD.

Glasgow, Scotland, April 28.—Byrs & Gylsen, Ltd., who prior to the outbreak of war, were among the most prosperous of Belgian shipowners, have just completed the purchase of an important shipyard on the Clyde. The yard is that formerly owned by the firm of John Reid & Co., Ltd., at Whiteinch, near Glasgow, and covers some seven and a half acres, with up-to-date plant and good river frontage.

CHINESE COMMERCE IS INCREASING.

Peking, April 28.—Chinese commerce with the South Sea Islands has increased very rapidly in recent years, and more than twenty thousand Chinese have entered business operations in those islands. Consequently the minister of foreign affairs is arranging with the British government for the appointment of a Chinese consul to be located in British North Borneo to look after the Chinese interests.

How You May Reduce Your Weight

Overstoutness is a very unwelcome condition especially in the present day, when slender figures are so fashionable, and every reader of this paper has noticed the tendency of some people to put on an excessive amount of fat. If you happen to be one of those whose weight is more than it should be, don't try to starve yourself, eat all you want, but go to your druggist and get oil of orlene in capsule form and take one with each meal. Oil of orlene increases the oxygen-carrying power of the blood and dissolves the fatty tissue, in many cases at nearly the rate of one lb. per day. Be sure to get oil of orlene in capsule form. It is sold only in original sealed packages. Any good druggist has it, or a large size box will be sent on receipt of $1.00. Address D. J. Little Drug Co., Box 1240, Montreal, Can.

NEW YORK MARKET.
(Canadian Press)
New York, April 28.—The same forces that contributed so appreciably to yesterday's strong and active market were again in evidence today, but in more moderate measures. Railroad shares and other investment stocks added variably to their gains, the rise being stimulated by further remarkable statements of earnings.

That portion of the trading element which bases its operations primarily on the foreign outlook inclined to increased hopefulness, most advices, apart from the Irish revolt, making for greater encouragement. The strength of Mexicans also bespoke more confidence in that quarter.

Reading was again the dominant issue among the rails, adding 2 points to its substantial advance of the preceding session, while Union Pacific, Atchison, St. Paul, New York Central and some of the bituminous shares rose a point or more. In well informed quarters it was believed that a satisfactory adjustment of the anthracite controversy would soon be announced.

Gains in the war group showed the irregular range of 1 to 4 points, with 10-12 for Bethlehem Steel, Coppers, oils, motors, sugars and fertilizers improved 1 to 3 points, while half a score of miscellaneous stocks, including American Tobacco and American Coal Products, were lifted 3 to 5 points.

United States Steel was almost the only important stock to hang back, scoring only a slight gain at the outset and manifesting restraint thereafter. For want of a better explanation, Wall street seemed disposed to accept the theory that steel's relative sluggishness resulted from foreign liquidation.

The last hour's trading was enlivened by an urgent demand for Mercantile Marine, the pfd. rising 3-8 to 85, duplicating its record price of the early year. The common rose 7-8 to 24 1-4, within a fraction of its record, recently made. There was no news to account for the uprush in these stocks, which was scored at the expense of most other leading issues, some of which yielded the greater part of their gains of the forenoon.
Total sales amounted to 690,000 shares.

For March, Norfolk and Western reported a net gain of $1,132,000,
Northern Pacific $818,000, Lackawanna
$751,000 and Chesapeake and Ohio $350,000.

Bonds were firm, but without especial feature. Total sales, par value, $2,380,000.

highest price they have ever sold at today. Mo. Power, Dominion-Bridge and Brazilian were all ex dividend today. The Power stocks were again strong, and Montreal Power gained its dividend. Cons. Mining and Smelting was today called on the local market in $25 shares. Shawinigan showed a two point advance. The N.Y. market did very well and, although it did not hold all its advance a good many stocks showed gains for the day. The Mexican news seems to be affecting them at present more than the German situation.

and the necessity of perfect weather and the declaration by a representative of the purchasing agency for the British Government that he was not bearish on wheat on account of the poor American prospects. These are factors which ultimately, we believe, will make for higher prices.

Corn—Corn ruled lower within narrow limits influenced by the break in wheat, lower cables, more favorable weather conditions and reports of more liberal sales to arrive by country deliveries. Most of these sales, however, were for sixty days' shipments.
The cash demand was slower and export demand was reported.

Oats—Scattered liquidation continued in May Oats and values ruled finally lower.

New York—A decidedly strong undertone prevailed throughout today's session of the stock market.
After a generally strong opening, prices pursued a forward trend, coupled with occasional dips, up to the last hour of business when realizing sales caused a somewhat irregular surface appearance.

The day's news was without any pronounced feature, being of a more or less routine character. The advancing tendency displayed received no support from this source, the movement being simply a continuation of the previous day's upturn. Although sentiment, however, continues cheerful, there is a strong inclination toward awaiting further developments in the German and Mexican situation before assuming a definite market position.

northwest induced fairly general selling early under which prices declined about one cent below last night's close. Toward mid-day, however, reports from Oklahoma that green bugs were becoming more active in that state and advices from Missouri that Hessian fly threatened damage with a continuance of the present weather caused shorts to cover and brought about a recovery of the early loss and in addition a gain of 1-4 to 3-8 cent at ences were the issuance of a report by a prominent local authority predicting a reduced acreage in the northwest

STIRRING ADDRESS HEARD BY LADIES CANADIAN CLUB

MGR. LENFANT, BISHOP OF DIGNE, TELLS OF LOUVAIN OCCUPATION.

Monseigneur Lenfant, Bishop of Digne, France, delivered a stirring address before the Women's Canadian Club at the Chateau Frontenac yesterday afternoon on the occupation of Louvain by the Germans.

The distinguished French prelate was introduced in appropriate terms by Mrs. L. A. Cannon, President of the Club. He spoke at considerable length and brought to light many glaring crimes against civilization committed by the Kaiser's hordes since the invasion of Belgium.

Although much has been heard in lectures and press despatches about German atrocities, these previous accounts in no way diminished the interest in the address delivered yesterday, for the speaker was eloquent and frequently waxed enthusiastic.

Having spent much time with the Vice-Rector of the Cathedral of Louvain and with other members of the clergy of the Cathedral and civilians of the once historic and beautiful city, Mgr. Lenfant is in a position to give an authentic account of the conduct of the Germans after the invasion of Louvain.

Mgr. Lenfant's narration of the facts bears out all that has been heard and read of the wanton destruction of the city. The speaker quoted the words of the Vice-Rector of the Cathedral of Louvain and other Belgian Catholic priests, whose testimony, said the lecturer, could not be doubted. The assertions of these clergymen were to the effect that the crimes were barbarous and could not but stir the blood of the civilized world as was shown in the way the sympathy of the universe went out to the brave little nation after those frightful early days of the war.

The lecturer reviewed the allegations of the Huns who sought to right themselves with the outside world by making false statements to the effect that they were fired upon by the civilian population of Louvain. This was a mere pretext, according to Belgians in a position to know, for the Germans to slay innocent non-combatants.

Mgr. Lenfant gave an ensemble of the German nation dwelling on its preparedness, especially as proven in masses of trained men. He reviewed the situation before the war, mentioning the capture of German spies in Belgium and many other well known facts.

The large audience, which showed great interest in every word uttered by the celebrated French Bishop, was visibly affected when he recounted the untold sufferings of the poor Belgians, the flight of the civilians from cities when the enemy swept down upon them; the burning of Louvain and the valuable library in the college.

The noble cause which brought England into the war, the violation of the neutrality of Belgium, a promise which to Germany was but a mere "scrap of paper" brought the applause of the large audience.

Mgr. Lenfant also recounted the glorious stand of the British and French soldiers in the battle of the Mons and Marne and the heroism of the men of the Allied armies in many of the memorable engagements in Belgium and France.

When we think of the Zeppelins, massacre of Armenians by the Turks, the poisonous gases and other of the cruel methods of warfare brought into play by the enemies of civilization we can realize that the cause of the allies, liberty, is brought to us in a more glorious aspect, said the distinguished prelate.

In concluding Mgr. Lanfant expressed the firm conviction that the cause of righteousness would triumph over that of tyranny.

A vote of thanks was proposed by Mrs. (Dr.) Groudin.

Among the large gathering were Hon. P. E. LeBlanc, Lieutenant-Governor, Mde. LeBlanc, Major Victor Pelletier, A.D.C., and several members of the local clergy.

Freckles and Blotches Are Easily Peeled Off

If you are bothered with any cutaneous blemish, it's a poor plan to use paint, powder or anything else to cover it up. Too often this only emphasizes the defect. Besides, it's much easier to remove the disfigurement with ordinary mercurized wax. Applied nightly, the wax will gradually remove freckles, pimples, moth patches, liver spots, sallowness, red blotches or any surface eruption. The affected cuticle is absorbed, a little each day, until the clear, soft, youthful and beautiful skin beneath is brought wholly to view. Ask the druggist for one ounce of mercurized wax and use this like you use cold cream. Remove in morning with soap and water. Many who have tried this simple, harmless treatment report astonishing results.

If troubled with wrinkles or furrows, a wash lotion made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered mastic in 1 pint witch hazel, will prove wonderfully effective.

judgments this afternoon, at half-past two in the following cases:

Veilleux vs. Murray and Gregory. Angers vs. Dumas.

Judgment by Hon. Justice McCorkill.

Labonte vs. Lemay—Whereas plaintiff alleges, in substance, that he is an honest and peaceful citizen, enjoying the respect of his neighbors; that he is married to a good and faithful wife, who is devoted to him, and to the children; that the defendant, who is a sewing machine agent, and had sold a machine to them, tried to alienate the love and affection of his wife from him, and exposed him to the ridicule of his fellow citizens; that plaintiff has suffered in his good name, fame, reputation and in spirit, as well himself as of his wife, and great damage has been caused to him to the value of $500; whereas defendant contests said action, and specially alleges that plaintiff still owes a balance of the price of a sewing machine sold to him by defendant, that defendant is obliged to call at plaintiff's house for the collection of instalments which became due on said price; that the action is malicious and vexatious and was taken only to compel the defendant to grant a discharge of said debt. The court doth maintain said action and doth adjudge and condemn defendant to pay and satisfy to plaintiff the sum of $100, with interest and costs of the action as taken.

Writs and summonses issued from the Prothonotary's office:

Joseph Delage vs. Pierre Dubois, St. Narcisse, $103.10, damages, capias after judgment.

Jacob Schwartzbard vs. Jacob Zeifau, Quebec, $199, damages.

La Cie Gauthier & Freres, vs. L. H. Cummings, Quebec, $155.68, promissory note.

Lincoln Electric Works vs. Emile Ernest Goulet and Leonidas Amedee Belanger, Quebec, $165, account.

Emile Fortier vs. Napoleon Falardeau, Loretteville, $1,083.73.

Germain Arthur Paradis vs. Napoleon Mercier, Ste. Julie de Somerset, $1,480.00, promissory note.

Jos. Alphonse Vezina vs. Adjutor Chabot, Quebec, $154.00.

Dunes and Floods.

(From Mr. H. Warner Allen, the representative of the British Press with the French Army).

The extreme left of the Franco-British line is based on the British Fleet. The right wing is based on the mountainous bastion of Switzerland, and, as I described in a previous article, its apparent limit is an ordinary barbed-wire fence such as bars off many an English pasture. The limit on the left is the North Sea, and "L'Homme de l'extreme gauche," the man of the extreme left, was a little smiling man with a thin moustache, extremely short and merrily pleased at his own small stature, because it afforded so small a target to a splinter or bullet. He was standing there among the sand dunes, enjoying the sun and leaning upon his rifle as he gazed out across the sea on which no enemy ship dare show herself.

The scenery from Dunkirk to the mouth of the Yser is melancholy and monotonous—endless sand dunes of fantastic shape, which have to-day been converted into trench-fortresses. The men who are stationed there have one great advantage—the sand is always dry and mud is quite unknown. To a foreigner there is little that is attractive in the country; it is merely curious and depressing. But to a Belgian it is home—a home that is a thousand times more dear and precious because there is so little of it left. I shall never forget with what reverence and joy a Belgian deputy who was with me knelt down and scooped up a handful of sand, which he placed preciously in an old tobacco pouch, so that he might take it with him in his exile as a relic of his own country. The left wing is still a cardinal point of the line across Europe, and a German success here would have far-reaching consequences. So it is that nowhere along the line have the works of defence been more carefully thought out and prepared.

Desolation of Nieuport.

Few places have suffered more from bombardment than Nieuport. There is scarcely a house left habitable, and not one that is not more or less damaged. The Germans have been prodigally lavish in the heavy shells which they have hurled on the town, and the destruction has that completeness which only results from the use of his explosives in large quantities. The cathedral is as utterly ruined as the Roman Forum. When I was there an eight-inch shell had just struck one of its towers and torn out huge solid blocks of masonry as big as a small house. What was left of the tower was in a state of unstable equilibrium, and every now and then there would come a crash of a big stone breaking loose and falling heavily on the pavement below. Between two arches a portion of the roof still remained, and in the giddy way in which it arched over it recalled the ruins of the Baths of Caracalla. Nieuport was under snow at the time, and it would be hard to imagine anything more picturesque than these ruins glistening in the sun, ruins which one would expect to go back to some far distant century of vandalism. Below lay a little cemetery, in which are buried the Fusiliers Marins who have fallen in the defence. Some of the graves are adorned with statues of saints taken from the shrines in the cathedral. In nearly every case are names on the crosses, those uncouth Breton names which seem to possess in their very spelling a faint savour of the open sea.

Nieuport is a place of cardinal importance. On the extreme left of the line one gains the impression that water is the principal bulwark against the German advance. On the one hand the North Sea, with the British Fleet which guards the wing; floods. These floods, often six or eight hundred yards across, recall the meadows at Oxford after a rapid rise of the Isis. There is only one curious difference—that there is hundreds of posts that rise up out of them. Beneath the five or six feet of muddy water lie the bodies of many thousand Germans, who, with their artillery, were surprised by the rush of the flood. Some of them on higher ground prolonged a miserable existence for an hour or two, and some, indeed, are said to have survived for quite a considerable time by climbing on the heaps of bodies of their companions who had been killed by shell or bullet.

In such a district trenches are, of course, impossible. Earthworks must be built above the ground and the dykes and causeways of the country afford long lines of fortresses. These dykes furnish excellent shelter to the Belgian troops, who are ready to repel any attempt made by the Germans to cross the inundations. The opposing lines are often far apart and long wooden foot-bridges have built out. They may be destroyed by a shell, but they are promptly rebuilt, and the work of destruction and reconstruction goes on continually, as, indeed, it is going on all along the entire front. Curiously enough, it usually costs more to destroy than to reconstruct.

HOMESEEKERS EXCURSIONS TO WESTERN CANADA.

Via C. P. R.

The Homeseekers Excursions which are organized by the Canadian Pacific Railway every year, are now in effect and will continue every Tuesday during the months of April, May, June, July, August, September and October, 1916.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is operating a through train which leaves Montreal for Western Canada at 10.15 p.m. daily. This train consists of modern colonist cars, the berths in which are free, but passengers must supply their own bedding, cars are equipped with cooking range, separate toilets for ladies and gentlemen, etc., unexcelled tourist cars supplied with mattresses, bedding, curtains, etc., first-class coaches and standard sleeping cars.

The C.P.R. is the only All-Canadian route operating regular through trains from Eastern Canada to Western Canada, passing through Port Arthur, Fort William, Winnipeg, Regina, Moose Jaw, Calgary, Edmonton, and through its numerous branches and connections reaches Saskatchewan, Prince Albert, and the Agricultural districts of Northern Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The advantage of the Canadian Pacific direct service without change of cars, are incalculable, especially to families with children, while running wholly through Canadian territory. Immigration inspection, Customs examination of baggage and effects, and other inconveniences are avoided which are incident to a journey through the United States.

For full particulars, tickets, etc., apply to G. J. P. Moore, City Passenger Agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, 30 St. John St., Chateau Frontenac and Palace Station, Quebec.

KING GEORGE IS NOT SO RICH.

London, April 28—King George, who has made a gift of $500,000 to the Treasury for war purposes, is by no means the richest of European monarchs, for though he receives close to $2,500,000 per year, three-quarters of that sum has to be set aside for official expenses. The King of Italy receives $4,000,000 and the Emperor of Austria $5,250,000 from the State, and the two latter like the Czar of Russia, have enormous private incomes.

Improves your skin while cleansing it

Almost any soap will clean the skin and hair. Many toilet soaps are pure enough to do so, without injuring these delicate textures. But those who want a soap which not only cleanses but actually helps the complexion and hair are wise to choose Resinol Soap.

The soothing, healing properties of Resinol enable it to protect the skin and scalp from annoying eruptions, keep the complexion clear, and the hair rich and lustrous. This, soaps which are merely pure and cleansing cannot be expected to do.

When the skin is in bad condition, through neglect or an unwise use of cosmetics, spread over just a little Resinol Ointment for ten or fifteen minutes before using Resinol Soap, Resinol Soap and Ointment are sold by all druggists.
