THE PREMIER OF QUEBEC.

The resignation of his seat in the Legislative Assembly by the Hon. Mr. Mousseau was expected. The evidence presented in the election court left him no alternative. It was proved clearly that the law had been violated and the seat forfeited. The only point in doubt was as to the personal disqualification of Mr. Mousseau. Perhaps, had the matter been pressed, this might have been established. But Mr. Mercier has apparently taken a generous view of all the circumstances and has declined to proceed to extremities, and in this decision he is supported by leading Liberals in our city, although some may have desired to see the case pushed to the bitter end. There will naturally be a difference of opinion in regard to Mr. Mercier's course, especially as he was forced to appear in the dual position of a prosecutor of Mr. Mousseau in the court and the leader of the Opposition to Mr. Mousseau's Government. But public sentiment, appreciating the delicacy of Mr. Mercier's position, will, doubtless, approve the soundness of his judgment and the moderation of his proceedings. The character of the evidence which has unseated Mr. Mousseau should teach that gentleman to abstain from practices which, to put it mildly, ought not to be associated with the person and proceedings of the Premier of Quebec. To friend and foe alike this evidence has been painful reading and should be remembered only as a warning against the repetition of electioneering methods which all parties should unite to suppress. The report that Mr. Mousseau had resigned the Premiership was, of course, as unfounded as the story that the Premier would be lifted beyond the reach of disqualification by being placed in the highest temple of purity and honour, to wit, on the Bench. Mr. Mousseau, no doubt, will again offer his services to the electors and an early contest may be expected.

THE SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATES.

The Government, it seems, have undertaken to pay $5,000 for the publication of the proceedings of the Royal Society of Canada. For the purchase of rolling stock for the Intercolonial Railway $418,000 are to be expended. The sum of $15,000 is added for the improvement of the Culbute Canal.

MR. EDWARD MACKAY.

In the earnestness and energy with which we are accustomed to pursue our ordinary avocations, now that we live a lifetime in a very short period, there are frequently individuals who fall out by the way, the cavalcade marching on as if no change had taken place in either the personnel or the members of which it was composed. But no matter how this may be there are occasionally those whom society cannot afford to lose and whose removal leaves a vacant chair that few if any of us can discover the means of filling in any kind of a satisfactory way. Yesterday one of those whom we have been in the habit of styling Montreal's merchant princes, was called away, a gentleman who, while a thorough business man, was highly esteemed and looked up to because of qualities other than those which were essential to business success. Possibly there were few men of higher personal character, and of keener appreciation of the truth that "one touch of nature makes the whole world kin," than was Mr. Edward Mackay, the subject of these remarks. He was one whose very appearance suggested the whole soul of which he was possessed, and whose kindly words and deeds fully bore out all that outside appearances predicted of him. Mr. Mackay came to Canada from Scotland in 1840, and after a brief residence in Kingston, joined his brother, Mr. Joseph Mackay, in Montreal, with whom he entered into partnership in 1850 under the name and style of Joseph Mackay & Brother. His connection with this old established and highly respected house continued until 1875, when he retired from active business life. Prior to his retirement though he had in various ways been connected with other enterprises, his efforts were mainly directed to the promotion of the business with which he and his late brother were so intimately connected. For many years Mr. Mackay interested himself largely in the development of some of our important public concerns, among them the Canada Cotton Company, of which he was president, and the Colonial Building and Investment Association. He was also, subsequent to the death of his brother, president of the Mackay Institute for the Deaf and Dumb, and a governor of the Montreal General Hospital. Where possibly he became most prominent, and will be most missed, was on the Board of Directors of the Bank of Montreal, where his opinions were always received with the highest respect. Mr. Mackay will be generally missed in Montreal society. His funeral takes place on Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock.

THE PACIFIC RAILWAY.

It can not be denied that the exposition of the affairs of the Canadian Pacific Railway by the Minister of Railways was most reassuring. Whether regard be had to the character of the work, the extent of the Company's operations, the promise of the early completion of the line, or the benefits it is fitted to confer on Canada and Canadian commerce, and the general development of the Dominion from end to end, it must be admitted that the outlook is most cheering. The interests of Canada are so bound up with the success of the Pacific Railway—not merely with its early construction, but its successful operation for all time—that the public are now glad to have the assurance that everything that could reasonably be expected is being done to push forward the construction of this great trans-continental highway.

One of the most satisfactory statements made by the Minister relates to the progress which is being made in the construction of the road on the north of Lake Superior, between Callander and Thunder Bay. Very large sums have been expended in securing the most favourable location of the line in this region, and the work of construction is proceeding vigorously from both ends. At the beginning of the year—as stated in the report of the General Manager of the Canadian Pacific, which Sir Chas. Tupper read—forty miles of track had been laid from Callander westward to Sturgeon River; the grading was about completed for twenty miles further, and was well advanced on a further section of ten miles, and it was expected that during the present year the grading would be completed and the tract extended for an additional hundred miles westward. Two thousand and three hundred men and one hundred and seventy-three teams were then employed on this portion of the work. On the Algoma branch in January track had been laid for twenty miles from Algoma eastward, and it is expected that the whole one hundred miles will be completed and ready for operation this season. A thousand men and eighty teams were employed on this portion of the work, even in winter, and the force is now much larger. From Prince Arthur's Landing eastward the grading was so well advanced in January as to justify the general manager in stating that by the end of the present year track will be laid to a point about one hundred miles east of the Landing. In the winter season 1,150 men and 100 teams were employed on this section, and the force is now largely increased. It will be seen, therefore, that while great progress has been made in the prairie region, the country has the assurance that the gigantic efforts which are being put forth to build the portion of the line connecting the Eastern Provinces with the North-West proper are of a character to justify the Minister of Railways in declaring that the road will be opened from Montreal to the Pacific Ocean in 1886. On the Lake Superior section alone the force at work this summer cannot be less than six thousand to eight thousand men, and probably a thousand to fifteen hundred horses, and so satisfactory have been the surveys, that Sir Charles Tupper is able to announce that from Montreal to the foot of the Rocky Mountains there will not be a gradient in excess of 52 feet to the mile. It is also most gratifying to learn that the country adjacent to the Lake Superior sections is likely to furnish the road with a large amount of traffic, the timber being of the finest description and the mineral wealth almost limitless. To these sources of traffic may be added the extensive fisheries of Lake Superior, which a railway located near the shore will greatly stimulate.

The impulse which, it is now conceded, the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway will give to Montreal can scarcely be over-estimated; hence the lively interest which is evinced by our citizens in public discussions affecting the fortunes of a road on which the Pacific Railway Company had expended west of Callander down to the end of March twenty-five millions of dollars, the total outlay to the Government of Canada being over twenty-eight millions.

MR. GLADSTONE'S DEFEAT.

As we stated in a former article, though the Affirmation Bill was thrown out, Mr. Gladstone and his Government do not in any sense regard the outcome as a party defeat. Albeit some of the journals supposed to be connected with them hold an opposite view. No English paper has been more firm and unwavering in its support of the British Premier than the Pall Mall Gazette, which is edited by one who has made for himself one of the most prominent places in British literature, yet that gentleman is manifestly of the opinion that the member for Midlothian "having brought in this bill the Ministers were bound by every consideration, no less of business than of self-respect, to let their own adherents as well as their opponents know that they meant what they said, and intended their measure to pass. What is justly called the molluscous method is no longer either prudent or safe." On the other hand, the St. James' Gazette, the aristocratic organ of the Conservative party, says: "For three years they have been waiting for a wave to tide them over the Affirmation Bill, and it is plain that they do not know yet whether to pin themselves to it as a government or not. To govern, in any legitimate sense of the word, they refuse. It becomes a question whether they are paid by the country to be its guides and do its work or to maintain an expectant attitude and merely register the set of the current." The truth of the matter is that the Government did everything in their power to carry the measure, and felt confident of doing so by a majority of at least thirty, according to the representations of their whip. Though the bill was introduced by a subordinate member of the Government, Mr. Gladstone, as Prime Minister, assumed its entire responsibility, and threw himself into the battle with all his force and energy, as is evidenced by the fact that in support of the bill he made one of the most powerful speeches of his life. The actual point at issue, in the opinion of honourable members, seems not so much to have been the merits or the demerits of the Affirmation Bill, but whether or not Mr. Bradlaugh should enter the House since he, by his writings and the peculiar views which he had elsewhere advanced, had made himself personally obnoxious to many who looked upon him as nothing short of a man of sin and whose opinions if disseminated were calculated to exercise a baneful influence, the more especially when they might have utterance given to them in the House of Commons. That Mr. Gladstone considered himself defeated is manifest from the fact that as the corollary to the division, he called upon Sir Stafford Northcote, the leader of the Opposition, to assume the direction of the House in the action which it became necessary to take subsequently. Either this was the conclusion at which he had arrived or his disappointment, not to say annoyance, caused him to act in a manner that he should have avoided. We can only account for his course in one of two ways, the one being an admission of defeat upon a measure introduced by the Government, the other that he had so far set his heart upon clearing the way for Mr. Bradlaugh that his failure was a bitter disappointment to him. As a contemporary has said: "What Englishmen admired in Lord Beaconsfield was his dash, his vigour and audacity." Mr. Gladstone, beyond doubt, has all the vigour and much of the dash of his former great rival; but he does not seem able to submit to adverse circumstances with the grace and self-confidence that characterized the old member for Buckinghamshire. So far as concerns the position of the Government, it is a peculiar one. Although beaten on a bill of their own creation, on their general policy the House is with them and on a direct vote of want of confidence there is no question that they would be sustained. It would, therefore, be hardly fair to expect Mr. Gladstone to resign, yet in face of the fact that on the Bradlaugh matter he transferred the leadership of the House to Sir Stafford Northcote, we cannot interpret his course other than as an admission of defeat. It is certainly to be hoped that at the present juncture the Premier will not deem it incumbent on him to retire since his general policy has been acceptable not only to the people of the three kingdoms but to those of the Empire at large.

A SALARY GRAB.

For some time past a movement has been on foot among members of the House of Commons to secure for themselves increased "indemnity," as it is called. The pay of members is $1,000 for the session, and liberal mileage is allowed them to defray their travelling expenses. It is now proposed to vote $1,500 for the session, leaving the mileage untouched. It is understood that the signers of the "round robin" are principally Conservatives from Quebec and Ontario, with a few from Nova Scotia and only one from New Brunswick, which is again "the banner Province." With the exception of Mr. Girouard, member for Kent, the Conservatives from New Brunswick, to their credit be it said, refused to sign a document which, we believe, bears the names of even the Conservative members for the Toronto! We have not leaped the number or the names of the members of the Opposition who have joined in this demonstration against the public purse, but we should hope that they are few and that they will retrace their steps. The raid is a discreditable affair, and wherever it originated, and by whatever influences supported, it should fail. The thousand dollars already paid is ample for such legislators as those who originate these movements for "more pay," and who feel that because they have the power to vote themselves more, they have also the right to do so. These legislators are not generally the wisest or the most gifted of their body. They are not those who confer the greatest honour on their constituents, or who make the greatest sacrifices for the country, or who expect to remain longest in the public service. The legislators who have the highest regard for public opinion, who have the most elevated views of their relations to their constituents, and who are inspired by the purest motives in their public labours are not generally found concocting schemes for extracting from the public treasury fifty per cent. more "pay" than they had agreed to accept. It sometimes happens, however, that honest and gifted but good natured members of Parliament, under personal appeals, yield to the solicitations of their fellows and countenance schemes which they know to be ill advised and wrong, and which, if successful, must result in bringing Parliament as a body into contempt and members individually under no small measure of odium. And this is just one of those movements in which an active, unprincipled minority may, by persistent canvassing and button-holing, succeed in compromising the integrity of the whole body. It is to be hoped, therefore, for the reputation of Parliament as a body and of its members individually, that this improper proceeding may come to grief and be heard of no more. It may perhaps be said that there is no reason for retaining the indemnity at one thousand dollars a session, and that to many members it does not approach to a reasonable compensation. It happens, however, that the men who are loud in their demands for increased indemnity are usually men who are not worth a thousand dollars, and who are in Parliament to grasp what they can during their brief power. We should expect to find on this indemnity "round robin" those members whose mileage pays all their expenses at Ottawa as well as their travelling expenses, and who will carry home their "indemnity" intact; and we should not be disappointed. For men of this class a thousand dollars is far too much pay. For really useful and intelligent legislators it is no compensation whatever, nor would an extra five hundred dollars be any nearer the measure of the value of their services. The thousand dollars a day for a twelve weeks session, and this sum should suffice to meet all reasonable expenses of private members. It will be a bad day for Canada when members of Parliament come to regard the position of a member of the Commons, not as a position of honour but as representing a salaried office and the "spoils" of politics. We are astonished to notice that this raid on the treasury, which has originated in the Government ranks and which can only succeed with the assistance of the Government majority, has not been denounced by the Government press. These journals should see that their silence is being taken to imply consent, while tending to the embarrassment of the Government. It cannot be said that the political majority in the House of Commons is not responsible to the world for the acts of that body. It is responsible, and it must be held to its responsibility. If "Grit members," as the Ottawa Citizen says, have signed the round robin, so much the worse for them. All the same, the Government majority is responsible for the legislation of this Parliament and we are doing no unfriendly act when we warn the Government majority that its members, and they alone, will be held responsible for the success of this latest attempt at a Salary Grab.

BRONCHITIS—CONSUMPTION
ONTARIO PULMONARY INSTITUTE
No. 125 Church-street. Opposite the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, Ont.
M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D., M.C.P., S.O. Proprietor.
Permanently established for the cure of all the various diseases of the Head, Throat and Chest—Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma, Consumption, Catarrh of the Larynx (Sore Throat), and Catarrh of the Nose. Also Diseases of the Heart. Under the PERSONAL direction of Dr. Williams, the proprietor.
The only institute of the kind in the Dominion of Canada.
All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by the most improved Medicated Inhalations, combined when required with proper constitutional remedies for the nervous system, stomach, liver, and blood &c.
IN CATARRH—Inhalations dissolve the hardened concretions that form in the nasal passages, scatter inflammation, heal all ulcerated surfaces and cure every case of catarrh of the nose no matter how long standing or from what cause it may arise.
IN THROAT DISEASES—Inhalations remove granulations, reduce enlarged tonsils, subside inflammation, heal ulcerated sore throat, restore the voice when lost or impaired, and arrest all acute cases, as diphtheria, quinsy, &c., with amazing rapidity.
IN BRONCHITIS—Inhalations perform wonders by restoring the mucous membrane to a healthy action; also, immediately soothing the cough, and effecting entire cures in the most obstinate cases whether in the acute or chronic forms.
IN ASTHMA—Inhalations immediately arrest the paroxysms and effect entire cures in every case by removing all unnatural obstruction, and by restoring the delicate mucous membrane of the air cells to their normal condition. The cures are usually permanent.
IN CONSUMPTION—Inhalations loosen the phlegm, ease the cough, increase the circulation of the blood, assist assimilation, remove consolidation of the lungs, empty and heal cavities with wonderful promptness, arrest hemorrhages, stop all wasting away of the lungs, soothe pain, overcome all shortness of breath and in fact cure all the earlier and very many of the later stages of consumption after all hope by other means is past.
By the system of Medicated Inhalations Head, Throat, and Lung affections have become as curable as any class of diseases that afflict humanity.
The references given from all parts of Canada from those already cured. If possible, call personally for Consultation and Examination. But if impossible to call personally at the Institute write for "List of Questions" and "Medical Treatise." Address

The Indians who wintered in the Cypress Hills are now moving north to the reservations.

HALIFAX, N.S., May 5.—The jury in the investigation into the cause of the accident at the Vale Colliery, near New Glasgow, on Thursday, by which six miners were killed, rendered a verdict that their deaths were caused by the breaking of a defective draw bar of the trolley, on which the men were coming out of the pit, and the trolley running back. They were of opinion that the regulations of the Mining Act had been complied with, but recommended that special boxes be provided for the men to drive in, furnished with durkeys, or safety catches, and used for no other purpose.

The Grand Trunk and North Shore Railway Arrangement Bill—Return of Correspondence Respecting Charges for Steamer "Newfield" Assisting the "Moravian"—Railway Subsidy Wanted—Personal—Sale of Timber Limits—Proposed Banquet to Mr. John White, M.P.—The Liquor Traffic.

From our Special Correspondent.

OTTAWA, May 5.

RAILWAY SUBSIDY WANTED.

The Great American and European Short Line Railway Company have petitioned Parliament for a subsidy of $1,200,000 in aid of their proposed through air line, from Montreal to Louisville, Cape Breton. The total length of the road is about 764 miles, of which there are now completed (but owned by different parties) 308 miles, while 109 miles are under construction. According to arrangements made by the company their trains will run out of Montreal over the tracks of the South Eastern Railway, as far as Chambly, and make close connection with the Canadian Pacific over the new bridge. At Chambly the company will acquire the branch which the South Eastern have built, as far as Marieville, and complete it to Lennoxville, and at Lennoxville the International Railway as far as constructed to Moose River, on the western border of Maine. From this point they will build across the State of Maine to Hamilton, on the western border of New Brunswick, where connection will be made with the New Brunswick Railway for St. Andrews and St. John. The distance from Montreal to St. Andrews will thus be 385 miles, against 340 miles to Boston, via the Vermont Central, and 300 to Portland, via Grand Trunk Railway. From Hamilton they will run over the New Brunswick Railway to Woodstock Junction, and from there acquire the Fredericton branch of that railway to Gibson, opposite Fredericton, on the St. John River. From Gibson the track will be built to Salisbury, on the Intercolonial Railway, and thence they will run through Moncton, over that railway to Pains Section Junction, and thence to the eastern border of New Brunswick near St. John's, and Pughwash, Nova Scotia, where it will join the line now under construction to New Glasgow. From the New Glasgow Company they will acquire the Halifax and Cape Breton Railway, now in operation to the Straits of Canso. From the Straits the Company will build over the most practicable and advantageous route to the Harbour of Sydney or Louisbourg. These ports are already connected by a railway, which they propose to acquire. The Company ask that the subsidy of $1,200,000 be distributed as follows:—In the Province of Quebec, between Marieville and Lennoxville, 55 miles, $3,200 per mile; in New Brunswick, between Fredericton and Bay Verte, 120 miles, $384,000; in New Brunswick, between Bay Verte and Pughwash, 128,000; in Cape Breton, between Canso and Sydney, or Louisbourg, 80 miles, $64,000 per mile. As the cost of construction will there be more than double the other portion specified, $572,000. The Company also ask for $182,000 in aid of the railway to Cape North; a liberal subsidy for the carriage of the mails, and free running powers over such portions of the Intercolonial Railway as they may require to use.

THE G. T. R. AND N. S. COMPANIES.

In the Senate Mr. Vidua's motion to suspend the rules prohibiting the introduction of the bill to extend the agreement between the Grand Trunk and the North Shore Railway Company for fifty years, was carried, and the bill will come up for its second reading on Tuesday next.

CHARGES FOR THE "NEWFIELD" ASSISTING THE "MORAVIAN."

Mr. Bowell laid before the House to-day copies of correspondence between the late Sir Hugh Allan and the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, in reference to five days' service rendered by the Government steamer "Newfield" in connection with the wrecked steamer "Moravian" in December, 1881. At the request of Sir Hugh the "Newfield" was detached from Halifax to aid the "Moravian," the former agreeing to pay $500 per day for such service. On the 6th January Sir Hugh wrote to the Deputy Minister of Marine, stating the "Newfield" had rendered no service, and that he hoped the Government would not exact the $500 a day agreed upon. He remarked that the British Government did all such services free of cost, and that he thought it a very great stretch of liberality if the Dominion Government should give the services of the "Newfield" for nothing. Indeed, he expected to receive them for nothing. In reply, the Deputy Minister sent to Sir Hugh an account for $2,290 for expenses actually incurred by the "Newfield" in going to the "Moravian," and stating that while the Government could not forego their claim they would knock off $500. On the 6th March, Sir Hugh wrote again, contending that the Government should not use their steamers with a view to making a profit on them, and that it was not usual for Governments to make any charge rendered to vessels in distress. At all events, the "Moravian" was a mail steamer, practically in the service of the British Government, and the Canadian Government should not be the first to attempt to make a profit out of the misfortunes of vessels in distress. The Government seem to have allowed the matter to drop; no answer was made to Sir Hugh's last letter, and no payments have been made.

The following acts have been declared in force in the North-West Territories: an act respecting vagrants, 37 Vic., cap. 43; an act amending the act respecting vagrants, 44 Vic., cap. 42; an act to remove doubts as to power to imprison with hard labour under the vagrancy acts, 37 Vic., cap. 37; an act for the suppression of voluntary and extra judicial oaths.

The train which started from Maple Creek on Tuesday night with 200 of Chief Pica-pot's band of Indians, who are being transported to the reserve at Qu'Appelle, ran off the track dumping the Indians in the ditch. Most of the Indians started to walk home to the end of the track. They declare that if the Government wish to transport them to Qu'Appelle, the Indian Department must supply them with carts as they have had enough of railways.

THE EXTRADITION QUESTION.

[EARLY TELEGRAMS.]

DUBLIN, May 5.—Informers Hanlon will go on the stand at the opening of the trial of Timothy Kelly on Monday, and contradict Glynn's evidence proving an alibi, which did so much to justify disagreements at the two trials which have already taken place.

Fitzharris will be tried by a special jury as accessory to the murder of Mr. Burke, and for the murder of Lord Frederick Cavendish. An entirely new jury panel has been summoned.

NEW YORK, May 5.—The English Vice-Consul admits that the statements that the Irish conspirators were originally unearthed here is substantially true. He says a great deal of information was furnished voluntarily by Irishmen. The great trouble was to select the true from the false, and this was generally thought by many Irishmen to be a task that by going to the Consul with information concerning conspirators that they might get money.

The report that Sheridan and Walsh had been arrested is unfounded.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Mr. Davis, assistant Secretary of State, is quoted as saying: "I will not deny the matter of the English Tynan, Walsh and Sheridan, as it has been brought to the attention of the State Department by the English Government. The question has been fully talked over by Mr. Frelinghuysen and others who are fully aware even now of what steps will be taken, but no information will be given to the press until the President and Secretary hold a final conference and decide what is to be done."

LONDON, May 5.—An authoritative information coming directly from the Foreign Office says that the Government has never asked the Washington Government to interfere with the dynamite plotters in America despite the scores of statements which have been made to that effect. The reasons given are very simple. The State Department at Washington without any solicitation on the part of the English Government expressed a willingness to test by State or National law the possibility of bringing charges of conspiracy against some of the dynamite plotters. The test case will probably be brought in New York. The decision to make no request was reached deliberately by Earl Granville, and the correspondence of the most friendly sort was begun and ended by the State Department at Washington. It is the opinion of our own Foreign Office that the Government would not be likely to demand at present would be much more likely to hamper the Executive Department at Washington, in their efforts to deal with the Irish conspirators, especially in the matter of possible extraditions, than to do good. Other prudent reasons are also hinted at, which may come out in a day or two.

Irish Members wish to Resign.

NEW YORK, May 6.—A London special says Mr. Barry, the Irish member of Parliament who secured for Tynan the situation he held as a commercial traveller, has offered to resign his seat, on the ground that his presence might prove embarrassing to Mr. Parnell. Mr. Dwyer Gray has also informed Mr. Parnell that he intended to resign, giving as his reason that ill-health and journalistic duties necessitated his resignation. Mr. Parnell has strongly urged both to retain their seats.

The Farmers' Compensation Bill.

It is understood the Government have completed the "Tenant Farmers' Compensation Bill." It will guarantee to the farmers compensation for improvements, and it provides for arbitration to settle disputes as to compensation. If the tenant believes the rent unfairly advanced he may demand arbitration. The bill limits distraint for rent to one year. It is understood the Government make the acceptance of the bill a question of confidence.

The National League.

CHICAGO, May 5.—A meeting to ratify the action of the Philadelphia Irish Convention was held, when Alexander Sullivan, President of the Irish National League of America, who was met by a storm of applause, began his address by referring to the matters in his personal career which have been commented upon. He had a new national organization of Irishmen. He said the Philadelphia Convention was essentially an American body. He contended that the Philadelphia platform had secured the enthusiastic approval of the entire American press without a notable exception, and had won for Ireland, to a degree hitherto unattained, the sympathy of mankind. Yet, said the speaker, such is the condition of Ireland to-day, that if such a platform were put forth by a similarly constituted form the entire assemblage would have been marched under military escort, from the Convention Hall to the jail. The platform declares, in a word, that henceforth the Irish race in exile is a unit in its determination to aid its countrymen in their struggle for self-government, by whatever methods they think best for the achievement of their end. He declared the purpose of carrying out the wishes of the Convention was to make the masses of the American people informed as to the truth about Ireland. When they understood the reasonableness of her claim they would be united in their support and their will, properly expressed, the power of the British Empire could not withstand. In conclusion he said when Ireland has self government she will use her own capital to create manufactures. She will then export only her surplus food, and what manufactured articles her people need they will import from America or some other friendly people. It is said her representatives have never proposed any definite plan of self government. Much indeed would their capital have available in a foreign legislature, from which they have repeatedly been expelled whenever they attempted to compel its attention to the wants of their country, but we shall print a record of the bills which the Irish members offered that body, only to see them contemptuously thrown out, generally without the poor compliment of a second reading. Americans who read the record will have a new appreciation of the necessity of giving Ireland a Legislature of her own.

The attention was not as large as usual.

A number of societies were present in uniforms, and also many prominent persons, including members of the State Judiciary and the Mayor. Judge Thos. Moran presided. In accepting the chair, he pointed out the fact of the inability of Ireland to secure relief through the agency of the English Parliament, and spoke of the unfair representation granted to the Irish people by that body. He asserted that the only hope for Ireland lay in the sentiment which will eventually actuate the entire American nation, and which will compel England to give Ireland favourable legislation.

Mayor Harrison said Irish freedom would have to be won on this side of the Atlantic, not by throwing bombs, but by the force of American opinion. Congressman Davis said the honest sentiment of America was irresistibly with Ireland in her struggle for liberty; but he warned his hearers that any attempt to organize a rebellion on this side of the ocean to be carried on, by indirect methods, would alienate the sympathies of the people.

NEW YORK, May 5.—The newly-elected Council of the Irish National League of America have made arrangements with Thomas Brennan to organize branches of the new League in the United States.

Committee to go to Ireland.

PHILADELPHIA, May 6.—At a meeting of the Parnell branch of the Irish League this afternoon a resolution was adopted recommending the Executive Committee of the National League to appoint a commission of three to go to America to go to Ireland to ascertain the true condition of the country.

John F. Finerty's Report.

CHICAGO, May 6.—At a meeting of the Sixth Ward League, to-day, John F. Finerty, delegate to the Philadelphia Convention, made his report. He said he went to the Philadelphia Convention to do his duty regardless of the political unpopularity it might entail. The result was he has been misrepresented by the Eastern press, which classed him with the dynamite faction. He favoured supporting the Republic, the reduction of Great Britain's debt one half, and the extension of the Transvaal to the old southwest frontier. It is understood that Lord Derby favours all but the last clause.

PARIS, May 5.—In the Senate, to-day, M. He declared the Government had entered upon a downward course. Martin Fuellee, Minister of Justice, replied that the Council had faithfully interpreted the Concordat. The State could not be left powerless in dealing with public worship. He would maintain the Concordat and protect religion; but he would also exact obedience to the law.

The Bradlaugh Question.

LONDON, May 5.—If in the House of Commons, yesterday, the motion for the previous question, negating the proposition of Sir Stafford Northcote, that Mr. Bradlaugh be not allowed to take the oath had been carried, instead of defeated, the effect would have been to prevent the putting of Sir Stafford Northcote's motion, and the ultimate result would have been that in the absence of instructions from the House, such as he sought, the Speaker would be compelled to permit Mr. Bradlaugh to take the oath. The successful operation of the previous question was the chief hope of the supporters of Mr. Bradlaugh. The latter has decided to visit his constituents and formerly tender his resignation.
