For the Women

Peroxide is of no benefit to the complexion except as a healing agent for eruptions.

Every woman should have beautifully white hands. If the skin is naturally white, very little care is required to preserve it. A good soap, aided by a pinch or two of oatmeal, may be used for a thorough cleansing twice a day, and, if needful, to still further cleanse them, warm water—not hot—will do the necessary work. Once a week they should be rubbed all over with a slice of lemon.

A discrepancy. In goods of very light weight, the seams should be dressed double, and not open, so as to avoid stretching.

Young Housewife—Make your house or work dresses of washable fabrics in gingham, seersucker, or percale. The skirt may be gored or gathered, and the waist of Peter Pan with elbow sleeves and open neck, affording absolute freedom in performing household duties.

Mrs. St.—Whalebone is not used as much as heretofore, since there are many other substitutes that give equal satisfaction and can be more easily applied. Only in the fitted waists are bones used. If you have a good corset, well boned, you can wear an unlined waist even if your figure is full.

Worry blots out all the sweetness of yesterday, darkens your hopes of tomorrow and makes today a beautiful fizzle.

Raises the laugh. We raise ore Cobalt ore Silver.

Be a Cobalter and a money maker. Some men cant make money some can. These cant.—

Ten men who never won and never will.

- 1o THE HIND-SIGHTED MAN—Never sees opportunity until it is past.
- 2o THE BACKBONELESS MAN—Always has to ask somebody's advise.
- 3o THE ONLY HONEST MAN—Must have control ; no one else honest enough.
- 4o THE SPENDTHRIFT—Never has anything to invest.
- 5o THE SUSPICIOUS MAN—Always afraid somebody will rob him.
- 6o THE CONCEITED MAN—Knows where the best things are without being told.
- 7o THE MODERN SHYLOCK—Believes in nothing but "pound of flesh" mortgages.
- 8o THE NARROW-GAUGED MAN—Refuses to listen to anything out of his line.
- 9o THE UNFORTUNATE MAN—Has a friend who invested five years ago, and lost.
- 10o THE FOOL—Thinks a thing worthless or it would not be offered to him.

But the COBALTERS have won, are winning and will win.

For the Men

Notwithstanding the recent leaning of the mode toward long overcoats, no garment has yet been introduced that is quite as handy for town wear and light traveling as the covert topcoat. It is preeminently a young man's coat, and its partial return to favor is to be welcomed. The garment shown here reflects the spring fashion. It is very plain in cut, without stitching on the cuffs, and has the correct soft lapel, which is a trifle higher and blunter than heretofore. Covert coats should always be cut loose for convenient slipping on and off. The attempt to make them contour-clinging is neither sensible in purpose nor appropriate in effect. Contrariwise, long overcoats still faintly suggest a shaping of the figure. They are cut to hang loose and "boxy," with just a hint of gathering in at the waist. This does not mean the old form-fitting overcoat, which has been discarded as effeminate-looking. The tailor who knows what he's about strives to give even a loose coat the appearance of following the lines of the figure, without at the same time, letting the cloth touch it. Such absurdities as creased side-seams and hollowed-in waists on overcoats have gone to the attic.

He wooed her by soft moonbeams' light,
 And seemed to suit her mood aright;
 He left her, with glad heart astir,
 Betrothed, to sleep and dream of her.
 He met her in the broad sunrise;
 She looked at him in cool surprise
 When he presumed on fancied vow.
 Said she, "Refer not to last night!
 That was all moonshine then—but now
 I see things in a different light."

Caddie—“Weel, weel, maybe, they're worse players, but they dinna play!”

Brown—“What kind of a table do they set at your boarding house?”

Green—Oh, just a common oak table!

Boss—“See here, every time you see a 6 you call it a 2. What's the matter with you—nearsighted?”

Stenographer—“No sir; it's a matter of habit. I used to be clerk in a ladies' shoe store”—Cleveland Leader.

“Now, tell me,” said Hiram Offen, “why did you leave your last place?”

“Well,” said the new cook lady, “me an' the other woman couldn't git along. My automobile an' hers was different makes, an' we was always discussin' about 'em.”

“Do you admire a plump figure?” queried the fair maid.

“That's what,” replied young Poorman “Anything from $50,000 up.”

Higgins—“By the way, you are a married man, are you not?”

Wiggins—“Don't know. I was this morning, but haven't had time to peruse the court news in the evening papers.”
