Miss Beverley Minchinton Aids In Capture Of Hold-up Man

A heartbroken and desperate father of five children was driven to the sidewalk in front of hundreds of shoppers by a flying tackle on Friday, seconds after a Montreal branch of the Bank of Montreal was robbed of $2,000.

Former St. Lambert football tackle and guard Kenneth Schofield, 21, of 252 Sansford street, St. Lambert, pinned the fugitive with one knee and a firm grip on both ears until a police constable came to his aid.

Schofield, an accountant employed in the Mansfield and St. Catherine branch of the Bank of Montreal, thus maintained the bank's record by capturing hold-up men — it was the fourth unsuccessful robbery try at his branch within the last few years.

In addition, it was the third time in three weeks that bank robbers have been captured by flying tackles executed by bank employees.

Police said later that Schofield captured the desperate father of five who had never been in trouble with the police before and who had been beset by extreme financial troubles.

A suspect walked into the bank at 2.40 p.m. on Friday, and handed what appeared to be a cheque to be cashed over to teller Beverley Minchinton.

"All I can remember is that I saw the figure $1,000 on the cheque and I immediately asked the man if he had an account at this branch", said Miss Minchinton, who began working at the bank two months ago.

"He just looked at me and said 'give me the money,' then I saw his gun pointing at me. I told him to get the cheque cashed further down because I said I didn't have that much money. He didn't get excited or anything but just said for me to give him what I had. So I did," she related.

As soon as the man picked up the money, he ran and Miss Minchinton shouted: "Stop that guy!"

At the far end of the counter, Schofield looked up to see the suspect running past him. He hurtled a three-foot high counter and went out the door after him. The suspect fled across St. Catherine street heading west. Schofield, ignoring squealing car brakes and the stares of startled passers-by, cut across the road and brought the running suspect down with a flying tackle.

The $2,000 loot was recovered and police also took a realistic looking toy pistol from the suspect.

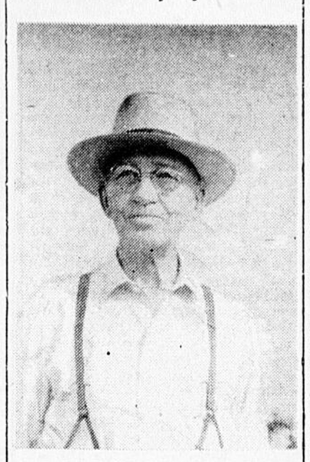
Another Old Timer Enjoys Fair



Shown above is Mr. Zephirin Rousselle, one of the older residents of Huntingdon. This picture was taken at the Huntingdon Fair of this year which he has been attending regularly, particularly since his retirement from business.

Mr. Rousselle met many old friends at the Race Track claiming this to be one of the best meets in years and is looking forward to next year's fair.

Mr. Rousselle was born in St. Philomene, Chateauguay, Co. on June 6th, 1878. At the age of 21 he left for Duluth, Minn. to work as a baker, he later went to Denver, Col. to carry on in the same occupation. In 1904 he proceeded to St. Louis, Miss., and was employed in the bakery of the new Inside Inn Hotel which was built on the grounds at the Universal shop Fair which was being held in that city.

On his return to Canada shortly afterwards, Mr. Rousselle went into business (bakery) for himself in St. Louis De Gonzague, Que. and ran this enterprise for 10 years. In November 1920, he moved to Huntingdon and purchased the Tedstone Bakery which he operated until July 1936. In September of the same year he proceeded to Val D'Or, Que. and went into the sash and door business which he operated under the name of Northern Sash & Door Reg'd., in July, 1944, he sold out and returned to Huntingdon, where he has been living in retirement since.

Mr. and Mrs. Roussell are 84 and 83 years of age respectively and both enjoy good health. They were married in September, 1906, and have a family of four sons and one daughter. They say they do not regret having come to Huntingdon 42 years ago, as they have made many good friends through the years and enjoyed pleasant relationship with everyone.

During the month of August Mrs. J. Daignault spent each Wednesday afternoon keeping the mending in order.

Mrs. Rennie suggested that each of the executive take a few names of these unpaid members to solicit, alleviating some of the task of contacting all these people. Mrs. Rennie and Mrs. Primus have worked very hard on this committee and it is hoped a great many of these unpaid members will be contacted with good results.

At this point Mrs. Mrs. Guerin thanked all the members who had helped to make the Fair projects a success, the donors for parcel post, all the taggers, Mr. W. Kakebeeke who donated 6 beagle pups and Empire TV for a mirror which were used for raffle prizes.

This movie will be held around the middle of October and further details will be seen in the advertising columns of this paper in the very near future. It is hoped that great many will take this opportunity to see a good French movie.

It was also decided at this meeting to hold a tea, food sale and bazaar this year early in December. Further discussion of this project will be held at a later meeting.

Gleaner Starts Its Centennial Year

Yesterday, Tuesday, September 18th, completed the 99th year of the publication of the Huntingdon Gleaner. This issue starts the first in the one hundredth year — or it may be said this is our centennial year of publication. On completion of this year the Gleaner will have completed one hundred years of service in the Chateauguay Valley.

This is no mean accomplishment for a weekly newspaper and this particular newspaper has had its share of up and downs and its moments of pride in being able to share in the advancement of the area and improvement in itself.

Already the management is planning something special when the one hundredth birthday is reached on September 18th, 1963. It is the hope that a special edition will be published at that time which will be significant of the memorable occasion. Plans are being formulated now and already some of the ideas are in effect and being worked upon. It will be a historical edition and those who have memoirs of early days and perhaps pictures, are invited to submit them to the Gleaner. It is possible that a number of such can be used in this special edition. In any event offerings will be given every consideration as to use.

Depending upon the support obtained in the intervening period and at the time of publication of the special edition, will be the extent of our effort.

The Gleaner is now 99 years of age.

Margarine Smugglers Apprehended

One of three men who were charged in Valleyfield Criminal Court with charges of illegal possession and smuggling of American margarine, switched his plea from Innocent to guilty last Friday and was fined $500 and costs by Judge Maurice Fortin.

He was Fernand Leduc, 38, of Montreal, who was arrested at the wheel of a truck stopped by the RCMP at St. Stanislas de Kostka on September 11th. The rented 2½-ton truck was found to contain 6,000 pounds of the illicit commodity. His cohorts face trial in Valleyfield, Sept. 28.

The others arrested were Charles Jolicoeur, 41, of Valleyfield, and Georges Harrand, 45, of St. Telesphore, Que. They were picked up after an RCMP investigation.

All three appeared in court last Wednesday for arraignment and subsequently faced preliminary hearing Friday. They pleaded not guilty and Harrand and Jolicoeur were granted bail of $500 each. Leduc, an RCMP official said, was unable to raise the bail and remained in the cells. Later, however, he decided to change his plea and was sentenced.

The alternative to the fine is three months imprisonment. It appeared that Leduc was prepared to pay the fine, the police said.

Quebec To Get 35 Regional School Boards

QUEBEC — First step in a master plan for secondary education will be completed at the end of the school year with formation of more than 35 regional school commissions, Youth Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie said on Friday.

The youth minister told a press conference that three regional commissions would be set up within two weeks and another 12 formed before June, 1963.

Eleven similar projects are in the process of being organized and should be completed by the end of the school year if the local boards co-operate.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie's master plan for consolidated school boards across the province is being worked out by department planners, area by area, in co-operation with local boards, school inspectors and others.

Initiative in forming a regional board comes from the local boards, he said, and then receives cabinet approval in accordance with the working out of the master plan.

Recent legislation enables local boards to form groups for school construction, maintenance and administration of secondary or high schools — that is classes from eighth to 12th grades.

Both Protestant and Catholic secondary schools are in the scheme as each of their education programs is approved by the relevant committee coming under the department of public education.

Secondary education in the province includes general subjects, home economics, commercial, scientific and classical divisions. In the latter there are two options.

The Catholic committee has additional industrial and agricultural courses which so far are not very widespread.

Co-ordination

The Youth Minister said obligatory education up to 16 years requires not only diverse secondary education across the province but also its co-ordination with professional courses.

"In other words this teaching is for youths, boys and girls, from about 12 to 18 years of age."

"The system also envisages integration with agriculture and normal schools, and adult education, Mr. Gerin-Lajoie declared.

"The plan also envisages organization of greater recreation, and physical culture activities."

"The Youth Minister said creation of regional schools is designed to avoid waste as well as raise the level of education since a consolidated effort provides better facilities for a greater number of children.

"The system also includes transportation of children to and from schools with travelling time, one way, set at a maximum of an hour.

Traffic, Christmas Lighting Among Matters Discussed At B. Of T.

Huntingdon Board of Trade met at the Chateau on Tuesday evening with a fair gathering present and with lots of items to be taken up.

Discussion took place on the question of using the Stedman vacant lot on Chateauguay Street as a parking space. Stedman's have given permission for the lot to be used for such purpose as long as the taxes are taken care of. It was decided to ask the Town Council to waive the taxes in view of what the lot would be used for to assist the town. It was reckoned it would take about $100, for gravel to level off the lot. A committee was formed to look after the project.

In the matter of trees it was decided that all who have requested them will receive them at no cost and that maybe a few extra will be brought in. The Council has agreed to look after the trucking. There has been a splendid response to this plan.

It was announced that the winner of Huntingdon Board of Trade trophy at Huntingdon Fair was Merrill Murray, Elgin, for the Western Parade Class. Merrill was riding a horse owned by Ken Vaughan.

There was a long discussion on the matter of Christmas lighting. Funds will be needed toward this project and it was decided to hold a Theatre Night as an aid in this direction. It was also mentioned that anyone who would like to contribute cash toward this project can do so and it will be appreciated very much.

It was decided that the next meeting would take the form of a dinner and dance and it is hoped that there will be a full turn-out of members.

The Board of Trade is to notify the Quebec Government that it is opposed to any nationalization of electrical power companies, especially the Shawinigan Water and Power Company.

There was lengthy discussion on the matter of traffic at McCoy's Corner and the traffic problem in general. A letter is to be sent to the Town Council on the matter and Mr. Anderson is to interview the Principal at Huntingdon High School while Mr. L'Ecuyer is to interview the principal at R. C. School.

It was a very interesting meeting and much of benefit should come from it.

Lions Sponsor Corn Roast

Through the generosity of the Green Giant Co. and the efforts of the Ormstown Lions Club and the entertainment of the Ormstown Band the people of Ormstown were treated to a concert and corn roast in the park last Saturday evening. Over four hundred cobs of corn were consumed while the band played several selections to accompany the juicy slurpy sounds of the hungry hoards. It was regretable that some people were a little skeptical of the generosity of the Lions. The question was asked over and over again. "Say, whats the gimmick? Is this really free? What are you expecing from me, and so on? The Lions and the Green Giant Co. combined their efforts on your behalf, Mr. and Mrs. Public (and all you little publicans) and decided that you deserved a party. To those of you who came and enjoyed the party and to all those who did not come because you were not "quite sure" whether it was for you, be sure and take advantage of the next party in the park. The Lions are anxious to get the community together occasionally as friends and neighbours. A collection was taken to help defray the cost of butter and other incidentals, but you were not asked for anything really, except your presence.

Calf Club Meetings

About thirty members of the Ormstown Calf Club met at the Henderson Farm, on Tuesday evening. Plans were finalized for Achievement Day which will be held at the Show Grounds on Saturday, Sept. 22. The highlight of the day will be the judging competition when all 4-H members will vie with each other for the Merrill Barrington Trophy. A judging class was conducted on Tuesday evening as a practice measure. Another meeting was held at the farm of Willie Hope in Franklin, on Saturday night, with thirty members present. Judging was also a part of the evening's activities and a lesson in halter making. A vital part of showmanship for 4-H members is that they all must use rope halters and for that reason halter making is a very necessary part of their training. Let's all give these kids a boost by attending their achievement day on Saturday at the Fair grounds.

Mr. James McGerrigle Celebrates 89th Birthday

Mr. James (Jimmie) McGerrigle celebrated his 89th birthday last Sunday, Sept. 10. He spent the day at his home receiving many friends and neighbours. This venerable gentleman is extremely active mentally, in spite of the fact that he does not enjoy excellent health. He is known as Ormstown's walking encyclopedia since his memory of the past is so keen. Not only does Mr. McGerrigle have a fund of vital statistical knowledge stored away in his memory, he can recall in a flash many amusing episodes of the past thereby keeping his visitors on the edge of their seats listening to his tales. His great love of outdoor sports is well known to Ormstownians, he has never missed a winter without donning his skates and skimming around the ice at least once. Last year Mr. McGerrigle did not try the public rink but he did skate on the river and tells us he intends to skate again this winter. He tells us that real hockey players are gone. He does not tolerate the modern version of hockey and spared no words a few months ago when he told a well known Canadian Player just what he thinks of rough body checking and other forms of violence on the ice. "Hockey is a sport of skater's skill," said Mr. McGerrigle, "not a show of bodily strength." These words of wisdom might well be heeded by our youngsters as they think of their hockey careers. We shall look forward to seeing Mr. McGerrigle on skates again this coming season.

Overseas Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Hooker have been pleasantly surprised to receive a letter from Mrs. Wm. Humphrey, who has been visiting her sister in Toronto. Her own home is in New Zealand. Owing to previous plans Mrs. Humphrey found it impossible to accept an invitation to Ormstown. She was returning home by way of Florida. Her husband died last December. Willie Humphrey as a young lad came to Canada from England and spent several years at the home of the late George Hooker. Then he worked in Montreal for some time.

In Toronto he met his future wife, and when he settled in New Zealand, she joined him there and they were married. He died about a year ago survived by a family of children and grandchildren.

A younger brother Percy, who had also lived with George Hooker, homesteaded in Saskatchewan where he died a number of years ago.

The latest message received by the Earle Hookers from Mr. and Mrs. Ray Busbee came from Washington, D.C., where they were spending part of a furlough before returning to their missionary duties in Indonesia.

The paternal grandfathers of Mrs. Busbee and Earle were brothers, William and Edwin Hooker. The forner, a firstborn son probably born in England before his parents left London to emigrate to Canada made his home in Constable, N.Y. He was a veteran of the American Civil War, 1861-65. He is still remembered as a man of fine bearing, but with one armless sleeve, a reminder of war experience.

Information Sought

A letter from Mrs. H. L. Daughenbaugh, Sr., 224-A Jewel Street, New Orleans 24, Louisiana, requesting information about the Marshall family who settled at Covey Hill, around 1818, was received at The Gleaner office this week.

The specific information asked is as follows: (1) Who were the parents of Mary R. Marshall, born February 12th, 1863? It seems they died when she was two years old which date would be 1865 or 1866. Her birth name may not have been Marshall for her uncle and aunt, the William Marshalls adopted her. However, she was a niece of William's. In this case her mother could have been William's sister, Maria M. born in 1838. (2) Also information is requested regarding Mary J. Marshall who was buried in Covey Hill Cemetery in 1864 at the age of 32.

Anyone able to supply the above requested information or can give any clues as to where it might be found, are asked to write The Gleaner Office. All replies will be promptly forwarded.

RED CROSS MEETING - Howick

HOWICK — A meeting of the Howick Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society was held on Wednesday, September 12th, at the home of the President, Mrs. C. Fletcher for the purpose of organizing a Blood Donor Clinic at Howick.

Mrs. Johnston from Red Cross Headquarters was present at this meeting and gave a very informative talk on the organization of a Blood Donor Clinic and also, how important it is that each and everyone who is able should contribute to this worthy cause.

Mrs. Cecil Younie will be in charge of the Blood Donor Clinic to be held on Monday, September 24th from 2.00 p.m. to 4.30 p.m. in the afternoon and from 7.00 p.m. to 9.30 p.m. in the evening at the Howick Curling Club.

"RALLY DAY" AT GEORGETOWN CHURCH

On Sunday, September 9th., a large congregation was present in Georgetown Church, Howick, for the Annual Sunday School Rally Day and Commissioning of Teachers and Leaders Service.

The theme of the service was "I will build my Church", Rev. W. M. Brown, who conducted the service, challenged all present with the question, "What makes a Christian?". It was necessary to know the answer to that question, before one could hope to be a builder within the Church of Jesus Christ. Loyalty to God and love for Jesus Christ are the first requisites and marks of the Christian. Therefore, to be a true Christian, one must belong, one must be a part of, one must have a place within the Body of Christ, which is the Church, if one hoped to be a builder of His Church.

At the close of the sermon, all teachers and leaders came forward to answer the questions in the "Act of Commissioning" and, finally, the congregation rose to give assent to the pledge of loyalty and support in prayer, worship, and service, both in the Church and in the world.

There was a full attendance of Sunday School children. Also present were a number of visitors from other places and churches, including Mr. Lorne Palmer, from Bowen Island, Bristish Columbia. Mr. Palmer, an octogenarian, is visiting with his daughter, Mrs. Norman Simms, of Howick, and flies back by 'Jet' to B.C. on September 17th.

The service was brought to a conclusion with the singing of "The Church's one foundation is Jesus Christ our Lord."

Howick U.C.W. Meeting

A general meeting of U.C.W. was held in the Church Hall on Tues., Sept. 11 at 8.15 p.m. with the president Mrs. M. Brown in the chair. The Worship Service was taken by Mrs. Murray Templeton, Stewarship Secretary. The scripture reading was from Ephesians 1, and was followed by a prayer of Thanksgiving.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Smith, Secretary of Christian Stewardship of the Montreal Presbyterial was introduced by Mrs. Joan Ness.

Mrs. Smith, who is a medical doctor and also the daughter of a medical missionary in China, gave a most worth-while and inspirational talk. She reminded us of our blessings. We have so much that women of the eastern countries lack. We all have the same number of hours each day but the western woman has many time-saving household aids which gives her more spare time. This can be used to best advantage for fellowship, witness and service.

Medical care is another blessing. Having family and friends is also a blessing, but when separated from them a great loss is experienced. In our larger group of U.C.W. we have a great deal of talent. We must develop this and make use of their different skills. Lastly we find that money is also a blessing. It is astonishing the good it accomplishes in hospitals, in schools and in training. Our marine mission boats on both Atlantic and Pacific coasts bring comfort and medical care to many lonely people.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Evelyn Lamb.

The date set for our annual turkey supper is Oct. 4. Plans were made for the Rally and Workshop which is to be held on Sat. Sept 29 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Dinner will be served at noon.

We were pleased to learn that Mrs. Evelyn Lamb and Mrs. Ruth Ness have been appointed leaders for the Siloki G.G.I.T. meetings to commence very soon.

Mrs. Robt. Tolhurst had a number of books on display. Two new study books called 'On the Rim of the East' and 'As Asia Goes' deserve mention.

Special mention was made of the meeting in London, Ont. of the General Council. It was agreed to look after decorating the church for thanksgiving. The meeting closed with prayer, after which refreshments were served by the Howick group.

Wasting Our Children

Judging by the reports in the news from the past few years, we are fairly generous with our young children — generous to the point of not doing everything in the world to keep them safe and sound and tight in the family. Very rarely does a week go past without a news item on one or more tiny youngsters being burned to death, killed in traffic accidents or drowned in water near their homes.

It isn't easy to inculcate upon the mind of a toddler of a year-and-a-half or even up to five years, that those moving objects in the road can take away from him the power to play or run or walk with his Dad, for the rest of his life. It isn't easy for Mother or Gran or any other guardian, to keep an eye on a two-year-old for hours on end; or to realize that in that construction job across the street or the lake in the park, there is the agent that can take the life of a tiny child who has set his heart in getting to it. Children are determined; they are sly, too, in watching when the guardian eye is directed elsewhere. Those tiny feet can sneak out of the door, down the verandah steps and away to the enticing danger.

Children as young as five years old have more intelligence than adults give them credit for. Sitting up beside Mom and Dad in the family car, the child sees just what is done to make the car start. You may spend fifteen minutes trying to get the car started but a few pushes here and there with tiny fingers when no adult is watching may get the car purring. If there is a slope to the driveway or street, the car may move with the miniature driver at the wheel. This has happened quite a few times.

Children have voracious appetites, with little discrimination. Cleansing fluids, disinfectants, liquid cosmetics, adult medicines and those very candy-like pills — they're so inviting and little tykes can't resist them. And the medicine or home remedy that adults may safely use in generous doses may take the life of a toddler, who finds and eats or drinks it. Lock medicine cabinets and kitchen cupboards where dangerous substances are stored.

A four-year-old may find his Dad's gun and ammunition. The bright little mind may hold the fact that Dad pops one of those shiny looking shells into that gun — TV may have given him careful instruction on how a feller goes after the bad guy — well, the victim may be another young child or any member of the family who comes within range. Lock the gun away, preferably in two pieces. Lock ammunition away separately. What's to be done with the small fry? You can't tie them up, or put them into a runway, like the dog, although a well built, safely constructed oversized play-pen could be a safety deposit for the very small one. To keep him from traffic hazards, don't let a very small child play alone on the sidewalk or out in his own yard unless there is a fence or gate that he cannot negotiate. Keep an eye on him at short intervals — make sure he hasn't managed to "fly the coop".

Leave the car locked and don't make the key available to prying little fingers — they can unlock car doors and ignition.

As for fires — don't leave matches, fuel oils or lighters around. Don't leave small children alone in the house at any time of the day. Perhaps a little extra care and imagination will help to cope with the too active youngster and save the waste of little Canadians.

ST. ALEXIS DES MONTS, Que. (CP) — More than a third of the population of St. Alexis des Monts attends elementary school. A school board report lists 750 children attending classes in this central Quebec village of 2,000.

HEAVY DRINKERS

LOUISVILLE, Que. (CP) — A new water filtration plant in this town of 4,500 processed a daily average of 1,389,000 gallons in February, with consumption ranging as high as 1,707,000 gallons in a day. Capacity of the plant is 2,000,000 gallons daily.

The new science of bionics reveals that many wild creatures have fantastic "special-purpose" mechanisms: a rattlesnake has an infrared sense organ which can detect temperature changes of 1/1000th of a degree; a mosquito's hum can cut through any noise and convey a message to another mosquito 150 feet away. Bionics is trying to see how these skills could be copied by man, says Reader's Digest.

Preliminary results of a study of average incomes related to education levels in Canada show that in 1959 men with no schooling had an annual average income of $1,648, finished elementary school $3,266, finished high school $4,638, finished university $7,046.

Diary Of A Vagabond

WOMAN IN THE WILDERNESS

If someone were to ask me if I found the prairie provinces backward in development as I tripped about during these past few weeks, I could be quite corny and say, "Not by a dam site". I learned more about hydro developments, kilowatt potential, expected industrial growth, paradise for fishermen (when all these dammed up rivers produce man-made lakes that will be stocked with sporting fish) and of all things the system of grouting, than I have been able to absorb during the years I have existed on this planet.

The only way I could absorb this whole burgeoning process was to actually be there. I watched men working all the daylight hours at Manitoba's Grand Rapids Power development, hardly concerned with the fact they had been slugging at the job for more than eight hours. Here was the old spirit of pioneering, reborn. There was no clock watching, few took advantage of their "coffee break" to visit the commissary for cold drinks. They were all aware of construction's chief enemy, weather, and on this sunny day they were each and everyone of them putting their backs into the task.

They are getting paid for their labor, and well; for work in these isolated areas demands a high wage. But there was something completely divorced from a monetary aspect in their attitude toward their job. Maybe it was the challenge of harnessing nature, or wrestling with limestone and conquering the chances of seepage by forcing concrete into pockets where shale could seriously weaken the structure. It could have been all of these things or only one for each group of workers had their own special tasks, their own deadlines to meet.

There are 1,400 men on the job this summer where eventually there will be about 48 in residence at the dam site. They can come in by road, built by the Manitoba Government and Hydro as fast as a mile a day when construction first started, or they can fly in and out as we did. There is no longer complete isolation on these projects. And yet for the most part, they and their families — many residing in trailer camps and some as squatters in tar-paper shacks, are content to stay on the job.

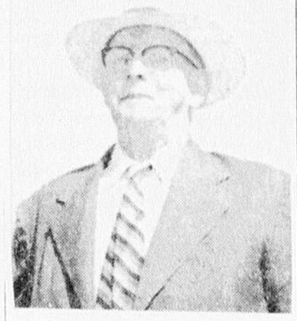
Many Benefit

I was flown 275 miles due north as the guest of the Manitoba Government for they want the citizens of Canada to learn about this provincial government's contribution toward helping to solve the country's economic problems. Prospects of what this power development may mean to industry and even tourist trade, was enlightening.

Two hundred thousand tons of cement will be required before the job is finished, more than half for grouting purposes. This must be transported. With no rail service into the area, the CN is using trucks to handle freight. Heavier commodities such as steel for reinforcing is brought in by barge during the summer months and stockpiled. Quantities of cement are stored in four huge steel silos. This all fans out like fingers from a palm providing jobs in many other categories than construction and eventually through this vast electrical potential, attracting new industries.

A splendid school has been built where Indian and white child alike integrate harmoniously. There is a modern hospital where babies are born, alcoholics are sobered up, operations performed and broken bones set. There is a smart motel, and a shopping centre is also planned.

Havelock Fair "Bigger and Better"



ROBERT C. WHYTE

Better know as "Bob" Whyte to a host of friends in the Havelock-Hemmingford area, this spry octogenarian has been attending Havelock Fair since he was five years old. Mr. Whyte, a nattily dressed gentleman, lives at Covey Hill with his wife Muriel and one son, Ross, who is presently a director of the Havelock Fair Board. Mr. Whyte himself was a director for 47 years, vice-president for six years and president for five.

Mr. Whyte says there is a great difference in the manner of exhibiting cattle nowadays. Years ago, farmers used to take the cattle from the pastures, drive them to Havelock Fair, and show them. Today, the cattle must be cleaned and groomed almost as much as their owners before they appear in the show ring Bob Whyte is an Ayrshire man and took keen interest in the Red and White show at Havelock Fair.

Mrs. Allan Thompson of Granby, Mr. and Mrs. Whyte's only daughter, was unable to be present at the 1962 Havelock Fair although she has missed very few in recent years. Mrs. Thompson, like her father, has a large apple orchard and enjoys the apple displays at Havelock Fair.

Being an official of Havelock Fair for so many years, the present Board may be justly proud of the fact that Mr. Whyte said Havelock Fair "is getting bigger and better each year".

Mr. Whyte has relatives throughout the Counties of Huntingdon and Chateauguay and, incidentally, is an uncle of R. A. "Bob" Whyte of Huntingdon.

What Would You Do In These Driving Emergencies?

Do you know what to do if your brakes fail going downhill, or an oncoming car swerves out of control into your lane? Research by highway patrols and insurance companies has established beyond dispute the best manuevers in such crucial situations, says an article in the Reader's Digest. These manuevers can be practiced in the imagination over and over again. When sitting in your car in your driveway, confront your mind's eye with each crisis and rehearse your reactions until they become automatic. Even if you recall merely the one thing you must NOT do, that, in many instances, can save your life, says a leading safe-driving expert.

If you have a blowout, DON'T BRAKE! Grip the wheel hard and STEER STRAIGHT. Give a little gas — on, off, on, off, lightly — to restore steering control. When you've slowed down, lightly apply your brakes until you can safely turn off the road.

If an oncoming vehicle swerves out of control on a two-lane highway and heads directly for you, blast your horn — the driver may be asleep; hit your brakes and head off the road to the right — you may change the head-on collision into a less dangerous "sideswipe." And keep going, to get out of the other car's reach. But if there is no time, flip off your ignition to lessen chance of fire and brace yourself on the seat or person to the right, away from the steering wheel. Curl your legs right to your torso and your arms to your chest.

If your brakes fail when going downhill, yank on the emergency brake with all your might and shift to a lower gear. If you have a stick shift, pump your brake pedal up and down fast; this sometimes restores some braking power. If you're not slowing down, check your car by deliberately bumping it against road-side guardrails, hedges, fences or stone walls. Or, if absolutely necessary, "hit the ditch" at the slickest soft spot.

Canada Leads In Reguest For Better E.C.M. Terms

No one was really surprised when Canada, Australia and New Zealand reiterated at the London conference of Commonwealth prime ministers their concern over Britain's projected entry into the European Common Market.

After all, their views have been clear for many months. They have regularly indicated they are worried that Britain will be unable to protect their trade interests in negotiations for membership in the six-nation ECM.

But there was some surprise when other members of the Commonwealth made their feelings known last week. If anything, India, Ceylon, Pakistan and Ghana were even stronger in expressing their misgivings.

The general attitude seemed to be that British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was not being precise enough when he said Britain would enter ECM only "subject to satisfactory safeguards for other Commonwealth countries."

Wants Better Terms

Prime Minister Diefenbaker set the pattern for the meeting when he said the Canadian government regards as inadequate the trade assurances Britain has so far obtained in negotiations. He said he would like Britain to press for better terms and added that a further prime ministers' conference should be held before Britain makes up her mind.

All Commonwealth members share the same basic fears about Britain's proposed membership. At present they can ship most of their products duty-free into the British market. For Canada this meant that, $600,000,000 worth of exports to Britain last year, all but four per cent went in duty-free.

If Britain joins the Common Market it will mean that within 10 years much, if not all, of this tariff preference will disappear. This will hurt Canada which last year did 16 per cent of her export trade with Britain. But it will hurt New Zealand and Australia more and, from the strong statements used by other Commonwealth members, it appears they are even more fearful.

Britain Determined

Despite these statements there is no indication that Prime Minister Macmillan is any less determined to press forward with the negotiations and the question now seems to be whether Britain will be able to obtain terms reasonably satisfactory to her Commonwealth partners.

In discussing alternatives to Britain's entry, Prime Minister Diefenbaker mentioned the possibility of expansion of trade within the Commonwealth. However, it appears more likely that in the long run the possible solution to the problem of loss of trade preference in Britain may come from Washington.

President Kennedy is within sight of his goal of winning Congressional approval for his plan to negotiate important tariff cuts with the Common Market countries. Under international trading agreements, such cuts would also be available to other nations and in time this could mean that Commonwealth countries could make up the most, if not all, of the losses from the removal of preferential tariffs in Britain.

Choose New Moderator

The United Church of Canada got a new moderator when Dr. James R. Mutchmor of Toronto was elected at the 20th General Council in London, Ont., to succeed Rt. Rev. Hugh A. McLeod.

Dr. Mutchmor, 70, is an outspoken moralist who served as secretary of the United Church board of evangelism and social service for 25 years.

Dr. McLeod stirred a controversy with his final message when he said an influx of Roman Catholic immigrants may bring an end to "liberty as we know it." Catholic churchmen reacted by denouncing the statement as "irresponsible" and "ridiculous."

The council took up the question of divorce, suggesting a royal commission be set up by the federal government to consider adding wilful desertion for three years, gross cruelty and insanity that fails to respond after five years of treatment as additional grounds. At present adultery is the only grounds for divorce in most provinces.

Soblen's Death

Dr. Robert Soblen, the convicted American spy, died in a London hospital last week, ending the legal battle over attempts to send him back to the United States to serve a life sentence. An overdose of a drug that was later found to have come from the United States led to his death.

Soblen had skipped $100,000 bail in June and had fled to Israel. He was expelled from there and put on a plane bound for New York but attempted suicide and was removed from the aircraft for treatment in London. His death came after he had exhausted legal attempts to avoid being sent back to the U.S.

New Cuban Crisis

Reports of a big Soviet troop buildup in Cuba have produced new tensions. Some U.S. political leaders indicated they were strongly in favor of American military action against the Caribbean island but President Kennedy said such action is neither required nor justified at this time. Moscow got into the act by saying that any U.S. attack on the island could result in nuclear war.

Fear Violence

Rev. Martin Luther King, a leader of the Negro campaign for racial equality in the southern United States, is noted for his insistence that the campaign avoid violence. But, he says, there are elements among Negroes who don't agree.

He sent a telegram to President Kennedy saying that some Negroes are arming themselves and that unless the pace of desegregation is stepped up there may be a "dark night of rioting."

The telegram came after two Negro churches in a farm community near Albany, Ga., had been destroyed by fire, one of a series of attacks on Negro property.

Migratory Bird Regulations For Quebec

There will be no open season for canvasback and redhead ducks in Quebec this year according to the 1962 Migratory Bird Regulations, details of which were released today by the Canadian Wildlife Service, Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources. This action has been taken to further protect these birds which continued to decline seriously. The population of canvasbacks and redheads has now reached a dangerously low level and hunters are asked to be particularly careful not to kill any of these ducks.

The daily bag limit for wood ducks remains 2, but the possession limit has been raised from 2 to 4. Also, on or after October 27, two additional scaup or goldeneye ducks may be taken each day. The possession limits have been changed and it is now permissible to possess an additional 12 ducks in a person's residence or in a cold storage locker.

Those persons who hunt migratory birds on Lake St. Francis will be affected by a new regulation concerning the placement of blinds and decoys. In that portion of Lake St. Francis south of the main navigational channel and west of the line running southeasterly from navigational buoy No. 71F to the eastermost of two navigational lights near Pointe Dupuis, no person shall use a blind or decoy at a greater distance than 200 yards from the shore of the Lake, a natural rush bed thick enough to conceal a boat, or the waterline forming a boundary of private property.

The 1962 bag and possession limits in Quebec for ducks are 6 and 12, but after October 27 the bag limit is increased by 2 scaup or goldeneye ducks, an additional 4 of these species may be possessed. The bag and possession limits for rails, coots, and gallinules are 6 and 12, and for woodcock 8 and 16. The bag limit for Wilson's snipe is 8, with no possession limit. The daily limit for geese is 5 and there is a possession limit of 15, not more than 10 of which may be a species other than greater snow goose.

Anyone who has a permit to keep migratory birds must not allow the birds to come within one-quarter mile of any waterfowl hunting area. If migratory birds held under permit are found within that limit, it is assumed under the law that they are being used as live decoy.

Baiting regulations have been changed across Canada, and it is now permissible to hunt within one-quarter mile of an area which has been baited, whereas previously the limit was one-half mile.

The season dates are:

Ducks (other than Canvasbacks and Redheads), Geese, Rails, Coots, Gallinules and Wilson's Snipe

Championship Plowing Match Taking Place At St. Telesphore

It is almost 140 years since the first plowing match was held in Western Quebec; that was in 1823 at Ste. Martine in Chateauguay county, and on that occasion there were seven English-speaking farmers and five French competitors. This year another bilingual plowing match is being planned in Western Quebec, across the St. Lawrence River in Soulanges county.

The top plowmen of Quebec will be competing at the 8th annual Quebec Provincial Championship Plowing Match to be held at St. Telesphore on September 28 and 29, in conjunction with the annual Soulanges County Match. Teams of two plowmen from at least seven counties, from the Eastern Townships to the Ottawa Valley will be vieing for the honor of representing Quebec in the National championships next year.

In addition to the Quebec Championship represented by the Esso Trophy, there will be a Junior championship class for young plowmen under 20, as well as more than a dozen local classes, when entries from nearby Eastern Ontario are expected to add interest and keen competition to the annual Soulanges County Plowing Match.

The two-day program will be climaxed on Saturday night by a banquet in the St. Telesphore High School.

You Could Shut Yourself Off from Training Opportunities

Industrial methods and machines are becoming more and more complex, with the result that industry generally is demanding that a young person entering apprenticeship or other training positions, has a good knowledge of high school subjects including mathematics and science. Without these, he may never get a chance to take specialized training.

You could find yourself in dead-end employment. Jobs requiring little training or education are often dead-end jobs. Many persons who leave school early, ill-equipped to meet the needs of business and industry, find themselves in jobs which have little future and limited promotion possibilities. You could be headed for a lifetime of insecurity perhaps even unemployment. It is generally true that a company or business keeps its most highly skilled and trained employees during slack periods or when changeovers to new machines and processes are taking place. The unskilled and untrained workers are usually the first to go. Even if a skilled or well-educated man is released from work, his chances of getting a job elsewhere are increased by the fact he has a high degree of training or education.

There are more than one and a half million women in Canada with paid jobs, and the largest group of women workers is in manufacturing.

The Child's Vision And Its Development

The child learns to see as he learns to walk and talk. Here is a truth that parents and teachers must never forget. This development of vision can be done for better or for worse.

The visual experiences of the child are acquired spontaneously but confusedly. The child must learn to distinguish them, classify them, order them, apprehend their significations. It is through practice and exercises that visual knowledge will become gradually more distinct. In this process of development, the sense of touch and the local movements of the child play a very important part.

The child learns to see equally at the level of his nerves and muscles. He must develop the motility of his eyes, their convergence at near point, their adaptation at different distances, their brain coordination, their ability of fixation. All these things require many years of exercices.

Although the child is born with visual mechanisms and a natural aptitude to see, these visual mechanisms and this natural aptitude develop under the interior drive of the organism and along the visual requirements of the environment. But if the visual tasks of the child are too hard for his degree maturity, his visual mechanisms tend to deteriorate. So visual problems appear, as the binocular disorganization and myopia.

The science of optometry reveals to us that when the child begins to go to school at the age of 5 or 6, he has not yet reached the visual maturity to cope with the school task. Therefrom the frailty of his visual mechanisms which can suffer easily from tensions and degeneration.

The optometrist can alone save the situation. In regard to the first symptoms, he will prescribe at near point glasses that will reduce the tensions and facilitate the comprehension. More than that he will prescribe visual training to strenathen the child's visual system and make it very easily operating.

PASTEURIZATION

The universal pasteurization of milk should be one of Canada's health objectives. Reference was made to this fact in the brief presented to the Royal Commission on Health by the Health League of Canada.

There is no question about the facts. Milk is characterised as one of the best of all foods, yet, although it is nutritious for humans, it is also nutritious for bacteria. Therefore, unpasteurized milk may carry a variety of diseases. Raw milk has an effect on the increase of infant mortality, epidemics of milk borne typhoid have not been unusual, Undulant Fever and Tuberculosis also may have their origin in milk which is not pasteurized. Therefore, the need for pasteurization is very evident.

The Health League of Canada in its brief to the Royal Commission stated that considerable progress has been made in cities and although there has been a resultant decrease in milk borne disease, yet all milk is not pasteurized, even in cities, while in rural areas, it is not known how much milk is pasteurized.

The Health League has been continuously campaigning for universal pasteurization of milk. In cities a law for the compulsory pasteurization of milk would be effective. In many rural areas compulsion seems to be impossible. The only solution is a wide spread campaign of education which it is hoped, will lead to compulsory pasteurization of milk in all provinces. At the moment, legislation exists in only two provinces, Ontario and Saskatchewan. In view of the fact that compulsory pasteurization in the rural areas is difficult, a continuous campaign as to the virtues of pasteurization becomes necessary not only for the sake of people living in rural areas, but in order to create the public opinion which will ultimately result in more Province-wide laws.

Canada-Sized Desert

The total area of the Sahara Desert is 3,500,000 square miles, not far short of the area of Canada, points out the Book of Knowledge, from east to west. Its greatest length is 3200 miles, width is 1400 miles.

Staff of Canada's federal government in March, 1962, including its departments, corporations and agencies, numbered 337,083, and payroll for the month was $127 million.

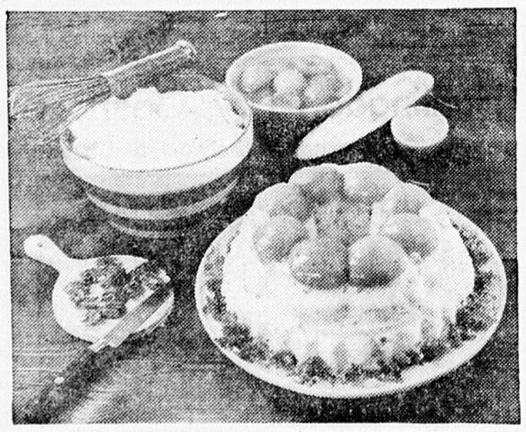
NEW GOLDEN DISCOVERY IN SALADS



Precious gold was discovered 66 years ago in the northwest corner of our country and August 17th is still celebrated in that territory to mark the event. As wonderful as the gold from the Yukon is this Golden Apricot Salad from Carnation Company Limited, ideal for any festive occasion, yet economical and easy to make with instant pasteurized powdered skim milk . . . so convenient to use, rich tasting.

Golden Apricot Salad
(Makes about 8 servings)

1 cup canned apricot syrup (or apricot syrup and water)
1 3-ounce package lemon-flavored gelatin.
2½ cups canned apricot halves (1 28-ounce can, drained)
½ cup chopped cucumber
½ cup chopped pecans
1/3 cup mayonnaise
2½ cups whipped instant pasteurized powdered skim milk*

Heat syrup or syrup and water to boiling point. Add gelatin; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Chill until thickened. Arrange 8 apricot halves in bottom of 1½-quart mold. Chop remaining apricot halves. Add chopped apricots, cucumber, pecans and mayonnaise to gelatin mixture. Blend. Mix with whipped instant skim milk powder. Spoon into salad mold. Chill until firm (about 3 hours). Unmold. Garnish with crisp salad greens, as desired.

To whip instant pasteurized powdered skim milk (Makes about 2½ cups).
1. Mix ½ cup instant skim milk powder with ½ cup ice water.
2. Whip until soft peaks form (3-4 minutes). Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

New A. R. Alphabet Wins High Praise In British Trials

LONDON (AP) — A new 43-letter alphabet being tried out in some British schools is being hailed by its author and by teachers as an outstanding success. It was devised by Sir James Pitman, grandson of a pioneer in shorthand writing.

Of his new alphabet, Sir James said: "the teachers are getting results that are out of this world."

"Reading has lost its terror for the children," said Reginald Yeates, headmaster of the Roxeth primary school at Harrow. This is one of the 24 schools in England where Pitman's "A. R." (Augmented Roman) alphabet is undergoing a trial run.

"The biggest experiment in education ever carried out in this country... I think all teachings of reading will be by this method once the scientific findings are published after two years," Yeates added.

The Augmented Roman alphabet was introduced in Britain a year ago. Some 1,000 children, aged 4, 5 and 6, are the guinea pigs.

19 New Letters

The new alphabet contains 24 of the 26 traditional letters and 19 new ones. Missing are "q" and "x" and included are new characters to provide for every sound in the English language.

The new alphabet doesn't remain with the children as they grow up. Its purpose is to teach Johnny how to read. Then, he switches over to the old fashioned alphabet and reads with confidence.

The transition from the new to the old way of spelling comes more quickly than anticipated, A. R. supporters say.

A visit to the Roxeth primary school is a fascinating experience. Tots read with glee and eagerness. They read in English from characters on the blackboard that look like archaic print.

The new alphabet contains no capitals — "wuns upon a tiem" starts most fairy stories. There are "siks appls" to use in counting.

In the new alphabet each letter represents one sound only. "Th" has two forms — a soft sound as in "think" and a hard one as in "the." The soft one has the tail of the "t" extended below the line. The hard "t" has its tail turned to the left. There are many new characters combining two of the old ones.

Headmaster Yeates looked proudly at the children as they read a blackboard lesson in the new alphabet.

"They are confident of their ability to read. They are no longer apprehensive," he said of the 36 toddlers in the class under the wing of Miss Valerie Kemp. She was just as enthusiastic.

Yeates declared: "I'm going to wind up this class still in the infant department and yet able to read fluently. They'll just have to be provided with more books to read."

He explained that those children who have changed over already to traditional spelling, can be handed a book — in the regular alphabet — and they read fluently.

"The children are able to read a year earlier than usual," he said. "They are far in advance of the standard expected of children using traditional spelling."

Hemmingford High School Fair A Great Success

Best ever was the description Mrs. L'Esperance gave of this year's School Fair which was held on Thursday, Sept. 6th.

On Friday, September 14th, the pupils, teachers, a few parents and interested friends gathered in Hemmingford High School Auditorium for the presentation of prizes won at the School Fair. Mrs. L'Esperance, Convener of Agriculture for Hemmingford Women's Institute branch who award the prizes for this Fair, gave a few details. Eighty-two boys and girls took part, with a total of approximately 450 entries. One enthusiastic pupil — Miss Ruth Marlin — entered 37 exhibits and won 20 prizes. She remarked that much thought and imagination had been put into the entries and that the ladies of the W.I. were very proud indeed of the children who took part and thanked all who had made it such an outstanding success.

Mr. R. Reid, who judged the vegetables was unable to attend the presentation but he stated that the judging of the exhibits had been a very difficult task owing to the large number (125) and high quality of the entries. On account of this he awarded a fourth prize in some cases which he donated.

Flowers and hobbies were well supported. Lots of interesting ideas appeared in the latter group. We hope for even more next year.

Mr. A. Round, who judged the flowers stated he was very pleased with the number of outstanding exhibits shown by the younger children, and hoped next year the older students would give more support to this particular part of the Fair. He complimented the exhibitors on the show as a whole, commenting particularly on the display of cosmos, asters and marigolds. He also offered a few hints on keeping flowers fresh and on the arrangements of them in baskets and vases.

Mrs. Watler Keddy said it had been difficult to pick prize winners in this group as all the work turned in had been of very high quality. She remarked particularly on the hemstitching on a well made pyjama case and the original ideas put into the aprons.

Mrs. Hooper, one of the judges of Hobbies, Collections, Paintings, Models, Scrapbooks, etc., was amazed at the great variety of interest among the pupils, and very impressed with the work that had been turned in in this particular category. The judges here too had a difficult time to decide on winners as so many different articles had been entered. She had a special word for the poetry and verse exhibits and stated she would like to see more of this type of entry next year. Scrapbooks were well made and interesting. While most of the paintings were of the "paint by number" type, and painstakingly done — who knows? — perhaps next year we may have some free-hand artists with entries in the Fair! She hopes for even more new ideas next year.

Miss Northup was the judge of the Essays, and here again was confronted wwith a difficult task, as all were on different subjects and the age group varied. She was pleased with the increase of entries over last year.

In the Baking Group, Mrs. Lucas and Miss LaCasse were the judges. They were both unable to attend the Presentation but sent in a few suggestions for the young cooks. They noticed (1) too much baking powder and salt had been used in cakes. (2) Too much artificial lemon flavouring had been used in date squares. (3) Take more care with the icing of cakes. Mrs. L'Esperance told the girls to look to their laurels as the boys had run a close second in the culinary art.

The knitting was wwell done but we hope for more entries next year.

Mrs. L'Esperance had found the judging of the Photography very interesting but told the children when taking a picture it is important that the object of interest should be in the centre.

The prize-giving followed, Mrs. J. Robertson announcing the winners and Mrs. L'Esperance presenting the money. Group 1 includes ages 6-12. Group 2 includes ages 13-18: —

Austerity Measures Having Results In Righting Canadian Economy

The emergency austerity measures imposed on Canada 11 weeks ago have been partly relaxed. The pegged lending rate of the Bank of Canada has been dropped to 5½ per cent from "the high level" of six.

A sign of slightly easier credit, this moderate reduction in the bank rate came as the country's foreign exchange reserves were climbing and short-term market interest rates were declining. But the bank rate still remains pegged. If it were free to float with the government treasury bill market — as it did before June 24 — it would be around 5.32 per cent.

The central bank's statement said the reduction follows a strengthening of confidence in the Canadian dollar, reflected in the increases in the official exchange reserves. These increases amounted to $216,600,000 in August alone.

Cautionary Note

But the bank's statement included this paragraph:

"The governor (Louis Rasminsky) said that the reduction in the bank rates was not to be taken as indicating a view that Canada's balance of payments problem had been solved, and he emphasized that there was continuing need for long-run constructive measures to improve our basic international payments position."

When the rate was pegged at six per cent from a floating level of 5.17 per cent on June 24, it was taken as a signal of so-called "tight money." The chartered banks responded by raising their prime lending rate for commercial loans to the statutory limit of six per cent.

Finance Minister Nowlan told a reporter he was delighted with the improvement in the gold and U.S. dollar reserve, but he gave no hint that the government was ready yet to relax its own emergency measures, which included wide-ranging surcharges, federal budget-trimming and sharp reduction in the duty exemptions on goods Canadian tourists bring back from abroad.

Of Many Things

By AMBROSE HILLS

RELIABILITY

Just at this moment I am so pleased with a large Winnipeg department store that I'd like to give them a plug in this column, but can't because it would be free advertising.

The reason I am pleased with them is that I bought an expensive item a couple of weeks ago, discovered when I got it to my cottage that it was defective. I should have returned it immediately, but didn't, because it was a nuisance. I just now got around to phoning the department involved and telling them about it. The response was just what I expected. Bring it in at your convenience and we'll credit your account with the full amount.

"And will you bawl out the manufacturer?" I said.

The lady on the other end of the line said, "We sure will. They put you to a lot of inconvenience, and that doesn't make you feel good about our store."

I wish the bawling out could go right down the line to the man who did the poor spot welding job on the machine, and to the inspector who let it get by. They'll possibly never know the grief they caused me, the sale they lost for the department store, and the loss their Company will take when the machine comes back to them.

Last week we bought three items for our cottage, and every single one of them had something wrong. A sprayer leaked. A water cooler leaked. This insect-catching gadget had faulty spot welding and tumbled from its perch. It was enough to disgust an otherwise amiable consumer.

All these items were Canadian made, because my wife and I had looked for items of Canadian manufacture. Usually, Canadian items seem to me to be sturdier and better suited to our climate. In these three cases, however, some workman had let me down . . . and let his country down a bit, too.

"Margaret's Chit Chat"

I would like this little column to be called "Margaret's Chit Chat" because that is just what I wish it to be, rather than a series of news events. If you feel you would like to pass some comment on anything that you may read here, then won't you please pick up your phone and give me a call, and then we may really have a "chit chat".

Mixed Blessings

(by a typical parent)

The following is a true experience. "Quote" Before we sat down to our anniversary dinner, my wife spoke of our many blessings. First on her list came our six healthy children. An hour later when we were at the table all was pandemonium. Noticing that my wife's eyes were closed, I asked her what was the matter. "Nothing," she said. "I am just praying for patience to enjoy my blessings". end of Quote. Maybe all we parents can learn something from this. No matter how trying our young ones become, they truly are the first on our list of blessings, although this is easy to realize when you creep into their room, last thing at night, and see their dear, peaceful, innocent faces and know they are safely tucked in. It is not so easy, nor the face so dear, when son Jim arrives home with his knees out of those new pants; nor is daughter Jane so innocent looking when you go to her room two hours after you have told her to tidy it and find what seems to resemble a junk shop. Neither do they look very peaceful when in the midst of an argument, they are threatening bodily harm to each other. These are surely a few of the many, many times we should pray for patience instead of "losing our tempers."

Missionaries to visit our district

Dr. Kenneth Prior, B.S.A., L.L.D., and his wife, Dr Pearl Prior, LL.D. are making a lecture tour of the Montreal area, commencing at Chateauguay High School on Wednesday morning, Sept 26th. They will also give lectures at schools in Huntingdon and Valleyfield. On Wednesday evening, Sept. 26th, at 8 p.m. there will be a Mass Rally held in Ormstown United Church. Points About Parsley

Parsley is more than a bit of trimming to make a dish look tempting. Indeed, in some cases theres more nourishment in the trimming than in the trimmed, for parsley is extraordinarily rich in food values. Not only does it contain plenty of vitamin A and Vitamin C, but it also packs away in its greenness a quantity of iron and protein. So when you see this little sprig, don't cast it aside.

Saturday, September 22nd is the opening day for duck shooting. Here are a few rules:— (1) Treat every gun with respect due a loaded gun. (2) Be sure of target before you pull trigger. (3) Know identifying features of game you hunt. (4) Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot. (5) Avoid all horseplay. (6) Never shoot at any bird, remember this is the season for ducks, nothing else. (7) Never shoot a bullet at a flat, hard surface or water.

Every year when autumn comes, we have a debate with ourselves over which season is our top favourite, fall or spring. The answer often varies, depending upon what season we're in. Right now autumn seems the loveliest. Following the heat of summer, its crisp cool air and bright colours are an invigorating change. Take time to notice the bright colours in that lovely bush just past the tracks at Woodlands at the top of the hill. In another week or so it should truly be beautiful.

The Catholic Women's League of our Lady of Good Council, Parishes of Candiac, St. Constant, Delson, Cote Ste-Catherine, Laprairie, Brossardville and St-Philippe, held their first meeting of the 1962-63 season, on Wed., September 12th, at the home of Mrs. J. Tetreault, Place de Bretagne, Candiac. Rev. Father Barclay, Spiritual Director was presented. He thanked the ladies for the good work they had accomplished during the past years, and outlined projects for the coming year. The President Mrs. A. Nadeau, welcomed old and new members and extended warm greetings to all who joined the League on this occasion. Refreshments were served under the convenership of Mrs. J. Tetreault and her committee namely, Mrs. A. Nadeau, Mrs. A. Lussier, Mrs. Jean-Marie Langlois, Mrs. Murray and Mrs. N. Houghting. Mrs. H. Seipel received the members and distributed membership cards. Unsatisfactory Board Meeting in Candiac.

The Board meeting of the Protestant School of Greater Laprairie was held in the school in Candiac on Monday evening, September 10th with an attendance that broke all records. Mr. Gordan Pitcher opened the meeting and requested the secretary to read the minutes of the previous session. Following the usual business agenda a stormy session ensued as irate taxpayers protested the estimated $600,000 for the proposed new school and $49,200 for the land. After much discussion it was decided that a special meeting will be called, when the Board hears from their legal advisors. Another argument followed when it was stated that the present Board was illegally constituted.

The question of a safety check on the buses transporting children to and from school, was also brought forward and the chairman called on the new principal, Mr. E. F. Crummey to reply. Mr. Crummey stated that this problem is being dealt with and immediate attention will be given to better organization of bus schedules and children will have supervision while getting on and off the buses. It was requested that No. 1. School area be marked to safeguard the children and to control speedsters in this part of the Town. The board passed a resolution with regard to this matter. It is hoped that the next meeting will prove satisfactory to everyone concerned and that the board will endeavour to regain the confidence, of those who are now quite disillusioned, due and to the prevailing circumstances.

Birthday Greetings to Mr. George Kitney and Mr. Jim Malone who celebrated a birthday recently. Several friends surprised George by serenading him with the usual "Happy Birthday" song. Many happy returns are also wished to our Gleaner carrier Ronnie Simpson, who will be celebrating his birthday on September 19th.

St. David's Church observes Fortieth Anniversary.

This year marks the fortieth anniversary of the erection of St. David's Church in Delson and this will be observed with a service in the church on Sunday, September 30th at 9:30 a.m. Archbishop John Dixon will preach the sermon. The service will be conducted by Archdeacon J. F. Morris and Mr. T. J. Smith. Prior to the dinner being held at the Hotel Circa, on Saturday, September 29th, the Church will be open from 2 to 4.30 p.m. for the convenience of those who wish to visit.

The Red Cross Society have another group of staunch supporters who by their efforts raised $6.25 which was given to the Campaign Chairman, Mrs. Harold Ball, by our Gleaner Carrier, Ronnie Simpson. Ronnie arranged an entertainment and invited friends to attend the show which was given at his home in Delson Gardens. The performers who danced and sang and recited, were Jennifer Fulton, Bobbie Webster, Valerie and Ronnie Simpson and Dianne and Linda Marshall. A good crowd came along to enjoy the show and the delicious refreshments, which I am sure, Ronnie's mother prepared. What a wonderful example these thoughtful children have shown, by combining their efforts to support a worthy cause. Grateful thanks to everyone is extended on behalf of the Red Cross.

Delson Girl Guides will take part in a baseball match on Saturday, Sept. 22nd, at 1.30 p.m. The Guides have enjoyed many activities during the summer months and now the fall season is here. FUR FEATHERS AND FUN

I guess we have all sat under a large shade tree, to get away from the sun's rays on a hot summer's day. You may admire a tree on your lawn and watch it grow from year to year. And maybe thats as far as our thoughts go, but really a tree is a wonderful thing not just one kind of tree, but all kinds, do many of us really know how a tree has really helped us in our modern way of life. Canada's most important forest region covers most of Central and Northern parts of the country. It stretches westward from the Atlantic Coast to Alaska. It is densely wooded with spruce, balsam, fir, tamarack and Jack pine. Today, bookstores, drugstores, dress shops, toy and grocery stores all sell forest products. Some of these products are made directly from wood. Others are made from wood that has been treated with various chemicals. Wood is one of our most useful materials. We burn untrimmed logs as fuel in stoves, fireplaces and campfires. A tree with the bark removed and the trunk trimmed and treated may become a post, a telephone pole, sawmills square up round logs to produce heavy construction timber for bridges, dams and foundations. They cut square logs into lumber for our homes. A sharp knife of a lathe can peel a log into veneer or long paper-thin sheets of wood. Manufacturers glue veneers of valuable wood such as mahogany to thicker pieces of pine or other less valuable wood. Thin veneer of inexpensive woods are used for strawberry boxes and grape-baskets. But most veneers are made into plywood, a sort of wood and glue sandwich. A process called lamination makes large pieces of wood from short ones. Lamination consists of glueing small planks of wood together with the grain running in the same direction. Shipbuilders use this wood to make keels that must withstand heavy strains and salt water. Engineers use it for arches of churches, schools which take the weight of the roof. Wood is also ground and made into newsprint paper on which newspapers are printed. Wood fibres may be pressed together under great heat and pressure to make wallboards. Chemical products may be so different from wood, that they seem to be made by magic. Rayon scarves, neckties, soft paper handkerchiefs, and bright colored plastic telephones do not look or feel like wood. But they are all made from wood. Wood consists of two main parts, cellulose and lignin. These are separated to make products from each part. In pulpmills wood is chipped into small pieces and cooked in chemical solutions, the lignin softens, allowing the cellulose to separate into fine threads. Then the lignin is drained off and used to make medicines, fertilizers, cosmetics, plastics and other products.

Distillation of wood means heating tree stumps, limbs or wood slabs until the wood gives off gases, when these gases cool they turn into liquids. Distilled hardwoods yield acetic acid, petch and tar oil. Distilled soft wood produce turpentine, rosin, pine, tar, cedar oils and creosote oils. Naval stores such as turpentine and rosin can also be made by distilling gum that oozes from cuts in the trunks of pine trees. The manufacture of paper and wood pulp ranks as the leading industry in Canada. Canada produces about 7,000,000 tons of newsprint a year, more than half the world total. Three fourths of the newsprint used in United States comes from Canada. So when you are putting turpentine to thin paint or pick up the phone to call, or the scarf or necktie around your neck, or the cosmetics you use. Remember it all came from some beautiful tree, even this paper started from a tree.

Tribute To Policemen

By Mrs. H. Fergusson

In last week's Gleaner, was an article, headed "Successful Policemen's Field Day". It brought to my mind how much we take for granted from our fellowman, how little credit we give, when credit is due.

In time of need, very often, its the policemen who come to our aid. Most of the time, perhaps, he's just a fellow in a uniform who waves you through a busy intersection, but then suddenly one day he is also the same man whose fast, skilled hands on an inhalator brings your boy back from the shadows of death. He's the fellow who gave you a parking ticket that day you didn't see the sign, but he's also the one who pulled your parents out of their burning, smashed-up car. He's the fellow who spoke a bit gruffly, the time you went through a stop light, but he's the genial friendly guardian the children look forward to seeing at the school crossing every day. He's the embarrassed, nervous, young bachelor who helped bring your first born into the world during that nightmarish ride to the hospital. He's the good Samaritan who knows first hand of the hardships in our town, the broken families, and who digs down into his own pocket for the price of a hot meal for the youngsters left without food. He's the bearer of sad tiding's when tragedy comes. The untangles of traffic in blizzards, the Solomon who settles squabbles between neighbors. He's the head of a family, who walked into a darkened warehouse the other night and dutifully let the men back in the shadows fire the first shot. It's comforting to know, as we sit in our easy chairs, on a wet stormy evening that there are many like him who have been willing to pin on a badge and agree to make our troubles their career's.

This little article was taken from one of a series of John Hancock advertisements appearing in magazines of National circulation. Our thanks to a fine Tribute to our policemen.

Leather Handbags Make Fashion Geometry

Geometry is a fashionable subject this fall as leather handbags take every shape known to woman.

Seen at a fall fashion preview presented in New York by the Leather Industries was a collection of squares, rectangles, circles, arcs and trapezoids in many leather textures and more leather colors. Rounding out the picture were shoulder bags — newly returned to the fashion scene — pouches and barrels in daytime, evening and sports bags.

Among the most popular were handbags of smooth and grained leather, antiqued and patent leather, suede and brushed leather. Reptile was seen, usually as trim, while gold and silver leather will be available for evening wear. All bags carried the distinctive black-and-gold "Genuine Leather" tag that speels quality on any store shelf.

One of the new developments this year is the creation of the same style leather bag in several dimensions. This adds to the selection in depth, permitting each woman to select a bag suited to both her size and her personality. The bags shown covered all price ranges, with most in the low to moderate price brackets.

Envelopes, probably the most popular shape of the season, will be gently rounded and feminine in line. Supple smooth and handsomely grained leather bags will be set off with rigid bar handles, gold bracelets and filigreed metal. Classicly styled, modest in appearance and light on the arm, the new leather envelopes are remarkably roomy inside.

Shoulder bags, in deeply grained leather, smooth leather, and brushed leather will swing from suited shoulders in town and from leather jacketed arms in the suburbs. Most of the new shoulder bags have adjustable self-leather straps to give you added versatility. Outside flap closings, gold buckles and bright colors — vivid reds to lustrous browns — add color to your costume as you swing down the avenue.

Casual bags, in soft and supple leathers, are also refined in appearance this season. Convenient and handsome, totes, satchels and pouches will be popular with the supermarket shopper. Made of shape-retaining leathers, they expand to hold small parcels without changing their modest outside proportions.

For evening, when shapes are generally pared down, the eye is caught and held by luxurious and brilliant suede leather, crushed-grain leathers and gleaming lustre leathers. Unusual shapes like the barrel bag add fashion spice to a night on the town. The dainty leather clutch in black antelope suede or pastel colored smooth leather will be widely seen.

Chateauguay School Board Calls Second Public Meeting

Notwithstanding a terrific downpour, a capacity crowd attended the second meeting called for Monday, September 17, by the Protestant Board of School Commissioners to discuss transportation by bus to and from school for the children.

The legality of charging for transportation was questioned as transportation is not covered in the education act. The chairman said this was being studied.

It was stated from the floor that many parents would prefer to pay the whole cost of their children's transportation during their school years rather than pay part of the cost for life.

On entering the hall everyone was handed a copy of a statement from the Board, which reads as follows:

September, 1962

To the Protestant
Taxpayers of Chateauguay:

At the request of the taxpayers present at the last regular meeting, the Board has undertaken to review their decision in respect to the question of charging some portion of the cost of school buses directly to the users.

In reviewing their decision the Board took into consideration the following facts:

1 Bus transportation is only provided for those students living beyond a reasonable walking distance from the schools, and where dangerous conditions exist.

2 It is not reasonable to build schools in areas where there are insufficient children of school age to fill them.

3 Because of the foregoing it is only reasonable to assume that the taxpayer at large bears a responsibility to carry a portion of the cost of providing this transportation. This attitude is reflected in statements made by such groups as the West Island Board (Pointe Claire Beaconsfield) and the Department of Education.

As the area served by the Chateauguay Board grew, so did the problem of bus transportation. The residents in the Chateauguay area, in most cases, chose to reside in areas remote from the existing school (Julius Richardson). This meant providing buses to transport children to school. Fortunately the Provincial Government saw fit to subsidize a portion of this cost. But even if they had not, the buses would still have had to be provided and the taxpayers would have been faced with this cost before now.

As the population grew and facilities became exhausted, Maple School was built near to the centre of the growth area. However, transportation was still required from Parkview-Prudential, West End and the Station. You will have to admit that these areas were too distant from the existing facilities for a youngster to walk. As our facilities again became overcrowded, Mary Gardner School was built in Parkview-Prudential. This still leaves some areas beyond walking distance, and others where the highways are too hazardous for a youngster to walk along. Co-incident with this, our high school population is growing by leaps and bounds and some areas require transportation to the high school.

Added to this is the necessity of transporting children who reside in the Maple School area to Mary Gardner because of overcrowding that still exists at Maple.

This School System has the reputation of being one of the most efficiently run systems in the province, only increasing their facilities when and where needed. This is borne out by the ease with which approval has been granted by Quebec for expansion of facilities in the past two years.

This leads us to three conclusions:

1. We cannot build a school in an area unless there are sufficient children of school age in that area to justify it.

2. Because of Quebec's policy of centralizing high schools, one which makes good sense, it is necessary to transport children who live beyond a reasonable walking distance.

3. Due to the lack of public transportation it is necessary for the Board to make available transportation to those students who require it.

Faced with these conclusions it then becomes necessary to examine the financial aspects of the problem. For the year 1962-63 our transportation costs will be approximately $32,000. It is then necessary to determine what is an equitable distribution of these costs. How much shall be borne by the taxpayer at large and how much shall be directly assessed against the users. It is at this point that human prejudice takes over. And it was here that a great diversity of opinion was expressed at the last meeting. However, this is not a thing that can be decided by prejudice, it requires a close analytical look, tempered by a humane approach. The Board feel that they have done his, and that the charge structure which will be coveed shortly reflects this. If too large a portion is assessed against the user, an undue financial burden may be imposed, thereby restricting his ability to send his children to school. It is also self evident that as more users stop using this service because of the high cost, the cost to the remainder will increase. This would continue to the point where no bus service at all would be provided. The Board were of the opinion that no child should have his ability to receive an education restricted because:

1 There was no school within walking distance;

2 The scale of charges for transportation were such that his or her parents could not afford to pay for it.

The Board, therefore, having reviewed all alternatives and possible cost structures, have arrived at the charges to be assessed directly against the users of the buses.

The charge:

to transport one child for the school year $20.00
To transport two or more children from the same house for one year $30.00

TRANSPORTATION COSTS

Present costs, 5 buses: $32,000.
Number of buses required to transport children from Maple to Mary Gardner 2
Number of families who have indicated a desire for bus transportation — 400 — number of buses required 2

This will allow us to make a reduction of one bus, reducing our total costs to approximately $25,600.
Cost of transfers — Maple to Mary Gardner, 2 buses $12,800

BALANCE ..... $12,800.

Number of families wishing to us buses — 400 or 250 families with two or more children at $30. ... $ 7,500.
150 families with one child at $20. ..... 3,000.

$10,500.

NET DEFICIT ..... $ 2,300.

This deficit will be more than covered with the renting of space to the Catholic Board.

In view of the fact that we will be able to reduce our deficit the Board is confident that the Department of Education will be understanding in our problems and will not force us into raising our taxes this year.

Yours faithfully,

The Board of School
Commissioners,
Protestant School Municipality
of Chateauguay.

CHATEAUGUAY SPORTS ROUND UP

(by JOHN McDONALD)

Saturday saw the opening of Minor Football in the Chateauguay area, with Caughnawaga playing host to Chateauguay in a Mosquito--Peewee double header. This is the first try in Minor Football by both Clubs and the young lads put on a real fine and thrilling display. The first game saw the Chateauguay Mosquitos take a 12 to 6 victory over Caughnawaga on the strength of touch downs by Philippe Zimmel and young Somogyi. Young John Lahache got the Caughnawaga Major. You did not have to be an expert to notice that the Chateauguay boys are an extremely well coached team, while it was quite noticeable that the Caughnawaga lads lacked coaching. The Chateauguay team has a full quota of players on both defence and offence while most of the lads from Caughnawaga played both ways. In the second half of the double-header, the Peewees played to a 6 to 6 tie. Scotty Coshing got Chateauguay's Major from the 2 yard line on a plunge over centre. Halfback Louis Delisle tied the score when he took a pitch out and scooted around the end for a Major. Here again Chateauguay's ability to carry a full team helped them, enabling them to insert fresh players into the game, with a few players not being used while Caughnawaga again had most of their lads going both ways.

Melvin Jacobs, coach of Caughnawaga's Midget entry is in need of a few sturdy linemen for his team and invites any lads from Chateauguay who wish to try out for the team to call Andrew Delisle at 634-1144 and arrangements will be made to get them to practices.

The Football Ramblers open the schedule this Sunday against the Valleyfield Jets at 2.00 p.m. at the Ramblers field on Highway 3 and 4. How about getting out to the game and cheering our boys on to a victory.

The Chateauguay Valley Junior Hockey League held their first meeting this past week and it was decided that the league would remain a four team league and the game would again be played at Loyola College Saturday nights from 7.00 to 9.00 p.m. Another meeting will be held Thursday of this week, election of officers, hiring of officials, checking of the rules and other topics are on the agenda.

While on the subject of Junior Hockey, two of the lads that toiled for the C.V.J.H.L. last season are getting a much deserved chance at trying out for Guelph Biltmore, a New York Ranger Junior A farm team. The two lads in question are Walter Deere and Clifford Ryce of the Caughnawaga Mohawks. Last season being the C.V.J.H.L. first season of hockey and two of the players receiving a tryout for Junior A Hockey shows what Junior Hockey can do for the Chateauguay Valley. This reporter congratulates these two fine young hockey players and wishes them luck in their quest to reach fame and fortune in Canada's national sport.

Proposed Merger Of Police and Fire Forces

Proposed police and fire agreement between the Towns of Chateauguay and Chateauguay Heights. Mr. Doucet, Sec'y.-Treas. of the Town of Chateauguay states he hopes to have a by-law passed at the next meeting in accordance with preliminary agreement between the two towns. The by-law will implement this agreement.

The water from the new well is presently on test to determine its biological and chemical qualities and we hope to publish the results next week.

Another by-law for presentation to the council next meeting will be to provide for the surface paving of the following streets: — St. Mark, St. Charles, Theberge, Circle Park, Charles Dickens and Horshnell, Bell, Upper Duquette, Massey Drive, Flanagan, Hanley, Gauthier and lower part of Boivin.

A series of instruction has been scheduled for members of the Chateauguay Centre Police Force. The courses will include foot drill, Physical training and self defence. The classes are being instructed by Chief R. Spenard assisted by Sgt. A. Marshall. Chief Spenard is well versed in these activities being an ex P.T. army instructor.

A course is also being given to officers and constables by Chief Spenard on obtaining fingerprints at the scene of the crime. The necessary equipment has been obtained and is available for practise or for an actual case.

Copies of the Highway Code, Criminal Code, Police Manual and Municipal By-laws are available for optional reading, and advantage is being taken of this by members of the force in their spare time.

The dossiers of both Chateauguay Police Forces indicate the past week to have been very quiet. This is how we like it.

Pure Drinking Water, Lots Of It Soon To Be A Reality In Chateauguay

A dream of Mayor Joe Laberge o provide pure drinking water to the citizens of Chateauguay is now within days of becoming a reality. It was an impressive sight to see water gushing out of two 8" pipes and one 6" pipe at the rate of 7,500,000 gallons a day. The contractors guaranteed 5,000,000 gallons per day, and now there is an expected capacity of or potential of 15,000,000 gallons per day.

The well is known as a lake infiltration type with 80% of the water entering the well by infiltration from Lake St. Louis through a minimum of 40 feet of sand and gravel filter.

At the bottom of the well there are 12 - 12" collector lines each with a separately controlled valve operated from the surface.

The collector holds 996 gals. per foot and the present level is about ten feet below ground level, which is a drop of less than six feet since pumping commenced 36 hours previously, and at the present time it remains stabilized.

Should an increase in output be required in the future extra pumps would be installed to supplement the existing three.

This well is the first of its type in the Province of Quebec but a few have been installed in the prairie provinces. It was started May 1st and the contractor hopes to have it completed, housed and working ready to turn over to the Town of Chateauguay on or before Oct 12th.

The water is testing out remarkably pure and it is slightly harder than the lake water, but will eventually revert to the softness of lake water.

Compared to other well systems the upkeep is quite inexpensive. There are no filter beds to change every four years or so and no rust to corrode the pipes, oxygenization of metal parts is eliminated because no air is present. It is unattended and is subjected only to periodical inspections.

What If It Had Been A Child?

(By K. M. Cowper)

Monday at 12:15 p.m., on McLeod St., when there are many children coming and going from the three schools on this street, a speeding driver hit and killed a German Shepherd dog belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Baird, who live beside Maple School. This driver did not even stop, but continued on going through the Stop sign at the corner of Maple St. and McLeod.

Beside the fact that this dog was a very dear pet of the Baird family, what if it had been a child? Now is the time, that something should be done, before there is a real tragedy. If the traffic on McLeod St., cannot be slowed down, then surely it would be possible to have police assigned to the area to assist the children cross the street or walk down it, as the case may be, before and after school and at lunch hour. Or, reroute the traffic during these hours. All these children must at least cross McLeod Street.

Think about it friends and act now. What if it had been your child?

Notes and Jottings FROM Robert Sellar's Historical Writings

On acquiring the Percy property, Bowron began at once to prepare to raise a gristmill, which he placed where Boyd & Co.'s old machine-shop stands. It was, of course, a rude affair, containing 2 run of stones, hewn out of boulders taken from the site of the old Methodist church, and dressed by an American named Tripp, who was the first miller. The bolt was upstairs, had 2 boxes and was turned by hand, so that when the famer got his bag full of flour, he carried it upstairs, and bolted it himself. The machinery was driven by an undershot wheel. The mill was not put in operation until 1824, and, primitive as it was, was a great boon to the settlers, who had, up to this, to go to t' · mill at Brighton Hollow, at Constable, or the red mill at Fort Covington, all across the border. The only way of taking the grain at first was by carrying it on the shoulders, but soon the track was so cleared to Trout River Lines that an ox or a horse could pass, when with 1½ or 2 bushels of wheat, divided between two bags, slung across their backs, the settler trudged by their side through mud and water, endeavoring to keep the bags from slipping off. Among the most useful of these 4-footed carriers, was Bob Barter's bull, which was often hired, and could carry 2 bags as well as any horse. Hunter was the first to get oxen, Bright and Daisy, followed by a horse, whose main duty was to go to mill at Fort Covington, taking two days to the journey. Mr. Hunter often came back with his grist late at night, and wet to the middle, guided through the darkness by holding on to the horse's tail. The difficulty in getting to mill was so great that the settlers were frequently without bread, and sometimes tried to make a substitute by shaving ears of corn with a jack-plane. At one time, owing to the impossibility of reaching mill, the Hunter family were without bread for 6 weeks. Their main diet was potatoes and vension, with occasionally pork, which they got from Dalhousie Settlement. The mill-toll was one-tenth, but the bran was not sifted, and that the settler had to do himself by hand-sieves. When Bowron acquired the Percy property, he, as already noted, left his shanty on lot 16 and oved into James Percy's house, which he improved. The house he raised for the miller, which stood between the mill and the road, was the scene of the first fire, Smoke was issuing in volumes from its roof, when one of the Percy's ascended with an axe and cutting into the blazing portion extinguished it. Taylor had built an oven in the basement and baked bread for sale, for he was a baker as well as a miller.

I must go back, however. For quite a while after Goudge left, there was no school, when Mr. Bowron went to Montreal and brought up Geo. Davies, a Highlander from Invernessshire, who had a taste for drawing and engineering, and was well-educated, but with no particular talent for teaching. The settlers united to put up a schoolhouse, a small frame building, a short distance above the foundry and close to where the canal is. This was in the fall of 1825. The society for the advancement of learning gave a grant of $72 towards his salary. Davies was respected, and all the more so from the sympathy felt on account of his domestic unhappiness, for, soon after coming, he lost his wife, when he married a daughter of Widow Suttle's who made his life miserable. Unable to live by teaching, he engaged as clerk with Lewis & Ames. After him there was a succession of teachers, and the saying was that Huntingdon could not give a living to one.

In 1824 Halcomb & Latham opened store a little south of the new schoolhouse, and, expected to do a large business, put up an ambitious building with an unusual allowance of windows, but did not succeed, and turned their attention more to lumbering, having built a sawmill at Powerscourt. On leaving, their store became pretty much common property, having a succession of tenants and made use of by many immigrants as a temporary shelter. From the successive patchings and the abundance of broken glass, it came to have the name of Castle Clouts. A more important event for the settlers than the new store, was the building of an ashery to the west of the upper bridge by Peter McFarlane. Here ashes were pearled for the first time in the winter of 1823. In September of that year there was a flood in the river, which was followed by an influx of salmon, when Palmer, Bowron, and Percy speared a large number and barrelled them. Young John Hunter tried his hand with an extempore jack and succeeded in killing 3, though from his inexperience the fire was quenched by the canoe's dipping at every lounge he made. Standing by the north end of the dam he and Hugh Cameron counted 93 large salmon jump it. A few days afterwards, they went down again.

On the 4th October, 1824, the grand voyer, L. R. C. de Lery, came to see about making roads. The grand-voyer in those days was regarded as a man of wonderful authority being vested with supreme jurisdiction in laying out roads and ordering how they should be paid for. He came, accompanied by Col. Brown of Beauharnois, and lodged at Bowron's, where the settlers gathered to meet him in the afternoon in such numbers that they adjourned to McFarlane's store. The result of his visit was his preparing a proces-verbal, ordering a bridge to be built across the river below the mill, to be supported by 6 trestles made of logs a foot square, bearing 5 sleepers 12 inches square and 40 feet long, and a flooring of squared logs 6 inches thicks, edged with a 3-foot railing. The total length of the bridge was 240 ft. The road was ordered to be made from the bridge to the lines at Burke, with a branch connecting Russeltown. The bridge across the Hinchinbrook was to be 60 feet long, supported by 4 trestles. De Lery left for Hemingford, and nothing proves better the rugged state of the country at that tme, than that he departed for Manning's in an ox-sled. It was probably about this time, that a party of settlers met in McFarlane's to agree on a name for the village. Some one in joke proposed Besttown, after the blacksmith, but Bowron village was agreed upon, and prosperity to the new village drank, and the locality henceforth ceased to be known as Long Rapids.

The need for the bridge was great, for as settlers increased the necessity of crossing the river became of almost hourly occurrence. Passengers got over in canoes, or, when the boom was up, if they were steady-headed, they walked over on it, or when the water was very low, a temporary bridge was made by placing planks from boulder, but for freight it was different, and settlers coming in from the east or anxious to cross to Hinchinbrook from Godmanchester, met with serious difficulty if the water was deep at the ford, which was situated at the head of the rapids and over the flat rock there. It was expected that the grand-voyer would have ordered the bridge to have been built there, where it would have cost less, been safe from ice, and been on the direct road from the lines which had existed for over 20 years. His changing the route was done at the instance of Bowron, who desired the bridge to be convenient for his mills. The contract for building the bridge was let to 2 Americans from Burke, Nimes and Grissel, for $1000. The amount was to be raised by a tax of 50 cents on the lots designated by the grand-voyer in Hinchinbrook and Godmanchester. Much difficulty was experienced in collecting the money, partly owng to the poverty of the settlers and partly to their refusing to pay owing to the bridge not having been built at the head instead of the centre of the rapids. They argued that as Bowrow had got the bridge placed to suit him, and given out the contract without authority, he should pay for it, and, eventually, he had to pay more than his share, for he had become responsible to the contractors when they undertook the work.

FAMOUS PHILOSOPHER EXPOSED

It is a maxim of the newspaper business—or at least it ought to be—that every self-respecting column must denounce somebody or something at least once per week. One week it might be bus-drivers, the next a civic figure, or perhaps the Park's rats. Then the weather is always fair game—it richly deserves censure every second week at the very least—and before you know it, it's someone else's turn once again. Good targets are scarce this week, so I think the exposure of the scurrilous behaviour of Copernicus is long overdue.

When one thinks how this man caused the distortion of Western thought for five hundred years, is it possible to condemn him too severely? "The World is round", he said. Just how absurd can man become with such outrageous notions? Anyone can see that it is still flat, even after five hundred years' propaganda to the contrary. All that talk we absorbed at Mother's knee about watching ships' masts appear on the horizon! An optical illusion obviously, and besides, sailing ships are long out of date.

This cruel hoax on man's credulity has gone on long enough, and Letter from Seigniory Park is not prepared to condone the perpetuation of the myth for one week longer. It is high time things were placed in their proper perspective, so let us found a local Branch of the Flat-Earthist Society without delay—there is not an hour to be lost. For those out of touch with current Flat-Earthist thought, I regret to report a schism in the ranks, and doubt in the files, of the Flat-Earthists. However, all agree that the Earth is saucer-shaped, and there is hope that the differing ideologies can be brought together. Basically, one section says that the saucer-shaped Earth rests on the back of a giant turtle, while the opposition holds to the belief that the Earth is safely cradled in the lower branches of a celestial banyan tree. As a lifetime devotee of Flat-Earthism, I have never wavered from favouring the giant turtle sect. After all, how COULD the world be held by a banyan tree branch? The idea is clearly preposterous.

Next time news is scarce I plan to denounce Newton in no uncertain terms for the absurd fallacy of his theories on gravity. If I know anything at all about relativity I'd have a crack at Einstein too. However, as my knowledge on that subject is rather limited, I'm prepared to concede that Einstein may have a point there.

Hi Neighbours!

Well the time of year has rolled around when we have to start getting out last winter's boots, mitts and hats to see what will have to be new. Quite an expensive four season country we live in. Is there no end to the clothes worry with a sizable family? But they tell us when we no longer have these worries I gets kind of lonesome around the house.

-o-

A juvenile quote I heard recently is an eight year old boy's reason for wanting to become a druggist. "So I can play with the Dinky toys in my spare time!"

-o-

There is local interest in piano lessons recently among both young and old. No wonder! Look how attractive the teacher is.

-o-

I think we should all have to do without some commodity from time to time to make us appreciate what we take so much for granted. We were without hot water for one whole week due to a defective water tank. It is simply amazing how many times that week I automatically turned that tap marked hot and nothing come out. There seemed to be a large pot of water on th stove all the time reminding one of years gone by. Order has now resumed and it is a pleasure? once again to do the dishes.

Celebrations

Congratulations to the Richeys of Primeau St., who celebrated an anniversary Saturday, September 14th. Roy Bache celebrated a birthday last week. Many happy returns, Roy.

Birthday Parties

Mrs. G. Foster's son, Frank, is now two years old, and he was feted with quite a birthday party. The guests were Sheila and Gordon Foster, Sandra, Brenda and Rickey Lange, Aunt Pat, Aunt and Uncle Jean and Frank Conrick and their daughter Lorna, Grandma Conrick and Aunt Lynn from Ville LaSalle also Grandma and Grandpa Foster from Ville LaSalle. This must have been somewhat of a housewarming party, too, as the Fosters have been in Crown Homes only a matter of weeks.

-o-

Ricky Fabio of Ethier St., was six years old Monday. His Mummy gave him a nice party too on Saturday. All his little friends came over to say Happy Birthday. To greet him were Christina, Christopher and Cornelius Viereck, Gina Belcault, Anne and Teddy Trueman, Lucette Daoust, Helene Gervais and Margaret and Anne Kavanaugh. Happy Birthday Ricky. Let's not forget to mention too, how helpful Mr. Nitsche was with the children. Mr. Nitsche is the Viereck children's Grandpa, who is visiting from Germany.

Passenger?

Mrs. Lange of Crown Homes is looking for a lift on the way home from work at 4:30 p.m. She would like to be picked up at Ville St. Pierre at that time and be brought to either Primeau St., or up into Crown Homes Development. Anyone interested, please call OX. 2-9272.

Cocktail Party

The Wilkes of St. Andre St., fairly newcomers to our community have been members all summer of the Seigniory Park Club. Labour Day week-end was the closing Saturday night so twenty-two of their friends came over to a Cocktail Party, then on to the Saturday dance, then they all tried out the new restaurant La Grange, which was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard of Maisonneuve St., Crown Homes had the pleasure of out of town guests last week. These were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Willard of Waterville and Mrs. L. M. Morgan of East Angus in the Eastern Townships This three day visit must have been a pleasure for Mrs. Willard as I imagine it can get rather lonely with mud roads and no telephones.

Mr. and Mrs. Mirrette also of Maisonneuve St., gave a house warming party last Saturday night with thirty welcome guests.

Here I am, back again, pinch-hitting for Mrs. Syd Mitchell, who is once again a patient at Barrie Memorial Hospital in Ormstown.

Also on the sick list are Mrs. R. O'Reilly and Mrs. J. G. Cherrier. Do hope it won't be long before you are all well and back with us once again.

Last spring the Town Council voted a certain sum of money be spent to clean up our playground and St. Louis Square. It would be very interesting to get an estimate of how the money has been spent to date. Surely there must be quite a balance. How about putting the finishing touches to St. Louis Square — instead of having it look like neither one thing or the other? Mr. Claude Mongeau, Town Manager, has promised on several occasions to have the Giant Stride installed in the playground. This piece of equipment was purchased by the Ladies Committee of the West End Homeowners' Assoc. and could have been in use for two summers, but to date, it's still waiting for the town to install it. How about some action promises don't seem to be very binding.

By now everyone has no doubt noted with satisfaction the 'STOP' signs erected in West End. Police Chief Spennard wasted no time in having these signs erected when approached by Mr. W. Hulshoff. As a matter of fact the Police Chief went a step further and had signs erected throughout West End, not only on St. Louis Street as had been asked. Many thanks!

Police Chief Sprennard is endeavouring to bring his force up to high standards and no speeding or infraction of the law will be tolerated. Two hundred speed tickets were issued over a thirty day period, so a word of warning — watch your step. Don't forget no overnight parking on the street. Tickets will also be issued to those going through the 'Stop' signs in the development — no ifs, ands or buts — hope a word to the wise is sufficient.

Most of us are thinking, too, these days of Tom Leahey of St. Francis Blvd. Tom, who is suffering from a brain tumor, is on the critical list of the Montreal Neurological Institute. He is being given excellent medical care and all we can do is offer our prayers and hope that Tom will soon he well.

While walking along Salaberry Blvd., on Saturday (very difficult because of the present condition of the road a thought occurred to me. Wouldn't it be nice if we could have a boardwalk, similar to the farmous one in Verdun, along the river's edge? Consttuction of it would alleviate some unemployment and, probably raise our taxes! This latter we can do without but a boardwalk would certainly be one way of improving the waterfront.

-o-

Here's something that pernaps one of yoo men can take up at a louncil meeting. Why doesn't the Town so something about the indiscriminate cutting down of trees in our area? Building contractors seem only to be interested in putting up as many houses as possible. Already there are some housing developments in Chateauguay that are devoid of some of the beauty of nature. The only thina higher than roof-tops are those ugly T.V. antennas! Some communities around Montreal have passed laws forbidding the destruction of all trees in anf given area. Perhaps our Town Council could do something along the same line. Much of our area has been built on apple orchards. These trees are part of Mother Nature's own decorating scheme and it is o shame to have them all filled in one scoop of a dull-dozer.

Congratulations go out to Mr. and Mrs. Sarto Hannef of 78 Lang Street and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cadieux of 76 Lang Street. Both couples celebrated their 12th wedding anniversaries last week!

Out of the twenty girls who attended the Bingo at Notre Dame de l'Assumption Church last week, only one must have carried a horseshoe. Adelaide Plante was a three-time winner. Her gifts included 1 cloths hamper, a hobby-horse on wheels and a china ornament. Nice going, Adie!

-o-

Crafty thieves have again struck our area. Jim and Rosalie Mahoney's home on Edward Street was broken into and money stolen from Rosalie's purse. Nothing else was taken! The people who are responsible for this act are of the lowest kind—in fact—they gained their entry by breaking a basement window! If anyone sees or hears anything suspicious, please report it to the police at once. Strange noises at night don't just happen—they are caused. It would do well to have it investigated.

Jean-Guy Charbonneau is one of the Directors of the Chateauguay Home Owners Association. He was born (October 22, 1928), raised, married and lived in McMasterville, Quebec. His wife is the former Gaby Aubin of Sturgeon Falls, Ontario. Jean-Guy is Sales Representative of Canadian Industries Limited. Chateauguay is the center of his dsitrict and this fact brought the Charbonneau's here seven years ago. For the past four years they have lived at 35 Beauchamp Street. His hobbies are fishing and collecting antiques.

As a result of his interest in hsi community, Jean-Guy is a member of the Richelieu Club, a former member of the Chamber of Commerce, and has worked on various Red Cross Campigns. Municipal affairs and school board meetings also do not escape his attention.

As an executive of C.H.O.A., he is one of the representatives at the Town Council meetings and last year was reporting on school board activities. He hos also assisted on the Rink Fund Drive and on the maintenance of the Langlois Street Rink.

Like many other members of the board, Jean-Guy would like to see the C.H.O.A. continue its concentration on activities for the younger set and also to provide opportunities for parents and friends to gather socially. He would also like to see a closer cooperation between the different organizations within Chateauguay. This, explains Mr. Charbonneau, would anable all the groups to work together for more and better improvements for the benefit of all residents, instead of just one jarticular group. This is a fine idea from a fine gentleman, who is very much aware of the needs of our community.

TEEN TOWN

By SHEILA CHAMBERLAIN

This week I would like to introduce the new members of Teen Town committee as Sandra Rafters, Margaret Falardeau, Charles Baranowski, and David Brydon.

Last Friday, September 7th, there was a Hard Time Dance held at Maple School. There were many teenagers dressed up but we could only have two winners: Charles Baranowski and his partner. Some teenagers I'm afraid are forgetting the rules, (1) That people under 13 are not allowed in. (2) The doors open a 8:30 p.m. sharp. (3) No shoes are allowed to be worn on the dance floor. (4) That the shoes and coats be checked at the door. (5) No drinking is allowed before or during the dances. (6) The doors will close at 10 p.m. sharp. (7) Cigarettes should not be put out on the floor.

A pair of shoes were taken in mistake of size 7 for a size nine, the shoes are black and in very good condition. Please phone OX. 2-2542 if you know of the shoes.

We would like to have more chaperons for these teenage dances parents, if you are interested phone Julie Larkin at OX. 2-9025.

The next dance this Friday will have a band called Mike Graham and his band. The price for admittance will be as usual 35 cents for members and 50 cents for non members. You will need your cards with you. This dance will be a western style dance and we would like the teenagers to dress up. Well, till next week, that's all.

LEGION NOTES

Having in mind a proposed new building for the Chateauguay Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion a group of nineteen members journeyed to Lachute to study the facilities and space available of the branch there. They were received by Comrade Clair Tucker a previous member of the Chateauguay Branch but now transfered to Lachute. Clair, although on crutches, conducted us round and through the building, commenting on many items and answering all questions, and the visitors came away with many ideas for their own building.

The term of office for those presently in office is rapidly drawing to a close as the next monthly meeting is nomination day for the new slate. The coming year will be all important to the Chateauguay Branch and extensive financing will be necessary to cover the purchase of land and increased branch accommodation.

A horseshoe competition is being organized at district level, and those wishing to participate should notify sports chairman Cde John Haworth.

The District Meeting to be held at Hemmingford, this Saturday, in the Frontier Inn, promises to include an enjoyable social evening and comrades are invited to bring their wives. The meeting is called for 8.15 p.m.

Among the activities Cde Mark Snow, our entertainment chairman, has lined up for us are an oyster party, lobster supper and steak supper and though an oyster party traditionally is a stag affair some of the ladies are asking why should they not be allowed to attend.

Manpower Services Limited Wins High Award

Manpower, Inc., has won the Direct Mail Advertising Association's Silver Mailbox Award for one of 1962's three best direct mail advertising campaigns, according to Roland Roy, manager of the Montreal office of Manpower. The award was presented to the firm at the DMAA's 45th annual convention in Chicago, Sept. 11-14.

Manpower, Inc., received the Silver Mailbox Award for a campaign designed to build an image of femininity for the more than 100,000 female employees of the international temporary help firm.

The campaign, built around a pair of white gloves, was addressed to Manpower's 270 offices throughout the world, all its female employees and over 500,000 customers and prospects.

The campaign will become part of a touring exhibit to be displayed at advertising club meetings and at galleries run by members of the graphic arts industry in the United States, Canada and Europe for the next year. The campaign will then be distributed among schools and colleges to be used as examples of well-planned, effective direct mail in advertising and direct mail courses.

The Children's Corner

"Fur, Fun and Feathers"

This week our story is about the White-Tailed Deer. This animal is the Symbol of the Canadian and American Woods. In buckskin breeches ands moccasins, the early settlers cleared the wilderness and ate venison as part of their diet. The White-Tailed or Virginia Deer was their reliable stand-by.

This dweller of our forests has been hunted incessantly these past 300 years, yet its story is not the same as that of the buffalo or the pronged antelope.

It is estimated to be as numerous to-day as it was when the white man conquered America.

This animal ranges from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from Canada to Mexico. Indeed it has spread into hundred of miles of new territory, particularly in northern Ontario and Quebec.

While it is shy, it is not afraid of the neighborhood of man; hundreds of deer live within 30 miles of Times Square, New York. Its white flag, that is his tail, is raised at every bound. Its graceful fleetness, its rusty-red summer coat which seems to glow in the afternoon sun, have made it one of America's best known and best loved animals.

While quite solitary during the summer, herds band together when their grey winter coats begin to grow. They form a "yard" where they keep a system of trampled snow paths open to have access to bushes, trees and pine and spruce needles. Their summer fare is more varied including leaves of many plants, mosses, berries, beechnuts, acorns and a little grass. Their fawns, usually two, are spotted with white. They lose this color pattern with their first winter coat.

To Be Or Not To Be

AT the present time another petition is being circulated protesting the use of two piers in the Chateauguay River to support the proposed new bridge that will replace the present Henderson St. or "Lower" bridge. Whether the petitions will be recognized and acted upon, or not, is a moot question. The town fathers seem to believe that the engineers know what they are doing and have adopted a "time will tell" attitude. There is no doubt that a new bridge is needed, it has been needed for a long time. It is outmoded, unsafe and a hazard. The proposed bridge will be wide (not high) but handsome enough. But why build it on the site of the present bridge? Aren't there enough bottlenecks at "McCoy's Corner" without adding more problems... isn't there little enough parking space on Chateauguay Street without lessening what we now have... isn't this corner dangerous enough now for pedestrians and motorist alike without adding to the confusion?

Certainly, build a new bridge, but let's live in 1962, not forty or fifty years ago. Build it on a new site, one of many suggested. It seems that at some time the Town Council agreed that the proposed new bridge be built on the site of the present bridge so that's where it is going to be built, with or without piers in the river that could possibly cause flooding conditions. How many of the aldermen voted on the present site is not known, nor is it known if those who did, would vote the same way right now. The general concensus of opinion is that some of the town's old-timers just may be right and that the engineers just possibly be erring. One thing is certain, if it came to a vote, the group wanting the bridge outside of town would win just as quickly as the group supporting the proposed piers in the river.

About the only redeeming aspect of the whole situation is the fact that Ken Fraser has promised "if the new bridge is a hazard or if it is going to cause expropriation of existing property later on" then we'll build another new bridge out of town."

There Should Be Some Straight Thinking Done

AN irate parent called up the Gleaner Office on Thursday afternoon, asking that something be printed about the safety of children at the McCoy Corner. This party has two children going to school and one of them narrowly escaped being run over. It is natural that such a parent would be upset.

The Gleaner has repeatedly brought up the matter of this corner and the need for close supervision during the times when children are going to and from the school. It must be remembered that the children converge from all directions at this point. Some of the crossings that have to be made are quite long, depending upon the direction taken. The traffic does not slow up and turns the corner at the O'Connor Building quite fast and continues on down Prince Street. In order to relieve congestion on Chateauguay Street, all trucks are supposed to travel in a westerly direction along Prince Street. Probably due to the fact that the signboard stating this is not seen by all truckers, some of them still continue down Chateauguay Street. However, the fact that trucks are required to travel down Prince Street has created another hazard at McCoy's Corner and at a busy crossing to the school. There is nothing to compel traffic to slow down at this point, except when it is blocked by other traffic, so it just goes right on through. Coming off the bridge from Henderson Street and crossing either to Prince or Dalhousie Streets is a hazardous undertaking for the most experienced drivers as the driver is forced to keep his eyes in each direction of Chateauguay Street as well as keep his eyes ahead to ensure a safe crossing and dodge traffic from three or four directions. This being the case, it is hard also to watch for the pedestrians who are also attempting the same crossings.

At rush hours like noon and 1 p.m. the traffic at this point seems to be in a desperate rush to come off the bridge, go onto the bridge, proceed in both directions along Chateauguay Street and cross from all directions from Prince and Dalhousie. One has only to stand a few minutes at this corner during a rush period to witness the mad melee that goes on. Naturally then the children, who either are leaving the school or returning to it are caught in all this mad rush. They have to get home too and they are walking, but the cars do not wait for them, they toot their horns to add to the confusion and to startle the children.

Yes, there are stop signs, but half the time no one pays any attention to them. This is particularly true as to one at the end of Dalhousie Street. Many times we have seen cars which have turned in from the east part of Chateauguay Street, almost collide with a car that has failed to stop at Dalhousie Street as required. These stop signs are placed there for safety sake, but they only work if car drivers obey them and stop. One cannot tell just when a car will come whizzing round the O'Connor Building, or from the other direction around by McCoy's Store. We have often wondered who has the right of way at this point. To our mind the cars moving into Prince Street should have throughway. Cars coming off the bridge in any direction should proceed cautiously. Cars along Chateauguay Street should have right of way, but they should be willing to yield when cars have to make the bridge in either direction. If this method was followed we believe there would be far less confusion and less worried moments for everyone.

It is definite that control methods should be used at this part especially during the rush periods. It may even take more than one person. From further enquiry it has been found that one of the town policemen is on duty at this corner at the noon hour, with the exception of Thursdays. This is due to each man having a day off each week and thus it works out that way. However, it is necessary that Thursday be taken care of the same as any other day, with the exception of Saturdays and Sundays. It is apparent that it is necessary for it was on that day that the parent called the Gleaner.

Now we suggest that if the police force is not sufficiently manned, that the Town or the School Board hire someone, a retired person, for a few hours each Thursday to fill in this period. It seems that it is needed.

On Courtesy To Others

WE have received a letter from a lady, who has connections in Huntingdon, but presently resides in New York. This lady was quite perturbed by the lack of courtesy of some people in Huntingdon.

It appears that the lady had planned on doing some shopping in Huntingdon and drove down Chateauguay Street — Front Street, as the lady calls it, going in the direction of Montreal. She saw a parking spot and pulled into it, going a little beyond the area in order to straighten up and come into the curb. It was a one car spot with a driveway in front and at the rear. She was about to back up when a local resident pulled in behind her. The lady asked the driver to move as she was already in the area. The driver also a "lady" refused to budge and told the visitor so. She also suggested that the car be left in the driveway, or move it to another parking spot, after all she said, we live here you don't. As the first lady did not want to park against the law, she pulled out and went to another spot. Before leaving she gave these local people a piece of her mind on the subject of common courtesy to everyone. After re-parking, she decided to go back to these people and talk to them some more, but when she arrived they had gone.

This lady said she spoke to a nearby storekeeper, a friend of hers and he suggested she report the matter to the police. At the time the police were quite busy trying to get trucks out of the area and other traffic regulation, that she decided not to. She makes the point however, that if visitors are so poorly treated by residents, shoppers to Huntingdon will by-pass the area. Such treatment will not be tolerated by anyone.

Well lady, you have our sympathy, we have been treated the same way on a number of occasions and in different ways. There was one time that we were trying to park in a small space, and in order to do so decided to back into it. We went a little ahead of the space and showed what our intentions were. On preparing to back up we found that a smaller car had slipped into the space and blocked us. There were words, but we had to move on or get ticketed for double parking. On another occasion we needed to make a rush to get over a snow bank and course needed space for the purpose. It was easy for any driver to see what had to be done. But no driver would give way and when we saw an opportunity to make our rush, we did so only to be blocked and have to stop in the middle of the snow bank, by an oncoming car. Consequently we were stuck there and had to be moved out. A few seconds stop by the other car would have avoided this.

Yes, you are right lady, some of our drivers do need to learn courtesy. They need to learn to give and take and give the other fellow the benefit of the doubt once in awhile. We known how you felt, but what can you do — there is "no law agin it" as the saying goes. If someone sneaks into your spot, you are left with no other alternative than to grin and bear it. But how much nicer it would be if the other fellow would acknowledge his wrong move and he himself move out in the spirit of common courtesy. Yes, lady, we hope that what you have told us will have the effect of making our citizens think. Sure they live here, but would they push a visitor out of their own homes, because they live there. No, they would stand aside and ask the visitor in. Let us think of it in that way.

ARTICLE NO. 6

A Wreath of Orchids

This little experience is spread over a period of upwards of twenty-five years starting in 1929 and ending in the 1950s. In the first act I was private secretary to Hon. James A. Robb, and Auditor General for the curtain.

In October, 1929, Mr. Robb, as Minister of Finance, left Ottawa for Toronto to open the new head office building of an insurance company. Mrs. Robb came along and we had a private car. The groceries did not arrive before the train pulled out, so the steward fed us out of cans. The contents of one must have been tainted because all were sick during the night. The Minister caught a chill in the process and it developed into pneumonia. It was before we had the 'wonder' drugs, and he died ten days later, although recovery was anticipated until the morning of death.

His prominent place in public life and the suddenness of the passing brought an exceptionally large flow of tributes. Even Buckingham Palace cabled — something then quite unusual. The flowers literally arrived by the wagonload, because it was still the days of the horse-drawn express wagon which permitted the horse to make a right angle turn of the front wheels. The house was soon filled; thereafter, the scores of boxes were taken directly to the church.

The Valleyfield undertaker had many problems, so added English-speaking assistants from Ormstown and Huntingdon. One of them came to me on the morning of the funeral to report that a box had arrived with "orchards that must have cost a thousand dollars." I went to see, mainly to learn where they came from, at the same time remarking that the word was 'orchids'. It was quite a wreath. They were orchids and the card read: "from the sons of Martha." The name did not click, but I assumed the family would know. The special trains from Ottawa and Montreal were about due at the C.N.R. station, so I hustled off, after telling the chap to put them in some prominent place in the church. He certainly did! Before opening the service, the clergyman had to lift the big Bible off a chair and remove the wreath from the pulpit.

When the time came to sort out the cards for acknowledgment purposes, I assumed Mrs. Robb would handle this one, but it meant nothing to her. I called on Miss Jennie Robb in Huntingdon and drew a blank. Mac Robb was no help. Neither Allie nor Willie McDonald, Mr. Robb's partners in McDonald & Robb, could give me a lead. The container had, of course, been burned the day received, so we had no clue to florist.

In Ottawa, I questioned such of his friends as Senator Beland, George P. Graham and Donat Raymond, as well as Hon. Charles A. Dunning, the new Minister of Finance. None could help, but Mr. Dunning suggested that I explore the railways: "Jim loved private cars, so it may be that some negro porter society sent it. They love to spread themselves on funerals.'

Joe Apps, executive assistant to President Beatty, checked and phoned that no negro organization known to the C.P.R. bore the name. Sir Henry Thornton turned over the tracing to Walter Thompson, the great public relations man of the C.N.R., but without results. I wrote such friends as James Richardson in Winnipeg, R. B. Bennett in Calgary, E. N. Macdonald in Nova Scotia and Hon. Peter Larkin in England, but none could help me. The card was filed away but it lingered in memory.

About ten years ago Charles Gavan Power, better known to Canadians as "Chubby", wrote an article for Macleans Magazine on the need to curb election costs and to delete absurdities from the Election Act; for example, the section declaring it to be a jail offence should anyone hire a "horse, team, carriage, cab, cart, wagon, automobile, sleigh, aeroplane, boat or vessel" to bring a voter to the poll.

Senator Power (as he now is) has always enjoyed the repute of wholesome candour, so there was no 'holier than thou' stuff in the article. He being an expert on the subject, it was to the point, with a spade called a spade and no Party picked out as a target. Halfway through the piece, my eye caught the words: "We sons of Martha who work in the backroom" and I reached for the telephone.

"Chubby, was it you who sent a wreath of orchids when my old boss died in 1929?"

"No. I would have liked to do that for Jim, but I never had that kind of money. Why do you ask?"

I explained and Chubby shot back: "Harry McLean is your man. Whenever he completed a big job on which workmen were killed, he always erected a plaque or monument 'to the sons of Martha'. There is one at the entrance of the railway tunnel at Wolf's Cove. That is where I picked up the phrase."

Let me turn back the clock for the benefit of the younger generation. Mr. McLean died with the past five years, but he had been out of the public eye for many years. It was in the 1920s and 1930s that Harry McLean, the big contractor, was often in the newspaper headlines. He was an extrovert, but one with a flair for picking engineers and then giving them a free hand. Off the job, Harry lived high, wide and handsome. His extravagant and impulsive gifts to unknowns and his largesse to waiters, bellboys, checkroom girls, etc., were the talk of Canada. Moreover, he was prone to throw handfuls of money — $10s, $20s, and sometimes $50s and $100s — into the air or out of an hotel window to watch the scramble for the money.

He did all sorts of odd things. For example, Senator Norman Lambert tells about a dinner experience in Old Point Comfort, Virginia. When it came to dessert the waiter had said: "No need to ask what you want. You are a Canadian and we have it." In a few minutes he was back with a large slab of Oka cheese. Inquiry elicited the information that a recent Canadian guest had been disappointed because they did not have this type of cheese. "Every Canadian finishes dinner with it." He had sent 500 pounds as a present.

"What was his name?"

"Mr. Harry McLean, a very generous gentleman!"

"Mr. McLean had never written to the Minister of Finance and I felt certain that he had been just a name to Mr. Robb. Still, it could be he, so I dug up the address and wrote to ask the question.

The reply was that he had sent the wreath. More than twenty years having elapsed, I looked up Emily Post's book on etiquette for guidance, but she had not covered this contingency However, it was clear that a letter must be written, so I took pen in hand and did my best, and then reported to Mrs. Robb out in Victoria that the files were now closed. In that I erred: Harry wrote back thanking me for the letter!

Provicial Capital Report

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage may make an announcement on the electricity issue next week when he visits the restless and power-hungry Abitibi region.

Speculation in this direction is spurred by two facts:-

1. Proponents of nationalization of Quebec's 44 private power companies have taken an iron stand on the issue, despite cabinet silence since a secret meeting last week;

2. Many of these proponents can be found in the Abitibi counties, where the outdated 25-cycle power system is costly to consumers, who must convert their 60-cycle appliances, and discouraging to business and industry, badly needed in a backward region.

The six-day visit to territory that went strongly Social Credit in the June 18 Federal elections is scheduled to begin Thursday. It follows a politically-rough trip by Premier Lesage to the Gaspe Peninsula earlier this summer.

In the Gaspe, the Premier was beseiged by demands for employment and patronage. The climate of the Abitibi counties, where federal Liberals fared poorly, is expected to be much the same.

The nationalization issue, prime topic of the summer, has not been discussed by the Cabinet since a top-secret meeting at Lac à l'Epaule in Laurentides Provincial Park.

Cabinet Ministers, even those whose stand on the issue is known, told reporters they have been sworn to silence on what decisions were made, if any, at that two-day meeting.

But as the clamor from groups supporting State Control grows, so does the feeling the Cabinet's silence will have to end soon.

Resources Minister Rene Levesque, 40, has made no secret of the fact he might resign from the Cabinet on principle if it evades the step.

He considers nationalization a vital step for Quebec's economy and his speeches in the last year advocating an integrated power grid under Quebec-Hydro have won vocal public support.

Union, Municipal and Social Groups in decent weeks have brushed aside suggestions that the issue be put before a Royal Commission for further study and demanded immediate action.

Lately, as the Cabinet silence grew deafening, statements from these groups have become stronger.

Le Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale, a separatist group, this week coined the phrase "The Silent Cabinet" and accused the Government of showing, through its hesitation, that it is in the pockets of Anglo-Saxon Financiers.

Strategists here add the popularity of nationalization in areas like the Abitibi, where the power system is outdated, or the Gaspe, where it is costly and limited, to the fact that an election must be held within two years.

Does that add up to an announcement in the Abitibi? whether it does or not, Quebec's press gallery will be with the Premier on the trip waiting to see.

Premier Lesage spent the weekend in Notre-Dame hospital in Montreal, getting his annual check-up a Montreal newspaper this week noted that the Premier, 50, carries a heavy workload and wondered if the job wasn't too much for one man.

The 12 directors of the General Financing Corporation were named during the week. They will sit until stockholders in the Corporation can elect their own directors.

Most are in their 50's, with Senator Cyrille Vaillancourt, 70, of Levis, the oldest member and Marcel Pepin, 36, of Quebec City, a Union Executive, the youngest.

In 1961 corporation taxes took $1.6 billion of the $3.4 billion profit earned by Canadian Industry.
— Quick Canadian Facts

Report From Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal authorities have revealed that at least four Canadians were crippled by polio after taking Sabin oral polio vaccine, and the 10 provinces immediately cancelled plans for mass vaccination clinics.

A health department official said an investigating committee of experts was satisfied that the four contracted the paralysis as a result of taking the strawberry-flavored liquid vaccine.

An estimated 4,000,000 Canadians took Sabin doses in seven provinces before the suspension was announced. The live-virus vaccine was licensed for use in Canada last March, and many provinces were planning mass vaccination drives for this fall.

Continue Salk Program

The federal experts urged that the anti-polio program be continued vigorously with Salk vaccine, which is made with dead virus and administered through injections.

The health department said paralysis incidence of four in 4,000,000 was extremely low and that Sabin vaccine still offered a great potential for the future control of polio.

Nonetheless, a "temporary deferment" in the oral vaccination program had been ordered to allow time for a full investigation of all cases of polio occurring in Canada during "the current period."

The department noted that the polio incidence this year is among the lowest ever recorded in Canada. The only serious local outbreak developed in the Ottawa-Hull district where 38 cases have been reported so far this year.

Opposition Ready

While Prime Minister Diefenbaker was at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London, political activity continued unabated here.

Leaders of the three opposition parties, getting ready for the opening of Parliament September 27, strongly criticized the position taken by Mr. Diefenbaker at the London talks.

Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson said it was "deplorable" that Canada was "ganging up" with Australia and other Commonwealth countries in an effort to block Britain from joining the European Common Market. He said a successful British entry into ECM would strengthen the free world in the long run.

New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas said it was "fantastic" for Mr. Diefenbaker to raise the question of whether Canada would be interested in the defence of Europe if Britain joins ECM.

Robert Thompson, Social Credit party leader said he was disappointed the Prime Minister had not proposed a Commonwealth alternative to the Comon Market. "We in the Commonwealth have used Britain as a dumping ground for years," he said.

Broadcast Share

Another political debate arose when the Social Credit and New Democratic parties asked for equal time with the two older parties on CBC political broadcasts this fall and winter.

This was opposed by Progressive Conservative and Liberal spokesmen who favored retention of the established formula of dividing the free air time in proportion to each party's representation in the House of Commons.

The CBC recommended the allotment of six programs to the Conservatives, five to the Liberals and two each of Social Credit and the NDP.

A meeting between party spokesmen and the CBC ended in an impasse and the two smaller parties took their case to the Board of Broadcast Governors. The BBG promised to study the issue and make a ruling later.

Dairy Surpluses

Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton warned the dairy industry that butter production continues to soar considerably above demand levels. He said action other than federal subsidies will have to be taken to bring dairy production in line with demand.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported that the butter surplus at August 31 amounted to 144,932,000 pounds (7,100,000 pounds less than a year earlier). In addition 75,000,000 pounds of butter oil was stocked in government warehouses.

Mr. Hamilton said a federal subsidy of 12 cents per pound to butter products had reduced prices and increased consumption, but output was still too high. "It is apparent that federal subsidy action alone is not solving the dairy surplus problem."

Substantial gains in farm work and jobs for teen-agers reduced unemployment in August to its lowest level since the fall of 1959. An estimated 280,000 Canadians, 4.1 per cent of the labor force, were looking for work in mid-August. The total was lower by 28,000 than a month earlier and 43,000 fewer than in August of 1961.

Leave Boards

Two prominent Canadians resigned from federal agencies, for different reasons.

Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, resigned from the 25-man productivity council, charging that the two-year-old advisory body is too narrow in scope. He said the council should be transformed into an economic advisory council that would study a wide range of economic trends and promote co-operation between labor and management.

Government spokesmen replied hat the council was endeavoring to do just that and was on the verge of announcing a new research program.

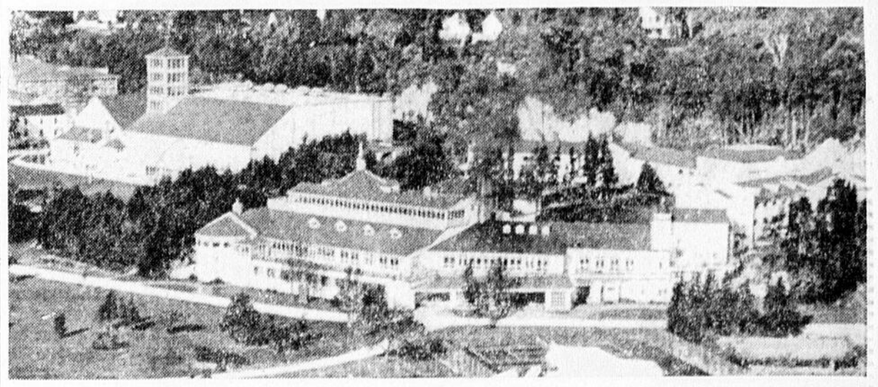
Sam Hughes a former justice of the Ontario Supreme Court, resigned as chairman of the Civil Service Commission and was reappointed to the Ontario High Court.

Mr. Justice Hughes, 48, said that when he joined the government agency three years ago it was on the understanding that the appointment would be temporary.

Reserves Higher

Canad's foreign exchange reserves stood at $2,320,600,000 at the end of August, compared with the precariously low point of $1,100,000,000 on June 24.

TRAINING CENTRE FOR MORAL RE-ARMAMENT



This the Training Centre for Moral Re-Armament at Mackinac Island, Michigan, where the World Assembly was held over Labour Day week-end. These buildings include a complete unit, designed for the production of television, motion picture and stage productions that will put the free world on the ideological offensive. Rev. Pelletier and Mrs. Pelletier, Valleyfield and Rev. P. R. Stote and Mrs. Stote attended and stayed here.

Convictions From Mackinac

(by THE REV. P. R. STOTE

Last week I promised to give more convictions from Mackinac.

1,000 people from many countries in the world were gathered at Mackinac Island, Michigan, at the Training Centre for Moral Re-Armament.

Mackinac is a beautiful island in the Straits of Mackinac, where the Great Lakes mingle. It is about 75 miles from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. 150 from Canada were there to join many more from South America, Central America, North America, Africa, Europe, Japan, Korea and many more countries.

The aim of the Training Centre is to clean up the Nations from bottom to top, beginning with oneself. But the goal is the world put right. It is a moral and spiritual revolution. I have never been in a war or a revolution, in the usual sense. Many, who were there, have been. Anyone who came away without sensing the need of being in this greatest and final "Revolution" missed the point. It is not only a revolution of habits but a revolution in motives.

Each one had to ask himself the question, "What am I living for?"

The people of the world are in desperate need because they are not living to fulfil The Creator's purpose. Often personal satisfaction is the aim rather than His purpose. This must be put right. It is already being done by a cross section of the people of the world. It was demonstrated beyond a doubt in the many plays and films which are actual extracts from the life of many countries. The film "The Crowning Experience" shows the answer to division between black and white. "The Men of Brazil" shows the answer for bitterness between labour and management and between labour and labour.

A play produced by the Canadian Indians shows how after 200 years of frustration, bitterness and decay "the time has come" for them, too, to demonstrate for the world that the Creator has a part for them in putting the world right. The transformation in their lives is beyond doubt. I think of three Canadian businessmen who are putting the goal of Remaking the World before their own gain. You will have to see them to believe it.

This is only a sample of what is being done to save a crumbling civilization — there is much more that I actually saw and much more to be done.

As for myself, I came back with the conviction

TO DO ANYTHING,
TO GIVE UP ANYTHING, TO RECEIVE ANYTHING,

that the world may be remade in time.

I am convinced that in our own districts we have been put to sleep by the many activities that do not produce the answer in daily lives, which the times require.

Either we put all that we are into the Creator's Purpose now or else we and our children will be slaves to the aims of human will apart from God.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene DeGowin Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene DeGowin of Fort Covington, N.Y., celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, September 9th, at a reception in their home.

About 300 people called at the DeGowin Farm Homestead, which has been in the DeGowin family for over 100 years. Antiques, which Mrs. DeGowin collects as a hobby, were on display for the occasion.

Mrs. DeGowin received her guests in a beige lace frock with gold metallic jacket and gold metallic accessories and a gold throated white orchid.

Her daughters, Mrs. Harlie Smith of Malone and Mrs. Walter Smallman of Ft. Covington, were hostesses.

The home was decorated with baskets of gold, bronze and white chrysanthemums. Marigolds were used to centre the tea table. The anniversary cake was frosted in white and sprayed with gold spun sugar.

Nieces of the couple poured as follows: Mrs. George Taylor of Athelstan; Mrs. Roy McNichols of Ormstown; Mrs. Bruce Scriver of Montreal, and Mrs. Ernest Flynn of Chateauguay. Neighbors, who poured, were Mrs. Richard Howard, Mrs. John Ellsworth, Mrs. Beatrice Creighton and Mrs. Bert Fish.

The couple's only grandchild, Tammy Smallman and Miss Jean Howard registered the guests.

Mrs. Allie Smith and Mrs. Charles Smallman cut the cake.

Tea, sandwiches, coffee and tea were served.

Mr. DeGowin is a retired breeder of Black Angus cattle and is former Republican Commissioner of Elections for Franklin County.

PRESBYTERIAN LADIES AID

The Ladies Aid met on Thursday afternoon, September 13th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Ross. Mrs. Watson took charge of the meeting, and Mrs. Morris McLean led in the devotions, reading from Ps. 107 and led in prayer. Her theme was "The Everlasting Mercy".

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, and Mrs. McLean gave the Treasurer's report. The results from the sale of work at the Fair were very gratifying. One letter of thanks was read.

It was decided that if there were no other coming events the annual turkey supper would be October 25th. Some of the details were settled with other minor ones to be discussed at our October meeting.

Mrs. McIntyre read an invitation she had received inviting the ladies to attend the 85th anniversary of Ormstown Women's Missionary Society on Tuesday, September the 18th at 2.30 p.m. when the Rev. W. H. Brown, a former minister in Ormstown, would be guest speaker.

Notice was also given of St. Andrew's Thank-offering on September 28th when Mrs. Ronald Rowat will bring the message.

The meeting closed with a hymn and the Lord's Prayer

Improvements At Moon Valley

Ski enthusiasts will be interested to learn that extensive improvements are being made at Moon Valley, near Malone, N.Y.

Work on a new chair lift and trails is nearing completion on a slope 2,100 feet in height with a 500 foot vertical rise. The concrete footings for the lift required 400 tons of concrete. Transportation of the gravel, cement and water to the upper levels had to be done by hand. The trails are expected to be completed this month and skiers and other person who want a preview of them may visit there and explore the trails.

October 15th is the date set for the opening of the chair lift but before it is opened to the public it will undergo extensive testing. If all goes well visitors should be able to use it this fall to see the beautiful coloured leaves.

An addition to the lodge is also nearing completion.

Wedding

COFFEY—DEMERS

The marriage of Dorothy Ann, daughter of Mr. Ernest Demers and the late Mrs. Demers of Ste. Agnes de Dundee, Que. to Mr. David Andrew Coffey, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Coffey of Huntingdon, Que. was recently held at Ste. Agnes Roman Catholic Church.

A nuptial mass with a double ring ceremony was celebrated by Rev. Father Gerard Gagnon. During the service organ music was played by Mrs. Latrelle and vocal selections were rendered by the Huntingdon Ladies of St. Ann choir.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white floor length crinoline gown of silk organza over satin, the fitted bodice and very full skirt having lace appliqued butterflies from the neckline down to the hemline in front while the back was finished with a bow of organza. Her shoulder length veil of tulle illusion was held with a tiny crown of white satin roses. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a cascade bouquet of pink delight roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Hughen Duhaime, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a delicate pastel green dress, tulle over taffeta with matching bandeau, veil and mitts. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations.

Mr. John Coffey, brother of the groom, acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Patrick Coffey, brother of the groom, and Mr. Bernard Demers, brother of the bride.

Following the church ceremony the guests gathered at the Ste. Agnes Hotel for a hot turkey dinner, music being supplied by the Dufrane Brothers.

Later the bride and groom left for their wedding trip to Old Orchard Beach, Maine, motoring through the States of Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine and returning via Massachusetts and New York. For travelling the bride wore a three piece double-knit green and white suit with dark brown accessories and a corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses.

Out of town guests were from Hamilton and Hannon, Ont., Youngstown, Massena, Brushton and Fort Covington, N.Y., Montreal, Richmond and Ormstown, Que.

District W. I. Notes

..Huntingdon Branch

Huntingdon Women's Institute met on Tuesday, Sept. 11th at the home of Miss F. Turner, with the President Mrs. Carl Anderson in charge. Roll call was answered by each member recalling a "school memory."

Conveners Reports; Agriculture; Hints on the care of raspberry plants in the fall. A very enlightening item on birds told of their help in controlling the number of bugs and the amount of insects found in the stomach of various birds. Education; The need for improved text books. Home Economics; Reported that cooking classes will be held in Grove Hall the week of Oct. 25th, these will include meal planning. The classes will be available to the public and a silver collection will be taken at each class. Time 2-4 p.m. and 8-10 p.m. An article on buying clothes gave many timely hints ie. always examine the inside of a garment to determine if seams are well finished and examine fastenings and trimmings. Publicity; Report from "The Real World of Women" held in Toronto recently. Health and Welfare; Distributed copies of "World Health."

The guest speaker was Mr. Stanley Currie who gave a very interesting talk on "Our Valley." All present learned much of the history of the countryside and many interesting facts about various buildings in town. The home of Miss Turner was built in 1837 and was originally the Methodist Manse. Mr. Currie humourously complimented Miss Turner for remaining true to her Presbyterian principles while living in a Methodist Manse. As eight of Mr. Currie's ancestors came from Scotland or Ireland and settled in the "Valley" he feels he really belongs here. Mrs. Currie is also descended from early settlers and it was most interesting to hear of these early settlers and to learn facts some humorous, some not. An exquisitely hand-worked quilt made in Scotland around 1800 by forebears of Mrs. Currie was shown.

The group will not soon forget the fund of information and interesting details furnished by Mr. Currie. Mrs. Chas. Reid voiced the appreciation of all present.

Miss Turner had pinned up 14 pictures of antique medical instruments and household gadgets, which the members had to guess what they were. Six correct answers by Mrs. Reid was the highest scored. Mrs. Alexander and Mrs. Wood scored 5 each.

One new member was received into the group and a number of guests were present. A happy time was enjoyed around the table when dainty refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Ottney and Mrs. Lindsay. Gifts for the Christmas Stockings for the "Save The Children" project were received but many more are needed. Cotton for the Cancer Fund can be left with Mrs. Middlemiss and non members are also asked to bring contributions for this needy cause.

Hemmingford W.I.

The monthly meeting of the Hemmingford W. I. was held on Wednesday afternoon, September 5th at the home of Mrs. Robert Petch. Twenty-two members, four visitors and thirteen members from Aubrey-Riverfield branch were in attendance.

The president, Mrs. H. McAdam welcomed our guests and introduced them individually to our members. The Treasurer's report showed a good balance. The Salvation Army Pick-Up will be made on September 12th from Mrs. Robinson's barn in Hemmingford.

Mrs. R. Petch, Convener of Home Economics had very high praise for the beautiful display of handiwork exhibited by Cercle des Fermiere.

Mrs. Harris, Publicity Convener read from a newspaper clipping that 1000 visitors had seen the Adelaide Hoodless Home in St. George, Ont. last month. The unveiling of the plaque erected by the National Historic Sites Board last month created even more interest in this historic spot.

A Red Cross Blood Donor clinic will be held on September 12th from 2 to 5:30 in the afternoon and from 7 to 9:30 in the evening. Doughnuts and coffee will be served to donors and Mrs. J. Robertson asked for helpers. Several members volunteered.

Fees were collected and the Roll Call was answered with "A little known fact about Canada" from which we learned that Canadians are drinking more milk and eating more milk products. That austerity does not exist to any great extent when Canada can import ninety-eight million dollars worth of grapes and strawberries — luxury fruits. That the annual weed cost to Canada is $200,000,000, and that there are no rats in Alberta.

Mrs. McAdam stated that Hemmingford 4-H club members are hoping to exhibit twenty calves this year at the Havelock Fair to be held on Saturday, September 8th.

W. I. News — Hemmingford

Mrs. D. Laurie, on persuasion from Mrs. D. Orr, eleven years ago, acquired a pen-pal in Washington, D.C. Throughout this period they have corresponded quite regularly. "Alice" now lives in Taipei, Tai-wan, Free China, her husband holding a Government position there. For the next half hour Mrs. Laurie read a number of letters to the group describing living conditions there as compared to America, an interesting account of a Chinese wedding which they had attended, discussed the domestic help situation, and everyone had a smile when they heard the Fuller Brush man makes the rounds in China also. They exchange ideas as to their various hobbies. She hopes some day Mrs. Laurie will pay her a visit. This proved to be an unusual and interesting half hour.

Mrs. L'Esperance Convener of Agriculture stated a lot of work needed to be done to get the school into shape for the Fair the next day, so after the meeting several members proceeded to the school to set up tables and prepare the room for this event.

Delightful refreshments were served by the hostesses Mrs. R. Petch, Mrs. M. Cleland and Mrs. W. Keddy which ended an enjoyable afternoon.

W. I. Sponsors School Fair.

The Fair at Hemmingford High School has come and gone with very gratifying results. The enthusiasm shown by the pupils was very evident in the 450 entries — an increase of 75 over last year. The judges had an extremely hard time picking winners in the different categories because of the general high quality of the exhibits, in fact in several classes an extra prize was awarded.

A tremendous vote of thanks should go to our competent, hard-working and very willing Convener of Agriculture, Mrs. J. L'Esperance, whose untiring efforts made this event such an outstanding success. Thanks go also to the judges, the parents and all those who in any way contributed to this event.

Prizes will be awarded next Friday afternoon in the School Auditorium. Names of the winners will appear later in another issue.

District W. I. Notes

Last Wednesday the Dundee W.I. met in Bombay, N.Y., at the home of Mrs. Lyle Currie, an Institute member who lives "across the Border". Mrs. Bernhardt of Huntingdon had asked that members collect the picture discs found in Sherriff-Salada products. These can be turned in and one cent apiece will be paid for them, then this money can be used for Institute work. Miss McOuat is to give a demonstration on Nutrition in Huntingdon, October 18th and Dundee Institute will join the Huntingdon group for this meeting.

Convener reports followed. For Agriculture Mrs. Stowell reported that in the United States scientists are searching for new wheat products that might reduce the present wheat surplus. At present wheat chips, wheat toffee, wheat brittle candy and wheat caramels are found to be very good. When new drugs are being tested it is suspected that some doctors are sending in fake reports. Mrs. Cameron reported about how a marriage counseller works.

Although unable to be present to lead the discussion Mrs. Earl Gardiner had prepared a paper on "What is Public Opinion?" and had written a number of questions to be discussed. Public opinion usually means the prevailing opinion on a public issue and it never is unanimous. There are two public opinions, the organized and the opinion of individuals, both influenced by papers, books, films and T.V. It is formed by special speakers at service clubs, church groups and community organizations. These speakers have special knowledge of the subject and so help to form public opinion. However we must remember that only in a democracy is public opinion worth anything or even allowed to be expressed. The higher the state of civilization the greater power has public opinion. Let us be sure we are throwing our weight around in the right direction.

Mrs. Eugene De Gowin, an American guest who celebrated her 50th Wedding Anniversary on Sunday, had an attentive audience, when she recited a poem about an old Mississippi River captain who wan't good in some ways but who when his boat was on fire stayed with it until he had it near the shore with his men safe, but then he perished. Mrs. Elizabeth Fleming, another guest, told about her tour of Southern Europe last summer.

Members brought in Christmas stocking they had made and filled for the Save the Children Fund. A guest at another meeting had donated $1.00 and this had been used to buy toys and candy.

Mrs. Currie served delicious refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Brown of Senneville, Quebec, were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McNicol and other friends. Mr. Brown had his bagpipes and he entertained his friends by playing for some time.

Ormstown, W. I.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ormstown W. I. was held on Wednesday, Sept 5, at the home of Mrs. H. Ovans with an attendance of 25 members and visitors, who responded to the roll call with "Practical Suggestions for the Lunch Box" — viz. a thermos of hot soup, tea, coffee, milk, fruit, sandwiches of various kinds, serviettes, a knife for peeling fruit, also cottage cheese in a container, as this is a good source of protein.

A letter was read from Miss McOuat saying that she will conduct a millinery course from Oct. 22-26. This course is open to anyone who wishes to participate and will be held afternoon and evenings at the home of Mrs. R. Anderson. Regarding the French Course which will be held in the High School, those who wish to enroll should hand in their names to Mrs. W. Kerr before Sept. 12.

We were priviledged to have with us our Provincial President, Mrs. Ellard, who gave us an interesting and informative talk on W. I. work, throughout the Province Regarding the finding of the Health-Service questionaire as to whether or not services rendered were satisfactory it was found that there was a great need in this province for homes to care for the aged and those mentally disturbed at a rate within the means of those who needed this. The W. I. has sent a brief regarding this to the Prime Minister. She said rural areas are being depleted — no room for the small farmers especially in Quebec as industrialism is taking over, only 11% of our population are farmers, Arda is a new project initiated by the Federal Government. Its purpose is the use, development and conservation of rural resources in Canada, and it was suggested that local communities, Farm Forums, Women's Institutes and other rural organizations get to gether and help forward this work.

A tremendous work is to be done among the Indians in the North — where conditions are appalling. These Indians get help from the Federal Government, but they don't know how to spend it wisely. The W. I. have formed a branch there and are sending demonstrators to help in every way they can and to help them take more interest in their native crafts. At Rouyn and Malartic, mining centres, where the population is composed of foreigners, whose wives have brought their native crafts with them, Womens' Institutes have been formed and those women are brought together and their beautiful work is shown and others instructed in it.

Colonel Jones who has charge of Northern Affairs was delighted that our W. I. took such an interest in this job which is on our doorstep.

Mrs. Ellard, also told of a visit to the Adelaide Hoodless home and spoke of the furnishing of same which is being done the same as when Mrs. Hoodless lived there. Two acres beside the homestead have been bought for a park. This homestead is a National Historic Site for all time.

"Get your young women interested in W. I. work", said Mrs. Ellard: "Bring to their attention the many things that have been initiated and helped out by the Institute and how their homes can be helped through their efforts — no nation is better than the homes we have". Mrs. Kerr thanked Mrs. Ellard for her interesting talk which was interspersed with humorous anecdotes.

A salad demonstration was held. Sixteen plates, was judged by Mrs. Grant, Home Economics Teacher in Ormstown School. The prize going to Mrs. A. Marshall for the best and most nutritious plate.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was the presentation of a Life Membership Certificate and Pin to Mrs. A. A. McNeil for her contribution of time and effort to the work of Ormstown branch. Mrs. Ellard presented the certificate and Mrs. Bruce pinned on the pin.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah and refreshments consisted of the salads and rolls served by the hostesses, Mrs. H. Ovans, Miss K. Murphy assisted by Mrs. R. Ovans. A social hour was enjoyed.

Our next meeting will be held Oct 2 in O. H. S. when we will entertain the Staff of the O.H.S. and Notre Dame Schools.

Franklin W.I.

Franklin W.I. held their September meeting the 30th of August making plans for their booth to be held at the Havelock Fair. Mrs. D. Lindsay and Mrs. L. W. Lewis were hostesses. The Franklin W.I. had a booth at the Havelock Fair and it was very successful with mostly all members present to give a hand, the finance committee all were present.

Former Huntingdon Resident Takes On Interesting Occupation

An item of interest to local readers appeared in a Montreal publication recently. It concerned Mrs. Olivette Caza Rill, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Caza of Huntingdon and who is well known in this community where she has many relatives and friends. Her brothers Bernard and Louis Georges are residents of Huntingdon while Raymond is employed by Canadian Schenley Limited in Valleyfield.

Widowed, with three young children, and looking for something to do Mrs. Rill one day heard about a successful new business in New York City. It was called Gulliver's Trails and specialized in tours for children. Excited by the idea she telephoned the New York headquarters and asked if she could have the Canadian franchise. Taken with her enthusiasm New York said yes. That was about a year ago.

The tours are primarily for visitors to Montreal but occasionally local children are taken along so that the foreign visitors will get to know Montreal and Montrealers better. Gulliver's Trails have proved a boon, for example, to parents attending conventions with their children. Tours are conducted to historic sites, parks, etc. Tours usually end at City Hall where the children sing newly learned French-Canadian folksongs to His Worship the Mayor. During the winter the older children are taken to N.H.L. hockey games. These are a rare treat as many of the visitors have never seen a hockey game before. Contests in bowling, dancing, sandwich eating etc. are held. All in all many activities are planned to interest and amuse the visitors. Each child is given a straw Eton beret with the words 'Gilliver's Trails' written across the brim as well as pennants and personalized bracelets.

The success of Mrs. Rill's venture lies partly in her hand-picked counsellors. One is engaged for every six children and more for the youngest ones. The counsellors are all bilingual — and come from varied backgrounds. The senior counsellor this year is a French Canadian law student. Others come from Germany, Israel, England and Spanish-speaking countries.

Gulliver's Trails reaches out beyond Montreal. A group from a New York City church school spent Easter in Montreal and Quebec City while a Montreal group went to New York City. Tours are planned for Upper Canada Village, Cornwall and the foreign embassies in Ottawa.

Mrs. Rill is to be commended on her initiative.

Dundee

DUNDEE — On Sunday morning Mrs. A. H. Fraser and family motored to Henrysburg to visit the Cockerlines. In the afternoon they attended the one hundred and first anniversary of the Henrysburg United Church (before 1925 known as the Wesleyan Methodist). The contract for the construction of the brick church was given to John Cockerline Jr., a great-uncle of Mrs. Fraser.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Rev. Norman R. Estey, B.A., minister of the United Church of Canada in Oromocto, N.B., and father of the present minister, Rev. David C. Estey, B.A., B.D. Rev. Estey spoke about why we should stand by the church. He said where there is no faith in the future there is no power in the present. He illustrated this by telling of some personal experiences which showed the truth of this statement. His Church in New Brunswick is not far from Camp Gagetown, the largest Military Camp in Canada, so his congregation is mainly serving also a transient one. Also a transent one.

The choir for this service was from the Lacolle United Church composed of members of the choir with their pianist, Mrs. David Van Vliet.

The church was decorated with beautiful cut flowers donated by Mrs. Everett True and flowers from the Cockerline garden.

A letter of congratulations was read from the Montreal Presbytery and also one from the past chairman of the Montreal-Ottawa Conference, Rev. John Hurst. Rev. Hurst was student minister in Henrysburg around 1912 and was also married at the Cockerline home.

-o-

On Sunday morning Dr. Johnson of the Canadian Bible Society in Montreal was guest speaker in Zion United Church. He said it was amazing the number of languages into which the Bible or parts of it has been translated. Now at least parts of the Bible are written in 95% of the known languages of the world. Many people who wish Bibles are so poor that they can only pay from 2 to 4c each for a Gospel which costs 66c to print. Therefore the money we contribute to the Canadian Bible Society helps to defray the extra expense of these books.

Lennox of Huntingdon, to Mr. Michael Brian Powers, son of Dr. and Mrs. Francis Powers of St. Lambert, Que., took place recently in St. Joseph's Church, Huntingdon, the Rev. Robert Nagy officiating. Miss Demers played the wedding music and the Misses Fournier sang. Baskets of pink and white gladioli and summer flowers were used to decorate the Church.

The bride who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white silk organza, the fitted bodice having a sabina neckline appliqued with French lace and three-quarter length sleeves. The full skirt appliqued with matching lace fell into a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of tulle illusion was held by a rose and she carried a cascade of pink delight roses, an orchid and stephanotis.

Mrs. Jack Currie, sister of the bride as matron of honour was in a frock of blue silk organza with matching pill box hat. She carried a cascade of pink delight roses.

Miss Audrey Lennox and Miss Pauline Caza (cousin of the bride) wore sky blue silk organza frocks with matching pill box hats. They carried cascades of pink carnations.

Mr. Michael Neysmith acted as best man for Mr. Powers and the ushers were Mr. Ted Carragher and Mr. John L. Smith.

Mrs. Lennox mother of the bride, wore a cocktail length gown of beige silk organza with matching beige accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. Powers, mother of the bridegroom wore a cocktail gown of aqua silk organza with matching accessories and corsage of white roses.

The reception was held at the Rod and Gun Club, Port Lewis, Que., where arrangements of white, yellow and rust pom poms were used to decorate.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Powers left for a motor trip through Ontario and the northern states. The bride travelled in a beige silk suit with mink brown accessories and a mauve orchid corsage.

25th Wedding Anniversary

LACOLLE — To celebrate the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. G. Lyman Van Vliet, on Saturday evening, Sept. 8th, a party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Van Vliet, in Burtonville.

It was most fitting that a family re-union should have been held in his home, it being the homestead in which the 13 children of Mr. and Mrs. Lachlan Van Vliet were brought up, Lyman being their fifth child.

Not only was a silver wedding anniversary celebrated on this date, but it was also the 42nd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Grant (Hazel) and the birthday of Alice (Mrs. Glen Buchanan).

Seven sisters, four brothers and their husbands and wives — a total of 21 in all — gathered for this re-union, and many were the stories recounted of life in the old days on the farm.

Dr. J. E. Van Vliet acted as Master of Ceremonies and presented the bride and groom with 25 silver dollars, packed in a silver cart and drawn by a silver pony.

Refreshments were served, not buffet style, but with all 21 re-atives seated around the table in the large dining room where they had been wont to gather on many other happy occasions in the past.
