SIDNEY GRAY'S PERIL.

By W. Thomson.

Although numbering about six when we left home, our party now consisted of seven persons—namely, Colonel Gray and his six-year-old son, Sidney, Harry Strong, Jack Goring, Ed Conway, and myself, and, lastly, Ezra Stephens, a fairly well-educated old fellow and a famous guide and hunter...

SIDNEY GRAY'S PERIL.

"Well, Ezra," rejoined the Colonel, "we've already got more game than our pack mules can carry home, and I'd better go into the wild west business now. Can you put us on the right track?"

SIDNEY GRAY'S PERIL.

"I'll do it, yes, I do it," thought Nan, and she hunted about for a pen and ink. She had nothing to be fit except a brown wrapping paper, for her father's family had a stable pen-and-ink store on the brown paper these weeks."

A CRANK IN DELMONICO'S.

Guests and Waiters Fled Before His Revolver.

AFTER SHOOTING THROUGH THE WINDOWS FROM THE OUTSIDE.

The Man Rushed Into the Restaurant Crying "Down with the Rich."

New York, November 18.—Fashionable diners—men and women—who surrounded the tables in Delmonico's at 5:30 o'clock Thursday evening will never forget the shrieks of terror, the whistling of bullets and the crash of splintered glass that brought the meal to a panic-stricken close.

Under ordinary circumstances at this early hour the fashionable dining rooms would have been practically empty, but this evening there was scarcely a table unoccupied.

The man rushed into the restaurant crying "Down with the Rich."

With the last word, and before a hand could be outstretched in interference, he leveled his revolver at the restaurant windows and fired.

WARM TRIBUTE TO THE DECEASED.

MAJOR-GENERAL HERBERT TALKS OF SIR ROBERT MORIER.

He Was a Typical Englishman, and That Means Much—Noble Characteristics of the Deceased Diplomat.

OTTAWA, November 18.—"You have brought us very painful news indeed," said Major-General Herbert to a STAR correspondent yesterday, on being shown a despatch announcing the death of Sir Robert Morier, British Ambassador at St. Petersburg.

"It is the first intimation I have had of his death," went on the general, "although I have just before me a letter from an old colleague of mine at St. Petersburg, stating that Sir Robert was very ill."

"As to his career as a diplomatist, it has been a very distinguished one. He commenced as a resident minister at Legation and was subsequently at Berlin."

"He was while at the latter place, very intimate with the late Emperor Frederick and well-known to the imperial family. He was afterwards at Constantinople, and while there was witness to the operations of the Franco-Prussian war."

"He was afterwards at Lisbon, and was also at Madrid where he distinguished himself in connection with commercial treaties between Spain and Portugal."

"In 1855 he was appointed as British Ambassador to Russia. I was there with him for nearly five years and entertained the highest feelings of respect and personal affection for him. He was indeed a very striking figure in every way, both physically and mentally."

"He was a typical Englishman, and had earned the reputation in all his diplomatic career of straightforwardness, honesty of purpose and integrity."

"As I have already said, I feel that in Sir Robert's death I have lost a dear friend. Our relations were always of the most cordial character and I extremely regret to lose him."

Mr. Tallon Hints at Economy in That Direction.

QUEBEC, November 17.—A fair amount of business was transacted in the Legislative Assembly yesterday afternoon. Friday is always a quiet day in two senses of the term as a number of members make a practice of leaving for their country homes in the afternoon, returning the following Monday or Tuesday. The attendance at the house was therefore, somewhat thin.

total number of convicts received in all the penitentiaries during the year 1892, was against 387 the previous year. The number discharged was 382, as compared with 408 in the year ending June 30, 1892. With reference to this Mr. Maclean says:

This falling off for some years past, in penitentiary population, is a subject for congratulation, since the increase of crime is a noticeable feature in the business enterprise and in the labor market of the Dominion, and on the whole, a laudable and manifold of their duties and obligations as citizens. Let us hope the apprehension shared by many is groundless—who are the criminals now congregated at the penitentiaries—that upon the close of the World's Fair, Canada would be overrun by a large contingent from all parts. The prospect of richer spoils and more successful operations in the colonies, induced the bulk of habitual offenders, such as burglars, thieves and pickpockets, especially, to cross the line and turn their backs upon the less productive field for their enterprise afforded by the Dominion.

THE CONSPIRACY CASE.

OTTAWA, November 18.—During the afternoon session of the McCreery-Connolly conspiracy case, there were no new developments. Mr. Cross, the expert accountant, was examined by Mr. Maclean, to whom witness admitted that the subscriptions marked in the books of the firm and given to the firm by the various subscribers were something extraordinary. He did not refer to them as being correct entries. The notes in regard to the $25,000 fund, as signed by Larkin, Connolly & Co. and marked O. E. M. for Owen E. Murphy. In reply to Mr. Aylesworth, witness said that none of the notes were signed by Mr. McCreery, nor did his name appear in the books of the firm anywhere. Some evidence of a formal card to discontinue was given by Mr. T. D. and C. A. Panet, of the Privileges and Elections Committee. Jas. Wood, secretary of the Historic Commission, Quebec, was the next witness. He testified to the attendance of Thomas McCreery at various meetings of the Board. To Mr. Aylesworth, witness said that Thomas McCreery attended very regularly, except when he was out of the country. Thomas was present when the deciding contract was given out in the autumn of 1889.

W. E. Jennings, C. E., was called to explain the figuring up and figuring down process, by which it was alleged that Larkin, Connolly & Co. got one of the contracts, although $20,000 higher in their tender than Moore & Wright. The examination of this witness was not over when the Court rose at 3:15 p. m.

WANTS $50,000 DAMAGES.

LONDON, Ont., November 18.—Mrs. Louisa McCreery, of this city, widow of Thomas McCreery, who was killed in the terrible railroad wreck on the Chicago & Grand Trunk Railway at Battle Creek, Mich., a month ago, has petitioned Judge Durfee, of Detroit, to appoint her administrator of her husband's estate, in order that she may bring an action against the Chicago & Grand Trunk Railway, for damages for negligence causing his death. She places her damages at $50,000.

Ontario's Crop Yield.

TORONTO, November 18.—The following yields of crops in Ontario for 1893 have just been compiled from the returns of the Bureau of Statistics of the Ontario Bureau of Industries. The yields are slightly lower than those published in August, which were based on preliminary reports.

These are actual yields, based upon threshing results:

Table with 2 columns: Crop Name, Yield. Rows include: Barley, 41,345,248; Oats, 1,436,063; Spring wheat, 350,721; Potatoes, 1,008,908; Rye, 39,654; Buckwheat, 88,482; Corn, 119,263; Potatoes, 141,031; Mangel wurzel, 2,329,426; Turnips, 2,329,426; Hay, 4,200,000; Clover, 1,364,200.

THE ALDERMEN RECONSIDER

Their Decision to Reduce the City's Borrowing Power.

ALD. SMITH DELIVERS AN ABLE ADDRESS.

The City Surveyor Empowered to Remove the Telephone Poles.

The City Council has gone back on its record of Monday last, when by a majority of one it voted to limit the borrowing power of the city to 15 per cent. of the taxable property.

At the opening of the meeting the report of the Board of Finance was read, and the Council instructed the City Surveyor to superintend the erection of the telephone poles, and to empower him to remove them where they constituted a nuisance.

Ald. Prefontaine moved the adoption of the report. Ald. Stevenson asked if there was any possibility of getting rid of these poles altogether.

Ald. Clendinning said they were either in charge of the streets or they were not. Why, only the other day a coroner's jury returned a verdict which made

THE CITY RESPONSIBLE FOR DAMAGES on account of a telegraph pole in Cote des Neiges road. They had no right to allow any company to place the streets.

Ald. McBride protested against the poles on St. James and St. Paul streets. "When the company went before the Finance Committee," he said, "they promised to put up their poles in lanes and by streets, I would ask how many poles the Merchants Company put up in the lanes."

Ald. Prefontaine—"No one wants to ruin the Company; the City Surveyor will only exercise his power within reasonable limits."

Ald. Beausoleil—"The Council is responsible for the present situation, because it rejected a motion of Ald. Prefontaine to establish the control of the City Surveyor. The company has used the unlimited privilege given to it, and the city is responsible for all damages which may result."

Ald. Clendinning said that under the present system Montreal's credit was high, higher than Toronto, Chicago, Detroit or Boston. Recent transactions in the money market showed the excellence of the law.

Ald. Leclerc moved a sub-amendment to refer the report back to the Board of Finance and that the City Surveyor be empowered to prepare a plan of the city showing where the poles are to be placed.

The sub-amendment was lost by a vote of 7 to 10. Ald. Savignac's amendment was lost on the following division:

Yeas—Ald. Leclerc, Renaud, Marsolais, Beausoleil, P. Dubuc, St. Germain, Germain, Jeannotte and Hurlbut. Nays—Ald. Costigan, Smith, McNeill, Hurlbut, James, Stearns, Brunet, Wilson, Griffin, Clendinning, Tansy, Thompson, Nolan, Courty, Stevenson and Prefontaine.

Ald. Prefontaine's motion was carried by 16 to 10. Ald. Costigan and Stearns asked the chairman of the Board Committee why it was that our leading STREETS WERE ALLOWED TO BE SO DIRTY at the present time. Why was it not watered? He was not a shopkeeper, but he was sure they had a just cause for complaint.

Ald. Prefontaine replied that the matter had been brought to the notice of the City Surveyor, who had stated that on account of the lateness of the season and the cold weather, it was impossible to water them and make them safe.

Ald. Stearns said that this would not apply to the macadamized streets. Ald. Germain and Leclerc complained of the present mode of collecting water rates.

If the people could not pay their rates, the water was turned off. This was not only a great hardship, but it endangered public health.

Ald. Hurlbut said that the whole subject had been discussed three years ago and the present system had been adopted after very careful consideration. The collectors were instructed not to turn the water off in cases of extreme hardship, and to take instalments whenever offered.

Ald. Hurlbut then moved, seconded by Ald. Clendinning, "That the motion passed at the previous meeting of the Council, reducing the borrowing power of the city to 15 per cent. of the value of the taxable property of the city, be reconsidered."

Ald. Hurlbut spoke at some length in support of his motion. He contended that the resolution of Ald. Smith would actually reduce the borrowing power which the city enjoyed last year, thus leaving $638,000 of the existing debt uncovered. It would be nothing less than a breach of contract with the creditors of the city.

The law which had governed the city during the last five years had been framed by the late Sir John Abbott, who had made a special study of the matter, and the city which formerly could not borrow at less than a 10 per cent. had been able to borrow at 3 per cent. at par under this law. There was not a city on the continent which could make a better showing than Montreal in the security must affect the credit of the city.

casted considerable noise and merriment, but Ald. Smith kept his subject well in hand. His motion, he said, did not interfere in any way with the present bondholders. It distinctly stated that "nothing herein contained to interfere with the rights of present holders of debentures or debenture stock." The principle of borrowing on property which did not contribute anything to the revenue of the city was unquestionably a wrong one. The exempted property was not responsible for the debt of the city. It was only the rateable property which was responsible. The charter showed this clearly. It provided in the case of a sheriff's levy that "If the money therein mentioned, with all the lawful interest and costs, which the holder is entitled to levy, is not paid within one month, the sheriff shall himself calculate, as nearly as may be, what rate upon the assessed value of the immovable property liable to assessment in the city will, in his opinion, after making fair allowances for expenses, losses and deficiencies in the collection of such rate, be required to produce a net amount equal to the sum, interest and costs he is commanded to levy. It did not say a word about selling the water-works. Every investor would be better satisfied when he knew that the borrowing powers were limited to the assessed property. Montreal was unique in this matter. He did not know of one city which had that power. He had written to such institutions as the Standard Life, Canada Life, Bank of Commerce, and North British and Mercantile Insurance Companies, and they all agreed with him. He had received a telegram from Hamilton to the following effect: "Borrowing powers of Toronto and London are by statute limited to 12 per cent. of rateable property, thus excluding exempt property. These only places with special limits. I believe, but our general municipal act limits taxation to two cents on the rateable property, and this limits borrowing power on same basis, and no municipality can borrow according to value, including exempt property. A. H. C."

The assessed value of exempt properties had been increased by 50 per cent. this year, and there was no known case where they might stop. Nearly every financial man of standing in this city agreed with him in this matter. He did not wish to compare Montreal with Toronto, but he would remind them that its last loan was placed at 100, less one per cent., and its previous loan had been placed at 185. He then discussed Mr. Robb's letter, and said that as the exempted property was increased by eleven millions this year, what was to prevent their increasing it by twenty millions next year? The claim that the proposal would be retroactive was not sound. They could make it retroactive even if they desired to do so. He had received the following letter from Mr. George Hague that day:

MY DEAR SIR:—Writing as a simple citizen and owner of property, and not at all in an official capacity, I do not wish to contribute what has appeared under my name in print, as to the policy of restricting the borrowing power of Montreal in future to a percentage on the value of properties assessable for taxes. In doing this, you convey the question of ultimate liability of all properties whatever within the city limits to the opinion of the principal of any debt incurred, will not be touched at all. That, I conceive, is a matter apart, and by itself.

Undoubtedly every foot of land within the limits of the city should be held liable for the final payment of the debt of the city; but, as all that we borrow will carry interest, it appears to me only a plain deduction from this that only properties which pay taxes should be a basis for any property which may be considered expedient to borrow.

I notice that in the city charter itself, as it now exists, it is provided that real estate, the land, both for payment of interest and principal, to the assessable properties of the city. When this provision, in my judgment, will not preclude recourse in other properties, should be insufficient, it is clear, in the above opinion as to the proper basis for borrowing. Very truly yours,

GEO. HAGUE.

In conclusion, he expressed the hope that the Council would adopt a system which was in vogue in every other city and town. The difference between 12 per cent. on all the property and 15 per cent. on the taxable property was only $100,000. If they borrowed more money now it would simply mean an additional burden on the tax payers. Within a year they had borrowed $6,200,000, which meant an additional annual interest of $240,000, and still the rateable property had to pay it.

Ald. Clendinning said that under the present system Montreal's credit was high, higher than Toronto, Chicago, Detroit or Boston. Recent transactions in the money market showed the excellence of the law. The object of the law must be either

TO BETTER THE CREDIT OF THE CITY or to reduce its debt. It was not contended that the credit of the city could be improved; the object, therefore, must be to reduce the debt. But Ald. Smith's resolution did not do that in a direct and proper manner. It changed the security given to the creditors, and such a change must be injurious. If that was the cause of all the agitation, it must be increased immediately. Why should they pay now for improvements which would benefit future generations?

What was the reason for the agitation anyway? Were they threatened with disaster or famine? Had they not, on the contrary, every reason to be proud of their city? And the alderman became patriotic: "What is the cause of alarm? 'Are you ashamed of Montreal?' 'We are not afraid of the fanks, of the financiers or the financial agents.' 'We are the rulers.' 'Keep your hands off boys.' 'Aldermen of the city, stand up for your colors.' 'The yeomen of Montreal need not fear anybody.'"

Ald. Jeannotte asked, would he follow the motion of Ald. Smith's motion. He did not concur with Ald. Clendinning. Everything always went well so long as the money was borrowed, but when the time came when the loans had to be paid. He wanted to see the borrowing power reduced. He moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. Renaud, that Ald. Smith's motion be reconsidered and that the borrowing power be limited to 12 per cent. of all the property.

Ald. Beausoleil showed that Ald. Clendinning was wrong in his facts. The city's financial policy had been changed several times. They used to have terminable bonds, but this was changed to three per cent. permanent stock. Here was a revolution, but was there any crisis, any misfortune in Montreal, on that account? Was the city's credit affected? No. Ald. Smith's motion was a sound one. Under that system they would be able to show that their security was property, which was directly liable, and that the city

WOULD BE IN A POSITION TO PAY. In 1888 the property liable for assessment was valued at $8,933,000. This was increased to $12,463,182 in 1892, or an increase of four millions annually. And this year the increase had been nineteen millions, and therefore 15 per cent. on the taxable property would give them all the money they required for permanent improvements. He would consequently oppose reconsideration.

Ald. Smith remarked that in the exuberance of his verbosity Ald. Clendinning had made a most patriotic speech. He had travelled from London to Mount Royal Park, from the borrowing power of the city to the poor man's bread, but he had lost sight of the fact that the borrowing will be limited practically as much by 12 per cent. on the property as by 15 per cent. on the taxable property alone. It was the principle he was contending for.

Ald. Jeannotte's amendment was lost, only himself and Ald. Renaud voting for it. The vote was then taken on Ald. Hurlbut's motion, which was carried on the following division:

Yeas—Ald. Leclerc, Marsolais, Hurlbut, James, P. Dubuc, Brunet, Griffin, Renaud, Robert, Clendinning, Tansy, Germain, Thompson, Nolan, Courty, Stevenson, Prefontaine and Jeannotte. 2.

Ald. Beausoleil claimed that it required a two-thirds vote of the whole Council, as although it was the same session it was a different sitting, but the Mayor held that it was the same sitting.

A motion of adjournment was carried by a vote of 18 to 9. At Toronto the Patrons and labor men have held a conference, at which it was aimed to adjust points of difference so that a union might be effected. In short the prejudices between the farm and workshop were sought to be removed.

DID YOU EVER

Hear two such short speeches made by two such prominent men, which conveyed so much meaning to an intelligent public? Indeed our quick sighted, far seeing Montrealers will learn more from the above two speeches than we could impress upon them by writing half a dozen advertisements.

They met on Craig Street. After shaking hands and looking at each other THOMPSON noticed Wilfred's shabby old concertina shaped, supposed to be SILK HAT, whereupon he exclaimed, looking up to "ALLAN'S" sign, "MY HATTER!" LAURIER, stepping back apace, bowing and making way for Sir John, politely remarked, "MY TAILOR."

SPANIARDS ARE INDIGNANT.

They Protest Against Statements Made by Mr. Meakin.

SPAIN SENDING TROOPS TO MELILLA TO AVENGE MURDER AND PROTECT HER TREATY RIGHTS.

The Spanish colony in Montreal are greatly worked up over certain statements made by Mr. Meakin, of the Tanager Times, in his lecture on Morocco in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Thursday last. They take the stand that his statements were allowed to be published in their country, would occupy a very unenviable position indeed in the eyes of the world. One of their number, Mr. J. M. Zapata, Jr., who has resided for some time in this city, was requested to speak in their behalf. Mr. Zapata, as reported in the Spanish Army and was for a time stationed at Melilla, the present site of hostilities. Mr. Zapata, of course, indignantly denied that "Spaniards are murdering the Moors or the Rifians," and looks that the operation of Spain is not a case of a civilized nation. Mr. Zapata, continuing, said: "After the war with Morocco in 1890, Spain reserved for herself the right to treat the fort of Melilla, with three thousand yards of territory surrounding. Some Spaniards have been in possession of the fort since it repaired the fortifications and has built a fort on the outside, she had a right to do. Later she decided to build a new fort in a commanding position in rear of Melilla on the ground which belonged to her. The Rifians, however, during the night time, their excess was that from the fort the Spanish soldiers would be able to see the movements of the women as they entered the church near by. Of course, Spain had nothing to do with this. She had no troops in Melilla and the work was done. Finally the attack came, and our hundreds of our soldiers fell. The Rifians, however, were not to be deterred. They had no other country to go to. The Spanish Government decided to send out a sufficient force to take possession of the fort and to have our flag re-erected. The appeal to the Sultan of Morocco to have these people punished met with a cold and heartless response. The Rifians are a savage, ferocious and treacherous race, and when a man who has never had himself to collect his taxes he has to send an army to do so. When these Rifians come into Morocco, they are required to have the present day of such, as soon as the bell rings, they have been known to fire on the town as soon as they had left it. The story that the Spanish Government has not got its troops or employees for Morocco is practically untrue. Two statements which are utterly unfounded. Spain has had no difficulties which have been a drain on her resources. Her finances are improving and her recent financial legislation her credit has been improving. The idea of speaking of anarchy is nonsensical. There is one point which should not be forgotten in this question and that is, this: Spain is not seeking for increased territory. She remains loyal to her already owned and is merely anxious to have her rights restored. The action of the Government, but naturally they are not indifferent when erroneous and unfair statements, which are a disgrace to our country, are made. Another Spanish gentleman, who recently visited Mr. Zapata, said that he would find Spanish gentlemen on the platform ready to meet him in this question.

AGAINST THE G. T. R. Responsible for Damages Resulting From the Death of an Employee.

His Honor Mr. Justice Jette delivered judgment this morning in the case of Roch vs. the Grand Trunk Railway. The plaintiff is the widow of Roch, killed whilst attending to the telegraph at Wellington st. A train was stopped by a defective engine sent from Montreal to Lachine ordering an engine to come to the help of the one that was snarled up. There are two tracks from Montreal to Lachine. Trains come from the west towards the east, 20 by the northern road and the others from the south. The employees know this rule. A snow storm was raging all day. The engineer swore he saw rods three times being run away, and he said that he was running on the wrong track, because he received a despatch from the west. The witness Woods knew nothing of this despatch. The question resolved itself into a question of fact: "Was the engine on the wrong track, and if so, was he could have stopped within the three hundred yards. The judge said that it was not an excuse to keep from running the bell, because citizens objected to noise. He thought the engineer was negligent. A rule of the Grand Trunk Railway said that employees could not claim damages, but only draw insurance from a reserve fund established by the company. This was considered immoral by the judge, for it would be a license to kill. Judgment granted to plaintiff for $100.

Three Prisoners in the Court of Appeals.

It is seldom that three persons wearing the parti-colored coats which designate them as inmates of the common goal, are seen in the Court of Appeals. Three prisoners were there this morning, however. Messrs. Scott and Shannon, who had been arrested for burglary. When they were tried before Judge Justice on Tuesday, Mr. Desrosiers, who appeared for Connors, made an application to have the co-accused examined in his behalf. This was considered immoral by the judge, for it would be a license to kill. Judgment granted to plaintiff for $100.

Mr. St. Onge for the Centre Ward.

Mr. St. Onge has been waited on by a number of the electors of the Centre Ward and asked to be a candidate against Ald. Cross for alderman. Mr. St. Onge will probably accept the candidature. He is well known to French and English electors having been in the grain business in the city for many years. He is a leading member of the Corn Exchange, and very highly respected in all circles.

Mr. Everett Has Resigned.

The article in last night's Star on the resignation of Mr. Everett from the directorate of the Street Railway Company created a good deal of talk in the street. Notwithstanding all rumors to the contrary, it is quite true that Mr. Everett's letter of resignation has been sent in. Whether it will be accepted or not, however, is quite another matter.

Aldequano Qualifications.

Mayor Desjardins had something to say this morning in regard to the real estate owners' bill for amendments to the charter now before the Legislature. Among the provisions is one to increase the real estate qualification for Mayor to $20,000, for aldermen to be elected by the proprietors to $10,000 and for aldermen to be elected by the general vote

BOLD ROBBERS AT RICHMOND STOLE AND GOT AWAY WITH SOME $1400.

Chloroform and the Dog and Rob the Post-Office, Using Dynamite to Blow Open the Safe.

[SPECIAL TO THE STAR.] RICHMOND, Que., November 18.—One of the most daring burglaries ever perpetrated in the Eastern Townships was successfully accomplished this morning. The Richmond post-office was broken into, the safe blown open about one thousand dollars in money was taken. The burglar effected an entrance, by prying open the door with a crowbar. The safe was drilled in several places and a heavy charge of dynamite inserted. The whole front was completely shattered and the window was blown out. Two hikers, working with a hand saw, cut their way into the Post Office, heard the report, but they thought it was a freight train passing at the time. A dog in the office was chloroformed by the burglars. The job was done by experts. The postmaster, Mr. Campbell, saw about four hundred dollars worth of stamps were stolen, besides money belonging to Chalmers Church and the Foster estate.

THE GREAT STORM.

LONDON, November 18.—The heavy gale prevailing yesterday still sweeps Old England's coasts, south and west. Seas mountains high are running in the English channel, and many wrecks are looked for.

THE SEVENTH ATTEMPT.

Another Effort at Lorette to Wreck the C. P. R. Train.

[SPECIAL TO THE STAR.] QUEBEC, November 18.—Another attempt to wreck the C. P. R. Montreal passenger train was made at Lorette, seven miles west of this city, this morning. Timber and stones were piled on the track sufficiently high to wreck any train. The obstruction was noticed just in time by the engineer. The engine struck the pile of timber, but not with sufficient force to do any damage. No clue to the identity or whereabouts of the would-be wrecker has yet been found.

MELLO'S PROCLAMATION.

The Would-be Emperor Said to be on Board Mello's Ship.

Lisbon, November 18.—No news has been received from Admiral Mello's ship in regard to Admiral Mello's proclamation declaring a monarchy in Brazil. The Brazilian press, commenting upon the report that Prince Pierre II. Alcantara had been proclaimed Emperor of Brazil by Admiral Mello, who commands the rebel Brazilian navy, says that doubtless, Prince Pierre is being courted by Mello, but not sentimentally. The Gazette asks: "If Brazil sails with Admiral Mello what can the United States do?"

IF SO, WHY?

[SPECIAL TO THE STAR.] OTTAWA, November 18.—Through the Deputy Adjutant General, Major General Herbert, has asked Lieut. Colonel Tucker, who is second in command of the 6th Battalion, to be sent to the front in uniform at the demonstration in honor of Mr. John A. Macdonald on his release from jail, and if so why?

THE CANAL AND THE TROLLEY.

[SPECIAL TO THE STAR.] ROCHESTER, N. Y., November 18.—The first canal boat in the world to be propelled by electricity by the trolley system went through the Erie canal last night between locks 65 and 68. This was an entirely satisfactory one.
