MAY REINFORCE ANTI-PIRACY FLEET

Britain Lodges Strong Protest Over Defiance Of Anti-Piracy Accord

As the Hood, Largest Battle Cruiser Afloat, Sped to Barcelona to Investigate Sinking of British Merchantman Jean Weems, Foreign Secretary Eden Indicated that Britain and France Are Considering Mediterranean Reinforcements — Spanish Insurgents Have Promised to Make a Searching Inquiry.

London, November 1.—Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons today the Government had lodged a strong protest with the Spanish insurgent authorities over the sinking of the British merchantman Jean Weems.

As the battle cruiser Hood sped to Barcelona to investigate the defiance of the Nyon anti-piracy accord, Mr. Eden indicated Anglo-French Mediterranean reinforcements might be made as a result of the Jean Weems bombing.

The insurgents, he said, "have undertaken at once to make a most searching inquiry" to fix the responsibility for the incident.

The battle cruiser steamed toward the Catalan coast from Mallorca where she was ordered only last week.

Her officers were instructed to interview the crew of the Jean Weems, all saved before the bomb-wrecked vessel went down Saturday morning. The officers also were told to get the stories of the two non-intervention observers on board.

Reports reaching London indicated the crew of the Jean Weems had only five minutes warning before the vessel was bombed. They immediately took to a life-boat.

Foreign Secretary Eden, just before his departure for Brussels to attend the Nine-Power Conference on the Far Eastern situation, was expected to deal fully with the foreign situation in the House of Commons today.

Will Not Jeopardize Brussels Conference.

In view of the tangled situation on withdrawal of foreign troops from Spain and the discord in the Non-Intervention Committee, Mr. Eden was expected to express Great Britain's growing irritation at the lack of concrete progress.

Some quarters predicted he would attack Japan for repeated incidents involving British troops.

Although Britain was indignant at the killing and injuring of her soldiers in Shanghai, she was not expected to take any steps that might anger Japan and jeopardize the success of the Brussels discussions seeking peace in the Orient.

Informed sources, nevertheless, did not rule out the possibility of a new formal protest to Japan after news that three more British soldiers were injured Sunday by Japanese shells at Shanghai.

Japs Deny Their Shells Caused Casualties.

The Japanese embassy issued a statement which asserted investigation at Shanghai disclosed no Japanese batteries were firing at the time three other British soldiers were killed by a projectile, on Friday.

(British officials in China blamed Japanese for ten casualties in Shanghai, including five deaths, suffered by the British forces, Major-General A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, the British Commander, refused to withdraw his guards from defence posts close to Chinese positions that Japanese intended to attack.)

The Opposition was given additional news on Page 2, Col. 7.

Dr. Charles Gordon, Noted Churchman And Author, Passed Away Yesterday

As Ralph Connor He Gave More than a Score of Novels to World, Several of Them Best Sellers, and as Dr. Gordon Was Accorded Highest Honor of Presbyterian Church.

Winnipeg, Nov. 1.—Internationally-known author beloved of millions as Ralph Connor, Dr. Charles W. Gordon, seventy-seven years of age, died Sunday in hospital, fifteen hours after the sudden death of his only brother, Dr. H. F. Gordon, M.D.

As Ralph Connor the famous author gave more than a score of novels to the world, several of them, notably "The Sky Pilot," best sellers; as Dr. Gordon he became moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, highest honor of the General Assembly.

Retired since 1924 from the active ministry of St. Stephen's Church, Winnipeg, where he was pastor thirty years, Dr. Gordon continued writing. His last novel, "The Gay Crusader," was published in 1936, but he completed the manuscript of his reminiscences shortly before he

Feared Lost Battalion Might Revolt At Order To Retreat

Commander States His Men Withdrew from Their Warehouse Citadel Sorrowfully—Blushed When Informed of His Promotion—Claims Japanese Are Poor Marksmen and Fire Wildly When They Become Excited.

Shanghai, Nov. 1.—General Hsieh Chin-Yuan, commander of the Chinese "Lost Battalion" that defied the Japanese for four days in a Chapei warehouse-citadel, declared today his men withdrew sorrowfully.

Their two greatest griefs, he told the Associated Press in his first interview since the battalion evacuated, were that they were forced to withdraw before sealing the struggle with their lives and that they could not return to the conflict.

Hsieh—promoted from colonel to general in recognition of the feat that raised all his men one rank—declared his force of farmer-boy soldiers lost only ten dead, not one hundred as the Japanese have asserted.

Hsieh, who was the last to leave the burning warehouse Saturday to run the gauntlet of Japanese machine-gun fire, blushed like a child when the Associated Press told him for the first time that Premier Chiang Kai-Shek had promoted him to general.

"But I don't deserve such an honor," he said.

All 370 survivors of the battalion of Chiang's own 88th Division went safely through the Japanese fire, Hsieh declared. He said 410 men originally entered the building and that there were only forty casualties, including ten dead, during the evacuation.

JAPAN CONTEMPLATING PACT WITH ITALY TO COMBAT COMMUNISM

Tokyo, Nov. 1.—A Japanese Foreign Office spokesman disclosed today that Japan "is contemplating some form of agreement with Italy to co-operate against Communism."

The statement was the first official confirmation of long-rumored agreement between Japan and Italy. Previously it had been insisted their negotiations were confined to a new trade treaty.

Reliable sources indicated Italy might join the German-Japanese anti-Communism agreement rather than conclude a two-party pact with Japan.

Eden Replies To Reich-Italy Call For Return Of Colonies

Foreign Secretary Today Told House of Commons that Britain Does Not Recognize Right of Any Country to Demand that Other Countries Turn Colonies Over Until that Country Itself Is Willing to Do Its Part.

London, Nov. 1.—Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons today that Great Britain does not recognize the right of any country to demand that other countries turn colonies over until that country itself is willing to do its part.

(Premier Mussolini, of Italy, in a speech last week backed Germany's claims for the return of the colonies taken from her after the Great War.)

The Foreign Secretary did not mention Italy by name in declaring: "I must declare plainly that we do not admit the right of any Government to call upon us for contributions when there is no evidence to show that that Government are prepared to make any contribution on their part."

U.S. INITIATED NINE-POWER CONFERENCE

London, Nov. 1.—Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons today he wanted to "make it quite plain" that the United States took the initiative in convoking the Nine-Power Conference on the Chinese-Japanese conflict and that any action in the Far Eastern dispute "essentially depended on co-operation of the United States."

The United States provided impetus for holding the conference and also suggested that Brussels be the meeting place, he asserted.

"I say without hesitation," he added, "that in order to get full co-operation, on an equal basis, of the United States Government in the international conference, I would travel not only from Geneva to Brussels, but from Melbourne to Alaska—the more particularly in the present situation of international affairs."

CLAIM BRITISH SHIP SUNK BY MUSSOLINI

London, Nov. 1.—The Daily Herald (Labor) suggested today in a dispatch from Barcelona that Bruno Mussolini, son of Italy's Premier, might have piloted the plane which sank the British freighter Jean Weems off the Spanish coast.

"The Intelligence Service here (at Barcelona) claims the plane's markings show it was piloted by Bruno Mussolini," the dispatch said. The plane was said to have been marked with a skull and cross-bones.

STATES CORPORATISM QUEBEC'S SOLUTION

Montreal, Nov. 1.—The solution to many problems in Quebec is to be found in corporatism, T. J. Coonan, minister without portfolio in the Quebec cabinet, declared Saturday night before the Montreal Catholic Teachers' Association.

Ideas were spreading through the world from certain European countries, and cognizance should be taken of them, "in searching for a solution to this social problem, we in Quebec believe we have found the answer, and we are sure of our conviction."

"At the last session of the Legislature," the Minister declared, "certain social legislation was passed, which provided for corporatism in the Province of Quebec. It is not to Fascism, but to the professional corporatism, that we pin our faith for the solution of many problems."

WILL COST MORE TO TRAVEL TO EUROPE NEXT YEAR

New York, Nov. 1.—That trip abroad will cost you more next year. Steamship lines belonging to the Trans-Atlantic Passenger Conference today put into effect a five dollar increase in all classes in present trans-Atlantic passenger fares and indicated summer rates in 1938 would be higher than in 1937.

The increases were decided upon at a recent meeting in Paris. Higher operating costs was given as the reason.

COWANSVILLE RESIDENT IS CRASH VICTIM

A. W. Ross, Postmaster of Cowansville for Many Years, Killed in Highway Collision.

Cowansville, Nov. 1.—A collision on the Montreal-Toronto highway at 11:40 o'clock Saturday night claimed the life of A. W. Ross, postmaster of this place. The crash occurred a mile east of Coteau Station, Ross suffered a fractured spine. His brother, who was in the automobile with him, suffered cuts about the head and was taken to the Lachine General Hospital for treatment. He was able to leave the hospital yesterday afternoon.

An inquest will be held on Tuesday by Dr. T. Clement, of Cadars, coroner of the district.

The coroner was informed that the victim, who was forty-eight years of age, was with his brother, Henry Ross, of 5233 Masset avenue, Montreal, on his way to Baileville, Ont., when the accident occurred.

They were driving in a light automobile and met a truck, owned and driven by Paul Emile Denis, of Cadars, who was going to Montreal with a load of oil. The vehicles passed each other but the passenger car struck the side of the truck at the rear. Both vehicles remained on the road and were badly damaged, the rear wheels of the truck and the axle being torn off.

Following the accident, the driver of the truck obtained aid. It was found that A. W. Ross was dead while his brother seemed seriously injured. Dr. Hubert, of Coteau Station, was called, and gave first aid. The coroner was then notified and announced that he would hold the inquest on Tuesday.

Augustus W. Ross had been postmaster of Cowansville since the Great War and was highly esteemed in the community. He was a native of Cowansville, and was educated here. He served overseas in France and Flanders with the Princess Patricia Light Infantry. On his return from overseas he returned to his native town and took over the duties of postmaster which have occupied him since.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Anne Walsh, of Cowansville and by one son, Douglas.

Japan Informed British Troops Will Remain At Shanghai Defence Posts

British Flag Hoisted Above Dugouts and Sandbag Barriers and Notice Served the British Will Hold Their Lines in Shanghai's Western Outskirts Regardless of Eventualities — Feeling Between Japanese and British Forces Becomes More Acute.

Shanghai, November 1.—Major-General A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, commander of British troops at Shanghai, today refused to withdraw British troops from defence posts near Chinese machine-gun nests which Japanese disclosed would be subjected to intensive air and artillery attack.

He ordered the British flag hoisted above dugouts and sandbag barriers and served notice the British would hold their lines in Shanghai's western outskirts regardless of eventualities.

The British commander's orders were issued as feeling between Japanese and British forces became more acute. British blamed the Japanese for ten casualties, including five deaths, suffered by the British forces in Shanghai thus far.

After a day and night of sustained barrage, Japanese forces attempting to encircle Shanghai crossed Soochow Creek west of the city. By noon, however, Chinese announced that a sharp Chinese counter-attack drove Japanese northward to the other side of the stream.

The prolonged artillery bombardment covered an area extending four miles west from near the International Settlement border. Japanese planes yesterday strafed Chinese troops throughout the day and several times peppered British outposts with machine-gun bullets.

It was disclosed today that the British returned the fire three or four times.

RECORD NUMBER IN ATTENDANCE AT UNIVERSITY

Principal Dr. A. H. McGreer Draws Attention to Inadequacy of the Number of Scholarships and Bursaries Available to Students.

"The number of students enrolled at Bishop's University is the highest in the history of the College," said Dr. A. H. McGreer, Principal, in his report presented at the annual meeting of the Corporation held at Lennoxville on Thursday, October 28th.

Principal McGreer pointed out that one hundred and fifty-nine students are taking courses in the Faculties of Arts and Divinity, and the Department of Education. Ten graduates were enrolled in the Summer School for Teachers, which makes a total of one hundred and sixty-nine, the limit which the University can accommodate.

Present at the meeting were: The Bishops of Montreal and Quebec, the Chancellor of the University, the Hon. Chief Justice Greenfield, Mr. D. C. Coleman, Mr. G. H. Montgomery, Mr. Walter Molson, Mr. Justice C. D. White, Mr. G. M. Stearns, Professor E. E. Boothroyd, Professor G. Basil Jones, Ven. Archbishop Sait, Rev. Canon Murray, and the Principal.

The Principal drew attention to the inadequacy of the number of scholarships and bursaries available to students. He said: "The number should be sufficient to enable every poor boy to meet his University expenses largely through the winning of scholarships and bursaries. In this respect England is far ahead of the overseas dominions. In England today a poor boy can find his way to Oxford and Cambridge by winning scholarships offered by local authorities, school boards, the Government, and the Universities, and never in the history of the motherland has there been such a large percentage of children of poor parents at Oxford as there is today."

Of the many factors which have contributed to the success of the English democracy, by no means the least important, is the concern of the leaders of the nation to make the highest educational privileges available to all who have the ability to profit by them. We in Canada ought not to be content until the financial barrier is removed from the path of every student who is rich in intellectual and spiritual endowment."

It was reported that Mrs. Reginald A. Fessenden, of Bermuda and Chestnut Hill, Mass., will give a sum of $500 annually for the next five years for bursaries and scholarships, in memory of her late husband.

The Principal reported that an increasing number of students are seeking positions in the Civil Service, and are eager to serve Canada in some capacity in Canadian legations overseas.

In this connection he said: "In my opinion the British Civil Service should be open to young Canadians who, like students in the motherland, are able to acquire an intimate knowledge of colonial administration, and the great work of preserving the ties of Empire. Young Canadians, South Africans, Australians and New Zealanders should be able to feel that they have an equal opportunity with the graduates of any University in the British Isles to serve the Empire in the British Civil Service."

"While we in the overseas dominions are familiar with the theory of Empire, very few of us are acquainted with the task of Empire. There would be a great accession of strength to our national life and also to the bonds of Empire, if eventually there could be a steady flow of men from London to their native lands in the overseas dominions, whose minds are stored with actual experience of the work of the Empire, and who could present to their fellow-citizens a new vision of the British Commonwealth of Nations."

The Principal reported progress in the work of devising a plan for retiring allowances for members of the Faculty.

Careful consideration was given to the needs of the Science Department. It is hoped that a new building for this work will be available at the commencement of the session of 1938-39.

The Corporation unanimously agreed that the tuition fee of every student should be increased $25 a year from the beginning of the next academic year.

Changes in the Faculty were reported as follows:

Prof. M. Home has been promoted from the status of Associate Professor to that of Associate Professor in the Department of Science.

Dr. E. Owen has been promoted to the status of Assistant Professor in the Department of English.

The Faculty has been enlarged this year by the addition of Dr. A. N. Langford as Lecturer in Biology. Dr. Langford's researches in plant diseases have won for him considerable distinction among the biologists of the Dominion.

The Reverend Sidney Childs is remaining with the University as a Dean of Residence and Lecturer in Old Testament for the Arts Students.

The Principal reported that the total amount subscribed to the Financial Campaign in March is approximately $340,000. The cost of the campaign was approximately 2.6% of this amount. Subscribers have been prompt in making their payments to date, and it is anticipated that the whole amount will eventually be received by the University.

In closing his report, the Principal said: "I beg to express the pleasure it is to me to be associated with the members of the Executive Committee and all the members of the Corporation in the work of the University. I think that you who are giving thought, time and money to this University are building greater than you know."

By the unanimous vote of the Corporation, the following were elected members of the Executive Committee for the ensuing year:

FRONTIERSMEN HELD OFFICIAL CHURCH PARADE

Members of Newly-Organized Sherbrooke Branch and Delegation from Montreal Commemorate Soldier-Dead.

Members of the newly-organized Sherbrooke branch of the Legion of Frontiersmen, together with a large delegation from the Montreal section, held an official church parade from the William street Armory to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church yesterday morning.

Following the church service, the Frontiersmen, led by the Salvation Army Band, marched to the Chateau Frontenac via Wellington street, then along Depot and King west to the cenotaph on King Hill, where the official salute was given in commemoration of Sherbrooke's soldier-dead. The Frontiersmen had lunch at the Continental Hotel, where brief remarks were made by Major W. W. Foote, Officer Commanding of the local branch, known as "S" Squadron, and A. Ryder, Officer Commanding of the Montreal branch, and Ex-Mayor Ed. Kingsland, of Magog, adjutant of the Sherbrooke section. Later in the afternoon the Frontiersmen held a parade in Magog.

The Legion of Frontiersmen was organized in 1904 by Captain Roger Pocock, of the R.C.M.P., and is affiliated with the latter force.

BISHOP'S FACULTY TO AWARD SCHOLARSHIP

A business meeting of the Corporation was held at Bishop's University on Thursday, October 28, with the Chancellor, the Hon. Chief Justice Greenfield, presiding.

A new course in Greek for students who have not taken this subject before entering the University was authorized. Changes in and additions to courses for the Bachelor of Science in Arts were authorized, and henceforth it will be possible for candidates for this degree to specialize in Biology.

Convocation granted authority to the Faculty to award honorary scholarships to students of exceptional ability, who because of inability or because of the inadequacy of the present scholarships, cannot receive awards.

DENY BRITAIN HAS GRANTED REBELS DE FACTO RECOGNITION

London, Nov. 1.—Reliable British sources today denied reports that Great Britain had granted the Spanish insurgent regime de facto recognition. The French embassy also said the report was unlikely. It was said there that Great Britain would not take such a step without first informing France. They added such a development was highly improbable in the present tangled situation.

MODIFIED SUPPORT FOR HITLER DEMAND

Manchester, Nov. 1.—Modified support for Germany's colonial demands was expressed today by the Manchester Guardian (Liberal). "It must be admitted," the Guardian said, "that up to a point Germany has a strong case. It is not an economic case, or at least it would not be if Britain and France abandoned restrictive tariffs in their own empires."

"It is not really a moral case, for one cannot admit that any power has a moral right to rule over other peoples. But as things are she has a political right of a sort."

"Germany was certainly given to understand before she signed the armistice that her colonies would not be taken away; yet in spite of this they were taken away, and the excuse offered that Germany was incapable of colonial administration."

"The true solution is not to go back to what was before, but to go on still farther. The ideal is the direct administration of all colonies by the League of Nations, but that, we may admit, is a long step."

"But we must not abandon a general settlement through the League of Nations or mandatory system. Public opinion in this country would willingly accept some such settlement."

CATHOLICISM GUARD AGAINST COMMUNISM

Montreal, Nov. 1.—From a pulpit in a Roman Catholic Church, Adhemar Raynault, Montreal's fiery mayor, last night asserted Catholicism was the surest safeguard against Communism.

First layman to speak from a Catholic pulpit here in twenty-five years, Mayor Raynault told the congregation of the parish of the Tres Saint Nom de Jesus that as long as he was chief magistrate of the city the spreading of Communism would not be tolerated by the authorities.

The stocky mayor's address was part of a city-wide celebration of the Feast of Christ the King. "On the occasion of the feast," the Mayor said, "we, the Catholics of Montreal, renew our attachment to the Catholic Church, to its head and director, Jesus Christ, to his representatives on earth."

"We repudiate Communism and its perverted doctrines, and all the theories and movements which are contrary to Pontifical instruction," he said.

HIGHER CANCER TOLL UNLESS A CURE IS FOUND

A Lengthening of the Span of Life Also Means that Deaths from Heart Disorders Must Increase.

Boston, Nov. 1.—Dr. Henry D. Chadwick, director of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, today declared that despite attempts of science to check the ravages of cancer, "the death rate from it may be expected to go even higher," unless research yielded a cure.

A lengthening of the span of life, he added, also meant deaths from heart disease must increase.

Dr. Chadwick, discussing the ten chief causes of death, noted that cancer today ranked second among diseases from which men died, being topped only by heart complications.

Eighty years ago it was not in the first ten and heart disease was ninth in order. Increased longevity, he observed, meant that more and more people eventually would die from such diseases as cancer and heart trouble.

Dr. Chadwick based his observations on Massachusetts mortality tables of today and those of eighty years ago.

The tables, he said in an interview, indicated "medical practice is gradually changing from treatment of the young to treatment of the middle-aged and elderly."

The ten chief causes of death for the five-year period 1932-36 the tables indicated, were:

Tuberculosis, diarrhea and enteritis, infantile deaths, scarlet fever, pneumonia, old age, typhus, accidents, heart disease, diphtheria and croup.

In the five-year period 1931-35, the order had shifted to:

Heart disease, cancer, cerebral hemorrhage, pneumonia, nephritis, accidents, tuberculosis, diseases of early infancy, arteriosclerosis.

Modern methods of sanitation, scientific control of epidemics, and the addition of new weapons to our armament with which to fight disease," Dr. Chadwick said, were responsible for this realignment and for increasing "the expectation of life at birth for males to 59.3 years and for females to 63.6."

Good sink brushes can be made from old whisk brooms.

CARDINAL SAYS COMMUNISM IS DEADLY FORCE

Cardinal Villeneuve Approves Resistance in Montreal Against Proposed Communist Meetings.

Quebec, Nov. 1.—Urging steps to guard young Canadians against the invasion of Communism into their "social and spirit lives," Cardinal J. M. Rodrigue Villeneuve told a Quebec youth rally last night he approved "the resistance which has been made to proposed Communist meetings in Montreal."

"I congratulate the religious and municipal authorities who have opposed the Montreal meetings and the people who have denounced them—I invite you to do likewise," said the Cardinal, speaking before an estimated crowd of ten thousand at Quebec Exhibition grounds.

Cardinal Villeneuve said "pagan invasions" as seeking first for establishment in "social life, to pave the way for its living and hypocritical campaign into the disruption of our spiritual lives."

"Paganism has many offers," he continued, "Admire them as freedom of speech, freedom to insult our traditions, our beliefs and our religion."

"Most the liberty they also offer include the provision that foreigners be permitted to come to this country, bringing with them armaments, the spying and seduction that have wreaked havoc among the people of other nations."

"Under the pretext of respecting law and order," Cardinal Villeneuve charged, "thieves plan upsets of our political, social and religious lives so that the individual will be crushed without mercy or consideration."

Mayor J. E. Grogan, of Quebec, asked "Federal authorities, who all are Christians to define this destructive Communism as a criminal offence, punishable by law in the same manner as a host of less serious crimes are punishable, in order to facilitate the fight which has to be carried on by Christian civilization against it."

MOTHER SHOTS FIVE CHILDREN AND KILLS SELF

Did Not Have Enough Shotgun Shells to Take Lives of Her Two Other Children.

Norwalk, Ia., Nov. 1.—Neighbors aided a grief-stricken father today in making funeral arrangements for a thirty-five year old mother, who shot and killed five of her seven children and herself.

The mother, Mrs. G. R. McAninch, who fired a charge from a small-bore shotgun into the forehead of each child, said in a note found beside an open Bible she apparently had been reading, that she did not have enough shells to take all their lives.

The two surviving children, Ray, 15, and Gail, 11, came upon the bodies Saturday night when they returned from a Halloween celebration.

In a note addressed to them, the mother said: "You will find us dead this morning. Don't get excited." After advising them what to do, she added:

"I have stood all I can take and best to take the kids along. All that saves you boys is no more shells."

The children slain were Corny, 13; Geraldine, 10; Morris, six; Mox, four; and Dickie, two.

The forty-two year old father was in the Polk County jail when the tragedy occurred. He had been seized earlier in the day for investigation in a case of breaking and entering. Yesterday he was released, however, to join his surviving sons.

"I was afraid something like this would happen," McAninch said. Ray and Gail told Coroner C. H. Mitchell that when they entered their home they saw an oil lamp burning on the table in the living room. Beside the lamp was the note and the Bible, opened at the thirty-third chapter, Exodus, dealing with the birth of Moses and the slaying of male children as ordered by Pharaoh.

MANY CAREERS ARE CLOSED BY DEATH

The following deaths were reported in today's press despatches to the Record:

point of the Archipelago constitutes an almost isolated defensive fortress. There are about 50,000 people on the island, which is defended by latest model coastal batteries.

Government authorities there have at their disposal a few warships, three or four plane squadrons, about 7,000 troops and numerous anti-aircraft batteries.

Communications between Minorca and Spanish mainland ports are difficult. The only communication now is by foreign vessels and by air.

Mallorca's population exceeds 350,000. Its defences have been strengthened and further work is being done, according to a plan drawn up by General Franco himself.

There are many coastal batteries, some old, some modern. The mountains and peaks of the island bristle with anti-aircraft guns.

Another part of the defence system consists of hidden warship and seaplane bases, dug into the rocky coast under overhanging cliffs.

Iziza, taken by the insurgents in September, 1935, is also fortified according to the latest technique.

Its defence, however, is more difficult than that of Mallorca and it is protected by the Mallorca forces.

Japanese Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa apologized to the United States marine commander who protested against a Japanese foray on the American-protected side of Soochow Creek.

A party of Japanese bluejackets had crossed the creek to the American sector of the International Settlement in a rice-laden junk after scaring off the Chinese crew by firing blank shots.

Brigadier-General John C. Beaumont, Maine commander in Shanghai, protested to Hasegawa, who apologized and promised there would not be a recurrence of the incident.

Insurgent officers "I trust said they were opening 'the greatest offensive in Spain's history,' aimed at crushing Government morale and ending the fifteen month civil war with a decisive thrust into Government territory."

For the first time in the war, insurgents said, Franco was planning to combine land and sea offensives, using his fleet to blockade eastern ports and bombard Government supply and communication centres in support of the Aragon drive.

TWO PERSONS KILLED IN WEEK-END MISHAPS

Hold Two As Material Witnesses In Tragedy

Maurice Salter, of Victoriaville, Lost Life When Car Plunged into Massawippi River at Site of Former Comstock Bridge, and Joseph Dion, of Eastman, Fatally Injured When He Jumped Off Running Board of Moving Car.

Municipal police held two young men as material witnesses for the coroner's court today as this district counted two killed in the week-end accidents.

The dead are: Maurice Salter, twenty-three years old, native of Victoriaville, who drowned when the car in which he was a passenger crashed through the barrier at the former Comstock bridge on the Massawippi River, and Joseph Dion, fifty-five years of age, of Eastman, fatally injured when he jumped off the running board of a motor car.

Held as material witnesses are Maurice Rene, twenty-four years old, and his brother, Gaston Rene, twenty-one years of age, both of Victoriaville, who were in the death car with Salter.

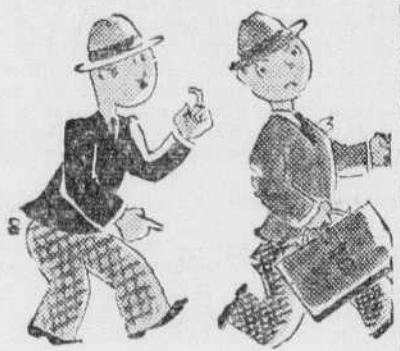

Maurice Rene, suffering from a fractured nose and severe cuts about the face and head, is confined to the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, while his brother is being detained at police headquarters.

The coroner's inquest into the Salter death will be held at ten o'clock tomorrow morning, and then into the Dion case tomorrow afternoon. Both inquests will take place at N. 1 police headquarters on Marquette street with Eugene St. Pierre, coroner for St. Francis District, presiding.

The Victoriaville trio, reported to have spent the night in Richmond, left in the direction of Waterville early yesterday morning. The crash occurred shortly before 7:30 o'clock.

The light delivery truck which Maurice Rene was driving passed by the barrier at the junction of the Huntingville road, a short distance beyond Lennoxville, and proceeded along the section of the Waterville road that has been closed to motor traffic for several months. Reports that the barrier at the Huntingville road had been removed by Halloween pranksters could not be verified today. Reaching the site of the old Comstock bridge, that burned down

URGE NEED FOR AN EXTENSION TO WALES HOME

History of Richmond Institution Review by A. C. Skinner at Tea and Musicals of Sherbrooke Auxiliary.

The urgent need for larger quarters at the Wales Home in Richmond, that can be obtained only by the construction of an addition to the present building, was stressed by A. C. Skinner, president of this well-known Eastern Townships philanthropic institution, at the annual tea and musicals sponsored by the Sherbrooke Auxiliary in the "Howard Residence" on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Skinner, pointing out that sixty persons were now in residence at the Home and a still larger number sought admission, declared that the Board required at least $25,000 or $30,000 to inaugurate the building fund, and that approximately $100,000 would be needed for the erection of an extension.

The president reviewed the history of the Home, that was founded in 1920, and emphasized the valuable and meritorious work which the institution was carrying on for the Eastern Townships' Protestant aged.

There are at present twelve Wales Home Auxiliaries, and Mr. Skinner complimented the local branch for the splendid work it has accomplished since its formation in 1921. The Sherbrooke Auxiliary, which has raised its funds by dues, sales, bridges and such activities, has completely re-furnished the dining room at the Home. The dining room has been fully equipped with tables, chairs, linen, glassware, china and silver, an electric toaster, percolator and refrigerator, while canned goods and other foods, and numerous cash donations, apart from personal gifts, Christmas cheer and the annual "shower" of jams and pickles, have been contributed by the Auxiliary.

Mr. Skinner, who was introduced by Mrs. Fred Howie, president of the Auxiliary, expressed sincere thanks on behalf of himself and the management of the home to the chief executive and the ladies who so ably assisted in carrying on the work.

HALLOWE'EN WAS CELEBRATED IN A QUIET MANNER

Sherbrooke Youngsters, for Most Part, Contented Themselves with Going from Door to Door in Search of Apples, Candy and Other Handouts.

Halloween was quietly celebrated in Sherbrooke on Saturday night, youngsters confining their activities to innocent pranks and contenting themselves, in the majority of cases, with going from door to door in search of apples, candy and other handouts. Chief of Police H. O. Camirand reported today that there had been no serious incidents to be recorded on police records as an unpleasant aftermath.

The ghosts, the spooks, the hobgoblins and other mischievous imps today were back in Spookland or wherever such supernatural demons spend their idle time—after their annual visit to a somewhat cynical world.

It is becoming increasingly evident the nocturnal visitors are going modern, with few reports of vandalism reported to the police throughout the Dominion Saturday night. Perhaps the augmented police forces had something to do with it, but the 1937 celebration of Halloween was considered the quietest in years. Property damage was not extensive, police reported, with only a few serious incidents recorded.

At Port Hope, Ont., two farms were destroyed by fire started, according to Police Chief Thomas Murphy, "by irresponsible and destructive boys." Frank Mowers, eighteen, suffered severe brain concussion, a fractured collar bone and four broken ribs in a fall from a Harwich Township barn. He is in Chatham, Ont., hospital.

At Southey, Sask., forty-five miles north of Regina, twenty-year-old Gordon Anderson was killed by a shotgun blast allegedly fired by Jacob Daum, 71, who will appear in the Police Court today. W. J. other boys, Anderson visited Daum's home and failed to heed warnings to leave. The shootings followed.

Nine Indians, one a juvenile, were held in custody in Melbourne, Ont., near London, after police said, about a score of Indians raided the property of Harry Monts and demolished outbuildings. Windows and doors were broken and rocks hurled at Monts. The Indians were held on charges of vagrancy.

Other Halloween celebrations, this year a night ahead of time, went off quietly. Throughout Canada, dances and theatres were well attended. The report of Chatham police that the night of revelry was the quietest in years was indicative of the general trend.

At Welland, Ont., one thousand persons attended the third annual supervised Halloween celebration under the direction of service clubs. The behaviour of children throughout that Niagara Peninsula district proved, the police said, the value of supervised fun for children.

WITCHCRAFT IS DISCUSSED IN RADIO ADDRESS

"No Story Has Worn So Well as the Story that Tells of the Supernatural," Said Professor A. W. Preston in Library Broadcast.

"No story has worn so well as the story that tells of the supernatural. Everyone has some interest in witchcraft. No one is absolutely free from superstition. The author who can tell a macabre and haunting tale need never be afraid of the changes in literary fashion. His audience will be always there and just as no one knows who told the first ghost story, so no one can know who will tell the last," said Professor A. W. Preston, of Bishop's University, in a discussion, entitled "Witchcraft in Literature," given over the local radio station last night. The broadcast was under the auspices of the Sherbrooke Public Library.

It is possible to divide the literature of witchcraft into three fairly definite types—witches, vampires and werewolves, continued the speaker. He then went on to review the different types, saying that stories of witchcraft have occupied the minds of men from the earliest dawn of history.

Touching on witchcraft stories written by various authors, Professor Preston highly recommended "Prisoners in the Opal," by A. E. W. Mason, asserting that "a sense of unutterable horror and dread pervades the whole of his work."

With regard to stories concerning the vampire, the speaker declared

W. ELMO ASHTON NAMED HEAD OF JERSEY CLUB

Foster Man Succeeds R. G. Davidson, M.P., Who Retired from Office After Term of Seven Years—Professor Alec Ness Addressed Gathering.

W. Elmo Ashton, of Foster, was elected president of the Quebec Jersey Breeder's Association at their annual meeting held in the Arena building on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Ashton succeeds R. G. Davidson, M.P., of North Hatley, who resigned after a term of seven years as head of the group. F. S. M. Nutbrown, of Sherbrooke, was chosen vice-president and L. V. Parent, of Lennoxville, was re-elected to the office of secretary-treasurer. L. J. Scott, of Sawyerville, and Gerald Martin, of Knowlton, were reappointed to the board of directors, and Mr. Davidson was elected a director to take the place of H. M. Rider, who is leaving Waterville for St. Hyacinthe.

The meeting was featured by an address by Alec Ness, professor of animal husbandry at Macdonald College, St. Anne de Bellevue, who took "Winter Feeding of Animals" as his subject. Professor Ness stated that the subject of feeding is uppermost in the minds of Quebec farmers, now and advocated the practice of diligent planning, stating the food given to farm animals should be largely grown on the owner's soil.

With regard to commercial mixtures, Professor Ness said that they are very satisfactory but expensive. When used, they should be mixed with the home-grown foods at the start of the year, in order that the animal may have a balanced ration throughout the year. He stressed the need of fat in the foods given to the cow, stating that there should be as much fat in the food as in the milk produced.

Palatability was touched on by Professor Ness, who declared that it has a major effect on milk. The animals should be given feed that they can eat with enjoyment, he said. An informal discussion followed Prof. Ness' address, during which the members asked the speaker various questions concerning food for cows.

In the absence of the secretary-treasurer, Mr. Parent, who was ill, minutes of the last meeting were read by the president, Mr. Davidson. A resolution of sympathy was passed expressing regret at the death of Morton Sanders.

The report of the past year's activities, showing a general improvement, was read by the president. The financial statement recorded a balance on hand of $509.46.

Plans were made for a banquet in honor of S. R. Fuller, Jr., of "Greyburn Farms," and Albert Quinlan, of Roxton Falls, owners of two cows that have brought honors to this district. Louroy Standard Dot, world champion three-year-old, and Golden Crown Princess, world champion two-year-old, respectively, R. H. Fletcher, of Lennoxville, and F. S. M. Nutbrown, of Sherbrooke, were named a committee to work in conjunction with L. V. Parent, secretary, to supervise the banquet, which will be held the last week in November.

It was also decided by the breeders to have a calf for the purpose of joining a calf club will be given a bonus of four dollars.

ed that the vampire is the most terrible of all supernatural creatures which minds have been able to conceive. In remote parts of Central Europe and in the islands of Greece its baleful presence is greatly feared. In medieval times this fear was greater still, for common belief maintained that all who died under the ban of excommunication were turned into vampires at death. "In all the vampire literature there is no one who can know who will tell the last," said Professor A. W. Preston, of Bishop's University, in a discussion, entitled "Witchcraft in Literature," given over the local radio station last night. The broadcast was under the auspices of the Sherbrooke Public Library.

LEADERSHIP OF CHURCH HAS TO BE RECAPTURED

Rev. F. A. C. Doozee, of Plymouth Church, and Rev. John Robert Gee, of Newport, Exchanged Pulpits.

Exchanging pulpits with Rev. F. A. C. Doozee, minister of Plymouth United Church—a gesture exemplifying the international goodwill being shown by the churches—Rev. John Robert Gee, of the First Congregational Church, of Newport, Vt., preached before large congregations in Plymouth Church yesterday morning and evening.

Rev. Mr. Doozee, preaching in the Newport church, chose as his theme, "Ye are all one," taken from St. Paul's words: "There is no room for Jew or Greek, slave or free man, male or female. You are all one in Christ Jesus." Mr. Doozee said that only by the application of the spirit of St. Paul's words could the barriers between nations, classes and sexes be overcome.

"If the Spirit of God could and did speak to the church in the first century, He can and does speak to the church in this century," declared Rev. Mr. Gee in his morning sermon, based upon the text, "He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches," Revelation, 2:7.

Christianity, the Newport minister continued, is more than a tradition, more than a record of things said and done nearly two thousand years ago—it is a progressive message, because it is in tune with Infinite.

"To hear the Spirit of God demands time, a heart at leisure from itself, and an attentive ear," he said. "The Spirit speaks through the movements of the Age, the struggles of humanity, and through brave and enlightened souls—the world's saviors."

The Spirit of God, Rev. Mr. Gee said, is saying to the churches: "We are facing a position of unusual gravity in the present world situation, and the church must face the deep as it is, with high courage and deep devotion. The growth of an inflamed nationalism, the spread of militarism, the breakdown of moral standards, the bitter conflict between capital and labor, the indifference to organized religion—these are the dangerous elements in the present world situation. The church must face the facts. She must have done with lesser things. She must stop quarrelling over things that don't matter. She must stop squandering her strength over various methods, some of them unethical, to maintain her own existence."

Secondly, the preacher continued, the Spirit is pleading with the churches to be courageous enough to say "No" to savagery, to the atheism of Russia, to the pagan idea of God and man in purely racial religions, to the devaluation of human personality, to the militarization of nations, to the paganism of our times.

"If that 'no' were bold and unanimous enough, it might create a religious unity in a world of madness," Rev. Mr. Gee declared. "In the face of a momentary failure and a gradual defeat, the church must say 'no' to everything that is opposed to the spirit of Christianity. 'I appeal to time,' Rev. Mr. Gee quoted Gladstone. 'Let the church take her stand and do the same.'"

"The call of the Spirit is for the Church to regain her lost leadership," the speaker continued. "The church has been in the rear too long. She has done noble work—behind the lines. She must now take the front line—the place of leadership."

"If the church is to regain leadership among men and nations she must: A. Think out afresh and help people to understand the Christian concept of life. B. Teach again the infinite value of every human being. C. Strive for the Christianization of Patriotism."

"Said Garibaldi, when he summoned young Italy to his side: 'I do not offer you, provisions or quarters. I offer hunger, thirst, forced marches, battles, and death.' When a voice like that is heard once more within the Christian Church, our ranks will fill up again and the King of Kings go forth to win the world unto Himself."

"The Spirit is bidding us preach with rapture and boldness. Continued on page 7, col. 7.

Justifiable Pride In Lennoxville Students

Rev. F. A. C. Doozee Was Principal Speaker at High School Commencement Exercises—Report Discloses Satisfactory Average in Number of Successful Students.

Parents and friends of the pupils of the Lennoxville High School who attended the annual prize-giving Friday regaled, for a brief period of time, the spirit of their own school days and felt justifiable pride in the assembly of clean-cut and clear-eyed boys and girls who filled into the gymnasium from their classrooms.

Rev. F. A. C. Doozee, pastor of Plymouth United Church, Sherbrooke, who was the principal speaker, delivered an encouraging message.

"I am not here tonight as a critic," he said, "I am here to pass on to you some things which might be of interest and help to you. According to a book I read recently, I and many of you here tonight are not alive—for that book stated that 'life begins at forty.' But I say to you that life begins right now. If it hasn't started for you yet, then it never will. I do not mean that you should disregard the past. Learn from the past that you may be better able to live the present. Look to the future, but don't try to live in it instead of the present. Do not procrastinate, for tomorrow may never come."

He counselled the students to prepare themselves so well today that whatever the future might hold for them, they would be ready for it.

Principal C. Howard Aikman, M.A., explained that promotions in grades one to five inclusive were based entirely upon the year's work as determined by the examinations held weekly throughout the session, and in the case of the elementary classes, by the pupils' work from day to day. "It is considered that this broader survey of a pupil's efforts is a better estimate of ability than a single final examination in June," he said. "In this manner, of the 139 pupils who completed the year, 130 or 93 per cent, earned advancement. It is encouraging to note that this represents a substantial increase in both the number completing the year and in the number earning promotion. A combination of the year's work and the results of the June examinations, on a fifty per cent, proportion of each, was considered in ranking and promotions in grades six to eleven. Seventy four pupils or eighty one per cent, were successful in these classes."

In accordance with the custom of previous years, the principal continued, the papers of Grade X were sent to Quebec to be corrected. "In this class ten students wrote the final examinations, nine of whom were successful and the tenth failing to gain a Quebec Department of Education Grade X Certificate by only two marks."

In Grade XI, ten students of the twelve who wrote the regular School Leaving examinations were successful. Mr. Aikman pointed out that this represented a pass average in this class of eighty-three per cent. "In addition," he said, "four students completed Matriculation or School Leaving requirements by writing supplemental examinations at the same time. First place was won this year by Kenneth Herring. He announced that the Commissioners' Scholarships of a value of a hundred dollars and tenable at any Canadian University were awarded to Kenneth Herring and Marjorie Morrison. These scholarships are granted to the boy and girl with the highest matriculation standing who have participated in sports and students activities."

Mr. Aikman referred to the departure of two members of the staff, Miss Edith Farwell and Miss Hazel Gibson, who have left to carry on their profession in other parts of the province, and expressed his thanks and appreciation for their help and co-operation. He welcomed Miss Betty Havard and E. G. Wiggett to the faculty.

The evening's programme opened with the singing of "O Canada," followed by the procession, with Miss Patricia Watson playing the "Land of Hope and Glory," as the march, and the invocation by Ven. Archdeacon Albert Jones, rector of St. George's Church.

The school choir, under the direction of F. C. Cruchon, sang "La Marseillaise," unaccompanied.

The presentation of prizes by Archdeacon Jones and Mrs. A. L. Kheuner to pupils of Grades VI and VII was followed by the class prophecy, given by Lloyd Lane. Prizes for Grades VII and IX were presented.

FRADETTE NOT FATALLY HURT IN CAR SMASH

Local Man Involved in Accident on Quebec-Montreal Road.

F. H. Fradette, thirty-four years old, of this city, first reported in an unconfirmed news story on Saturday as having been killed in a Quebec-Montreal highway accident, is alive and on his way to Sherbrooke, it was stated today.

Fradette and Georges Roy, twenty-nine years of age, of Quebec, were driving to Montreal when their car overturned in the ditch.

No details of the accident were available from Montreal. Emile Lesvesque, Fradette's employer, knew nothing of the accident, and Fradette, who had gone to Montreal today to rejoin his husband, ed by Rev. F. R. Matthews and Rev. F. A. C. Doozee, while the awards for Grades X and XI were distributed by J. B. Wilder and Wright Gibson, M.A., Principal of the Sherbrooke High School.

"The Last Will and Testament of Grade XI" was given by Miss Marjorie Morrison, and like Mr. Lane's class prophecy, proved very amusing.

Mr. Aikman acknowledged the gift of two beautiful framed photographs of Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth to the Lennoxville High School from the Lennoxville I.O.D.E. The gift was presented by Mrs. A. L. Kheuner, Regent of the local branch of the I.O.D.E.

Mr. Wilder, donor of large cash prizes which have each year been the source of keen but friendly rivalry among the students in the higher grades, was asked by Mr. Aikman to present the diplomas to the graduating class, and also to present his own prize, the I.O.D.E. bursary, won this year by Miss Irene Cunningham, was presented to her by Mrs. A. L. Kheuner.

Mr. Alfred H. Baker, chairman of the School Board, presented the Commissioner's Scholarships to Miss Marjorie Morrison and Kenneth Herring. Miss Jean Findlay, winner of the highest aggregate points for the entire track meet, and George MacDougall, winner of highest aggregate points for the boys at the track meet, received their prizes from the president of the Student's Council, Ronald Lane.

Mr. Wilder told of the pleasure he receives from presenting the prizes he gives each year to this school. "From my experience and travel, I believe that every person should get as good an education as possible, but some college graduates feel that because they have secured an education they are above ordinary work. This is the wrong idea. While you need a good education, you must not be afraid to do manual work when necessary. There are too many people today who are looking for soft jobs. Do what you do best, you know how. There are four principles necessary for success: Be honest; have energy, ability, but greater still, determination. It's the person who hangs on after the others have given up hope, who wins."

Following the Valedictory, splendidly given by Daniel MacDougall, and benediction by Rev. F. R. Matthews, the programme closed with the singing of "God Save the King," with Miss Patricia Watson as piano accompanist.

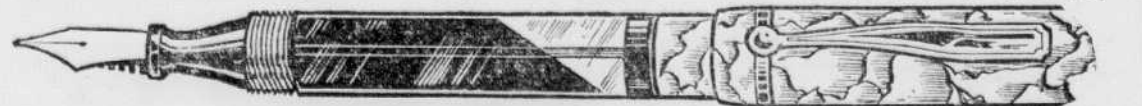

Miss Laura MacKinnon assisted Mr. Aikman in the distribution of the prizes, and the ushers were Ronald Lane, Russell Everett and Philip Evans.

In the afternoon prizes were presented for Grades I to V, and a charming programme was carried out by the children, as follows: Two SHERBROOKE, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1937.

For all the saints who from their labours rest,
Who Thee by faith before the world confessed,
Thy Name, O Jesu, be forever blest.

All Saints' Day.

Today is All Saints' Day, when Christians are urged to consider that great host of witnesses who have walked in the paths of truth and, striving to follow whatsoever is "lovely and of good report," have become thereby the victors of life and have attained the quest of the highest good.

Whenever we are inclined to be doubtful concerning the pursuits and value of lofty ideals, we may at least recall the fact that Christian teaching ever upholds before us the dignity of human nature. It is the power of spiritual vision that marks men out above every other creature.

The lives of the saints exemplify the dignity of human nature. They set before us a noble example which is worthy of emulation.

It is largely to instill in the human mind and heart a longing after the Word of God and a desire to serve Him more humbly and more faithfully that All Saints' Day has been instituted by the church.

The Old Order Changeth.

The old order changeth, yielding place to new, the poet tells us. Each day in our daily lives we see changes. Familiar old sights pass away. Friends come and go, but the world goes on in its same way and we alter our lives to suit changed conditions.

Forty years ago today the people of Sherbrooke were greatly excited over what was an important event in the life of the community, for it was on November 1st, 1897, that the Sherbrooke Street Railway was formally inaugurated. Over two hundred citizens travelled from Sherbrooke to Lennoxville and back on the street cars, while many also enjoyed the thrill of a street car ride "around the belt."

Today the street cars have disappeared. They served their purpose, and the time came when they ceased operation and the present mode of bus transportation took their place.

This is life and proves the truth of the poet's words, "The old order changeth, yielding place to new."

We are reminded that we also must play our part in the life of the community and then the day will come when we, too, will quietly slip out of the picture of life. Like the street cars, life will go on without us, but it is well to make good use of the time we have at our disposal and to leave life just a little bit better because we have lived.

Business Review.

An official review of business in Canada during the first half of the year indicates that "a greater measure of prosperity was enjoyed than in any year since 1930." Productive operations, as measured by the index of the physical volume of business, were about twelve per cent. greater than in the same period of 1936. The newspaper, mining and power industries reached new high records, showing marked gains over the preceding year. The increase in the volume of manufactured goods was nearly fourteen per cent. Construction operations increased notably, though remaining at a low level comparative to conditions in the last prosperity cycle.

The expansion in productive operations, says the review which is issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, was due in large measure to the acceleration in external demand. The export trade of the Dominion recorded a gain of nearly twenty-four per cent. over 1936, several exceptional causes contributing to this result. One factor was the economic recovery general in most of the principal countries for which information is available. With facilities for the production of minerals and other natural products on a large scale, Canada was in a position to share fully in the revival of international trade.

Advance in wholesale prices was continued in the first quarter of the year, practically restoring the relationship between prices for manufactured goods and basic materials, including farm products, which existed previous to the trade recession. This readjustment paved the way for a more normal interchange of goods between primary and secondary producers which should be accompanied by an increase in the aggregate real income of the Dominion. Speculative commodities reacted moderately in the second quarter, but constructive factors reasserted themselves in recent weeks.

Owing to the marked degree of mutual dependence existing between industries and the railways, the operating and financial records of the latter present a measure of industrial activity. Railway traffic in the period showed a considerable increase over the preceding year. The gain in carloadings, according to the Government report, was 8.4 per cent. over 1936, the total having been 1,224,000 cars against 1,129,000. Eight of the eleven groups in the traffic classification recorded gains in this comparison. The deficit in the grain movement was 31,000 cars—a result of lowered Canadian stocks—and coal and coke recorded declines. An encouraging feature was the gain of 74,000 cars, or twenty-nine per cent., in the movement of miscellaneous commodities. Forestry products, such as pulpwood, pulp and paper and miscellaneous wood products, were moved in much greater volume. Ore recorded a gain of thirty-one per cent. and a large increase was shown in less-than-carload merchandise.

In the construction industry, the award of new business to the amount of $110.4 million during the first half of the current year indicates that one of the industries most tardy in recovery is now making more satisfactory progress. This amount compares with $77.7 million in the same period of last year, a gain of about forty-two per cent. The continued successful development of mineral resources is resulting in a marked expansion in building in communities adjacent to mining operations, accounting for considerable new building apart from actual mining plants. Since a large number of industries are now operating at high levels, the construction of industrial establishments has also lately become a factor.

Inefficient Democracy.

Proponents of various European dictatorial systems often cry that democracy is too inefficient to give human beings a good government; and we who defend democracy might as well understand that democracy's inefficiency is an essential part of freedom—that it is, in fact, a reason for preferring democracy rather than for rejecting it.

Chancellor Harry Woodburn Chase, of New York University, touched on this point in an address at the sesqui-centennial of Franklin and Marshall College.

"Democracy will be a better thing," he said, "if we have the patience and the wisdom to remember that men and women cannot be dragooned and regimented into democracy. Democracy is a growth which is nourished on the intelligent co-operation of free men. It develops, not by force and violence, but by education and re-education."

Because of those things, it moves slowly and makes mistakes. Hence it is inefficient. And its inefficiency is one great reason for cherishing it.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

From the Files of the Sherbrooke Record.
November 1st, 1907.

Word has been received of the marriage at Hartford, Conn., of W. J. Beersworth, formerly of Clarenceville, to Miss Carrie Ida Strong, of Hartford.

The Baptist Society of South Haley have purchased "Camperdown" from G. A. LeBaron and are remodeling it into a church.

The following officers were elected at the re-organization meeting of the Anti-Sneak Society: President, G. N. Thompson; vice-president, R. A. Wilson; secretary-treasurer, C. W. R. Tarte.

The death occurred at Riverfield, Que., of Rev. Archibald Stevenson, Presbyterian pastor at Beach Ridge, and a former pastor of Danville.

Dr. H. Spencer, Dr. F. H. Bradley, C. O. Palmer and G. A. Melver are on a hunting expedition in the vicinity of Lake Megantic.

Mrs. Paton, "Rockmount" entertained at luncheon when covers were laid for twelve. The guests included Mrs. Drysdale, Mrs. Arthur Robinson, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Paton, Mr. W. R. Baker, Lieut.-Col. Whitehead; Mr. James Redmond, Mr. Charles Hoare and Mr. Smith, of Montreal.

Prosperous times are again reported at East Angus with the mills working day and night. Many residents who left during dull times are returning again.

LET ME BE A LITTLE KINDER.

Let me be a little kinder,
Let me be a little blinder
To the faults of those about me;
Let me praise a little more,
Let me be, when I am weary,
Just a little bit more cheery;
Let me serve a little better
Those that I am striving for.
Let me be a little braver
When temptation bids me waver;
Let me strive a little harder
To be all that I should be;
Let me be a little meeker
With a brother who is weaker;
Let me think more of my neighbor,
And a little less of me.

WILL RADIO KILL ORATORY?

(Ottawa Journal)
Lord Tweedsmuir thinks that oratory will be killed by the radio. But one wonders whether oratory, as the Victorians knew it, and as it had survived from the rhetoricians of an earlier age, was not on its way out long before radio. Mr. Asquith and Mr. Baldwin represented types of speaking carried to a high perfection, but they were not orators. Not of the old classical school, Mr. Winston Churchill is probably the only British public man who clings to the classical, literary style.

So in our own House of Commons, Parliamentary orators died in Canada with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir George Foster. Mr. Meighen was a greater debater than either, but in those essentials of oratory, pathos, passion and humor, he was deficient, and he shunned rhetoric. Mr. Bennett and Mr. King merely reach a high level of efficiency. And the radio, one imagines, will provide its own speaking art. Its technique, which Mr. Roosevelt seems to have mastered better than anyone else, is largely the trick of giving the impression that one is speaking what is being read. It can be done only by a speaker reading a manuscript which he has written himself, or by one who has a complete mastery of the mechanics of a manuscript written by somebody else. Otherwise—radio speaking being so much a function of the eye—the reading will become evident to the most inexperienced listener.

But, radio or no radio, good speaking, the speaking that has grace and charm, that expresses thought and beauty, will always have its influence and its place. Lord Tweedsmuir himself is testimony of that.

SACREDNESS OF LIBERTY.

(Brantford Expositor)
In speaking recently at Queen's University Sir Edward Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and Chancellor of McGill University, in responding to the bestowal of a honorary LL.D. degree, made a speech on the sacredness of the liberty of thought and speech that deserves careful attention in these days when so many are inclined to ape the example of dictators.

"I am appealing for freedom of thought and speech," he declared, "but within the limits of accurate knowledge, sound logic, a sense of responsibility, and the ordinary amenities of public life in a civilized community. I have myself said, and I shall say it again, that liberty of speech and thought are sacred, and that this truth more important than the life of our universities. It is equally foolish and equally wrong to proceed on the assumption that this freedom and these liberties do not carry with them the obligation of seeing that they are not destroyed by the intolerance and irresponsibility of us individuals."

In making this declaration Sir Edward was speaking plain common sense out of his long experience as a public man and an executive in the business world. The greatest menace today to freedom of thought and speech is its abuse on the part of those who would turn liberty into license. As John Milton said, "License they mean, when liberty they cry." The very fact that British and Canadian citizenship allows freedom of individual action and opinion in public and private life, and in the schools and universities, should carry with it the idea of responsibility.

"Subject only to the necessities of careful conservation of resources," said Sir Edward, "I know of no governing authority of a university which could, or should, undertake to direct the intellectual or scientific trend of the efforts of the institution." This freedom is gone in Russia, Italy and Germany for the most part, and it constitutes a lamentable tragedy. Canadians need to guard well this precious heritage that has been handed down to them by their fathers.

STARTLING FIGURES ON CHURCH GOING.

(Buffalo Courier-Express)
It is almost beyond belief that thirty-six out of forty-nine millions of young persons in the United States have never set foot inside a church. And yet that assertion was made at a conference of the Methodist Church by the Rev. Frank E. Gabelein, headmaster of a boys' school on Long Island.

Mr. Gabelein made the further assertion that a questionnaire revealed that of 55,000 youngsters attending certain schools in New York, more than 16,000 had never heard of the Ten Commandments. Of more than 18,000 students in Virginia, he said, 16,000 were unable to name four Biblical prophets, 12,000 to name the four gospels, and 10,000 to name three of Christ's disciples.

If that is correct, the state of the attitude of the young people of the country to the Church, then there is a double challenge in it. One is to the Church itself, which fails to make itself attractive to the young generation. The other is to the home and to the individual; to the home in that it fails to stimulate to the church in its endeavors to reach the young, and to the individual in that he is content to live in ignorance of the upon which so much of the present is built.

ANTI-GLARE IN BRITAIN.

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)
The subject of glare from automobile headlights crops up from time to time, but as Mark Twain said about the weather, nobody seems to do much about it. It is interesting to learn that this month anti-glare legislation came into effect in Great Britain. The regulations require that no lamp showing a white light may be used unless it can be deflected or is incapable at all times of dazzling any person standing on the same horizontal plane as the vehicle, at a greater distance than twenty-five feet, whose eye level is not less than three feet six inches. Lamps can, however, be deflected downwards, and both downwards and to the left, providing they do not dazzle.

Electric bulbs exceeding seven watts in any front lamp must not be kept illuminated while a car is stationary except due to enforced stops. All side lamps not complying with the new anti-dazzle regulations must are bachelors. So are Hon. J. C. Elliott, Premier Duplessis of Quebec, and others one could name. The Premier of Ontario is married and has adopted two children. Among those with families, the average number of children seems to be two, as in the case of Premier Abernethy of Alberta; Hon. Norman Rogers, who as Minister of Labor for Canada is behind all this housing activity; Hon. Ernest Lapointe and Hon. Paul Leduc, Premier Patullo of British Columbia and Hon. H. J. Kirby, Ontario Minister of Public Works, have one child each. Premier Angus Macdonald of Nova Scotia, Hon. W. C. Nixon, Hon. Earl Rowe and Hon. W. D. Euler have three. Families of four are listed in the homes of Hon. George S. Henry and Hon. W. E. Foster, Speaker of the Senate. Hon. H. H. Stevens and Hon. J. L. Simpson boast five. Some of the new Ontario ministers boast the average materially, for Hon. M. McBrice has six children and Hon. P. M. Dewar seven.

Sir Edward Beatty, president of the C.P.R., is a bachelor, and President Hungerford of the Canadian National, though married, has no children. Among those classified strictly as financiers, the record seems to be better than the Social Welfare quarterly implies. T. B. Macaulay, of the Sun Life, married three times, has two sons and three daughters. Sir Herbert Holt has three sons; J. H. Gundy, of Toronto, five children; Sir John Aird, two sons and two daughters; A. E. Phipps of the Imperial Bank has three sons and two daughters; Jackson Dods, general manager of the Bank of Montreal, two sons and two daughters.

In a word, politicians and financiers and their wives are pretty much like other people in their domestic affairs; they raise large or small families or none at all, according to circumstances.

TAKES NEW YORK AS AN EXAMPLE

(La Presse, Montreal)
At the present time, thanks to a wise use of unemployment funds, the playground areas of New York have been multiplied to three times what they were four years ago. A working plan which the municipal authorities drew up has been followed to the letter since the beginning of 1934, with the use of every available resource. It is justifiable that the American metropolis is proud of the undertaking which is just as important to the welfare of the American people as each and every step up the rungs of the social ladder.

The New York authorities are confident that the present programme will be effective in reducing the number of misdemeanors and accidents among the young. At the present time statistics in those categories show decreases respectively of 30 and 31 per cent. Because the children have somewhere to go, they are less inclined to run the streets and get into trouble. Here again it is shown that playgrounds have a influence that is just as extensive as it is happy. The City of New York gives other cities of the continent an example it would be well worth their while to follow. In Montreal, a laudable effort was made to increase the number of playgrounds for children. There is a great deal to do and the money for an improvement project would be put to splendid use if an improvement of our metropolis playgrounds was carried on by means of it.

Montreal has not the finances that New York possesses, but it can nevertheless accomplish a great deal in improving the system of its public parks and playgrounds.

FAVORS TRAFFIC COMMISSION

(Le Soleil, Quebec)

Quebec is resolutely attacking the traffic problem. It would seem a highly commendable thing for a commission on traffic to be formed, comprising representative citizens of various groups interested in the problem. A municipal councillor, a representative of the Chamber of Commerce, a Safety League delegate, a member of the Automobile Club, the chief of police and his assistant, should form a gathering of men who will be able to study the traffic problem from all angles and to care for the many details which so often come up in affairs that are of public interest.

If the municipal authorities want to collaborate with this new organization, it can become an important consulting body with a leading role to play, on condition that its recommendations are taken into the fullest consideration.

While awaiting the time when this new commission becomes into actual being and is presented with a charter giving it executive powers, traffic systems in other cities are being studied so that there will be considerable documentation on hand for the commission when it is definitely formed.

If the commission is permitted to carry on it will undoubtedly study at length during the winter and make plans for improved traffic methods and regulations for next year. It is not too early to think of next year's tourist season.

We, the Women

HOW TO MAKE FRIENDS—BE INTERESTED IN THEM

Warmth is the greatest thing in personality. Warmth that comes from a real liking for other people. Warmth that shows itself in glad smiles, strong handclaps, and sincere appreciation.

If you want to have people like you, show them first that you like them. When you meet a friend or someone whose friend you want to become, smile your pleasure, say how glad you are to see the other person. And then prove it by talking about him.

He has interests that are dear to his heart. Every one of us has things that we can talk about for hours upon hours. Give him a chance to talk about the things he wants to talk about. Whether it is his prize-winning cocker spaniel, a collection of old guns, or his young son. Not only let him talk—but help him talk. Ask questions that will give him a chance to show his knowledge, and also show your real interest.

Now you are beginning to wonder what you get out of all this. First of all you will get the satisfaction that comes from putting another person at ease, and having him satisfied with himself. That is a real accomplishment. But you will also get other things. You will win his liking, and every one of us wants to be liked. It is a fundamental urge of human nature. You will win his approval, for when you let a man talk about himself he is convinced you are a brilliant conversationalist. And why not? He leaves you knowing that he has enjoyed himself immensely. That is the way you want people to feel. It is the feeling that makes them come back.

The next time you meet a friend and have a minute or two to spend in conversation don't talk about your latest illness, don't tell the cute things your little girl said, don't complain because the thermometer has been doing strange things. Instead, remember Matthew Arnold's reply when he was asked to name his favorite topic of conversation. He answered, "That in which my companion is most interested."

If you remember that remark and put it into practice you will make friends wherever you go.

Beauty Tips

Question: "I have heard about a preparation that is guaranteed to clean up the most stubborn freckles in one application, but I have hesitated to try it without asking your opinion. I would give anything to get rid of my freckles, but I have a smooth, rather sensitive skin and I do not wish to harm it in any way.—Fay."

You were wise to hesitate about using such a preparation. It is true that some preparations will remove some kinds of freckles by causing the surface skin to peel, but these preparations are extremely strong and dangerous. If yours are the so-called "permanent freckles" you may be able to make them fainter, but you cannot remove them no matter what you do. You only make them less conspicuous with a tinted foundation cream, used before you apply your make-up. If your freckles are the kind that come only in the summer, you can hasten their normal fading away by spending your skin with strained, slightly diluted lemon juice and allowing it to dry. Then apply just a little cold cream to prevent the drying effect. A mild cream mask used once a week is also helpful.

The newest trick seen on Broadway is long black lashes dipped with silver iridescent mascara.

The most efficient way to dry the top burners of a gas range after washing them is to turn them upside down in a heated oven.

In The Women's Sphere

Social and Personal

Mr. Robert Cowans, Melbourne street, is spending the week-end and holiday in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Richardson and Miss Jean Richardson spent the week-end in Chateaugay visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Richardson.

Mrs. George W. Pomeroy, of Kincaid, Sask., who is leaving for her home at the end of the week, has been a guest for a few days of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Beerworth, Ayer's Cliff, and Miss Edna Beerworth, "The Bellevue," Melbourne street.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shelton entertained most enjoyable on Saturday evening at their home in Cookshire on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding day. The family and a few intimate friends were their guests at supper. During the evening upwards of fifty guests enjoyed their hospitality and dancing was continued until midnight, when delicious refreshments were served, the hostess being assisted by Mr. and Mrs. T. Robertson and Mrs. A. Shelton.

The bride and groom of twenty-five years were the recipients of several lovely gifts of silver and Mr. R. MacDonald, on behalf of the guests, presented them with a purse of money, voicing the good wishes of all to Mr. and Mrs. Shelton for many more years of married happiness. The happy anniversary party was brought to a close by singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. T. Wyatt and Mr. B. MacDonald, of Sherbrooke, Mr. and Mrs. G. Dain and son, Peter, of Lennoxville, Mrs. Sarah MacDonald, of Bury, and Mr. E. MacDonald, of Bishopton.

Mrs. Fred. Hovey, president of the Sherbrooke Wales Home Auxiliary, assisted by Mrs. F. S. Rugg, welcomed the many guests who attended the annual musicale and tea in the "Howard Residence" assembly hall on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Nelson Whitman received the generous "shower" of jam and pickles. Over four hundred jars were donated, which Mr. Nelson Lothrop has kindly offered to transport to the Home.

Mrs. T. W. Rawson convoked the charming musicale and the afternoon tea was convoked by Mrs. A. E. Rowell and Mrs. E. A. Tomkins.

Mrs. A. C. Skinner and Mrs. J. H. Bryant did the honors at the lovely tea table, which was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a silver basket of bronze chrysanthemums given by Mrs. Hovey. Assisting were Miss Anne Armstrong and Miss Kathleen Hall.

The vocal soloists were Mrs. N. E. Bachand-Dupuis, Mrs. Malcolm MacKay and Miss Thelma Crawford and the violin soloist, Miss Frederica Bradley, who were accompanied by Miss Lucille Moore, Mrs. Frank Donaldson and Miss Lane.

An interesting and pleasing interlude was an address by Mr. A. C. Skinner, president of the Wales Home Board, who gave an outline of the Home's history and its special needs at the present time. Mr. Skinner, on behalf of the local Auxiliary, extended cordial thanks to all who had so generously contributed towards the success of the annual tea party, musicale and shower for the benefit of the dear old folks in the Wales Home.

Mrs. Alvah G. Cross, of Ulverton, is spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Johns, Short street.

Mr. Forbes Hale, of Montreal, was a guest for the week-end of his sister, Miss Gladys Hale, Moore street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Ogilvy, "St. Francis Cottage," left yesterday by motor to spend a few days in Montreal.

Miss Roberta Richardson and Mr. Billy Richardson were guests of friends in Montreal for the week-end.

Mrs. S. R. Fuller and Miss Gladys Hale returned on Saturday from New York, whither they motored to spend a week. Mrs. Fuller left again last night on the return trip to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Howes Barton, who have enjoyed a long season at "The Grange," their country home at Ayer's Cliff, are leaving tomorrow, accompanied by their house party, for New York.

Mr. H. L. Austin and his son, Frank, of Quebec, who were the guests of Mrs. E. C. Austin, Fulton avenue, for the week-end, are returning today to their home in the Ancient Capital.

The Misses Marguerite, Thelma and Frances Hamel, Mr. Wilfred Montleith and Mr. Raymond Winslaney, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Page, "Key Brook Farm," Bromptonville.

Rev. A. N. Barclay, of Hamilton, Ont., is a guest of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Hill, Dufferin avenue. Mr. Barclay, who is a member of the Children's Special Service Mission, inaugurated a series of illustrated Gospel lectures at St. Andrew's Sunday School yesterday and will continue them there every night this week.

Members of the St. Francis Club and their friends were delightfully entertained by Mrs. George Lavallee and Mrs. Douglas Ross at a dance and card party in the Odd Fellows hall on Friday evening. Five hundred was played at ten tables, there being an attractive prize awarded at each table at the conclusion of the game. Dancing was enjoyed until midnight, when delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by members of the club. The enjoyable evening was brought to a close with the singing of God Save the King.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cillis' home on the Belvidere Road was the scene of an exceptionally successful and largely attended Halloween party sponsored by the Belvidere Women's Institute on Saturday evening. The lovely rooms were gaily decorated and the younger guests wore fancy costumes which greatly contributed to the general air of festivity evinced by everyone at the jolly Halloween party.

Five hundred was played at seven tables, the prizes being won by Mrs. W. Ellis and Mr. P. Tally. Games and contests were featured by the younger set, the prizes for the best and most appropriate costumes going to Miss Jean Drummond and Miss Irene McGee. In the games Messrs. Kenneth Price, Stanley McDonald, Donald Tarte, Robert Cillis,

HOW TO KEEP THAT YOUNG THROAT LINE

Some artists say that the loveliest line in a woman is the long, sweeping line of her chin and throat. It is—when it is firm and youthful. But, unfortunately, the muscles soon droop and thicken unless she gives this area constant attention.

You may feel that you have conquered age when you have made your skin soft and clear, and your eyes sparkling and youthful, but your throat will reveal your true age unless you feed it, spank it, exercise it and pamper it.

Do not wait until you are forty and there are definite signs of a double chin. Thirty is not too young for you to begin to give it special daily care.

First check your posture to see that your head is properly erect. Then, see if your lazy chin and throat muscles have started to invite fatty deposits. If you are generally overweight, you had better outline a course of general exercises and a sensible diet for yourself and get these well underway before you begin serious neck treatments.

In any case, the throat and neck need special lubricating creams and bracing tonics and astringents. And exercises are needed for reducing a double chin or building up a scrawny neck with sagging muscles.

Here are some simple neck exercises:

Stretch your chin forward, and then bend your head backward until you feel the muscles under the chin stretch. Hold that position a moment, then bring the head forward, lifting with the throat muscles. Repeat ten times. Force the lower jaw ahead of the upper one as far as you can. Holding the jaws in this position, stretch the chin forward and up. Return to the starting position and repeat several times. Then, with the lower jaw still thrust forward, turn the head slowly to the right and left, and go through vigorous chewing motions.

Stand with your hands on your hips, spine straight, head tilted backward and chin stretched up. Bend forward from the hips and, keeping the chin tilted up, turn the head to the right and to the left. You will feel the muscles of the neck, chest, shoulders and back at work in this exercise.

The routine steps of the neck treatment consists of cleansing followed by an astringent and a brisk massage. After applying the astringent, slap beneath the chin vigorously with the backs of your hands until it is warm and pink.

Pinch with the thumb and first finger, starting at the point of the chin and following the jawbone backward to the ear. Repeat several times. This helps prevent a sagging line.

When you have finished this stimulating routine, apply a lubricating cream, working it in with downward strokes from your jawline. Now place all of your fingers in the center of your throat and draw them firmly backward toward the heavy muscles at the sides of your neck. Then your exercises. After this, remove the excess cream, and sponge again with tonic or ice water.

For example, look at the sleek model at the right, Janet Hollander, noted designer, created this. Home women buy it for bridge luncheons and casual get-togethers. Business women wear it to the office on the days they expect to go straight from work to tea or the movies. The narrow belt and narrow upstanding collar are trimmed with tiny leaves of gold.

Next to it is a perfectly straight, slim frock of soft, spongy beige wool with a black kidskin belt. A row of fairly long loops of self material, with a beige button in the center of each loop, goes from neckline to hem. The shoulders are broad, but not exaggerated. As is, this is absolutely correct for the office. With rhinestone clips at the neckline and a more elaborate belt, it is nice enough for any tea or dinner and an evening call or two.

Shirring ingeniously used to create Corset Effect.

The third dress, sketched at the left, is shirred just enough to look definitely Winter 1937, but it is not even slightly fussy. Notice that the corset line is greatly modified and that the sash, though draped, manages to look like a sash instead of yards of floating fabric. The dress itself is of soft silk in Patou's new color, amure green, while the sash is green and black. It is finished with two jeweled birds, and the neckline is quite low.

Mode's Utmost In Elegance Is Plain To See

LINES ARE SIMPLE ALMOST TO POINT OF FORMALITY

New York, Nov. 1.—Some of the season's smartest afternoon dresses are exceptionally simple in design, subtly shirred and draped and finished with quite inconspicuous touches. Elegantly plain is the best way to describe them. Depending on lines and fabric for glamour they are a relief from the lavishly and exaggeratedly shirred and draped numbers we saw earlier in the season.

OUR LINK WITH FUTURE IS WITH JESUS CHRIST

Glad to Get Back to Assertions of Bible After Reading Literature on Spiritualism, States Rev. F. R. Matthews.

"We are living in an age of secularism," Rev. F. R. Matthews, pastor of the Lennoxville United Church, told his congregation in a splendid sermon on Sunday morning on the subject, "This Life and the Life to Come." Speaking of spiritualism, Rev. Mr. Matthews said, "I am not entirely adverse to it, but after reading the literature on spiritualism we are glad to get back to the assertions of the Bible. Our link with the future is with Jesus Christ—not with those who have gone before us—and the way to those we love is through our relation to Jesus Christ."

During the service the pastor paid tribute to Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Browne, who left today to take up residence in Ottawa. "Mrs. Browne," he said, "has been our organist for over two years, and our relations have been of the happiest nature. We have especially appreciated her ever ready willingness to assist us in many ways which did not lie in her direct path of duty. We wish them much happiness in their new home, and we will not forget them, and we know that they will not forget us. It is our wish that they will meet with the same love and loyalty there that they have enjoyed here."

The beautiful anthem, "Hear My Prayer," was sung by the choir, under Mrs. Browne's direction, with solo parts by Miss Thelma Crawford, and during the offertory Mrs. Browne played the lovely "Tranquility" as an organ solo.

Members of the Young People's Union of the church conducted the evening service. Allen Willard, past president of the Union, was the speaker, and took for his text, "They That Take Up the Sword Shall Perish By the Sword," basing his remarks on the chapter "Christ and Peace" from the book, "Living Religion," by Dr. Horrell Hart, which members of the Young People's Union have been studying during October. He called the young people to action, on the stand for peace, "because," he stated, "we cannot have both hatred and Christ in our lives."

The Scripture lesson was read by Miss Rachel Hodge and the service was in the charge of the president of the Union, Fred Fox, Rev. Mr. Matthews led in prayer. The newly-organized Young People's Union was under the direction of their leader, Miss Patricia Watson, who acted as organist, and the favorite old hymn, "God That Madest Earth and Heaven," was sung by them as an anthem. The offertory was received by George MacDougall and Lloyd Lane.

General Notes.

"The Saints of God" was the theme of a splendid sermon by the Venerable Archdeacon Albert Jones, rector of St. George's Church, yesterday morning, and at evening Rev. Mr. James spoke on "The Communion of Saints." The music for both services was under the direction of the organist, Mrs. A. Jones.

The splendid sum of thirty-five dollars was realized at the rummage sale held on Saturday afternoon by the Lennoxville Library in the Town Hall, with Mrs. R. C. McFadden as convener, assisted by several of the members.

A bicycle owned by Master Herbert Pratt was stolen yesterday morning. The bicycle was left in front of St. George's Church while the owner attended the eleven o'clock service.

The deep sympathy of the community is extended to the relatives of Mrs. G. A. Musty, who passed away at the Sherbrooke Hospital over the week-end following severe injuries which resulted from a fall a short time ago. Mrs. Musty was a highly esteemed resident, and will be sadly missed by all who knew her.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Browne and daughter, Barbara, and Mr. Browne's mother, Mrs. A. F. Browne, left today for Ottawa, where Mr. Browne has accepted a promotion in the Experimental Farm Division of the Dominion Government. Mr. and Mrs. Browne and their family have been highly respected and much loved residents of Lennoxville for many years, and will be greatly missed. Their interest and activity in many benevolent societies and their charming personalities made them popular with all classes, who join in wishing them every happiness and success in their new home.

Mrs. Austin Scott motored to Montreal today. She will be accompanied home by her daughter, Margaret Ann, who has been undergoing treatment at the Royal Victoria Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Wilmott, of Barre, Vt., were week-end guests of Mrs. Wilmott's sister, Mrs. Austin Scott.

Miss Mildred Mills returned to her home in New York City this morning after spending some time with her mother, Mrs. Maud Mills, "Fairview Farm," and other relatives and friends in this district.

The Lennoxville Fire Brigade, under Chief Samuel Graham, was called out about nine-thirty o'clock last evening for a chimney fire at the home of Mrs. Arthur Ward, 17 Clough avenue. The prompt action of the men checked the blaze before any serious damage was done.

Mrs. Charles Lefebvre has returned to her home in Birchton after spending a week with her sister, Mrs. L. W. Smith, and Mr. Smith.

Mr. Alfred C. Campbell is receiving congratulations from his many friends today on the occasion of his birthday.

DICK CHILDS THE FORD OF PUBLISHING

The biggest upset in the publishing business is likely to be Richard Childs, 28 years old, Yale '32. Let Mr. Childs tell it: "The publishing business is backward and working in the latter half of the nineteenth century. The innovations of the A. & P. and Mr. Ford have been completely disregarded. The prices are out of line for the mass product. I take advantage of up-to-date mass distributing facilities which enable a low unit cost for the product."

So Childs formed the Modern Age Books, turned out attractive, well-printed copies running regular book length, with gay colored stiff paper covers at 25 cents and 35 cents. He started out with eleven titles which ranged all the way from how to cook in a trailer to children's books, detective stories, novels, labor books, biography and reprints of former best-sellers.

One month after publication he found himself practically sold out. He decided to spread. He was interviewed while plasterers, carpenters and electricians were banging away so he could triple his space.

Anticipating an uphill fight, he decided to move cautiously and put out himself practically sold out. He decided to spread. He was interviewed while plasterers, carpenters and electricians were banging away so he could triple his space.

MARRIAGES

PLANCHE-LINDSAY

Cowansville, Nov. 1.—A marriage of much interest to the people of Cowansville took place in St. James the Apostle Church, Montreal, at four o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, October 27th, when Aurilla Maude, daughter of Mr. James Lindsay and the late Mrs. Lindsay, was united in marriage with Donald Fraser Planche, son of the late Dr. Fraser Planche and Mrs. Planche, of Cowansville. Rev. F. H. Wilkinson officiated.

The bride who was given in marriage by her uncle, Sir Charles Lindsay, was unattended.

Mr. Eric Sabiston, of Perth, Ont., acted as best-man for his cousin. The ushers were Mr. C. W. Lindsay, of Ottawa, brother of the bride, and Mr. Gerald Bruck.

On their return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Planche will reside in Cowansville. Their friends join in wishing them much joy and happiness.

LaGuardia by Jay Franklin and to his astonishment sold 150,000 before publication.

He was secretary to ex-Senator Fred C. Walcott (R.) of Connecticut and researched for him in labor conditions and unemployment. He is still vitally interested in these problems.

Modes And Manners

Question: "Who pays for the tickets when a girl invites a chap to a sorority dance? Also, what should you say when a young man tells you, 'I have enjoyed the dance'?"—T. L.

Answer: When a girl invites a young man to be her guest at a dance, it is up to her to have the cards of admission. If her partner says that he enjoyed the dance, the girl should reply, "I have enjoyed it too." It is not her place to say, "Thank you."

Question: "When a fruit centerpiece is used on a dinner table, does the hostess intend that it be eaten with or after the dessert?"—E. A.

Answer: The fruit centerpiece is used for the purpose of decoration in place of fresh flowers. It is not to be eaten while a centerpiece. Later in the evening, if the hostess likes, she may place the fruit in the living room for refreshment.

Question: "How long are a bride and bridegroom supposed to remain at the wedding reception given in their honor following the marriage ceremony?"—L. P.

Answer: Not more than two hours. If they have an earlier train to catch, they may leave in time for it. No one expects the newlyweds to remain at the wedding reception until the end.

You Cannot Get Around FACTS!

Dominion Stores have given to the public the facts relating to the service they perform in Quebec Province. And facts are stubborn things. Waves of criticism break against them in vain. Being facts they cannot be controverted.

It is a fact that Dominion Stores have improved shopping conditions for the public.

It is a fact that they have brought a wider selection of fresher merchandise within easier reach of the housewife.

It is a fact that they buy in huge quantities from local farmers and producers.

It is a fact that they are good tenants and liberal users of local utilities and services.

Dominion Stores throughout this Province, have aided the buying public in every one of their respective localities by inaugurating new and better methods of handling goods while selling at prices that benefit thousands upon thousands of individual householders and their families.

N.Y. MARKET FELL BACK A LITTLE TODAY

Magazine "Steel" Claims that Steel Has Been Going into Consumption Much Better than Shipments Show.

New York, Nov. 1.—Stocks met selling opposition in today's market, especially in steels, and leading issues fell back fractions to more than two points.

The decline was orderly, however, and the ticker tape seldom had to speed up to keep pace with trades. The list was around the lows near the second hour.

Conspicuous on the slip-up were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, General Motors, Chrysler, Westinghouse, General Electric, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Phillips Petroleum, Continental Oil, Texas Corp., Santa Fe, N.Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, U.S. Rubber, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, J. I. Case, Deere, International Harvester, Loew's, Philip Morris and Owens-Illinois.

Gold mining stocks such as Alaska Juneau, Homestake, Dome and McIntyre edged forward, apparently on persistent rumors abroad the price of the yellow metal might be raised. Bonds and commodities were uneven.

Some encouragement was found in the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said the downward movement of mill production last week was much less precipitate than in the previous period, indicating possibly the decline is scraping bottom.

Among hopeful factors cited were the likelihood farm implement makers will resume extensive buying of steel soon, as stock-taking in that industry ends, and expectations automobile manufacturers will step up demand when new models are cut and fall selling gains momentum.

"Steel," the review added, "has been going into consumption at a much better rate than shipments of recent weeks would indicate."

MODERATELY LOWER TREND AT MONTREAL TODAY

Montreal, Nov. 1.—Moderately lower prices marked the stock market opening today.

Nickel fell 1 1/2 to 46 1/2 and fractional declines appeared in Dominion Steel B. Brazilian, Imperial Oil, Montreal Power, Foundation, Steel Car, Canadian Car and C.P.R.

Believes She Is Old Enough To Smoke.

Santa Paula, Calif., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Apollonia Ortiz, who at the age of 116 does her own washing, gets around spry and likes an occasional glass of wine, thinks she's old enough now, so—she's decided to try smoking cigarettes.

Hold Two As Material Witnesses In Tragedy

during the past summer, the car crashed through the barrier and dropped into the Mississippi River.

Salter was sitting between the Rene brothers. The latter succeeded in opening the doors of the truck and swimming to safety, but Salter, obliged to remain for a longer period under water while his companions escaped, drowned just as he had extricated himself from the trap. His body was found floating down the river.

The Rene boys swam to the river bank unassisted, although Joseph Blais, the watchman at the bridge site, endeavored to render assistance.

An ambulance rushed Maurice and Gaston Rene to the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, while Salter's body was taken to the morgue. Gaston was released from the hospital last night and removed to police headquarters. The order for the detention of the two young men as material witnesses for the coroner's inquest was issued by Eugene St. Pierre.

Salter, a native of Victoriaville, was the son of George Salter, now of Rochester, N.Y., a former superintendent of the Shawinigan Water and Power Company. He leaves his father, two half-brothers, three sisters, Mrs. Reginald Smith, Mrs. Edgar Kellett and Mrs. Gustave Duberger, all of Sherbrooke; and three uncles, Harry Salter, Edward Salter and Lyndon Salter, also of this city.

The accident that proved fatal to Joseph Dion occurred in Eastmain at 2:25 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Dion succumbing to a fractured skull in the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital early today.

According to information obtained by municipal police this morning, Dion was walking along the road near Eastmain, when he was offered a "lift" by George Roberge, twenty-seven years old, of Eastmain. As Roberge's car was filled, however, Dion was obliged to stand upon the running board. The car had proceeded a short distance when his hat blew off. Roberge told him that he would stop the car so that he might retrieve his hat, but Dion jumped off the vehicle. He cracked his skull upon the pavement, and was taken to hospital after receiving first aid treatment from Dr. Renaud, of Eastmain.

ACCIDENTS IN ONTARIO CLAIMED NINE LIVES.

Toronto, Nov. 1.—A death toll of eight was counted in Ontario today, aftermath of week-end mishaps. Four persons were killed in traffic accidents, one by a train, one was shot to death and a baby died of injuries suffered in a fall down a well. One man was burned to death.

The baby was eighteen-months-old Gordon Romp, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Romp, who died in a Sarnia hospital Saturday. Two weeks ago he fell down an eighteen-foot well while playing in the yard of his parents' home. Mrs. Romp rescued the tot and he was believed recovering when meningitis developed.

In Scarborough, a Toronto suburb, Harry Flanagan, 42, was burned to death when fire destroyed his isolated home. He was trapped after collapsing in a doorway. Lack of water facilities hampered firemen in fighting the fire.

Winston Woyer, 21, was killed near Caledon, thirty-five miles northwest of Toronto, when a truck struck the automobile he was driving. Alexander Carmichael, 28, was arrested later in Toronto as driver of the truck and charged with manslaughter.

Twelve-year-old Milton "Mickey" Corner died in an automobile collision near Dresden Saturday night. He suffered a fractured neck. Edward Young, 54, was killed north of Bracebridge when two cars collided. Mrs. D. Anderson, 60, the fourth traffic fatality, was killed near Smith's Falls in another automobile collision. Five other persons were hurt in the crash, two seriously.

A gunshot wound in the side, the body of Arthur E. Dick, 52, was found on the outskirts of Ottawa Saturday. His death was termed accidental as the result of the discharge of a shot.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK MARKET

Montreal, Nov. 1.—Today's livestock receipts totalled 992 cattle, 1,648 calves, 2,010 sheep and lambs and 1,994 hogs.

Trading in cattle was fairly active at about steady prices. Common steers ranged from $3.25 to $4.75, with medium kinds selling from $5 to $6 and medium good steers up to $6.50. Good steers ranged from $7 to $8.75. There were no choice steers and there was an easier trend on the better quality steers. Heifers ranged from $3 to $5, medium heifers selling from $4 to $4.50.

Good cows were selling from $3.75 to $4, with an add top up to $4.25. Medium kinds were from $3 to $3.75 and common butchers from $2.50 to $3. Canners and cutters were from $1.60 to $2.25. Good butcher bulls made $4, with common kinds from $2.50 to $3.50.

Calves were steady. Good quality veals made $9.25 to $9.50, with medium good kinds selling up to $9. Common light veals made from $8.50 up. The bulk of the veals were between $8 and $9. Drinkers ranged from $4.50 to $7.50 and grassers from $3.50 to $4.25, with the bulk between $3.75 and $4.

The bulk of the good ewes and wethers were sold at $7.75, with a few lots at $8. Lambs weighing a hundred pounds or more were cut one dollar per hundredweight. Culls and bucks were cut two dollars per hundredweight. Sheep ranged from $2.50 to $3.75, with the bulk at $3.25.

Hogs were steady with the close of last week. Bacon was $8.25, fed and watered. Selects drew one dollar per hog premium. Butchers and heavies were cut fifty cents per hundredweight and extra heavies and lights one dollar per hundredweight. Sows were from $6 to $7, with an odd top of $7.25.

DOUBLE WEDDING

Adaptation and arrangement—copyright by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corp., 1937.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Life in the Agnew home on Long Island has hitherto been under the firm guidance of love—Margit, cool, aloof and unemotional. But her impulsive sister, Irene, engaged to Waldo, falls in love with Charlie Jones, a sidewalk artist. Worse, Charlie is married and lives in a trailer. That he affects her personally, Margit refuses to admit. Then Waldo nobly renounces Irene and she and Charlie set out in the latter's trailer for the Adirondacks. Margit is frantic. She sends her butler-detective, Keough, to follow them and report their doings.

CHAPTER XIV

Charlie drove steadily northward. It was a beautiful day—warm but not hot—clear but over-hazed with the fragrant breath of April. The Hudson River, through an occasional interstice in the woods which burgeoned on the Westchester hills, was blue and alluring. Crocuses exploded everywhere on people's lawns. Masses of forsythia lay here and there upon the landscape like puddles of condensed sunlight.

Whenever he glanced at Irene, Charlie smiled. He smiled for two reasons—first because stealing away so pretty a girl was a gray adventure, and second, because every time he looked at her he realized that Margit was sitting somewhere in New York feeling frenzied.

Irene, on her part, was in a very complicated state of mind. She was pretty sure that Charlie had devastated her. She was very nearly positive that she was utterly in love with him. If she had qualms—qualms about what Margit would think of it all and about how Waldo would get along without her—she ascribed them to the essential nature of the escapade. She reasoned (and probably correctly) that a person cannot throw everything to the winds without having a qualm or two.

Charlie drove efficiently. He made conversation with expressions like, "Enjoying yourself?"

She made answers like, "I was never happier in my life."

At a small town up the Hudson River they stopped and had hamburgers.

"Tired?" Charlie asked, smiling at her.

Irene realized that she was tired. The energy she had given to the episode of the past few days had been almost hysterical. She hadn't slept well. She had agreed to run away with Charlie in a sort of daze. She shook her head. "I'm not a bit tired."

They drove on. It grew dark. Charlie switched on the headlights of the car. Irene donned a fur coat. There was something about the arrival of twilight which startled her. Something which made her realize abruptly that here she was a couple of hundred miles from home with a relatively strange gentleman. She didn't even know where she was going. She asked, "Lake George," Charlie answered, "Ever been there?"

"No."

"Perfectly elegant spot for a honeymoon."

Irene's anxiety increased. "This isn't exactly a honeymoon."

Charlie slowed the car. "Of course it is! A honeymoon without benefit of clergy. Naturally, we'll retain the ceremony as soon as I can get divorced."

Irene looked off into the gloom. She felt weepy. "I wish you hadn't mentioned your wife," she said.

Charlie stared at her. "I didn't mention my wife."

"It's cold as the dickens," said Irene, "and the road's bumpy." That ended the conversation for a full hour.

It was eleven o'clock at night when Charlie finally cut off the motor. The place where he stopped was pretty dark, but a few dim electric light bulbs strung through trees gave Irene an impression of the spot. A trailer camp. There was a dingy little stand still boarded for the winter on which was printed, "Hot Hamburgers." There was a small, faintly marked "office," and in it she saw a fat man sleeping with his feet propped up on a soap box. Under tall pine trees through which the wind snorted were five or six other trailers. Their lights were all out. They looked weather-beaten and one would have assumed that they had been deserted had it not been for the fact that outside a couple of them the week's laundry whirled in the night.

Irene shivered. Charlie bounced out of the car and opened the door. She stepped to the ground. "Listen!" he said rapturously. "Isn't that music?"

She listened. She couldn't hear any music. Only an intimidating sound of waves surging through rocks somewhere in the darkness. It didn't occur to Irene that that was what Charlie had meant by "music." He unlocked the back door of the trailer. He switched on a light which was very feeble. "Dammit," he said. "Battery's almost dead. We'll have to undress fast."

Irene sniffed. She had always imagined a honeymoon taking place in a luxurious hotel with plenty of lights and a dance orchestra playing in a ballroom, and champagne-bell boys in scarlet and gold uniforms—head waiters in full dress—all that sort of thing. It was clammy in the trailer, and by the weak light of the single bulb she observed that the journey from New York had not been made without accident. A half-dozen jars of jam had broken loose in the small trailer until they had smashed. There was raspberry jam in the center of the floor and strawberry jam at the foot of the lower bunk. Irene sniffed harder. Charlie was opening her fitted suitcase. He picked out a chiffon nightgown. A very beautiful one. A creation of which Margit had been extremely proud.

He held it up to the light for a moment and shook his head. He yanked open a drawer. "You'd freeze to death in that," he said. "Only got two blankets apiece. Have to use coats anyway." He tossed something to her and she caught it. It was a pair of flannel pajamas. Irene realized that if she put them on she would itch for a month.

Charlie was stretching and yawning. "Boy," he suddenly said excitedly. "Isn't it great to be out of the city?"

Irene realized that she could hear no more. She spoke with some vigor. "If you think I'm going to stay here freezing to death in all this jam, you're crazy."

There ensued a fifteen minute debate. Irene won it. Charlie was in a somewhat subdued state of mind when he turned his unit caravan out of the trailer camp. At the entrance to the camp he slowed down. Just off the main road there was a parking coupe. Charlie's headlights played upon it and Irene observed with a little alarm that the car was apparently asleep. Charlie blew his horn several times. The man sat up and stared at them. As they drove past, he started his motor. Irene leaned out, and to her astonishment observed that he was following them down the main highway.

She said as much. "That man you blew your horn at is coming right along behind us."

"I know it," Charlie replied. "Why?" she asked pointedly. "Because Margit told him to."

"Margit?"

"It's Keough," Charlie glanced at her out of the corners of his eyes.

"I couldn't be! The man behind us had a big grey beard."

It's Keough with a big grey beard. He was poking around the parking lot in New York before we left and he hung right behind us all the way. I watched him in my mirror. Tried to lose him once or twice. He's a pretty good driver."

"You mean Margit had Keough disguise himself and follow us up here?"

Charlie nodded.

For the first time since her departure, Irene relaxed. In the darkness she was able to shed a few tears of relief, apparently without giving herself away. Faithful old Keough was right behind them! Even in this terrible extremity, Margit's long arm had reached out to save her. She felt brave again, and sure of herself. She put the emotion into words. "I'm glad Keough followed us. I love you, Charlie, but I shouldn't have run away with you like this. It was wrong."

Charlie pursed his lips and whistled reflectively for a moment. "I guess you're right, Irene," he said finally. "About twenty miles up the line there's a place called the Prince James Hotel. I'll put you up there and camp in my prairie ark. Tomorrow you can go home on the train. And Keough can certify that your behavior was exemplary."

Now that she felt secure—now that she realized that Charlie did not intend to be a menace—she felt that she did not have to sleep in flannel pyjamas amid a sea of spilled jam and broken glass—her emotions underwent change. It was presumptuous of Margit, she thought, to send Keough sneaking along behind them. Margit controlled everything and interfered in everything. She could picture herself getting home on the following evening and hearing Margit say with calm righteousness, "You almost made a little mistake, dear. I'm glad you were sensible enough to find it out in time."

The more she thought about it the angrier she became. Here she was in the middle of a beautiful romantic adventure—trying to run away—and Margit had spoiled it all by sending along Keough in false whiskers.

She turned to Charlie. "You're a pretty good sport!"

Charlie was genuinely startled. "Huh?"

"Are you going to sit back and let Margit make a sissy out of you, too?"

Visibility was not high in the car—which was a good thing—for Charlie's expression would have been an extraordinary one to behold.

Irene has been given her chance to get out of her rash adventure. Now she is challenging Margit's domination. Will she win? In tomorrow's episode, Charlie throws a verbal bomb. Be sure to read about it.

BEDFORD W.A. PACKED GOODS TO SEND WEST

Bale of Clothing Sent by Senior W. A. to Mission School at Sioux Outlook, in the District of Keewatin.

Bedford, Nov. 1. — The regular meeting of the Senior W. A. was held in the parochial hall for a two-fold purpose, that of packing the bale and also for receiving and marking articles for the annual fall rummage sale, which was held in the hall.

Large quantities of clothing were sent in for the sale, which during the past years has become an event greatly looked forward to. The meeting was opened by the rector, the Rev. H. V. Fricker, with prayer, after which the president, Mrs. D. J. Reid, called upon the secretary, Mrs. Ralph Van Horn, for the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, which were adopted. The president made reference to the sorrow of the branch at the passing of Mrs. Farthing, who was well-known to many of the members, and stated that a letter of sympathy had been forwarded from the Bedford Branch to Bishop Farthing. The Dorcas secretary, Mrs. A. S. McCaw, gave a report of the contents of the bale, which this year goes to the Mission School at Sioux Outlook, in the District of Keewatin, a girl, a student at this school being the charge of the Bedford branch for this year.

Mrs. McCaw stated that besides the usual outfit, additional sewing and knitting had been done and that extra garments were being forwarded in the bale, as well as an extra quilt. The president also announced that the branch, in addition to paying their appointment, has also sent an additional amount. The bale was packed at the close of the meeting to be sent to the Sydney Hall, in Montreal.

SUCCESSFUL RUMMAGE SALE HELD

A very successful rummage sale under the auspices of the Senior W. A. was held in the St. James Church parish hall under the convener'ship of the president, Mrs. D. J. Reid. Those who assisted were Mrs. L. Wherret, Mrs. P. C. Saunders, Mrs. George Moody, Mrs. Ralph Van Horn, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. R. L. Craighead, Mrs. Ross Preston, Mrs. Harry Jones, Mrs. H. V. Fricker and Mrs. P. E. Draper. The sum of $67.89 was realized, and a quantity of articles were sent in a bale for Western relief.

At the morning service on Sunday, October 24th, at St. James Church, Rev. H. V. Fricker thanked the congregation for their wholehearted appeal to this worthy cause, and refold and clothing as well as money being donated generously in this parish. Mr. Fricker made special mention of Mrs. Ross Preston, president of St. James Church Guild, also to Mr. A. S. McCaw and Mr. Ralph Wells for their great help and assistance with this work.

FINE EXHIBIT OF HEIRLOOMS AT MASSAWIPPI

Union Church Society and Historical Study Group Provide Unique and Most Successful Entertainment — Spelling Bee and Sing-Song Included in the Salmagundi Party.

The Town Hall at Massawippi was en fete when the Union Church Society and the Tyro Study Group joined together in holding a bazaar and exhibit of antiques and family heirlooms, with afternoon tea and a Salmagundi party in the evening.

The hall was decorated in an attractive way, the nearness of Halloween making it suitable to use colors and designs belonging to the "night of witchery." One side of the hall was taken up with tables laden with old and highly-valued family treasures, many of them well over a century old, such as pictures of various periods and subjects, including mottoes made from wool on cardboard, the Lord's Prayer in the same work with hand-made frame; portraits and photographs. One of the latter was a panoramic view of the village and lake region, while several photographs and daguerotypes of early residents added to the interest of this line of exhibits.

Among the larger pieces were a flax wheel that came from Ireland with the family of John and Ann Hunter one hundred and fourteen years ago; a handsome gun-case of wood with brass trimmings, brought from England by Samuel Foster a century ago; a heavy hand-made wooden bowl carved from the knotty part of a tree—also over a century in age and still in good condition; a beautiful coverlet of white cotton, tufted, and bearing the name, Fanny Watkins, 1827, woven in with the design. This article is treasured in the Brown family and goes to the girl named Fanny in each generation. The present owner is Miss Fanny Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Brown, fourth in line bearing the name.

A child's high chair, used in infancy by Mrs. Ella St. Dizier, an enticing low rocker and various other pieces of wood which showed careful use and long keeping, vied with each other in presenting pictures of the shadowy long ago. Samplers; pieces of dainty handiwork; old family Bibles and albums; dishes of quaint design and materials that have stood the test of time, and a few hats and bonnets that made the creations of today seem rather nondescript.

An article sent in by Mr. Elwin Ham with the question, what is it? drew considerable attention and conjecture. One suggestion was an army mule's bridle that probably came from a foreign country, as it had been in the liam family for over a century, but nothing known as to its origin or first owner. Strangely made of leather with straps and buckles it suggested the possibility of holding any present-day mule in order.

The heirlooms were kindly loaned by residents of the village, many coming from the Hitchcock, Taylor and St. Dizier families, who have always treasured such things, while other contribution came from the Schoolcraft family, Mrs. Edith Corey, and near-by families, the whole making up an exhibit of special interest to old and young, grave and gay, who may feel justly proud and grateful in knowing that Massawippi village and the Municipality of West Hatley have their full quota of family treasures.

Since its organization a few years ago, the Tyro Study Group has gathered and recorded historic events, valuable information relative to early settlement, people of the old days, and stories that link the past with the present. All these are being placed in two portfolios; one containing history, the other current events that will become history, and both of value to the Municipality. The portfolios, now in course of making, were displayed and examined with interest by many visitors during the afternoon and evening.

The opposite side of the hall from the exhibit was taken up by the sales tables, on which were displayed handiwork done by the Women's Society and donations from friends. The contents of this table gave proof of good work done by the Union Church Society since its organization last spring. A candy table was an attraction to the younger element. Visitors were cordially welcomed by the president, Mrs. Talcott St. Dizier and other officers, while Mrs. Laduke and Mrs. George Hunter assisted to the sales table, with the assistance of other members.

Among visitors from outside places were Mrs. Mary Abbott and Miss Mary Flint, of Stanstead, both of whom are keenly interested in historic matters; Rev. and Mrs. Gillingham and Mrs. E. S. Beerworth, of Ayer's Cliff; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Virgin, Mrs. Samson and Miss Emily LeBaron, of North Hatley. Mr. Virgin kindly brought with him three samplers from his specially fine collection of these historic pieces, and they were added to the display. He explained that both he and Mrs. Virgin were keenly interested in making up a collection of samplers belonging to this locality, and to places within the Eastern Townships.

Brief mention must be made of the millinery creations, several of which were worn by ladies who donned costumes of the old days. Large and small, high and low, they gave evidence of that desire for novelty that has always, and will always exist in the minds of women who want to look pretty and smart. Mrs. St. Dizier, the president, wore a handsome gown of black silk with a richly trimmed dolman, small black hat with white plume, and beautiful gold jewellery, some of it very old. Mrs. Leo Bursyck wore a dainty frilled muslin dress with small hat, lace mitts and scarf; Mrs. Charles Taylor looked dainty in pink organdie with lace shawl, hoops, and poke bonnet of black with wreath of pink roses; Mrs. Alex Rowat wore a paisley gown with black hat and long plume; Mrs. Bertha Price wore a beautifully-made linen "duster" of brown, with bonnet of same color, and while presiding at the tea table during the tea hour, what may be termed the largest hat in Stanstead County, Mrs. Price acted as a model, at intervals to better display the hats and bonnets, one of the latter being a brown sunbonnet worn by "Aunt Polly Woodward" over a century ago. This useful article of pioneer days won quite a bit of attention, being specially admired by Mrs. Virgin.

Mrs. Clifton Sloggett was in black lace with small bonnet, and a rich plush dolman, fur-trimmed, making up a sextette of charmingly attired ladies who tried to appear as if it was a daily affair—this dressing up in historic apparel. The black silk costume worn by Mrs. St. Dizier, and the pink creation daintily displayed by Mrs. Taylor, were kindly loaned for the occasion by Stanstead ladies, and were among those worn in the parade at Sherbrooke's Centennial celebration in August.

The exhibit being an educational feature the Study Group invited Miss Boyce and her school children to come in for a little party and to see the hall in its attractiveness. The children showed original interest in the exhibits and enjoyed their cake and cocoa. The menu for the afternoon tea comprised home-made bread and butter with jam, cheese biscuits, tarts and gingerbread, black and green tea. Mrs. McClary and Mrs. L. D. Schoolcraft looked after the making of tea and coffee and were helpful in many ways during the afternoon and evening.

In early evening people came in for the Salmagundi party, all joining happily in the social festivities which began with community singing. Games were played, the rule of the Salmagundi being a different game for each table. Then came the "Spelling Bee," conducted by Mrs. Galen Brown, and participated in by about twenty brave spellers. Mrs. Brown's captains fell before the onslaught of words that seemed so easy—yet, in the course of ten minutes Helen Taylor, a high school girl stood alone in the line. During the spelling it was noted that the "double letters" were tricky, and one speller went down on Banana, but each and all took defeat in a sporting manner.

A musical number of interest was the singing of his native songs by George Petersen, who came from Denmark to make his home in Canada. Mr. Petersen played his own accompaniment and sang a classic number, also a jolly sea song, both winning hearty applause. He also joined with the young people who led the sing-song. Mrs. Price, who acted as chairman, expressed her desire that the choir members and other who could sing would have community singing occasionally. Rev. H. Weston Parry, of Hatley, who has conducted services alternately with other ministers in the United Church, took part in the singing, the "Spelling Bee" and in the social part of the evening.

The sales tables received due attention, and refreshments added to the pleasure of the gathering, while a bit of excitement was created by the "drawing" of tickets for the quilt made by the members of the society. The fortunate possessor was announced by the chairman as George Robinson, of Ayer's Cliff. The Union Church Society and the Study Group, which hopes to become an active historical group, felt well-repaid for their efforts in presenting an exhibit, a sale of handiwork, and a social event all in a day, especially when it was found that the net proceeds amounted to fifty dollars. Added to the finan-

REV. CAMPBELL FETTERED BEFORE LEAVING MILAN

Rev. Alex Campbell Presented with Purse of Money at Reception Held in His Honor Previous to His Departure for California.

Milan, Oct. 28. — Approximately seventy people gathered at the home of Donald M. Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Dannie Campbell in honor of the former's son, Rev. Alex Campbell, before his departure for California.

Beside relatives, friends and neighbours here, many former residents of this place now residing in Scotland were present, also Mr. William F. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Murdo Matheson, Miss Muriel MacIver, of Glasgow, and Miss Colina Mackenzie, of Albert Mines.

The evening was spent in singing Gaelic songs and social entertainment. After refreshments were served, Rev. Mr. Malcolm Gillies, on behalf of the group presented Rev. Mr. Campbell with a purse of money and in his usual warm hearted and sincere manner congratulated him on his achievement wishing him health and happiness. Mr. Campbell responded feelingly and the party dispersed after singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

General Notes.

Mrs. Norman C. Macleod is home after a three months' visit with relatives in Vermont and Massachusetts. Mr. C. Murray Nicholson has gone to Drummondville.

Messrs. Russell and Gordon MacIver and Mr. Robert Macleod were visitors in Albert Mines.

Miss Colina Mackenzie, of Albert Mines, spent a week-end visiting her brother, Mr. John Mackenzie and family.

The Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. M. J. Graham with a good attendance. The proceeds of the chicken-pie supper, were paid into the treasury and $50.00 ordered paid towards the Stipend. After the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by the young ladies present.

The mid-week prayer meeting was held in Bethany Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Olson, Miss Betty and Master John Olson spent a week-end with relatives in Bury. Miss Margaret Ross, of Marsboro, spent a week-end at her home here.

Messrs. Murdo Matheson and Calvin Ritsey, of Bethel, N.H., were guests for a few days of the former's sister, Mrs. Norman A. Macdonald and Mr. Macdonald.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil D. Macleaver and Mr. Donald Graham accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ingham and young son to Quebec, where they attended the graduating exercises at the Jeffrey Hale Hospital when the former's daughter, Miss Christeen Macleaver was one of the graduating class.

Mrs. J. E. Matheson was in Sherbrooke on Friday, where she visited her son, Mr. Bernard Matheson, who is undergoing treatment for sciatica. His friends hope for Mr. Matheson's speedy recovery.

cial results is the gratification of having provided good entertainment and of having created personal interest in historic matters pertaining to the village and its residents, as well as of offering inducement to others to undertake the same form of work and festivities.

THE SAFE, SENSIBLE WAY TO RELIEVE CONSTIPATION

Every one knows the dangers of constipation. Pills and drugs usually bring only temporary relief. That's because common constipation is due to meals low in "bulk."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains "bulk" that does not break down in the body as does that of many leafy vegetables. ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water and forms a soft mass that gently sponges the intestines.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a food—not a medicine. In addition to "bulk"—it gives vitamin B to tone up the system, and iron for the blood. It is a healthful way to get rid of constipation and all its evils.

Eat two tablespoons daily with milk or cream—three times a day in severe cases. Or use it in making bran muffins, breads, in salads or soups. Guaranteed by Kellogg in London.

SHERBROOKE CHAMPIONSHIP HOPE BLASTED

Last Second Play Gave Quebec Grads Victory

Ancient Capital Squad Romped Off with Seven to Two Decision Over Sherbrooke Independents When Last Kick of Game Got Away from Jackson Behind His Line and Quebec Player Fell on Ball for Major Tally.

Quebec Grads shattered Sherbrooke's title hopes when they registered a last-second touchdown to chalk up a seven to two victory in a thrilling game on the soggy Parade Grounds Saturday afternoon.

For the first three-quarters of the game Sherbrooke held a two to nothing lead and indications were the local lads were headed for the Eastern Q.R.F.U. championship. But a return kick by Blackmore, Quebec quarter, on the last play of the game, which Kenny Jackson fumbled, pulled the game out of the fire for the Ancient Capital gridiron squad.

Sherbrooke kicked off to Quebec on a wet field with gusts of wind and rain sweeping across to make playing conditions anything but perfect. The local boys fought their way up to the Quebec forty-five yard line on two nice backs by Jackson and "Dusty" Miller.

Fleet, who was kicking for Quebec, could not match the long boots of Jackson, and after gaining possession on the Quebec forty-yard line, Jackson kicked high to Johnson behind the Quebec line and he was dragged down by Daniel for Sherbrooke's first point.

Quebec took the ball on their own twenty-five yard line, and paraded to centre field on a forward pass from Blackmore to Miller, and a Franklin buck through centre.

Here the Sherbrooke line tightened, and quarter time found the play even at centre field, with Sherbrooke leading one to nothing.

Sherbrooke came back strong as the second quarter started, with two backs by Tomlinson and Brooks going for yards. Jackson kicked deep into Quebec territory, and "Dusty" Miller, who was outside, ran down to make a level kick.

The play seemed back and forth, with Blackmore completing another nice forward, this time to Boucher. The Sherbrooke boys were forced back when Franklin intercepted a forward pass by Jackson to give Quebec possession at centre field.

Quebec could not make yards, and when Jackson returned Fleet's kick for fifty yards against the wind, Sherbrooke gained back their lost advantage.

On the first Quebec play, Blackmore, the quarterback, went out of touch and fumbled the ball to give Sherbrooke a first down on the Quebec forty-five yard line.

Kenny Jackson, whose kicks had been soaring high and far all afternoon, booted another beauty to Johnson, who was tackled behind the line by Spanwick for another Sherbrooke rouge. Quebec had only time for two backs before the halftime whistle sounded, with the score Sherbrooke 2, Quebec 0.

The third quarter started off with some very fast rugby. Sherbrooke booted to Johnson. On the first play Fleet kicked short, but he came up fast and recovered his own kick. Again Fleet went back and hoisted another short one to Cathcart, who fumbled, to give the Quebec team a great chance to score.

"Dusty" Miller turned back the advance when he dove into throw Blackmore for a twenty-yard loss. Quebec kept pressing hard and the local team seemed to be losing the drive they had in the first half of the game. Neither team was able to score in this quarter. A penalty of twenty yards to Quebec eased the tension on the Sherbrooke goal line, as the quarter ended.

The last quarter was one of the most thrilling periods of rugby seen on any local gridiron this season. The Quebec team began to smash through the Sherbrooke line, and Rattray, Quebec snap and captain, was making Jackson hurry his kicks.

Finally the break came. Jackson kicked short out of bounds, and on the first Quebec play Duchesne ran around right end for ten yards. Fleet took his chance, and on the next play booted to the deadline for the first Quebec score.

Sherbrooke fought desperately to guard their slim lead, but the Grads could not be denied. Fleet and Johnson staged an end run which was good for ten yards. Duchesne went through for fifteen more. But Sherbrooke stiffened and threw Blackmore back for a loss. Then Fleet kicked high on second down for the tying point.

There were only two minutes of the game left, and the Sherbrooke line gambled with a forward pass. Quebec pounded in and smothered the pass, hardly giving Jackson a chance to get it away.

Kenny Jackson went back to kick, but Jack Rattray jumped through, and the best the Sherbrooke booter could do was a short kick out of bounds. Fleet kicked over the line on first down, but "Dusty" Miller was not given yards, and the play was called out with no score for Quebec.

Sherbrooke were given a first down on their own five-yard line. There was only one play left to go, and Cathcart called for a kick. Back Jackson went and hoisted short to Blackmore. The Sherbrooke lad had been forced to hurry his kick. Quick as a flash Blackmore scooped up the ball and returned the kick to Jackson behind the Sherbrooke line. The Sherbrooke backfield star dropped the slippery ball and Franklin fell on it for a major tally. The convert went wide, but Quebec had smothered Sherbrooke's chances for the championship by a seven to two victory.

Blackmore, Rattray and Fleet were outstanding for the Grads, while Kenny Jackson, "Dusty" Miller, Gilman and Tomlinson turned in the best games for the Sherbrooke team.

If the Grads win their return game against the Grants they will be champions, but if the Grants can win the three teams, Sherbrooke, Grads and Grants, will be in a three-cornered tie.

Line-up of the teams:

Grads Independents

Rattray snap Pooley

Malone inside Nieschowski

Baker inside St. James

Waller middle Tomlinson

Franklin middle Daniel

Miller outside Pooley

Boucher outside Spanwick

Blackmore quarter Cathcart

Duchesne 1. half Gillam

Johnson r. half Jackson

Fleet l. half Miller

Grads' subs: Brown, O'Doherty, D. Fleet, Cornell, Fraser, Thorpe, Wilson, Vance.

Sherbrooke subs: Brooks, Simpson, Vear, Jones, Glass, Kraushaar, Fuller, Burns, Dupont.

Sport Chatter

By John Bassett, Jr.

Well, with one sad exception, the Monday afterthoughts tally exactly with the Friday predictions - it seems as if I will have to wait until next season, perhaps forever, to have them all right.

Quebec doubledcrossed this column when they scored that last-play-of-the-game touchdown to win—but if I feel badly imagine how Eddie Wolfe and the lads must feel as they saw their championship go sailing away, after a two-point lead for three-quarters of the game.

The others were called correctly. Loyola took Bishop's, overcoming a five-point lead. Commissioners' High beat Sherbrooke High, but Stanstead ruined an otherwise perfect Quebec week-end by a victory on Saturday over the Quebec school team.

The Sherbrooke-Grads' tussle was a grand game, but it was too bad Jackson had to be the goat and grab the return kick for the Quebec score. He has played great rugby all season and until hurt, was a series of exhibitions against Ellisworth Vines. The car went over a five-foot ditch, but Budge suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

Tennis comes back for a brief headline with the announcement that Don Budge fell asleep in his car while driving to Los Angeles to play a series of exhibitions against Ellisworth Vines. The car went over a five-foot ditch, but Budge suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

New York sport writers are urging "Red" Dutton to pay Chicago Johnson the extra thousand men he wants to hold down his old post at Madison Square Garden, but with the Amers instead of the Patrick-men. They claim that the big boy is worth it in box office lure.

Brooklyn has traded Van Lingle Mungo to the St. Louis Cardinals for Joe "Ducky" Medwick and Bob Weiland. The dirty ones have done the great Van Mungo a favor by trading him; it will be a treat to see what he can do backed up by a real ball club instead of just a bunch of lads that make good copy for a sport writer.

Jack Rattray, who was captain and snap of Quebec Grads on Saturday, turned in a great game. He once broke his leg playing against most of his present teammates, when he was on the Bishop's College team.

"Hum" Johnson, coach of the Commissioners' High School, who came down and beat Sherbrooke High on Friday, is a former rugby player of Bishop's College, and is a brother of the famous Jack Johnson, star of Bishop's rugby and hockey teams in the days of Joe Billeco and "Fitz" Cann. Jack got married about a month ago and is now teaching school in Montreal.

Maurice Bastien has signed up to play here and A. W. Reid has sent in his card to Montreal for the official O.K. Montreal Royals raised no objection when Bastien asked for release. The young centre man should be very useful to the Sherbrooke team.

Jean-Paul Ranger's card is also on the way to Montreal for the same O.K. But outside of the starchy "Guidoo" Roy, where are all the local players? Kelly, Dunsmore, Harris, all names popular and even famous in local hockey circles, are still missing from the club's roster, and they should be on it.

It will be a long time before that last-minute touchdown of Quebec will be forgotten. Blackmore, Quebec quarter, certainly used his head when he returned Jackson's kick. He may have picked up the ball outside, in fact, the corner has it from a fan of long-standing and great fairness that he did. However, it only goes to prove that if the crowd will not stay off the field someone pays a penalty. In this case it may have cost the home team a championship.

Eddie Wolfe showed the kind of spirit that has governed the Sherbrooke team all season when a fan asked him if he was going to protest the game. "Certainly not," replied Eddie. "If we can't take a beating without complaining about it we might as well not play at all."

Bishop's were leading Loyola five to nothing at one time in Saturday's game. Wonder what it is that keeps that team from winning? They have a fine coach and lots of keen, good players. Something is certainly lacking though; they should have won at least one game by now.

The old law of rugby, "take your points when you can get them," was disregarded by the Montreal Indians, and so, they were beaten. If they had been content with taking one point at a time they would certainly have beaten the mauling Tigers. Perhaps with so many Americans on the team, who have brought up to a rugby where one does not kick to get points, the team has lost the knack of one-point wins—or wins of any kind.

Phil Shaughnessy has lost none of the Shaughnessy magic on a football field. He scored three touchdowns against Bishop's on Saturday. Perhaps it's easier to score a few touchdowns than to explain to Shag, Sr., and four husky brothers just why you don't do better.

Miquet is a slight favorite to beat Wagner the Terrible, at the wrestling rodeo in Montreal tonight. If the big fellow from Savoy wins he will be given another chance at handsome Yvon Robert, for the championship.

The Quebec Senior Hockey League which is an offshoot of the old Senior Group, gets this corner's praise by leaving the tag "amateur" off their moniker. This may be the first sign of a change of attitude on the part of hockey officials—perhaps even a leaning towards some saner arrangement for hockey players other than those in recognized pro leagues.

Tomorrow night serious training begins at the "Y" for the local hockey team. It is hoped that ice will be ready by November 10. Seems like just a week ago that the rugby boots were being taken out of moth-balls.

STANSTEAD WON A VERDICT OVER QUEBEC SCHOOL

Scored a Twenty-Four to Sixteen Victory on Own Campus to Keep Record of Not Having Been Defeated at Home Intact.

Stanstead, Nov. 1.—Stanstead College defeated Commissioners' High School of Quebec in an exhibition football match here Saturday afternoon 24-16. The afternoon was cold and a high deceptive wind was blowing with the result that there were a number of fumbles. Every touchdown came as the result of a miscue.

Early in the first quarter Quebec, backed on their own thirteen yard line, kicked short and Sisco ran the ball to the Quebec one yard line.

Dave Schofield split centre for the first try of the game. Quebec worked the ball to Stanstead's 15 yard line then kicked deep into Stanstead's goal area. Schofield gambled wildly and returned the kick to the ten yard line where Quebec got possession. A line play netted five yards and on second down Quebec attempted a forward which was knocked down. Stanstead was given the ball on their 25 yard line.

Waterman and Mackay made fifteen yards and a pass from Sisco to Abbott brought the ball to the Quebec forty. Abbott then kicked to the Quebec ten. Quebec fumbled and Waterman recovered for Stanstead and Mackay scored a try.

Abbott converted. The teams changed ends with Stanstead, sporting a 11 to 0 lead.

It was Quebec's turn to take advantage of the fumbles in the second quarter. Abbott dropped the ball as he attempted to get off a third down kick and Quebec recovered on the Stanstead twenty. Three line plunges were enough to smash the Stanstead defence and Jordan scored Quebec's first try. Quebec were on their own twenty-five following the Stanstead kick off when Stanstead broke through to block a kick. Sisco scooped up the ball and romped over for a try which Abbott converted.

Stanstead received the kick off on their fifteen yard line, where Abbott fumbled the snap on an intended kick. In two plays Annett crashed over the line for Quebec's second try which Ott converted, just as the half time whistle blew. Stanstead, seventeen, Quebec eleven.

Quebec kicked off against the wing and Stanstead returned to the Quebec thirty-five. Quebec made downs twice in succession then kicked. Schofield misjudged the ball and fumbled. Dunn scooped it up and ran unimpeded for a try, for Quebec which Ott converted to tie the score.

Before the period ended Abbott kicked two rouges for Stanstead. As the quarter ended Waterman fell on a Quebec fumble at centrefield. Stanstead kicked to the Quebec ten and lost fifteen yards for "no yards." Sisco intercepted a Quebec pass and Stanstead kicked to the Quebec five. Quebec lost the ball on their twelve when they failed to make yards. Stanstead took three cracks at the Quebec line and in turn lost the ball for failure to make the necessary ten yards.

Quebec advanced the ball to centre field on line plays, one completed pass and two Stanstead penalties, but Varney relieved the pressure for Stanstead by falling on a Quebec fumble.

SPORT FLASHES

New York, Nov. 1.—Henry Armstrong may never defend the featherweight title he won from Petey Sarron the other night. Henry has a lot more trouble making the weight than most of your suspect. He'll "trade" on the championship in a few over-the-weight bouts, then abdicate (as Barney Ross did) and go after the lightweights.

If big Hank Greenberg knows what he is talking about, Mickey Cochrane will never catch another major league game.

Along State street in Chicago they're laying odds Tony Lazzeri will pilot the Cubs in 1938.

Ed Barrow, general manager of the Yanks, and Damon Runyon, the author, are off for a hunting trip to Tom Yawkey's South Carolina ranch.

Benny Leonard has a likely looking lightweight in "Irish Eddie" Dunn, of Scranton, Pa.

John Montague, the golf mystery man, stole the show at the Cotton Club last night.

Johnny Gilbert, the jockey who bet $1,000 on Petey Sarron, felt so low Saturday he didn't show up at Empire City race track and was fined $500 for not keeping his appointments.

fumble. Stanstead drove Quebec back to their five yard line where the visitors fumbled on a line play. Hultson recovered for Stanstead and Schofield slipped through centre for his second try of the game. The convert went wide and the whistle blew to end the game leaving Stanstead ahead twenty-four to sixteen.

Apart from a couple of costly fumbles Abbott played a strong game and kept constantly sending the visitors back after his long punts. Schofield played strongly but due to a leg and an arm injury suffered last Wednesday lacked the dash that characterized his play against B.C.S. Mackay played a useful game but was a marked man and did not get away with many long runs.

Sisco showed up well defensively. The line facing the hardest plunging it has encountered this year showed certain weaknesses in blocking and tackling, but was strong on the offensive and proved particularly alert to pounce on loose balls.

The Quebec team is the strongest team Stanstead has met this year. They have a varied attack and their pungers hit the line with a will. Cornell was particularly effective, though he did not feature in the scoring plays. Jordan and Annett were also strong on the attack while Ott was particularly noticeable on the defence.

The line-up:

Stanstead Quarter Quebec

Schofield Half Annett

Mackinnon Half Jordan

Abbott Half Lowe

Sisco Half I. Larsen

Mackay Half McCutcheon

McCutcheon Snap Hutchins

Dillabough Inside Gilpin

Ransom Inside Astle

Brown Middle B. Larson

Mullins Middle Ott

Pare Outside Fleet

Perkins Outside Dickson

Stanstead Subs.—P. Waterman, Gordon, Putney, Gomes, McGill, Montgomery, J. Waterman, Hultson, Varney, Balfry, Kelley, G. Mackay, Ruzer, Gilbert, Racicot.

Quebec Subs.—Ward, Dunn, L. L. bar, Carpenter, William, Hicks, Little, Cook.

Officials: L. G. McGillon and C. M. Stewart.

LOYOLA BEAT BISHOP'S FOR SECOND TIME

Paced by Phil Shaughnessy, Who Registered Three Touchdowns, Loyola Beat Bishop's Twenty-Six to Seven to Stay in League Title Race with McGill.

Montreal, Nov. 1.—Paced by Phil Shaughnessy, Loyola overcame a five-point lead to beat Bishop's University by twenty-six to seven on the local campus on Saturday afternoon and remained in a contending position for the Intermediate Inter-collegiate championship. If Loyola's team can beat the unscathed McGill freshmen next Saturday, they will create a first-place tie in the league.

Shaughnessy scored three touchdowns as the maroon-clad team rallied after a Bishop's touchdown to pound out their second victory of the season over the Lennoxville College boys.

Bishop's opened the scoring in the first quarter when Harry Gray, fleet half, scooped up a Loyola kick and dashed forty-five yards for a major tally. Gray's placekick on the convert went wide.

Loyola fought back strongly. Taking advantage of the high wind, Ben Veilleux kicked a Loyola rouge as the first quarter ended giving Bishop's a five to one lead.

Loyola dominated the play during the second quarter, as Bishop's used poor strategy by not kicking with the wind. The more powerful Loyola line made holes in the Bishop's defense, and twice put Kane in position for boots which went for single points.

Loyola recovered a Bishop's fumble on the one-yard line and Shaughnessy plunged over for a touch, which Ernie Tyler converted to give Loyola a half-time lead of nine to five.

In the third quarter Loyola took full advantage of the wind behind them and made long gains on the Bishop's team. Shaughnessy flipped a thirty-yard pass to Tyler, and himself made ten yards on the next play. Again young Shag faded back and received the ball. He knifed through centre for another major tally, which was unconverted.

Pare, outside wing for Loyola, dashed in to intercept a Bishop's pass on an extension play, and romped over the line from twenty-five yards out. Shaughnessy kicked the extra point to give Loyola a twenty to five lead at the end of the third quarter.

With the wind behind them the Bishop's boys got back into the scoring column when Bennett, sub Bishop's kicker, booted for one point.

Loyola, however, could not be denied. Asselin, former B.C.S. star, ran back a Bishop's kick for twenty-five yards. Tyler went through for five more. On the next play Shaughnessy went around the right end standing up to score his third touchdown of the game. Loyola were awarded the extra point as Bishop's went offside on the play.

The Lennoxville team were trying hard right up to the final whistle, and just before the game ended they had fought their way back to the Loyola forty-five yard line, from where Bennett hoisted a lovely kick to the deadline to raise the Bishop's total to seven.

The final whistle sounded just after this boot, to leave the score at Loyola twenty-six, Bishop's seven.

Shaughnessy was the outstanding man on the field, while Tyler, Pare and Kane also turned in good performances for Loyola.

Gray played well for the losers, and Peter Greenwood made yards on bucks through the Loyola line. Bradley and Magor played well in the Bishop's backfield, but in the latter part of the game Bradley suffered an ankle injury.

The teams:

Loyola f. wing Cardin
Flintoft half Tyler
Magor half Veilleux
Gray half Shaughnessy
Bradley quarter Asselin
Knox inside Sheridan
Morrison inside McNally
Starnes inside Clacy
Greenwood middle Hammond
Carter outside Kelly
Carmichael outside Pare
Rogers outside Melvin

Bishop's subs: Giles, Lyster, Bennett, Bredin, Walters, Eulen, Willis, Scott.

Loyola subs: Kane, McNaughton, Macdonald, Fitzpatrick, Labelle, Mulcaire, Thoms.

Referee, Frank Shaughnessy; umpire, E. Cooper; head linesman, G. Melvin.

PRIZES PRESENTED AT BOIS-VERT TENNIS CLUB

The Boisvert Tennis Club held its annual dance and prize-giving at the St. Francis Golf and Tennis Club on Saturday night.

The prizes were presented by A. W. Reid, vice-president of the Q.A. H. A. and long prominent in Sherbrooke sporting circles. "Guidoo" Roy presented the cup which he had given for the men's championship of East Sherbrooke. This trophy was won by Majella Charest.

The winners in the various classes were:

Men's singles, Majella Charest. Ladies' singles, Miss Fredricka Bradley.

Men's doubles, Hector Prefontaine and Yvon Boisvert.

Mixed doubles, Miss Fredricka Bradley and John Bassett, Jr.

MEETING OF CHECKER AND CHESS CLUB

The regular bi-weekly meeting of the Eastern Townships Checker and Chess Club will be held in the Sherbrooke Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening. A short business meeting will be held after which friendly games will be played.

The number of checker players out has been very satisfactory, but there has been a shortage of those interested in chess.

New members will be welcomed on Wednesday, and it is hoped that among those present there will be several who are interested in chess.

CHARLIE GORDON and HIS SPORT PARADE

Quebec showed plenty of power in the punches, says Charlie, and that return kick of Blackmore's was just like a Plymouth car—There with punch when you need it most.
